Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content\_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
  - departmental and institutional committee work,
  - professional or disciplinary activities, and
  - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - access to research materials and equipment,
  - the employment of research assistants,
  - research expenses on/off campus, and
  - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - the development of teaching expertise,
  - innovations in teaching, and
  - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
  - the average course load,
  - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
  - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
  - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
  - family needs of faculty and staff, and
  - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

ADMINISTRATION

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2017, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and non-profit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamu.edu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin May 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. A&M is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer committed to diversity.

Portland State University

Rank: Director

Oregon's premier urban research university, Portland State is located on a 49-acre downtown campus in the heart of one of America's most vibrant centers of culture, business and technology. PSU is home to more than 22,000 undergraduate and 5,500 graduate students pursuing degrees in eight Schools and Colleges. PSU was recognized in U.S. News & World 2017 Report as one of the nation's "Most Innovative" universities, and has long been a recognized leader in community engagement and sustainability.

The Mark O. Hatfield School of Government (HSOG) is housed within the College of Urban and Public Affairs (CUPA), which also includes the Nohad A. Toulan School of Urban Studies and Planning, the Department of Economics and the Department of International and Global Studies. CUPA's academic units offer both undergraduate and graduate programs in a dynamic environment of cooperation, collaboration and community engagement. The College has long-standing relationships with local, state, regional and federal governments, nonprofit organizations and associations, and international organizations, allowing students to design and implement solutions to modern challenges through hands-on internships and experiential curricula.

The Departments of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Political Science, and Public Administration are located within HSOG, and offer undergraduate and graduate programs in those disciplines. HSOG offers two interdisciplinary graduate degrees: Master of Public Policy; and PhD in Public Affairs and Policy.

Several Centers and Institutes operate within HSOG, including: Criminal Justice Policy Research Institute; Center for Public Service; Nonprofit Institute; Institute for Tribal Government; National Policy Consensus Center; Center for Turkish Studies; and Center for Women's Leadership.

The Hatfield School of Government (HSOG) Director is responsible for providing intellectual leadership by fostering inquiry and collaboration among faculty and Center and Institute staff. The Director oversees and coordinates, with the chairs of HSOG's Departments, the interdisciplinary Master of Public Policy and PhD in Public Affairs and Policy programs.

The Director will typically be responsible for teaching one course per term related to those degrees, however, this expectation will be reviewed each year with the Dean and may be reduced given academic leadership and other responsibilities and initiatives in the School.

The Director also oversees all HSOG Centers' and Institutes' operations, appoints their respective Directors, provides assistance for research and outreach, and facilitates collaborative activities. This is a twelve-month position, with a five-year, renewable term, and will be offered to the candidate of choice with indefinite tenure at the rank of Professor.

Review of applications will begin 1/16/17. More information about the position can be found here: <https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/21843>

University of South Alabama

Rank: Chair of the Department

Subfield(s): Administration, International Relations, Public Administration

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Criminal Justice, Health Care

The Department of Political Science & Criminal Justice at the University of South Alabama invites applications for the position of Department Chair to begin August 15, 2017. The department offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Criminal Justice as well as a Master's in Public Administration. Highly qualified Associate and Full Professors with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Criminal Justice, or a closely related discipline from an accredited university will be considered for this position.

The ideal candidate will be an accomplished scholar, committed to excellence in research and teaching, have exceptional organizational and interpersonal skills, and possess the vision to lead a growing department. The abilities to collaborate effectively and advocate for program faculty and students are essential. The ideal candidate will have demonstrated administrative experience, but exceptional candidates lacking such experience who have a strong desire to transition to an administrative role are also encouraged to apply.

Applicants should apply at the following link and be prepared to attach a letter of application, a one-page statement of research interests, a brief description of teaching philosophy and proficiencies, a summary statement of leadership and administrative skills, current Curriculum Vitae, names of five references, and a sample of scholarly work. <https://www.governmentjobs.com/careers/usouthal/jobs/1588869/chair-and-assoc-or-full-professor> Upon request, applicants will arrange to have official transcripts and three letters of recommendation sent to the Chair of the Search Committee. Review of applications will begin December 12, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Information: <http://www.southalabama.edu/colleges/artsandsci/poliscie/jobs.html>

The position of Chair is a 12-month appointment. The ideal candidate will demonstrate the ability to contribute to existing programs and help develop new offerings. An appreciation for mixed methodology is preferred. The ideal candidate will provide transparency in budget and scheduling decisions and be able to highlight faculty and student successes, advocate for program faculty at the college and university levels, seek to increase faculty, majors, and department activities, and mentor junior faculty for success in tenure and promotion and mentor associate professors for promotion to full professor.

The Department of Political Science & Criminal Justice has 10 full-time faculty and more than 300 undergraduate majors and 40 graduate students. The department offers courses for four interdisciplinary programs within the College of Arts and Sciences: African American Studies, Forensic Science, Gender Studies, and International Studies. The department is also home to the USA Polling Group, a survey research center with a 10 station CATI lab that works with a variety of internal and external clients. Additionally, the department has a sizeable Masters in Public Administration (MPA) program and an active student body.

If you have questions about this position, the department, the University, or the area, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Elise Labbé-Coldsmith, at ELabbe@southalabama.edu.

The University of South Alabama is an EO/AA employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex (including pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity and gender expressions) religion, age, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Texas A&M University

Rank: Lecturer

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University (<http://politicalscience.tamu.edu>) is recruiting for one temporary position for the 2017-2018 academic year. We seek to hire a lecturer to teach introductory, survey courses in American government. The successful candidate will be expected to be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses in American government at both the national and state and local level. Teaching experience in these areas and demonstrated research abilities would be highly valued. While someone at A.B.D. status would meet minimum requirements, a completed Ph.D. is strongly preferred. The target start date for this position September 1, 2017. The teaching load would be six courses total for the academic year – three in Fall 2017 and three in Spring 2018. This would be for a nine month appointment in a non-tenure track position.

Our review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants should send letter of interest, contact information for three references, and a curriculum vitae. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. We are especially interested in candidates who would increase the Department's gender, racial and ethnic diversity. Texas A&M is an AA/EEO university and is deeply committed to diversity.

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. ### American University

Rank: Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education
AY2016-17
School of Public Affairs
American University

American University's School of Public Affairs (SPA) invites applications from accomplished scholars for the position of associate dean for undergraduate education. This position includes a faculty appointment at the rank of (advanced) associate or full professor in the Government Department or the Department of Justice, Law & Criminology beginning June 1, 2017. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. The position offers the unique professional, research, social, and cultural opportunities of a top-ranked school and university located in Washington, DC. In addition, the associate dean for undergraduate education will play a critical role in formulating school policy and be part of a dynamic leadership team.

The School of Public Affairs offers four undergraduate majors, four undergraduate minors, and three highly selective enrichment programs (SPA Leadership Program, Politics, Policy and Law Scholars, and SPA Honors). SPA has approximately 1300 engaged undergraduate students who are research focused and use DC as their laboratory. The associate dean for undergraduate education will provide leadership in the area of undergraduate education and will be responsible for handling all issues that arise concerning undergraduate students in the school. The associate dean directs the activities of the assistant director of recruitment and retention, four academic advisors, enrichment program directors, and serves as the school's Academic Integrity Officer. Duties will also include teaching one course a year in one of the School's degree programs.

American University is reshaping the composition and experience of its undergraduate student body. The University is committed to diversifying the student body in terms of racial/ethnic diversity, geographic diversity, and diversity of socioeconomic status. American University received a record number of undergraduate applications for Fall 2016, resulting in an admit rate of approximately 25 percent. The number of students with SPA undergraduate majors has increased over the past several years. American University is undertaking a multi-year initiative to reinvent the student experience through reimagining service delivery, a focus on student success, and modernization of the undergraduate curriculum. We are looking for an associate dean who will embrace the opportunity to participate in this initiative and shape the future of SPA's undergraduate programs.

Qualifications

Candidates must possess a distinguished record of scholarship in one of the academic fields encompassed by the school's undergraduate programs and meet American University's standards for appointment with tenure at the associate or full professor level. Preference will be given to candidates who have held leadership positions at the university, school, department or program level and who can also provide evidence of advancing their university's academic standing, scholarship, or research productivity.

Application Process

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 16, 2016, and continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/35978>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vita, statement of administrative experience and contact information for three references. Electronic submissions are preferred.

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

University of Luxembourg

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associates in Political Science

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Electoral Behavior

University of Luxembourg invites applications for the following positions in the Faculty of Language and Literature, Humanities, Arts and Education (FLSHASE):

Two Post-doctoral Research Associates (PDRAs) to work on the ERC project "Electoral Legacies of War: Political Competition in Postwar Southeast Europe (ELWar)" hosted by the Institute of Political Science

Ref: R-AGR-3198-10-C

Fixed-term contract (CDD) of 48 months, with a 6-month trial period Full-time (40 hrs/week); preferable start date 1 October 2017

ELWar is a project funded by a €1.5 million European Research Council Starting Grant in the period 2017-2022, run by Professor Josip Glaurdic. The project will analyse the evolution of political competition over the course of more than two decades in the six postwar states of Southeast Europe: Bosnia-Herzegovina, Croatia, Kosovo, Macedonia, Montenegro, and Serbia. Organised around three thematic areas/levels of analysis – voters, parties, communities – the project aims to make a series of important contributions to our understanding of post-conflict societies and electoral politics.

The primary task of the two post-doctoral research associates will be to conduct excellent research and produce first class scholarly publications. Although the project is well-defined, the PDRAs will be expected to contribute actively to the project's intellectual evolution. They will also be expected to contribute to building the project's network of international collaborators and expanding its academic and non-academic outreach by organising workshops, presenting at international conferences, and establishing connections with relevant academic and non-governmental organisations in Southeast Europe.

For further information about the posts, please contact: Professor Josip Glaurdic at josip.glaurdic@uni.lu

See the full job advertisement and apply online in English until 15 June 2017 via the following link: <http://emea3.mrted.ly/1ew4r>

Your application should consist of:

- 1) Letter of motivation

- 2) Detailed CV including a list of publications and names and contact of two referees
- 3) Writing sample: single-authored article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter
- 4) Copies of relevant diplomas

University offers highly competitive salaries and is an equal opportunity employer.

Texas A&M University

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University (<http://politicalscience.tamu.edu>) is recruiting for two temporary positions for the 2017-2018 academic year. We seek to hire two lecturers. Successful candidates will be expected to be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses in American government, as well as upper level courses in a subfield of the discipline. Teaching experience in these areas and demonstrated research abilities would be highly valued. While someone at A.B.D. status would meet minimum requirements, a completed Ph.D. is strongly preferred. The target start date for this position September 1, 2017. The teaching load would be six courses total for the academic year, four of which would likely be large, introductory sections. This would be for a nine month appointment in a non-tenure track position.

Our review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants should send letter of interest, contact information for three references, and a curriculum vitae. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. We are especially interested in candidates who would increase the Department's gender, racial and ethnic diversity. Texas A&M is an AA/EEO university and is deeply committed to diversity.

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in Comparative Politics/International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a one-year, full-time position as Visiting Lecturer in Political Science for the 2017-2018 academic year with the possibility of renewal. We are particularly interested in candidates who have expertise in the politics of Russia and Eastern Europe, but we will also consider other candidates who are prepared to teach courses on the Cold War, foreign policy, human security, and the politics of oil.

This position is supported by the Dietrich School of Arts & Sciences and the Center for Russian and East European Studies (REES). Duties in the Political Science Department will consist of teaching 15 credit hours (five courses) per academic year to include, at minimum, two courses that feature substantial content on the REES world area (e.g., Government & Politics of USSR/Russian Federation; Cold War: Soviet Union and the West 1917-1991).

As an affiliated faculty member of REES, you are eligible to apply for REES Course Development Grants as well as for REES Faculty Small Grants to support research activities. In addition to your teaching responsibilities, REES will welcome your participation in intellectual activities of the center.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer, 2017. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching portfolio, and two letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. ### Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in Spring 2018 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and international relations (order is by preference). A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited about 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 15 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The new political science group in SPEA has 8 members. Six of them hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to develop a new political science program in Thirteenth Five Year Plan. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;

2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Procedures: The deadline for accepting application is August 1st 2017. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend the meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Senior Research Fellow / Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, and links this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, peace and security, growth and development, and power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a Senior Research Fellow / Research Fellow.

Applications are invited for a full-time tenured / tenure-track position, preferably starting 1 January 2018. Remuneration (TV-AVH / TVöD EG14/13) and tenure status will be commensurate with experience, qualifications, and tasks.

The successful candidate will:

- conduct excellent research fitting the GIGA's research agenda and with impact in his/her field
- be an active member of one Regional Institute of the GIGA and at least one Research Programme
- pursue a targeted publication strategy, acquire third-party funding, and conduct research-based knowledge transfer

Your profile:

- Doctorate in political science, economics, or a cognate discipline
- Profound knowledge of political, economic, and/or social developments in countries of one or more of the following world regions: Africa, Asia, Latin America, Middle East and fit with the GIGA's research agenda
- Excellent academic record, demonstrated by at least three publications in renowned peer-reviewed journals and/or leading publishing houses within four years preceding the application
- Successful record in third-party funding acquisition, demonstrated by at least one approved research proposal of substantial size in a competitive procedure, with the funding decision taken within four years preceding the application
- Additional achievements (such as management experience, contributions to knowledge transfer, editorial know-how)
- English-language proficiency; additional language skills relevant to one or more of the regions researched at the GIGA are an asset

In the German context, academic tenure refers to a permanent position until the incumbent retires (or leaves the institution). The tenure-track position is designed for further professional qualification as defined in §2 WissZeitVG (Academic Fixed-Term Contract Act) and includes a tenure option after successful performance evaluation. Part-time options will be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate. The reconciliation of work and family life is of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-17-07) including relevant supporting documentation (cover letter, CV, a list of publications [including submitted papers], a list of grants, certificates, names of two referees, a sample publication and a concept for your future re-search in the framework of the GIGA's overall approach) to:

Frederike Aumann, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,

Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany

Email: jobs-giga@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 31 May 2017.

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant Professor. Priority: Comparative Politics or IR.

Other: Political Theory or Open

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: International Political Economy, Middle East, Post Communist Europe

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2017. Applicants at the associate rank may also be considered. While we encourage applications by candidates in any field, our priority is to recruit in World Politics, which comprises Comparative Politics and International Relations. Located in the nation's capital, the Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major and a distinguished MA and PhD program.

We seek candidates who understand, are enthusiastic about, and will make a significant contribution to the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Expertise in a regional area such as Latin America, the Middle East or Eastern Europe is a plus. Security studies and foreign policy are traditional strengths of the department. Beyond these fields, areas of interest include but are not limited to political theory and constitutionalism. We seek applicants who can enhance the historical, institutional and theoretical strengths of the department. Candidates who can cross field and disciplinary lines and articulate the relevance of ethical and religious concerns in their areas of specialty are particularly attractive.

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a C.V., and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of graduate transcripts and three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one- to two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will make a distinctive contribution to our University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found here:

http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost\_constitutions/documents/hf\_jp-ii\_apc\_15081990\_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html .

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, department chair, at coyle@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment. The Catholic University of America is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Texas A&M University

Rank: Lecturer
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University (<http://politicalscience.tamu.edu>) is recruiting for two temporary positions for the 2017-2018 academic year. We seek to hire two lecturers. Successful candidates will be expected to be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses in American government, as well as upper level courses in a subfield of the discipline. Teaching experience in these areas and demonstrated research abilities would be highly valued. While someone at A.B.D. status would meet minimum requirements, a completed Ph.D. is strongly preferred. The target start date for this position September 1, 2017. The teaching load would be six courses total for the academic year, four of which would likely be large, introductory sections. This would be for a nine month appointment in a non-tenure track position.

Our review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants should send letter of interest, contact information for three references, and a curriculum vitae. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. We are especially interested in candidates who would increase the Department's gender, racial and ethnic diversity. ### University of Pittsburgh

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a one-year, full-time position as Visiting Lecturer in Political Science for the 2017-2018 academic year with the possibility of renewal. We are particularly interested in candidates who have expertise in the politics of Russia and Eastern Europe, but we will also consider other candidates who are prepared to teach courses on the Cold War, foreign policy, human security, and the politics of oil.

This position is supported by the Dietrich School of Arts & Sciences and the Center for Russian and East European Studies (REES). Duties in the Political Science Department will consist of teaching 15 credit hours (five courses) per academic year to include, at minimum, two courses that feature substantial content on the REES world area (e.g., Government & Politics of USSR/Russian Federation; Cold War: Soviet Union and the West 1917-1991).

As an affiliated faculty member of REES, you are eligible to apply for REES Course Development Grants as well as for REES Faculty Small Grants to support research activities. In addition to your teaching responsibilities, REES will welcome your participation in intellectual activities of the center.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer, 2017. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching portfolio, and two letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please send application materials to Wynn Maloney at wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
 Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in Spring 2018 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and international relations (order is by preference). A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited about 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 15 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The new political science group in SPEA has 8 members. Six of them hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to develop a new political science program in Thirteenth Five Year Plan. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Procedures: The deadline for accepting application is August 1st 2017. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend the meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for a one-year visiting position in international politics (open to applications from specialists in international relations or comparative politics) at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor beginning in the fall of 2017. The applicant will teach three undergraduate courses per semester. Courses to be taught include Introduction to International Relations, Politics of the Global Economy and First Year Seminar. We are seeking to hire a dedicated teacher and emerging scholar who will embrace the department's mission of helping students become informed, analytically reflective, and engaged global citizens.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive university in the mainstream of American Catholic higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, and the building of a just society. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information.)

Loyola Marymount has a strong commitment to diversity, broadly defined, and therefore encourages applicants that enhance the racial diversity of the department; who are committed to working within a diverse campus community; and who are enthusiastic about working in an institution where minority and women faculty can thrive.

The application requires: 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission); 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates your approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and, if applicable, teaching evaluations and/or sample syllabi; and 4) three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: M.J. Cho at POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to M.J. Cho: POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to M.J. Cho at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. We will begin reviewing applications on April 15; the position will be open until filled.

Candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred; ABD applications who anticipate completion of the doctorate by Fall 2017 will be considered.

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Senior Research Fellow / Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, and links this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, peace and security, growth and development, and power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a Senior Research Fellow / Research Fellow.

Applications are invited for a full-time tenured / tenure-track position, preferably starting 1 January 2018. Remuneration (TV-AVH / TVöD EG14/13) and tenure status will be commensurate with experience, qualifications, and tasks.

The successful candidate will:

- conduct excellent research fitting the GIGA's research agenda and with impact in his/her field
- be an active member of one Regional Institute of the GIGA and at least one Research Programme
- pursue a targeted publication strategy, acquire third-party funding, and conduct research-based knowledge transfer

Your profile:

- Doctorate in political science, economics, or a cognate discipline
- Profound knowledge of political, economic, and/or social developments in countries of one or more of the following world regions: Africa, Asia, Latin America, Middle East and fit with the GIGA's research agenda
- Excellent academic record, demonstrated by at least three publications in renowned peer-reviewed journals and/or leading publishing houses within four years preceding the application
- Successful record in third-party funding acquisition, demonstrated by at least one approved research proposal of substantial size in a competitive procedure, with the funding decision taken within four years preceding the application
- Additional achievements (such as management experience, contributions to knowledge transfer, editorial know-how)
- English-language proficiency; additional language skills relevant to one or more of the regions researched at the GIGA are an asset

In the German context, academic tenure refers to a permanent position until the incumbent retires (or leaves the institution). The tenure-track position is designed for further professional qualification as defined in §2 WissZeitVG (Academic Fixed-Term Contract Act) and includes a tenure option after successful performance evaluation. Part-time options will be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate. The reconciliation of work and family life is of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref. No. GIGA-17-07) including relevant supporting documentation (cover letter, CV, a list of publications [including submitted papers], a list of grants, certificates, names of two referees, a sample publication and a concept for your future re-search in the framework of the GIGA's overall approach) to:

Frederike Aumann, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-giga@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 31 May 2017.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact GIGA's research manager Sonja Bartsch (email: sonja.bartsch@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 42825-592).

METHODOLOGY

Truth Initiative

Rank: Public Policy and Research Scientist

Subfield(s): Non-Academic, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Regulatory Policy, Social Welfare, United States

CUTTING EDGE PUBLIC HEALTH RESEARCH

We are focused on high-risk, high-reward research to reduce the prevalence of tobacco use in the United States, particularly among youth and young adults. The Schroeder Institute at Truth Initiative is a multidisciplinary research group focused on reducing the disease burden of tobacco use behavior.

HOW YOU WILL CONTRIBUTE

The Public Policy and Research Scientist's role is to assist Truth Initiative's leadership in conducting and coordinating science and policy-related research to help inform youth and young adult tobacco-related policy and practice. Public policy and research projects may also include areas such as: SI commissioned research studies, knowledge synthesis papers, convening strategic consensus meetings, and comments and other regulatory submissions, mostly but not exclusively at the federal level. In this role, you will lead and participate in internally and existing externally-funded projects, grants and contracts and supervise a team of staff involved in this work. You will provide scientific expertise on tobacco science and policy implications to Truth Initiative and to the broader tobacco control community.

- Assume administrative responsibilities related to the coordination of Tobacco Policy and Research Science, including the management of outside vendors working on research projects that advance Truth Initiative's policy goals;
- Supervise a team of staff involved in policy-related projects;
- Manage relationships with advocacy, legal, policy, and scientific partners;
- Serve as the lead for internal and external requests related to tobacco science, law, and policy and work closely with other Truth Initiative departments to coordinate efforts;
- Facilitate strategic efforts to build SI's research in this area; and
- Perform research to inform the regulation of tobacco products and other areas that align with the organizational mission and goals.

WHAT YOU BRING TO US

You should have experience as a research scientist at the equivalent academic level of assistant or associate professor. You should also have experience using scientific evidence in the development of public policy.

You will have a doctorate in public health, economics, health policy, or other social science; have a strong record or demonstrated potential of scholarly research, including content-relevant peer-reviewed publications.

You're an excellent scientist who embraces team science and who can develop an independent line of research that extends the mission of the Schroeder Institute at Truth Initiative.

Columbia University

Rank: Associate Research Scientist

The Applied Statistics Center at Columbia University's Institute for Social and Economic Research and Policy (ISERP) invites applications for an Associate Research Scientist to begin July 1, 2017. We are seeking a highly qualified researcher whose strengths complement our existing research in Bayesian modeling for causal inference. The Associate Research Scientist will be working on a range of research problems involving Bayesian modeling, statistical computing, and applications to causal inference. The candidate should have experience with Bayesian data analysis, statistical computing, and causal inference plus be able to contribute to Stan, our open-source software for Bayesian inference. The position requires using Stan to estimate Gaussian process models in order to make causal inference and comparing the results to Bayesian additive regression trees using R. This work will take place in an interdisciplinary research environment, and the Associate Research Scientist will have the opportunity to collaborate on multiple projects in statistics, applied research, and projects supported by the Office of Naval Research.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow, China Data Lab

Specializations: China, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

The 21st Century China Center at UC San Diego's School of Global Policy and Strategy is hiring a postdoctoral fellow to staff its newly created China Data Lab.

The fellow will work closely with the center scholars to perform data analytical and integration work, and to provide support in data-related work for their research. He or she also is expected to provide assistance in data visualization for the new China Data Lab blog and to assist the center staff with conferences and public lectures, especially if they are associated with the China Data Lab. The fellow will also have the opportunity to work on his or her own projects and publish with the Principal Investigators.

The fellow should demonstrate ability to manage multiple projects at a time, document work clearly and submit deliverables in adherence to the timelines specified by the researchers.

The 21st Century China Center is a leading research center and a university-based think tank that uses original research to anchor major policy discussions on China and U.S.-China relations. Its scholars publish in a wide range of leading social sciences, methodology and scientific journals, such as the American Political Science Review, Econometrica, Journal of Economic Perspectives, and Science.

Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in social sciences, computer science, applied mathematics or related discipline.
- Ability to program in R and Python and experience working with relational databases. Java and d3 programming experience preferred but not required.
- Interest in Chinese politics, economics and society. Familiarity with existing datasets on China and experiences with China or Chinese language proficiency are preferred but not required.

Successful candidate will start the position in August 2017. Compensation will be consistent with UC San Diego postdoctoral requirements. This position is renewable for up to three years.

Application materials:

1. A cover letter that describes the applicant's training and research interest as it relates to data analytics, social science and the aforementioned job description
2. An updated CV
3. One writing sample
4. Three letters of reference

Interested applicants must apply online, and fill out all required information and upload the required materials.

Though the application deadline is rolling, the 21st Century China Center will start reviewing applications as early as May 15, 2017 and until the job is filled.

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics
Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track
 School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
 Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in Spring 2018 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and international relations (order is by preference). A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untentured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untentured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited about 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 15 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The new political science group in SPEA has 8 members. Six of them hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to develop a new political science program in Thirteenth Five Year Plan. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Procedures: The deadline for accepting application is August 1st 2017. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend the meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Senior Research Fellow / Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, and links this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, peace and security, growth and development, and power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a Senior Research Fellow / Research Fellow.

Applications are invited for a full-time tenured / tenure-track position, preferably starting 1 January 2018. Remuneration (TV-AVH / TVöD EG14/13) and tenure status will be commensurate with experience, qualifications, and tasks.

The successful candidate will:

- conduct excellent research fitting the GIGA's research agenda and with impact in his/her field
- be an active member of one Regional Institute of the GIGA and at least one Research Programme
- pursue a targeted publication strategy, acquire third-party funding, and conduct research-based knowledge transfer

Your profile:

- Doctorate in political science, economics, or a cognate discipline
- Profound knowledge of political, economic, and/or social developments in countries of one or more of the following world regions: Africa, Asia, Latin America, Middle East and fit with the GIGA's research agenda
- Excellent academic record, demonstrated by at least three publications in renowned peer-reviewed journals and/or leading publishing houses within four years preceding the application
- Successful record in third-party funding acquisition, demonstrated by at least one approved research proposal of substantial size in a competitive procedure, with the funding decision taken within four years preceding the application
- Additional achievements (such as management experience, contributions to knowledge transfer, editorial know-how)
- English-language proficiency; additional language skills relevant to one or more of the regions researched at the GIGA are an asset

In the German context, academic tenure refers to a permanent position until the incumbent retires (or leaves the institution). The tenure-track position is designed for further professional qualification as defined in §2 WissZeitVG (Academic Fixed-Term Contract Act) and includes a tenure option after successful performance evaluation. Part-time options will be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate. The reconciliation of work and family life is of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-17-07) including relevant supporting documentation (cover letter, CV, a list of publications [including submitted papers], a list of grants, certificates, names of two referees, a sample publication and a concept for your future re-search in the framework of the GIGA's overall approach) to:

NON-ACADEMIC

Truth Initiative

Rank: Public Policy and Research Scientist

Subfield(s): Non-Academic, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Regulatory Policy, Social Welfare, United States

CUTTING EDGE PUBLIC HEALTH RESEARCH

We are focused on high-risk, high-reward research to reduce the prevalence of tobacco use in the United States, particularly among youth and young adults. The Schroeder Institute at Truth Initiative is a multidisciplinary research group focused on reducing the disease burden of tobacco use behavior.

HOW YOU WILL CONTRIBUTE

The Public Policy and Research Scientist's role is to assist Truth Initiative's leadership in conducting and coordinating science and policy-related research to help inform youth and young adult tobacco-related policy and practice. Public policy and research projects may also include areas such as: SI commissioned research studies, knowledge synthesis papers, convening strategic consensus meetings, and comments and other regulatory submissions, mostly but not exclusively at the federal level. In this role, you will lead and participate in internally and existing externally-funded projects, grants and contracts and supervise a team of staff involved in this work. You will provide scientific expertise on tobacco science and policy implications to Truth Initiative and to the broader tobacco control community.

- Assume administrative responsibilities related to the coordination of Tobacco Policy and Research Science, including the management of outside vendors working on research projects that advance Truth Initiative's policy goals;
- Supervise a team of staff involved in policy-related projects;
- Manage relationships with advocacy, legal, policy, and scientific partners;
- Serve as the lead for internal and external requests related to tobacco science, law, and policy and work closely with other Truth Initiative departments to coordinate efforts;
- Facilitate strategic efforts to build SI's research in this area; and
- Perform research to inform the regulation of tobacco products and other areas that align with the organizational mission and goals.

WHAT YOU BRING TO US

You should have experience as a research scientist at the equivalent academic level of assistant or associate professor. You should also have experience using scientific evidence in the development of public policy.

You will have a doctorate in public health, economics, health policy, or other social science; have a strong record or demonstrated potential of scholarly research, including content-relevant peer-reviewed publications.

You're an excellent scientist who embraces team science and who can develop an independent line of research that extends the mission of the Schroeder Institute at Truth Initiative.

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant Professor. Priority: Comparative Politics or IR.

Other: Political Theory or Open

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: International Political Economy, Middle East, Post Communist Europe

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2017. Applicants at the associate rank may also be considered. While we encourage applications by candidates in any field, our priority is to recruit in World Politics, which comprises Comparative Politics and International Relations. Located in the nation's capital, the Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major and a distinguished MA and PhD program.

We seek candidates who understand, are enthusiastic about, and will make a significant contribution to the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Expertise in a regional area such as Latin America, the Middle East or Eastern Europe is a plus. Security studies and foreign policy are traditional strengths of the department. Beyond these fields, areas of interest include but are not limited to political theory and constitutionalism. We seek applicants who can enhance the historical, institutional and theoretical strengths of the department. Candidates who can cross field and disciplinary lines and articulate the relevance of ethical and religious concerns in their areas of specialty are particularly attractive.

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a C.V., and a writing sample to

pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of graduate transcripts and three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one- to two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will make a distinctive contribution to our University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found here:

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Specializations: Science & Technology, Political Psychology, Intelligence

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of six interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire four tenure-track assistant or associate professors for the cyber security and privacy cluster. These positions have a start date of August 8, 2017.

These will be interdisciplinary positions that will be expected to both contribute to the common vision of the cyber security and privacy initiative and also strengthen a chosen tenure home department (or departments, when a joint appointment is preferable). A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. The cluster includes core members from Computer Science, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Industrial Engineering and Management Systems, the Institute for Simulation & Training, Political Science, Psychology, and Statistics, and affiliated members from several other departments. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/research/cyber-security> for a complete list of all the units involved.) This cluster will be the focal point of the University's research and educational efforts in cyber security and privacy. Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with these new positions.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. We are looking for team players who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for four faculty who work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (b) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, (c) hardware and IoT security, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Applicants must have a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The positions will each carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

Located in Orlando, UCF is one of the nation's most dynamic metropolitan research universities. UCF has the top-tier Carnegie Foundation designation of a "very high research activity" university, is the nation's second-largest university, and is ranked by U.S. News and World Report as among the top up-and-coming universities in terms of innovative changes in the areas of academics, faculty, and student life. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes: software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/47217> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmission to update applications.

UCF is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply, including minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about these positions please contact the Cluster Search Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

American University

Rank: Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

AY2016-17

School of Public Affairs

American University

American University's School of Public Affairs (SPA) invites applications from accomplished scholars for the position of associate dean for undergraduate education. This position includes a faculty appointment at the rank of (advanced) associate or full professor in the Government Department or the Department of Justice, Law & Criminology beginning June 1, 2017. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. The position offers the unique professional, research, social, and cultural opportunities of a top-ranked school and university located in Washington, DC. In addition, the associate dean for undergraduate education will play a critical role in formulating school policy and be part of a dynamic leadership team.

The School of Public Affairs offers four undergraduate majors, four undergraduate minors, and three highly selective enrichment programs (SPA Leadership Program, Politics, Policy and Law Scholars, and SPA Honors). SPA has approximately 1300 engaged undergraduate students who are research focused and use DC as their laboratory. The associate dean for undergraduate education will provide leadership in the area of undergraduate education and will be responsible for handling all issues that arise concerning undergraduate students in the school. The associate dean directs the activities of the assistant director of recruitment and retention, four academic advisors, enrichment program directors, and serves as the school's Academic Integrity Officer. Duties will also include teaching one course a year in one of the School's degree programs.

American University is reshaping the composition and experience of its undergraduate student body. The University is committed to diversifying the student body in terms of racial/ethnic diversity, geographic diversity, and diversity of socioeconomic status. American University received a record number of undergraduate applications for Fall 2016, resulting in an admit rate of approximately 25 percent. The number of students with SPA undergraduate majors has increased over the past several years. American University is undertaking a multi-year initiative to reinvent the student experience through reimagining service delivery, a focus on student success, and modernization of the undergraduate curriculum. We are looking for an associate dean who will embrace the opportunity to participate in this initiative and shape the future of SPA's undergraduate programs.

Qualifications

Candidates must possess a distinguished record of scholarship in one of the academic fields encompassed by the school's undergraduate programs and meet American University's standards for appointment with tenure at the associate or full professor level. Preference will be given to candidates who have held leadership positions at the university, school, department or program level and who can also provide evidence of advancing their university's academic standing, scholarship, or research productivity.

Application Process

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 16, 2016, and continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/35978>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vita, statement of administrative experience and contact information for three references. Electronic submissions are preferred.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. POLITICAL THEORY*Texas A&M University

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University (<http://politicalscience.tamu.edu>) is recruiting for two temporary positions for the 2017-2018 academic year. We seek to hire two lecturers. Successful candidates will be expected to be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses in American government, as well as upper level courses in a subfield of the discipline. Teaching experience in these areas and demonstrated research abilities would be highly valued. While someone at A.B.D. status would meet minimum requirements, a completed Ph.D. is strongly preferred. The target start date for this position September 1, 2017. The teaching load would be six courses total for the academic year, four of which would likely be large, introductory sections. This would be for a nine month appointment in a non-tenure track position.

Our review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants should send letter of interest, contact information for three references, and a curriculum vitae. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. ## Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Visiting Instructor

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a visiting position in political theory for the 2017-18 academic year.

The teaching load for this position is four courses. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to Political Theory and upper division courses. These courses may be open with regard to the candidate's area of interest, but candidates should be able to offer courses related to issues of diversity, identity, inclusion, justice, and citizenship. These courses should reflect the thematic, not chronological, approach to our theory curriculum, and we are especially interested in courses such as African-American Political Thought, Feminist Theory, and American Political Thought.

The University of the South comprises a nationally-ranked College of the Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. It is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful completion of a background screening. The University of the South is committed to creating and maintaining a diverse campus environment. We are proud to be an equal opportunity educational institution and welcome all qualified applicants without regard to their race, color, religion, gender, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, age, or veteran status.

Applicants must submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample syllabus, and contact information for a reference who can speak to teaching potential. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu>. Reviewing of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

University of Virginia

Rank: DeOlazarra Fellow and Lecturer

The University of Virginia's program in Political Philosophy, Policy & Law (PPL) invites applications for one, possibly two, full-time DeOlazarra Fellows for the academic year beginning August 2017, with the possibility to renew for a second academic year. Renewals are subject to availability of funding and satisfactory performance. Compensation will take the form of salary and benefits. Applicants must specialize in contemporary political theory/philosophy, particularly as it applies to the evaluation of important issues in public policy. A background in jurisprudence or legal theory is also desirable. PPL is a selective interdisciplinary undergraduate major in which fourth year students develop substantial research projects in the context of a capstone seminar. The fellow will preside over this seminar during the spring semester as well as teach one fall semester course in his or her area of interest. Applicants must be on track to receive a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field by May 2017 and must hold a PhD by June 15, 2017. Candidates must combine strong research potential with commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching.

To apply, please complete a Candidate Profile online through Jobs@UVA (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>), and electronically attach the following: a current CV, cover letter, statement of teaching, unofficial transcript and writing sample. Search on posting 0620670.

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by May 20, 2017; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Also, under separate cover by mail, please arrange for three (3) letters of recommendation to be sent to:

University of Richmond

Rank: John Marshall Visiting Research Fellow for 2017-18

Specializations: Political Economy, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The John Marshall International Center for the Study of Statesmanship at the Jepson School of Leadership Studies at the University of Richmond is accepting applications for the position of John Marshall Visiting Research Fellow for 2017-18.

The Marshall Fellow will pursue his or her own advanced research in political economy as it relates to the theory and practice of statesmanship, and be in residence during academic terms at the Jepson School actively contributing to the intellectual life of the School and University through meaningful interactions with faculty and participation in Marshall Center programs. Educational requirements: Ph.D. program in economics, history, philosophy, or political science. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, but must have completed the Ph.D. in one of these fields by August 1, 2017. Applications for the fellowship are encouraged from those who have just finished or who are about to finish their doctoral dissertations.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The nation's first school of leadership studies, a top-ranking business school, and a nationally recognized international education program enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers an intellectually challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, one-page research plan, and writing sample; and provide the names and emails of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. The deadline for applications is May 15, 2017. For questions contact Pam Khoury, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, pkhoury@richmond.edu. Additional information about the Marshall Center can be found at <http://jepson.richmond.edu/conferences/marshall/index.html>.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

McGill University

Rank: Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory

Applications are invited for a one-semester or full-year Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory in academic year 2018-19. This fellowship for US citizens includes a $US 25,000 stipend with no teaching responsibilities.

Hosted in the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS), a unit of the Yan P. Lin Centre for the Study of Freedom and Global Orders in the Ancient and Modern Worlds, this award is open to established or emerging scholars in political theory and is open with respect to methodology and approach in that field. Applications are also invited from scholars in neighbouring areas of legal theory and jurisprudence, political philosophy and political science. The Chair will pursue research in political and constitutional theory broadly construed. The ability to engage with scholars and students across methodologies — normative, empirical, intellectual-historical, jurisprudential, and formal, for example — is more important than particular areas of emphasis.

Sample areas of interest include: normative analyses of fundamental rights and of such basic constitutional structures as the separation of powers or federalism; democratic theory, especially as it pertains to political institutions; the history of political thought about constitutional government or constitutional forms; and questions of justice about the constitutional basic structure of a society, ranging from property and market relations to the legal organization of family life.

The Chair-holder will be in residence at RGCS for one semester, will deliver one public lecture, regularly attend and also present work at an RGCS workshop, and, if appropriate, guest-lecture or lead guest discussions in political science classes. The Chair will more generally take an active part in the intellectual life of McGill, RGCS, and the Groupe de Recherche Interuniversitaire en Philosophie Politique.

Full eligibility information and the online application are available at <http://www.fulbright.ca/programs/american-scholars/primary-awards/policy.html>. Those interested are encouraged to contact Jacob Levy at rgcs.mcgill@gmail.com (especially for questions about thematic fit) and Brad Hector at bhector@fulbright.ca (especially for procedural questions) early in the application process. Applications must be fully complete by August 1.

Bucknell University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Theory

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Theory

Start Date: Fall 2017

Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until filled

Subfield: Political Theory

Rank: Visiting Assistant

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position in Political Theory beginning in the fall semester of 2017. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester, and the successful candidate will be prepared to teach four sections of a core course in Political Theory, a course in Contemporary Democratic Theory, and one course in his or her field of specialization. The Department of Political Science has a distinguished record of hiring diverse faculty, whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience, potential teaching excellence, and the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. or be ABD in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in Political Theory.

For additional information and to apply, please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/40666>. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations, along with any other relevant materials. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Michael R. James at mjames@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on March 27, 2016, and applications received by that date will be guaranteed full consideration.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Apart from its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas; the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. Bucknell also has a small but growing community of Asia scholars. In the spring of 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. For those who crave the city, Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

EEO

Bucknell University, an Equal Opportunity Employer, believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. We seek candidates who are committed to Bucknell's efforts to create a climate that fosters the growth and development of a diverse student body, and we welcome applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in higher education.

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant Professor. Priority: Comparative Politics or IR. Other: Political Theory or Open

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: International Political Economy, Middle East, Post Communist Europe

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2017. Applicants at the associate rank may also be considered. While we encourage applications by candidates in any field, our priority is to recruit in World Politics, which comprises Comparative Politics and International Relations. Located in the nation's capital, the Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major and a distinguished MA and PhD program.

We seek candidates who understand, are enthusiastic about, and will make a significant contribution to the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Expertise in a regional area such as Latin America, the Middle East or Eastern Europe is a plus. Security studies and foreign policy are traditional strengths of the department. Beyond these fields, areas of interest include but are not limited to political theory and constitutionalism. We seek applicants who can enhance the historical, institutional and theoretical strengths of the department. Candidates who can cross field and disciplinary lines and articulate the relevance of ethical and religious concerns in their areas of specialty are particularly attractive.

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a C.V., and a writing sample to

pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of graduate transcripts and three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one- to two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will make a distinctive contribution to our University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found here:

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Fulbright University Viet Nam

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Positions in Economics, Public Policy and Public Administration

Multiple faculty positions, open rank - Fulbright School of Public Policy and Management, Vietnam

I. The Positions

Fulbright University Vietnam (FUV) seeks applications and nominations for three faculty positions in the Fulbright School of Public Policy and Management (FSPPM). The positions are open with respect to rank and field. Preference will be given to applicants in the following three broad categories: 1) public management, administration and leadership (including negotiation and conflict resolution); 2) macroeconomics; and 3) international trade policy.

II. The Institution

Located in Ho Chi Minh City, FUV is a private, not-for-profit university announced by President Barack Obama on May 24, 2016 and given substantial financial support from the US State Department, USAID, and a variety of private donors. We are dedicated to a lofty mission: reimagining the way universities work. We aim to create an institution that can transform the lives our students, address the pressing needs of Vietnamese society, and ultimately point the way toward a new approach to high quality education in developing countries. We are guided in this journey by our strong belief in the power of collaboration, interdisciplinary thinking, and risk-taking, and are seeking like-minded individuals who are excited to join the founding team that will imagine and build a 21st century liberal arts and professional graduate education in Vietnam.

Within this dynamic, start-up setting, the FSPPM builds upon a two-decade long initiative of Harvard University to incubate a center of public policy research and teaching in Ho Chi Minh City, the Fulbright Economics Teaching Program (FETP). Like FUV today, FETP itself was a pioneering institution in both teaching and research. FETP launched Vietnam's first masters in public policy program (MPP) in 2008. Its policy-oriented research contributed meaningfully to the national policy discourse. In the fall of 2016, Harvard transferred the people and programs of FETP to FUV. These unique intellectual assets are now the nucleus of the FSPPM, FUV's first academic unit. By virtue of this heritage, FSPPM is at once both an established academic enterprise with a distinguished track record and a small but accomplished faculty as well as a start-up. Among FSPPM's activities are a fulltime Masters in Public Policy (MPP) program; the Vietnam Executive Leadership Program (VELP), a policy dialog initiative for senior Vietnamese government officials; and the Lower Mekong Public Policy Initiative (LMPPi), a research program focused on transnational policy challenges at the intersection of environmental and development policy.

FUV's Board of Trustees has adopted an ambitious mandate for FSPPM to become an internationally recognized graduate professional school that prepares students for positions of leadership in all sectors of society and contribute to the resolution of the grand challenges facing Vietnam, the region, and the world through policy engagement, analysis, and research.

III. Qualifications and How to Apply

Candidates will ideally take up the position, which is based in Ho Chi Minh City, by the Fall of 2017, though the starting date is subject to negotiation. Remuneration and benefits will be internationally competitive. A PhD (or equivalent terminal degree) in a policy-relevant field is required, though candidates in their final stage of PhD candidacy will also be considered. Relevant teaching and research experience, and a track record of interest in policy issues, are desired. Experience or interest in Vietnam and Southeast Asia will also be appreciated. Vietnamese language skills are valuable, but not required. Applicants are invited to send a letter of interest, a CV and the names of three professional references to jobs.fsppm@fuv.edu.vn. Inquiries are welcome. The positions will remain open until filled; please apply by June 15, 2017 for fullest consideration.

Texas A&M University

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University (<http://politicalscience.tamu.edu>) is recruiting for two temporary positions for the 2017-2018 academic year. We seek to hire two lecturers. Successful candidates will be expected to be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses in American government, as well as upper level courses in a subfield of the discipline. Teaching experience in these areas and demonstrated research abilities would be highly valued. While someone at A.B.D. status would meet minimum requirements, a completed Ph.D. is strongly preferred. The target start date for this position September 1, 2017. The teaching load would be six courses total for the academic year, four of which would likely be large, introductory sections. This would be for a nine month appointment in a non-tenure track position.

Our review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants should send letter of interest, contact information for three references, and a curriculum vitae. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. We are especially interested in candidates who would increase the Department's gender, racial and ethnic diversity. Texas A&M is an AA/EEO university and is deeply committed to diversity.

University of South Alabama

Rank: Chair of the Department

Subfield(s): Administration, International Relations, Public Administration

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Criminal Justice, Health Care

The Department of Political Science & Criminal Justice at the University of South Alabama invites applications for the position of Department Chair to begin August 15, 2017. The department offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Criminal Justice as well as a Master's in Public Administration. Highly qualified Associate and Full Professors with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Criminal Justice, or a closely related discipline from an accredited university will be considered for this position.

The ideal candidate will be an accomplished scholar, committed to excellence in research and teaching, have exceptional organizational and interpersonal skills, and possess the vision to lead a growing department. The abilities to collaborate effectively and advocate for program faculty and students are essential. The ideal candidate will have demonstrated administrative experience, but exceptional candidates lacking such experience who have a strong desire to transition to an administrative role are also encouraged to apply.

Applicants should apply at the following link and be prepared to attach a letter of application, a one-page statement of research interests, a brief description of teaching philosophy and proficiencies, a summary statement of leadership and administrative skills, current Curriculum Vitae, names of five references, and a sample of scholarly work. <https://www.governmentjobs.com/careers/usouthal/jobs/1588869/chair-and-assoc-or-full-professor> Upon request, applicants will arrange to have official transcripts and three letters of recommendation sent to the Chair of the Search Committee. Review of applications will begin December 12, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Information: <http://www.southalabama.edu/colleges/artsandsci/poliscie/jobs.html>

The position of Chair is a 12-month appointment. The ideal candidate will demonstrate the ability to contribute to existing programs and help develop new offerings. An appreciation for mixed methodology is preferred. The ideal candidate will provide transparency in budget and scheduling decisions and be able to highlight faculty and student successes, advocate for program faculty at the college and university levels, seek to increase faculty, majors, and department activities, and mentor junior faculty for success in tenure and promotion and mentor associate professors for promotion to full professor.

The Department of Political Science & Criminal Justice has 10 full-time faculty and more than 300 undergraduate majors and 40 graduate students. The department offers courses for four interdisciplinary programs within the College of Arts and Sciences: African American Studies, Forensic Science, Gender Studies, and International Studies. The department is also home to the USA Polling Group, a survey research center with a 10 station CATI lab that works with a variety of internal and external clients. Additionally, the department has a sizeable Masters in Public Administration (MPA) program and an active student body.

If you have questions about this position, the department, the University, or the area, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Elise Labbé-Coldsmith, at ELabbe@southalabama.edu.

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

The Department of History and Political Science at Norwich University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall 2017 semester. The successful candidate will teach and do research in the fields of American politics and public policy and will teach undergraduate courses in Intro to Public Policy, the survey course in American Politics, the U.S. Presidency, Legislative Process, State and Local Politics, Research Methods (with emphasis on quantitative methods), American Citizenship, and a Capstone Senior Seminar in the candidate's field of expertise. The successful candidate will also manage the Political Science Internship Program and facilitate the growth of public policy studies across the university. While a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential, Norwich University is committed to junior faculty developing scholarship through a supportive faculty development program.

Qualifications: To be eligible for appointment at the assistant professor rank, candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D in a public policy-related field. Highly qualified ABDs may be considered for appointment at the instructor level. Review of applications will begin September 16, 2016 and remain open until the position is filled.

Please submit a letter of interest, which includes your preferred substantive American politics and public policy focus, curriculum vitae, three current letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy): <https://norwich.interviewexchange.com>

Norwich University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is committed to providing a positive education and work environment that recognizes and respects the dignity of all students, faculty and staff. Reasonable accommodations will be made for the known disability of an otherwise qualified applicant. Please contact the Office of Human Resources at nuhr@norwich.edu for assistance.

All candidates must be authorized to work for any U.S. employer. A post offer, pre-employment background check will be required of the successful candidate.

Norwich University offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, group life and long term disability insurance, flexible-spending accounts for health and dependent care, 403(b) retirement plan with employer match, employee assistance program, paid time off including parental leave, and tuition scholarships for eligible employees and their family members.

Norwich University is a diversified academic institution that educates residential students - both military and civilian lifestyles - and working adults across the globe. Norwich offers a broad selection of traditional and distance-learning programs culminating in baccalaureate and master's degrees, and graduate certificates. Founded in 1819 by U.S. Army Capt. Alden Partridge, Norwich is the oldest private military college in the country and the birthplace of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC).

Norwich University takes positive action to insure that all applicants for employment are considered, and employees are treated in compliance with applicable laws and regulations governing non-discrimination on the basis of gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, national origin, color, religion, disability, sexual orientation, age, genetic information or veteran's status. As an institution of higher education, Norwich is dedicated to learning, emphasizing teamwork, leadership, creativity, and critical thinking and encourages applications from qualified individuals who will help us achieve this guiding value.

PUBLIC LAW

McGill University

Rank: Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory

Applications are invited for a one-semester or full-year Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory in academic year 2018-19. This fellowship for US citizens includes a $US 25,000 stipend with no teaching responsibilities.

Hosted in the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS), a unit of the Yan P. Lin Centre for the Study of Freedom and Global Orders in the Ancient and Modern Worlds, this award is open to established or emerging scholars in political theory and is open with respect to methodology and approach in that field. Applications are also invited from scholars in neighbouring areas of legal theory and jurisprudence, political philosophy and political science. The Chair will pursue research in political and constitutional theory broadly construed. The ability to engage with scholars and students across methodologies — normative, empirical, intellectual-historical, jurisprudential, and formal, for example — is more important than particular areas of emphasis.

Sample areas of interest include: normative analyses of fundamental rights and of such basic constitutional structures as the separation of powers or federalism; democratic theory, especially as it pertains to political institutions; the history of political thought about constitutional government or constitutional forms; and questions of justice about the constitutional basic structure of a society, ranging from property and market relations to the legal organization of family life.

The Chair-holder will be in residence at RGCS for one semester, will deliver one public lecture, regularly attend and also present work at an RGCS workshop, and, if appropriate, guest-lecture or lead guest discussions in political science classes. The Chair will more generally take an active part in the intellectual life of McGill, RGCS, and the Groupe de Recherche Interuniversitaire en Philosophie Politique.

Full eligibility information and the online application are available at <http://www.fulbright.ca/programs/american-scholars/primary-awards/policy.html>. Those interested are encouraged to contact Jacob Levy at rgcs.mcgill@gmail.com (especially for questions about thematic fit) and Brad Hector at bhector@fulbright.ca (especially for procedural questions) early in the application process. Applications must be fully complete by August 1.

PUBLIC POLICY

Fulbright University Viet Nam

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Positions in Economics, Public Policy and Public Administration

Multiple faculty positions, open rank - Fulbright School of Public Policy and Management, Vietnam

1. The Positions

Fulbright University Vietnam (FUV) seeks applications and nominations for three faculty positions in the Fulbright School of Public Policy and Management (FSPPM). The positions are open with respect to rank and field. Preference will be given to applicants in the following three broad categories: 1) public management, administration and leadership (including negotiation and conflict resolution); 2) macroeconomics; and 3) international trade policy.

II. The Institution

Located in Ho Chi Minh City, FUV is a private, not-for-profit university announced by President Barack Obama on May 24, 2016 and given substantial financial support from the US State Department, USAID, and a variety of private donors. We are dedicated to a lofty mission: reimagining the way universities work. We aim to create an institution that can transform the lives our students, address the pressing needs of Vietnamese society, and ultimately point the way toward a new approach to high quality education in developing countries. We are guided in this journey by our strong belief in the power of collaboration, interdisciplinary thinking, and risk-taking, and are seeking like-minded individuals who are excited to join the founding team that will imagine and build a 21st century liberal arts and professional graduate education in Vietnam.

Within this dynamic, start-up setting, the FSPPM builds upon a two-decade long initiative of Harvard University to incubate a center of public policy research and teaching in Ho Chi Minh City, the Fulbright Economics Teaching Program (FETP). Like FUV today, FETP itself was a pioneering institution in both teaching and research. FETP launched Vietnam's first masters in public policy program (MPP) in 2008. Its policy-oriented research contributed meaningfully to the national policy discourse. In the fall of 2016, Harvard transferred the people and programs of FETP to FUV. These unique intellectual assets are now the nucleus of the FSPPM, FUV's first academic unit. By virtue of this heritage, FSPPM is at once both an established academic enterprise with a distinguished track record and a small but accomplished faculty as well as a start-up. Among FSPPM's activities are a fulltime Masters in Public Policy (MPP) program; the Vietnam Executive Leadership Program (VELP), a policy dialog initiative for senior Vietnamese government officials; and the Lower Mekong Public Policy Initiative (LMPPPI), a research program focused on transnational policy challenges at the intersection of environmental and development policy.

FUV's Board of Trustees has adopted an ambitious mandate for FSPPM to become an internationally recognized graduate professional school that prepares students for positions of leadership in all sectors of society and contribute to the resolution of the grand challenges facing Vietnam, the region, and the world through policy engagement, analysis, and research.

III. Qualifications and How to Apply

Candidates will ideally take up the position, which is based in Ho Chi Minh City, by the Fall of 2017, though the starting date is subject to negotiation. Remuneration and benefits will be internationally competitive. A PhD (or equivalent terminal degree) in a policy-relevant field is required, though candidates in their final stage of PhD candidacy will also be considered. Relevant teaching and research experience, and a track record of interest in policy issues, are desired. Experience or interest in Vietnam and Southeast Asia will also be appreciated. Vietnamese language skills are valuable, but not required. Applicants are invited to send a letter of interest, a CV and the names of three professional references to jobs.fsppm@fuv.edu.vn. Inquiries are welcome. The positions will remain open until filled; please apply by June 15, 2017 for fullest consideration.

Teaching experience in these areas and demonstrated research abilities would be highly valued. While someone at A.B.D. status would meet minimum requirements, a completed Ph.D. is strongly preferred. The target start date for this position September 1, 2017. The teaching load would be six courses total for the academic year, four of which would likely be large, introductory sections. This would be for a nine month appointment in a non-tenure track position.

Our review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants should send letter of interest, contact information for three references, and a curriculum vitae. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. We are especially interested in candidates who would increase the Department's gender, racial and ethnic diversity. Texas A&M is an AA/EEO university and is deeply committed to diversity.

Truth Initiative

Rank: Public Policy and Research Scientist

Subfield(s): Non-Academic, Public Policy, Methodology

CUTTING EDGE PUBLIC HEALTH RESEARCH

We are focused on high-risk, high-reward research to reduce the prevalence of tobacco use in the United States, particularly among youth and young adults. The Schroeder Institute at Truth Initiative is a multidisciplinary research group focused on reducing the disease burden of tobacco use behavior.

HOW YOU WILL CONTRIBUTE

The Public Policy and Research Scientist's role is to assist Truth Initiative's leadership in conducting and coordinating science and policy-related research to help inform youth and young adult tobacco-related policy and practice. Public policy and research projects may also include areas such as: SI commissioned research studies, knowledge synthesis papers, convening strategic consensus meetings, and comments and other regulatory submissions, mostly but not exclusively at the federal level. In this role, you will lead and participate in internally and existing externally-funded projects, grants and contracts and supervise a team of staff involved in this work. You will provide scientific expertise on tobacco science and policy implications to Truth Initiative and to the broader tobacco control community.

- Assume administrative responsibilities related to the coordination of Tobacco Policy and Research Science, including the management of outside vendors working on research projects that advance Truth Initiative's policy goals;
- Supervise a team of staff involved in policy-related projects;
- Manage relationships with advocacy, legal, policy, and scientific partners;
- Serve as the lead for internal and external requests related to tobacco science, law, and policy and work closely with other Truth Initiative departments to coordinate efforts;
- Facilitate strategic efforts to build SI's research in this area; and
- Perform research to inform the regulation of tobacco products and other areas that align with the organizational mission and goals.

WHAT YOU BRING TO US

You should have experience as a research scientist at the equivalent academic level of assistant or associate professor. You should also have experience using scientific evidence in the development of public policy.

You will have a doctorate in public health, economics, health policy, or other social science; have a strong record or demonstrated potential of scholarly research, including content-relevant peer-reviewed publications.

You're an excellent scientist who embraces team science and who can develop an independent line of research that extends the mission of the Schroeder Institute at Truth Initiative.

COMPENSATION PACKAGE:

Salary is competitive based on experience with EXCELLENT benefits.

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2017, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and non-profit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamu.edu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin May 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. A&M is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer committed to diversity.

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Norwich University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

The Department of History and Political Science at Norwich University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall 2017 semester. The successful candidate will teach and do research in the fields of American politics and public policy and will teach undergraduate courses in Intro to Public Policy, the survey course in American Politics, the U.S. Presidency, Legislative Process, State and Local Politics, Research Methods (with emphasis on quantitative methods), American Citizenship, and a Capstone Senior Seminar in the candidate's field of expertise. The successful candidate will also manage the Political Science Internship Program and facilitate the growth of public policy studies across the university. While a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential, Norwich University is committed to junior faculty developing scholarship through a supportive faculty development program.

Qualifications: To be eligible for appointment at the assistant professor rank, candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D. in a public policy-related field. Highly qualified ABDs may be considered for appointment at the instructor level. Review of applications will begin September 16, 2016 and remain open until the position is filled.

Please submit a letter of interest, which includes your preferred substantive American politics and public policy focus, curriculum vitae, three current letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy): <https://norwich.interviewexchange.com>

Norwich University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is committed to providing a positive education and work environment that recognizes and respects the dignity of all students, faculty and staff. Reasonable accommodations will be made for the known disability of an otherwise qualified applicant. Please contact the Office of Human Resources at nuhr@norwich.edu for assistance.

All candidates must be authorized to work for any U.S. employer. A post offer, pre-employment background check will be required of the successful candidate.

Norwich University offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, group life and long term disability insurance, flexible-spending accounts for health and dependent care, 403(b) retirement plan with employer match, employee assistance program, paid time off including parental leave, and tuition scholarships for eligible employees and their family members.

Norwich University is a diversified academic institution that educates residential students - both military and civilian lifestyles - and working adults across the globe. Norwich offers a broad selection of traditional and distance-learning programs culminating in baccalaureate and master's degrees, and graduate certificates. Founded in 1819 by U.S. Army Capt. Alden Partridge, Norwich is the oldest private military college in the country and the birthplace of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC).

Norwich University takes positive action to insure that all applicants for employment are considered, and employees are treated in compliance with applicable laws and regulations governing non-discrimination on the basis of gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, national origin, color, religion, disability, sexual orientation, age, genetic information or veteran's status. As an institution of higher education, Norwich is dedicated to learning, emphasizing teamwork, leadership, creativity, and critical thinking and encourages applications from qualified individuals who will help us achieve this guiding value.
