

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

October 2017 | Volume 6, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4

American Government and Politics 9

Comparative Politics 61

International Relations 122

Methodology 194

Non-Academic 207

Other 207

Political Theory 242

Public Administration 270

Public Law 288

Public Policy 301

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

October 2017 | Volume 6, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (11 listings)

American Government and Politics 9 (120 listings)

Comparative Politics 61 (132 listings)

International Relations 122 (151 listings)

Methodology 194 (33 listings)

Non-Academic 207 (70 listings)

Other 207 (55 listings)

Political Theory 242 (36 listings)

Public Administration 270 (26 listings)

Public Law 288 (76 listings)

Public Policy 301 (listings)

Total listings this issue 710

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for October

ADMINISTRATION

Princeton University

Rank: Professional Specialist - The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invites applications for the position of Professional Specialist. Reporting to the Director of the Niehaus Center, the professional specialist will work with faculty members, visiting fellows, and graduate students associated with the Niehaus Center to provide statistical and technical support for their research projects. The position requires one to work closely with associates of the Center to provide timely and creative support for research and computing. The successful candidate will create analytic datasets and perform complex statistical analyses of data, using advanced econometric and other statistical methods. The ability to write computer programs to manipulate information, devise programs for estimating econometric models, and to create and manage an active internet site are important aspects of this position. In addition, the successful candidate should be able to write summaries of research, perform literature searches and reviews, and post and retrieve information from the internet.

QUALIFICATIONS

ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATIONS:

- Excellent research and writing skills
- Proficiency in statistics and econometrics
- Strong background in quantitative, experimental research and statistical methods.
- Knowledge of scripting or high-level programming language, like Python or Java
- Knowledge of statistical packages including STATA, SAS, and/or R
- Knowledge of standard internet tools and HTML
- Familiarity with standard political science, economics and/or sociology data sources

EDUCATION REQUIRED:

- Master's degree in a social science discipline such as Politics, Economics or Sociology. Ph.D. preferred.

The successful candidate must be well-organized, attentive to detail, and able to respond to deadlines in a timely manner. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

TO APPLY

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/academicpositions/position/3341> and submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, transcript and contact information for two reference.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3299

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Administration

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for professor and endowed chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required.

Successful applicants will teach in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/9587>.

The committee will begin considering applications on September 15, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3287

Princeton University

Rank: Professor, Contemporary India

Princeton University seeks qualified candidates for a tenured professorship in any discipline, including the arts, the humanities, the social sciences, engineering and the natural sciences. Candidates are required to have regional expertise on India, knowledge of relevant foreign languages, and experience managing a center or program. In addition to contributing to their respective disciplinary department and to the wider research community of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS), they are expected to broaden Princeton's international networks and strengthen regional course offerings at the University. Field of specialization is open.

Applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a brief letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae and a list of references, but no publications, letters of recommendation or writing samples at this time. For fullest consideration, please apply by October 2, 2017.

Essential Qualifications:

Excellence in a recognized field or discipline. Regional expertise on India.

Further questions about this position may be directed to Susan Bindig at susanb@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3236

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs

Middle Georgia State University is a multi-campus, baccalaureate and graduate degree-granting institution that seeks an experienced academic leader to serve as Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs. A member of the President's cabinet, the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs plays a central role in institutional decisions and coordinates with academic affairs constituents to create and support an academic vision of excellence for the university. The review of applications is underway.

Candidates must have an earned doctorate from a regionally accredited institution and evidence of successive academic administrative and supervisory experiences with qualifications meriting appointment at the rank of full professor in a discipline offered by the university.

Extensive expertise in program and curriculum development, program review and enhancement, continuous quality improvement processes and budget and fiscal management is required. Candidates should have a broad knowledge of the accreditation process. Administrative experience within a mid-sized multi-campus institution is preferred.

APPLICATION AND NOMINATION PROCESS:

Confidential inquiries are welcomed, and nominations are invited.

1. To Apply - Application packet must include:
 - a) A letter of interest
 - b) Current curriculum vitae
 - c) At least five references with full contact information (References will not be contacted without consent from applicants.)
2. Submit application packet to: MGA-Provost@myersmcrac.com

Submit nominations to MGA-nominate@myersmcrac.com. Nominations should include contact information for the individual being nominated with email address.

For best consideration, submit applications by October 5, 2017. Emily Parker Myers, CEO, and Kenny Daugherty, President, of Myers McRae Executive Search are conducting this search.

For more information, please see the complete position announcement at <http://www.myersmcrac.com/skins/userfiles/files/MGA-Provost-2017.pdf>

Start Date: Summer
Application Deadline: 3/15/2016
Date Posted: 8/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3188

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs

Middle Georgia State University is a multi-campus, baccalaureate and graduate degree-granting institution that seeks an experienced academic leader to serve as Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs. A member of the President's cabinet, the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs plays a central role in institutional decisions and coordinates with academic affairs constituents to create and support an academic vision of excellence for the university. The review of applications is underway.

Candidates must have an earned doctorate from a regionally accredited institution and evidence of successive academic administrative and supervisory experiences with qualifications meriting appointment at the rank of full professor in a discipline offered by the university.

Extensive expertise in program and curriculum development, program review and enhancement, continuous quality improvement processes and budget and fiscal management is required. Candidates should have a broad knowledge of the accreditation process. Administrative experience within a mid-sized multi-campus institution is preferred.

APPLICATION AND NOMINATION PROCESS:

Confidential inquiries are welcomed, and nominations are invited.

1. To Apply - Application packet must include:
 - a) A letter of interest
 - b) Current curriculum vitae
 - c) At least five references with full contact information (References will not be contacted without consent from applicants.)
2. Submit application packet to: MGA-Provost@myersmcrac.com

Submit nominations to MGA-nominate@myersmcrac.com. Nominations should include contact information for the individual being nominated with email address.

For best consideration, submit applications by October 5, 2017. Emily Parker Myers, CEO, and Kenny Daugherty, President, of Myers McRae Executive Search are conducting this search.

For more information, please see the complete position announcement at <http://www.myersmcrac.com/skins/userfiles/files/MGA-Provost-2017.pdf>

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 10/7/2016
Date Posted: 8/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3189

Tulane University

Rank: Associate Professor and Director of Student Leadership and Engagement

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Women & Politics

The Newcomb College Institute seeks a full-time, non-tenure track feminist scholar to conduct research and to teach 1-2 undergraduate courses on women's leadership. We seek an applied researcher with qualitative and quantitative research skills with experience in community engagement and service learning who can design, implement, and assess the impact of our leadership curriculum and programs. S/he will oversee a department of four that runs the Newcomb Scholars Programs, 20+ student groups, a Residential Learning Community, and applied learning programs. Reporting to the Executive Director, the successful candidate will serve on the leadership team of NCI and manage the budget and supervise personnel for the department. S/he will facilitate faculty involvement in programs and liaise with Student Affairs, Gender & Sexuality Studies, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, and other campus units. We are especially interested in candidates with a record of intersectional scholarship and community engagement who can lead our efforts to connect with diverse groups of women students. NCI selection committee representatives will be at NWSA, APSA, ASHE, and ASA.

QUALIFICATIONS

1. Ph.D. in Higher Education, Sociology, Psychology, Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, Leadership, Economics or related field required by date of hire.
2. Three years of experience working with or teaching undergraduate women.

3. Administrative ability in strategic planning, personnel management, budgeting, and programming.
4. Commitment to acquiring and teaching emotional intelligence and a growth mindset.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Screening begins October 15, 2017. Submit applications via Interfolio <https://apply.interfolio.com/43256> and provide a CV and letter of interest.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3170

National University of Singapore

Rank: Associate/Full Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for an Associate or Full Professor in any of its subfields, which are Comparative Politics, Governance and Public Policy, International Relations, and Political Theory. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research and publication and be able to provide evidence of superior teaching and proven capacity for leadership. The Department of Political Science and the National University of Singapore are highly research-oriented. The teaching load is three modules year academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonuses and salary increments, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support.

Applicants should send a CV, a letter detailing their teaching and research interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox12@nus.edu.sg. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and livable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3044

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Administration, Comparative Politics

Due to impending retirements, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2018.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide strong academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience in obtaining and administering external funding awards is preferred. Applicants should have obtained the rank of full professor. Associate professors will be considered if their qualifications are consistent with the rank of full professor in the Department of Political Science at UNR.

About the department: the Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience. Visit our website at <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25111> for further information and to apply.

Candidates should submit a CV, and a cover letter outlining their interest in and experience relating to the position. In the cover letter please highlight your leadership experience and/or potential, and indicate how you would contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service. Letters of reference will only be requested upon initial screening of the applicants.

Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Eric Herzik (herzik@unr.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3003

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Full-time Tenure Track Professor

The Management Department of the Wharton School is seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position at any level: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in the areas of:

- Entrepreneurial Management
- Human Resource Management
- Multinational /Comparative Management
- Organizational Behavior
- Organizational Theory
- Strategy

Demonstrated ability or potential for high quality research and teaching are important. Applicants must have a Ph.D. (expected completion by June 30, 2019 is acceptable) from an accredited institution.

The appointment is expected to begin July 1, 2018. Interested individuals should complete and submit our online application via our secure website, and must include:

- A cover letter (indicating the areas for which you wish to be considered)
- Curriculum vitae
- Names of three recommenders, including email addresses [junior-level candidates]
- Sample publications and abstracts

To apply please visit our website:
<https://mgmt.wharton.upenn.edu/faculty/faculty-positions/>

Recruitment Committee review of applications will begin on September 30, 2017. Candidates are strongly encouraged to have their completed applications submitted by that date for full consideration.

The University of Pennsylvania is an EOE. Minorities/Women/Individuals with disabilities/Protected Veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2966

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Nonprofit Management and Policy, Assistant/Associate Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy in the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Nonprofit Management and Policy position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates should be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

Our program on Nonprofit Management, ranked 10th in US News and World Report, emphasizes the "nuts and bolts" of operating and sustaining nonprofit organizations and the tactics and strategies of creating social change toward greater equity and justice. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality nonprofit management and policy research in these areas. Candidates conducting research on nonprofit governance, resource generation and sustainability, nonprofit public policy, policy advocacy, collaboration, and/or nonprofit networks are especially encouraged to apply. We are open to scholars conducting research in domestic, international or global contexts, and who use qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Senior applicants should have a well-established research program; junior applicants should have a trajectory to develop a tenurable research record.
- Applicants must be able to teach in Nonprofit Management and in core Public Policy or Public Administration courses, and be able to, or have the potential to, fulfill the mission and goals of Rockefeller College.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in Public Administration, Public Management, Public Affairs, or an allied field such as Sociology or Political Science.
- Experience in a nonprofit organization, and working on or writing research grants for external funding, will be considered a plus in the selection process but not a requirement.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant or Associate Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86289>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- Cover letter addressed to Jennifer Dodge, Chair of the Search Committee
- Curriculum vitae
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (associate faculty only submit teaching evaluations for the past 4 semesters)
- Three letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts, emailed to PADsearch@albany.edu

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.). See the FAQ for using our online system. Please contact us if you need assistance applying through this website.

Returning Applicants - Login to your UAlbany Careers Account to check your completed application.

A review of applications will start October 1, 2017 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2945

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Public Management, Assistant Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy at the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Public Management position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality public management research and who employ a variety of methodological approaches. Applicants must have a research agenda that demonstrates a substantial, on-going interest in government and the public sector. Candidates conducting research on public sector collaboration, contracting, organizational behavior and theory, performance management, or strategic management are especially encouraged to apply.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Applicants must have a trajectory that suggests a tenurable research record is likely.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in public administration, public management, public affairs, or an allied field such as sociology or psychology.
- Experience obtaining or a willingness to pursue grants is also a plus.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>.

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86300>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- Cover letter addressed to Edmund C. Stazyk, Chair of the Search Committee
- Curriculum vitae
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations, if available
- Three letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts, emailed to PADsearch@albany.edu

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.).

See the FAQ for using our online system. Please contact us if you need assistance applying through this website.

Returning Applicants - Login to your UAlbany Careers Account to check your completed application.

A review of applications will start on September 1, 2017 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2939

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3532

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3533

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

University of Rochester

Rank: Faculty

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Program in Public Health-Related Majors in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rochester is conducting an open rank faculty search for a scholar specializing in the historical, social, political, and/or ethical dimensions of health policy. The program seeks outstanding candidates who work at the boundaries between public health, the humanities, and the social sciences and who are able to engage with multiple audiences, both inside and outside of the University. This will be a tenure-track appointment in one of several appropriate departments in Arts and Sciences at the level of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor.

The candidate should be prepared to:

1. Maintain an active program of research and scholarship on health policy. Applicants should have an established record of research and publication commensurate with their rank and their field of expertise.
2. Take an active role in the Steering Committee and academic advising for the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, as well as in the functioning of the home academic department.
3. Teach an introductory-level overview of the U.S. health care system and upper-level courses on US health care policy and/or global health issues for the program, as well as courses for the home department.

The interdisciplinary Program in Public Health-Related Majors requires students to examine health and health care through many different lenses: anthropological, psychological, historical, epidemiological, economic, political, and ethical. The members of the Steering Committee collaborate to oversee the five majors in the program: Bioethics; Epidemiology; Environmental Health; Health Policy; and Health, Behavior, and Society. The Steering Committee insures that students get a consistent and rigorous liberal arts education. In addition, it actively seeks to expand the curriculum by soliciting new course offerings from faculty across the university who can address emerging issues in health and health care and develop innovative programs that engage our students with both the local and the global communities.

The position is open to candidates in any academic discipline. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D in hand by July 1, 2018, and will join an appropriate department in the School of Arts and Sciences. To apply, visit www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample, and the names and contact information for three references by November 1, 2017. Please note that the job is listed under the department "Dean's Office-SAS."

For more information about the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ph/index.html>. The University of Rochester has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups under-represented in higher education. University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Review of applications will continue until a successful candidate is identified. For more information about the position, please contact: Daniel Reichman, chair of the search committee, daniel.reichman@rochester.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3535

CUNY-Queens College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Queens College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the level of Assistant Professor in the field of American Politics, to begin in the Fall 2018 semester. We are looking for individuals who combine a strong record of scholarship with a commitment to excellence in teaching in an extraordinarily diverse environment. Among our teaching needs are courses in American national institutions, race and ethnicity, quantitative methods, and government and public service. The successful applicant is also expected to participate actively in the department's advisement and service responsibilities. The Ph.D. is required by the date of appointment.

Candidates should send a letter of interest, a writing sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a graduate school transcript, three letters of recommendation, and curriculum vitae to: Professor John Bowman, Department of Political Science, Queens College, 65-30 Kissena Blvd., Flushing, NY 11367. Applications must be received by October 26, 2017.

In addition, in order for their application to be considered complete, applicants must upload a CV to CUNYfirst, the City University's human resources and service system. To do so, go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment;" click on "Search job postings;" then, in the box under "What," enter "17408"; click on "Assistant Professor—American Politics;" click on "Apply Now," and follow instructions.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3525

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Lecturer (Social Science Research Methods)
Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy is soliciting for applications for a Lecturer in Social Science Research Methods for Spring Semester 2018 (January-May). For details and how to apply, please see www.cga.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Winter 2018
Application Deadline: 10/5/2017
Date Posted: 9/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3516

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Lecturer (Social Science Research Methods)
Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy is soliciting for applications for a Lecturer in Social Science Research Methods for Spring Semester 2018 (January-May). For details and how to apply, please see www.cga.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Winter 2018
Application Deadline: 4/12/2017
Date Posted: 9/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3517

California State University, Dominguez Hills

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Chicana/o Studies (Political Science)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Administration

Responsibilities

The Assistant Professor will assume a normal teaching load of four undergraduate courses per semester in both lower-division and upper-division courses, including courses in the General Education curriculum. The successful candidate will be expected to develop courses in his/her area of expertise. Excellence in teaching and research, including publication in area of expertise is expected and required. The Assistant Professor will also be responsible for student advising, and service to the university.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate is an interdisciplinary Chicano/a and/or Latina/o Studies political science scholar who engages in interdisciplinary research and teaching on Chicana/o and/or Latina/o populations with expertise in community engagement, and experience in service-learning, community-based research, and/or digital pedagogy. Engaging in transformative and equitable models, the ideal candidate involves students in his/her research, and is involved in communities beyond the university. The ideal candidate is also a dynamic teacher who is qualified to teach a variety of courses within the department's curriculum and is committed to teaching the culturally diverse student body at CSU Dominguez Hills.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Chicana/o Studies, Ethnic Studies, or a related field; degree must be in hand by the time of appointment
- Expertise in Chicana/o/x and/or Latina/o/x political science, which may include, but is not limited to political theory, comparative politics, public administration, law, or international relations
- Evidence of successful and innovative teaching
- Evidence of a highly promising research agenda and commitment to on-going research and scholarly activity
- Demonstrated ability to teach interdisciplinary lower and upper division courses within the Chicana/o Studies and general education curriculum and develop new courses within area of expertise.
- Experience in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Interdisciplinary Chicana/o/x Latina/o/x political science research and scholarship
- Specialization and experience in community engagement with diverse populations
- Evidence of experience with service learning, community-based research and/or digital pedagogies
- Experience with high impact practices and pedagogies that promote student success, retention, and graduation.
- Bilingual and biliterate in English and Spanish

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by November 1, 2017:

- Current Curriculum Vitae
- Cover letter
- List of 3 references with contact information
- Copy of Terminal Degree and unofficial transcripts of all graduate work
- A statement demonstrating how the candidate's commitment to diversity is reflected in her/his teaching and/or scholarship
- Scholarly writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (if available)

Incomplete and/or late applications will not be considered.

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee and will be asked to request three (3) references to send letters of recommendation via email directly to:

Dr. Marisela Chávez
Department of Chicana and Chicano Studies

California State University, Dominguez Hills
mchavez@csudh.edu

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3515

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3501

Lone Star College, CyFair

Rank: Faculty, Government - 2 openings (17000893)

Lone Star College-CyFair

Faculty, Government - 2 openings (17000893)

Position Summary:

It is the responsibility of the teaching faculty to provide the learning activities and support that will lead to the achievement of the course objectives and contribute to the educational environment of the college and the community. The faculty member's role encompasses the general areas of learning facilitation, professional development, and institutional service. Primary responsibilities are to plan, develop and teach courses within the curriculum in a manner that facilitates student learning.

Job Functions:

Teaches courses in Government at a variety of times and locations in response to institutional needs

Makes continuous efforts to improve the quality of instruction by reviewing and utilizing innovative methodologies, techniques, and delivery methods

Develops and uses a syllabus for each course or laboratory within college and departmental guidelines

Plans, develops and uses a variety of teaching methods and materials that assist students in meeting course objectives and which are appropriate for students with differing educational and experiential backgrounds and learning styles

Evaluates students to measure their progress toward achievement of stated course objectives and informs them in a timely manner of their progress in the course

Submits required college reports and forms

Reviews, evaluates, and recommends student-learning materials

Maintains professional relationships with students, colleagues and the community

Provides access to students through posted office hours, electronic communication and other appropriate methods

Responsible for professional development and institutional service as determined in consultation with the Dean

Responsible for other reasonable, related duties as assigned

Salary:

Commensurate with education, experience and qualifications

Required:

Master's degree in Political Science/Government or Master's degree with 18 graduate hours in Political Science/Government; JDs and MPAs must have 18 graduate hours in related Political Science/Government courses

How to Apply:

ALL APPLICANTS MUST APPLY ONLINE ONLY!

We will not accept application material received via fax, email, mail, or hand delivered.

Postings for part-time and adjunct positions are active for the academic year. By selecting the option to receive notifications on your profile, you will begin receiving electronic communication regarding new opportunities with Lone Star College (LSC).

If selected for an interview, a recruiter will contact you by phone, or email to schedule an interview.

Lone Star College participates in the E-Verify program, under which Lone Star College provides the federal government with information from each new employee's Form I-9 to confirm that the employee is authorized to work in the United States.

More information on the E-Verify program is available at <http://www.dhs.gov/E-Verify>

Lone Star College is an EEO Employer. All positions are subject to a criminal background check.

<http://jobs.lonestar.edu>

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3510

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics and law, to begin fall of 2018. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course; Constitutional law; civil rights and liberties; judicial politics, policy, and process; and/or other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Ability to teach research methods is a plus. The Department also welcomes candidates who could contribute courses to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Political Economy, Search for Values (interdisciplinary Humanities program), and Urban Studies.

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi, teaching evaluations, copies of transcripts, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their vision for their teaching contributions to the department, and their research plan. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin November 8, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3491

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics and law, to begin fall of 2018. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course; Constitutional law; civil rights and liberties; judicial politics, policy, and process; and/or other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Ability to teach research methods is a plus. The Department also welcomes candidates who could contribute courses to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Political Economy, Search for Values (interdisciplinary Humanities program), and Urban Studies.

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi, teaching evaluations, copies of transcripts, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their vision for their teaching contributions to the department, and their research plan. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin November 8, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3492

Clemson University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics - Behavior

American Politics. The Department of Political Science at Clemson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin in August 2018. The successful candidate will have a specialization in American political behavior. The successful candidate also will be expected to offer an undergraduate course in quantitative research methods. In addition to maintaining an active research agenda, the successful candidate will reflect the Department's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching.

A Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of employment is required. Salary is competitive. To apply, upload the following to Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/45308>): an application letter of interest, CV, unofficial transcripts of graduate work, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applications received by October 16, 2017 are assured full consideration. For inquiries, please contact Department Chair Jeff Peake at jpeake@clemson.edu.

Clemson University is the Land Grant University for the State of South Carolina and is located within the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains 30 miles southwest of Greenville. The Department offers a BA and BS in Political Science, and a Ph.D. in Policy Studies. Clemson University is an AA/EEO employer and does not discriminate against any person or group on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, pregnancy, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status or genetic information. Clemson University is building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and encourages applications from minorities and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3485

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associates in Religion and Politics

The John C. Danforth Center on Religion and Politics seeks applications from junior scholars and recent Ph.D. graduates for up to three postdoctoral fellowships in residence at Washington University in St. Louis. The appointment is for one year, renewable for a second year. Eligible applicants must have completed the Ph.D. by July 1, 2018, and no earlier than January 1, 2013. (In exceptional cases a qualified applicant holding a J.D., without the Ph.D., may be considered.) The research associates will spend most of their time pursuing research and writing on their own projects. They will also serve the intellectual life of the Danforth Center on Religion and Politics through participating in its biweekly interdisciplinary seminar. Their teaching responsibilities will include: 1) developing one course per year to augment the Center's curricular offerings, and 2) possibly assisting in one additional course each year (depending on the particular teaching needs of the Center). Washington University in St. Louis is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer and especially encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should hold a doctorate in religious studies, politics, anthropology, law, philosophy, theology, American studies, history, Jewish studies, sociology, or another relevant field. Scholars should be engaged in projects centrally concerned with religion and politics in the United States, historically or in the present day.

Application Instructions: Applicants must send all of the following information as a single pdf file to the Center at rap@wustl.edu:

- 1) Cover letter including an overview of the postdoctoral research project
- 2) Current curriculum vitae
- 3) Relevant writing sample (25-35 pages)
- 4) Two undergraduate course proposals (a summary paragraph for each will suffice)

Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of recommendation submitted on their behalf.

Applications are due in full by January 8, 2018. Applicants will be notified of fellowship decisions by March 1, 2018. For more information, contact the Center at (314) 935-9345 or via e-mail at rap@wustl.edu.

Salary Range: Competitive salary commensurate with experience.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/8/2018

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3472

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics - Race, Ethnicity, Inequality

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Applicants should demonstrate expertise in the study of race, ethnicity, and politics, and/or related fields such as inequality, immigration, and identity. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To be considered, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp> for additional information).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01558>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, Inequality).

Review of applications will begin October 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/11/2017

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3457

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Lecturer/Senior Lecturer - Security Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: United States, Political Theory, Defense

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a position as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Security Studies. The candidate should be credentialed in a relevant academic discipline in the social sciences or humanities. The candidate will: teach mid-career military officers from special operations and information operations units across all branches and services of the U.S. Armed Forces and allied countries; advise theses; and conduct research. The candidate must have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in the areas of irregular warfare, campaign design, operational art, and strategic decision-making. Evidence of the ability to pursue a program of innovative research and a strong commitment to graduate and undergraduate education is required. Position responsibilities include teaching, research, and thesis oversight. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for those in lectureship positions ranges from four to six graduate courses per year.

The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, 115 miles south of the heart of San Francisco. NPS provides graduate education to an average at any given time of 1,500 resident military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government.

The Department of Defense Analysis offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to an average of 150 in-residence graduate students, a cross-disciplinary teaching and research faculty of 40 personnel, and three research centers, the Department of Defense Analysis provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A graduate degree in a relevant Social Science or Humanities discipline (e.g., History, International Relations, Law, Political Science, Communications, Journalism, Psychology, Sociology, Anthropology, and similar fields).

- U.S. citizenship is required. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications (Document any relevant experience in these areas as well as your success in the classroom):

- Experience teaching graduate students or upper level undergraduate electives.
- Experience and/or familiarity with the special operations community.
- A successful candidate will demonstrate excellent judgment, effective leadership, strong team-building skills, and pedagogical expertise.

The position is now open. Candidates should submit the following materials to Dr. Sean Everton at sfeverto@nps.edu, email subject heading: "Strategic Studies." Applications will be accepted through December 1, 2017, or until the position is filled, and should include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Three letters of recommendation (that specifically address teaching)
4. Research statement
5. Sample of a published article
6. Teaching statement
7. Teaching portfolio (should include a sample lesson, assignments, or handouts and highly recommended to include a link to a videoed teaching sample)

Dr. Sean Everton, Chair, Security Studies Search Committee, Department of Defense Analysis, 589 Dyer Road, Room 203, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA, 93943.

Do not send paper applications.

Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Relocation expenses, including recruitment/relocation incentive, may be authorized in accordance with applicable regulations.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to: Identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc.)

Additional Veterans' information: If you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://www.dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>. For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3450

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpogzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location:

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration:

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2018 to August 2019. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation:

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- C.V.
- One academic writing sample and one non-academic piece, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Arthur Milikh
Associate Director
B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: arthur.milikh@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3438

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3436

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor-in-Residence

ROLE of the POSITION

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applications from well-qualified individuals for a Faculty-in-Residence position. This position is a full-time (9 month), non-tenure track appointment eligible for annual renewal that will begin in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the First Year Experience Seminar and large sections of PSC 101: Introduction to American Politics, which includes a Nevada Constitution component. The successful applicant also will be expected to teach survey courses in multiple subfields and occasional upper-division courses in Political Science as necessary. The standard teaching load for Faculty-in-Residence position is four courses per semester. While the position is a non-tenure track, annual appointment there is an opportunity for promotion in rank.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science from a regionally accredited college or university and experience teaching introductory and upper-division Political Science courses; evidence of excellence in teaching; and experience in designing and teaching online Political Science courses.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin October 20, 2017 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Dan Lee, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted via on-line application at <https://hrsearch.unlv.edu/>. For assistance with UNLV's on-line applicant portal, contact UNLV Employment Services at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176567538&Title=Political%20Science%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2DIn%2DResidence%2C%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5B18518%5D&aID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3439

American University-SIS

Rank: Two Tenure-Line Professors: Social Networks (Assistant) & Climate Change Politics (Associate or Full)

One Tenure-Track & One Tenured Position
School of International Service
American University

SOCIAL NETWORKS

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR – TENURE-TRACK

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Social Networks. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and begin August 1, 2018. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. or the highest equivalent degree in a relevant discipline by August 2018. Candidates should be scholar-teachers who bring together conceptual and empirical innovations in the investigation of social networks in global, cross-national, regional and/or comparative perspectives. Scholars who come from a wide range of disciplines are especially welcome to apply. SIS is particularly interested in scholars who utilize social network analysis and large-n research approaches and who focus on individual, organizational and/or inter-organizational levels of analysis. Substantive foci of interest include, but are by no means limited to, trans-border migration, economic and social development, policy emergence in global governance, transnational elite reproduction, forced displacement, or the spread and control of infectious diseases. Empirically grounded research on such issues will complement the work of SIS faculty research clusters and interdisciplinary AU 2030 initiatives. Please submit applications via: apply.interfolio.com/44379

CLIMATE CHANGE POLITICS

ASSOCIATE OR FULL PROFESSOR

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University invites candidates, from across the disciplines, with expertise in the politics of global climate change to apply for a tenured position at the Associate or Full professor level.

Areas of particular interest include:

- Climate vulnerability, justice, and adaptation including social movements, the disproportionate impacts of climate change on economically marginalized communities, the distributional consequences of institutional responses, and the social dimensions of adaptation as given by class, race, and gender
- Science/politics/policy interface, knowledge-power, and the exclusionary dynamics and technocratic orientations of institutional responses
- The potential and challenges for renewable energy systems in climate mitigation
- Climate diplomacy, international institution building, and issues of macro-micro interactions
- Climate finance mechanisms and their reception and impacts in developing countries.

Please submit applications via: <https://apply.interfolio.com/44389>

As a school that includes a diversity of scholarly disciplines and approaches, we seek the best candidates without respect to a particular discipline. We seek scholar-teachers whose work is theoretically grounded, empirically tested, and policy relevant. Candidates should demonstrate excellence in research and teaching and commitment to university service. Candidates should share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Housed in a beautiful LEED-Gold certified building which reflects our commitment to sustainability and ecological stewardship, SIS is a diverse and inclusive community of 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. Our offerings feature a comprehensive liberal arts program for undergraduates, professional education in international affairs for Master's students, and a multidisciplinary program for Doctoral students. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis

American University's School of International Service is a top-ten, multi-disciplinary school of international affairs located in Washington, D.C. SIS faculty produce transformational research and prepare our students for global careers in government, nonprofits, and business. Learn more at www.american.edu/sis.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3432

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:
 Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;

* a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

* a curriculum vitae;

* a scholarly paper written in the past three years;

* a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3429

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential “core” of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant’s academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Latino Politics, Political Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor (JOB#12097)

School of Politics and Global Studies

Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. The anticipated start date is August 2018.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master’s and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach (es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 30, 2017; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2018.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9809>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.) A background check is required for employment.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU’s full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3414

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3413

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/16/2017
Date Posted: 9/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3407

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3411

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

Harvard University

Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellows Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JANUARY 17, 2018

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $66,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Harvard University Center for the Environment expects to award approximately six fellowships for the 2018 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend biweekly dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

- Candidates for 2018 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2014 and August 2018. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2018.)
- Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.
- Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.
- Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.
- Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and post-docs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with his or her thesis advisor.
- Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
- Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

1. Please complete the online application form found at <http://environment.harvard.edu/application by> January 17, 2018 and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs:

- a. curriculum vitae including list of publications;
 - b. detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to a Harvard residential environmental fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately). Note: While applicants should discuss the proposal with their potential faculty hosts, the final product should clearly be the work of the applicant; and
 - c. up to three publications/writing samples.
2. Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.
 3. A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining his or her commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space.

Applicants are encouraged to ask their referees and hosts to email letters of reference as PDFs or, if necessary, as Word documents attached to the emails. Referees and hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Jean Gauthier at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

If you have questions about the fellowship or application process, please contact:

Jean Gauthier
Harvard University Center for the Environment
26 Oxford Street, 4th Floor
Cambridge MA 02138
617-495-0368
jgauthier@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/17/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3375

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Political Science, Lecturer Pool

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley invites applications for a pool of qualified temporary lecturers to teach courses in the following areas, should an opening arise: American Politics, California Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology & Formal Theory, Political Theory & Philosophy, Models & Politics, Political Behavior, Public Law & Jurisprudence, and Public Policy & Organization.

The number of positions varies from semester to semester, depending on the needs of the department. Positions may range from 33% to 100% of full-time, depending on the number of classes being taught. Appointments typically start at the beginning of the semester and may be renewable based on need, funding, and performance.

General Duties: In addition to teaching responsibilities, general duties include holding office hours, assigning grades, advising students, preparing course materials (e.g. syllabus), and maintaining a course website.

Basic Qualifications: The minimum qualifications required to be an applicant is a completed Bachelor's Degree (or equivalent degree) by the time of application.

Preferred Qualifications: Completion of all Ph.D. (or equivalent) degree requirements except dissertation at the time of application or, full-time paid political experience of at least 4 years within the last 10 years.

Salary: Salary will be based on applicant's teaching experience, appointment % FTE, and current campus salary scales in place at time of appointment. The current minimum salary for this position would be based on a full-time annual salary of $53,402. Lecturers teaching one course per semesters are typically appointed at a 33% rate.

The department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their teaching. UC Berkeley has an excellent benefits package as well as a number of policies and programs in place to support employees as they balance work and family.

To apply, please go to the following link: <http://apptkr.com/1079578>. Applicants should submit their most recently updated C.V.

The department may later request contact information for 3-5 references, teaching and/or research statements, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as past course syllabi, teaching evaluations, etc., but they are not required at the time of application.

When and if the department contacts references, all letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality (<http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html>) prior to submitting their letters.

Applications will be accepted and reviewed for department needs through September 7, 2018. The department typically reviews applications for fall course needs in April/May, for spring course needs in October/November, and for summer course needs in February/March. Those interested in remaining in the pool after September 7, 2018 will need to reapply.

Please note: The use of a lecturer pool does not guarantee that an open position exists. See the review date specified in AP Recruit to learn whether the department is currently reviewing applications for a specific position. If there is no future review date specified, your application may not be considered at this time.

Please direct questions to Allison Covington at allison.covington@berkeley.edu

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3353

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

Washburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science and Public Administration

Washburn University's Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a 9-month, tenure-track position as an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science/Public Administration. A completed Ph.D. is required for the tenure-track appointment but ABDs will be considered. If the Ph. D. will be earned by December, 2018.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: 1) A Ph.D. in political science with specialized training in public administration (e.g. MPA or public administration as a subfield) or a PhD in public administration with American government as a subfield. 2) The position requires teaching experience or coursework that demonstrates ability to teach core public administration and nonprofit certificate courses to undergraduate public administration majors and political science majors seeking coursework in those fields. The position also requires the ability to teach American government, and courses of the candidate's choice in the field of American government in the areas of institutions, process and or behavior. 3) evidence of university teaching experience and an active research agenda. PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Ability to teach state and local government and or empirical research methods as demonstrated through experience, coursework or teaching experience.

RESPONSIBILITIES: 12 hour teaching load, demonstrated collegiality, strong commitment to undergraduate education, and ability and motivation to engage undergraduates in active research. The position requires the cultivation and maintenance of contacts with state and local government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and relevant interest groups as well as the establishment of internships in the above mentioned organizations. The position further requires working with the rest of the faculty to attempt to grow the size of the public administration major and to participate with the department in program offerings under the auspices of the Washburn Center for Government and public service.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Review of applications begins November 6, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. Send a cover letter, vita, evidence of teaching experience, copies of transcripts, and names/address/phone and e-mail to Mrs. Cathy Tunnell at cathy.tunnell@washburn.edu (use po/pa as the subject line). Only electronic application materials will be accepted. Send questions to Dr. Linsey Moddelmog, chair of the search committee at linsey.moddelmog@washburn.edu. The successful candidate will be required to submit to a background check prior to hire and to submit official transcripts. Washburn University is an EOE. To enrich education through diversity, candidates from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. www.washburn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3346

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajop/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites postdoctoral students who will be completing or will have recently completed a Ph.D. to apply for its Postdoctoral Democracy Fellowship. The Democracy Fellowships aim to support postdoctoral scholars whose research illuminates aspects of democratic governance in ways that are innovative and push the boundaries of their academic disciplines, whether political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. Furthermore, their research should have the potential for normative or practical relevance regarding urgent substantive policy or social problems related to democratic governance.

Postdoctoral Fellows join the Ash Center's academic community and participate in the Democracy Fellows weekly seminar. The fellowship provides time and space for the fellows to work on preparing either a book manuscript based on their dissertation or related academic publications.

For more information about the fellowship, eligibility, benefits, and the online application, please visit our fellowship homepage <http://ash.harvard.edu/democracy-postdoctoral-fellowships>

Applications are due by October 4, 2017, for the 2018-2020 academic years.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/4/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3317

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of political theory beginning in the fall of 2018.

The area of specialization is open, but the successful candidate should be able to teach courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. We also strongly prefer a candidate who is willing and able to teach graduate-level courses for our growing Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered, but all degree requirements should be completed by August 1, 2018.
- Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Responsibilities:

Teaching duties may include Introduction to Political Theory, American National Government, Classical and Medieval Political Thought, Modern Political Thought, American Political Thought, Executive Process, and other upper-level courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. Teaching courses for the MPA program is also expected.

The successful candidate will also be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching.

Special Instruction to Applicants:

Applicants should apply online at <https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/7109>

All applicants should submit 1) a cover letter, 2) a current CV, 3) statement of teaching and research, 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness, 5) transcripts, and 6) one writing sample.

Three letters of recommendations should be directly mailed to: Dr. Choong-Nam Kang, Chair, Department of Political Science and Sociology, Faculty Hall 5A, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Murray State University is an equal education and employment opportunity, M/F/D, AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3323

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in the study of American Politics for a tenured appointment at the Associate or Full Professor rank. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 15, 2017. We will accept applications until we fill the position. Interested applicants should submit a cover letter and curriculum vitae electronically here: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44363>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3321

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Psychology

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. American Politics scholars with expertise in political behavior, political psychology, race and ethnicity, interest groups and parties, or media and politics are especially welcome. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust interest to teach Introduction to U.S. Government, as well as upper-level electives in their fields of concentration. The teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 course preparations per year. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens. (discussed during orientation meeting)

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in one of the following areas: political behavior, political psychology, race and ethnicity, interest groups and parties, or media and politics.

Additional information for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciAP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3318

SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Seton Hall University is seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. The appointment begins in Fall of 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (e.g., Government) is required. In addition to the Ph.D., a J.D. would be helpful but is not required.

The ideal candidate will be expected to teach courses in public law and American politics, such as Introduction to U.S. Law, Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, The Judicial System, and U.S. Politics. The ability to teach research methods is a plus. The normal teaching load is three courses per semester. In addition, the successful applicant will be expected to advise pre-law students.

Relevant published research and teaching interests should reflect innovative and discipline-specific topics. Candidates are encouraged to forward examples of current research and published papers.

For consideration, please submit a letter of application focusing on teaching experience and philosophy, curriculum vitae, and the names, addresses (including e-mail), and telephone numbers of three references at:

<http://jobs.shu.edu/cw/en-us/job/493063/assistant-professor-for-political-science-department>

Thank you for your interest in working with Seton Hall University. All applicants must create an online application to be considered for any open position.

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs is comprised of an undergraduate political science major, an undergraduate minor in philanthropy and the nonprofit sector, and the MPA program. The MPA program has concentrations in Public Sector Management, Health Policy and Nonprofit Management, which has been consistently nationally ranked by U.S. News & World Report. Our department's outstanding Faculty have diverse backgrounds in political science, public administration, economics, and nonprofit management and opportunities for collaboration abound within a supportive and collegial environment.

Seton Hall University is the oldest U.S. Diocesan University, providing academic excellence to its students for over 150 years. Applicants should understand Seton Hall's Catholic Mission, see (http://www.shu.edu/catholic_mission/index.cfm). The university is located 14 miles southwest of New York City and offers students the resources of a large university and the attention of a small college.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3307

American University

Rank: American Politics, Tenure-track, Assistant Professor

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2018. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2018.

The Department is looking to hire someone who studies legislative institutions in the subfield of American politics. The Department is especially interested in candidates who have a substantive interest in critical policy issues of the day, such as representation, voting rights, economic policy, human security, urban policy, and immigration.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43149>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, recent teaching evaluations (when possible) and three letters of recommendation. If you have any questions, please email govsearch@american.edu.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3298

Northwestern University

Rank: American Politics-US Law/Courts

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Development, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Northwestern University invites applications for a faculty position in the field of American Politics/institutions at the rank of assistant professor.

The department seeks candidates specializing in law/courts, open as to approach (jurisprudence, quantitative analysis, American Political Development, Race Ethnicity and Politics). The successful applicant will join a department with a strong consensus view of political science as a multi-method discipline.

Applications received by October 13, 2017 will be guaranteed full consideration. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. The proposed starting date is September, 2018.

Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, a letter of interest, writing sample, 3 letters of reference and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Applications and supporting documents will be accepted only by online submission at <http://www.polisci.northwestern.edu/about/faculty-searches.html>. For questions and assistance, please contact Jill Rubin Decremar at j-rubin4@northwestern.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3300

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in American politics with a focus on race or American political development starting in August 2018. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans and teaching interests; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3296

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field at the rank of tenured Associate Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Successful candidates must hold a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, contact information for at least three independent reviewers, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information about the required diversity statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applc-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01512>) for position: Associate Professor of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 22, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3276

University of Montana

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor, Public Administration

UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA; Lecturer in Public Administration

The University of Montana invites applications for a Lecturer in Public Administration with the appointment beginning January 2018. The position is renewable for up to three years, contingent upon funding and performance reviews. The Master of Public Administration is one of the most successful graduate programs in the College of Humanities and Sciences at UM, attracting both in-state and out-of-state students. The successful candidate will be expected to teach public administration courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels online and in-person. The area of expertise in public administration is open; however, applicants with an interest in American Government, policy analysis, public administration ethics, program evaluation, public administration research methods, human resource management, and/or performance measurement are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to applicants who can demonstrate promise of excellence in teaching campus and online courses, commitment to professional service, and promise of high-quality scholarship.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Administration is expected by date of hire.

How to Apply

Priority Application Deadline: September 30, 2017.

Applications received by 9/30 will be guaranteed consideration. Application review will begin on 10/1/17 and continue until the position is filled.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below. Applications must be submitted via the UM Jobs system at <https://umjobs.silkroad.com>.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below.

*Please note: only five (5) attachments are allowed per application. Please combine documents accordingly.

- Letter of Interest – addressing qualifications (including research interests, ability to teach online and in person)
- Detailed curriculum vita
- Official graduate transcripts
- Teaching Evaluations
- Professional References – names and contact information for three (3) professional references.

For additional information, please contact Professor Sara Rinfret, MPA Director (sara.rinfret@umontana.edu).

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3264

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Congress, Presidency, American Politics

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Western Carolina University is searching for a tenure-track assistant professor in American politics, with particular emphasis on Congress and the Presidency. The successful candidate will contribute to the Political Science program by teaching six courses per year (including a course in Congress, a course in the American Presidency, and sections of American Government and Politics—a key component of our university's general education program), contributing to the discipline through publications and research activity, and conducting service appropriate for the position. The ideal candidate will have independent teaching experience at the university level, a promising research trajectory, and a doctorate in Political Science or a related field from an accredited institution. Exceptional ABD candidates will also be considered. The position begins August, 2018 and the salary is competitive.

All applications must be made online.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit vita, cover letter (which should address teaching and research), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, and the names and contact information for three references.

Please do not send individual reference letters at this stage. For more information about the department please visit our website at <http://politicalscience.wcu.edu>.

Western Carolina University (WCU) is a 10,000-student campus in the University of North Carolina system that offers 120 areas of study for undergraduates and more than 50 graduate-level programs. The campus is located in the picturesque Cullowhee valley between the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, 50 miles west of Asheville, North Carolina, and 150 miles northeast of Atlanta. The Western North Carolina region is noted for its excellent quality of life and access to outdoor activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3271

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Congress, Presidency, American Politics

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Western Carolina University is searching for a tenure-track assistant professor in American politics, with particular emphasis on Congress and the Presidency. The successful candidate will contribute to the Political Science program by teaching six courses per year (including a course in Congress, a course in the American Presidency, and sections of American Government and Politics—a key component of our university's general education program), contributing to the discipline through publications and research activity, and conducting service appropriate for the position. The ideal candidate will have independent teaching experience at the university level, a promising research trajectory, and a doctorate in Political Science or a related field from an accredited institution. Exceptional ABD candidates will also be considered. The position begins August, 2018 and the salary is competitive.

All applications must be made online at this address: <http://jobs.wcu.edu/postings/7498>

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit vita, cover letter (which should address teaching and research), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, and the names and contact information for three references.

Please do not send individual reference letters at this stage. For more information about the department please visit our website at <http://politicalscience.wcu.edu>.

Western Carolina University (WCU) is a 10,000-student campus in the University of North Carolina system that offers 120 areas of study for undergraduates and more than 50 graduate-level programs. The campus is located in the picturesque Cullowhee valley between the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, 50 miles west of Asheville, North Carolina, and 150 miles northeast of Atlanta. The Western North Carolina region is noted for its excellent quality of life and access to outdoor activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3272

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor – American Politics

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus and methodological approach. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field; applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and letters of recommendation from at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44024. Questions may be sent to: Brendan.Nyhan@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3251

Miami University

Rank: Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies

Specializations: Latino Politics, Latin American, Foreign Policy

Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies with a focus on the U.S., Latinidad, and the Américas to link the Latina/o experience in the United States to Latin American and Caribbean countries of origin. Among the ways to make those links could be through consideration of transnational processes, diasporic networks, global economic developments, remittances, US and Latin American foreign policies, immigration policy (in both U.S. and in sending countries), long distance nationalism, border relations, cultural practice and change, hometown associations, or cross-border organizing. We are also interested in those who engage issues of race and racialization of Latino/as in the US, as well as critical race/ethnic studies approaches to Afro-Latino/as and Afro-Latinidad. We are particularly interested in interdisciplinary scholars with research experience grounded both in the United States and in Latin America or the Caribbean. The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching, research, and service to the department, college, and university.

Require: Ph.D. in Latin American Studies, anthropology, geography, history, political science, languages, and literatures, or a closely related field, by date of appointment.

Consideration will be given to those with native or near-native fluency in Spanish; commitment to diverse curricula in the Department of Global and Intercultural Studies, potentially contributing to interdisciplinary teaching and research in the department's multiple programs: American Studies; Asian and Asian American Studies; Black World Studies; International Studies; Latin American, Latino/a and Caribbean Studies; and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Submit cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4623>.

For inquiries about the position, contact Jana Braziel at braziej@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3249

Temple University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Constitutional Law/Law and Society/American Political Development

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Social Movements, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track position in constitutional law/law and society and/or American Political Development for an appointment beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates pursuing a program of theoretically-informed empirical research on constitutional law, law and society, with a preference for approaches in American Political Development. We especially encourage candidates who are able to teach courses on legal ethics, legal institutions and social movements to apply.

The Political Science Department at Temple University has a strong, research-active faculty, a large undergraduate major, and robust M.A. and Ph.D. programs. We are affiliated with Global Studies and a new Master's in Public Policy program. Temple University is also home to the Beasley School of Law.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching. Evidence of external grant/fellowship support is a plus. Temple University, an urban research university in the heart of Philadelphia, values those who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues. Candidates at the entry level are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to our Interfolio link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44153>. Dossiers will be reviewed as they arrive, but to guarantee full consideration, applications must be received by September 30, 2017. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3248

University of Kansas

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics & Policy

The University of Kansas Political Science Department invites candidates to apply for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level in Political Science. We are interested in candidates whose work focuses on American Politics and Public Policy. The position provides collaborative research opportunities, which may include participation in interdisciplinary centers – Center for Research Methods and Data Analysis, Institute for Policy and Social Research. The position is expected to begin as early as August 18, 2018. The faculty member will be expected to research, write, and publish in American Politics and Public Policy; develop and teach courses in American Politics and Public Policy; serve on graduate student committees, direct theses and dissertations, and perform advising responsibilities; and serve on departmental, College, and University committees, and engage in professional service activities.

The University of Kansas is particularly interested in hiring faculty members who can contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, including a diversity of scholarly approaches, and four key campus-wide strategic initiatives: (1) Sustaining the Planet, Powering the World; (2) Promoting Well-Being, Finding Cures; (3) Building Communities, Expanding Opportunities; and (4) Harnessing Information, Multiplying Knowledge. For more information see <http://www.provost.ku.edu/strategic-plan/initiatives>.

We especially encourage woman and minorities to apply.

KU is a Research 1 (RU/VH) institution, the flagship of the Kansas system, and a member of the AAU. It is located in Lawrence, a thriving and progressive community a short drive from Kansas City.

Qualifications:

1. A Ph.D. in Political Science from an accredited school is expected by the start date of the appointment (08-18-2018).
2. Demonstrated ability to work in interdisciplinary and collaborative environments.
3. A proven record or demonstration for high potential in research and publications. Should demonstrate mastery of mathematical and computing skills that are requisite to success in the field of political methodology.
4. Demonstrated ability to teach effectively at undergraduate and graduate levels.

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/9684BR> or <https://employment.ku.edu> and click “Search Faculty Jobs”; search by key word [AMERICAN POLITICS]. A complete online application includes the following materials: cover letter, curriculum vitae, research samples, proof of teaching experience (e.g. course evaluations), and letters of recommendation from three professional references.

Initial review of applications will begin October 1, 2017 and will continue as long as needed to identify a qualified pool. EOE M/F/D/V.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3247

University of North Florida - Jacksonville

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH FLORIDA: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Florida seeks candidates for a tenure track appointment as an assistant professor in American politics and government beginning in August 2018. The field in American Politics is open. The department does have curricular needs in state and local government and research methods. The department also welcomes the use of innovative teaching technologies including distance learning and hybrid classes. Candidates should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research. The teaching load is three courses per semester. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or a related discipline is required by August 2018.

Applicants MUST complete an application ONLINE in OASYS at <http://www.unfjobs.org>

Applicants must attach the following required documents to be considered for this position.

- (1) a letter of interest stating teaching interests and research plans
- (2) a complete curriculum vitae
- (3) graduate school transcripts*
- (4) one sample of research and writing
- (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness
- (6) three current professional letters of recommendation

*Official transcripts are required by the time of employment

If the applicant is unable to attach the letters of recommendation with the application, they can be emailed to: Americanpolitics@unf.edu

Review of applications will begin October 13, 2017. This position will be considered open until filled.

UNF enrolls about 17,000 students and is located in Jacksonville, Florida, a rapidly growing metropolitan area with a population of over one million. Jacksonville is part of northeastern Florida's historic "First Coast" and there are significant historical, cultural, and recreational resources in the immediate area including access to rivers and beaches. Further information is available at www.unf.edu/coas/pspa.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3225

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with expertise in identity and politics for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor or a tenured appointment as Associate Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach and subfield. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 30, 2017, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 2018.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and teaching evaluations (if applicable) via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43729>. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level should have three letters of reference uploaded electronically to Interfolio.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3230

Claremont Graduate University

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in American Politics (Behavior, APD, Law, Gender)

Claremont Graduate University's School of Social Science, Policy and Evaluation invites applications for a tenured/tenure-track position in American Politics, focusing on Political Behavior, American Political Development, Gender in Politics, and/or Law and Politics, beginning Fall of 2018. We are particularly interested in someone at the level of an advanced Assistant Professor or beginning Associate Professor. CGU's Department of Politics and Policy offers only graduate-level degrees: the PhD in Political Science and several MA degrees including the MA in Politics (with emphases in American and in Political Philosophy), the MA in Religion and Politics, and the MA in Public Policy.

In keeping with CGU's graduate-only focus, applicants should hold a PhD in Political Science and should show successful experience working with doctoral students to complete their dissertations in a timely way and to assist them in publication. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester, and the successful candidate should be prepared to teach graduate-level core American courses such as American Political Behavior, Representation and Elections, American Political Development, Perspectives on Judicial Power, Women and the Political Process, etc. We expect that the successful candidate will be expert in the use of appropriate research methods such as experimental research, survey research, legal research, etc. CGU is a small university with a focus on transdisciplinarity, and therefore applicants with interests beyond one field are appreciated.

CGU is affiliated with five undergraduate colleges via the Claremont University Consortium. Joint research opportunities and teaching with the Claremont colleges may be possible.

Applicants should submit a letter discussing their interest in the position and how they could contribute to Political Science at CGU, a CV, a diversity statement (see below), and the names of three or five references to dpsresearch@cgu.edu (those applying for a tenured position should submit 5). Consideration of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Any questions should be directed to Eliana Leon, Eliana.leon@cgu.edu.

CGU is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion, ancestry, sex, gender identity and expression, age, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, marital status, or any other basis protected by applicable laws in its employment or hiring practices.

Further, Claremont Graduate University is committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Applicants who have a demonstrated commitment to issues of diversity and inclusion are particularly encouraged to apply as are individuals who have membership in one or more of the following groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding: Alaska Natives, American Indians, Blacks/African Americans, Mexican Americans/Chicanas/Chicanos, Native Hawaiians and Other Pacific Islanders, and Puerto Ricans.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3210

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences

Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of American Politics

The University of Virginia's Department of Politics invites applications for two open-rank positions in American Politics. The Department of Politics is committed to methodological pluralism. Successful candidates must demonstrate in written or published work deep immersion and significant contributions to an important area of politics and government of the United States. For appointments at the associate or full professor level, candidates must have a record of published work appropriate for each rank. For appointments at the assistant rank, we seek candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers.

Review of applications for both positions will begin on September 15, 2017. The positions will remain open until filled.

The anticipated appointment start date will begin in July 2018. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. Applicants at the associate or full professor rank must hold a PhD at the time of application and must have an outstanding publication and teaching record. We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for, mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>. Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVA & Charlottesville <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVA and living in and near Charlottesville.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through jobs@uva(<https://jobs.virginia.edu>). Search on posting number 0621407 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, candidates at the assistant professor level should have three letters of reference sent to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@eservices.virginia.edu).

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@eservices.virginia.edu). The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3203

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of Environmental Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in Environmental Politics at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. We welcome applications from candidates in any - or some mix - of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries.

This position, located in the Department of Politics, is part of a cross-disciplinary initiative focused on integrating social, political, cultural, and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty across the University of Virginia. The successful candidate will be involved with the University's new Environmental Resilience Institute.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Successful candidates must demonstrate, in written or published work, deep engagement with and significant contributions to an important area of environmental politics. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. For appointments at the assistant rank, we prefer candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold the PhD at the time of application and must demonstrate an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVA: <https://jobs.virginia.edu>. Search on posting number 0621502 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, applicants for the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2018, with an anticipated start date of July 2018.

Questions regarding the application process in Jobs@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia assists UVa faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see: <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3198

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, pending budgetary approval. Qualified candidates will have a research focus on institutions, broadly defined. We seek candidates whose work is innovative, theoretically driven and/or methodologically sophisticated, and we particularly welcome candidates whose interests complement our existing strengths in representation, diversity, political parties, or political economy.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer of 2018. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference. For each reference, you will have the opportunity to input a personal email address or an email address generated through Interfolio's Online Application Delivery. In both cases, an email notification will be sent to the designated address with instructions about uploading letters of recommendation into our system. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTky>. Review of applications will be on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3185

Wichita State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Wichita State University invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the assistant professor level, to begin August 2018. Candidates should have completed their PhD by the time of appointment, have quantitative analytical skills, a demonstrated teaching effectiveness, the potential for scholarly publications, effective written and oral communication skills, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity. Preferred candidates will have the ability and willingness to teach an undergraduate quantitative methods course, willingness to teach periodic online/hybrid courses, and/or an interest in providing occasional Honors College course offerings. Teaching responsibilities will include: A variety of undergraduate American Politics courses, including introductory American Politics, as well as a course on quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The selected candidate will have the opportunity and the responsibility to help shape and enhance the curriculum of the American Politics offerings in the department. Wichita State University has a diverse student body with a large number of non-traditional students and an enrollment of approximately 14,400. Wichita is a thriving and expanding community of 600,000. The Political Science department offers BA degrees and has approximately 70 majors and five faculty members. Salary is competitive. Consideration of applications will begin September 29 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample at <http://jobs.wichita.edu>. For assistance with online submission, employment@wichita.edu (316) 978-3065.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3192

Lewis-Clark State College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Social Sciences Program at Lewis-Clark State College (LCSC), in Lewiston, Idaho, invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Science. The start date is August 14, 2018, and the beginning salary range is $48,000-$50,000.

The successful candidate will teach courses in American politics -- including Introduction to American Politics -- as well as multiple sections of an interdisciplinary General Education capstone on ethics and values. It is required that candidates have a demonstrated ability to offer courses on Congress and the Presidency as well as in one or more of the following areas: gender and politics, race and politics, environmental politics/policy, and/or public policy. Some online teaching will be expected.

Candidates must have a doctorate in Political Science by the initial date of their employment. Current ABD applicants will be considered provided completion of the doctorate by the start date.

A small undergraduate institution of about 3,600 students, LCSC emphasizes quality instruction. The teaching load is 24 credits per year (about eight classes). Advising, professional development, and institutional service are required.

The benefit package for fulltime faculty members includes reduced tuition for employees and eligible dependents; medical/dental/vision coverage; life insurance; short/long term disability; and no-cost access to the campus fitness center and many on-campus events.

Lewiston is located at the confluence of the Snake and Clearwater Rivers in the Lewis-Clark Valley. Winters are generally mild, and there is an abundance of outdoor recreational activities. The Valley's amenities include a community theater, several museums, over two dozen public parks, and a cost of living below the national average.

To apply:

- (1) A letter of interest, current vita, statement of teaching philosophy, description of research interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness should be submitted to <https://lcsc.applicantpro.com/jobs/>
- (2) Three letters of recommendation should be emailed to hr@lcsc.edu by the authors or a dossier service
- (3) Official graduate transcripts should be emailed to hr@lcsc.edu

Application review will begin September 30, 2017. The position is subject to the successful completion of a criminal background check. LCSC is an EEO/AA/VETS employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/10/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3178

Saint Mary's College of California

Rank: American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Africa, East Asia

Saint Mary's College of California invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in the Department of Politics. The position is for an Americanist to join our collegial department of passionate and active teacher/scholars. The ideal candidate will have the ability to teach introductory and upper division courses on executive and legislative politics at the federal, state, and local levels, and other courses that fit with the candidate's substantive interests. We have a particular interest in recruiting candidates who can develop courses to strengthen the diversity of our curriculum, and to work with a highly diverse student body. We prefer candidates with a secondary specialization in African or Asian politics, and those who have the ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

Consistent with Saint Mary's College's commitment to inclusive excellence, the Politics Department strives to be an inclusive community that fosters respect and belonging for faculty and students of diverse backgrounds and identities. We seek a candidate who can engage, advocate for and support students of color, women, and underrepresented groups.

Saint Mary's College of California is a private, Catholic, comprehensive and co-educational university that engages students in rigorous critical thinking, promotes social justice, and educates the whole person for human fulfillment. Recognized among just forty exceptional institutions in Colleges That Change Lives – and the first Catholic and first California college to be included – Saint Mary's is praised for its challenging and supportive learning community.

The De La Salle Christian Brothers, the largest teaching order of the Roman Catholic Church, guide the spiritual and academic character of the College. Located on a stunning 420-acre campus in the Moraga Hills outside of San Francisco, Saint Mary's currently enrolls approximately 4,000 highly diverse students. For more information about Saint Mary's mission and history, see: <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/about-smc/our-mission>.

Responsibilities: All Saint Mary's faculty are invited to engage with and contribute to the Catholic, Lasallian and Liberal Arts traditions of the College through their teaching, scholarship and service. The standard teaching assignment is six courses per year, including departmental offerings and contributions to College-wide programs (January Term and Collegiate Seminar). In the department, the successful candidate will teach courses such as Introduction to American Politics, Presidency and Congress, Political Parties and Pressure Groups, Elections and Voting Behavior, State and Urban Politics, and other courses based on the candidate's expertise. Saint Mary's faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarly agenda and demonstrate intellectual growth and significant achievement appropriate to their field. All faculty also contribute service to the College and community, including academic advising, and participation in the shared governance of the College through departmental and College-wide committees and the development and assessment of the College's Core Curriculum. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or related field or doctoral candidacy focused on U.S. executive and legislative politics, with expectation of degree by July 1, 2018; demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching in the liberal arts tradition; evidence of potential for teaching effectiveness, particularly among a diverse body of undergraduates; ability to engage in scholarship and professional activity at the national (or international) level.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience teaching politics courses and evidence of effectiveness in teaching; promise of significant scholarly achievement; demonstrated commitment and success working in diverse, multicultural contexts, especially in higher education settings; qualified to teach a course in African or Asian politics; interest in developing courses that strengthen the diversity of the curriculum; ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

TO APPLY:

1. Please apply on-line at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43640>
2. A complete application includes a letter of interest, explaining how your qualifications satisfy the position requirements and addressing how you are prepared to support the Mission of the College; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; evidence of teaching effectiveness thus far; and a writing sample.
3. In applying for a position, candidates sign a consent form authorizing a broader inquiry.
4. For finalists, the College will contact references, in confidence, and credentials will be confirmed prior to hire.
5. Questions should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Ronald Ahnen, Chair of Politics Department at rahn@stmarys-ca.edu.

Deadline: Consideration and review of applications will begin immediately. Applications submitted after October 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Mary's College annually collects information about campus crimes and other reportable incidents in accordance with the federal Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. To view the Saint Mary's College Report, please go to the Public Safety website at <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/public-safety/annual-security-and-fire-safety-report-0>. To request a paper copy please call Public Safety at (925) 631-4284. The report includes the type of crime, venue, and number of occurrences.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3183

Brandeis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and the Department of African and Afro-American Studies (AAAS) at Brandeis University invite applications for a full-time, joint, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in African-American Politics. The successful candidate's term will begin in the Fall of 2018.

We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on African-American politics with an ability to engage in the experiences of other peoples of African descent and other communities of color. We encourage applicants with teaching and research interests in, for example, one or more of the following areas: campaigns and elections, political behavior, state and local politics, judicial and criminal justice politics and policies, including incarceration related issues, immigration, and public/social policy.

We prefer candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D. in African-American Studies with extensive and broad training in political science. Candidates must show evidence of teaching excellence to qualify for consideration. The course load is 2/2: one course in AAAS and one course in the Politics Department every semester. Candidates will have the opportunity to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Service expectations will be shared equally between both departments. Qualified applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings, a chapter or article length writing sample, and three letters of reference electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9495> First consideration will be given to applications received by October 16, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to: Carina Ray (Interim Chair, AAAS; cer15@brandeis.edu) or Daniel Kryder (Politics; kryder@brandeis.edu), Co-Chairs, Search Committee on African-American Politics.

Brandeis University is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. Diversity in its student body, staff and faculty is important to Brandeis' primary mission of providing a quality education. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their creative endeavors, teaching and/or service experiences, will increase Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and better prepare its students for a pluralistic society.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3166

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

Cornell University

Rank: Endowed Professorship in American Politics

Cornell University invites applications for an endowed professorship in American politics, for a position beginning July 1, 2018. We seek to hire an individual with a distinguished record of scholarship and a strong commitment to teaching. We are interested in mid-career scholars with unusual promise as well as in established senior candidates.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9501>. We also welcome nominations, which can be submitted to Ms. Jerrica Brown, jc2322@cornell.edu. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and under-represented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3158

San Francisco State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Research Methods

San Francisco State University, Department of Political Science seeks applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics – U.S. institutions and quantitative methods, beginning August 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science by August 2018 is required.

The position requires undergraduate and graduate teaching in the Congress, the Presidency, and an upper-division undergraduate course on research design and data analysis. Salary commensurate with qualifications.

SF State serves a diverse student body with a mission to promote scholarship, diversity, instructional excellence and intellectual accomplishment. Our goal is to attract a world-class and diverse faculty committed to build a multicultural educational environment. Faculty are expected to be effective teachers, demonstrate professional achievement and growth through research, publications and/or creative activities, and engage in service to the campus and community. Review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

Submit (1) a letter of application, (2) CV, (3) a statement of teaching philosophy and research interests, (4) three letters of recommendation, (5) a writing sample, (6) academic transcripts, and (7) your course syllabi and teaching evaluations, if available. If files are submitted separately, then please clearly label each. Submit materials as email attachments to sfsuplsi2017@gmail.com by October 1st. Review of applications will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries should be sent to Francis Neely, Co-Chair, at fneely@sfsu.edu. Position description available at <http://politicalscience.sfsu.edu/position-announcement-0>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3150

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American Politics and Research Methods

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American politics beginning the 2018-19 academic year. We seek candidates who are broadly trained in American politics and who are qualified to teach undergraduate research methods. The teaching expectations include an introductory survey course in American government, courses in American political institutions (congress, the presidency), and courses in one or more of the following areas: ethnic/minority politics, domestic political economy, public opinion and mass media, and state and local politics. The position also includes participation in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. PhDs and/or ABDs who have made substantial progress toward completion of the dissertation are welcome to apply.

Hope College is a Christian, co-educational, residential liberal arts college affiliated with the Reformed Church in America. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and goals of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the historic Christian faith.

Application materials are to be submitted electronically as part of the online application (<http://www.hope.edu/employment/faculty>). Applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, copies of undergraduate and graduate school transcripts (unofficial versions are acceptable at this stage), a statement of how the candidate's background and interests can contribute to the mission of the college, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching competency. In addition, please enter the contact information for three references on the application. Those references will be contacted by Human Resources to submit a letter of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on September 30th, and will continue until the position is filled. Any questions regarding the opening may be directed to David Ryden, departmental chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 50 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruienza Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3154

Baruch College, CUNY

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Baruch College's Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure track position as assistant professor in the field of Public Policy, open with regard to geographic and topical specialization within public policy. The position will begin in the fall semester 2018.

Baruch, a flagship college of the City University of New York, is located in the historic Gramercy Park district of Manhattan.

In the last several years, Baruch has emphasized recruitment of underrepresented groups, and has achieved success in this area. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or related field at time of appointment and an active research agenda. Proficiency in quantitative research methods is appreciated, as is experience or interest in teaching in online or hybrid formats.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

STEP ONE - Copy and paste the link below into your browser:
https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=17222&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

To be considered for this position, please submit your application online by clicking on "Apply Now". Candidates should provide a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, CV, writing samples, and (if applicable) any formal evaluations of teaching performance.

STEP TWO - Go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/>
 All applicants are required to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted electronically by their references as described below.

Please go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> and enter the contact information for three (3) references. The online system will automatically send your references a request to submit a letter via the system. Full instructions will be provided.

Emailed or hard copy applications will not be considered.

If you have any questions, please contact HR at 646-660-6590

CLOSING DATE

Review of resumes begins on August 17, 2017; to ensure consideration, please apply by October 1, 2017.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3136

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME. The Program of Liberal Studies (PLS) seeks to hire a tenure-track, assistant professor in political science (AOS/AOC: Political and Social Theory), beginning August 2018. PLS is a Great Books department with 150 undergraduate majors. Founded in 1950, it has its own tenure-line faculty drawn from various disciplines and committed to an integrated program of studies. Undergraduate teaching responsibility will be a 2-2 course load, including the Program's Great Books seminars plus a course in political and social theory. The candidate will be expected to design the course to fit into the Program's integrated curriculum and to focus on primary texts in three principal areas: ancient (e.g., Aristotle's Politics), early modern (e.g., Locke's Second Treatise), and contemporary political philosophy and social theory. The candidate may also contribute to other disciplinary-based courses in the department as appropriate. See our website, <http://pls.nd.edu>, for current course descriptions.

Ph.D. required. Strong publication program, evidence of superior teaching, and a commitment to undergraduate education expected. Salary and research support more than competitive.

The University of Notre Dame seeks to attract, develop, and retain the highest quality faculty, staff and administration. The University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and is committed to building a culturally diverse workplace. We strongly encourage applications from female and minority candidates and others who will enhance our community. Moreover, Notre Dame prohibits discrimination against veterans or disabled qualified individuals, and requires affirmative action by covered contractors to employ and advance veterans and qualified individuals with disabilities in compliance with 41 CFR 60-741.5(a) and 41 CFR 60-300.5(a).

Before applying, candidates are advised to consult the department description on our website (<http://pls.nd.edu>) and the university mission statement (<https://www.nd.edu/about/mission-statement>). Catholics are strongly encouraged to apply. Please submit letter, CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a brief writing sample. Deadline: September 22, 2017.

This institution is using Interfolio's ByCommittee to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge. <http://apply.interfolio.com/43720>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3138

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of American Politics/Political Behavior. We seek a scholar doing research on U.S. politics in one or more of the following areas of political behavior: public opinion, elections, political psychology, political communications, political parties, and social movements. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the time of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://uscscareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-american-politics-political-behavior/1209/5281327>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3142

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Big Data for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor

Political Science: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Big Data for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-2019 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level teaching, including the introduction to American Government and other advanced courses that contribute to the department's programs (a class specifically on "big data" and analytic approaches to studying politics is desirable); conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in the efforts of the university's Center for Analytics and Data Science.

Required: Ph.D. (by date of appointment) in political science, public policy, or a related field

Consideration will be given to those with experience including but not limited to techniques such as statistical or machine learning, natural language processing, advanced hierarchical or structural equation modeling, network analysis, text as data methods, or other techniques involving large quantities of or rapidly accumulating data. This colleague would use these techniques to address a substantive policy area or areas such as political behavior, political marketing and communication, Congress, Public Opinion, Parties, Campaigns and Elections, or others.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4588>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3128

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is seeking to hire a Full or Associate Professor with expertise in American Politics. The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M is a doctoral level department with an active research-oriented faculty. The department is particularly interested in identifying individuals who could exercise a leadership role in the department's research programs in Political Behavior & Institutions, Political Economy & Political Violence and/or a university-wide initiative related to democracy. Ph.D. is required. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Indeed, the ideal candidate would possess a research profile (quality, output, and influence) that would make them competitive for an endowed faculty position, subject to approvals. The starting date for this position is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18th, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3132

Bethany College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

TWO positions for Assistant Professor; tenure-track. The Department of History and Political Science at Bethany College seeks to fill two tenure-track positions starting 2018-2019. The primary field for one position should be in American politics including constitutional law, American Political Development, American institutions broadly defined, judicial politics, or American foreign policy. The primary field for the second position should be in Comparative or International Politics broadly understood. We would prefer candidates who can contribute to institutional initiatives in pre-law advising, environmental politics and policy, or public health. The ability to lead short-term study abroad programs and/or to teach courses in social sciences statistics or research methods would be a significant plus. Each successful candidate will be expected to contribute courses to at least two subfields of the discipline and/or an interdisciplinary international relations program. Candidates should demonstrate how their research and teaching brings an integrative perspective to bear on the study of politics, society, and social change.

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to liberal arts education and to engaging students in active undergraduate research. Bethany faculty are expected to make contributions to student advising, program assessment, committee service, and student recruitment and retention.

Both positions will commence in August 2018.

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field preferred, ABD considered; teaching experience is essential. There is the possibility of appointment at an advanced Assistant Professor level if qualifications and time in rank merit.

Bethany is a private, liberal arts, church-affiliated college with an enrollment of approximately 700 students. Bethany College is located on a picturesque and historic 1,300-acre campus in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia, approximately 40 miles west of Pittsburgh. Founded in 1840, Bethany is West Virginia's oldest private college.

Please provide letter of application, CV, statement of teaching interests, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and unofficial copies of both graduate and undergraduate transcripts via email to doffaculty@bethanywv.edu and reference Political Science search in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. We do plan to complete this process in the fall semester so candidates are strongly urged to apply on time. We will be interviewing strong candidates at the American Political Science Association annual meeting in San Francisco (Thursday and Friday only). Please email CV to Dr. Joe Lane (Provost) at doffaculty@bethanywv.edu note "request an interview at APSA" in the subject line.

Bethany College seeks a diverse faculty and staff. Bethany is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3102

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Data Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Data Analytics Program of the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of data analytics.

A successful candidate will have research and teaching focused on applying modern data analytic skills to find solutions to important public policy problems. The successful applicant will have skills in statistical inference, R, Python, and modern data analytics techniques such as machine learning, cloud computing, distributed computing, network analysis, and text analysis. A Ph.D. in political science, policy, statistics, computer science, economics, or related fields is expected by the appointment date.

Georgetown established the McCourt School in 2013 with a generous naming gift from Frank McCourt that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9415>. The position is pending final Board approval, which we expect soon. The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3105

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor/ associate professor in the field of public management.

The School has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching expertise focus on applying innovative research on management to find solutions to important public policy problems. We are open to applicants whose work focuses on either domestic or international/comparative management.

We expect the applicant to have a Ph.D. by the time they start; the Ph.D. could be in political science, public administration, policy, sociology, economics or related fields.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9413>. The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. A small number of candidates may be interviewed at the American Political Science Association meeting in San Francisco. Applicants who submit their applications by August 25th who wish to be considered for APSA interviews should indicate their availability in their cover letter.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3104

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Political, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3115

University of Rochester

Rank: American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in any area of American Politics. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3094

University of Rochester

Rank: Race and Ethnic Politics/ American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications from candidates working in any area of African-American politics, Asian-American politics, Latina/Latino-American politics, Native American politics, or other areas in American race and ethnic politics, for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3098

Lake Forest College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Politics (Tenure Track)

The Lake Forest College Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in American politics, to begin August 2018. We are seeking someone to teach multiple sections of Introduction to American Politics; a research methods course, required of students majoring in politics or international relations, that includes quantitative methods; and a broad range of other courses in American institutional and behavioral politics. Lake Forest College's proximity to Chicago provides an opportunity to offer courses emphasizing Chicago history, politics and culture; the College also offers interdisciplinary programs in Legal Studies, African American Studies, American Studies and Urban Studies. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to any of these programs, and can incorporate students into their research programs. Candidates will be expected to have a record of demonstrated teaching excellence and evidence of scholarly productivity, commensurate with experience. A Ph.D. in political science, must be completed by the time of appointment. Our teaching load is 3/3, with small classes (typically 15-25 students). We support faculty research through provision of student research assistants and summer research funds; successful passage of the third-year review earns a half-year sabbatical at full pay, in the fourth or fifth year of service. Tenure review takes place at the start of the sixth year. At Lake Forest College, the quality of a faculty member's teaching is the most important criterion for evaluation. The College also expects peer-reviewed publications and active participation in the College community.

A highly selective liberal arts college located on Chicago's North Shore, Lake Forest College enrolls approximately 1,600 students from more than 40 states and from more than 70 countries. Lake Forest College embraces diversity and encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

All application material should be submitted electronically. Applicants should send a letter of application, CV, sample syllabi for no more than two courses, evidence of teaching effectiveness (in the form of student evaluations), and a brief writing sample (no more than ten pages; it may be an excerpt from a longer work) to politicssearch@mx.lakeforest.edu. Please arrange for official transcripts and three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to politicssearch@mx.lakeforest.edu. Review of completed applications will begin on October 1, 2018. Questions about the position should be addressed to the department chair, Professor Siobhan Moroney, moroney@lakeforest.edu.

The department will selectively interview at the August APSA meetings in San Francisco. If you would like an interview, please submit a CV and cover letter only to Professor Moroney, no later than August 15.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3083

University of California, Davis

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of California, Davis invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in American Politics. We are also particularly interested in candidates with strong theoretical and methodological skills.

Applications will be accepted on-line at <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF01758>. Candidates should upload a curriculum vitae, a statement describing their research interests, evidence of teaching ability, as well as sample publications or an article-length writing sample. Applicants will also be asked to provide three to five letters of reference through the online recruitment system. A Ph.D. or evidence that the degree would be complete by the beginning of instruction is required. The anticipated starting date is July 1, 2018. Applications must be received by September 22, 2017 to guarantee initial full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. This recruitment is conducted at the assistant rank. The resulting hire will be at the assistant rank, regardless of the proposed appointee's qualifications.

If you experience technical problems in uploading your application material please contact our Chief Administrative Officer, Jessie Murray, at (530) 752-2183.

The University of California, Davis and the Department of Political Science are interested in candidates committed to the highest standards of scholarship and professional activities, and to the development of a campus climate that supports equality and diversity. The University of California is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3085

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2018 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <http://tinyurl.com/yapctjam>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 5/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3084

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3058

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the field of American politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3069

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Boston University invites applications from outstanding candidates for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of American institutions, broadly defined, pending final budgetary approval. The successful candidate will demonstrate promise for excellence in teaching and research and will have Ph.D. in hand by the start date of July 1, 2018.

To apply, please submit a letter of application including research and teaching statements, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three references to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9416>. Additionally we invite you to include any accomplishments in areas contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

We will begin reviewing applications on September 4. To assure full consideration completed applications must be submitted by October 1. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3047

Connecticut College

Rank: Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior

U.S. Politics

The Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior, beginning on July 1, 2018. The successful candidate must demonstrate an ability to teach an introductory U.S. politics course and intermediate-level courses on parties and elections. Preference will be given to candidates whose scholarship and teaching are in the area of political behavior. Courses might include US social movements, identity politics, interest groups, political participation, lobbying, voting, and media. The department already has specialists in national institutions and legal studies. Required: ABD in Political Science with a U.S. Politics focus. Desirable: Ph.D. in hand and teaching experience. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment to be hired as an Assistant Professor; a candidate may be hired as an Instructor if the candidate does not have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment, but will complete the Ph.D. within one year of hire.

Salary is competitive. In addition to providing ongoing support for teaching and research, the College offers the following resources for pre-tenured faculty: a 2-2 teaching load in the first year, a research fund in the first two years, and a semester's sabbatical (at full salary) after a successful third-year review.

The College's Board of Trustees, President, administration, faculty and staff share a commitment to diversity. To this end, the College, located in New London, CT is continuing what has been a very successful initiative to diversify its faculty, staff, and student body. We encourage applications from candidates who share this understanding and will contribute to the diversity of our college community, including members of historically underrepresented groups. The College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Please visit our website, <http://www.conncoll.edu>, for more information about the College and our faculty searches.

Offering two popular majors (a government major and an interdisciplinary international relations major), Government and International Relations is a collegial department with 11 full-time faculty members. There are also opportunities for collaboration with interdisciplinary programs on campus. Moreover, the College's general education program, Connections, provides ample opportunity for collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching. For an overview of this innovative curriculum, please visit <http://www.conncoll.edu/connections/>

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43334>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Tristan Borer, Chair of the Department of Government and International Relations, at tabor@conncoll.edu. In your application letter, we invite you to describe your cultural competencies and experiences engaging a diverse student body. Review of applications will begin October 13, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, although we expect file review to be completed by October 27, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3049

University of Delaware

Rank: Professor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, American Politics, Political Psychology

PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for appointment as a full professor with tenure in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) We seek a scholar of American Political Behavior/Political Psychology, with a particular focus on quantitative methodologies.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 26 full-time and jointly appointed faculty, nearly 800 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a tenured full professor with an exemplary record of scholarship and teaching in American political behavior/political psychology. The successful candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized senior scholar with a strong record of graduate student and junior faculty mentoring, a strong record of grant-writing success, and an interest in actively building the quantitative American politics capacity in our methodologically diverse department. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns: (1) the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior (2) the political psychology of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; and/or (3) electoral processes and representation.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position and a current CV. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to the attention of Professor Philip Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3024

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American Politics)

Assistant Professor of Government (American Politics)

Department of Government

Georgetown University

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for up to two tenure-track Assistant Professorships in American politics. The positions are open as to research and teaching specializations, including both political institutions and behavior. Candidates with a focus on the presidency/executive branch or race/ethnicity are especially welcome. The department maintains strong links with the university's Department of African American Studies, the forthcoming Institute for Racial Justice, the Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other similar units.

A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and graduate (M.A. and Ph.D.) offerings. The department offers a nationally competitive doctoral program in political science as well as an innovative master's degree in American politics that takes advantage of Georgetown's location in Washington, DC.

The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9377>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Michele Swers, mls47@georgetown.edu. For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive by October 1, 2017, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3008

Simmons College

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Congress, State Politics

Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Simmons College invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American Politics with expertise in state and local politics and/or political institutions. Applicants should have completed a PhD in Political Science before September 2018.

The successful candidate will be expected to offer a variety of courses that meet the needs of the Department. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach introductory and upper division courses in state and local politics, and other courses in American politics that fit with their research interests. We are particularly interested in candidates who have a strong record of interdisciplinary work and who would be able to teach in the Simmons College general education program, the Simmons PLAN.

Candidates must be fully committed to liberal arts education and to excellence in teaching and student advising. Candidates must also demonstrate a significant scholarly agenda.

How to Apply:
Please apply online at <https://simmons.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/Simmons-Careers>.

Consideration of applications will begin October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact Department Chair, Dr. Denise M. Horn (denise.horn@simmons.edu) with questions or to request an informal interview at the 2017 APSA conference in San Francisco, CA

Candidates should be prepared to upload the following required documents to their application profile: a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, official graduate transcripts, a description of the research agenda, three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and scholarly abilities, and a writing sample. Additionally, candidates must provide evidence of excellence in teaching, including a statement of teaching philosophy and a summary of teaching evaluations.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3014

University of New Hampshire

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Hampshire invites applications for tenure-track, assistant professor in American politics, with a specialization in Congress/ U.S. Legislative Politics, starting August 2018. The ideal candidate will have a Ph.D. in hand, an active research program, evidence of excellence in scholarship, and a commitment to outstanding teaching.

Knowledge of legislative politics and methodological expertise expected; ability to teach courses in an additional political science subfield (e.g. research methods or American political thought) is desirable. Areas of thematic interest include, but are not limited to, American political development; women in politics; race and ethnicity in American politics, LGBTQ politics, interest groups, and immigration.

Review of applications begins October 1, 2017. Preliminary Skype interviews will be conducted in late October. Please submit the following via <https://jobs.usnh.edu/postings/27048>: curriculum vitae; letter of interest discussing research, teaching experience and prospective courses; statement of teaching philosophy; three letters of reference; and a publication or writing sample. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded by your referees. Once your application is complete and submitted, your list of references will be notified to submit letters via the jobs.usnh.edu portal.

The University of New Hampshire is a major research institution, providing comprehensive, high-quality undergraduate and graduate programs. The expected teaching load is two courses per semester.

UNH is located in Durham, on a 188-acre campus, 60 miles north of Boston, 8 miles from the Atlantic coast, and is convenient to New Hampshire's lakes and mountains. The university enrolls 13,000 students, with a full-time faculty of over 600, offering 90 undergraduate and more than 70 graduate programs. The University seeks excellence through diversity among its administrators, faculty, staff, and students. The university prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, or marital status. Application by members of all underrepresented groups is encouraged, as are international applicants.

The University of New Hampshire is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access/Affirmative Action institution. The University seeks excellence through diversity among its administrators, faculty, staff, and students. The university prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, or marital status. Application by members of all underrepresented groups is encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3013

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3006

University of St. Thomas

Rank: Assistant Professor of Judicial Politics

Specializations: Judicial Politics, American Politics, Research Methods

The Political Science Department at the University of St. Thomas invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 1, 2018. We are seeking a political scientist with a specialization in Judicial Politics and the ability to teach courses such as Judicial Process, Constitutional Powers of Government, Constitutional Rights and Liberties, and Seminar in Judicial Politics. Candidates will also be expected to teach our introductory course, Government and Politics, and an undergraduate research methods course. This position will also include responsibility for pre-law advising and coaching/advising the university's Mock Trial team.

Established in 1885, the University of St. Thomas is located in the major metropolitan area of Minneapolis-St. Paul, and is Minnesota's largest private university.

Qualifications:

A PhD in political science is strongly preferred. Candidates who are ABD (who would be eligible for an initial rank of instructor) will be considered. All applicants must have demonstrable skills necessary for excellence in teaching.

Inspired by Catholic intellectual tradition, the University of St. Thomas educates students to be morally responsible leaders who think critically, act wisely, and work skillfully to advance the common good.

The University of St. Thomas is committed to the principles of diversity and inclusion, and the goals of affirmative action/equal opportunity. The University welcomes nominations and applications from a diverse applicant pool. AA/EOE

Special Instructions to Candidates:

Apply online at <http://jobs.stthomas.edu> and upload the following materials to your profile:

- 1) Cover letter,
- 2) Curriculum Vitae,
- 3) Copy of academic transcript,
- 4) Statement of teaching philosophy and experience, including evidence of teaching effectiveness,
- 5) Description of research agenda,
- 6) Writing Sample.

Applicants should also arrange for three letters of recommendation to be forwarded to Dr. Angela High-Pippert, Chair, University of St. Thomas, 2115 Summit Avenue, JRC 432, St. Paul, MN 55105.

Please copy/paste your cover letter into the online system when applying.

Contact Dr. Angela High-Pippert (ahighpippe@stthomas.edu) with questions or to request an informal interview at the 2017 APSA conference in San Francisco.

To ensure full consideration for the position, all application materials must be received by Friday, October 13, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3011

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2988

American University

Rank: American Politics, Tenure-track, Assistant Professor

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2018. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2018.

The Department is looking to hire someone who studies legislative institutions in the subfield of American politics. The Department is especially interested in candidates who have a substantive interest in critical policy issues of the day, such as representation, voting rights, economic policy, human security, urban policy, and immigration.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43149>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, recent teaching evaluations (when possible) and three letters of recommendation. If you have any questions, please email govsearch@american.edu.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2978

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnicity

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor – American Politics/Political Thought/Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory courses in political thought and advanced courses in American politics, political thought, and race, ethnicity, and politics.

A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2180>. Submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate teaching philosophy statement. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/8/2017
Date Posted: 7/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2977

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: American Politics and Public Law

College of the Holy Cross: Department of Political Science
 Tenure-Track Faculty Position in American Politics

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Political Science at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment to begin in August 2018. We are seeking a specialist in American politics and public law. The successful applicant will teach the introductory Principles of American Government course, a two-course constitutional law sequence, and one other upper-division American politics course in the field of public law or constitutional law.

This position carries a 3-2 teaching load with a full-salary one-semester research leave prior to tenure review, and generous sabbatical and fellowship leaves for tenured faculty. Tenure track faculty are eligible for travel support and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to, and excellence in, undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advanced levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. in political science or imminent completion required.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, curriculum vitae, statement on teaching, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

In your cover letter, in addition to describing your research and teaching interests, please address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or service might support the College's mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college (see <http://holycross.edu/mission>) and its core commitment to diversity and inclusion. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43084>.

Review of applications will begin on September 8 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will be done by Skype or at the APSA conference August 31-September 3 for those who will attend the meeting. Questions about this search may be directed to Vickie Langohr, Chair, at vlangohr@holycross.edu. Candidates are encouraged to contact Prof. Langohr in advance to express their interest and availability for an interview at APSA.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 2,900 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the Higher Education Consortium of Central Massachusetts and the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (<http://www.newenglandherc.org>). The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/8/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 2961

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 7/31/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2963

Franklin & Marshall College

Rank: Assistant Professor or Instructor, Public Policy

The Department of Government at Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor or Instructor, depending on qualifications, to begin Fall 2018. Responsibilities include teaching intermediate and advanced courses in domestic public policy and the introductory course in American government. The specific area of specialization within public policy is open.

Teaching experience is preferred. The teaching load is 3/2 and includes participation in the College's general education program, Connections.

Faculty maintain active research programs and contribute to the College's shared governance. Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, teaching and research statements, teaching evaluation forms and samples of scholarly writing to Professor Matthew Schousen at Interfolio <https://apply.interfolio.com/43079>. Deadline for application is October 1, 2017.

Pursuant to cultivating an inclusive college community, the search committee will holistically assess the qualifications of each applicant. We will consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds. We will also consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to academic success.

The person selected for this tenure-track position may also be considered for a supplemental appointment as a Franklin & Marshall (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar (M/HIES). These are scholars who possess outstanding promise for inspiring and supporting the educational development of underrepresented minority students in a higher educational setting such as F&M. High Impact Emerging Scholars demonstrate similarly high promise for positively impacting the campus' organizational and academic culture to make it more inclusive of and responsive to underrepresented minority students. Selected finalists that meet these additional qualifications, in addition to those outlined by this ad, may be nominated by the department as F&M (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar. If selected as a M/HIES, the person will receive a two-year appointment (additional to the tenure-track appointment) that begins as soon as the person joins the campus on the tenure-track. The M/HIES program supports the acceleration of one's research trajectory with a significantly reduced teaching load for two years along with supportive mentoring to advance the scholar's research and professional development. Candidates interested in being considered for nomination should indicate their interest in their cover letter and highlight any previous work in this area.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/10/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 2951

San Diego State University

Rank: Politics of Race and Ethnicity

Specializations: African American Politics, Latino Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

The Political Science Department at San Diego State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in the Politics of Race and/or Ethnicity at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin Fall 2018. The department seeks candidates who have a well-developed research agenda, a promise of sustained scholarly productivity and a record of effective and devoted teaching.

The department is open to all areas of expertise within race and ethnicity and particularly encourages those studying African-American or Latino politics. Substantive topics of interest may include but are not limited to social movements-protest politics, economic justice, environmental racism, democracy, law and race, and comparative examinations of race-ethnicity. The successful candidate will be able to teach a range of political science courses, including our upper-division undergraduate course, Politics of Race and Ethnicity.

The Political Science Department at San Diego State is dedicated to the ideal of the engaged teacher-scholar. It has approximately 500 undergraduate majors and provides course offerings for students with a wide variety of backgrounds and interests. At the graduate level, the department maintains an M.A. program of high quality. The members of the faculty share a strong commitment to collegiality, active participation in the governing of the department, innovative scholarship, methodological pluralism, rigorous teaching, and probing intellectual and normative engagement in teaching and research. Candidates are encouraged to consult the department website: <http://politicalscience.sdsu.edu/>

SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university and Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build and sustain a welcoming environment for all. SDSU is seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups.

Applicants must apply via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/42903>. To ensure full consideration, please submit all materials by October 2, 2017. The screening of applications will begin on this date and continue until the position is filled.

Applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. by the start of the term of appointment will be given priority. Those without a Ph.D. currently in-hand should include in their letter of interest a statement of progress on the dissertation, indicating reasons to expect completion in a timely fashion.

Further inquiries should be addressed to:
Ronnee Schreiber, Chair of the Department, at rschreib@mail.sd-su.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2937

Stanford University

Rank: American Politics, Race & Ethnicity - Open Rank

The Stanford Department of Political Science, in collaboration with the Center for the Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity, is seeking applicants for a tenure-track or tenured faculty position in Race and Ethnicity in the subfield of American Politics. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2018. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Untenured applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a CV, and a writing sample. Tenured applicants may submit a CV and writing sample.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 1, 2017, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on line through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/9322>

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2942

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Political Behavior)

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in the fall semester of 2018. The primary focus of our search is American Political Behavior. Preference will be given to candidates conducting quantitative research in public opinion, voting behavior, political parties, and/or media, though candidates with a comparative perspective will be given consideration. Duties include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the University.

The normal teaching load is 2 courses per semester, but may be subject to change. Candidates are expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate, and graduate MA/PhD). Candidates must be able to teach an introduction to American Politics course. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication. Experience with external grant funding is a plus. Preference will be given to candidates whose research demonstrates methodological sophistication and who have the ability to teach research methodology at the graduate, MA/Ph.D. level. Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 15th, 2018.

To apply, please visit: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25082> for more information and application process. Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017.

The University of Nevada, Reno is the State of Nevada's land grant institution of higher education and is one of eight institutions of higher education governed by the State of Nevada System of Higher Education. With a growing and increasingly diverse student enrollment of approximately 21,000 including over 2,800 graduate students, the University provides a comprehensive selection of degree programs at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. The University is currently classified (Carnegie) as "Research University/High" which places it among the top 200 colleges and universities in the United States. The University of Nevada, is located 45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and within four hours from San Francisco and the Napa-Sonoma wine country.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2940

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics with expertise on State and Local politics. Applicants should have completed a PhD in Political Science before September 2018.

The successful candidate will be expected to offer a variety of lower and upper division courses that meet the needs of the Department of Political Science and International Relations. The department has strengths in American national institutions, campaign and party politics, race and politics, environmental politics, international relations, comparative politics, political theory, and research methods. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach introductory and upper division courses in state and local politics, qualitative or quantitative research methods, and other courses in American politics that fit with his or her substantive interests. There will be opportunities for the successful candidate to lead the department's internship program in collaboration with other campus units, community organizations, and The Washington Center.

Candidates must be fully committed to liberal arts education and to excellence in teaching and student advising. Candidates must also demonstrate a significant scholarly agenda, and will be expected to engage actively in service at the departmental, college, and/or university levels after the first year. The normal teaching load is three courses every semester.

Competitive salary and benefits, including a travel allowance and other funding opportunities.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, official graduate transcripts, a description of the research agenda, three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and scholarly abilities, and a writing sample. Additionally, candidates must provide evidence of excellence in teaching, including a statement of teaching philosophy and a summary of teaching evaluations. The cover letter should make sure to describe the courses the candidate would prefer to teach.

Candidates are encouraged to submit their resumes and statements of interest at their earliest convenience. To ensure full consideration, applications must be complete by October 1. Please contact Search Committee Chair, Dr. Casey Dominguez with questions or to request an informal interview at the 2017 APSA conference in San Francisco, CA.

Dr. Casey Dominguez
caseydominguez@sandiego.edu
619.260.6870

To apply, go to www.sandiego.edu/jobs and search for IRC24238.

Letters of recommendation should be emailed to Tiffany Clark: tiffanyclark@sandiego.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2933

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science, Auburn University, invites applications for tenure-track Assistant Professorship beginning August 16, 2018. All subfields in American Politics and American Government will be considered, and candidates in the field of voting, elections, representation, campaigns, election reform, and/or election administration are highly desired. The successful candidate must demonstrate the ability to teach a variety of graduate and undergraduate courses in the American Government subfield. The candidate is expected to teach the Department's University Core Course: American Government in a Multicultural World.

Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Political Science by the start date for the rank of Assistant Professor; however, ABDs will be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time the appointment is scheduled to begin and continue working legally during employment; excellent communication skills are required.

Auburn University is Alabama's largest land grant university, enrolling over 25,000 students. The Political Science Department maintains a diverse faculty of 26 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, public administration, and health administration; Master degree programs in public administration (MPA) and community planning (MCP) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance; and a Ph.D. program in public administration and public policy.

Review of applications will begin September 30, 2017.

To apply please visit <https://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com/>. You will be required to include a cover letter outlining your qualifications for the position, curriculum vitae, at least three letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations, a one-page statement of research program, a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, and a writing sample.

Direct questions to Dr. Kathleen Hale, American Politics Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University, AL, 36849-6174. Fax 334-844-5348.

"Diversity among its administrators, faculty, staff, and students is an Auburn University commitment. Auburn University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. It is our policy to provide equal employment opportunities for all individuals without regard to race, sex, religion, color, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, or any other classification protected by applicable law."

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 6/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2922

Southwestern University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Southwestern University invites applicants for a tenure track position in American Politics beginning in the 2018-2019 academic year. We will consider a range of specializations within the American Politics subfield, but candidates should be able to teach a research methods course (ideally combining quantitative and qualitative methods) and have interest in advising internships and participating in our legislative internships program.

Applicants should have classroom experience, a passion for teaching undergraduates at a select liberal arts college, and should be committed to a teacher-scholar model that combines excellence in the classroom with an active and sustained research agenda.

We seek applicants excited about working in a student-centered, undergraduate liberal-arts setting, with a focus on engaged teaching and academic research, participation in shared governance and academic advising, and active involvement in an institution-wide advancement of diversity, sustainability, and social justice.

A doctorate in political science is required and applicants should have completed their Ph.D. by August 31st, 2018. We will be conducting interviews for this position at APSA. The application deadline is October 15th, 2018. The successful candidate would teach a 3-2 course load.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, a summary of your recent teaching evaluations (if available), three letters of reference addressing teaching performance and abilities, your teaching philosophy and a short list of courses in which you have a strong interest in teaching to Interfolio at the following website: <http://apply.interfolio.com/42558>

Southwestern University is a selective, undergraduate private institution committed to a broad-based liberal arts, sciences, and fine arts education. Southwestern currently enrolls approximately 1,500 students and maintains a student to faculty ratio of 12 to 1. In addition to a number of other national organizations, Southwestern University is a member of two consortia of liberal arts colleges, the Associated Colleges of the South and the Annapolis Group. Located in Georgetown, Texas, 28 miles north of downtown Austin, Southwestern is committed to fostering a diverse educational environment and encourages applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in academia. For information concerning the University, visit our Web site at www.southwestern.edu.

All offers of employment are contingent on successful completion of the University's Background Check Policy process. Southwestern University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2900

Lamar University

Rank: Jack Brooks Endowed Chair of Government & Public Service

Specializations: Congress, Leadership Studies, Legislative Studies

The Department of Political Science is seeking a scholar with outstanding teaching and research potential for the Jack Brooks Chair in Government and Public Service beginning August 15, 2018.

The holder of the Chair will have a tenure track appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Department of Political Science. The Chair will teach six hours per semester, including graduate seminars and undergraduate courses in Congress, Legislative Processes and Leadership.

In addition to a nine-month salary, which is dependent on qualifications and experience, the Brooks Chair includes a summer research stipend.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or Government. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials. Preference will be given to PhD candidates with advanced degrees in Political Science or Government and specializing in leadership studies or the legislature.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students; maintain an active service agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: Political Science Search Committee Chairperson, <https://jobs.lamar.edu>

If your letters of recommendation are confidential, please have the letters mailed to the address above or emailed to: jobs@lamar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/12/2018

Date Posted: 6/19/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2894

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latin American or Latino Studies

Specializations: Latin American, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Department of Political Science and Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS) Program at Lehigh University seek to hire an Assistant Professor to begin in the fall term of the 2018 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in Political Science (the department of tenure) and LALS. We are looking for a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement in U.S. domestic Latinx Studies (in such areas as Latinx and Caribbean communities, Latinx civic engagement, immigration, labor issues, and gender studies) and/or comparative Latin American politics with a focus on transnationalism in Latino communities. The candidate should be committed to creative scholarship and teaching which complement and augment the LALS program's interdisciplinary strengths. The normal teaching load for this position is two courses each semester, which will be cross-listed in political science and LALS.

The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Completed applications are due by October 1, 2017. They must include a letter of interest, a current CV, three letters of reference, and representative reprints of any publications. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9250>.

For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu or Dr. Matthew Bush, Director of Latin American and Latino Studies, at mab508@lehigh.edu.

Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 6/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2886

Lehigh University

Rank: Department Chair

The Department of Political Science at Lehigh University invites applications for Department Chair. Appointment to the position begins on August 15, 2018.

We seek an innovative leader whose record qualifies for appointment at the rank of full professor with tenure, or associate professor with tenure (with credentials to soon merit application to full). The Department invites applicants who bring relevant academic and administrative experience, and welcomes applications from scholars in all areas within political science, with a preference for expertise in any of the subfields of American Politics.

Serving approximately 70 undergraduate majors and 15 graduate students, the Department of Political Science offers a BA degree, and a one-year MA in Political Science.

The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 15 faculty and staff, teach two courses per year, conduct research, oversee and engage in departmental operations including budgetary management, and serve as a member of the College's leadership team.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science, public administration, public policy or related field, along with an established record of excellence in (1) scholarly achievement (2) teaching, and (3) administrative leadership. The incoming chair must demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion and excellent communication, mentoring, and organizational skills. The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest that addresses the academic and administrative qualifications for this position, a curriculum vitae, and contact information of three references. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <http://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9248>. For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu

Screening of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position has been filled. Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We welcome and encourage applications from women and minorities.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2885

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics-Political Behavior
Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Electoral Behavior

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for two tenure track assistant professorships starting in August 2018. These positions are part of the Department's Political Behavior hiring initiative. Candidates' research interests for one position are expected to focus on political psychology/behavior. For the other position, possible areas of expertise include, but are not limited to: voting behavior, public opinion, race & politics, political psychology, identity politics, women & politics, and campaign politics. Strong quantitative skills are encouraged but not required.

Minimum Qualifications: Qualifications include a Ph.D. or near completed Ph.D. in political science, and demonstrated potential for excellence in scholarship. If still ABD, the Ph.D. requirement will have to be completed by June 30, 2018.

Applicants should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a current CV, a recent publication or research-related writing sample, teaching evaluations (if available), and at least three letters of recommendation. Materials should be submitted electronically to <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2310>. Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, Baldwin Hall, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications received by September 25th, 2017 will receive full consideration, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For more information about the department, visit <http://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/department-of-political-science/>.

Athens is well known for its quality of life, including both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2878

Western Washington University

Rank: African American Politics

African American Politics

The Political Science Department and the American Cultural Studies Program at Western Washington University invite applications for a tenure-track position in African American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning in September 2018. The tenure line will reside in Political Science. Teaching responsibilities will be divided between Political Science and American Cultural Studies.

Minimum requirements include: expected completion of the PhD by June 15, 2019; specialization in one of the following: African American political behavior, African Americans and American Political Development, African Americans and American Political Institutions, or African American Political Thought; ability to effectively teach introductory and upper division courses in American Politics, including advanced courses in African American Politics and American Cultural Studies; ability to effectively teach introductory research methods/social statistics; ability to conduct high quality research in African American Politics; ability to work and interact with culturally diverse student organizations and academic programs, ability to work effectively within a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff. Ability to pursue a methodologically intersectional approach to African American politics is a desired qualification.

Interested candidates should submit: a letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications, curriculum vitae, syllabi and related teaching material, teaching evaluations (if available), example(s) of scholarly writing, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted through Western's Electronic Application System for Employment (EASE) at <http://www.wvu.edu/jobs>. Application review begins 25 September 2017; position closes October 16, 2017. Inquiries may be directed to the search committee chair, Vernon Johnson, at Vernon.johnson@wvu.edu

EOE/AA

For disability accommodation

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 5/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2830

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Behavior, Electoral Behavior, Women & Politics

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a tenure-track position in American politics, specializing in political behavior, to begin August 2018. A Ph.D. in political science is required. ABDs must possess the degree by the time of appointment. Advanced scholars are encouraged to apply with some consideration given to faculty who are tenured or on the tenure track. The Department is also hiring for a tenure-track position in political theory, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

The teaching load for this position is five courses per year. The successful candidate will teach American Government and Politics and upper division courses. Candidates should be able to offer courses in political behavior, such as campaigns and elections, media, and parties and interest groups, as well as specialized courses exploring issues of identity and diversity regarding race, ethnicity, gender, and/or sexual orientation. An ability to teach quantitative methods is a plus. The successful candidate will show evidence of effective classroom teaching and a commitment to scholarly research and publication.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. The University of the South is an equal opportunity educational institution that is committed to creating and maintaining a diverse and inclusive campus environment.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief writing sample, sample syllabi, course evaluations, graduate transcript, and at least three letters of recommendation. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu>. (Any materials that are not able to be uploaded may be sent directly to krkleinf@sewanee.edu.) Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. To be considered for an interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association, applications must be received by August 15, 2017. For full consideration applications must be received by September 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 5/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2815

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747

University of Idaho

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Politics & Philosophy seeks well qualified applicants for a full-time (9 month) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science. Beginning August 2017 this position will teach courses to support the on campus and on line Master of Public Administration program, and the undergraduate political science curriculum. The faculty member will conduct research on local government administration and public administration, and provide service to the Department of Politics and Philosophy and the Center for Local Government Research and Outreach.

Minimum Qualifications:

PhD in Political Science or Public Administration.

Teaching and research expertise in local government administration and public administration.

Preferred Qualifications:

Expertise in local government administration and research methods. Evidence of teaching and research effectiveness.

Background Check: Applicants who are selected as final possible candidates must be able to pass a criminal background check.

To apply, please visit: jobs.uidaho.edu

EEO Statement

University of Idaho is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/29/2017

Date Posted: 12/12/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2476

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) A curriculum vita
- (3) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (4) A writing sample
- (4) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3537

University of RochesterRank: FacultySubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Program in Public Health-Related Majors in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rochester is conducting an open rank faculty search for a scholar specializing in the historical, social, political, and/or ethical dimensions of health policy. The program seeks outstanding candidates who work at the boundaries between public health, the humanities, and the social sciences and who are able to engage with multiple audiences, both inside and outside of the University. This will be a tenure-track appointment in one of several appropriate departments in Arts and Sciences at the level of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor.

The candidate should be prepared to:

1. Maintain an active program of research and scholarship on health policy. Applicants should have an established record of research and publication commensurate with their rank and their field of expertise.
2. Take an active role in the Steering Committee and academic advising for the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, as well as in the functioning of the home academic department.
3. Teach an introductory-level overview of the U.S. health care system and upper-level courses on US health care policy and/or global health issues for the program, as well as courses for the home department.

The interdisciplinary Program in Public Health-Related Majors requires students to examine health and health care through many different lenses: anthropological, psychological, historical, epidemiological, economic, political, and ethical. The members of the Steering Committee collaborate to oversee the five majors in the program: Bioethics; Epidemiology; Environmental Health; Health Policy; and Health, Behavior, and Society. The Steering Committee insures that students get a consistent and rigorous liberal arts education. In addition, it actively seeks to expand the curriculum by soliciting new course offerings from faculty across the university who can address emerging issues in health and health care and develop innovative programs that engage our students with both the local and the global communities.

The position is open to candidates in any academic discipline. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D in hand by July 1, 2018, and will join an appropriate department in the School of Arts and Sciences. To apply, visit www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample, and the names and contact information for three references by November 1, 2017. Please note that the job is listed under the department "Dean's Office-SAS."

For more information about the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ph/index.html>. The University of Rochester has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups under-represented in higher education. University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Review of applications will continue until a successful candidate is identified. For more information about the position, please contact: Daniel Reichman, chair of the search committee, daniel.reichman@rochester.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018Application Deadline: 11/1/2017Date Posted: 9/29/2017Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 3535New York University Shanghai*Rank: TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIESSubfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative PoliticsSpecializations: Environmental Policy, Social Welfare, Energy PolicyTENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Environmental Studies. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in geography, sociology, anthropology, political science, or a related social science field, and whose work demonstrates a capacity for excellence in interdisciplinary environmental research and high-quality classroom instruction. We are especially but not exclusively interested in scholars whose research adopts a global perspective on disasters, urban ecology, or energy and climate change.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching, and electronic copies of up to five relevant publications. To complete the online process, junior applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted and asked to upload their reference letter. In the case of senior applicants, reference letters will be requested at a later stage as needed.

Review of applications will begin October 16th and will continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. To apply, follow this link <http://apply.interfolio.com/45330>. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher-education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, NYU Shanghai resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of innovative research and transformative teaching, and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common educational interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3524

Queen's University

Rank: Assistant Professor -- Comparative Politics: Asia

The Department of Political Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at Queen's University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor with a specialization in Comparative Politics and expertise on Asia, with a preferred starting date of July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a PhD or equivalent degree completed at the start date of the appointment. The main criteria for selection are academic and teaching excellence. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high-quality scholarly output that demonstrates potential for independent research leading to peer-assessed publications and the securing of external research funding, as well as strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and an ongoing commitment to academic and pedagogical excellence in support of the department's programs. The successful candidate will be required to make substantive contributions through service to the department, the Faculty, the University, and/or the broader community. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. This position is subject to final budgetary approval by the University.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ persons. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information as to how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada." Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

A complete application consists of:

- a cover letter (including one of the two statements regarding Canadian citizenship / permanent resident status specified in the previous paragraph);
- a current Curriculum Vitae (including a list of publications);
- a statement of research interests;
- a statement of teaching interests and experience (including teaching outlines and evaluations if available);
- a writing sample; and
- three letters of reference to be sent directly to Dr. Zsuzsa Csergo, Department Head at polshead@queensu.ca.

The deadline for applications is November 15, 2017. Applicants are encouraged to send all documents in their application package electronically as PDFs to Barb Murphy at barb.murphy@queensu.ca, although hard copy applications may be submitted to:

Barbara Murphy
Administrative Assistant
Department of Political Studies
Room C316, Mackintosh-Corry Hall
68 University Avenue
Queen's University
Kingston, Ontario
CANADA K7L 3N6

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact Barbara Murphy in the Department of Political Studies, at barb.murphy@queensu.ca, phone number 613-533-6226.

Academic staff at Queen's University are governed by a Collective Agreement between the University and the Queen's University Faculty Association (QUFA), which is posted at <http://queensu.ca/facultyrelations/faculty-librarians-and-archivists/collective-agreement> and at <http://www.qufa.ca>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3531

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Lecturer (Social Science Research Methods)

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy is soliciting for applications for a Lecturer in Social Science Research Methods for Spring Semester 2018 (January-May). For details and how to apply, please see www.cga.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 10/5/2017

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3516

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Lecturer (Social Science Research Methods)

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy is soliciting for applications for a Lecturer in Social Science Research Methods for Spring Semester 2018 (January-May). For details and how to apply, please see www.cga.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 4/12/2017

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3517

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor: African Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in African Politics at the level of Assistant Professor to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. We seek applicants who have strong training in both comparative political behavior and African Studies, as well as substantial fieldwork experience. Applicants should have strength in survey methods. Strong skills and experience with natural and quasi-experimental methods and GIS mapping will be valued. The prospective hire is expected to enhance our broad training of doctoral students in Comparative Politics and contribute to the methods offerings at the graduate level, as well as bolster our undergraduate offerings in African Politics and research methods. We particularly encourage candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship with excellence in teaching and student mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (<http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>) to learn more about the Department of Political Science. A Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Regional specialization within Africa is open. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504729?lApplicationSubSourceID=>

All applications must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of research interests/plans
- d) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- e) Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- f) Up to three reprints or pre-prints, and
- g) The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3518

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor: Global Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professor in Global Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The successful applicant is expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in international relations or comparative politics as well as research methods. We are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship with excellence in teaching and undergraduate and graduate student mentoring and whose scholarly focus is in comparative and/or international political economy, transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and peace building.

A Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between international relations and comparative politics. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504731/assistant-professor-global-politics>

All applications must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. Up to three reprints or pre-prints, and
7. The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/27/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3522College of Saint Benedict / Saint John's University*Rank: Tenure Track - Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department of the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University invites applications for a full-time tenure track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in August 2018. A completed Ph.D. in political science is preferred; ABD will be considered. Teaching assignments will typically include three courses per semester. The department seeks a broadly trained political scientist who can teach the following courses:

- Comparative Politics (POLS 223): A sophomore level course that combines teaching introductory comparative politics with an introduction to comparative methods. Students review scholarly literature, form hypotheses in response to political questions, use a variety of methods and tools to gather evidence, and identify criteria for evaluating the quality of evidence. One of the learning goals of this course is to develop library and information literacy skills.
- Upper division courses in the candidate's area of interest. Courses in a wide variety of regional or substantive areas in comparative politics will be considered.
- Introduction to International Relations (POLS 121): Required introductory course to the political science major that provides a brief background of global history, overview of major international relations theories, and guides students through primary actors in global politics through analysis of contemporary questions.
- First Year Seminar: FYS is a required full-year course for all first year students. It is designed to help students improve their ability to read carefully and think critically about what they read, to write in a variety of academic formats, improve their information literacy, and to develop discussion skills necessary for successful college course work.

The ability to work with interdisciplinary programs such as Latino-Latin American Studies, Asian Studies, or Gender Studies is regarded as an asset. Successful teaching will foster a commitment to diversity as a learning outcome, because it provides students with the skills of intercultural competence and civic responsibility within our increasingly diverse student body.

Saint John's University, a liberal arts college for men, and the College of Saint Benedict, a liberal arts college for women, are located five miles apart in Central Minnesota just outside metropolitan St. Cloud and 70 miles from Minneapolis. Both are Catholic colleges in the Benedictine tradition, which emphasize quality teaching and a commitment to intercultural learning. For further information, see <http://www.csbsju.edu>

Additional Information:

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applications are accepted online at <http://employment.csbsju.edu>

Applicants must complete an application and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, *three letters of recommendation and unofficial transcripts (official transcript required for on campus interviews.)

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION: You will be asked to list a minimum of 3 reference names and contact information. If you use a placement service, you will need to contact them to request the email address to list. The system will send an email to your letter writer or placement service requesting a letter of recommendation for you.

Review of applications will begin October 23rd and continue until the position is filled.

If you require special accommodations to participate in the College of Saint Benedict/Saint John's University hiring process, please contact us at (320) 363-5282 or employment@csbsju.edu.

It is the policy of CSB and SJU to conduct pre-employment background checks.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/26/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3503Florida State University*Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science*Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 11/15/2017Date Posted: 9/26/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3501

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3509

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Associate Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments are for either one or two months during the 2018-2019 academic year (September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Associate Research Scholars will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 20, 2017. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/1901>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, one to two months during the academic year (September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019), and title of the proposed research project;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) A four-five page statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution;
- 4) Names and contact information of three referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3508

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2018-2019 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2018-January 31, 2019; spring semester: February 1-June 30, 2019). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 20, 2017, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/1882>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal (or syllabus) for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A four-five page statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution;
- 5) The names and contact information of three (3) referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/20/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3504

SUNY Plattsburgh

Rank: Political Science Assistant Professor Positions

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Plattsburgh invites applications for 2 tenure-track Assistant Professor positions. The positions are expected to begin Fall 2018 and are open with regard to specializations. The successful candidates will be committed to excellence in teaching, research, and service in an institution dedicated primarily to undergraduate education. It will be expected that the people appointed to these roles will demonstrate an understanding of and sensitivity to diversity and gender issues, as SUNY Plattsburgh is committed to ensuring that its graduates are educated to succeed in an increasingly complex, multicultural, and interdependent world.

<http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/8681> Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics
 Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, Politics, Government, or equivalent with a teaching and research focus in Comparative Politics. The successful candidate will demonstrate both a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and a high potential for scholarship, as well as the ability to work effectively and collegially with faculty, staff, and administrators.
 Preferred Qualifications: Candidates with an interest in conducting research with undergraduates, as well as those who are able to broaden departmental offerings in a secondary area of expertise, are preferred. The Political Science Department is particularly interested in candidates who are able to support a new international relations program under development, and candidates who are able and willing to teach a quantitative research methods class focusing on the application of statistical methods to political phenomena.

<http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/8682> Assistant Professor, Political Theory
 Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, Politics, or Government with a teaching and research focus in Political Philosophy and Theory at time of appointment is required. The successful candidate will demonstrate both a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and a high potential for scholarship, as well as the ability to work effectively and collegially with faculty, staff, and administrators.
 Preferred Qualifications: Candidates with an interest in conducting research with undergraduates, as well as those who are able to broaden departmental offerings in a secondary area of expertise, are preferred. The Political Science Department is particularly interested in candidates who can aid in the development of a pre-law program.

For further position details and to apply, please visit <http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3500

National Chengchi University

Rank: Assistant /Associate professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

1. The Department of Political Science at NCCU, Taipei, Taiwan, invites applications for one open rank position in "Empirical Political Studies", "Comparative Politics" or "Chinese/ Western Political Thought", starting from August 1, 2018.

2. Qualifications:

(1) The applicants must have a doctoral degree, or be able to receive a Ph.D. degree by April 30, 2018. Applicants with teaching and research experience will receive more favorable consideration.

(2) Academic publications other than the dissertation are required.

(3) The applicants are expected to publish and teach in English.

3. Documents and the Deadline:

Applicants should submit the following materials, which must be postmarked by October 30, 2017:

(1) Curriculum Vitae (including autobiography, a list of publications, outlines of the courses taught or to be offered in the future)

(2) A photocopy of doctoral degree certificate. For applicants who have not yet passed the oral examination, a letter proving completion of courses and certifying imminent holding of oral examination by April 30, 2018 is required.

(3) Transcripts from graduate schools.

(4) The doctoral dissertation (or draft) and other publications (up to 5 items).

(5) Two letters of recommendation (written in English or Chinese) from academic scholars. Please send all correspondence to:

Ms. Yung-weng Chang

Department of Political Science

National Chengchi University

No.64, Sec.2, ZhiNan Rd. Wenshan District, Taipei City, 11605, Taiwan

Tel: 886-2-29387057

Email: ywchang@nccu.edu.tw

4. Candidates who pass a preliminary review will be requested to give an oral presentation in the Department.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3489

Brown University

Rank: Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship in Latin American and Caribbean Studies

The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship brings leading scholars from Latin America and the Caribbean to Brown University to teach and conduct research. Visiting Professors are based at the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS) at the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs. Cogut Professors teach one undergraduate course on Latin America per semester, meet with undergraduate and graduate students, and give presentations on campus through CLACS or affiliated units. The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship provides a salary, an optional medical insurance package, a modest research fund, and administrative assistance. Appointments are possible for one or two semesters.

Eligibility to take up the position requires that the applicant hold a Ph.D. in any discipline in the humanities and social sciences and be either (1) a foreign national who is eligible to obtain a J-1 visa or (2) a U.S. citizen or resident.

Applications should include: (1) a letter of introduction from the applicant indicating his or her area of expertise and the proposed length of stay (one or two semesters, and preference of semester, if coming for one); (2) a current C.V. in English; and (3) the proposed course or courses that the

Visiting Professor would like to teach with syllabi in English (though the course may be taught in English, Spanish or Portuguese). Optionally, if the applicant has existing ties to colleagues at

Brown, a brief letter of support from a CLACS-affiliated Brown faculty member may also be sent under separate cover to CLACS.

Materials should be submitted electronically using the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/44814>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3487

Brown University

Rank: Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship in Latin American and Caribbean Studies

The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship brings leading scholars from Latin America and the Caribbean to Brown University to teach and conduct research. Visiting Professors are based at the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS) at the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs. Cogut Professors teach one undergraduate course on Latin America per semester, meet with undergraduate and graduate students, and give presentations on campus through CLACS or affiliated units. The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship provides a salary, an optional medical insurance package, a modest research fund, and administrative assistance. Appointments are possible for one or two semesters.

Eligibility to take up the position requires that the applicant hold a Ph.D. in any discipline in the humanities and social sciences and be either (1) a foreign national who is eligible to obtain a J-1 visa or (2) a U.S. citizen or resident.

Applications should include: (1) a letter of introduction from the applicant indicating his or her area of expertise and the proposed length of stay (one or two semesters, and preference of semester, if coming for one); (2) a current C.V. in English; and (3) the proposed course or courses that the Visiting Professor would like to teach with syllabi in English (though the course may be taught in English, Spanish or Portuguese). Optionally, if the applicant has existing ties to colleagues at Brown, a brief letter of support from a CLACS-affiliated Brown faculty member may also be sent under separate cover to CLACS.

Materials should be submitted electronically using the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/44814>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3488

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW

Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure-system position in Comparative Politics. Rank is Assistant or Associate Professor depending on candidates qualifications. Position begins August 16, 2018. Special consideration will be given to those who specialize in African Politics, especially candidates who are able to make use of Afrobarometer data in their research. A successful candidate will have a strong record of scholarly publications and evidence of teaching ability. He/she will be expected to seek external funding for his/her research.

The closing date for applications is October 1, 2017, though later applications may be accepted if the search remains open. You must apply for this position via Michigan State University Career Page, posting number 450476. Please access the Career page at <http://careers.msu.edu>. Please submit your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, a research statement, samples of your written work, and evidence of teaching ability. Please also arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted.

MSU is located in East Lansing, MI, with easy access to the state capital, Lake Michigan, and great school districts. The University is pro-active in exploring opportunities for employment for dual career couples, both inside and outside the University. Information about MSU's dual career support can be found at <http://miwin.msu.edu/>.

MSU is an affirmative-action, equal-opportunity employer and is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3456

Ramapo College of New Jersey

Rank: Adjunct Professor of Political Science

Ramapo College of New Jersey is searching for one or more adjunct professors of political science to teach up to two comparative politics courses in spring 2018. Candidates should expect to teach courses such as The United Nations; East Asia: History and Politics; China: History, Politics and Culture; Japan: History, Politics, and Culture; Russian Political History; European Politics; Russian Society and Politics; or Politics in Africa.

Candidates must have either a Ph. D. in political science or advanced ABD status.

Applications are being accepted by logging on to <https://ramapo.hiretouch.com>. Attach resume, cover letter, letter discussing teaching philosophy, C.V., and sample syllabi. All applications must be completed online. Hard copies of resumes and/or applications will not be accepted. To request accommodations, call (201) 684-7506.

RAMAPO COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY

505 Ramapo Valley Road

Mahwah, NJ 07430

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3445

Swarthmore College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science in Comparative Politics of Latin America

Swarthmore College: Political Science Department

Assistant Professor of Political Science in Comparative Politics of Latin America

Location: Swarthmore PA 19081

Closes: Nov 15 2017 at 11:59 PM Eastern Time

The Department of Political Science at Swarthmore College invites applications for a tenure-track position in the comparative politics of Latin America at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall semester of 2018.

The faculty members of the Swarthmore Political Science Department reflect, in their intellectual and research interests, the exceptional pluralism of political science and seek to convey the discipline's richness and variety in their courses and in their discussions and interactions with students. The department arranges course offerings by the traditional subdivisions of the discipline as it is practiced in the United States: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The new hire is also expected to contribute to the interdisciplinary program in Latin American and Latino Studies.

Swarthmore College is a highly selective liberal arts college, located in the suburbs of Philadelphia, whose mission combines academic rigor with social responsibility. Swarthmore has a strong institutional commitment to inclusive excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment practices.

The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrable commitments to a more inclusive society and world.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants must demonstrate excellence in undergraduate teaching as well as research.

The successful candidate should have a PhD in hand by the time of appointment in August 2018 and should demonstrate an ability to conduct research in Spanish and/or Portuguese. The strongest candidates will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to creative teaching and an active research program that speaks to and motivates undergraduates from diverse backgrounds.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Candidates should submit a (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) short writing sample of not more than 40 pages, (4) graduate transcript, and (5) three letters of recommendation through Interfolio.com. (6) Applicants should also submit three syllabi, one for an introductory course and two for intermediate or upper-level courses. These syllabi represent an important part of the application. In your cover letter, please briefly describe your current research agenda; what would be attractive to you about teaching in a liberal arts college environment with diverse students; and what background, experience, or interests are likely to make you a strong teacher of Swarthmore College students.

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Apply Now (<https://dossier.interfolio.com/appl/y/44570>)

For help signing up, accessing your account, or submitting your application please check out our help and support (<http://product-help.interfolio.com/>) section or get in touch via email at help@interfolio.com (<mailto:help@interfolio.com>) or phone at (877) 997-8807.

Swarthmore College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrable commitments to a more inclusive society and world. Swarthmore College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3442

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics - Race, Ethnicity, Inequality

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Applicants should demonstrate expertise in the study of race, ethnicity, and politics, and/or related fields such as inequality, immigration, and identity. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To be considered, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp> for additional information).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01558>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, Inequality).

Review of applications will begin October 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/11/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3454

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpogzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

University of Essex

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

Department of Government

The Department of Government at Essex are world leaders in political science, ranked top in the UK for research excellence (REF2014), among the top 10 universities for politics in the UK (The Times Good University Guide 2017), top 10 in the world for political science and international relations according to the Centre for World University Rankings (2017) and among the top 50 departments on the planet according to the QS World University Rankings. With 96% student satisfaction (NSS 2016) and having been awarded Q-Step Affiliate Status, we are committed to excellence in education and research.

Please note that the appointment will be made at the UK equivalent of Lecturer level and will be referred to by this title throughout the advertisement and University documentation.

The Role and Duties

The post-holder is expected to conduct research and teaching in Comparative Politics at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. The ideal candidate will also have experience in electoral behaviour, political economy, and/or public policy. They will also (co-)supervise undergraduate projects, MA, and PhD dissertations, and assess students through coursework and examination as well as contribute to the successful administration and management of the Department.

You will also be expected to obtain external research funding and contribute to the department's expansion strategy for new modules in political science.

Qualifications and Skills required

The successful candidate will have obtained a PhD in Political Science or an allied field or be in the final stages of completion of your studies.

You will be required to provide evidence of a sophisticated research agenda in political science; potential of excellence in research in Comparative Politics; potential of excellence in teaching at undergraduate and/or postgraduate level; demonstrable potential to generate external funding; and demonstrable experience of a clear publication plan for submission to future Research Excellence Framework (REF) programmes.

We are seeking a candidate who can produce and publish high-quality research and provide teaching and motivation to students at undergraduate and postgraduate level.

We particularly welcome applications from women as they are under-represented in the Department.

At the University of Essex internationalism is central to who we are and what we do. We are committed to being a cosmopolitan, internationally-oriented university that is welcoming to staff and students from all countries and a university where you can find the world in one place.

Please visit our website (<http://www.essex.ac.uk/vacancies/>) for a full job description, person specification and more information relating to this post. We recommend you read this information carefully before making an application. Applications should be made on-line, but if you would like advice or help in making an application, or need information in a different format, please telephone the Resourcing Team (01206 874588/873521).

Closing date: 17 November 2017

Interviews are planned for: 25 January 2018

Salary: £39,993 - £47,722 per annum

To apply please visit https://vacancies.essex.ac.uk/tlive_webrecruitment/wrd/run/ETREC107GF.open?VACANCY_ID=561014EN2u&WVID=9918109NEm&LANG=USA

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/17/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3441

Clemson University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics. The Department of Political Science at Clemson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin in August 2018. The successful candidate will have a specialization in Comparative Politics that does not duplicate the existing strengths of the department. We especially seek candidates who demonstrate rigorous analytical research and the ability to teach the department's undergraduate methods course. In addition to maintaining an active research agenda, the successful candidate will reflect the department's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching.

Clemson University is the land-grant university for the state of South Carolina and is located within the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains 30 miles southwest of Greenville. The Department offers a BA and BS in Political Science and a Ph.D. in Policy Studies.

A Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of employment is required. Salary is competitive. To apply, upload the following to Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/45082>): a letter of interest, CV, transcripts of graduate work, three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and evidence of teaching performance. Applications received by October 16, 2017 are assured full consideration. For inquiries, please contact Professor Jeff Peake at jpeake@clmson.edu.

Clemson University is an AA/EEO employer and does not discriminate against any person or group on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, pregnancy, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status or genetic information. Clemson University is building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and encourages applications from minorities and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3424

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Development

Tulane University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor to contribute to our new concentration in International Development. We seek candidates from comparative politics, international relations, or public policy with a research focus on developing areas. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. Expected teaching load is 2-2. The appointment begins July 1, 2018 and candidates should have the PhD in hand by that date. Applications received by October 30, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation online in interfolio. Queries may be addressed to Professor Mary Clark (maclark@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Apply online in interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/44986

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3393

University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Artificial Intelligence/ Big Data or Robotics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: Intelligence, Science & Technology, Social Welfare

Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Artificial Intelligence/Big Data or Robotics

The Department of Politics and International Relations is seeking to appoint two Postdoctoral Research Fellows. The first Postdoctoral Research Fellow will focus on Artificial Intelligence/Big Data, whilst the second will focus on Robotics.

The Postdoctoral Research Fellows will have a wide range of responsibilities. These will include undertaking advanced, methodologically and theoretically sophisticated research within the context of a new research project for the Centre for Technology and Global Affairs, under the supervision of Dr Lucas Kello. You will also supervise affiliated postgraduate students working on the project. You will develop, adapt, and apply theories and concepts from the political and social sciences to the analysis of new advances in Artificial Intelligence or Robotics and its applications in society, and will publish papers, policy briefs and reports on issues pertaining to Artificial Intelligence/Big Data or Robotics and global affairs. The post-holders will assist in developing ideas for generating research income and present detailed research proposals to the Centre Director. You will also present research findings and outputs at conferences, workshops and executive sessions in Oxford and beyond.

As the ideal candidate you will have a doctoral degree (or near completion) in Political Science or a relevant social science discipline, or in Computer Science or Engineering (with a strong background in social science work). You will be interested in and have a strong understanding of the implications of technology for politics and society and will have specialist knowledge in Artificial Intelligence or Robotics within the context of social sciences. You will have a willingness and ability to contribute to the dissemination of project results and will have excellent data collection and management skills, as well as interpersonal and communication skills.

The role will be offered on a full time, fixed term basis until the 30th June 2019 (potentially extendable) and will be based in the Department of Politics and International Relations in the Manor Road building, Oxford. The posts will be available from mid-January 2018, or as soon as possible thereafter.

The duties, responsibilities and skills required are described in more detail in the further particulars, (Vacancy Number: 130570), which also contain details on how to apply. Informal enquiries are encouraged and should be directed to Lucas Kello, Senior Lecturer in International Relations, Director of the Centre for Technology and Global Affairs and Co-Director of the Centre for Doctoral Training in Cyber Security, at lucas.kello@politics.ox.ac.uk.

The closing date for applications is noon, UK time on Friday 27th October 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 10/27/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 3386

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

Specializations: Middle East, Religion & Politics, Foreign Policy

Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Alabama announces a call for applications for the newly established Richard Leon Chambers Endowed Professorship in Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies. The position will begin August 2018. The successful applicant may work in any post-7th century timeframe and focus geographically on one or more settings in the Middle East, including sites of the Ottoman Empire and Turkish civilization. We seek to bring to campus a scholar of Middle Eastern history and culture who can prepare students to better understand current international affairs and who is also able to exercise leadership in future academic programs and research collaborations.

Applicants should demonstrate exemplary methodological, language, and /or ethnographic skills and should be gifted faculty members whose accomplishments, in both teaching and research, indicate great potential; the successful candidate, who will be appointed at the tenured rank of either Associate Professor or Professor, will join a Department of relevance to their expertise and may also hold a cross-appointment within the College. We welcome applications from mid-career and senior scholars working in such fields as Anthropology, History, Middle Eastern Studies, Political Science, Religious Studies, or other disciplines represented in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Review of applications will begin on October 15. Applicants are required to apply online at <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41763> submitting a cover letter, C.V., and writing sample. Three letters of recommendation should be sent to the Chair of the Search Committee, either in hard copy or by email. A group of semi-finalists will meet with the committee via a brief online session prior to the College identifying finalists to be brought to campus for interviews.

For information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee:

Prof. Russell T. McCutcheon
Chair, Department of Religious Studies
University of Alabama
212 Manly Hall
Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0264

russell.mccutcheon@ua.edu

The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3418

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Latino Politics, Political Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor (JOB#12097)
School of Politics and Global Studies
Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. The anticipated start date is August 2018.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach (es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 30, 2017; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2018.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9809>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.) A background check is required for employment.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3414

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science
NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education.

Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor or Provost Fellow

The Political Science Department at the University of Chicago seeks applications from scholars engaging issues of colonialism, empire, and their contemporary legacies around the world. We especially welcome applications from scholars of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Comparative Racial Politics. Themes of particular interest include: the legacies of slavery; the politics of indentured servitude; the practices of colonial and/or imperial rule; forced migration; genocidal violence; interstate relations involving former colonies; and economic (inter)dependence in the global south. One goal of the search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Department, and we therefore strongly encourage applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

Successful candidates will be appointed either as an Assistant Professor or as a Provost Fellow with an initial two-year faculty appointment at the rank of Instructor. This initial period is intended to serve in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period, during which Provost Fellows will teach one class per year. At the end of their initial term, Provost Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2018. Review of applications will begin

September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website <http://tinyurl.com/yc5dkzk7>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 6) three letters of reference.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3402

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant to Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at The University of Chicago invites applications for one position in Comparative Politics, at either the TENURED or TENURE-TRACK level to begin in the academic year 2018-19. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach.

Applications are required to include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample in the applicant's central area of research, and a brief research statement. Please submit as optional applicant documents up to three publications or unpublished manuscripts (strongly recommended) and evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

In addition, applicants for the level of assistant professor should provide three letters of recommendation via the online application system or surface mail addressed to Faculty Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 5828 S. University Avenue, Pick Hall 401, Chicago, IL 60637. Required application materials must be submitted online at <http://tinyurl.com/yasf9y80>.

Early application is strongly recommended; application review will begin September 15, 2017. Applications will be accepted until January 16, 2018, or until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at <http://www.uchicago.edu/about/> non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3403

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor Asian Politics

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176563167&Title=Asian%20Politics%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2C%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5B18526%5D&aID=584>

ROLE of the POSITION

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) invites applications from well qualified individuals for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics with an area specialization in Asia. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level commencing fall 2018. In addition to teaching introductory courses in comparative politics, the successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in his or her area of expertise.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires an earned doctorate in Political Science from a regionally accredited college or university completed by the time of appointment; evidence of a strong research program or the potential to develop one; and excellence in teaching. UNLV has a diverse student body and is seeking to attract a diverse applicant pool for the position. Other responsibilities include engaging in research leading to scholarly, peer-reviewed publications; mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, and providing appropriate service at the department, college, and university levels.

Preferred qualifications include an ability to teach a general proseminar graduate course in comparative politics.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin on October 13, 2017 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Jonathan Strand, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted via on-line application at <https://hrsearch.unlv.edu/>. For assistance with UNLV's on-line applicant portal, contact UNLV Employment Services at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3399

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3361

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

University of New Mexico

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. This appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, in a probationary position leading to a tenure decision. Minimum qualifications are: a Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or related field by start date of appointment, and a research specialization in Comparative Politics. Preferred qualifications are: demonstrated excellence in conducting substantively and theoretically significant research in comparative politics; demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics; expertise on Latin America; strong methodological expertise; international research experience; ability to teach an interdisciplinary social science course on Latin America; capacity to add to the intellectual breadth of the department; and demonstrated commitment to equity and inclusion and student success and working with broadly diverse students and communities. For best consideration, apply no later than October 22, 2017. This position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science currently employs 14 regular faculty members and maintains a small but highly competitive and nationally recognized graduate program (MA and Ph.D.), as well as a high quality undergraduate major (BA); it also plays an active role in the interdisciplinary Latin American Studies BA and MA programs as well as the interdisciplinary International Studies BA program. UNM's Latin American and Iberian Institute, as well as the International Studies Institute and Global Education Office, provide funding and programmatic support for international scholarship. The successful candidate will teach a course in the Latin American Studies program as a part of their regular teaching rotation.

UNM is a Carnegie Doctoral/ Research-Extensive University and US/DE Minority-Serving public university. As the state's largest university, UNM serves a diverse student population of over 26,000 at its main campus in Albuquerque. The University of New Mexico actively seeks and encourages nominations of and applications from individuals who are members of under-represented groups.

To apply, electronically submit your statement of interest, curriculum vitae, an unofficial graduate transcript, one sample solo-authored peer-reviewed publication or other solo-authored written work, and teaching materials (one sample course syllabus and course evaluation scores for all classes taught at the undergraduate or graduate level) at <https://unmjobs.unm.edu/>, Requisition #2326. Additionally, three letters of recommendation must be emailed directly by your references to Steven Romero, Department Administrator at stevenromero@unm.edu. Semi-finalists may be asked to submit additional samples of written work, additional sample syllabi, and official graduate transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3366

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)
Comparative Politics
School of International and Public Affairs and
Department of Political Science
Columbia University

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Department of Political Science invite applications for a position in comparative political economy at the assistant professor level to begin July 2018. We particularly welcome applications from individuals studying the political economy of development.

Ph.D. required. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should submit cover letter, curriculum vitae, at least one writing sample, and arrange to have three letters of recommendation submitted on their behalf.

Please visit our online application site at: <https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65148> for further information about this position and to submit your application.

The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@columbia.edu

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3352

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/

academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3351

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Political Science, Lecturer Pool

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley invites applications for a pool of qualified temporary lecturers to teach courses in the following areas, should an opening arise: American Politics, California Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology & Formal Theory, Political Theory & Philosophy, Models & Politics, Political Behavior, Public Law & Jurisprudence, and Public Policy & Organization.

The number of positions varies from semester to semester, depending on the needs of the department. Positions may range from 33% to 100% of full-time, depending on the number of classes being taught. Appointments typically start at the beginning of the semester and may be renewable based on need, funding, and performance.

General Duties: In addition to teaching responsibilities, general duties include holding office hours, assigning grades, advising students, preparing course materials (e.g. syllabus), and maintaining a course website.

Basic Qualifications: The minimum qualifications required to be an applicant is a completed Bachelor's Degree (or equivalent degree) by the time of application.

Preferred Qualifications: Completion of all Ph.D. (or equivalent) degree requirements except dissertation at the time of application or, full-time paid political experience of at least 4 years within the last 10 years.

Salary: Salary will be based on applicant's teaching experience, appointment % FTE, and current campus salary scales in place at time of appointment. The current minimum salary for this position would be based on a full-time annual salary of $53,402. Lecturers teaching one course per semesters are typically appointed at a 33% rate.

The department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their teaching. UC Berkeley has an excellent benefits package as well as a number of policies and programs in place to support employees as they balance work and family.

To apply, please go to the following link: <http://apptrkr.com/1079578>. Applicants should submit their most recently updated C.V.

The department may later request contact information for 3-5 references, teaching and/or research statements, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as past course syllabi, teaching evaluations, etc., but they are not required at the time of application.

When and if the department contacts references, all letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality (<http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html>) prior to submitting their letters.

Applications will be accepted and reviewed for department needs through September 7, 2018. The department typically reviews applications for fall course needs in April/May, for spring course needs in October/November, and for summer course needs in February/March. Those interested in remaining in the pool after September 7, 2018 will need to reapply.

Please note: The use of a lecturer pool does not guarantee that an open position exists. See the review date specified in AP Recruit to learn whether the department is currently reviewing applications for a specific position. If there is no future review date specified, your application may not be considered at this time.

Please direct questions to Allison Covington at allison.covington@berkeley.edu

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3353

California State University Dominguez Hills

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

www.csudh.edu

Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics
College of Natural & Behavioral Sciences

Position Description

The faculty of the Department of Political Science at California State University Dominguez Hills invites applications from individuals for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, effective Fall 2018.

Department of Political Science

The Political Science Department is located in the College of Natural and Behavioral Sciences. The current faculty is comprised of four tenured and tenure-track faculty joined by 9 to 11 part-time faculty each term. Political Science provides excellent opportunities for the study of government and politics. Over 40 courses cover all the major aspects of the discipline. Students develop an understanding of human behavior as it relates to politics. They learn to discuss and analyze critically current public policy issues facing the United States and the world. They are taught how to critically observe and understand world affairs and comparative politics. They are trained in appropriate research techniques for the study of political processes. The General Political Science Concentration is a relatively "open" one, allowing students to choose from a wide range of courses and subjects within a general framework. It is designed for students seeking broad exposure to the diverse subjects of the discipline and is recommended for most students.

The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise (comprised of a major research paper) in one of the elective courses. The department offers internship opportunities at the national, California government and local government levels. The Department sponsors an active student organization (APSS, the Association of Political Science Students) and successful Model United Nations (MUN) and Mock Trial program for students.

For more information see: <http://www4.csudh.edu/political-science/index>

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Responsibilities

The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching, performing service on departmental and university-wide bases, publishing research in peer-reviewed academic journals relevant to the discipline of political science/the subfield of Comparative Politics, maintaining office hours, providing advising for our majors and minors, and participating with colleagues in curricular development.

The Position

Faculty members teach four classes or their equivalent each semester (although new faculty receive reduced teaching assignments); maintain an active research program; mentor and advise students; and serve on departmental and university committees. The appointment will be effective for the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year, beginning in August 2018. The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise under the supervision of one of the tenured or tenure track members of the faculty.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate will have a promising record of effective teaching, scholarly research and service, will be innovative in his or her thinking in a department strongly committed to academic excellence, community outreach and the development of partnerships with local and federal government institutions and businesses to enhance the learning experience of political science students and to help prepare them for success in the job market, legal careers or graduate school.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or ABD in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution of higher education
- Research experience
- Teaching experience or training in teaching techniques.
- Expertise in area studies, in one of more of the following fields: Asia, The Middle East, Europe, Africa
- Teaching and research interest in Comparative Politics
- A strong interest in developing new courses to reflect the changing nature of the international system and developments in the discipline of Political Science.
- Experience and/or ability in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Secondary interest in Quantitative Methodology
- Ability and willingness to teach, and perform research utilizing Quantitative Methodology
- An interest in student-involved research

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

CSU Dominguez Hills

On April 29, 1960, Gov. Pat Brown signed a bill into law authorizing the formation of a state college to serve the growing southwestern region of Los Angeles County. From its humble beginnings in a bank building in Rolling Hills Estates, CSU Dominguez Hills has evolved into a thriving and nationally recognized comprehensive university, providing an innovative liberal arts education to a diverse student body.

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Vision

A vital educational and economic resource for the South Bay, CSU Dominguez Hills will be recognized as a top-performing Comprehensive Model Urban University in America. We will be known as a campus community and gathering place where:

- Diversity in all its forms is explored, understood, and transformed into knowledge and practice that benefits the world.
- Technology is embraced and leveraged to transcend educational boundaries as we reach out to students, both locally and globally.
- Sustainable environmental, social and economic practices are a way of life.

- Students from our community who aspire to complete a college degree are provided the pathway and guidance to succeed.
- Faculty and staff across the University are engaged in serving the dynamic needs of the surrounding communities.
- Student life is meaningful and vibrant.
- Our accomplishments and those of our alumni are recognized nationally and internationally.
- Ultimately, our students graduate with an exemplary academic education, a highly respected degree, and a genuine commitment to justice and social responsibility.

About the University

CSU Dominguez Hills holds the Carnegie classification of Master's L and is a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. Class sizes are small as compared with large research universities and classes are taught by the faculty, not by teaching assistants. Many of the university's students are the first in their families to earn a university degree. While the university enrolls traditional full-time students, many students enroll part-time and attend late afternoon, evening and weekend classes because of work and family responsibilities.

CSU Dominguez Hills offers 45 baccalaureate degrees, 24 master's degrees, and a number of certificate and credential programs. Enrollment exceeds 14,635 students, and the student population is among the most ethnically and culturally rich in the nation: 60% Hispanic/Latino, 14.5% Black/ African-American, 10.9% White, 10.8% Asian, .10% American Indian/ Alaska Native, .30% Native Hawaiian/ Other Pacific Islander, 3.10% Two or more races.

The University is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), the accrediting body for institutions of higher learning in the West. Twelve programs hold accreditations from national professional associations: business administration, clinical sciences, computer science, education, health science, music, nursing, occupational therapy, public administration, special education, theatre arts, and social work.

The academic programs of the university are organized under the Colleges of Arts and Humanities, Business Administration and Public Policy, Extended and International Education, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Health and Human Services, and Nursing. While continuing to emphasize the liberal arts and sciences, professional programs offered at the undergraduate and graduate level, developed to serve the region's workforce needs, are of great interest to students and prepare them for professions in a variety of industries.

Known for excellence in teacher education, nursing, psychology, business administration, and digital media arts, new degree programs include computer science, criminal justice, recreation and leisure studies, social work, and communication disorders. CSU Dominguez Hills is a national leader in distance learning with 10 academic degrees and seven certificate programs offered.

Faculty

A tradition of teaching excellence lies at the heart of the university experience for Dominguez Hills' students. Most of the faculty have earned doctoral degrees from prestigious universities across the nation. The faculty strives to sustain a dynamic teaching and learning environment in a multicultural setting. The Academic Senate provides a forum for faculty, administration, students and others to be represented and consulted regarding such vital issues as budget priorities, academic standards, curriculum and instruction, and student affairs.

Student Life

At CSU Dominguez Hills, there's more to student life than the classroom. The university offers a dynamic, interactive and enriching community of learners, teachers and peers sharing diverse points of view. There are multitudes of ways for students to pursue interests, get involved, and get the most from their academic experience.

An office of student life enhances student development by coordinating a variety of co-curricular activities, including 60 student organizations. Students are encouraged to perform community service and participate in leadership development. The Multicultural Center on campus promotes the exploration of diverse heritages, values and cultural experiences by offering a wide range of activities and programs throughout the academic year.

CSU Dominguez Hills is a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II institution that competes in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). CSU Dominguez Hills is one of the most athletically competitive and honored schools in the CCAA, with 23 conference titles and four national championships to date, including the 2008 NCAA D-II Men's Soccer National Championship. CSU Dominguez Hills sponsors 11 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The Location

The university is located in Carson, California, in the South Bay region of Los Angeles County. Its 346-acre park-like campus is situated in the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. The site remained in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family for seven generations - from its inception in 1794 to its acquisition by the state of California.

The Region

The South Bay is one of the most culturally, economically, and ethnically diverse areas in the United States, with a largely even distribution of the population with African, Asian/Pacific Islander, European, and Latino ancestry. The university is located in the city of Carson, a city of 93,000 residents and one of the many municipalities that border the city of Los Angeles. Cultural, performance and sports venues in downtown Los Angeles are about 15 minutes away and the South Bay beach communities are a few minutes away to the west and south. The StubHub, a 125-acre sports center developed by AEG and home to Major League Soccer's L.A. Galaxy and Chivas USA, is located on the CSUDH campus.

The campus is strategically located in the heart of a major technological, industrial and transportation complex in Southern California. This area includes the massive Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles – Southern California's gateway to international commerce. The South Bay region is also home to aerospace, oil refinery, healthcare and automotive industries.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by October 15, 2017.

- Current Curricula Vitae

- Cover letter
- Three Letters of Recommendation
- Copy of Terminal Degree
- A Statement on Teaching
- A Statement on Research
- Sample Publications (if available)
- Teaching Evaluations (if available)

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee when to submit official transcripts directly to the email address of srusso@csudh.edu or you may mail directly to:

Dr. Salvatore J. Russo
Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
CSU, Dominguez Hills
1000 East Victoria Street
Carson, CA 90747

California State University, Dominguez Hills, is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Individuals with disabilities requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) may call the CSU Dominguez Hills Human Resources Office (310) 243-3771 or the Academic Affairs Personnel Services Office at (310) 243-3766.

Clergy Act crime statistics for CSUDH are available at <http://www.csudh.edu/dhpd/>, or by calling University Police at (310) 243-3693.

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3348

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of Latin America

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Latin America, beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, foreign policy, transnational politics, and traditional and non-traditional security (including food and environmental security). We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, geography, international relations, anthropology, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) three letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9608>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3334

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, security, human security, and civil society. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, anthropology, geography, international relations, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9610>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3335

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2018-19

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of contemporary domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, and social/legal/economic development of China, particularly on issues related to urbanization, political/economic reform, energy/environment, social welfare, and civil society. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center throughout the academic year also required (e.g. weekly doctoral fellows workshop series). It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation during the fellowship period as well as participate in the Center's publication program. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have his/her degree conferral by June 1, 2018.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2018 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

To submit an application for the 2018-20 fellowship, please refer to <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 15, 2017 (Friday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters must be emailed directly by the recommenders. All recommendation letters must be received for full consideration.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Manager for Ash Center Fellows Programs
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1968

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

American University of Afghanistan

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Specializations: Central Asia, Developing Nations, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science

Reports to: Chair of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Starting: Spring 2018

The American University of Afghanistan (AUAF) is a private, non-profit university offering an American-style liberal arts education. We opened our doors in 2005 and currently offer 4 undergraduate academic majors and an MBA program. We follow a strict non-discriminatory policy, and applicants from all ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds are encouraged to apply. We are a young, dynamic university with a student population of above 1000 students. Construction continues on a new 75-acre international campus.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration is seeking a qualified candidate for a full-time faculty position, an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science.

Responsibilities and duties:

- Teach lower and higher level courses in Political Science (ability to teach Political Science and Public Administration courses is highly desirable)
- Teach 12 credit hours per semester
- In addition to teaching, full-time faculty are required to provide service to the university in some capacity either by serving on a committee, assisting the Department Chair with various administrative tasks, mentoring and advising students on academic affairs, or in other ways.
- Although AUAF is primarily a teaching institute, research, especially the preparation of publications in academic or policy journals, is highly desirable

Requirements:

- Earned PhD in Political Science. (MA holders with experience in the field and a proven track record of teaching experience at the post-secondary level may be considered)
- Prior teaching experience at the post-secondary level
- Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at AUAF is English.
- Experience teaching in international locations and multicultural settings preferred
- When hired, the successful applicant is expected to provide official proof of academic degrees (transcripts sent from the degree granting school directly to AUAF)

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled.

The American University of Afghanistan offers a generous benefits package that includes a competitive salary, air transportation, University-provided accommodation, and paid health care insurance. This is an unprecedented opportunity to teach at a newly formed American University in an emerging and rapidly changing society.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching purpose, and contact information for three references to jobs@auaf.edu.af. Please include Political Science in the subject line of the email.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3325

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites postdoctoral students who will be completing or will have recently completed a Ph.D. to apply for its Postdoctoral Democracy Fellowship. The Democracy Fellowships aim to support postdoctoral scholars whose research illuminates aspects of democratic governance in ways that are innovative and push the boundaries of their academic disciplines, whether political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. Furthermore, their research should have the potential for normative or practical relevance regarding urgent substantive policy or social problems related to democratic governance.

Postdoctoral Fellows join the Ash Center's academic community and participate in the Democracy Fellows weekly seminar. The fellowship provides time and space for the fellows to work on preparing either a book manuscript based on their dissertation or related academic publications.

For more information about the fellowship, eligibility, benefits, and the online application, please visit our fellowship homepage <http://ash.harvard.edu/democracy-postdoctoral-fellowships>

Applications are due by October 4, 2017, for the 2018-2020 academic years.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/4/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3317

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

University of Western Ontario

Rank: Comparative Political Behaviour

Department of Political Science

Faculty of Social Science

Western University, London Ontario Canada

Comparative Political Behaviour

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Science at Western University invites highly qualified applicants for a full-time Probationary (tenure-track) appointment at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor or a Tenured appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. Rank to be determined based on qualifications and experience. The position will be in the field of Comparative Political Behaviour with a starting date of July 1, 2018.

We seek candidates who will contribute to the Department's signature area in Democratic Engagement, and who have built or are building an international research profile in that area. The successful candidate will have a PhD in Political Science.

We seek an outstanding individual with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in research, teaching, and service. The candidate should be capable of supervising graduate student research, teaching graduate and undergraduate students, and securing external research grants. All faculty members are expected to participate in administrative committees at the level of the department, faculty, and/or university, including service external to the university.

Western Political Science seeks to be the foremost destination for research and graduate training in Global Justice, Democratic Engagement and Multilevel Governance. The Department instills in its undergraduate and graduate students the importance of understanding the power of ideas, and the consequences that can result when public policy is not based on sound and well-informed decisions. Students are introduced to great ideas and ideologies, the diverse political institutions in Canada and around the world, the complex, diverse and rapidly changing nature of international relations, and the cultural, social, economic, and political ideas that dominate the contemporary world. For more information, please visit www.politicalscience.uwo.ca.

Since 1878, Western University has been committed to serving our communities through the pursuit of academic excellence and by providing students, faculty, and community members with life-long opportunities for intellectual, social, and cultural growth. We seek excellent students, faculty, and staff to join us in what has become known as the "Western Experience" – an opportunity to contribute to a better world through the development of new knowledge, new abilities, new connections, and new ways to make a difference.

Applications should include the following:

- 1) application form (<http://www.uwo.ca/facultyrelations/pdf/careers/Faculty/Application-FullTime-Faculty-Position-Form.pdf>),
- 2) cover letter,
- 3) curriculum vitae,
- 4) statement of teaching and research interests,
- 5) copies of publications,
- 6) transcript,
- 7) the names and contact information for three referees,
- 8) employment authorization, if applicable.

The deadline for receipt of applications is September 30, 2017.

This material should be sent to:

Professor Donald Abelson, Chair
Department of Political Science
Western University
Room 4154, Social Science Centre
London, Ontario, CANADA N6A 5C2
EMAIL: polisci-recruitment@uwo.ca
FAX: (519) 661-3904

Positions are subject to budget approval. Applicants should have fluent written and oral communication skills in English. The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Western is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, members of racialized groups/visible minorities, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, persons of any sexual orientation, and persons of any gender identity or gender expression.

In accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents.

Accommodations are available for applicants with disabilities throughout the recruitment process. If you require accommodations for interviews or other meetings, please contact Leha Huffman at lhuffma@uwo.ca or 519-661-2111, extension 81459.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3291

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Russia, South Asia

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. The successful candidate should have conducted innovative research in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 preps per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia.

Additional details for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciIRCP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3319

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Russia, Post Soviet Region, Post Communist Europe

The Department of Slavic and Eurasian Studies in collaboration with the Center for Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies at the University of Texas at Austin invites applications for the position of tenure-track assistant professor, with an anticipated start in the fall semester 2018. We seek applications from scholars who work on Russia/the former Soviet Union, and Eastern or East Central Europe who specialize in the social sciences (with a preference for Sociology, Anthropology, Geography, or Political Science). Engagement in interdisciplinary and digital scholarship is welcome, and all candidates must have an active research and publication agenda. Teaching duties will include a two course per semester load and the selected candidate will be expected to exhibit a commitment to service in the department, center, college, and university, and be qualified to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, as well as direct graduate and undergraduate student independent research.

Salary is based upon qualifications and experience.

Qualifications

Successful candidate should have a PhD in hand in the social sciences with a focus on Slavic or Eurasian Studies, strong research and publication agenda, and evidence of excellence in teaching and/or strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate education.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a scholarly writing sample of no more than 30 pages to Professor Julia Mickenberg, Chair, Department of Slavic and Eurasian Studies through apply.interfolio.com/43779. If you do not have a dossier account with Interfolio, you will be prompted to create one prior to applying for the position. Assistance available from Interfolio's Customer Support - help@interfolio.com or call (877) 997-8807.

Priority will be given to applications received by October 10, 2017. Finalists will be interviewed at the Association for Slavic, East European, and Eurasian Studies (ASEEES) conference in Chicago in November. The University of Texas at Austin is an AA/EEO employer, and requires all expected hires to undergo a criminal background check.

The University of Texas at Austin, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, or veteran status in employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3316

Washington & Lee University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics or International Relations
Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Washington and Lee University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics or International Relations. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the Department's introductory course in Global Politics and an introductory course in statistics, as well as upper level courses related to the candidate's field of expertise. Area of specialization is open. Opportunities will be available to teach in the other subfields in the Department (American government and political philosophy), as well as interdisciplinary programs at the University, including Africana Studies, Environmental Studies, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Middle East and South Asia Studies, Poverty and Human Capability Studies, and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. Review of applications will begin immediately, but full consideration will be given to applications that are complete by September 30. Preliminary interviews will not be conducted at APSA.

Washington and Lee is a highly selective university devoted to the teaching of the liberal arts. We are committed to excellence in teaching and to the research and professional activity that support it. Situated in the Shenandoah Valley, three hours southwest of Washington, DC, the university enrolls approximately 1,800 undergraduates and 315 law students. All application materials must be submitted online at apply.interfolio.com/44406. Include a letter of application describing why you wish to teach in a liberal arts setting, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and research abilities. Women and minority candidates are especially encouraged to apply. A completed Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment, which begins July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3310

Knox College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full time, tenure track assistant professor in comparative politics beginning September 1, 2018.

We seek an energetic and creative scholar who adopts innovative approaches to teaching and research in a residential, liberal arts setting. Candidates should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics with a primary focus on an area other than Latin America. Ability to teach in more than one area is highly desirable. Knox College offers three academic terms per year, with a teaching load of two courses per term. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their research, teaching, and service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field expected at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates considered.

Interested applicants should submit:

1. Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy and research agenda,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential,
4. Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence,
5. Unofficial graduate transcripts,
6. An example of recent scholarship such as an article, book chapter, or conference paper.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at bschulze@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 9, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/9/2017

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3302

Colorado State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Asian Politics

The Department of Political Science at Colorado State University invites applications for an entry-level, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Asian Politics with a specialization in China or India. We are open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus, and methodological approaches.

Successful candidates will be expected to offer courses in the comparative politics curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate level as well as one course in the university's interdisciplinary international studies program. Additional teaching assignments will depend on the candidate's interest and expertise. The normal teaching load is 2-2. Faculty members will advise and mentor graduate and undergraduate students, develop an active research agenda, and provide service to the department, college, university, and community. The Department offers programs of study leading to the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees;

the doctoral program emphasizes the study of environmental politics and policy.

Required qualifications: Primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in comparative Asian politics; evidence of an active research agenda focused on China or India; Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 16, 2018; evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Preferred qualifications: Ability to enhance the Department's commitment to diversity and inclusion reflecting Departmental and institutional values; Candidates who complement the department's existing strengths in environmental politics, or who can teach any of the department's methods courses (quantitative, qualitative, or research design) are encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit 1) a letter of application outlining teaching interests and research agenda as well as a brief statement on how your teaching, research and/or service demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts acceptable at the initial stage of the search); 4) evidence of demonstrated or potential teaching effectiveness (syllabi, teaching evaluations, letters of observation), 5) one sample of published or presented work; and 6) the names and contact information of three professional referees to <http://jobs.colostate.edu/postings/49107>. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled; to ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by October 6, 2017. Please note that a complete application consists of the requested materials and three letters of references. Your referees will be emailed a request for a letter of reference immediately upon submission of your application. Please inform your referees that letters should be submitted by October 13, 2017 to ensure full consideration. Application materials of semi-finalist candidates, including letters of reference, will be made available for review by the entire faculty in the Department of Political Science. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Gamze Cavdar (gamze.cavdar@colostate.edu).

CSU is an EO/EA/AA employer and conducts background checks on all final candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/6/2017

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3297

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics or International Relations and Methods

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in comparative politics or international relations starting in August 2018. Candidate must be able to teach classes in research methods. Cross-regional or Middle East expertise is desirable. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans, teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3295

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics – Tenured

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, broadly defined. The holder of the chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. We particularly seek candidates who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Dickey Center, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Rockefeller Center, the Irving Energy Institute, and Tuck School of Business. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on October 7, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44031. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3253

Duke University

Rank: Open Rank

Specializations: American Politics, Latin American, African American Politics

Race and Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at Duke University invites applications for an open rank full-time tenure-track position in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics, with a specialization in American Politics. This position will begin July 2018. We are seeking candidates with research interests in African American or Latino(a) Politics, however, race and ethnic politics scholars with other substantive American Politics interests are also encouraged to apply. The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in her or his field of specialization, and contribute to at least one of the following subfields: Behavior and Identities, and Institutions. An earned Ph.D. in political science or a cognate field by July 1, 2018 is required, and promise of excellence in teaching and research is also salient.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their research agenda, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, evidence of teaching excellence, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9588>. Address correspondence to: Chair, REP Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204.

Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3273

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate Professor - Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field at the rank of tenured Associate Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Successful candidates must hold a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, contact information for at least three independent reviewers, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information about the required diversity statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01512>) for position: Associate Professor of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 22, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3277

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Comparative Politics of Migration

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in the Comparative Politics of Ethnicity and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43796>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3267

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Behaviour

McGill University

Assistant Professor, Political Behaviour

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Behaviour. This position is directed to candidates who specialize in American or European politics. The position requires excellent skills and demonstrated training in methods such as advanced quantitative analysis, formal modelling, survey research methods, experimentation or computational modelling. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to teaching in our sequence of methods courses, particularly at the graduate level.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2018.

For more information about the Department and University, visit our web site at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Hudson Meadwell at hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 9, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/9513>.

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

The language of instruction at McGill is English, but a working knowledge of French is an asset.

Professeur adjoint, Comportement politique

Le Département de science politique sollicite des candidatures pour un poste menant à la permanence en Comportement politique. Ce poste s'adresse aux candidats qui se spécialisent dans la politique américaine ou européenne. Ce poste exige des aptitudes remarquables et une formation reconnue dans des domaines tels que les méthodes quantitatives avancées, la modélisation formelle, les méthodes de recherche par sondages, l'expérimentation ou la modélisation informatique. Le candidat retenu doit contribuer à l'enseignement de nos cours méthodologiques, en particulier au niveau des cycles supérieurs.

Les antécédents des candidats doivent démontrer un potentiel exceptionnel pour la recherche de même que l'aptitude à enseigner efficacement à des étudiants du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs et la capacité à superviser des étudiants aux cycles supérieurs. Le département recherche un professeur adjoint. Toutefois, le recrutement d'un candidat de plus haut niveau est envisageable dans des cas exceptionnels. Le candidat souhaité détient, ou a presque terminé, un PhD.

Chaque candidature doit comprendre le curriculum vitae du postulant, son relevé de notes de l'université, trois lettres de référence, un exemplaire d'un article publié et des documents relatifs à ses aptitudes à enseigner. L'entrée en fonction est prévue pour le 1er août 2018.

Pour en savoir plus sur l'université et le département en cause, consulter notre site Web à l'adresse: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/.

Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de cette position peuvent être envoyées au Directeur du département, Hudson Meadwell, à HUDSON.MEADWELL@MCGILL.CA.

L'étude des candidatures commencera le 9 octobre 2017 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce qu'un candidat ait été retenu.

POSTULER EN LIGNE À L'ADRESSE: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9513>.

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

À McGill, la langue d'enseignement est principalement l'anglais, mais une connaissance pratique du français est un atout.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 10/9/2017

Date Posted: 8/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3258

Meredith College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: China, Japan, India

Meredith College seeks qualified candidates for a tenure track assistant professorship in the Department of History, Political Science, and International Studies. The position will begin in August, 2018.

Ideal candidate will offer teaching and research strengths in modern Chinese history and one or more of the following fields: South Asia, 20th century world, Middle East, Africa, women's history, international or comparative politics. Applicants will be expected to contribute to all programs in the department, teach introductory surveys as well as upper level specialty courses, engage in scholarship and professional activity, and offer effective student advising.

Applicants must have PhD in Asian history or Asian Studies and demonstrated excellence in teaching.

Please attach letter of application, curriculum vitae, and statements of teaching philosophy and research goals to on-line application. Copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of reference should be sent to Dr. Michael Novak, History Search Committee, Meredith College, 3800 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh, NC, 27607-5298. Review of applications begins September 15.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3254

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2018. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in political science with a primary field of Public Law. A secondary field in Comparative Politics is preferred. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will help direct the Legal Studies concentration within the Government major, work closely with other departments within the university (primarily the Criminal Justice program), and teach introductory, advanced undergraduate, and Master's level courses in the area of Public Law such as "Law for Women", "Constitutional Rights and Criminal Justice," and "Constitutional Law". Candidates will also advise students within the Legal Studies concentration and serve the department, university, and profession. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. by the appointment date.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence

- Demonstrated potential for research and publication
- Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers Bachelor and Master's degrees in Government (with Politics and Legal Studies concentrations) as well as a Bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has five Government faculty members (plus History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 100 undergraduate Government majors and 15 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, C.V., evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to facultyjobs@twu.edu. Please include the job code (IRC11435) in the subject line of the email. Review of applications will begin on November 1.

Texas Woman's University strives to provide an educational environment that affirms the rights and dignity of each individual, fosters diversity, and encourages a respect for the differences among persons. Discrimination or harassment of any kind is considered inappropriate. TWU is a "Tobacco Free Campus".

Texas Woman's University is committed to equal opportunity in employment and education and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national or ethnic origin, age, veteran's status, genetic information or against qualified disabled persons.

Individuals may qualify for a Veteran's Employment Preference or a Former Foster Youth Employment Preference at Texas Woman's University over other applicants for the same position who do not have a greater qualification. If you believe you may qualify, click here for more information and instructions on how to claim an employment preference for this position: <http://www.twu.edu/recruitment-selection/6589.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3246

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with expertise in identity and politics for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor or a tenured appointment as Associate Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach and subfield. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 30, 2017, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 2018.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and teaching evaluations (if applicable) via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43729>. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level should have three letters of reference uploaded electronically to Interfolio.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3230

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in the study of conflict and violence for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open to scholars in Comparative Politics or International Relations. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 30, 2017, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 16, 2018.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43734>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3237

Knox College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Comparative Politics, January-June 2018

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a visiting assistant professor in comparative politics beginning January 1, 2018. Knox College operates on a trimester system. This position would involve teaching two courses per term in the Winter and Spring 2018 terms.

Candidates should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics with a preferred focus on Latin America. The candidate should have a Ph.D or nearing completion in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field and should have significant fieldwork experience. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their teaching and research interests.

Interested applicants should submit:

1. A Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential.
4. Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at bschulze@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 11th, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the OCR.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 9/11/2017

Date Posted: 8/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3227

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: International Relations/Comparative Politics Junior Faculty Position

The UCLA Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a junior faculty position, to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in applicants who specialize in International Relations or Comparative Politics, although we will also consider especially strong applications from candidates working in other fields and (pending administrative approval) at senior ranks. Given its commitment to encouraging diversity, UCLA asks that candidates include with their application a statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion.

Candidates should apply online at, <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply>. The job tracking number is JPF03192. The online application should include: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, aforementioned diversity statement, evidence of teaching excellence in related courses, at least one writing sample, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. The letters of recommendation should be uploaded directly by the referees. Appointments will be effective July 1, 2018. Ph.D. in Political Science in hand prior to the appointment. To ensure full consideration, the online application should be completed by September 25, 2017. Applications will be accepted, however, until the position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy, see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/16/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3220

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security -- with a particular emphasis on China's foreign relations, Chinese foreign policy, and Chinese security policy -- to begin July 2018.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43731

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3212

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for senior faculty positions in the study of armed conflict. The search is open with respect to field and rank. Candidates should submit a CV and any accompanying documents such as sample publications online at: <http://tinyurl.com/y7mzcn4p>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 6/30/2018
Date Posted: 8/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3214

Occidental College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

International Relations and Comparative Politics. The Department of Diplomacy and World Affairs (DWA) at Occidental College invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in the fields of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics to begin in fall 2018. We are specifically searching for a candidate whose expertise falls in the intersections of International Relations, Comparative Politics, and Transnationalism, or who focuses on interesting combinations of thematic issues or geographic areas. Strong preference will be given to those whose Ph.D. research focuses on the themes of state and non-state violence, migration studies, global environmental politics, and/or non-traditional diplomacy, and with expertise in Europe and/or Latin America. The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one of DWA's core courses, which includes Introduction to International Relations, International Organizations, and/or International Political Economy.

Occidental College is a highly-selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles.

Occidental College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not unlawfully discriminate against employees or applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, breastfeeding or related medical condition, national origin, ancestry, citizenship, age, marital status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic characteristic or information, sexual orientation, military and veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by State or Federal Law. We strongly encourage all underrepresented candidates, especially women and persons of color, to apply.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Romy Corona at rcorona@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter detailing your interest in teaching at Occidental, a liberal arts institution with a mission of equity and excellence; a discussion of your research; and a description of your teaching experience; (2) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes a discussion of your demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for underrepresented students; (3) a list and brief descriptions of courses you could teach at Oxy; (4) a sample of your scholarly work; (5) Curriculum Vitae; and (6) three confidential letters of recommendation, with at least one attesting to your teaching; letters must be sent by recommenders. All materials are due no later than October 13, 2017; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semifinalists will be held via video conference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. Inquiries about the position or the DWA department can be directed to the Department Chair, Professor Lan Chu: lchu@oxy.edu

Professor Sanjeev Khagram will be available to answer questions regarding the position at the APSA Conference in San Francisco on Saturday, September 2 from 1:00 pm-5:00 pm. Attendance at the conference is not a requirement of the position and will not be considered in the evaluation of application materials.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3207

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of Environmental Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in Environmental Politics at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. We welcome applications from candidates in any - or some mix - of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries.

This position, located in the Department of Politics, is part of a cross-disciplinary initiative focused on integrating social, political, cultural, and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty across the University of Virginia. The successful candidate will be involved with the University's new Environmental Resilience Institute.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Successful candidates must demonstrate, in written or published work, deep engagement with and significant contributions to an important area of environmental politics. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. For appointments at the assistant rank, we prefer candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold the PhD at the time of application and must demonstrate an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa: <https://jobs.virginia.edu>. Search on posting number 0621502 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, applicants for the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2018, with an anticipated start date of July 2018.

Questions regarding the application process in Jobs@UVa should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia assists UVa faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see: <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3198

Waseda University

Rank: Tenure-track positions in Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Faculty of Political Science and Economics at Waseda University invites applications for three tenure-track faculty positions in political science to begin in the 2018-2019 academic year. These positions are open with respect to the field of specialization. The Faculty seeks promising junior scholars who are committed to a career in research and teaching. The new hires must demonstrate potential for producing innovative research, prospective or actual impact on the profession in his or her field of expertise, and excellence in teaching.

Successful candidates will also be able to teach one of our graduate-level, introductory methodology courses in empirical analysis, formal political theory, or normative studies. For details about these courses, please refer to the following syllabi:

Introduction to Empirical Analysis
(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012046012017310101204631&pLng=en>);

Introduction to Formal Theory
(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012020022017310101202031&pLng=en>);

Introduction to Normative Studies
(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012019022017310101201931&pLng=en>)

Waseda University, founded in 1882, is a leading private research university located in central Tokyo. As part of the University's internationalization initiative, the Faculty of Political Science and Economics has offered English-based degree programs both at the undergraduate and graduate levels since 2010. The programs offer a diverse and dynamic academic community to talented students from all around the world.

Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline by the date of appointment. Proficiency in Japanese is desired but not required. The initial term for the tenure-track appointment is three years, with a possible extension of two years, contingent on an interim review during the second or third year. Tenure may be granted at any time during the probationary period upon a successful tenure review.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, sample syllabus of a lecture course in their specialized field (undergraduate or graduate level), and up to three samples of significant written scholarship electronically via https://www.wasedapse.jp/en/fpse1/eng_input.php

1. Submit your cover letter (use Template Form A) in the "(1) Application Form / Cover Letter" field
2. Submit your professional cv (use Template Form B) to the "(2) Curriculum Vitae with a list of academic/professional accomplishments" field:
3. Submit your research statement in the "(3) Additional application material 1" field
4. Submit up to three written works in the "(3) Additional application material 2" field
5. Submit your sample syllabus to the "(3) Additional application material 3" field

For Template Form A and B, Please visit <https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news/2017/08/21/7802/> on August 21st at 11:00 a.m. (JST) or later.

The application deadline is Saturday, September 30, 2017 at 1:00 p.m. (JST). Should you wish to submit a hard copy of your work or any other application materials, please send us two copies by registered mail on or before the application deadline. Receipt of applications will be acknowledged by email within 10 days after the deadline.

Candidates should also arrange to have two letters of reference submitted via email, or standard mail to the address indicated below. Should your reference send a letter via email, we ask that the letter be emailed from his or her professional affiliation. Reference letters should be sent to:

pse-hr-PolSciTT@list.waseda.jp

Prof. Koichi Suga, Dean
Attn: Application for Teure-Track positions for Political Science
Faculty of Political Science and Economics
Waseda University
1-6-1 Nishi Waseda, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-8050
Japan

Any questions regarding these positions or the application procedure should be directed to pse-hr-PolSciTT@list.waseda.jp.

Please note that the recruitment process involves three stages: 1) document screening; 2) campus visit including research presentation and an interview with the search committee; and 3) interview with the dean.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/13/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3194

Lycoming College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Lycoming College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin fall 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained to teach both introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics. Candidates with expertise in European Politics and the ability to offer courses in American Politics, as well as the College's interdisciplinary first year seminar program, are preferred. Lycoming's small, liberal arts environment allows faculty members, as part of their 3-3 teaching load, to create new courses in line with their area of specialization. Candidates should demonstrate a strong promise of teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement. A strong commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment is essential. Ph.D. in political science is preferred, but ABDs in their final stages of completion will be considered and are encouraged to apply.

Lycoming College is a four-year, private, residential liberal arts college dedicated to the undergraduate education of 1,400 students. The college has a vibrant residential community and is located in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, a city of approximately 30,000 in the mountains of north central Pennsylvania near the banks of the Susquehanna River, which offers many opportunities for cultural entertainment and outdoor recreation. Please visit <http://www.lycoming.edu> for more information about the College.

To apply: Send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, 250-word statement on why they are interested in a liberal arts academic environment, writing sample, 3 letters of recommendation and graduate transcript. Electronic submission of application materials is required to jobs@lycoming.edu. Please reference "Assistant Professor of Political Science, Comparative Politics" in the subject line of the email. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Post-offer, pre-employment drug screen conducted.

Lycoming College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3193

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in comparative politics, pending budgetary approval.

Successful candidates will have a strong regional expertise that focuses on, but is not necessarily limited to, Europe and have a substantive focus on topics relevant to consolidated democracies with developed economies. We are open to a variety of methodological approaches. We are especially interested in scholars whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths in comparative and international politics. The position will also be affiliated with the University's European Studies Center (<https://www.ucis.pitt.edu/esc/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer 2018. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference. For each reference, you will have the opportunity to input a personal email address or an email address generated through Interfolio's Online Application Delivery. In both cases, an email notification will be sent to the designated address with instructions about uploading letters of recommendation into our system. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTkx>. Review of applications will be on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3186

Brandeis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Brandeis University invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. We seek candidates who specialize in comparative politics with regional expertise in Latin America. We are open as to the specific focus of research. Issues of particular interest include, among others, democracy/democratization/democratic erosion, political economy of Latin America, and indigenous peoples/ethnic politics. Successful candidates should be able to teach a survey course in Latin American Politics as well as courses reflecting their particular research interests. Evidence of teaching excellence and promise of a strong record of research and publication are essential.

Candidates should have PhD in hand by September 2018. Candidates scheduled to defend the dissertation in the fall and expecting to receive the degree by January will also be considered.

The Department of Politics is a PhD-granting department, and the candidate will be expected to contribute to the teaching and training of graduate students. Teaching load is 2/2, with a semester of leave after a successful Third Year Review. Qualified applicants should submit electronically a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings, a chapter or article length writing sample, and three letters of reference to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9509> First consideration will be given to applications received by October 16, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to: Professor Eva Bellin, Chair, Comparative Politics/Latin America Search Committee (ebellin@brandeis.edu).

Brandeis University is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. Diversity in its student body, staff and faculty is important to Brandeis' primary mission of providing a quality education. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their creative endeavors, teaching and/or service experiences, will increase Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and better prepare its students for a pluralistic society.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/10/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3177

Saint Mary's College of California

Rank: American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Africa, East Asia

Saint Mary's College of California invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in the Department of Politics. The position is for an Americanist to join our collegial department of passionate and active teacher/scholars. The ideal candidate will have the ability to teach introductory and upper division courses on executive and legislative politics at the federal, state, and local levels, and other courses that fit with the candidate's substantive interests. We have a particular interest in recruiting candidates who can develop courses to strengthen the diversity of our curriculum, and to work with a highly diverse student body. We prefer candidates with a secondary specialization in African or Asian politics, and those who have the ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

Consistent with Saint Mary's College's commitment to inclusive excellence, the Politics Department strives to be an inclusive community that fosters respect and belonging for faculty and students of diverse backgrounds and identities. We seek a candidate who can engage, advocate for and support students of color, women, and underrepresented groups.

Saint Mary's College of California is a private, Catholic, comprehensive and co-educational university that engages students in rigorous critical thinking, promotes social justice, and educates the whole person for human fulfillment. Recognized among just forty exceptional institutions in Colleges That Change Lives – and the first Catholic and first California college to be included – Saint Mary's is praised for its challenging and supportive learning community.

The De La Salle Christian Brothers, the largest teaching order of the Roman Catholic Church, guide the spiritual and academic character of the College. Located on a stunning 420-acre campus in the Moraga Hills outside of San Francisco, Saint Mary's currently enrolls approximately 4,000 highly diverse students. For more information about Saint Mary's mission and history, see: <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/about-smc/our-mission>.

Responsibilities: All Saint Mary's faculty are invited to engage with and contribute to the Catholic, Lasallian and Liberal Arts traditions of the College through their teaching, scholarship and service. The standard teaching assignment is six courses per year, including departmental offerings and contributions to College-wide programs (January Term and Collegiate Seminar). In the department, the successful candidate will teach courses such as Introduction to American Politics, Presidency and Congress, Political Parties and Pressure Groups, Elections and Voting Behavior, State and Urban Politics, and other courses based on the candidate's expertise. Saint Mary's faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarly agenda and demonstrate intellectual growth and significant achievement appropriate to their field. All faculty also contribute service to the College and community, including academic advising, and participation in the shared governance of the College through departmental and College-wide committees and the development and assessment of the College's Core Curriculum. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or related field or doctoral candidacy focused on U.S. executive and legislative politics, with expectation of degree by July 1, 2018; demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching in the liberal arts tradition; evidence of potential for teaching effectiveness, particularly among a diverse body of undergraduates; ability to engage in scholarship and professional activity at the national (or international) level.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience teaching politics courses and evidence of effectiveness in teaching; promise of significant scholarly achievement; demonstrated commitment and success working in diverse, multicultural contexts, especially in higher education settings; qualified to teach a course in African or Asian politics; interest in developing courses that strengthen the diversity of the curriculum; ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

TO APPLY:

1. Please apply on-line at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43640>
2. A complete application includes a letter of interest, explaining how your qualifications satisfy the position requirements and addressing how you are prepared to support the Mission of the College; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; evidence of teaching effectiveness thus far; and a writing sample.
3. In applying for a position, candidates sign a consent form authorizing a broader inquiry.
4. For finalists, the College will contact references, in confidence, and credentials will be confirmed prior to hire.
5. Questions should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Ronald Ahnen, Chair of Politics Department at rahn@stmarys-ca.edu. Deadline: Consideration and review of applications will begin immediately. Applications submitted after October 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Mary's College annually collects information about campus crimes and other reportable incidents in accordance with the federal Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. To view the Saint Mary's College Report, please go to the Public Safety website at <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/public-safety/annual-security-and-fire-safety-report-0>. To request a paper copy please call Public Safety at (925) 631-4284. The report includes the type of crime, venue, and number of occurrences.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3183

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Assistant/ Associate Professor - Open Search

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Political Science at Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. Candidates for Associate Professor rank are also invited to apply. The position is open to all subfields, with a preference for comparative politics and international relations scholars. The term of appointment would begin October 1, 2018.

Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. By the third year of the appointment, candidates will be expected to be able to teach in Hebrew.

Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than two pages).

The committee will begin reading applications on October 1st, 2017, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should send their applications to: shain@tauex.tau.ac.il and azar-gat@post.tau.ac.il.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3175

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3156

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/tenure-track positions in Political Science. Candidates from all sub-fields will be considered. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor), from scholars of Middle Eastern politics, and from scholars of political theory are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

The review of applications will begin in October, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the academic year of 2017/2018, with potential campus visits to NYUNY occurring in the Spring 2018. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3163

Baruch College, CUNYRank: Assistant Professor of Political Science*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Baruch College's Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure track position as assistant professor in the field of Public Policy, open with regard to geographic and topical specialization within public policy. The position will begin in the fall semester 2018.

Baruch, a flagship college of the City University of New York, is located in the historic Gramercy Park district of Manhattan.

In the last several years, Baruch has emphasized recruitment of underrepresented groups, and has achieved success in this area. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or related field at time of appointment and an active research agenda. Proficiency in quantitative research methods is appreciated, as is experience or interest in teaching in online or hybrid formats.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

STEP ONE - Copy and paste the link below into your browser: https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=17222&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

To be considered for this position, please submit your application online by clicking on "Apply Now". Candidates should provide a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, CV, writing samples, and (if applicable) any formal evaluations of teaching performance.

STEP TWO - Go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> All applicants are required to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted electronically by their references as described below.

Please go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> and enter the contact information for three (3) references. The online system will automatically send your references a request to submit a letter via the system. Full instructions will be provided.

Emailed or hard copy applications will not be considered.

If you have any questions, please contact HR at 646-660-6590

CLOSING DATE

Review of resumes begins on August 17, 2017; to ensure consideration, please apply by October 1, 2017.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 10/1/2017Date Posted: 8/7/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3136University of Southern California*Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of Comparative Politics. Areas of interest include state formation and capacity, authoritarianism and democratization, contentious politics, identity politics, political institutions and policymaking, and the political economy of development. We welcome applications from scholars studying any developing region, including South Asia, Latin America, and Africa. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the start of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-comparative-politics/1209/5281326>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/7/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3141Yale University*Rank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43427>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date. Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/7/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3135

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Government at Cornell University welcomes applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The department has special interest in candidates whose research and teaching interests include formal theory, Europe, the Middle East, and/or South Asia. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2018.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9482>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is complete.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities and genders. We strongly encourage women and under-represented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3125

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-2019 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach introduction to world or comparative politics (depending on subfield), upper-level political science courses in the area of specialty including Post Soviet Russian Politics, and to occasionally teach as part of a faculty rotation the Introduction to Russian and Eurasian Studies and the Havighurst Seminar (topical); develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in the curricular and programming efforts of the Havighurst Center for Russian and Post-Soviet Studies.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science, public policy or a related field. Consideration will be given to those with expertise in Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4586>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Laura Neack at neacklj@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3126

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3129

Bethany College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

TWO positions for Assistant Professor; tenure-track. The Department of History and Political Science at Bethany College seeks to fill two tenure-track positions starting 2018-2019. The primary field for one position should be in American politics including constitutional law, American Political Development, American institutions broadly defined, judicial politics, or American foreign policy. The primary field for the second position should be in Comparative or International Politics broadly understood. We would prefer candidates who can contribute to institutional initiatives in pre-law advising, environmental politics and policy, or public health. The ability to lead short-term study abroad programs and/or to teach courses in social sciences statistics or research methods would be a significant plus. Each successful candidate will be expected to contribute courses to at least two subfields of the discipline and/or an interdisciplinary international relations program. Candidates should demonstrate how their research and teaching brings an integrative perspective to bear on the study of politics, society, and social change.

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to liberal arts education and to engaging students in active undergraduate research. Bethany faculty are expected to make contributions to student advising, program assessment, committee service, and student recruitment and retention.

Both positions will commence in August 2018.

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field preferred, ABD considered; teaching experience is essential. There is the possibility of appointment at an advanced Assistant Professor level if qualifications and time in rank merit.

Bethany is a private, liberal arts, church-affiliated college with an enrollment of approximately 700 students. Bethany College is located on a picturesque and historic 1,300-acre campus in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia, approximately 40 miles west of Pittsburgh. Founded in 1840, Bethany is West Virginia's oldest private college.

Please provide letter of application, CV, statement of teaching interests, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and unofficial copies of both graduate and undergraduate transcripts via email to doffaculty@bethanywv.edu and reference Political Science search in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. We do plan to complete this process in the fall semester so candidates are strongly urged to apply on time. We will be interviewing strong candidates at the American Political Science Association annual meeting in San Francisco (Thursday and Friday only). Please email CV to Dr. Joe Lane (Provost) at doffaculty@bethanywv.edu note "request an interview at APSA" in the subject line.

Bethany College seeks a diverse faculty and staff. Bethany is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3102

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Latin American Politics - Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of Comparative Politics with a focus on Latin America. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will begin on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field by date of appointment or soon thereafter. The successful candidate will conduct scholarly research on Latin America that addresses important, general debates in the Comparative Politics subfield. Excellence in research is required, and she or he will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She or he will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses or a research pipeline that is at high international levels and will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field, research statement and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. Finally, she or he will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Comparative Politics, as well as advanced courses in Latin American Politics and will have demonstrated excellence in teaching through teaching accomplishments, strong letters of reference and the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), a teaching dossier including materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca. Applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2017.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 9/28/2017

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3111

University of Toronto, Mississauga
Rank: Latin American Politics - Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of Comparative Politics with a focus on Latin America. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor and will begin on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field and conduct scholarly research about Latin America that addresses important debates in Comparative Politics. Excellence in research is required, and the successful candidate will have an established and excellent record of innovative research of an internationally competitive calibre. This excellence in research will be evidenced by a record of sustained contributions and publications in leading journals or with leading presses in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, strong endorsements by referees of high standing, and an outstanding track-record of externally funded research.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be supplied by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, teaching statement, graduate supervision, and the dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The successful candidate will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Comparative Politics, as well as advanced courses in Latin American politics.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@

utoronto.ca. Applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2017.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 9/28/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3112

Boston College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics

The Department of Political Science of Boston College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank in Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics. The position is open in regard to research focus and methods. Preference will be given to candidates with substantive fieldwork, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a broad knowledge of the region. The appointment begins in the Fall 2018 semester.

Candidates are expected to have their Ph.D. in hand by the start date. Interested candidates should upload a letter of interest, stating research and teaching interests; curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, and a writing sample; and evidence of teaching excellence to the Interfolio online system at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43536>. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded to Interfolio by the individual writers. Applications must be received by October 1, 2017. No email or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Boston College is a Jesuit, Catholic university that strives to integrate research excellence with a foundational commitment to formative liberal arts education. We encourage applications from candidates who are committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic community.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3079

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2018 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <http://tinyurl.com/yapctjam>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 5/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3084

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3059

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, International Relations or Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the fields of international relations or comparative politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/>

academicjobs. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3070

University of Denver

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor (Comparative/International Political Economy)

Specializations: Latin American, Middle East, South Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Denver invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship to start in Fall 2018 in the field of Comparative or International Political Economy. We are most interested in candidates with research expertise in environmental politics and policy or regional expertise in Latin America, the Middle East, or South Asia. The position requires teaching the equivalent of two courses per quarter (three quarters per year) in the Political Science department, covering a range of upper division comparative/international politics courses, introductory courses, and other university requirements. The University of Denver embraces a scholar-teacher model where faculty balance their commitment to rigorous research with undergraduate education. We welcome the incorporation of experiential learning opportunities in the curriculum such as internships, simulations, or service learning. The person holding this position would also be expected to contribute to University and departmental service.

The Department of Political Science is an undergraduate-only department with faculty actively engaged in research and teaching students primarily in the context of small classes with intensive writing assignments and close interaction. We aim to develop students' capacity to think and engage the world constructively long after graduation. We currently have nine full-time faculty members with emphases in American politics, comparative and international politics, political theory, and law. For information about the department, please click here.

Essential Functions

- Teach the equivalent of six courses across three quarters per academic year.
- Pursue a fruitful research agenda that results in high quality scholarly publications.
- Advise students.
- Contribute to University and departmental service.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities

- Expertise in CPE/IPE, ideally combined with one of the following sub-specialties: environmental politics and policy or Latin America, the Middle East, or South Asia.

Required Qualifications

- ABD or Ph.D. in Political Science or related Social Science field (e.g. international affairs/relations, institutional economics, sociology). A candidate hired at the ABD level would hold the title of Instructor until completion of Ph.D.
- Experience teaching undergraduate courses in political (or related social) science.

-Experience interacting with diverse communities or evidence of a commitment to incorporate inclusive teaching methods and/or pedagogies to effectively engage broadly diverse student populations.

Preferred Qualifications

-Ph.D. in Political Science or related Social Science.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. Priority will be given to applications received by September 11, 2017, but will consider applications until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact Doug Booth at Douglass.Booth@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

- CV
- Letter of interest
- Research & Teaching Statements
- Transcripts
- Teaching evaluations and course syllabi
- Samples of written work (e.g., two chapters from dissertation or book, and/or two articles).
- Inclusive excellence statement (The separate inclusive excellence statement should be a succinct description of how the candidate's research, teaching, and/or service contributes to inclusive excellence and involves effective interaction with members of historically underrepresented communities. See <http://www.du.edu/cme/resources/inclusive-excellence.html> for more details.)
- At least three letters of recommendation, which can be emailed to polisci@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/11/2017

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3068

National University of Singapore

Rank: Associate/Full Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for an Associate or Full Professor in any of its subfields, which are Comparative Politics, Governance and Public Policy, International Relations, and Political Theory. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research and publication and be able to provide evidence of superior teaching and proven capacity for leadership. The Department of Political Science and the National University of Singapore are highly research-oriented. The teaching load is three modules year academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonuses and salary increments, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support.

Applicants should send a CV, a letter detailing their teaching and research interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox12@nus.edu.sg. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and livable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3044

National University of Singapore

Rank: Lectureship in Comparative Politics, Governance & Public Policy, and/or Methods

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for an educator-track Lectureship or Senior Lectureship in Political Science to teach research methods as well as other modules in either Comparative Politics or Governance and Public Policy for our undergraduate curriculum. The teaching load is six modules per academic year (three per semester), of which about two or three should be in methods.

Lectureships at NUS are career positions in which advancement (to open-contracted Associate Professor and Professor) is possible. Appointments are for three years initially and are renewable on an ongoing basis, subject to good performance and departmental teaching needs. Compensation and benefits are similar to those of faculty members on the tenure track and are competitive.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science. The Department recognizes four main subfields: Comparative Politics; Governance and Public Policy; International Relations; and Political Theory. The Department also hosts the programme in Global Studies.

Candidates should send a CV, a letter detailing their research and teaching interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox5@nus.edu.sg. Candidates should also submit sample syllabi, student evaluations, and other evidence of teaching quality. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and livable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3041

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Position in Law and Legal Institutions in Muslim Societies (Assistant- or Associate-Level)

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or a tenured Associate Professor faculty position focused on law and legal institutions of Islam and/or Muslim societies in any time period.

The successful applicant for this position will be jointly appointed in the Stanford Law School and one of the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, History, Political Science, or Sociology. The successful applicant will have teaching and advising responsibilities in both the Law School and the School of Humanities and Sciences and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts. The exact structure of the appointment, including the share of the appointment in Law and Humanities and Sciences, will depend on the successful candidate. We have a preference for candidates who hold both a J.D. and Ph.D., but will also consider candidates with a Ph.D. and substantive expertise in Islamic law and institutions.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of research interests, a curriculum vitae including list of publications, and one recent writing sample. Assistant level and untenured associate level applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 15, 2017.

Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9282>

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/24/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3039

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics of South Asia

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics of South Asia to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43261>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 7/21/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3029

Tulane University

Rank: Greenleaf Scholar-In-Residence, Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Latin American, International Political Economy, Environmental Policy

Tulane University invites applications from mid-career scholars in Latin American Studies conducting interdisciplinary research in the social sciences to spend one or two semester(s) as a Greenleaf Scholar-in-Residence at the Stone Center for Latin American Studies during the 2018-2019 academic year. We seek scholars who address questions of social and gender inclusion, particularly with regard to the reduction of economic, environmental, health or other inequalities. We encourage applications from scholars in the fields of anthropology, development studies, economics, environmental studies, international studies, law, political science, public health, social medicine or sociology. Appointments for fall semester are from August 1 – December 31, 2018. Appointments for spring semester are from January 1– May 31, 2019. Salary is $40,000 per semester plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported.

Qualifications: Minimum Associate Professor status or above and a distinguished record of publication.

Application Instructions: Applications must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting <http://apply.interfolio.com/42704>. Please submit a CV including contact information for two professional references, as well as a cover letter describing how residence at Tulane will aid in advancing your research. Also, please provide a title and brief description of a course (or courses) you would be interested in offering. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017, but the position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3028

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as African Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3018

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Chinese Politics

The Department of Political Science at the Johns Hopkins University invites applications for one or more open rank positions in Comparative Politics. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Chinese politics. Other priority areas that would build on and extend existing strengths in the department include social movements, labor, the welfare state, environmental politics, and/or race and immigration. The Comparative Politics subfield at Hopkins builds upon one of the distinctive strengths of the Political Science department: fostering innovative research and cross-field synergies that reach beyond the traditional divides of our discipline. Over the last decade, we have developed exciting collaborations in Comparative and International Political Economy, Parties and Elections, Transnational Politics, and Comparative Racial Politics. We are a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department, and we encourage applications from those trained in a variety of research methods. Applicants should submit a letter of interest that describes their research agenda, writing sample, and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates applying at the level of assistant professor should send teaching evaluations, if available, and three letters of recommendation; those applying at the tenured level should provide the names of three references on Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/31670>

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2018. Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2996

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Administration, Comparative Politics

Due to impending retirements, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2018.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide strong academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience in obtaining and administering external funding awards is preferred. Applicants should have obtained the rank of full professor. Associate professors will be considered if their qualifications are consistent with the rank of full professor in the Department of Political Science at UNR.

About the department: the Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience. Visit our website at <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25111> for further information and to apply.

Candidates should submit a CV, and a cover letter outlining their interest in and experience relating to the position. In the cover letter please highlight your leadership experience and/or potential, and indicate how you would contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service. Letters of reference will only be requested upon initial screening of the applicants.

Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Eric Herzik (herzik@unr.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3003

California State University, East Bay

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics/International Relations),

FACULTY EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

THE UNIVERSITY: California State University, East Bay is known for award-winning programs, expert instruction, a diverse student body of over 15,000 students, and a choice of more than 100 career-focused fields of study. For the past three years our campus has been the recipient of the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award from INSIGHT Into Diversity Magazine. We are proud of our diversity and committed to providing an inclusive and stimulating environment for all our students. The University's main campus is in Hayward, with branches in Contra Costa County, Online and in Oakland, California. Our 900+ faculty offer bachelor's degrees in 47 fields, minors in 51 fields, master's degrees in 33 fields, 9 credentials programs, 12 certificate options, and 1 doctoral degree program. <http://www20.csueastbay.edu/>

THE DEPARTMENT: The Department of Political Science offers a B.A. degree that provides both a strong background in social science and excellent professional preparation for students. The major offers three distinct paths to completion, the traditional major and options in pre-law and public affairs and administration. The two options offer interdisciplinary pre-professional curricula. The department is strong in every aspect of American government (national, state and local institutions, public policy, public law, public administration and ethnic/minority politics), as well as Comparative Politics and International Relations.

DUTIES OF THE POSITION: The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in Comparative Politics, Comparative Law, International Relations, and other coursework as assigned. In addition to teaching, all faculty have advising responsibilities, assist the department with administrative and/or committee work, and are expected to assume campus-wide committee responsibilities. Please note that teaching assignments at California State University, East Bay include courses at the Hayward campus, and with instructor's choice, at the Concord campus, and to teach online.

RANK AND SALARY: Assistant Professor. Salary is dependent upon educational preparation and experience. Subject to budgetary authorization.

DATE OF APPOINTMENT: Fall Semester, 2018.

Qualifications:

- Candidates must have an earned Ph.D. in Political Science at the effective date of the appointment.
- Candidates with teaching experience at the university level are preferred.
- Candidates with experience teaching in various formats (in-person, hybrid and fully online classes), as well as evidence of teaching effectiveness, are preferred.
- Preferred candidates would include those:
 - With research agendas focused on Comparative Politics and any of the following topics – refugees, migration, or closely-related topics,
 - With a record of scholarly activity in the above mentioned subfield and topics, and
 - Who demonstrate knowledge of multiple regions such as Europe and Latin America
- Strong preference for candidates with awareness of issues of diversity and social justice, as well as with innovative pedagogy for students from diverse educational and cultural backgrounds.

Candidates should demonstrate experience in teaching, mentoring, research, or community service that has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. Additionally, applicants must demonstrate a record of scholarly activity.

This University is fully committed to the rights of students, staff and faculty with disabilities in accordance with applicable state and federal laws. For more information about the University's program supporting the rights of our students with disabilities see: <http://www20.csueastbay.edu/af/departments/as/>

Application Instructions

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. The position will be considered open until filled. To apply, please submit the following required documents through Interfolio (see "Apply Now," below): apply.interfolio.com/41997

Application Instructions

1. Letter of application, which addresses the qualifications noted in the position announcement;
2. Complete and current vita;
3. One (1) writing sample;
4. One-page teaching statement that explains your teaching philosophy and pedagogical approaches;
5. One-page research statement that discusses your research agenda;
6. One-page diversity statement that addresses how you engage a diverse student population in your teaching, research, mentoring, and advising; and
7. Three (3) confidential letters of recommendation.

If available, the applicants may also submit the following optional documents.

- Course syllabi;
- Student evaluation of courses taught by the applicant; and
- Additional writing samples.

If you have questions about the position, please contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Maria Ortuoste at: maria.ortuoste@csueastbay.edu

Note: California State University, East Bay hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. All offers of employment are contingent upon presentation of documents demonstrating the appointee's identity and eligibility to work in accordance with provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act. A background check (including a criminal records check and prior employment verification) must be completed and cleared prior to the start of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2991

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for a position (open to applications from specialists in international relations or comparative politics) at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in the Fall of 2018. Courses to be taught include Introduction to International Relations and Politics of the Global Economy. We also welcome courses on topics that support our interdisciplinary initiatives, such as the global environment, global poverty and inequality, sustainability, urbanization, political regimes, and democratization. Expertise in South Asia as well as global experience a plus. Ability to and enthusiasm for teaching Research Methods in rotation with subject areas courses is expected. The teaching load is spread over a two-year cycle. Faculty have a three-course load semester once every two years, and for the other three semesters, the teaching load is two courses. We are seeking to hire a dedicated teacher and emerging scholar who will embrace the department's mission of helping students become informed, analytically reflective, and engaged global citizens.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive Catholic university in the mainstream of American higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, the service of faith and the promotion of justice. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information.)

Loyola Marymount has a strong commitment to diversity, broadly defined, and therefore encourages applicants that enhance the racial diversity of the department; who are committed to working within a diverse campus community; and who are enthusiastic about working in an institution where minority and women faculty can thrive.

The application requires: 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission);

2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates your approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and, if applicable, teaching evaluations and/or sample syllabi; and 4) three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: M.J. Cho at POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to M.J. Cho: POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to M.J. Cho at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. We will begin reviewing applications on September 25; the position will be open until filled. Preliminary interviewing will be conducted at the APSA Annual Meeting.

Candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred; ABD applications who anticipate completion of the doctorate by Fall 2018 will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/22/2017
Date Posted: 7/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2989

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Comparative Politics
Specializations: Western Europe, Quantitative Methods, Electoral Systems

Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics for the 2018-19 academic year beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses, including introductory courses in Comparative Politics, advanced courses in European Politics, and one to two sections of research methods.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status is required. The opportunity to maintain a personal research program will be available.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2174>. A curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 7/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2976

Rice University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position in comparative politics to begin July 1, 2018. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Regional specialization is open. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses and perform research in their specialized area. Therefore successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in the area of political behavior, legislative institutions, and/or representation. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by November 1, 2018.

The application deadline is September 15, 2017. A complete application must include (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) graduate school transcripts, (4) two writing samples, and (5) three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at <http://jobs.rice.edu/postings/11127>.

Equal Opportunity Employer – Females/Minorities/Veterans/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2960

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/IR

Teaching a 3/3 course load, with courses in International or Comparative Political Economy, as well as additional courses in International Politics and/or Comparative Politics and the applicant's area of regional specialty. Maintain an active research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Service includes advising duties for Global Studies majors and other service to the department as assigned by Chair, as well as institutional service.

A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Research agenda and expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. Candidate should have a PhD in Political Science or be ABD.

Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia.

The Department of Political Science at Loyola University Maryland invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The position begins Fall 2018.

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and an interest in the enduring questions of Politics, with an ability to teach International or Comparative Political Economy. Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia. Applicants should have their primary training in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations, and the expectation will be for courses to be taught in Introduction to Politics, International or Comparative Political Economy, International Politics and/or Comparative Politics, as well as in the regional area of expertise. Candidates should have a PhD or ABD.

The teaching load for the position is three courses in the fall and three courses in the spring semester, with a single-course reduction the first semester (each course is capped at 30 students). Courses will primarily serve Political Science and Global Studies majors.

The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in Loyola's growing Global Studies program. Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major with a curriculum based in the four disciplines of Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology. Students begin with foundational coursework in each department, and then develop topical specializations in the junior and senior years. The program hosts annual speakers and special events, and is a significant presence on campus. Faculty who contribute to Global Studies participate in student advising and mentoring, teach courses in the major, and become part of the Global Studies academic community. The candidate will be a member of the Political Science Department but will advise Global Studies majors.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

To apply, please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to submit a C.V., three letters of reference, graduate transcripts (copies are acceptable), an article-length manuscript or chapter demonstrating scholarly potential, and a cover letter explaining teaching approach in relation to Loyola's educational mission. Teaching evaluations and sample course syllabi should also be submitted if available (select Option 1 to submit syllabi in online application). Please submit applications by September 15 to ensure full consideration. For questions related to the search or any materials that are only available in hard copy or cannot otherwise be submitted through the online application (which could include letters of reference or teaching evaluations), please send files to Dr. Carsten Vala via email to cvala@loyola.edu or via mail to him at Department of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/8/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2949

San Diego State University

Rank: Politics of Race and Ethnicity

Specializations: African American Politics, Latino Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

The Political Science Department at San Diego State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in the Politics of Race and/or Ethnicity at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin Fall 2018. The department seeks candidates who have a well-developed research agenda, a promise of sustained scholarly productivity and a record of effective and devoted teaching.

The department is open to all areas of expertise within race and ethnicity and particularly encourages those studying African-American or Latino politics. Substantive topics of interest may include but are not limited to social movements-protest politics, economic justice, environmental racism, democracy, law and race, and comparative examinations of race-ethnicity. The successful candidate will be able to teach a range of political science courses, including our upper-division undergraduate course, Politics of Race and Ethnicity.

The Political Science Department at San Diego State is dedicated to the ideal of the engaged teacher-scholar. It has approximately 500 undergraduate majors and provides course offerings for students with a wide variety of backgrounds and interests. At the graduate level, the department maintains an M.A. program of high quality. The members of the faculty share a strong commitment to collegiality, active participation in the governing of the department, innovative scholarship, methodological pluralism, rigorous teaching, and probing intellectual and normative engagement in teaching and research. Candidates are encouraged to consult the department website: <http://politicalscience.sdsu.edu/>

SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university and Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build and sustain a welcoming environment for all. SDSU is seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups.

Applicants must apply via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/42903>. To ensure full consideration, please submit all materials by October 2, 2017. The screening of applications will begin on this date and continue until the position is filled.

Applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. by the start of the term of appointment will be given priority. Those without a Ph.D.

currently in-hand should include in their letter of interest a statement of progress on the dissertation, indicating reasons to expect completion in a timely fashion.

Further inquiries should be addressed to:
Ronnee Schreiber, Chair of the Department, at rschreib@mail.sd-su.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2937

Pomona College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Tenure-track appointment, Assistant Professor in the Department of Politics, with a main subfield specialization in comparative politics and a regional interest in Europe. Teaching load: 2/2 (two courses per semester). Ph.D. in hand or expected by September 2018. Pomona College, the founding member of the Claremont Colleges, is a highly selective liberal arts college attracting a diverse student body. Send a dossier, including: (a) letter of application; (b) curriculum vitae; (c) graduate school transcripts; (d) a sample of scholarly writing; (e) three brief statements – one addressing teaching philosophy, one addressing scholarship, and one addressing demonstrated ability to mentor a diverse student body; and (f) three letters of recommendation. These documents should be sent to Search Chair, Dept. of Politics, 425 N. College Avenue, Pomona College, Claremont, CA 91711 OR these documents should be uploaded to academicjobsonline.org (preferably the latter). Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. The Politics Department faculty support equal access to higher education and value working in a richly diverse environment. The successful candidate will likely have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving higher education for underrepresented students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2938

Carroll University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Starting date: January 1, 2018

Responsibilities: Responsibilities of this appointment include teaching classes on international relations, advising and mentoring students, and participating in program and departmental service. The successful candidate will participate in the General Education curriculum through teaching in the common core of cross-cultural studies. The normal teaching load for lecturer positions is four 4-credit courses per semester. The capacity to teach broad-based social science research methods is an asset for those applying for this opening.

Qualifications: PhD in International Relations, International Political Economy, Comparative Politics, or in related fields. All Comparative Politics and International Relations specializations will be considered. Ability to teach international political economy courses is required.

Ph.D. in hand is strongly preferred; ABDs will be considered. The successful candidate will complement the department's current offerings and will share the University's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Rank and Salary: This is a full-time, 18-month, non-tenure track position as Instructional Faculty. Salary will be based on qualification and previous experience. The position is eligible for renewal.

The Department: The Department of History, Political Science, and Religious Studies offers majors in the following areas: history; global studies; political science; philosophy, political science and economics; and religious studies.

Carroll University: Founded in 1846, Carroll University is an independent, co-educational comprehensive university grounded in the liberal arts tradition. Carroll University is located in suburban Waukesha, 16 miles west of Milwaukee and 60 miles east of Madison. The University serves approximately 3521 students. The University though intentionally ecumenical and non-sectarian in approach, is related to the Presbyterian Church, USA. Candidates must be willing and able to support and advance the University mission.

Application: Review of applications will begin immediately and will close when the position is filled.

Please submit a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) statement of teaching philosophy as Word or PDF format attachments with the subject line "Visiting Lecturer of International Relations" to facapp@carrollu.edu.

Final applicants will be asked to submit graduate transcripts and three letters of reference.

Carroll University is an Equal-Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2936

Harvard Business School

Rank: Tenure-Track Position: Political Science

Harvard Business School is seeking candidates for a tenure-track position in the Business, Government, and the International Economy (BGIE) unit. We will consider candidates whose research interests include international political economy or comparative political economy. The search is open with regard to methodological approach. Candidates may come directly from Ph.D. programs or from the faculties of other universities. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018.

All applicants should have excellent academic credentials and a demonstrated potential for conducting outstanding research. The School is particularly interested in applicants with interdisciplinary interests and strong records of, or potential for, excellence in teaching.

Successful candidates will, at the outset, teach a required first-year MBA course on the economic, political, and social environment of global business. Starting salaries will be highly competitive.

Applications must be received no later than September 28th, 2017 and should include: curriculum vitae, description of research, and writing sample (preferably dissertation chapters). Three letters of recommendation should be submitted online directly to the School by the referees.

To apply or submit a letter of recommendation, please go to this website and select "Tenure-Track Position: Political Science" when choosing a position on the application:

<http://www.hbs.edu/research/faculty-recruiting>

Material that can only be sent in hard copy can be sent to: Harvard Business School, Faculty Administration, Attn: BGIE Unit Application, Morgan Hall T25, Soldiers Field Road, Boston, MA 02163.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 9/28/2016
Date Posted: 7/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2884

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Middle Eastern Politics

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfield of Middle Eastern politics, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research experience on the domestic politics or policy of one or more Middle Eastern countries, as well as expertise on the international issues that these countries face. The candidate would have sufficient mastery of one or more Middle Eastern languages to engage in the research. The candidate must have demonstrated ability to maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

Due to the endowment that funds this position, if the selected candidate achieves tenure at Claremont McKenna College, he or she would become the Weinberg Chair in International Relations or Comparative Politics and the Middle East.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16021

The review of applications will begin August 1, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinion, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2928

Colgate University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics)

The Political Science Department at Colgate University invites applications for a tenure stream position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning Fall semester 2018. High scholarly promise and demonstrable excellence in teaching are essential. Completion of Ph.D. is expected prior to or shortly after the date of hire. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Comparative Politics with expertise in Russian politics and the former Soviet bloc. Candidates from all substantive areas will be considered; the Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research focuses on any of the following: nationalism and ethnic conflict, civil society, constitutionalism, authoritarianism and hybrid regimes, energy, and environmental politics.

Teaching includes a mix of introductory and upper-level courses to satisfy a five-course annual load. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in all-university programs, including the Liberal Arts Core Curriculum. Applicants must submit a letter of application, current vita, three letters of recommendation, a short writing sample, and evidence of successful teaching via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9277>. Colgate strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. All applications should speak directly to the candidate's ability to work effectively with students across a wide range of identities and backgrounds. Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants with dual career considerations can find postings of other employment opportunities at Colgate and at other institutions of higher education in upstate New York at www.upstatenyherc.org. It is the policy of Colgate University not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment on the basis of their race, color, creed, religion, age, sex, pregnancy, national origin, marital status, disability, protected Veterans status, sexual orientation and gender identity and expression, genetic formation, victims of domestic violence and stalking, familial status, and all other categories covered by law. Colgate is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups, women, persons with disabilities, and protected veteran are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/23/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2916

San Jose State UniversityRank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations*Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San José State University

San José, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 9/15/2017Date Posted: 6/20/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2903San Jose State University*Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations*Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University

San Jose, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:
Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San José State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San José State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San José State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San José State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2904

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations
Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University
San Jose, California
ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147
Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San Jose State University
San Jose, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San Jose State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San Jose (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San Jose State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San Jose State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San Jose State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San Jose State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San Jose State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2905

SUNY, University at Buffalo

Rank: Clinical Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University at Buffalo (SUNY) seeks well-qualified candidates for a Clinical Assistant Professor/Instructor position in Political Science, starting in August 2017. This is a 3-year appointment with the possibility of renewal. Candidates must be minimally ABD in political science or a related field; a Ph.D. is preferred.

The standard teaching load for this position is four courses per semester, but a course release will be granted for serving as the pre-Law advisor. Candidates must be able to offer courses in public law and an introductory (100-level) course in either International Relations, Comparative Politics, or American Politics. Preference will be given to candidates who are capable of teaching upper-division courses in a second field in addition to public law.

Female and minority candidates are especially sought for this position. The University at Buffalo is an EO/AA employer. Candidates must submit the following materials electronically at <https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/9979> or <https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/> by referencing posting number F1700113: a letter of application stating what courses they are prepared to teach, a teaching statement, CV, and a list of three professional references. Finalists may be asked for teaching evaluations and graduate transcripts.

Review of applications will begin on July 10, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions about the position can be directed to Professor Harvey Palmer, Department Chair, by email at hpalmer@buffalo.edu buffalo.edu or by regular mail at: Department of Political Science, 520 Park Hall, University at Buffalo, State University of New York, Buffalo, NY 14260.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2899

California State University, Fresno

Rank: Political Science - Assistant Professor

Political Science
 Assistant Professor

California State University, Fresno is an engaged University. We focus on broadening students intellectual horizons, fostering lifelong learning skills, developing the leaders of tomorrow, promoting community involvement, and instilling an appreciation of world cultures. We nurture cultural competence by celebrating the rich diversity of the campus community and welcoming the participation of all. Members of the University community are expected to work effectively with faculty, staff and students from diverse ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. For information on the University's commitment and dedication to creating a university known for its integrity, civility, equity, respect and ethical behavior, please visit: <http://www.fresnostate.edu/academics/diversity>

- Available for Academic Year: 2018/2019.
- Fresno State has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI); an Asian American/Native American/Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI); and has been designated to the Community Engagement Classification by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.
- Faculty members gain a clear path to tenure through the University's Probationary Plan Process.
- Salary placement depends upon academic preparation and professional experience.
- California State University, Fresno is a vibrant and growing campus. When necessary, the University may decide to make more than one faculty appointment from a single search.

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences at California State University, Fresno seeks applicants for a tenure-track, academic year position as an Assistant Professor in Political Science with a specialization in Comparative Politics/International Relations. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate students, conduct scholarly research, and engage in service. Primary research interests and teaching responsibilities will be in Comparative Politics/International Relations. Teaching responsibilities will include lower and upper-level core (introductory) courses in our Political Science curriculum (e.g. Modern Politics, Comparative Politics, International Politics) as well as upper-level electives and newly designed courses in their area(s) of interest and expertise. This position is open with respect to regional and substantive focus.

The Department of Political Science is one of the strongest in the California State University system. As one of the largest departments in the College of Social Sciences, we serve almost 200 majors in our undergraduate program. We also offer a Master of Public Administration degree. All of the major sub-disciplines of political science are represented within our department and our faculty have a balanced commitment to strong undergraduate teaching, research, and service. Many of our faculty have been recognized for their work nationally and internationally. Graduates of our program go on to careers in law, education, NGOs, and government (including elected and appointed offices), among others; others have gone on to earn master's and doctoral degrees at top universities in the U.S. and abroad. For more information about our department, please see <http://www.fresnostate.edu/socialsciences/polisci/>

Required Education: An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in Political Science or International Relations (or a closely related field with similar academic coursework) from an accredited institution is required for the position. Applicants nearing completion of the Ph.D. (ABD) may be considered for the position, but their degree must be granted by August 1, 2018.

Required Experience: Applicant must be able to demonstrate:

- a commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level, which may be demonstrated through prior teaching experience and teaching evaluations or other evidence
- a strong foundation of a career-long research agenda in political science as evidenced for example by one or more academic conference paper presentations or peer-reviewed publications
- a specialization in comparative politics with expertise in one or more regions of the world
- appropriate academic training to teach an introductory course in International Relations
- a commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Ability to teach courses on more than one region of the world, with a preference for Europe, Russia, the Middle East, or Asia as one of those fields
- Evidence of having successfully taught one or more university-level political science courses as sole instructor
- At least one sole-authored research paper presented at an academic conference
- One or more peer-reviewed publications in political science
- Ability to teach an introductory American Government course

Application Procedures: Review of applications will begin October 1, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. To apply, applicants must complete an on-line application at <http://jobs.fresnostate.edu> and attach the following: 1) a cover letter specifically addressing required experience and preferred qualifications; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy 4) recent teaching evaluations (if available); 5) a research paper presented at an academic conference or a peer reviewed publication, preferably a sole-authored work; 6) unofficial graduate transcripts; and 7) names and contact information for three professional references.

All finalists will be required to submit three current letters of recommendation and official transcripts.

Any related inquiries may be directed to Dr. Melanie H. Ram; Search Committee Chair; California State University, Fresno; College of Social Sciences; Department of Political Science; 2225 E San Ramon, M/S MF 19; Fresno, CA 93740-8029; Phone: (559) 278-5324; E-mail: mram@csufresno.edu

Other: In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act,

California State University, Fresno has made crime-reporting statistics available to applicants, students, and employees on-line at <http://www.fresnostate.edu/police/clery/index.shtml>. Print copies are available by request from the Campus Police Department.

A background check (including criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily for this position. An offer of employment may be withdrawn or employment may be terminated based upon the results of the background investigation.

The person holding this position may be considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. You can obtain a copy of this Executive order by accessing the following web site: <http://www.calstate.edu/eo/EO-1083.html>.

California State University, Fresno is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 6/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2896

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latin American or Latino Studies
Specializations: Latin American, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Department of Political Science and Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS) Program at Lehigh University seek to hire an Assistant Professor to begin in the fall term of the 2018 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in Political Science (the department of tenure) and LALS. We are looking for a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement in U.S. domestic Latinx Studies (in such areas as Latinx and Caribbean communities, Latinx civic engagement, immigration, labor issues, and gender studies) and/or comparative Latin American politics with a focus on transnationalism in Latino communities. The candidate should be committed to creative scholarship and teaching which complement and augment the LALS program's interdisciplinary strengths. The normal teaching load for this position is two courses each semester, which will be cross-listed in political science and LALS.

The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Completed applications are due by October 1, 2017. They must include a letter of interest, a current CV, three letters of reference, and representative reprints of any publications. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/9250>.

For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu or Dr. Matthew Bush, Director of Latin American and Latino Studies, at mab508@lehigh.edu.

Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 6/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2886

Wheaton College

Rank: Tenure-Track in Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Wheaton College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment that would begin in Fall 2018 at the rank of assistant or associate professor. We seek applicants who specialize in comparative politics and who have a regional expertise in Africa, Latin America, or Southeast Asia. Applicants with interests and experience in peace and conflict studies are especially encouraged. Ph.D. is expected and teaching experience is preferred.

Please send a letter describing teaching experience and commitment to the Christian faith along with a current curriculum vitae to Dr. Bryan McGraw, Search Committee Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations (bryan.mcgraw@wheaton.edu). Promising candidates will receive full application materials.

Review of completed applications will begin October 2 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 6/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2875

Wheaton College

Rank: Tenure-Track in Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Wheaton College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment that would begin in Fall 2018 at the rank of assistant or associate professor. We seek applicants who specialize in comparative politics and who have a regional expertise in Africa, Latin America, or Southeast Asia. Applicants with interests and experience in peace and conflict studies are especially encouraged. Ph.D. is expected and teaching experience is preferred.

Please send a letter describing teaching experience and commitment to the Christian faith along with a current curriculum vitae to Dr.

Bryan McGraw, Search Committee Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations (bryan.mcgraw@wheaton.edu). Promising candidates will receive full application materials.

Review of completed applications will begin October 2 and continue until the position is filled.

Wheaton College complies with federal and state guidelines for non-discrimination in employment, and is an evangelical Protestant Christian liberal arts college whose faculty and staff affirm a Statement of Faith and adhere to the lifestyle expectations of the Wheaton College Community Covenant. Information on both may be found at <http://www.wheaton.edu/About-Wheaton/Statement-of-Faith-and-Educational-Purpose>. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 6/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2876

University of Toronto

Rank: Comparative Politics, Russia in comparative perspective

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream position in Comparative Politics, in the area of the politics of Russia in comparative perspective. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must provide strong evidence of research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of sustained contributions or publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. The successful candidate will be expected to mount an innovative, competitive and independently funded research program. Evidence of excellence in teaching is required and is demonstrated by a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, and strong endorsements from referees. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 16, 2017.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 6/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2872

Brigham Young University

Rank: Visiting Faculty

The Department of Political Science seeks applications for a full-time visiting position from well-qualified candidates with a completed Ph.D. in any area of political science, with a preference for comparative politics.

The visiting appointment will begin in Winter 2018.

Successful candidates will have a strong research agenda, demonstrate potential for high-quality teaching, and be committed to giving the university's students a sound academic experience.

Salary, teaching load, and research and travel support are competitive.

BYU, an equal opportunity employer, requires all faculty to observe the university's Honor Code and Dress & Grooming Standards.

To apply, please go to yjobs.byu.edu and search for Political Science Visiting Faculty (Job ID 64236). Review of applicants will begin June 19th, 2017.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2868

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor in Comparative politics to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specializations, and successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Comparative Politics Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eeo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 6/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2867

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

CUNY Baruch College

Rank: Austin W. Marxe Chair in International Economics and Governance (Associate or Full Professor)

Austin W. Marxe Chair in International Economics and Governance (Associate or Full Professor)

Job ID: 17441

Location: Baruch College

Full/Part Time: Full-Time

Regular/Temporary: Regular

CLOSING DATE

This search will remain open until filled, but to ensure a full review of your materials, apply by December 1, 2017.

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT:

The Austin W. Marxe School of Public and International Affairs at Baruch College invites nominations and applications for appointment as the Austin W. Marxe Chair in International Economics and Governance. The position has tenure or accelerated tenure-track status at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, depending on qualifications. The endowed position comes with a reduced teaching load, discretionary research funds, and an annual stipend.

The successful candidate will have a strong record of scholarship in an area of international economics and policy that merits appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The search committee will consider candidates who have made their careers in the academy, as well as those who have worked at senior levels of government, intergovernmental organizations, and policy research institutions.

Candidates must have a doctorate in economics or a closely related discipline. A strong record of publications with evidence of ongoing research excellence is essential.

The candidate will primarily teach courses in international economics, trade policy, international development and global economic governance for the School's new Master of International Affairs (MIA) program, launched in Fall 2017. Additionally, the candidate may be asked to teach courses in the School's Master of Public Administration (MPA) program in the areas of economics of public policy, policy analysis and evaluation, and/or research and analysis.

The successful candidate will be expected to raise the visibility of the School in the area of global economic policy. The Chair will help shape the strategic direction of the MIA degree and advise students. She/he will share responsibility for committee and School assignments, including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

Baruch College is a public, urban institution with an enrollment of approximately 18,400 students. It is one of 23 CUNY colleges. The Marxe School delivers undergraduate and graduate degrees in public policy and administration. The college houses a wide range of cutting-edge policy and research programs including a New York Federal Statistical Research Data Center (NYRDC) facility, the Baruch Survey Research Center, the CUNY Institute for Demographic Research, and the Center for Nonprofit Strategy and Management. The college is committed to attracting and retaining a diverse faculty. We encourage applications from underrepresented minority groups and women.

QUALIFICATIONS:

The successful candidate will have a record of policy-relevant scholarship in an area of international economics, development economics or a closely related field that merits appointment at the rank of either Professor or Associate Professor. Candidates should have a substantial and demonstrated research program and high promise for external funding. Candidates must have a doctorate in economics or a related discipline (e.g. public policy or political science with a concentration in international political economy). Also required are the ability to teach successfully and a strong interest in shaping the MIA program as a member of an interdisciplinary faculty. Experience teaching in international or public affairs programs is desirable.

COMPENSATION:

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY:

STEP ONE -

To be considered for this position, please submit your application online by clicking on "Apply Now" through this link https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=17441&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

Candidates should provide a cover letter addressed to the search chair, Professor Carla Anne Robbins, a CV, statement of scholarship interests, and three examples of recent publications in a doc., pdf, or ref. format.

STEP TWO - Go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/>

All applicants are required to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted electronically by their references as described below.

Please go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> and enter the contact information for three (3) references. The online system will automatically send your references a request to submit a letter via the system. Full instructions will be provided.

Emailed or hard copy applications will not be considered. If you have any questions, please contact HR at 646-660-6590.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3538

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) A curriculum vita
- (3) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (4) A writing sample
- (4) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3537

New York University Shanghai

Rank: TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Social Welfare, Energy Policy

TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
 ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES
 NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Environmental Studies. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in geography, sociology, anthropology, political science, or a related social science field, and whose work demonstrates a capacity for excellence in interdisciplinary environmental research and high-quality classroom instruction. We are especially but not exclusively interested in scholars whose research adopts a global perspective on disasters, urban ecology, or energy and climate change.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching, and electronic copies of up to five relevant publications. To complete the online process, junior applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted and asked to upload their reference letter. In the case of senior applicants, reference letters will be requested at a later stage as needed.

Review of applications will begin October 16th and will continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. To apply, follow this link <http://apply.interfolio.com/45330>. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher-education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, NYU Shanghai resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of innovative research and transformative teaching, and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common educational interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3524

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor: Global Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professor in Global Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The successful applicant is expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in international relations or comparative politics as well as research methods. We are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship with excellence in teaching and undergraduate and graduate student mentoring and whose scholarly focus is in comparative and/or international political economy, transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and peace building.

A Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between international relations and comparative politics. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504731/assistant-professor-global-politics>

All applications must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. Up to three reprints or pre-prints, and

7. The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3522

College of Saint Benedict / Saint John's University

Rank: Tenure Track - Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department of the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University invites applications for a full-time tenure track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in August 2018. A completed Ph.D. in political science is preferred; ABD will be considered. Teaching assignments will typically include three courses per semester. The department seeks a broadly trained political scientist who can teach the following courses:

- Comparative Politics (POLS 223): A sophomore level course that combines teaching introductory comparative politics with an introduction to comparative methods. Students review scholarly literature, form hypotheses in response to political questions, use a variety of methods and tools to gather evidence, and identify criteria for evaluating the quality of evidence. One of the learning goals of this course is to develop library and information literacy skills.

- Upper division courses in the candidate's area of interest. Courses in a wide variety of regional or substantive areas in comparative politics will be considered.

- Introduction to International Relations (POLS 121): Required introductory course to the political science major that provides a brief background of global history, overview of major international relations theories, and guides students through primary actors in global politics through analysis of contemporary questions.

- First Year Seminar: FYS is a required full-year course for all first year students. It is designed to help students improve their ability to read carefully and think critically about what they read, to write in a variety of academic formats, improve their information literacy, and to develop discussion skills necessary for successful college course work.

The ability to work with interdisciplinary programs such as Latino-Latin American Studies, Asian Studies, or Gender Studies is regarded as an asset. Successful teaching will foster a commitment to diversity as a learning outcome, because it provides students with the skills of intercultural competence and civic responsibility within our increasingly diverse student body.

Saint John's University, a liberal arts college for men, and the College of Saint Benedict, a liberal arts college for women, are located five miles apart in Central Minnesota just outside metropolitan St. Cloud and 70 miles from Minneapolis. Both are Catholic colleges in the Benedictine tradition, which emphasize quality teaching and a commitment to intercultural learning. For further information, see <http://www.csbsju.edu>

Additional Information:

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applications are accepted online at <http://employment.csbsju.edu>

Applicants must complete an application and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, *three letters of recommendation and unofficial transcripts (official transcript required for on campus interviews.)

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION: You will be asked to list a minimum of 3 reference names and contact information. If you use a placement service, you will need to contact them to request the email address to list. The system will send an email to your letter writer or placement service requesting a letter of recommendation for you.

Review of applications will begin October 23rd and continue until the position is filled.

If you require special accommodations to participate in the College of Saint Benedict/Saint John's University hiring process, please contact us at (320) 363-5282 or employment@csbsju.edu.

It is the policy of CSB and SJU to conduct pre-employment background checks.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3503

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3501

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3509

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Associate Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments are for either one or two months during the 2018-2019 academic year (September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Associate Research Scholars will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 20, 2017. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/1901>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, one to two months during the academic year (September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019), and title of the proposed research project;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) A four-five page statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution;
- 4) Names and contact information of three referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3508

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2018-2019 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2018-January 31, 2019; spring semester: February 1-June 30, 2019). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 20, 2017, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/1882>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal (or syllabus) for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A four-five page statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution;
- 5) The names and contact information of three (3) referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/20/2017
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3504

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eoo/eoo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

University of Southern Maine

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Political Science Program of the History and Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Political Science, from the International Relations subfield to begin Fall, 2018. Candidates will be able to teach Introduction to International Relations and a variety of upper level courses in International Relations (such as U.S. Foreign Policy, Issues Before the United Nations, non-EU regional politics, International Human Rights). The candidate will direct the Model United Nations program that brings over 550 middle and high school students and teachers to campus every spring semester from around the state of Maine to spend three days participating in a simulated United Nations experience.

The ideal candidate should have a passion for teaching, an active research agenda, and a commitment to service to the department, college, university and community.

The University community is committed to building a culturally diverse team of leaders, faculty and staff. We strongly encourage applications from female and minority candidates.

The University of Southern Maine (USM) is dedicated to providing students with a high-quality, accessible, affordable education. USM's strategic focus is in alignment with the Coalition of Urban and Metropolitan Universities and we are seeking to become a Carnegie Engaged University by the year 2020. USM offers Baccalaureate, Master's, and Doctoral programs, providing students with rich learning and community engagement opportunities in the arts, humanities, politics, health sciences, business, mass communications, science, engineering, and technology. Further information on USM can be found at www.usm.maine.edu.

USM's three environmentally friendly campuses are unique, yet all share the extensive resources of the university — and all are energized through strong community partnerships. Offering easy access to Boston, plus the ocean, mountains and forests of coastal, inland and northern Maine, USM is at the heart of Maine's most exciting metropolitan region:

- Our Portland campus is located in “one of America's most livable cities,” according to Forbes magazine, which also ranks Portland among the top 10 for job prospects. A creative and diverse community on Maine's scenic coast, Portland is nationally known as a “foodie” hot spot!
- USM's beautiful residential Gorham campus supports and celebrates excellence in academics, athletics, music and the arts and is home to ten Living Learning Communities and six Residential Communities.
- Our Lewiston campus is home to USM's innovative and richly diverse Lewiston-Auburn College. This Central Maine campus integrates classroom, community and workplace, and provides a small college experience with the resources of a large university.

Qualifications:

Required:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related subfield at the time of appointment and a record of teaching, scholarship, and service commensurate with the appointment rank.

Apply online at: <http://usm.hiretouch.com/view-all-jobs>. You will create an applicant profile and complete an application. You will need to upload a cover letter, resume/curriculum vitae, a list of the names and contact information for three references, and a statement of teaching and research interest.

Review of applications will begin October 23, 2017. Materials received after that date will be considered at the discretion of the university.

Appropriate background screening will be conducted for the successful candidate.

USM is an EEO/AA employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/23/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3475

American University of Sharjah

Rank: Faculty position in Political Science

The Department of International Studies at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates seeks to hire a full-time faculty member in political science with a focus in international relations. Specialization is open, but candidates with an interest in international conflicts and international law are especially encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach introductory classes in international relations, as well as a range of upper-level courses in their field.

Successful candidates will have a Ph.D. in political science, a record of excellent teaching, an active research agenda, and the willingness to contribute to the development of the department.

As a university formed on the American model and with English as the language of instruction, the American University of Sharjah will give priority to candidates who have substantial experience in American models of higher education.

Application materials must include: a letter of application, curriculum vitae, names and contact information of three references, a writing/publication sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please send applications to: Dr. Mahmoud Anabtawi, Dean, College of Arts & Sciences, American University of Sharjah, e-mail: cashr@aus.edu.

Applications must be received by 19 November 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3490

Brown University

Rank: Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship in Latin American and Caribbean Studies

The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship brings leading scholars from Latin America and the Caribbean to Brown University to teach and conduct research. Visiting Professors are based at the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS) at the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs. Cogut Professors teach one undergraduate course on Latin America per semester, meet with undergraduate and graduate students, and give presentations on campus through CLACS or affiliated units. The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship provides a salary, an optional medical insurance package, a modest research fund, and administrative assistance.

Appointments are possible for one or two semesters.

Eligibility to take up the position requires that the applicant hold a Ph.D. in any discipline in the humanities and social sciences and be either (1) a foreign national who is eligible to obtain a J-1 visa or (2) a U.S. citizen or resident.

Applications should include: (1) a letter of introduction from the applicant indicating his or her area of expertise and the proposed length of stay (one or two semesters, and preference of semester, if coming for one); (2) a current C.V. in English; and (3) the proposed course or courses that the Visiting Professor would like to teach with syllabi in English (though the course may be taught in English, Spanish or Portuguese). Optionally, if the applicant has existing ties to colleagues at Brown, a brief letter of support from a CLACS-affiliated Brown faculty member may also be sent under separate cover to CLACS.

Materials should be submitted electronically using the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/44814>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3487

Brown University

Rank: Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship in Latin American and Caribbean Studies

The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship brings leading scholars from Latin America and the Caribbean to Brown University to teach and conduct research. Visiting Professors are based at the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS) at the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs. Cogut Professors teach one undergraduate course on Latin America per semester, meet with undergraduate and graduate students, and give presentations on campus through CLACS or affiliated units. The Craig M. Cogut Visiting Professorship provides a salary, an optional medical insurance package, a modest research fund, and administrative assistance. Appointments are possible for one or two semesters.

Eligibility to take up the position requires that the applicant hold a Ph.D. in any discipline in the humanities and social sciences and be either (1) a foreign national who is eligible to obtain a J-1 visa or (2) a U.S. citizen or resident.

Applications should include: (1) a letter of introduction from the applicant indicating his or her area of expertise and the proposed length of stay (one or two semesters, and preference of semester, if coming for one); (2) a current C.V. in English; and (3) the proposed course or courses that the Visiting Professor would like to teach with syllabi in English (though the course may be taught in English, Spanish or Portuguese). Optionally, if the applicant has existing ties to colleagues at Brown, a brief letter of support from a CLACS-affiliated Brown faculty member may also be sent under separate cover to CLACS.

Materials should be submitted electronically using the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/44814>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3488

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from across the social sciences working in any area of the world on issues that can be understood in a comparative global context. Scholars of all nationalities who have received their PhDs within two years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows in other programs are not eligible to apply. As full members of the Watson Institute's scholarly community, fellows are required to be in residence during the academic year. Fellows will receive an annual stipend of $55,000, plus a health-insurance subsidy. Additional funding of $3,000 may be made available for conference-related travel, research expenses, and research-related programming on campus. Candidates selected for the Postdoctoral Fellows program who have not completed their dissertations by July 1, 2018, will be paid a reduced salary until their dissertation is defended.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 20, 2017, to the application portal <http://apply.interfolio.com/44383>

- A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.

- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.
- An copy of each graduate transcript.
- A writing sample.
- Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 20; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2018.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website (watson-brown.edu) or contact:

Professor J. Nicholas Ziegler, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. J_Ziegler@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 10/20/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3484

Catholic University of Chile

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations

The Institute of Political Science (ICP) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for an open rank position in International Relations. The University strongly values diversity and we encourage members of all nationalities and backgrounds to apply. The ICP is among the highest ranked political science departments in Latin America. Comprised of a highly international group of scholars, it is a hub of theoretical, empirical and applied research in the region. The ICP offers undergraduate, M.A. and Ph.D. programs. It admits the most talented Chilean students to its undergraduate and graduate programs, and hosts a large number of exchange students and a steady stream of visiting professors from all over the world. Santiago is a vibrant metropolitan area and a short drive from Chile's renowned pacific coast and spectacular Andean mountain range.

Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to high quality research, publication and teaching. Teaching obligations are limited to three courses per year. Fluency in Spanish is valued, but candidates who express the willingness to perfect basic proficiency are encouraged to apply.

Salary is competitive and complemented by research grants, travel stipends, and support for international exchanges. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs are welcome to apply as long as they obtain their degree by the position's starting date.

Applications should include a personal letter, curriculum vitae and a writing sample (journal article, book or dissertation chapter) that provides evidence of research performance. Applicants should also include teaching evaluations and course syllabi to assess teaching potential, graduate transcripts, an official copy of their B.A., M.A. and Ph. D. degrees, and three letters of recommendation.

Please direct informal inquiries or application packages (in either English or Spanish) via e-mail to Umut Aydin (searchicp@uc.cl),

Chair of the Search Committee, until November 1st, 2017. The position's starting date is March 1st, 2018.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3481

Fordham University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Politics

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning August 2018. The position is located at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates who possess research and teaching expertise in the areas of international security, U.S. foreign policy, and international diplomacy. Alternatively, the candidate may specialize in international organizations, law, and cooperation. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science and the Master's Program in International Political Economy and Development. Additional expertise in a particular region of the world, including East or South Asia, Africa, or Europe would be welcome. We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated and methodologically rigorous.

We invite candidates with an ability to make a positive contribution to the department's climate fostering inclusiveness and diversity. We believe that cultural and intellectual pluralism is essential to the excellence of our academic programs, and we strive to foster an academic culture and campus community that attracts and supports the development of a diverse faculty reflecting the global environment in which we live and work. As our student body grows increasingly diverse, experience and commitment to teaching and mentoring students from a range of economic, social, and cultural backgrounds is preferred and welcomed.

Review of applications will begin on October 25. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor José Alemán, Committee Chair, via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/45328>: cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3483

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Security Studies

The Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service and the Center for Security Studies at Georgetown University are seeking to hire a tenured associate or tenure-track assistant professor in the field of security studies. Senior candidates should have an outstanding record of achievement in research and teaching on national and international security policy issues.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and if possible evidence of teaching record (e.g., course evaluations). Applicants already tenured at the rank of Associate Professor need provide only the names and contact information of their references.

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9866>. Faxed, emailed, or mailed applications will not be accepted.

Applications accepted immediately with review beginning on October 15, 2017, although the position will remain open until filled.

Questions about the position should be directed to Keir Lieber at kal25@georgetown.edu.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity and expression, and sexual orientation), disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3478

Georgetown University

Rank: Teaching Professor of Security Studies

The Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service and the Center for Security Studies at Georgetown University are seeking to fill a non-tenure line professorship in the field of security studies. Rank and discipline are open, although expertise in cybersecurity issues broadly defined is a plus. Scholars with government or other first-hand experience in the U.S. military are encouraged to apply. The term of the appointment is for three years and is potentially renewable. The successful candidate will teach full-time in the MA-level Security Studies Program, including teaching the program's core courses.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and if possible evidence of teaching record (e.g., course evaluations).

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9867>. Faxed, emailed, or mailed applications will not be accepted.

Applications accepted immediately with review beginning on October 15, 2017, although the position will remain open until filled.

Questions about the position should be directed to Keir Lieber at kal25@georgetown.edu.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity and expression, and sexual orientation), disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3479

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Foreign Policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Foreign Policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy)

Loyola University Chicago, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2018. The department seeks applicants in foreign policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy. The successful applicant will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as graduate courses in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The applicant will be expected to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses on the formulation and implementation of U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy, as well as an introductory International Relations class.

Qualifications: The successful applicant is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Applicants for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Applicants should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three letters of recommendation from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

Peter M. Sanchez, Professor and Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago

1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity - including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment - is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically accessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativede.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3480

University of California Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Studies
Specializations: Economic Policy, History & Politics, International Law & Organizations

The International Studies Program at the University of California, Irvine invites applications from outstanding scholars involved in critical interdisciplinary global research with substantive foci in political, sociocultural, historical, legal, geographical and economic issues to apply for a tenure-track assistant professor position. All candidates with a research agenda that engages complex global issues and cuts across foci in creative ways will be considered. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should address explicitly how critical and global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The International Studies Program is planning to become a full department with a unique doctoral program. The candidate will be involved in building an innovative, interdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, research, and pressing regional and transnational issues.

Applicants should submit a cover letter highlighting qualifications, evidence of teaching excellence, statement of teaching, curriculum vitae, up to three publications and ensure three letters of reference are submitted by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials. Applicants must apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04275>.

These materials should be directed to Professor Eve Darian-Smith, Director, International Studies, University of California, Irvine CA 92697-5100.

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the post is filled.

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy. A recipient of an NSF ADVANCE Award for gender equity, UCI is responsive to the needs of dual career couples, supports work-life balance through an array of family-friendly policies, and is dedicated to broadening participation in higher education.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3486

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia
Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory
Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3474

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight appointees for the 2018-2019 academic year Postdoctoral Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST
Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3901>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 12/8/2017
Date Posted: 9/21/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3469

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more candidates for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018
Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3922>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3471

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Program Visiting Fellow

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2018-2019 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3921>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3468

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3923>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3470

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of International Relations at Lehigh University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy (IPE) starting in August 2018. We are open to IPE scholars with varying specializations, methodological orientations, and regional foci, but would look with particular favor on a candidate with expertise on developing countries. Applicants must have a strong commitment to excellence in research and undergraduate teaching. Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, CV, and the names of three references to Henri J. Barkey, search committee chair, online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9886>. Candidates should also submit writing samples and/or publications. Only submissions via Academic Jobs Online will be considered. Evaluation of applications will begin on November 1 and continue until the post is filled.

Lehigh University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and particularly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. The College of Arts and Sciences is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity the academic community. The University offers excellent benefits, including domestic partner benefits. For details, please refer to <http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/faculty/worklifebalance.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3463

Monash University

Rank: Assistant Professors/ Lecturers/ Senior Lecturers (two posts)

The division of Politics and International Relations in the School of Social Sciences at Monash University in Melbourne, Australia, will make two continuing (tenure-track equivalent) appointments at the rank of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer (equivalent to the US Assistant Professor level) in International Relations. We are open to any established subfield of IR and a range of research approaches that display theoretical and methodological rigor. Applicants should have published at least two significant research outputs and demonstrate the potential to produce more in the future. Successful candidates will be able to teach broad undergraduate-level classes on International Relations, as well as specialized advanced-undergraduate and graduate-level seminars. We particularly invite candidates with at least two years of postdoctoral research or teaching experience to apply. The expected start dates are negotiable, but early 2018 would be preferred.

One of the appointments, which will be at either Lecturer or Senior Lecturer levels, will involve the usual balance of research and teaching in the School. The appointee will be expected to take on a 1-2 teaching load (indicative) on a semester system.

One of the appointments, which will be at the level of Senior Lecturer, will be an education-focused role. The successful candidate for this role will further develop the content and delivery of our flagship Master of International Relations (MIR) program, and is expected to direct this program at some point in the future. It is essential that candidates for this education-focused role are able to apply innovative pedagogical methods. The appointee for this post will be expected to take on a 2-3 teaching load (indicative) on a semester system and other education-related responsibilities.

Both positions offer significant opportunities for career development. The University offers extensive support for research, including dedicated administrative staff, support for external grant applications, and internal seed-funding schemes. Semester-long research leave (equivalent to sabbatical) can be applied for every three years of regular service. Monash offers competitive salaries, approximately US$ 75-106,000, employer retirement contributions of 17.5%, relocation support, and a family-friendly and flexible work environment.

Monash University is the largest university in Australia and is ranked in the top 100 universities worldwide (60th overall and 29th in Social Sciences according to the QS World Rankings 2017). The School of Social Sciences offers a vibrant multidisciplinary and international research and teaching environment with around 80 permanent faculty members, 20 of whom are located in the Politics and International Relations Division. The School has a range of thriving undergraduate and graduate teaching programs including the Masters in International Relations. Monash is a global university with locations in Australia, China, India, Italy, Malaysia and South Africa, as well as strategic partnerships with other universities, notably in the Monash-Warwick Alliance. The School of Social Sciences is deeply embedded in these and other international networks. Melbourne was recently named the "Most Liveable City in the World" for the seventh year running by The Economist.

Informal inquiries may be directed to Dr Benjamin MacQueen, Politics and IR Discipline Convener, School of Social Sciences, +61 3 9903 4599, Ben.MacQueen@monash.edu

To learn more about Monash University, the School of Social Sciences, and the Politics/International Relations Section, please visit <http://artsonline.monash.edu.au/politics-international-relations/>

Details of these vacancies and the application process can be found at: <http://careers.pageuppeople.com/513/ci/en/job/567135/lecturersenior-lecturer-international-relations>
<http://careers.pageuppeople.com/513/ci/en/job/567136/senior-lecturer-educationfocused-master-of-international-relations>

The deadline for applications is Friday 13 October 2017, 11:55pm Australian Eastern Standard Time

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3467

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (MENA / Human Rights)

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science, effective August, 2018. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the Department and University. The successful candidate will have broad theoretical and methodological training in political science with a teaching and research emphasis in the Middle East and North Africa. Preference will be given to candidates whose research focuses on human rights. The ability to teach a course in international development is also desirable. In addition to upper-level courses in their area of specialization, teaching responsibilities will include an introductory course in comparative and international politics. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank and ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University is composed of 13 dedicated faculty members whose research represents the core areas of the discipline including American politics, comparative politics and international relations, and political theory. Our 300 majors have produced research that has been nationally recognized, and many attend prestigious law and graduate schools and go on to successful careers in law, higher education, as well as local, state, and federal government. The Department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, as well as three minors in Political Science, Human Rights and Conflict Resolution, and U.S. National Security Studies. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit <http://cnu.edu/academics/departments/politicalscience/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2017 freshman class of 1,290 students was selected from over 7,000 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1210, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please provide a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (copies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 22, 2017. Applications received after October 22, 2017, will be accepted but considered only if needed. Please visit <http://cnu.edu/hr/employment/>.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully Committed to Access and Opportunity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/22/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3446

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Lecturer/Senior Lecturer - Security Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: United States, Political Theory, Defense

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a position as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Security Studies. The candidate should be credentialed in a relevant academic discipline in the social sciences or humanities. The candidate will: teach mid-career military officers from special operations and information operations units across all branches and services of the U.S. Armed Forces and allied countries; advise theses; and conduct research. The candidate must have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in the areas of irregular warfare, campaign design, operational art, and strategic decision-making. Evidence of the ability to pursue a program of innovative research and a strong commitment to graduate and undergraduate education is required. Position responsibilities include teaching, research, and thesis oversight. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for those in lectureship positions ranges from four to six graduate courses per year.

The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, 115 miles south of the heart of San Francisco. NPS provides graduate education to an average at any given time of 1,500 resident military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government.

The Department of Defense Analysis offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to an average of 150 in-residence graduate students, a cross-disciplinary teaching and research faculty of 40 personnel, and three research centers, the Department of Defense Analysis provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A graduate degree in a relevant Social Science or Humanities discipline (e.g., History, International Relations, Law, Political Science, Communications, Journalism, Psychology, Sociology, Anthropology, and similar fields).
- U.S. citizenship is required. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications (Document any relevant experience in these areas as well as your success in the classroom):

- Experience teaching graduate students or upper level undergraduate electives.
- Experience and/or familiarity with the special operations community.
- A successful candidate will demonstrate excellent judgment, effective leadership, strong team-building skills, and pedagogical expertise.

The position is now open. Candidates should submit the following materials to Dr. Sean Everton at sfeverto@nps.edu, email subject heading: "Strategic Studies." Applications will be accepted through December 1, 2017, or until the position is filled, and should include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Three letters of recommendation (that specifically address teaching)
4. Research statement
5. Sample of a published article
6. Teaching statement
7. Teaching portfolio (should include a sample lesson, assignments, or handouts and highly recommended to include a link to a videoed teaching sample)

Dr. Sean Everton, Chair, Security Studies Search Committee, Department of Defense Analysis, 589 Dyer Road, Room 203, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA, 93943.

Do not send paper applications.

Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Relocation expenses, including recruitment/relocation incentive, may be authorized in accordance with applicable regulations.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to: Identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc.)

Additional Veterans' information: If you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://www.dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>. For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3450

Troy University

Rank: Adjunct Professor

Adjunct faculty members are employed to provide specific courses on an as-needed basis. Contracts for adjunct faculty members are issued on a semester/term basis. Adjunct Instructors hold the responsibility for the courses taught. Adjunct Instructors are expected to be available for a reasonable amount of time for each course taught to counsel students regarding course work.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3449

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations - Race, Ethnicity, Inequality

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Applicants should demonstrate expertise in the study of race, ethnicity, and politics, and/or related fields such as inequality, immigration, and identity. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To be considered, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp> for additional information).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01558>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, Inequality).

Review of applications will begin October 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/11/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3452

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpgzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

American University-SIS

Rank: Two Tenure-Line Professors: Social Networks (Assistant) & Climate Change Politics (Associate or Full)

One Tenure-Track & One Tenured Position

School of International Service

American University

SOCIAL NETWORKS

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR – TENURE-TRACK

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Social Networks. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and begin August 1, 2018. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. or the highest equivalent degree in a relevant discipline by August 2018. Candidates should be scholar-teachers who bring together conceptual and empirical innovations in the investigation of social networks in global, cross-national, regional and/or comparative perspectives. Scholars who come from a wide range of disciplines are especially welcome to apply. SIS is particularly interested in scholars who utilize social network analysis and large-n research approaches and who focus on individual, organizational and/or inter-organizational levels of analysis. Substantive foci of interest include, but are by no means limited to, trans-border migration, economic and social development, policy emergence in global governance, transnational elite reproduction, forced displacement, or the spread and control of infectious diseases. Empirically grounded research on such issues will complement the work of SIS faculty research clusters and interdisciplinary AU 2030 initiatives. Please submit applications via: apply.interfolio.com/44379

CLIMATE CHANGE POLITICS ASSOCIATE OR FULL PROFESSOR

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University invites candidates, from across the disciplines, with expertise in the politics of global climate change to apply for a tenured position at the Associate or Full professor level.

Areas of particular interest include:

- Climate vulnerability, justice, and adaptation including social movements, the disproportionate impacts of climate change on economically marginalized communities, the distributional consequences of institutional responses, and the social dimensions of adaptation as given by class, race, and gender
- Science/politics/policy interface, knowledge-power, and the exclusionary dynamics and technocratic orientations of institutional responses
- The potential and challenges for renewable energy systems in climate mitigation
- Climate diplomacy, international institution building, and issues of macro-micro interactions
- Climate finance mechanisms and their reception and impacts in developing countries.

Please submit applications via: <https://apply.interfolio.com/44389>

As a school that includes a diversity of scholarly disciplines and approaches, we seek the best candidates without respect to a particular discipline. We seek scholar-teachers whose work is theoretically grounded, empirically tested, and policy relevant. Candidates should demonstrate excellence in research and teaching and commitment to university service. Candidates should share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Housed in a beautiful LEED-Gold certified building which reflects our commitment to sustainability and ecological stewardship, SIS is a diverse and inclusive community of 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. Our offerings feature a comprehensive liberal arts program for undergraduates, professional education in international affairs for Master's students, and a multidisciplinary program for Doctoral students. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis

American University's School of International Service is a top-ten, multi-disciplinary school of international affairs located in Washington, D.C. SIS faculty produce transformational research and prepare our students for global careers in government, nonprofits, and business. Learn more at www.american.edu/sis.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3432

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Development

Tulane University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor to contribute to our new concentration in International Development. We seek candidates from comparative politics, international relations, or public policy with a research focus on developing areas. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. Expected teaching load is 2-2. The appointment begins July 1, 2018 and candidates should have the PhD in hand by that date. Applications received by October 30, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation online in interfolio. Queries may be addressed to Professor Mary Clark (maclark@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Apply online in interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/44986

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3392

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Development

Tulane University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor to contribute to our new concentration in International Development. We seek candidates from comparative politics, international relations, or public policy with a research focus on developing areas. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. Expected teaching load is 2-2. The appointment begins July 1, 2018 and candidates should have the PhD in hand by that date. Applications received by October 30, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation online in interfolio. Queries may be addressed to Professor Mary Clark (maclark@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Apply online in interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/44986

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3393

University of San Francisco

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure-Track, International Studies

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, East Asia, Southeast Asia

Assistant Professor, Tenure-Track, International Studies
University of San Francisco

Job Summary:

The International Studies Department at the University of San Francisco invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level beginning in August 2018. The International Studies Department is a dynamic, interdisciplinary department that houses two programs: the Bachelor of Arts in International Studies (BAIS) and the Master of Arts in International Studies (MAIS). Our mission is to provide students with the theoretical and analytical tools needed to engage in a critical examination of issues facing our world within an interactive learning environment centered on holistic education for the whole person to educate global citizens.

We are seeking applications from candidates with a Ph.D. in International Studies or related social science field with a regional focus in East Asia or Southeast Asia. Preference will be given to applicants whose work centers on global politics and institutions, trade, technology, or global health. We especially welcome applications from individuals engaged in using mixed research methods and are particularly interested in candidates who emphasize community engagement and social justice in their research.

Job Responsibilities:

The successful candidate should be able to teach one or more core courses in the undergraduate program (The World Since 1945, Introduction to International Politics, and/or The Global Economy), core courses in the graduate program, as well as courses on research methods and electives in their areas of substantive and regional emphasis. The standard teaching load for this position at USF is two 4-unit courses per semester with an additional third course every fourth semester (2-2-2-3 over two years). In addition, the successful candidate will be expected to engage in service to the department, college, and university, as well as maintain an active research program that engages both undergraduate and graduate students when possible.

Minimum Requirements:

Applicants should have earned their doctorate by August 31, 2018. Applicants should articulate a commitment to interdisciplinary exploration and applied research with a demonstrated ability to work across disciplines and a collaborative orientation. Candidates must have a strong record of teaching at the university level, evidence of research scholarship and an active research agenda, dedication to service, and an understanding of, and commitment to, supporting the mission of USF.

Additional Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

For information on how to apply, please visit the following link: <http://apptrkr.com/1084923>

EEO Policy

The University of San Francisco is an equal opportunity institution of higher education. As a matter of policy, the University does not discriminate in employment, educational services and academic programs on the basis of an individual's race, color, religion, religious creed, ancestry, national origin, age (except minors), sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, medical condition (cancer-related and genetic-related) and disability, and the other bases prohibited by law. The University reasonably accommodates qualified individuals with disabilities under the law.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3433

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

Specializations: Middle East, Religion & Politics, Foreign Policy

Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Alabama announces a call for applications for the newly established Richard Leon Chambers Endowed Professorship in Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies. The position will begin August 2018. The successful applicant may work in any post-7th century timeframe and focus geographically on one or more settings in the Middle East, including sites of the Ottoman Empire and Turkish civilization. We seek to bring to campus a scholar of Middle Eastern history and culture who can prepare students to better understand current international affairs and who is also able to exercise leadership in future academic programs and research collaborations.

Applicants should demonstrate exemplary methodological, language, and/or ethnographic skills and should be gifted faculty members whose accomplishments, in both teaching and research, indicate great potential; the successful candidate, who will be appointed at the tenured rank of either Associate Professor or Professor, will join a Department of relevance to their expertise and may also hold a cross-appointment within the College. We welcome applications from mid-career and senior scholars working in such fields as Anthropology, History, Middle Eastern Studies, Political Science, Religious Studies, or other disciplines represented in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Review of applications will begin on October 15. Applicants are required to apply online at <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41763> submitting a cover letter, C.V., and writing sample. Three letters of recommendation should be sent to the Chair of the Search Committee, either in hard copy or by email. A group of semi-finalists will meet with the committee via a brief online session prior to the College identifying finalists to be brought to campus for interviews.

For information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee:

Prof. Russell T. McCutcheon
Chair, Department of Religious Studies
University of Alabama
212 Manly Hall
Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0264

russell.mccutcheon@ua.edu

The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3418

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g.

study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor or Provost Fellow

The Political Science Department at the University of Chicago seeks applications from scholars engaging issues of colonialism, empire, and their contemporary legacies around the world. We especially welcome applications from scholars of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Comparative Racial Politics. Themes of particular interest include: the legacies of slavery; the politics of indentured servitude; the practices of colonial and/or imperial rule; forced migration; genocidal violence; interstate relations involving former colonies; and economic (inter)dependence in the global south. One goal of the search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Department, and we therefore strongly encourage applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

Successful candidates will be appointed either as an Assistant Professor or as a Provost Fellow with an initial two-year faculty appointment at the rank of Instructor. This initial period is intended to serve in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period, during which Provost Fellows will teach one class per year. At the end of their initial term, Provost Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2018. Review of applications will begin

September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website <http://tinyurl.com/yc5dkzk7>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 6) three letters of reference.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3402

Texas Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Texas Tech University, the department of political science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning in Fall 2018. We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations. Although applicants from all International Relations subfield are encouraged to apply, we are especially interested in candidates who conduct research and teach in the areas of international organizations, institutions and cooperation, broadly defined.

Applicants must show evidence and/or promise of excellence in teaching and an active research agenda. Candidates with strong quantitative and formal methods training, and an ability to teach graduate methods courses, are preferred.

Candidates who have very strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding and who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the time of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 11477BR. For full consideration, all application materials must be received by October 15, 2017. Questions about the position should be directed to Tim Nokken, Chair, Department of political science, timothy.nokken@ttu.edu.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3396

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT GREENSBORO: Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations beginning in August 2018. Candidates should have a Ph.D. by time of appointment. Applicants should have teaching experience and an active research agenda. Specialization is open. Experience teaching international law and willingness to supervise a Model UN program are advantageous. The department has fifteen full-time faculty members and has strong B.A. and M.P.A. programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool. UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate student body consisting of approximately 28% African Americans and 8% Hispanic or Latino Americans. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools. We are an EOE/Affirmative action/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should submit all materials electronically (to apply, visit <https://jobsearch.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" and apply to position #1633), including a cover letter, a CV, a description of their research program, up to three representative writing samples, sample syllabi, and a statement of teaching interests. Applicants are asked to provide the names and email addresses of at least three (3) references in the References section of the electronic application. These references will be solicited by the UNCG jobsearch system via email, and asked to provide a confidential letter of reference/recommendation on behalf of the applicant. This will occur as soon as the applicant successfully submits the application and receives a confirmation number from the UNCG jobsearch system.

Inquiries can be sent to Professor Fabrice Lehoucq (f_lehoucq@uncg.edu). The program webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3381

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in international relations. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3362

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure-Track in National and/or International Security

The Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at The University of Texas at Austin announces a tenure-track opening in NATIONAL AND/OR INTERNATIONAL SECURITY at the rank of assistant professor (or tenured associate professor in exceptional cases) for its graduate program in Global Policy Studies.

The LBJ School comprises more than 40 faculty members and approximately 300 graduate students, and offers inter-disciplinary curricula leading to the degrees of Master of Public Affairs, Master of Global Policy Studies, and Ph.D. in Public Policy. Normal teaching load is two courses per semester with some relief for new faculty. The school strongly promotes diversity.

QUALIFICATIONS

The ideal candidate should have a policy-focused research agenda and the ability to teach courses on policymaking and methods (quantitative and qualitative). Applicants must have a doctoral degree in Political Science, International Relations, Public Policy, Political Geography, or related policy-relevant field.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Applicants should submit letter of interest, C.V., sample of written (ideally published) research, three letters of reference, and evidence of excellence in teaching if available to: apply.interfolio.com/42804. Applications received by September 15, 2017 will receive full consideration.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3365

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2018. Preference will be given to applicants with a specialization in international political economy. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

Please visit our online application site at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65159

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3358

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2018. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

Please visit our online application site at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65160

Start Date: Summer 2018

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3359

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/

academicjobs.columbia.edu. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3351

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Political Science, Lecturer Pool

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley invites applications for a pool of qualified temporary lecturers to teach courses in the following areas, should an opening arise: American Politics, California Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology & Formal Theory, Political Theory & Philosophy, Models & Politics, Political Behavior, Public Law & Jurisprudence, and Public Policy & Organization.

The number of positions varies from semester to semester, depending on the needs of the department. Positions may range from 33% to 100% of full-time, depending on the number of classes being taught. Appointments typically start at the beginning of the semester and may be renewable based on need, funding, and performance.

General Duties: In addition to teaching responsibilities, general duties include holding office hours, assigning grades, advising students, preparing course materials (e.g. syllabus), and maintaining a course website.

Basic Qualifications: The minimum qualifications required to be an applicant is a completed Bachelor's Degree (or equivalent degree) by the time of application.

Preferred Qualifications: Completion of all Ph.D. (or equivalent) degree requirements except dissertation at the time of application or, full-time paid political experience of at least 4 years within the last 10 years.

Salary: Salary will be based on applicant's teaching experience, appointment % FTE, and current campus salary scales in place at time of appointment. The current minimum salary for this position would be based on a full-time annual salary of $53,402. Lecturers teaching one course per semesters are typically appointed at a 33% rate.

The department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their teaching. UC Berkeley has an excellent benefits package as well as a number of policies and programs in place to support employees as they balance work and family.

To apply, please go to the following link: <http://apptrkr.com/1079578>. Applicants should submit their most recently updated C.V.

The department may later request contact information for 3-5 references, teaching and/or research statements, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as past course syllabi, teaching evaluations, etc., but they are not required at the time of application.

When and if the department contacts references, all letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality (<http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html>) prior to submitting their letters.

Applications will be accepted and reviewed for department needs through September 7, 2018. The department typically reviews applications for fall course needs in April/May, for spring course needs in October/November, and for summer course needs in February/March. Those interested in remaining in the pool after September 7, 2018 will need to reapply.

Open note: The use of a lecturer pool does not guarantee that an open position exists. See the review date specified in AP Recruit to learn whether the department is currently reviewing applications for a specific position. If there is no future review date specified, your application may not be considered at this time.

Please direct questions to Allison Covington at allison.covington@berkeley.edu

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3353

California State University Dominguez Hills

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

www.csudh.edu

Assistant Professor of International Relations
College of Natural & Behavioral Sciences

Position Description

The faculty of the Department of Political Science at California State University Dominguez Hills invites applications from individuals for a tenure track, Assistant Professor position in International Relations, effective Fall 2018.

Department of Political Science

The Political Science Department is located in the College of Natural and Behavioral Sciences. The current faculty is comprised of four tenured and tenure-track faculty joined by 9 to 11 part-time faculty each term. Political Science provides excellent opportunities for the study of government and politics. Over 40 courses cover all the major aspects of the discipline. Students develop an understanding of human behavior as it relates to politics. They learn to discuss and analyze critically current public policy issues facing the United States and the world. They are taught how to critically observe and understand world affairs and comparative politics. They are trained in appropriate research techniques for the study of political processes. The General Political Science Concentration is a relatively "open" one, allowing students to choose from a wide range of courses and subjects within a general framework. It is designed for students seeking broad exposure to the diverse subjects of the discipline and is recommended for most students.

The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise (comprised of a major research paper) in one of the elective courses. The department offers internship opportunities at the national, California government and local government levels. The Department sponsors an active student organization (APSS, the Association of Political Science Students) and successful Model United Nations (MUN) and Mock Trial program for students.

For more information see: <http://www4.csudh.edu/political-science/index>

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Responsibilities

The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching, performing service on departmental and university-wide bases, publishing research in peer-reviewed academic journals relevant to the discipline of political science/the subfield of International Relations, maintaining office hours, and providing advising for our majors and minors, help direct a successful, team-run Model U.N. program, and participate with colleagues in curricular development.

The Position

Faculty members teach four classes or their equivalent each semester (although new faculty receive reduced teaching assignments); maintain an active research program; mentor and advise students; and serve on departmental and university committees. The appointment will be effective for the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year, beginning in August 2018. The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise under the supervision of one of the tenured or tenure track members of the faculty.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate will have a promising record of effective teaching, scholarly research and service, will be innovative in his or her thinking in a department strongly committed to academic excellence, community outreach and the development of partnerships with local and federal government institutions and businesses to enhance the learning experience of political science students and to help prepare them for success in the job market, legal careers or graduate school.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or ABD in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution of higher education
- Research experience
- Teaching experience or training in teaching techniques.
- Expertise in Quantitative Methodology
- Teaching and research interest in International Relations
- A strong interest in developing new courses to reflect the changing nature of the international system and developments in the discipline of Political Science.
- Experience and/or ability in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Secondary interest in area studies
- Ability and willingness to teach, and perform research utilizing Quantitative Methodology
- An interest in student-involved research

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

CSU Dominguez Hills

On April 29, 1960, Gov. Pat Brown signed a bill into law authorizing the formation of a state college to serve the growing southwestern region of Los Angeles County. From its humble beginnings in a bank building in Rolling Hills Estates, CSU Dominguez Hills has evolved into a thriving and nationally recognized comprehensive university, providing an innovative liberal arts education to a diverse student body.

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Vision

A vital educational and economic resource for the South Bay, CSU Dominguez Hills will be recognized as a top-performing Comprehensive Model Urban University in America. We will be known as a campus community and gathering place where:

- Diversity in all its forms is explored, understood, and transformed into knowledge and practice that benefits the world.
- Technology is embraced and leveraged to transcend educational boundaries as we reach out to students, both locally and globally.
- Sustainable environmental, social and economic practices are a way of life.

- Students from our community who aspire to complete a college degree are provided the pathway and guidance to succeed.
- Faculty and staff across the University are engaged in serving the dynamic needs of the surrounding communities.
- Student life is meaningful and vibrant.
- Our accomplishments and those of our alumni are recognized nationally and internationally.
- Ultimately, our students graduate with an exemplary academic education, a highly respected degree, and a genuine commitment to justice and social responsibility.

About the University

CSU Dominguez Hills holds the Carnegie classification of Master's L and is a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. Class sizes are small as compared with large research universities and classes are taught by the faculty, not by teaching assistants. Many of the university's students are the first in their families to earn a university degree. While the university enrolls traditional full-time students, many students enroll part-time and attend late afternoon, evening and weekend classes because of work and family responsibilities.

CSU Dominguez Hills offers 45 baccalaureate degrees, 24 master's degrees, and a number of certificate and credential programs. Enrollment exceeds 14,635 students, and the student population is among the most ethnically and culturally rich in the nation: 60% Hispanic/Latino, 14.5% Black/ African-American, 10.9% White, 10.8% Asian, .10% American Indian/ Alaska Native, .30% Native Hawaiian/ Other Pacific Islander, 3.10% Two or more races.

The University is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), the accrediting body for institutions of higher learning in the West. Twelve programs hold accreditations from national professional associations: business administration, clinical sciences, computer science, education, health science, music, nursing, occupational therapy, public administration, special education, theatre arts, and social work.

The academic programs of the university are organized under the Colleges of Arts and Humanities, Business Administration and Public Policy, Extended and International Education, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Health and Human Services, and Nursing. While continuing to emphasize the liberal arts and sciences, professional programs offered at the undergraduate and graduate level, developed to serve the region's workforce needs, are of great interest to students and prepare them for professions in a variety of industries.

Known for excellence in teacher education, nursing, psychology, business administration, and digital media arts, new degree programs include computer science, criminal justice, recreation and leisure studies, social work, and communication disorders. CSU Dominguez Hills is a national leader in distance learning with 10 academic degrees and seven certificate programs offered.

Faculty

A tradition of teaching excellence lies at the heart of the university experience for Dominguez Hills' students. Most of the faculty have earned doctoral degrees from prestigious universities across the nation. The faculty strives to sustain a dynamic teaching and learning environment in a multicultural setting. The Academic Senate provides a forum for faculty, administration, students and others to be represented and consulted regarding such vital issues as budget priorities, academic standards, curriculum and instruction, and student affairs.

Student Life

At CSU Dominguez Hills, there's more to student life than the classroom. The university offers a dynamic, interactive and enriching community of learners, teachers and peers sharing diverse points of view. There are multitudes of ways for students to pursue interests, get involved, and get the most from their academic experience.

An office of student life enhances student development by coordinating a variety of co-curricular activities, including 60 student organizations. Students are encouraged to perform community service and participate in leadership development. The Multicultural Center on campus promotes the exploration of diverse heritages, values and cultural experiences by offering a wide range of activities and programs throughout the academic year.

CSU Dominguez Hills is a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II institution that competes in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). CSU Dominguez Hills is one of the most athletically competitive and honored schools in the CCAA, with 23 conference titles and four national championships to date, including the 2008 NCAA D-II Men's Soccer National Championship. CSU Dominguez Hills sponsors 11 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The Location

The university is located in Carson, California, in the South Bay region of Los Angeles County. Its 346-acre park-like campus is situated in the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. The site remained in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family for seven generations - from its inception in 1794 to its acquisition by the state of California.

The Region

The South Bay is one of the most culturally, economically, and ethnically diverse areas in the United States, with a largely even distribution of the population with African, Asian/Pacific Islander, European, and Latino ancestry. The university is located in the city of Carson, a city of 93,000 residents and one of the many municipalities that border the city of Los Angeles. Cultural, performance and sports venues in downtown Los Angeles are about 15 minutes away and the South Bay beach communities are a few minutes away to the west and south. The StubHub, a 125-acre sports center developed by AEG and home to Major League Soccer's L.A. Galaxy and Chivas USA, is located on the CSUDH campus.

The campus is strategically located in the heart of a major technological, industrial and transportation complex in Southern California. This area includes the massive Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles – Southern California's gateway to international commerce. The South Bay region is also home to aerospace, oil refinery, healthcare and automotive industries.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by October 15, 2017.

- Current Curricula Vitae

- Cover letter
- Three Letters of Recommendation
- Copy of Terminal Degree
- A Statement on Teaching
- A Statement on Research
- Sample Publications (if available)
- Teaching Evaluations (if available)

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee when to submit official transcripts directly to the email address of srusso@csudh.edu or you may mail directly to:

Dr. Salvatore J. Russo
Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
CSU, Dominguez Hills
1000 East Victoria Street
Carson, CA 90747

California State University, Dominguez Hills, is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Individuals with disabilities requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) may call the CSU Dominguez Hills Human Resources Office (310) 243-3771 or the Academic Affairs Personnel Services Office at (310) 243-3766.

Clergy Act crime statistics for CSUDH are available at <http://www.csudh.edu/dhpd/>, or by calling University Police at (310) 243-3693.

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3349

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of Latin America

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Latin America, beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, foreign policy, transnational politics, and traditional and non-traditional security (including food and environmental security). We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, geography, international relations, anthropology, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) three letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9608>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3334

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, security, human security, and civil society. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, anthropology, geography, international relations, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9610>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3335

Centro de Investigacion y Docencia Economicas

Rank: Assistant Professor

IR Search 2018 –Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas (CIDE)

The Department of International Studies at CIDE seeks to fill up to four tenure-track positions in International Relations. The starting date is flexible from January 2018. One of the positions is based at the CIDE-Central Region campus (Aguascalientes), while the other three are based at the CIDE-Santa Fe campus (Mexico City).

The positions are open with regard to subfield, but the Department is especially interested in strengthening the following areas:

1. Foreign Policy Analysis and International Organization
2. Human Rights and/or International Law with a focus on the Americas
3. North America, including Regionalism, US Studies, US-Mexico Relations and/or Migration
4. International Security, in particular, Organized Crime, Drug-Trafficking, Civil Conflict, with a regional focus on the Americas

Candidates must have a doctoral degree at the time of hire. Spanish skills are required (in case this is not their first language), and candidates are expected to become proficient within a reasonable period of time.

Interested applicants should submit the following documents electronically to: contrataciones.dei@cide.edu

- Cover letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Statement of purpose including future teaching and research agenda
- Writing sample not exceeding 50 pages
- Teaching evaluations (if available)
- Three reference letters, sent directly by the referee

The deadline for submission is October 1, 2017. Complete applications received by that date are guaranteed full consideration. Interviews will start in November 2017. Professors Lorena Ruano (Santa Fe campus, Mexico City) and Marcela López-Vallejo (Aguascalientes campus) will be available to answer questions (lorena.ruano@cide.edu; marcela.lopezvallejo@cide.edu). Candidates should specify which campus they are applying to.

CIDE is a public social sciences research institute oriented towards high quality research and teaching at graduate and undergraduate level. Faculty members are expected to publish in top journals and presses and to contribute to the department's teaching, outreach and institution-building duties. Teaching load is two courses per year, minimum.

At the DEI we seek to encourage equality and diversity in our hiring process, so all applications that meet the established requirements are guaranteed equal treatment, without regard to race, nationality, sexual orientation or identity.

For more information, please visit the Department's website:

<http://cide.edu/dei/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3338

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

University of Auckland

Rank: Lecturer/ Senior Lecturer - Politics and International Relations

The Faculty of Arts - Social Sciences

We are seeking a Lecturer/Senior Lecturer to contribute to the success of the School of Social Sciences within the Faculty of Arts. The position involves delivering excellent teaching at undergraduate and postgraduate studies, producing outstanding research published in highly regarded publication outlets and supervision of postgraduate students including PhD students.

About Politics and International Relations

Politics and International Relations is part of the School of Social Sciences at the University of Auckland, New Zealand's only Top-100 University. It has a strong internationally recognised research profile and staff are currently engaged in teaching and supervision in a broad range of fields aligned with Politics and Public Policy within the School. We currently have a vacancy for Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Politics/Political Science in the fields of International Relations or Comparative Politics.

Our ideal candidate

Will hold a PhD in Politics/Political Science with a specialisation in one or more of the following topics: terrorism; political violence; radicalisation; and/or violent conflict. You must be both theoretically and empirically engaged in the field. You will be required to teach undergraduate and postgraduate courses on the above topics and you should be a committed and engaging teacher able to provide exciting research-led teaching. You should possess a strong record of publications in high quality journals and/or books and a record of success in gaining external research funding. You will be required to supervise PhD, master, and other graduate students. You will also be required to contribute to service within the School of Social Sciences.

Why work for the University of Auckland?

The University of Auckland is New Zealand's leading University, with a turnover of $1.1bn, including research revenue of over $200m generated across eight diverse faculties and two research institutes. The University is committed to providing an excellent working environment through flexible employment practices and a culture that encourages and supports staff to reach their full potential. We offer a competitive salary and over 300 different career development courses. In addition, the University offers a company superannuation scheme, discounted car parking, childcare and a number of other subsidies on internal and external services.

Auckland's harbour setting, magnificent beaches and verdant bush make it a great place to study and work, while the University's close proximity to New Zealand's major businesses and hospitals enables staff and students to rub shoulders with leading practitioners in their field. The pace is relaxed, the people are friendly, and with a diverse range of leisure options and high quality schools it is easy to understand why New Zealand is continually ranked as one of the best places in the world to live and raise a family.

Apply

Applications close on Sunday, 1 October 2017. All applications must be made online at www.auckland.ac.nz/opportunities

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3340

American University of Afghanistan

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Specializations: Central Asia, Developing Nations, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science

Reports to: Chair of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Starting: Spring 2018

The American University of Afghanistan (AUAF) is a private, non-profit university offering an American-style liberal arts education. We opened our doors in 2005 and currently offer 4 undergraduate academic majors and an MBA program. We follow a strict non-discriminatory policy, and applicants from all ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds are encouraged to apply. We are a young, dynamic university with a student population of above 1000 students. Construction continues on a new 75-acre international campus.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration is seeking a qualified candidate for a full-time faculty position, an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science.

Responsibilities and duties:

- Teach lower and higher level courses in Political Science (ability to teach Political Science and Public Administration courses is highly desirable)
- Teach 12 credit hours per semester
- In addition to teaching, full-time faculty are required to provide service to the university in some capacity either by serving on a committee, assisting the Department Chair with various administrative tasks, mentoring and advising students on academic affairs, or in other ways.
- Although AUAF is primarily a teaching institute, research, especially the preparation of publications in academic or policy journals, is highly desirable

Requirements:

- Earned PhD in Political Science. (MA holders with experience in the field and a proven track record of teaching experience at the post-secondary level may be considered)
- Prior teaching experience at the post-secondary level
- Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at AUAF is English.
- Experience teaching in international locations and multicultural settings preferred
- When hired, the successful applicant is expected to provide official proof of academic degrees (transcripts sent from the degree granting school directly to AUAF)

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled.

The American University of Afghanistan offers a generous benefits package that includes a competitive salary, air transportation, University-provided accommodation, and paid health care insurance. This is an unprecedented opportunity to teach at a newly formed American University in an emerging and rapidly changing society.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching purpose, and contact information for three references to jobs@auaf.edu.af. Please include Political Science in the subject line of the email.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3325

Boston University

Rank: Strategic & Security Studies

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in Strategic & Security Studies, beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are open to all methodological approaches, but we have a particular interest in traditional security topics, including military strategy and tactics, force planning, initiation and termination of conflict, alliances, grand strategy, military history, etc. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including history, political science, security studies, and international relations. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letter of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9611>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3322

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Russia, South Asia

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. The successful candidate should have conducted innovative research in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 preps per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia.

Additional details for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciIRCP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3319

University of Essex

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations

Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations
Department of Government

The Department of Government at Essex are world leaders in political science, ranked top in the UK for research excellence (REF2014), among the top 10 universities for politics in the UK (The Times Good University Guide 2017), top 10 in the world for political science and international relations according to the Centre for World University Rankings (2017), among the top 50 departments on the planet according to the QS World University Rankings. With 96% student satisfaction (NSS 2016) and having been awarded Q-Step Affiliate Status, we are committed to excellence in education and research.

The Department of Government is seeking to appoint an academic at Assistant or Associate Professor level in International Relations with demonstrable excellence in research and teaching. The ideal candidate will also have a strong background in political economy. An ability to connect with existing areas of strength in the Department is also an advantage.

Please note that the appointment will be made at the UK equivalent of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer level and will be referred to by these titles throughout the advertisement and University documentation.

The Role and Duties

The post-holder is expected to conduct research and teaching in International Relations at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. They will also (co-)supervise undergraduate projects, MA, and PhD dissertations, and assess students through coursework and examination as well as contribute to the successful administration and management of the Department.

You will also be expected to obtain external research funding and contribute to the department's expansion strategy for new modules in political science.

Qualifications and Skills required

The post-holder at Lecturer level will be expected to hold a PhD in Political Science or an allied field, or be in the final stages of completion of your studies. The post-holder at Senior Lecturer level will be required to have already obtained a PhD in Political Science or an all field.

At both Lecturer and Senior Lecturer level you will be required to have an academic expertise in the area of International Relations; potential of excellence in research in International Relations; potential of excellence in teaching at undergraduate and/or postgraduate level; demonstrable potential to generate external funding; and demonstrable experience of a clear publication plan for submission to future Research Excellence Framework (REF) programmes.

Additional requirements at Senior Lecturer level include experience of PhD supervision; demonstrating a significant portfolio to include a well-established track record of high quality (ABS 3*/4* level) publications in leading refereed journals; a proven track record of raising research funds and managing research projects; proven experience in managing academic programmes; staff management, leadership and motivational skills; and the ability to support the teaching and learning experience of all academic colleagues in a higher education environment.

We particularly welcome applications from women as they are under-represented in the Department.

At the University of Essex internationalism is central to who we are and what we do. We are committed to being a cosmopolitan, internationally-oriented university that is welcoming to staff and students from all countries and a university where you can find the world in one place.

Please visit our website (<http://www.essex.ac.uk/vacancies/>) for a full job description, person specification and more information relating to this post. We recommend you read this information carefully before making an application. Applications should be made on-line, but if you would like advice or help in making an application, or need information in a different format, please telephone the Resourcing Team (01206 874588/873521).

Closing date: 17 November 2017

Interviews are planned for: 31 January 2018

Salary: £39,993 - £47,722 per annum (Lecturer), £50,618 - £56,951 per annum (Senior Lecturer)

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/17/2017

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3315

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Russia, Post Soviet Region, Post Communist Europe

The Department of Slavic and Eurasian Studies in collaboration with the Center for Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies at the University of Texas at Austin invites applications for the position of tenure-track assistant professor, with an anticipated start in the fall semester 2018. We seek applications from scholars who work on Russia/the former Soviet Union, and Eastern or East Central Europe who specialize in the social sciences (with a preference for Sociology, Anthropology, Geography, or Political Science). Engagement in interdisciplinary and digital scholarship is welcome, and all candidates must have an active research and publication agenda. Teaching duties will include a two course per semester load and the selected candidate will be expected to exhibit a commitment to service in the department, center, college, and university, and be qualified to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, as well as direct graduate and undergraduate student independent research.

Salary is based upon qualifications and experience.

Qualifications

Successful candidate should have a PhD in hand in the social sciences with a focus on Slavic or Eurasian Studies, strong research and publication agenda, and evidence of excellence in teaching and/or strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate education.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a scholarly writing sample of no more than 30 pages to Professor Julia Mickenberg, Chair, Department of Slavic and Eurasian Studies through apply.interfolio.com/43779. If you do not have a dossier account with Interfolio, you will be prompted to create one prior to applying for the position. Assistance available from Interfolio's Customer Support - help@interfolio.com or call (877) 997-8807.

Priority will be given to applications received by October 10, 2017. Finalists will be interviewed at the Association for Slavic, East European, and Eurasian Studies (ASEEES) conference in Chicago in November. The University of Texas at Austin is an AA/EEO employer, and requires all expected hires to undergo a criminal background check.

The University of Texas at Austin, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, or veteran status in employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3316

Washington & Lee University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics or International Relations
Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Washington and Lee University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics or International Relations. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the Department's introductory course in Global Politics and an introductory course in statistics, as well as upper level courses related to the candidate's field of expertise. Area of specialization is open. Opportunities will be available to teach in the other subfields in the Department (American government and political philosophy), as well as interdisciplinary programs at the University, including Africana Studies, Environmental Studies, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Middle East and South Asia Studies, Poverty and Human Capability Studies, and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. Review of applications will begin immediately, but full consideration will be given to applications that are complete by September 30. Preliminary interviews will not be conducted at APSA.

Washington and Lee is a highly selective university devoted to the teaching of the liberal arts. We are committed to excellence in teaching and to the research and professional activity that support it. Situated in the Shenandoah Valley, three hours southwest of Washington, DC, the university enrolls approximately 1,800 undergraduates and 315 law students. All application materials must be submitted online at apply.interfolio.com/44406. Include a letter of application describing why you wish to teach in a liberal arts setting, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and research abilities. Women and minority candidates are especially encouraged to apply. A completed Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment, which begins July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3310

Knox College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full time, tenure track assistant professor in comparative politics beginning September 1, 2018.

We seek an energetic and creative scholar who adopts innovative approaches to teaching and research in a residential, liberal arts setting.

Candidates should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics with a primary focus on an area other than Latin America. Ability to teach in more than one area is highly desirable. Knox College offers three academic terms per year, with a teaching load of two courses per term. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their research, teaching, and service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field expected at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates considered.

Interested applicants should submit:

1. Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy and research agenda,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential,
4. Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence,
5. Unofficial graduate transcripts,
6. An example of recent scholarship such as an article, book chapter, or conference paper.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at bschulze@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 9, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/9/2017

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3302

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, Social Science. NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Social Movements

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2018. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, research sample and three letters of reference, all in PDF format. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science September 22, 2017, sociology on November 1, 2017 and applications from economics December 1, 2017.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3289

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics or International Relations and Methods

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in comparative politics or international relations starting in August 2018. Candidate must be able to teach classes in research methods. Cross-regional or Middle East expertise is desirable. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans, teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3295

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer - International Studies

Specializations: International Security, Africa, Gender Politics & Policy

International Studies
 University of California, Irvine
 School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers

The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during Winter 2018 and/or Spring 2018 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer
Salary Range: $5,700 - $6,200 per course
Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.
Positions May Be Available: Winter 2018 and Spring 2018

Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at:

<https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04263>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:
 Winter 2018 Quarter, November 30, 2017
 Spring 2018 Quarter, January 30, 2018

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2018
Application Deadline: 2/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/28/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3286

University of Oklahoma - Norman

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Environment (Tenure Track)

University of Oklahoma
 Assistant Professor, Global Environment (Tenure Track)

The University of Oklahoma's Department of International and Area Studies, a multidisciplinary academic department in the expanding College of International Studies, invites applications for a new Assistant Professor position focused on the global environment beginning August 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates working on the historical, social, political, economic or geographic dimensions of environmental issues, climate change, and social movements for addressing environmental and climate challenges.

The person hired for this position will teach thematic undergraduate and MA-level courses in their area of expertise, including courses that are global or regional in focus. We hope to welcome a new colleague with a demonstrated commitment to fostering inclusion and mentoring members of underrepresented groups.

The Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) offers seven undergraduate degrees to approximately 360 majors and minors, and an MA in International Studies with 40 students enrolled. The Department has 20 full-time faculty with collective research strengths in the areas of development, security, and national identity. For more information, please visit the IAS website at <https://www.ou.edu/content/cis/ias.html>. The University of Oklahoma (OU) is a comprehensive public research university with a Carnegie classification of very high research activity known for excellence in teaching and research. OU enrolls over 30,000 students and has more than 2700 full-time faculty members in 21 colleges. Norman is a culturally rich and vibrant town located just outside Oklahoma City. For more information, visit <http://www.ou.edu/content/dam/provost/> documents/facultyflipbook.pdf and www.ou.edu/publicaffairs/oufacts.html.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment. The teaching load will be two courses per semester (2-2). Salary is competitive. The appointment will begin on August 16, 2018. Applicants should submit a letter of application, statements of teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, transcripts, complete teaching evaluations for at least one class, and a writing sample. Submit all materials electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43969>.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. We especially encourage applications from underrepresented groups as we continue to build a diverse faculty. The University of Oklahoma is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Protected veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

PI99184234

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3293

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics – Tenured

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, broadly defined. The holder of the chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. We particularly seek candidates who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Dickey Center, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Rockefeller Center, the Irving Energy Institute, and Tuck School of Business. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on October 7, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44031. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3253

Duke University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Duke University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the field of Security, Peace, and Conflict to begin July 1, 2018. The search is not restricted to any particular topics within security, peace, and conflict. We are seeking candidates with expertise in the areas of domestic conflict/security, international security/conflict, and/or non-traditional security concerns, such as international migration, crime, human rights, and the environment. Candidates should have potential for excellence in teaching and research at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Successful candidates will be expected to have completed the Ph.D. no later than July 1, 2018.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their research agenda, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, evidence of teaching excellence, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9589>. Address correspondence to: Chair, Security, Peace, and Conflict Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall, Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3274

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate Professor - International Relations

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field at the rank of tenured Associate Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Successful candidates must hold a Ph.D.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, contact information for at least three independent reviewers, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information about the required diversity statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01512>) for position: Associate Professor of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 22, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3278

University of Colorado Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in International Political Economy. The successful candidate should have research interests in IPE and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Applications received by October 1, 2017 will receive priority consideration, though we will continue screening applications until the position is filled. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10859. Please attach a letter of interest, current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness and names and email addresses of at least three letter writers who may be contacted to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf. If any documents are too large or too numerous to attach, please place them on your website and include a URL with links to these portions of the dossier in the appropriate attachment section. Writing samples may include publications, conference papers, and/or works in progress. Evidence of teaching effectiveness may include a statement of teaching philosophy, syllabi, course evaluations and/or other materials. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science or economics and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the IPE Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3268

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Comparative Politics of Migration

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in the Comparative Politics of Ethnicity and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43796>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3267

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. Candidates should have a primary research and teaching interest in International Relations with a principal focus on security studies. A Ph.D. degree is required. Candidates with ABD status will be considered but they must possess a Ph.D. degree by the time of appointment. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. The teaching load is four classes per year, a 2-2 load.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of approximately 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Policy and Administration, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 16 faculty members, 200 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 Ph.D. students. The department has strong ties to several research centers within the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, and the Stennis Center for Public Service. More information is available on the department at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Brian Shoup, at bds223@msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://explore.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF#496143) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, a vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin on or around September 25th, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3260

University of Houston

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a position in International Relations at the Assistant or Associate professor level. Subfields of particular interest include international development, international political economy or international organizations, but we welcome applications from all fields of IR. The appointment will begin in Fall 2018. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 2, and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars. With over 600 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, the UH Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000255. To apply, please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Tanya Bagashka, Chair, International Relations Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Houston.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3262

California State University San Marcos

Rank: Assistant Professor of Global Studies & Political Science Departments

The Departments of Global Studies and Political Science in the College of Humanities, Arts, Behavioral and Social Sciences at California State University San Marcos invite applications for a joint hire as a tenure-track Assistant Professor, beginning in Fall 2018. We are interested in candidates who possess a regional specialization in Sub-Saharan Africa or Asia (we are not looking for a specialist in the Middle East) with a secondary specialization in comparative political economy or human security.

Minimum qualifications for the position include: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 2018; primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in Sub-Saharan Africa, East Asia, South Asia, or Central Asia; evidence of teaching effectiveness; evidence of an active scholarly agenda. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach a survey course in the area specialization (for example, Asian Politics or African Politics) and the interdisciplinary Global Studies core upper-division course (GBST 300), as well as the Global Studies capstone course (GBST 400).

Preferred qualifications for the position include: A secondary specialization in comparative political economy or human security is desired. Interdisciplinary training and the ability to teach social science research methods are also desired. Preference will also be given to candidates with demonstrated intercultural competence with diverse groups in teaching, research, and/or service.

Duties and responsibilities: This position is a 50/50 joint hire between the Department of Global Studies and the Department of Political Science beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to offer courses in his/her area(s) of specialization that will count in both the Political Science and in the Global Studies curriculum. The successful candidate will also be expected to offer GBST 300 (Perspectives on Globalization) and GBST 400 (the Global Studies senior capstone course) on a regular basis. If the candidate is trained in social science research methods, teaching Political Science 301 (research methods) on a regular basis will also be expected. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester. The faculty member will advise and mentor Political Science and Global Studies undergraduate students, develop an active research agenda, and provide service to the Departments of Political Science and Global Studies, to the college, to the university and to the wider community.

Application

Applications must include:

- Cover letter that addresses the above minimum and preferred qualifications
- Curriculum vitae
- Transcripts of all graduate work
- A statement of teaching philosophy, including a statement of experience with, and commitment to, teaching a diverse student body
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (samples of course syllabi, assignments, and teaching evaluations)
- One sample of published or presented work
- Three recent letters of recommendation
- Faculty Application
- Applicant Survey 1718

Submit all application materials electronically and direct any inquiries to: GBSTTT@csusm.edu

Applications may be considered until the position is filled; however, applications and all supporting materials should be received by September 25, 2017, to ensure full consideration. Additional materials may be requested of candidates at a later date.

The university is particularly interested in candidates who have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for under-represented groups.

This position is subject to employment verification, education verification, reference checks and criminal record checks. A background check (including the criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

CSUSM has been designated as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI) and was recently named one of the top 32 Colleges most friendly to junior faculty by the Collaborative on Academic Careers in Higher Education. Visit www.csusm.edu/facultyopportunities for more information.

California State University San Marcos is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer that is strongly committed to promoting diversity in all areas of the campus community. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to age, physical or mental disability, gender or sex, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, medical condition, nationality, race or ethnicity, religion or religious creed, sexual orientation, and veteran or military status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3259

Meredith College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: China, Japan, India

Meredith College seeks qualified candidates for a tenure track assistant professorship in the Department of History, Political Science, and International Studies. The position will begin in August, 2018.

Ideal candidate will offer teaching and research strengths in modern Chinese history and one or more of the following fields: South Asia, 20th century world, Middle East, Africa, women's history, international or comparative politics. Applicants will be expected to contribute to all programs in the department, teach introductory surveys as well as upper level specialty courses, engage in scholarship and professional activity, and offer effective student advising.

Applicants must have PhD in Asian history or Asian Studies and demonstrated excellence in teaching.

Please attach letter of application, curriculum vitae, and statements of teaching philosophy and research goals to on-line application. Copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of reference should be sent to Dr. Michael Novak, History Search Committee, Meredith College, 3800 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh, NC, 27607-5298. Review of applications begins September 15.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3254

University of Oklahoma - Norman

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Security (Tenure Track)

University of Oklahoma

Assistant Professor, International Security (Tenure Track)

The University of Oklahoma's Department of International and Area Studies, a multidisciplinary and methodologically diverse academic department in the expanding College of International Studies, invites applications for a new Assistant Professor position focused on international security beginning August 2018. We are particularly interested in international relations scholars working on non-state actors and political violence.

The person hired for this position will teach thematic undergraduate and MA-level courses in their area of expertise, including courses that are global or regional in focus. We hope to welcome a new colleague with a demonstrated commitment to fostering inclusivity and mentoring members of underrepresented groups.

The Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) offers seven undergraduate degrees to approximately 360 majors and minors, and an MA in International Studies with 40 students enrolled. The Department has 20 full-time faculty with collective research strengths in the areas of development, security, and national identity. For more information, please visit the IAS website at <https://www.ou.edu/content/cis/ias.html>. The University of Oklahoma (OU) is a comprehensive public research university with a Carnegie classification of very high research activity known for excellence in teaching and research. OU enrolls over 30,000 students and has more than 2700 full-time faculty members in 21 colleges. Norman is a culturally rich and vibrant town located just outside Oklahoma City. For more information, visit <http://www.ou.edu/content/dam/provost/documents/facultyflipbook.pdf> and www.ou.edu/publicaffairs/oufacts.html

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment. The teaching load will be two courses per semester (2-2). Salary is competitive. The appointment will begin on August 16, 2018. Applicants should submit a letter of application, statements of teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, transcripts, complete teaching evaluations for at least one course, and a writing sample. Submit all materials electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43663>.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. We especially encourage applications from underrepresented groups as we continue to build a diverse faculty. The University of Oklahoma is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Protected veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/zyrr4ggrfyxkpf5>

PI99123211

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3255

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists who specialize in International Relations for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to research focus. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 30, 2017, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 16, 2018.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43728>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3238

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in the study of conflict and violence for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open to scholars in Comparative Politics or International Relations. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 30, 2017, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 16, 2018.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43734>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3237

Knox College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Comparative Politics, January-June 2018

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a visiting assistant professor in comparative politics beginning January 1, 2018. Knox College operates on a trimester system. This position would involve teaching two courses per term in the Winter and Spring 2018 terms.

Candidates should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics with a preferred focus on Latin America. The candidate should have a Ph.D or nearing completion in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field and should have significant fieldwork experience. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their teaching and research interests.

Interested applicants should submit:

1. A Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential.
4. Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at bschulze@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 11th, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the OCR.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 9/11/2017

Date Posted: 8/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3227

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/16/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
 schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
 AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
 Col. Santa Fe
 Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
 Mexico D.F.
 01389

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/16/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3219

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: International Relations/Comparative Politics Junior Faculty Position

The UCLA Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a junior faculty position, to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in applicants who specialize in International Relations or Comparative Politics, although we will also consider especially strong applications from candidates working in other fields and (pending administrative approval) at senior ranks. Given its commitment to encouraging diversity, UCLA asks that candidates include with their application a statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion.

Candidates should apply online at, <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply>. The job tracking number is JPF03192. The online application should include: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, aforementioned diversity statement, evidence of teaching excellence in related courses, at least one writing sample, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. The letters of recommendation should be uploaded directly by the referees. Appointments will be effective July 1, 2018. Ph.D. in Political Science in hand prior to the appointment. To ensure full consideration, the online application should be completed by September 25, 2017. Applications will be accepted, however, until the position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy, see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3220

University of Maryland, College Park

Rank: International Relations in American Foreign Policy

University of Maryland, College Park - International Relations in American Foreign Policy

The Department of Government and Politics at the University of Maryland invites applications for a faculty position in American foreign policy. The Department will focus hiring at the assistant level.

As part of its efforts to enhance its Center for International Development and Conflict Management, the Department is looking for candidates who would pursue collaborative research with faculty and graduate students at the Center and who combine excellence in research with a commitment to the mentoring and teaching of students. The Department of Government and Politics is also committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community. Candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to the culture of inclusiveness are encouraged to identify their experiences in these areas. We are also interested in candidates who wish to contribute to the collaborative mission of the University, be that through interdisciplinary work with faculty in other departments or the rich set of government and nongovernmental organizations in nearby Washington DC.

Candidates should post a vitae, samples of written work, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter of interest using the University of Maryland eTerp System. Goto: <http://ejobs.umd.edu/postings/53475>. For best consideration, complete applications should be posted no later than September 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3197

University of Maryland, College Park

Rank: IR in International Law and Human Rights

University of Maryland, College Park

International Relations in International Law and Human Rights

The Department of Government and Politics at the University of Maryland invites applications for a faculty position in International law and human rights. The Department will focus hiring at the assistant professor level.

As part of its efforts to enhance its Center for International Development and Conflict Management, the Department is looking for candidates who would pursue collaborative research with faculty and graduate students at the Center and who combine excellence in research with a commitment to the mentoring and teaching of students. The Department of Government and Politics is also committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community. Candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to the culture of inclusiveness are encouraged to identify their experiences in these areas. We are also interested in candidates who wish to contribute to the collaborative mission of the University, be that through interdisciplinary work with faculty in other departments or the rich set of government and nongovernmental organizations in nearby Washington DC.

Candidates should post a vitae, samples of written work, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter of interest using the University of Maryland eTerp System. Goto: <http://ejobs.umd.edu/postings/53480>. For best consideration, complete applications should be posted no later than September 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3196

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security -- with a particular emphasis on China's foreign relations, Chinese foreign policy, and Chinese security policy -- to begin July 2018.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43731

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3212

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security – with a particular emphasis on nuclear security – to begin July 2018. We are seeking applicants whose research focuses on various aspects of nuclear security, including but not limited to nuclear proliferation, nuclear deterrence, nuclear force posture and doctrine, and nuclear weapons technology.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of the Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43730

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3213

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for senior faculty positions in the study of armed conflict. The search is open with respect to field and rank. Candidates should submit a CV and any accompanying documents such as sample publications online at: <http://tinyurl.com/y7mzcn4p>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 6/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3214

Occidental College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

International Relations and Comparative Politics. The Department of Diplomacy and World Affairs (DWA) at Occidental College invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in the fields of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics to begin in fall 2018. We are specifically searching for a candidate whose expertise falls in the intersections of International Relations, Comparative Politics, and Transnationalism, or who focuses on interesting combinations of thematic issues or geographic areas. Strong preference will be given to those whose Ph.D. research focuses on the themes of state and non-state violence, migration studies, global environmental politics, and/or non-traditional diplomacy, and with expertise in Europe and/or Latin America. The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one of DWA's core courses, which includes Introduction to International Relations, International Organizations, and/or International Political Economy.

Occidental College is a highly-selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles.

Occidental College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not unlawfully discriminate against employees or applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, breastfeeding or related medical condition, national origin, ancestry, citizenship, age, marital status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic characteristic or information, sexual orientation, military and veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by State or Federal Law. We strongly encourage all underrepresented candidates, especially women and persons of color, to apply.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Romy Corona at rcorona@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter detailing your interest in teaching at Occidental, a liberal arts institution with a mission of equity and excellence; a discussion of your research; and a description of your teaching experience; (2) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes a discussion of your demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for underrepresented students; (3) a list and brief descriptions of courses you could teach at Oxy; (4) a sample of your scholarly work; (5) Curriculum Vitae; and (6) three confidential letters of recommendation, with at least one attesting to your teaching; letters must be sent by recommenders. All materials are due no later than October 13, 2017; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semifinalists will be held via video conference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. Inquiries about the position or the DWA department can be directed to the Department Chair, Professor Lan Chu: lchu@oxy.edu

Professor Sanjeev Khagram will be available to answer questions regarding the position at the APSA Conference in San Francisco on Saturday, September 2 from 1:00 pm-5:00 pm. Attendance at the conference is not a requirement of the position and will not be considered in the evaluation of application materials.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3207

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of Environmental Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in Environmental Politics at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. We welcome applications from candidates in any - or some mix - of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries.

This position, located in the Department of Politics, is part of a cross-disciplinary initiative focused on integrating social, political, cultural, and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty across the University of Virginia. The successful candidate will be involved with the University's new Environmental Resilience Institute.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Successful candidates must demonstrate, in written or published work, deep engagement with and significant contributions to an important area of environmental politics. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. For appointments at the assistant rank, we prefer candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold the PhD at the time of application and must demonstrate an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa: <https://jobs.virginia.edu>. Search on posting number 0621502 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, applicants for the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2018, with an anticipated start date of July 2018.

Questions regarding the application process in Jobs@UVa should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia assists UVa faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see: <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3198

Waseda University

Rank: Tenure-track positions in Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Faculty of Political Science and Economics at Waseda University invites applications for three tenure-track faculty positions in political science to begin in the 2018-2019 academic year. These positions are open with respect to the field of specialization. The Faculty seeks promising junior scholars who are committed to a career in research and teaching. The new hires must demonstrate potential for producing innovative research, prospective or actual impact on the profession in his or her field of expertise, and excellence in teaching.

Successful candidates will also be able to teach one of our graduate-level, introductory methodology courses in empirical analysis, formal political theory, or normative studies. For details about these courses, please refer to the following syllabi:

Introduction to Empirical Analysis
(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012046012017310101204631&pLng=en>);

Introduction to Formal Theory
(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012020022017310101202031&pLng=en>);

Introduction to Normative Studies
(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012019022017310101201931&pLng=en>)

Waseda University, founded in 1882, is a leading private research university located in central Tokyo. As part of the University's internationalization initiative, the Faculty of Political Science and Economics has offered English-based degree programs both at the undergraduate and graduate levels since 2010. The programs offer a diverse and dynamic academic community to talented students from all around the world.

Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline by the date of appointment. Proficiency in Japanese is desired but not required. The initial term for the tenure-track appointment is three years, with a possible extension of two years, contingent on an interim review during the second or third year. Tenure may be granted at any time during the probationary period upon a successful tenure review.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, sample syllabus of a lecture course in their specialized field (undergraduate or graduate level), and up to three samples of significant written scholarship electronically via https://www.wasedapse.jp/en/fpse1/eng_input.php

1. Submit your cover letter (use Template Form A) in the "(1) Application Form / Cover Letter" field
2. Submit your professional cv (use Template Form B) to the "(2) Curriculum Vitae with a list of academic/professional accomplishments" field:
3. Submit your research statement in the "(3) Additional application material 1" field
4. Submit up to three written works in the "(3) Additional application material 2" field
5. Submit your sample syllabus to the "(3) Additional application material 3" field

For Template Form A and B, Please visit <https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news/2017/08/21/7802/> on August 21st at 11:00 a.m. (JST) or later.

The application deadline is Saturday, September 30, 2017 at 1:00 p.m. (JST). Should you wish to submit a hard copy of your work or any other application materials, please send us two copies by registered mail on or before the application deadline. Receipt of applications will be acknowledged by email within 10 days after the deadline.

Candidates should also arrange to have two letters of reference submitted via email, or standard mail to the address indicated below. Should your reference send a letter via email, we ask that the letter be emailed from his or her professional affiliation. Reference letters should be sent to:

pse-hr-PolSciTT@list.waseda.jp

Prof. Koichi Suga, Dean
Attn: Application for Teure-Track positions for Political Science
Faculty of Political Science and Economics
Waseda University
1-6-1 Nishi Waseda, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-8050
Japan

Any questions regarding these positions or the application procedure should be directed to pse-hr-PolSciTT@list.waseda.jp.

Please note that the recruitment process involves three stages: 1) document screening; 2) campus visit including research presentation and an interview with the search committee; and 3) interview with the dean.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/13/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3194

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Assistant/ Associate Professor - Open Search
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Political Science at Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. Candidates for Associate Professor rank are also invited to apply. The position is open to all subfields, with a preference for comparative politics and international relations scholars. The term of appointment would begin October 1, 2018.

Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. By the third year of the appointment, candidates will be expected to be able to teach in Hebrew. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than two pages).

The committee will begin reading applications on October 1st, 2017, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should send their applications to: shain@tauex.tau.ac.il and azargat@post.tau.ac.il.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 8/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3175

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Jewish Civilization, Art, and International Affairs

The Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University invites applications for a position at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure track) in Jewish Civilization, Art, and International Affairs to begin in the Fall of 2018. The successful candidate's research will draw broad and meaningful comparisons across cultures, time, and space. She or he will scrutinize the manner in which Jewish artists, past and present, have attempted to make sense of issues of global concern to the Jewish people. Such issues may include, but are not restricted to, the formation of the State of Israel, the Jewish State's geopolitical relations with its Middle East neighbors, the standing of diaspora communities, international norms of social justice as refracted through the prism of Jewish ethics and theology, economic and political theory.

Competitive applicants will have a primary specialization in a relevant field of Jewish studies, but may possess sub-specializations which permit him or her to identify links with the other cultures, religions, ethnic groups scrutinized by the specialists in international affairs affiliated with the School of Foreign Service (e.g., African Studies, Asian Studies, Latin American Studies). The successful candidate for this position will demonstrate a creative and original research agenda, as well as excellence in the classroom and in the related areas of course design, curricular development, and student mentoring. The chosen candidate will also be expected to retain the competence necessary to teach one of our two undergraduate Gateway courses, ("Jewish Texts Across Time and Space," and/or "Diplomacy, Politics and International Relations in Jewish Perspective").

In 2016, the Program for Jewish Civilization (founded in 2003) was renamed the Center for Jewish Civilization. The CJC is supported by an endowment of 21 million dollars. Being the only Jewish studies unit of its kind located in a school of foreign service and international studies, its many scholars and practitioners culled from the government and public service explore issues pertaining to the modern State of Israel, Jewish political thought, Jewish-Catholic relations, Holocaust Studies, and the Jewish diaspora.

The candidate who is chosen will be able to benefit from existing cultural assets in the Walsh School of Foreign Service, including the Laboratory for Global Performance and Politics and our new initiative in Performance, the Arts, and International Relations.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and teaching materials (e.g., syllabi, evaluations, and a brief statement of preferred teaching approach). Candidates should specify how the intersection of art and international relations is explored, or may be explored, in their own research agenda.

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9511>. Faxed, emailed, or mailed applications will not be accepted. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with a deadline of February 1st, 2018, though the position remains open until filled.

Preliminary interviews will be held at the following conferences:
 APSA: August 31-September 3 — San Francisco
 AJS: December 17-19 — Washington, DC
 MLA: January 4-7 — New York City

Questions about the position should be directed to Dr. Jacques Berlin-erblau, Director of the Center for Jewish Civilization, at jdb75@georgetown.edu.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity and expression, and sexual orientation), disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/9/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3171

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Open Rank Position, Tenured with a Focus on China Studies

Open Rank Position Tenured
 With a focus on China Studies

School Overview:

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit www.sais-jhu.edu. To learn more about the China Studies program, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/china-studies>.

Position:

The School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University is seeking to fill a position in China Studies at the rank of (chaired) Full Professor or Associate Professor (with tenure) in its Washington, DC campus. Candidates must have a PhD, a distinguished publication record in China's contemporary politics and international relations, a demonstrated excellence in teaching and strong interest in public policy. Successful candidates may play a role in guiding the SAIS China Studies program, the Hopkins-Nanjing Center, and other activities in Greater China in a manner to be mutually agreed upon. Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 1, 2017.

Application:

A letter of application, curriculum vitae that includes contact information as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISChinaSearch@jhu.edu

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3172

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/9/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3156

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Philosophy & Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS
 Political Science – Political Theory
 NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. We are searching for faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, or global ethics. The positions are open rank. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

The review of applications will begin from September 15, 2017, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3162

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/tenure-track positions in Political Science. Candidates from all sub-fields will be considered. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor), from scholars of Middle Eastern politics, and from scholars of political theory are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

The review of applications will begin in October, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the academic year of 2017/2018, with potential campus visits to NYUNY occurring in the Spring 2018. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3163

U.S. Naval War College

Rank: CHAIR OF NATIONAL SECURITY AFFAIRS DEPARTMENT

The President, U.S. Naval War College, invites applications for the position of Chair, National Security Affairs Department.

The U.S. Naval War College: The College is a Professional Military Education institution serving the nation, the Department of Defense, and the U.S. Navy. The student body consists of members of all the Services, interagency civilians, and international officers. The College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges to award a Master of Art Degree in Defense and Strategic Studies for the College of Naval Command and Staff and a Master of Art Degree in National Security and Strategic Studies for the College of Naval Warfare. The College is dual accredited by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to award certification in Joint Professional Military Education Phase I & II.

The National Security Affairs Department: The National Security Affairs Department educates strategically minded, critical thinking, ethical leaders capable of effectively communicating sound decision making in the joint, interagency, and multinational environments. The department educates students in contemporary security studies as a key element of the Naval War College Curriculum. The department employs a multi-disciplinary approach, synthesizing selected concepts from economics, political science, strategy, leadership, psychology, management, anthropology, and other related disciplines.

Duties and Responsibilities: The Chair of the National Security Affairs Department, working under the supervision of the Dean of Academics, provides leadership for all aspects of the Department's operations including: curriculum development; academic outreach; engagement with the wider civilian and PME academic world; and faculty recruitment, retention, and development. The Chair oversees the preparation, review, management, and execution of the Department's annual budget. The Chair is responsible for working closely with the College's leadership, fostering and maintaining cooperative relationships with other departments and programs, and encouraging seamless integration across College departments.

Qualifications: The President seeks candidates who are successful, proven leaders in the academic world. A candidate's accomplishments must merit appointment as a full professor at the College. An earned Ph.D. in one of the following fields: international relations, political economy, regional security studies, foreign policy analysis, U.S. foreign policy, leadership studies or a related field and a record of scholarly excellence are required. The successful candidate must have a strong background in teaching, excellent communication and interpersonal skills, and demonstrated experience leading and managing a diverse group of faculty. A highly desirable candidate should have strong team building skills and experience in developing innovative approaches to curriculum and teaching methodology.

The position requires that the successful candidate must be capable of obtaining and maintaining a Secret security clearance.

Appointment: The appointment is governed by provisions of 10 USC 7478 as delegated by the Secretary of the Navy, and the regulations of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management that apply to "Excepted" appointments under Schedule A. For the successful candidate, the initial term of appointment is expected to be four years in length with provision for renewal dependent on performance. Expected start date is no later than summer 2018.

Salary Considerations: Salary is competitive and is accompanied by a generous federal benefit package that includes health insurance and retirement saving plans (with employer matching contributions), paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Applications: Applicants must reference VA#NWC-17-31 and forward their application package to: nwc-17-31@usnwc.edu. The application package must include: (1) cover letter and (2) curriculum vitae (with names and contact information for three references). Applications will be accepted until 30 September 2017.

Active duty members may apply under this announcement but are subject to eligibility requirements of the Veterans Opportunity to Work Act (VOW). Active duty members must submit a statement of service printed on command letterhead and signed by the command. The statement of service must provide branch, rate/rank, all dates of service, the expected date of discharge and anticipated character of service (Honorable, General, etc.). Please note: you will be ineligible for consideration if your statement of service is not submitted with your application or it shows an expected discharge or release date greater than 120 days after being submitted with your application.

Within the Department of Defense (DoD), the appointment of retired military members within 180 days immediately following retirement dated to a civilian position is subject to the provisions of 5 United States Code 3326.

Questions should be emailed to: phil.haun@usnwc.edu. The Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3159

U.S. Naval War College

Rank: CHAIR OF STRATEGY AND POLICY DEPARTMENT

The President, U.S. Naval War College, invites applications for the position of Chair, Strategy and Policy Department.

The U.S. Naval War College: The College is a Professional Military Education institution serving the nation, the Department of Defense, and the U.S. Navy. The student body consists of members of all the Services, interagency civilians, and international officers. The College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges to award a Master of Art Degree in Defense and Strategic Studies for the College of Naval Command and Staff and a Master of Art Degree in National Security and Strategic Studies for the College of Naval Warfare. The College is dual accredited by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to award certification in Joint Professional Military Education Phase I & II.

The Strategy and Policy Department: The Strategy and Policy Department educates strategically minded, critical thinking, ethical leaders capable of effectively communicating sound decision making in the joint, interagency, and multinational environments. The strategy courses are rigorous and challenging, designed to educate students to think strategically in a disciplined, analytical, and original manner in preparation for leadership positions. Students master the meaning of a wide range of strategic concepts. With intensive reading and seminar requirements, students undertake in-depth assessments of case studies involving all types of wars, critically analyzing decision making by strategic leaders.

Duties and Responsibilities: The Chair of the Strategy and Policy Department, working under the supervision of the Dean of Academics, provides leadership for all aspects of the Department's operations including: curriculum development; academic outreach; engagement with the wider civilian and PME academic world; and faculty recruitment, retention, and development. The Chair oversees the preparation, review, management, and execution of the Department's annual budget. The Chair is responsible for working closely with the College's leadership, fostering and maintaining cooperative relationships with other departments and programs, and encouraging seamless integration across College departments.

Qualifications: The President seeks candidates who are successful, proven leaders in the academic world. A candidate's accomplishments must merit appointment as a full professor at the College. An earned Ph.D. in one of the following fields: international relations, international security affairs, regional studies, war studies, diplomatic and international history, naval or military history or a related field and a distinguished record of scholarly excellence are required. The successful candidate must have a strong background in teaching, excellent communication and interpersonal skills, and demonstrated experience leading and managing a diverse group of faculty. A highly desirable candidate should have strong team building skills and experience in developing innovative approaches to curriculum and teaching methodology.

The position requires that the successful candidate must be capable of obtaining and maintaining a Secret security clearance.

Appointment: The appointment is governed by provisions of 10 USC 7478 as delegated by the Secretary of the Navy, and the regulations of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management that apply to "Excepted" appointments under Schedule A. For the successful candidate, the initial term of appointment is expected to be four years in length with provision for renewal dependent on performance. Expected start date is no later than summer 2018.

Salary Considerations: Salary is competitive and is accompanied by a generous federal benefit package that includes health insurance and retirement saving plans (with employer matching contributions), paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Applications: Applicants must reference VA#NWC-17-30 and forward their application package to: nwc-17-30@usnwc.edu. The application package must include: (1) cover letter and (2) curriculum vitae (with names and contact information for three references). Applications will be accepted until 30 September 2017.

Active duty members may apply under this announcement but are subject to eligibility requirements of the Veterans Opportunity to Work Act (VOW). Active duty members must submit a statement of service printed on command letterhead and signed by the command. The statement of service must provide branch, rate/rank, all dates of service, the expected date of discharge and anticipated character of service (Honorable, General, etc.). Please note: you will be ineligible for consideration if your statement of service is not submitted with your application or it shows an expected discharge or release date greater than 120 days after being submitted with your application.

Within the Department of Defense (DoD), the appointment of retired military members within 180 days immediately following retirement dated to a civilian position is subject to the provisions of 5 United States Code 3326.

Questions should be emailed to: phil.haun@usnwc.edu. The Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3160

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: International Security

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech invites applications for a tenure-track (or tenured) position in International Security at the rank of either Assistant or Associate Professor to begin Fall 2018. The Nunn School seeks to hire an individual whose demonstrated scholarly research and teaching in the field have a functional concentration broadly related to the nexus of science and technology with national/international security policies and strategy. Research foci of greatest interest include cyber/information security or other emerging technology challenges. The School has a secondary interest in candidates able to apply modern analytical techniques such as big data/social media analytics or networks analysis to their research or teaching. There exist opportunities for joint appointments with another School at Georgia Tech, in particular those in the Colleges of Sciences, Engineering, and Computing. Thus, comfort in working with technical experts and teaching interdisciplinary courses is strongly encouraged.

Named for former US Senator Sam Nunn whose continued presence and work on global issues inspires our efforts to be both useful and innovative, our school draws on its unique setting at a premier technological university to deliver innovative programs and cutting-edge research that integrate science and technology with the study of international affairs. The School focuses on how technology affects national security, economic well-being and competitiveness, and prospects for international cooperation and conflict. Our School seeks to equip our students with Georgia Tech's cutting edge technology tools, a global perspective and leadership skills through a new model of professional education that is theoretically grounded and practice and policy oriented.

Located in midtown Atlanta, Georgia Tech enrolls over 25,000 students and is consistently ranked as one of the top seven public universities in the country. Georgia Tech is a unit of the University System of Georgia and an AA/EEO employer; women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. Additional information pertaining to the Nunn School is available at <http://www.inta.gatech.edu/>.

Applicant review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To receive full consideration, application materials should be received by October 1, 2017 and include: (1) a letter of interest describing the candidate's relevant experience, including statement of research and teaching; (2) a curriculum vita; and (3) the names, positions, and contact information of five references. The position is subject to budgetary developments.

Materials should be sent either by mail to: Chair, Nunn School Search Committee, ATTN: Marilu Suarez; The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs; Georgia Institute of Technology; 781 Marietta Street NW; Atlanta, Georgia 30318 or electronically to intl-security-search@t-square.gatech.edu. Applicant files will be treated confidentially

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3148

Singapore Management University

Rank: Full, Associate, or Assistant Professor of Political Science

Political Science Position – International Relations

Singapore Management University, School of Social Sciences

The School of Social Sciences (SOSS), Singapore Management University, invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Full, Associate, or Assistant Professor rank.

We are seeking candidates who are well-rounded in International Relations and especially those with expertise in international institutions or regionalism (EU, ASEAN, etc.). There is no regional specialization required for the position, but an interest in Asia would be welcome. The successful candidate will display a record of, or high potential for, scholarly research, as well as demonstrated teaching aptitude. The position requires a doctorate in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field. Successful candidates should be prepared to teach both introductory courses and advanced electives in international relations.

Singapore Management University is a research university committed to an interdisciplinary and integrated curriculum, providing opportunities to work with faculty across the social sciences. The research support is excellent and salary and benefits are highly competitive. The teaching load is comparable to other research universities, and classes are capped at no more than 45 students.

Full evaluation of applications will start 15 September 2017. Interviews for shortlisted candidates will begin in October 2017. The successful candidate will be expected to start at Singapore Management University in July 2018.

The application package should be in electronic form and include: (1) a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (including teaching experience and a list of referees), (3) three professional writing samples. Materials should be delivered electronically to the Dean's Office, School of Social Sciences, Singapore Management University at the following e-mail address: socialsciencescv@smu.edu.sg. Applicants should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be delivered to the same address. For documents not available in electronic format, hard copies should be sent directly to: The Dean's Office, School of Social Sciences, Singapore Management University, 90 Stamford Road, Level 4, Singapore 178903.

Information about SMU and the School of Social Sciences can be found at www.socsc.smu.edu.sg

Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/14/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3149

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor: John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security

Associate or Full Professor: John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security.

Department of Political Science
Southern Methodist University
Dallas, Texas

(Position No. 00052605) The Political Science Department at Southern Methodist University invites applications for the John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security. This is a tenured position, open at the rank of professor or associate professor. Preference will be given to scholars with outstanding records of research and teaching in international relations with a

specialization in one or more of the following subfields: US national security affairs, US foreign and defense policy, US security, strategic and intelligence studies, and civil-military relations. We are particularly interested in scholars who merge political science with fine-grained policy analyses. The successful candidate will serve as Director of the Security and Strategy Program (SAS@SMU), which provides research grants and organizes public events on national security issues. He or she will also be senior fellow in the John G. Tower Center for Political Studies and will participate in Center activities and programs. PhD required at time of appointment. The expected start date for the position is fall 2018.

The Political Science Department at SMU currently consists of sixteen faculty members who offer undergraduate programs in political science, public policy, and international and area studies, with a total of over 250 majors. Classes are small and expectations are high in both teaching and research. The Tower Center for Political Studies (<http://www.smu.edu/tower/>), housed with the Political Science Department, is a dynamic interdisciplinary center sponsoring dozens of teaching, research, and public service programs annually in national and international politics. The successful candidate will take a leading role in advancing the Department, the Center, and related programs, particularly the Center's program in national security.

Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas. Applicants can initiate consideration by submitting a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three references to: Professor James Hollifield, Director, Tower Center, PO Box 750117, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX 75275-0117 or jhollifi@smu.edu with CC to plsc@smu.edu.

The review of candidates will begin on 15 October 2017, but the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. The committee will notify applicants of its decision when the search is complete.

Southern Methodist University will not discriminate in any program or activity on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation, or gender identity and expression. The Executive Director for Access and Equity/Title IX Coordinator is designated to handle inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies and may be reached at the Perkins Administration Building, Room 204, 6425 Boaz Lane, Dallas, TX 75205, 214-768-3601, accessequity@smu.edu.

Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3151

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with research and teaching in the field of International Relations with specialization in International Organizations to begin the fall semester of 2018.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

Candidates will be expected to teach undergraduate political science courses in the area of international politics that serve as requirements for both the Political Science and the new International Studies & Diplomacy undergraduate degrees as well as teach other courses in the International Relations graduate program. Candidates will also be expected to publish original research in the field of international politics, advise undergraduate students, and provide service to the department, the university and the profession.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2018, in Political Science, International Relations, or related field
- 2) Primary or secondary field in the area of International Organizations
- 3) Evidence of college-level teaching commensurate with level of academic experience
- 4) Demonstrated ability to teach introductory political science courses in the area of international politics
- 5) Demonstrated evidence of research in the field of international politics with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience
- 6) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: diplomacy, human rights, international law, environmental justice, food security, international migration, political asylum, or refugee flows
- 2) Internationally relevant experience working with international organizations, conducting international fieldwork, or strong foreign language skills

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

The application deadline is October 1, 2017.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: <https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/2628>

Please attach (PDF) the following documents to your online application:

- 1) Cover letter that describes your interest in this position
- 2) Curriculum vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document)
- 3) Brief research and teaching statement
- 4) If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3144

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Auburn University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning August 16, 2018. We seek excellent candidates that can complement the strengths of our department. The call is open to candidates in all areas and sub-fields of International Relations broadly construed. Candidates should be able to demonstrate strong command of international relations theory, conduct research, mentor graduate students, and teach undergraduate and graduate level classes, including the university's core course, Global Politics and Issues.

Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Political Science by the start date, for the rank of Assistant Professor. However, ABDs will be considered for the appointment at the rank of Instructor. The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time of appointment and to continue working legally during employment; excellent communication skills required.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2017. To apply, visit <https://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com>. Candidates are required to include a cover letter outlining their qualifications for the position, a current curriculum vita, an official transcript of all graduate work, contact information for three letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a one-page statement of research program, a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, and a writing sample.

Auburn University is Alabama's largest land grant university, enrolling over 25,000 students. The Political Science Department maintains a diverse faculty of 26 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, health services administration, and public administration; a Master's degree program in Public Administration (MPA) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance; a Master's degree program in Community Planning (MCP), and a Ph.D. program in public administration and public policy.

Direct questions to Dr. Jill Crystal, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University AL, 36849 Fax: 334-844-5348. Email: jill.crystal@auburn.edu.

"Diversity among its administrators, faculty, staff, and students is an Auburn University commitment. Auburn University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. It is our policy to provide equal employment opportunities for all individuals without regard to race, sex, religion, color, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, or any other classification protected by applicable law."

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3133

Williams College

Rank: tenure-track, entry level assistant professor in international relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track, entry-level assistant professor position in international relations, beginning in Fall 2018, with a specialty in international security issues. Our interests within the area of international security are wide-ranging. We welcome all theoretical perspectives and empirical topics. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field, and applicants are asked to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences if hired.

Candidates should have the Ph.D. in hand by September 2018. Please upload a letter detailing current research interests and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (one article, book chapter, or conference paper), evidence of teaching success, and three letters of recommendation to Interfolio using this link: apply.interfolio.com/43308. We will begin review of applications on September 15; any application received by October 1 will receive full consideration. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: <http://dean-faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/>.

Williams College is a coeducational liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (<http://www.williams.edu>). Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/3/2017

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3134

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-2019 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach introduction to world or comparative politics (depending on subfield), upper-level political science courses in the area of specialty including Post Soviet Russian Politics, and to occasionally teach as part of a faculty rotation the Introduction to Russian and Eurasian Studies and the Havighurst Seminar (topical); develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in the curricular and programming efforts of the Havighurst Center for Russian and Post-Soviet Studies.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science, public policy or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with expertise in Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4586>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Laura Neack at neacklj@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3126

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Bethany CollegeRank: Assistant Professor of Political Science*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

TWO positions for Assistant Professor; tenure-track. The Department of History and Political Science at Bethany College seeks to fill two tenure-track positions starting 2018-2019. The primary field for one position should be in American politics including constitutional law, American Political Development, American institutions broadly defined, judicial politics, or American foreign policy. The primary field for the second position should be in Comparative or International Politics broadly understood. We would prefer candidates who can contribute to institutional initiatives in pre-law advising, environmental politics and policy, or public health. The ability to lead short-term study abroad programs and/or to teach courses in social sciences statistics or research methods would be a significant plus. Each successful candidate will be expected to contribute courses to at least two subfields of the discipline and/or an interdisciplinary international relations program. Candidates should demonstrate how their research and teaching brings an integrative perspective to bear on the study of politics, society, and social change.

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to liberal arts education and to engaging students in active undergraduate research. Bethany faculty are expected to make contributions to student advising, program assessment, committee service, and student recruitment and retention.

Both positions will commence in August 2018.

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field preferred, ABD considered; teaching experience is essential. There is the possibility of appointment at an advanced Assistant Professor level if qualifications and time in rank merit.

Bethany is a private, liberal arts, church-affiliated college with an enrollment of approximately 700 students. Bethany College is located on a picturesque and historic 1,300-acre campus in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia, approximately 40 miles west of Pittsburgh. Founded in 1840, Bethany is West Virginia's oldest private college.

Please provide letter of application, CV, statement of teaching interests, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and unofficial copies of both graduate and undergraduate transcripts via email to doffaculty@bethanywv.edu and reference Political Science search in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. We do plan to complete this process in the fall semester so candidates are strongly urged to apply on time. We will be interviewing strong candidates at the American Political Science Association annual meeting in San Francisco (Thursday and Friday only). Please email CV to Dr. Joe Lane (Provost) at doffaculty@bethanywv.edu note "request an interview at APSA" in the subject line.

Bethany College seeks a diverse faculty and staff. Bethany is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 9/30/2017Date Posted: 8/3/2017Salary: $40,000 - $49,999eJobs ID: 3102Pennsylvania State University*Rank: Open Rank Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in International Relations, with the appointment beginning in fall 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work focuses on intrastate violence or international security. Candidates should have active research agendas, a record of quality publications or the potential to publish in high-quality venues, good teaching credentials, and demonstrated mastery of quantitative and/or formal research methods. Senior candidates with strong research records or candidates who could contribute to Penn State's Global and International Studies Program, particularly by teaching introductory courses, will receive special consideration. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant released time.

All requirements for the Ph.D. must be completed by the appointment date. Application review will begin on September 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/73164> All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/3/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3107Texas A&M University*Rank: Associate/Full Professor*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Security

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with research and teaching in Global Security to start in September 2018. The Department welcomes applications from political scientists and scholars in closely related fields and is open to all methodological approaches.

Successful candidates will be expected to teach courses in the Department's graduate and undergraduate programs, including Introduction to World Politics. Salary and credit towards tenure will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Requirements:

We seek candidates who specialize in global security: how states, non-state actors and global networks create or respond to new security threats, policies and governance. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research focuses on emerging technologies in a significant functional domain of global security (strategic defense, cybersecurity, disarmament, environmental or human security, transnational political violence, armed conflict prevention and mitigation, or other topics). The ideal candidate will understand the security-seeking strategies of states at different levels of development, as well as those of non-state actors; will be conversant with the broader theoretical international security literature; and will be able to help provide general coverage of the international relations field in teaching including graduate-level seminars and an introductory level World Politics course.

This search continues the Department's efforts to hire scholars whose work spans traditional fields of political science and deals with one or more of these thematic emphases: (a) global forces (economic, religious, and demographic change; social movements; other globalizing forces that redefine national identity or redistribute political and economic power); (b) governance and institutions (the origins or consequences of political institutions or processes, including public policy and administration; the role of networks, information and communication technologies; the interplay of structure and action; institutional effectiveness; American, comparative or global political development); (c) democracy, participation, and citizenship (democratic institutions and practices; political participation; migration; citizenship; conflicts between political ideals and social inequalities; variations in the meanings of democratic practice); and (d) the politics of the law (the relationship between law and legal systems and the political, economic, social and cultural processes in which they are embedded, including the production, implementation, politicization and transformation of the law at tribal, local, national, transnational, or global levels).

A Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field in hand by September 2018 is required.

Additional Information:

The university is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University of Massachusetts Amherst is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Because broad diversity is essential to an inclusive climate and critical to the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will holistically assess the many qualifications of each applicant and favorably consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with broadly diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds in educational, research or other work activities. We will also favorably consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic degree and career.

We are seeking talented applicants qualified for an assistant professor position. Under exceptional circumstances, highly qualified candidates at other ranks may receive consideration.

Application Instructions:

Applicants should submit the following: (1) cover letter describing current and future research plans, (2) teaching statement describing teaching philosophy and, if available, sample syllabi and teaching evaluations, (3) curriculum vitae, (4) two writing samples, and (5) contact information for three professional/academic references.

For official job posting, visit: <https://umass.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=86803&CNTRNO=0&TSTMP=1501774290675>

TO APPLY, visit: <https://umass.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86803#pageTop>

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by 2 October 2017. Please direct questions concerning this position to Professor Charli Carpenter, Search Committee Chair, charli@polsci.umass.edu. Review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3124

Anderson University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations with Security Studies focus Specializations: International Security, Intelligence, Foreign Policy

The Department of History and Political Science at Anderson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will assist in the development of a growing undergraduate program in National Security Studies, which offers interdisciplinary majors in National Security Studies and Information Security. Primary responsibilities include teaching introductory and upper-division courses in international relations and security studies, including advanced courses in terrorism, intelligence studies, and homeland security. Candidates with an ability to offer courses in international political economy, comparative politics, and/or public policy and administration are especially encouraged to apply. The normal teaching load is 12 hours per semester.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate will possess a maturing Christian faith and demonstrate a strong commitment to the mission of Christian higher education, undergraduate teaching at both the introductory and advanced levels, and professional development. Ph.D. preferred but ABD will be considered. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Application Process:

Send a letter addressing the preferred qualifications listed above, a curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness and scholarly potential, a statement of how your faith relates to your discipline, a copy of graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, and a completed Anderson University application (found at <https://www.anderson.edu/uploads/hr/faculty-application.pdf>) to: Dr. Joel Shrock, Dean, School of Humanities and Behavioral Science, Anderson University, 1100 East Fifth Street, Anderson, IN 46012. Email address is jdshrock@anderson.edu. If materials are sent electronically, please make sure that receipt is confirmed. Background checks are routinely conducted on applicants for Anderson University positions.

Anderson University is a private Christian university in central Indiana. It continues to be recognized as one of America's top colleges by U.S. News and World Report, The Princeton Review and Forbes. Additional information is available on the University's website.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/2/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3081

University of Rochester

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in any area of International Relations. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/8/2017
Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3091

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3045

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2018 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <http://tinyurl.com/yapctjam>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 5/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3084

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant Professor

International Relations/Methodology (Assistant Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University Bloomington invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor in the field of International Relations (IR) and/or methodology beginning August 2018. We have a particular interest in scholars who will contribute to our professional reputation in empirical International Relations and our research methods courses at all levels. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, the candidate is expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate in departmental activities.

This position is authorized at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful candidates who have completed their Ph.D. degree by Sept. 30, 2017 will be appointed as Assistant Professor, while Ph.D. candidates without degree in hand would be appointed as Acting Assistant Professor at a lower salary. Upon final completion of the degree by Jan. 31, 2018, the appointment would be changed to Assistant Professor at a higher salary for the spring semester. Candidates at the Associate Professor level or seeking a tenured appointment will be considered only under unusual circumstances.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA Services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status. To ensure full consideration applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, copies of research publication and course syllabi, and teaching evaluations by October 1, 2017. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, however.

Interested candidates should review the job requirements and submit application materials on-line at <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/4339>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to:

Jessica Williams
Department of Political Science
Indiana University Bloomington
1100 E. Seventh Street
Bloomington, IN 47405-7110
(812) 855-1209
jeewilli@indiana.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3078

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3060

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, International Relations or Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the fields of international relations or comparative politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3070

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position in International Relations beginning fall semester 2018 (08/27/18).

The department seeks qualified applicants ranging from current Ph.D. candidates to advanced assistant professors. We especially welcome applications from underrepresented groups.

The search is open with respect to both specialty within the field and approach. We welcome applications from all areas of focus in international relations, including the international relations of China or East Asia, the Environment, and International Relations Theory.

Appointments will be 100% time over the nine-month academic year (late-August to late-May), and will be made at the rank of tenure-track assistant professor, consistent with collegiate and university policy. Salary is competitive, and dependent on qualifications and experience.

Qualifications:

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in political science or related field is required. Advanced ABD's may be considered for appointment at the rank of tenure-track instructor, with the stipulation that the Ph.D. is conferred in the first year of the appointment.

Preferred Qualifications:

College/university-level teaching experience is preferred.

Candidates will be evaluated according to (a) overall quality of their academic preparation and scholarly work, (b) contribution of their scholarly research to the department's academic priorities and fields of inquiry, (c) evidence of commitment to teaching and skills as a teacher, and (d) strength of recommendations.

Duties / Responsibilities:

Faculty in the Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts are expected to maintain an active research program, teach and advise undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute service appropriate for the rank of appointment to the department, college, University, and profession.

The Standards for Promotion and Tenure in the Department of Political Science are available at: http://academic.umn.edu/provost/faculty/tenure/pdf/CLA/7_12POLSCI.pdf

For information on faculty workload guidelines and principles in the College of Liberal Arts, visit:

<https://sites.google.com/a/umn.edu/cla-intranet/ofaa/resources/workload-principles--guidelines>

About the Department / College / University:

The Department of Political Science is committed to excellence in graduate and undergraduate education and to the conduct of leading social science research. For further information, please visit the department website, <http://cla.umn.edu/polisci>.

Established in 1868, the College of Liberal Arts supports the University of Minnesota's land-grant mission as home to disciplines in the arts, humanities, and social sciences. The College of Liberal Arts is committed to intellectual freedom, the pursuit of new knowledge, and the belief that the liberal arts are the foundation of academic learning. CLA prepares students to be independent and original thinkers, innovators in their chosen fields; to create meaning in their lives and in their life's work; and to become productive citizens and leaders in their communities and the world. The College of Liberal Arts values diverse cultures, experiences, and perspectives as key to innovation and excellent education. www.cla.umn.edu

Founded in 1851, the University of Minnesota, with its five campuses and more than 65,000 students, is one of the largest, most comprehensive universities in the United States, and ranks among the most prestigious research universities in the world. It is both a major research institution, with scholars of national and international reputation, and a state land-grant university, with a strong tradition of education and public engagement.

The University recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting the academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds.

The University of Minnesota provides equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. To learn more about diversity at the U: <http://diversity.umn.edu>.

Application Instructions:

Apply online through the University of Minnesota's Job Center: <http://www1.umn.edu/ohr/employment/index.html>.

- Job Opening ID: 318706
- Job Posting Title: Assistant Professor (Political Science: International Relations)
- Job Code: 9403
- Jobs Posted Within: Last Three Months (or greater)
- Keyword(s): Political Science

Applications must be submitted online. To be considered for this position, please click the APPLY button and follow the instructions. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position, and attach a cover letter and C.V. Additional documents must be attached to your "My Activities" page, and can be attached after submission of the application by re-entering the Job Center, accessing your "My Activities" page (in the top list of hyperlinks), and uploading documents there.

The following required materials must be attached to your online application:

1. Cover letter
 2. Curriculum vitae
 3. Writing sample (in the candidate's central area of research)
 4. Brief statement of research interests
 5. Brief statement of teaching philosophy and interests
- Additional materials may be requested from candidates at a future date.

In addition to the electronically-submitted materials, candidates are asked to arrange for at least THREE letters of recommendation to be sent directly to the department.

The letters of recommendation may be emailed to cutt0019@umn.edu, or mailed to:

International Relations Search Committee
Attn: Alexis Cuttance
Department of Political Science
University of Minnesota-Twin Cities
267 19th Avenue South, Room 1414
Minneapolis, MN 55455

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 2nd, 2017. However, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

For questions about the position, please contact the Department of Political Science, at (612) 624-4144.

For questions about the application process, or to request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Any offer of employment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Our presumption is that prospective employees are eligible to work here. Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify finalists from employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3050

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

Assistant Professor of International Relations -- Migration
University of Southern California

The School of International Relations in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles, California) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor of International Relations, anticipated to begin Fall 2018. We seek applicants with a strong research program in the politics of cross-national migration. Candidates should demonstrate a capacity for innovative research on population movement as it relates to poverty and economic crisis, chronic hunger, armed conflict (internal or international), and/or environmental degradation and climate change. The successful candidate will also demonstrate strong methodological skills, whether qualitative or quantitative, including the ability to teach a Ph.D.-level methods course. Applicants with expertise in experimental design or advanced statistical techniques are especially welcome. A Ph.D. is required by time of appointment, preferably in Political Science, though other disciplines may be considered.

Applications should be complete by October 1 to receive fullest consideration. Applicants are required to complete the on-line application process (with few exceptions—such as published books—materials submitted by regular post will not be accepted). Follow this link or paste it in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-of-international-relations-migration/1209/5215060> . Required materials include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, research sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of reference, and official graduate transcripts. Inquiries may be sent to sirsearch@dornsife.usc.edu .

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3055

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor in Global Studies
Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, International Relations

The Global Studies Program and Political Science Department at the National University of Singapore is looking to hire a tenure-track assistant professor in Global Studies. The candidate should be able to develop and teach applied, workshop-style classes for upper level undergraduates in cooperation with NGOs, business, or government agencies. The candidate should also be able to teach research design and basic social science methodology classes in a multidisciplinary setting. Scholars from all social science and humanities disciplines are welcome to apply. However, the applicant's research profile should be legible to scholars of politics, broadly defined, given that the future tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The Department of Political Science and the National University of Singapore are highly research-oriented. The teaching load is three modules year academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonuses and salary increments, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support.

Applicants should send a CV, a letter detailing their teaching and research interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox11@nus.edu.sg. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and liveable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3043

National University of Singapore

Rank: Associate/Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for an Associate or Full Professor in any of its subfields, which are Comparative Politics, Governance and Public Policy, International Relations, and Political Theory. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research and publication and be able to provide evidence of superior teaching and proven capacity for leadership. The Department of Political Science and the National University of Singapore are highly research-oriented. The teaching load is three modules year academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonuses and salary increments, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support.

Applicants should send a CV, a letter detailing their teaching and research interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox12@nus.edu.sg. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and livable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3044

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Assistant Professor – International Relations
 Department of Political Science
 Emory University
 Atlanta, GA

The Department of Political Science at Emory University seeks to hire an assistant professor with expertise in international relations, to begin in the fall semester 2018. The position is tenure-track at the level of Assistant Professor.

The successful candidate must demonstrate excellence or the promise of excellence in both research and teaching. The candidate should have completed the Ph.D. or be very close to completing the Ph.D. by September 2018. The teaching load and benefits are competitive.

A complete application will consist of a cover letter that includes a research statement, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching portfolio, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are also required to submit a brief statement about their experience and vision regarding the teaching and mentorship of students of diverse backgrounds. Application review will begin on September 5, 2017; to ensure full consideration all materials should be received by this date.

To apply for this position, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/43405> and submit your materials free of charge through Interfolio.

Emory University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer. The Department of Political Science, Emory College, and Emory University are all strongly committed to recruiting female and minority candidates. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/5/2017
Date Posted: 7/24/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3036

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applicants for positions in International Relations to begin July 1, 2018. The position is open rank. We are interested in candidates from all areas of International Relations, though we have a particular interest in those with expertise in International Political Economy and International Organization.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43260>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Date Posted: 7/21/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3030

Tulane University

Rank: Greenleaf Scholar-In-Residence, Visiting Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: Latin American, International Political Economy, Environmental Policy

Tulane University invites applications from mid-career scholars in Latin American Studies conducting interdisciplinary research in the social sciences to spend one or two semester(s) as a Greenleaf Scholar-in-Residence at the Stone Center for Latin American Studies during the 2018-2019 academic year. We seek scholars who address questions of social and gender inclusion, particularly with regard to the reduction of economic, environmental, health or other inequalities. We encourage applications from scholars in the fields of anthropology, development studies, economics, environmental studies, international studies, law, political science, public health, social medicine or sociology. Appointments for fall semester are from August 1 – December 31, 2018. Appointments for spring semester are from January 1– May 31, 2019. Salary is $40,000 per semester plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported.

Qualifications: Minimum Associate Professor status or above and a distinguished record of publication.

Application Instructions: Applications must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting <http://apply.interfolio.com/42704>. Please submit a CV including contact information for two professional references, as well as a cover letter describing how residence at Tulane will aid in advancing your research. Also, please provide a title and brief description of a course (or courses) you would be interested in offering. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017, but the position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3028

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as African Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3018

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3019

Auburn University at Montgomery

Rank: Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for the endowed Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy starting August 2018. This is a tenured position at the rank of full professor. The appointment to the Khaled Chair is for a three-year term (renewable, upon a satisfactory review) and comes with a stipend, research support, and a reduction in teaching load.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the candidate's area of international relations at the undergraduate and graduate levels; maintain an active scholarly research program in that area; provide leadership in recruiting, mentoring, and supervising students in the Department's programs, especially for the doctoral program; contribute to the development of research and scholarly activities in international relations, international policy, and related subjects in the Department and the University; and through research, teaching, and service, participate in the creation of an atmosphere of international understanding.

The successful candidate must be a specialist in international relations and have a Ph.D. in one of the following areas: political science, international affairs, international relations, or public policy. In addition, the candidate must have a record of sustained scholarship, teaching excellence, service to the discipline and community, and supervision of student research to permit appointment at the rank of full professor.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2017. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload the following materials: a letter of application to include specification of training, current and future research agenda, teaching interests and teaching philosophy, and most significant professional service; curriculum vitae; one recent writing sample; graduate transcript (official transcript will be needed at time of hire); and contact information for three professional references. Three confidential letters of reference are required and must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu by the application deadline.

Auburn University at Montgomery is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The University enrolls approximately 4300 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in political science and a nationally ranked, NASPAA-accredited master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in public administration and public policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3015

Syracuse University

Rank: International Relations

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes

Syracuse University
International Relations

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire an Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations for a tenure-track or tenured position beginning in Fall 2018. We particularly welcome candidates whose work focuses on foreign policy, global environmental politics, or conflict resolution. The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests; successful candidates will have some teaching responsibilities in the MA-IR program and a courtesy appointment in the Department of Public Administration and International Affairs. Successful candidates also may be invited to affiliate with the Moynihan Institute of Global Affairs or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (<http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. Rank and salary commensurate with experience and professional accomplishments.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 1, 2017. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3002

Harvard University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenure-track professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2018. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Doctorate or terminal degree in Political Science or related disciplines required by the time the appointment begins.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching is desired.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIES portal (<http://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2017.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement (describing teaching approach and philosophy)
4. Research statement
5. Names and contact information of 3-5 referees, who will be asked by a system-generated email to upload a letter of recommendation once the candidate's application has been submitted. Three letters of recommendation are required, and the application is considered complete only when at least three letters have been received.
6. Writing samples and publications, if applicable.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Contact Information: Natasha Khrestalova, Department of Government, Harvard University, 1737 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, MA 02138.

nkhrustalova@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2994

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

California State University, East Bay

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics/International Relations),

FACULTY EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

THE UNIVERSITY: California State University, East Bay is known for award-winning programs, expert instruction, a diverse student body of over 15,000 students, and a choice of more than 100 career-focused fields of study. For the past three years our campus has been the recipient of the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award from INSIGHT Into Diversity Magazine. We are proud of our diversity and committed to providing an inclusive and stimulating environment for all our students. The University's main campus is in Hayward, with branches in Contra Costa County, Online and in Oakland, California. Our 900+ faculty offer bachelor's degrees in 47 fields, minors in 51 fields, master's degrees in 33 fields, 9 credentials programs, 12 certificate options, and 1 doctoral degree program. <http://www20.csueastbay.edu/>

THE DEPARTMENT: The Department of Political Science offers a B.A. degree that provides both a strong background in social science and excellent professional preparation for students. The major offers three distinct paths to completion, the traditional major and options in pre-law and public affairs and administration. The two options offer interdisciplinary pre-professional curricula. The department is strong in every aspect of American government (national, state and local institutions, public policy, public law, public administration and ethnic/minority politics), as well as Comparative Politics and International Relations.

DUTIES OF THE POSITION: The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in Comparative Politics, Comparative Law, International Relations, and other coursework as assigned. In addition to teaching, all faculty have advising responsibilities, assist the department with administrative and/or committee work, and are expected to assume campus-wide committee responsibilities. Please note that teaching assignments at California State University, East Bay include courses at the Hayward campus, and with instructor's choice, at the Concord campus, and to teach online.

RANK AND SALARY: Assistant Professor. Salary is dependent upon educational preparation and experience. Subject to budgetary authorization.

DATE OF APPOINTMENT: Fall Semester, 2018.

Qualifications:

- Candidates must have an earned Ph.D. in Political Science at the effective date of the appointment.
- Candidates with teaching experience at the university level are preferred.
- Candidates with experience teaching in various formats (in-person, hybrid and fully online classes), as well as evidence of teaching effectiveness, are preferred.
- Preferred candidates would include those:
 - With research agendas focused on Comparative Politics and any of the following topics – refugees, migration, or closely-related topics,
 - With a record of scholarly activity in the above mentioned subfield and topics, and
 - Who demonstrate knowledge of multiple regions such as Europe and Latin America
- Strong preference for candidates with awareness of issues of diversity and social justice, as well as with innovative pedagogy for students from diverse educational and cultural backgrounds.

Candidates should demonstrate experience in teaching, mentoring, research, or community service that has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. Additionally, applicants must demonstrate a record of scholarly activity.

This University is fully committed to the rights of students, staff and faculty with disabilities in accordance with applicable state and federal laws. For more information about the University's program supporting the rights of our students with disabilities see: <http://www20.csueastbay.edu/af/departments/as/>

Application Instructions

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. The position will be considered open until filled. To apply, please submit the following required documents through Interfolio (see "Apply Now," below):

apply.interfolio.com/41997

Application Instructions

1. Letter of application, which addresses the qualifications noted in the position announcement;
2. Complete and current vita;
3. One (1) writing sample;
4. One-page teaching statement that explains your teaching philosophy and pedagogical approaches;
5. One-page research statement that discusses your research agenda;
6. One-page diversity statement that addresses how you engage a diverse student population in your teaching, research, mentoring, and advising; and
7. Three (3) confidential letters of recommendation.

If available, the applicants may also submit the following optional documents.

- Course syllabi;
- Student evaluation of courses taught by the applicant; and
- Additional writing samples.

If you have questions about the position, please contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Maria Ortuoste at: maria.ortuoste@csueastbay.edu

Note: California State University, East Bay hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. All offers of employment are contingent upon presentation of documents demonstrating the appointee's identity and eligibility to work in accordance with provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act. A background check (including a criminal records check and prior employment verification) must be completed and cleared prior to the start of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2991

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for a position (open to applications from specialists in international relations or comparative politics) at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in the Fall of 2018. Courses to be taught include Introduction to International Relations and Politics of the Global Economy. We also welcome courses on topics that support our interdisciplinary initiatives, such as the global environment, global poverty and inequality, sustainability, urbanization, political regimes, and democratization. Expertise in South Asia as well as global experience a plus. Ability to and enthusiasm for teaching Research Methods in rotation with subject areas courses is expected. The teaching load is spread over a two-year cycle. Faculty have a three-course load semester once every two years, and for the other three semesters, the teaching load is two courses. We are seeking to hire a dedicated teacher and emerging scholar who will embrace the department's mission of helping students become informed, analytically reflective, and engaged global citizens.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive Catholic university in the mainstream of American higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, the service of faith and the promotion of justice. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information.)

Loyola Marymount has a strong commitment to diversity, broadly defined, and therefore encourages applicants that enhance the racial diversity of the department; who are committed to working within a diverse campus community; and who are enthusiastic about working in an institution where minority and women faculty can thrive.

The application requires: 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission); 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates your approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and, if applicable, teaching evaluations and/or sample syllabi; and 4) three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: M.J. Cho at POLJobs@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to M.J. Cho: POLJobs@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to M.J. Cho at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. We will begin reviewing applications on September 25; the position will be open until filled. Preliminary interviewing will be conducted at the APSA Annual Meeting.

Candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred; ABD applications who anticipate completion of the doctorate by Fall 2018 will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/22/2017

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2989

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Graduate School of Public and International Affairs (GSPIA) at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications and nominations for a tenure-stream faculty position at the assistant professor level in the field of international relations with specialization in international political economy, to begin in the fall term of 2018. A PhD in political science or related discipline is expected at the time of appointment. The successful candidate will have research and teaching interests in international political economy and the ability to contribute to GSPIA's core teaching in public and international affairs. Applications from qualified candidates with research and teaching interests in East Asia and/or international trade are especially welcome. In their application materials, candidates are encouraged to emphasize qualifications that make them well-suited to serve on the faculty of a professional school.

Qualified applicants can submit their materials online through email attachments (see email address below). Submitted materials should include a letter of application describing the applicant's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, two samples of scholarly writing, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations (if available):

Search Committee Chair
c/o Mary Ann Gebet, Executive Assistant to the Dean
Graduate School of Public and International Affairs
IPEGSPIA@pitt.edu
3407 Posvar Hall
Pittsburgh, PA 15260

Applications must be received by September 15, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2984

St. Lawrence University

Rank: Consortium for Faculty Diversity Postdoctoral Teaching Fellow in International Relations

The Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for a one-year (potentially renewable up to two additional years) Consortium for Faculty Diversity postdoctoral teaching fellow position in International Relations. The position begins August 2018. The successful candidate will teach two courses per semester, including introductory courses in international relations and upper-level courses that complement the department's current course offerings in the subfield. Doctorate degree in political science or related field is required.

Candidates must also meet the Consortium for Faculty Diversity's eligibility requirements:

“Applicants must contribute to increasing the diversity of member colleges in one or more of the following ways: Increasing their ethnic and racial diversity, maximizing the educational benefits of diversity and/or increasing the number of professors who can and will use diversity as a resource for enriching the education of students.

Applicants must be able to provide evidence of U.S. citizenship or unconditional permanent residency status at the time of hire.

Postdoctoral applicants should have no more than five years of teaching or relevant experience, postdoctoral, prior to the start of a fellowship.”

To apply, please note the following two-part application process: 1. St. Lawrence is a member of the Consortium for Faculty Diversity in Liberal Arts Colleges. All applicants for the position should review the eligibility requirements for the Consortium's postdoctoral fellowships and submit a dossier via Interfolio at <http://www.gettysburg.edu/about/offices/provost/cfd/>. By submitting your dossier via Interfolio, you also may be contacted by other liberal arts colleges about additional fellowship opportunities. 2. Applicants must also complete an online application form at <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1192>. Review of applications will begin on October 16, 2017. Questions about the position may be directed to Dr. Grace Huang (ghuang@stlawu.edu), Search Chair.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2950

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/IR

Teaching a 3/3 course load, with courses in International or Comparative Political Economy, as well as additional courses in International Politics and/or Comparative Politics and the applicant's area of regional specialty. Maintain an active research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Service includes advising duties for Global Studies majors and other service to the department as assigned by Chair, as well as institutional service.

A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Research agenda and expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. Candidate should have a PhD in Political Science or be ABD.

Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia.

The Department of Political Science at Loyola University Maryland invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The position begins Fall 2018.

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and an interest in the enduring questions of Politics, with an ability to teach International or Comparative Political Economy. Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia. Applicants should have their primary training in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations, and the expectation will be for courses to be taught in Introduction to Politics, International or Comparative Political Economy, International Politics and/or Comparative Politics, as well as in the regional area of expertise. Candidates should have a PhD or ABD.

The teaching load for the position is three courses in the fall and three courses in the spring semester, with a single-course reduction the first semester (each course is capped at 30 students). Courses will primarily serve Political Science and Global Studies majors.

The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in Loyola's growing Global Studies program. Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major with a curriculum based in the four disciplines of Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology. Students begin with foundational coursework in each department, and then develop topical specializations in the junior and senior years. The program hosts annual speakers and special events, and is a significant presence on campus. Faculty who contribute to Global Studies participate in student advising and mentoring, teach courses in the major, and become part of the Global Studies academic community. The candidate will be a member of the Political Science Department but will advise Global Studies majors.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

To apply, please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to submit a C.V., three letters of reference, graduate transcripts (copies are acceptable), an article-length manuscript or chapter demonstrating scholarly potential, and a cover letter explaining teaching approach in relation to Loyola's educational mission. Teaching evaluations and sample course syllabi should also be submitted if available (select Option 1 to submit syllabi in online application). Please submit applications by September 15 to ensure full consideration. For questions related to the search or any materials that are only available in hard copy or cannot otherwise be submitted through the online application (which could include letters of reference or teaching evaluations), please send files to Dr. Carsten Vala via email to cvala@loyola.edu or via mail to him at Department of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/8/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2949

Carroll University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Starting date: January 1, 2018

Responsibilities: Responsibilities of this appointment include teaching classes on international relations, advising and mentoring students, and participating in program and departmental service. The successful candidate will participate in the General Education curriculum through teaching in the common core of cross-cultural studies. The normal teaching load for lecturer positions is four 4-credit courses per semester. The capacity to teach broad-based social science research methods is an asset for those applying for this opening.

Qualifications: PhD in International Relations, International Political Economy, Comparative Politics, or in related fields. All Comparative Politics and International Relations specializations will be considered. Ability to teach international political economy courses is required. Ph.D. in hand is strongly preferred; ABDs will be considered. The successful candidate will complement the department's current offerings and will share the University's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Rank and Salary: This is a full-time, 18-month, non-tenure track position as Instructional Faculty. Salary will be based on qualification and previous experience. The position is eligible for renewal.

The Department: The Department of History, Political Science, and Religious Studies offers majors in the following areas: history; global studies; political science; philosophy, political science and economics; and religious studies.

Carroll University: Founded in 1846, Carroll University is an independent, co-educational comprehensive university grounded in the liberal arts tradition. Carroll University is located in suburban Waukesha, 16 miles west of Milwaukee and 60 miles east of Madison. The University serves approximately 3521 students. The University though intentionally ecumenical and non-sectarian in approach, is related to the Presbyterian Church, USA. Candidates must be willing and able to support and advance the University mission.

Application: Review of applications will begin immediately and will close when the position is filled.

Please submit a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) statement of teaching philosophy as Word or PDF format attachments with the subject line "Visiting Lecturer of International Relations" to facapp@carrollu.edu.

Final applicants will be asked to submit graduate transcripts and three letters of reference.

Carroll University is an Equal-Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2936

Washington College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Africa

Washington College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning Fall 2018, pending budget approval. Ph.D. should be in hand or very near completion; salary is competitive. We seek candidates whose graduate transcripts, teaching experience, research, or other experience demonstrate preparation to teach courses in International Relations, with the ability to offer courses in international relations theory, international organization and law, international political economy, and one or two courses related to the politics and international relations of Sub-Saharan Africa to contribute to the interdisciplinary concentration in African Studies. Candidates who are interested in working to develop experiential learning opportunities internationally and/or to contribute to our vibrant model diplomacy program are especially welcomed. Some senior thesis advising, undergraduate advising, and occasional internship supervision are required. The position will be jointly appointed with our inter-disciplinary International Studies program.

Washington College, founded in 1782, is a selective liberal arts institution of 1500 students that emphasizes excellence in teaching and a commitment to scholarly research. It is located on Maryland's Eastern Shore, about 1.5 hours from Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. For more information about the college please consult the college's website (<http://www.washcoll.edu>), as well as both the Political Science Department's website (<http://polisci.washcoll.edu>) and the International Studies Program's website (<http://is.washcoll.edu>).

Applications should be submitted by October 11, 2017. Materials should be directed to the attention of Dr. Melissa Deckman, Chair, Department of Political Science; e-mail: mdeckman2@washcoll.edu. Please send letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts from all institutions attended, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations, if available, through our online portal at https://highereddecisions.com/wcm/current_vacancies.asp. We strongly prefer that you combine additional information into one document to upload to Consensus, but if unable to do so, please send materials to politicalscience_search@washcoll.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Candidates who wish to be interviewed at the APSA Convention's job placement services in San Francisco should e-mail after August 15 to request an appointment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2906

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought

Subfield(s): Public Law, International Relations, Other

Amherst College's Department of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the area of global and/or post-colonial legality. The successful candidate will demonstrate competence and sensitivity in working in a department in which students are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, ability, sexual orientation, and religion. We seek a colleague who has the scholarly expertise to understand the legal theories, practices, and histories that link disparate areas of the world. We are interested in candidates who conduct research into, for example, the afterlives of colonial legal regimes; or the shifting place and function of sovereignty in a globalizing world; or the ways in which various sorts of rights have been accepted, inflected, translated, and even violently rejected in different legal cultures; or the theory, practice, or history of institutions of global legality (such as the I.C.C., the E.U., the W.T.O., etc.). Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the candidate's area of specialization and supervision of senior honors projects. We welcome applications from persons trained in the social sciences, the humanities, and/or law. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching is interdisciplinary. The position requires a Ph.D. or a J.D. The start date for the position is July 1, 2018. Applicants should submit electronically to <https://apply.interfolio.com/42527> a cover letter addressed to Professor Austin Sarat, a curriculum vitae, a sample of their scholarship, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Amherst College is a private undergraduate liberal arts college for men and women, with 1,800 students and more than 200 faculty members. Located in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts, Amherst participates with Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts in the Five-College Consortium.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2901

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations

Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San José State University

San José, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2903

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations

Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University

San Jose, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San José State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San José State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San José State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San José State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2904

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations
Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University
 San Jose, California
 ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147
 Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:
 Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
 Department of Political Science

One Washington Square
 San Jose State University
 San Jose, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San Jose State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San Jose (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San Jose State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San Jose State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San Jose State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San Jose State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San Jose State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2905

SUNY, University at Buffalo

Rank: Clinical Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University at Buffalo (SUNY) seeks well-qualified candidates for a Clinical Assistant Professor/Instructor position in Political Science, starting in August 2017. This is a 3-year appointment with the possibility of renewal. Candidates must be minimally ABD in political science or a related field; a Ph.D. is preferred.

The standard teaching load for this position is four courses per semester, but a course release will be granted for serving as the pre-Law advisor. Candidates must be able to offer courses in public law and an introductory (100-level) course in either International Relations, Comparative Politics, or American Politics. Preference will be given to candidates who are capable of teaching upper-division courses in a second field in addition to public law.

Female and minority candidates are especially sought for this position. The University at Buffalo is an EO/AA employer. Candidates must submit the following materials electronically at <https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/9979> or <https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/> by referencing posting number F1700113: a letter of application stating what courses they are prepared to teach, a teaching statement, CV, and a list of three professional references. Finalists may be asked for teaching evaluations and graduate transcripts.

Review of applications will begin on July 10, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions about the position can be directed to Professor Harvey Palmer, Department Chair, by email at hpalmer@buffalo.edu or by regular mail at: Department of Political Science, 520 Park Hall, University at Buffalo, State University of New York, Buffalo, NY 14260.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2899

California State University, Fresno

Rank: Political Science - Assistant Professor

Political Science
Assistant Professor

California State University, Fresno is an engaged University. We focus on broadening students intellectual horizons, fostering lifelong learning skills, developing the leaders of tomorrow, promoting community involvement, and instilling an appreciation of world cultures. We nurture cultural competence by celebrating the rich diversity of the campus community and welcoming the participation of all. Members of the University community are expected to work effectively with faculty, staff and students from diverse ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. For information on the University's commitment and dedication to creating a university known for its integrity, civility, equity, respect and ethical behavior, please visit: <http://www.fresnostate.edu/academics/diversity>

- Available for Academic Year: 2018/2019.
- Fresno State has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI); an Asian American/Native American/Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI); and has been designated to the Community Engagement Classification by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.
- Faculty members gain a clear path to tenure through the University's Probationary Plan Process.
- Salary placement depends upon academic preparation and professional experience.
- California State University, Fresno is a vibrant and growing campus. When necessary, the University may decide to make more than one faculty appointment from a single search.

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences at California State University, Fresno seeks applicants for a tenure-track, academic year position as an Assistant Professor in Political Science with a specialization in Comparative Politics/International Relations. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate students, conduct scholarly research, and engage in service. Primary research interests and teaching responsibilities will be in Comparative Politics/International Relations. Teaching responsibilities will include lower and upper-level core (introductory) courses in our Political Science curriculum (e.g. Modern Politics, Comparative Politics, International Politics) as well as upper-level electives and newly designed courses in their area(s) of interest and expertise. This position is open with respect to regional and substantive focus.

The Department of Political Science is one of the strongest in the California State University system. As one of the largest departments in the College of Social Sciences, we serve almost 200 majors in our undergraduate program. We also offer a Master of Public Administration degree. All of the major sub-disciplines of political science are represented within our department and our faculty have a balanced commitment to strong undergraduate teaching, research, and service. Many of our faculty have been recognized for their work nationally and internationally. Graduates of our program go on to careers in law, education, NGOs, and government (including elected and appointed offices), among others; others have gone on to earn master's and doctoral degrees at top universities in the U.S. and abroad. For more information about our department, please see <http://www.fresnostate.edu/socialsciences/polisci/>

Required Education: An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in Political Science or International Relations (or a closely related field with similar academic coursework) from an accredited institution is required for the position. Applicants nearing completion of the Ph.D. (ABD) may be considered for the position, but their degree must be granted by August 1, 2018.

Required Experience: Applicant must be able to demonstrate:

- a commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level, which may be demonstrated through prior teaching experience and teaching evaluations or other evidence
- a strong foundation of a career-long research agenda in political science as evidenced for example by one or more academic conference paper presentations or peer-reviewed publications
- a specialization in comparative politics with expertise in one or more regions of the world
- appropriate academic training to teach an introductory course in International Relations
- a commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Ability to teach courses on more than one region of the world, with a preference for Europe, Russia, the Middle East, or Asia as one of those fields
- Evidence of having successfully taught one or more university-level political science courses as sole instructor
- At least one sole-authored research paper presented at an academic conference
- One or more peer-reviewed publications in political science
- Ability to teach an introductory American Government course

Application Procedures: Review of applications will begin October 1, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. To apply, applicants must complete an on-line application at <http://jobs.fresnostate.edu> and attach the following: 1) a cover letter specifically addressing required experience and preferred qualifications; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy 4) recent teaching evaluations (if available); 5) a research paper presented at an academic conference or a peer reviewed publication, preferably a sole-authored work; 6) unofficial graduate transcripts; and 7) names and contact information for three professional references.

All finalists will be required to submit three current letters of recommendation and official transcripts.

Any related inquiries may be directed to Dr. Melanie H. Ram; Search Committee Chair; California State University, Fresno; College of Social Sciences; Department of Political Science; 2225 E San Ramon, M/S MF 19; Fresno, CA 93740-8029; Phone: (559) 278-5324; E-mail: mram@csufresno.edu

Other: In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Fresno has made crime-reporting statistics available to applicants, students, and employees on-line at <http://www.fresnostate.edu/police/clery/index.shtml>. Print copies are available by request from the Campus Police Department.

A background check (including criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily for this position. An offer of employment may be withdrawn or employment may be terminated based upon the results of the background investigation.

The person holding this position may be considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. You can obtain a copy of this Executive order by accessing the following web site: <http://www.calstate.edu/eo/EO-1083.html>.

California State University, Fresno is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 6/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2896

St. Olaf College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at St. Olaf College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in international political economy at the Assistant Professor level to begin in August 2018. We are looking for candidates who would teach courses in international relations and contribute to inter-disciplinary coursework in one of the following programs: Russian Area Studies, Middle East Studies, or African Studies. The ideal candidate should have broad expertise in both the theory and practice of international political economy.

Regular teaching responsibilities include teaching both introductory and upper level courses. Duties also involve advising students, committee service, and various departmental and institutional obligations.

This appointment may be eligible for additional professional development funding.

Applicants must submit materials online at <https://stolaf.hiretouch.com/faculty-postings>. A complete application includes:

1. A cover letter
2. A curriculum vitae
3. Graduate transcripts
4. Writing Sample
5. Three Letters of Recommendation
6. Other Materials

If you have questions or need assistance with the application process, please send an email to (psposition@stolaf.edu) or call 507-786-3127.

Formal review of complete applications will begin on 15 September 2017. Members of the department will be available at the annual APSA conference for interviews.

The Department of Political Science promotes the systematic and critical analysis of government, politics and public policy. Its six, full-time, faculty members conduct research that enriches understanding of political life and public affairs in a global context, not only for other scholars but for decision-makers and citizens as well. More information about the political science department may be found at wp.stolaf.edu/poli-sci/

Founded in 1874, St. Olaf College is a residential, coeducational liberal arts college with approximately 3,000 students and 800 faculty and staff employees. It is located in Northfield, Minnesota, about 45 minutes from Minneapolis and St. Paul with their rich and diverse cultural resources. The college offers an academically rigorous, nationally ranked liberal arts education that fosters the development of the whole person in mind, body, and spirit and emphasizes a global perspective.

A liberal arts college affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA), St. Olaf College is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity in its students, faculty, and staff. The college is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity of our community through their teaching, research, and/or service.

To provide a safe and secure educational environment, St. Olaf College verifies the accuracy of all credentials presented by applicants and conducts a background check on every new hire.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 6/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2897

University of Toronto

Rank: Endowed Chair, Japanese Politics and Global Affairs

The University of Toronto invites applications for a joint tenure-stream, endowed chair appointment in the Department of Political Science (51%) and the Munk School of Global Affairs (49%) in the area of Japanese Politics and Global Affairs. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate or Full Professor and will commence July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment and be able to provide strong evidence of innovative research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of sustained contributions or publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing.

Candidates should also have an established international reputation based on a scholarly record of excellence appropriate to their career stage. Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, graduate supervision, dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The ideal candidate will focus on Japanese politics and policy in comparative and international perspective and have an interest in directing a new Centre for the Study of Global Japan recently established in the Munk School to stimulate collaborative scholarship and public outreach.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

We seek applications from candidates whose research program fits well with the Department and with the global focus of the School. The appointee will contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students in both the Department and the School. We encourage applicants to review both academic units' research and teaching profiles prior to applying. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca/> ; Munk School of Global Affairs <http://www.munkschool.utoronto.ca/> .

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 2, 2017.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/17/2017

Date Posted: 6/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2887

University of Southern California

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: Southeast Asia, International Security, International Political Economy

The School of International Relations in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California, in Los Angeles, California, seeks a part-time or full-time teaching-track lecturer for academic year 2017-2018. We are seeking an applicant capable of teaching courses on international relations, specifically Asia. A full-time teaching load is five courses spread over two semesters (i.e. a 2-3 load). The academic year runs from August 16, 2017-May 15, 2018.

Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. in a relevant field and demonstrate excellence in teaching in the subject area. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/teaching-track-faculty-positions-in-international-relations-asia/1209/4515091> .

Application File:

Curriculum vitae

Copies of teaching evaluations

Course syllabi for courses taught

Names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for a letter of reference (referees should speak to teaching abilities)

Inquiries may be directed to Linda Cole, Associate Director, lcole@usc.edu.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu .

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 4/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2810

METHODOLOGY

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Lecturer (Social Science Research Methods)

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy is soliciting for applications for a Lecturer in Social Science Research Methods for Spring Semester 2018 (January-May). For details and how to apply, please see www.cga.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Winter 2018
Application Deadline: 10/5/2017
Date Posted: 9/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3516

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Lecturer (Social Science Research Methods)
Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy is soliciting for applications for a Lecturer in Social Science Research Methods for Spring Semester 2018 (January-May). For details and how to apply, please see www.cga.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Winter 2018
Application Deadline: 4/12/2017
Date Posted: 9/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3517

National Chengchi University

Rank: Assistant /Associate professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

1. The Department of Political Science at NCCU, Taipei, Taiwan, invites applications for one open rank position in "Empirical Political Studies", "Comparative Politics" or "Chinese/ Western Political Thought", starting from August 1, 2018.

2. Qualifications:

(1) The applicants must have a doctoral degree, or be able to receive a Ph.D. degree by April 30, 2018. Applicants with teaching and research experience will receive more favorable consideration.

(2) Academic publications other than the dissertation are required.

(3) The applicants are expected to publish and teach in English.

3. Documents and the Deadline:

Applicants should submit the following materials, which must be postmarked by October 30, 2017:

(1) Curriculum Vitae (including autobiography, a list of publications, outlines of the courses taught or to be offered in the future)

(2) A photocopy of doctoral degree certificate. For applicants who have not yet passed the oral examination, a letter proving completion of courses and certifying imminent holding of oral examination by April 30, 2018 is required.

(3) Transcripts from graduate schools.

(4) The doctoral dissertation (or draft) and other publications (up to 5 items).

(5) Two letters of recommendation (written in English or Chinese) from academic scholars. Please send all correspondence to:

Ms. Yung-weng Chang
 Department of Political Science
 National Chengchi University

No.64. Sec.2, ZhiNan Rd. Wenshan District, Taipei City, 11605, Taiwan

Tel: 886-2-29387057

Email: ywchang@nccu.edu.tw

4. Candidates who pass a preliminary review will be requested to give an oral presentation in the Department.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3489

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Methodology - Race, Ethnicity, Inequality

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Applicants should demonstrate expertise in the study of race, ethnicity, and politics, and/or related fields such as inequality, immigration, and identity. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To be considered, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp> for additional information).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01558>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, Inequality).

Review of applications will begin October 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/11/2017
Date Posted: 9/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3453

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: Latino Politics, Political Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor (JOB#12097)
 School of Politics and Global Studies
 Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. The anticipated start date is August 2018.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach (es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 30, 2017; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2018.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajof/jobs/9809>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.) A background check is required for employment.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3414

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Administration, Public Policy

Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration or political science. This position will be responsible for teaching methodology courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, courses in public administration and policy at the undergraduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or State and Local Politics). The area of teaching and research specialization is open, but candidates should be comfortable teaching Introduction to Public Administration at the undergraduate level both in the online setting. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching one graduate course and two undergraduate courses each semester.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or political science, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3405

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Methodology

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in quantitative methodology. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3364

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee

Rank: Assistant Professor

University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Assistant Professor

Political Science Research Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political methodology to begin Fall 2018. We are interested in candidates with a strong commitment to research and teaching in quantitative methods and their application to substantive political science problems. Primary teaching responsibilities include graduate courses in quantitative methodology, as well as undergraduate and graduate courses in the applicant's substantive sub-field of interest. Preferred qualifications include: ability to teach graduate courses in quantitative methodology, commitment to teaching and research in quantitative methods and their application to substantive political science problems, a research focus in one of the following substantive subfields—Comparative Politics, American Politics, or International Relations—and the demonstrated ability to publish in highly visible peer-reviewed outlets. In addition to a strong scholar and teacher, we are interested in candidates who can serve as a resource to enhance the research activities of the department's faculty and graduate students.

The Department offers B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. We seek a person strongly committed to both teaching and research. Completion or near-completion of a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is expected by August 2018. Salary is competitive with salaries at other research universities. The teaching load is four courses per academic year.

Applicants must apply online to <http://jobs.uwm.edu/postings/26619>. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vita, a writing sample (as Required Document 1). Optional submissions could include a sample syllabus (as optional Other Document 2) or teaching evaluations (as optional Other Document 3). Candidates should have three or more professional letters of recommendation submitted directly to methodsfacuwm@uwm.edu. This is a continuous recruitment. Review of applications will begin on October 13, 2017. Applications received after October 13, 2017 may not receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3327

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in quantitative methodology, with a focus on causal inference and/or cost-benefit analysis. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, be able to teach quantitative methods and policy analysis effectively to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to an anticipated professional MA program in public policy. The candidate will also have opportunities to teach in his or her substantive area of expertise. The department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; ability to attract external funding; potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods Cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3306

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Research Methods

The Government Department at the University of Texas at Austin is hoping to hire two distinguished methodologists (including statistical methodologists and formal theorists) at the rank of full Professor to begin in Fall 2018. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of political science research methods and formal theory, broadly defined.

Duties will include both undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the University. The successful candidates will have a highly distinguished scholarly record of publication, a record of teaching excellence, and demonstrated excellence in intellectual and institutional leadership. Applicants must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications.

Applicants should upload a vitae, examples of scholarly work, and teaching materials. The department will begin reviewing applications immediately and continue receiving applications until the positions are filled. Applicants should apply online at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44115>. Position funding is pending budgetary approval. A background check will be conducted for successful applicants. AA/EEO employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3269

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate Professor - Methodology

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field at the rank of tenured Associate Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Successful candidates must hold a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, contact information for at least three independent reviewers, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information about the required diversity statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01512>) for position: Associate Professor of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 22, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3279

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor – American Politics

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus and methodological approach. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field; applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and letters of recommendation from at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44024. Questions may be sent to: Brendan.Nyhan@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3251

Wichita State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Wichita State University invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the assistant professor level, to begin August 2018. Candidates should have completed their PhD by the time of appointment, have quantitative analytical skills, a demonstrated teaching effectiveness, the potential for scholarly publications, effective written and oral communication skills, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity. Preferred candidates will have the ability and willingness to teach an undergraduate quantitative methods course, willingness to teach periodic online/hybrid courses, and/or an interest in providing occasional Honors College course offerings. Teaching responsibilities will include: A variety of undergraduate American Politics courses, including introductory American Politics, as well as a course on quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The selected candidate will have the opportunity and the responsibility to help shape and enhance the curriculum of the American Politics offerings in the department. Wichita State University has a diverse student body with a large number of non-traditional students and an enrollment of approximately 14,400. Wichita is a thriving and expanding community of 600,000. The Political Science department offers BA degrees and has approximately 70 majors and five faculty members. Salary is competitive. Consideration of applications will begin September 29 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample at <http://jobs.wichita.edu>. For assistance with online submission, employment@wichita.edu (316) 978-3065.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3192

Saint Mary's College of California

Rank: American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Africa, East Asia

Saint Mary's College of California invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in the Department of Politics. The position is for an Americanist to join our collegial department of passionate and active teacher/scholars. The ideal candidate will have the ability to teach introductory and upper division courses on executive and legislative politics at the federal, state, and local levels, and other courses that fit with the candidate's substantive interests. We have a particular interest in recruiting candidates who can develop courses to strengthen the diversity of our curriculum, and to work with a highly diverse student body. We prefer candidates with a secondary specialization in African or Asian politics, and those who have the ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

Consistent with Saint Mary's College's commitment to inclusive excellence, the Politics Department strives to be an inclusive community that fosters respect and belonging for faculty and students of diverse backgrounds and identities. We seek a candidate who can engage, advocate for and support students of color, women, and underrepresented groups.

Saint Mary's College of California is a private, Catholic, comprehensive and co-educational university that engages students in rigorous critical thinking, promotes social justice, and educates the whole person for human fulfillment. Recognized among just forty exceptional institutions in Colleges That Change Lives – and the first Catholic and first California college to be included – Saint Mary's is praised for its challenging and supportive learning community.

The De La Salle Christian Brothers, the largest teaching order of the Roman Catholic Church, guide the spiritual and academic character of the College. Located on a stunning 420-acre campus in the Moraga Hills outside of San Francisco, Saint Mary's currently enrolls approximately 4,000 highly diverse students. For more information about Saint Mary's mission and history, see: <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/about-smc/our-mission>.

Responsibilities: All Saint Mary's faculty are invited to engage with and contribute to the Catholic, Lasallian and Liberal Arts traditions of the College through their teaching, scholarship and service. The standard teaching assignment is six courses per year, including departmental offerings and contributions to College-wide programs (January Term and Collegiate Seminar). In the department, the successful candidate will teach courses such as Introduction to American Politics, Presidency and Congress, Political Parties and Pressure Groups, Elections and Voting Behavior, State and Urban Politics, and other courses based on the candidate's expertise. Saint Mary's faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarly agenda and demonstrate intellectual growth and significant achievement appropriate to their field. All faculty also contribute service to the College and community, including academic advising, and participation in the shared governance of the College through departmental and College-wide committees and the development and assessment of the College's Core Curriculum.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or related field or doctoral candidacy focused on U.S. executive and legislative politics, with expectation of degree by July 1, 2018; demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching in the liberal arts tradition; evidence of potential for teaching effectiveness, particularly among a diverse body of undergraduates; ability to engage in scholarship and professional activity at the national (or international) level.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience teaching politics courses and evidence of effectiveness in teaching; promise of significant scholarly achievement; demonstrated commitment and success working in diverse, multicultural contexts, especially in higher education settings; qualified to teach a course in African or Asian politics; interest in developing courses that strengthen the diversity of the curriculum; ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

TO APPLY:

1. Please apply on-line at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43640>

2. A complete application includes a letter of interest, explaining how your qualifications satisfy the position requirements and addressing how you are prepared to support the Mission of the College; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; evidence of teaching effectiveness thus far; and a writing sample.
3. In applying for a position, candidates sign a consent form authorizing a broader inquiry.
4. For finalists, the College will contact references, in confidence, and credentials will be confirmed prior to hire.
5. Questions should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Ronald Ahnen, Chair of Politics Department at rahen@stmarys-ca.edu.
Deadline: Consideration and review of applications will begin immediately. Applications submitted after October 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Mary's College annually collects information about campus crimes and other reportable incidents in accordance with the federal Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. To view the Saint Mary's College Report, please go to the Public Safety website at <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/public-safety/annual-security-and-fire-safety-report-0>. To request a paper copy please call Public Safety at (925) 631-4284. The report includes the type of crime, venue, and number of occurrences.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3183

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American Politics and Research Methods

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American politics beginning the 2018-19 academic year. We seek candidates who are broadly trained in American politics and who are qualified to teach undergraduate research methods. The teaching expectations include an introductory survey course in American government, courses in American political institutions (congress, the presidency), and courses in one or more of the following areas: ethnic/minority politics, domestic political economy, public opinion and mass media, and state and local politics. The position also includes participation in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. PhDs and/or ABDs who have made substantial progress toward completion of the dissertation are welcome to apply.

Hope College is a Christian, co-educational, residential liberal arts college affiliated with the Reformed Church in America. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and goals of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the historic Christian faith.

Application materials are to be submitted electronically as part of the online application (<http://www.hope.edu/employment/faculty>). Applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, copies of undergraduate and graduate school transcripts (unofficial versions are acceptable at this stage), a statement of how the candidate's background and interests can contribute to the mission of the college, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching competency. In addition, please enter the contact information for three references on the application. Those references will be contacted by Human Resources to submit a letter of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on September 30th, and will continue until the position is filled. Any questions regarding the opening may be directed to David Ryden, departmental chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 50 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruizenga Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3154

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Data Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Data Analytics Program of the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of data analytics.

A successful candidate will have research and teaching focused on applying modern data analytic skills to find solutions to important public policy problems. The successful applicant will have skills in statistical inference, R, Python, and modern data analytics techniques such as machine learning, cloud computing, distributed computing, network analysis, and text analysis. A Ph.D. in political science, policy, statistics, computer science, economics, or related fields is expected by the appointment date.

Georgetown established the McCourt School in 2013 with a generous naming gift from Frank McCourt that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9415>. The position is pending final Board approval, which we expect soon. The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3105

Rice University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Rice University, as part of its $150 million investment in research excellence, intends to hire multiple tenure-track faculty members whose research focus is in data science. These new hires will join the four faculty members hired in the 2016-2017 academic year, along with the community of scholars at Rice who focus on data-driven research. We seek to hire two distinct kinds of specialists: (1) data scientists who can make fundamental contributions to the theory, algorithms, and systems aspects of data science, and (2) scholars who work on emerging applications of data science to problems in health and medicine, urban analytics, and high-volume or high-velocity data-intensive science. The candidate's cover letter or research statement should make clear how their research relates to one of these three problem areas.

The Data Science initiative seeks candidates at all ranks, for employment as early as July 1, 2018. All new hires will have an appointment in one or more relevant department. Assistant Professors will have a single primary department that will be responsible for their mentoring and promotion. At higher ranks, appointments across multiple departments are desirable. Individual departments at Rice also have active faculty searches this year. Those searches are distinct from the Data Science search and may include research areas beyond those included in the Data Science search. Interested candidates should consider applying to both the Data Science search and any appropriate departmental search.

Applicants to the Data Science search should submit the following: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) research statement which describes how the candidate's work fits with Rice's data science initiative and in one or more of the three problem areas (not to exceed three pages including figures); (4) teaching statement; and (5) the names, professional affiliations, and email addresses of three references. For full details, please visit: <http://datascience.rice.edu>, and to apply, please visit: <https://jobs.rice.edu/postings/11380>. These positions require a PhD, or PhD requirements fulfilled by November 1 of the year employment commences. Applications will be evaluated beginning on September 15, 2017 and will continue to be accepted until all positions are filled. Recommendation of candidates or questions regarding this opportunity can be directed to the committee at datascience@rice.edu.

Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, is a private, coeducational, nonsectarian university that aspires to path-breaking research, unsurpassed teaching, and contributions to the betterment of our world.

Rice fulfills this mission by cultivating a diverse community of learning and discovery that produces leaders across the spectrum of human endeavor. From its beginning in 1912, Rice has been dedicated to excellence in all regards.

Rice University is an Equal Opportunity Employer with commitment to diversity at all levels, and considers for employment qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3103

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology

The University of California, Santa Barbara Department of Political Science seeks a scholar in political methodology for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor effective July 1, 2018. We welcome scholars working either in methods or applied methods within any of the traditional subfields of political science. We particularly welcome applications from scholars whose methodological work focuses on new cutting-edge techniques in either causal inference; experimental or quasi-experimental methods; or big data. We also welcome applications from those whose applied interests relate to the department's strong interdisciplinary foci in the studies of identity or the environment. The successful candidate must be qualified to teach core graduate seminars in the department's methodology sequence. The successful candidate is also expected to deepen the department's connection to the methods community in political science, and to foster cross-disciplinary links around quantitative methods, such as through contributing to the university's Quantitative Methods in the Social Sciences doctoral emphasis. Applicants should have completed the Ph.D. by the appointment date.

The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service.

Completed applications received by September 20, 2017 will receive primary consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Applications must include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (or other evidence of teaching effectiveness), and three letters from academic references. All application materials should be submitted via UC Recruit: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu//apply/JPF01050>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/20/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3099

University of Rochester

Rank: Methods/American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in Methodology. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3095

University of Rochester

Rank: Political Economy/ American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3096

University of Rochester

Rank: Political Economy/ International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in International Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3092

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant Professor

International Relations/Methodology (Assistant Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University Bloomington invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor in the field of International Relations (IR) and/or methodology beginning August 2018. We have a particular interest in scholars who will contribute to our professional reputation in empirical International Relations and our research methods courses at all levels. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, the candidate is expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate in departmental activities.

This position is authorized at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful candidates who have completed their Ph.D. degree by Sept. 30, 2017 will be appointed as Assistant Professor, while Ph.D. candidates without degree in hand would be appointed as Acting Assistant Professor at a lower salary. Upon final completion of the degree by Jan. 31, 2018, the appointment would be changed to Assistant Professor at a higher salary for the spring semester. Candidates at the Associate Professor level or seeking a tenured appointment will be considered only under unusual circumstances.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA Services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status. To ensure full consideration applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, copies of research publication and course syllabi, and teaching evaluations by October 1, 2017. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, however.

Interested candidates should review the job requirements and submit application materials on-line at <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/4339>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to:

Jessica Williams
Department of Political Science
Indiana University Bloomington
1100 E. Seventh Street
Bloomington, IN 47405-7110
(812) 855-1209
jeewilli@indiana.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3078

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3061

National University of Singapore

Rank: Lectureship in Comparative Politics, Governance & Public Policy, and/or Methods

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for an educator-track Lectureship or Senior Lectureship in Political Science to teach research methods as well as other modules in either Comparative Politics or Governance and Public Policy for our undergraduate curriculum. The teaching load is six modules per academic year (three per semester), of which about two or three should be in methods.

Lectureships at NUS are career positions in which advancement (to open-contracted Associate Professor and Professor) is possible. Appointments are for three years initially and are renewable on an ongoing basis, subject to good performance and departmental teaching needs. Compensation and benefits are similar to those of faculty members on the tenure track and are competitive.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science. The Department recognizes four main subfields: Comparative Politics; Governance and Public Policy; International Relations; and Political Theory. The Department also hosts the programme in Global Studies.

Candidates should send a CV, a letter detailing their research and teaching interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox5@nus.edu.sg. Candidates should also submit sample syllabi, student evaluations, and other evidence of teaching quality. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and livable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3041

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis seeks candidates for one position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of political methodology to begin Fall 2018 or later. Duties include research and publication, course teaching, student advising, and department and university service. Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required at the assistant or associate level. In addition, candidates at the associate professor rank must, through research and publication, have made a significant contribution to one or more subfields in Political Science.

Washington University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status.

Files will begin being reviewed on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the search is concluded. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, at least three letters of reference, writing samples, and other relevant materials. All applications and supporting documentation should be submitted electronically through the Washington University HR system (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>). Candidates should create an account, search for job requisition number 37256, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Letters of reference can be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

Please note: in order to attach materials to your application, you must EXIT the Wash U jobs site then log back in using your established username and password. Click on "Applications" then "Add Attachment" to upload additional materials.

If you encounter difficulties with the application process, please email Colleen Skaggs, artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu, for additional instructions. All other questions may be directed to Heather Sloan-Randick at (314) 935-5852.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3035

University of Delaware

Rank: Professor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, American Politics, Political Psychology

PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for appointment as a full professor with tenure in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) We seek a scholar of American Political Behavior/Political Psychology, with a particular focus on quantitative methodologies.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 26 full-time and jointly appointed faculty, nearly 800 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a tenured full professor with an exemplary record of scholarship and teaching in American political behavior/political psychology. The successful candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized senior scholar with a strong record of graduate student and junior faculty mentoring, a strong record of grant-writing success, and an interest in actively building the quantitative American politics capacity in our methodologically diverse department. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns: (1) the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior (2) the political psychology of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; and/or (3) electoral processes and representation.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position and a current CV. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to the attention of Professor Philip Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3024

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Comparative Politics

Specializations: Western Europe, Quantitative Methods, Electoral Systems

Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics for the 2018-19

academic year beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses, including introductory courses in Comparative Politics, advanced courses in European Politics, and one to two sections of research methods.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status is required. The opportunity to maintain a personal research program will be available.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2174>. A curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2976

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 7/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2963

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2018-19 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science.

During the 2018-19 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis.

There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2018
2. Substantive interest in any social science field
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Instructions

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2018. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42907

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2964

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science/Social Data

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position to start Fall 2018 for faculty whose substantive research interests are informed by, or inform the development of, data- or computationally-intensive techniques. We encourage applications at the assistant and early associate level but candidates at any level with exceptional records of accomplishment will be considered. The substantive research area is open although preference will be given to those candidates whose research agendas supplement existing areas of specialization within the department. Candidates should be able to contribute to our new undergraduate Social Data Analytics program (see <http://soda.la.psu.edu/>) and our graduate methods offerings. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Candidates should have a record of publication in high-quality venues, external funding, and quality teaching credentials.

Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Application review will begin on September 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu. Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/72588>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2967

NON-ACADEMIC

OTHER

Florida State University

Rank: Teaching Faculty 1

Title: Teaching Faculty I 9 Mo SAL

Closing Date: 12/01/17

Florida State University – College of Social Science and Public Policy, Interdisciplinary Programs in Social Science

Position Description

The College of Social Sciences and Public Policy at Florida State University invites applications for a non-tenure track teaching position in the field of Interdisciplinary Social Science (ISS). This is a unique position designed to integrate disciplinary education and related activities within the College. The successful applicant will have a strong interdisciplinary orientation grounded in Political Science, Sociology, Economics, Geography, Urban and Regional Planning or Public Administration. He or she will work with faculty in several disciplines to create and teach courses for majors in Interdisciplinary Social Science that demonstrate how insights from multiple disciplines bring value to the analysis of public policy issues and that emphasize evidence based decision making.

Additional responsibilities will include mentoring and advising students, engaging ISS majors in undergraduate research and policy seminars, internship opportunities and similar activities. The position will begin in August, 2018.

Application Requirements

Applicants should hold a PhD in one of the disciplines of social science and have interdisciplinary teaching and research experience. Preferred qualifications include demonstrated commitment to and success in teaching undergraduates, as well as experience with contemporary instructional technology and on-line teaching applications.

Our Program

The Florida State University program in Interdisciplinary Social Science strives to engender individually driven social goals that guide student vision and learning attainment. To that end, we focus our efforts on providing an environment which promotes holistic understandings of complex social dynamics through the integration of various social, economic and political perspectives. We are committed to the creation of an environment of creative learning based on the goals and tenets of interdisciplinary study.

For more information about the Florida State University program for Interdisciplinary Social Science please visit <http://www.coss.fsu.edu/iss/>.

FSU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer and educational provider committed to a policy of non-discrimination for any member of the University's community. http://www.hr.fsu.edu/PDF/Publications/diversity/EEO_Statement.pdf

How to Apply:

Applicants should provide one pdf attachment that includes a letter of application, CV and contact information for three recommendations. Apply at Florida State University at <https://jobs.fsu.edu>. If you are a current FSU employee, apply via myFSU & Self Service. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2017.

For additional information please visit our website: <https://jobs.fsu.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3512

Lone Star College-System Office

Rank: Faculty, History (17000931)

Lone Star College-CyFair

Faculty, History (17000931)

Position Summary:

It is the responsibility of the teaching faculty to provide the learning activities and support that will lead to the achievement of the course objectives and contribute to the educational environment of the college and the community. The faculty member's role encompasses the general areas of learning facilitation, professional development, and institutional service. Primary responsibilities are to plan, develop and teach courses within the curriculum in a manner that facilitates student learning.

Job Functions:

Teaches courses in History at a variety of times and locations in response to institutional needs

Makes continuous efforts to improve the quality of instruction by reviewing and utilizing innovative methodologies, techniques, and delivery methods

Develops and uses a syllabus for each course or laboratory within college and departmental guidelines

Plans, develops and uses a variety of teaching methods and materials that assist students in meeting course objectives and which are appropriate for students with differing educational and experiential backgrounds and learning styles

Evaluates students to measure their progress toward achievement of stated course objectives and informs them in a timely manner of their progress in the course

Submits required college reports and forms

Reviews, evaluates, and recommends student-learning materials

Maintains professional relationships with students, colleagues and the community

Provides access to students through posted office hours, electronic communication and other appropriate methods

Responsible for professional development and institutional service as determined in consultation with the Dean

Responsible for other reasonable, related duties as assigned

Salary:

Commensurate with education, experience and qualifications

Required:

Master's degree in History or American Civilization (with cross-listed courses in History), or related Master's degree with 18 graduate hours in History

How to Apply:

ALL APPLICANTS MUST APPLY ONLINE ONLY!

We will not accept application material received via fax, email, mail, or hand delivered.

Postings for part-time and adjunct positions are active for the academic year. By selecting the option to receive notifications on your profile, you will begin receiving electronic communication regarding new opportunities with Lone Star College (LSC).

If selected for an interview, a recruiter will contact you by phone, or email to schedule an interview.

Lone Star College participates in the E-Verify program, under which Lone Star College provides the federal government with information from each new employee's Form I-9 to confirm that the employee is authorized to work in the United States.

More information on the E-Verify program is available at www.dhs.gov/E-Verify Lone Star College is an EEO Employer. All positions are subject to a criminal background check.

<http://jobs.lonestar.edu>

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3511

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3509

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

The Pew Charitable Trusts

Rank: Research Associate, Global Attitudes

Pew Research Center is a nonpartisan fact tank that informs the public about the issues, attitudes and trends shaping America and the world. It conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, media content analysis and other empirical social science research in the areas of U.S. politics and policy views; media and journalism; internet and technology; science and society; religion and public life; global migration and demography; global attitudes and U.S. social and demographic trends. Pew Research Center does not take policy positions. It is a subsidiary of The Pew Charitable Trusts. The Center's work is carried out by a staff of about 150.

The Pew Research Center has an immediate need for a Research Associate to support its expanding global research agenda. The Research Associate will be part of the Global Attitudes research team that annually surveys public opinion in dozens of countries on topics including life satisfaction, economic conditions, domestic policy and international issues. The Research Associate assists in the design of research projects, manages data collection, performs statistical analysis, produces charts and tables and conducts background research and data fact-checks. The Research Associate also helps to write and review research reports, as well as field requests for information from the press, government officials and other audiences. The Research Associate reports to the Director, Global Attitudes Research.

Primary Responsibilities

Project Management

- Help draft project proposals
- Monitor and track project timelines
- Coordinate team assignments
- Communicate with vendors and advisors
- Coordinate topline and dataset production

Data analysis

- Conduct analysis of survey and non-survey data, including multivariate analysis and multilevel modeling
- Prepare toplines, cross-tabulations and other data summaries
- Prepare tables and charts
- Explore new techniques for examining data, such as ways to use “big data”
- Look for outside data – such as other survey data, economic data, demographic data, etc. – that can be used in tandem with Global Attitudes findings

Project design and development

- Conduct background research and trend analysis
- Propose research topics
- Design survey questions or data queries
- Identify and evaluate research vendors or data providers

Writing and Communication

- Write research reports
- Respond to external requests for information

Quality control

- Fact-check and number-check reports
- Check trends and verify translations
- Assess sampling performance and data quality
- Prepare datasets for public release

- Quantitative skills, including an ability to use SPSS and other statistical programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data
- Strong verbal and written communications skills
- Strong analytical and research skills
- Ability to manage multiple projects at the same time
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality of all work products
- Editorial judgment and proven ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely in both verbal and written form
- Skilled in project development and management
- Ability to work collaboratively and collegially with staff from across Pew Research Center and outside organizations
- Ability to lead research teams

Education/Training/Experience

- International focus in political science, sociology, economics or relevant social science field strongly preferred
- Master's degree required, PhD preferred
- Proven experience with quantitative analysis; facility with SPSS and Excel required, knowledge of Stata, R or other statistical software packages a plus
- Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including logistic and multiple regression
- Familiarity with data collection in multiple languages highly desirable

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/df5d7bw4sm42rtx6>

PI99488356

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3476

Princeton University

Rank: 2018-2019 LAPA Fellowships

The Program in Law and Public Affairs (LAPA) at Princeton University invites outstanding faculty members of any discipline, independent scholars, lawyers, and judges to apply for visiting, residential appointments for the academic year 2018–2019. LAPA Fellows devote the major portion of their time to their own research and writing on law-related subjects of empirical, interpretive, doctrinal and/or normative significance. All applicants must have received a doctorate, juris doctor, or an equivalent professional degree at the time of submission of the fellowship application. Successful LAPA applicants should demonstrate substantial expertise in law-related matters. The program does not support, as a primary activity, off-site fieldwork or work in remote archives, development of course materials, work in legal practice, direct advocacy of causes or residence elsewhere.

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2883>

THE DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION IS 11:59 PM (EST) NOVEMBER 13 2017.

For additional information see: <http://lapa.princeton.edu/fellowships>

LAPA is cosponsored by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the University Center for Human Values and Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3464

Purdue University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenured full professor with the area of expertise open. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an excellent record of research and teaching in any subfield of political science. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include a record of attracting external funding; teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required. Credentials commensurate with a full professor are required. A successful candidate is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus and anticipates developing a professional master's program in public policy. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include a letter discussing the applicant's interest in the position and a curriculum vitae. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to search committee chair Dr. S. Laurel Weldon, weldons@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/7/2017
Date Posted: 9/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3460

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Lecturer/Senior Lecturer - Security Studies
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: United States, Political Theory, Defense

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a position as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Security Studies. The candidate should be credentialed in a relevant academic discipline in the social sciences or humanities. The candidate will: teach mid-career military officers from special operations and information operations units across all branches and services of the U.S. Armed Forces and allied countries; advise theses; and conduct research. The candidate must have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in the areas of irregular warfare, campaign design, operational art, and strategic decision-making. Evidence of the ability to pursue a program of innovative research and a strong commitment to graduate and undergraduate education is required. Position responsibilities include teaching, research, and thesis oversight. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for those in lectureship positions ranges from four to six graduate courses per year.

The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, 115 miles south of the heart of San Francisco. NPS provides graduate education to an average at any given time of 1,500 resident military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government.

The Department of Defense Analysis offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to an average of 150 in-residence graduate students, a cross-disciplinary teaching and research faculty of 40 personnel, and three research centers, the Department of Defense Analysis provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A graduate degree in a relevant Social Science or Humanities discipline (e.g., History, International Relations, Law, Political Science, Communications, Journalism, Psychology, Sociology, Anthropology, and similar fields).
- U.S. citizenship is required. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications (Document any relevant experience in these areas as well as your success in the classroom):

- Experience teaching graduate students or upper level undergraduate electives.
- Experience and/or familiarity with the special operations community.
- A successful candidate will demonstrate excellent judgment, effective leadership, strong team-building skills, and pedagogical expertise.

The position is now open. Candidates should submit the following materials to Dr. Sean Everton at sferverto@nps.edu, email subject heading: "Strategic Studies." Applications will be accepted through December 1, 2017, or until the position is filled, and should include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Three letters of recommendation (that specifically address teaching)
4. Research statement
5. Sample of a published article
6. Teaching statement
7. Teaching portfolio (should include a sample lesson, assignments, or handouts and highly recommended to include a link to a videoed teaching sample)

Dr. Sean Everton, Chair, Security Studies Search Committee, Department of Defense Analysis, 589 Dyer Road, Room 203, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA, 93943.

Do not send paper applications.

Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Relocation expenses, including recruitment/relocation incentive, may be authorized in accordance with applicable regulations.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to: Identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc.)

Additional Veterans' information: If you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://www.dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>. For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3450

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3447

Princeton University

Rank: The Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics

The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for the Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics. The Shapiro Fellowship supports outstanding scholars studying ethical issues arising from developments in medicine, the biological sciences, or population health. We particularly encourage proposals focusing on problems of practical importance that have broader theoretical interest.

The Shapiro Fellow will spend from one to three years at Princeton conducting research and teaching the equivalent of one course each year (subject to sufficient enrollments and approval by the Dean of the Faculty). He or she will participate in the Ira W. DeCamp Seminar in Bioethics and will be invited to participate in other activities of the University Center for Human Values including a year-long research seminar for visiting fellows and Center faculty.

Qualifications

Applicants must have completed all the requirements for the Ph.D., M.D., or other equivalent doctoral degree by September 1, 2018, and should not have held the degree for more than three years by that date. An applicant may have a background in any area of ethical studies, not necessarily in bioethics. However, the proposed research plan should be related to the field of bioethics.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments and the promise of the proposed research project in bioethics. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of the fellowship is one year, beginning September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal for up to two additional years pending satisfactory performance. Appointment will be made to the rank of Postdoctoral Research Associate; the Shapiro Fellow will also carry the title of Lecturer when teaching. Princeton University offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2244>

A complete application will include the following supporting materials:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words). Please provide an indicative title in the heading;
3. A scholarly paper (not to exceed 50 pages) representing the applicant's scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who should be prepared to comment specifically about the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 16. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. We hope to announce decisions in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3448

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

The Institute for Practical Ethics at the University of California, San Diego, invites applications for the position of postdoctoral scholar for the academic years 2018-2019 and 2019-2020. Applicants must possess a PhD granted from an accredited university before the position begins.

The postdoctoral scholar positions are two-year appointments, with the second year contingent upon acceptable performance in the first year. Salary, as based on UC's salary scales and candidate qualifications, will be provided in exchange for active participation in the Institute's program of activities and in particular its research project in Ethical Issues in Active Genetics. Postdoctoral scholars will be expected to lead monthly meetings on active genetics and ethics, attend a monthly meeting on scientific issues within active genetics, explore the Indian context, and assist with project activities (which may include writing grant proposals, organizing workshops, and research in the area). Duties will be decided through consultation between the fellow and Institute Co-Directors. Postdoctoral scholars are required to be in residence for the entirety of the academic years. The postdoctoral position is open to international applicants. The Institute is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research and service.

Primary consideration will be given to applications submitted by November 1, 2017, but all applications will be considered until positions are filled. Applications should be submitted to Tara Nadeau (tnadeau@ucsd.edu) and should include:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Brief statement (1000 words maximum) summarizing the applicant's intellectual interests, scholarly training, and research agenda as these relate to Ethics and Implications of Active Genetics
- Copies of no more than two representative publications or dissertation chapters
- Two letters of recommendation

For more information, please see the Institute's website: <http://ipe.ucsd.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3376

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor - Department of Political Science/College of Letters and Science

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley (<http://polisci.berkeley.edu>) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position with an expected start date of July 1, 2018. We are open to outstanding candidates in any field, but we are particularly interested in candidates whose work is in the areas of: political theory, racial and ethnic politics, international relations, and law and politics. A Ph.D or equivalent degree is required within one year of start date.

[Basic qualifications]: The completion of all degree requirements for Ph.D or equivalent degree except the dissertation at the time of the application.

To apply, please go to the following link: <http://apptrkr.com/1063242>.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, one to three samples of significant written scholarship, and a statement addressing past and/or potential contributions to diversity through research, teaching, and/or service (optional). Applicants should also arrange to have three to five letters of reference submitted via this web portal. It is preferred that letters of reference be uploaded by referees no later than the final date to apply (September 22, 2017). All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality found at: <http://apo.berkeley.edu/evaltr.html> prior to submitting their letters.

Applications must be received by Friday, September 22, 2017 to be eligible for consideration. Please direct questions to Allison Covington, Academic HR Analyst, at allison.covington@berkeley.edu

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3435

University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Artificial Intelligence/ Big Data or Robotics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: Intelligence, Science & Technology, Social Welfare

Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Artificial Intelligence/Big Data or Robotics

The Department of Politics and International Relations is seeking to appoint two Postdoctoral Research Fellows. The first Postdoctoral Research Fellow will focus on Artificial Intelligence/Big Data, whilst the second will focus on Robotics.

The Postdoctoral Research Fellows will have a wide range of responsibilities. These will include undertaking advanced, methodologically and theoretically sophisticated research within the context of a new research project for the Centre for Technology and Global Affairs, under the supervision of Dr Lucas Kello. You will also supervise affiliated postgraduate students working on the project. You will develop, adapt, and apply theories and concepts from the political and social sciences to the analysis of new advances in Artificial Intelligence or Robotics and its applications in society, and will publish papers, policy briefs and reports on issues pertaining to Artificial Intelligence/Big Data or Robotics and global affairs. The post-holders will assist in developing ideas for generating research income and present detailed research proposals to the Centre Director. You will also present research findings and outputs at conferences, workshops and executive sessions in Oxford and beyond.

As the ideal candidate you will have a doctoral degree (or near completion) in Political Science or a relevant social science discipline, or in Computer Science or Engineering (with a strong background in social science work). You will be interested in and have a strong understanding of the implications of technology for politics and society and will have specialist knowledge in Artificial Intelligence or Robotics within the context of social sciences. You will have a willingness and ability to contribute to the dissemination of project results and will have excellent data collection and management skills, as well as interpersonal and communication skills.

The role will be offered on a full time, fixed term basis until the 30th June 2019 (potentially extendable) and will be based in the Department of Politics and International Relations in the Manor Road building, Oxford. The posts will be available from mid-January 2018, or as soon as possible thereafter.

The duties, responsibilities and skills required are described in more detail in the further particulars, (Vacancy Number: 130570), which also contain details on how to apply. Informal enquiries are encouraged and should be directed to Lucas Kello, Senior Lecturer in International Relations, Director of the Centre for Technology and Global Affairs and Co-Director of the Centre for Doctoral Training in Cyber Security, at lucas.kello@politics.ox.ac.uk.

The closing date for applications is noon, UK time on Friday 27th October 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 10/27/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 3386

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential “core” of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant’s academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

Cornell University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Islam in the modern Middle East and North Africa

The Department of Near Eastern Studies, College of Arts and Sciences, Cornell University, seeks to appoint a tenure track assistant professor who specializes in Islam in the modern Middle East and North Africa. We especially welcome candidates whose work is interdisciplinary, comparative, and expands the department’s existing strengths. Discipline open. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample, and three letters of recommendation electronically to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9624>. The deadline for applications is November 15, 2017. Incomplete or late applications will not be considered. Diversity and inclusion are a part of Cornell University’s heritage. We are a recognized employer and educator valuing AA/EEO, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3397

Dartmouth College

Rank: Afro-Caribbean and African Diaspora Studies, Tenure/Tenure-Track Position

The African and African American Studies (AAAS) Program at Dartmouth College invites applications for an open-rank position in Afro-Caribbean and African Diaspora Studies, with a preference for historians and social scientists. The position begins on July 1, 2018. We are interested in innovative scholars whose work interfaces with a variety of geographical regions. Scholars of all ranks will be given equal consideration. We will start to review applications on October 20, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

AAAS at Dartmouth College originated in 1969, making it one of the oldest programs of its kind in the nation. Faculty are committed to interdisciplinary approaches to understandings of Africa and the African diaspora within a global context. We seek to build AAAS through the addition of cutting-edge scholars who transcend disciplinary boundaries within the College, as well as nationally and internationally.

Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching. The Dartmouth student body is diverse by many measures. We are interested in applicants with a record of and interest in successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, members of racial, ethnic and religious minorities, and members of the LGBTQ community). The successful candidate will also have the opportunity to contribute to Dartmouth’s undergraduate diversity initiatives in research, such as the Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship.

Qualifications

PhD or ABD (with PhD in hand by July 1, 2018).

Application Instructions

Please provide (1) a letter of application, indicating current research, future research, and teaching philosophy; (2) a current CV with the contact information listed for 3-5 references. Submit materials through the Interfolio dossier service at apply.interfolio.com/44943. Direct any questions to AAAS@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3421

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3407

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3411

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration

Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration with a concentration in health administration. This position will primarily be teaching in the Master of Public Administration program and with the main responsibility of providing courses for the health concentration as part of our MPA degree program. Some undergraduate teaching may be required on an as-needed basis. Courses are regularly taught in the online format, but successful candidates should expect on campus courses to be part of their rotation. Preferences will be given to candidates that can also teach human resources for public administrators and to those interested in studying rural health administration or issues in rural health policy.

Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the classroom. In addition to strong teaching, the department is seeking an individual who is interested in being an active member of the department and has career aspiration of becoming a program director in the future.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3. The Master of Public Administration program at UNCP is targeted to developing skills, research capabilities, and knowledge in working professionals within our community and across North Carolina, and as well as across the United States and abroad through our online program.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration or health administration or be ABD with a clear date of completion. Because of the program's practitioner focus, candidates with professional experience in health administration are strongly encouraged to apply.

To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3406

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor, tenure track - Leadership & Management

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Opinion

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

With this current search, the Humphrey School seeks applicants for a position at the Assistant Professor level who focus on public and/or nonprofit institutions, organizations, or networks. Candidates are especially encouraged to apply who explore the blurring of sectoral boundaries, with special attention to governments' and nonprofits' roles, relationships between institutions and citizens, or innovation in public and nonprofit agencies. Successful applicants will teach in the School's core curriculum, engage in our master's and doctoral degree programs, and function collaboratively in a public affairs school committed to generating both rigorous and relevant scholarship. An interdisciplinary social science background that includes institutional, political, and cross-cultural knowledge and competence is highly valued. Recent PhD recipients, candidates who will have received their PhD by the time of appointment, and current pre-tenure assistant professors (early or advanced) are invited to apply.

The University of Minnesota's Humphrey School is one of the top ten public affairs schools in the country. Leadership and Management Area is particularly highly ranked nationally, garnering the #2 spot in nonprofit management and the #18 in public management according to the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings. There are two outreach and engagement centers affiliated with the Area, the Public and Nonprofit Leadership Center and the University-wide Center for Integrative Leadership.

A Ph.D. is required in public affairs, public policy, management, political science, sociology, psychology, or other relevant social science discipline. Candidates with knowledge of nonprofit management, financial management, strategic management, intergovernmental relations, integrative leadership, and collaborative governance are particularly encouraged to apply. People with professional experiences working with communities, managers, and policy makers will be a particularly good fit. We are interested in considering scholars who are focused either domestically or internationally. Additionally, we seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of race, gender, class and ethnicity.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three references, a sample of recent research, and a cover letter with a brief account of research and teaching interests and experience.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 16, 2017. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit applications online to: https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&SiteId=1&FOCUS=Applicant&JobOpeningId=318429&PostingSeq=1

Address cover and reference letters to: Search Committee for Leadership & Management Area, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, c/o Human Resources, HHH152, 301-19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Salary will be commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental, faculty life/disability insurance, retirement, and social security. The starting date for this appointment is August 27, 2018 or as soon thereafter as possible.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/13/2017
Date Posted: 9/12/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3374

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business Rank: Faculty positions in Political Economy

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2018. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2018.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. Each applicant must upload their files and arrange for three letters or recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2017. For an application to be considered complete, it must contain a CV, a job market paper and three letters of recommendation. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/30/2017
Date Posted: 9/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3377

University of Pennsylvania Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Postdoctoral fellowship program in Science of Science Communication at the Annenberg Public Policy Center of the University of Pennsylvania

As part of its Annenberg Center for the Advanced Study of Communication, the Annenberg Public Policy Center (APPC) of the University of Pennsylvania's postdoctoral fellowship program in the Science of Science Communication (SSC) is accepting applications for the 2018-2019 academic year. Fellows in the program will work closely with other fellows and senior researchers of APPC on scholarship designed to understand the ways in which the norms of science are communicated, the ways in which communication can address misunderstandings about the scientific process and its findings, and ways in which one can activate science curiosity.

More information about APPC and its Science of Science Communication research can be found at: <http://www.annenbergpublicpolicycenter.org/science-communication/>

Applicants should submit a letter of nomination from a dissertation adviser as well as a curriculum vitae, references, and a description of the applicant's scholarly interests. First-year fellows will receive a stipend of $65,000 and serve in a 12-month appointment, beginning July 1st, 2018. An allowance of up to $1,500 will be provided to offset pre-approved, receipt-documented relocation expenses, and APPC will reimburse up to $2,000 in travel to high-level conferences to present APPC research. Renewal for a second year is contingent upon performance and budgetary considerations.

We are seeking fellows who apply a variety of disciplinary and methodological approaches, and have completed a Ph.D. within the last five years.

Please send the letter of interest, CV, and names of two references to Lena Buford at lena.buford@appc.upenn.edu. The letter of nomination should be sent to the same email address by the dissertation adviser.

Deadline for submission is December 15th, 2017. Earlier submission is encouraged.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3371

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Normative Political Theory

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2018-19. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2243> The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 6, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 9. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in early March 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3372

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Francis W. DeSerio Chair of Strategic and Theater Intelligence

The United States Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, seeks to fill the newly-established Francis W. DeSerio Chair of Strategic and Theater Intelligence, with a start date no later than July 1, 2018. This is a fulltime, long-term, civilian faculty position at the US Army's most senior institution for professional military education. The Army War College educates the top echelon of US military officers of all services, US government civilians, and military officers from scores of foreign countries. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curriculum of theoretical and professional subjects, leading to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education.

The person selected for this position would produce leading scholarship and explore innovative methods to shape the senior-level curriculum as it relates to strategic and theater intelligence. We seek candidates who have demonstrated innovative approaches to program development and the advancement of awareness of intelligence issues in the public, professional and/or academic environments. Additionally, the Chair would lecture widely, organize and participate in scholarly conferences, lead collaborative research projects, mentor faculty and students, and counsel Army War College leaders on curricular issues. The Chair would teach courses in his/her area of interest, but would carry a reduced load, and would be expected to provide a leadership role within the intelligence community at the Army War College. The position comes with a generous compensation package as well as with the many benefits of working at an innovative, vibrant, and collegial military educational institution.

For additional information, and to apply for the position, please visit our website at <http://www.carlisle.army.mil/>. On the menu bar, click "About Us" and then "Employment Opportunities" to find the "Francis W. DeSerio Chair of Strategic and Theater Intelligence" job announcement. Or, visit the USAJobs website at <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/476012800>

Applications are due by 15 September 2017. Finalists for the position will be invited to the Army War College for a visit that includes an interview with the search committee, presentation to the faculty, meetings with faculty and administrators, and a tour of the campus.

A talented, committed, and diverse faculty is our most important resource in educating the nation's future strategic leaders. We are fully committed to equal employment opportunity and compliance with the full range of fair employment practices and non-discrimination laws. Federal law dictates that the position may be offered to US citizens only.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3330

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor (study of Muslims/Islam in North America)

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities and the Religious Studies Program invite applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position at the assistant professor level in the study of Muslims/Islam in North America to begin fall semester 2018 (08/27/2018). A Ph.D. in Religious Studies or other related field is required by the start date. Possible areas of specialization include, but are not limited to:

- History of Muslim communities or Islam in North America
- Religious experience or expression of Muslims in North America
- Social/political experience of the Muslim diaspora in North America
- Gender, race, class, identity issues related to Muslim experience in North America

Successful candidates will be expected to demonstrate a strong foundation in the academic study of religion and in their specific research area along with an ability to work across disciplinary boundaries.

Successful candidates must also show evidence or potential for a strong research profile and excellence in teaching.

Appointment will be 100% time over the nine-month academic year (late-August to late-May). Appointment will be at the rank of tenure-track assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience, and consistent with collegiate and University policy.

Candidates will be evaluated according to a) overall quality of their academic preparation and scholarly work, b) relevance of their scholarly research to the department's academic priorities and fields of inquiry, c) evidence of commitment to teaching and skills as a teacher, and d) strength of recommendations.

About the Job

This will be a joint appointment between the interdepartmental Religious Studies Program and the tenure-granting department within the College of Liberal Arts that best fits the candidate's scholarship and research field. Potential departments include (but are not limited to) Anthropology, Sociology, History, African American and African Studies, English, Asian Languages and Literatures, Political Science, or American Studies. As a tenure-track faculty member, responsibilities will include executing an innovative and consistent research and publication agenda; teaching core courses in the Religious Studies undergraduate and graduate curricula (Introduction to the Study of Religion in America, Introduction to Religions of the World, Theory and Methods in the Study of Religion), and in the area/department of research specialty; supervising undergraduate and graduate research in Religious Studies and the joint department; creating new avenues for cross-disciplinary research at the University; and service to the Religious Studies Program, the home department, the College and the University.

Additional responsibilities in the tenure department will be determined. The regular teaching load is 2/2.

The Workload Principles and Guidelines for Regular Faculty in the College of Liberal Arts are available at: <https://sites.google.com/a/umn.edu/cla-intranet/ofaa/resources/workload-principles--guidelines>

How to Apply

Applications must be submitted online at <https://humanresources.umn.edu/jobs> to be considered for this position. Click the "External Faculty and Staff Applicants" button and search Job Opening ID #319765. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach your application letter (cover letter) and curriculum vitae (resume). Additional documents, including a writing sample, must be attached after application by accessing your "My Activities" page and uploading documents there. Three letters of reference should be sent separately by their authors to clafclty@umn.edu.

A complete application includes the following materials: (1) a letter of application, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) sample of scholarly work not more than 40 pages, (4) three letters of reference (sent to clafclty@umn.edu). Candidates who make the initial cut will be asked for a philosophy of teaching statement, sample syllabi, and/or course evaluations.

Application deadline: October 15, 2017

Inquiries should be directed to search committee chair, Jeanne Kilde, jkilde@umn.edu.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Diversity

The University recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting its academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds.

The University of Minnesota provides equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. To learn more about diversity at the U: <http://diversity.umn.edu>.

Background Check Information

Any offer of employment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Our presumption is that prospective employees are eligible to work here.

Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify finalists from employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3339

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Diversity Post-Doctoral Fellowships

Diversity Post-Doctoral Fellowships Fellowship Description

The College of Arts and Sciences of Oklahoma State University seeks scholars who are committed to supporting the learning needs of students from diverse backgrounds and to engaging communities underrepresented in higher education. These fellowships will support the early development of scholars who show promise for successful academic careers in the Fine Arts, Humanities, Mathematics, Sciences, or Social Sciences. The two-year fellowships (one in Fine Arts or Humanities, one in Social Sciences, and two in Mathematics or Sciences) with competitive salaries will begin in August 2018 and may be renewed for a third year. There is the possibility of a tenure-track appointment at the completion of the post-doctoral fellowship.

Post-docs will carry a teaching load of one course per semester and will receive institutional support for their research/creative activities and their professional development in instruction. They will be closely mentored by faculty and housed in one or more of the following departments:

- Art, Graphic Design, and Art History
- Chemistry
- Computer Science
- English
- Foreign Languages and Literatures
- Geography
- Geology
- History
- Integrative Biology
- Mathematics

- Media and Strategic Communications
- Microbiology and Molecular Genetics
- Music
- Philosophy
- Physics
- Plant Biology, Ecology, and Evolution
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Sociology
- Statistics
- Theatre

Preferred Qualifications:

Candidates who have completed their terminal degree within the discipline (PhD, MFA, or DMA) no more than three years before the August 2018 start date and who have not yet had a tenure-track faculty position are preferred.

To apply, please submit by 1 October 2017 the following in a single PDF file:

- Letter of application – please indicate department(s) with which you would seek affiliation if selected for a post-doctoral fellowship.
- CV
- Statement outlining commitment to integrating multicultural experiences into instructional methods and engaging students underrepresented in the academy.
- Statement outlining two-year plan for research/creative activity.
- Names of three professional references.

Applications should be submitted to one of the following email addresses:

Fine Arts or Humanities: DiversityPostDoc-fah@okstate.edu

Social Sciences: DiversityPostDoc-ss@okstate.edu

Mathematics or Sciences: DiversityPostDoc-ms@okstate.edu

Additional questions should be directed to:

Dr. Bruce Crauder, Associate Dean

College of Arts and Sciences

201 LSE

Stillwater, OK 74078

bruce.crauder@okstate.edu

405-744-5663

Positions are contingent upon available funding. Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. 41 CFR 60-1.35(c)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3311

University of Hawaii, Manoa

Rank: Assistant Professor

Job Announcement: Assistant Professor (Indigenous and Native Hawaiian Politics)

Position Number: #84121
 Date Posted: 08/01/2017
 Closing Date: Continuous - application review begins 01/02/2018
 Monthly Type: 9-Month
 Tenure Track: Tenure track
 Full Time/Part Time: Full Time
 Temporary/Permanent: Permanent
 Funding Type: General
 Other Conditions: To begin on 08/01/2018, pending position clearance and availability of funds.

The College of Social Sciences and the Political Science Department at the University of Hawaii at Manoa have strongly supported the growth of Native Hawaiian and Indigenous politics as areas of research and teaching. At the heart of the College's vision for a globally-connected Hawaiian Place of Learning lies an ethos of Aloha 'Aina. The College of Social Sciences seeks applications from interested and qualified candidates for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor rank to sustain and grow this area of focus within the department and college. We seek scholars who approach Native Hawaiian and Indigenous politics from a critical lens, with an emphasis on engaged scholarship and community engagement. We welcome scholars with interdisciplinary training and research experience.

Duties: Candidates will be expected to teach courses in Native Hawaiian politics, Hawai'i politics and Indigenous politics; advise and mentor undergraduate and graduate students, develop and conduct high-quality research, sustain strong community relations for teaching and research purposes, work collaboratively towards solving challenging and complex problems in Hawai'i and beyond, support the College's Native Hawaiian Initiative, and participate in departmental, university, and professional activities, with a particular focus on developing interdisciplinary partnerships to advance the Indigenous politics concentration. The candidate will be expected to strengthen the college and university focus on Hawai'i and Oceania. Other duties as assigned.

Minimum qualifications:
 Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field relevant to the position, with a research specialization in Native Hawaiian issues [ABD with all requirements for degree completed by date of hire considered] from an accredited college or university or foreign equivalent. Demonstrated ability to teach on Native Hawaiian and Indigenous political theories and issues. Demonstrated commitment to Native Hawaiian communities and/or political issues. Demonstrated record of peer-reviewed research commensurate with time in field.

Desirable qualifications:

Teaching experience with innovative educational strategies, attentive to issues of diversity; Ability to work effectively as part of an interdisciplinary team in cooperative endeavors; Ability to supplement the Indigenous politics concentration with a focus on Oceania/Pacific Islands, political theory, Indigenous governance, Indigenous epistemologies, environmental politics, and/or futures studies.

Pay range: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To Apply: Electronic applications only. All documents should be uploaded at this link:

<http://adminsrv.socialsciences.manoa.hawaii.edu/pols-84121/>. Submit a curriculum vitae; a writing sample in which you are sole author or primary author; a statement of teaching that includes areas of strength in teaching; a sample course syllabus; a cover letter indicating how you satisfy the minimum and desirable qualifications, as well as how you would enhance the College's Native Hawaiian Initiative; the names and contact information of three professional references; and official transcripts (copies are acceptable, however, official transcripts will be required upon hire). Questions about the position can be sent to Kathy Ferguson, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at polisci@hawaii.edu.

Review of applications will begin Jan 2, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications received by that date will be given priority. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

The University of Hawaii is an EEO/AA Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/1/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3245

University of Michigan

Rank: Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship

Fellowship period: September 2018 – May 2020
 Application deadline: January 15, 2018

The Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) at the University of Michigan invites postdoctoral scholars to apply for the Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship. The two-year fellowship supports research on the broad historical, political, economic, and societal conditions under which democracies emerge—and autocracies endure.

Up to three awards are available for the 2018-20 fellowship. Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in WCED workshops and events, and present at least one public lecture during their fellowship year, while in residence at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

We welcome excellent applicants from all disciplines. Fellows must have successfully defended and filed their dissertation before beginning the fellowship. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received their PhD after January 1, 2016.

Fellowships carry an annual salary of $50,000 plus $2,000 per year in research funds, and will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning September 1, 2018 through May 31, 2020). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Candidates will be required to submit:

- A two-page research plan that outlines the research project and how the fellow will spend his/her time during the fellowship year.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter, conference paper, or journal article.
- Two letters of recommendation.

Fellowship applications must be received by January 15, 2018, 11:59 pm EST. Applicants will be notified in March 2018.

Application link available at <https://www.ii.umich.edu/wced/postdoctoral-fellows.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/15/2018
Date Posted: 9/1/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3235

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Russia, Post Soviet Region, Post Communist Europe

The Department of Slavic and Eurasian Studies in collaboration with the Center for Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies at the University of Texas at Austin invites applications for the position of tenure-track assistant professor, with an anticipated start in the fall semester 2018. We seek applications from scholars who work on Russia/the former Soviet Union, and Eastern or East Central Europe who specialize in the social sciences (with a preference for Sociology, Anthropology, Geography, or Political Science). Engagement in interdisciplinary and digital scholarship is welcome, and all candidates must have an active research and publication agenda. Teaching duties will include a two course per semester load and the selected candidate will be expected to exhibit a commitment to service in the department, center, college, and university, and be qualified to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, as well as direct graduate and undergraduate student independent research.

Salary is based upon qualifications and experience.

Qualifications

Successful candidate should have a PhD in hand in the social sciences with a focus on Slavic or Eurasian Studies, strong research and publication agenda, and evidence of excellence in teaching and/or strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate education.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a scholarly writing sample of no more than 30 pages to Professor Julia Mickenberg, Chair, Department of Slavic and Eurasian Studies through apply.interfolio.com/43779. If you do not have a dossier account with Interfolio, you will be prompted to create one prior to applying for the position. Assistance available from Interfolio's Customer Support - help@interfolio.com or call (877) 997-8807.

Priority will be given to applications received by October 10, 2017. Finalists will be interviewed at the Association for Slavic, East European, and Eurasian Studies (ASEEES) conference in Chicago in November. The University of Texas at Austin is an AA/EEO employer, and requires all expected hires to undergo a criminal background check.

The University of Texas at Austin, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, or veteran status in employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/31/2017
Date Posted: 8/31/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3316

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3314

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer - International Studies

Specializations: International Security, Africa, Gender Politics & Policy

International Studies
University of California, Irvine
School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers

The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during Winter 2018 and/or Spring 2018 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer
Salary Range: $5,700 - $6,200 per course
Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.
Positions May Be Available: Winter 2018 and Spring 2018

Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at:

<https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04263>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:

Winter 2018 Quarter, November 30, 2017

Spring 2018 Quarter, January 30, 2018

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3286

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Behaviour

McGill University

Assistant Professor, Political Behaviour

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Behaviour. This position is directed to candidates who specialize in American or European politics. The position requires excellent skills and demonstrated training in methods such as advanced quantitative analysis, formal modelling, survey research methods, experimentation or computational modelling. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to teaching in our sequence of methods courses, particularly at the graduate level.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2018.

For more information about the Department and University, visit our web site at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Hudson Meadwell at hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 9, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9513>.

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

The language of instruction at McGill is English, but a working knowledge of French is an asset.

Professeur adjoint, Comportement politique

Le Département de science politique sollicite des candidatures pour un poste menant à la permanence en Comportement politique. Ce poste s'adresse aux candidats qui se spécialisent dans la politique américaine ou européenne. Ce poste exige des aptitudes remarquables et une formation reconnue dans des domaines tels que les méthodes quantitatives avancées, la modélisation formelle, les méthodes de recherche par sondages, l'expérimentation ou la modélisation informatique. Le candidat retenu doit contribuer à l'enseignement de nos cours méthodologiques, en particulier au niveau des cycles supérieurs.

Les antécédents des candidats doivent démontrer un potentiel exceptionnel pour la recherche de même que l'aptitude à enseigner efficacement à des étudiants du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs et la capacité à superviser des étudiants aux cycles supérieurs. Le département recherche un professeur adjoint. Toutefois, le recrutement d'un candidat de plus haut niveau est envisageable dans des cas exceptionnels. Le candidat souhaité détient, ou a presque terminé, un PhD.

Chaque candidature doit comprendre le curriculum vitae du postulant, son relevé de notes de l'université, trois lettres de référence, un exemplaire d'un article publié et des documents relatifs à ses aptitudes à enseigner. L'entrée en fonction est prévue pour le 1er août 2018.

Pour en savoir plus sur l'université et le département en cause, consulter notre site Web à l'adresse: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/.

Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de cette position peuvent être envoyées au Directeur du département, Hudson Meadwell, à hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

L'étude des candidatures commencera le 9 octobre 2017 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce qu'un candidat ait été retenu.

POSTULER EN LIGNE À L'ADRESSE: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9513>.

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

À McGill, la langue d'enseignement est principalement l'anglais, mais une connaissance pratique du français est un atout.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 10/9/2017
Date Posted: 8/23/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3258

Meredith College

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations
Specializations: China, Japan, India

Meredith College seeks qualified candidates for a tenure track assistant professorship in the Department of History, Political Science, and International Studies. The position will begin in August, 2018.

Ideal candidate will offer teaching and research strengths in modern Chinese history and one or more of the following fields: South Asia, 20th century world, Middle East, Africa, women's history, international or comparative politics. Applicants will be expected to contribute to all programs in the department, teach introductory surveys as well as upper level specialty courses, engage in scholarship and professional activity, and offer effective student advising.

Applicants must have PhD in Asian history or Asian Studies and demonstrated excellence in teaching.

Please attach letter of application, curriculum vitae, and statements of teaching philosophy and research goals to on-line application. Copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of reference should be sent to Dr. Michael Novak, History Search Committee, Meredith College, 3800 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh, NC, 27607-5298. Review of applications begins September 15.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3254

Miami University

Rank: Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies
Specializations: Latino Politics, Latin American, Foreign Policy

Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies with a focus on the U.S., Latinidad, and the Américas to link the Latina/o experience in the United States to Latin American and Caribbean countries of origin. Among the ways to make those links could be through consideration of transnational processes, diasporic networks, global economic developments, remittances, US and Latin American foreign policies, immigration policy (in both U.S. and in sending countries), long distance nationalism, border relations, cultural practice and change, hometown associations, or cross-border organizing. We are also interested in those who engage issues of race and racialization of Latino/as in the US, as well as critical race/ethnic studies approaches to Afro-Latino/as and Afro-Latinidad. We are particularly interested in interdisciplinary scholars with research experience grounded both in the United States and in Latin America or the Caribbean. The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching, research, and service to the department, college, and university.

Require: Ph.D. in Latin American Studies, anthropology, geography, history, political science, languages, and literatures, or a closely related field, by date of appointment.

Consideration will be given to those with native or near-native fluency in Spanish; commitment to diverse curricula in the Department of Global and Intercultural Studies, potentially contributing to interdisciplinary teaching and research in the department's multiple programs: American Studies; Asian and Asian American Studies; Black World Studies; International Studies; Latin American, Latino/a and Caribbean Studies; and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Submit cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4623>.

For inquiries about the position, contact Jana Braziel at brazieje@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3249

The Ohio State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Regulation and Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other
Specializations: Regulatory Policy, Energy Policy, Economic Policy

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University welcomes applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant level in the area of Regulation and Public Policy. We especially encourage applications from scholars who study topics such as regulatory and governance issues surrounding public utilities and other critical infrastructure, smart technology, mobility and transportation, sustainable development, or the role of regulation in achieving a sustainable and resilient economy. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches.

This position is partially funded by Ohio State's Discovery Themes Initiative, a significant faculty hiring investment in key thematic areas in which the university can build on its culture of academic collaboration to make a global impact. The successful candidate will join a highly collaborative interdisciplinary community of scholars in the Sustainable and Resilient Economy (SRE) program (<https://discovery.osu.edu/focus-areas/sustainable-economy/>) including faculty from Social and Behavioral Sciences, Environmental Sciences, Business, Law, and Engineering. The SRE program seeks to advance sustainability science by developing a more holistic understanding of sustainable and resilient production and consumption systems, human-environment interactions, and innovations in sustainable technologies and governance. Successful applicants will be expected to participate in collaborative teams and interdisciplinary research on sustainability and resilience topics.

The position begins fall 2018. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed or be nearing completion of all Ph.D. degree requirements. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in public affairs, public policy, public administration, sociology, political science, economics, geography, law, business or a related field. Highly desirable candidates will have practical experience, university teaching experience, a strong potential for developing a successful research portfolio, and/or demonstrated success in working with diverse populations and a commitment to diversifying the profession.

Application Instructions

Applications will be evaluated as received and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by September 22, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration. To apply, please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three professional reference letters to Glenn-SRERegulation@osu.edu. Alternatively, materials can be mailed to: Office of the Dean, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, 350 Page Hall, 1810 College Road, Columbus, OH, 43210.

About the Glenn College and OSU

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs was recently ranked 25th overall among other graduate professional programs in public affairs. Our curricular offerings include the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration and In-Career Master of Arts in Public Policy and Management; dual master's degrees with Law, City and Regional Planning, Public Health, Environment and Natural Resources, Social Work, Business Administration, Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics, Slavic and East European Studies, and Latin American Studies; a joint degree in Arts Policy and Administration; a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Management; a B.A. in Public Management, Leadership, and Policy; a B.S. in Public Policy Analysis, and a variety of undergraduate and graduate minors. The College also offers a wide array of non-degree management and leadership training seminars, programs and certificates, serving over 2,000 mid-career professionals each year. For more information about the Glenn College, please visit our website: glenn.osu.edu.

The Ohio State University, the flagship public university of Ohio, is located in the state's capital, Columbus, providing direct access to public sector organizations and practitioners from all levels of government, as well as a large and vibrant nonprofit and philanthropic community. The Glenn College is housed in a state-of-the-art building in the center of the University campus. Columbus is the 14th largest city in the United States and offers many cultural and recreational amenities. It was recently rated by Forbes as the #1 opportunity city in the country and #7 in best cities for young professionals. Money Magazine rated it #3 for best cities for millennials. Ohio ranks #5 for states with the most Fortune 500 headquarters.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/22/2017

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3216

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security -- with a particular emphasis on China's foreign relations, Chinese foreign policy, and Chinese security policy -- to begin July 2018.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43731

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3212

University of Chicago

Rank: Collegiate Assistant Professor

The University of Chicago Society of Fellows is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. The Fellows are members of the College Faculty whose primary responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program.

Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into seven year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen; Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions, Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; and Language and the Human. For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/humanities-course-descriptions>

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, Fellows teach in four of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; and Social Science Inquiry.

Some Fellows also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence. European Civilization is taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents.

For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/social-sciences-course-descriptions>

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2018. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in their original scholarship as well as in teaching.

In most years, Fellows teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. Each Fellow also has the opportunity to design an independent course and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical in the third year of residence. The annual salary for 2018-19 will be $69,500. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2018.

To apply for these positions, please see our web site at <http://fellows.uchicago.edu>. The web site will be available to accept applications beginning August 31, 2017.

Important deadlines:

On line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 13, 2017.

Deadline for receipt of letters of recommendations: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 27, 2017. This includes letters of recommendation from your three recommenders or those received from a dossier service.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3206

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Assistant/ Associate Professor - Open Search

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Political Science at Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. Candidates for Associate Professor rank are also invited to apply. The position is open to all subfields, with a preference for comparative politics and international relations scholars. The term of appointment would begin October 1, 2018.

Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. By the third year of the appointment, candidates will be expected to be able to teach in Hebrew.

Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than two pages).

The committee will begin reading applications on October 1st, 2017, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should send their applications to: shain@tauex.tau.ac.il and azargat@post.tau.ac.il.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3175

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Open Rank Position, Tenured with a Focus on China Studies

Open Rank Position Tenured

With a focus on China Studies

School Overview:

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit www.sais-jhu.edu. To learn more about the China Studies program, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/china-studies>.

Position:

The School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University is seeking to fill a position in China Studies at the rank of (chaired) Full Professor or Associate Professor (with tenure) in its Washington, DC campus. Candidates must have a PhD, a distinguished publication record in China's contemporary politics and international relations, a demonstrated excellence in teaching and strong interest in public policy. Successful candidates may play a role in guiding the SAIS China Studies program, the Hopkins-Nanjing Center, and other activities in Greater China in a manner to be mutually agreed upon. Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 1, 2017.

Application:

A letter of application, curriculum vitae that includes contact information as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISChinaSearch@jhu.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3172

New York University Abu DhabiRank: FACULTY POSITIONS Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu DhabiSubfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, OtherSpecializations: Political Theory, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Philosophy & Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science – Political Theory

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. We are searching for faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, or global ethics. The positions are open rank. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

The review of applications will begin from September 15, 2017, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/9/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3162Princeton University*Rank: Fellow

Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Fellowships are awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who are expected to return to their positions, and who have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and exhibit unusual intellectual promise but who are still early in their careers.

During the academic year 2018-19, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Interdependence." Food, clothes, entertainment, and the security and health of the planet depend on what distant people do for, with, and against others. Sometimes, recognition of interdependence has led to cooperation, other times to conquest or competition, and frequently to a mixture of all three. Oftentimes, new social identities and movements, national, regional, and religious, emerge in response to rising interdependence and the convergences and inequities it has produced. The goal of the 2018-19 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We invite applications from scholars whose work addresses this topic in any historical period or world region and from any disciplinary background.

Applications are due on November 1, 2017. To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2008. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record and ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information on eligibility requirements and the application process, see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggf/>.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2017Application Deadline: 11/1/2017Date Posted: 8/9/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3165

Tulane University

Rank: Associate Professor and Director of Student Leadership and Engagement

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Women & Politics

The Newcomb College Institute seeks a full-time, non-tenure track feminist scholar to conduct research and to teach 1-2 undergraduate courses on women's leadership. We seek an applied researcher with qualitative and quantitative research skills with experience in community engagement and service learning who can design, implement, and assess the impact of our leadership curriculum and programs. S/he will oversee a department of four that runs the Newcomb Scholars Programs, 20+ student groups, a Residential Learning Community, and applied learning programs. Reporting to the Executive Director, the successful candidate will serve on the leadership team of NCI and manage the budget and supervise personnel for the department. S/he will facilitate faculty involvement in programs and liaise with Student Affairs, Gender & Sexuality Studies, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, and other campus units. We are especially interested in candidates with a record of intersectional scholarship and community engagement who can lead our efforts to connect with diverse groups of women students. NCI selection committee representatives will be at NWSA, APSA, ASHE, and ASA.

QUALIFICATIONS

1. Ph.D. in Higher Education, Sociology, Psychology, Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, Leadership, Economics or related field required by date of hire.
2. Three years of experience working with or teaching undergraduate women.
3. Administrative ability in strategic planning, personnel management, budgeting, and programming.
4. Commitment to acquiring and teaching emotional intelligence and a growth mindset.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Screening begins October 15, 2017. Submit applications via Interfolio <https://apply.interfolio.com/43256> and provide a CV and letter of interest.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3170

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: International Security

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech invites applications for a tenure-track (or tenured) position in International Security at the rank of either Assistant or Associate Professor to begin Fall 2018. The Nunn School seeks to hire an individual whose demonstrated scholarly research and teaching in the field have a functional concentration broadly related to the nexus of science and technology with national/international security policies and strategy. Research foci of greatest interest include cyber/information security or other emerging technology challenges. The School has a secondary interest in candidates able to apply modern analytical techniques such as big data/social media analytics or networks analysis to their research or teaching. There exist opportunities for joint appointments with another School at Georgia Tech, in particular those in the Colleges of Sciences, Engineering, and Computing. Thus, comfort in working with technical experts and teaching interdisciplinary courses is strongly encouraged.

Named for former US Senator Sam Nunn whose continued presence and work on global issues inspires our efforts to be both useful and innovative, our school draws on its unique setting at a premier technological university to deliver innovative programs and cutting-edge research that integrate science and technology with the study of international affairs. The School focuses on how technology affects national security, economic well-being and competitiveness, and prospects for international cooperation and conflict. Our School seeks to equip our students with Georgia Tech's cutting edge technology tools, a global perspective and leadership skills through a new model of professional education that is theoretically grounded and practice and policy oriented.

Located in midtown Atlanta, Georgia Tech enrolls over 25,000 students and is consistently ranked as one of the top seven public universities in the country. Georgia Tech is a unit of the University System of Georgia and an AA/EO employer; women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. Additional information pertaining to the Nunn School is available at <http://www.inta.gatech.edu/>.

Applicant review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To receive full consideration, application materials should be received by October 1, 2017 and include: (1) a letter of interest describing the candidate's relevant experience, including statement of research and teaching; (2) a curriculum vita; and (3) the names, positions, and contact information of five references. The position is subject to budgetary developments.

Materials should be sent either by mail to: Chair, Nunn School Search Committee, ATTN: Marilu Suarez; The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs; Georgia Institute of Technology; 781 Marietta Street NW; Atlanta, Georgia 30318 or electronically to intl-security-search@t-square.gatech.edu. Applicant files will be treated confidentially

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3148

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43427>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date. Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3135

Hebrew University of Jerusalem
Rank: Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem seeks to fill one or more tenure-track positions (ranks: Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, or Associate Professor), beginning fall 2018. While seeking candidates with a record of excellence in research in all areas of political science, preference will be granted to the field of Israeli politics and society. Junior and senior scholars with a PhD in political science are encouraged to apply. ABD's are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than October 1st 2018. Interested applicants are encouraged to arrange meetings with members of the Department at approaching conferences.

The Department of Political Science is committed to affirmative action in relation to applicants from groups under-represented in our faculty. We encourage women, minorities and individuals with disabilities to apply.

Several departments and programs at the Hebrew University conduct searches in fields related to political science. Candidates whose interests overlap with such fields are encouraged to apply also for these other positions. Among them are:

- International relations (contact: Prof. Dan Miodownik, Dan.Miodownik@mail.huji.ac.il)
- Philosophy, political science and economics (PPE) (contact: Prof. Shlomi Segal, shlomi.segall@mail.huji.ac.il)
- European Forum (contact: Prof. Noam Shoval, noamshoval@mail.huji.ac.il)
- Public policy (contact: Ms. Meital Stein, meitalo@savion.huji.ac.il)
- Cultural Studies (contact: Dr. Nicole Hochner, nicole.hochner@mail.huji.ac.il)

To apply, please submit the following materials:

- Curriculum Vitae (including teaching experience)
- Scientific biography outlining research orientation and plans for the coming years
- Electronic copies of up to three papers
- List of required and elective courses the candidate can teach
- A letter of intent stating willingness to begin teaching in the fall of 2018

Additionally, three letters of recommendation should be submitted directly to the Search Committee (via the website listed below).

The language of teaching at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem is Hebrew, though some courses are taught in English. New faculty members are expected to be able to teach in Hebrew within a few years after their arrival.

The deadline for applications is September 25, 2017. Candidates selected by the Department will compete with candidates from other departments in the Faculty of Social Sciences for available positions.

Please submit all application materials electronically at: <https://tpe.ekmd.huji.ac.il>

For inquiries concerning the search please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Prof. Sharon Gilad: sharon.gilad@mail.huji.ac.il

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/25/2017

Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3100

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
Rank: Collegiate Postdoctoral Fellow

Fellowship Period: August 1, 2018 - July 31, 2020
 Application Deadline: Monday, October 2, 2017

The College of Literature, Science, and the Arts (LSA) at the University of Michigan invites applicants to our LSA Collegiate Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

This major initiative is aimed at promoting an inclusive scholarly environment, recruiting and retaining exceptional early career scholars, and supporting outstanding scholars committed to building a diverse, equitable, and inclusive intellectual community. The program is administered by the National Center for Institutional Diversity (NCID) at the University of Michigan.

The two-year fellowship program provides early career scholars with dedicated research time, mentorship, teaching experience, travel funding, and professional development opportunities to prepare them for possible tenure-track appointments in LSA. Candidates whose scholarship, teaching, or service will contribute to the diversity, equity, and inclusion goals of LSA are encouraged to apply.

Eligibility:

Applications are welcome from any field represented in LSA academic departments (see website listed below for eligible departments). Review committees will evaluate applicants according to their potential for success in an academic career and contribution to higher education through their demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

To be eligible, applicants' doctoral degrees should be completed between January 1, 2015 and July 1, 2018. Individuals awarded a Ph.D. from U-M, or currently holding a postdoctoral or faculty position at U-M, are not eligible.

Appointment:

LSA Collegiate Fellows will receive a salary of $60,000, and $7,000 for conference travel and research expenses. During the two-year term of appointment, the fellow will participate in the LSA Teaching Academy during their first year, and teach one course a year in the host department. The remainder of the fellows' time will be devoted to pursuing research. Each fellow will receive career advising from a mentor during their fellowship.

Additional program and application information can be found on LSA's Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion website: <http://lsa.umich.edu/lsa/about/diversity--equity-and-inclusion/lsa-collegiate-postdoctoral-fellowship-program.html>

Inquiries may be directed to NCID at lsacollegiatepostdoc@umich.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3118

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: Collegiate Postdoctoral Fellow

Fellowship Period: August 1, 2018 - July 31, 2020

Application Deadline: Monday, October 2, 2017

The College of Literature, Science, and the Arts (LSA) at the University of Michigan invites applicants to our LSA Collegiate Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

This major initiative is aimed at promoting an inclusive scholarly environment, recruiting and retaining exceptional early career scholars, and supporting outstanding scholars committed to building a diverse, equitable, and inclusive intellectual community. The program is administered by the National Center for Institutional Diversity (NCID) at the University of Michigan.

The two-year fellowship program provides early career scholars with dedicated research time, mentorship, teaching experience, travel funding, and professional development opportunities to prepare them for possible tenure-track appointments in LSA. Candidates whose scholarship, teaching, or service will contribute to the diversity, equity, and inclusion goals of LSA are encouraged to apply.

Eligibility:

Applications are welcome from any field represented in LSA academic departments (see website listed below for eligible departments). Review committees will evaluate applicants according to their potential for success in an academic career and contribution to higher education through their demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

To be eligible, applicants' doctoral degrees should be completed between January 1, 2015 and July 1, 2018. Individuals awarded a Ph.D. from U-M, or currently holding a postdoctoral or faculty position at U-M, are not eligible.

Appointment:

LSA Collegiate Fellows will receive a salary of $60,000, and $7,000 for conference travel and research expenses. During the two-year term of appointment, the fellow will participate in the LSA Teaching Academy during their first year, and teach one course a year in the host department. The remainder of the fellows' time will be devoted to pursuing research. Each fellow will receive career advising from a mentor during their fellowship.

Additional program and application information can be found on LSA's Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion website: <http://lsa.umich.edu/lsa/about/diversity--equity-and-inclusion/lsa-collegiate-postdoctoral-fellowship-program.html>

Inquiries may be directed to NCID at lsacollegiatepostdoc@umich.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3119

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Canadian Politics - Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of Canadian Politics. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will begin on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field by date of appointment or soon thereafter. The successful candidate will conduct scholarly research that addresses important debates in Canadian Politics. Excellence in research is required and she or he will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She or he will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses or a research pipeline that is at high international levels and will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field, research statement and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. Finally, she or he will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Canadian Politics and will have demonstrated excellence in teaching through teaching accomplishments, strong letters of reference and the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), a teaching dossier including materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca. Applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2017.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 9/28/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3109

University of Toronto, Mississauga Rank: Canadian Politics - Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of Canadian Politics. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor and will begin on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field and conduct scholarly research that addresses important debates in Canadian Politics. Excellence in research is required, and the successful candidate will have an established and excellent record of innovative research of an internationally competitive caliber. This excellence in research will be evidenced by a record of sustained contributions and publications in leading journals or with leading presses in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, strong endorsements by referees of high standing, and an outstanding track-record of externally funded research.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be supplied by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, teaching statement, graduate supervision and the dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The successful candidate will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Canadian Politics.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca. Applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2017.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 9/28/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3110

University of Rochester Rank: Political Economy/ American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/8/2017
Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3097

University of Rochester

Rank: Political Economy/ International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in International Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/8/2017
Date Posted: 8/2/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3093

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3045

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor in Global Studies
Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, International Relations

The Global Studies Program and Political Science Department at the National University of Singapore is looking to hire a tenure-track assistant professor in Global Studies. The candidate should be able to develop and teach applied, workshop-style classes for upper level undergraduates in cooperation with NGOs, business, or government agencies. The candidate should also be able to teach research design and basic social science methodology classes in a multidisciplinary setting. Scholars from all social science and humanities disciplines are welcome to apply. However, the applicant's research profile should be legible to scholars of politics, broadly defined, given that the future tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The Department of Political Science and the National University of Singapore are highly research-oriented. The teaching load is three modules year academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonuses and salary increments, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support.

Applicants should send a CV, a letter detailing their teaching and research interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox11@nus.edu.sg. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and liveable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3043

University of Delaware

Rank: Professor of American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other
Specializations: Political Behavior, American Politics, Political Psychology

PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for appointment as a full professor with tenure in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) We seek a scholar of American Political Behavior/Political Psychology, with a particular focus on quantitative methodologies.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 26 full-time and jointly appointed faculty, nearly 800 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a tenured full professor with an exemplary record of scholarship and teaching in American political behavior/political psychology. The successful candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized senior scholar with a strong record of graduate student and junior faculty mentoring, a strong record of grant-writing success, and an interest in actively building the quantitative American politics capacity in our methodologically diverse department. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns: (1) the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior (2) the political psychology of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; and/or (3) electoral processes and representation.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position and a current CV. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to the attention of Professor Philip Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3024

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3018

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy.

Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for a position (open to applications from specialists in international relations or comparative politics) at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in the Fall of 2018. Courses to be taught include Introduction to International Relations and Politics of the Global Economy. We also welcome courses on topics that support our interdisciplinary initiatives, such as the global environment, global poverty and inequality, sustainability, urbanization, political regimes, and democratization. Expertise in South Asia as well as global experience a plus. Ability to and enthusiasm for teaching Research Methods in rotation with subject areas courses is expected. The teaching load is spread over a two-year cycle. Faculty have a three-course load semester once every two years, and for the other three semesters, the teaching load is two courses. We are seeking to hire a dedicated teacher and emerging scholar who will embrace the department's mission of helping students become informed, analytically reflective, and engaged global citizens.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive Catholic university in the mainstream of American higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, the service of faith and the promotion of justice. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information.)

Loyola Marymount has a strong commitment to diversity, broadly defined, and therefore encourages applicants that enhance the racial diversity of the department; who are committed to working within a diverse campus community; and who are enthusiastic about working in an institution where minority and women faculty can thrive.

The application requires: 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission); 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates your approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and, if applicable, teaching evaluations and/or sample syllabi; and 4) three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: M.J. Cho at POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to M.J. Cho: POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to M.J. Cho at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. We will begin reviewing applications on September 25; the position will be open until filled. Preliminary interviewing will be conducted at the APSA Annual Meeting.

Candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred; ABD applications who anticipate completion of the doctorate by Fall 2018 will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/22/2017
Date Posted: 7/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2989

Tufts University

Rank: Newhouse Professor of Civic Studies in Arts & Sciences

The Department of Political Science and the Jonathan M. Tisch College of Civic Life at Tufts University invite applications for the Newhouse Professor of Civic Studies in Arts & Sciences, starting in Fall 2018. Civic Studies encompass civic engagement, political participation, social capital, civil society, citizenship, civic virtue, the public sphere, and related topics. The Newhouse Professorship is a joint appointment between the School of Arts & Sciences and the Jonathan M. Tisch College of Civic Life at Tufts University. The Newhouse Professorship will promote the intellectual inquiry into civic life necessary to fulfill the University's mission to shape students into active and engaged citizens. Teaching responsibilities will focus on the undergraduate level.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field, and a record of excellence in scholarship and teaching. Current rank of Full Professor or advanced Associate Professor is required. The position is open with respect to subfield and methodological approaches.

All application materials must be submitted via Interfolio at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/43187>. Applicants should submit a cover letter describing their research and teaching, a curriculum vitae, two representative scholarly works, and contact information for three references. References will only be contacted with prior candidate approval. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact Peter Morency, Administrative Assistant, at peter.morency@tufts.edu with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2983

University of Alaska, Anchorage

Rank: UAA Post-Doctoral Fellow for Political Science

Political Science Professor Landry Signé is looking for a postdoctoral political economist to assist on the project entitled "Why African Nations Fail: The Political Economy of Economic Growth and Democratic Development," partly funded by the Andrew Carnegie fellowship for 2016-2018. He is conducting a systematic comparative analysis of the evolution, determinants, performance, and impacts of all African economies, governance and political systems from the pre-colonial era to date, combining quantitative and qualitative methods.

The successful candidate may have background in economics, political science, statistics, international affairs, or a related field. Experience in using statistical software, creating and analyzing large datasets, geocoding, and collaboration with research teams are desirable. Consideration is highly selective and limited to candidates of exceptional scholarly promise and strong orientation toward rigorous mathematical approaches to economics and political science. Candidates with limited but reasonable statistical skills, who have an outstanding understanding of Africa, and superior qualitative and mix method and writing skills may also be considered. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellence writing, editorial, and organizational skills; and expertise in causality models, barro regressions, experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science. The postdoctoral political economist is also expected to contribute to group publications, both disciplinary, and interdisciplinary.

Although employed by the Department of Political Science of the University of Alaska Anchorage, the candidate may be fully hosted as a visiting scholar in one of the centers (upon their approval) where Professor Signé anticipates periods of residency during his Andrew Carnegie Fellowship (Stanford University, a New York or Washington D.C. university or research center, and possibly Harvard University). Being hosted in their home city is possible if the candidate lives in a city where one of the five largest libraries with African resources is hosted.

This position may be part or full time.

Qualifications

1. Ph.D. in economics, political science, statistics, or a related social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2017 or during fall 2017.
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise.
3. A proven ability to work expeditiously, independently, collaboratively, and prolifically.
4. Proven knowledge or interest for African economies, governance, development, or political systems.

TO APPLY, PLEASE VISIT: <http://careers.alaska.edu/cw/en-us/job/506331/uaa-postdoctoral-fellow-for-political-science>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/13/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 2987

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 7/31/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2963

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2018-19 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science.

During the 2018-19 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2018
2. Substantive interest in any social science field
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Instructions

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2018. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42907

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2964

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science/Social Data

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position to start Fall 2018 for faculty whose substantive research interests are informed by, or inform the development of, data- or computationally-intensive techniques. We encourage applications at the assistant and early associate level but candidates at any level with exceptional records of accomplishment will be considered.

The substantive research area is open although preference will be given to those candidates whose research agendas supplement existing areas of specialization within the department. Candidates should be able to contribute to our new undergraduate Social Data Analytics program (see <http://soda.la.psu.edu/>) and our graduate methods offerings. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Candidates should have a record of publication in high-quality venues, external funding, and quality teaching credentials.

Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Application review will begin on September 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu. Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/72588>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2967

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Urban and Environmental Studies

The academic programs of Urban Studies and Environmental Studies in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts at Loyola Marymount University announce a search for a faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning fall semester 2018 in a newly configured department of Urban and Environmental Studies. The department seeks a candidate with expertise in international or national environmental policy, especially in the areas of climate change, water, energy, biodiversity, or environmental justice. Preference will be given to candidates whose scholarship uses GIS methods and/or has urban relevance. The successful candidate will teach courses on environmental policy and introductory GIS, and ideally on environmental planning, sustainable cities, or introductory environmental studies, bringing an international or national perspective to the courses. Candidates should have an interest in helping students develop as local and global citizens through, for example, experiential learning assignments, community engagement, and/or immersion experiences. A Ph.D. in an appropriate discipline is required. The department is particularly interested in candidates with the ability to contribute to one or more of our interdisciplinary programs, such as Chicana/o Studies, Women and Gender Studies, African American Studies, and International Relations.

Applicants should send electronic copies of the following to urbanandenvironmentalstudies@lmu.edu: a letter of application addressing teaching and research interests; curriculum vitae; three letters of recommendation; evidence of teaching ability; and a writing sample. Application materials must be received by September 29, 2017.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive university in the mainstream of American Catholic higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, and the building of a just society. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 7/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2947

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought

Subfield(s): Public Law, International Relations, Other

Amherst College's Department of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the area of global and/or post-colonial legality. The successful candidate will demonstrate competence and sensitivity in working in a department in which students are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, ability, sexual orientation, and religion. We seek a colleague who has the scholarly expertise to understand the legal theories, practices, and histories that link disparate areas of the world. We are interested in candidates who conduct research into, for example, the afterlives of colonial legal regimes; or the shifting place and function of sovereignty in a globalizing world; or the ways in which various sorts of rights have been accepted, inflected, translated, and even violently rejected in different legal cultures; or the theory, practice, or history of institutions of global legality (such as the I.C.C., the E.U., the W.T.O., etc.). Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the candidate's area of specialization and supervision of senior honors projects. We welcome applications from persons trained in the social sciences, the humanities, and/or law. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching is interdisciplinary. The position requires a Ph.D. or a J.D. The start date for the position is July 1, 2018. Applicants should submit electronically to <https://apply.interfolio.com/42527> a cover letter addressed to Professor Austin Sarat, a curriculum vitae, a sample of their scholarship, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Amherst College is a private undergraduate liberal arts college for men and women, with 1,800 students and more than 200 faculty members. Located in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts, Amherst participates with Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts in the Five-College Consortium.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2901

Sarah Lawrence College

Rank: Endeavor Professor in International Relations

Sarah Lawrence College invites applications for a full time, tenure-track position in International Relations beginning in Fall 2018.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests focus on at least two of the following: international organizations and institutions; feminist international relations; race and international relations; strategic and security studies; peacekeeping and humanitarian intervention; conflict prevention, peacebuilding and statebuilding; human rights, reconciliation and justice; cross-border mobility and forced migration; global environmental governance and challenges; global political economy and inequality.

Sarah Lawrence is a co-educational liberal arts college with a unique pedagogy based on small classes and individual tutorials. Candidates must have a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and to the development of the research, writing and analytical skills of their students. Applicants should have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment and college level teaching experience.

Application materials should include: cover letter, CV, two samples of scholarly writing, two course descriptions and sample syllabi relevant to the position, three letters of recommendation, and copy of official transcripts. The deadline for applications will be October 13, 2017. Applicants may apply online at: <http://slc.peopleadmin.com/postings/861>

Sarah Lawrence College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and has as one of its goals the recruitment and retention of a racially and culturally diverse administration, staff and faculty. To that end, every job opening is seen as an opportunity to increase diversity and every effort will be made to expand the applicant pool in accordance with these goals.

Sarah Lawrence College is located in southern Westchester County, 25 minutes by train from midtown Manhattan, NYC. For further information on Sarah Lawrence College, our curriculum, teaching methods, and philosophy of education, please see our web site at <http://www.slc.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2911

Illinois State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY: Assistant Professor
 LEGAL STUDIES

The Department of Politics and Government at Illinois State University, seeks applicants for a 9-month, tenure-track position in Legal Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor to start on August 16, 2018. Teaching responsibilities include undergraduate courses across the paralegal curriculum including commercial transactions, real estate, probate law, and intellectual property. Teaching assignment for the position is anticipated to be 3 courses per semester, with a one-course reduction in this assignment in one semester of the first year. The candidate hired will be assigned to carry out some administrative responsibilities including but not limited to assisting the Director of Legal Studies in the preparation of ABA reports, advisement, and placement of paralegal students. The selected candidate will be expected to conduct academic research.

Minimum requirements are (1) a conferred JD degree from an ABA-accredited school prior to appointment start date; (2) at least three years of experience practicing law in the United States; and (3) either (a) at least one year of experience working with paralegals or (b) experience teaching at least one paralegal education course at the collegiate level.

Initial review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. To assure full consideration, please attach an application to posting number 0709521 at www.jobsilstu.edu and additionally attach a letter of application with descriptions of teaching and research interests, current vita, a sample of written work, graduate school transcripts, and student evaluations (if available).

In addition, three letters of reference can either be uploaded as 1 scanned PDF document to your application or they can be submitted on your behalf electronically via polsearch2017@ilstu.edu. Letters should be addressed to T.Y. Wang, Chair, Department of Politics & Government, Illinois State University, Campus Box 4600, Normal, IL 61790-4600.

Illinois State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

If you are having difficulty accessing the system, please call Human Resources at (309) 438-8311.

If you are an individual with a disability and need a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) or other state or federal law you may request an accommodation by contacting the Office of Equal Opportunity and Access at 309-438-3383.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 6/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2881

Brigham Young University

Rank: Faculty

The Brigham Young University Department of Political Science seeks applications for a faculty position from well-qualified candidates with a completed Ph.D. in any area of political science.

The appointment will begin in Fall 2018.

Successful candidates will have a strong research agenda, demonstrate potential for high-quality teaching, and be committed to giving the university's students a sound academic experience. Rank is open. Salary, teaching load, and research and travel support are competitive.

BYU, an equal opportunity employer, requires all faculty to observe the university's honor code and dress and grooming standards. Preference is given to qualified candidates who are members in good standing of the affiliated church, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Review of applicants will begin September 1, 2017. Potential applicants can visit the University's web page at <http://www.byu.edu>.

Applicants must apply on-line at <https://yjobs.byu.edu> (Political Science Faculty, Job ID 64237) and attach current curriculum vitae.

In addition, please send letter of application, graduate transcript, at least three letters of recommendation, and samples of scholarly work to: Sven Wilson, Chair, Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University, 745 Kimball Tower, Provo, Utah 84602, PHONE (801) 422-9018, FAX (801) 422-0580.

Placement materials may also be sent electronically via e-mail to polysec@byu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2015

Date Posted: 6/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2870

Brigham Young University

Rank: Faculty

The Brigham Young University Department of Political Science seeks applications for a faculty position from well-qualified candidates with a completed Ph.D. in any area of political science.

The appointment will begin in Fall 2018.

Successful candidates will have a strong research agenda, demonstrate potential for high-quality teaching, and be committed to giving the university's students a sound academic experience. Rank is open. Salary, teaching load, and research and travel support are competitive.

BYU, an equal opportunity employer, requires all faculty to observe the university's honor code and dress and grooming standards. Preference is given to qualified candidates who are members in good standing of the affiliated church, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Review of applicants will begin September 1, 2017. Potential applicants can visit the University's web page at <http://www.byu.edu>.

Applicants must apply on-line at <https://yjobs.byu.edu> (Political Science Faculty, Job ID 64213) and attach current curriculum vitae.

In addition, please send letter of application, graduate transcript, at least three letters of recommendation, and samples of scholarly work to: Sven Wilson, Chair, Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University, 745 Kimball Tower, Provo, Utah 84602, PHONE (801) 422-9018, FAX (801) 422-0580.

Placement materials may also be sent electronically via e-mail to polysec@byu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2015

Date Posted: 6/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2871

CUNY-Lehman College

Rank: Assistant Professor

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in the field of science policy. The candidate's scholarship and research interests will be expected to focus on emerging technologies, artificial intelligence, energy, environment and sustainability, or food and water security.

We are interested in a candidate who can contribute to the development of a Lehman College Center for Science Policy Development. S/he may also become involved in the Graduate Center of the City University of New York. The faculty member will be expected to conduct research; publish refereed journal articles; teach undergraduate courses at all levels; provide student advisement; provide service to the Department, College, University, and community; and participate fully in the life of the College and the University.

The Lehman College campus is located in Bronx, New York and is a Senior College within the City University of New York (CUNY) system. Lehman is the only four-year public college in the Bronx and is recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution. The college serves mainly undergraduate students preparing them for employment, the professions and further study. The teaching load is 21 hours (7 courses) per year and although the college is predominantly teaching focused, faculty at Lehman are active in research, scholarship and creative works. Service to the college, university and community is part of the mission as is a clear commitment to student engagement including advisement. Teaching is reduced for junior faculty over the first five years for scholarly development and all faculty are actively encouraged to seek external funding. Opportunities are available for faculty development and travel awards. Lehman College and CUNY internal funding is available through competitive grants for scholarship support.

QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in Political Science or related field, with a focus upon American Politics.

COMPENSATION

Salaries are commensurate with experience.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

Visit www.cuny.edu, access the employment page, log in or create a new user account, and search for this vacancy using the Job ID or Title. Select "Apply Now" and provide the requested information.

Candidates must attach a resume, cover letter, a statement of teaching philosophy, a research plan that describes how to include undergraduate and graduate students in the enterprise, and three professional references (name, title, organization, and contact information). Upload your application documents. Candidates should provide a CV/resume and statement of scholarly interests, and three (3) letters of recommendation when applying via CUNYfirst.

For technical issues:

Contact the service desk by email: service.desk@cuny.edu. If you can, provide screenshots. Please do not provide your User Account password; it is not needed to investigate any issue.

For other questions:

For questions about the content of any job posting, please contact the Human Resources department: Recruiting@lehman.cuny.edu.

CLOSING DATE

Review of CVs will begin mid-August and continue until October 24, 2017.

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2561

POLITICAL THEORY

New York University Shanghai

Rank: TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Social Welfare, Energy Policy

TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Environmental Studies. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in geography, sociology, anthropology, political science, or a related social science field, and whose work demonstrates a capacity for excellence in interdisciplinary environmental research and high-quality classroom instruction. We are especially but not exclusively interested in scholars whose research adopts a global perspective on disasters, urban ecology, or energy and climate change.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching, and electronic copies of up to five relevant publications. To complete the online process, junior applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted and asked to upload their reference letter. In the case of senior applicants, reference letters will be requested at a later stage as needed.

Review of applications will begin October 16th and will continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. To apply, follow this link <http://apply.interfolio.com/45330>. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher-education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, NYU Shanghai resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of innovative research and transformative teaching, and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common educational interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3524

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Study of Islam

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY, Department of Religion invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Islam. The position would begin on September 1, 2018. The candidate's area of expertise within the study of Islam is open but we especially welcome candidates who complement the department's offerings in ethics, intellectual history, philosophy or South Asia. Princeton also supports a wide range of vibrant interdisciplinary programs, including programs in African Studies, American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Near Eastern Studies, Political Philosophy, and South Asian Studies, and we welcome applicants who might contribute to any of these programs. The search committee will begin reviewing applications November 1, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. Applications from women and members of minority groups are especially encouraged. Applicants should submit the following materials: Cover letter including teaching interests and research plans, Curriculum Vitae, writing sample, and at least 3 letters of recommendation will be reviewed starting November 1, 2017.

Please apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3801>

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applications will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3527

Princeton University

Rank: Religion and Critical Thought

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY, Department of Religion invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Religion and Critical Thought. The position would begin on September 1, 2018. The candidate's area of expertise is open but we especially welcome candidates who complement the department's offerings in epistemology, ethics, religion and philosophy, social criticism, theology or theories of religion. Princeton also supports a wide range of vibrant interdisciplinary programs and initiatives, including Environmental Humanities, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Law and Public Affairs, Political Philosophy and the University Center for Human Values, and we welcome applicants who might contribute to any of these programs. The search committee will begin reviewing applications November 1, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. Applications from women and members of minority groups are especially encouraged. Applicants should submit the following materials: Cover letter including teaching interests and research plans, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and at least 3 letters of recommendation will be reviewed starting November 1, 2017. Please apply online at:

<https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3782>

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applications will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3526

California State University, Dominguez Hills

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Chicana/o Studies (Political Science)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Administration

Responsibilities

The Assistant Professor will assume a normal teaching load of four undergraduate courses per semester in both lower-division and upper-division courses, including courses in the General Education curriculum. The successful candidate will be expected to develop courses in his/her area of expertise. Excellence in teaching and research, including publication in area of expertise is expected and required. The Assistant Professor will also be responsible for student advising, and service to the university.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate is an interdisciplinary Chicano/a and/or Latina/o Studies political science scholar who engages in interdisciplinary research and teaching on Chicana/o and/or Latina/o populations with expertise in community engagement, and experience in service-learning, community-based research, and/or digital pedagogy. Engaging in transformative and equitable models, the ideal candidate involves students in his/her research, and is involved in communities beyond the university. The ideal candidate is also a dynamic teacher who is qualified to teach a variety of courses within the department's curriculum and is committed to teaching the culturally diverse student body at CSU Dominguez Hills.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Chicana/o Studies, Ethnic Studies, or a related field; degree must be in hand by the time of appointment
- Expertise in Chicana/o/x and/or Latina/o/x political science, which may include, but is not limited to political theory, comparative politics, public administration, law, or international relations
- Evidence of successful and innovative teaching
- Evidence of a highly promising research agenda and commitment to on-going research and scholarly activity
- Demonstrated ability to teach interdisciplinary lower and upper division courses within the Chicana/o Studies and general education curriculum and develop new courses within area of expertise.
- Experience in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Interdisciplinary Chicana/o/x Latina/o/x political science research and scholarship
- Specialization and experience in community engagement with diverse populations
- Evidence of experience with service learning, community-based research and/or digital pedagogies
- Experience with high impact practices and pedagogies that promote student success, retention, and graduation.
- Bilingual and biliterate in English and Spanish

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by November 1, 2017:

- Current Curriculum Vitae
- Cover letter
- List of 3 references with contact information
- Copy of Terminal Degree and unofficial transcripts of all graduate work
- A statement demonstrating how the candidate's commitment to diversity is reflected in her/his teaching and/or scholarship
- Scholarly writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (if available)

Incomplete and/or late applications will not be considered.

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:
<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee and will be asked to request three (3) references to send letters of recommendation via email directly to:

Dr. Marisela Chávez
Department of Chicana and Chicano Studies
California State University, Dominguez Hills
mchavez@csudh.edu

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Employee Benefits
CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3515

SUNY Plattsburgh

Rank: Political Science Assistant Professor Positions

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Plattsburgh invites applications for 2 tenure-track Assistant Professor positions. The positions are expected to begin Fall 2018 and are open with regard to specializations. The successful candidates will be committed to excellence in teaching, research, and service in an institution dedicated primarily to undergraduate education. It will be expected that the people appointed to these roles will demonstrate an understanding of and sensitivity to diversity and gender issues, as SUNY Plattsburgh is committed to ensuring that its graduates are educated to succeed in an increasingly complex, multicultural, and interdependent world.

<http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/8681> Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics
Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, Politics, Government, or equivalent with a teaching and research

focus in Comparative Politics. The successful candidate will demonstrate both a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and a high potential for scholarship, as well as the ability to work effectively and collegially with faculty, staff, and administrators.

Preferred Qualifications: Candidates with an interest in conducting research with undergraduates, as well as those who are able to broaden departmental offerings in a secondary area of expertise, are preferred. The Political Science Department is particularly interested in candidates who are able to support a new international relations program under development, and candidates who are able and willing to teach a quantitative research methods class focusing on the application of statistical methods to political phenomena.

<http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/8682> Assistant Professor, Political Theory
Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, Politics, or Government with a teaching and research focus in Political Philosophy and Theory at time of appointment is required. The successful candidate will demonstrate both a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and a high potential for scholarship, as well as the ability to work effectively and collegially with faculty, staff, and administrators.

Preferred Qualifications: Candidates with an interest in conducting research with undergraduates, as well as those who are able to broaden departmental offerings in a secondary area of expertise, are preferred. The Political Science Department is particularly interested in candidates who can aid in the development of a pre-law program.

For further position details and to apply, please visit <http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3500

National Chengchi University

Rank: Assistant /Associate professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

1. The Department of Political Science at NCCU, Taipei, Taiwan, invites applications for one open rank position in "Empirical Political Studies", "Comparative Politics" or "Chinese/ Western Political Thought", starting from August 1, 2018.

2. Qualifications:

- (1) The applicants must have a doctoral degree, or be able to receive a Ph.D. degree by April 30, 2018. Applicants with teaching and research experience will receive more favorable consideration.
- (2) Academic publications other than the dissertation are required.
- (3) The applicants are expected to publish and teach in English.

3. Documents and the Deadline:

Applicants should submit the following materials, which must be postmarked by October 30, 2017:

- (1) Curriculum Vitae (including autobiography, a list of publications, outlines of the courses taught or to be offered in the future)
- (2) A photocopy of doctoral degree certificate. For applicants who have not yet passed the oral examination, a letter proving completion of courses and certifying imminent holding of oral examination by April 30, 2018 is required.
- (3) Transcripts from graduate schools.
- (4) The doctoral dissertation (or draft) and other publications (up to 5 items).

(5) Two letters of recommendation (written in English or Chinese) from academic scholars. Please send all correspondence to:

Ms. Yung-weng Chang

Department of Political Science

National Chengchi University

No.64, Sec.2, ZhiNan Rd. Wenshan District, Taipei City, 11605, Taiwan

Tel: 886-2-29387057

Email: ywchang@nccu.edu.tw

4. Candidates who pass a preliminary review will be requested to give an oral presentation in the Department.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3489

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associates in Religion and Politics

The John C. Danforth Center on Religion and Politics seeks applications from junior scholars and recent Ph.D. graduates for up to three postdoctoral fellowships in residence at Washington University in St. Louis. The appointment is for one year, renewable for a second year. Eligible applicants must have completed the Ph.D. by July 1, 2018, and no earlier than January 1, 2013. (In exceptional cases a qualified applicant holding a J.D., without the Ph.D., may be considered.) The research associates will spend most of their time pursuing research and writing on their own projects. They will also serve the intellectual life of the Danforth Center on Religion and Politics through participating in its biweekly interdisciplinary seminar. Their teaching responsibilities will include: 1) developing one course per year to augment the Center's curricular offerings, and 2) possibly assisting in one additional course each year (depending on the particular teaching needs of the Center). Washington University in St. Louis is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer and especially encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should hold a doctorate in religious studies, politics, anthropology, law, philosophy, theology, American studies, history, Jewish studies, sociology, or another relevant field. Scholars should be engaged in projects centrally concerned with religion and politics in the United States, historically or in the present day.

Application Instructions: Applicants must send all of the following information as a single pdf file to the Center at rap@wustl.edu:

- 1) Cover letter including an overview of the postdoctoral research project
- 2) Current curriculum vitae
- 3) Relevant writing sample (25-35 pages)
- 4) Two undergraduate course proposals (a summary paragraph for each will suffice)

Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of recommendation submitted on their behalf.

Applications are due in full by January 8, 2018. Applicants will be notified of fellowship decisions by March 1, 2018. For more information, contact the Center at (314) 935-9345 or via e-mail at rap@wustl.edu.

Salary Range: Competitive salary commensurate with experience.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/8/2018

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3472

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University

1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work.

They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3447

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Theory - Race, Ethnicity, Inequality

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Applicants should demonstrate expertise in the study of race, ethnicity, and politics, and/or related fields such as inequality, immigration, and identity. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To be considered, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp> for additional information).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01558>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, Inequality).

Review of applications will begin October 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/11/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3451

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location:

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration:

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2018 to August 2019. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation:

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- C.V.
- One academic writing sample and one non-academic piece, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Arthur Milikh

Associate Director

B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics

The Heritage Foundation

214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE

Washington, D.C. 20002

Email: arthur.milikh@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3438

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

* a curriculum vitae;

* a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
 * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
 * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
 Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3429

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Artificial Intelligence/ Big Data or Robotics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: Intelligence, Science & Technology, Social Welfare

Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Artificial Intelligence/Big Data or Robotics

The Department of Politics and International Relations is seeking to appoint two Postdoctoral Research Fellows. The first Postdoctoral Research Fellow will focus on Artificial Intelligence/Big Data, whilst the second will focus on Robotics.

The Postdoctoral Research Fellows will have a wide range of responsibilities. These will include undertaking advanced, methodologically and theoretically sophisticated research within the context of a new research project for the Centre for Technology and Global Affairs, under the supervision of Dr Lucas Kello. You will also supervise affiliated postgraduate students working on the project. You will develop, adapt, and apply theories and concepts from the political and social sciences to the analysis of new advances in Artificial Intelligence or Robotics and its applications in society, and will publish papers, policy briefs and reports on issues pertaining to Artificial Intelligence/Big Data or Robotics and global affairs. The post-holders will assist in developing ideas for generating research income and present detailed research proposals to the Centre Director. You will also present research findings and outputs at conferences, workshops and executive sessions in Oxford and beyond.

As the ideal candidate you will have a doctoral degree (or near completion) in Political Science or a relevant social science discipline, or in Computer Science or Engineering (with a strong background in social science work). You will be interested in and have a strong understanding of the implications of technology for politics and society and will have specialist knowledge in Artificial Intelligence or Robotics within the context of social sciences. You will have a willingness and ability to contribute to the dissemination of project results and will have excellent data collection and management skills, as well as interpersonal and communication skills.

The role will be offered on a full time, fixed term basis until the 30th June 2019 (potentially extendable) and will be based in the Department of Politics and International Relations in the Manor Road building, Oxford. The posts will be available from mid-January 2018, or as soon as possible thereafter.

The duties, responsibilities and skills required are described in more detail in the further particulars, (Vacancy Number: 130570), which also contain details on how to apply. Informal enquiries are encouraged and should be directed to Lucas Kello, Senior Lecturer in International Relations, Director of the Centre for Technology and Global Affairs and Co-Director of the Centre for Doctoral Training in Cyber Security, at lucas.kello@politics.ox.ac.uk.

The closing date for applications is noon, UK time on Friday 27th October 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 10/27/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 3386

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in political theory, beginning August 16, 2018. Candidate must demonstrate teaching excellence and research potential. Responsibilities include teaching ten to twelve credit hours a semester (typically two or three sections of American government and one or two upper level courses per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year, student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, profession, and community.

Position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 16, 2018 and ability to teach introductory and upper level undergraduate courses in political theory and the introductory American Government course.

The University of South Carolina Aiken, a public comprehensive university in the University of South Carolina system, located just 20 minutes from Augusta, GA, offers undergraduate and master's degrees to more than 3,500 students in 50 programs of study. USC Aiken is ranked the #1 public regional college in the South by U.S. News & World Report's guide "America's Best Colleges." The 2017 distinction marks USC Aiken's 19th consecutive ranking among the top three in this category and its 12th time in first place.

USC Aiken pumps $281 million into the local economy every year, and was listed among the 2016 Great Colleges to Work For. We boast students from 35 states and 32 countries. USC Aiken has eleven NCAA Division II Athletic programs. The City of Aiken is best noted as a cultural and horse community. Visit: www.usca.edu.

Application deadline is November 15, 2017.

Apply online at: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/19196>

Please submit the following documents with your online application: curriculum vitae; letter of application with your teaching philosophy, and upload copies of your undergraduate and graduate transcripts. Send three letters of recommendation to

Dr. Matthew Thornburg
Search Committee Chair
Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy
USC Aiken
471 University Parkway
Aiken, SC 29801

Questions may be directed to Dr. Thornburg at matthewth@usca.edu, 803-641-3222. Additional materials may be sought from some candidates as the search progresses. Finalists will be required to submit official hard copy transcripts.

Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. USCA is an AA/EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3423

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, CortlandRank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

University of North TexasRank: Open Rank Search in Political Theory

We invite applications for an open-rank position beginning fall 2018 in the broadly defined field of the history of political theory. We are interested in prospective candidates who specialize in Medieval, early modern/Enlightenment, or 19th/20th century German (post-rationalist) thought. An additional strength in non-Western thought, such as Islamic or Chinese political thought, is considered an advantage.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science, (2) evidence of excellence in scholarly productivity, and (3) evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching and mentoring students in independent activities. Preference will be given to candidates who have published books and/or articles in top-tier journals.

The successful candidate will have responsibilities that may include but are not limited to teaching core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continuing a record of robust scholarly research, directing graduate research in the Theory field, and providing service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 25 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Political Science Education, and is the current home of Religion and Politics. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site is: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With 37,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) two published writing samples, (5) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (6) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquires to Richard Ruderman, search committee chair (Richard.Ruderman@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 18, 2017 and will remain open until the position is closed. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3400

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JSLS) at the University of Richmond invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor of leadership studies with a specialization in ethics or applied ethics. Candidates must have earned, or be on course to complete, a Ph.D. in Philosophy or related discipline on or before August 23, 2018. AOS: Ethics or Applied Ethics. AOC: Meta-Ethics, Value Theory, Political Philosophy, Business Ethics, Philosophy of Psychology, or Environmental Philosophy. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research addresses consequentialism or virtue ethics. Successful candidates will be expected to teach courses such as Leadership Ethics, Critical Thinking, Leadership and the Humanities, First-Year Seminars, and elective courses in their area of interest and expertise.

We seek applicants with the potential and desire to develop, from disciplinary training, an active scholarly agenda on questions of leadership; and the ability to conduct interdisciplinary research and teach in an interdisciplinary liberal arts environment. In their cover letters, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests connect to the study of leadership. The JSLS supports the University's commitment to promoting an inclusive campus community. For full consideration, applicants must specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion. The successful candidate must meet all position requirements at the time of selection.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law and continuing studies. Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers a challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. For additional information about the Jepson School and the University, see: <http://jepson.richmond.edu/>.

Candidates should complete an online application at <http://jobs.richmond.edu>, attach a cover letter, writing sample, teaching materials, and a curriculum vitae, and provide the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates are reminded that cover letters should discuss how their scholarly and teaching interests connect to the study of leadership. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3391

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Assistant Professor

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT GREENSBORO: Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: Political Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning August 1, 2018. Candidates should have a Ph.D. by time of appointment. Applicants should have teaching experience and an active research agenda. The faculty member will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate classes in political theory. The ability to teach in a second field in women's and gender studies, environmental politics/policy or minority politics is desirable. The department has fifteen full-time faculty and has strong B.A. and M.P.A. programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool. UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate student body consisting of approximately 28% African Americans and 8% Hispanic or Latino Americans. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools. We are an EOE/Affirmative Action/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should submit all materials electronically (to apply, visit <https://jobsearch.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" and apply to position #998942), including a cover letter, a CV, a description of their research program, up to three representative writing samples, sample syllabi, and a statement of teaching interests. Applicants are asked to provide the names and email addresses of at least three (3) references in the References section of the electronic application. These references will be solicited by The UNCG jobsearch system via email. They will be asked to provide a confidential letter of reference/recommendation on behalf of the applicant. This will occur as soon as the applicant successfully submits the application and receives a confirmation number from the UNCG jobsearch system.

Inquiries can be sent to Professor Ruth DeHoog (rhdehoog@uncg.edu). The program webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 30, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3382

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in political theory. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3363

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Normative Political Theory

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2018-19. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2243> The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 6, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 9. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in early March 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3372

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track), Department of Law, Societies & Justice

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

Law and Society Studies. The Department of Law, Societies, and Justice invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor. Preference will be given to candidates with a teaching and research program that complements and extends one or more of the Department's existing emphases in the following areas: comparative legal analysis; legal mobilization and consciousness; punishment and social control; and rights in theory and practice. The Department seeks candidates who demonstrate excellence in research, teaching, and a commitment to building a more inclusive faculty.

The successful candidate will possess either a 100 percent appointment in Law, Societies, and Justice, or a joint appointment with another unit in the social sciences. University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research and service. Candidates should have a Ph.D. or equivalent foreign degree in a relevant social science discipline prior to the appointment start date. This position has a 9-month service period.

Law, Societies, and Justice offers an interdisciplinary bachelor's degree, and a graduate-level certificate program for students with research interests in socio-legal studies. Its faculty are trained across the social sciences, and most possess a joint appointment with another unit. The successful candidate will be required to teach an introductory-level course on socio-legal studies and to develop a suite of upper level courses commensurate with the candidate's expertise.

Application Instructions

Applications should include a current CV, a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, samples of publications or other work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be electronically submitted to <http://apply.interfolio.com/44362> with which letters will be solicited for separate submission. Priority will be given to applications received before October 5, 2017. Questions about the application process should be directed to: Professor Katherine Beckett, Search Committee Chair; kbeckett@uw.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/5/2017

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3347

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

American University of Afghanistan

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Specializations: Central Asia, Developing Nations, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science

Reports to: Chair of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Starting: Spring 2018

The American University of Afghanistan (AUAF) is a private, non-profit university offering an American-style liberal arts education. We opened our doors in 2005 and currently offer 4 undergraduate academic majors and an MBA program. We follow a strict non-discriminatory policy, and applicants from all ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds are encouraged to apply. We are a young, dynamic university with a student population of above 1000 students. Construction continues on a new 75-acre international campus.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration is seeking a qualified candidate for a full-time faculty position, an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science.

Responsibilities and duties:

- Teach lower and higher level courses in Political Science (ability to teach Political Science and Public Administration courses is highly desirable)
- Teach 12 credit hours per semester
- In addition to teaching, full-time faculty are required to provide service to the university in some capacity either by serving on a committee, assisting the Department Chair with various administrative tasks, mentoring and advising students on academic affairs, or in other ways.
- Although AUAF is primarily a teaching institute, research, especially the preparation of publications in academic or policy journals, is highly desirable

Requirements:

- Earned PhD in Political Science. (MA holders with experience in the field and a proven track record of teaching experience at the post-secondary level may be considered)
- Prior teaching experience at the post-secondary level
- Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at AUAF is English.
- Experience teaching in international locations and multicultural settings preferred
- When hired, the successful applicant is expected to provide official proof of academic degrees (transcripts sent from the degree granting school directly to AUAF)

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled.

The American University of Afghanistan offers a generous benefits package that includes a competitive salary, air transportation, University-provided accommodation, and paid health care insurance. This is an unprecedented opportunity to teach at a newly formed American University in an emerging and rapidly changing society.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching purpose, and contact information for three references to jobs@auaf.edu.af. Please include Political Science in the subject line of the email.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3325

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of political theory beginning in the fall of 2018.

The area of specialization is open, but the successful candidate should be able to teach courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. We also strongly prefer a candidate who is willing and able to teach graduate-level courses for our growing Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered, but all degree requirements should be completed by August 1, 2018.
- Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Responsibilities:

Teaching duties may include Introduction to Political Theory, American National Government, Classical and Medieval Political Thought, Modern Political Thought, American Political Thought, Executive Process, and other upper-level courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. Teaching courses for the MPA program is also expected.

The successful candidate will also be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching.

Special Instruction to Applicants:

Applicants should apply online at <https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/7109>

All applicants should submit 1) a cover letter, 2) a current CV, 3) statement of teaching and research, 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness, 5) transcripts, and 6) one writing sample.

Three letters of recommendations should be directly mailed to: Dr. Choong-Nam Kang, Chair, Department of Political Science and Sociology, Faculty Hall 5A, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Murray State University is an equal education and employment opportunity, M/F/D, AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3323

University of Western Ontario

Rank: Political Theory

Department of Political Science
Faculty of Social Science
Western University, London Ontario Canada

Political Theory

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Science at Western University invites highly qualified applicants for a full-time Probationary (tenure-track) appointment at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor or a Tenured appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. Rank to be determined based on qualifications and experience. The position will be in the field of Political Theory with a starting date of July 1, 2018.

We seek candidates who will contribute to one or all of the Department's signature areas in Global Justice, Democratic Engagement and Multilevel Governance, and who have built or are building an international research profile in one of those three areas. The successful candidate will have a PhD in Political Science or a related field.

We seek an outstanding individual with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in research, teaching and service. The candidate should be capable of supervising graduate student research, teaching graduate and undergraduate students, and securing external research grants. All faculty members are expected to participate in administrative committees at the level of the department, faculty, and/or university, including service external to the university.

Western Political Science seeks to be the foremost destination for research and graduate training in Global Justice, Democratic Engagement and Multilevel Governance. The Department instills in its undergraduate and graduate students the importance of understanding the power of ideas, and the consequences that can result when policies introduced at various levels of government are not based on sound and well-informed decisions. Students are introduced to great ideas and ideologies, the diverse political institutions in Canada and around the world, the complex, diverse and rapidly changing nature of international relations, and the cultural, social, economic, and political ideas that dominate the contemporary world. For more information, please visit www.politicalscience.uwo.ca.

Since 1878, Western University has been committed to serving our communities through the pursuit of academic excellence and by providing students, faculty, and community members with life-long opportunities for intellectual, social, and cultural growth. We seek excellent students, faculty, and staff to join us in what has become known as the “Western Experience” – an opportunity to contribute to a better world through the development of new knowledge, new abilities, new connections, and new ways to make a difference.

Applications should include the following:

- 1) application form (<http://www.uwo.ca/facultyrelations/pdf/careers/Faculty/Application-FullTime-Faculty-Position-Form.pdf>),
- 2) cover letter,
- 3) curriculum vitae,
- 4) statement of teaching and research interests,
- 5) copies of publications,
- 6) transcript,
- 7) the names and contact information for three referees,
- 8) employment authorization, if applicable.

This material should be sent to:

Professor Donald Abelson, Chair
Department of Political Science
Western University
Room 4154, Social Science Centre
London, Ontario, CANADA N6A 5C2
EMAIL: polisci-recruitment@uwo.ca
FAX: (519) 661-3904

The deadline for receipt of applications is September 30, 2017.

Positions are subject to budget approval. Applicants should have fluent written and oral communication skills in English. The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Western is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, members of racialized groups/visible minorities, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, persons of any sexual orientation, and persons of any gender identity or gender expression.

In accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents.

Accommodations are available for applicants with disabilities throughout the recruitment process. If you require accommodations for interviews or other meetings, please contact Leha Huffman at lhuffma@uwo.ca or 519-661-2111, extension 81459.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3292

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3314

SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Seton Hall University is seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. The appointment begins in Fall of 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (e.g., Government) is required. In addition to the Ph.D., a J.D. would be helpful but is not required.

The ideal candidate will be expected to teach courses in public law and American politics, such as Introduction to U.S. Law, Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, The Judicial System, and U.S. Politics. The ability to teach research methods is a plus. The normal teaching load is three courses per semester. In addition, the successful applicant will be expected to advise pre-law students.

Relevant published research and teaching interests should reflect innovative and discipline-specific topics. Candidates are encouraged to forward examples of current research and published papers.

For consideration, please submit a letter of application focusing on teaching experience and philosophy, curriculum vitae, and the names, addresses (including e-mail), and telephone numbers of three references at:

<http://jobs.shu.edu/cw/en-us/job/493063/assistant-professor-for-political-science-department>

Thank you for your interest in working with Seton Hall University. All applicants must create an online application to be considered for any open position.

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs is comprised of an undergraduate political science major, an undergraduate minor in philanthropy and the nonprofit sector, and the MPA program. The MPA program has concentrations in Public Sector Management, Health Policy and Nonprofit Management, which has been consistently nationally ranked by U.S. News & World Report. Our department's outstanding Faculty have diverse backgrounds in political science, public administration, economics, and nonprofit management and opportunities for collaboration abound within a supportive and collegial environment.

Seton Hall University is the oldest U.S. Diocesan University, providing academic excellence to its students for over 150 years. Applicants should understand Seton Hall's Catholic Mission, see (http://www.shu.edu/catholic_mission/index.cfm). The university is located 14 miles southwest of New York City and offers students the resources of a large university and the attention of a small college.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3307

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, Social Science. NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, International Relations
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Social Movements

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2018. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, research sample and three letters of reference, all in PDF format. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science September 22, 2017, sociology on November 1, 2017 and applications from economics December 1, 2017.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3289

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics – Tenured

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, broadly defined. The holder of the chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. We particularly seek candidates who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Dickey Center, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Rockefeller Center, the Irving Energy Institute, and Tuck School of Business. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on October 7, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44031. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3253

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate Professor - Political Theory

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field at the rank of tenured Associate Professor to begin July 1, 2018. Successful candidates must hold a Ph.D.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, contact information for at least three independent reviewers, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information about the required diversity statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applciant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01512>) for position: Associate Professor of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 22, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3280

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Andrew W. Mellon Assistant Professor in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists who specialize in Political Theory for an appointment as a non-tenure track Andrew W. Mellon Assistant Professor for a three-year term, to begin August 16, 2018. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. The teaching load is two courses each semester and salary and benefits are highly competitive. Applicants must have received the Ph.D. no more than four years prior to the start of the position. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 30, 2017, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 16, 2018.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43735>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3229

Waseda University

Rank: Tenure-track positions in Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Faculty of Political Science and Economics at Waseda University invites applications for three tenure-track faculty positions in political science to begin in the 2018-2019 academic year. These positions are open with respect to the field of specialization. The Faculty seeks promising junior scholars who are committed to a career in research and teaching. The new hires must demonstrate potential for producing innovative research, prospective or actual impact on the profession in his or her field of expertise, and excellence in teaching.

Successful candidates will also be able to teach one of our graduate-level, introductory methodology courses in empirical analysis, formal political theory, or normative studies. For details about these courses, please refer to the following syllabi:

Introduction to Empirical Analysis

(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012046012017310101204631&pLng=en>);

Introduction to Formal Theory

(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012020022017310101202031&pLng=en>);

Introduction to Normative Studies

(<https://www.wsl.waseda.jp/syllabus/JAA104.php?pKey=3101012019022017310101201931&pLng=en>)

Waseda University, founded in 1882, is a leading private research university located in central Tokyo. As part of the University's internationalization initiative, the Faculty of Political Science and Economics has offered English-based degree programs both at the undergraduate and graduate levels since 2010. The programs offer a diverse and dynamic academic community to talented students from all around the world.

Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline by the date of appointment. Proficiency in Japanese is desired but not required. The initial term for the tenure-track appointment is three years, with a possible extension of two years, contingent on an interim review during the second or third year. Tenure may be granted at any time during the probationary period upon a successful tenure review.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, sample syllabus of a lecture course in their specialized field (undergraduate or graduate level), and up to three samples of significant written scholarship electronically via https://www.wasedapse.jp/en/fpse1/eng_input.php

1. Submit your cover letter (use Template Form A) in the "(1) Application Form / Cover Letter" field
2. Submit your professional cv (use Template Form B) to the "(2) Curriculum Vitae with a list of academic/professional accomplishments" field:
3. Submit your research statement in the "(3) Additional application material 1" field
4. Submit up to three written works in the "(3) Additional application material 2" field
5. Submit your sample syllabus to the "(3) Additional application material 3" field

For Template Form A and B, Please visit <https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news/2017/08/21/7802/> on August 21st at 11:00 a.m. (JST) or later.

The application deadline is Saturday, September 30, 2017 at 1:00 p.m. (JST). Should you wish to submit a hard copy of your work or any other application materials, please send us two copies by registered mail on or before the application deadline. Receipt of applications will be acknowledged by email within 10 days after the deadline.

Candidates should also arrange to have two letters of reference submitted via email, or standard mail to the address indicated below. Should your reference send a letter via email, we ask that the letter be emailed from his or her professional affiliation. Reference letters should be sent to:
pse-hr-PolSciTT@list.waseda.jp

Prof. Koichi Suga, Dean
Attn: Application for Teure-Track positions for Political Science
Faculty of Political Science and Economics
Waseda University
1-6-1 Nishi Waseda, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-8050
Japan

Any questions regarding these positions or the application procedure should be directed to pse-hr-PolSciTT@list.waseda.jp.

Please note that the recruitment process involves three stages: 1) document screening; 2) campus visit including research presentation and an interview with the search committee; and 3) interview with the dean.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/13/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3194

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: African American Politics, Caribbean, Political Thought: Historical

The University Center for Human Values and the Department of African American Studies at Princeton University invite applications at the assistant professor level from well-qualified individuals for a tenure-track position in theoretical approaches to the study of race. Applicants may be scholars of political theory; political philosophy; the philosophy of race; critical and social theory; applied ethics and ethics of public policy (with application to race); African American studies (with a focus on one or more of the aforementioned areas); or any area of normative inquiry that focuses on the experience of African Americans. The position involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels and would be held jointly in the two units as assistant professor of African American Studies and Human Values.

We ask applicants to provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, a dissertation or book abstract, writing sample (under 30 pages), and a statement of teaching philosophy. Applications should be submitted online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2761> Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. We aim for an appointment effective September 2018.

Princeton University is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of our academic community. Women and members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3176

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Philosophy & Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS
Political Science – Political Theory
NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. We are searching for faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, or global ethics. The positions are open rank. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

The review of applications will begin from September 15, 2017, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3162

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/tenure-track positions in Political Science. Candidates from all sub-fields will be considered. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor), from scholars of Middle Eastern politics, and from scholars of political theory are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

The review of applications will begin in October, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the academic year of 2017/2018, with potential campus visits to NYUNY occurring in the Spring 2018. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3163

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME. The Program of Liberal Studies (PLS) seeks to hire a tenure-track, assistant professor in political science (AOS/AOC: Political and Social Theory), beginning August 2018. PLS is a Great Books department with 150 undergraduate majors. Founded in 1950, it has its own tenure-line faculty drawn from various disciplines and committed to an integrated program of studies. Undergraduate teaching responsibility will be a 2-2 course load, including the Program's Great Books seminars plus a course in political and social theory. The candidate will be expected to design the course to fit into the Program's integrated curriculum and to focus on primary texts in three principal areas: ancient (e.g., Aristotle's Politics), early modern (e.g., Locke's Second Treatise), and contemporary political philosophy and social theory. The candidate may also contribute to other disciplinary-based courses in the department as appropriate. See our website, <http://pls.nd.edu>, for current course descriptions.

Ph.D. required. Strong publication program, evidence of superior teaching, and a commitment to undergraduate education expected. Salary and research support more than competitive.

The University of Notre Dame seeks to attract, develop, and retain the highest quality faculty, staff and administration. The University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and is committed to building a culturally diverse workplace. We strongly encourage applications from female and minority candidates and others who will enhance our community. Moreover, Notre Dame prohibits discrimination against veterans or disabled qualified individuals, and requires affirmative action by covered contractors to employ and advance veterans and qualified individuals with disabilities in compliance with 41 CFR 60-741.5(a) and 41 CFR 60-300.5(a).

Before applying, candidates are advised to consult the department description on our website (<http://pls.nd.edu>) and the university mission statement (<https://www.nd.edu/about/mission-statement>). Catholics are strongly encouraged to apply. Please submit letter, CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a brief writing sample. Deadline: September 22, 2017.

This institution is using Interfolio's ByCommittee to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge. <http://apply.interfolio.com/43720>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Date Posted: 8/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3138

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Theory

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3062

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Assistant Professor: Political Theory
Department of Political Science
Southern Methodist University
Dallas, Texas

(Position No. 00006294) The Political Science Department at Southern Methodist University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Theory, starting Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include an introductory course in political theory, a history of political thought sequence, and upper-level courses reflecting the candidate's expertise. Candidates with clear and well-developed teaching and research interests in the nexus between equality and liberty, especially in the context of political-economic relationships, are especially encouraged to apply. Minimum qualifications include the completed Ph.D. in political science (required at the time of the appointment), experience teaching undergraduate courses in political science, and a detailed research agenda.

The Political Science Department at SMU is currently a faculty of fifteen administering programs in political science, international studies, and public policy for approximately 300 undergraduate majors and minors. The Department also houses and has access to the resources of the John G. Tower Center for Political Studies. Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas.

Applicants should submit a letter of application (including a statement of research and teaching interests), complete curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation to: Joseph F. Kobylka, Chair, Political Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Dedman College, Southern Methodist University, P.O. Box 750117, Dallas, TX 75275-0117; or as e-mail attachments (pdf preferred) to plsc@smu.edu. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017. Applications must be postmarked by this date to ensure full consideration for the position, but the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. The committee will notify applicants of the employment decision after the position is filled.

Southern Methodist University will not discriminate in any program or activity on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation, or gender identity and expression. The Executive Director for Access and Equity/Title IX Coordinator is designated to handle inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies and may be reached at the Perkins Administration Building, Room 204, 6425 Boaz Lane, Dallas, TX 75205, 214-768-3601, accessequity@smu.edu.

Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3038

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Position in Law and Legal Institutions in Muslim Societies (Assistant- or Associate-Level)

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or a tenured Associate Professor faculty position focused on law and legal institutions of Islam and/or Muslim societies in any time period.

The successful applicant for this position will be jointly appointed in the Stanford Law School and one of the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, History, Political Science, or Sociology. The successful applicant will have teaching and advising responsibilities in both the Law School and the School of Humanities and Sciences and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts. The exact structure of the appointment, including the share of the appointment in Law and Humanities and Sciences, will depend on the successful candidate. We have a preference for candidates who hold both a J.D. and Ph.D., but will also consider candidates with a Ph.D. and substantive expertise in Islamic law and institutions.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of research interests, a curriculum vitae including list of publications, and one recent writing sample. Assistant level and untenured associate level applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 15, 2017.

Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9282>

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3039

Mount Holyoke College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Mount Holyoke College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in political theory, with a specialty in contemporary political thought, to begin Fall 2018.

We are interested in candidates who, in their teaching and research, use normative political theory to clarify such current political problems as post-colonial legacies and antagonisms, social inequality and political exclusion, citizenship and statelessness, environmental rights and obligations, or reconfigurations of state and economic power, political agency, and individual subjectivity in a global age. We especially seek candidates with expertise in non-Western as well as Western political perspectives and ideas, and/or who look critically at conventional Western/non-Western distinctions.

Mount Holyoke supports faculty scholarship through research funds, travel support, and sabbaticals, and a 2-2 teaching load. Mount Holyoke also offers a comprehensive faculty mentoring program, a teaching and learning initiative, and invests in faculty across the career span. The successful candidate should be able to demonstrate excellence at teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. A Ph.D. in Politics is required by the time of appointment.

Applications must be made online at <https://jobs.mtholyoke.edu/>. Please submit letter of application, C.V., graduate transcripts, a statement of research interests, a statement on teaching and mentoring a diverse student body, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including course syllabi and course evaluations), and examples of scholarly research. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted on their behalf. Electronic prompts to referees will be generated automatically after the completed application has been submitted. For further information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Prof. Elizabeth Markovits, at: emarkovi@mtholyoke.edu. Interested applicants should submit completed applications by September 22, 2017.

Mount Holyoke is an undergraduate liberal arts college for women with 2,200 students and 220 faculty. Over half the faculty are women; one-fourth are persons of color. Mount Holyoke College is located about 90 miles west of Boston in the Connecticut River valley, and is a member of the Five College Consortium consisting of Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

Mount Holyoke College is committed to enriching the educational experience it offers through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff members. Mount Holyoke seeks to recruit and support a broadly diverse faculty who will contribute to the college's academic excellence, diversity of viewpoints and experiences, and relevance in a global society. In furtherance of academic excellence, the College encourages applications from individuals from underrepresented groups in the professoriate, including faculty of color, faculty with diverse gender identities, first generation college students, individuals who have followed non-traditional pathways to college due to exceptional talent and motivation in the face of adversity, such as societal, economic or academic disadvantages, and individuals with a demonstrated commitment to applying and including diverse backgrounds and perspectives to learning, scholarship, service, and leadership in the academy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/22/2017

Date Posted: 7/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2981

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnicity

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor – American Politics/Political Thought/Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory courses in political thought and advanced courses in American politics, political thought, and race, ethnicity, and politics.

A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2180>. Submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate teaching philosophy statement. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/8/2017
Date Posted: 7/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2977

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Theory
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Political Philosophy & Theory

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory to begin July 1, 2018. Applicants from all areas of the field – historical, contemporary, comparative, and conceptual – will be considered. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of appointment.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43129>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017. To guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. We strongly encourage applications from and nominations of women and underrepresented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 7/12/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2968

University of California, Santa Cruz

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Theory

The Politics Department at the University of California, Santa Cruz (UCSC) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory in areas of non-Western political and legal thought. Recognizing that 'non-Western' is a contested concept, we are open with respect to geographical area; we are interested in scholarship that examines political and legal thought of subaltern, marginalized, or indigenous people from any geographic area (including e.g., African American political thought), as well as scholarship that examines the political and legal thought from the Global South (e.g., Islamic, East and/or South Asian thought). In relation to a focus on legal thought, the successful candidate's work might engage social movements, decolonial struggles, political economy, gender and sexuality, race, sovereignty, and/or religion. We seek scholarship that contributes both to political theory and to legal studies through critical interpretive work with texts, archives, and/or ethnographic sources, drawing out the origins, diverse interpretations, and manifestations of legal thinking. We are interested both in scholarship that examines the politics of legal thinking, and/or that examines the intersections of political thought and the law.

Candidates will be expected to teach in both the undergraduate Politics and Legal Studies majors, and the Politics Ph.D. program. The successful candidate will work well with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds. We welcome candidates whose understanding of the barriers facing underrepresented women and minorities in higher education careers is evidenced by life experiences and educational background, and who have experience building equitable and diverse scholarly environments with respect to teaching, mentoring, research, life experiences, or service. UC Santa Cruz is a Hispanic-Serving Institution with a high proportion of first-in-family undergraduate students. We encourage both domestic and international candidates to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2923

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a tenure-track position in political theory to begin August 2018. A Ph.D. in political science is required. ABDs must possess the degree by the time of appointment. Advanced scholars are encouraged to apply with some consideration given to faculty who are tenured or on the tenure track. The Department is also hiring for a tenure-track position in American political behavior, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

The teaching load for this position is five courses per year. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to Political Theory and upper division courses. These courses may be open with regard to the candidate's area of interest, but candidates should be able to offer courses related to issues of diversity, identity, inclusion, justice, and citizenship. These courses should reflect the thematic, not chronological, approach to our theory curriculum, and we are especially interested in courses such as African-American Political Thought, Feminist Theory, and American Political Thought. The successful candidate will show evidence of effective classroom teaching and a commitment to scholarly research and publication.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. The University of the South is an equal opportunity educational institution that is committed to creating and maintaining a diverse and inclusive campus environment.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief writing sample, sample syllabi, course evaluations, graduate transcript, and at least three letters of recommendation. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu>. (Any materials that are not able to be uploaded may be sent directly to krkleinf@sewanee.edu.) Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. To be considered for an interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association, applications must be received by August 15, 2017. For full consideration applications must be received by September 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 5/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2816

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3539

Sam Houston State University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Political Science Department at Sam Houston State University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in public administration beginning in Fall 2018. The position requires teaching online MPA level courses. Specialization in disasters and emergency management is required, as is the ability to teach budgeting/finance and research methods. Successful candidates will possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a strong potential for a productive scholarly program. The teaching load for this position will be 3/3. The successful candidate will be expected to hold regular on-campus office hours and participate in program, department, and university activities.

A Ph.D. in political science, government, politics, public administration, public affairs, or public policy is required. ABD will be considered but must have a Ph.D. by the start date (August 2018).

Salary commensurate with education and experience.

Those interested should apply online at <https://shsu.peopleadmin.com/>. To complete the application, the following documents are required: cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, and copies of graduate transcripts. Please direct any questions about the position to Dr. Jonathan Brown at jnb047@shsu.edu. The search committee will begin reviewing materials immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3540

Northern Arizona University
Rank: Lecturer, Public Administration

We're Hiring At Northern Arizona University. You can address questions to me at Lori.Poloni-Staudinger@nau.edu:

Special Information

Northern Arizona University's Department of Politics and International Affairs invites applications for a Lecturer appointment, with a focus on public administration and policy beginning August 2018. The position is expected to be continuing, with potential for promotion. Renewal is contingent on performance and department needs. The typical teaching load for a lecturer is 4-4.

The NAU Department of Politics and International Affairs is a research-oriented department that offers three undergraduate degree programs, two masters degree programs (including an MPA degree for which we are seeking accreditation) and a doctoral program. The department currently has 20 full-time faculty (both tenure track and non tenure track). The Department's strengths and foci are in environmental politics, global development, and diversity politics. We also have expertise in social movements. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes. The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

Job Description

We are seeking applicants for a full-time, nine month, non-tenure-track lecturer position to join the Department faculty.

We are seeking individuals who can teach our core Master's of Public Administration courses as well as a broad range of electives for that program. Candidates must be able to offer courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels in public administration and policy. Teaching will constitute at least 80% of assignments, with remaining workload time to be devoted to research and/or service activity.

This is an online teaching position; however, there will be options to teach in person on the Flagstaff campus.

Applicants must reside in Arizona or be willing to relocate to Arizona by the time of appointment.

Minimum Qualifications

Applicants must be A.B.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs or related discipline by the time of appointment, and have completed graduate level coursework in public administration and policy. Applicants must have an ability to teach organizational theory.

Preferred Qualifications

Preferred qualifications include:

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs, or related discipline broadly trained in public administration and public policy demonstrated evidence of teaching skills and effectiveness (through sample syllabi, student opinion surveys, and teaching statements) demonstrated potential or evidence of effective online teaching demonstrated professional development activities (including research, applied work, grant work or other professional development) in public administration and policy demonstrated evidence of commitment to working effectively within a diverse university community

We encourage applications from individuals who have an ability to teach budgeting and human resources or other areas of specialization in public administration.

Preference will also be given to individuals who are able to contribute to our MPA program as well as to our NASPAA accreditation process. We are also looking for candidates who complement the Department's particular strengths and foci in global development, environmental policy, and diversity.

General Information

Northern Arizona University has a student population of 30,368, including approximately 22,000 on its main campus in Flagstaff and the remainder at more than 20 locations statewide and online.

Committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment, NAU has earned a solid reputation as a university with all the features of a large institution but with a personal touch. NAU carefully balances teaching, scholarship and service with a faculty and staff dedicated to each student's success. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes.

While our emphasis is undergraduate education, we offer a wide range of graduate programs and research that extend to such national concerns as forest health and bioterrorism. Our institution has carefully integrated on-campus education with distance learning, forming seamless avenues for students to earn degrees.

Flagstaff has a population of about 70,000, rich in cultural diversity. Located at the base of the majestic San Francisco Peaks, Flagstaff is 140 miles north of Phoenix at the intersection of Interstate 17 and Interstate 40.

With its elevation of 7,000 feet and four-season climate, Flagstaff is ideal for year-round outdoor activities. Nearby attractions include the Grand Canyon, Lowell Observatory, Oak Creek Canyon, Sedona, Monument Valley, Sunset Crater, Meteor Crater, and Arizona Snow-bowl.

The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

For information about diversity, access and equity at NAU, see nau.edu/Center-for-University-Access-and-Inclusion/.

Background Information

Northern Arizona University requires satisfactory results for the following: a criminal background investigation, an employment history verification and a degree verification (in some cases) prior to employment. You may also be required to complete a fingerprint background check.

Additionally, as an employer in the state of Arizona, NAU is required to participate in the federal E-Verify program that assists employers with verifying new employees' right to work in the United States.

Finally, each year the Northern Arizona University Police Department releases an annual security report. The report is a result of the federal law known as the Clery Act and contains policy statements that address the school's policies, procedures and programs concerning safety and security including policies for responding to emergency situations and sexual offenses. The report contains three years of data for Clery reportable crime statistics for the campus along with the most current year's Fire Safety Report, which includes policy statements and fire statistics for Flagstaff on-campus student housing.

The report may be viewed at nau.edu/clery or by visiting the NAUPD website at: <http://www.nau.edu/police>. A printed copy of the report is available upon request by contacting the NAU Police Department, Records Department at (928)523-8884 or by visiting the department at Building 98A on the NAU Mountain Campus.

Salary

Commensurate with experience and educational qualifications.

Benefits

This is a Faculty (FAC) position. NAU offers an excellent benefit package including generous health, dental and vision insurance; participation in the Arizona State Retirement System (ASRS) or the Optional Retirement Program (ORP); sick leave accruals and 10 holidays per year; and tuition reduction for employees and qualified family members. More information on benefits at NAU is available at <https://nau.edu/Human-Resources/Benefits/>

Faculty are hired on a contract basis, renewable according to terms of the Conditions of Faculty Service <http://nau.edu/Provost/Resources-Policies/>

Employees offered a position will be eligible for state health plans (including NAU's BCBS Plan). Employees will have 31 days from date of hire to enroll in benefits, and their benefits will then be effective the first day of the pay period following their completed enrollment.

If a new employee chooses the Arizona State Retirement System (ASRS) retirement option, participation in the ASRS Plan (and the long-term disability coverage that accompanies it) will begin on the first of the pay period following 183 days of employment. New employees who choose to participate in the Optional Retirement Plan (ORP; an alternative to the ASRS plan) will begin to participate on the first day of employment. The long-term disability plan that accompanies the ORP will begin on the first day of the pay period following 90 days of employment. More information about NAU benefits is available at <https://nau.edu/Human-Resources/Benefits/>

Submission Deadline

This vacancy will be open until filled or closed. Review of applications will begin on October 27, 2017.

How to Apply

To apply for this position, please click on the "Apply" button on this [NAU Human Resources] page. Application must include a single attachment, either a word document or pdf, that contains: 1) letter of interest including your relevant experience for the position, 2) sample syllabi, 3) a teaching statement, 4) teaching evaluations, 5) a statement or evidence of professional development (such as but not limited to research, grants, applied reports, or other professional development experience), 6) a curriculum vita, 7) unofficial academic transcripts.

Additionally, three letters of reference should be sent under separate cover by referees to Heaven Johnson, Administrative Assistant at <Heaven.Johnson@nau.edu>.

If you have problems submitting application attachments in the form of a Word or PDF document please contact the department for assistance.

If you need assistance completing your application there are instructions available on line at <http://hr.nau.edu> or in person in the Human Resources Department located in Building 91 on the NAU Campus - on the corner of Beaver and DuPont Streets.

If you are an individual with a disability and need reasonable accommodation to participate in the hiring process please contact the Office of Equity and Access at: 928-523-3312/TDD - 928-523-1006 or PO Box 4083, Flagstaff AZ 86011.

FLSA Status

This position is exempt from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and therefore will not earn overtime or compensatory time for additional time worked.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Northern Arizona University is a committed Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Institution. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. NAU is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

EEO is the Law Poster and Supplements

NAU is an Employer of National Service. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other National Service alumni are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3523

California State University, Dominguez Hills

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Chicana/o Studies (Political Science)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Administration

Responsibilities

The Assistant Professor will assume a normal teaching load of four undergraduate courses per semester in both lower-division and upper-division courses, including courses in the General Education curriculum. The successful candidate will be expected to develop courses in his/her area of expertise. Excellence in teaching and research, including publication in area of expertise is expected and required. The Assistant Professor will also be responsible for student advising, and service to the university.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate is an interdisciplinary Chicano/a and/or Latina/o Studies political science scholar who engages in interdisciplinary research and teaching on Chicana/o and/or Latina/o populations with expertise in community engagement, and experience in service-learning, community-based research, and/or digital pedagogy. Engaging in transformative and equitable models, the ideal candidate involves students in his/her research, and is involved in communities beyond the university. The ideal candidate is also a dynamic teacher who is qualified to teach a variety of courses within the department's curriculum and is committed to teaching the culturally diverse student body at CSU Dominguez Hills.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Chicana/o Studies, Ethnic Studies, or a related field; degree must be in hand by the time of appointment
- Expertise in Chicana/o/x and/or Latina/o/x political science, which may include, but is not limited to political theory, comparative politics, public administration, law, or international relations
- Evidence of successful and innovative teaching
- Evidence of a highly promising research agenda and commitment to on-going research and scholarly activity

- Demonstrated ability to teach interdisciplinary lower and upper division courses within the Chicana/o Studies and general education curriculum and develop new courses within area of expertise.
- Experience in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Interdisciplinary Chicana/o/x Latina/o/x political science research and scholarship
- Specialization and experience in community engagement with diverse populations
- Evidence of experience with service learning, community-based research and/or digital pedagogies
- Experience with high impact practices and pedagogies that promote student success, retention, and graduation.
- Bilingual and biliterate in English and Spanish

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by November 1, 2017:

- Current Curriculum Vitae
- Cover letter
- List of 3 references with contact information
- Copy of Terminal Degree and unofficial transcripts of all graduate work
- A statement demonstrating how the candidate's commitment to diversity is reflected in her/his teaching and/or scholarship
- Scholarly writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (if available)

Incomplete and/or late applications will not be considered.

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee and will be asked to request three (3) references to send letters of recommendation via email directly to:

Dr. Marisela Chávez

Department of Chicana and Chicano Studies
California State University, Dominguez Hills
mchavez@csudh.edu

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3515

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/13/2017
Date Posted: 9/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3447

University of Maryland, Baltimore County

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor position beginning August 2018 to teach courses in public policy, public administration, and public management. In addition to teaching an introductory course, the successful candidate will develop a portfolio of upper-level and possibly graduate-level courses. Consistent with the department's five-year hiring plan, preference will be given to scholars with expertise in urban, health, or environmental policy, but those with expertise in other public policy, public management, and public administration topics also will be given consideration.

The department has over 250 undergraduate majors, and 15 full-time faculty members with a wide range of research and teaching interests. Department faculty also support the MPP and PhD programs in Public Policy, an undergraduate program in Global Studies, and the Sondheim Public Affairs Scholars Program.

UMBC is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as a research university--high research activity. The university has a diverse student population of 13,640 graduate and undergraduate students and is located in the dynamic Baltimore-Washington corridor. UMBC is especially proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position.

Preference will be given to candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or Public Administration, or a nearly completed dissertation in one of these fields. Candidates must provide evidence of a focused research agenda and of high quality undergraduate teaching experience. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to fostering “inclusive excellence,” by describing a commitment or experience with research with underserved and diverse populations, a capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the learning needs of students from diverse backgrounds, or other such experience or plans.

Applicants should submit their applications by November 1, 2017 for best consideration. Please submit all application materials - cover letter describing teaching and research experiences and interests, sample syllabi, and formal statement about how the candidate's experiences and interests demonstrate a commitment to “inclusive excellence” - electronically via Interfolio. Three confidential letters of recommendation should also be submitted. Required application materials and submission instructions are available at: apply.interfolio.com/44698

For questions regarding the position, contact Professor Roy Meyers, Committee Chair at meyers@umbc.edu. UMBC is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3437

Old Dominion University

Rank: Chair of the School of Public Service

The School of Public Service (SPS) in the Strome College of Business at Old Dominion University invites applicants for Chair of the SPS at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The SPS seeks an experienced, dynamic, entrepreneurial, and engaged leader who will leverage the potential of the SPS, its faculty, and its students into a leading program in the discipline. The SPS has nine full-time faculty and houses a NASPAA-accredited MPA program, a doctoral program in public administration and policy, graduate certificates in (a) public administration and policy and (b) public procurement and contract management, and an undergraduate minor in public service. The SPS also hosts the Center for Regional Excellence, a research and community engagement start-up to address regional issues.

We welcome applicants with expertise from all areas of public administration and policy who will contribute directly to the mission of the SPS and who will help to increase its visibility, both regionally and nationally. The Chair provides academic leadership, management and budgetary authority, and overall coordination of the SPS. The Chair will enhance the SPS's research and educational programs, will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring junior faculty and students, and will encourage excellence in research and teaching that contribute to the SPS's academic programs. The position reports to the Dean of the Strome College of Business and represents the SPS on college councils, committees, and in college processes as appropriate.

The successful applicant must have a clearly defined and well-established research agenda and should have a national reputation as a scholar. The successful candidate should also have the ability to teach public administration and policy courses in our MPA and PhD programs; the ability to teach human resources is a plus. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of community engagement and show a willingness to raise the visibility of the SPS.

Candidates must have strong interpersonal and communication skills; possess an earned doctorate in public administration or related field; provide evidence of successful teaching, research, and service sufficient to warrant appointment at the rank of tenured Associate Professor or Professor; and be familiar with NASPAA accreditation standards. Previous administrative experience in a higher education setting is highly desirable.

The SPS is committed to multi-sector partnerships, which is the intersection and interaction of the public, government, nonprofit, and/or business sectors; candidates should have an interest in some aspect of multi-sector partnerships and/or multi-sector public service, such as privatization, contracting, citizen engagement, and social entrepreneurship.

Old Dominion University, located in the City of Norfolk in the metropolitan Hampton Roads region of coastal Virginia, is a state-assisted, Carnegie doctoral/research-extensive institution that serves its students and enriches the Commonwealth of Virginia, the nation, and the world through rigorous academic programs, strategic partnerships, and active civic engagement. Its 24,000 students, including over 6,000 graduate students, form a diverse and multicultural community in six academic colleges. Through a collaborative and innovative approach to education and research, the University focuses on student learning and addresses critical needs in the professions. ODU's programs are offered on the main campus, at higher education centers in the region, and at numerous distance learning sites.

All applicants should submit the following using the ODU online application portal (1) a current Curriculum Vitae, (2) a letter of application indicating administrative experience, research, teaching, service interests and accomplishments; the letter of application must explain how the applicant fits the position description, (3) documentation of teaching effectiveness, including student evaluations and a statement of teaching philosophy, (4) a statement of interest in serving as Chair, (5) contact information of three references and (6) unofficial graduate transcripts. Submit items (3)-(5) in a single document. Please submit all materials at <https://jobs.odu.edu/> Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

For other inquiries please contact:

John R. Lombard
Associate Professor and Interim Chair
jlombard@odu.edu
757-683-4809

Old Dominion University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3415

East Carolina UniversityRank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at East Carolina University, Greenville, NC, invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 13, 2018. The successful candidate will become one of the core faculty for the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration program and will be expected to teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in the classroom and online.

The Department is composed of 14 full-time faculty. It offers BS and BA degrees in political science and minors in public administration, comparative politics/international relations, leadership studies, and security studies at the undergraduate level. It is also home to the multidisciplinary studies majors in security studies and international studies. At the graduate level, it offers a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration degree, a Master of Science in Security Studies and certificates in public management and security studies. It emphasizes excellent teaching, quality research, and a tradition of service to the community, the university, and the discipline. More information about the department can be found at its home page: <http://www.ecu.edu/polsci>.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, or a related field such as Public Policy or in a policy issue area such as environmental, health, or national security, is required. Qualifying degrees must be received from appropriately accredited institutions. Teaching experience is required. Candidates must demonstrate potential for external funding and scholarly research productivity, excellent teaching, and service to the university, community, and profession. Salary is competitive, with the possibility of summer teaching.

Preferred Characteristics: Given the department's current needs, preference will be given to candidates whose teaching and research expertise are in the fields of public administration and leadership studies. Teaching experience at the undergraduate or graduate level—both in the classroom and online—is preferred. Applicants should also have demonstrated background in the scholarship and practice of engagement.

Instructions to Apply: To apply, complete a candidate profile and submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita and statement of research interests and teaching experience/philosophy online at www.jobs.ecu.edu. Arrange for three current letters of reference to be sent to: Dr. Carmine Scavo, Chair, Public Administration Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Mail Stop 564, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC 27858-4353 (scavoc@ecu.edu). Official transcripts are required upon employment. Review of applications will begin on October 23rd, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

About ECU and Greenville, NC: East Carolina University is located in Greenville, North Carolina, a rapidly growing city of approximately 90,000. Greenville is located about 80 miles east of Raleigh and is within a short drive to the Outer Banks and other Atlantic Ocean beaches. In 2012, Greenville was ranked in the top ten of Forbes Magazine's "Best Small Places for Business and Careers." Greenville is known as the health, entertainment and educational hub of eastern North Carolina.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/13/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3404University of North Carolina, Pembroke*Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology*Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Administration, Public Policy

Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration or political science. This position will be responsible for teaching methodology courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, courses in public administration and policy at the undergraduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or State and Local Politics). The area of teaching and research specialization is open, but candidates should be comfortable teaching Introduction to Public Administration at the undergraduate level both in the online setting. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching one graduate course and two undergraduate courses each semester.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or political science, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/13/2017Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 3405University of North Carolina, Pembroke*Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration

Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration with a concentration in health administration. This position will primarily be teaching in the Master of Public Administration program and with the main responsibility of providing courses for the health concentration as part of our MPA degree program. Some undergraduate teaching may be required on an as-needed basis. Courses are regularly taught in the online format, but successful candidates should expect on campus courses to be part of their rotation. Preferences will be given to candidates that can also teach human resources for public administrators and to those interested in studying rural health administration or issues in rural health policy.

Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the classroom. In addition to strong teaching, the department is seeking an individual who is interested in being an active member of the department and has career aspiration of becoming a program director in the future.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3. The Master of Public Administration program at UNCP is targeted to developing skills, research capabilities, and knowledge in working professionals within our community and across North Carolina, and as well as across the United States and abroad through our online program.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration or health administration or be ABD with a clear date of completion. Because of the program's practitioner focus, candidates with professional experience in health administration are strongly encouraged to apply.

To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3406

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor, tenure track - Leadership & Management

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Opinion

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

With this current search, the Humphrey School seeks applicants for a position at the Assistant Professor level who focus on public and/or nonprofit institutions, organizations, or networks. Candidates are especially encouraged to apply who explore the blurring of sectoral boundaries, with special attention to governments' and nonprofits'

roles, relationships between institutions and citizens, or innovation in public and nonprofit agencies. Successful applicants will teach in the School's core curriculum, engage in our master's and doctoral degree programs, and function collaboratively in a public affairs school committed to generating both rigorous and relevant scholarship. An interdisciplinary social science background that includes institutional, political, and cross-cultural knowledge and competence is highly valued. Recent PhD recipients, candidates who will have received their PhD by the time of appointment, and current pre-tenure assistant professors (early or advanced) are invited to apply.

The University of Minnesota's Humphrey School is one of the top ten public affairs schools in the country. Leadership and Management Area is particularly highly ranked nationally, garnering the #2 spot in nonprofit management and the #18 in public management according to the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings. There are two outreach and engagement centers affiliated with the Area, the Public and Nonprofit Leadership Center and the University-wide Center for Integrative Leadership.

A Ph.D. is required in public affairs, public policy, management, political science, sociology, psychology, or other relevant social science discipline. Candidates with knowledge of nonprofit management, financial management, strategic management, intergovernmental relations, integrative leadership, and collaborative governance are particularly encouraged to apply. People with professional experiences working with communities, managers, and policy makers will be a particularly good fit. We are interested in considering scholars who are focused either domestically or internationally. Additionally, we seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of race, gender, class and ethnicity.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three references, a sample of recent research, and a cover letter with a brief account of research and teaching interests and experience.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 16, 2017. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit applications online to: https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&SiteId=1&FOCUS=Applicant&JobOpeningId=318429&PostingSeq=1

Address cover and reference letters to: Search Committee for Leadership & Management Area, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, c/o Human Resources, HHH152, 301-19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Salary will be commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental, faculty life/disability insurance, retirement, and social security. The starting date for this appointment is August 27, 2018 or as soon thereafter as possible.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3374

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

University of Central Arkansas

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Arkansas invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public administration to begin August 15, 2018. Teaching responsibilities include upper-division courses in an undergraduate public administration program. The department seeks candidates who can teach upper-division public administration courses in public management, non-profit/NGO management, and local government. The ability to teach a substantive public policy course would be attractive, especially in the fields of health care policy or community and economic development policy. Beyond courses in public administration and public policy, teaching responsibilities include introductory sections of U.S. government & politics.

The successful candidate will possess excellent teaching skills and demonstrate the potential for scholarly research and publication. A Ph. D. in Public Administration or Political Science (with an emphasis in public administration) is preferred. An MPA degree is desirable. ABDs will be considered. If the candidate does not have the Ph. D. in hand, he/she will be hired as an instructor until the degree is obtained. In addition to public administration, the Department of Political Science also offers undergraduate degrees in political science and international studies.

To apply, submit a letter of application, current vita, transcripts, a scholarly writing sample, course syllabi, and teaching evaluations via UCA's online application system. Please provide three references with contact information that can supply a reference letter for you. For full consideration, please submit a complete application by October 15, 2017.

Founded in 1907, UCA has enrollment of approximately 11,500, of which more than 1,800 are graduate students. The university offers 91 undergraduate and 59 graduate certificate and degree programs, including seven doctoral programs. The student body consistently scores above the national average on the ACT exam. UCA is proud of its tradition of teaching excellence and its contributions in scholarship and creative activities. The campus is widely acclaimed for its beauty. UCA is located in Conway, Arkansas, a thriving city of approximately 65,000 in central Arkansas, and thirty minutes from Little Rock. Conway is home to several major industries, two private colleges, an excellent public school system, and strong private K12 schools. Residents have easy access to the Ouachita and Ozark National forest and pristine wildlife areas near the Buffalo National River.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3373

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public/Non-Profit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Public Law

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs
- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/11/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3378Washburn University*Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science and Public Administration

Washburn University's Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a 9-month, tenure-track position as an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science/Public Administration. A completed Ph.D. is required for the tenure-track appointment but ABDs will be considered. If the Ph. D will be earned by December, 2018.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: 1) A Ph.D. in political science with specialized training in public administration (e.g. MPA or public administration as a subfield) or a PhD in public administration with American government as a subfield. 2) The position requires teaching experience or coursework that demonstrates ability to teach core public administration and nonprofit certificate courses to undergraduate public administration majors and political science majors seeking coursework in those fields. The position also requires the ability to teach American government, and courses of the candidate's choice in the field of American government in the areas of institutions, process and or behavior. 3) evidence of university teaching experience and an active research agenda. PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Ability to teach state and local government and or empirical research methods as demonstrated through experience, coursework or teaching experience.

RESPONSIBILITIES: 12 hour teaching load, demonstrated collegiality, strong commitment to undergraduate education, and ability and motivation to engage undergraduates in active research. The position requires the cultivation and maintenance of contacts with state and local government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and relevant interest groups as well as the establishment of internships in the above mentioned organizations. The position further requires working with the rest of the faculty to attempt to grow the size of the public administration major and to participate with the department in program offerings under the auspices of the Washburn Center for Government and public service.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Review of applications begins November 6, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. Send a cover letter, vita, evidence of teaching experience, copies of transcripts, and names/address/phone and e-mail to Mrs. Cathy Tunnell at cathy.tunnell@washburn.edu (use po/pa as the subject line). Only electronic application materials will be accepted. Send questions to Dr. Linsey Moddelmog, chair of the search committee at linsey.moddelmog@washburn.edu. The successful candidate will be required to submit to a background check prior to hire and to submit official transcripts. Washburn University is an EOE. To enrich education through diversity, candidates from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. www.washburn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/6/2017Salary: AnyeJobs ID: 3346Nanyang Technological University*Rank: Non-Tenure Track Lecturer/Senior Lecturer Position in Public Administration and Public Policy*Specializations: Central Asia, East Asia, Southeast Asia

Public Policy and Global Affairs (PPGA)

School of Social Sciences

Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Young and research-intensive, Nanyang Technological University (NTU Singapore) is ranked 11th globally. It is also placed 1st among the world's best young universities.

The School of Social Sciences (SSS) offers undergraduate and graduate degree programmes in a full range of disciplines and actively promotes interdisciplinary learning and research.

Non-Tenure Track Lecturer/Senior Lecturer Position in Public Administration and Public Policy

The School invites applications for a Lecturer or Senior Lecturer position in Public Administration and Public Policy, broadly conceived. This is a renewable non-tenure track position in the Public Policy and Global Affairs (PPGA) programme. PPGA is a major programme in SSS. It attracts excellent students to its BA, MA, and PhD degree programmes. It also provides General Elective Courses for the entire university community.

The University strongly emphasizes effective teaching and impactful research and provides ample support for both.

Selection will be based on evidence of potential for high-quality research and effective teaching. Candidates should possess a Ph.D.

The successful candidate is expected to teach and develop courses at both undergraduate and graduate levels, including General Education courses, as well as supervise graduate students and undergraduate projects. Courses that he/she may be expected to teach include, Introduction to Public Administration; Theories and Methods in Public Administration and Public Policy; Public Policy Making Process; Comparative Public Administration with special reference to Asia; Public Organization and Management; and Strategic Innovation.

For further information about the School, and PPGA, please refer to the following website:

<http://www.sss.ntu.edu.sg/Programmes/ppga/Pages/Home.aspx>

Emoluments

The Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The University offers a comprehensive fringe benefit package. Information on general terms and conditions of service is available in the section on Terms and Conditions (<http://www.ntu.edu.sg/NSS/NSSHumanResources/Pages/General-Terms-for-Faculty-Positions.aspx>) of Service for Academic Appointments.

Application Procedure

To apply, please refer to the Guidelines for Submitting an Application for Faculty Appointment (<http://www.ntu.edu.sg/ohr/career/submit-an-application/Pages/Faculty-Positions.aspx>) and email your application package (consisting of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, personal particulars form, a statement of current and future research interests, teaching statement, effectiveness of teaching (if any) and selected publications (if available), and the names and email addresses of three potential referees) to:

Chair, Search Committee
C/O Public Policy and Global Affairs
School of Social Sciences?
Nanyang Technological University?
14 Nanyang Drive, #04-70?
Singapore 637332?

Email: ppga-search@ntu.edu.sg

Applications sent via email should include a reference to "Lecturer / Senior Lecturer (Public Policy and Global Affairs)" in the subject line. Please send your enquiries about the position to the above email address.

Closing date for application is October 15, 2017. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3342

Evergreen State College

Rank: Public Administration Faculty

The Evergreen State College is seeking a regular, full-time faculty member to teach in the Master of Public Administration (MPA) Program. Successful candidates will have broad knowledge of the field of public administration, including expertise in subfields related to our three concentrations: Public & Nonprofit Administration, Public Policy, and Tribal Governance. All MPA faculty teach in each of the three concentrations in our evening and weekend program. The successful candidate will assist with developing contemporary curriculum across all three concentrations. They will team teach the core courses in the MPA curriculum (Context of Public Administration; Doing Democratic Public Administration; Policy, Finance, and Budgeting for Public Administration; Analytical Techniques for Public Service; and Capstone), as well as elective courses. A typical teaching load is one core course (6 credits) plus one elective course (4 credits) per quarter for each of the three quarters of the academic year. Experience working with diverse and underserved populations is highly desirable.

Most faculty will teach in full-time, team-taught, 16-credit programs connected by a particular theme or line of inquiry. Faculty are generally responsible for evaluating 25 students/quarter, though their programs may include up to 50-75 students, depending on the size of their teaching team. This arrangement allows for in-depth, interdisciplinary and experiential learning, and the building of strong learning communities. Faculty are also responsible for advising students as they reflect on their learning process, develop a pathway of study, and formulate their own areas of concentration.

Our teaching is student-centered, which means we are interested in helping students develop strong skills in critical thinking, problem solving, communication and collaborative work. Because over 80% of our students come from underserved and marginalized groups, we are particularly invested in approaches to teaching that emphasize diversity and equity, that provide opportunities for challenge and growth, and that foster a learning environment where all are welcome and all can learn from each other.

A complete list of faculty responsibilities can be found in the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D or DPA degree in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field (ABD candidates will be considered)
- Capacity to teach in a variety of courses in a graduate public administration program

Preferred Qualifications

- Experience working with diverse and underserved populations
- Experience working with Tribal Nations, Tribal governments, or other Tribal organizations
- Teaching experience, preferably at the graduate-level
- Professional experience (2+ years)
- Experience doing applied research
- Team-teaching experience/experience working in teams
- Experience mentoring and advising

See and apply to job announcement at <http://evergreen.peopleadmin.com/postings/1600>.

Review of complete applications begins October 15, 2017. The posting may close to new application materials any time after this date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3324

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of political theory beginning in the fall of 2018.

The area of specialization is open, but the successful candidate should be able to teach courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. We also strongly prefer a candidate who is willing and able to teach graduate-level courses for our growing Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered, but all degree requirements should be completed by August 1, 2018.
- Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Responsibilities:

Teaching duties may include Introduction to Political Theory, American National Government, Classical and Medieval Political Thought, Modern Political Thought, American Political Thought, Executive Process, and other upper-level courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. Teaching courses for the MPA program is also expected.

The successful candidate will also be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching.

Special Instruction to Applicants:

Applicants should apply online at <https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/7109>

All applicants should submit 1) a cover letter, 2) a current CV, 3) statement of teaching and research, 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness, 5) transcripts, and 6) one writing sample.

Three letters of recommendations should be directly mailed to: Dr. Choong-Nam Kang, Chair, Department of Political Science and Sociology, Faculty Hall 5A, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Murray State University is an equal education and employment opportunity, M/F/D, AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3323

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3308

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Administration

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for professor and endowed chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required.

Successful applicants will teach in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9587>.

The committee will begin considering applications on September 15, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3287

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Assistant Professor

UA Little Rock's School of Public Affairs invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration (position #R96987) beginning August 16, 2018. Teaching responsibilities for this position are primarily within our NASPAA-accredited MPA program and in our Graduate Certificate program in Nonprofit Management. A Ph.D. or DPA in Public Administration or a related field is required. ABD's will be considered if degree will be completed by the time of employment, August 16, 2018. UA Little Rock offers a competitive salary and attractive fringe benefits.

The successful candidate will be joining a collegial and active faculty in the School of Public Affairs. Applicants with an active research agenda in public management and/or nonprofit management and who can build on our strengths as an urban university are especially encouraged to apply. Professional experience in state and local government or nonprofit management will strengthen the application. Experience in teaching public administration courses in an online or hybrid format is also desirable. Our MPA program has strong ties to state and local governments and non-profit organizations in the Central Arkansas region and throughout the state.

The School of Public Affairs is part of the College of Social Sciences & Communication (CSSC), a community of teacher-scholars and professionals whose mission is to apply theory and research to drive social change and inspire human expression, reflection, and interconnection (see ualr.edu/cssc).

UA Little Rock is a research intensive doctoral institution with an urban/metropolitan university mission. Founded in 1927 and part of the University of Arkansas system since 1969, UA Little Rock serves a diverse population of roughly 11,000 students. Little Rock is the capital city and the largest metropolitan area in Arkansas, boasting affordable housing, proximity to wilderness and recreational areas, and numerous cultural and civic attractions, including the William J. Clinton Presidential Library, the Arkansas Studies Institute, the Arkansas Arts Center, the Arkansas Repertory Theater, and the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra.

Application materials must be submitted through the online application system. Additional information about this position and application requirements are available under the Jobs link on the Human Resources' website at <http://ualr.edu/humanresources/>. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Submit a letter of application (referencing Position #R96987), curriculum vitae, and evidence of successful teaching (including sample syllabi and/or student evaluations), writing sample, and the names of three references whom we may contact for letters of recommendation. Incomplete applications cannot be considered; any materials not submitted as requested using the online application system renders an application incomplete. Applications will be accepted until October 15, 2017.

This position is subject to a pre-employment criminal and financial history background check. A criminal conviction or arrest pending adjudication and/or adverse financial history information alone shall not disqualify an applicant in the absence of a relationship to the requirements of the position. Criminal and financial background check information will be used in a confidential, non-discriminatory manner consistent with state and federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3290

University of Montana

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor, Public Administration

UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA; Lecturer in Public Administration

The University of Montana invites applications for a Lecturer in Public Administration with the appointment beginning January 2018. The position is renewable for up to three years, contingent upon funding and performance reviews. The Master of Public Administration is one of the most successful graduate programs in the College of Humanities and Sciences at UM, attracting both in-state and out-of-state students. The successful candidate will be expected to teach public administration courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels online and in-person. The area of expertise in public administration is open; however, applicants with an interest in American Government, policy analysis, public administration ethics, program evaluation, public administration research methods, human resource management, and/or performance measurement are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to applicants who can demonstrate promise of excellence in teaching campus and online courses, commitment to professional service, and promise of high-quality scholarship.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Administration is expected by date of hire.

How to Apply

Priority Application Deadline: September 30, 2017.

Applications received by 9/30 will be guaranteed consideration. Application review will begin on 10/1/17 and continue until the position is filled.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below. Applications must be submitted via the UM Jobs system at <https://umjobs.silkroad.com>.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below.

*Please note: only five (5) attachments are allowed per application. Please combine documents accordingly.

- Letter of Interest – addressing qualifications (including research interests, ability to teach online and in person)
- Detailed curriculum vita
- Official graduate transcripts
- Teaching Evaluations
- Professional References – names and contact information for three (3) professional references.

For additional information, please contact Professor Sara Rinfret, MPA Director (sara.rinfret@umontana.edu).

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3264

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latino Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latino Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration, with a focus on local government, beginning in August 2018. Requirements: PhD in Political Science (primary focus in Public Administration), Public Administration, or a related field; ability to teach undergraduate courses in public administration, state and local government, and graduate courses in our NAASPA-accredited MPA program; capacity to administer our robust undergraduate political science internship program; willingness to connect with our community advisory board; interest in contributing to the public administration curriculum at the graduate and undergraduate level; a willingness to engage in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan; and, a strong commitment to teach undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Those with practitioner experience are encouraged to apply. Candidates should provide evidence of teaching experience if available and their willingness to provide instruction through a variety of approaches, including online. Review of applications will begin September 20, 2017; while preference will be given to applications received by that date, the review will continue until the position is filled. Applications should be uploaded to https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc_faculty/jobdetail.ftl?job=17000000QP Dossiers should include a letter of interest; current curriculum vitae; evidence of teaching effectiveness, including sample syllabi for relevant courses; a philosophy of teaching; a statement of your research agenda; and copies of transcripts. The names and contact information for three references will be requested. Inquiries may be made to Dr. Irina Khmelko at 423.425.4281. Further information about the department is available at <http://www.utc.edu/pssp>.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second largest school in the University of Tennessee System, serving a diverse student body of more than 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions and is a driving force for achieving excellence, embracing diversity, inspiring positive change, and enriching the community. Since its founding as Chattanooga University in 1886, UTC has developed a reputation for excellence build on an unusual blend of the private and public traditions of American higher education. For more than 83 years, the university was a private school. In 1969, UTC became part of the state university system. Today, UTC is on a journey to excellence - boldly embracing a passion for excellence in all things and focused on changing lives and transforming communities. The UTC commitment—each and every day—is to earn the trust and confidence of those we serve. Our goal is to make a difference in our community and in the lives of our students.

Chattanooga, the fourth largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee near the border of Georgia at the junction of four interstate highways. The city has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront. Chattanooga also has the fastest internet in the country. Home to the first Gig Internet in the United States, Chattanooga has a 100% fiber network that links every home and business in a 600-square mile area. Companies like Unum, McKee, U.S. Xpress, Volkswagen, Coke United and Amazon.com have chosen to set up shop in Chattanooga. Attractions such as the Tennessee Aquarium, Lookout Mountain, Civil War battlefield sites, the African American Museum, and the Appalachian Trail bring thousands of people to the area, as do events like the Riverbend Festival, Nightfall, Jazzanooga, the Creative Discovery Museum for Children, and the Southern Writers Conference. Chattanooga is the home to the seven-time NCAA Southern Conference Football Champions, The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Mocs. People who love the outdoors use Chattanooga as a base for hang-gliding, bass fishing, mountain climbing and caving expeditions; the beautiful Smoky Mountains and Tennessee River support the greatest variety of flora of any area in the United States. Chattanooga also has a long and rich past with regard to diversity, which includes Native American heritage, Civil War history, and the Civil Rights movement. Chattanooga is also just a two hour (or less) drive from Atlanta, Nashville, Knoxville, and Birmingham.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3164

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor

Political Science: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-19 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major in Public Administration and courses for the MA program and have substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis; develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching, including the introduction to Public Administration and other advanced courses that contribute to the public administration major; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; take part in the undergraduate major in public administration, teach related courses for the MA program, contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with a specialty and/or an active research agenda in nonprofit organizations and have a background in quantitative methodology and "big data."

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4587>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3127

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3130

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor/ associate professor in the field of public management.

The School has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching expertise focus on applying innovative research on management to find solutions to important public policy problems. We are open to applicants whose work focuses on either domestic or international/comparative management.

We expect the applicant to have a Ph.D. by the time they start; the Ph.D. could be in political science, public administration, policy, sociology, economics or related fields.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/9413>. The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. A small number of candidates may be interviewed at the American Political Science Association meeting in San Francisco. Applicants who submit their applications by August 25th who wish to be considered for APSA interviews should indicate their availability in their cover letter.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3104

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3116

National University of Singapore

Rank: Lectureship in Comparative Politics, Governance & Public Policy, and/or Methods

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for an educator-track Lectureship or Senior Lectureship in Political Science to teach research methods as well as other modules in either Comparative Politics or Governance and Public Policy for our undergraduate curriculum. The teaching load is six modules per academic year (three per semester), of which about two or three should be in methods.

Lectureships at NUS are career positions in which advancement (to open-contracted Associate Professor and Professor) is possible. Appointments are for three years initially and are renewable on an ongoing basis, subject to good performance and departmental teaching needs. Compensation and benefits are similar to those of faculty members on the tenure track and are competitive.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science. The Department recognizes four main subfields: Comparative Politics; Governance and Public Policy; International Relations; and Political Theory. The Department also hosts the programme in Global Studies.

Candidates should send a CV, a letter detailing their research and teaching interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox5@nus.edu.sg. Candidates should also submit sample syllabi, student evaluations, and other evidence of teaching quality. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and livable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3041

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Nonprofit Management

Nonprofit Management Faculty Position

The Department of Public Service and Administration, Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant or tenured associate professor in nonprofit management to teach in its Master of Public Service and Administration Program. Candidates with expertise in all fields related to nonprofit organizations, philanthropy, civil society and voluntary action will be considered. Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. by the beginning of employment in September 2018 and demonstrate evidence of a commitment to both high quality research and teaching in a professional school of government and public service. Candidates will support the Program's nonprofit management track.

Applicants should send a formal letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and names of three references to:

Prof. William A. Brown
 c/o Ms. Kimberly Reeves
 (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolpsaa-facultysearch@tamu.edu)
 The Bush School of Government & Public Service
 Texas A&M University
 4220 TAMU
 College Station, TX 77843-4220.

Review of applications will begin on October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications from women, minorities and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2995

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2988

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Graduate School of Public and International Affairs (GSPIA) at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications and nominations for two (2) tenure-stream faculty positions at the assistant professor level in public policy or public administration. Both appointments begin Fall term 2018. A PhD in public policy, public administration, public management, or social science field (political science, sociology, economics, or related field) is expected at the time of the appointment.

Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests related to public administration, public policy and/or public management, broadly defined. The area of specialization is open, but candidates are expected to teach in the school and program core, as well as substantive policy or management area of research. Evidence of a promising research agenda leading to high quality publications in any of the wide variety of topics related to public administration and public policy is essential. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the positions are filled. Candidates who would enhance the diversity of the school, including women and minorities, are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualified applicants can submit their materials online through email attachments (see email address below). Submitted materials should include a letter of application describing the applicant's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, two samples of scholarly writing, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations (if available):

Search Committee Chair
c/o Mary Ann Gebet, Executive Assistant to the Dean
Graduate School of Public and International Affairs
University of Pittsburgh
MPAGSPIA@pitt.edu

Applications must be submitted by November 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2985

University of Cincinnati

Rank: Associate Professor and Director of the Master of Public Administration Program

The Department of Political Science at the University of Cincinnati invites applications from candidates to serve as Director of a re-established Master of Public Administration program and as a faculty member at the rank of Associate Professor with tenure in Political Science. This appointment is scheduled to begin August 15, 2018. Area of research specialization is open. Candidates whose work would contribute to university commitments to research on social justice, urban politics, and/or social inequity are encouraged to apply. While the appointment will be in Political Science, interested candidates would have the opportunity to establish affiliations in related departments. Candidates for this position must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration or Public Policy or other relevant field, and have a demonstrated record of successful teaching, research, and service.

Preferred candidates will have had direct involvement in a NASPAA-accredited MPA program, and be familiar with the accreditation process. The successful candidate will be expected to manage the restoration of the MPA program and strategically lead the program through accreditation. Responsibilities include conducting research, teaching core courses in the MPA program, and providing administrative oversight of the program.

Interested and qualified candidates must complete our online application located at <https://jobs.uc.edu> (Requisition #19789). In addition to the online application, candidates must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample of published or forthcoming research, evidence of successful teaching, contact information for three references, and a one-page statement addressing how your past or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance the University of Cincinnati's commitment to inclusive excellence, <http://www.uc.edu/inclusion.html>. Please direct any questions to Professor David Niven, Chair, Master of Public Administration Director Search Committee, at david.niven@uc.edu. We will begin reviewing applications September 10, 2017. However, we will continue to accept and review applications until the position is filled.

*APSA on-site interviews will be conducted between the hours of 12 Noon to 6 pm on Friday, September 1st and Saturday, September 2nd.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2953

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Urban Politics, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Urban Studies, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and urban government and politics. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in urban policy and/or local government. Particular area(s) of specialization may include poverty, racial segregation, transportation, housing, infrastructure, homelessness, crime, education, collaborative governance, and/or economic development.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 6/26/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 2920

Lamar University

Rank: Jack Brooks Endowed Chair of Government & Public Service

Specializations: Congress, Leadership Studies, Legislative Studies

The Department of Political Science is seeking a scholar with outstanding teaching and research potential for the Jack Brooks Chair in Government and Public Service beginning August 15, 2018.

The holder of the Chair will have a tenure track appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Department of Political Science. The Chair will teach six hours per semester, including graduate seminars and undergraduate courses in Congress, Legislative Processes and Leadership.

In addition to a nine-month salary, which is dependent on qualifications and experience, the Brooks Chair includes a summer research stipend.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or Government. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials. Preference will be given to PhD candidates with advanced degrees in Political Science or Government and specializing in leadership studies or the legislature.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students; maintain an active service agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: Political Science Search Committee Chairperson, <https://jobs.lamar.edu>

If your letters of recommendation are confidential, please have the letters mailed to the address above or emailed to: jobs@lamar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/12/2018
Date Posted: 6/19/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2894

PUBLIC LAW

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track)
 Department of Political Science
 Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in judicial politics/public law to begin Fall 2018. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2018. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications should be submitted online at www.lsusystemcareers.lsu.edu & <http://www.lsusystemcareers.lsu.edu/>>, Req. number is R00017208. Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to popare@lsu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3502

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3532

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3533

Ithaca College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Environmental Policy

The Ithaca College Department of Environmental Studies and Sciences invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Environmental Policy. We seek a dedicated teacher/scholar eager to work closely with undergraduates. With this hire we are also interested to diversify our faculty and strengthen our commitment to social justice and the environment. Start date is August 16, 2018. Review of applications will begin October 18, 2017.

Responsibilities

- (1) Teach an annual 18-credit load of undergraduate courses (~3/semester). These may include an introduction to U.S. environmental policy, an upper-level elective with a lab or field component, and an introduction to the environmental crisis for non-majors.
- (2) Maintain active scholarship involving undergraduate collaborators.
- (3) Participation in service at the Department level, as well as at the level of either the School, the College, or the off-campus community.

Desired Topical Expertise and/or Interests (including practical/professional experience): U.S. environmental policy/regulation/law; environmental or climate justice; international environmental policy/regulation/law; global environmental governance; regional urban and/or rural planning; Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and their use in environmental policy, planning, or justice; GIS in upper-level classroom, laboratory, or field teaching; and professional experience in any of the above areas

Contributions to Inclusive Excellence: We encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups, and we are interested to read or hear about each applicant's potential to make positive contributions to College-wide goals of inclusive excellence. Applicants are encouraged to articulate their experience, expertise, or interest in any of the following: Management of issues of diversity, marginalization, or inclusion at the level of the institution or higher education in general; Facilitation of discussions on diversity, marginalization, or inclusion in the classroom; Service to the institution or community in promotion of inclusive excellence; Experience teaching in ways that meet the varied learning needs and interests of a diverse student population; Commitment to encouraging and promoting success in all students, regardless of aptitude or achievement and any relevant experience or record of professional engagement with groups and communities underrepresented in the academy application includes a cover letter, CV, teaching statement, scholarship statement, syllabus, and list of three references. With questions about the online application, please call the Office of Human Resources at (607) 274-8000. With questions about the position, please write to Jake Brenner, chair of the search committee, at jbrenner@ithaca.edu.

To view the full position description and apply, visit <http://ithaca.edu/jobs/> and <http://ithaca.edu/jobs/>. A complete

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3462

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3436

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring

American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
 Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3429

Harvard University

Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellows Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JANUARY 17, 2018

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $66,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Harvard University Center for the Environment expects to award approximately six fellowships for the 2018 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend biweekly dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

- Candidates for 2018 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2014 and August 2018. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2018.)
- Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.
- Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.
- Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.
- Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and post-docs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with his or her thesis advisor.

- Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
- Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

1. Please complete the online application form found at <http://environment.harvard.edu/application> by January 17, 2018 and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs:
 - a. curriculum vitae including list of publications;
 - b. detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to a Harvard residential environmental fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately). Note: While applicants should discuss the proposal with their potential faculty hosts, the final product should clearly be the work of the applicant; and
 - c. up to three publications/writing samples.
2. Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.
3. A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining his or her commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space.

Applicants are encouraged to ask their referees and hosts to email letters of reference as PDFs or, if necessary, as Word documents attached to the emails. Referees and hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Jean Gauthier at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

If you have questions about the fellowship or application process, please contact:
Jean Gauthier
Harvard University Center for the Environment
26 Oxford Street, 4th Floor
Cambridge MA 02138
617-495-0368
jgauthier@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 1/17/2018
Date Posted: 9/11/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3375

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public/Non-Profit Management
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Public Law

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs

- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3378

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track), Department of Law, Societies & Justice

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

Law and Society Studies. The Department of Law, Societies, and Justice invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor. Preference will be given to candidates with a teaching and research program that complements and extends one or more of the Department's existing emphases in the following areas: comparative legal analysis; legal mobilization and consciousness; punishment and social control; and rights in theory and practice. The Department seeks candidates who demonstrate excellence in research, teaching, and a commitment to building a more inclusive faculty.

The successful candidate will possess either a 100 percent appointment in Law, Societies, and Justice, or a joint appointment with another unit in the social sciences. University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research and service. Candidates should have a Ph.D. or equivalent foreign degree in a relevant social science discipline prior to the appointment start date. This position has a 9-month service period.

Law, Societies, and Justice offers an interdisciplinary bachelor's degree, and a graduate-level certificate program for students with research interests in socio-legal studies. Its faculty are trained across the social sciences, and most possess a joint appointment with another unit. The successful candidate will be required to teach an introductory-level course on socio-legal studies and to develop a suite of upper level courses commensurate with the candidate's expertise.

Application Instructions

Applications should include a current CV, a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, samples of publications or other work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be electronically submitted to <http://apply.interfolio.com/44362> with which letters will be solicited for separate submission. Priority will be given to applications received before October 5, 2017. Questions about the application process should be directed to: Professor Katherine Beckett, Search Committee Chair; kbeckett@uw.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/5/2017

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3347

University of Connecticut

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor of Law

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The University of Connecticut School of Law solicits applications for one or two tenured or tenure-track faculty positions to commence in fall 2018. We are considering candidates with a broad range of scholarly interests, including with those with a terminal degree (such as a Ph.D.) in a field other than law, so long as their research and teaching address questions relating to the law.

The School of Law is the top-ranked public law school in the Northeast, with a nationally landmarked campus in Hartford, and part of one of the nation's top research universities. The School is committed to building and supporting a vibrant, multicultural and diverse community of students, faculty and staff. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer, and in keeping with our strong commitment to build a diverse community, we encourage applications from such traditionally under-represented populations as members of minority groups, people with disabilities, veterans and women.

Successful candidates will teach courses; advise students on independent projects; complete research in their academic areas of interest; and publish scholarship. As members of the faculty, successful candidates will participate in faculty management via committee work; participate in national organizations related to their area of research/scholarship interest; attend and speak at national, regional and local conferences and other events; work closely with other departments and faculty; and perform related duties as required.

Minimum Qualifications: A J.D. from an accredited institution or equivalent terminal degree such as a Ph.D. in a relevant field (equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable); a demonstrated capacity for serious and sustained scholarly work of a quality commensurate with, or leading to, a tenured position; a well-defined research and teaching agenda; and demonstrated skills to be an effective teacher.

Preferred Qualifications: Expertise and ability to teach in one or more of the following areas: inequalities related to race and ethnicity, advanced constitutional law, criminal procedure, commercial law, intellectual property, trusts and estates, evidence, and other areas of specialization; the completion of one or more works of scholarship that demonstrate intellectual depth and facility with written expression; and a demonstrated ability to contribute through research, teaching, and public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the law school.

This is a full time 9-month position. Salary and position rank at Associate or Full Professor will be commensurate with background, qualifications, and experience. Candidates should expect to work at the Law School located in Hartford, Connecticut.

To Apply: Applications must be submitted online at <http://hr.uconn.edu/faculty>. Please upload a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a list of references, a writing sample, recent teaching evaluations, if any, and a research agenda.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3326

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3308

SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Seton Hall University is seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. The appointment begins in Fall of 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (e.g., Government) is required. In addition to the Ph.D., a J.D. would be helpful but is not required.

The ideal candidate will be expected to teach courses in public law and American politics, such as Introduction to U.S. Law, Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, The Judicial System, and U.S. Politics. The ability to teach research methods is a plus. The normal teaching load is three courses per semester. In addition, the successful applicant will be expected to advise pre-law students.

Relevant published research and teaching interests should reflect innovative and discipline-specific topics. Candidates are encouraged to forward examples of current research and published papers.

For consideration, please submit a letter of application focusing on teaching experience and philosophy, curriculum vitae, and the names, addresses (including e-mail), and telephone numbers of three references at:

<http://jobs.shu.edu/cw/en-us/job/493063/assistant-professor-for-political-science-department>

Thank you for your interest in working with Seton Hall University. All applicants must create an online application to be considered for any open position.

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs is comprised of an undergraduate political science major, an undergraduate minor in philanthropy and the nonprofit sector, and the MPA program. The MPA program has concentrations in Public Sector Management, Health Policy and Nonprofit Management, which has been consistently nationally ranked by U.S. News & World Report. Our department's outstanding Faculty have diverse backgrounds in political science, public administration, economics, and nonprofit management and opportunities for collaboration abound within a supportive and collegial environment.

Seton Hall University is the oldest U.S. Diocesan University, providing academic excellence to its students for over 150 years. Applicants should understand Seton Hall's Catholic Mission, see (http://www.shu.edu/catholic_mission/index.cfm). The university is located 14 miles southwest of New York City and offers students the resources of a large university and the attention of a small college.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3307

Northwestern University

Rank: American Politics-US Law/Courts

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Development, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Northwestern University invites applications for a faculty position in the field of American Politics/institutions at the rank of assistant professor.

The department seeks candidates specializing in law/courts, open to approach (jurisprudence, quantitative analysis, American Political Development, Race Ethnicity and Politics). The successful applicant will join a department with a strong consensus view of political science as a multi-method discipline.

Applications received by October 13, 2017 will be guaranteed full consideration. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. The proposed starting date is September, 2018.

Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, a letter of interest, writing sample, 3 letters of reference and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Applications and supporting documents will be accepted only by online submission at <http://www.polisci.northwestern.edu/about/faculty-searches.html>. For questions and assistance, please contact Jill Rubin Decremmer at j-rubin4@northwestern.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3300

Temple University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Constitutional Law/Law and Society/American Political Development

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Social Movements, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track position in constitutional law/law and society and/or American Political Development for an appointment beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates pursuing a program of theoretically-informed empirical research on constitutional law, law and society, with a preference for approaches in American Political Development. We especially encourage candidates who are able to teach courses on legal ethics, legal institutions and social movements to apply.

The Political Science Department at Temple University has a strong, research-active faculty, a large undergraduate major, and robust M.A. and Ph.D. programs. We are affiliated with Global Studies and a new Master's in Public Policy program. Temple University is also home to the Beasley School of Law.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching. Evidence of external grant/fellowship support is a plus. Temple University, an urban research university in the heart of Philadelphia, values those who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues. Candidates at the entry level are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to our Interfolio link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44153>. Dossiers will be reviewed as they arrive, but to guarantee full consideration, applications must be received by September 30, 2017. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3248

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2018. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in political science with a primary field of Public Law. A secondary field in Comparative Politics is preferred. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will help direct the Legal Studies concentration within the Government major, work closely with other departments within the university (primarily the Criminal Justice program), and teach introductory, advanced undergraduate, and Master's level courses in the area of Public Law such as "Law for Women", "Constitutional Rights and Criminal Justice," and "Constitutional Law". Candidates will also advise students within the Legal Studies concentration and serve the department, university, and profession.

Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. by the appointment date.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers Bachelor and Master's degrees in Government (with Politics and Legal Studies concentrations) as well as a Bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has five Government faculty members (plus History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 100 undergraduate Government majors and 15 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, C.V., evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to facultyjobs@twu.edu. Please include the job code (IRC11435) in the subject line of the email. Review of applications will begin on November 1.

Texas Woman's University strives to provide an educational environment that affirms the rights and dignity of each individual, fosters diversity, and encourages a respect for the differences among persons. Discrimination or harassment of any kind is considered inappropriate. TWU is a "Tobacco Free Campus".

Texas Woman's University is committed to equal opportunity in employment and education and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national or ethnic origin, age, veteran's status, genetic information or against qualified disabled persons.

Individuals may qualify for a Veteran's Employment Preference or a Former Foster Youth Employment Preference at Texas Woman's University over other applicants for the same position who do not have a greater qualification. If you believe you may qualify, click here for more information and instructions on how to claim an employment preference for this position: <http://www.twu.edu/recruitment-selection/6589.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3246

The Ohio State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Regulation and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Specializations: Regulatory Policy, Energy Policy, Economic Policy

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University welcomes applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant level in the area of Regulation and Public Policy. We especially encourage applications from scholars who study topics such as regulatory and governance issues surrounding public utilities and other critical infrastructure, smart technology, mobility and transportation, sustainable development, or the role of regulation in achieving a sustainable and resilient economy. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches.

This position is partially funded by Ohio State's Discovery Themes Initiative, a significant faculty hiring investment in key thematic areas in which the university can build on its culture of academic collaboration to make a global impact. The successful candidate will join a highly collaborative interdisciplinary community of scholars in the Sustainable and Resilient Economy (SRE) program (<https://discovery.osu.edu/focus-areas/sustainable-economy/>) including faculty from Social and Behavioral Sciences, Environmental Sciences, Business, Law, and Engineering. The SRE program seeks to advance sustainability science by developing a more holistic understanding of sustainable and resilient production and consumption systems, human-environment interactions, and innovations in sustainable technologies and governance. Successful applicants will be expected to participate in collaborative teams and interdisciplinary research on sustainability and resilience topics.

The position begins fall 2018. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed or be nearing completion of all Ph.D. degree requirements. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in public affairs, public policy, public administration, sociology, political science, economics, geography, law, business or a related field. Highly desirable candidates will have practical experience, university teaching experience, a strong potential for developing a successful research portfolio, and/or demonstrated success in working with diverse populations and a commitment to diversifying the profession.

Application Instructions

Applications will be evaluated as received and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by September 22, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration. To apply, please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three professional reference letters to Glenn-SRERegulation@osu.edu. Alternatively, materials can be mailed to: Office of the Dean, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, 350 Page Hall, 1810 College Road, Columbus, OH, 43210.

About the Glenn College and OSU

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs was recently ranked 25th overall among other graduate professional programs in public affairs. Our curricular offerings include the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration and In-Career Master of Arts in Public Policy and Management; dual master's degrees with Law, City and Regional Planning, Public Health, Environment and Natural Resources, Social Work, Business Administration, Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics, Slavic and East European Studies, and Latin American Studies; a joint degree in Arts Policy and Administration; a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Management; a B.A. in Public Management, Leadership, and Policy; a B.S. in Public Policy Analysis, and a variety of undergraduate and graduate minors. The College also offers a wide array of non-degree management and leadership training seminars, programs and certificates, serving over 2,000 mid-career professionals each year. For more information about the Glenn College, please visit our website: glenn.osu.edu.

The Ohio State University, the flagship public university of Ohio, is located in the state's capital, Columbus, providing direct access to public sector organizations and practitioners from all levels of government, as well as a large and vibrant nonprofit and philanthropic community. The Glenn College is housed in a state-of-the-art building in the center of the University campus. Columbus is the 14th largest city in the United States and offers many cultural and recreational amenities. It was recently rated by Forbes as the #1 opportunity city in the country and #7 in best cities for young professionals. Money

Magazine rated it #3 for best cities for millennials. Ohio ranks #5 for states with the most Fortune 500 headquarters.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/22/2017
Date Posted: 8/16/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3216

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant Professor – Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law/Law and Courts at the assistant professor level. The position will begin in the fall of 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in American courts, empirical legal studies, public law, and/or judicial behavior. The successful applicant will primarily teach undergraduate courses on American law, including constitutional law.

Successful candidates should have rigorous methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applicants should also have a well thought out research agenda. Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars. With over 600 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, the UH Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000255. To apply, please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Lydia Tiede, Chair, Public Law Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Houston.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3204

University of St. Thomas

Rank: Assistant Professor of Judicial Politics

Specializations: Judicial Politics, American Politics, Research Methods

The Political Science Department at the University of St. Thomas invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 1, 2018. We are seeking a political scientist with a specialization in Judicial Politics and the ability to teach courses such as Judicial Process, Constitutional Powers of Government, Constitutional Rights and Liberties, and Seminar in Judicial Politics. Candidates will also be expected to teach our introductory course, Government and Politics, and an undergraduate research methods course. This position will also include responsibility for pre-law advising and coaching/advising the university's Mock Trial team.

Established in 1885, the University of St. Thomas is located in the major metropolitan area of Minneapolis-St. Paul, and is Minnesota's largest private university.

Qualifications:

A PhD in political science is strongly preferred. Candidates who are ABD (who would be eligible for an initial rank of instructor) will be considered. All applicants must have demonstrable skills necessary for excellence in teaching.

Inspired by Catholic intellectual tradition, the University of St. Thomas educates students to be morally responsible leaders who think critically, act wisely, and work skillfully to advance the common good.

The University of St. Thomas is committed to the principles of diversity and inclusion, and the goals of affirmative action/equal opportunity. The University welcomes nominations and applications from a diverse applicant pool. AA/EOE

Special Instructions to Candidates:

Apply online at <http://jobs.stthomas.edu> and upload the following materials to your profile:

- 1) Cover letter,
- 2) Curriculum Vitae,
- 3) Copy of academic transcript,
- 4) Statement of teaching philosophy and experience, including evidence of teaching effectiveness,
- 5) Description of research agenda,
- 6) Writing Sample.

Applicants should also arrange for three letters of recommendation to be forwarded to Dr. Angela High-Pippert, Chair, University of St. Thomas, 2115 Summit Avenue, JRC 432, St. Paul, MN 55105.

Please copy/paste your cover letter into the online system when applying.

Contact Dr. Angela High-Pippert (ahighippe@stthomas.edu) with questions or to request an informal interview at the 2017 APSA conference in San Francisco.

To ensure full consideration for the position, all application materials must be received by Friday, October 13, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3011

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in American judicial politics beginning August 2018. We seek candidates who are able to teach courses in Constitutional Law (including powers, rights, and liberties), the judicial process, and other courses related to American judicial politics. The successful candidate will show evidence of teaching excellence, will have an active research agenda supported by published research or the strong promise of such publication, and will have experience to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Preference will be given to applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. in political science by the appointment date. Department representatives will conduct screening interviews at the APSA meeting in San Francisco. Applicants interested in interviewing at APSA should contact Michael Strausz, Search Committee Chair, at michael.strausz@tcu.edu. Full review of applications begins on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants must submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, summary of recent teaching evaluations, an unofficial transcript, a writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and three approximately 1-page statements detailing: 1) their research agenda; 2) their teaching philosophy and; 3) the ways in which their teaching, research, service and/or other relevant experiences have prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. All application materials other than letters of recommendation must be submitted through the TCU online application system at https://tcu.igreentree.com/CSS_faculty. Have three confidential letters of recommendation emailed directly from the reviewer to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu.

The TCU political science department has 16 full time members and more than 300 undergraduate majors. It offers three undergraduate degrees and its and its faculty members participate in department-run programs such as pre-law advising, Moot Court, and Washington Internships, as well as interdisciplinary programs including Women and Gender Studies and Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies.

TCU is an independent, nonsectarian, coeducational institution committed to academic freedom with 10,400 students located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth, with 835,000 residents, is the 16th largest city in the United States, and it has rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities. The city is part of the greater Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, a diverse community of 7.1 million people and is served by DFW International Airport. The TCU Political Science Department is housed in a LEED-Gold certified building with state-of-the-art facilities. TCU has been named a "Great University to Work For" by the Chronicle for Higher Education for five consecutive years. As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2990

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: American Politics and Public Law

College of the Holy Cross: Department of Political Science
Tenure-Track Faculty Position in American Politics

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Political Science at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment to begin in August 2018. We are seeking a specialist in American politics and public law. The successful applicant will teach the introductory Principles of American Government course, a two-course constitutional law sequence, and one other upper-division American politics course in the field of public law or constitutional law.

This position carries a 3-2 teaching load with a full-salary one-semester research leave prior to tenure review, and generous sabbatical and fellowship leaves for tenured faculty. Tenure track faculty are eligible for travel support and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to, and excellence in, undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advanced levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. in political science or imminent completion required.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, curriculum vitae, statement on teaching, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

In your cover letter, in addition to describing your research and teaching interests, please address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or service might support the College's mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college (see <http://holycross.edu/mission>) and its core commitment to diversity and inclusion. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43084>.

Review of applications will begin on September 8 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will be done by Skype or at the APSA conference August 31-September 3 for those who will attend the meeting. Questions about this search may be directed to Vickie Langohr, Chair, at vlangohr@holycross.edu. Candidates are encouraged to contact Prof. Langohr in advance to express their interest and availability for an interview at APSA.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 2,900 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the Higher Education Consortium of Central Massachusetts and the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (<http://www.newenglandherc.org>). The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 2961

University of Toronto at Scarborough

Rank: Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a full-time, tenure stream appointment in Public Law. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related discipline with an emphasis on Public Law, by the date of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must demonstrate a record of excellence in research in Public Law and the ability to mount an independently funded innovative program of research. Candidates also must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an emerging record for excellence as a graduate supervisor.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She/he will have an established or emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, or will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field and strong endorsements by referees of high international standing. Evidence of a commitment to excellence in teaching can be demonstrated by strong endorsements from referees, teaching accomplishments highlighted as part of the application, teaching evaluations, and the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application.

The successful candidate will teach in the undergraduate program at the University of Toronto Scarborough, and will also be a member of the tri-campus Graduate Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto. He/she will be expected to contribute to the undergraduate public law program at the University of Toronto Scarborough. This program includes required courses on the Canadian judiciary and Canadian constitution, and elective courses on comparative legal systems, international law, and law and public policy. Besides teaching required or optional courses in the undergraduate public law program, the successful candidate will also be expected to teach graduate courses and supervise graduate students in his/her areas of research expertise. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The University also offers opportunities to work in a range of collaborative programs and centers of research.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl>

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample and teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and concise descriptions of current research activity and graduate student supervision experience and future research plans. Three letters of reference should be sent directly by the referee (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the attention of Professor Margaret Kohn, Acting Chair, at polppsearch@utsc.utoronto.ca

All application materials should be submitted online. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format.

The closing date for applications is October 2, 2017.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Margaret Kohn at polppsearch@utsc.utoronto.ca. For more information about the Department of Political Science, University of Toronto Scarborough, please visit: <http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/~polisci/>. For information about the graduate department of Political Science at the University of Toronto please visit: <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 7/2/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2929

Augustana University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government and International Affairs

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, International Law & Organizations

Augustana University (Sioux Falls, SD) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the Department of Government and International Affairs, to begin in Fall 2018.

Responsibilities: The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. Courses to be taught will depend upon departmental needs and the candidate's training and interests, but shall include offerings in U.S. constitutional law. In addition, the individual will serve as the university's pre-law advisor.

The typical load for members of the department is three courses per semester, plus a course in two out of every three January terms. The pre-law advisor is exempted from one of these courses annually.

Qualifications: Completed Ph.D. required. Evidence of teaching excellence and scholarly productivity expected. Ability to contribute courses to Augustana's Civitas honors program and/or First Year Seminar program is a plus.

Application Procedure: Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, copies of graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including teaching evaluations), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, a writing sample, three recommendation letters, and an employment application (available at www.augie.edu/jobs) to humanresources@augie.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Preliminary interviews will take place at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco (Aug. 31-Sept. 3, 2017).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 6/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2913

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought

Subfield(s): Public Law, International Relations, Other

Amherst College's Department of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the area of global and/or post-colonial legality. The successful candidate will demonstrate competence and sensitivity in working in a department in which students are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, ability, sexual orientation, and religion. We seek a colleague who has the scholarly expertise to understand the legal theories, practices, and histories that link disparate areas of the world. We are interested in candidates who conduct research into, for example, the afterlives of colonial legal regimes; or the shifting place and function of sovereignty in a globalizing world; or the ways in which various sorts of rights have been accepted, inflected, translated, and even violently rejected in different legal cultures; or the theory, practice, or history of institutions of global legality (such as the I.C.C., the E.U., the W.T.O., etc.). Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the candidate's area of specialization and supervision of senior honors projects. We welcome applications from persons trained in the social sciences, the humanities, and/or law. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching is interdisciplinary. The position requires a Ph.D. or a J.D. The start date for the position is July 1, 2018. Applicants should submit electronically to <https://apply.interfolio.com/42527> a cover letter addressed to Professor Austin Sarat, a curriculum vitae, a sample of their scholarship, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Amherst College is a private undergraduate liberal arts college for men and women, with 1,800 students and more than 200 faculty members. Located in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts, Amherst participates with Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts in the Five-College Consortium.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2901

SUNY, University at Buffalo

Rank: Clinical Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University at Buffalo (SUNY) seeks well-qualified candidates for a Clinical Assistant Professor/Instructor position in Political Science, starting in August 2017. This is a 3-year appointment with the possibility of renewal. Candidates must be minimally ABD in political science or a related field; a Ph.D. is preferred.

The standard teaching load for this position is four courses per semester, but a course release will be granted for serving as the pre-Law advisor. Candidates must be able to offer courses in public law and an introductory (100-level) course in either International Relations, Comparative Politics, or American Politics. Preference will be given to candidates who are capable of teaching upper-division courses in a second field in addition to public law.

Female and minority candidates are especially sought for this position. The University at Buffalo is an EO/AA employer. Candidates must submit the following materials electronically at <https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/9979> or <https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/> by referencing posting number F1700113: a letter of application stating what courses they are prepared to teach, a teaching statement, CV, and a list of three professional references. Finalists may be asked for teaching evaluations and graduate transcripts.

Review of applications will begin on July 10, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions about the position can be directed to Professor Harvey Palmer, Department Chair, by email at hpalmer@buffalo.edu or by regular mail at: Department of Political Science, 520 Park Hall, University at Buffalo, State University of New York, Buffalo, NY 14260.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2899

PUBLIC POLICY

Penn State Abington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Pennsylvania State University - Abington College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. Candidates from a range of areas of expertise will be considered but those with specialization in public policy or political economy with a focus on urban politics, inequality and diversity will be given preference. All candidates should be able to teach courses in American government. The successful candidate will have a central role in the development of interdisciplinary programs that include Political Science and demonstrate a commitment to interdisciplinary teaching and research. The course load is a 3x3 and experience teaching undergraduates is highly desirable. Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Policy by August 2018 will be considered. Penn State Abington serves racially- and ethnically-diverse students, first-generation college students, students from a range of socio-economic backgrounds, and a significant international student population. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to helping all students succeed through engagement in and out of the classroom.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To apply, submit a cover letter outlining research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Application materials must be submitted on-line through <http://apptrkr.com/1091735>. If you have questions, contact Dr. Fran Sessa, Interim Division Head of Social Sciences <mailto:fms11@psu.edu>.

The Abington College is a four-year college of The Pennsylvania State University and is conveniently located near Philadelphia. For more information about the college, visit our website at: <http://www.abington.psu.edu>.

Employment with the University will require successful completion of background check(s) in accordance with University policies.

Apply online at <http://apptrkr.com/1091735>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/>

jeid-c5a0e0bf6b026a4ab2ff523b26052b94

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3541

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

University of Rochester

Rank: Faculty

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Program in Public Health-Related Majors in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rochester is conducting an open rank faculty search for a scholar specializing in the historical, social, political, and/or ethical dimensions of health policy. The program seeks outstanding candidates who work at the boundaries between public health, the humanities, and the social sciences and who are able to engage with multiple audiences, both inside and outside of the University. This will be a tenure-track appointment in one of several appropriate departments in Arts and Sciences at the level of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor.

The candidate should be prepared to:

1. Maintain an active program of research and scholarship on health policy. Applicants should have an established record of research and publication commensurate with their rank and their field of expertise.
2. Take an active role in the Steering Committee and academic advising for the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, as well as in the functioning of the home academic department.
3. Teach an introductory-level overview of the U.S. health care system and upper-level courses on US health care policy and/or global health issues for the program, as well as courses for the home department.

The interdisciplinary Program in Public Health-Related Majors requires students to examine health and health care through many different lenses: anthropological, psychological, historical, epidemiological, economic, political, and ethical. The members of the Steering Committee collaborate to oversee the five majors in the program: Bioethics; Epidemiology; Environmental Health; Health Policy; and Health, Behavior, and Society. The Steering Committee insures that students get a consistent and rigorous liberal arts education. In addition, it actively seeks to expand the curriculum by soliciting new course offerings from faculty across the university who can address emerging issues in health and health care and develop innovative programs that engage our students with both the local and the global communities.

The position is open to candidates in any academic discipline. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D in hand by July 1, 2018, and will join an appropriate department in the School of Arts and Sciences. To apply, visit www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample, and the names and contact information for three references by November 1, 2017. Please note that the job is listed under the department "Dean's Office-SAS."

For more information about the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ph/index.html>. The University of Rochester has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Review of applications will continue until a successful candidate is identified. For more information about the position, please contact: Daniel Reichman, chair of the search committee, daniel.reichman@rochester.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3535

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from across the social sciences working in any area of the world on issues that can be understood in a comparative global context. Scholars of all nationalities who have received their PhDs within two years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows in other programs are not eligible to apply. As full members of the Watson Institute's scholarly community, fellows are required to be in residence during the academic year. Fellows will receive an annual stipend of $55,000, plus a health-insurance subsidy. Additional funding of $3,000 may be made available for conference-related travel, research expenses, and research-related programming on campus. Candidates selected for the Postdoctoral Fellows program who have not completed their dissertations by July 1, 2018, will be paid a reduced salary until their dissertation is defended.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 20, 2017, to the application portal <http://apply.interfolio.com/44383>

- A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.
- An copy of each graduate transcript.
- A writing sample.
- Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 20; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2018.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website (watson.brown.edu) or contact:

Professor J. Nicholas Ziegler, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. J_Ziegler@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 10/20/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3484

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight appointees for the 2018-2019 academic year Postdoctoral Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST
Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3901>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 12/8/2017
Date Posted: 9/21/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3469

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy
Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more candidates for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018
Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3922>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 1/2/2018
Date Posted: 9/21/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3471

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Program Visiting Fellow
Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2018-2019 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST
Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3921>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 12/8/2017
Date Posted: 9/21/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3468

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018
Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3923>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;

- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3470

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Associate/Full Professor - The Future of Jobs - Goldman School of Public Policy

Recruitment Period

Open September 18th, 2017 through November 15th, 2017

Description

The Goldman School of Public Policy at the University of California, Berkeley is conducting a search to fill a tenured faculty position at the rank of Associate Professor of Public Policy or above, with an expected start date of July 1, 2018.

We seek applications from researchers and scholars who focus on policy issues related to the future of jobs, the changing nature of labor markets, and the ways in which Public Policy can support working people and diverse populations. We anticipate that the senior candidate hired into this position will take a leadership role in developing and directing the recently-endowed Berkeley Institute for the Future of Young Americans (the website can be viewed here: <https://gspp.berkeley.edu/centers/bifya>).

Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in economics, demography, sociology, political science, public policy, or another discipline relevant to the topical policy area under consideration. Preference will be given to scholars who have demonstrated the potential to make significant research contributions and who have a clear interest in teaching in the core of the School's Masters in Public Policy professional program. Prior policy experience is desirable. The Goldman School is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their research, teaching, and service.

This will be a senior hire, and thus a distinguished scholarly record sufficient to be awarded tenure at UC Berkeley is required along with a strong commitment to teaching. GSPP has a diverse faculty that is committed to all forms of diversity, and we encourage candidates from all backgrounds to apply.

Minimum Qualifications: The minimum qualification required to be considered an applicant for this position is a Ph.D. or equivalent degree at the time of application.

Applications: Candidates should submit the following materials for a complete application: a cover letter with a clear statement of scholarly and teaching interests; a current Curriculum Vita; two to three examples of scholarship (for example, two publications and a recent working paper), and contact information for three references. The committee will only contact referees of finalists, and will seek the candidate's permission before doing so.

Materials can be uploaded through the following link:

<http://apptrkr.com/1089987>

The committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2017, but will continue to accept applications until November 15, 2017.

The Goldman School of Public Policy is a graduate school that prepares students for careers in public leadership. The majority of the students at GSPP are enrolled in the Master of Public Policy (MPP) program, which emphasizes the applied and quantitative dimensions of policy making. The MPP may also be earned concurrently with degrees from several other UC Berkeley units: Law, Public Health, Engineering, Social Welfare, International and Area Studies and the Energy Resources Group. GSPP also offers a Master of Public Affairs (MPA) program which focuses on policy management and leadership, as well as a doctoral program for students interested in policy research. While the Goldman School does not offer a bachelors-level degree, the public policy minor is available to undergraduates enrolled at UC Berkeley.

Goldman School faculty represent the top researchers in their respective fields, which include economics, political science, law, social psychology and engineering. Their expertise ranges from education policy to racial profiling to clean energy. As teachers, they are dedicated to training tomorrow's policy leaders. As researchers, their work is shaping public policy today.

If you have any questions, please contact Aaron Schiller, Academic HR Analyst for the Goldman School of Public Policy, 2607 Hearst Ave., Berkeley, CA 94720-7320, or via email at gsppfacsearch@berkeley.edu

Confidentiality Policy: All applications will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality: <http://apo.berkeley.edu/evaltr.html> prior to submitting their letters.

Berkeley is committed to addressing the family needs of its faculty, including dual career couples, new parents, and single parents. Please visit the Office for Faculty Equity & Welfare home page at <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty> for more information.

The deadline to submit an application is November 15, 2017. New applications after that date cannot be considered. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 15, 2017; early applications are encouraged, but all complete applications received by the final date will receive full consideration.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, gender, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>

Job location
Berkeley, CA

Requirements
Documents

Cover Letter - A cover letter with a clear statement of scholarly and teaching interests

Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

Example of scholarship 1 - Two to three examples of scholarship (for example, two publications and a recent working paper)

Example of scholarship 2

Example of scholarship 3 (Optional)

Misc / Additional (Optional)

References 3 references required (contact information only)

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3477

Ithaca College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Environmental Policy

The Ithaca College Department of Environmental Studies and Sciences invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Environmental Policy. We seek a dedicated teacher/scholar eager to work closely with undergraduates. With this hire we are also interested to diversify our faculty and strengthen our commitment to social justice and the environment. Start date is August 16, 2018. Review of applications will begin October 18, 2017.

Responsibilities

- (1) Teach an annual 18-credit load of undergraduate courses (~3/semester). These may include an introduction to U.S. environmental policy, an upper-level elective with a lab or field component, and an introduction to the environmental crisis for non-majors.
- (2) Maintain active scholarship involving undergraduate collaborators.
- (3) Participation in service at the Department level, as well as at the level of either the School, the College, or the off-campus community.

Desired Topical Expertise and/or Interests (including practical/professional experience): U.S. environmental policy/regulation/law; environmental or climate justice; international environmental policy/regulation/law; global environmental governance; regional urban and/or rural planning; Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and their use in environmental policy, planning, or justice; GIS in upper-level classroom, laboratory, or field teaching; and professional experience in any of the above areas

Contributions to Inclusive Excellence: We encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups, and we are interested to read or hear about each applicant's potential to make positive contributions to College-wide goals of inclusive excellence. Applicants are encouraged to articulate their experience, expertise, or interest in any of the following: Management of issues of diversity, marginalization, or inclusion at the level of the institution or higher education in general; Facilitation of discussions on diversity, marginalization, or inclusion in the classroom; Service to the institution or community in promotion of inclusive excellence; Experience teaching in ways that meet the varied learning needs and interests of a diverse student population; Commitment to encouraging and promoting success in all students, regardless of aptitude or achievement and any relevant experience or record of professional engagement with groups and communities underrepresented in the academy

To view the full position description and apply, visit <http://ithaca.edu/jobs/> and <http://ithaca.edu/jobs/>. A complete application includes a cover letter, CV, teaching statement, scholarship statement, syllabus, and list of three references. With questions about the online application, please call the Office of Human Resources at (607) 274-8000. With questions about the position, please write to Jake Brenner, chair of the search committee, at jbrenner@ithaca.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3462

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Tenure Track Positions in Social Policy

We invite applications for full-time, tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor for Fall, 2018. Candidates should demonstrate a substantive specialization, such as in policy analysis, politics of public policy, economics, statistics, or management and may have a topical area of interest in fields relevant to the substantive areas such as advancing equity, health policy, poverty policy, social insurance, global policy, housing policy, environmental policy, or other some other important current or emerging policy area. Candidates should have an earned doctorate in an appropriate and relevant field; competence to teach at the master's and PhD levels; and commitment to conduct high-level research, including the production of scholarly publications and preparation of research proposals for external funding.

The Brown School at Washington University in St. Louis is committed to a 'one school' approach that integrates the disciplines of social work, public health and social policy. We currently offer a Masters in Social Policy (MSP) degree along with outstanding MSW, MPH and PhD programs in a vibrant, interdisciplinary environment that supports innovative research and excellence in teaching to achieve social impact. Diversity and Inclusion are core values at Washington University, and the strong candidate will demonstrate the ability to create inclusive classrooms and environments in which a diverse array of students can learn and thrive.

The Brown School (brownschool.wustl.edu) is home to a top-ranked school of social work, which conducts path-breaking work on social policy, social and economic development, mental health and welfare of children, youth, and families. A highly respected and accredited MPH program was added in 2008. Together with Washington University's world-class School of Medicine and campus-wide Institute for Public Health, the Brown School is a dynamic environment for transdisciplinary research and problem solving in public health.

Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications. Applications are preferred prior to October 31, 2017; however, applications will be accepted until positions are filled by suitable candidates. Early application is encouraged. Positions will be filled when suitable candidates are selected. Candidates should create a profile at jobs.wustl.edu, and apply for job ID 37846. During that process, candidates will upload a single PDF containing: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a description of their research agenda, three professional references (contact information only), and three writing samples. For questions during the application process, please contact Tiffany Phillips at facultyapps@brownschool.wustl.edu.

<https://jobs.wustl.edu>

Job ID 37846

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3444

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location:

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration:

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2018 to August 2019. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation:

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- C.V.
- One academic writing sample and one non-academic piece, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Arthur Milikh

Associate Director

B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics

The Heritage Foundation

214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE

Washington, D.C. 20002

Email: arthur.milikh@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3438

University of Maryland, Baltimore County

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor position beginning August 2018 to teach courses in public policy, public administration, and public management. In addition to teaching an introductory course, the successful candidate will develop a portfolio of upper-level and possibly graduate-level courses. Consistent with the department's five-year hiring plan, preference will be given to scholars with expertise in urban, health, or environmental policy, but those with expertise in other public policy, public management, and public administration topics also will be given consideration.

The department has over 250 undergraduate majors, and 15 full-time faculty members with a wide range of research and teaching interests.

Department faculty also support the MPP and PhD programs in Public Policy, an undergraduate program in Global Studies, and the Sondheim Public Affairs Scholars Program.

UMBC is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as a research university--high research activity. The university has a diverse student population of 13,640 graduate and undergraduate students and is located in the dynamic Baltimore-Washington corridor. UMBC is especially proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position.

Preference will be given to candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or Public Administration, or a nearly completed dissertation in one of these fields. Candidates must provide evidence of a focused research agenda and of high quality undergraduate teaching experience. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to fostering "inclusive excellence," by describing a commitment or experience with research with underserved and diverse populations, a capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the learning needs of students from diverse backgrounds, or other such experience or plans.

Applicants should submit their applications by November 1, 2017 for best consideration. Please submit all application materials - cover letter describing teaching and research experiences and interests, sample syllabi, and formal statement about how the candidate's experiences and interests demonstrate a commitment to "inclusive excellence" - electronically via Interfolio. Three confidential letters of recommendation should also be submitted. Required application materials and submission instructions are available at: apply.interfolio.com/44698

For questions regarding the position, contact Professor Roy Meyers, Committee Chair at meyers@umbc.edu. UMBC is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3437

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William

E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring

American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential "core" of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant's academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Public Policy/ Environmental)

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science, effective August, 2018. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the Department and University. The successful candidate will have broad theoretical and methodological training in political science with a teaching and research emphasis in public policy, with a particular interest in environmental policy. In addition to upper level courses in public policy and in their area of specialization, teaching responsibilities will include an introductory course in American politics, and a course in state and local government. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank and ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University is composed of 13 dedicated faculty members whose research represents the core areas of the discipline including American politics, comparative politics and international relations, and political theory. Our 300 majors have produced research that has been nationally recognized; many attend prestigious law or graduate schools and go on to successful careers in law, higher education, and local, state, and federal government. The Department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, as well as three minors in Political Science, Human Rights and Conflict Resolution, and U.S. National Security Studies. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit <http://cnu.edu/academics/departments/politicalscience/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2017 freshman class of 1,290 students was selected from over 7,000 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1210, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please provide a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (copies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Please visit <http://cnu.edu/hr/employment/>.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017. Applications received after October 15, 2017, will be accepted but considered only if needed.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3416

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Public Policy/ Environmental)

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science, effective August, 2018. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the Department and University. The successful candidate will have broad theoretical and methodological training in political science with a teaching and research emphasis in public policy, with a particular interest in environmental policy. In addition to upper level courses in public policy and in their area of specialization, teaching responsibilities will include an introductory course in American politics, and a course in state and local government. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank and ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University is composed of 13 dedicated faculty members whose research represents the core areas of the discipline including American politics, comparative politics and international relations, and political theory. Our 300 majors have produced research that has been nationally recognized; many attend prestigious law or graduate schools and go on to successful careers in law, higher education, and local, state, and federal government. The Department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, as well as three minors in Political Science, Human Rights and Conflict Resolution, and U.S. National Security Studies. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit <http://cnu.edu/academics/departments/politicalscience/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2017 freshman class of 1,290 students was selected from over 7,000 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1210, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please provide a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (copies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Please visit <http://cnu.edu/hr/employment/>.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017. Applications received after October 15, 2017, will be accepted but considered only if needed.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully Committed to Access and Opportunity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3417

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)

Dear Colleagues:

The Georgia Institute of Technology's School of Public Policy is seeking applications for a tenure-track position, assistant professor rank. We are seeking someone with a Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related field who will teach policy analysis and advise graduate students on Georgia Tech's Atlanta campus. We welcome all qualified applicants to apply, including women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

We seek to expand our existing strengths in one of the core areas of the department, including: science, technology and innovation policy; climate, energy and environmental policy; information and communication technologies, and cybersecurity policy; and urban economic development and smart cities. We also are expanding our expertise in the health policy area. Our work in these areas benefits from synergies with Georgia Tech's world-class engineering, data analytics and computer science, design and planning, STEM workforce, and biomedical engineering curricula, and a tradition of interdisciplinary innovative research. Basic job duties will include teaching, research, and service activities for the school.

Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three publications; 4) research and teaching statement, including concrete descriptions of future research plans and teaching interests; and 5) names and contact information of three academic references. Please apply using the on-line application process at <https://academicjobsonline.org>. Direct any questions by email to facsearch@pubpolicy.gatech.edu with "pubpol" in the subject line. Applications are due on or before November 1, 2017.

The School of Public Policy has 31 faculty members and we instruct students in undergraduate, masters and Ph.D. programs. See our webpage at <http://spp.gatech.edu/> for more information. The Georgia Institute of Technology is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, dedicated to recruiting a diverse faculty.

Sincerely yours,

Kaye Husbands Fealing Chair, School of Public Policy

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3398

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Administration, Public Policy

Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration or political science. This position will be responsible for teaching methodology courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, courses in public administration and policy at the undergraduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or State and Local Politics). The area of teaching and research specialization is open, but candidates should be comfortable teaching Introduction to Public Administration at the undergraduate level both in the online setting. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching one graduate course and two undergraduate courses each semester.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or political science, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3405

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor, tenure track - Leadership & Management

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Opinion

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

With this current search, the Humphrey School seeks applicants for a position at the Assistant Professor level who focus on public and/or nonprofit institutions, organizations, or networks. Candidates are especially encouraged to apply who explore the blurring of sectoral boundaries, with special attention to governments' and nonprofits' roles, relationships between institutions and citizens, or innovation in public and nonprofit agencies. Successful applicants will teach in the School's core curriculum, engage in our master's and doctoral degree programs, and function collaboratively in a public affairs school committed to generating both rigorous and relevant scholarship. An interdisciplinary social science background that includes institutional, political, and cross-cultural knowledge and competence is highly valued. Recent PhD recipients, candidates who will have received their PhD by the time of appointment, and current pre-tenure assistant professors (early or advanced) are invited to apply.

The University of Minnesota's Humphrey School is one of the top ten public affairs schools in the country. Leadership and Management Area is particularly highly ranked nationally, garnering the #2 spot in nonprofit management and the #18 in public management according to the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings. There are two outreach and engagement centers affiliated with the Area, the Public and Nonprofit Leadership Center and the University-wide Center for Integrative Leadership.

A Ph.D. is required in public affairs, public policy, management, political science, sociology, psychology, or other relevant social science discipline. Candidates with knowledge of nonprofit management, financial management, strategic management, intergovernmental relations, integrative leadership, and collaborative governance are particularly encouraged to apply. People with professional experiences working with communities, managers, and policy makers will be a particularly good fit. We are interested in considering scholars who are focused either domestically or internationally. Additionally, we seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of race, gender, class and ethnicity.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three references, a sample of recent research, and a cover letter with a brief account of research and teaching interests and experience.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 16, 2017. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit applications online to: https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&SiteId=1&FOCUS=Applicant&JobOpeningId=318429&PostingSeq=1

Address cover and reference letters to: Search Committee for Leadership & Management Area, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, c/o Human Resources, HHH152, 301-19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Salary will be commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental, faculty life/disability insurance, retirement, and social security. The starting date for this appointment is August 27, 2018 or as soon thereafter as possible.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3374

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3390

Harvard University

Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellows Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JANUARY 17, 2018

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $66,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Harvard University Center for the Environment expects to award approximately six fellowships for the 2018 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend biweekly dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

- Candidates for 2018 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2014 and August 2018. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2018.)
- Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.
- Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.
- Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.
- Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and post-docs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with his or her thesis advisor.
- Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
- Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

1. Please complete the online application form found at <http://environment.harvard.edu/application by> January 17, 2018 and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs:
 - a. curriculum vitae including list of publications;
 - b. detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to a Harvard residential environmental fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately). Note: While applicants should discuss the proposal with their potential faculty hosts, the final product should clearly be the work of the applicant; and
 - c. up to three publications/writing samples.
2. Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.
3. A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining his or her commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space.

Applicants are encouraged to ask their referees and hosts to email letters of reference as PDFs or, if necessary, as Word documents attached to the emails. Referees and hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Jean Gauthier at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

If you have questions about the fellowship or application process, please contact:

Jean Gauthier
 Harvard University Center for the Environment
 26 Oxford Street, 4th Floor
 Cambridge MA 02138
 617-495-0368
jgauthier@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/17/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3375

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public/Non-Profit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Public Law

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs
- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3378

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs
- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3379

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Normative Political Theory

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2018-19. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2243> The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 6, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method.

Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 9. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in early March 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/6/2017
Date Posted: 9/8/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3372

Hendrix College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

The Department of Politics & International Relations at Hendrix College invites applications for a tenure track position for an Assistant Professor of Public Policy to begin in August 2018. The College seeks to extend its tradition of excellence in teaching and scholarship by attracting faculty who combine mastery of their disciplines with broad intellectual interests and commitment to the aims of a liberal arts college. The successful applicant will teach the basic public policy course; one section of Research Methods; one or two upper-level, policy specific courses in the candidate's area of expertise and research interests. Candidates will also be expected to contribute to the Department's core introductory and senior research courses, as well as cultivate collaborative research and engaged learning opportunities with Hendrix students. Doctorate is expected by the start date; however, applicants who are ABD at the time of application will be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter addressing the candidate's interest in teaching in a demanding liberal arts environment; a curriculum vitae; statement of teaching interests; evidence of teaching effectiveness; graduate and undergraduate transcripts; and a statement of scholarly interests. Three letters of recommendation should be sent by e-mail to facultyrecs@hendrix.edu. Address cover letter to Dr. Daniel Whelan, Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations. All application materials must be submitted electronically at <https://goo.gl/ic5XSA>. Review of materials will begin October 16, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Hendrix is a distinguished liberal arts college located in Conway, Arkansas, thirty miles from Little Rock at the foothills of the Ozark Mountains. The College, affiliated with the United Methodist Church, has a strong commitment to excellence in teaching liberal arts. Hendrix College strives to maintain an environment free from discrimination and harassment, where employees treat each other with respect, dignity and courtesy. The College adheres to the principle of equal educational and employment opportunity without regard to age, race, color, religion, gender, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, or national origin.

The following individuals have been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies:

Shawn Goicoechea, Assistant Director of Human Resources & Title IX Coordinator 1600 Washington Ave, Conway, AR 72032 501-450-1415 goicoechea@hendrix.edu

Julie Brown, Director of Academic Success and Section 504 Coordinator, brownj@hendrix.edu (not for application questions), 501-505-2954

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3345

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track), Department of Law, Societies & Justice

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

Law and Society Studies. The Department of Law, Societies, and Justice invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor. Preference will be given to candidates with a teaching and research program that complements and extends one or more of the Department's existing emphases in the following areas: comparative legal analysis; legal mobilization and consciousness; punishment and social control; and rights in theory and practice. The Department seeks candidates who demonstrate excellence in research, teaching, and a commitment to building a more inclusive faculty.

The successful candidate will possess either a 100 percent appointment in Law, Societies, and Justice, or a joint appointment with another unit in the social sciences. University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research and service. Candidates should have a Ph.D. or equivalent foreign degree in a relevant social science discipline prior to the appointment start date. This position has a 9-month service period.

Law, Societies, and Justice offers an interdisciplinary bachelor's degree, and a graduate-level certificate program for students with research interests in socio-legal studies. Its faculty are trained across the social sciences, and most possess a joint appointment with another unit. The successful candidate will be required to teach an introductory-level course on socio-legal studies and to develop a suite of upper level courses commensurate with the candidate's expertise.

Application Instructions

Applications should include a current CV, a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, samples of publications or other work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be electronically submitted to <http://apply.interfolio.com/44362> with which letters will be solicited for separate submission. Priority will be given to applications received before October 5, 2017. Questions about the application process should be directed to: Professor Katherine Beckett, Search Committee Chair; kbeckett@uw.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/5/2017

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3347

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2018-19

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences.

Preference will be given to those working in the areas of contemporary domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, and social/legal/economic development of China, particularly on issues related to urbanization, political/economic reform, energy/environment, social welfare, and civil society. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center throughout the academic year also required (e.g. weekly doctoral fellows workshop series). It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation during the fellowship period as well as participate in the Center's publication program. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have his/her degree conferral by June 1, 2018.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2018 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

To submit an application for the 2018-20 fellowship, please refer to <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 15, 2017 (Friday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters must be emailed directly by the recommenders. All recommendation letters must be received for full consideration.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Manager for Ash Center Fellows Programs
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1968

Nanyang Technological University

Rank: Non-Tenure Track Lecturer/Senior Lecturer Position in Public Administration and Public Policy

Specializations: Central Asia, East Asia, Southeast Asia

Public Policy and Global Affairs (PPGA)
School of Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Young and research-intensive, Nanyang Technological University (NTU Singapore) is ranked 11th globally. It is also placed 1st among the world's best young universities.

The School of Social Sciences (SSS) offers undergraduate and graduate degree programmes in a full range of disciplines and actively promotes interdisciplinary learning and research.

Non-Tenure Track Lecturer/Senior Lecturer Position in Public Administration and Public Policy

The School invites applications for a Lecturer or Senior Lecturer position in Public Administration and Public Policy, broadly conceived. This is a renewable non-tenure track position in the Public Policy and Global Affairs (PPGA) programme. PPGA is a major programme in SSS. It attracts excellent students to its BA, MA, and PhD degree programmes. It also provides General Elective Courses for the entire university community.

The University strongly emphasizes effective teaching and impactful research and provides ample support for both.

Selection will be based on evidence of potential for high-quality research and effective teaching. Candidates should possess a Ph.D.

The successful candidate is expected to teach and develop courses at both undergraduate and graduate levels, including General Education courses, as well as supervise graduate students and undergraduate projects. Courses that he/she may be expected to teach include, Introduction to Public Administration; Theories and Methods in Public Administration and Public Policy; Public Policy Making Process; Comparative Public Administration with special reference to Asia; Public Organization and Management; and Strategic Innovation.

For further information about the School, and PPGA, please refer to the following website:

<http://www.sss.ntu.edu.sg/Programmes/ppga/Pages/Home.aspx>

Emoluments

The Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The University offers a comprehensive fringe benefit package. Information on general terms and conditions of service is available in the section on Terms and Conditions (<http://www.ntu.edu.sg/NSS/NSSHumanResources/Pages/General-Terms-for-Faculty-Positions.aspx>) of Service for Academic Appointments.

Application Procedure

To apply, please refer to the Guidelines for Submitting an Application for Faculty Appointment (<http://www.ntu.edu.sg/ohr/career/submit-an-application/Pages/Faculty-Positions.aspx>) and email your application package (consisting of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, personal particulars form, a statement of current and future research interests, teaching statement, effectiveness of teaching (if any) and selected publications (if available), and the names and email addresses of three potential referees) to:

Chair, Search Committee
C/O Public Policy and Global Affairs
School of Social Sciences?
Nanyang Technological University?
14 Nanyang Drive, #04-70?
Singapore 637332?

Email: ppga-search@ntu.edu.sg

Applications sent via email should include a reference to "Lecturer / Senior Lecturer (Public Policy and Global Affairs)" in the subject line. Please send your enquiries about the position to the above email address.

Closing date for application is October 15, 2017. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3342

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites postdoctoral students who will be completing or will have recently completed a Ph.D. to apply for its Postdoctoral Democracy Fellowship. The Democracy Fellowships aim to support postdoctoral scholars whose research illuminates aspects of democratic governance in ways that are innovative and push the boundaries of their academic disciplines, whether political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. Furthermore, their research should have the potential for normative or practical relevance regarding urgent substantive policy or social problems related to democratic governance.

Postdoctoral Fellows join the Ash Center's academic community and participate in the Democracy Fellows weekly seminar. The fellowship provides time and space for the fellows to work on preparing either a book manuscript based on their dissertation or related academic publications.

For more information about the fellowship, eligibility, benefits, and the online application, please visit our fellowship homepage <http://ash.harvard.edu/democracy-postdoctoral-fellowships>

Applications are due by October 4, 2017, for the 2018-2020 academic years.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/4/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3317

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3308

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in quantitative methodology, with a focus on causal inference and/or cost-benefit analysis. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, be able to teach quantitative methods and policy analysis effectively to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to an anticipated professional MA program in public policy. The candidate will also have opportunities to teach in his or her substantive area of expertise. The department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; ability to attract external funding; potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods Cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3306

Knox College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full time, tenure track assistant professor in comparative politics beginning September 1, 2018.

We seek an energetic and creative scholar who adopts innovative approaches to teaching and research in a residential, liberal arts setting. Candidates should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics with a primary focus on an area other than Latin America. Ability to teach in more than one area is highly desirable. Knox College offers three academic terms per year, with a teaching load of two courses per term. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their research, teaching, and service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field expected at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates considered.

Interested applicants should submit:

1. Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy and research agenda,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential,
4. Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence,
5. Unofficial graduate transcripts,
6. An example of recent scholarship such as an article, book chapter, or conference paper.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at bschulze@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 9, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/9/2017
Date Posted: 8/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3302

Northwestern University

Rank: American Politics-US Law/Courts
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: Political Development, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Northwestern University invites applications for a faculty position in the field of American Politics/institutions at the rank of assistant professor.

The department seeks candidates specializing in law/courts, open as to approach (jurisprudence, quantitative analysis, American Political Development, Race Ethnicity and Politics). The successful applicant will join a department with a strong consensus view of political science as a multi-method discipline.

Applications received by October 13, 2017 will be guaranteed full consideration. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity,

Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. The proposed starting date is September, 2018.

Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, a letter of interest, writing sample, 3 letters of reference and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Applications and supporting documents will be accepted only by online submission at <http://www.polisci.northwestern.edu/about/faculty-searches.html>. For questions and assistance, please contact Jill Rubin Decremmer at j-rubin4@northwestern.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/13/2017

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3300

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Administration

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for professor and endowed chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required.

Successful applicants will teach in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/9587>.

The committee will begin considering applications on September 15, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3287

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, Social Science. NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Social Movements

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS
Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2018. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, research sample and three letters of reference, all in PDF format. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science September 22, 2017, sociology on November 1, 2017 and applications from economics December 1, 2017.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3289

University of Dayton

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Dayton is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a specialization in social (public) policy. Responsibilities include teaching courses in public policy, courses in the BA and MPA programs, the interdisciplinary social science curriculum, and other courses for non-majors.

Qualified candidates will have completed all requirements for the PhD degree in Political Science, Public Policy, or Public Administration, except for defense of dissertation, at the time of application; PhD preferred. Required qualifications include: evidence of the ability to conduct peer-reviewed scholarship; excellent written communication skills; potential for excellence in teaching; a research agenda that focuses on one or more areas of social (public) policy: food, health, environment.

The department prefers candidates with a willingness to contribute to teaching interdisciplinary aspects of social (public) policy, an interest in the use of innovative pedagogical techniques, and experience teaching graduate courses in social (public) policy. Experience in teaching and advising students of diverse backgrounds and a sensitivity to Catholic and Marianist educational values are also preferred.

The University and the Department are strongly committed to excellence in teaching and the development of distinctive graduates who embrace the ideal of servant-leadership and the University's call to "Learn, Lead, and Serve." The Department currently has 15 full-time faculty members. It offers BAs in Human Rights Studies and Political Science and the Master of Public Administration. The Department is highly supportive of its faculty and students.

The University of Dayton, founded in 1850 by the Society of Mary, is a top ten Catholic research university. The University seeks outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community.

A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample publication or scholarly work, a statement regarding teaching philosophy, unofficial graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to submit documentation of evidence of teaching effectiveness, if available. Apply at jobs.udayton.edu/postings/24115 by October 6, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/6/2017
Date Posted: 8/24/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3261

University of Kansas

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics & Policy

The University of Kansas Political Science Department invites candidates to apply for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level in Political Science. We are interested in candidates whose work focuses on American Politics and Public Policy. The position provides collaborative research opportunities, which may include participation in interdisciplinary centers – Center for Research Methods and Data Analysis, Institute for Policy and Social Research. The position is expected to begin as early as August 18, 2018. The faculty member will be expected to research, write, and publish in American Politics and Public Policy; develop and teach courses in American Politics and Public Policy; serve on graduate student committees, direct theses and dissertations, and perform advising responsibilities; and serve on departmental, College, and University committees, and engage in professional service activities.

The University of Kansas is particularly interested in hiring faculty members who can contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, including a diversity of scholarly approaches, and four key campus-wide strategic initiatives: (1) Sustaining the Planet, Powering the World; (2) Promoting Well-Being, Finding Cures; (3) Building Communities, Expanding Opportunities; and (4) Harnessing Information, Multiplying Knowledge. For more information see <http://www.provost.ku.edu/strategic-plan/initiatives>.

We especially encourage woman and minorities to apply.

KU is a Research 1 (RU/VH) institution, the flagship of the Kansas system, and a member of the AAU. It is located in Lawrence, a thriving and progressive community a short drive from Kansas City.

Qualifications:

1. A Ph.D. in Political Science from an accredited school is expected by the start date of the appointment (08-18-2018).
2. Demonstrated ability to work in interdisciplinary and collaborative environments.
3. A proven record or demonstration for high potential in research and publications. Should demonstrate mastery of mathematical and computing skills that are requisite to success in the field of political methodology.
4. Demonstrated ability to teach effectively at undergraduate and graduate levels.

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/9684BR> or <https://employment.ku.edu> and click "Search Faculty Jobs"; search by key word [AMERICAN POLITICS]. A complete online application includes the following materials: cover letter, curriculum vitae, research samples, proof of teaching experience (e.g. course evaluations), and letters of recommendation from three professional references.

Initial review of applications will begin October 1, 2017 and will continue as long as needed to identify a qualified pool. EOE M/F/D/V.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3247

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach a variety of introductory and advanced courses in the interdisciplinary Public Policy major and fields of their expertise. The candidate will have the opportunity, working with the Public Policy advisory committee, to play a leading role in the continued development of the Public Policy major. The candidate will also advise major and undecided students and have the opportunity to teach in the First Year Seminar program. Faculty at Gettysburg College teach a 3-2 course load.

The successful candidate should have a Ph.D. in Public Policy or a related field with a policy emphasis, be committed to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and show potential for scholarly engagement. Candidates should be able to show demonstrated excellence in teaching. Although the specific policy area is open, the ideal candidate's area of expertise will complement existing majors or departments offered at the College. We strongly encourage candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship, or governance that they can contribute to the diversity and excellence of our community.

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2249>. A curriculum vitae, cover letter, writing sample, transcripts, and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by October 31, 2017 for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Dr. Char Weise at cweise@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3228

Knox College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Comparative Politics, January-June 2018

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a visiting assistant professor in comparative politics beginning January 1, 2018. Knox College operates on a trimester system. This position would involve teaching two courses per term in the Winter and Spring 2018 terms.

Candidates should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics with a preferred focus on Latin America. The candidate should have a Ph.D or nearing completion in Political Science, International Relations, or a closely related field and should have significant fieldwork experience. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their teaching and research interests.

Interested applicants should submit:

1. A Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential.
4. Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at bschulze@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 11th, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the OCR.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 9/11/2017

Date Posted: 8/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3227

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

The Ohio State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Regulation and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Specializations: Regulatory Policy, Energy Policy, Economic Policy

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University welcomes applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant level in the area of Regulation and Public Policy. We especially encourage applications from scholars who study topics such as regulatory and governance issues surrounding public utilities and other critical infrastructure, smart technology, mobility and transportation, sustainable development, or the role of regulation in achieving a sustainable and resilient economy. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches.

This position is partially funded by Ohio State's Discovery Themes Initiative, a significant faculty hiring investment in key thematic areas in which the university can build on its culture of academic collaboration to make a global impact. The successful candidate will join a highly collaborative interdisciplinary community of scholars in the Sustainable and Resilient Economy (SRE) program (<https://discovery.>

osu.edu/focus-areas/sustainable-economy/) including faculty from Social and Behavioral Sciences, Environmental Sciences, Business, Law, and Engineering. The SRE program seeks to advance sustainability science by developing a more holistic understanding of sustainable and resilient production and consumption systems, human-environment interactions, and innovations in sustainable technologies and governance. Successful applicants will be expected to participate in collaborative teams and interdisciplinary research on sustainability and resilience topics.

The position begins fall 2018. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed or be nearing completion of all Ph.D. degree requirements. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in public affairs, public policy, public administration, sociology, political science, economics, geography, law, business or a related field. Highly desirable candidates will have practical experience, university teaching experience, a strong potential for developing a successful research portfolio, and/or demonstrated success in working with diverse populations and a commitment to diversifying the profession.

Application Instructions

Applications will be evaluated as received and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by September 22, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration. To apply, please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three professional reference letters to Glenn-SRERegulation@osu.edu. Alternatively, materials can be mailed to: Office of the Dean, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, 350 Page Hall, 1810 College Road, Columbus, OH, 43210.

About the Glenn College and OSU

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs was recently ranked 25th overall among other graduate professional programs in public affairs. Our curricular offerings include the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration and In-Career Master of Arts in Public Policy and Management; dual master's degrees with Law, City and Regional Planning, Public Health, Environment and Natural Resources, Social Work, Business Administration, Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics, Slavic and East European Studies, and Latin American Studies; a joint degree in Arts Policy and Administration; a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Management; a B.A. in Public Management, Leadership, and Policy; a B.S. in Public Policy Analysis, and a variety of undergraduate and graduate minors. The College also offers a wide array of non-degree management and leadership training seminars, programs and certificates, serving over 2,000 mid-career professionals each year. For more information about the Glenn College, please visit our website: glenn.osu.edu.

The Ohio State University, the flagship public university of Ohio, is located in the state's capital, Columbus, providing direct access to public sector organizations and practitioners from all levels of government, as well as a large and vibrant nonprofit and philanthropic community. The Glenn College is housed in a state-of-the-art building in the center of the University campus. Columbus is the 14th largest city in the United States and offers many cultural and recreational amenities. It was recently rated by Forbes as the #1 opportunity city in the country and #7 in best cities for young professionals. Money Magazine rated it #3 for best cities for millennials. Ohio ranks #5 for states with the most Fortune 500 headquarters.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/22/2017
Date Posted: 8/16/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3216

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair
Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
 Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
 Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3205

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: African American Politics, Caribbean, Political Thought: Historical

The University Center for Human Values and the Department of African American Studies at Princeton University invite applications at the assistant professor level from well-qualified individuals for a tenure-track position in theoretical approaches to the study of race. Applicants may be scholars of political theory; political philosophy; the philosophy of race; critical and social theory; applied ethics and ethics of public policy (with application to race); African American studies (with a focus on one or more of the aforementioned areas); or any area of normative inquiry that focuses on the experience of African Americans. The position involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels and would be held jointly in the two units as assistant professor of African American Studies and Human Values.

We ask applicants to provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, a dissertation or book abstract, writing sample (under 30 pages), and a statement of teaching philosophy. Applications should be submitted online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2761> Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. We aim for an appointment effective September 2018.

Princeton University is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of our academic community. Women and members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3176

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

University of Kentucky

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Public Policy

The Martin School of Public Policy & Administration at the University of Kentucky seeks applicants for a tenure track position beginning August 2018. Rank is open. We are particularly interested in a scholar who brings a political science perspective to the study of policy formulation, implementation, and outcomes. The substantive area within public policy is open. Responsibilities will include research and teaching with a focus on masters and Ph.D. level course work and advising. The successful candidate will teach a 2-2 course load and is expected to maintain an active, high quality research agenda Interested applicants should submit a UK Online Application at www.uky.edu/ukjobs, and search for requisition <https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/153346>.

Please include the following information when applying for this position.

1. Letter of Interest/Cover Letter
2. Current/Updated Curriculum Vitae, including list of references with contact information.
3. Research writing sample

For questions regarding the position, please contact us at msrecruiting@uky.edu. Please note that, to be considered an applicant for this position, you must submit an application via UK's online employment system.

The search will remain open until the position is filled. However, the Search Committee will begin reviewing applications immediately. For more information about the department, please visit <http://www.martin.uky.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3161

Baruch College, CUNY

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Baruch College's Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure track position as assistant professor in the field of Public Policy, open with regard to geographic and topical specialization within public policy. The position will begin in the fall semester 2018.

Baruch, a flagship college of the City University of New York, is located in the historic Gramercy Park district of Manhattan.

In the last several years, Baruch has emphasized recruitment of under-represented groups, and has achieved success in this area. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or related field at time of appointment and an active research agenda. Proficiency in quantitative research methods is appreciated, as is experience or interest in teaching in online or hybrid formats.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

STEP ONE - Copy and paste the link below into your browser: https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=17222&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

To be considered for this position, please submit your application online by clicking on "Apply Now". Candidates should provide a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, CV, writing samples, and (if applicable) any formal evaluations of teaching performance.

STEP TWO - Go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/>

All applicants are required to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted electronically by their references as described below.

Please go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> and enter the contact information for three (3) references. The online system will automatically send your references a request to submit a letter via the system. Full instructions will be provided.

Emailed or hard copy applications will not be considered.

If you have any questions, please contact HR at 646-660-6590

CLOSING DATE

Review of resumes begins on August 17, 2017; to ensure consideration, please apply by October 1, 2017.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3136

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor

Political Science: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-19 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major in Public Administration and courses for the MA program and have substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis; develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching, including the introduction to Public Administration and other advanced courses that contribute to the public administration major; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; take part in the undergraduate major in public administration, teach related courses for the MA program, contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with a specialty and/or an active research agenda in nonprofit organizations and have a background in quantitative methodology and "big data";

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4587>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3127

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3131

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Data Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Data Analytics Program of the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of data analytics.

A successful candidate will have research and teaching focused on applying modern data analytic skills to find solutions to important public policy problems. The successful applicant will have skills in statistical inference, R, Python, and modern data analytics techniques such as machine learning, cloud computing, distributed computing, network analysis, and text analysis. A Ph.D. in political science, policy, statistics, computer science, economics, or related fields is expected by the appointment date.

Georgetown established the McCourt School in 2013 with a generous naming gift from Frank McCourt that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9415>. The position is pending final Board approval, which we expect soon. The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3105

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor/ associate professor in the field of public management.

The School has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching expertise focus on applying innovative research on management to find solutions to important public policy problems. We are open to applicants whose work focuses on either domestic or international/comparative management.

We expect the applicant to have a Ph.D. by the time they start; the Ph.D. could be in political science, public administration, policy, sociology, economics or related fields.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9413>. The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. A small number of candidates may be interviewed at the American Political Science Association meeting in San Francisco. Applicants who submit their applications by August 25th who wish to be considered for APSA interviews should indicate their availability in their cover letter.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3104

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3117

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3045

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Cyber Policy, Strategy and Security

International Relations/Comparative Politics/Cyber Policy, Strategy and Security

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the area of cyber policy, strategy and security within the field of international relations, comparative politics, economics, or public policy. Texas A&M University has invested considerable resources in the cyber realm, including standing up the Texas A&M Cybersecurity Center. The Bush School will be a central contributor to that University-wide effort, with this position playing an important role in that contribution. Candidates with research competency in cyber policy, strategy and security who specialize in areas such as international law and institutions, regulatory law, science and technology, international security, the comparative politics of information, and other relevant topics are invited to apply.

Ideally, the successful candidate would teach a required course in introductory-level research methods for our students, all of whom are seeking a master's degree in international affairs, along with offerings in the cyber area. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics or a related discipline by September 2018. The individual selected will have demonstrated a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2018.

Applicants should send a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae, a sample of written work and three letters of recommendation to:

Professor Gregory Gause

c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tamu.edu)

The Bush School of Government & Public Service

Texas A&M University

4220 TAMU

College Station, TX 77843-4220

The review of applications will begin on September 20, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Additional information is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3048

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor in Global Studies

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, International Relations

The Global Studies Program and Political Science Department at the National University of Singapore is looking to hire a tenure-track assistant professor in Global Studies. The candidate should be able to develop and teach applied, workshop-style classes for upper level undergraduates in cooperation with NGOs, business, or government agencies. The candidate should also be able to teach research design and basic social science methodology classes in a multidisciplinary setting. Scholars from all social science and humanities disciplines are welcome to apply. However, the applicant's research profile should be legible to scholars of politics, broadly defined, given that the future tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The Department of Political Science and the National University of Singapore are highly research-oriented. The teaching load is three modules year academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonuses and salary increments, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support.

Applicants should send a CV, a letter detailing their teaching and research interests, and letters from three referees to the Chair of the Search Committee at polbox11@nus.edu.sg. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by September 15, 2017. Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

The Department (<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/>) has a strong faculty of about twenty-five scholars working in all areas of political science. Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Yale-NUS Liberal Arts College, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation and the Institutes of Asian and South-East Asian Studies as well as other parts of the University. NUS (<http://www.nus.edu.sg/>) is a leader in research and higher education in Asia and is located in a thriving and liveable global city.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3043

Tulane University

Rank: Greenleaf Scholar-In-Residence, Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Latin American, International Political Economy, Environmental Policy

Tulane University invites applications from mid-career scholars in Latin American Studies conducting interdisciplinary research in the social sciences to spend one or two semester(s) as a Greenleaf Scholar-in-Residence at the Stone Center for Latin American Studies during the 2018-2019 academic year. We seek scholars who address questions of social and gender inclusion, particularly with regard to the reduction of economic, environmental, health or other inequalities. We encourage applications from scholars in the fields of anthropology, development studies, economics, environmental studies, international studies, law, political science, public health, social medicine or sociology. Appointments for fall semester are from August 1 – December 31, 2018. Appointments for spring semester are from January 1– May 31, 2019. Salary is $40,000 per semester plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported.

Qualifications: Minimum Associate Professor status or above and a distinguished record of publication.

Application Instructions: Applications must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting <http://apply.interfolio.com/42704>. Please submit a CV including contact information for two professional references, as well as a cover letter describing how residence at Tulane will aid in advancing your research. Also, please provide a title and brief description of a course (or courses) you would be interested in offering. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017, but the position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3028

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3006

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Policy Analysis

Specializations: Energy Policy, Science & Technology, Environmental Policy

Public Policy Analysis Faculty Position
Department of Public Service and Administration
Bush School of Government and Public Service

The Department of Public Service and Administration, Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant or tenured associate professor in applied microeconomics, political economy, policy analysis, or other relevant empirical social science discipline to teach in its Master of Public Service and Administration Program. Of particular interest are scholars with a strong record of, or high potential for, research and teaching in public policy issues relating to energy, environment, and technology policy and management. Candidates will be expected to build on existing strengths and bolster the capacity of the School to participate in campus-wide multidisciplinary research initiatives and new or existing programs of the Institute for Science, Technology, and Public Policy and the Mosbacher Institute for Trade, Economics, and Public Policy. Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. by the beginning of employment in September 2018 and demonstrate evidence of a commitment both to high quality empirical research and to teaching in a professional school of government and public service. Review of applications will begin on October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

The Department of Public Service and Administration is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service and currently enrolls 172 full-time in-residence students, with 22 full-time and 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty members. It offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for “Best Value in MPA Programs” (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public and nonprofit service. Students choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; analytical methods; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests.

Send nominations and applications including a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references to:

Prof. Kent Portney
c/o Ms. Kimberly Reeves
(preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolpsaa-facultysearch@tamu.edu)
The Bush School of Government and Public Service
Texas A&M University
4220 TAMU
College Station, TX 77843-4220.

As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications from women, minorities and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2999

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Administration, Comparative Politics

Due to impending retirements, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2018.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide strong academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience in obtaining and administering external funding awards is preferred. Applicants should have obtained the rank of full professor. Associate professors will be considered if their qualifications are consistent with the rank of full professor in the Department of Political Science at UNR.

About the department: the Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience. Visit our website at <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25111> for further information and to apply.

Candidates should submit a CV, and a cover letter outlining their interest in and experience relating to the position. In the cover letter please highlight your leadership experience and/or potential, and indicate how you would contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service. Letters of reference will only be requested upon initial screening of the applicants.

Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Eric Herzik (herzik@unr.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3003

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2988

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Graduate School of Public and International Affairs (GSPIA) at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications and nominations for two (2) tenure-stream faculty positions at the assistant professor level in public policy or public administration. Both appointments begin Fall term 2018. A PhD in public policy, public administration, public management, or social science field (political science, sociology, economics, or related field) is expected at the time of the appointment. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests related to public administration, public policy and/or public management, broadly defined. The area of specialization is open, but candidates are expected to teach in the school and program core, as well as substantive policy or management area of research. Evidence of a promising research agenda leading to high quality publications in any of the wide variety of topics related to public administration and public policy is essential. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the positions are filled. Candidates who would enhance the diversity of the school, including women and minorities, are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualified applicants can submit their materials online through email attachments (see email address below). Submitted materials should include a letter of application describing the applicant's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, two samples of scholarly writing, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations (if available):

Search Committee Chair
 c/o Mary Ann Gebet, Executive Assistant to the Dean
 Graduate School of Public and International Affairs
 University of Pittsburgh
 MPAGSPIA@pitt.edu

Applications must be submitted by November 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2985

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a position at the assistant professor rank to begin in August 2018. Area of specialization is Public Policy. Sub-specialization is open, however, the person filling this position would teach courses and advise graduate students within political science and the Fire and Emergency Management Administration programs. Overlap between these programs might include areas such as: environmental and climate change policy, natural resources, policy analysis, emergency management policy or disaster policy. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or related field is expected at the time of the appointment. The successful candidate will demonstrate the potential for both productive scholarship and effective teaching in the area of Public Policy.

Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department of Political Science has 20 full-time faculty members and offers an undergraduate major in political science, various undergraduate minors (including campaigns and lobbying, law and legal studies, intelligence and security analysis, and emergency management), an M.A. in Political Science, an M.S. in Fire and Emergency Management Administration, and a Ph.D. in Fire and Emergency Management Administration. OSU provides significant support for scholarly productivity. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester. A successful faculty candidate will be committed to creating a culturally inclusive space for their students to develop critical thinking skills that are vital in living in our diverse society and mentoring our rising undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. Currently, 35 percent of our undergraduate majors and 33 percent of our graduate students are either minority or international scholars. The department encourages applications from women and minorities. Among our faculty currently, 20 percent are minority or international scholars and 40 percent are female.

Interested applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, evidence of successful teaching and scholarship, and statements of teaching and research interests. The application package, compiled as a single pdf file, should be uploaded to the application portal at <https://okstate.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?id=3593>; cindy.hutchinson@okstate.edu and rebekah.herrick@okstate.edu. Letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts can also be sent to cindy.hutchinson@okstate.edu. Please direct any academic inquiries to the search chair, Rebekah Herrick. Review of applications will commence on September 01, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. However, only complete applications will be assured of full consideration.

Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. 41 CFR 60-1.35(c)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2959

Franklin & Marshall College

Rank: Assistant Professor or Instructor, Public Policy

The Department of Government at Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor or Instructor, depending on qualifications, to begin Fall 2018. Responsibilities include teaching intermediate and advanced courses in domestic public policy and the introductory course in American government. The specific area of specialization within public policy is open.

Teaching experience is preferred. The teaching load is 3/2 and includes participation in the College's general education program, Connections.

Faculty maintain active research programs and contribute to the College's shared governance. Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, teaching and research statements, teaching evaluation forms and samples of scholarly writing to Professor Matthew Schousen at Interfolio <https://apply.interfolio.com/43079>. Deadline for application is October 1, 2017.

Pursuant to cultivating an inclusive college community, the search committee will holistically assess the qualifications of each applicant. We will consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds. We will also consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to academic success.

The person selected for this tenure-track position may also be considered for a supplemental appointment as a Franklin & Marshall (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar (M/HIES). These are scholars who possess outstanding promise for inspiring and supporting the educational development of underrepresented minority students in a higher educational setting such as F&M. High Impact Emerging Scholars demonstrate similarly high promise for positively impacting the campus' organizational and academic culture to make it more inclusive of and responsive to underrepresented minority students. Selected finalists that meet these additional qualifications, in addition to those outlined by this ad, may be nominated by the department as F&M (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar. If selected as a M/HIES, the person will receive a two-year appointment (additional to the tenure-track appointment) that begins as soon as the person joins the campus on the tenure-track. The M/HIES program supports the acceleration of one's research trajectory with a significantly reduced teaching load for two years along with supportive mentoring to advance the scholar's research and professional development. Candidates interested in being considered for nomination should indicate their interest in their cover letter and highlight any previous work in this area.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2951

University of Cincinnati

Rank: Associate Professor and Director of the Master of Public Administration Program

The Department of Political Science at the University of Cincinnati invites applications from candidates to serve as Director of a re-established Master of Public Administration program and as a faculty member at the rank of Associate Professor with tenure in Political Science. This appointment is scheduled to begin August 15, 2018.

Area of research specialization is open. Candidates whose work would contribute to university commitments to research on social justice, urban politics, and/or social inequity are encouraged to apply. While the appointment will be in Political Science, interested candidates would have the opportunity to establish affiliations in related departments. Candidates for this position must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration or Public Policy or other relevant field, and have a demonstrated record of successful teaching, research, and service.

Preferred candidates will have had direct involvement in a NASPAA-accredited MPA program, and be familiar with the accreditation process. The successful candidate will be expected to manage the restoration of the MPA program and strategically lead the program through accreditation. Responsibilities include conducting research, teaching core courses in the MPA program, and providing administrative oversight of the program.

Interested and qualified candidates must complete our online application located at <https://jobs.uc.edu> (Requisition #19789). In addition to the online application, candidates must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample of published or forthcoming research, evidence of successful teaching, contact information for three references, and a one-page statement addressing how your past or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance the University of Cincinnati's commitment to inclusive excellence, <http://www.uc.edu/inclusion.html>. Please direct any questions to Professor David Niven, Chair, Master of Public Administration Director Search Committee, at david.niven@uc.edu. We will begin reviewing applications September 10, 2017. However, we will continue to accept and review applications until the position is filled.

*APSA on-site interviews will be conducted between the hours of 12 Noon to 6 pm on Friday, September 1st and Saturday, September 2nd.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2953

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics with expertise on State and Local politics. Applicants should have completed a PhD in Political Science before September 2018.

The successful candidate will be expected to offer a variety of lower and upper division courses that meet the needs of the Department of Political Science and International Relations. The department has strengths in American national institutions, campaign and party politics, race and politics, environmental politics, international relations, comparative politics, political theory, and research methods. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach introductory and upper division courses in state and local politics, qualitative or quantitative research methods, and other courses in American politics that fit with his or her substantive interests. There will be opportunities for the successful candidate to lead the department's internship program in collaboration with other campus units, community organizations, and The Washington Center.

Candidates must be fully committed to liberal arts education and to excellence in teaching and student advising. Candidates must also demonstrate a significant scholarly agenda, and will be expected to engage actively in service at the departmental, college, and/or university levels after the first year. The normal teaching load is three courses every semester.

Competitive salary and benefits, including a travel allowance and other funding opportunities.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, official graduate transcripts, a description of the research agenda, three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and scholarly abilities, and a writing sample. Additionally, candidates must provide evidence of excellence in teaching, including a statement of teaching philosophy and a summary of teaching evaluations. The cover letter should make sure to describe the courses the candidate would prefer to teach.

Candidates are encouraged to submit their resumes and statements of interest at their earliest convenience. To ensure full consideration, applications must be complete by October 1. Please contact Search Committee Chair, Dr. Casey Dominguez with questions or to request an informal interview at the 2017 APSA conference in San Francisco, CA.

Dr. Casey Dominguez
caseydominguez@sandiego.edu
619.260.6870

To apply, go to www.sandiego.edu/jobs and search for IRC24238.

Letters of recommendation should be emailed to Tiffany Clark: tiffanyclark@sandiego.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2933

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Urban Politics, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Urban Studies, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and urban government and politics. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in urban policy and/or local government. Particular area(s) of specialization may include poverty, racial segregation, transportation, housing, infrastructure, homelessness, crime, education, collaborative governance, and/or economic development.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/16/2017
Date Posted: 6/26/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 2920

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747