

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

November 2017 | Volume 6, Issue 11

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 11
Comparative Politics 63
International Relations 122
Methodology 187
Non-Academic 204
Other 206
Political Theory 244
Public Administration 275
Public Law 296
Public Policy 305

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

November 2017 | Volume 6, Issue 11

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (11 listings)

American Government and Politics 11 (116 listings)

Comparative Politics 63 (125 listings)

International Relations 122 (136 listings)

Methodology 187 (37 listings)

Non-Academic 204 (4 listings)

Other 206 (72 listings)

Political Theory 244 (54 listings)

Public Administration 275 (42 listings)

Public Law 296 (21 listings)

Public Policy 305 (82 listings)

Total listings this issue 700

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for November

ADMINISTRATION

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Director

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) of the University of Pennsylvania is searching for a Director of the Center for the Advanced Study of India (CASI), who would also hold a tenured faculty position, to begin on July 1, 2018. Founded in 1992, CASI is the first research institution in the United States dedicated to the study of contemporary India. A national resource, it fills an urgent need for objective knowledge of India's politics and society, rapidly changing economy, and transformation as both an ancient civilization and major contemporary power. The Center's key goals are to nurture a new generation of scholars across disciplines and to provide a forum for dialogue among the academic, business, and foreign policy communities.

The Director should be distinguished by intellectual merit that meets the tenure standards at a major research university. The search is not limited to academics in traditional appointments, but the successful candidate would have a departmental home and an established reputation with the academy and the broader community. We prefer candidates whose research has policy relevance and concerns development issues broadly construed. The search is open to scholars from multiple disciplines, including but not limited to anthropology, economics, political science, public policy and administration, and sociology, and the candidate must be able to foster work from multiple disciplines and across disciplinary lines. The candidate is expected to teach in appropriate SAS undergraduate and graduate programs.

The successful candidate will have strong networks with scholars and relevant practitioners in India and a demonstrated capacity to direct a pre-eminent center, including skills of institutional entrepreneurship, constituency-building, staff development, governance, finances, fundraising, and overall management. These skills may have been acquired in either an academic or non-academic setting.

Appointment as Director will be for a five year renewable term. The Director will also hold the Madan Lal Sobti Chair for the Study of Contemporary India.

Please submit an application at <http://facultysearches.provost.upenn.edu/postings/1303> Include a letter of interest and a current curriculum vitae or resumé. Applications will be considered as they are received, and continue until the position is filled. The School of Arts and Sciences is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to creating a more diverse faculty (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>). The University of Pennsylvania is an EOE. Minorities/Women/Individuals with disabilities/Protected Veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3717

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department

Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2018, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamu.edu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective.

The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3679

James Madison University

Rank: Dean, College of Arts and Letters

James Madison University (JMU) invites applications and nominations for Dean of the College of Arts and Letters (CAL) who champions the vital role of the liberal arts and social sciences, by advocating for the essential contributions of the CAL disciplines in promoting knowledge and skills that can be applied in response to the social, political, ethical and environmental challenges facing our region, our nation and our world.

Reporting to the Provost, and serving on the senior academic leadership team, the Dean provides academic, intellectual, administrative and budgetary leadership for the College. In collaboration with academic unit heads, the Dean encourages a highly stimulating and creative learning environment for faculty and students, while supporting academic unit autonomy. The Dean champions recruitment, development, inclusion and retention of diverse and highly qualified faculty, students and staff. Working collaboratively with academic units, the Dean develops and leads strategic priorities for the College and its programs. The Dean raises the visibility of the College by representing all its disciplines to internal and external constituents and by advocating for faculty and student interests through advancement and development endeavors. The Dean advances academic unit efforts by supporting faculty research and creative endeavors, various teaching methods, curricular innovations, and other scholarly activities. As a transformative leader, the Dean facilitates innovation, communication and coordination of the College's initiatives in fulfilling JMU's vision to be the national model of the engaged university.

The College offers high-quality programs of specialized study in the social sciences, humanities and communication including several pre-professional and cross-disciplinary areas. CAL has 260 full-time faculty, 46 staff, 3,200 undergraduate majors and 125 graduate students. In line with the university's commitment to engaged learning and ethical reasoning practices, the College's array of challenging courses promotes lifelong learning by sharpening analytical abilities, improving communications skills, cultivating facility with written expression, enhancing cultural awareness, intensifying moral and aesthetic sensitivity, and enriching understanding of the way historical contexts inform the production of knowledge. College academic units include Departments of English; Foreign Languages, Literatures and Cultures; History; Justice Studies; Philosophy and Religion; Political Science; Sociology and Anthropology; and Schools of Communication Studies; Media Arts and Design; and Writing, Rhetoric and Technical Communication. All academic units actively participate in the university's General Education program. The College is committed to global engagement including a variety of faculty-led short-term and semester-long study abroad experiences for students. The faculty excels in teaching and values intellectual inquiry, scholarly and peer-reviewed research and creative endeavors. Faculty are committed to providing high impact learning experiences for students framed within a strong liberal arts tradition, creating environments for a rich exchange between faculty and students.

JMU seeks a dynamic and collaborative leader who possesses the following required qualifications:

1. Earned doctorate in a discipline relevant to the College;
2. Strong record of teaching, research, and university/professional service commensurate with an appointment as a tenured, full professor in one of the College's departments or schools;
3. Strong record of supporting and mentoring faculty and students;
4. Demonstrated commitment to increasing and strengthening diversity and inclusion among students, faculty and staff;
5. Demonstrated record of success as an academic unit head, chair or a similar position in academic administration;
6. Demonstrated commitment to excellence in undergraduate education and research;
7. Commitment to collaborating with The Graduate School to support strong graduate programs;

8. Success in building relationships with external constituents to increase visibility and financial support for the College;
9. Evidence of strong communication and interpersonal skills, as well as a collaborative and transparent leadership style.

Additional factors that are of interest to the search committee include:

- Ability to advance interdisciplinary initiatives, including digital initiatives that extend the accessibility of faculty research and creative endeavors;
- Record of innovation, creativity, and advocacy;
- Effective and collegial work with other leaders from a wide range of academic disciplines;
- Evidence of fostering community engagement and outreach; and
- Experience supporting faculty development.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled, with review of applications to begin November 15, 2017. The desired start date is July 1, 2018. Salary will be commensurate with experience.

James Madison University accepts applications only through JobLink (joblink.jmu.edu). Applications must include:

- A letter of application of no more than two pages that summarizes how the candidate's experiences align with required qualifications
- A concise (500-1,000 words) statement describing the candidate's vision for leadership (to include opportunities, strategies, and challenges) in each of the following areas:
 - o The centrality of the liberal arts in preparing twenty-first-century citizens and leaders,
 - o Opportunities to support and develop the scholarship and teaching profiles of CAL faculty, and
 - o The role of CAL in facilitating campus dialogue and advocacy on issues related to diversity and inclusion.
- A current curriculum vitae
- A list of at least five references with contact information

JMU is a selective, public, comprehensive university with an enrollment of more than 20,000 students located in the scenic Shenandoah Valley, two hours southwest of Washington, D.C. JMU has eight colleges (Arts and Letters, Business, Education, Health and Behavioral Studies, Honors, Integrated Science and Engineering, Science and Mathematics, and Visual and Performing Arts) and The Graduate School. JMU has an excellent national reputation involving strong student-centered undergraduate and graduate education. The university provides a distinct educational experience that combines a diversity of degree programs and learning opportunities offered by many larger institutions with an engaged, teacher-centered faculty traditionally found at a selective, liberal arts college. The university is committed to addressing complex, real-world problems and contemporary issues throughout its curriculum. JMU has received national recognition as one of the top public master's-level schools in the South (U.S. News and World Report). For more information about the university, visit www.jmu.edu.

James Madison University is an equal opportunity employer committed to creating and supporting a diverse and inclusive work and educational community that is free of all forms of discrimination. This institution does not tolerate discrimination or harassment on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, parental status, political affiliation, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. We promote access, inclusion and diversity for all students, faculty, staff, constituents and programs, believing that these qualities are foundational components of an outstanding education in keeping with our mission. The university is interested in candidates whose experience and qualifications support an ongoing commitment to this core quality. Anyone having questions concerning discrimination should contact the Office of Equal Opportunity: (540) 568-6991.

The search committee will consider only complete submissions. References will not be contacted until a candidate is being considered for a campus visit. To apply, go to <https://JobLink.jmu.edu> and reference posting number F1059. Individuals wishing to nominate candidates should submit a letter of nomination and complete contact information for the nominee to Chair, College of Arts and Letters Dean Search Committee, MSC 7503, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA 22807. Fax: 540-568-2995.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3654

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Tenure-Track Faculty in Indigenous Business

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Canada, Native American Politics, Leadership Studies

The Beedie School of Business at Simon Fraser University in Metro Vancouver, British Columbia seeks outstanding candidates for a tenure-track position to build on the School's strengths in the study and teaching of Indigenous business.

The School has created and established an Executive MBA in Aboriginal Business and Leadership, now in its third cohort, which draws students from across Canada and is the only program of its kind outside of New Zealand. The degree is part of SFU's wider commitment to leadership in the scholarship of Indigenous issues, and community engagement more broadly. The School wishes to complement the development of globally-recognized graduate teaching in Indigenous business with an equally strong research base. It will be the new hire's primary responsibility to work on and catalyze that research agenda. Meaningful research in this area will be first and foremost publishable in top academic journals, and additionally engaged with real-world issues and communities or organizations. The development of published teaching cases on Indigenous business would make a valuable contribution as part of the successful hire's impactful research agenda, but ideally only in synergy with rigorous, peer-reviewed publications.

The successful candidate will have a strong research and publication record, or potential to develop such a record, in one or more of our existing areas of business including, but not limited to, organizational behaviour, entrepreneurship, sustainable development, public policy of business or strategy. We also welcome the interest of exceptional candidates with expertise in Aboriginal contexts who may have been trained in a core discipline like economics, sociology, law or political science, but who can see the potential in pivoting their research agenda to focus on business and related issues. We do expect candidates to be able to demonstrate familiarity with Indigenous business and economic development. Additionally, the candidate must have demonstrated teaching competence at the undergraduate, graduate, and/or executive education levels, with potential to become a very strong teacher to experienced executive MBA students. A Ph.D. is required by August 2018. Candidates of any rank are welcome to apply, however the School has a preference for an assistant or junior associate professor.

The Beedie School of Business is recognized as a top ranked research school, is accredited by both AACSB and EQUIS, and is signatory to Principles for Responsible Management Education. We have programs at the Undergraduate, Masters, Ph.D. and Executive levels, including Canada's first Executive MBA program.

SFU Beedie was named following a $22 million gift from alumnus Ryan Beedie and his father Keith in 2011. The donation has allowed the school to build on its strong reputation as a global leader in research, while pursuing its strategic vision of developing innovative and socially responsible business leaders with a global perspective through education. The successful candidate will share Beedie's commitment to diversity, engagement and generating positive change in its communities.

With three award-winning British Columbia campuses located in Burnaby, Surrey and downtown Vancouver, Simon Fraser University offers a strong research environment in a dynamic Pacific Rim setting that is ranked by the Economist Intelligence Unit as the world's most liveable city. For further details about the Beedie School of Business, visit our website at: <http://www.beedie.sfu.ca/>.

Your complete application including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a published work that best represents your current research profile and teaching evaluations, should be submitted in electronic format to chair_busappts@sfu.ca. Please ask three references to send confidential letters of recommendation directly to chair_busappts@sfu.ca. Applications should clearly specify the competition number (2017ABL) and the position title. Unfortunately, we are unable to process general applications at this time.

For best consideration, complete applications must be received by the initial deadline for applications, November 15, 2017, although applications will be accepted until the position is filled. A strong candidate whose job market timing will resolve before November can reach out to us earlier, noting the time conflict. We anticipate the position will start September 1, 2018 or on a mutually agreed upon date.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and Permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is committed to the principle of equity in employment and offers equal employment opportunities to qualified applicants. All positions are subject to budgetary approval and approval by the Board of Governors.

Under the authority of the University Act, personal information required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html

For further details regarding this position, please see the following web site:

<http://beedie.sfu.ca/about/openings>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3380

McMaster University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR (or Junior Associate), SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY

The Social Psychology program at McMaster University, in partnership with the Department of Political Science and Department of Sociology, invites applications for a tenure-track position starting July 1, 2018 at the rank of Assistant Professor (or junior Associate Professor level in exceptional circumstances).

This position reflects a novel collaboration in the Faculty of Social Sciences. The successful applicant will be appointed in either Political Science or Sociology, as appropriate given background and training, but will commit half their core teaching to the Social Psychology program and will fulfil their administrative responsibilities primarily in the program.

The Social Psychology program is a multidisciplinary undergraduate program that allows students to explore the relationship between individual and society through courses in a broad range of disciplines. We seek an outstanding candidate who will contribute to the development of the LAW, JUSTICE, CRIME AND DEVIANCE stream within the program and whose research interests fall within this general area. Among the topics covered in this stream are social psychological approaches to crime, criminality, deviance, dissent and extra-legal mobilization (including cybercrime and hacktivism); mechanisms of social control (including policing, law enforcement, and medicalization); deviant identities; pathologies of law, power and social control (including authoritarianism); decision-making and persuasion (including jury deliberation); violence, terrorism and fear (including genocide).

The Department of Political Science is a leading centre for the study of contemporary political developments in the areas of governance, institutions and public policy; equality, identity and representation; sovereignty, democracy, immigration and citizenship; and international conflict, security and authoritarianism. At the graduate level, the Department offers MA degrees in Political Science and International Relations, and PhDs in Comparative Public Policy and International Relations. The Department also offers a range of undergraduate degrees, including an Honours BA with a Specialization in Public Law and Judicial Studies as well as a Minor in Law, Justice and Order.

The Department of Sociology is a leading, research-intensive department, seeking to advance the discipline, build Canadian Sociology, and help globalize the sociological imagination. McMaster Sociology is committed to enhancing diversity and to fortifying the strengths of current faculty and students in: Education, Work and Occupations; Gender, Sexuality and Family; Political Sociology, Social Movements and Social Policy; Race, Ethnicity and Immigration; Social Inequality, and Social Psychology. The Department offers both undergraduate and graduate (MA and PhD) degrees.

Applicants must either hold a PhD or be expected to complete their PhD by July 1, 2018. Indicators of potential for excellence in research and teaching are essential. As a full-time faculty member in the Faculty of Social Sciences, and consistent with McMaster's vision of being a student-centred, research-intensive university, the successful applicant will be expected to develop a dynamic program research yielding significant peer-reviewed publications, to attract external peer-reviewed research funding, and to demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching, mentorship, and curriculum development, including teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and supervising graduate students.

Applications must include the following: a letter of interest, a current curriculum vitae including a list of publications, a statement of teaching and research interests, a selection of research papers and three letters of reference (see below).

Application materials should be sent by e-mail to socpsyrecruit@mcmaster.ca, with a subject line that reads "Law, Justice, Crime and Deviance Position" followed by your full name. Applicants must arrange to have three letters of reference sent to the same address with the same subject line.

Review of applications begins on November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. McMaster University is strongly committed to employment equity within its community, and to recruiting a diverse faculty and staff. For more information about the Social Psychology program or the Departments of Political Science or Sociology, please consult:

<https://socialsciences.mcmaster.ca/>

To comply with the Government of Canada's reporting requirements, the University is obliged to gather information about applicants' status as either Permanent Residents of Canada or Canadian citizens. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or current citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements:

"Yes, I am a citizen or permanent resident of Canada."

"No, I am not a citizen or permanent resident of Canada."

Employment Equity Statement

In keeping with its Statement on Building an Inclusive Community with a Shared Purpose, McMaster University strives to embody the values of respect, collaboration and diversity, and has a strong commitment to employment equity. The diversity of our workforce is at the core of our innovation and creativity and strengthens our research and teaching excellence. The University seeks qualified candidates who share our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion. While all qualified candidates are invited to apply, we particularly welcome applications from women, persons with disabilities, First Nations, Métis and Inuit peoples, members of visible minorities, and LGBTQ+ persons. Job applicants requiring accommodation to participate in the hiring process should contact the Human Resources Service Centre at 905-525-9140 ext. 222-HR (22247) or the Faculty of Health Sciences Human Resources office at ext. 22207 to communicate accommodation needs.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3598

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3560

Princeton University

Rank: Professional Specialist - The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invites applications for the position of Professional Specialist. Reporting to the Director of the Niehaus Center, the professional specialist will work with faculty members, visiting fellows, and graduate students associated with the Niehaus Center to provide statistical and technical support for their research projects. The position requires one to work closely with associates of the Center to provide timely and creative support for research and computing. The successful candidate will create analytic datasets and perform complex statistical analyses of data, using advanced econometric and other statistical methods. The ability to write computer programs to manipulate information, devise programs for estimating econometric models, and to create and manage an active internet site are important aspects of this position. In addition, the successful candidate should be able to write summaries of research, perform literature searches and reviews, and post and retrieve information from the internet.

QUALIFICATIONS

ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATIONS:

- Excellent research and writing skills
- Proficiency in statistics and econometrics
- Strong background in quantitative, experimental research and statistical methods.
- Knowledge of scripting or high-level programming language, like Python or Java

- Knowledge of statistical packages including STATA, SAS, and/or R
- Knowledge of standard internet tools and HTML
- Familiarity with standard political science, economics and/or sociology data sources

EDUCATION REQUIRED:

- Master's degree in a social science discipline such as Politics, Economics or Sociology. Ph.D. preferred.

The successful candidate must be well-organized, attentive to detail, and able to respond to deadlines in a timely manner. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

TO APPLY

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3341> and submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, transcript and contact information for two reference.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3299

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Administration

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for professor and endowed chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required.

Successful applicants will teach in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/9587>.

The committee will begin considering applications on September 15, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3287

Princeton University

Rank: Professor, Contemporary India

Princeton University seeks qualified candidates for a tenured professorship in any discipline, including the arts, the humanities, the social sciences, engineering and the natural sciences. Candidates are required to have regional expertise on India, knowledge of relevant foreign languages, and experience managing a center or program. In addition to contributing to their respective disciplinary department and to the wider research community of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS), they are expected to broaden Princeton's international networks and strengthen regional course offerings at the University. Field of specialization is open.

Applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a brief letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae and a list of references, but no publications, letters of recommendation or writing samples at this time. For fullest consideration, please apply by October 2, 2017.

Essential Qualifications:

Excellence in a recognized field or discipline. Regional expertise on India.

Further questions about this position may be directed to Susan Bindig at susanb@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3236

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Nonprofit Management and Policy, Assistant/Associate Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy in the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Nonprofit Management and Policy position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates should be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

Our program on Nonprofit Management, ranked 10th in US News and World Report, emphasizes the "nuts and bolts" of operating and sustaining nonprofit organizations and the tactics and strategies of creating social change toward greater equity and justice. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality nonprofit management and policy research in these areas. Candidates conducting research on nonprofit governance, resource generation and sustainability, nonprofit public policy, policy advocacy, collaboration, and/or nonprofit networks are especially encouraged to apply. We are open to scholars conducting research in domestic, international or global contexts, and who use qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Senior applicants should have a well-established research program; junior applicants should have a trajectory to develop a tenurable research record.
- Applicants must be able to teach in Nonprofit Management and in core Public Policy or Public Administration courses, and be able to, or have the potential to, fulfill the mission and goals of Rockefeller College.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in Public Administration, Public Management, Public Affairs, or an allied field such as Sociology or Political Science.
- Experience in a nonprofit organization, and working on or writing research grants for external funding, will be considered a plus in the selection process but not a requirement.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant or Associate Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86289>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- Cover letter addressed to Jennifer Dodge, Chair of the Search Committee
- Curriculum vitae
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (associate faculty only submit teaching evaluations for the past 4 semesters)
- Three letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts, emailed to PADsearch@albany.edu

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.). See the FAQ for using our online system. Please contact us if you need assistance applying through this website.

Returning Applicants - Login to your UAlbany Careers Account to check your completed application.

A review of applications will start October 1, 2017 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2945

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Public Management, Assistant Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy at the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Public Management position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality public management research and who employ a variety of methodological approaches. Applicants must have a research agenda that demonstrates a substantial, on-going interest in government and the public sector. Candidates conducting research on public sector collaboration, contracting, organizational behavior and theory, performance management, or strategic management are especially encouraged to apply.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Applicants must have a trajectory that suggests a tenurable research record is likely.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in public administration, public management, public affairs, or an allied field such as sociology or psychology.
- Experience obtaining or a willingness to pursue grants is also a plus.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>.

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86300>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- Cover letter addressed to Edmund C. Stazyk, Chair of the Search Committee
- Curriculum vitae
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations, if available
- Three letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts, emailed to PADsearch@albany.edu

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.).

See the FAQ for using our online system. Please contact us if you need assistance applying through this website.

Returning Applicants - Login to your UAlbany Careers Account to check your completed application.

A review of applications will start on September 1, 2017 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2939

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Harvard University

Rank: Frank Stanton Professorship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Economic Policy, Religion & Politics

Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government seeks applications from scholars of American democracy, politics, and institutions for a chaired, tenured professorship. The position is broadly defined to attract accomplished scholars whose research has important implications for the health, quality, and durability of the United States' liberal democratic system. Scholars who conduct empirical or normative research on issues related to the politics of speech, assembly, media, association, or religion in America are particularly welcome to apply. The search is open to candidates from a wide array of disciplines, including political science, law, history, economics, sociology, and communications. The ideal applicant, who is expected to hold the Frank Stanton Professorship, will have produced influential scholarship that advances clear and compelling analytical perspectives, will have demonstrated a commitment to applying those perspectives in order to solve public problems, and will seek to engage with policymakers, practitioners, and the public. Applicants must also be able to fulfill the distinctive teaching and institutional requirements of a school of public policy that trains leaders and citizens and generates ideas to address national and international challenges. The Harvard Kennedy School is committed to building a diverse intellectual community. We therefore encourage applications from women and minorities.

Applicants should submit a CV and a letter of interest. Applications received by December 31, 2017 will receive full consideration. Applications should be addressed to: Stanton Chair Search, c/o Donald Olander, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, 79 JFK Street, Cambridge, MA 02138 USA, e-mail: don_olander@hks.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3716

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Other

The University of Arkansas at Little Rock invites nominations and applications for a twelve-month appointment as associate or full professor (with tenure) to serve as the Director of the School of Public Affairs (position #R99296), with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2018. A Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Affairs, or a related field is required. Applicants with the rank of full professor are desirable, although associate professor applicants and academically qualified candidates not currently in a faculty position will also be considered.

The selected candidate will lead a diverse and dynamic group of scholars and practitioners in building UA Little Rock's newly founded School of Public Affairs. The School is part of the College of Social Sciences & Communication (CSSC), a community of teacher-scholars and professionals whose mission is to apply theory and research to drive social change and inspire human expression, reflection, and interconnection (see ualr.edu/cssc).

UA Little Rock's School of Public Affairs (SPA) includes a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration, graduate certificate programs in Nonprofit Management and Conflict Management, Bachelor's degree programs in Political Science, International Studies, Legal Studies, Community Management and Development, and undergraduate minor programs in Nonprofit Leadership Studies and Presidential Studies. It also participates in a joint JD/MPA program with the UA Little Rock Bowen School of Law. The School also houses the Survey Research Center, the Center for Nonprofit Organizations, and the Center for Public Collaboration. The Survey Research Center provides a full range of survey research services and is one of the largest not-for-profit survey research organizations in the mid-South.

The School of Public Affairs is also the organizational home of the Arkansas Public Administration Consortium (APAC), a consortium between the MPA programs at UA Little Rock, UA Fayetteville, and Arkansas State University. The Arkansas Public Administration Consortium offers a nationally accredited Certified Public Manager training program, as well as Arkansas Government Manager and Certified Volunteer Management certificate programs. It also provides tailored training for local and county government groups. The School enjoys close relationships with state and local government leaders and nonprofit organizations. For more information about all the programs in the SPA, consult the School webpage at <http://ualr.edu/publicaffairs/>.

Desired Qualifications:

The School seeks an experienced, dynamic, entrepreneurial, collaborative, and engaged leader who will leverage the potential of the School, its faculty, and its students in scholarly and applied research, external funding (grants and contracts), technical outreach and public service, teaching, and fundraising. Supporting evidence of the ability to attract external funding and to develop and manage collaboration with stakeholders is highly desirable. The ability to teach public administration courses in the graduate programs, including methodology courses, is desirable. Evidence of accomplishments and innovation in administration, scholarship, and community engagement; professional experience in public or nonprofit management; a commitment to diversity and student success; and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching will all enhance an application for this position.

The Director's primary responsibilities are to:

- ? Serve as the chief administrative officer of the School;
- ? Further develop the School's strategic direction;
- ? Provide leadership for the School as a whole, including working with and collaborating with program and center coordinators;
- ? Ensure that budgetary decision-making and execution are driven by principle, transparency, consultation, and accountability;
- ? Continually develop vibrant and productive relationships with stakeholders and the community at large;
- ? Advance the applied and academic research profile of the School in the community and in the profession, nationally and internationally;
- ? Encourage and enhance academic connections with other units in the College of Social Sciences and across the University; and
- ? Support and advance the College and University missions.

The Director joins the leadership team of the College of Social Sciences and Communication (CSSC) and reports to the CSSC Dean. The Director collaborates closely with and is accountable to the School's faculty as well, and is responsible for leading the development and operation of the School. The Director is appointed by the Executive Vice Chancellor and Provost of the University, acting upon the recommendation of the School's faculty and CSSC Dean.

General Information about UA Little Rock and the Broader Metropolitan Community

UA Little Rock is a research intensive public urban/metropolitan university located in the state capital. It enrolls around 11,000 students per semester, including over 1,800 graduate students. UA Little Rock supports a full range of undergraduate programs, 38 master's programs, a law degree, and eight doctoral programs. UA Little Rock is part of the University of Arkansas system. UA Little Rock supports neighborhood revitalization through the University District working with housing, education, public safety, and commercial development in the neighborhoods surrounding the campus.

Little Rock is the capital city and the largest metropolitan area in Arkansas, boasting affordable housing, proximity to wilderness and recreational areas, and numerous cultural and civic attractions, including the William J. Clinton Presidential Library, the Arkansas Studies Institute, the Arkansas Arts Center, the Arkansas Repertory Theater, and the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra. The larger Little Rock area has a population of 900,000 people and is the state center for government, medicine, commerce and the arts.

Application materials must be submitted through the online application system. Additional information about these positions are available under the Jobs link on the Human Resources' website at <http://ualr.edu/humanresources/>. Consideration of applications will begin on December 1, 2017. Incomplete applications cannot be considered; any materials not submitted as requested using the online application system renders an application incomplete. Inquiries about the position may be made to Dr. April Chatham-Carpenter, chair of the search committee, at axchathamca@ualr.edu or by phone at 501-569-3158.

The position is subject to a pre-employment criminal and financial history background check. A criminal conviction or arrest pending adjudication and/or adverse financial history alone shall not disqualify an applicant in the absence of a relationship to the requirements of the position. Background check information will be used in a confidential, non-discriminatory manner consistent with state and federal law.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: $110,000 - $119,999

eJobs ID: 3713

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Arkansas invites applications for 9-month Visiting Assistant Professor. The duties and responsibilities of this Visiting Assistant Professor position entail contributing to the teaching mission of the department and conducting research in a field related to Political Science. The teaching load is 3-3 with a focus on American national government, public administration, and public policy.

Regular, reliable, and non-disruptive attendance is an essential job duty, as is the ability to create and maintain collegial, harmonious working relationships with others.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/30/2017

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3678

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Conflict Analysis and Resolution

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Conflict Analysis and Resolution

The Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies at the University of San Diego invites applications for an open rank, tenure-track position in Conflict Analysis and Resolution beginning in September 2018. The preferred candidate will have a strong record of teaching and scholarship that can contribute to the Kroc School's expanding graduate programs in Peace and Justice, Social Innovation, and Conflict Management and Resolution, including in the areas of religion and environment. Field-based experience in conflict resolution/transformation, conflict prevention and peacebuilding in the U.S. or abroad is strongly preferred. The successful candidate must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment.

We welcome applications from faculty coming from peace and conflict studies, religious studies, sociology, history, psychology, anthropology, political science, international relations or related fields whose teaching and research agendas intersect substantively with conflict resolution.

The successful applicant will teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and will contribute to building the School's interdisciplinary academic programs. To be successful in our environment, you must be able to teach courses by integrating out-of-the-classroom experiential learning and community engagement. Candidates must demonstrate strong teaching experience as well as a commitment to program development and institution building.

To apply, please go to <http://apptrkr.com/1110340> and look for job #IRC25319. For full consideration, please upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), a summary of teaching evaluations (if applicable), and a writing sample the length of a typical research article or book chapter. Three confidential letters of references must be submitted separately to: krocreferences@sandiego.edu. Correspondence regarding this position should be directed to Lee Ann Otto at: lotto@sandiego.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2017; applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.

The University of San Diego is a Roman Catholic Institution committed to advancing academic excellence, expanding liberal and professional knowledge, creating a diverse and inclusive community, and preparing leaders dedicated to ethical conduct and compassionate service. USD is an Equal Opportunity employer, and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from underrepresented and underserved groups are encouraged to apply.

jeid-daa0026fa960734ca5cfc05f69318401

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3703

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought with an anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on American constitutionalism and institutions, and American political thought; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: expertise and interest in the American presidency with a historical focus, and in civic education and leadership; interest in the study, teaching, and discussion of civic education and leadership as well as the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is December 1, 2017; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: American Politics Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Peter McNamara; email: peter.mcnamara@asu.edu.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3697

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2018. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to teach substantive courses in American Politics and contribute to the department's graduate and undergraduate programs in quantitative methods. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Applications received by November 6, 2017 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities – Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics.

Please contact the search committee chair, David Darmofal (darmofal@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3700

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy of Race

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Political Economy, Social Movements

The Department of African American Studies at Emory University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor training in one of the social science disciplinary areas who will engage research and teaching focused on the Political Economy of Race. We seek scholars working on racialized structures of inequality. The successful candidate will 1) provide evidence of research projects in-progress or published; 2) demonstrate commitment to undergraduate teaching in diverse settings; and 3) envision, and be prepared to implement, cross-disciplinary collaborations with other Emory Departments. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester. The Ph.D is required by the time of appointment.

Applicants should know that this hire in the Political Economy of Race is proceeding alongside similar Assistant Professor searches in the social sciences at Emory University: one in Sociology for the Sociology of Race and the other in Oxford Division of Social Sciences (an Emory campus) for Critical Race Theory.

Applications are due December 11, 2017. Please submit a letter of interest, inclusive of current and planned research; a teaching statement that describes experiences with, and commitment to, teaching a diverse student body; curriculum vitae, three letters of support; and a writing sample of no more than 25 pages. Only applications submitted through Interfolio will be considered.

<http://apply.interfolio.com/46493>

Emory University, in Atlanta, Georgia, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3694

Presbyterian College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Health Care, Life Sciences & Politics, Science & Technology

Tenure-Track Position/Department of Political Science at Presbyterian College

The Political Science Department at Presbyterian College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American Politics or Policy to begin in the Fall 2018 semester. The ideal candidate will have teaching or research interests that include health care policy, management, administration or politics and who will work with current faculty to develop a health policy-related concentration within the political science major. The successful candidate will also contribute to the department by teaching in its current introductory and upper-level offerings in public administration, public policy, research methods and/or American politics, broadly defined.

Demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, research, student advising, and service to the College and community are essential for successful applicants. The candidate selected will be expected to offer seven courses per year (3-4 teaching load). Applications from those with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related fields and very advanced ABDs will be considered. Candidates who represent diverse backgrounds are especially encouraged to apply.

Presbyterian College is a four-year undergraduate liberal-arts college affiliated with the Presbyterian Church USA. The college supports academic freedom and encourages community involvement. Located in Clinton, South Carolina, PC is approximately 40 minutes from the Greenville and Spartanburg, S.C. metro area and about one hour from Columbia, S.C. The region offers abundant opportunities for social and recreational activities in one of the fastest growing regions of the country and easy access to Charlotte, N.C., Asheville, N.C., and Atlanta, GA.

Interested individuals should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching experience and philosophy, college and graduate school transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Justin Lance, Associate Professor of Political Science, Presbyterian College, 503 South Broad Street, Clinton, SC, 29325. Electronic submissions of application materials are encouraged and should be sent to politicalscience@presby.edu. For specific questions regarding the position, please contact Dr. Justin Lance directly at jelance@presby.edu. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled.

Presbyterian College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The College seeks to hire the most qualified candidate and does not discriminate against any legally protected class.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3670

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Presidency, Research Methods, American Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Academic accomplishment in Political Science with an emphasis in American Politics/Congress/Presidency (Ph.D. required); (ii) Authoritative knowledge of American political development, institutions, and political participation and experience teaching American politics; (iii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate courses in American politics and other related sub-fields; (iv) Ability to conduct research and present results in a variety of media; (v) Ability to lead and guide student research and offer academic counseling and mentorship.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 3672

Democracy Fund

Rank: Project Manager

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Non-Academic

Specializations: Electoral Systems, Electoral Behavior, Quantitative Methods

VOTER STUDY GROUP PROJECT MANAGER – CONTRACT ROLE

Position Description

Overview and Responsibilities

The Democracy Fund Voter Study Group is a research collaboration comprised of nearly two dozen analysts and scholars from across the political spectrum offering new data and analysis exploring American voters' beliefs and behaviors. The mission of the Voter Study Group is to help policy makers and thought leaders listen more closely, and respond more powerfully, to the views of American voters. We hope the study group's research and analysis will help us understand each other and make our democracy more functional.

In June, the Voter Study Group released its first four reports based on a unique longitudinal survey commissioned by the group (www.voterstudygroup.org). Further quantitative and qualitative research will be commissioned in the future, which will be designed and analyzed by study group members.

The Project Manager is a contract role that will be responsible for the day-to-day management of the group's research and communications, working closely with the Voter Study Group's Project Director and Research Director, as well as the Democracy Fund communications teams. We anticipate that this will be a part-time contract position, but are open to explore different working relationships for the right candidate.

Project Manager responsibilities include:

- Research Design
 - o Participate in the research design process for new research commissioned by the Voter Study Group
 - o Ensure adequate input from members into the design of the original research
 - o Work with the research director on developing and finalizing research designs, including research questions and questionnaire
- Research Analysis
 - o Work with members of the study group to conduct in-depth analyses of commissioned research
 - o Edit papers written by study group members and solicit feedback from study group members
 - o Work with members of the communications team to design and publish papers written by the group
 - o Present research findings to key audiences
- Communication
 - o Coordinate with the communications team on outreach to media and other key audiences to disseminate research findings
 - o Coordinate with the communications team on the development and maintenance of the project web site
 - o Produce content for the project web site to communicate new findings
- Event Management
 - o Organize events to support dialogue among the Voter Study Group
 - o Manage the planning and orchestration of public facing events with media and other leaders to discuss and disseminate research findings

- Study Group Management
- o Maintain communication among members of the study group
- o Support recruitment of new members of the study group

Qualifications

- PhD in political science, public policy, or related field
- Exceptional writing and editing skills
- Demonstrated project management skills
- Strong quantitative analysis skills, including an ability to use statistical programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data
- Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including multiple regression analysis
- Significant experience in the design of public opinion research
- Experience with publishing academic research
- Willingness to work with scholars from across the political spectrum
- Professional maturity, high sense of personal responsibility and integrity, proven ability to exercise discretion and good judgment
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products
- Flexibility and initiative to work both independently and as part of a team
- Deep passion for strengthening American democracy
- The position is based in the Washington, DC, area.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter explaining their interest in the position and the organization and resume to <http://www.democracyfund.org/page/jobs#VSGPM>. No phone calls please.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3660

Sonoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Sonoma State University Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship to teach undergraduate courses in American Political Institutions, and graduate courses in Public Policy and/or Public Administration. The ability to teach advanced undergraduate courses in such policy areas as immigration or healthcare policy, or on topics dealing with race, ethnicity, and similar issues is especially desirable. The successful candidate will also be expected to teach introductory American Government and Research Methods, and needs to be comfortable working with both undergraduate and graduate students. Candidates with a record of scholarly activity with students and a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse populations are encouraged to apply.

To obtain the full position opportunity announcement, please go to: http://web.sonoma.edu/aa/docs/poas/tt/poa_104469.pdf.

To apply for this position, go to <http://www.sonoma.edu/jobs/> by November 12, 2017.

For additional information about the position, candidates may contact Dr. Robert McNamara, Department of Political Science, Sonoma

State University, 1801 E. Cotati Avenue, Rohnert Park, CA 94928-3609.

Sonoma State is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/12/2017

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3664

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: 3-Year Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin Fall 2018. The successful candidate will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/21/2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3661

Yale University

Rank: Junior Scholar Postdoctoral Associate

The Center for the Study of American Politics at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) is offering research fellowships for postdoctoral scholars working on projects in American Politics. Fellowship positions are open to those who have recently completed their Ph.D. (in the last 6 years), or to those who currently hold a faculty position as long as it is without tenure. Junior scholars are generally supported at a standard postdoctoral level for a period of one year and are expected to be in residence during the academic year. They will also be expected to participate in the activities of the Center which include a weekly seminar. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and may, in some cases, include minimal teaching responsibilities.

Yale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Please send cover letter, research statement, current C.V., one writing sample, and two letters of recommendation. A copy of graduate transcripts is also required for postdoctoral applicants not currently holding a faculty position. Application materials should be submitted online at <https://academicjobsonline/ajo/jobs/10224>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration. For more information, contact the Yale Center for the Study of American Politics at csap@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3649

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Specializations: American Politics, Political Behavior, Quantitative Methods

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2018. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis. Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Doctorate required. Salary is negotiable.

Yale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Please submit cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10216>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications if there is still a vacancy. For more information, contact the Yale Center for the Study of American Politics by email at csap@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3647

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Policy at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2018

pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2018. We seek applications from candidates with research and teaching interests in Public Policy. Candidates from across all subfields of Political Science and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Areas of particular interest for the department include environmental policy, political economy, public health, race, gender and social justice. Individuals with cross-cutting disciplinary and/or methodological interests are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in Public Policy and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and letters from at least three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries please contact: Public Policy Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students. The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to diversifying its work force. Applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3643

St. Joseph's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

Saint Joseph's University

Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Saint Joseph's University in Philadelphia invites applications for a tenure track position with the rank of Assistant Professor commencing in August 2018, with primary expertise in the area of American Politics. Area of specialization within American Politics is open, with the exceptions of Constitutional Law, the Supreme Court, or Gender Politics.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach three courses each semester, including Intro to American Politics, and offer one upper division course each year within the applicant's area of expertise. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach one or more of the following upper division courses: urban politics, political participation, mass media and politics, environmental politics, and/or public policy.

Applicants should have a PhD in hand in Political Science or closely related discipline (or be at least ABD in Political Science or closely related discipline, with PhD expected by August of 2018 and in hand before starting the position). Other requirements include an active research agenda and a desire to work with department colleagues to build a vibrant, diverse, inclusive, and sustainable program of study within the context of a Jesuit Institution committed to a broad-based liberal arts education and social justice. College-level teaching experience is preferred, and an interest in developing service-learning and/or experiential-learning courses is a plus.

Applications should include a cover letter describing the applicant's area of expertise, curriculum vitae, transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, samples of scholarly writing/publications, along with the names and email addresses of three letter of recommendation providers. If available, include example syllabi of previously taught courses and evidence of effective teaching/teaching evaluations. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2017 and all applications must be submitted by October 31, 2017 for consideration. Interviewing will begin in November.

SJU is a Jesuit University in the western suburbs of Philadelphia, the sixth largest city in the U.S. The Political Science program has approximately one hundred majors, and the department also includes a vibrant International Relations program.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Essential Duties: (not limited to)

The teaching requirement for this position includes 6 classes taught over the course of the Fall and Spring semesters. Expectations for this position also include demonstrated teaching effectiveness, an active research agenda that eventually results in a successful record of academic publications, service to the department and university, and thoughtful student advising and guidance.

Minimum Requirements:

(Education/Training and Experience)

PhD in Political Science or closely related field, with primary specialization in American Politics; or ABD in Political Science or closely related discipline, with PhD expected by August of 2018 and in hand before starting the position.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience teaching at the college level

Experience teaching in a liberal arts college setting

Experience with instructional technologies

Experience with online education

On-line applications only. Please provide a letter of application/interest and resume. For a complete description of position responsibilities, qualifications, and to apply, please visit: <https://jobs.sju.edu/postings/14496>.

Saint Joseph's University is a private, Catholic, and Jesuit institution and expects members of its community to be knowledgeable about its mission and make positive contributions to that mission. Saint Joseph's is an equal opportunity employer that seeks to recruit, develop and retain a talented and diverse workforce.

EOE M/F/D/V

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/tgbsmnqxmndwqctw7>

PI99798537

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3618

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics beginning August 16, 2018. The successful candidate should have a strong research agenda that will lead to a body of quality peer-reviewed published work in political science. The position is open to applicants in all areas of American politics, behavior and/or institutions. In addition to their specific substantive concerns, we are interested in candidates who are prepared to teach graduate courses in research methods. A completed Ph.D. in political science is required for appointment at the level of Assistant Professor. The University of Alabama is the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system, and the Department offers the B.A., M.A., MPA and PhD degrees. To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41902> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, sample publications or papers and teaching evaluations (if available), and a transcript of graduate work (upload to other document 1 tab). Send three letters of recommendation directly to American Politics Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Alabama, PO Box 870213, Tuscaloosa AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrick@ua.edu (please state position in email). For more information, contact Carol Cassel, Search Committee Chair, at ccassel@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3614

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. The position is offered for one year starting in July 2018, with an expected salary of $62,000 plus benefits. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Batten faculty member, Craig Volden, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking.

A PhD degree in Political Science or related disciplines is required. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are also required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred.

To apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0621894, and complete a candidate profile. Include a CV, three letters of reference (submit to "Other 1"), a cover letter, and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking during the postdoc (submit to "Other 2"). Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center.

For immediate consideration, please apply by November 15th, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/13/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3617

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

Whittier College
 Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position in American Politics beginning Fall 2018. The Department seeks candidates qualified to teach in at least two of the following areas: Public Law (especially Constitutional Law and Judicial Processes); Public Administration; and American Politics (especially Introduction to American Politics, and with a preference for candidates who can teach courses on American political institutions, such as Presidency and Congress). We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: public policy, political theory, minority politics, environmental politics, and/or state and local politics with an emphasis on California.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2018. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach six courses and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as Freshman Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of applications will begin October 20th. Please email (PDFs preferred) a letter of application that includes a statement of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation sent by the references to Professor Deborah Norden, Chair, at dnorden@whittier.edu. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Professor Deborah Norden, Chair, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3611

Colorado State University, Pueblo

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Tenure Track)

The Department of History, Political Science, Philosophy, and Geography at Colorado State University-Pueblo, a regional comprehensive university and Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI), seeks an outstanding scholar of American politics to serve as a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. The successful candidate will show demonstrated ability or clear potential to teach an introductory course in American national politics as well as upper-level courses in the Congress, the Presidency, and National Elections. The ability to teach courses in political theory would also be valuable. It is also expected that the successful candidate will engage in scholarly activities appropriate to this discipline.

Applicants must be able to work as a collegial part of a multi-disciplinary team including political scientists, historians, philosophers, and geographers. The successful candidate will take an active part in advising students in our majors, minors, and certificates, and in promoting our programs. As with every faculty position, it is expected that the successful candidate participate in service-related activities of the University.

POSITION DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

All responsibilities of faculty members at CSU-Pueblo are in accordance with the Faculty Handbook. The Faculty Handbook is the authoritative guide on specific requirements with regard to teaching assignments, scholarly activity, research, and service.

Primary Duties

-- Teach baccalaureate level political science courses as needed by the program (12 credit hours per semester). This includes preparing and presenting course materials; administering appropriate tests; evaluating student outcomes; selecting and ordering texts; preparing, administering and grading assignments; and assigning final grades. Evidence of teaching success or potential is required upon application.

-- Conducts and maintains an active research agenda. This includes conducting research, presenting research at appropriate conferences, and publishing in appropriate scholarly venues. Evidence of an active research agenda is required upon application.

-- Participate in service related activities. This includes advising political science majors and minors, to include graduation requirements, course scheduling, and overall progress; counseling students considering departmental or department-supported majors and minors, to include graduation requirements and course scheduling; and participating in the shared governance and administrative responsibilities of the department, college, and university.

Ancillary Duties

-- General administrative duties, to include preparation of reports, attendance at departmental meetings and functions, and support of departmental recruiting and retention initiatives.

QUALIFICATIONS:

Preferred Qualifications

- Ph.D., Political Science, or a closely related field (public policy, government, public administration, etc.)
- University level teaching experience

Minimum Qualifications

- ABD, Political Science, or a closely related field (public policy, government, public administration, etc.)
- Classroom management, instruction, and assessment skills
- Demonstrated skill in political science research methodologies

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

CSU-Pueblo is a regional, comprehensive university. The 275-acre campus, which overlooks the Front Range of south-central Colorado, is located in Pueblo, approximately 100 miles south of Denver in one of the more culturally dynamic regions of the country. Pueblo is proud of its ethnically and culturally diverse populations of over 100,000 people. The University is dedicated to having a multi-cultural campus and is designated as a Hispanic Serving Institution. The University enrolls more than 4,000 students in twenty-eight undergraduate programs with approximately 510 full-time faculty and staff. The University is committed to diversity, and has made educational equity for students one of its highest priorities. With the endorsement of campus, community, system and government constituencies, the University has enthusiastically embarked on a strategic plan to enhance admissions standards, increase program offerings, and improve academic services, including the teaching/ learning process. The Pueblo community offers a major arts center, several golf courses, Lake Pueblo - a large reservoir for sailing and boating - and a 20.5 mile long nature trail for hikers and cyclists. The city is within a short drive of the Sangre de Cristo Mountain Range, allowing for hiking, mountain climbing, fishing, camping, and skiing.

All interested candidates must apply through the on-line application system. No other format of application materials will be accepted. Applicants must attach a letter of intent (cover letter); a current resume or CV; an unofficial transcript; a sample of written research; a sample American Government syllabus; and three professional references including contact information to the on-line application. Applications submitted without the required information above will be considered incomplete and will not move forward in the selection process. Once submitted, applicants will not be able to make changes or add information to their application packet, with exception to their personal contact and demographic information.

Early submission of application materials is encouraged. Screening of application materials will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, though all applications received by Monday, November 6, 2017 at 4 p.m. will be considered.

Colorado State University - Pueblo is committed to providing a safe and productive learning and living community. To achieve that goal, we conduct background investigations for all final candidates being considered for employment. Background checks may include, but are not limited to criminal history (felony and misdemeanor), national sex offender search, and/or motor vehicle history. Candidates who are extended an offer of employment must submit to and pass a background check prior to beginning employment. Some positions depending on the job duties may be required to complete a DMV and/or credit check.

The University reserves the right to check additional references, with prior notification given to the candidate.

This position is contingent upon available funding.

Note: The successful candidate must provide official transcripts of academic work completed and, under U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services regulations, be able to submit evidence of the ability to accept work in the U.S. by the day employment begins.

In compliance with the Clery Act 1990, the University's annual security report is available at: <https://www.csupueblo.edu/campus-safety/index.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3596

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

The department of political science at Johns Hopkins University invites applications for a two-year post-doc in American political thought and development. We are looking for applicants whose research speaks to scholars in both American politics and political theory. Successful candidates will bridge historical and theoretical approaches to public policy, public culture, or public law, focusing on either the historical or conceptual development of political ideas and/or institutions.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest that describes their research agenda, along with a writing sample and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates should send two letters of recommendation.

Apply on Interfolio at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46042>

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2018. Teaching duties include one undergraduate course per semester on a subject based on research interests.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3590

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

The Center on American Politics is a new initiative at the University that focuses broadly on issues related to modern American political concerns, including representation, democratic engagement, electoral behavior, and the health of governing institutions. The position is open to a broad range of research specialties involving the study of American politics.

Position Summary

The Center on American Politics at the University of Denver invites applicants for a post-doctoral fellow position. The appointment will be for two years beginning September 1, 2018. The post-doctoral fellow will receive a competitive annual stipend and have access to a $10,000 annual research account. The fellow will be expected to participate in several Center events and to give a presentation to faculty and students about the fellow's research efforts.

More information on the Center on American Politics can be found at <http://www.du.edu/americanpolitics/index.html>.

Essential Functions

- Conduct scholarly research on phenomena associated with American politics with an eye toward producing manuscripts publishable in peer reviewed journals or academic presses.
- Interact with other University faculty in areas related to their research.
- Present research at talks and lunches, and attend presentations of other scholars in their research area.

Required Qualifications

- ABD or Ph.D. with research focus related to American politics.

Work Schedule

- To be coordinated with Director of Center on American Politics.

Application Deadline

- Priority will be given to applications received by 4:00 p.m. (MST) on December 1, 2017, but will consider applications until the position is filled.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions about this position, please contact Dr. Seth Masket at Seth.Masket@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

- CV
- Letter of interest describing research agenda
- Samples of written work (e.g., two chapters from dissertation or book, and/or two articles).
- Inclusive excellence statement (The separate inclusive excellence statement should be a succinct description of how the candidate's research, teaching, and/or service contributes to inclusive excellence and involves effective interaction with members of historically underrepresented communities. See <http://www.du.edu/cme/resources/inclusive-excellence.html> for more details.)
- At least three letters of recommendation, which can be emailed to americanpolitics@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3586

California State University, Northridge

Rank: Part Time Lecturer

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

FACULTY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

PART-TIME (formerly AA-6)

Department: Political Science Effective Date of Appointment: Spring 2018

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

For more information about the University, visit our website at: <http://www.csun.edu>

Anticipated Needs:

Instructors for face-to-face Washington, D.C.-based classes in support of the CSUN in DC Internship Program. Specific classes are listed below:

Note: All part-time faculty appointments are temporary and do not confer academic rank. Final determination of part-time teaching assignments is contingent upon student enrollment figures and funding.

Qualifications

- 1) Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field in hand or must be in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy or must have at least 10 years of professional experience working in government, politics, non-profit management, or advocacy. Applicants who are in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy must have passed the comprehensive examination for the Ph.D. in their field.

- 2) A demonstrated ability and commitment to diversity and to teach/mentor a diverse student population.
- 3) University teaching experience is strongly preferred.

Courses or Specialization Current Salary Range
 (Specify time if appropriate) Fractional Amount of Base Salary
 ($4757 - $5971)
 Paid in 6 Monthly Installments

Upper division courses in:

- (1) POLS 486SOC. Social Science Career Internship
- (2) POLS 494I/A. Political Science Internship
- (3) POLS 496DC. DC Politics, Culture, and History
- (4) POLS 496PR. Professional Development in DC

Application Process:

Applicants should forward a current resume, a cover letter, a sample syllabus, evidence of teaching effectiveness and the attached checklist indicating which course(s) they are interested in teaching. The resume should include educational background, prior teaching experience, evidence of scholarship, and/or related professional experience. Candidates must be available to teach classes face-to-face in the D.C. metro area.

Inquiries and applications should be addressed to:

Dr. David Leitch
 Chair and Eugene C. Price Professor
 Department of Political Science
 California State University, Northridge
 18111 Nordhoff St.
 Northridge, CA 91330-8254

Application Deadline:

For Spring Semester 2018 Only: October 31, 2017

General Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Northridge has made crime-reporting statistics available on-line here. Print copies are available by request from the Department of Police Services, the Office for Faculty Affairs, and the Office of Equity and Diversity.

The person holding this position may be considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

CSUN is an Equal Opportunity Employer and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, and disability. Our nondiscrimination policy is set forth in CSU Executive Order 1096. Reasonable accommodations will be provided for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose by contacting Recruitment Services at (818) 677-2101.

Department of Political Science
 Temporary/Part-Time Teaching Interests Checklist– Spring 2018
 Name of Applicant: _____

v PLEASE INDICATE COURSES YOU ARE INTERESTED IN TEACHING:

- ___486SOC Social and Science Career Internship
- ___494I/IA Political Science Internship
- ___496DC DC Politics, Culture, and History
- ___496PR Professional Development in DC

C o m m e n t s: _____

Application material required:

- 1. This form completed
- 2. CV
- 3. Sample syllabus
- 4. Copies of teaching evaluations or
- 5. Letter of recommendation if you have not previously taught

Mail to:

Dr. David Leitch, Chair and Eugene C. Price Professor
 Department of Political Science
 California State University, Northridge
 18111 Nordhoff Street
 Northridge, CA 91330-8254

Application Deadline: For Spring 2018: October 31, 2017

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3575

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: American Politics - California

The Department of Political Science (formerly Department of Government), Sacramento seeks candidates who specialize in American politics to fill a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in fall 2018. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science, California Studies, or related field. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2019. Applicants are expected to have a strong commitment to college teaching and an ability to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in American Politics with a special interest in California and its contemporary issues. Applicants are expected to teach introduction to American government (GOVT 1) and a class on California politics (GOVT 180). Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement; the department is open to methodological approaches. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body and a diverse community. The department prefers experience in promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of a diverse student body, as is interest in working with a proposed academic center on race, ethnicity, immigration, and social justice at Sacramento State. The department also prefers applicants with an interest in involving students in experiential learning programs such as service learning and internships, taking advantage of our proximity to the capitol and other local institutions.

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2017 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <http://www.csus.edu/about/employment>. The job posting number is F0029P. Inquiries can be made to pols-cal-hire@csus.edu. (-double check this)

Applicants must submit the following: (1) cover letter addressing qualifications; (2) current curriculum vita/resume; (3) names and contact information of 3 references who will speak to the professional qualifications of the applicant; (4) unofficial transcripts of all graduate work (official transcripts required if invited for an interview); (5) writing sample; (6) teaching evaluations and syllabi (if available); (7) statement of teaching philosophy. Applicants are encouraged to include a statement of commitment to and experience working with a diverse student body and community. In addition, applicants should have three letters of recommendation emailed directly by the writer to pols-cal-hire@csus.edu. Inquiries can also be made to pols-cal-hire@csus.edu.

AA/EO Employer. Clery Act statistics available. Mandated reporter requirements. Background check (including criminal record check) required.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3576

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: International Affairs Fellowship Programs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Foreign Policy

The Council on Foreign Relations' (CFR) is seeking applicants for the 2018-2019 fellowship programs. Each fellowship offers unique opportunities for mid-career scholars and practitioners who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy. Fellows are recruited year-round and come from a wide variety of fields, such as academia, business, government, media, NGOs, and think tanks. The duration of each fellowship is generally twelve months, and the program offers a competitive stipend. CFR is seeking applicants for the following 2018-2019 programs:

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP

The International Affairs Fellowship aims to bridge the gap between the study and making of U.S. foreign policy by creating the next generation of scholar-practitioners. The program offers its fellows the unique chance to experience a new field and gain a different perspective at a pivotal moment in their careers. Academics are thus placed in public service and policy-oriented settings, while government officials are placed in scholarly settings. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens, be mid-career professionals, possess a strong record of professional achievement, and have a firm grounding in the field of foreign policy. The program awards a stipend of $100,000. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in March.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP FOR TENURED INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS SCHOLARS

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars, sponsored by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, offers tenured professors of U.S. foreign policy and international relations direct experience in the foreign policymaking field through placement in a U.S. government agency or international organization for a period of twelve months. The program will match 50% of the fellow's base salary for the academic year at their university (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year). The fellowship is open to tenured professors who hold a PhD, have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university, propose to work on peace and security issues, and have never worked at a U.S. government agency or an international organization. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN CANADA

The International Affairs Fellowship in Canada, sponsored by the Power Corporation of Canada, seeks to strengthen mutual understanding and cooperation between rising generations of leaders and thinkers in the United States and Canada. Fellows are drawn from academia, business, government, media, NGOs, and think tanks. CFR will work with its network of contacts to assist the fellows in finding suitable host organizations in Canada. The fellowship is only open to mid-career professionals who have demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Canada relations. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens and have a strong record of professional achievement. The program awards a stipend of $95,000 for a period of twelve months as well as a modest travel allowance. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN JAPAN

The International Affairs Fellowship in Japan, sponsored by Hitachi, Ltd., provides a selected group of mid-career U.S. citizens the opportunity to expand their professional horizons by spending a period of research or other professional activity in Japan. The IAF in Japan is only open to mid-career professionals who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Japan relations. The program is intended primarily for those without substantial prior experience in Japan, and knowledge of the Japanese language is not a requirement. Qualified candidates must be U.S. citizens. The duration of the fellowship is between three and twelve months. The program awards a stipend in yen, which covers travel and living expenses in Japan. CFR awards approximately three to five fellowships annually. The online application deadline is October 31, 2017.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS

The International Affairs Fellowship in International Economics, sponsored by Kimberly Querrey, provides the next generation of economic scholars and business economist hands-on experience in the policymaking field. Through the program, fellows expand their range of thinking and apply their work to international economic policy. Possible host placements for the fellowship include but are not limited to the U.S. Department of the Treasury, U.S. Department of Commerce, and relevant parts of the U.S. Department of State and the White House. A stipend in the range of $150,000 to $175,000 is awarded along with relocation assistance. The fellowship is only open to mid-career business economists and university-based economics scholars who have demonstrated commitment to a career in international economics or a related field. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens and hold a PhD in economics or a closely related discipline. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

STANTON NUCLEAR SECURITY FELLOWSHIP

The Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship Program, made possible by a generous grant from the Stanton Foundation, offers young scholars studying nuclear security issues the opportunity to spend a period of twelve months at CFR offices in New York or Washington, DC, conducting policy-relevant research. Qualified candidates must be postdoctoral fellows or junior faculty in a tenure-track position at a recognized university. Junior faculty at law schools or with a law degree as their terminal degree are also eligible. The program awards a stipend of $110,000 for junior faculty and $80,000 for postdoctoral fellows. The application deadline is December 15, 2017.

For more information, please contact fellowships@cfcr.org or 212.434.9740.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3568

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

Jacksonville University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Division of Social Science at Jacksonville University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. The position is to begin in August 2018. The successful candidate will have a PhD in Political Science with a primary field in American Politics. The successful candidate will be dedicated to teaching, university service, research, and must be willing to mentor students. The new faculty member will be required to teach four classes per semester: two sections of American National Politics and Government and a rotation of two electives in American politics. The ability to teach research methods as part of that rotation is required. The ability to teach American Foreign Policy would be a plus.

All applicants must contain:

- * Letter of Introduction
- * Curriculum Vitae
- * Copies of official transcripts from all schools attended
- * Three letters of recommendation
- * Teaching evaluations
- * Statement of Teaching Philosophy

Please send completed applications to Political Science Search Committee at polscisearch@ju.edu

The deadline for all applications is December 1, 2017. For any questions contact Steve MacIsaac, Chair, Political Science Search at smacisa@ju.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3566

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2018-2019

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the ten-month 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2018-2019 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req number D-18-WWS-00013 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4161>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3564

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for the 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2018-2019 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2018-2019 should apply to req number D-18-WWS-00014. <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4221>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3563

Rider University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Intelligence, Criminal Justice, International Security

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

Rider University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of homeland security politics with emphases on counter terrorism, intelligence studies, public policy, crime, or national security to start Fall 2018. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, or related discipline, be broadly trained, have strong communication skills, a commitment to both teaching and research in the liberal arts environment, the ability to establish a research program that can engage undergraduate and graduate students and be able to teach courses on any of the following areas: military operations, law enforcement policy at the national level, disaster management, conflict management, counter-terrorism, intelligence gathering, national preparedness for conventional, hybrid, unconventional war or homeland security policy challenges. Prior teaching experience and post-doctoral research are desirable. Field experience is also preferable.

The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of culturally diverse backgrounds. Applicants should be experienced with, and committed to work in and with, such a diverse population. Rider University is a private, coeducational university of nearly 4,500 students located between Philadelphia and New York, near Princeton, New Jersey. Rider is ranked in the top tier of northern regional universities offering master's degrees by US News and World Report and is ranked as "A Best 378 College" by the Princeton Review.

All applicants must complete an on-line application at www.rider.edu/hr, 'Employment Opportunities'; 'Create Application'; and attach letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and a detailed statement of research interests, plans, goals, and needs. Undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation also are required and can be sent separately to: Associate Director, Human Resources, 2083 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648. Please reference Position # 312261.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 3558

University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track Lecturer position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The prospective hire is expected to enhance our broad training of undergraduate students. We especially welcome applications from candidates with a track record of excellence in teaching and student mentoring at the undergraduate level. Specialization within the field of American Politics is open. We seek applicants who have proven excellence in undergraduate teaching and who have broad training in political science research methods. Applicants should be as comfortable offering a large introductory American Federal Government course as they are teaching a small Research Methods course for our Honors Students, in addition to upper division undergrad courses in their own areas of interest. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per semester, but a reduction in teaching is possible with significant service to the department, such as coordinating the Department's Political Internship Program or Study Abroad Programs. The successful candidate should possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (<http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>) to learn more about the Department of Political Science. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504705/lecturer-american-politics/>

All applications must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- d) Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- e) Statement of research interests/plans
- f) Up to two reprints or pre-prints, and
- g) The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3546

University of Wisconsin, La Crosse

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse seeks a tenure track Assistant Professor beginning August 2018 who is a dynamic and skilled teacher and researcher in the field of American politics. Preference will be given to applicants with teaching and research interests in American political institutions, including Congress and/or the Presidency. Applicants with a completed Political Science doctoral degree is preferred, although advanced ABDs in Political Science will also be considered. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to teaching excellence, including inclusive and engaging classroom practices. The position will also include advising responsibilities, and the potential for teaching the capstone seminar and directing undergraduate research projects. In addition to teaching excellence and scholarly productivity, the Department also places a high value on service to the University and wider community.

The 11-member department offers undergraduate majors and minors in both Political Science and Public Administration and offers courses that serve interdisciplinary minors in Legal Studies; Ethnic and Racial Studies; International Studies; International Business; Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Criminal Justice; and Environmental Studies. The department also collaborates with the university's Secondary Teacher Education Preparation (STEP) Program. The usual teaching load is three preparations and four (3 credit) courses per semester, two of which will be Political Science upper division electives and two of which will be our General Education course American National Government

For additional information about this position and to apply, please visit <https://employment.uwlax.edu/>. Complete application materials will include: 1) a cover letter, with a description about how you envision yourself contributing to the department's American Government offerings, 2) a curriculum vitae, and 3) the names, email addresses and phone numbers for three academic references. UWL is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Women, persons of color, and individuals with a disability are encouraged to apply. Materials must be received by November 2, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/2/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3559

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics with expertise in Political Institutions and the Policymaking Process, including Environmental Policy)

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics with expertise in Political Institutions and the Policymaking Process, including Environmental Policy)

Loyola University Chicago, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2018. The department seeks applicants in American politics with expertise in political institutions and the policymaking process, including environmental policy. The successful applicant will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as graduate courses in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The applicant will be expected to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in the areas of political institutions and the policymaking process, including environmental policy, as well as an introductory American politics class.

Qualifications: The successful applicant is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Applicants for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Applicants should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three letters of recommendation from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

John P. Frenreis, Professor and Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 22, 2017.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity - including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment - is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically assessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativede.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/22/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3545

St. Bonaventure University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Methodology, American Government and Politics

St. Bonaventure University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American politics and public law, beginning fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include courses in law and society, the introductory course in American government and politics, a quantitative research methods course for undergraduate Political Science majors, as well as courses in your area of interest. Teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester. Additional responsibilities include assisting with the Law and Society program, advising pre-law students, involvement in student affairs and university service, and an active research agenda. Applicants must have a PhD in hand or demonstrate that they will defend their dissertation by August 2018. Founded in 1858, St. Bonaventure University is a Catholic university dedicated to educational excellence in the Franciscan tradition. We are a predominately undergraduate, liberal arts based institution with 2000 students located in the Allegheny Mountains near Olean, NY. St. Bonaventure University emphasizes small classes, close engagement with students, and a mission-based liberal arts curriculum. Applicants should send curriculum vitae, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching effectiveness such as summaries of student evaluations, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter that discusses your approach to teaching and your research interests. St. Bonaventure University is committed to enhancing the diversity of our faculty and strongly encourages applications from under-represented groups of all faiths. The deadline for application is December 15, 2018. Email application and supporting documents to:

Josiah B. Lambert, PhD
poliscisearch@sbu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3549

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty

Middle Tennessee State University's Department of Political Science and International Relations seeks applications for a full time, tenure-track faculty position (#128050) in Public Law/American Government at the assistant/associate professor rank. Start date for this position is August 1, 2018.

The Successful candidate will be expected to teach introductory and upper level American government and public law classes, including U.S. Constitutional law, contribute to MTSU's public law-related programs such as mock trial, moot court, and mediation, and pursue an active research agenda.

Mock Trial at MTSU has a long tradition and has become an integral part of the pre-law curriculum. In addition to competing in invitational, regional, and national tournaments throughout the year, students also participate in the MTSU-sponsored Mid-South Mock Trial Invitational.

To apply or for more detailed information visit <http://mtsujobs.mtsu.edu>. MTSU is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that values diversity in all its forms. Women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3542

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3532

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3533

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohns.edu/silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

University of Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor

University of Mississippi

American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Mississippi invites applications to fill a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in American Politics, starting Fall 2018. The Department is foremost interested in hiring an excellent candidate, with all areas of specialization invited to apply. Successful candidates should add to the Department's strength in quantitative methods. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates should complete an online application at <https://jobs.olemiss.edu>. Requirements include at least ABD standing with the expectation of completion by Fall 2018, as well as a potential for or record of excellence in teaching and research. The online application should include a cover letter indicating research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, writing samples, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Review of all applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled or until an adequate applicant pool is established.

The University of Mississippi is an EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disability/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity/Title VI/Title VII/Title IX/504/ADA/ADEA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3544

University of RochesterRank: FacultySubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Program in Public Health-Related Majors in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rochester is conducting an open rank faculty search for a scholar specializing in the historical, social, political, and/or ethical dimensions of health policy. The program seeks outstanding candidates who work at the boundaries between public health, the humanities, and the social sciences and who are able to engage with multiple audiences, both inside and outside of the University. This will be a tenure-track appointment in one of several appropriate departments in Arts and Sciences at the level of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor.

The candidate should be prepared to:

1. Maintain an active program of research and scholarship on health policy. Applicants should have an established record of research and publication commensurate with their rank and their field of expertise.
2. Take an active role in the Steering Committee and academic advising for the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, as well as in the functioning of the home academic department.
3. Teach an introductory-level overview of the U.S. health care system and upper-level courses on US health care policy and/or global health issues for the program, as well as courses for the home department.

The interdisciplinary Program in Public Health-Related Majors requires students to examine health and health care through many different lenses: anthropological, psychological, historical, epidemiological, economic, political, and ethical. The members of the Steering Committee collaborate to oversee the five majors in the program: Bioethics; Epidemiology; Environmental Health; Health Policy; and Health, Behavior, and Society. The Steering Committee insures that students get a consistent and rigorous liberal arts education. In addition, it actively seeks to expand the curriculum by soliciting new course offerings from faculty across the university who can address emerging issues in health and health care and develop innovative programs that engage our students with both the local and the global communities.

The position is open to candidates in any academic discipline. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D in hand by July 1, 2018, and will join an appropriate department in the School of Arts and Sciences. To apply, visit www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample, and the names and contact information for three references by November 1, 2017. Please note that the job is listed under the department "Dean's Office-SAS."

For more information about the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ph/index.html>. The University of Rochester has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups under-represented in higher education. University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Review of applications will continue until a successful candidate is identified. For more information about the position, please contact: Daniel Reichman, chair of the search committee, daniel.reichman@rochester.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018Application Deadline: 11/1/2017Date Posted: 9/29/2017Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 3535Florida State University*Rank: Associate Professor of Political ScienceSubfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 11/15/2017Date Posted: 9/26/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3501Florida State University*Rank: Assistant Professor of Political ScienceSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics and law, to begin fall of 2018. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course; Constitutional law; civil rights and liberties; judicial politics, policy, and process; and/or other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Ability to teach research methods is a plus. The Department also welcomes candidates who could contribute courses to interdisciplinary programs such as African Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Political Economy, Search for Values (interdisciplinary Humanities program), and Urban Studies.

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi, teaching evaluations, copies of transcripts, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their vision for their teaching contributions to the department, and their research plan. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin November 8, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3491

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics and law, to begin fall of 2018. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course; Constitutional law; civil rights and liberties; judicial politics, policy, and process; and/or other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Ability to teach research methods is a plus. The Department also welcomes candidates who could contribute courses to interdisciplinary programs such as African Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Political Economy, Search for Values (interdisciplinary Humanities program), and Urban Studies.

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy.

Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi, teaching evaluations, copies of transcripts, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their vision for their teaching contributions to the department, and their research plan. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin November 8, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3492

Clemson University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics - Behavior

American Politics. The Department of Political Science at Clemson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin in August 2018. The successful candidate will have a specialization in American political behavior. The successful candidate also will be expected to offer an undergraduate course in quantitative research methods. In addition to maintaining an active research agenda, the successful candidate will reflect the Department's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching.

A Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of employment is required. Salary is competitive. To apply, upload the following to Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/45308>): an application letter of interest, CV, unofficial transcripts of graduate work, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applications received by October 16, 2017 are assured full consideration. For inquiries, please contact Department Chair Jeff Peake at jpeake@clemson.edu.

Clemson University is the Land Grant University for the State of South Carolina and is located within the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains 30 miles southwest of Greenville. The Department offers a BA and BS in Political Science, and a Ph.D. in Policy Studies. Clemson University is an AA/EEO employer and does not discriminate against any person or group on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, pregnancy, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status or genetic information. Clemson University is building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and encourages applications from minorities and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3485

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpogzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location:

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration:

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2018 to August 2019. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation:

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- C.V.
- One academic writing sample and one non-academic piece, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Arthur Milikh

Associate Director

B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics

The Heritage Foundation

214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE

Washington, D.C. 20002

Email: arthur.milikh@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3438

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3436

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor-in-Residence

ROLE of the POSITION

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applications from well-qualified individuals for a Faculty-in-Residence position. This position is a full-time (9 month), non-tenure track appointment eligible for annual renewal that will begin in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the First Year Experience Seminar and large sections of PSC 101: Introduction to American Politics, which includes a Nevada Constitution component. The successful applicant also will be expected to teach survey courses in multiple subfields and occasional upper-division courses in Political Science as necessary. The standard teaching load for Faculty-in-Residence position is four courses per semester. While the position is a non-tenure track, annual appointment there is an opportunity for promotion in rank.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science from a regionally accredited college or university and experience teaching introductory and upper-division Political Science courses; evidence of excellence in teaching; and experience in designing and teaching online Political Science courses.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin October 20, 2017 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Dan Lee, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted via on-line application at <https://hrsearch.unlv.edu/>. For assistance with UNLV's on-line applicant portal, contact UNLV Employment Services at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176567538&Title=Political%20Science%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2DIn%2DResidence%2C%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5B18518%5D&aID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3439

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton UniversityRank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research AssociateSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 12/1/2017Date Posted: 9/15/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3428Princeton University*Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research AssociateSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3429

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:
Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential "core" of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant's academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Latino Politics, Political Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor (JOB#12097)

School of Politics and Global Studies

Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. The anticipated start date is August 2018.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach (es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/

o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 30, 2017; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2018.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9809>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.) A background check is required for employment.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3414

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3407

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3411

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

Washburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science and Public Administration

Washburn University's Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a 9-month, tenure-track position as an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science/Public Administration. A completed Ph.D. is required for the tenure-track appointment but ABDs will be considered. If the Ph. D will be earned by December, 2018.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: 1) A Ph.D. in political science with specialized training in public administration (e.g. MPA or public administration as a subfield) or a PhD in public administration with American government as a subfield. 2) The position requires teaching experience or coursework that demonstrates ability to teach core public administration and nonprofit certificate courses to undergraduate public administration majors and political science majors seeking coursework in those fields. The position also requires the ability to teach American government, and courses of the candidate's choice in the field of American government in the areas of institutions, process and or behavior. 3) evidence of university teaching experience and an active research agenda. PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Ability to teach state and local government and or empirical research methods as demonstrated through experience, coursework or teaching experience.

RESPONSIBILITIES: 12 hour teaching load, demonstrated collegiality, strong commitment to undergraduate education, and ability and motivation to engage undergraduates in active research. The position requires the cultivation and maintenance of contacts with state and local government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and relevant interest groups as well as the establishment of internships in the above mentioned organizations. The position further requires working with the rest of the faculty to attempt to grow the size of the public administration major and to participate with the department in program offerings under the auspices of the Washburn Center for Government and public service.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Review of applications begins November 6, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. Send a cover letter, vita, evidence of teaching experience, copies of transcripts, and names/address/phone and e-mail to Mrs. Cathy Tunnell at cathy.tunnell@washburn.edu (use po/pa as the subject line). Only electronic application materials will be accepted. Send questions to Dr. Linsey Modellmog, chair of the search committee at linsey.moddelmog@washburn.edu. The successful candidate will be required to submit to a background check prior to hire and to submit official transcripts. Washburn University is an EOE. To enrich education through diversity, candidates from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. www.washburn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3346

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>.

In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of political theory beginning in the fall of 2018.

The area of specialization is open, but the successful candidate should be able to teach courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. We also strongly prefer a candidate who is willing and able to teach graduate-level courses for our growing Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered, but all degree requirements should be completed by August 1, 2018.
- Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Responsibilities:

Teaching duties may include Introduction to Political Theory, American National Government, Classical and Medieval Political Thought, Modern Political Thought, American Political Thought, Executive Process, and other upper-level courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. Teaching courses for the MPA program is also expected.

The successful candidate will also be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching.

Special Instruction to Applicants:

Applicants should apply online at <https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/7109>

All applicants should submit 1) a cover letter, 2) a current CV, 3) statement of teaching and research, 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness, 5) transcripts, and 6) one writing sample.

Three letters of recommendations should be directly mailed to: Dr. Choong-Nam Kang, Chair, Department of Political Science and Sociology, Faculty Hall 5A, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Murray State University is an equal education and employment opportunity, M/F/D, AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3323

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in the study of American Politics for a tenured appointment at the Associate or Full Professor rank. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 15, 2017. We will accept applications until we fill the position. Interested applicants should submit a cover letter and curriculum vitae electronically here: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44363> .

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3321

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Psychology

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. American Politics scholars with expertise in political behavior, political psychology, race and ethnicity, interest groups and parties, or media and politics are especially welcome. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust interest to teach Introduction to U.S. Government, as well as upper-level electives in their fields of concentration. The teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 course preparations per year. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens. (discussed during orientation meeting)

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in one of the following areas: political behavior, political psychology, race and ethnicity, interest groups and parties, or media and politics.

Additional information for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciAP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3318

American University

Rank: American Politics, Tenure-track, Assistant Professor

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2018. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2018.

The Department is looking to hire someone who studies legislative institutions in the subfield of American politics. The Department is especially interested in candidates who have a substantive interest in critical policy issues of the day, such as representation, voting rights, economic policy, human security, urban policy, and immigration.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43149>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, recent teaching evaluations (when possible) and three letters of recommendation. If you have any questions, please email govsearch@american.edu.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3298

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in American politics with a focus on race or American political development starting in August 2018. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans and teaching interests; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3296

University of Montana

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor, Public Administration

UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA; Lecturer in Public Administration

The University of Montana invites applications for a Lecturer in Public Administration with the appointment beginning January 2018. The position is renewable for up to three years, contingent upon funding and performance reviews. The Master of Public Administration is one of the most successful graduate programs in the College of Humanities and Sciences at UM, attracting both in-state and out-of-state students. The successful candidate will be expected to teach public administration courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels online and in-person. The area of expertise in public administration is open; however, applicants with an interest in American Government, policy analysis, public administration ethics, program evaluation, public administration research methods, human resource management, and/or performance measurement are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to applicants who can demonstrate promise of excellence in teaching campus and online courses, commitment to professional service, and promise of high-quality scholarship.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Administration is expected by date of hire.

How to Apply

Priority Application Deadline: September 30, 2017.

Applications received by 9/30 will be guaranteed consideration. Application review will begin on 10/1/17 and continue until the position is filled.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below. Applications must be submitted via the UM Jobs system at <https://umjobs.silkroad.com>.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below.

*Please note: only five (5) attachments are allowed per application. Please combine documents accordingly.

- Letter of Interest – addressing qualifications (including research interests, ability to teach online and in person)
- Detailed curriculum vita
- Official graduate transcripts
- Teaching Evaluations
- Professional References – names and contact information for three (3) professional references.

For additional information, please contact Professor Sara Rinfret, MPA Director (sara.rinfret@umontana.edu).

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3264

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Miami University

Rank: Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies

Specializations: Latino Politics, Latin American, Foreign Policy

Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies with a focus on the U.S., Latinidad, and the Américas to link the Latina/o experience in the United States to Latin American and Caribbean countries of origin. Among the ways to make those links could be through consideration of transnational processes, diasporic networks, global economic developments, remittances, US and Latin American foreign policies, immigration policy (in both U.S. and in sending countries), long distance nationalism, border relations, cultural practice and change, hometown associations, or cross-border organizing. We are also interested in those who engage issues of race and racialization of Latino/as in the US, as well as critical race/ethnic studies approaches to Afro-Latino/as and Afro-Latinidad. We are particularly interested in interdisciplinary scholars with research experience grounded both in the United States and in Latin America or the Caribbean. The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching, research, and service to the department, college, and university.

Require: Ph.D. in Latin American Studies, anthropology, geography, history, political science, languages, and literatures, or a closely related field, by date of appointment.

Consideration will be given to those with native or near-native fluency in Spanish; commitment to diverse curricula in the Department of Global and Intercultural Studies, potentially contributing to interdisciplinary teaching and research in the department's multiple programs: American Studies; Asian and Asian American Studies; Black World Studies; International Studies; Latin American, Latino/a and Caribbean Studies; and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Submit cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4623>.

For inquiries about the position, contact Jana Braziel at brazieje@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3249

University of Kansas

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics & Policy

The University of Kansas Political Science Department invites candidates to apply for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level in Political Science. We are interested in candidates whose work focuses on American Politics and Public Policy. The position provides collaborative research opportunities, which may include participation in interdisciplinary centers – Center for Research Methods and Data Analysis, Institute for Policy and Social Research. The position is expected to begin as early as August 18, 2018. The faculty member will be expected to research, write, and publish in American Politics and Public Policy; develop and teach courses in American Politics and Public Policy; serve on graduate student committees, direct theses and dissertations, and perform advising responsibilities; and serve on departmental, College, and University committees, and engage in professional service activities.

The University of Kansas is particularly interested in hiring faculty members who can contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, including a diversity of scholarly approaches, and four key campus-wide strategic initiatives: (1) Sustaining the Planet, Powering the World; (2) Promoting Well-Being, Finding Cures; (3) Building Communities, Expanding Opportunities; and (4) Harnessing Information, Multiplying Knowledge. For more information see <http://www.provost.ku.edu/strategic-plan/initiatives>.

We especially encourage woman and minorities to apply.

KU is a Research 1 (RU/VH) institution, the flagship of the Kansas system, and a member of the AAU. It is located in Lawrence, a thriving and progressive community a short drive from Kansas City.

Qualifications:

1. A Ph.D. in Political Science from an accredited school is expected by the start date of the appointment (08-18-2018).
2. Demonstrated ability to work in interdisciplinary and collaborative environments.
3. A proven record or demonstration for high potential in research and publications. Should demonstrate mastery of mathematical and computing skills that are requisite to success in the field of political methodology.
4. Demonstrated ability to teach effectively at undergraduate and graduate levels.

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/9684BR> or <https://employment.ku.edu> and click "Search Faculty Jobs"; search by key word [AMERICAN POLITICS]. A complete online application includes the following materials: cover letter, curriculum vitae, research samples, proof of teaching experience (e.g. course evaluations), and letters of recommendation from three professional references.

Initial review of applications will begin October 1, 2017 and will continue as long as needed to identify a qualified pool. EOE M/F/D/V.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3247

University of North Florida - Jacksonville

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH FLORIDA: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Florida seeks candidates for a tenure track appointment as an assistant professor in American politics and government beginning in August 2018. The field in American Politics is open. The department does have curricular needs in state and local government and research methods. The department also welcomes the use of innovative teaching technologies including distance learning and hybrid classes. Candidates should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research. The teaching load is three courses per semester. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or a related discipline is required by August 2018.

Applicants MUST complete an application ONLINE in OASYS at <http://www.unfjobs.org>

Applicants must attach the following required documents to be considered for this position.

- (1) a letter of interest stating teaching interests and research plans
 - (2) a complete curriculum vitae
 - (3) graduate school transcripts*
 - (4) one sample of research and writing
 - (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness
 - (6) three current professional letters of recommendation
- *Official transcripts are required by the time of employment

If the applicant is unable to attach the letters of recommendation with the application, they can be emailed to: Americanpolitics@unf.edu

Review of applications will begin October 13, 2017. This position will be considered open until filled.

UNF enrolls about 17,000 students and is located in Jacksonville, Florida, a rapidly growing metropolitan area with a population of over one million. Jacksonville is part of northeastern Florida's historic "First Coast" and there are significant historical, cultural, and recreational resources in the immediate area including access to rivers and beaches. Further information is available at www.unf.edu/coas/pspa.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3225

Claremont Graduate University

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in American Politics (Behavior, APD, Law, Gender)

Claremont Graduate University's School of Social Science, Policy and Evaluation invites applications for a tenured/tenure-track position in American Politics, focusing on Political Behavior, American Political Development, Gender in Politics, and/or Law and Politics, beginning Fall of 2018. We are particularly interested in someone at the level of an advanced Assistant Professor or beginning Associate Professor.

CGU's Department of Politics and Policy offers only graduate-level degrees: the PhD in Political Science and several MA degrees including the MA in Politics (with emphases in American and in Political Philosophy), the MA in Religion and Politics, and the MA in Public Policy.

In keeping with CGU's graduate-only focus, applicants should hold a PhD in Political Science and should show successful experience working with doctoral students to complete their dissertations in a timely way and to assist them in publication. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester, and the successful candidate should be prepared to teach graduate-level core American courses such as American Political Behavior, Representation and Elections, American Political Development, Perspectives on Judicial Power, Women and the Political Process, etc. We expect that the successful candidate will be expert in the use of appropriate research methods such as experimental research, survey research, legal research, etc. CGU is a small university with a focus on transdisciplinarity, and therefore applicants with interests beyond one field are appreciated.

CGU is affiliated with five undergraduate colleges via the Claremont University Consortium. Joint research opportunities and teaching with the Claremont colleges may be possible.

Applicants should submit a letter discussing their interest in the position and how they could contribute to Political Science at CGU, a CV, a diversity statement (see below), and the names of three or five references to dpsresearch@cgu.edu (those applying for a tenured position should submit 5). Consideration of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Any questions should be directed to Eliana Leon, Eliana.leon@cgu.edu.

CGU is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion, ancestry, sex, gender identity and expression, age, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, marital status, or any other basis protected by applicable laws in its employment or hiring practices.

Further, Claremont Graduate University is committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Applicants who have a demonstrated commitment to issues of diversity and inclusion are particularly encouraged to apply as are individuals who have membership in one or more of the following groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding: Alaska Natives, American Indians, Blacks/African Americans, Mexican Americans/Chicanas/Chicanos, Native Hawaiians and Other Pacific Islanders, and Puerto Ricans.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3210

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin

September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of American Politics

The University of Virginia's Department of Politics invites applications for two open-rank positions in American Politics. The Department of Politics is committed to methodological pluralism. Successful candidates must demonstrate in written or published work deep immersion and significant contributions to an important area of politics and government of the United States. For appointments at the associate or full professor level, candidates must have a record of published work appropriate for each rank. For appointments at the assistant rank, we seek candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers.

Review of applications for both positions will begin on September 15, 2017. The positions will remain open until filled.

The anticipated appointment start date will begin in July 2018. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. Applicants at the associate or full professor rank must hold a PhD at the time of application and must have an outstanding publication and teaching record. We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for, mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>. Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through jobs@uva (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>). Search on posting number 0621407 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, candidates at the assistant professor level should have three letters of reference sent to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@eservices.virginia.edu).

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@eservices.virginia.edu). The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3203

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of Environmental Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in Environmental Politics at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. We welcome applications from candidates in any - or some mix - of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries.

This position, located in the Department of Politics, is part of a cross-disciplinary initiative focused on integrating social, political, cultural, and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty across the University of Virginia. The successful candidate will be involved with the University's new Environmental Resilience Institute.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Successful candidates must demonstrate, in written or published work, deep engagement with and significant contributions to an important area of environmental politics. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. For appointments at the assistant rank, we prefer candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold the PhD at the time of application and must demonstrate an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVA: <https://jobs.virginia.edu>. Search on posting number 0621502 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, applicants for the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2018, with an anticipated start date of July 2018.

Questions regarding the application process in Jobs@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia assists UVa faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see: <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3198

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, pending budgetary approval. Qualified candidates will have a research focus on institutions, broadly defined. We seek candidates whose work is innovative, theoretically driven and/or methodologically sophisticated, and we particularly welcome candidates whose interests complement our existing strengths in representation, diversity, political parties, or political economy.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer of 2018. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference. For each reference, you will have the opportunity to input a personal email address or an email address generated through Interfolio's Online Application Delivery. In both cases, an email notification will be sent to the designated address with instructions about uploading letters of recommendation into our system. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTky>. Review of applications will be on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3185

Wichita State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Wichita State University invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the assistant professor level, to begin August 2018. Candidates should have completed their PhD by the time of appointment, have quantitative analytical skills, a demonstrated teaching effectiveness, the potential for scholarly publications, effective written and oral communication skills, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity. Preferred candidates will have the ability and willingness to teach an undergraduate quantitative methods course, willingness to teach periodic online/hybrid courses, and/or an interest in providing occasional Honors College course offerings. Teaching responsibilities will include: A variety of undergraduate American Politics courses, including introductory American Politics, as well as a course on quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The selected candidate will have the opportunity and the responsibility to help shape and enhance the curriculum of the American Politics offerings in the department. Wichita State University has a diverse student body with a large number of non-traditional students and an enrollment of approximately 14,400. Wichita is a thriving and expanding community of 600,000. The Political Science department offers BA degrees and has approximately 70 majors and five faculty members. Salary is competitive. Consideration of applications will begin September 29 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample at <http://jobs.wichita.edu>. For assistance with online submission, employment@wichita.edu (316) 978-3065.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3192

Saint Mary's College of California

Rank: American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Africa, East Asia

Saint Mary's College of California invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in the Department of Politics. The position is for an Americanist to join our collegial department of passionate and active teacher/scholars. The ideal candidate will have the ability to teach introductory and upper division courses on executive and legislative politics at the federal, state, and local levels, and other courses that fit with the candidate's substantive interests. We have a particular interest in recruiting candidates who can develop courses to strengthen the diversity of our curriculum, and to work with a highly diverse student body. We prefer candidates with a secondary specialization in African or Asian politics, and those who have the ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

Consistent with Saint Mary's College's commitment to inclusive excellence, the Politics Department strives to be an inclusive community that fosters respect and belonging for faculty and students of diverse backgrounds and identities. We seek a candidate who can engage, advocate for and support students of color, women, and underrepresented groups.

Saint Mary's College of California is a private, Catholic, comprehensive and co-educational university that engages students in rigorous critical thinking, promotes social justice, and educates the whole person for human fulfillment. Recognized among just forty exceptional institutions in Colleges That Change Lives – and the first Catholic and first California college to be included – Saint Mary's is praised for its challenging and supportive learning community.

The De La Salle Christian Brothers, the largest teaching order of the Roman Catholic Church, guide the spiritual and academic character of the College. Located on a stunning 420-acre campus in the Moraga Hills outside of San Francisco, Saint Mary's currently enrolls approximately 4,000 highly diverse students. For more information about Saint Mary's mission and history, see: <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/about-smc/our-mission>.

Responsibilities: All Saint Mary's faculty are invited to engage with and contribute to the Catholic, Lasallian and Liberal Arts traditions of the College through their teaching, scholarship and service. The standard teaching assignment is six courses per year, including departmental offerings and contributions to College-wide programs (January Term and Collegiate Seminar). In the department, the successful candidate will teach courses such as Introduction to American Politics, Presidency and Congress, Political Parties and Pressure Groups, Elections and Voting Behavior, State and Urban Politics, and other courses based on the candidate's expertise. Saint Mary's faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarly agenda and demonstrate intellectual growth and significant achievement appropriate to their field. All faculty also contribute service to the College and community, including academic advising, and participation in the shared governance of the College through departmental and College-wide committees and the development and assessment of the College's Core Curriculum. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or related field or doctoral candidacy focused on U.S. executive and legislative politics, with expectation of degree by July 1, 2018; demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching in the liberal arts tradition; evidence of potential for teaching effectiveness, particularly among a diverse body of undergraduates; ability to engage in scholarship and professional activity at the national (or international) level.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience teaching politics courses and evidence of effectiveness in teaching; promise of significant scholarly achievement; demonstrated commitment and success working in diverse, multicultural contexts, especially in higher education settings; qualified to teach a course in African or Asian politics; interest in developing courses that strengthen the diversity of the curriculum; ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

TO APPLY:

1. Please apply on-line at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43640>
2. A complete application includes a letter of interest, explaining how your qualifications satisfy the position requirements and addressing how you are prepared to support the Mission of the College; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; evidence of teaching effectiveness thus far; and a writing sample.
3. In applying for a position, candidates sign a consent form authorizing a broader inquiry.
4. For finalists, the College will contact references, in confidence, and credentials will be confirmed prior to hire.
5. Questions should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Ronald Ahnen, Chair of Politics Department at rahn@stmarys-ca.edu.

Deadline: Consideration and review of applications will begin immediately. Applications submitted after October 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Mary's College annually collects information about campus crimes and other reportable incidents in accordance with the federal Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. To view the Saint Mary's College Report, please go to the Public Safety website at <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/public-safety/annual-security-and-fire-safety-report-0>. To request a paper copy please call Public Safety at (925) 631-4284. The report includes the type of crime, venue, and number of occurrences.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3183

Brandeis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and the Department of African and Afro-American Studies (AAAS) at Brandeis University invite applications for a full-time, joint, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in African-American Politics. The successful candidate's term will begin in the Fall of 2018.

We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on African-American politics with an ability to engage in the experiences of other peoples of African descent and other communities of color. We encourage applicants with teaching and research interests in, for example, one or more of the following areas: campaigns and elections, political behavior, state and local politics, judicial and criminal justice politics and policies, including incarceration related issues, immigration, and public/social policy.

We prefer candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D. in African-American Studies with extensive and broad training in political science. Candidates must show evidence of teaching excellence to qualify for consideration. The course load is 2/2: one course in AAAS and one course in the Politics Department every semester. Candidates will have the opportunity to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Service expectations will be shared equally between both departments. Qualified applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings, a chapter or article length writing sample, and three letters of reference electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9495> First consideration will be given to applications received by October 16, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to: Carina Ray (Interim Chair, AAAS; cer15@brandeis.edu) or Daniel Kryder (Politics; kryder@brandeis.edu), Co-Chairs, Search Committee on African- American Politics.

Brandeis University is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. Diversity in its student body, staff and faculty is important to Brandeis' primary mission of providing a quality education. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their creative endeavors, teaching and/or service experiences, will increase Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and better prepare its students for a pluralistic society.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3166

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

Cornell University

Rank: Endowed Professorship in American Politics

Cornell University invites applications for an endowed professorship in American politics, for a position beginning July 1, 2018. We seek to hire an individual with a distinguished record of scholarship and a strong commitment to teaching. We are interested in mid-career scholars with unusual promise as well as in established senior candidates.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9501>. We also welcome nominations, which can be submitted to Ms. Jerrica Brown, jc2322@cornell.edu. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and under-represented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3158

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American Politics and Research Methods

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American politics beginning the 2018-19 academic year. We seek candidates who are broadly trained in American politics and who are qualified to teach undergraduate research methods. The teaching expectations include an introductory survey course in American government, courses in American political institutions (congress, the presidency), and courses in one or more of the following areas: ethnic/minority politics, domestic political economy, public opinion and mass media, and state and local politics. The position also includes participation in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. PhDs and/or ABDs who have made substantial progress toward completion of the dissertation are welcome to apply.

Hope College is a Christian, co-educational, residential liberal arts college affiliated with the Reformed Church in America. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and goals of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the historic Christian faith.

Application materials are to be submitted electronically as part of the online application (<http://www.hope.edu/employment/faculty>). Applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, copies of undergraduate and graduate school transcripts (unofficial versions are acceptable at this stage), a statement of how the candidate's background and interests can contribute to the mission of the college, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching competency. In addition, please enter the contact information for three references on the application. Those references will be contacted by Human Resources to submit a letter of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on September 30th, and will continue until the position is filled. Any questions regarding the opening may be directed to David Ryden, departmental chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 50 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruizenga Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3154

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of American Politics/Political Behavior. We seek a scholar doing research on U.S. politics in one or more of the following areas of political behavior: public opinion, elections, political psychology, political communications, political parties, and social movements. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the time of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-american-politics-political-behavior/1209/5281327>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3142

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Big Data for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor

Political Science: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Big Data for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-2019 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level teaching, including the introduction to American Government and other advanced courses that contribute to the department's programs (a class specifically on "big data" and analytic approaches to studying politics is desirable); conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in the efforts of the university's Center for Analytics and Data Science.

Required: Ph.D. (by date of appointment) in political science, public policy, or a related field

Consideration will be given to those with experience including but not limited to techniques such as statistical or machine learning, natural language processing, advanced hierarchical or structural equation modeling, network analysis, text as data methods, or other techniques involving large quantities of or rapidly accumulating data. This colleague would use these techniques to address a substantive policy area or areas such as political behavior, political marketing and communication, Congress, Public Opinion, Parties, Campaigns and Elections, or others.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4588>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3128

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is seeking to hire a Full or Associate Professor with expertise in American Politics. The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M is a doctoral level department with an active research-oriented faculty. The department is particularly interested in identifying individuals who could exercise a leadership role in the department's research programs in Political Behavior & Institutions, Political Economy & Political Violence and/or a university-wide initiative related to democracy. Ph.D. is required. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Indeed, the ideal candidate would possess a research profile (quality, output, and influence) that would make them competitive for an endowed faculty position, subject to approvals. The starting date for this position is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tam.u.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18th, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3132

Bethany College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

TWO positions for Assistant Professor; tenure-track. The Department of History and Political Science at Bethany College seeks to fill two tenure-track positions starting 2018-2019. The primary field for one position should be in American politics including constitutional law, American Political Development, American institutions broadly defined, judicial politics, or American foreign policy. The primary field for the second position should be in Comparative or International Politics broadly understood. We would prefer candidates who can contribute to institutional initiatives in pre-law advising, environmental politics and policy, or public health. The ability to lead short-term study abroad programs and/or to teach courses in social sciences statistics or research methods would be a significant plus. Each successful candidate will be expected to contribute courses to at least two subfields of the discipline and/or an interdisciplinary international relations program. Candidates should demonstrate how their research and teaching brings an integrative perspective to bear on the study of politics, society, and social change.

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to liberal arts education and to engaging students in active undergraduate research. Bethany faculty are expected to make contributions to student advising, program assessment, committee service, and student recruitment and retention.

Both positions will commence in August 2018.

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field preferred, ABD considered; teaching experience is essential. There is the possibility of appointment at an advanced Assistant Professor level if qualifications and time in rank merit.

Bethany is a private, liberal arts, church-affiliated college with an enrollment of approximately 700 students. Bethany College is located on a picturesque and historic 1,300-acre campus in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia, approximately 40 miles west of Pittsburgh. Founded in 1840, Bethany is West Virginia's oldest private college.

Please provide letter of application, CV, statement of teaching interests, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and unofficial copies of both graduate and undergraduate transcripts via email to doffaculty@bethanywv.edu and reference Political Science search in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. We do plan to complete this process in the fall semester so candidates are strongly urged to apply on time. We will be interviewing strong candidates at the American Political Science Association annual meeting in San Francisco (Thursday and Friday only). Please email CV to Dr. Joe Lane (Provost) at doffaculty@bethanywv.edu note "request an interview at APSA" in the subject line.

Bethany College seeks a diverse faculty and staff. Bethany is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3102

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together.

Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at polscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

University of Rochester

Rank: American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in any area of American Politics. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3094

University of Rochester

Rank: Race and Ethnic Politics/ American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications from candidates working in any area of African-American politics, Asian-American politics, Latina/Latino-American politics, Native American politics, or other areas in American race and ethnic politics, for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3098

Lake Forest College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Politics (Tenure Track)

The Lake Forest College Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in American politics, to begin August 2018. We are seeking someone to teach multiple sections of Introduction to American Politics; a research methods course, required of students majoring in politics or international relations, that includes quantitative methods; and a broad range of other courses in American institutional and behavioral politics. Lake Forest College's proximity to Chicago provides an opportunity to offer courses emphasizing Chicago history, politics and culture; the College also offers interdisciplinary programs in Legal Studies, African American Studies, American Studies and Urban Studies. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to any of these programs, and can incorporate students into their research programs. Candidates will be expected to have a record of demonstrated teaching excellence and evidence of scholarly productivity, commensurate with experience. A Ph.D. in political science, must be completed by the time of appointment. Our teaching load is 3/3, with small classes (typically 15-25 students). We support faculty research through provision of student research assistants and summer research funds; successful passage of the third-year review earns a half-year sabbatical at full pay, in the fourth or fifth year of service. Tenure review takes place at the start of the sixth year. At Lake Forest College, the quality of a faculty member's teaching is the most important criterion for evaluation. The College also expects peer-reviewed publications and active participation in the College community.

A highly selective liberal arts college located on Chicago's North Shore, Lake Forest College enrolls approximately 1,600 students from more than 40 states and from more than 70 countries. Lake Forest College embraces diversity and encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

All application material should be submitted electronically. Applicants should send a letter of application, CV, sample syllabi for no more than two courses, evidence of teaching effectiveness (in the form of student evaluations), and a brief writing sample (no more than ten pages; it may be an excerpt from a longer work) to politicssearch@mx.lakeforest.edu. Please arrange for official transcripts and three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to politicssearch@mx.lakeforest.edu. Review of completed applications will begin on October 1, 2018. Questions about the position should be addressed to the department chair, Professor Siobhan Moroney, moroney@lakeforest.edu.

The department will selectively interview at the August APSA meetings in San Francisco. If you would like an interview, please submit a CV and cover letter only to Professor Moroney, no later than August 15.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3083

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2018 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <http://tinyurl.com/yapctjam>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 5/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3084

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3058

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the field of American politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3069

Connecticut College

Rank: Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior

U.S. Politics

The Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior, beginning on July 1, 2018. The successful candidate must demonstrate an ability to teach an introductory U.S. politics course and intermediate-level courses on parties and elections. Preference will be given to candidates whose scholarship and teaching are in the area of political behavior. Courses might include US social movements, identity politics, interest groups, political participation, lobbying, voting, and media. The department already has specialists in national institutions and legal studies. Required: ABD in Political Science with a U.S. Politics focus. Desirable: Ph.D. in hand and teaching experience. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment to be hired as an Assistant Professor; a candidate may be hired as an Instructor if the candidate does not have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment, but will complete the Ph.D. within one year of hire.

Salary is competitive. In addition to providing ongoing support for teaching and research, the College offers the following resources for pre-tenured faculty: a 2-2 teaching load in the first year, a research fund in the first two years, and a semester's sabbatical (at full salary) after a successful third-year review.

The College's Board of Trustees, President, administration, faculty and staff share a commitment to diversity. To this end, the College, located in New London, CT is continuing what has been a very successful initiative to diversify its faculty, staff, and student body.

We encourage applications from candidates who share this understanding and will contribute to the diversity of our college community, including members of historically underrepresented groups. The College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Please visit our website, <http://www.conncoll.edu>, for more information about the College and our faculty searches.

Offering two popular majors (a government major and an interdisciplinary international relations major), Government and International Relations is a collegial department with 11 full-time faculty members. There are also opportunities for collaboration with interdisciplinary programs on campus. Moreover, the College's general education program, Connections, provides ample opportunity for collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching. For an overview of this innovative curriculum, please visit <http://www.conncoll.edu/connections/>

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43334>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Tristan Borer, Chair of the Department of Government and International Relations, at tabor@conncoll.edu. In your application letter, we invite you to describe your cultural competencies and experiences engaging a diverse student body. Review of applications will begin October 13, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, although we expect file review to be completed by October 27, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3049

University of Delaware

Rank: Professor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, American Politics, Political Psychology

PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for appointment as a full professor with tenure in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) We seek a scholar of American Political Behavior/Political Psychology, with a particular focus on quantitative methodologies.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 26 full-time and jointly appointed faculty, nearly 800 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a tenured full professor with an exemplary record of scholarship and teaching in American political behavior/political psychology. The successful candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized senior scholar with a strong record of graduate student and junior faculty mentoring, a strong record of grant-writing success, and an interest in actively building the quantitative American politics capacity in our methodologically diverse department. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns: (1) the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior (2) the political psychology of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; and/or (3) electoral processes and representation.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position and a current CV. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to the attention of Professor Philip Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3024

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3019

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American Politics)

Assistant Professor of Government (American Politics)
 Department of Government
 Georgetown University

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for up to two tenure-track Assistant Professorships in American politics. The positions are open as to research and teaching specializations, including both political institutions and behavior. Candidates with a focus on the presidency/executive branch or race/ethnicity are especially welcome. The department maintains strong links with the university's Department of African American Studies, the forthcoming Institute for Racial Justice, the Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other similar units.

A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and graduate (M.A. and Ph.D.) offerings. The department offers a nationally competitive doctoral program in political science as well as an innovative master's degree in American politics that takes advantage of Georgetown's location in Washington, DC.

The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9377>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Michele Swers, mls47@georgetown.edu. For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive by October 1, 2017, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3008

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3006

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2988

American University

Rank: American Politics, Tenure-track, Assistant Professor

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2018. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2018.

The Department is looking to hire someone who studies legislative institutions in the subfield of American politics. The Department is especially interested in candidates who have a substantive interest in critical policy issues of the day, such as representation, voting rights, economic policy, human security, urban policy, and immigration.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/43149>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, recent teaching evaluations (when possible) and three letters of recommendation. If you have any questions, please email govsearch@american.edu.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2978

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnicity

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor – American Politics/Political Thought/Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory courses in political thought and advanced courses in American politics, political thought, and race, ethnicity, and politics.

A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2180>. Submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate teaching philosophy statement. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2977

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 7/31/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2963

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Political Behavior)

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in the fall semester of 2018. The primary focus of our search is American Political Behavior. Preference will be given to candidates conducting quantitative research in public opinion, voting behavior, political parties, and/or media, though candidates with a comparative perspective will be given consideration. Duties include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the University.

The normal teaching load is 2 courses per semester, but may be subject to change. Candidates are expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate, and graduate MA/PhD). Candidates must be able to teach an introduction to American Politics course. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication. Experience with external grant funding is a plus. Preference will be given to candidates whose research demonstrates methodological sophistication and who have the ability to teach research methodology at the graduate, MA/Ph.D. level. Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 15th, 2018.

To apply, please visit: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25082> for more information and application process. Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017.

The University of Nevada, Reno is the State of Nevada's land grant institution of higher education and is one of eight institutions of higher education governed by the State of Nevada System of Higher Education. With a growing and increasingly diverse student enrollment of approximately 21,000 including over 2,800 graduate students, the University provides a comprehensive selection of degree programs at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. The University is currently classified (Carnegie) as "Research University/High" which places it among the top 200 colleges and universities in the United States. The University of Nevada, is located 45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and within four hours from San Francisco and the Napa-Sonoma wine country.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2940

Lamar University

Rank: Jack Brooks Endowed Chair of Government & Public Service

Specializations: Congress, Leadership Studies, Legislative Studies

The Department of Political Science is seeking a scholar with outstanding teaching and research potential for the Jack Brooks Chair in Government and Public Service beginning August 15, 2018.

The holder of the Chair will have a tenure track appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Department of Political Science. The Chair will teach six hours per semester, including graduate seminars and undergraduate courses in Congress, Legislative Processes and Leadership.

In addition to a nine-month salary, which is dependent on qualifications and experience, the Brooks Chair includes a summer research stipend.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or Government. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials. Preference will be given to PhD candidates with advanced degrees in Political Science or Government and specializing in leadership studies or the legislature.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students; maintain an active service agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: Political Science Search Committee Chairperson, <https://jobs.lamar.edu>

If your letters of recommendation are confidential, please have the letters mailed to the address above or emailed to: jobs@lamar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/12/2018
Date Posted: 6/19/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2894

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latin American or Latino Studies

Specializations: Latin American, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Department of Political Science and Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS) Program at Lehigh University seek to hire an Assistant Professor to begin in the fall term of the 2018 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in Political Science (the department of tenure) and LALS. We are looking for a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement in U.S. domestic Latinx Studies (in such areas as Latinx and Caribbean communities, Latinx civic engagement, immigration, labor issues, and gender studies) and/or comparative Latin American politics with a focus on transnationalism in Latino communities. The candidate should be committed to creative scholarship and teaching which complement and augment the LALS program's interdisciplinary strengths. The normal teaching load for this position is two courses each semester, which will be cross-listed in political science and LALS.

The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Completed applications are due by October 1, 2017. They must include a letter of interest, a current CV, three letters of reference, and representative reprints of any publications. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9250>.

For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu or Dr. Matthew Bush, Director of Latin American and Latino Studies, at mab508@lehigh.edu.

Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 6/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2886

Lehigh University

Rank: Department Chair

The Department of Political Science at Lehigh University invites applications for Department Chair. Appointment to the position begins on August 15, 2018.

We seek an innovative leader whose record qualifies for appointment at the rank of full professor with tenure, or associate professor with tenure (with credentials to soon merit application to full). The Department invites applicants who bring relevant academic and administrative experience, and welcomes applications from scholars in all areas within political science, with a preference for expertise in any of the subfields of American Politics.

Serving approximately 70 undergraduate majors and 15 graduate students, the Department of Political Science offers a BA degree, and a one-year MA in Political Science.

The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 15 faculty and staff, teach two courses per year, conduct research, oversee and engage in departmental operations including budgetary management, and serve as a member of the College's leadership team.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science, public administration, public policy or related field, along with an established record of excellence in (1) scholarly achievement (2) teaching, and (3) administrative leadership. The incoming chair must demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion and excellent communication, mentoring, and organizational skills. The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest that addresses the academic and administrative qualifications for this position, a curriculum vitae, and contact information of three references. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <http://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9248>. For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu

Screening of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position has been filled. Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We welcome and encourage applications from women and minorities.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2885

Western Washington University

Rank: African American Politics

African American Politics

The Political Science Department and the American Cultural Studies Program at Western Washington University invite applications for a tenure-track position in African American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning in September 2018. The tenure line will reside in Political Science. Teaching responsibilities will be divided between Political Science and American Cultural Studies.

Minimum requirements include: expected completion of the PhD by June 15, 2019; specialization in one of the following: African American political behavior, African Americans and American Political Development, African Americans and American Political Institutions, or African American Political Thought; ability to effectively teach introductory and upper division courses in American Politics, including advanced courses in African American Politics and American Cultural Studies; ability to effectively teach introductory research methods/social statistics; ability to conduct high quality research in African American Politics; ability to work and interact with culturally diverse student organizations and academic programs, ability to work effectively within a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff. Ability to pursue a methodologically intersectional approach to African American politics is a desired qualification.

Interested candidates should submit: a letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications, curriculum vitae, syllabi and related teaching material, teaching evaluations (if available), example(s) of scholarly writing, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted through Western's Electronic Application System for Employment (EASE) at <http://www.wvu.edu/jobs>. Application review begins 25 September 2017; position closes October 16, 2017. Inquiries may be directed to the search committee chair, Vernon Johnson, at Vernon.johnson@wvu.edu

EOE/AA

For disability accommodation

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 5/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2830

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Behavior, Electoral Behavior, Women & Politics

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a tenure-track position in American politics, specializing in political behavior, to begin August 2018. A Ph.D. in political science is required. ABDs must possess the degree by the time of appointment. Advanced scholars are encouraged to apply with some consideration given to faculty who are tenured or on the tenure track. The Department is also hiring for a tenure-track position in political theory, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

The teaching load for this position is five courses per year. The successful candidate will teach American Government and Politics and upper division courses. Candidates should be able to offer courses in political behavior, such as campaigns and elections, media, and parties and interest groups, as well as specialized courses exploring issues of identity and diversity regarding race, ethnicity, gender, and/or sexual orientation. An ability to teach quantitative methods is a plus. The successful candidate will show evidence of effective classroom teaching and a commitment to scholarly research and publication.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. The University of the South is an equal opportunity educational institution that is committed to creating and maintaining a diverse and inclusive campus environment.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief writing sample, sample syllabi, course evaluations, graduate transcript, and at least three letters of recommendation. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu>. (Any materials that are not able to be uploaded may be sent directly to krkleinf@sewanee.edu.) Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. To be considered for an interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association, applications must be received by August 15, 2017. For full consideration applications must be received by September 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 5/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2815

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2747

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3707

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3708

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow - Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy at the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies has two openings in its post-doctoral fellows' program. We will accept applications from candidates who specialize in global peace and security (broadly construed) but are particularly interested in those doing policy relevant research on the effects of inclusion on violence, peace building, and governance. Fellows will engage in their own research, participate in center activities, and have opportunities to contribute to collaborative research designed to inform (and be informed by) contemporary policy concerns and strategies. The Fellowship will begin September 1, 2018. Post-doctoral fellows will spend one academic year at the Sié Center.

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy is a center of excellence within the Josef Korbel School that leads research, education and policy programs focused on global peace and security. Eight faculty, visiting and post-doctoral scholars, and over 40 Korbel MA and PhD students contribute to the Center's activities. While at the Sié Center, post-doctoral fellows have opportunities to work with Center faculty and graduate students, engage with relevant policy practitioners, and receive clerical and research/travel support sufficient to allow the completion of a major research product. Fellows will be expected to attend and contribute to a seminar series and engage with other program initiatives including conferences, commentary, and publications.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $50,000 and access to additional funding for research support, professional development, and travel, and a comprehensive benefits package.

Essential Functions

- Participate in a research seminar series.
- Participate in workshops.
- Present research findings to interdisciplinary academic and audiences.
- Participate in independent and collaborative research.
- Submit manuscripts for publication.

Required Qualifications

- Substantial progress toward a Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant discipline. Applicants should complete all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- Policy-relevant research agenda related to the Center's program.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants should be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2014).

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 6:00 p.m. (MST) on December 15, 2017.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions regarding this position, please contact Jill Schmieder-Hereau, Executive Director of the Sié Center at Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Writing Sample
4. Two letters of recommendation sent directly to Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3705

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Conflict Analysis and Resolution

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Conflict Analysis and Resolution

The Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies at the University of San Diego invites applications for an open rank, tenure-track position in Conflict Analysis and Resolution beginning in September 2018. The preferred candidate will have a strong record of teaching and scholarship that can contribute to the Kroc School's expanding graduate programs in Peace and Justice, Social Innovation, and Conflict Management and Resolution, including in the areas of religion and environment. Field-based experience in conflict resolution/transformation, conflict prevention and peacebuilding in the U.S. or abroad is strongly preferred. The successful candidate must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment.

We welcome applications from faculty coming from peace and conflict studies, religious studies, sociology, history, psychology, anthropology, political science, international relations or related fields whose teaching and research agendas intersect substantively with conflict resolution.

The successful applicant will teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and will contribute to building the School's interdisciplinary academic programs. To be successful in our environment, you must be able to teach courses by integrating out-of-the-classroom experiential learning and community engagement. Candidates must demonstrate strong teaching experience as well as a commitment to program development and institution building.

To apply, please go to <http://apptrkr.com/1110340> and look for job #IRC25319. For full consideration, please upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), a summary of teaching evaluations (if applicable), and a writing sample the length of a typical research article or book chapter. Three confidential letters of references must be submitted separately to: krocreferences@sandiego.edu. Correspondence regarding this position should be directed to Lee Ann Otto at: lotto@sandiego.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2017; applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.

The University of San Diego is a Roman Catholic Institution committed to advancing academic excellence, expanding liberal and professional knowledge, creating a diverse and inclusive community, and preparing leaders dedicated to ethical conduct and compassionate service. USD is an Equal Opportunity employer, and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from underrepresented and underserved groups are encouraged to apply.

jeid-daa0026fa960734ca5cfc05f69318401

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3703

Columbia University

Rank: Istvan Deak Visiting Professor

Columbia University invites applications for two István Deák Visiting Professorships in East Central European Studies for one semester each (Fall or Spring) in the academic year 2018-2019. The professorship, commemorating Professor Deák's legacy of excellence in research and teaching, is open to scholars who have active interest and accomplishments in East and Central European studies. ONE appointment will be at the rank of Visiting Professor. The second will be an open-rank appointment to be filled at any level from Visiting Assistant to Visiting Full Professor.

The visiting professors will be appointed in one of the Humanities or Social Science departments of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The visitors will teach two courses, one a lecture course of broad interest for undergraduates, the other a seminar for upper-level undergraduates and graduate students. The visitors are expected to give one public lecture and participate in the academic life of the University, whose interests in East and Central European studies are well represented on campus by the East Central European Center, the European Institute, and the Harriman Institute.

Please provide a letter of application, curriculum vitae, the names of three persons who may be asked to provide a letter of reference, and a modest sample (article or book chapter) of scholarship. The letter of application should include a statement of which semester the applicant prefers, a list with the names and descriptions of two courses which the applicant might teach, and a description of the applicant's current research interests.

All applications must be made through Columbia's online Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS) at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65408

Review of applications will begin January 1, 2018, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3695

University of Houston

Rank: Director of the India Studies Program,

The University of Houston seeks a senior scholar to serve as Director of India Studies. We are looking for a scholar specializing in the study of India and its role in contemporary global political economy, geopolitics, and cultural change. This is a tenured position at the Associate or Full Professor level starting in August 2018. The India Studies Program is housed in the Department of Modern and Classical Languages, College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. The Director's role will focus primarily on developing and fulfilling the mission of the interdisciplinary India Studies (I.S.) Program.

The Program serves approximately 250 students each semester who pursue coursework in political science, sociology, anthropology, art history, language & literature, religious studies, cinema studies, yoga and wellness, and more. The Program is served by an active, voluntary advisory board, which helps with fundraising for study abroad program and various cultural events.

The College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston is recognized as a world leader in multicultural, multidisciplinary education. The India Studies Program has tremendous growth potential, as we are seeking a gifted and dedicated scholar to provide leadership to advance the mission of the I.S. program. The work of the College is deeply rooted in authentic partnerships that achieve unique scholarship, teaching, and research surrounding India's impact on the world.

Qualifications: The successful candidate will have:

1. An earned doctorate in a social science field, such as economics or political science.
2. Evidence of established scholarly record that warrants appointment at the rank of tenured Associate or Full Professor.
3. A demonstrated record of programmatic, peer-reviewed research productivity in studies of India, including quantitative research. Preference will be given to candidates with a history of successful interdisciplinary collaboration and who would likely connect with other UH academic program units.

Responsibilities:

1. Directing the India Studies Program and advancing the program goals, including developing innovative collaborations within UH, and establishing an international reputation for excellence.
2. Conducting research that meaningfully contributes to the field and practice.
3. Securing external funding to further the mission of India Studies.
4. Teaching India studies undergraduate courses and developing future graduate courses.
5. Supervising student research

Preference will be given to candidates with a history of successful interdisciplinary collaboration and who would likely connect with other UH academic program units.

Responsibilities:

1. Directing the India Studies Program and advancing the program goals, including developing innovative collaborations within UH, and establishing an international reputation for excellence.
2. Conducting research that meaningfully contributes to the field and practice.
3. Securing external funding to further the mission of India Studies.
4. Teaching India studies undergraduate courses and developing future graduate courses.
5. Supervising student research
6. Partnering with local, national, and international collaborators to further the goals of the India Studies Program.

The University of Houston is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at the University of Houston. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Interested candidates should submit application materials online at: <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. Please include curriculum vitae, a letter of application, unofficial transcripts, research statement, publications and a list of three references with complete addresses and phone number. Official terminal degree transcripts will be requested upon selection of a final candidate. Applications received before December 1 will have full consideration. Review will continue until position is filled.

For more details about the Program, please visit the India Studies' web page <http://www.uh.edu/class/mcl/india-studies>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3698

University of Houston

Rank: Director of the India Studies Program,

The University of Houston seeks a senior scholar to serve as Director of India Studies. We are looking for a scholar specializing in the study of India and its role in contemporary global political economy, geopolitics, and cultural change. This is a tenured position at the Associate or Full Professor level starting in August 2018. The India Studies Program is housed in the Department of Modern and Classical Languages, College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. The Director's role will focus primarily on developing and fulfilling the mission of the interdisciplinary India Studies (I.S.) Program.

The Program serves approximately 250 students each semester who pursue coursework in political science, sociology, anthropology, art history, language & literature, religious studies, cinema studies, yoga and wellness, and more. The Program is served by an active, voluntary advisory board, which helps with fundraising for study abroad program and various cultural events.

The College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston is recognized as a world leader in multicultural, multidisciplinary education. The India Studies Program has tremendous growth potential, as we are seeking a gifted and dedicated scholar to provide leadership to advance the mission of the I.S. program. The work of the College is deeply rooted in authentic partnerships that achieve unique scholarship, teaching, and research surrounding India's impact on the world.

Qualifications: The successful candidate will have:

1. An earned doctorate in a social science field, such as economics or political science.
2. Evidence of established scholarly record that warrants appointment at the rank of tenured Associate or Full Professor.
3. A demonstrated record of programmatic, peer-reviewed research productivity in studies of India, including quantitative research.

Preference will be given to candidates with a history of successful interdisciplinary collaboration and who would likely connect with other UH academic program units.

Responsibilities:

1. Directing the India Studies Program and advancing the program goals, including developing innovative collaborations within UH, and establishing an international reputation for excellence.
2. Conducting research that meaningfully contributes to the field and practice.
3. Securing external funding to further the mission of India Studies.
4. Teaching India studies undergraduate courses and developing future graduate courses.
5. Supervising student research
6. Partnering with local, national, and international collaborators to further the goals of the India Studies Program.

The University of Houston is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at the University of Houston. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Interested candidates should submit application materials online at: <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. Please include curriculum vitae, a letter of application, unofficial transcripts, research statement, publications and a list of three references with complete addresses and phone number. Official terminal degree transcripts will be requested upon selection of a final candidate. Applications received before December 1 will have full consideration. Review will continue until position is filled.

For more details about the Program, please visit the India Studies' web page <http://www.uh.edu/class/mcl/india-studies>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3699

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy of Race

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Political Economy, Social Movements

The Department of African American Studies at Emory University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor training in one of the social science disciplinary areas who will engage research and teaching focused on the Political Economy of Race. We seek scholars working on racialized structures of inequality. The successful candidate will 1) provide evidence of research projects in-progress or published; 2) demonstrate commitment to undergraduate teaching in diverse settings; and 3) envision, and be prepared to implement, cross-disciplinary collaborations with other Emory Departments. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester. The Ph.D is required by the time of appointment.

Applicants should know that this hire in the Political Economy of Race is proceeding alongside similar Assistant Professor searches in the social sciences at Emory University: one in Sociology for the Sociology of Race and the other in Oxford Division of Social Sciences (an Emory campus) for Critical Race Theory.

Applications are due December 11, 2017. Please submit a letter of interest, inclusive of current and planned research; a teaching statement that describes experiences with, and commitment to, teaching a diverse student body; curriculum vitae, three letters of support; and a writing sample of no more than 25 pages. Only applications submitted through Interfolio will be considered.

<http://apply.interfolio.com/46493>

Emory University, in Atlanta, Georgia, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3694

Roanoke College

Rank: Visiting Professor

International Relations

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Professor position in International Relations, beginning in August 2018 and ending in May 2019. This is a full time, sabbatical-replacement position, with a teaching load of three courses per semester.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in International Politics, International Relations Theory, and Environmental Policy. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach a course on the Comparative Politics of Europe. The successful candidate will also contribute International Relations courses to the General Education curriculum. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research. Visiting Professors are eligible to receive departmental funds and to apply for most of the College's internal grants in support of their research and teaching.

Roanoke College, a nationally ranked Phi Beta Kappa institution is located in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia and is affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA). It is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should electronically submit curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation and any inquiries to Judi Pinckney at pinckney@roanoke.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3684

University of Dayton

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Dayton is seeking a lecturer with a specialization in international political economy and development. Responsibilities include teaching courses in political science, courses for non-majors, and the interdisciplinary social science curriculum.

Qualified candidates will have completed all requirements for the PhD degree in Political Science or a related field, except for defense of dissertation, at the time of application; PhD preferred. Required qualifications include excellent written communication skills and the potential for excellence in teaching in one or more areas of international political economy and development.

The department prefers candidates with an ability to contribute to teaching interdisciplinary aspects of international political economy and development, an interest in developing international political economy and development courses, an interest in the use of innovative pedagogical techniques and successful teaching at the university level. Experience in teaching and advising students of diverse backgrounds and a sensitivity to Catholic and Marianist educational values are also preferred.

The University and the Department are strongly committed to excellence in teaching and the development of distinctive graduates who embrace the ideal of servant-leadership and the University's call to "Learn, Lead, and Serve." The Department currently has 15 full-time faculty members. It offers BAs in Human Rights Studies and Political Science and the Master of Public Administration. The Department is highly supportive of its faculty and students.

The University of Dayton, founded in 1850 by the Society of Mary, is a top ten Catholic research university. The University seeks outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community.

Apply at jobs.udayton.edu/postings/24565 by January 16, 2018. Information on the interdisciplinary curriculum (SSC 200) is at udayton.edu/artsscience/academics/about/social_science_cap/index.php.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/16/2018

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3685

Bilkent University

Rank: Faculty Position (Open rank) in International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The International Relations Department at Bilkent University invites applicants for an open rank position, commencing Fall 2018. The Department is interested in applicants who specialize in International Security broadly defined, especially those with a concentration on Middle East politics. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its Faculty. Female and international scholars are therefore especially encouraged to apply.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is placed in global rankings as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 600 undergraduate students and 35 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, high-impact research, and developing critical and analytical thinking.

Applicants should hold a PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a related field, though PhD candidates with publications and close to completing their studies are also encouraged to apply. However, the prospective candidate is required to receive a PhD no later than August 1, 2018. A strong publication record and promising research potential are essential. Successful applicants will teach two courses in their field of expertise at both the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate theses.

Applications should include (i) cover letter, (ii) up-to-date CV, (iii) one-page research statement, (iv) one-page teaching statement, and (v) contact details of three academic referees, and be submitted to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by the application deadline at 5:00pm on Friday 22 December 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3668

University of North Carolina, Wilmington

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

Link to apply: <https://jobs.uncw.edu/postings/9617>

Position Title

Assistant Professor - Public and International Affairs

Department

Public & International Affairs - 32421

Vacancy Number

16F-147

Position Number

6841

Location of Workplace

Main UNCW Campus

Summary of Position

The Department of Public and International Affairs is seeking a Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Political Science with training in Comparative Politics. This position requires an active research program and carries a 3-3 teaching load.

Minimum Requirements

We expect the successful candidate to begin in August 2018. Candidates must be capable of excellent and dynamic teaching primarily at the undergraduate level with a focus on comparative politics. The successful candidate is expected to maintain a productive and active research agenda producing peer reviewed research, and to participate as a department citizenship through service. A PhD in Political Science, or related field, is required. ABD candidates will be considered, however, the candidate must have a PhD in hand prior to starting the position in August 2018.

Preferred Qualifications

We are searching for a candidate whose expertise examines various aspects of comparative politics (including, but not limited to, democratization, political economy, comparative institutions, etc.), and we are particularly interested in those with regional expertise in China and/or Southeast Asia. The ideal candidate will also have graduate training in international relations in order to contribute to our IR curriculum. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses at both the introductory and upper level, as well as a course in political methodology.

While the focus of this position is on undergraduate teaching, the successful candidates may have the opportunity to contribute to one of our three graduate programs: Conflict Management and Resolution (CMR), Public Administration (MPA), and Coastal & Ocean Policy (MCOP).

Primary Function of Organizational Unit

The Department of Public and International Affairs supports the Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and several minors: International Affairs, Nonprofit Management and Leadership, Political Science, Pre-Law, Public Administration, and Security Studies. At the graduate level, faculty support courses in the Master of Public Administration, Master of Arts in Conflict Management and Resolution, and Master of Coastal and Ocean Policy.

College/School Information

At UNCW, the College of Arts and Sciences provides the vital foundation for the university's pursuit of excellence. Through our teaching, we educate students for lives of fulfillment in the twenty-first century. Through our research, we advance the state of knowledge and creativity in the arts and sciences. And through our outreach, we improve the quality of life in Southeastern North Carolina and beyond.

University Information

The University of North Carolina Wilmington, the state's coastal university, is dedicated to learning through the integration of teaching and mentoring with research and service. A public institution with nearly 16,000 students, the university is known for its superb faculty and staff and powerful academic experience. With an array of high-quality programs at the baccalaureate and master's levels, and doctoral programs in marine biology, educational leadership, psychology and nursing practice. UNCW is consistently recognized at a national level for academic excellence and affordability by publications like U.S. News & World Report, Kiplinger's Personal Finance and The Business Journals. UNCW also recently earned the 2015 Community Engagement Classification from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, bestowed to higher education institutions dedicated to community involvement.

EEO Statement

UNC Wilmington actively fosters a diverse and inclusive working and learning environment and is an equal opportunity employer. Qualified persons from all racial, ethnic or other minority groups, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Applicant Instructions

All interested applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.uncw.edu/>. Applications received by November 23, 2017 will be assured full consideration. The following materials are required:

1. Cover letter describing research and teaching interests,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Unofficial graduate transcripts (official ones will be required before hire),
4. Teaching portfolio (1-page teaching statement, list of courses that the applicant is interested to teach, student teaching evaluations and 1 sample syllabus)
5. One writing sample (published paper or manuscript)
6. Names and email addresses for at least three references who are prepared to provide letters of recommendation.

Position Type

Permanent

Anticipated Ending Date if Time-Limited Positions

Job Posting Date

10/18/2017

Priority Consideration Date

11/23/2017

Priority Consideration Information

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by the Priority Date; however, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Address application documents to
Dr. Aaron King

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/23/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3663

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW, The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies, Contemporary Middle Eastern Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Middle East, Political Economy, Urban Politics

FACULTY FELLOW

The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies

Contemporary Middle Eastern Studies

ARTS ANS SCIENCE

New York University

The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies at New York University invites applicants for a full-time, non-tenure track position as Faculty Fellow to begin September 1st, 2018, pending budgetary and administrative approval. The appointment will be for one year, renewable for a further two years.

We are looking for an outstanding junior scholar in any social science or humanities discipline whose research offers a critical perspective on the contemporary Middle East and would complement the strengths of our existing faculty in Middle Eastern Studies. The ideal candidate has an in-depth understanding of the modern Middle East, knowledge of at least one Middle Eastern language, and has a Ph.D. in one of the following fields: Anthropology, Comparative Middle Eastern Studies, Cultural Studies, Politics/Political Economy, Sociology, Urban Studies/Geography, or similar. The appointee will be expected to teach at the graduate level (MAs and some PhDs), advise MA students, and participate in the activities of the Kevorkian Center.

A demonstrated research and teaching experience is required, and advising experience is a plus. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2018. We are especially interested in receiving applications from women and minority candidates. Please submit a cover letter, a CV, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. To apply, please go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/46267>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here.

(<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3662

Northwestern University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships in Global, Comparative, or International Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Social Movements

The Buffett Institute for Global Studies at Northwestern University invites applications for two-year postdoctoral fellowships in the study of global, comparative, or international affairs. Up to three fellows will be selected. Applications are welcome from scholars from any range of social science or interdisciplinary perspectives whose research addresses global, international, or transnational social processes, problems, governance, or conflicts. Fellowships will run from September 1, 2018 to August 31, 2020.

The salary is $55,000. In addition, fellows are eligible for $5,000 per year to fund research and conference travel and up to $2,000 in reimbursement for allowable relocation expenses in the first year. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Applicants must have received their PhD between December 14, 2015, and August 31, 2018.

Application deadline is December 15, 2017, at 5 p.m. (CT).

For a complete position description and application procedures, visit: <http://buffett.northwestern.edu/funding-grants/buffett-postdocs.html>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3651

Duke Kunshan University

Rank: Faculty Positions (Rank Open) in Social Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Duke Kunshan University (DKU) invites applications for faculty positions in the Social Sciences: Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Sociology, Psychology & Neuroscience, and Cultural Anthropology. These positions are open with regard to rank including tenured, tenure track, and non-tenure track. We are especially interested in considering advanced assistant professors to full professors.

These positions are open with regard to sub-field. Besides our general interest in each area, in some areas we are especially interested in:

- Political Science: political economy, institutions and governance, international and global affairs, and political behavior and identities;
- Public Policy: policy and political analysis, ethics, public opinion, and media and communications;
- Economics: macroeconomics, microeconomics, entrepreneurship and finance, environmental and development economics, and the history of economic thought;
- Sociology: social theory, sociology of culture, statistical methodology and computational sociology, inequality, organizations, and contemporary social problems.

DKU will launch an innovative, integrated and interdisciplinary liberal arts and sciences undergraduate program leading to both Duke and DKU degrees. Students interested in social sciences will be immersed in integrated core courses including decision making under uncertainty and foundational questions in social sciences, as well as a common set of university-wide courses on China, global challenges, and ethics. Areas of study in the social sciences include, but are not limited to, Political Economy, Institutions and Governance, Movements and Cultures, China and US Studies, Ethics and Leadership, Global Health, Environmental Policy, and Cognitive Science. Faculty will have the unique opportunity to pioneer, lead and implement an interdisciplinary and integrated social science curriculum and to conduct research in the related fields. These positions may start as early as Fall 2018 or begin a year later.

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. degree or equivalent in an appropriate field. Successful candidates should show a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching in a liberal arts curriculum. Research and scholarship are also highly valued. Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, a research statement and a teaching statement, as well as names and contact information for three references. All materials should be submitted through Academic Jobs Online: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10175>. The search committee also invites and encourages letters of nomination for potential candidates. Nominations and questions about the positions may be sent to social-science-search@dukekunshan.edu.cn using "Social Science Search" as the subject line. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1, 2017; we will accept applications until the positions are filled.

DKU is a partnership of Duke University, Wuhan University and the Municipality of Kunshan, China (<https://dukekunshan.edu.cn>)*. The DKU campus is 37 miles west of Shanghai in Kunshan, and is connected to Shanghai via an 18-minute high-speed train and a sub-way-light rail train system. DKU provides competitive compensation, benefits and start-up packages.

As an international intellectual community that encourages diversity, openness and creative learning, DKU welcomes outstanding faculty from around the world who contribute diverse perspectives and experiences to a global learning and research environment. DKU particularly welcomes applications from underrepresented groups and minorities.

*Duke University is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) to award baccalaureate, master's and doctorate degrees. Duke Kunshan University is not accredited by SACSCOC and the accreditation of Duke University does not extend to or include Duke Kunshan University or its students. Duke Kunshan University is accredited by the Ministry of Education of the People's Republic of China. Further, although Duke University agrees to accept certain course work from DKU to be applied toward an award from Duke University, that course work may not be accepted by other colleges or universities in transfer, even if it appears on a transcript from Duke University. The decision to accept course work in transfer from any institution is made by the institution considering the acceptance of credits or course work.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3635

Princeton University

Rank: Communications Associate

The Department of Politics seeks a Communications Associate for the Arab Barometer. This individual will promote and disseminate findings through media relations, in both Arabic and English, and play a large role in event planning including the training workshops in the region. The Communications Associate will serve as initial point of contact for media and policy inquiries. The associate will also reach out to print, broadcast and online media through press releases, media advisories and pitch calls, while leading efforts on social media outreach to promote the Arab Barometer's work.

This is a full time, 18 month term position, based in Washington D.C. The possibility of renewal exists depending on performance and grant funding.

Responsibilities

- Develop strategies and tactics to best serve the media, key stakeholders and interested parties in MENA and the U.S.
- Assist with digital outreach including website and social media in Arabic and English
- Oversee planning for training workshops to train key stakeholders in MENA in how to successfully use project data
- Serve as initial point of contact for external inquiries, especially media inquiries

- Respond to incoming media requests promptly, accurately and efficiently
- Reach out to print, broadcast and online media in the Arab world, the U.S. and beyond through press releases, media advisories and pitch calls
- Take responsibility for creating, updating and maintaining lists of media and other key stakeholders
- Identify new people and organizations within the target audiences
- Track success of written reports, media outreach, and other external outreach activities

Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree required; degree in communications, journalism or related field
- 3-5 years' experience in communications, including media relations
- Background working with press corps and public-policy community in MENA and the U.S.
- Background in event planning
- Strong writing skills and ability to work on a variety of materials for different audiences
- Knowledge of Salesforce or similar contact databases
- Experience with Microsoft Office (especially Word, Excel, PowerPoint)
- Fluency (spoken and written) in Arabic and English
- Demonstrated interest in and knowledge of MENA issues, as well as those at the intersection of religion and public affairs
- Ability to work with numbers and statistics
- Strong skills in organization, ability to balance multiple project, and to meet multiple deadlines
- Ability to work strategically and collegially with the Arab Barometer team

To be considered application must be submitted at <https://careers.princeton.edu/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3640

Princeton University

Rank: Senior Research Specialist

The Department of Politics seeks a Senior Research Specialist to work directly under the Project Director for the Arab Barometer. The Senior Research Specialist assists in questionnaire development, performs quality control procedures, assists in statistical analysis, undertakes data analysis to support reports and presentations for dissemination of the findings. This individual is also responsible for conducting analysis using Arab Barometer data in support of outreach to academics, government officials, the press, and other target audiences.

This position will be based in Washington, D.C. and is an 18 month term position with the possibility of renewal based on performance and grant funding.

Responsibilities

Data analysis

- Conduct analyses of survey data
- Prepare summary findings
- Run advanced statistical models
- Conduct analysis for academic research projects

- Perform data visualization for reports and presentations
- Compile and analyze trend data

Quality control

- Perform quality control checks on survey data
- Fact-check and number-check Arab Barometer products
- Clean and prepare datasets for public release

Survey design and questionnaire development

- Develop research questions
- Draft questionnaires
- Design samples to meet project needs

Outreach

- Respond to external requests for information
- Present research to key audiences

Qualifications

Essential:

- Strong analytical and research skills
- Experience working with survey data
- Background in quantitative analysis
- Knowledge of Stata, R, or other statistical software is required
- Strong verbal and written communications skills
- Demonstrated attention to detail
- Ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely
- Ability to meet tight deadlines across multiple survey projects while ensuring accuracy of results
- Proven experience in undertaking research involving survey data analysis, including using Stata, R, and other software
- Familiarity and experience with regression and MLE techniques, including advanced techniques such as multilevel modeling
- Knowledge and interest in the Middle East and North Africa

Preferred:

- Advanced degree in social sciences or statistics with Ph.D. strongly preferred
- Experience with conducting international survey research
- Arabic language skills highly desirable

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3641

Princeton University

Rank: Senior Research Specialist

The Department of Politics seeks a Senior Research Specialist to work directly under the Project Director for the Arab Barometer. The Senior Research Specialist assists in questionnaire development, performs quality control procedures, assists in statistical analysis, undertakes data analysis to support reports and presentations for dissemination of the findings. This individual is also responsible for conducting analysis using Arab Barometer data in support of outreach to academics, government officials, the press, and other target audiences.

This position will be based in Washington, D.C. and is an 18 month term position with the possibility of renewal based on performance and grant funding.

Responsibilities

Data analysis

- Conduct analyses of survey data
- Prepare summary findings
- Run advanced statistical models
- Conduct analysis for academic research projects
- Perform data visualization for reports and presentations
- Compile and analyze trend data

Quality control

- Perform quality control checks on survey data
- Fact-check and number-check Arab Barometer products
- Clean and prepare datasets for public release

Survey design and questionnaire development

- Develop research questions
- Draft questionnaires
- Design samples to meet project needs

Outreach

- Respond to external requests for information
- Present research to key audiences

Qualifications

Essential:

- Strong analytical and research skills
- Experience working with survey data
- Background in quantitative analysis
- Knowledge of Stata, R, or other statistical software is required
- Strong verbal and written communications skills
- Demonstrated attention to detail
- Ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely
- Ability to meet tight deadlines across multiple survey projects while ensuring accuracy of results
- Proven experience in undertaking research involving survey data analysis, including using Stata, R, and other software
- Familiarity and experience with regression and MLE techniques, including advanced techniques such as multilevel modeling
- Knowledge and interest in the Middle East and North Africa

Preferred:

- Advanced degree in social sciences or statistics with Ph.D. strongly preferred
- Experience with conducting international survey research
- Arabic language skills highly desirable

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 10/17/2017Salary: $60,000 - $69,999eJobs ID: 3642University of Memphis*Rank: Assistant ProfessorSubfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Policy at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2018 pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2018. We seek applications from candidates with research and teaching interests in Public Policy. Candidates from across all subfields of Political Science and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Areas of particular interest for the department include environmental policy, political economy, public health, race, gender and social justice. Individuals with cross-cutting disciplinary and/or methodological interests are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in Public Policy and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and letters from at least three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries please contact: Public Policy Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students. The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to diversifying its work force. Applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 1/5/2018Date Posted: 10/17/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3643Columbia University*Rank: Lecturer in DisciplineSubfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Columbia University

School of International and Public Affairs

Lecturer in Discipline

Comparative Social Policy and International Political Economy

School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track, renewable position of Lecturer in Discipline in the fields of comparative social policy and international political economy, to begin July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a demonstrated record of accomplishment in teaching and research related to comparative social policy and international political economy and, preferably, comparative urban policy. Research interests or practice should be policy-relevant. Master's degree or equivalent degree required. Ph.D. and/or relevant professional experience at senior level strongly preferred.

Applicants should be qualified to teach courses related to comparative social policy, international political economy and comparative urban policy in demanding Master's degree programs in international and public affairs. There also is a strong preference for candidates who are qualified to teach a workshop in writing and presentation skills for Master's degree students.

Please visit our online application site at:

<https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65346>

for further information about this position and to submit your application.

Screening of the candidates will begin as soon as possible. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@sipa.columbia.edu.

The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of SIPA's academic community.

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs brings together an interdisciplinary faculty to conduct research in policy-related fields and train students at the master's and doctoral level for careers in global public policy.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Applications from women and underrepresented minorities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3625

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track)

Department of Political Science

Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in comparative politics, open with respect to subfield specialization, to begin Fall 2018. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2018. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications should be submitted online at https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor---Comparative-Politics_R00017900

Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to popare@lsu.edu. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3629

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track)

Department of Political Science

Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in comparative politics, open with respect to subfield specialization, to begin Fall 2018. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2018. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications should be submitted online at https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor---Comparative-Politics_R00017900

Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to popare@lsu.edu. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3630

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

ACADEMIC YEAR 2017-2018

Areas of Specialization: International Relations, Developing States

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. While the position would be tenured within the Political Science Department, the successful applicant will be expected to contribute three courses per year to the university's International Studies Program. The position entails teaching general survey courses in international relations and upper-level courses focused on the international relations of developing countries. The ability to teach international political economy and/or comparative politics in the applicant's region of specialization would also be an asset. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Matthew Hoddie, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until December 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/5/2017

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3623

University of Guam

Rank: Tenure Track IR

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The University of Guam, the premier institution of higher education in the Western Pacific, has a tenure track opening in its Political Science Program for an International Relations specialist with a focus on the Asia Pacific. The program has three faculty members representing the areas of American and regional politics, comparative politics and international relations. Courses in political philosophy and methods are shared among faculty.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach both lower and upper division undergraduate political science courses. He or she will (a) teach a normal load of twelve (12) contact hours (4 courses) per semester, with one course load reduction possible with the Dean's approval, for research, instructional innovation, or large service projects; (b) maintain a continuous record of scholarly activity and research relevant to the Asia/Pacific region; and (c) perform university and community service. Course assignments will include an introductory research methodology course including quantitative and qualitative methods and upper division courses in international relations. Possible additional course assignments include: introduction to government and politics, introduction to international relations, political philosophy, politics of Asia and special topics in political science.

Minimum qualifications: (a) Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations or Government from a U.S. regionally accredited institution or foreign equivalent (appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor requires Ph.D. by August 2018 but initial appointment as Instructor is possible, contingent upon completion of the doctorate by the end of the first year of employment); (b) research or relevant professional experience in Asia and/or the Pacific region; (c) teaching experience in some of the subject areas listed above; and (d) willingness to teach online.

Preferred: (a) familiarity with issues of Pacific island societies; (b) experience teaching academically and culturally diverse populations; and (c) a record of winning grants.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience relevant to the position. The following salary figures are for nine (9) months:

Instructor $34,169 - $57,892 Per Academic Year

Assistant Professor $39,473 - $68,237 Per Academic Year

Associate Professor $43,703 - $77,498 Per Academic Year

Applicants for University of Guam faculty positions must complete an online job application through the UOG's online employment portal at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com>. Please have the following documents prepared and ready to upload with your application:

- (1) Letter of Intent, stating interest
- (2) Up-to-date curriculum vitae or resume
- (3) Copies of all graduate and undergraduate transcripts

Applicants who are short-listed for an interview will be required to provide a short (approximately 5 minutes) video clip of their lecture or presentation. Also, applicants may be requested by the search chair to submit supplemental materials including syllabi. Completed applications must be received no later than 11:59 p.m. on January 8, 2018 (Chamorro Standard Time/UTC+10).

Before applying, applicants should consult the full job announcement at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com/postings/1111>. For further information, please contact Dr. Arun R. Swamy, Chair, Political Science Search Committee at arswamy@triton.uog.edu or the Human Resources Office at uoghro@triton.uog.edu, telephone number, (671) 735-2350 or fax number at (671) 734-6005.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3621

Illinois State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and Government seeks applications for a 9-month, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics. The appointment will be made at the rank of Assistant Professor and will start on August 16, 2018. Candidates must have a Ph.D. conferred by August 16, 2019. We welcome applicants with a research focus on community development, non-governmental organizations, or project management, especially those with regional expertise in Africa. State law mandates demonstrable oral proficiency in the English language as a requirement for this position. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in Comparative Politics, Community Development, Project Management, and African Politics. The teaching assignment for the position is anticipated to be 3 courses per semester, with a one-course reduction in this assignment in one semester of the first year.

Initial review of applications will begin on January 15, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. To assure full consideration, please attach an application to posting number 0709961 at www.jobs.ilstu.edu. Candidates should submit: 1) a letter of application that includes a statement of teaching interests and experiences and a statement of research interests and future plans; 2) a current CV; 3) a sample of research; 4) graduate school transcripts; and 5) student evaluations (if available).

In addition, three letters of reference can be uploaded as 1 scanned PDF document with your application or can be submitted on your behalf to polsearch2018@ilstu.edu. Letters should be addressed to: T.Y. Wang, Chair, Department of Politics & Government, Illinois State University, Campus Box 4600, Normal, IL 61790-4600.

Illinois State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

If you are having difficulty accessing the system, please call Human Resources at 309-438-8311.

If you are an individual with a disability and need a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) or other state or federal law, you may request an accommodation by contacting the Office of Equal Opportunity and Access at 309-438-3383.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3609

University of South Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The University of South Florida is a high-impact, global research university dedicated to student success. USF is a Top 50 research university among both public and private institutions nationwide in total research expenditures, according to the National Science Foundation. Serving nearly 48,000 students, the USF System has an annual budget of $1.5 billion and an annual economic impact of $4.4 billion. USF is a member of the American Athletic Conference.

The School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies (SIGS) at the University of South Florida invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning on August 7, 2018.

A Ph.D. in Political Science, Politics or Government with a specialization in Comparative Politics from an accredited institution is required for the position. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise in post-colonialism. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to teach qualitative methods at the graduate level. Applications from ABDs will be considered, but the degree must be conferred by appointment start date. The teaching load is four courses per academic year. Candidates must be able to teach both undergraduate and graduate level courses.

Salary is negotiable. Review of applications will begin on November 6, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies (formerly the Department of Government & International Affairs) is a brand new academic unit in the College of Arts & Sciences at the University of South Florida. It consists of four academic programs – Political Science, International Studies, Africana Studies, and Latin American & Caribbean Studies – which act collaboratively to promote global teaching, research, and engagement.

Applications must be submitted through the University of South Florida Employment website: employment.usf.edu (click on Access Careers@USF and choose Faculty as Job Family).

Direct link to posting: https://gems.fastmail.usf.edu:4440/psp/gems-pro-tam/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=14692&PostingSeq=1

Applicants should attach the following supplemental items to their application: a letter of application; vitae; graduate transcripts; research statement; writing sample of no more than 40 pages; teaching statement; sample syllabi; student evaluations of teaching; and any other evidence of teaching success. All documents must be combined and uploaded as one file. Three letters of recommendation should be sent electronically (to amythomas1@usf.edu) or in hard copy to:

Amy Thomas, Academic Services Administrator
School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies
University of South Florida
4202 East Fowler Ave, SOC 107
Tampa, FL 33620

Conclusion of this search is subject to final budget approval. According to Florida Law, applications and meetings regarding them are open to the public. USF is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access institution. For disability accommodations, contact Amy Thomas at amythomas1@usf.edu, a minimum of five working days in advance.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3612

Ludwig Maximilians Universitaet, Center for Advanced Studies

Rank: Fellowship in the CAS Research Group “Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions“

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Call for Applications

Fellowships in the CAS Research Group “Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions“
Center for Advanced Studies, LMU Munich

The Center for Advanced Studies at LMU Munich <http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/index.html> is a forum for intensive international academic exchange. Its purpose is to promote cooperation with national and international Visiting Fellows who work closely on collaborative projects with LMU professors. In order to intensify cooperation between researchers at LMU Munich and leading experts from other universities, the Center has set up a major program, the CAS Research Groups http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/research_groups/index.html.

The CAS Research Group “Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions“ http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/research_groups/upcoming_rg/rg_zangl/index.html is initiated by Bernhard Zangl (Political Sciences) and will commence work in October 2018.

The CAS Research Group will study the adaptation of international institutions to shifts in the global distribution of power. As powers such as China rise and powers such as the US decline, international institutions such as the IMF, the WTO or the UN come under pressure to adapt to new power realities. Yet, the pathways to institutional adaptation vary considerably. In some cases, adaptation comes through a pathway of power bargaining, but in other cases, pathways of strategic cooptation or rhetorical coercion prevail. What is more, sometimes attempts of institutional adaptation are successful and sometimes they fail. The CAS Research Group therefore investigates the conditions under which different pathways to institutional adaptation are taken as well as the pathway-specific conditions for the success or failure of institutional adaptation. The group's initial proposition is that depending on whether power shifts involve revisionist or reformist powers and depending on whether power shifts imply hard or soft power, the resulting pathways to institutional adaptation will take the shape of power bargaining, strategic cooptation or rhetorical coercion, which in turn feature specific conditions for the success or failure of institutional adaptation. Taking this proposition as a starting point, the research group seeks to develop a power shift theory of institutional adaptation, which will be assessed in case studies on power shifts in a variety of international institutions. The Research Group aims at publishing its results as a special issue of a high-ranking International Relations Journal or as an edited volume of a high-quality University Press.

The CAS Research Group will bring together internationally renowned researchers who are invited to LMU Munich to contribute to the group's research, i.e. to the development of a power shift theory of institutional adaptation and/or the empirics of power shifts in (one or several) international institutions. Applications from senior and junior researchers are equally welcome. The Center for Advanced Studies will provide financing and organizational support for visits of between four weeks and nine months during the period between October 2018 and September 2019. Travel and accommodation will be paid for and an expense allowance or other compensation (according to individual agreement) will be provided to cover operating costs or as recompense for any loss of income sustained. Guests will receive a workspace in the Center and will have access to all its facilities. Visiting researchers will find an open and stimulating research environment in an interdisciplinary setting.

Applications should consist of a brief outline (1-2 pages) of the expertise, field of exchange and intended contribution to the CAS Research Group. Applications should also contain relevant credentials and a résumé including a list of the most recent publications. In order to strengthen the role of women in research, female scholars are strongly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all the application documents electronically (in one PDF file) by 10 December 2017 to

Email: Bernhard.Zangl@LMU.de

Prof. Dr. Bernhard Zangl
Geschwister-Scholl-Institut für Politikwissenschaft
Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München
Oettingenstraße 67
80538 München
Germany

For any questions on the CAS Research Groups please contact Dr. Julia Schreiner at CAS:

Email: Julia.Schreiner@cas.lmu.de

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3601

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of International Affairs at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure track position in comparative politics at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall of 2018. While we seek a scholar who is broadly trained in the concepts, methods, and approaches used in the study of comparative politics, we are particularly interested in candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative institutionalism.

Through our new Presidential Hiring Initiative, SPIA seeks an expert who advances the Signature Research Theme of "Safeguarding and Sustaining Our World" by focusing on human security and wellbeing in a comparative institutional context. An expert in comparative legislative, judicial or executive institutions is sought, who focuses on how the state and society address threats from terrorism, interstate conflict, refugee or migration flows, climate change, threats to human rights, food security, or energy security. How relevant institutions are sustained, and how they change over time, are of interest.

Candidates are expected to have a demonstrated ability to produce high quality research, show promise of attracting external funding, and be well trained in research methods, broadly defined.

The School of Public and International Affairs, of which the DIA is one of three departments, has two state of the art experimental research laboratories – one for group surveys and experiments; the other for one or two-person observations (with eye-tracking equipment and technology to record skin conductance, heart rate variability, and electromyography). Candidates who can make use of these state-of-the-art research facilities are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of International Affairs is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter.

Minimum qualifications: The Ph.D. degree in political science or near completion of dissertation is required. For ABD applicants, the degree must be completed by August 1, 2018.

Prospective candidates should send a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three references in electronic form to the UGA Faculty Job site at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2925>. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 309, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu). Applications received by November 12, 2017 will be assured full consideration.

Georgia is well known for its quality of life both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. The Department of International Affairs is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (facultyjobs@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3605

Clarkson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Humanities and Social Sciences Department at Clarkson University invites applicants to apply for the position of Assistant Professor. This position is an entry-level tenure track appointment in International Relations or Comparative Politics to begin August 2018. The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory level courses as well as courses in her/his area of expertise, which could include a regional focus. Applicants should bring a lively interest in contributing to the programmatic development of one or more of Clarkson's intra-school emphases in environmental sustainability and the health sciences, or to the university's goals of international and global outreach. The ordinary teaching load is three courses (usually two preparations) per semester, including each fall two sections of a first-year, writing-intensive course, focused on a theme of the applicant's choosing. There is ample opportunity for course development in electives.

The successful candidate will have evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching. PhD required by August 1, 2018. Minimum qualifications include PhD in political science with emphasis on International Relations or Comparative Politics. Some teaching experience and scholarly productivity.

Review of applications will begin December 17, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. To submit your application, go to www.clarkson.edu/hr and click "Career Opportunities" on the left hand navigation bar. An equal opportunity /affirmative action employer, Clarkson actively seeks and encourages applications from minorities, women and people with disabilities.

Prior to a final offer of employment, the selected candidate will be required to submit to a background check including, but not limited to, employment verification, educational and other credential verification, and criminal background check.

Clarkson University is a nationally recognized research university with signature areas of academic excellence and research directed toward the world's pressing issues. With more than 4,300 undergraduate and graduate students, its main campus is located in Potsdam, N.Y., and additional graduate program and research facilities are located in the Capital Region and Beacon, N.Y. One in five alumni already leads as an owner, CEO, VP or equivalent senior executive of a company.

Start Date: Fall

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3594

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3589

Calvin College

Rank: Full Time, Tenure Track Faculty

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science and be able to demonstrate both scholarly potential and strong teaching ability. Preferred candidates will have a primary subfield in comparative politics. Candidates must also have ability to teach courses in international politics and in International Development Studies.

Faith and Educational Commitment:

Commitment to the educational mission of Calvin College as a Christian liberal arts college affiliated with the Christian Reformed Church. A commitment to the Christian faith and to the integration of faith, learning, and student development.

Diversity Commitment:

Demonstrated awareness and commitment to establishing relationships and positive communication across multiple dimensions of diversity including, but not limited to, race, gender, physical limitations, class, or religious perspectives.

To Apply:

Please submit a letter of application that addresses the requirements and responsibilities of the position (including the Faith and Education Commitment and Diversity Commitment), accompanied by a curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, recent teaching evaluations, and a sample of written work to the chair of the Department of Political Science, Dr. Joel H. Westra, by email at jhw3@calvin.edu. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 30, 2017, and thereafter until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3583

Calvin CollegeRank: Full Time, Tenure Track Faculty

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science and be able to demonstrate both scholarly potential and strong teaching ability. Preferred candidates will have a primary subfield in comparative politics. Candidates must also have ability to teach courses in international politics and in International Development Studies.

Faith and Educational Commitment:

Commitment to the educational mission of Calvin College as a Christian liberal arts college affiliated with the Christian Reformed Church. A commitment to the Christian faith and to the integration of faith, learning, and student development.

Diversity Commitment:

Demonstrated awareness and commitment to establishing relationships and positive communication across multiple dimensions of diversity including, but not limited to, race, gender, physical limitations, class, or religious perspectives.

To Apply:

Please submit a letter of application that addresses the requirements and responsibilities of the position (including the Faith and Education Commitment and Diversity Commitment), accompanied by a curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, recent teaching evaluations, and a sample of written work to the chair of the Department of Political Science, Dr. Joel H. Westra, by email at jhw3@calvin.edu. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 30, 2017, and thereafter until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3584

University of GothenburgRank: Senior Lecturer in Political Science, One or Several

The Department of Political Science is currently hiring one or several senior lecturers in Political Science who are able to contribute to its research and education.

The position includes teaching, course coordination as well as student supervision and examination at undergraduate, Master's and doctoral level. Teaching within the framework of most of the Department's courses and programmes may be required. Course and programme development assignments as well as participation in the Department's pedagogical development work will also be expected.

The successful applicant(s) will furthermore be expected to carry out research and actively apply for external funding of own research and for doctoral students and postdocs. The post also entails active participation in the Department's research environments and seminar activities, as well as in the international research community through conference participation and publications in international outlets.

The Department of Political Science actively participates in the public debate and the holder(s) of the advertised position(s) will be expected to initiate cooperation and actively cooperate with external actors and the community at large and to promote practical implementation of produced research.

Involvement in leadership, pedagogical and other assignments within the Department's, Faculty's and University's collegial forums may also be required in the longer term.

For more information about the Department, go to www.pol.gu.se

Eligibility

The qualifications for academic positions are given in Chapter 4, Section 3–4 of the Swedish Higher Education Ordinance and in the University of Gothenburg's own Appointments Procedure.

How to apply:

Applications are submitted online at: http://www.gu.se/omuniversitetet/aktuellt/lediga-jobb/Lediga_anstallningar-detalsida?id=1136

The application must include the following appendices:

curriculum vitae, list of publications, employment certificates and other documents that the applicant finds relevant. Signed accounts of co-authored publications must be submitted. The documents concerning the applicant's teaching experience and pedagogical skills must include proof of completed training in teaching and learning in higher education, information about the content and scope of past teaching assignments as well as evidence of course coordination experience, authoring of teaching material and participation in pedagogical development projects etc.

Applicants should enclose up to 10 scholarly works and up to 3 examples of teaching material and other student learning resources that they would like to be considered, along with an explanation for the selections made.

Please also include:

A brief account of and reflections regarding the applicant's experience in the areas of research, teaching and interaction with the surrounding society (up to 5 pages).

A description of ongoing and planned research as well as other planned activities of relevance to the advertised position (up to 3 pages). The description must clearly state the extent of previously acquired external research grants.

Start Date: 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/9/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3579

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science (formerly Government Department) at California State University, Sacramento seeks candidates who are broadly trained in the field of comparative politics to fill a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in fall 2018. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2019. Candidates must be able to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics, including introduction to comparative politics (GOVT 35 and 140) and courses specializing in identity politics, including but not restricted to ethnicity, nationalism, social movements, migration, or religion. Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement; the department is open to methodological approach. While regional specialization is open, preference is for candidates who can teach courses on the Middle East and Europe. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body. Furthermore, experience in promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of a diverse student body is preferred.

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2017 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <http://www.csus.edu/about/employment>. The job posting number is F0028P. Inquiries can be made to pols-comp-hire@csus.edu.

Applicants must submit the following: (1) cover letter addressing qualifications; (2) current curriculum vita/resume; (3) names and contact information of 3 references who will speak to the professional qualifications of the applicant; (4) Unofficial transcripts of all graduate work (official transcripts required if invited for an interview); (5) writing sample; (6) teaching evaluations and syllabi (if available); (7) Statement of teaching philosophy including discussion of commitment to and experience with a diverse student body. In addition, applicants should have three letters of recommendation emailed directly by the writer to pols-comp-hire@csus.edu. Inquiries can also be made to pols-comp-hire@csus.edu.

AA/EO Employer. Clery Act statistics available. Mandated reporter requirements. Background check (including criminal record check) required.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3577

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3574

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track), V-Dem Institute, University of Gothenburg

The position (in Swedish: "biträdande lektor") is the equivalent of Assistant Professor (tenure track). The official time before coming up for tenure and promotion is four years, but can be extended to five years.

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale data collection and research program, see <https://v-dem.net> and the V-Dem Institute is Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg. The successful candidate is expected to primarily conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program "Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization", funded by an European Research Council Consolidator Grant. Teaching is expected up to equivalent of a 1/1 load, as well as contributions to the daily activities of the V-Dem Institute (as needed with administrative tasks, coding and quality control, data management etc). Research is guaranteed at a minimum of 50 percent of full time employment (FTE) and in practice it will probably be around 75 percent.

The position is open to candidates who have a PhD in political science or related field, within seven years of graduation. Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in areas of relevance to the FASDEM project. The successful candidate will demonstrate ability at high international level in the field of comparative democratization and/or autocratization and breakdown, authoritarian regimes, and/or political development.

It is also meritorious with:

- A well developed proposal for a research project that falls within the area of FASDEM, of high scientific quality.
- Significant, explicit interest in further extending on and use the sequencing methods developed in the V-Dem research program
- Advanced time-series, cross-sectional regression techniques, Vector Auto-Regression (VAR), sequencing algorithms, optimal matching methods, Monte Carlo chains, and/or Dynamic treatment regimes

Documented experience with teaching at under-/graduate level, is required, and service to the profession and society is a merit.

The applicant should demonstrate resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to work together in different configurations. Excellence in English (orally and written) is a requirement. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

How to apply:

Applications are submitted online at: http://www.gu.se/english/about_the_university/job-opportunities/vacancies-details/?id=1270

Applicants are expected to download the project description of "Failing and successful Sequences of Democratization" from <http://pol.gu.se/english/varieties-of-democracy--v-dem->. The application letter should relate to the project description and state clearly how the applicant fulfills the criteria stated above. The application should also include: a research proposal (max. 7 pages) directly addressing the project "Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization"; a CV including information about teaching experience; a writing sample; an excerpt from Google Scholar with information about the number of citations, h-index; and a list of at least three persons who are prepared to submit letters of recommendation upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3565

Ashoka University

Rank: Professor/Associate Professor/ Tenure-track Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at Ashoka University invites applications for upto two tenured Professor/Associate Professor/tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty positions with an expected start date of July 1, 2018. We are open to outstanding candidates in any subfield, but we are particularly interested in candidates whose work is in the areas of comparative politics, political economy, or methods. A Ph.D is required by the time of appointment.

Ashoka is a research university based near New Delhi, India. It offers internationally competitive terms and condition. The teaching load is comparable to the top universities in the world, and the University supports research in various ways.

Ashoka University strongly encourages applications by women and members of other groups underrepresented in academia.

Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) two samples of academic writings (article length); 4) teaching evaluations (if available); 5) three confidential letters of reference.

Note: The Ashoka job portal further asks for statements of teaching and research philosophy for all applications. For this search they are optional.

All materials should be submitted through: <https://www.ashoka.edu.in/facultypositions/>

The deadline for submitting a complete application is: November 15th, 2017.

For any queries or further information, please contact: polscience.recruitment@ashoka.edu.in

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3555

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2018-2019

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the ten-month 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2018-2019 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req number D-18-WWS-00013 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4161>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3564

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for the 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2018-2019 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2018-2019 should apply to req number D-18-WWS-00014. <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4221>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3563

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Rowan University
Glassboro, NJ

Assistant Professor or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Rowan University is a public comprehensive state and Carnegie designated research institution with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven colleges and five schools: the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

The Department of Political Science and Economics is housed in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The College supports students to earn degrees that provide a high quality liberal arts education (problem-solving aptitude, strong oral communications, asking good questions; respect others point of view), which at the same time prepare them for diverse career paths and future. The College's graduate programs also provide students with essential skills for continuing study through doctoral programs and for lifelong learning, including critical thinking, effective communication, and an understanding of the complexity of contemporary society in the context of diverse traditions and paradigms.

The Department of Political Science and Economics has an opening for one tenure-track Assistant Professor or a junior Associate Professor in either Economics or Political Science with a specialization in Political Economy beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development, etc.).

The department offers two bachelor degree programs in both economics and political science. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually after the 6th year and attaining tenure with evidence of continuing scholarship. This is an interdisciplinary position where the faculty will teach 2 classes in one discipline and 1 class in the other discipline. The successful candidate will also teach calculus-based Intermediate Microeconomics to economics majors.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline must be completed by July 31, 2018.

Evidence of excellence in undergraduate teaching is required. Applicants should demonstrate strong research abilities and the potential to secure external funding for research.

To assure full consideration, completed applications must be submitted electronically by November 10th, 2017.

We will conduct interviews at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) meetings Jan 5-7, 2018 in Philadelphia, Pa.

For full consideration, applications should include the items, assembled in the following order in a single PDF file: 1) a cover letter summarizing qualifications and interest in the position, 2) current CV, 3) statement of teaching interests (specifically including the list of courses taught and teaching philosophy), 4) a statement of research interests 5) and Contact information for three references. Please name the file as <LastName>_Application.pdf.

Do not forward reference letters at this time.

Additional required documentation include 1) unofficial transcripts, 2) student evaluations, and 3) research paper/publications. These should be submitted as a separate file, named <LastName>_Appendix.pdf.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically through Rowan University's employment website <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492317/assistant-professor-political-economy>

Rowan University, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the Department of Political Science and Economics are committed to diversity and inclusion.

All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Questions should be e-mailed to Natalie Reaves, reaves@rowan.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3548

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia 2018-19

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2018–2019 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2018–19 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral by July 31, 2018) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate of $52,000 plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2018–19 academic year.

Applications must be received by December 20, 2017.

For additional information and to apply, visit: <https://aparcs.fsi.stanford.edu/fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3528

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) Official transcripts
- (3) A curriculum vita
- (4) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (5) A writing sample
- (6) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3537

University of RochesterRank: FacultySubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Program in Public Health-Related Majors in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rochester is conducting an open rank faculty search for a scholar specializing in the historical, social, political, and/or ethical dimensions of health policy. The program seeks outstanding candidates who work at the boundaries between public health, the humanities, and the social sciences and who are able to engage with multiple audiences, both inside and outside of the University. This will be a tenure-track appointment in one of several appropriate departments in Arts and Sciences at the level of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor.

The candidate should be prepared to:

1. Maintain an active program of research and scholarship on health policy. Applicants should have an established record of research and publication commensurate with their rank and their field of expertise.
2. Take an active role in the Steering Committee and academic advising for the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, as well as in the functioning of the home academic department.
3. Teach an introductory-level overview of the U.S. health care system and upper-level courses on US health care policy and/or global health issues for the program, as well as courses for the home department.

The interdisciplinary Program in Public Health-Related Majors requires students to examine health and health care through many different lenses: anthropological, psychological, historical, epidemiological, economic, political, and ethical. The members of the Steering Committee collaborate to oversee the five majors in the program: Bioethics; Epidemiology; Environmental Health; Health Policy; and Health, Behavior, and Society. The Steering Committee insures that students get a consistent and rigorous liberal arts education. In addition, it actively seeks to expand the curriculum by soliciting new course offerings from faculty across the university who can address emerging issues in health and health care and develop innovative programs that engage our students with both the local and the global communities.

The position is open to candidates in any academic discipline. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D in hand by July 1, 2018, and will join an appropriate department in the School of Arts and Sciences. To apply, visit www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample, and the names and contact information for three references by November 1, 2017. Please note that the job is listed under the department "Dean's Office-SAS."

For more information about the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ph/index.html>. The University of Rochester has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups under-represented in higher education. University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Review of applications will continue until a successful candidate is identified. For more information about the position, please contact: Daniel Reichman, chair of the search committee, daniel.reichman@rochester.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018Application Deadline: 11/1/2017Date Posted: 9/29/2017Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 3535New York University Shanghai*Rank: TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIESSubfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative PoliticsSpecializations: Environmental Policy, Social Welfare, Energy PolicyTENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Environmental Studies. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in geography, sociology, anthropology, political science, or a related social science field, and whose work demonstrates a capacity for excellence in interdisciplinary environmental research and high-quality classroom instruction. We are especially but not exclusively interested in scholars whose research adopts a global perspective on disasters, urban ecology, or energy and climate change.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching, and electronic copies of up to five relevant publications. To complete the online process, junior applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted and asked to upload their reference letter. In the case of senior applicants, reference letters will be requested at a later stage as needed.

Review of applications will begin October 16th and will continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. To apply, follow this link <http://apply.interfolio.com/45330>. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher-education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, NYU Shanghai resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of innovative research and transformative teaching, and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common educational interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3524

Queen's University

Rank: Assistant Professor -- Comparative Politics: Asia

The Department of Political Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at Queen's University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor with a specialization in Comparative Politics and expertise on Asia, with a preferred starting date of July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a PhD or equivalent degree completed at the start date of the appointment. The main criteria for selection are academic and teaching excellence. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high-quality scholarly output that demonstrates potential for independent research leading to peer-assessed publications and the securing of external research funding, as well as strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and an ongoing commitment to academic and pedagogical excellence in support of the department's programs. The successful candidate will be required to make substantive contributions through service to the department, the Faculty, the University, and/or the broader community. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. This position is subject to final budgetary approval by the University.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ persons. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information as to how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada." Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

A complete application consists of:

- a cover letter (including one of the two statements regarding Canadian citizenship / permanent resident status specified in the previous paragraph);
- a current Curriculum Vitae (including a list of publications);
- a statement of research interests;
- a statement of teaching interests and experience (including teaching outlines and evaluations if available);
- a writing sample; and
- three letters of reference to be sent directly to Dr. Zsuzsa Csergo, Department Head at polshead@queensu.ca.

The deadline for applications is November 15, 2017. Applicants are encouraged to send all documents in their application package electronically as PDFs to Barb Murphy at barb.murphy@queensu.ca, although hard copy applications may be submitted to:

Barbara Murphy
Administrative Assistant
Department of Political Studies
Room C316, Mackintosh-Corry Hall
68 University Avenue
Queen's University
Kingston, Ontario
CANADA K7L 3N6

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact Barbara Murphy in the Department of Political Studies, at barb.murphy@queensu.ca, phone number 613-533-6226.

Academic staff at Queen's University are governed by a Collective Agreement between the University and the Queen's University Faculty Association (QUFA), which is posted at <http://queensu.ca/facultyrelations/faculty-librarians-and-archivists/collective-agreement> and at <http://www.qufa.ca>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3531

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor: African Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in African Politics at the level of Assistant Professor to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. We seek applicants who have strong training in both comparative political behavior and African Studies, as well as substantial fieldwork experience. Applicants should have strength in survey methods. Strong skills and experience with natural and quasi-experimental methods and GIS mapping will be valued. The prospective hire is expected to enhance our broad training of doctoral students in Comparative Politics and contribute to the methods offerings at the graduate level, as well as bolster our undergraduate offerings in African Politics and research methods. We particularly encourage candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship with excellence in teaching and student mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website

(<http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>) to learn more about the Department of Political Science. A Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Regional specialization within Africa is open. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504729?ApplicationSubSourceID=>

All applications must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of research interests/plans
- d) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- e) Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- f) Up to three reprints or pre-prints, and
- g) The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3518

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor: Global Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professor in Global Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The successful applicant is expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in international relations or comparative politics as well as research methods. We are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship with excellence in teaching and undergraduate and graduate student mentoring and whose scholarly focus is in comparative and/or international political economy, transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and peace building.

A Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between international relations and comparative politics. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504731/assistant-professor-global-politics>

All applications must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. Up to three reprints or pre-prints, and
7. The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3522

College of Saint Benedict / Saint John's University

Rank: Tenure Track - Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department of the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University invites applications for a full-time tenure track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in August 2018. A completed Ph.D. in political science is preferred; ABD will be considered. Teaching assignments will typically include three courses per semester. The department seeks a broadly trained political scientist who can teach the following courses:

- Comparative Politics (POLS 223): A sophomore level course that combines teaching introductory comparative politics with an introduction to comparative methods. Students review scholarly literature, form hypotheses in response to political questions, use a variety of methods and tools to gather evidence, and identify criteria for evaluating the quality of evidence. One of the learning goals of this course is to develop library and information literacy skills.

- Upper division courses in the candidate's area of interest. Courses in a wide variety of regional or substantive areas in comparative politics will be considered.

- Introduction to International Relations (POLS 121): Required introductory course to the political science major that provides a brief background of global history, overview of major international relations theories, and guides students through primary actors in global politics through analysis of contemporary questions.

•First Year Seminar: FYS is a required full-year course for all first year students. It is designed to help students improve their ability to read carefully and think critically about what they read, to write in a variety of academic formats, improve their information literacy, and to develop discussion skills necessary for successful college course work.

The ability to work with interdisciplinary programs such as Latino-Latin American Studies, Asian Studies, or Gender Studies is regarded as an asset. Successful teaching will foster a commitment to diversity as a learning outcome, because it provides students with the skills of intercultural competence and civic responsibility within our increasingly diverse student body.

Saint John's University, a liberal arts college for men, and the College of Saint Benedict, a liberal arts college for women, are located five miles apart in Central Minnesota just outside metropolitan St. Cloud and 70 miles from Minneapolis. Both are Catholic colleges in the Benedictine tradition, which emphasize quality teaching and a commitment to intercultural learning. For further information, see <http://www.csbsju.edu>

Additional Information:

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applications are accepted online at <http://employment.csbsju.edu>

Applicants must complete an application and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, *three letters of recommendation and unofficial transcripts (official transcript required for on campus interviews.)

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION: You will be asked to list a minimum of 3 reference names and contact information. If you use a placement service, you will need to contact them to request the email address to list. The system will send an email to your letter writer or placement service requesting a letter of recommendation for you.

Review of applications will begin October 23rd and continue until the position is filled.

If you require special accommodations to participate in the College of Saint Benedict/Saint John's University hiring process, please contact us at (320) 363-5282 or employment@csbsju.edu.

It is the policy of CSB and SJU to conduct pre-employment background checks.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3503

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eeo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3501

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3509

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies

The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure-system position in Comparative Politics. Rank is Assistant or Associate Professor depending on candidates qualifications. Position begins August 16, 2018. Special consideration will be given to those who specialize in African Politics, especially candidates who are able to make use of Afrobarometer data in their research. A successful candidate will have a strong record of scholarly publications and evidence of teaching ability. He/she will be expected to seek external funding for his/her research.

The closing date for applications is October 1, 2017, though later applications may be accepted if the search remains open. You must apply for this position via Michigan State University Career Page, posting number 450476. Please access the Career page at <http://careers.msu.edu>. Please submit your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, a research statement, samples of your written work, and evidence of teaching ability. Please also arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted.

MSU is located in East Lansing, MI, with easy access to the state capital, Lake Michigan, and great school districts. The University is pro-active in exploring opportunities for employment for dual career couples, both inside and outside the University. Information about MSU's dual career support can be found at <http://miwin.msu.edu/>.

MSU is an affirmative-action, equal-opportunity employer and is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3456

Ramapo College of New Jersey

Rank: Adjunct Professor of Political Science

Ramapo College of New Jersey is searching for one or more adjunct professors of political science to teach up to two comparative politics courses in spring 2018. Candidates should expect to teach courses such as The United Nations; East Asia: History and Politics; China: History, Politics and Culture; Japan: History, Politics, and Culture; Russian Political History; European Politics; Russian Society and Politics; or Politics in Africa.

Candidates must have either a Ph. D. in political science or advanced ABD status.

Applications are being accepted by logging on to <https://ramapo.hiretouch.com>. Attach resume, cover letter, letter discussing teaching philosophy, C.V., and sample syllabi. All applications must be completed online. Hard copies of resumes and/or applications will not be accepted. To request accommodations, call (201) 684-7506.

RAMAPO COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY

505 Ramapo Valley Road
Mahwah, NJ 07430

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3445

Swarthmore College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science in Comparative Politics of Latin America

Swarthmore College: Political Science Department

Assistant Professor of Political Science in Comparative Politics of Latin America

Location: Swarthmore PA 19081

Closes: Nov 15 2017 at 11:59 PM Eastern Time

The Department of Political Science at Swarthmore College invites applications for a tenure-track position in the comparative politics of Latin America at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall semester of 2018. The faculty members of the Swarthmore Political Science Department reflect, in their intellectual and research interests, the exceptional pluralism of political science and seek to convey the discipline's richness and variety in their courses and in their discussions and interactions with students. The department arranges course offerings by the traditional subdivisions of the discipline as it is practiced in the United States: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The new hire is also expected to contribute to the interdisciplinary program in Latin American and Latino Studies.

Swarthmore College is a highly selective liberal arts college, located in the suburbs of Philadelphia, whose mission combines academic rigor with social responsibility. Swarthmore has a strong institutional commitment to inclusive excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment practices.

The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrable commitments to a more inclusive society and world.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants must demonstrate excellence in undergraduate teaching as well as research.

The successful candidate should have a PhD in hand by the time of appointment in August 2018 and should demonstrate an ability to conduct research in Spanish and/or Portuguese. The strongest candidates will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to creative teaching and an active research program that speaks to and motivates undergraduates from diverse backgrounds.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Candidates should submit a (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) short writing sample of not more than 40 pages, (4) graduate transcript, and (5) three letters of recommendation through Interfolio at interfolio.com. (6) Applicants should also submit three syllabi, one for an introductory course and two for intermediate or upper-level courses. These syllabi represent an important part of the application. In your cover letter, please briefly describe your current research agenda; what would be attractive to you about teaching in a liberal arts college environment with diverse students; and what background, experience, or interests are likely to make you a strong teacher of Swarthmore College students.

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Apply Now (<https://dossier.interfolio.com/apply/44570>)

For help signing up, accessing your account, or submitting your application please check out our help and support (<http://product-help.interfolio.com/>) section or get in touch via email at help@interfolio.com (<mailto:help@interfolio.com>) or phone at (877) 997-8807.

Swarthmore College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrable commitments to a more inclusive society and world. Swarthmore College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3442

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpogzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

University of Essex

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

Department of Government

The Department of Government at Essex are world leaders in political science, ranked top in the UK for research excellence (REF2014), among the top 10 universities for politics in the UK (The Times Good University Guide 2017), top 10 in the world for political science and international relations according to the Centre for World University Rankings (2017) and among the top 50 departments on the planet according to the QS World University Rankings. With 96% student satisfaction (NSS 2016) and having been awarded Q-Step Affiliate Status, we are committed to excellence in education and research.

Please note that the appointment will be made at the UK equivalent of Lecturer level and will be referred to by this title throughout the advertisement and University documentation.

The Role and Duties

The post-holder is expected to conduct research and teaching in Comparative Politics at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. The ideal candidate will also have experience in electoral behaviour, political economy, and/or public policy. They will also (co-)supervise undergraduate projects, MA, and PhD dissertations, and assess students through coursework and examination as well as contribute to the successful administration and management of the Department.

You will also be expected to obtain external research funding and contribute to the department's expansion strategy for new modules in political science.

Qualifications and Skills required

The successful candidate will have obtained a PhD in Political Science or an allied field or be in the final stages of completion of your studies.

You will be required to provide evidence of a sophisticated research agenda in political science; potential of excellence in research in Comparative Politics; potential of excellence in teaching at undergraduate and/or postgraduate level; demonstrable potential to generate external funding; and demonstrable experience of a clear publication plan for submission to future Research Excellence Framework (REF) programmes.

We are seeking a candidate who can produce and publish high-quality research and provide teaching and motivation to students at undergraduate and postgraduate level.

We particularly welcome applications from women as they are under-represented in the Department.

At the University of Essex internationalism is central to who we are and what we do. We are committed to being a cosmopolitan, internationally-oriented university that is welcoming to staff and students from all countries and a university where you can find the world in one place.

Please visit our website (<http://www.essex.ac.uk/vacancies/>) for a full job description, person specification and more information relating to this post. We recommend you read this information carefully before making an application. Applications should be made on-line, but if you would like advice or help in making an application, or need information in a different format, please telephone the Resourcing Team (01206 874588/873521).

Closing date: 17 November 2017

Interviews are planned for: 25 January 2018

Salary: £39,993 - £47,722 per annum

To apply please visit https://vacancies.essex.ac.uk/tlive_webrecruitment/wrd/run/ETREC107GF.open?VACANCY_ID=561014EN2u&WVID=9918109NEM&LANG=USA

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/17/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3441

Clemson University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics. The Department of Political Science at Clemson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin in August 2018. The successful candidate will have a specialization in Comparative Politics that does not duplicate the existing strengths of the department. We especially seek candidates who demonstrate rigorous analytical research and the ability to teach the department's undergraduate methods course. In addition to maintaining an active research agenda, the successful candidate will reflect the department's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching.

Clemson University is the land-grant university for the state of South Carolina and is located within the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains 30 miles southwest of Greenville. The Department offers a BA and BS in Political Science and a Ph.D. in Policy Studies.

A Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of employment is required. Salary is competitive. To apply, upload the following to Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/45082>): a letter of interest, CV, transcripts of graduate work, three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and evidence of teaching performance. Applications received by October 16, 2017 are assured full consideration. For inquiries, please contact Professor Jeff Peake at jpeake@clemson.edu.

Clemson University is an AA/EEO employer and does not discriminate against any person or group on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, pregnancy, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status or genetic information. Clemson University is building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and encourages applications from minorities and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3424

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Development

Tulane University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor to contribute to our new concentration in International Development. We seek candidates from comparative politics, international relations, or public policy with a research focus on developing areas. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. Expected teaching load is 2-2. The appointment begins July 1, 2018 and candidates should have the PhD in hand by that date. Applications received by October 30, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation online in interfolio. Queries may be addressed to Professor Mary Clark (maclark@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Apply online in interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/44986

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3393

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

Specializations: Middle East, Religion & Politics, Foreign Policy

Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Alabama announces a call for applications for the newly established Richard Leon Chambers Endowed Professorship in Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies. The position will begin August 2018. The successful applicant may work in any post-7th century timeframe and focus geographically on one or more settings in the Middle East, including sites of the Ottoman Empire and Turkish civilization. We seek to bring to campus a scholar of Middle Eastern history and culture who can prepare students to better understand current international affairs and who is also able to exercise leadership in future academic programs and research collaborations.

Applicants should demonstrate exemplary methodological, language, and/or ethnographic skills and should be gifted faculty members whose accomplishments, in both teaching and research, indicate great potential; the successful candidate, who will be appointed at the tenured rank of either Associate Professor or Professor, will join a Department of relevance to their expertise and may also hold a cross-appointment within the College. We welcome applications from mid-career and senior scholars working in such fields as Anthropology, History, Middle Eastern Studies, Political Science, Religious Studies, or other disciplines represented in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Review of applications will begin on October 15. Applicants are required to apply online at <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41763> submitting a cover letter, C.V., and writing sample. Three letters of recommendation should be sent to the Chair of the Search Committee, either in hard copy or by email. A group of semi-finalists will meet with the committee via a brief online session prior to the College identifying finalists to be brought to campus for interviews.

For information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee:

Prof. Russell T. McCutcheon
Chair, Department of Religious Studies
University of Alabama
212 Manly Hall
Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0264

russell.mccutcheon@ua.edu

The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3418

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Latino Politics, Political Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor (JOB#12097)

School of Politics and Global Studies

Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. The anticipated start date is August 2018.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach (es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 30, 2017; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vitae; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2018.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9809>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.) A background check is required for employment.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3414

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor or Provost Fellow

The Political Science Department at the University of Chicago seeks applications from scholars engaging issues of colonialism, empire, and their contemporary legacies around the world. We especially welcome applications from scholars of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Comparative Racial Politics. Themes of particular interest include: the legacies of slavery; the politics of indentured servitude; the practices of colonial and/or imperial rule; forced migration; genocidal violence; interstate relations involving former colonies; and economic (inter)dependence in the global south. One goal of the search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Department, and we therefore strongly encourage applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

Successful candidates will be appointed either as an Assistant Professor or as a Provost Fellow with an initial two-year faculty appointment at the rank of Instructor. This initial period is intended to serve in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period, during which Provost Fellows will teach one class per year. At the end of their initial term, Provost Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2018. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website <http://tinyurl.com/yc5dkzk7>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 6) three letters of reference.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3402

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant to Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at The University of Chicago invites applications for one position in Comparative Politics, at either the TENURED or TENURE-TRACK level to begin in the academic year 2018-19. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach.

Applications are required to include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample in the applicant's central area of research, and a brief research statement. Please submit as optional applicant documents up to three publications or unpublished manuscripts (strongly recommended) and evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

In addition, applicants for the level of assistant professor should provide three letters of recommendation via the online application system or surface mail addressed to Faculty Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 5828 S. University Avenue, Pick Hall 401, Chicago, IL 60637. Required application materials must be submitted online at <http://tinyurl.com/yasf9y80>.

Early application is strongly recommended; application review will begin September 15, 2017. Applications will be accepted until January 16, 2018, or until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3403

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor Asian Politics

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176563167&Title=Asian%20Politics%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2C%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5B18526%5D&aID=584>

ROLE of the POSITION

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) invites applications from well qualified individuals for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics with an area specialization in Asia. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level commencing fall 2018. In addition to teaching introductory courses in comparative politics, the successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in his or her area of expertise.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires an earned doctorate in Political Science from a regionally accredited college or university completed by the time of appointment; evidence of a strong research program or the potential to develop one; and excellence in teaching. UNLV has a diverse student body and is seeking to attract a diverse applicant pool for the position. Other responsibilities include engaging in research leading to scholarly, peer-reviewed publications; mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, and providing appropriate service at the department, college, and university levels.

Preferred qualifications include an ability to teach a general proseminar graduate course in comparative politics.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin on October 13, 2017 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Jonathan Strand, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted via on-line application at <https://hrsearch.unlv.edu/>. For assistance with UNLV's on-line applicant portal, contact UNLV Employment Services at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3399

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3361

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

University of New Mexico

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. This appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, in a probationary position leading to a tenure decision. Minimum qualifications are: a Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or related field by start date of appointment, and a research specialization in Comparative Politics. Preferred qualifications are: demonstrated excellence in conducting substantively and theoretically significant research in comparative politics; demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics; expertise on Latin America; strong methodological expertise; international research experience; ability to teach an interdisciplinary social science course on Latin America; capacity to add to the intellectual breadth of the department; and demonstrated commitment to equity and inclusion and student success and working with broadly diverse students and communities. For best consideration, apply no later than October 22, 2017. This position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science currently employs 14 regular faculty members and maintains a small but highly competitive and nationally recognized graduate program (MA and Ph.D.), as well as a high quality undergraduate major (BA); it also plays an active role in the interdisciplinary Latin American Studies BA and MA programs as well as the interdisciplinary International Studies BA program. UNM's Latin American and Iberian Institute, as well as the International Studies Institute and Global Education Office, provide funding and programmatic support for international scholarship. The successful candidate will teach a course in the Latin American Studies program as a part of their regular teaching rotation.

UNM is a Carnegie Doctoral/ Research-Extensive University and US/DE Minority-Serving public university. As the state's largest university, UNM serves a diverse student population of over 26,000 at its main campus in Albuquerque. The University of New Mexico actively seeks and encourages nominations of and applications from individuals who are members of under-represented groups.

To apply, electronically submit your statement of interest, curriculum vitae, an unofficial graduate transcript, one sample solo-authored peer-reviewed publication or other solo-authored written work, and teaching materials (one sample course syllabus and course evaluation scores for all classes taught at the undergraduate or graduate level) at <https://unmjobs.unm.edu/>, Requisition #2326. Additionally, three letters of recommendation must be emailed directly by your references to Steven Romero, Department Administrator at stevenromero@unm.edu. Semi-finalists may be asked to submit additional samples of written work, additional sample syllabi, and official graduate transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3366

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)
Comparative Politics
School of International and Public Affairs
and
Department of Political Science
Columbia University

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Department of Political Science invite applications for a position in comparative political economy at the assistant professor level to begin July 2018. We particularly welcome applications from individuals studying the political economy of development.

Ph.D. required. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should submit cover letter, curriculum vitae, at least one writing sample, and arrange to have three letters of recommendation submitted on their behalf.

Please visit our online application site at: <https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65148> for further information about this position and to submit your application.

The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@columbia.edu

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3352

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3351

California State University Dominguez Hills

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

www.csudh.edu

Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics
 College of Natural & Behavioral Sciences

Position Description

The faculty of the Department of Political Science at California State University Dominguez Hills invites applications from individuals for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, effective Fall 2018.

Department of Political Science

The Political Science Department is located in the College of Natural and Behavioral Sciences. The current faculty is comprised of four tenured and tenure-track faculty joined by 9 to 11 part-time faculty each term. Political Science provides excellent opportunities for the study of government and politics. Over 40 courses cover all the major aspects of the discipline. Students develop an understanding of human behavior as it relates to politics. They learn to discuss and analyze critically current public policy issues facing the United States and the world. They are taught how to critically observe and understand world affairs and comparative politics. They are trained in appropriate research techniques for the study of political processes. The General Political Science Concentration is a relatively "open" one, allowing students to choose from a wide range of courses and subjects within a general framework. It is designed for students seeking broad exposure to the diverse subjects of the discipline and is recommended for most students.

The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise (comprised of a major research paper) in one of the elective courses. The department offers internship opportunities at the national, California government and local government levels. The Department sponsors an active student organization (APSS, the Association of Political Science Students) and successful Model United Nations (MUN) and Mock Trial program for students.

For more information see: <http://www4.csudh.edu/political-science/index>

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Responsibilities

The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching, performing service on departmental and university-wide bases, publishing research in peer-reviewed academic journals relevant to the discipline of political science/the subfield of Comparative Politics, maintaining office hours, providing advising for our majors and minors, and participating with colleagues in curricular development.

The Position

Faculty members teach four classes or their equivalent each semester (although new faculty receive reduced teaching assignments); maintain an active research program; mentor and advise students; and serve on departmental and university committees. The appointment will be effective for the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year, beginning in August 2018. The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise under the supervision of one of the tenured or tenure track members of the faculty.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate will have a promising record of effective teaching, scholarly research and service, will be innovative in his or her thinking in a department strongly committed to academic excellence, community outreach and the development of partnerships with local and federal government institutions and businesses to enhance the learning experience of political science students and to help prepare them for success in the job market, legal careers or graduate school.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or ABD in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution of higher education
- Research experience
- Teaching experience or training in teaching techniques.
- Expertise in area studies, in one of more of the following fields: Asia, The Middle East, Europe, Africa
- Teaching and research interest in Comparative Politics
- A strong interest in developing new courses to reflect the changing nature of the international system and developments in the discipline of Political Science.
- Experience and/or ability in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Secondary interest in Quantitative Methodology
- Ability and willingness to teach, and perform research utilizing Quantitative Methodology
- An interest in student-involved research

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

CSU Dominguez Hills

On April 29, 1960, Gov. Pat Brown signed a bill into law authorizing the formation of a state college to serve the growing southwestern region of Los Angeles County. From its humble beginnings in a bank building in Rolling Hills Estates, CSU Dominguez Hills has evolved into a thriving and nationally recognized comprehensive university, providing an innovative liberal arts education to a diverse student body.

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Vision

A vital educational and economic resource for the South Bay, CSU Dominguez Hills will be recognized as a top-performing Comprehensive Model Urban University in America. We will be known as a campus community and gathering place where:

- Diversity in all its forms is explored, understood, and transformed into knowledge and practice that benefits the world.
- Technology is embraced and leveraged to transcend educational boundaries as we reach out to students, both locally and globally.
- Sustainable environmental, social and economic practices are a way of life.

- Students from our community who aspire to complete a college degree are provided the pathway and guidance to succeed.
- Faculty and staff across the University are engaged in serving the dynamic needs of the surrounding communities.
- Student life is meaningful and vibrant.
- Our accomplishments and those of our alumni are recognized nationally and internationally.
- Ultimately, our students graduate with an exemplary academic education, a highly respected degree, and a genuine commitment to justice and social responsibility.

About the University

CSU Dominguez Hills holds the Carnegie classification of Master's L and is a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. Class sizes are small as compared with large research universities and classes are taught by the faculty, not by teaching assistants. Many of the university's students are the first in their families to earn a university degree. While the university enrolls traditional full-time students, many students enroll part-time and attend late afternoon, evening and weekend classes because of work and family responsibilities.

CSU Dominguez Hills offers 45 baccalaureate degrees, 24 master's degrees, and a number of certificate and credential programs. Enrollment exceeds 14,635 students, and the student population is among the most ethnically and culturally rich in the nation: 60% Hispanic/Latino, 14.5% Black/ African-American, 10.9% White, 10.8% Asian, .10% American Indian/ Alaska Native, .30% Native Hawaiian/ Other Pacific Islander, 3.10% Two or more races.

The University is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), the accrediting body for institutions of higher learning in the West. Twelve programs hold accreditations from national professional associations: business administration, clinical sciences, computer science, education, health science, music, nursing, occupational therapy, public administration, special education, theatre arts, and social work.

The academic programs of the university are organized under the Colleges of Arts and Humanities, Business Administration and Public Policy, Extended and International Education, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Health and Human Services, and Nursing. While continuing to emphasize the liberal arts and sciences, professional programs offered at the undergraduate and graduate level, developed to serve the region's workforce needs, are of great interest to students and prepare them for professions in a variety of industries.

Known for excellence in teacher education, nursing, psychology, business administration, and digital media arts, new degree programs include computer science, criminal justice, recreation and leisure studies, social work, and communication disorders. CSU Dominguez Hills is a national leader in distance learning with 10 academic degrees and seven certificate programs offered.

Faculty

A tradition of teaching excellence lies at the heart of the university experience for Dominguez Hills' students. Most of the faculty have earned doctoral degrees from prestigious universities across the nation. The faculty strives to sustain a dynamic teaching and learning environment in a multicultural setting. The Academic Senate provides a forum for faculty, administration, students and others to be represented and consulted regarding such vital issues as budget priorities, academic standards, curriculum and instruction, and student affairs.

Student Life

At CSU Dominguez Hills, there's more to student life than the classroom. The university offers a dynamic, interactive and enriching community of learners, teachers and peers sharing diverse points of view. There are multitudes of ways for students to pursue interests, get involved, and get the most from their academic experience.

An office of student life enhances student development by coordinating a variety of co-curricular activities, including 60 student organizations. Students are encouraged to perform community service and participate in leadership development. The Multicultural Center on campus promotes the exploration of diverse heritages, values and cultural experiences by offering a wide range of activities and programs throughout the academic year.

CSU Dominguez Hills is a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II institution that competes in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). CSU Dominguez Hills is one of the most athletically competitive and honored schools in the CCAA, with 23 conference titles and four national championships to date, including the 2008 NCAA D-II Men's Soccer National Championship. CSU Dominguez Hills sponsors 11 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The Location

The university is located in Carson, California, in the South Bay region of Los Angeles County. Its 346-acre park-like campus is situated in the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. The site remained in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family for seven generations - from its inception in 1794 to its acquisition by the state of California.

The Region

The South Bay is one of the most culturally, economically, and ethnically diverse areas in the United States, with a largely even distribution of the population with African, Asian/Pacific Islander, European, and Latino ancestry. The university is located in the city of Carson, a city of 93,000 residents and one of the many municipalities that border the city of Los Angeles. Cultural, performance and sports venues in downtown Los Angeles are about 15 minutes away and the South Bay beach communities are a few minutes away to the west and south. The StubHub, a 125-acre sports center developed by AEG and home to Major League Soccer's L.A. Galaxy and Chivas USA, is located on the CSUDH campus.

The campus is strategically located in the heart of a major technological, industrial and transportation complex in Southern California. This area includes the massive Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles – Southern California's gateway to international commerce. The South Bay region is also home to aerospace, oil refinery, healthcare and automotive industries.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by October 15, 2017.

- Current Curricula Vitae

- Cover letter
- Three Letters of Recommendation
- Copy of Terminal Degree
- A Statement on Teaching
- A Statement on Research
- Sample Publications (if available)
- Teaching Evaluations (if available)

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee when to submit official transcripts directly to the email address of srusso@csudh.edu or you may mail directly to:

Dr. Salvatore J. Russo
Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
CSU, Dominguez Hills
1000 East Victoria Street
Carson, CA 90747

California State University, Dominguez Hills, is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Individuals with disabilities requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) may call the CSU Dominguez Hills Human Resources Office (310) 243-3771 or the Academic Affairs Personnel Services Office at (310) 243-3766.

Clergy Act crime statistics for CSUDH are available at <http://www.csudh.edu/dhpd/>, or by calling University Police at (310) 243-3693.

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3348

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of Latin America

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Latin America, beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, foreign policy, transnational politics, and traditional and non-traditional security (including food and environmental security). We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, geography, international relations, anthropology, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) three letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9608>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3334

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, security, human security, and civil society. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, anthropology, geography, international relations, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9610>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3335

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2018-19

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of contemporary domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, and social/legal/economic development of China, particularly on issues related to urbanization, political/economic reform, energy/environment, social welfare, and civil society. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center throughout the academic year also required (e.g. weekly doctoral fellows workshop series). It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation during the fellowship period as well as participate in the Center's publication program. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have his/her degree conferral by June 1, 2018.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2018 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

To submit an application for the 2018-20 fellowship, please refer to <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 15, 2017 (Friday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters must be emailed directly by the recommenders. All recommendation letters must be received for full consideration.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Manager for Ash Center Fellows Programs
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1968

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

American University of Afghanistan

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Specializations: Central Asia, Developing Nations, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science

Reports to: Chair of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Starting: Spring 2018

The American University of Afghanistan (AUAF) is a private, non-profit university offering an American-style liberal arts education. We opened our doors in 2005 and currently offer 4 undergraduate academic majors and an MBA program. We follow a strict non-discriminatory policy, and applicants from all ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds are encouraged to apply. We are a young, dynamic university with a student population of above 1000 students. Construction continues on a new 75-acre international campus.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration is seeking a qualified candidate for a full-time faculty position, an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science.

Responsibilities and duties:

• Teach lower and higher level courses in Political Science (ability to teach Political Science and Public Administration courses is highly desirable) • Teach 12 credit hours per semester • In addition to teaching, full-time faculty are required to provide service to the university in some capacity either by serving on a committee, assisting the Department Chair with various administrative tasks, mentoring and advising students on academic affairs, or in other ways. • Although AUAF is primarily a teaching institute, research, especially the preparation of publications in academic or policy journals, is highly desirable

Requirements:

- Earned PhD in Political Science. (MA holders with experience in the field and a proven track record of teaching experience at the post-secondary level may be considered)
- Prior teaching experience at the post-secondary level
- Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at AUAF is English.
- Experience teaching in international locations and multicultural settings preferred
- When hired, the successful applicant is expected to provide official proof of academic degrees (transcripts sent from the degree granting school directly to AUAF)

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled.

The American University of Afghanistan offers a generous benefits package that includes a competitive salary, air transportation, University-provided accommodation, and paid health care insurance. This is an unprecedented opportunity to teach at a newly formed American University in an emerging and rapidly changing society.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching purpose, and contact information for three references to jobs@auaf.edu.af. Please include Political Science in the subject line of the email.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3325

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Russia, South Asia

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. The successful candidate should have conducted innovative research in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 preps per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia.

Additional details for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciRCP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3319

Washington & Lee University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics or International Relations
Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Washington and Lee University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics or International Relations. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the Department's introductory course in Global Politics and an introductory course in statistics, as well as upper level courses related to the candidate's field of expertise. Area of specialization is open. Opportunities will be available to teach in the other subfields in the Department (American government and political philosophy), as well as interdisciplinary programs at the University, including Africana Studies, Environmental Studies, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Middle East and South Asia Studies, Poverty and Human Capability Studies, and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. Review of applications will begin immediately, but full consideration will be given to applications that are complete by September 30. Preliminary interviews will not be conducted at APSA.

Washington and Lee is a highly selective university devoted to the teaching of the liberal arts. We are committed to excellence in teaching and to the research and professional activity that support it. Situated in the Shenandoah Valley, three hours southwest of Washington, DC, the university enrolls approximately 1,800 undergraduates and 315 law students. All application materials must be submitted online at apply.interfolio.com/44406. Include a letter of application describing why you wish to teach in a liberal arts setting, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and research abilities. Women and minority candidates are especially encouraged to apply. A completed Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment, which begins July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3310

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics or International Relations and Methods

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in comparative politics or international relations starting in August 2018. Candidate must be able to teach classes in research methods. Cross-regional or Middle East expertise is desirable. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans, teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3295

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics – Tenured

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, broadly defined. The holder of the chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. We particularly seek candidates who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Dickey Center, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Rockefeller Center, the Irving Energy Institute, and Tuck School of Business. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on October 7, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44031. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3253

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Comparative Politics of Migration

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in the Comparative Politics of Ethnicity and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43796>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3267

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2018. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in political science with a primary field of Public Law. A secondary field in Comparative Politics is preferred. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will help direct the Legal Studies concentration within the Government major, work closely with other departments within the university (primarily the Criminal Justice program), and teach introductory, advanced undergraduate, and Master's level courses in the area of Public Law such as "Law for Women", "Constitutional Rights and Criminal Justice," and "Constitutional Law". Candidates will also advise students within the Legal Studies concentration and serve the department, university, and profession. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. by the appointment date.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers Bachelor and Master's degrees in Government (with Politics and Legal Studies concentrations) as well as a Bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has five Government faculty members (plus History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 100 undergraduate Government majors and 15 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, C.V., evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to facultyjobs@twu.edu. Please include the job code (IRC11435) in the subject line of the email. Review of applications will begin on November 1.

Texas Woman's University strives to provide an educational environment that affirms the rights and dignity of each individual, fosters diversity, and encourages a respect for the differences among persons. Discrimination or harassment of any kind is considered inappropriate. TWU is a "Tobacco Free Campus".

Texas Woman's University is committed to equal opportunity in employment and education and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national or ethnic origin, age, veteran's status, genetic information or against qualified disabled persons.

Individuals may qualify for a Veteran's Employment Preference or a Former Foster Youth Employment Preference at Texas Woman's University over other applicants for the same position who do not have a greater qualification. If you believe you may qualify, click here for more information and instructions on how to claim an employment preference for this position: <http://www.twu.edu/recruitment-selection/6589.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3246

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
 schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
 AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
 Col. Santa Fe
 Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
 Mexico D.F.
 01389

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/16/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security -- with a particular emphasis on China's foreign relations, Chinese foreign policy, and Chinese security policy -- to begin July 2018.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43731

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3212

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of Environmental Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in Environmental Politics at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. We welcome applications from candidates in any - or some mix - of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries.

This position, located in the Department of Politics, is part of a cross-disciplinary initiative focused on integrating social, political, cultural, and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty across the University of Virginia. The successful candidate will be involved with the University's new Environmental Resilience Institute.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Successful candidates must demonstrate, in written or published work, deep engagement with and significant contributions to an important area of environmental politics. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. For appointments at the assistant rank, we prefer candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold the PhD at the time of application and must demonstrate an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa: <https://jobs.virginia.edu>. Search on posting number 0621502 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, applicants for the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2018, with an anticipated start date of July 2018.

Questions regarding the application process in Jobs@UVa should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia assists UVa faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see: <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3198

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in comparative politics, pending budgetary approval.

Successful candidates will have a strong regional expertise that focuses on, but is not necessarily limited to, Europe and have a substantive focus on topics relevant to consolidated democracies with developed economies. We are open to a variety of methodological approaches. We are especially interested in scholars whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths in comparative and international politics. The position will also be affiliated with the University's European Studies Center (<https://www.ucis.pitt.edu/esc/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer 2018. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference. For each reference, you will have the opportunity to input a personal email address or an email address generated through Interfolio's Online Application Delivery. In both cases, an email notification will be sent to the designated address with instructions about uploading letters of recommendation into our system. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTkx>. Review of applications will be on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3186

Brandeis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Brandeis University invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. We seek candidates who specialize in comparative politics with regional expertise in Latin America. We are open as to the specific focus of research. Issues of particular interest include, among others, democracy/democratization/democratic erosion, political economy of Latin America, and indigenous peoples/ethnic politics. Successful candidates should be able to teach a survey course in Latin American Politics as well as courses reflecting their particular research interests. Evidence of teaching excellence and promise of a strong record of research and publication are essential.

Candidates should have PhD in hand by September 2018. Candidates scheduled to defend the dissertation in the fall and expecting to receive the degree by January will also be considered.

The Department of Politics is a PhD-granting department, and the candidate will be expected to contribute to the teaching and training of graduate students. Teaching load is 2/2, with a semester of leave after a successful Third Year Review. Qualified applicants should submit electronically a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings, a chapter or article length writing sample, and three letters of reference to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9509> First consideration will be given to applications received by October 16, 2017. Questions about the position can be directed to: Professor Eva Bellin, Chair, Comparative Politics/Latin America Search Committee (ebellin@brandeis.edu).

Brandeis University is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. Diversity in its student body, staff and faculty is important to Brandeis' primary mission of providing a quality education. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their creative endeavors, teaching and/or service experiences, will increase Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and better prepare its students for a pluralistic society.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3177

Saint Mary's College of California

Rank: American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Africa, East Asia

Saint Mary's College of California invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in the Department of Politics. The position is for an Americanist to join our collegial department of passionate and active teacher/scholars. The ideal candidate will have the ability to teach introductory and upper division courses on executive and legislative politics at the federal, state, and local levels, and other courses that fit with the candidate's substantive interests. We have a particular interest in recruiting candidates who can develop courses to strengthen the diversity of our curriculum, and to work with a highly diverse student body. We prefer candidates with a secondary specialization in African or Asian politics, and those who have the ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

Consistent with Saint Mary's College's commitment to inclusive excellence, the Politics Department strives to be an inclusive community that fosters respect and belonging for faculty and students of diverse backgrounds and identities. We seek a candidate who can engage, advocate for and support students of color, women, and underrepresented groups.

Saint Mary's College of California is a private, Catholic, comprehensive and co-educational university that engages students in rigorous critical thinking, promotes social justice, and educates the whole person for human fulfillment. Recognized among just forty exceptional institutions in Colleges That Change Lives – and the first Catholic and first California college to be included – Saint Mary's is praised for its challenging and supportive learning community.

The De La Salle Christian Brothers, the largest teaching order of the Roman Catholic Church, guide the spiritual and academic character of the College. Located on a stunning 420-acre campus in the Moraga Hills outside of San Francisco, Saint Mary's currently enrolls approximately 4,000 highly diverse students. For more information about Saint Mary's mission and history, see: <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/about-smc/our-mission>.

Responsibilities: All Saint Mary's faculty are invited to engage with and contribute to the Catholic, Lasallian and Liberal Arts traditions of the College through their teaching, scholarship and service. The standard teaching assignment is six courses per year, including department offerings and contributions to College-wide programs (January Term and Collegiate Seminar). In the department, the successful candidate will teach courses such as Introduction to American Politics, Presidency and Congress, Political Parties and Pressure Groups, Elections and Voting Behavior, State and Urban Politics, and other courses based on the candidate's expertise. Saint Mary's faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarly agenda and demonstrate intellectual growth and significant achievement appropriate to their field. All faculty also contribute service to the College and community, including academic advising, and participation in the shared governance of the College through departmental and College-wide committees and the development and assessment of the College's Core Curriculum. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or related field or doctoral candidacy focused on U.S. executive and legislative politics, with expectation of degree by July 1, 2018; demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching in the liberal arts tradition; evidence of potential for teaching effectiveness, particularly among a diverse body of undergraduates; ability to engage in scholarship and professional activity at the national (or international) level.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience teaching politics courses and evidence of effectiveness in teaching; promise of significant scholarly achievement; demonstrated commitment and success working in diverse, multicultural contexts, especially in higher education settings; qualified to teach a course in African or Asian politics; interest in developing courses that strengthen the diversity of the curriculum; ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

TO APPLY:

1. Please apply on-line at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43640>
2. A complete application includes a letter of interest, explaining how your qualifications satisfy the position requirements and addressing how you are prepared to support the Mission of the College; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; evidence of teaching effectiveness thus far; and a writing sample.
3. In applying for a position, candidates sign a consent form authorizing a broader inquiry.
4. For finalists, the College will contact references, in confidence, and credentials will be confirmed prior to hire.
5. Questions should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Ronald Ahnen, Chair of Politics Department at rahen@stmarys-ca.edu. Deadline: Consideration and review of applications will begin immediately. Applications submitted after October 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Mary's College annually collects information about campus crimes and other reportable incidents in accordance with the federal Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. To view the Saint Mary's College Report, please go to the Public Safety website at <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/public-safety/annual-security-and-fire-safety-report-0>. To request a paper copy please call Public Safety at (925) 631-4284. The report includes the type of crime, venue, and number of occurrences.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3183

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3156

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/tenure-track positions in Political Science. Candidates from all sub-fields will be considered. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor), from scholars of Middle Eastern politics, and from scholars of political theory are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

The review of applications will begin in October, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the academic year of 2017/2018, with potential campus visits to NYUNY occurring in the Spring 2018. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3163

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of Comparative Politics. Areas of interest include state formation and capacity, authoritarianism and democratization, contentious politics, identity politics, political institutions and policymaking, and the political economy of development. We welcome applications from scholars studying any developing region, including South Asia, Latin America, and Africa. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the start of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-comparative-politics/1209/5281326>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3141

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43427>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date. Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3135

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Government at Cornell University welcomes applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The department has special interest in candidates whose research and teaching interests include formal theory, Europe, the Middle East, and/or South Asia. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2018.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9482>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is complete.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3125

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-2019 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach introduction to world or comparative politics (depending on subfield), upper-level political science courses in the area of specialty including Post Soviet Russian Politics, and to occasionally teach as part of a faculty rotation the Introduction to Russian and Eurasian Studies and the Havighurst Seminar (topical); develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in the curricular and programming efforts of the Havighurst Center for Russian and Post-Soviet Studies.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science, public policy or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with expertise in Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4586>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Laura Neack at neacklj@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3126

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Bethany College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

TWO positions for Assistant Professor; tenure-track. The Department of History and Political Science at Bethany College seeks to fill two tenure-track positions starting 2018-2019. The primary field for one position should be in American politics including constitutional law, American Political Development, American institutions broadly defined, judicial politics, or American foreign policy. The primary field for the second position should be in Comparative or International Politics broadly understood. We would prefer candidates who can contribute to institutional initiatives in pre-law advising, environmental politics and policy, or public health. The ability to lead short-term study abroad programs and/or to teach courses in social sciences statistics or research methods would be a significant plus. Each successful candidate will be expected to contribute courses to at least two subfields of the discipline and/or an interdisciplinary international relations program. Candidates should demonstrate how their research and teaching brings an integrative perspective to bear on the study of politics, society, and social change.

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to liberal arts education and to engaging students in active undergraduate research. Bethany faculty are expected to make contributions to student advising, program assessment, committee service, and student recruitment and retention.

Both positions will commence in August 2018.

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field preferred, ABD considered; teaching experience is essential. There is the possibility of appointment at an advanced Assistant Professor level if qualifications and time in rank merit.

Bethany is a private, liberal arts, church-affiliated college with an enrollment of approximately 700 students. Bethany College is located on a picturesque and historic 1,300-acre campus in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia, approximately 40 miles west of Pittsburgh. Founded in 1840, Bethany is West Virginia's oldest private college.

Please provide letter of application, CV, statement of teaching interests, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and unofficial copies of both graduate and undergraduate transcripts via email to doffaculty@bethanywv.edu and reference Political Science search in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. We do plan to complete this process in the fall semester so candidates are strongly urged to apply on time. We will be interviewing strong candidates at the American Political Science Association annual meeting in San Francisco (Thursday and Friday only). Please email CV to Dr. Joe Lane (Provost) at doffaculty@bethanywv.edu note "request an interview at APSA" in the subject line.

Bethany College seeks a diverse faculty and staff. Bethany is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/30/2017
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3102

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and,

for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3108

Boston College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics

The Department of Political Science of Boston College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank in Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics. The position is open in regard to research focus and methods. Preference will be given to candidates with substantive fieldwork, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a broad knowledge of the region. The appointment begins in the Fall 2018 semester.

Candidates are expected to have their Ph.D. in hand by the start date. Interested candidates should upload a letter of interest, stating research and teaching interests; curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, and a writing sample; and evidence of teaching excellence to the Interfolio online system at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43536>. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded to Interfolio by the individual writers. Applications must be received by October 1, 2017. No email or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Boston College is a Jesuit, Catholic university that strives to integrate research excellence with a foundational commitment to formative liberal arts education. We encourage applications from candidates who are committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic community.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3079

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2018 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <http://tinyurl.com/yapctjam>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 5/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3084

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3059

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, International Relations or Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the fields of international relations or comparative politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 1, 2017.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3070

University of Denver

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor (Comparative/International Political Economy)

Specializations: Latin American, Middle East, South Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Denver invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship to start in Fall 2018 in the field of Comparative or International Political Economy. We are most interested in candidates with research expertise in environmental politics and policy or regional expertise in Latin America, the Middle East, or South Asia. The position requires teaching the equivalent of two courses per quarter (three quarters per year) in the Political Science department, covering a range of upper division comparative/international politics courses, introductory courses, and other university requirements. The University of Denver embraces a scholar-teacher model where faculty balance their commitment to rigorous research with undergraduate education. We welcome the incorporation of experiential learning opportunities in the curriculum such as internships, simulations, or service learning. The person holding this position would also be expected to contribute to University and departmental service.

The Department of Political Science is an undergraduate-only department with faculty actively engaged in research and teaching students primarily in the context of small classes with intensive writing assignments and close interaction. We aim to develop students' capacity to think and engage the world constructively long after graduation. We currently have nine full-time faculty members with emphases in American politics, comparative and international politics, political theory, and law. For information about the department, please click here.

Essential Functions

- Teach the equivalent of six courses across three quarters per academic year.
- Pursue a fruitful research agenda that results in high quality scholarly publications.
- Advise students.
- Contribute to University and departmental service.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities

- Expertise in CPE/IPE, ideally combined with one of the following sub-specialties: environmental politics and policy or Latin America, the Middle East, or South Asia.

Required Qualifications

- ABD or Ph.D. in Political Science or related Social Science field (e.g. international affairs/relations, institutional economics, sociology). A candidate hired at the ABD level would hold the title of Instructor until completion of Ph.D.
- Experience teaching undergraduate courses in political (or related social) science.
- Experience interacting with diverse communities or evidence of a commitment to incorporate inclusive teaching methods and/or pedagogies to effectively engage broadly diverse student populations.

Preferred Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science or related Social Science.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. Priority will be given to applications received by September 11, 2017, but will consider applications until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact Doug Booth at Douglas.Booth@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

- CV
- Letter of interest
- Research & Teaching Statements
- Transcripts
- Teaching evaluations and course syllabi
- Samples of written work (e.g., two chapters from dissertation or book, and/or two articles).
- Inclusive excellence statement (The separate inclusive excellence statement should be a succinct description of how the candidate's research, teaching, and/or service contributes to inclusive excellence and involves effective interaction with members of historically underrepresented communities. See <http://www.du.edu/cme/resources/inclusive-excellence.html> for more details.)

-At least three letters of recommendation, which can be emailed to polisci@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/11/2017

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3068

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics of South Asia

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics of South Asia to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43261>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/21/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3029

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/15/2017
Date Posted: 7/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3018

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Chinese Politics

The Department of Political Science at the Johns Hopkins University invites applications for one or more open rank positions in Comparative Politics. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Chinese politics. Other priority areas that would build on and extend existing strengths in the department include social movements, labor, the welfare state, environmental politics, and/or race and immigration. The Comparative Politics subfield at Hopkins builds upon one of the distinctive strengths of the Political Science department: fostering innovative research and cross-field synergies that reach beyond the traditional divides of our discipline. Over the last decade, we have developed exciting collaborations in Comparative and International Political Economy, Parties and Elections, Transnational Politics, and Comparative Racial Politics. We are a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department, and we encourage applications from those trained in a variety of research methods. Applicants should submit a letter of interest that describes their research agenda, writing sample, and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates applying at the level of assistant professor should send teaching evaluations, if available, and three letters of recommendation; those applying at the tenured level should provide the names of three references on Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/31670>

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2018. Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2996

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3001

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Comparative Politics
Specializations: Western Europe, Quantitative Methods, Electoral Systems

Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics for the 2018-19 academic year beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses, including introductory courses in Comparative Politics, advanced courses in European Politics, and one to two sections of research methods.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status is required. The opportunity to maintain a personal research program will be available.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2174>. A curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2976

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/IR

Teaching a 3/3 course load, with courses in International or Comparative Political Economy, as well as additional courses in International Politics and/or Comparative Politics and the applicant's area of regional specialty. Maintain an active research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Service includes advising duties for Global Studies majors and other service to the department as assigned by Chair, as well as institutional service.

A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Research agenda and expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. Candidate should have a PhD in Political Science or be ABD.

Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia.

The Department of Political Science at Loyola University Maryland invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The position begins Fall 2018.

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and an interest in the enduring questions of Politics, with an ability to teach International or Comparative Political Economy. Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia. Applicants should have their primary training in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations, and the expectation will be for courses to be taught in Introduction to Politics, International or Comparative Political Economy, International Politics and/or Comparative Politics, as well as in the regional area of expertise. Candidates should have a PhD or ABD.

The teaching load for the position is three courses in the fall and three courses in the spring semester, with a single-course reduction the first semester (each course is capped at 30 students). Courses will primarily serve Political Science and Global Studies majors.

The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in Loyola's growing Global Studies program. Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major with a curriculum based in the four disciplines of Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology. Students begin with foundational coursework in each department, and then develop topical specializations in the junior and senior years. The program hosts annual speakers and special events, and is a significant presence on campus. Faculty who contribute to Global Studies participate in student advising and mentoring, teach courses in the major, and become part of the Global Studies academic community. The candidate will be a member of the Political Science Department but will advise Global Studies majors.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

To apply, please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to submit a C.V., three letters of reference, graduate transcripts (copies are acceptable), an article-length manuscript or chapter demonstrating scholarly potential, and a cover letter explaining teaching approach in relation to Loyola's educational mission. Teaching evaluations and sample course syllabi should also be submitted if available (select Option 1 to submit syllabi in online application). Please submit applications by September 15 to ensure full consideration. For questions related to the search or any materials that are only available in hard copy or cannot otherwise be submitted through the online application (which could include letters of reference or teaching evaluations), please send files to Dr. Carsten Vala via email to cvala@loyola.edu or via mail to him at Department of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/8/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2949

Carroll University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Starting date: January 1, 2018

Responsibilities: Responsibilities of this appointment include teaching classes on international relations, advising and mentoring students, and participating in program and departmental service. The successful candidate will participate in the General Education curriculum through teaching in the common core of cross-cultural studies. The normal teaching load for lecturer positions is four 4-credit courses per semester. The capacity to teach broad-based social science research methods is an asset for those applying for this opening.

Qualifications: PhD in International Relations, International Political Economy, Comparative Politics, or in related fields. All Comparative Politics and International Relations specializations will be considered. Ability to teach international political economy courses is required. Ph.D. in hand is strongly preferred; ABDs will be considered. The successful candidate will complement the department's current offerings and will share the University's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Rank and Salary: This is a full-time, 18-month, non-tenure track position as Instructional Faculty. Salary will be based on qualification and previous experience. The position is eligible for renewal.

The Department: The Department of History, Political Science, and Religious Studies offers majors in the following areas: history; global studies; political science; philosophy, political science and economics; and religious studies.

Carroll University: Founded in 1846, Carroll University is an independent, co-educational comprehensive university grounded in the liberal arts tradition. Carroll University is located in suburban Waukesha, 16 miles west of Milwaukee and 60 miles east of Madison. The University serves approximately 3521 students. The University though intentionally ecumenical and non-sectarian in approach, is related to the Presbyterian Church, USA. Candidates must be willing and able to support and advance the University mission.

Application: Review of applications will begin immediately and will close when the position is filled.

Please submit a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) statement of teaching philosophy as Word or PDF format attachments with the subject line "Visiting Lecturer of International Relations" to facapp@carrollu.edu.

Final applicants will be asked to submit graduate transcripts and three letters of reference.

Carroll University is an Equal-Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2936

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Middle Eastern Politics

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfield of Middle Eastern politics, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research experience on the domestic politics or policy of one or more Middle Eastern countries, as well as expertise on the international issues that these countries face. The candidate would have sufficient mastery of one or more Middle Eastern languages to engage in the research. The candidate must have demonstrated ability to maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

Due to the endowment that funds this position, if the selected candidate achieves tenure at Claremont McKenna College, he or she would become the Weinberg Chair in International Relations or Comparative Politics and the Middle East.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16021

The review of applications will begin August 1, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinion, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2928

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations

Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San José State University

San José, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2903

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations

Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University

San Jose, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San José State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San José State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San José State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San José State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2904

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations

Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University

San Jose, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San Jose State University
San Jose, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San Jose State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San Jose (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San Jose State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San Jose State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San Jose State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San Jose State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San Jose State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2905

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latin American or Latino Studies
Specializations: Latin American, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Department of Political Science and Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS) Program at Lehigh University seek to hire an Assistant Professor to begin in the fall term of the 2018 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in Political Science (the department of tenure) and LALS. We are looking for a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement in U.S. domestic Latinx Studies (in such areas as Latinx and Caribbean communities, Latinx civic engagement, immigration, labor issues, and gender studies) and/or comparative Latin American politics with a focus on transnationalism in Latino communities. The candidate should be committed to creative scholarship and teaching which complement and augment the LALS program's interdisciplinary strengths. The normal teaching load for this position is two courses each semester, which will be cross-listed in political science and LALS.

The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Completed applications are due by October 1, 2017. They must include a letter of interest, a current CV, three letters of reference, and representative reprints of any publications. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/9250>.

For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu or Dr. Matthew Bush, Director of Latin American and Latino Studies, at mab508@lehigh.edu.

Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 6/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2886

Wheaton College

Rank: Tenure-Track in Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Wheaton College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment that would begin in Fall 2018 at the rank of assistant or associate professor. We seek applicants who specialize in comparative politics and who have a regional expertise in Africa, Latin America, or Southeast Asia. Applicants with interests and experience in peace and conflict studies are especially encouraged. Ph.D. is expected and teaching experience is preferred.

Please send a letter describing teaching experience and commitment to the Christian faith along with a current curriculum vitae to Dr. Bryan McGraw, Search Committee Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations (bryan.mcgraw@wheaton.edu). Promising candidates will receive full application materials.

Review of completed applications will begin October 2 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/29/2017
Date Posted: 6/9/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2875

Wheaton College

Rank: Tenure-Track in Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Wheaton College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment that would begin in Fall 2018 at the rank of assistant or associate professor. We seek applicants who specialize in comparative politics and who have a regional expertise in Africa, Latin America, or South-east Asia. Applicants with interests and experience in peace and conflict studies are especially encouraged. Ph.D. is expected and teaching experience is preferred.

Please send a letter describing teaching experience and commitment to the Christian faith along with a current curriculum vitae to Dr. Bryan McGraw, Search Committee Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations (bryan.mcgraw@wheaton.edu). Promising candidates will receive full application materials.

Review of completed applications will begin October 2 and continue until the position is filled.

Wheaton College complies with federal and state guidelines for non-discrimination in employment, and is an evangelical Protestant Christian liberal arts college whose faculty and staff affirm a Statement of Faith and adhere to the lifestyle expectations of the Wheaton College Community Covenant. Information on both may be found at <http://www.wheaton.edu/About-Wheaton/Statement-of-Faith-and-Educational-Purpose>. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 6/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2876

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor in Comparative politics to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specializations, and successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Comparative Politics Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 6/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2867

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

John Cabot University

Rank: Full-time tenure track position in International Relations

Specializations: International Political Economy, International Security, Developing Nations

John Cabot University (JCU), a four year, accredited American liberal arts college in Rome, Italy, invites applications for an open-rank (assistant, associate or full professor) full-time tenure-track faculty position in International Relations. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, demonstrated excellence in teaching and research, and commitment to academic service and program development.

Special consideration will be given to candidates with expertise in international political economy, international development or international security (including non-traditional security areas such as food security, cyber security or the environment). There is no regional specialization for the position, but a focus on Africa, the Americas or Europe would be welcome. The successful candidate will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate level courses with a load of three courses per semester as well as be an active member of the university community. Ability to teach graduate level courses is an asset.

The ideal candidate should have familiarity and experience with the American liberal arts educational tradition. The initial appointment is for two years with the possibility of tenure. Candidates are expected to be fluent in English, which is the language of instruction. Applicants should send 1) a letter of interest describing research and teaching interests, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) one or two research papers or journal publications as professional writing samples, and 4) evidence of teaching excellence to: politicalSciSearch@johncabot.edu. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be sent separately to the same email address. The deadline to submit applications is December 15, 2017. The successful candidate will be expected to start in the fall semester of 2018. Only short-listed candidates will be notified. John Cabot University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, ethnic or national origin, religion, sex, age, sexual orientation, marital or parental status, or disability in any of its policies, programs, and services.

Information about JCU can be found at: <http://www.johncabot.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3715

Tokyo International University

Rank: Recruitment for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position in International Relations (professor, associate professor or lecturer)

[Outline]

Tokyo International University seeks professor, associate professor or lecturer applicants who are specialized in International Relations and other related areas who can teach these courses in English.

Successful candidates will be expected to teach Introduction to International Relations and upper level courses in this area at TIU's English Track Program. Candidates whose specialization falls into one or more of the following areas are especially encouraged to apply: 1) International Security, 2) U.S. Foreign Policy, 3) International Relations of the Middle East, and 4) International Relations of Europe.

[Content of work]

Responsibilities include teaching three courses per semester mainly in an English-medium undergraduate program, advising and working with students from diverse backgrounds, as well as undertaking quality research.

[Address of work location]

1-13-1 Matoba-kita, Kawagoe City, Saitama Pref. 350-1197

[Number of positions]

2

[Starting date]

April 1, 2018 (negotiable)

[Requirements]

Candidates are required to have a PhD in hand by the time of employment with some teaching experience in higher educational institutions.

[Remuneration]

-Contract period : if hired as tenured, no -period / if hired as tenure-track, 5 years

-Salary : based on salary table by grade

-Paid off : based on TIU rule which is equal or better than legally required

-Social insurance : participation in pension, health, employment and work accident insurance

[Application method]

Please send an email to "saiyou@tiu.ac.jp" with the following materials attached:

1. Curriculum vitae and a list of research achievements (please use the official form provided by TIU; http://www.tiu.ac.jp/news/upload_files/curriculumvitae.docx)

2. Course syllabi of related fields that applicants have taught at any higher educational institution

3. Three major research achievements

*Please note that TIU will not return these application documents.

<;Note>;

* Please describe your contact details clearly (phone number, e-mail address, postal address, etc.)

* Please click the link attached to download the official form.

* E-mail accounts such as @hotmail, @msn, @live and @outlook may experience difficulty in receiving e-mails from the University, so please kindly provide other accounts.

[Selection process]

Review of applications will be taken first, and only applicants deemed suitable will be contacted and invited for the interview (in person or via Skype). Those applicants who are invited to the interview might be requested to submit the Letter of Recommendation by relevant intuitions.

*Transportation expense will not be provided for the interview.

[Contact details]

HR Planning Dept., Tokyo International University Foundation
1-13-1 Matoba-kita, Kawagoe City, Saitama Pref. 350-1197
TEL:049-277-5822

Email : saiyou@tiu.ac.jp

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/30/2017

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3709

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3707

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3708

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow - Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy at the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies has two openings in its post-doctoral fellows' program. We will accept applications from candidates who specialize in global peace and security (broadly construed) but are particularly interested in those doing policy relevant research on the effects of inclusion on violence, peace building, and governance. Fellows will engage in their own research, participate in center activities, and have opportunities to contribute to collaborative research designed to inform (and be informed by) contemporary policy concerns and strategies. The Fellowship will begin September 1, 2018. Post-doctoral fellows will spend one academic year at the Sié Center.

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy is a center of excellence within the Josef Korbel School that leads research, education and policy programs focused on global peace and security. Eight faculty, visiting and post-doctoral scholars, and over 40 Korbel MA and PhD students contribute to the Center's activities. While at the Sié Center, post-doctoral fellows have opportunities to work with Center faculty and graduate students, engage with relevant policy practitioners, and receive clerical and research/travel support sufficient to allow the completion of a major research product. Fellows will be expected to attend and contribute to a seminar series and engage with other program initiatives including conferences, commentary, and publications.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $50,000 and access to additional funding for research support, professional development, and travel, and a comprehensive benefits package.

Essential Functions

- Participate in a research seminar series.
- Participate in workshops.
- Present research findings to interdisciplinary academic and audiences.
- Participate in independent and collaborative research.
- Submit manuscripts for publication.

Required Qualifications

- Substantial progress toward a Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant discipline. Applicants should complete all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- Policy-relevant research agenda related to the Center's program.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants should be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2014).

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 6:00 p.m. (MST) on December 15, 2017.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions regarding this position, please contact Jill Schmieder-Hereau, Executive Director of the Sié Center at Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Writing Sample
4. Two letters of recommendation sent directly to Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3705

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Conflict Analysis and Resolution

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Conflict Analysis and Resolution

The Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies at the University of San Diego invites applications for an open rank, tenure-track position in Conflict Analysis and Resolution beginning in September 2018. The preferred candidate will have a strong record of teaching and scholarship that can contribute to the Kroc School's expanding graduate programs in Peace and Justice, Social Innovation, and Conflict Management and Resolution, including in the areas of religion and environment. Field-based experience in conflict resolution/transformation, conflict prevention and peacebuilding in the U.S. or abroad is strongly preferred. The successful candidate must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment.

We welcome applications from faculty coming from peace and conflict studies, religious studies, sociology, history, psychology, anthropology, political science, international relations or related fields whose teaching and research agendas intersect substantively with conflict resolution.

The successful applicant will teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and will contribute to building the School's interdisciplinary academic programs. To be successful in our environment, you must be able to teach courses by integrating out-of-the-classroom experiential learning and community engagement. Candidates must demonstrate strong teaching experience as well as a commitment to program development and institution building.

To apply, please go to <http://apptrkr.com/1110340> and look for job #IRC25319. For full consideration, please upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), a summary of teaching evaluations (if applicable), and a writing sample the length of a typical research article or book chapter. Three confidential letters of references must be submitted separately to: krocreferences@sandiego.edu. Correspondence regarding this position should be directed to Lee Ann Otto at: lotto@sandiego.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2017; applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.

The University of San Diego is a Roman Catholic Institution committed to advancing academic excellence, expanding liberal and professional knowledge, creating a diverse and inclusive community, and preparing leaders dedicated to ethical conduct and compassionate service. USD is an Equal Opportunity employer, and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from underrepresented and underserved groups are encouraged to apply.

jeid-daa0026fa960734ca5cfc05f69318401

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3703

Georgetown University

Rank: Professor of International Business and Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Political Economy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both Schools. The position is one of a number of multidisciplinary new positions at Georgetown intended to foster multidisciplinary scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Georgetown has a unique opportunity to integrate the fields of business and international affairs in its scholarship and programs, and this joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB has strengths in the core business disciplines as well as international business, international political economy and trade, and ethics. The MSB offers highly ranked undergraduate, MBA, and executive programs. Each of these programs contains successful and innovative global components. The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses some aspect of business and policy in the global economy. The successful candidate's work has appeared, and will continue to appear, in leading scholarly outlets.

Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty, and the successful applicant will be someone who fits that tradition. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Associate or Full Professor.

The MSB and SFS already have a number of joint initiatives in place, including two joint graduate degrees (the Global Executive MBA and the newly launched Master's in International Business and Policy) and a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. In our joint activities, we seek to enhance both research and teaching by focusing on the creative integration of business with the international public policy environment. The successful candidate will provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Located in Washington, D.C., Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here.

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE

The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and languages. The SFS is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, led by a faculty of both scholars and practitioners. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector. In the study of international affairs, Georgetown's Jesuit values inspire SFS students to be principled, just practitioners of diplomacy. Students apply these values of service internationally across the public, private, and academic sectors in pursuit of a better world.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should upload a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://www.econjobmarket.org/postings.php?posid=4681>. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2017, but will accept inquiries until the position is filled.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/10/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3691

Old Dominion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy

The Department of Political Science and Geography and the Graduate Program in International Studies (GPIS) at Old Dominion University invite applications for a tenure-track position in International Political Economy (IPE) at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 25, 2018. Candidates should expect to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in IPE, Globalization, and Development. Preference will be given to candidates with a teaching and research profile that complements existing coverage in the department. A Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment.

Old Dominion University is a state-supported, Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University with over 24,000 students. The University is located in Norfolk, Virginia, the hub of the Hampton Roads metropolitan area with a population of approximately 1.6 million. As a major recreation area known for its beaches, historical landmarks, and the Chesapeake Bay, the Hampton Roads Region also profits from its proximity to Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, and the Outer Banks of North Carolina. Boasting the largest naval base in the world, Hampton Roads also accommodates major Army, Air Force, and Coast Guard commands as well as the only NATO headquarters in North America. More information about the department and GPIS can be found at <http://www.odu.edu/pols-geog> and <http://www.odu.edu/gpis>.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief statement of research and teaching interests, sample of scholarly writing, evidence of teaching excellence if available, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Georg Menz, Chair, IPE Search Committee at <https://jobs.odu.edu/> The application review process will commence December 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/25/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3686

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: International Relations - Open Rank

The Department of Political Science at The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenured or tenure-track faculty member in International Relations to begin September 1, 2018. The department is particularly interested in applicants with teaching interests and a research agenda that includes international relations theory, globalization, and global governance. Ability to teach US Foreign Policy and/or Western European Governments is a plus. The department is open to a wide variety of methodologies and critical theoretical perspectives. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program anchored in political science, while incorporating topics, concepts, methods, and courses that cross traditional disciplinary boundaries. The successful candidate will teach upper-division and graduate level courses in their areas of substantive specialization as well as a required lower-division course in U.S. Federal Government & Politics.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/21/2018
Date Posted: 10/25/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3689

Roanoke College

Rank: Visiting Professor

International Relations

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Professor position in International Relations, beginning in August 2018 and ending in May 2019. This is a full time, sabbatical-replacement position, with a teaching load of three courses per semester.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in International Politics, International Relations Theory, and Environmental Policy. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach a course on the Comparative Politics of Europe. The successful candidate will also contribute International Relations courses to the General Education curriculum. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research. Visiting Professors are eligible to receive departmental funds and to apply for most of the College's internal grants in support of their research and teaching.

Roanoke College, a nationally ranked Phi Beta Kappa institution is located in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia and is affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA). It is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should electronically submit curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation and any inquiries to Judi Pinckney at pinckney@roanoke.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/24/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3684

United States Military Academy at West Point

Rank: Director, Johnson Grand Strategy Program at West Point / Assistant Professor

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR FOR THE JOHNSON GRAND STRATEGY PROGRAM at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Advanced degree (Ph.D.) in political science with a strong background in security studies. (ii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate political science courses. (iii) Strong research agenda and the demonstrated ability to present results in a variety of media. (iv) Ability to lead an interdisciplinary Grand Strategy Program, to include: coordinating across academic departments to develop and assess curriculum; managing a high-impact guest speaker series; facilitating cadet and faculty research on grand strategy; providing subject matter expertise and guiding outreach; and communicating grand strategy lessons learned to communities of study and practice.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum

Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 3681

University of Dayton

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Dayton is seeking a lecturer with a specialization in international political economy and development. Responsibilities include teaching courses in political science, courses for non-majors, and the interdisciplinary social science curriculum.

Qualified candidates will have completed all requirements for the PhD degree in Political Science or a related field, except for defense of dissertation, at the time of application; PhD preferred. Required qualifications include excellent written communication skills and the potential for excellence in teaching in one or more areas of international political economy and development.

The department prefers candidates with an ability to contribute to teaching interdisciplinary aspects of international political economy and development, an interest in developing international political economy and development courses, an interest in the use of innovative pedagogical techniques and successful teaching at the university level. Experience in teaching and advising students of diverse backgrounds and a sensitivity to Catholic and Marianist educational values are also preferred.

The University and the Department are strongly committed to excellence in teaching and the development of distinctive graduates who embrace the ideal of servant-leadership and the University's call to "Learn, Lead, and Serve." The Department currently has 15 full-time faculty members. It offers BAs in Human Rights Studies and Political Science and the Master of Public Administration. The Department is highly supportive of its faculty and students.

The University of Dayton, founded in 1850 by the Society of Mary, is a top ten Catholic research university. The University seeks outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community.

Apply at jobs.udayton.edu/postings/24565 by January 16, 2018. Information on the interdisciplinary curriculum (SSC 200) is at udayton.edu/artsscience/academics/about/social_science_cap/index.php.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/16/2018

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3685

Bilkent University

Rank: Faculty Position (Open rank) in International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The International Relations Department at Bilkent University invites applicants for an open rank position, commencing Fall 2018. The Department is interested in applicants who specialize in International Security broadly defined, especially those with a concentration on Middle East politics. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its Faculty. Female and international scholars are therefore especially encouraged to apply.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is placed in global rankings as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 600 undergraduate students and 35 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, high-impact research, and developing critical and analytical thinking.

Applicants should hold a PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a related field, though PhD candidates with publications and close to completing their studies are also encouraged to apply. However, the prospective candidate is required to receive a PhD no later than August 1, 2018. A strong publication record and promising research potential are essential. Successful applicants will teach two courses in their field of expertise at both the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate theses.

Applications should include (i) cover letter, (ii) up-to-date CV, (iii) one-page research statement, (iv) one-page teaching statement, and (v) contact details of three academic referees, and be submitted to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by the application deadline at 5:00pm on Friday 22 December 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3668

New York University School of Professional Studies

Rank: Clinical Assistant/Associate Professor of Global Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Conflict Processes, International Security

Clinical Assistant/Associate Professor of Global Affairs
NYU School of Professional Studies
Center for Global Affairs

The Center for Global Affairs (CGA) at the NYU School of Professional Studies invites applications for a full time clinical (non tenured) faculty position. We seek an individual with the ability to teach courses on cybercrime, cybersecurity, cyberlaw, cyberconflict, cyberwar, and/or terrorists' use of the Internet. The ideal candidate would have professional and/or government experience as well as excellent academic credentials.

The CGA currently offers a Masters in Global Affairs which is interdisciplinary with concentrations in Transnational Security, Global Futures, Global Economy, Energy and Environment, Development and Humanitarian Assistance, International Law and Human Rights, Gender Studies and Peacebuilding. A second graduate program in Global Security, Conflict and Cybercrime is in the final stage of approval. The successful candidate will be expected to play a full role in curricular development, student advisement and the Center's robust series of public events besides the primary role of teaching graduate level courses.

Successful candidates will possess an advanced degree, with an earned doctorate and experience teaching at the graduate level preferred. The individual selected for this position should possess the background and experience necessary to teach a variety of courses in the cyber curriculum; a record of publishing and research is desirable. The rank of the position will be dependent upon experience and qualifications.

The Center for Global Affairs (CGA) educates and inspires its community to become global citizens capable of identifying and implementing solutions to pressing global challenges. Through rigorous graduate and continuing higher education programs and provocative public events, the Center prepares global citizens who will be at home, and thus be effective agents of change, in diverse environments around the world. For more information, visit www.sps.nyu.edu/global.affairs.

The NYU School of Professional Studies offers a broad range of degree and noncredit programs that are professionally oriented, integrate theory with real-world applications, and are taught by faculty members who are leaders and innovators in their fields. The School of Professional Studies captures the expertise of the key sectors that make New York City a great global capital, such as real estate, finance, marketing, public relations, global affairs, hospitality and tourism, sports management, philanthropy and fundraising, communications, media, writing, the arts, and others. Full- and part-time students enroll in on-site and online credit programs, including graduate degrees, graduate certificates, and undergraduate degrees for both adults returning to school and traditional-aged students. In addition, working professionals and other adult learners pursue career objectives or intellectual discovery in over 2,500 continuing education courses, diploma programs, conferences, and seminars annually.

Applications and nominations will be accepted until December 1, 2017. Applications will be considered as they arrive. NYU appreciates all applications but can only respond to qualified candidates.

To apply, go to: apply.interfolio.com/46285

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3671

George Washington University

Rank: Visiting Associate Professor of Practice or Visiting Associate Professor of International Affairs and Director, Institute for African Studies

The George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-accruing, visiting faculty position to serve as the Director of the Institute for African Studies (IAFS). As the Director of the Institute for African Studies, he or she will be responsible for advancing and enhancing the educational, research and policy engagement of the Elliott School and the IAFS on matters relating to Africa. He or she will develop objectives and plans for the IAFS; organize research and conferencing activities; develop and lead academic programs on Africa; and fundraise to support the Institute and its program activities. The director will also be expected to teach Africa-related courses, and conduct research and publish in scholarly or policy-related venues on Africa and international affairs. The successful candidate will be appointed as an Associate Professor of International Affairs or an Associate Professor of Practice of International Affairs, depending on qualifications. This appointment will begin as early as July 2018 for an initial term of one year with the possibility of renewal for one additional year. Successful candidates may be eligible to apply in an open search for a subsequent contract position. Salary and rank are commensurate with experience.

Basic Qualifications: Applicants for the Visiting Associate Professor position must have a PhD in a relevant field at time of application. This could be a Ph.D. in one of the social sciences, public policy, or another relevant discipline or interdisciplinary field.

Applicants for the Visiting Associate Professor of Practice must have a professional graduate degree such as a JD or MA in a relevant area plus 7 years of relevant practical experience.

Application Procedure: To apply for the Associate Professor of International Affairs position applicants should complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/46512>. Applicants must upload a cover letter that explains how their qualifications and experiences satisfy the basic qualifications for this position, a CV, sample publication (if available), teaching evaluations or assessments (if available), course syllabi (in Other Documents Section, if available), and provide names and contact information for three references.

To apply for the Associate Professor of Practice of International Affairs position applicants should complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/46914>. Applicants must upload a cover letter that explains how their qualifications and experiences satisfy the basic qualifications for this position, a CV, sample publication (if available), teaching evaluations or assessments (if available), course syllabi (in Other Documents Section, if available), and provide names and contact information for three references.

Review of applications will begin on November 20, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Only completed applications will be considered.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3665

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW, The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies, Contemporary Middle Eastern Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Middle East, Political Economy, Urban Politics

FACULTY FELLOW

The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies

Contemporary Middle Eastern Studies

ARTS AND SCIENCE

New York University

The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies at New York University invites applicants for a full-time, non-tenure track position as Faculty Fellow to begin September 1st, 2018, pending budgetary and administrative approval. The appointment will be for one year, renewable for a further two years.

We are looking for an outstanding junior scholar in any social science or humanities discipline whose research offers a critical perspective on the contemporary Middle East and would complement the strengths of our existing faculty in Middle Eastern Studies. The ideal candidate has an in-depth understanding of the modern Middle East, knowledge of at least one Middle Eastern language, and has a Ph.D. in one of the following fields: Anthropology, Comparative Middle Eastern Studies, Cultural Studies, Politics/Political Economy, Sociology, Urban Studies/Geography, or similar. The appointee will be expected to teach at the graduate level (MAs and some PhDs), advise MA students, and participate in the activities of the Kevorkian Center.

A demonstrated research and teaching experience is required, and advising experience is a plus. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2018. We are especially interested in receiving applications from women and minority candidates. Please submit a cover letter, a CV, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. To apply, please go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/46267>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here.

(<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3662

Northwestern University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships in Global, Comparative, or International Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Social Movements

The Buffett Institute for Global Studies at Northwestern University invites applications for two-year postdoctoral fellowships in the study of global, comparative, or international affairs. Up to three fellows will be selected. Applications are welcome from scholars from any range of social science or interdisciplinary perspectives whose research addresses global, international, or transnational social processes, problems, governance, or conflicts. Fellowships will run from September 1, 2018 to August 31, 2020.

The salary is $55,000. In addition, fellows are eligible for $5,000 per year to fund research and conference travel and up to $2,000 in reimbursement for allowable relocation expenses in the first year. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Applicants must have received their PhD between December 14, 2015, and August 31, 2018.

Application deadline is December 15, 2017, at 5 p.m. (CT).

For a complete position description and application procedures, visit: <http://buffett.northwestern.edu/funding-grants/buffett-postdocs.html>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3651

Duke Kunshan University

Rank: Faculty Positions (Rank Open) in Social Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Duke Kunshan University (DKU) invites applications for faculty positions in the Social Sciences: Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Sociology, Psychology & Neuroscience, and Cultural Anthropology. These positions are open with regard to rank including tenured, tenure track, and non-tenure track. We are especially interested in considering advanced assistant professors to full professors.

These positions are open with regard to sub-field. Besides our general interest in each area, in some areas we are especially interested in:

- Political Science: political economy, institutions and governance, international and global affairs, and political behavior and identities;
- Public Policy: policy and political analysis, ethics, public opinion, and media and communications;
- Economics: macroeconomics, microeconomics, entrepreneurship and finance, environmental and development economics, and the history of economic thought;

- Sociology: social theory, sociology of culture, statistical methodology and computational sociology, inequality, organizations, and contemporary social problems.

DKU will launch an innovative, integrated and interdisciplinary liberal arts and sciences undergraduate program leading to both Duke and DKU degrees. Students interested in social sciences will be immersed in integrated core courses including decision making under uncertainty and foundational questions in social sciences, as well as a common set of university-wide courses on China, global challenges, and ethics. Areas of study in the social sciences include, but are not limited to, Political Economy, Institutions and Governance, Movements and Cultures, China and US Studies, Ethics and Leadership, Global Health, Environmental Policy, and Cognitive Science. Faculty will have the unique opportunity to pioneer, lead and implement an interdisciplinary and integrated social science curriculum and to conduct research in the related fields. These positions may start as early as Fall 2018 or begin a year later.

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. degree or equivalent in an appropriate field. Successful candidates should show a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching in a liberal arts curriculum. Research and scholarship are also highly valued. Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, a research statement and a teaching statement, as well as names and contact information for three references. All materials should be submitted through Academic Jobs Online: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10175>. The search committee also invites and encourages letters of nomination for potential candidates. Nominations and questions about the positions may be sent to social-science-search@dukekunshan.edu.cn using "Social Science Search" as the subject line. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1, 2017; we will accept applications until the positions are filled.

DKU is a partnership of Duke University, Wuhan University and the Municipality of Kunshan, China (<https://dukekunshan.edu.cn>).* The DKU campus is 37 miles west of Shanghai in Kunshan, and is connected to Shanghai via an 18-minute high-speed train and a subway-light rail train system. DKU provides competitive compensation, benefits and start-up packages.

As an international intellectual community that encourages diversity, openness and creative learning, DKU welcomes outstanding faculty from around the world who contribute diverse perspectives and experiences to a global learning and research environment. DKU particularly welcomes applications from underrepresented groups and minorities.

*Duke University is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) to award baccalaureate, master's and doctorate degrees. Duke Kunshan University is not accredited by SACSCOC and the accreditation of Duke University does not extend to or include Duke Kunshan University or its students. Duke Kunshan University is accredited by the Ministry of Education of the People's Republic of China. Further, although Duke University agrees to accept certain course work from DKU to be applied toward an award from Duke University, that course work may not be accepted by other colleges or universities in transfer, even if it appears on a transcript from Duke University. The decision to accept course work in transfer from any institution is made by the institution considering the acceptance of credits or course work.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3635

Ozyegin University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor

The Department of International Relations at Özyegin University invites applications for a full-time assistant professor or associate professor position to begin in September 2018.

We are interested in candidates with a demonstrated ability to teach courses in two or more of the following fields: international political economy, international organizations, and quantitative methods. The successful applicant will have an active research agenda with publication record appropriate to their academic level.

Candidates need to send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current curriculum vitae including names and contacts of two references, one sample publication/working paper, and a teaching portfolio with one sample syllabus and a summary of teaching evaluations. All items must be combined in one PDF file.

Özyegin University is a private, non-profit Turkish institution of higher education located in Çekmeköy, Istanbul. The University is committed to the pursuit of excellence in both research and teaching. The medium of instruction is English. The normal teaching load consists of two courses per semester. Salary and benefits are competitive. To ensure consideration, the application should be sent by Friday the 29th of December 2017 via e-mail to socialsciences@ozyegin.edu.tr

Any questions should be directed to Dr. Deniz Erkmén at deniz.erkmen@ozyegin.edu.tr

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3631

Seton Hall University

Rank: Assistant Professor for the School of Diplomacy

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, Political Theory

SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

School of Diplomacy and International Relations

The School of Diplomacy and International Relations at Seton Hall University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position for an assistant professor to commence in the 2018-2019 academic year. Applicants must be able to teach classes in qualitative and quantitative research methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work bridges the academic-policy divide. Expertise in the Middle East, the European Union, or international relations theory is a plus. We expect the applicant to build upon the School's existing strengths. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of their appointment. The position is subject to final budgetary approval.

Successful applicants will demonstrate the ability or potential to teach effectively in a professional school at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. All applicants should have strong research backgrounds or demonstrate substantial potential for conducting important academic research in their field of specialization.

The School of Diplomacy and International Relations prepares graduate and undergraduate students for careers in international affairs and operates in an exclusive alliance with the United Nations Foundation/United Nations Association of the United States of America.

Located only 14 miles from New York City, Seton Hall University is the oldest and one of the largest diocesan universities in the nation. Seton Hall has recently developed a required, undergraduate Core Curriculum, and occasional teaching of a course within this curriculum will be required.

All candidates should provide a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, examples of scholarly work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of recommendation, and a graduate transcript. To receive full consideration, materials should be submitted online by November 10, 2017 via www.shu.edu (follow employment links). Letters of recommendation should be sent to researchmethodssearch@shu.edu.

Seton Hall University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. It honors diversity and respects the religious commitments of all its employees. In turn, its employees respect Catholic beliefs and values, and they support its mission as a Catholic institution of higher education.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3637

The University of Hong Kong

Rank: Lecturer in International Relations (Ref.: 201701359)

The University of Hong Kong

Founded in 1911, the University of Hong Kong is committed to the highest international standards of excellence in teaching and research, and has been at the international forefront of academic scholarship for many years. The University has a comprehensive range of study programmes and research disciplines spread across 10 faculties and over 140 academic departments and institutes/centres. There are over 28,000 undergraduate and postgraduate students who are recruited globally, and more than 2,000 members of academic and academic-related staff coming from multi-cultural backgrounds, many of whom are internationally renowned.

Lecturer in International Relations (Ref.: 201701359)

Applicants are invited for appointment as Lecturer in International Relations (Ref.: 201701359), to commence on August 15, 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter, on a three-year fixed-term basis, with the possibility of renewal.

Applicants should have an M.Phil. degree and a strong record of at least 3 years of teaching. Those with a Ph.D. degree and who can teach theories in international relations; Chinese foreign policy; East Asian international relations; international political economy; and international organizations at both the undergraduate and postgraduate levels are preferred. The appointee is expected to take up some administrative duties. Information about the Department can be obtained at <http://ppa.hku.hk>.

A globally competitive remuneration package commensurate with qualifications and experience will be offered, in addition to leave and medical benefits. At current rates, salaries tax does not exceed 15%

of gross income. The appointment will attract a contract-end gratuity and University contribution to a retirement benefits scheme, totalling up to 15% of basic salary. Please note that the University is not able to offer a relocation assistance package (including temporary University housing accommodation and a passage and baggage allowance) to the successful candidate recruited from overseas.

Applicants should send a completed application form together with an up-to-date C.V., a letter of interest, graduate transcripts, a teaching statement and teaching evaluations to the Department at ppahr@hku.hk. They should also arrange for three confidential references (quoting the job reference number) to be sent directly by the referees to the Department at ppahr@hku.hk. Application forms (341/1111) can be downloaded at <http://www.hku.hk/apptunit/form-ext.doc>. Further particulars can be obtained at <http://jobs.hku.hk/>. Closes January 7, 2018.

The University thanks applicants for their interest, but advises that only candidates shortlisted for interviews will be notified of the application result.

The University is an equal opportunities employer and is committed to equality, ethics, inclusivity, diversity and transparency.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/7/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3634

The University of Hong Kong

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Relations (Ref.: 201701357)

The University of Hong Kong

Founded in 1911, the University of Hong Kong is committed to the highest international standards of excellence in teaching and research, and has been at the international forefront of academic scholarship for many years. The University has a comprehensive range of study programmes and research disciplines spread across 10 faculties and over 140 academic departments and institutes/centres. There are over 28,000 undergraduate and postgraduate students who are recruited globally, and more than 2,000 members of academic and academic-related staff coming from multi-cultural backgrounds, many of whom are internationally renowned.

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Relations (Ref.: 201701357)

Applicants are invited for appointment as Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Relations in the Department of Politics and Public Administration, to commence on August 15, 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter, on a three-year fixed-term basis, with the possibility of renewal and consideration for tenure before the expiry of a second three-year fixed-term contract.

Applicants should possess a Ph.D. degree and demonstrate achievements of, or potential for, excellence in research and teaching (applicants who are close to completing a Ph.D. degree will also be considered). Those with expertise in global governance; global political theory; international political economy; and/or international security are preferred. While the Department is open to all methodological approaches, the applicants' primary training should be in international relations.

A globally competitive remuneration package commensurate with qualifications and experience will be offered, in addition to leave and medical benefits. At current rates, salaries tax does not exceed 15% of gross income. The appointment will attract a contract-end gratuity and University contribution to a retirement benefits scheme, totalling up to 15% of basic salary. Housing benefits will be provided as applicable.

Applicants should send a completed application form together with an up-to-date C.V., a letter of interest, graduate transcripts, writing samples, a research statement, a teaching statement and teaching evaluations to the Department at ppahr@hku.hk. They should also arrange for three confidential references (quoting the job reference number) to be sent directly by the referees to the Department at ppahr@hku.hk. Please quote the job reference no. and post title in the e-mail subject. Application forms (341/1111) can be downloaded at <http://www.hku.hk/apptunit/form-ext.doc>. Further particulars can be obtained at <http://jobs.hku.hk/>. Closes January 7, 2018.

The University thanks applicants for their interest, but advises that only candidates shortlisted for interviews will be notified of the application result.

The University is an equal opportunities employer and is committed to equality, ethics, inclusivity, diversity and transparency

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/7/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3632

Columbia University

Rank: Lecturer in Discipline

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Columbia University

School of International and Public Affairs

Lecturer in Discipline

Comparative Social Policy and International Political Economy

School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track, renewable position of Lecturer in Discipline in the fields of comparative social policy and international political economy, to begin July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a demonstrated record of accomplishment in teaching and research related to comparative social policy and international political economy and, preferably, comparative urban policy. Research interests or practice should be policy-relevant. Master's degree or equivalent degree required. Ph.D. and/or relevant professional experience at senior level strongly preferred.

Applicants should be qualified to teach courses related to comparative social policy, international political economy and comparative urban policy in demanding Master's degree programs in international and public affairs. There also is a strong preference for candidates who are qualified to teach a workshop in writing and presentation skills for Master's degree students.

Please visit our online application site at:

<https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65346>

for further information about this position and to submit your application.

Screening of the candidates will begin as soon as possible. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@sipa.columbia.edu.

The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of SIPA's academic community.

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs brings together an interdisciplinary faculty to conduct research in policy-related fields and train students at the master's and doctoral level for careers in global public policy.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Applications from women and underrepresented minorities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3625

Dalhousie University

Rank: Simon and Riva Spatz Visiting Chair in Jewish Studies

The Simon and Riva Spatz Visiting Chair in Jewish Studies is intended to bring distinguished scholars from around the globe to share their expertise and perspectives with students and faculty at Dalhousie University and members of the broader Halifax community. The Chair maintains a focus on contemporary topics, but is otherwise broadly inclusive of scholars from a wide variety of arts, humanities, and social science backgrounds. We welcome applications from scholars engaged in teaching and research related to, among other interdisciplinary themes, multiculturalism and diversity, Jewish literatures and cultures, Jewish diasporic studies, holocaust studies, ethnicity and ethnic rivalry, memory and heritage, migration studies, comparative internationalism, contemporary Middle Eastern politics, international relations, and global studies.

The Simon and Riva Spatz Visiting Chair fund provides grants of $50,000 CAD per academic year (or $25,000 per term) to invite a professor to Dalhousie for teaching and research in the area of Jewish Studies for a one year, non-renewable term. Up to $10,000 of travel and research expenses will also be reimbursed for year-long visiting chairs (or $5000 per term).

Normally, the visiting chair joins the Dalhousie community for a full academic year, teaching one course and giving one public talk in each of the two terms.

Interested parties are asked to secure a letter of sponsorship from the Chair or Director of the academic unit with which they want to have their primary affiliation during their stay and to provide additional attachments as noted below.

See the detailed brochure here.

APPLICATION MATERIAL

- a cover letter
- a summary of research, teaching and outreach plans while at Dalhousie - five pages
- a letter of sponsor from a Dalhousie Department Chairperson or School Director within the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences
- three academic references - References should be from established scholars who are qualified to provide detailed comments on your research, scholarship and the merits of your project in relation to the mandate of the Simon and Riva Spatz Visiting Chair. Applicants are responsible for ensuring the letters reach the committee by the deadline.

Please send complete applications in hard copy or in PDF format to Dean's Office,

Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, Dalhousie University, Halifax, NS, B3H 4R2, or fass@dal.ca.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3627

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

ACADEMIC YEAR 2017-2018

Areas of Specialization: International Relations, Developing States

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. While the position would be tenured within the Political Science Department, the successful applicant will be expected to contribute three courses per year to the university's International Studies Program. The position entails teaching general survey courses in international relations and upper-level courses focused on the international relations of developing countries. The ability to teach international political economy and/or comparative politics in the applicant's region of specialization would also be an asset. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Matthew Hoddie, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until December 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/5/2017

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3623

University of Guam

Rank: Tenure Track IR

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The University of Guam, the premier institution of higher education in the Western Pacific, has a tenure track opening in its Political Science Program for an International Relations specialist with a focus on the Asia Pacific. The program has three faculty members representing the areas of American and regional politics, comparative politics and international relations. Courses in political philosophy and methods are shared among faculty.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach both lower and upper division undergraduate political science courses. He or she will (a) teach a normal load of twelve (12) contact hours (4 courses) per semester, with one course load reduction possible with the Dean's approval, for research, instructional innovation, or large service projects; (b) maintain a continuous record of scholarly activity and research relevant to the Asia/Pacific region; and (c) perform university and community service. Course assignments will include an introductory research methodology course including quantitative and qualitative methods and upper division courses in international relations. Possible additional course assignments include: introduction to government and politics, introduction to international relations, political philosophy, politics of Asia and special topics in political science.

Minimum qualifications: (a) Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations or Government from a U.S. regionally accredited institution or foreign equivalent (appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor requires Ph.D. by August 2018 but initial appointment as Instructor is possible, contingent upon completion of the doctorate by the end of the first year of employment); (b) research or relevant professional experience in Asia and/or the Pacific region; (c) teaching experience in some of the subject areas listed above; and (d) willingness to teach online.

Preferred: (a) familiarity with issues of Pacific island societies; (b) experience teaching academically and culturally diverse populations; and (c) a record of winning grants.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience relevant to the position. The following salary figures are for nine (9) months:

Instructor $34,169 - $57,892 Per Academic Year

Assistant Professor $39,473 - $68,237 Per Academic Year

Associate Professor $43,703 - $77,498 Per Academic Year

Applicants for University of Guam faculty positions must complete an online job application through the UOG's online employment portal at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com>. Please have the following documents prepared and ready to upload with your application:

- (1) Letter of Intent, stating interest
- (2) Up-to-date curriculum vitae or resume
- (3) Copies of all graduate and undergraduate transcripts

Applicants who are short-listed for an interview will be required to provide a short (approximately 5 minutes) video clip of their lecture or presentation. Also, applicants may be requested by the search chair to submit supplemental materials including syllabi. Completed applications must be received no later than 11:59 p.m. on January 8, 2018 (Chamorro Standard Time/UTC+10).

Before applying, applicants should consult the full job announcement at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com/postings/1111>. For further information, please contact Dr. Arun R. Swamy, Chair, Political Science Search Committee at arswamy@triton.uog.edu or the Human Resources Office at uoghro@triton.uog.edu, telephone number, (671) 735-2350 or fax number at (671) 734-6005.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3621

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications at the Assistant Professor (tenure-track) level in International Relations beginning August 16, 2018. A completed Ph.D. in political science is required for appointment. The successful candidate should have a strong research agenda with a clear plan for peer-reviewed scholarly publications. The position is open with regard to theoretical approach. We welcome applications from scholars using any combination of positivist, normative, critical, formal, or interpretive methods. Applications from candidates with an ability to teach international organizations, international political economy, human rights, and international law are especially welcome. In addition, we are interested in candidates who are prepared to contribute to teaching research methods. The candidate would also be expected to take an active role in the department's graduate program. The University of Alabama is a student-centered research university and the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system. B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees are offered in Political Science. To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41900> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, samples of publications and papers, and teaching evaluations, if available. Applicants should also upload a transcript of graduate work and send three letters of recommendation directly to: International Relations Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Alabama, Box 870213, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrick@ua.edu (please state position in email). For more information, contact Holger Albrecht, Search Committee Chair, at halbrecht@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on November 10, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3615

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Governance/International Policy Theory with an emphasis on human security governance and sub-specializations in critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area. (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in global governance theory/international policy theory. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in human security, critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching global governance, international policy, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170154, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Karen Hult (khult@vt.edu), chairs, Global Governance Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Major Williams Hall, Room 531 (0130), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3607

University of Southern Denmark

Rank: Assistant Professor in Social Science: War Studies (D-IAS)

The Danish Institute for Advanced Study (D-IAS) seeks outstanding candidates to fill a position as assistant professor at Faculty of Business and Social Sciences, Department of Political Science and Public Management.

This announcement is available on our website www.sdu.dk/vacancies

You can therefore not apply for the position based on this advertisement.

Application deadline 27 November 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3606

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Postcolonial Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Postcolonial Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science

College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Postcolonial Theory

and Global Governance/Globalization Theory with an emphasis on human security and sub-specializations in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in postcolonial theory and global governance/globalization theory with an emphasis on human security. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching postcolonial, global governance/globalization, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170155, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than 4 academic references. Screening of applications will begin January 5, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Timothy W. Luke (twluke@vt.edu), chairs, Postcolonial Theory Search Committee, ASPECT, Major Williams Hall, Room 202 (0192), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3608

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Africa, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is seeking to fill the position of

Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs.

This position is to be combined at the earliest possible date with a permanent University Professorship at Freie Universität Berlin.

Salary grade: W3

The successful applicant will cover the area of "Governance in Africa" in research and teaching in connection to the position as Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs. As IAA Director, the successful candidate is required to be based in Hamburg. The directorship (renewable 5-year terms) comes with a permanent researcher position at the GIGA. An appointment for a permanent professorship at Freie Universität Berlin is also planned. The appointee is thus expected to teach classes and collaborate with the Otto Suhr Institute of Political Science of Freie Universität Berlin. The teaching load will be reduced to one 2-hour course per semester.

Appointment requirements are governed by Article 100 of the Berlin Higher Education Act (Berliner Hochschulgesetz).

Key duties as the Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs (IAA) will include:

- provide academic leadership to the IAA (to be developed in conjunction with GIGA's Research Programmes as part of the Institute's matrix structure)
- manage the IAA (including duties as member of the GIGA Executive Board and other bodies, mentoring and pastoral responsibilities towards staff, and responsibility for quality assurance)

- interact closely with policy-makers (especially at the Federal Foreign Office) and provide policy advice
- represent the IAA in the media and to the broader public
- network in area-specific, disciplinary and other relevant professional associations

The position requires the following professional and personal attributes and skills:

- outstanding academic record with a clear fit to the GIGA's research agenda, demonstrated through publications in internationally recognised peer-reviewed journals and university presses, as well as successful third-party funding acquisitions
- well-established record of working on and with Sub-Saharan Africa, including language skills relevant to the region
- academic training and expertise in Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or Political Sociology
- research specialism in one or more of the following topics will be an advantage:
 - o Political regimes and social movements
 - o Conflict transformation and mediation
 - o Growth and sustainable development
 - o Role of domestic/international norms and ideas
- proven ability to engage in cross-regional, comparative, interdisciplinary, and multi-level analysis
- demonstrated record in management and excellent leadership skills
- strong commitment to impactful research, demonstrated through active policy engagement and knowledge transfer
- agenda-setting presence in established policy and academic networks will be an asset
 - excellent English language skills and (if applicable) willingness to learn German in due course
 - university teaching experience (preferably international).

The reconciliation of work and family life is of great importance to the Institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-17-22) including a private postal and an email address as well as relevant supporting documentation (cover letter outlining motivation and suitability for the position, CV, list of publications, evidence of teaching competence, list of courses taught, evidence of involvement in ongoing and future research endeavors, list of third-party funding acquired, copies of certificates of academic qualification) to:

Denise Sablinski, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies, Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: director-iaa@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 20 November 2017.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Julia Kramer (email: julia.kramer@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 42825-540).

Start Date: 2017

Application Deadline: 11/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/11/2017
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 3602

Clarkson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Humanities and Social Sciences Department at Clarkson University invites applicants to apply for the position of Assistant Professor. This position is an entry-level tenure track appointment in International Relations or Comparative Politics to begin August 2018. The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory level courses as well as courses in her/his area of expertise, which could include a regional focus. Applicants should bring a lively interest in contributing to the programmatic development of one or more of Clarkson's intra-school emphases in environmental sustainability and the health sciences, or to the university's goals of international and global outreach. The ordinary teaching load is three courses (usually two preparations) per semester, including each fall two sections of a first-year, writing-intensive course, focused on a theme of the applicant's choosing. There is ample opportunity for course development in electives.

The successful candidate will have evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching. PhD required by August 1, 2018. Minimum qualifications include PhD in political science with emphasis on International Relations or Comparative Politics. Some teaching experience and scholarly productivity.

Review of applications will begin December 17, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. To submit your application, go to www.clarkson.edu/hr and click "Career Opportunities" on the left hand navigation bar. An equal opportunity /affirmative action employer, Clarkson actively seeks and encourages applications from minorities, women and people with disabilities.

Prior to a final offer of employment, the selected candidate will be required to submit to a background check including, but not limited to, employment verification, educational and other credential verification, and criminal background check.

Clarkson University is a nationally recognized research university with signature areas of academic excellence and research directed toward the world's pressing issues. With more than 4,300 undergraduate and graduate students, its main campus is located in Potsdam, N.Y., and additional graduate program and research facilities are located in the Capital Region and Beacon, N.Y. One in five alumni already leads as an owner, CEO, VP or equivalent senior executive of a company.

Start Date: Fall
Date Posted: 10/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3594

Northeastern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Political Theory
Specializations: International Security, Civil Rights & Liberties, Science & Technology

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor College of Social Sciences & Humanities Northeastern University

Responsibilities

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, tenure/tenure-track, in the area(s) of cyber security, privacy, ethics, and resilience (all broadly defined), with an expected start date of Fall 2018. We welcome applications from scholars working in any combination of these areas and are especially interested in those that focus on key issues in cybersecurity and privacy as they relate to applied ethics, human behavior, economics, institutions and policy. Interdisciplinary expertise in computational methods, data science, social science and/or humanities is preferred. This is an interdisciplinary position and candidates will be considered for joint appointments across suitable colleges and departments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record and demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership and interdisciplinary collaboration.

The position will facilitate cross-college teaching, research and collaboration between the College of Social Sciences and Humanities and the College of Computer and Information Science. The position will also support the University's commitment to innovation in teaching and contribute to the Cybersecurity & Privacy Institute (<https://cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/>), the Global Resilience Institute (<https://globalresilience.northeastern.edu/>), and/or the Security & Resilience Studies program (<https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/polisci/security-resilience-studies/>). The candidate who fills this position will share the college's commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a PhD or its equivalent at the time of appointment.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

How to Apply

Applicants should submit a CV and letter of interest along with the names of three references. Candidates will be notified before their references are contacted. Full dossiers will be requested for first-round interviews.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Rory Smead at r.smead@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3599

San Francisco State University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor - China in a Globalizing World

San Francisco State University, International Relations Department invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in China in a Globalizing World beginning August 2018.

The department/school seeks individuals with a background in the international relations of China.

The International Relations Department is a multidisciplinary department focused on a range of thematic topics in our field as well as on all the major regions of the world.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science or other related disciplines.

Candidates should have a strong background in the international relations of China.

Candidates must demonstrate the ability to teach courses in the international relations of China and the Department's core courses. Preferred candidates should have experience teaching, or mentoring minorities, or other underrepresented groups.

Candidates must have an active record of research related to their specialty area.

Candidates must be able to demonstrate how they have or will incorporate inclusion, diversity, and educational equity in their courses and/or scholarship/creative works.

Candidates should have fluency in Mandarin suitable for research and teaching.

Responsibilities: The position requires graduate and undergraduate teaching in International Relations, mentoring and advising graduate and undergraduate students, developing an active ongoing research in one's area of specialty, and ongoing committee and service assignments. A detailed position description is available here (<http://internationalrelations.sfsu.edu/>).

Rank and salary: Assistant Professor. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience. The California State University (CSU) provides generous health, retirement and other benefits.

Application process: Submit letter of intent/interest, a current CV, sample of scholarly writing, statement of teaching philosophy, and names and contact information of three references. Letters of recommendation upon request at a later date.

Submit all materials online to ir@sfsu.edu. Review of applications will commence on 7 November 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

San Francisco State University is a member of the CSU system and serves a diverse student body of 30,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The University seeks to promote appreciation of scholarship, freedom and, human diversity through excellence in instruction and intellectual accomplishment. San Francisco State University faculty are expected to be effective teachers and demonstrate professional achievement and growth through research, scholarship, and/or creative work. Our goal is to attract a world-class and diverse faculty committed to build a multicultural educational environment.

San Francisco State University is an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer with a strong commitment to diversity. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other legally protected category. We strongly encourage the application of individuals from historically underrepresented groups.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any employment with the CSU.

SF State is a totally smoke-free campus

Contact Us: ir@sfsu.edu

PI99743323

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3595

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3589

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FULL-TIME CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSORS Liberal Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Philosophy & Theory, Gender Politics & Policy

FULL-TIME CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSORS
 Liberal Studies
 ARTS AND SCIENCE
 New York University

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for three full-time Clinical Assistant Professor positions to begin September 1, 2018, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Liberal Studies is an interdisciplinary unit, with a faculty from a broad range of disciplinary backgrounds. Liberal Studies offers the Bachelor of Arts in Global Liberal Studies, one of NYU's premier liberal arts degrees. LS includes an innovative, two-year global core curriculum, where students may also complete their degrees in any of NYU's liberal arts divisions.

We seek colleagues in the following areas who will, as needed, teach both advanced classes in the fields of specialization listed and courses in the global core:

Environmental Science

PhD in Environmental Science or related field; ability to teach courses on global environmental policy, the intersection of science and policy, and similar issues welcome.

Social and Political Philosophy or Political Theory

PhD in Philosophy, History, or Politics, with a focus on contemporary international political theory and/or global justice. Ability to teach our introductory survey courses in pre-modern periods (Social Foundations I and II) is desirable.

Feminist Ethics

PhD in philosophy, sociology, gender and/or women's studies, history, political theory, or religious studies. Broad global/chronological scope and ability to teach our introductory survey courses in pre-modern periods (Social Foundations I and II) is desirable.

Minimum qualifications: a Ph.D. or other appropriate terminal degree in hand by the date of appointment; three years of college-level teaching experience; and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Publications and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are strongly encouraged.

All Liberal Studies full-time faculty hold renewable term contracts, initially three years, and later potentially five years in duration. There is no limit to the number of times a contract may be renewed, contingent upon satisfactory performance. Faculty normally teach three classes per semester. Faculty also are expected to remain engaged in their fields of expertise, to advise undergraduates, and to contribute service to Liberal Studies and to the University. Faculty are eligible for promotion within the Clinical faculty ranks to Clinical Associate and Clinical Professor based on LS and University criteria that includes duration of appointment, teaching excellence, and professional development.

Applications consisting ONLY of a cover letter and a current c.v. should be submitted by midnight, November 12th, 2017, Eastern Standard Time (US). Applications submitted after this date will not be considered. Full instructions for submitting an application and additional information about these positions and about Liberal Studies may be found in an extended position description at:

<https://www.nyu.edu/projects/mediamosaic/1718LSJobs/>

Or you may apply directly through the following links:

Environmental Science - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45434>

Social and Political Philosophy or Political Theory - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45436>

Feminist Ethics - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45437>

Liberal Studies offers a global liberal arts curriculum at sites around the globe in the context of a leading research university. We seek scholar/educators of the highest caliber whose work reflects an interest in global diversity. Liberal Studies strongly encourages applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion, please read here: <http://as.nyu.edu/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/12/2017

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3582

Koç University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The College of Administrative Sciences and Economics at Koç University invites applications for a full-time Assistant Professor position in International Relations starting in September 2018. While candidates from all specializations of International Relations will be considered, candidates with a focus on International Law and Organizations and International Political Economy are especially encouraged to apply. The successful applicant will have an active research agenda and potential to supervise Ph.D. students. Candidates need to send a letter of application explaining their research and teaching experience, an updated curriculum vitae, up to three sample publications/working papers, teaching portfolio (including sample syllabus and teaching evaluations with a key), and three letters of reference. Koç University is a private, non-profit Turkish institution of higher education located just north of Istanbul. Koç University is committed to pursuit of excellence in both research and teaching. The medium of instruction is English. Students typically rank in the top percentile of all high school graduates in Turkey. Normal teaching load consists of two courses per semester or six contact hours a week. Salary and benefits are competitive. To ensure consideration, all materials should be received by December 15, 2017. Successful candidates will be expected to have completed the Ph.D. prior to the position start date.

All material must be sent electronically to Office of the Dean (c/o Mrs. Vildan Ertugrul), College of Administrative Sciences and Economics, Koç University, Rumelifeneri Yolu, Sariyer 34450, Istanbul, TURKEY Fax: 90-212-338-1651 (or-1653) Email questions to Ms. Vildan Ertugrul (vertugrul@ku.edu.tr).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3572

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations(MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: International Affairs Fellowship Programs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Foreign Policy

The Council on Foreign Relations' (CFR) is seeking applicants for the 2018-2019 fellowship programs. Each fellowship offers unique opportunities for mid-career scholars and practitioners who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy. Fellows are recruited year-round and come from a wide variety of fields, such as academia, business, government, media, NGOs, and think tanks. The duration of each fellowship is generally twelve months, and the program offers a competitive stipend. CFR is seeking applicants for the following 2018-2019 programs:

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP

The International Affairs Fellowship aims to bridge the gap between the study and making of U.S. foreign policy by creating the next generation of scholar-practitioners. The program offers its fellows the unique chance to experience a new field and gain a different perspective at a pivotal moment in their careers. Academics are thus placed in public service and policy-oriented settings, while government officials are placed in scholarly settings. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens, be mid-career professionals, possess a strong record of professional achievement, and have a firm grounding in the field of foreign policy. The program awards a stipend of $100,000. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in March.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP FOR TENURED INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS SCHOLARS

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars, sponsored by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, offers tenured professors of U.S. foreign policy and international relations direct experience in the foreign policymaking field through placement in a U.S. government agency or international organization for a period of twelve months. The program will match 50% of the fellow's base salary for the academic year at their university (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year). The fellowship is open to tenured professors who hold a PhD, have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university, propose to work on peace and security issues, and have never worked at a U.S. government agency or an international organization. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN CANADA

The International Affairs Fellowship in Canada, sponsored by the Power Corporation of Canada, seeks to strengthen mutual understanding and cooperation between rising generations of leaders and thinkers in the United States and Canada. Fellows are drawn from academia, business, government, media, NGOs, and think tanks. CFR will work with its network of contacts to assist the fellows in finding suitable host organizations in Canada. The fellowship is only open to mid-career professionals who have demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Canada relations. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens and have a strong record of professional achievement. The program awards a stipend of $95,000 for a period of twelve months as well as a modest travel allowance. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN JAPAN

The International Affairs Fellowship in Japan, sponsored by Hitachi, Ltd., provides a selected group of mid-career U.S. citizens the opportunity to expand their professional horizons by spending a period of research or other professional activity in Japan. The IAF in Japan is only open to mid-career professionals who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Japan relations. The program is intended primarily for those without substantial prior experience in Japan, and knowledge of the Japanese language is not a requirement. Qualified candidates must be U.S. citizens. The duration of the fellowship is between three and twelve months. The program awards a stipend in yen, which covers travel and living expenses in Japan. CFR awards approximately three to five fellowships annually. The online application deadline is October 31, 2017.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS

The International Affairs Fellowship in International Economics, sponsored by Kimberly Querrey, provides the next generation of economic scholars and business economist hands-on experience in the policymaking field. Through the program, fellows expand their range of thinking and apply their work to international economic policy. Possible host placements for the fellowship include but are not limited to the U.S. Department of the Treasury, U.S. Department of Commerce, and relevant parts of the U.S. Department of State and the White House. A stipend in the range of $150,000 to $175,000 is awarded along with relocation assistance. The fellowship is only open to mid-career business economists and university-based economics scholars who have demonstrated commitment to a career in international economics or a related field. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens and hold a PhD in economics or a closely related discipline. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

STANTON NUCLEAR SECURITY FELLOWSHIP

The Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship Program, made possible by a generous grant from the Stanton Foundation, offers young scholars studying nuclear security issues the opportunity to spend a period of twelve months at CFR offices in New York or Washington, DC, conducting policy-relevant research. Qualified candidates must be postdoctoral fellows or junior faculty in a tenure-track position at a recognized university. Junior faculty at law schools or with a law degree as their terminal degree are also eligible. The program awards a stipend of $110,000 for junior faculty and $80,000 for postdoctoral fellows. The application deadline is December 15, 2017.

For more information, please contact fellowships@cfcr.org or 212.434.9740.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3568

George Washington University

Rank: Associate Professor of International Affairs-Director, Security Policy Studies MA Program

The George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-accruing, contract faculty position as the Director of the Security Policy Studies Program. This appointment will be for an initial term of three years, and may be renewed thereafter on a term basis. This position is expected to begin as early as Fall 2018. Salary and academic rank will be based on qualifications and experience. This position will be based in the Elliott School's Security Policy Studies Program and affiliated with the Elliott School's Institute for Security and Conflict Studies.

Specific Duties and Responsibilities: The appointed faculty member will direct a two-year M.A. degree program in security policy studies and advise students in related academic fields in other graduate programs. The director will also oversee curriculum development, organization, and evaluation; and develop research and conferencing activities. The director will also be expected to teach graduate level courses on national security issues, and conduct research and publish in scholarly or policy-related venues on international affairs.

Minimum Qualifications: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in a relevant field at time of application; previous experience leading and managing academic programs; previous teaching at the Master's level; specialized expertise in security policy; and a track record of research and scholarship, reflected in scholarly or policy-oriented publications.

Application Procedure: Please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/46111> upload a cover letter that explains how your qualifications and experiences satisfy the basic qualifications for this position, a CV, sample publication (if available), teaching evaluations or assessments (if available), course syllabi (in Other Documents Section, if available), and provide names and contact information for three references. Review of applications will begin November 3, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Only completed applications will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3557

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Rowan University
Glassboro, NJ

Assistant Professor or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Rowan University is a public comprehensive state and Carnegie designated research institution with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford.

The University comprises seven colleges and five schools: the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

The Department of Political Science and Economics is housed in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The College supports students to earn degrees that provide a high quality liberal arts education (problem-solving aptitude, strong oral communications, asking good questions; respect others point of view), which at the same time prepare them for diverse career paths and future. The College's graduate programs also provide students with essential skills for continuing study through doctoral programs and for lifelong learning, including critical thinking, effective communication, and an understanding of the complexity of contemporary society in the context of diverse traditions and paradigms.

The Department of Political Science and Economics has an opening for one tenure-track Assistant Professor or a junior Associate Professor in either Economics or Political Science with a specialization in Political Economy beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development, etc.).

The department offers two bachelor degree programs in both economics and political science. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually after the 6th year and attaining tenure with evidence of continuing scholarship. This is an interdisciplinary position where the faculty will teach 2 classes in one discipline and 1 class in the other discipline. The successful candidate will also teach calculus-based Intermediate Microeconomics to economics majors.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline must be completed by July 31, 2018.

Evidence of excellence in undergraduate teaching is required. Applicants should demonstrate strong research abilities and the potential to secure external funding for research.

To assure full consideration, completed applications must be submitted electronically by November 10th, 2017.

We will conduct interviews at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) meetings Jan 5-7, 2018 in Philadelphia, Pa.

For full consideration, applications should include the items, assembled in the following order in a single PDF file: 1) a cover letter summarizing qualifications and interest in the position, 2) current CV, 3) statement of teaching interests (specifically including the list of courses taught and teaching philosophy), 4) a statement of research interests 5) and Contact information for three references. Please name the file as <LastName>_Application.pdf.

Do not forward reference letters at this time.

Additional required documentation include 1) unofficial transcripts, 2) student evaluations, and 3) research paper/publications. These should be submitted as a separate file, named <LastName>_Appendix.pdf.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically through Rowan University's employment website <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492317/assistant-professor-political-economy>

Rowan University, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the Department of Political Science and Economics are committed to diversity and inclusion.

All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Questions should be e-mailed to Natalie Reaves, reaves@rowan.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3548

Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey

Rank: Professor in Terrorism Studies

Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey

Professor in Terrorism Studies

Position Information

Posting Number: F00067

Full-time/Part-time: Full-time

Benefits Eligible?: Yes

Hourly/Salaried: Salaried

Band/Level: 1B

Department: GSIPM

Location: MIIS at Monterey Main Campus

Hire contingent upon successful completion of the following post-offer screening: Criminal Background check

Position Summary:

The Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey (MIIS) seeks to hire a full-time faculty member in the field of terrorism studies. The appointment will be in the Institute's MA program in Nonproliferation and Terrorism Studies (MANPTS) in the Graduate School of International Policy and Management (GSIPM). The position is open with respect to rank (assistant, associate, or full professor); for an individual with appropriate professional experience an appointment as a professor of practice is also possible. Ability to teach one or more of our required core classes, such as introduction to terrorism, global politics, or research methods, would be a plus. Expertise in a relevant region or area in world politics, ideally complemented by appropriate language capabilities, is also welcomed. For an appropriately qualified candidate, the position may also come with an option to run our terrorism research center, MonTREP (the Monterey Terrorism Research and Education Program). An interest in serving as the director of MonTREP is not however a requirement to be considered for the faculty position. MIIS has a non-tenure, contract-based system. The initial appointment is for three years. Renewal after three years is based on performance in the areas of teaching, research, and service. Faculty work on a nine-month contract, and the standard teaching load at MIIS is 3/2. This position will report to the MANPTS Program Chair and the GSIPM Dean.

Responsibilities

General Responsibilities:

- Teaching courses on terrorism and related subjects in the MANPTS program;
- Maintaining an active research agenda on topics related to terrorism and counterterrorism;
- Assisting the NPTS Program Chair and GSIPM Assistant Dean in ensuring the continued growth and success of the MANPTS Program.

Qualifications

Education:

A Ph.D. in Political Science, History, or another relevant field, with a research specialization relevant to terrorism studies, or extensive professional experience dealing with terrorism.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities:

- Expertise on topics relevant to understanding terrorism and how to respond to it;
- Ability to develop and direct research projects;
- Ability to teach courses in Terrorism Studies and related subjects;
- Collegiality and ability to work with others in an academic environment.

Experience:

- A proven track record of publishing research, including in refereed academic outlets, will be a plus.
- A proven track record raising and managing funds for research will be a plus.

Posting Information

Open Until Filled: Yes

Special Instructions to Applicants:

The priority application deadline is Nov. 15, 2017, but the position will remain open until filled.

Please submit the following documents with your application:- cover letter explaining qualifications for the position – c.v./resume – one writing sample – a sample syllabus if available – list of at least three references with contact info

Applicant Document

Required Documents

- Cover Letter
- Resume/C VOptional Documents
- Syllabi Samples
- Additional Document 1
- Additional Document 2

For full application instructions and position description, visit <http://apptrkr.com/1092468>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3550

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia 2018-19

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2018–2019 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2018–19 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral by July 31, 2018) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate of $52,000 plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2018–19 academic year.

Applications must be received by December 20, 2017.

For additional information and to apply, visit: <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3528

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) Official transcripts
- (3) A curriculum vita
- (4) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (5) A writing sample
- (6) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3537

New York University Shanghai

Rank: TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Social Welfare, Energy Policy

TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES
NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Environmental Studies. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in geography, sociology, anthropology, political science, or a related social science field, and whose work demonstrates a capacity for excellence in interdisciplinary environmental research and high-quality classroom instruction. We are especially but not exclusively interested in scholars whose research adopts a global perspective on disasters, urban ecology, or energy and climate change.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching, and electronic copies of up to five relevant publications. To complete the online process, junior applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted and asked to upload their reference letter. In the case of senior applicants, reference letters will be requested at a later stage as needed.

Review of applications will begin October 16th and will continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. To apply, follow this link <http://apply.interfolio.com/45330>. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher-education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, NYU Shanghai resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of innovative research and transformative teaching, and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common educational interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3524

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor: Global Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professor in Global Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The successful applicant is expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in international relations or comparative politics as well as research methods. We are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship with excellence in teaching and undergraduate and graduate student mentoring and whose scholarly focus is in comparative and/or international political economy, transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and peace building.

A Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between international relations and comparative politics. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504731/assistant-professor-global-politics>

All applications must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. Up to three reprints or pre-prints, and
7. The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3522

College of Saint Benedict / Saint John's University Rank: Tenure Track - Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department of the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University invites applications for a full-time tenure track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in August 2018. A completed Ph.D. in political science is preferred; ABD will be considered. Teaching assignments will typically include three courses per semester. The department seeks a broadly trained political scientist who can teach the following courses:

- Comparative Politics (POLS 223): A sophomore level course that combines teaching introductory comparative politics with an introduction to comparative methods. Students review scholarly literature, form hypotheses in response to political questions, use a variety of methods and tools to gather evidence, and identify criteria for evaluating the quality of evidence. One of the learning goals of this course is to develop library and information literacy skills.

- Upper division courses in the candidate's area of interest. Courses in a wide variety of regional or substantive areas in comparative politics will be considered.

- Introduction to International Relations (POLS 121): Required introductory course to the political science major that provides a brief background of global history, overview of major international relations theories, and guides students through primary actors in global politics through analysis of contemporary questions.

- First Year Seminar: FYS is a required full-year course for all first year students. It is designed to help students improve their ability to read carefully and think critically about what they read, to write in a variety of academic formats, improve their information literacy, and to develop discussion skills necessary for successful college course work.

The ability to work with interdisciplinary programs such as Latino-Latin American Studies, Asian Studies, or Gender Studies is regarded as an asset. Successful teaching will foster a commitment to diversity as a learning outcome, because it provides students with the skills of intercultural competence and civic responsibility within our increasingly diverse student body.

Saint John's University, a liberal arts college for men, and the College of Saint Benedict, a liberal arts college for women, are located five miles apart in Central Minnesota just outside metropolitan St. Cloud and 70 miles from Minneapolis. Both are Catholic colleges in the Benedictine tradition, which emphasize quality teaching and a commitment to intercultural learning. For further information, see <http://www.csbsju.edu>

Additional Information:

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applications are accepted online at <http://employment.csbsju.edu>

Applicants must complete an application and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, *three letters of recommendation and unofficial transcripts (official transcript required for on campus interviews.)

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION: You will be asked to list a minimum of 3 reference names and contact information. If you use a placement service, you will need to contact them to request the email address to list. The system will send an email to your letter writer or placement service requesting a letter of recommendation for you.

Review of applications will begin October 23rd and continue until the position is filled.

If you require special accommodations to participate in the College of Saint Benedict/Saint John's University hiring process, please contact us at (320) 363-5282 or employment@csbsju.edu.

It is the policy of CSB and SJU to conduct pre-employment background checks.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3503

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3501

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:
 For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/5/2018
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3509

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3493

American University of Sharjah

Rank: Faculty position in Political Science

The Department of International Studies at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates seeks to hire a full-time faculty member in political science with a focus in international relations. Specialization is open, but candidates with an interest in international conflicts and international law are especially encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach introductory classes in international relations, as well as a range of upper-level courses in their field.

Successful candidates will have a Ph.D. in political science, a record of excellent teaching, an active research agenda, and the willingness to contribute to the development of the department.

As a university formed on the American model and with English as the language of instruction, the American University of Sharjah will give priority to candidates who have substantial experience in American models of higher education.

Application materials must include: a letter of application, curriculum vitae, names and contact information of three references, a writing/publication sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please submit applications via <https://tinyurl.com/ydf5exp7>

Applications must be received by 19 November 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3490

Catholic University of Chile

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations

The Institute of Political Science (ICP) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for an open rank position in International Relations. The University strongly values diversity and we encourage members of all nationalities and backgrounds to apply. The ICP is among the highest ranked political science departments in Latin America. Comprised of a highly international group of scholars, it is a hub of theoretical, empirical and applied research in the region. The ICP offers undergraduate, M.A. and Ph.D. programs. It admits the most talented Chilean students to its undergraduate and graduate programs, and hosts a large number of exchange students and a steady stream of visiting professors from all over the world. Santiago is a vibrant metropolitan area and a short drive from Chile's renowned pacific coast and spectacular Andean mountain range. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to high quality research, publication and teaching. Teaching obligations are limited to three courses per year. Fluency in Spanish is valued, but candidates who express the willingness to perfect basic proficiency are encouraged to apply.

Salary is competitive and complemented by research grants, travel stipends, and support for international exchanges. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs are welcome to apply as long as they obtain their degree by the position's starting date.

Applications should include a personal letter, curriculum vitae and a writing sample (journal article, book or dissertation chapter) that provides evidence of research performance. Applicants should also include teaching evaluations and course syllabi to assess teaching potential, graduate transcripts, an official copy of their B.A., M.A. and Ph. D. degrees, and three letters of recommendation.

Please direct informal inquiries or application packages (in either English or Spanish) via e-mail to Umut Aydin (searchicp@uc.cl), Chair of the Search Committee, until November 1st, 2017. The position's starting date is March 1st, 2018.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3481

Fordham University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Politics

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning August 2018. The position is located at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates who possess research and teaching expertise in the areas of international security, U.S. foreign policy, and international diplomacy. Alternatively, the candidate may specialize in international organizations, law, and cooperation. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science and the Master's Program in International Political Economy and Development. Additional expertise in a particular region of the world, including East or South Asia, Africa, or Europe would be welcome. We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated and methodologically rigorous.

We invite candidates with an ability to make a positive contribution to the department's climate fostering inclusiveness and diversity. We believe that cultural and intellectual pluralism is essential to the excellence of our academic programs, and we strive to foster an academic culture and campus community that attracts and supports the development of a diverse faculty reflecting the global environment in which we live and work. As our student body grows increasingly diverse, experience and commitment to teaching and mentoring students from a range of economic, social, and cultural backgrounds is preferred and welcomed.

Review of applications will begin on October 25. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor José Alemán, Committee Chair, via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/45328>: cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3483

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Foreign Policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Foreign Policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy)

Loyola University Chicago, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2018. The department seeks applicants in foreign policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy. The successful applicant will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as graduate courses in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The applicant will be expected to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses on the formulation and implementation of U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy, as well as an introductory International Relations class.

Qualifications: The successful applicant is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Applicants for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Applicants should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three letters of recommendation from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

Peter M. Sanchez, Professor and Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity - including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment - is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically assessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativeed.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3480

University of California Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Studies

Specializations: Economic Policy, History & Politics, International Law & Organizations

The International Studies Program at the University of California, Irvine invites applications from outstanding scholars involved in critical interdisciplinary global research with substantive foci in political, sociocultural, historical, legal, geographical and economic issues to apply for a tenure-track assistant professor position. All candidates with a research agenda that engages complex global issues and cuts across foci in creative ways will be considered. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should address explicitly how critical and global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The International Studies Program is planning to become a full department with a unique doctoral program. The candidate will be involved in building an innovative, interdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, research, and pressing regional and transnational issues.

Applicants should submit a cover letter highlighting qualifications, evidence of teaching excellence, statement of teaching, curriculum vitae, up to three publications and ensure three letters of reference are submitted by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials. Applicants must apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04275>.

These materials should be directed to Professor Eve Darian-Smith, Director, International Studies, University of California, Irvine CA 92697-5100.

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the post is filled.

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy. A recipient of an NSF ADVANCE Award for gender equity, UCI is responsive to the needs of dual career couples, supports work-life balance through an array of family-friendly policies, and is dedicated to broadening participation in higher education.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3486

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight appointees for the 2018-2019 academic year Postdoctoral Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3901>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at pтрinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3469

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more candidates for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3922>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3471

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Program Visiting Fellow

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2018-2019 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3921>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3468

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3923>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at pтрinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3470

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of International Relations at Lehigh University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy (IPE) starting in August 2018. We are open to IPE scholars with varying specializations, methodological orientations, and regional foci, but would look with particular favor on a candidate with expertise on developing countries. Applicants must have a strong commitment to excellence in research and undergraduate teaching. Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, CV, and the names of three references to Henri J. Barkey, search committee chair, online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9886>. Candidates should also submit writing samples and/or publications. Only submissions via Academic Jobs Online will be considered. Evaluation of applications will begin on November 1 and continue until the post is filled.

Lehigh University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and particularly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. The College of Arts and Sciences is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity the academic community. The University offers excellent benefits, including domestic partner benefits. For details, please refer to <http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/faculty/worklifebalance.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3463

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (MENA / Human Rights)

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science, effective August, 2018. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the Department and University. The successful candidate will have broad theoretical and methodological training in political science with a teaching and research emphasis in the Middle East and North Africa. Preference will be given to candidates whose research focuses on human rights. The ability to teach a course in international development is also desirable. In addition to upper-level courses in their area of specialization, teaching responsibilities will include an introductory course in comparative and international politics. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank and ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University is composed of 13 dedicated faculty members whose research represents the core areas of the discipline including American politics, comparative politics and international relations, and political theory. Our 300 majors have produced research that has been nationally recognized, and many attend prestigious law and graduate schools and go on to successful careers in law, higher education, as well as local, state, and federal government. The Department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, as well as three minors in Political Science, Human Rights and Conflict Resolution, and U.S. National Security Studies. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit <http://cnu.edu/academics/departments/politicalscience/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2017 freshman class of 1,290 students was selected from over 7,000 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1210, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please provide a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (copies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 22, 2017. Applications received after October 22, 2017, will be accepted but considered only if needed. Please visit <http://cnu.edu/hr/employment/>.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully Committed to Access and Opportunity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/22/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3446

Troy University

Rank: Adjunct Professor

Adjunct faculty members are employed to provide specific courses on an as-needed basis. Contracts for adjunct faculty members are issued on a semester/term basis. Adjunct Instructors hold the responsibility for the courses taught. Adjunct Instructors are expected to be available for a reasonable amount of time for each course taught to counsel students regarding course work.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3449

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpogzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Development

Tulane University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor to contribute to our new concentration in International Development. We seek candidates from comparative politics, international relations, or public policy with a research focus on developing areas. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. Expected teaching load is 2-2. The appointment begins July 1, 2018 and candidates should have the PhD in hand by that date. Applications received by October 30, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation online in interfolio. Queries may be addressed to Professor Mary Clark (maclark@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Apply online in interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/44986

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3392

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Development

Tulane University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor to contribute to our new concentration in International Development. We seek candidates from comparative politics, international relations, or public policy with a research focus on developing areas. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. Expected teaching load is 2-2. The appointment begins July 1, 2018 and candidates should have the PhD in hand by that date. Applications received by October 30, 2017, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation online in interfolio. Queries may be addressed to Professor Mary Clark (maclark@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Apply online in interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/44986

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3393

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

Specializations: Middle East, Religion & Politics, Foreign Policy

Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Alabama announces a call for applications for the newly established Richard Leon Chambers Endowed Professorship in Middle Eastern Culture and Islamic Religious Studies. The position will begin August 2018. The successful applicant may work in any post-7th century timeframe and focus geographically on one or more settings in the Middle East, including sites of the Ottoman Empire and Turkish civilization. We seek to bring to campus a scholar of Middle Eastern history and culture who can prepare students to better understand current international affairs and who is also able to exercise leadership in future academic programs and research collaborations.

Applicants should demonstrate exemplary methodological, language, and /or ethnographic skills and should be gifted faculty members whose accomplishments, in both teaching and research, indicate great potential; the successful candidate, who will be appointed at the tenured rank of either Associate Professor or Professor, will join a Department of relevance to their expertise and may also hold a cross-appointment within the College. We welcome applications from mid-career and senior scholars working in such fields as Anthropology, History, Middle Eastern Studies, Political Science, Religious Studies, or other disciplines represented in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Review of applications will begin on October 15. Applicants are required to apply online at <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41763> submitting a cover letter, C.V., and writing sample. Three letters of recommendation should be sent to the Chair of the Search Committee, either in hard copy or by email. A group of semi-finalists will meet with the committee via a brief online session prior to the College identifying finalists to be brought to campus for interviews.

For information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee:

Prof. Russell T. McCutcheon
Chair, Department of Religious Studies
University of Alabama
212 Manly Hall
Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0264

russell.mccutcheon@ua.edu

The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3418

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor or Provost Fellow

The Political Science Department at the University of Chicago seeks applications from scholars engaging issues of colonialism, empire, and their contemporary legacies around the world. We especially welcome applications from scholars of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Comparative Racial Politics. Themes of particular interest include: the legacies of slavery; the politics of indentured servitude; the practices of colonial and/or imperial rule; forced migration; genocidal violence; interstate relations involving former colonies; and economic (inter)dependence in the global south. One goal of the search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Department, and we therefore strongly encourage applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

Successful candidates will be appointed either as an Assistant Professor or as a Provost Fellow with an initial two-year faculty appointment at the rank of Instructor. This initial period is intended to serve in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period, during which Provost Fellows will teach one class per year. At the end of their initial term, Provost Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2018. Review of applications will begin

September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website <http://tinyurl.com/yc5dkzk7>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 6) three letters of reference.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3402

Texas Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Texas Tech University, the department of political science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning in Fall 2018. We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations. Although applicants from all International Relations subfield are encouraged to apply, we are especially interested in candidates who conduct research and teach in the areas of international organizations, institutions and cooperation, broadly defined.

Applicants must show evidence and/or promise of excellence in teaching and an active research agenda. Candidates with strong quantitative and formal methods training, and an ability to teach graduate methods courses, are preferred.

Candidates who have very strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding and who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the time of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 11477BR. For full consideration, all application materials must be received by October 15, 2017. Questions about the position should be directed to Tim Nokken, Chair, Department of political science, timothy.nokken@ttu.edu.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3396

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT GREENSBORO: Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations beginning in August 2018. Candidates should have a Ph.D. by time of appointment. Applicants should have teaching experience and an active research agenda. Specialization is open. Experience teaching international law and willingness to supervise a Model UN program are advantageous. The department has fifteen full-time faculty members and has strong B.A. and M.P.A. programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool. UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate student body consisting of approximately 28% African Americans and 8% Hispanic or Latino Americans. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools. We are an EOE/Affirmative action/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should submit all materials electronically (to apply, visit <https://jobsearch.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" and apply to position #1633), including a cover letter, a CV, a description of their research program, up to three representative writing samples, sample syllabi, and a statement of teaching interests. Applicants are asked to provide the names and email addresses of at least three (3) references in the References section of the electronic application. These references will be solicited by the UNCG jobsearch system via email, and asked to provide a confidential letter of reference/recommendation on behalf of the applicant. This will occur as soon as the applicant successfully submits the application and receives a confirmation number from the UNCG jobsearch system.

Inquiries can be sent to Professor Fabrice Lehoucq (f_lehoucq@uncg.edu). The program webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3381

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in international relations. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3362

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years,

HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2018. Preference will be given to applicants with a specialization in international political economy. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Please visit our online application site at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65159

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3358

Columbia UniversityRank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2018. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Please visit our online application site at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65160

Start Date: Summer 2018Date Posted: 9/7/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3359SUNY, College at Oneonta*Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/7/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3351California State University Dominguez Hills*Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relationswww.csudh.edu

Assistant Professor of International Relations
College of Natural & Behavioral Sciences

Position Description

The faculty of the Department of Political Science at California State University Dominguez Hills invites applications from individuals for a tenure track, Assistant Professor position in International Relations, effective Fall 2018.

Department of Political Science

The Political Science Department is located in the College of Natural and Behavioral Sciences. The current faculty is comprised of four tenured and tenure-track faculty joined by 9 to 11 part-time faculty each term. Political Science provides excellent opportunities for the study of government and politics. Over 40 courses cover all the major aspects of the discipline. Students develop an understanding of human behavior as it relates to politics. They learn to discuss and analyze critically current public policy issues facing the United States and the world. They are taught how to critically observe and understand world affairs and comparative politics. They are trained in appropriate research techniques for the study of political processes. The General Political Science Concentration is a relatively "open" one, allowing students to choose from a wide range of courses and subjects within a general framework. It is designed for students seeking broad exposure to the diverse subjects of the discipline and is recommended for most students.

The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise (comprised of a major research paper) in one of the elective courses. The department offers internship opportunities at the national, California government and local government levels. The Department sponsors an active student organization (APSS, the Association of Political Science Students) and successful Model United Nations (MUN) and Mock Trial program for students.

For more information see: <http://www4.csudh.edu/political-science/index>

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Responsibilities

The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching, performing service on departmental and university-wide bases, publishing research in peer-reviewed academic journals relevant to the discipline of political science/the subfield of International Relations, maintaining office hours, and providing advising for our majors and minors, help direct a successful, team-run Model U.N. program, and participate with colleagues in curricular development.

The Position

Faculty members teach four classes or their equivalent each semester (although new faculty receive reduced teaching assignments); maintain an active research program; mentor and advise students; and serve on departmental and university committees. The appointment will be effective for the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year, beginning in August 2018. The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise under the supervision of one of the tenured or tenure track members of the faculty.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate will have a promising record of effective teaching, scholarly research and service, will be innovative in his or her thinking in a department strongly committed to academic excellence, community outreach and the development of partnerships with local and federal government institutions and businesses to enhance the learning experience of political science students and to help prepare them for success in the job market, legal careers or graduate school.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or ABD in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution of higher education
- Research experience
- Teaching experience or training in teaching techniques.
- Expertise in Quantitative Methodology
- Teaching and research interest in International Relations
- A strong interest in developing new courses to reflect the changing nature of the international system and developments in the discipline of Political Science.
- Experience and/or ability in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Secondary interest in area studies
- Ability and willingness to teach, and perform research utilizing, Quantitative Methodology
- An interest in student-involved research

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

CSU Dominguez Hills

On April 29, 1960, Gov. Pat Brown signed a bill into law authorizing the formation of a state college to serve the growing southwestern region of Los Angeles County. From its humble beginnings in a bank building in Rolling Hills Estates, CSU Dominguez Hills has evolved into a thriving and nationally recognized comprehensive university, providing an innovative liberal arts education to a diverse student body.

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Vision

A vital educational and economic resource for the South Bay, CSU Dominguez Hills will be recognized as a top-performing Comprehensive Model Urban University in America. We will be known as a campus community and gathering place where:

- Diversity in all its forms is explored, understood, and transformed into knowledge and practice that benefits the world.
- Technology is embraced and leveraged to transcend educational boundaries as we reach out to students, both locally and globally.
- Sustainable environmental, social and economic practices are a way of life.
- Students from our community who aspire to complete a college degree are provided the pathway and guidance to succeed.
- Faculty and staff across the University are engaged in serving the dynamic needs of the surrounding communities.
- Student life is meaningful and vibrant.
- Our accomplishments and those of our alumni are recognized nationally and internationally.
- Ultimately, our students graduate with an exemplary academic education, a highly respected degree, and a genuine commitment to justice and social responsibility.

About the University

CSU Dominguez Hills holds the Carnegie classification of Master's L and is a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. Class sizes are small as compared with large research universities and classes are taught by the faculty, not by teaching assistants. Many of the university's students are the first in their families to earn a university degree. While the university enrolls traditional full-time students, many students enroll part-time and attend late afternoon, evening and weekend classes because of work and family responsibilities.

CSU Dominguez Hills offers 45 baccalaureate degrees, 24 master's degrees, and a number of certificate and credential programs. Enrollment exceeds 14,635 students, and the student population is among the most ethnically and culturally rich in the nation: 60% Hispanic/Latino, 14.5% Black/ African-American, 10.9% White, 10.8% Asian, .10% American Indian/ Alaska Native, .30% Native Hawaiian/ Other Pacific Islander, 3.10% Two or more races.

The University is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), the accrediting body for institutions of higher learning in the West. Twelve programs hold accreditations from national professional associations: business administration, clinical sciences, computer science, education, health science, music, nursing, occupational therapy, public administration, special education, theatre arts, and social work.

The academic programs of the university are organized under the Colleges of Arts and Humanities, Business Administration and Public Policy, Extended and International Education, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Health and Human Services, and Nursing.

While continuing to emphasize the liberal arts and sciences, professional programs offered at the undergraduate and graduate level, developed to serve the region's workforce needs, are of great interest to students and prepare them for professions in a variety of industries.

Known for excellence in teacher education, nursing, psychology, business administration, and digital media arts, new degree programs include computer science, criminal justice, recreation and leisure studies, social work, and communication disorders. CSU Dominguez Hills is a national leader in distance learning with 10 academic degrees and seven certificate programs offered.

Faculty

A tradition of teaching excellence lies at the heart of the university experience for Dominguez Hills' students. Most of the faculty have earned doctoral degrees from prestigious universities across the nation. The faculty strives to sustain a dynamic teaching and learning environment in a multicultural setting. The Academic Senate provides a forum for faculty, administration, students and others to be represented and consulted regarding such vital issues as budget priorities, academic standards, curriculum and instruction, and student affairs.

Student Life

At CSU Dominguez Hills, there's more to student life than the classroom. The university offers a dynamic, interactive and enriching community of learners, teachers and peers sharing diverse points of view. There are multitudes of ways for students to pursue interests, get involved, and get the most from their academic experience.

An office of student life enhances student development by coordinating a variety of co-curricular activities, including 60 student organizations. Students are encouraged to perform community service and participate in leadership development. The Multicultural Center on campus promotes the exploration of diverse heritages, values and cultural experiences by offering a wide range of activities and programs throughout the academic year.

CSU Dominguez Hills is a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II institution that competes in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). CSU Dominguez Hills is one of the most athletically competitive and honored schools in the CCAA, with 23 conference titles and four national championships to date, including the 2008 NCAA D-II Men's Soccer National Championship. CSU Dominguez Hills sponsors 11 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The Location

The university is located in Carson, California, in the South Bay region of Los Angeles County. Its 346-acre park-like campus is situated in the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. The site remained in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family for seven generations - from its inception in 1794 to its acquisition by the state of California.

The Region

The South Bay is one of the most culturally, economically, and ethnically diverse areas in the United States, with a largely even distribution of the population with African, Asian/Pacific Islander, European, and Latino ancestry. The university is located in the city of Carson, a city of 93,000 residents and one of the many municipalities that border the city of Los Angeles. Cultural, performance and sports venues in downtown Los Angeles are about 15 minutes away and the South Bay beach communities are a few minutes away to the west and south. The StubHub, a 125-acre sports center developed by AEG and home to Major League Soccer's L.A. Galaxy and Chivas USA, is located on the CSUDH campus.

The campus is strategically located in the heart of a major technological, industrial and transportation complex in Southern California. This area includes the massive Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles - Southern California's gateway to international commerce. The South Bay region is also home to aerospace, oil refinery, healthcare and automotive industries.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by October 15, 2017.

- Current Curricula Vitae
- Cover letter
- Three Letters of Recommendation
- Copy of Terminal Degree
- A Statement on Teaching
- A Statement on Research
- Sample Publications (if available)
- Teaching Evaluations (if available)

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee when to submit official transcripts directly to the email address of srusso@csudh.edu or you may mail directly to:

Dr. Salvatore J. Russo
Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
CSU, Dominguez Hills
1000 East Victoria Street
Carson, CA 90747

California State University, Dominguez Hills, is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Individuals with disabilities requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) may call the CSU Dominguez Hills Human Resources Office (310) 243-3771 or the Academic Affairs Personnel Services Office at (310) 243-3766.

Clery Act crime statistics for CSUDH are available at <http://www.csudh.edu/dhpd/>, or by calling University Police at (310) 243-3693.

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3349

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of Latin America

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Latin America, beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, foreign policy, transnational politics, and traditional and non-traditional security (including food and environmental security). We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, geography, international relations, anthropology, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) three letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9608>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3334

Boston University

Rank: Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Contemporary Politics and International Relations of the Middle East & North Africa beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses on international relations, security, human security, and civil society. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including political science, history, sociology, anthropology, geography, international relations, and security studies, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae and 3) letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9610>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3335

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

American University of Afghanistan

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Specializations: Central Asia, Developing Nations, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science

Reports to: Chair of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Starting: Spring 2018

The American University of Afghanistan (AUAF) is a private, non-profit university offering an American-style liberal arts education. We opened our doors in 2005 and currently offer 4 undergraduate academic majors and an MBA program. We follow a strict non-discriminatory policy, and applicants from all ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds are encouraged to apply. We are a young, dynamic university with a student population of above 1000 students. Construction continues on a new 75-acre international campus.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration is seeking a qualified candidate for a full-time faculty position, an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science.

Responsibilities and duties:

- Teach lower and higher level courses in Political Science (ability to teach Political Science and Public Administration courses is highly desirable)
- Teach 12 credit hours per semester
- In addition to teaching, full-time faculty are required to provide service to the university in some capacity either by serving on a committee, assisting the Department Chair with various administrative tasks, mentoring and advising students on academic affairs, or in other ways.
- Although AUAF is primarily a teaching institute, research, especially the preparation of publications in academic or policy journals, is highly desirable

Requirements:

- Earned PhD in Political Science. (MA holders with experience in the field and a proven track record of teaching experience at the post-secondary level may be considered)
- Prior teaching experience at the post-secondary level
- Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at AUAF is English.
- Experience teaching in international locations and multicultural settings preferred
- When hired, the successful applicant is expected to provide official proof of academic degrees (transcripts sent from the degree granting school directly to AUAF)

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled.

The American University of Afghanistan offers a generous benefits package that includes a competitive salary, air transportation, University-provided accommodation, and paid health care insurance. This is an unprecedented opportunity to teach at a newly formed American University in an emerging and rapidly changing society.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching purpose, and contact information for three references to jobs@auaf.edu.af. Please include Political Science in the subject line of the email.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3325

Boston University

Rank: Strategic & Security Studies

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in Strategic & Security Studies, beginning July 1, 2018, subject to budget approval. We are open to all methodological approaches, but we have a particular interest in traditional security topics, including military strategy and tactics, force planning, initiation and termination of conflict, alliances, grand strategy, military history, etc. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including history, political science, security studies, and international relations. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letter of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9611>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Associate Dean William Grimes at wgrimes@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3322

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to

lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Russia, South Asia

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. The successful candidate should have conducted innovative research in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 preps per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia.

Additional details for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciIRCP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3319

University of Essex

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations

Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations
Department of Government

The Department of Government at Essex are world leaders in political science, ranked top in the UK for research excellence (REF2014), among the top 10 universities for politics in the UK (The Times Good University Guide 2017), top 10 in the world for political science and international relations according to the Centre for World University Rankings (2017), among the top 50 departments on the planet according to the QS World University Rankings. With 96% student satisfaction (NSS 2016) and having been awarded Q-Step Affiliate Status, we are committed to excellence in education and research.

The Department of Government is seeking to appoint an academic at Assistant or Associate Professor level in International Relations with demonstrable excellence in research and teaching. The ideal candidate will also have a strong background in political economy. An ability to connect with existing areas of strength in the Department is also an advantage.

Please note that the appointment will be made at the UK equivalent of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer level and will be referred to by these titles throughout the advertisement and University documentation.

The Role and Duties

The post-holder is expected to conduct research and teaching in International Relations at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. They will also (co-)supervise undergraduate projects, MA, and PhD dissertations, and assess students through coursework and examination as well as contribute to the successful administration and management of the Department.

You will also be expected to obtain external research funding and contribute to the department's expansion strategy for new modules in political science.

Qualifications and Skills required

The post-holder at Lecturer level will be expected to hold a PhD in Political Science or an allied field, or be in the final stages of completion of your studies. The post-holder at Senior Lecturer level will be required to have already obtained a PhD in Political Science or an allied field.

At both Lecturer and Senior Lecturer level you will be required to have an academic expertise in the area of International Relations; potential of excellence in research in International Relations; potential of excellence in teaching at undergraduate and/or postgraduate level; demonstrable potential to generate external funding; and demonstrable experience of a clear publication plan for submission to future Research Excellence Framework (REF) programmes.

Additional requirements at Senior Lecturer level include experience of PhD supervision; demonstrating a significant portfolio to include a well-established track record of high quality (ABS 3*/4* level) publications in leading refereed journals; a proven track record of raising research funds and managing research projects; proven experience in managing academic programmes; staff management, leadership and motivational skills; and the ability to support the teaching and learning experience of all academic colleagues in a higher education environment.

We particularly welcome applications from women as they are under-represented in the Department.

At the University of Essex internationalism is central to who we are and what we do. We are committed to being a cosmopolitan, internationally-oriented university that is welcoming to staff and students from all countries and a university where you can find the world in one place.

Please visit our website (<http://www.essex.ac.uk/vacancies/>) for a full job description, person specification and more information relating to this post. We recommend you read this information carefully before making an application. Applications should be made on-line, but if you would like advice or help in making an application, or need information in a different format, please telephone the Resourcing Team (01206 874588/873521).

Closing date: 17 November 2017

Interviews are planned for: 31 January 2018

Salary: £39,993 - £47,722 per annum (Lecturer), £50,618 - £56,951 per annum (Senior Lecturer)

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/17/2017

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3315

Washington & Lee University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Comparative Politics or International Relations
Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Washington and Lee University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics or International Relations. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the Department's introductory course in Global Politics and an introductory course in statistics, as well as upper level courses related to the candidate's field of expertise. Area of specialization is open. Opportunities will be available to teach in the other subfields in the Department (American government and political philosophy), as well as interdisciplinary programs at the University, including African Studies, Environmental Studies, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Middle East and South Asia Studies, Poverty and Human Capability Studies, and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. Review of applications will begin immediately, but full consideration will be given to applications that are complete by September 30. Preliminary interviews will not be conducted at APSA.

Washington and Lee is a highly selective university devoted to the teaching of the liberal arts. We are committed to excellence in teaching and to the research and professional activity that support it. Situated in the Shenandoah Valley, three hours southwest of Washington, DC, the university enrolls approximately 1,800 undergraduates and 315 law students. All application materials must be submitted online at apply.interfolio.com/44406. Include a letter of application describing why you wish to teach in a liberal arts setting, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and research abilities. Women and minority candidates are especially encouraged to apply. A completed Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment, which begins July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3310

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics or International Relations and Methods

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in comparative politics or international relations starting in August 2018. Candidate must be able to teach classes in research methods. Cross-regional or Middle East expertise is desirable. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans, teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3295

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer - International Studies

Specializations: International Security, Africa, Gender Politics & Policy

International Studies

University of California, Irvine

School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers

The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during Winter 2018 and/or Spring 2018 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer

Salary Range: $5,700 - $6,200 per course

Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.

Positions May Be Available: Winter 2018 and Spring 2018

Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at:

<https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04263>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:

Winter 2018 Quarter, November 30, 2017

Spring 2018 Quarter, January 30, 2018

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3286

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics – Tenured

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, broadly defined. The holder of the chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. We particularly seek candidates who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Dickey Center, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Rockefeller Center, the Irving Energy Institute, and Tuck School of Business. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on October 7, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44031. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3253

University of Colorado Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in International Political Economy. The successful candidate should have research interests in IPE and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Applications received by October 1, 2017 will receive priority consideration, though we will continue screening applications until the position is filled. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10859. Please attach a letter of interest, current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness and names and email addresses of at least three letter writers who may be contacted to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf. If any documents are too large or too numerous to attach, please place them on your website and include a URL with links to these portions of the dossier in the appropriate attachment section. Writing samples may include publications, conference papers, and/or works in progress. Evidence of teaching effectiveness may include a statement of teaching philosophy, syllabi, course evaluations and/or other materials. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science or economics and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the IPE Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3268

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Comparative Politics of Migration

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in the Comparative Politics of Ethnicity and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43796>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3267

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. Candidates should have a primary research and teaching interest in International Relations with a principal focus on security studies. A Ph.D. degree is required. Candidates with ABD status will be considered but they must possess a Ph.D. degree by the time of appointment. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. The teaching load is four classes per year, a 2-2 load.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of approximately 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Policy and Administration, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 16 faculty members, 200 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 Ph.D. students. The department has strong ties to several research centers within the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, and the Stennis Center for Public Service. More information is available on the department at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Brian Shoup, at bds223@msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://explore.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF#496143) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, a vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin on or around September 25th, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3260

University of Houston

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a position in International Relations at the Assistant or Associate professor level. Subfields of particular interest include international development, international political economy or international organizations, but we welcome applications from all fields of IR. The appointment will begin in Fall 2018. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 2, and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars. With over 600 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, the UH Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000255. To apply, please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Tanya Bagashka, Chair, International Relations Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Houston.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3262

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security -- with a particular emphasis on China's foreign relations, Chinese foreign policy, and Chinese security policy -- to begin July 2018.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43731

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3212

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security – with a particular emphasis on nuclear security – to begin July 2018. We are seeking applicants whose research focuses on various aspects of nuclear security, including but not limited to nuclear proliferation, nuclear deterrence, nuclear force posture and doctrine, and nuclear weapons technology.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of the Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43730

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3213

University of Virginia

Rank: Professor of Environmental Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in Environmental Politics at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. We welcome applications from candidates in any - or some mix - of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries.

This position, located in the Department of Politics, is part of a cross-disciplinary initiative focused on integrating social, political, cultural, and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty across the University of Virginia. The successful candidate will be involved with the University's new Environmental Resilience Institute.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Successful candidates must demonstrate, in written or published work, deep engagement with and significant contributions to an important area of environmental politics. Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline by May 2018 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment. For appointments at the assistant rank, we prefer candidates with refereed publications or publishable working papers. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold the PhD at the time of application and must demonstrate an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa: <https://jobs.virginia.edu>. Search on posting number 0621502 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Additionally, applicants for the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2018, with an anticipated start date of July 2018.

Questions regarding the application process in Jobs@UVa should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (bb6a@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia assists UVa faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see: <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3198

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3156

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Philosophy & Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science – Political Theory

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. We are searching for faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, or global ethics. The positions are open rank. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

The review of applications will begin from September 15, 2017, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3162

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/tenure-track positions in Political Science. Candidates from all sub-fields will be considered. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor), from scholars of Middle Eastern politics, and from scholars of political theory are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

The review of applications will begin in October, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the academic year of 2017/2018, with potential campus visits to NYUNY occurring in the Spring 2018. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3163

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: International Security

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech invites applications for a tenure-track (or tenured) position in International Security at the rank of either Assistant or Associate Professor to begin Fall 2018. The Nunn School seeks to hire an individual whose demonstrated scholarly research and teaching in the field have a functional concentration broadly related to the nexus of science and technology with national/international security policies and strategy. Research foci of greatest interest include cyber/information security or other emerging technology challenges. The School has a secondary interest in candidates able to apply modern analytical techniques such as big data/social media analytics or networks analysis to their research or teaching. There exist opportunities for joint appointments with another School at Georgia Tech, in particular those in the Colleges of Sciences, Engineering, and Computing. Thus, comfort in working with technical experts and teaching interdisciplinary courses is strongly encouraged.

Named for former US Senator Sam Nunn whose continued presence and work on global issues inspires our efforts to be both useful and innovative, our school draws on its unique setting at a premier technological university to deliver innovative programs and cutting-edge research that integrate science and technology with the study of international affairs. The School focuses on how technology affects national security, economic well-being and competitiveness, and prospects for international cooperation and conflict. Our School seeks to equip our students with Georgia Tech's cutting edge technology tools, a global perspective and leadership skills through a new model of professional education that is theoretically grounded and practice and policy oriented.

Located in midtown Atlanta, Georgia Tech enrolls over 25,000 students and is consistently ranked as one of the top seven public universities in the country. Georgia Tech is a unit of the University System of Georgia and an AA/EEO employer; women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. Additional information pertaining to the Nunn School is available at <http://www.inta.gatech.edu/>.

Applicant review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To receive full consideration, application materials should be received by October 1, 2017 and include: (1) a letter of interest describing the candidate's relevant experience, including statement of research and teaching; (2) a curriculum vita; and (3) the names, positions, and contact information of five references. The position is subject to budgetary developments.

Materials should be sent either by mail to: Chair, Nunn School Search Committee, ATTN: Marilu Suarez; The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs; Georgia Institute of Technology; 781 Marietta Street NW; Atlanta, Georgia 30318 or electronically to intl-security-search@t-square.gatech.edu. Applicant files will be treated confidentially

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3148

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor: John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security

Associate or Full Professor: John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security.

Department of Political Science
Southern Methodist University
Dallas, Texas

(Position No. 00052605) The Political Science Department at Southern Methodist University invites applications for the John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security. This is a tenured position, open at the rank of professor or associate professor. Preference will be given to scholars with outstanding records of research and teaching in international relations with a

specialization in one or more of the following subfields: US national security affairs, US foreign and defense policy, US security, strategic and intelligence studies, and civil-military relations. We are particularly interested in scholars who merge political science with fine-grained policy analyses. The successful candidate will serve as Director of the Security and Strategy Program (SAS@SMU), which provides research grants and organizes public events on national security issues. He or she will also be senior fellow in the John G. Tower Center for Political Studies and will participate in Center activities and programs. PhD required at time of appointment. The expected start date for the position is fall 2018.

The Political Science Department at SMU currently consists of sixteen faculty members who offer undergraduate programs in political science, public policy, and international and area studies, with a total of over 250 majors. Classes are small and expectations are high in both teaching and research. The Tower Center for Political Studies (<http://www.smu.edu/tower/>), housed with the Political Science Department, is a dynamic interdisciplinary center sponsoring dozens of teaching, research, and public service programs annually in national and international politics. The successful candidate will take a leading role in advancing the Department, the Center, and related programs, particularly the Center's program in national security.

Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas. Applicants can initiate consideration by submitting a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three references to: Professor James Hollifield, Director, Tower Center, PO Box 750117, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX 75275-0117 or jhollifi@smu.edu with CC to plsc@smu.edu.

The review of candidates will begin on 15 October 2017, but the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. The committee will notify applicants of its decision when the search is complete.

Southern Methodist University will not discriminate in any program or activity on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation, or gender identity and expression. The Executive Director for Access and Equity/Title IX Coordinator is designated to handle inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies and may be reached at the Perkins Administration Building, Room 204, 6425 Boaz Lane, Dallas, TX 75205, 214-768-3601, accessequity@smu.edu.

Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3151

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with research and teaching in the field of International Relations with specialization in International Organizations to begin the fall semester of 2018.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

Candidates will be expected to teach undergraduate political science courses in the area of international politics that serve as requirements for both the Political Science and the new International Studies & Diplomacy undergraduate degrees as well as teach other courses in the International Relations graduate program. Candidates will also be expected to publish original research in the field of international politics, advise undergraduate students, and provide service to the department, the university and the profession.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2018, in Political Science, International Relations, or related field
- 2) Primary or secondary field in the area of International Organizations
- 3) Evidence of college-level teaching commensurate with level of academic experience
- 4) Demonstrated ability to teach introductory political science courses in the area of international politics
- 5) Demonstrated evidence of research in the field of international politics with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience
- 6) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: diplomacy, human rights, international law, environmental justice, food security, international migration, political asylum, or refugee flows
- 2) Internationally relevant experience working with international organizations, conducting international fieldwork, or strong foreign language skills

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

The application deadline is October 1, 2017.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: <https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/2628>

Please attach (PDF) the following documents to your online application:

- 1) Cover letter that describes your interest in this position
- 2) Curriculum vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document)
- 3) Brief research and teaching statement
- 4) If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3144

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Auburn University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning August 16, 2018. We seek excellent candidates that can complement the strengths of our department. The call is open to candidates in all areas and sub-fields of International Relations broadly construed. Candidates should be able to demonstrate strong command of international relations theory, conduct research, mentor graduate students, and teach undergraduate and graduate level classes, including the university's core course, Global Politics and Issues.

Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Political Science by the start date, for the rank of Assistant Professor. However, ABDs will be considered for the appointment at the rank of Instructor. The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time of appointment and to continue working legally during employment; excellent communication skills required.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2017. To apply, visit <https://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com>. Candidates are required to include a cover letter outlining their qualifications for the position, a current curriculum vita, an official transcript of all graduate work, contact information for three letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a one-page statement of research program, a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, and a writing sample.

Auburn University is Alabama's largest land grant university, enrolling over 25,000 students. The Political Science Department maintains a diverse faculty of 26 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, health services administration, and public administration; a Master's degree program in Public Administration (MPA) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance; a Master's degree program in Community Planning (MCP), and a Ph.D. program in public administration and public policy.

Direct questions to Dr. Jill Crystal, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University AL, 36849 Fax: 334-844-5348. Email: jill.crystal@auburn.edu.

"Diversity among its administrators, faculty, staff, and students is an Auburn University commitment. Auburn University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. It is our policy to provide equal employment opportunities for all individuals without regard to race, sex, religion, color, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, or any other classification protected by applicable law."

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3133

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-2019 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach introduction to world or comparative politics (depending on subfield), upper-level political science courses in the area of specialty including Post Soviet Russian Politics, and to occasionally teach as part of a faculty rotation the Introduction to Russian and Eurasian Studies and the Havighurst Seminar (topical); develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in the curricular and programming efforts of the Havighurst Center for Russian and Post-Soviet Studies.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science, public policy or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with expertise in Russian politics and/or Russian foreign policy.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4586>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Laura Neack at neacklj@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3126

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Bethany College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

TWO positions for Assistant Professor; tenure-track. The Department of History and Political Science at Bethany College seeks to fill two tenure-track positions starting 2018-2019. The primary field for one position should be in American politics including constitutional law, American Political Development, American institutions broadly defined, judicial politics, or American foreign policy. The primary field for the second position should be in Comparative or International Politics broadly understood. We would prefer candidates who can contribute to institutional initiatives in pre-law advising, environmental politics and policy, or public health. The ability to lead short-term study abroad programs and/or to teach courses in social sciences statistics or research methods would be a significant plus. Each successful candidate will be expected to contribute courses to at least two subfields of the discipline and/or an interdisciplinary international relations program. Candidates should demonstrate how their research and teaching brings an integrative perspective to bear on the study of politics, society, and social change.

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to liberal arts education and to engaging students in active undergraduate research. Bethany faculty are expected to make contributions to student advising, program assessment, committee service, and student recruitment and retention.

Both positions will commence in August 2018.

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field preferred, ABD considered; teaching experience is essential. There is the possibility of appointment at an advanced Assistant Professor level if qualifications and time in rank merit.

Bethany is a private, liberal arts, church-affiliated college with an enrollment of approximately 700 students. Bethany College is located on a picturesque and historic 1,300-acre campus in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia, approximately 40 miles west of Pittsburgh. Founded in 1840, Bethany is West Virginia's oldest private college.

Please provide letter of application, CV, statement of teaching interests, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and unofficial copies of both graduate and undergraduate transcripts via email to doffaculty@bethanywv.edu and reference Political Science search in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. We do plan to complete this process in the fall semester so candidates are strongly urged to apply on time. We will be interviewing strong candidates at the American Political Science Association annual meeting in San Francisco (Thursday and Friday only). Please email CV to Dr. Joe Lane (Provost) at doffaculty@bethanywv.edu note "request an interview at APSA" in the subject line.

Bethany College seeks a diverse faculty and staff. Bethany is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3102

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in International Relations, with the appointment beginning in fall 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work focuses on intrastate violence or international security. Candidates should have active research agendas, a record of quality publications or the potential to publish in high-quality venues, good teaching credentials, and demonstrated mastery of quantitative and/or formal research methods. Senior candidates with strong research records or candidates who could contribute to Penn State's Global and International Studies Program, particularly by teaching introductory courses, will receive special consideration. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant released time.

All requirements for the Ph.D. must be completed by the appointment date. Application review will begin on September 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/73164>. All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3107

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apolrecruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

Anderson University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations with Security Studies focus

Specializations: International Security, Intelligence, Foreign Policy

The Department of History and Political Science at Anderson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will assist in the development of a growing undergraduate program in National Security Studies, which offers interdisciplinary majors in National Security Studies and Information Security. Primary responsibilities include teaching introductory and upper-division courses in international relations and security studies, including advanced courses in terrorism, intelligence studies, and homeland security. Candidates with an ability to offer courses in international political economy, comparative politics, and/or public policy and administration are especially encouraged to apply. The normal teaching load is 12 hours per semester.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate will possess a maturing Christian faith and demonstrate a strong commitment to the mission of Christian higher education, undergraduate teaching at both the introductory and advanced levels, and professional development. Ph.D. preferred but ABD will be considered. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Application Process:

Send a letter addressing the preferred qualifications listed above, a curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness and scholarly potential, a statement of how your faith relates to your discipline, a copy of graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, and a completed Anderson University application (found at <https://www.anderson.edu/uploads/hr/faculty-application.pdf>) to: Dr. Joel Shrock, Dean, School of Humanities and Behavioral Science, Anderson University, 1100 East Fifth Street, Anderson, IN 46012. Email address is jdshrock@anderson.edu. If materials are sent electronically, please make sure that receipt is confirmed. Background checks are routinely conducted on applicants for Anderson University positions.

Anderson University is a private Christian university in central Indiana. It continues to be recognized as one of America's top colleges by U.S. News and World Report, The Princeton Review and Forbes. Additional information is available on the University's website.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3081

University of Rochester

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in any area of International Relations. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3091

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3045

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2018 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <http://tinyurl.com/yapctjam>. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 5/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3084

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant Professor

International Relations/Methodology (Assistant Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University Bloomington invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor in the field of International Relations (IR) and/or methodology beginning August 2018. We have a particular interest in scholars who will contribute to our professional reputation in empirical International Relations and our research methods courses at all levels. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, the candidate is expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate in departmental activities.

This position is authorized at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful candidates who have completed their Ph.D. degree by Sept. 30, 2017 will be appointed as Assistant Professor, while Ph.D. candidates without degree in hand would be appointed as Acting Assistant Professor at a lower salary. Upon final completion of the degree by Jan. 31, 2018, the appointment would be changed to Assistant Professor at a higher salary for the spring semester. Candidates at the Associate Professor level or seeking a tenured appointment will be considered only under unusual circumstances.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA Services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status. To ensure full consideration applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, copies of research publication and course syllabi, and teaching evaluations by October 1, 2017. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, however.

Interested candidates should review the job requirements and submit application materials on-line at <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/4339>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to:

Jessica Williams
 Department of Political Science
 Indiana University Bloomington
 1100 E. Seventh Street
 Bloomington, IN 47405-7110
 (812) 855-1209
jeewilli@indiana.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3078

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3060

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, International Relations or Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the fields of international relations or comparative politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3070

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

Assistant Professor of International Relations -- Migration
University of Southern California

The School of International Relations in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles, California) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor of International Relations, anticipated to begin Fall 2018. We seek applicants with a strong research program in the politics of cross-national migration. Candidates should demonstrate a capacity for innovative research on population movement as it relates to poverty and economic crisis, chronic hunger, armed conflict (internal or international), and/or environmental degradation and climate change. The successful candidate will also demonstrate strong methodological skills, whether qualitative or quantitative, including the ability to teach a Ph.D.-level methods course. Applicants with expertise in experimental design or advanced statistical techniques are especially welcome. A Ph.D. is required by time of appointment, preferably in Political Science, though other disciplines may be considered.

Applications should be complete by October 1 to receive fullest consideration. Applicants are required to complete the on-line application process (with few exceptions—such as published books—materials submitted by regular post will not be accepted). Follow this link or paste it in a browser: <https://uscareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-of-international-relations-migration/1209/5215060>. Required materials include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, research sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of reference, and official graduate transcripts. Inquiries may be sent to sirsearch@dornsife.usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3055

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applicants for positions in International Relations to begin July 1, 2018. The position is open rank. We are interested in candidates from all areas of International Relations, though we have a particular interest in those with expertise in International Political Economy and International Organization.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43260>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 7/21/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3030

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3018

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

Auburn University at Montgomery

Rank: Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for the endowed Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy starting August 2018. This is a tenured position at the rank of full professor. The appointment to the Khaled Chair is for a three-year term (renewable, upon a satisfactory review) and comes with a stipend, research support, and a reduction in teaching load.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the candidate's area of international relations at the undergraduate and graduate levels; maintain an active scholarly research program in that area; provide leadership in recruiting, mentoring, and supervising students in the Department's programs, especially for the doctoral program; contribute to the development of research and scholarly activities in international relations, international policy, and related subjects in the Department and the University; and through research, teaching, and service, participate in the creation of an atmosphere of international understanding.

The successful candidate must be a specialist in international relations and have a Ph.D. in one of the following areas: political science, international affairs, international relations, or public policy. In addition, the candidate must have a record of sustained scholarship, teaching excellence, service to the discipline and community, and supervision of student research to permit appointment at the rank of full professor.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2017. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload the following materials: a letter of application to include specification of training, current and future research agenda, teaching interests and teaching philosophy, and most significant professional service; curriculum vitae; one recent writing sample; graduate transcript (official transcript will be needed at time of hire); and contact information for three professional references. Three confidential letters of reference are required and must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu by the application deadline.

Auburn University at Montgomery is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The University enrolls approximately 4300 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in political science and a nationally ranked, NASPAA-accredited master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in public administration and public policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3015

Syracuse University

Rank: International Relations

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes

Syracuse University

International Relations

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire an Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations for a tenure-track or tenured position beginning in Fall 2018. We particularly welcome candidates whose work focuses on foreign policy, global environmental politics, or conflict resolution. The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests; successful candidates will have some teaching responsibilities in the MA-IR program and a courtesy appointment in the Department of Public Administration and International Affairs. Successful candidates also may be invited to affiliate with the Moynihan Institute of Global Affairs or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (<http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. Rank and salary commensurate with experience and professional accomplishments.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 1, 2017. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3002

Harvard University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenure-track professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2018. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Doctorate or terminal degree in Political Science or related disciplines required by the time the appointment begins.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching is desired.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIES portal (<http://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2017.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement (describing teaching approach and philosophy)
4. Research statement
5. Names and contact information of 3-5 referees, who will be asked by a system-generated email to upload a letter of recommendation once the candidate's application has been submitted. Three letters of recommendation are required, and the application is considered complete only when at least three letters have been received.
6. Writing samples and publications, if applicable.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Contact Information: Natasha Khristalova, Department of Government, Harvard University, 1737 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, MA 02138.
nkhrystalova@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2994

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

St. Lawrence University

Rank: Consortium for Faculty Diversity Postdoctoral Teaching Fellow in International Relations

The Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for a one-year (potentially renewable up to two additional years) Consortium for Faculty Diversity postdoctoral teaching fellow position in International Relations. The position begins August 2018. The successful candidate will teach two courses per semester, including introductory courses in international relations and upper-level courses that complement the department's current course offerings in the subfield. Doctorate degree in political science or related field is required.

Candidates must also meet the Consortium for Faculty Diversity's eligibility requirements:

"Applicants must contribute to increasing the diversity of member colleges in one or more of the following ways: Increasing their ethnic and racial diversity, maximizing the educational benefits of diversity and/or increasing the number of professors who can and will use diversity as a resource for enriching the education of students.

Applicants must be able to provide evidence of U.S. citizenship or unconditional permanent residency status at the time of hire.

Postdoctoral applicants should have no more than five years of teaching or relevant experience, postdoctoral, prior to the start of a fellowship."

To apply, please note the following two-part application process: 1. St. Lawrence is a member of the Consortium for Faculty Diversity in Liberal Arts Colleges. All applicants for the position should review the eligibility requirements for the Consortium's postdoctoral fellowships and submit a dossier via Interfolio at <http://www.gettysburg.edu/about/offices/provost/cfd/>. By submitting your dossier via Interfolio, you also may be contacted by other liberal arts colleges about additional fellowship opportunities. 2. Applicants must also complete an online application form at <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1192>. Review of applications will begin on October 16, 2017. Questions about the position may be directed to Dr. Grace Huang (ghuang@stlawu.edu), Search Chair.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2950

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/IR

Teaching a 3/3 course load, with courses in International or Comparative Political Economy, as well as additional courses in International Politics and/or Comparative Politics and the applicant's area of regional specialty. Maintain an active research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Service includes advising duties for Global Studies majors and other service to the department as assigned by Chair, as well as institutional service.

A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Research agenda and expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. Candidate should have a PhD in Political Science or be ABD.

Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia.

The Department of Political Science at Loyola University Maryland invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The position begins Fall 2018.

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and an interest in the enduring questions of Politics, with an ability to teach International or Comparative Political Economy. Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia. Applicants should have their primary training in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations, and the expectation will be for courses to be taught in Introduction to Politics, International or Comparative Political Economy, International Politics and/or Comparative Politics, as well as in the regional area of expertise. Candidates should have a PhD or ABD.

The teaching load for the position is three courses in the fall and three courses in the spring semester, with a single-course reduction the first semester (each course is capped at 30 students). Courses will primarily serve Political Science and Global Studies majors.

The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in Loyola's growing Global Studies program. Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major with a curriculum based in the four disciplines of Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology. Students begin with foundational coursework in each department, and then develop topical specializations in the junior and senior years. The program hosts annual speakers and special events, and is a significant presence on campus. Faculty who contribute to Global Studies participate in student advising and mentoring, teach courses in the major, and become part of the Global Studies academic community. The candidate will be a member of the Political Science Department but will advise Global Studies majors.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

To apply, please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to submit a C.V., three letters of reference, graduate transcripts (copies are acceptable), an article-length manuscript or chapter demonstrating scholarly potential, and a cover letter explaining teaching approach in relation to Loyola's educational mission. Teaching evaluations and sample course syllabi should also be submitted if available (select Option 1 to submit syllabi in online application). Please submit applications by September 15 to ensure full consideration. For questions related to the search or any materials that are only available in hard copy or cannot otherwise be submitted through the online application (which could include letters of reference or teaching evaluations), please send files to Dr. Carsten Vala via email to cvala@loyola.edu or via mail to him at Department of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/8/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2949

Carroll University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Visiting Lecturer in International Relations

Starting date: January 1, 2018

Responsibilities: Responsibilities of this appointment include teaching classes on international relations, advising and mentoring students, and participating in program and departmental service. The successful candidate will participate in the General Education curriculum through teaching in the common core of cross-cultural studies. The normal teaching load for lecturer positions is four 4-credit courses per semester. The capacity to teach broad-based social science research methods is an asset for those applying for this opening.

Qualifications: PhD in International Relations, International Political Economy, Comparative Politics, or in related fields. All Comparative Politics and International Relations specializations will be considered. Ability to teach international political economy courses is required. Ph.D. in hand is strongly preferred; ABDs will be considered. The successful candidate will complement the department's current offerings and will share the University's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Rank and Salary: This is a full-time, 18-month, non-tenure track position as Instructional Faculty. Salary will be based on qualification and previous experience. The position is eligible for renewal.

The Department: The Department of History, Political Science, and Religious Studies offers majors in the following areas: history; global studies; political science; philosophy, political science and economics; and religious studies.

Carroll University: Founded in 1846, Carroll University is an independent, co-educational comprehensive university grounded in the liberal arts tradition. Carroll University is located in suburban Waukesha, 16 miles west of Milwaukee and 60 miles east of Madison. The University serves approximately 3521 students. The University though intentionally ecumenical and non-sectarian in approach, is related to the Presbyterian Church, USA. Candidates must be willing and able to support and advance the University mission.

Application: Review of applications will begin immediately and will close when the position is filled.

Please submit a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) statement of teaching philosophy as Word or PDF format attachments with the subject line "Visiting Lecturer of International Relations" to facapp@carrollu.edu.

Final applicants will be asked to submit graduate transcripts and three letters of reference.

Carroll University is an Equal-Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2936

Washington College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Africa

Washington College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning Fall 2018, pending budget approval. Ph.D. should be in hand or very near completion; salary is competitive. We seek candidates whose graduate transcripts, teaching experience, research, or other experience demonstrate preparation to teach courses in International Relations, with the ability to offer courses in international relations theory, international organization and law, international political economy, and one or two courses related to the politics and international relations of Sub-Saharan Africa to contribute to the interdisciplinary concentration in African Studies. Candidates who are interested in working to develop experiential learning opportunities internationally and/or to contribute to our vibrant model diplomacy program are especially welcomed. Some senior thesis advising, undergraduate advising, and occasional internship supervision are required. The position will be jointly appointed with our inter-disciplinary International Studies program.

Washington College, founded in 1782, is a selective liberal arts institution of 1500 students that emphasizes excellence in teaching and a commitment to scholarly research. It is located on Maryland's Eastern Shore, about 1.5 hours from Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. For more information about the college please consult the college's website (<http://www.washcoll.edu>), as well as both the Political Science Department's website (<http://polisci.washcoll.edu>) and the International Studies Program's website (<http://is.washcoll.edu>).

Applications should be submitted by October 11, 2017. Materials should be directed to the attention of Dr. Melissa Deckman, Chair, Department of Political Science; e-mail: mdeckman2@washcoll.edu. Please send letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts from all institutions attended, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations, if available, through our online portal at https://higherdecisions.com/wcm/current_vacancies.asp. We strongly prefer that you combine additional information into one document to upload to Consensus, but if unable to do so, please send materials to politicalscience_search@washcoll.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Candidates who wish to be interviewed at the APSA Convention's job placement services in San Francisco should e-mail after August 15 to request an appointment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2906

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations

Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San José State University

San José, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential.

Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 6/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2903

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations
Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University

San Jose, California

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
Department of Political Science
One Washington Square
San José State University
San José, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San José State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San José State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San José State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San José State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2904

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative/International Relations
Specializations: Western Europe, Post Soviet Region, Middle East

San Jose State University
 San Jose, California
 ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY Subject to Budgetary Approval

Specialization: Political Science: Comparative Politics/International Relations Job Opening ID (JOID): 24147
 Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (degree must be awarded by the time of appointment) in the sub-fields of Comparative Politics or International Relations, with a specialization in the politics of Europe (including Russia/CIS countries) or the Middle East. Evidence of teaching excellence is essential. Applicants are expected to demonstrate the ability to conduct high-quality research and produce peer-reviewed academic publications. Applicants should have a demonstrated record of awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will start in August 2018, and teach introductory and advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, such as International Organizations, Eurasian Politics, Politics of the European Union, and Middle Eastern Politics. Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Salary Range:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018 Eligibility:

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi and evaluations), a sample of scholarly writing, at least three original letters of reference with contact information, and unofficial transcripts by September 15, 2017 to: apply.interfolio.com/42711.

Please direct questions to:

Dr. Melinda Jackson, Chair
 Department of Political Science
 One Washington Square
 San Jose State University
 San Jose, California 95192-0119
www.sjsu.edu/polisci

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San Jose State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San Jose (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San Jose State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San Jose State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San Jose State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San Jose State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The latest San Jose State University Safety 101 Uniform Campus Crime and Security Report is available. You may request a copy of San José State University's annual safety report by contacting the University Police Department at (408) 924-2222 or by visiting the University Police Department website at (<http://www.sjsu.edu/police>.)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 6/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2905

METHODOLOGY

Bilkent University

Rank: Faculty Position (Open rank) in International Relations
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The International Relations Department at Bilkent University invites applicants for an open rank position, commencing Fall 2018. The Department is interested in applicants who specialize in International Security broadly defined, especially those with a concentration on Middle East politics. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its Faculty. Female and international scholars are therefore especially encouraged to apply.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is placed in global rankings as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 600 undergraduate students and 35 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, high-impact research, and developing critical and analytical thinking.

Applicants should hold a PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a related field, though PhD candidates with publications and close to completing their studies are also encouraged to apply. However, the prospective candidate is required to receive a PhD no later than August 1, 2018. A strong publication record and promising research potential are essential. Successful applicants will teach two courses in their field of expertise at both the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate theses.

Applications should include (i) cover letter, (ii) up-to-date CV, (iii) one-page research statement, (iv) one-page teaching statement, and (v) contact details of three academic referees, and be submitted to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by the application deadline at 5:00pm on Friday 22 December 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3668

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology
Specializations: Presidency, Research Methods, American Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Academic accomplishment in Political Science with an emphasis in American Politics/Congress/Presidency (Ph.D. required); (ii) Authoritative knowledge of American political development, institutions, and political participation and experience teaching American politics; (iii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate courses in American politics and other related sub-fields; (iv) Ability to conduct research and present results in a variety of media; (v) Ability to lead and guide student research and offer academic counseling and mentorship.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/23/2017
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 3672

Democracy Fund

Rank: Project Manager
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Non-Academic Specializations: Electoral Systems, Electoral Behavior, Quantitative Methods

VOTER STUDY GROUP PROJECT MANAGER – CONTRACT ROLE

Position Description

Overview and Responsibilities

The Democracy Fund Voter Study Group is a research collaboration comprised of nearly two dozen analysts and scholars from across the political spectrum offering new data and analysis exploring American voters' beliefs and behaviors. The mission of the Voter Study Group is to help policy makers and thought leaders listen more closely, and respond more powerfully, to the views of American voters. We hope the study group's research and analysis will help us understand each other and make our democracy more functional.

In June, the Voter Study Group released its first four reports based on a unique longitudinal survey commissioned by the group (www.voterstudygroup.org). Further quantitative and qualitative research will be commissioned in the future, which will be designed and analyzed by study group members.

The Project Manager is a contract role that will be responsible for the day-to-day management of the group's research and communications, working closely with the Voter Study Group's Project Director and Research Director, as well as the Democracy Fund communications teams. We anticipate that this will be a part-time contract position, but are open to explore different working relationships for the right candidate.

Project Manager responsibilities include:

- Research Design
 - o Participate in the research design process for new research commissioned by the Voter Study Group
 - o Ensure adequate input from members into the design of the original research
 - o Work with the research director on developing and finalizing research designs, including research questions and questionnaire
- Research Analysis
 - o Work with members of the study group to conduct in-depth analyses of commissioned research
 - o Edit papers written by study group members and solicit feedback from study group members
 - o Work with members of the communications team to design and publish papers written by the group
 - o Present research findings to key audiences
- Communication
 - o Coordinate with the communications team on outreach to media and other key audiences to disseminate research findings
 - o Coordinate with the communications team on the development and maintenance of the project web site
 - o Produce content for the project web site to communicate new findings
- Event Management
 - o Organize events to support dialogue among the Voter Study Group

- o Manage the planning and orchestration of public facing events with media and other leaders to discuss and disseminate research findings
- Study Group Management
 - o Maintain communication among members of the study group
 - o Support recruitment of new members of the study group

Qualifications

- PhD in political science, public policy, or related field
- Exceptional writing and editing skills
- Demonstrated project management skills
- Strong quantitative analysis skills, including an ability to use statistical programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data
- Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including multiple regression analysis
- Significant experience in the design of public opinion research
- Experience with publishing academic research
- Willingness to work with scholars from across the political spectrum
- Professional maturity, high sense of personal responsibility and integrity, proven ability to exercise discretion and good judgment
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products
- Flexibility and initiative to work both independently and as part of a team
- Deep passion for strengthening American democracy
- The position is based in the Washington, DC, area.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter explaining their interest in the position and the organization and resume to <http://www.democracyfund.org/page/jobs#VSGPM>. No phone calls please.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3660

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Specializations: American Politics, Political Behavior, Quantitative Methods

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2018. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis. Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Doctorate required. Salary is negotiable.

Yale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Please submit cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10216>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications if there is still a vacancy. For more information, contact the Yale Center for the Study of American Politics by email at csap@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3647

Seton Hall University

Rank: Assistant Professor for the School of Diplomacy

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, Political Theory

SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

School of Diplomacy and International Relations

The School of Diplomacy and International Relations at Seton Hall University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position for an assistant professor to commence in the 2018-2019 academic year. Applicants must be able to teach classes in qualitative and quantitative research methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work bridges the academic-policy divide. Expertise in the Middle East, the European Union, or international relations theory is a plus. We expect the applicant to build upon the School's existing strengths. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of their appointment. The position is subject to final budgetary approval.

Successful applicants will demonstrate the ability or potential to teach effectively in a professional school at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. All applicants should have strong research backgrounds or demonstrate substantial potential for conducting important academic research in their field of specialization.

The School of Diplomacy and International Relations prepares graduate and undergraduate students for careers in international affairs and operates in an exclusive alliance with the United Nations Foundation/United Nations Association of the United States of America.

Located only 14 miles from New York City, Seton Hall University is the oldest and one of the largest diocesan universities in the nation. Seton Hall has recently developed a required, undergraduate Core Curriculum, and occasional teaching of a course within this curriculum will be required.

All candidates should provide a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, examples of scholarly work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of recommendation, and a graduate transcript. To receive full consideration, materials should be submitted online by November 10, 2017 via www.shu.edu (follow employment links). Letters of recommendation should be sent to researchmethodssearch@shu.edu.

Seton Hall University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. It honors diversity and respects the religious commitments of all its employees. In turn, its employees respect Catholic beliefs and values, and they support its mission as a Catholic institution of higher education.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3637

California Polytechnic State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science - Law and Society

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, POLITICAL SCIENCE - The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at California Polytechnic State University (Cal Poly), San Luis Obispo, California, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic year Assistant Professor with a specialization in empirical Law and Society to begin September 13, 2018. The successful candidate will have research expertise and the ability to teach courses in our pre-law concentration/Law & Society minor (e.g., judicial politics, judicial process, civil rights and/or constitutional law) as well as our undergraduate research design and/or quantitative methods courses. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work emphasizes issues of justice, diversity and inclusion.

The typical teaching assignment is 12 units (three courses) per quarter, with correspondingly reasonable research and service expectations, and with a significant reduction in course load in the first two years to help establish an active program of research and professional development. An earned doctorate (Ph.D. or equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution or international equivalent is required. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered, but must provide proof that the doctorate was completed prior to appointment. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, we believe that cultivating an environment that embraces and promotes diversity is fundamental to the success of our students, our employees and our community. Bringing people together from different backgrounds, experiences and value systems fosters the innovative and creative thinking that exemplifies Cal Poly's values of free inquiry, cultural and intellectual diversity, mutual respect, civic engagement, and social and environmental responsibility. Cal Poly's commitment to diversity informs our efforts in recruitment, hiring and retention. California Polytechnic State University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

HOW TO APPLY: Interested applicants should complete the required online faculty application at WWW.CALPOLYJOBS.ORG and submit to Requisition #104644. Please attach to your online application the following required materials: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Statement of Teaching Philosophy, Evidence of teaching effectiveness and teaching evaluations, Statement of Professional/Research Goals, a PDF file of a recent publication or manuscript, a Statement of Diversity and Inclusion describing past experience and contributions to diversity and inclusion efforts and a description of how you will demonstrate a commitment in these areas regarding teaching, research and/or service at Cal Poly, and an unofficial copy of transcripts. Applicants should be prepared to submit the names and email addresses for a minimum of three professional references. Cal Poly will directly solicit letters from the individuals listed by applicants. Letters must be dated within the year of recruitment. Sealed official transcripts showing highest degree earned will be required prior to appointment.

REVIEW BEGIN DATE: December 1, 2017. This position is open until filled. Completed applications (all required materials submitted) received by the review begin date will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3628

University of Guam

Rank: Tenure Track IR

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The University of Guam, the premier institution of higher education in the Western Pacific, has a tenure track opening in its Political Science Program for an International Relations specialist with a focus on the Asia Pacific. The program has three faculty members representing the areas of American and regional politics, comparative politics and international relations. Courses in political philosophy and methods are shared among faculty.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach both lower and upper division undergraduate political science courses. He or she will (a) teach a normal load of twelve (12) contact hours (4 courses) per semester, with one course load reduction possible with the Dean's approval, for research, instructional innovation, or large service projects; (b) maintain a continuous record of scholarly activity and research relevant to the Asia/Pacific region; and (c) perform university and community service. Course assignments will include an introductory research methodology course including quantitative and qualitative methods and upper division courses in international relations. Possible additional course assignments include: introduction to government and politics, introduction to international relations, political philosophy, politics of Asia and special topics in political science.

Minimum qualifications: (a) Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations or Government from a U.S. regionally accredited institution or foreign equivalent (appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor requires Ph.D. by August 2018 but initial appointment as Instructor is possible, contingent upon completion of the doctorate by the end of the first year of employment;); (b) research or relevant professional experience in Asia and/or the Pacific region; (c) teaching experience in some of the subject areas listed above; and (d) willingness to teach online.

Preferred: (a) familiarity with issues of Pacific island societies; (b) experience teaching academically and culturally diverse populations; and (c) a record of winning grants.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience relevant to the position. The following salary figures are for nine (9) months:

Instructor $34,169 - $57,892 Per Academic Year

Assistant Professor $39,473 - $68,237 Per Academic Year

Associate Professor $43,703 - $77,498 Per Academic Year

Applicants for University of Guam faculty positions must complete an online job application through the UOG's online employment portal at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com>. Please have the following documents prepared and ready to upload with your application:

- (1) Letter of Intent, stating interest
- (2) Up-to-date curriculum vitae or resume
- (3) Copies of all graduate and undergraduate transcripts

Applicants who are short-listed for an interview will be required to provide a short (approximately 5 minutes) video clip of their lecture or presentation. Also, applicants may be requested by the search chair to submit supplemental materials including syllabi. Completed applications must be received no later than 11:59 p.m. on January 8, 2018 (Chamorro Standard Time/UTC+10).

Before applying, applicants should consult the full job announcement at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com/postings/1111>. For further information, please contact Dr. Arun R. Swamy, Chair, Political Science Search Committee at arswamy@triton.uog.edu or the Human Resources Office at uoghro@triton.uog.edu, telephone number, (671) 735-2350 or fax number at (671) 734-6005.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3621

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Africa, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is seeking to fill the position of

Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs.

This position is to be combined at the earliest possible date with a permanent University Professorship at Freie Universität Berlin.

Salary grade: W3

The successful applicant will cover the area of "Governance in Africa" in research and teaching in connection to the position as Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs. As IAA Director, the successful candidate is required to be based in Hamburg. The directorship (renewable 5-year terms) comes with a permanent researcher position at the GIGA. An appointment for a permanent professorship at Freie Universität Berlin is also planned. The appointee is thus expected to teach classes and collaborate with the Otto Suhr Institute of Political Science of Freie Universität Berlin. The teaching load will be reduced to one 2-hour course per semester.

Appointment requirements are governed by Article 100 of the Berlin Higher Education Act (Berliner Hochschulgesetz).

Key duties as the Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs (IAA) will include:

- provide academic leadership to the IAA (to be developed in conjunction with GIGA's Research Programmes as part of the Institute's matrix structure)
- manage the IAA (including duties as member of the GIGA Executive Board and other bodies, mentoring and pastoral responsibilities towards staff, and responsibility for quality assurance)

- interact closely with policy-makers (especially at the Federal Foreign Office) and provide policy advice
- represent the IAA in the media and to the broader public
- network in area-specific, disciplinary and other relevant professional associations

The position requires the following professional and personal attributes and skills:

- outstanding academic record with a clear fit to the GIGA's research agenda, demonstrated through publications in internationally recognised peer-reviewed journals and university presses, as well as successful third-party funding acquisitions
- well-established record of working on and with Sub-Saharan Africa, including language skills relevant to the region
- academic training and expertise in Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or Political Sociology
- research specialism in one or more of the following topics will be an advantage:
 - o Political regimes and social movements
 - o Conflict transformation and mediation
 - o Growth and sustainable development
 - o Role of domestic/international norms and ideas
- proven ability to engage in cross-regional, comparative, interdisciplinary, and multi-level analysis
- demonstrated record in management and excellent leadership skills
- strong commitment to impactful research, demonstrated through active policy engagement and knowledge transfer
- agenda-setting presence in established policy and academic networks will be an asset
- excellent English language skills and (if applicable) willingness to learn German in due course
- university teaching experience (preferably international).

The reconciliation of work and family life is of great importance to the Institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref. No. GIGA-17-22) including a private postal and an email address as well as relevant supporting documentation (cover letter outlining motivation and suitability for the position, CV, list of publications, evidence of teaching competence, list of courses taught, evidence of involvement in ongoing and future research endeavors, list of third-party funding acquired, copies of certificates of academic qualification) to:

Denise Sablinski, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies, Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: director-iaa@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 20 November 2017.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Julia Kramer (email: julia.kramer@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 42825-540).

Start Date: 2017

Application Deadline: 11/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 3602

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Immigration Policy Lab, Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Position: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (www.immigrationlab.org). The Immigration Policy Lab conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and cutting-edge analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can inspire solutions and ultimately improve lives.

The Immigration Policy Lab reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civi-tech startup.

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of projects related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, Jeremy Weinstein, and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. Additionally, the postdoc will work closely with faculty, staff and partner organizations in developing and designing innovative policies and programs to pilot and evaluate. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects related to immigration policy evaluation.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science program, with a preference for Political Science, Economics, or Sociology. She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Appointment: The initial appointment will be for one year beginning between January and June 2018, with an expected renewal for a second year contingent on satisfactory performance and funding. Salary is negotiable and based on experience. Benefits are provided. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications will only be accepted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10036>, ID 10036). Applications should be submitted by November 17, 2017, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2017).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3569

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track), V-Dem Institute, University of Gothenburg

The position (in Swedish: "biträdande lektor") is the equivalent of Assistant Professor (tenure track). The official time before coming up for tenure and promotion is four years, but can be extended to five years.

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale data collection and research program, see <https://v-dem.net> and the V-Dem Institute is Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg. The successful candidate is expected to primarily conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program "Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization", funded by an European Research Council Consolidator Grant. Teaching is expected up to equivalent of a 1/1 load, as well as contributions to the daily activities of the V-Dem Institute (as needed with administrative tasks, coding and quality control, data management etc). Research is guaranteed at a minimum of 50 percent of full time employment (FTE) and in practice it will probably be around 75 percent.

The position is open to candidates who have a PhD in political science or related field, within seven years of graduation. Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in areas of relevance to the FASDEM project. The successful candidate will demonstrate ability at high international level in the field of comparative democratization and/or autocratization and breakdown, authoritarian regimes, and/or political development.

It is also meritorious with:

- A well developed proposal for a research project that falls within the area of FASDEM, of high scientific quality.
- Significant, explicit interest in further extending on and use the sequencing methods developed in the V-Dem research program
- Advanced time-series, cross-sectional regression techniques, Vector Auto-Regression (VAR), sequencing algorithms, optimal matching methods, Monte Carlo chains, and/or Dynamic treatment regimes

Documented experience with teaching at under-/graduate level, is required, and service to the profession and society is a merit.

The applicant should demonstrate resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to work together in different configurations. Excellence in English (orally and written) is a requirement. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

How to apply:

Applications are submitted online at: http://www.gu.se/english/about_the_university/job-opportunities/vacancies-details?id=1270

Applicants are expected to download the project description of "Failing and successful Sequences of Democratization" from <http://pol.gu.se/english/varieties-of-democracy--v-dem->. The application letter should relate to the project description and state clearly how the applicant fulfills the criteria stated above. The application should also include: a research proposal (max. 7 pages) directly addressing the project"

Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization”; a CV including information about teaching experience; a writing sample; an excerpt from Google Scholar with information about the number of citations, h-index; and a list of at least three persons who are prepared to submit letters of recommendation upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3565

Ashoka University

Rank: Professor/Associate Professor/ Tenure-track Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at Ashoka University invites applications for upto two tenured Professor/Associate Professor/tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty positions with an expected start date of July 1, 2018. We are open to outstanding candidates in any subfield, but we are particularly interested in candidates whose work is in the areas of comparative politics, political economy, or methods. A Ph.D is required by the time of appointment.

Ashoka is a research university based near New Delhi, India. It offers internationally competitive terms and condition. The teaching load is comparable to the top universities in the world, and the University supports research in various ways.

Ashoka University strongly encourages applications by women and members of other groups underrepresented in academia.

Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) two samples of academic writings (article length); 4) teaching evaluations (if available); 5) three confidential letters of reference.

Note: The Ashoka job portal further asks for statements of teaching and research philosophy for all applications. For this search they are optional.

All materials should be submitted through: <https://www.ashoka.edu.in/facultypositions/>

The deadline for submitting a complete application is: November 15th, 2017.

For any queries or further information, please contact: polscience.recruitment@ashoka.edu.in

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3555

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Rowan University
Glassboro, NJ

Assistant Professor or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Rowan University is a public comprehensive state and Carnegie designated research institution with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven colleges and five schools: the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

The Department of Political Science and Economics is housed in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The College supports students to earn degrees that provide a high quality liberal arts education (problem-solving aptitude, strong oral communications, asking good questions; respect others point of view), which at the same time prepare them for diverse career paths and future. The College's graduate programs also provide students with essential skills for continuing study through doctoral programs and for lifelong learning, including critical thinking, effective communication, and an understanding of the complexity of contemporary society in the context of diverse traditions and paradigms.

The Department of Political Science and Economics has an opening for one tenure-track Assistant Professor or a junior Associate Professor in either Economics or Political Science with a specialization in Political Economy beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development, etc.).

The department offers two bachelor degree programs in both economics and political science. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually after the 6th year and attaining tenure with evidence of continuing scholarship. This is an interdisciplinary position where the faculty will teach 2 classes in one discipline and 1 class in the other discipline. The successful candidate will also teach calculus-based Intermediate Microeconomics to economics majors.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline must be completed by July 31, 2018.

Evidence of excellence in undergraduate teaching is required. Applicants should demonstrate strong research abilities and the potential to secure external funding for research.

To assure full consideration, completed applications must be submitted electronically by November 10th, 2017.

We will conduct interviews at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) meetings Jan 5-7, 2018 in Philadelphia, Pa.

For full consideration, applications should include the items, assembled in the following order in a single PDF file: 1) a cover letter summarizing qualifications and interest in the position, 2) current CV, 3) statement of teaching interests (specifically including the list of courses taught and teaching philosophy), 4) a statement of research interests 5) and Contact information for three references. Please name the file as <LastName>_Application.pdf.

Do not forward reference letters at this time.

Additional required documentation include 1) unofficial transcripts, 2) student evaluations, and 3) research paper/publications. These should be submitted as a separate file, named <LastName>_Appendix.pdf.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically through Rowan University's employment website <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492317/assistant-professor-political-economy>

Rowan University, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the Department of Political Science and Economics are committed to diversity and inclusion.

All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Questions should be e-mailed to Natalie Reaves, reaves@rowan.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3548

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3560

St. Bonaventure University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Methodology, American Government and Politics

St. Bonaventure University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American politics and public law, beginning fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include courses in law and society, the introductory course in American government and politics, a quantitative research methods course for undergraduate Political Science majors, as well as courses in your area of interest. Teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester. Additional responsibilities include assisting with the Law and Society program, advising pre-law students, involvement in student affairs and university service, and an active research agenda. Applicants must have a PhD in hand or demonstrate that they will defend their dissertation by August 2018. Founded in 1858, St. Bonaventure University is a Catholic university dedicated to educational excellence in the Franciscan tradition. We are a predominately undergraduate, liberal arts based institution with 2000 students located in the Allegheny Mountains near Olean, NY. St. Bonaventure University emphasizes small classes, close engagement with students, and a mission-based liberal arts curriculum. Applicants should send curriculum vitae, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching effectiveness such as summaries of student evaluations, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter that discusses your approach to teaching and your research interests. St. Bonaventure University is committed to enhancing the diversity of our faculty and strongly encourages applications from under-represented groups of all faiths. The deadline for application is December 15, 2018. Email application and supporting documents to:

Josiah B. Lambert, PhD
poliscisearch@sbu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3549

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Latino Politics, Political Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor (JOB#12097)
School of Politics and Global Studies
Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. The anticipated start date is August 2018.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach (es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 30, 2017; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2018.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9809>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.) A background check is required for employment.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3414

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Administration, Public Policy

Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration or political science. This position will be responsible for teaching methodology courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, courses in public administration and policy at the undergraduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or State and Local Politics). The area of teaching and research specialization is open, but candidates should be comfortable teaching Introduction to Public Administration at the undergraduate level both in the online setting. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching one graduate course and two undergraduate courses each semester.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or political science, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3405

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Methodology

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in quantitative methodology. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3364

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajop/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee

Rank: Assistant Professor

University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Assistant Professor

Political Science Research Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political methodology to begin Fall 2018. We are interested in candidates with a strong commitment to research and teaching in quantitative methods and their application to substantive political science problems. Primary teaching responsibilities include graduate courses in quantitative methodology, as well as undergraduate and graduate courses in the applicant's substantive sub-field of interest. Preferred qualifications include: ability to teach graduate courses in quantitative methodology, commitment to teaching and research in quantitative methods and their application to substantive political science problems, a research focus in one of the following substantive subfields—Comparative Politics, American Politics, or International Relations—and the demonstrated ability to publish in highly visible peer-reviewed outlets. In addition to a strong scholar and teacher, we are interested in candidates who can serve as a resource to enhance the research activities of the department's faculty and graduate students.

The Department offers B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. We seek a person strongly committed to both teaching and research. Completion or near-completion of a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is expected by August 2018. Salary is competitive with salaries at other research universities. The teaching load is four courses per academic year.

Applicants must apply online to <http://jobs.uwm.edu/postings/26619>. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vita, a writing sample (as Required Document 1). Optional submissions could include a sample syllabus (as optional Other Document 2) or teaching evaluations (as optional Other Document 3). Candidates should have three or more professional letters of recommendation submitted directly to methodsfacuwm@uwm.edu. This is a continuous recruitment. Review of applications will begin on October 13, 2017. Applications received after October 13, 2017 may not receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3327

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in quantitative methodology, with a focus on causal inference and/or cost-benefit analysis. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, be able to teach quantitative methods and policy analysis effectively to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to an anticipated professional MA program in public policy. The candidate will also have opportunities to teach in his or her substantive area of expertise. The department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; ability to attract external funding; potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods Cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3306

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Research Methods

The Government Department at the University of Texas at Austin is hoping to hire two distinguished methodologists (including statistical methodologists and formal theorists) at the rank of full Professor to begin in Fall 2018. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of political science research methods and formal theory, broadly defined.

Duties will include both undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the University. The successful candidates will have a highly distinguished scholarly record of publication, a record of teaching excellence, and demonstrated excellence in intellectual and institutional leadership. Applicants must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications.

Applicants should upload a vitae, examples of scholarly work, and teaching materials. The department will begin reviewing applications immediately and continue receiving applications until the positions are filled. Applicants should apply online at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44115>. Position funding is pending budgetary approval. A background check will be conducted for successful applicants. AA/EEO employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3269

Wichita State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Wichita State University invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the assistant professor level, to begin August 2018. Candidates should have completed their PhD by the time of appointment, have quantitative analytical skills, a demonstrated teaching effectiveness, the potential for scholarly publications, effective written and oral communication skills, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity. Preferred candidates will have the ability and willingness to teach an undergraduate quantitative methods course, willingness to teach periodic online/hybrid courses, and/or an interest in providing occasional Honors College course offerings. Teaching responsibilities will include: A variety of undergraduate American Politics courses, including introductory American Politics, as well as a course on quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The selected candidate will have the opportunity and the responsibility to help shape and enhance the curriculum of the American Politics offerings in the department. Wichita State University has a diverse student body with a large number of non-traditional students and an enrollment of approximately 14,400. Wichita is a thriving and expanding community of 600,000. The Political Science department offers BA degrees and has approximately 70 majors and five faculty members. Salary is competitive. Consideration of applications will begin September 29 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample at <http://jobs.wichita.edu>. For assistance with online submission, employment@wichita.edu (316) 978-3065.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3192

Saint Mary's College of California

Rank: American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Africa, East Asia

Saint Mary's College of California invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in the Department of Politics. The position is for an Americanist to join our collegial department of passionate and active teacher/scholars. The ideal candidate will have the ability to teach introductory and upper division courses on executive and legislative politics at the federal, state, and local levels, and other courses that fit with the candidate's substantive interests. We have a particular interest in recruiting candidates who can develop courses to strengthen the diversity of our curriculum, and to work with a highly diverse student body. We prefer candidates with a secondary specialization in African or Asian politics, and those who have the ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

Consistent with Saint Mary's College's commitment to inclusive excellence, the Politics Department strives to be an inclusive community that fosters respect and belonging for faculty and students of diverse backgrounds and identities. We seek a candidate who can engage, advocate for and support students of color, women, and underrepresented groups.

Saint Mary's College of California is a private, Catholic, comprehensive and co-educational university that engages students in rigorous critical thinking, promotes social justice, and educates the whole person for human fulfillment. Recognized among just forty exceptional institutions in Colleges That Change Lives – and the first Catholic and first California college to be included – Saint Mary's is praised for its challenging and supportive learning community.

The De La Salle Christian Brothers, the largest teaching order of the Roman Catholic Church, guide the spiritual and academic character of the College. Located on a stunning 420-acre campus in the Moraga Hills outside of San Francisco, Saint Mary's currently enrolls approximately 4,000 highly diverse students. For more information about Saint Mary's mission and history, see: <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/about-smc/our-mission>.

Responsibilities: All Saint Mary's faculty are invited to engage with and contribute to the Catholic, Lasallian and Liberal Arts traditions of the College through their teaching, scholarship and service. The standard teaching assignment is six courses per year, including departmental offerings and contributions to College-wide programs (January Term and Collegiate Seminar). In the department, the successful candidate will teach courses such as Introduction to American Politics, Presidency and Congress, Political Parties and Pressure Groups, Elections and Voting Behavior, State and Urban Politics, and other courses based on the candidate's expertise. Saint Mary's faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarly agenda and demonstrate intellectual growth and significant achievement appropriate to their field. All faculty also contribute service to the College and community, including academic advising, and participation in the shared governance of the College through departmental and College-wide committees and the development and assessment of the College's Core Curriculum. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or related field or doctoral candidacy focused on U.S. executive and legislative politics, with expectation of degree by July 1, 2018; demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching in the liberal arts tradition; evidence of potential for teaching effectiveness, particularly among a diverse body of undergraduates; ability to engage in scholarship and professional activity at the national (or international) level.

Preferred Qualifications: Experience teaching politics courses and evidence of effectiveness in teaching; promise of significant scholarly achievement; demonstrated commitment and success working in diverse, multicultural contexts, especially in higher education settings; qualified to teach a course in African or Asian politics; interest in developing courses that strengthen the diversity of the curriculum; ability to teach a quantitative based methods course.

TO APPLY:

1. Please apply on-line at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43640>
2. A complete application includes a letter of interest, explaining how your qualifications satisfy the position requirements and addressing how you are prepared to support the Mission of the College; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; evidence of teaching effectiveness thus far; and a writing sample.
3. In applying for a position, candidates sign a consent form authorizing a broader inquiry.
4. For finalists, the College will contact references, in confidence, and credentials will be confirmed prior to hire.
5. Questions should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Ronald Ahnen, Chair of Politics Department at rahn@stmarys-ca.edu.

Deadline: Consideration and review of applications will begin immediately. Applications submitted after October 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Mary's College annually collects information about campus crimes and other reportable incidents in accordance with the federal Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. To view the Saint Mary's College Report, please go to the Public Safety website at <http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/public-safety/annual-security-and-fire-safety-report-0>. To request a paper copy please call Public Safety at (925) 631-4284. The report includes the type of crime, venue, and number of occurrences.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3183

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American Politics and Research Methods

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American politics beginning the 2018-19 academic year. We seek candidates who are broadly trained in American politics and who are qualified to teach undergraduate research methods. The teaching expectations include an introductory survey course in American government, courses in American political institutions (congress, the presidency), and courses in one or more of the following areas: ethnic/minority politics, domestic political economy, public opinion and mass media, and state and local politics. The position also includes participation in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. PhDs and/or ABDs who have made substantial progress toward completion of the dissertation are welcome to apply.

Hope College is a Christian, co-educational, residential liberal arts college affiliated with the Reformed Church in America. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and goals of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the historic Christian faith.

Application materials are to be submitted electronically as part of the online application (<http://www.hope.edu/employment/faculty>). Applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, copies of undergraduate and graduate school transcripts (unofficial versions are acceptable at this stage), a statement of how the candidate's background and interests can contribute to the mission of the college, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching competency. In addition, please enter the contact information for three references on the application. Those references will be contacted by Human Resources to submit a letter of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on September 30th, and will continue until the position is filled. Any questions regarding the opening may be directed to David Ryden, departmental chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 50 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruijenga Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3154

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3130

Rice University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Rice University, as part of its $150 million investment in research excellence, intends to hire multiple tenure-track faculty members whose research focus is in data science. These new hires will join the four faculty members hired in the 2016-2017 academic year, along with the community of scholars at Rice who focus on data-driven research. We seek to hire two distinct kinds of specialists: (1) data scientists who can make fundamental contributions to the theory, algorithms, and systems aspects of data science, and (2) scholars who work on emerging applications of data science to problems in health and medicine, urban analytics, and high-volume or high-velocity data-intensive science. The candidate's cover letter or research statement should make clear how their research relates to one of these three problem areas.

The Data Science initiative seeks candidates at all ranks, for employment as early as July 1, 2018. All new hires will have an appointment in one or more relevant department. Assistant Professors will have a single primary department that will be responsible for their mentoring and promotion. At higher ranks, appointments across multiple departments are desirable. Individual departments at Rice also have active faculty searches this year. Those searches are distinct from the Data Science search and may include research areas beyond those included in the Data Science search. Interested candidates should consider applying to both the Data Science search and any appropriate departmental search.

Applicants to the Data Science search should submit the following: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) research statement which describes how the candidate's work fits with Rice's data science initiative and in one or more of the three problem areas (not to exceed three pages including figures); (4) teaching statement; and (5) the names, professional affiliations, and email addresses of three references. For full details, please visit: <http://datascience.rice.edu>, and to apply, please visit: <https://jobs.rice.edu/postings/11380>. These positions require a PhD, or PhD requirements fulfilled by November 1 of the year employment commences. Applications will be evaluated beginning on September 15, 2017 and will continue to be accepted until all positions are filled. Recommendation of candidates or questions regarding this opportunity can be directed to the committee at datascience@rice.edu.

Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, is a private, coeducational, nonsectarian university that aspires to path-breaking research, unsurpassed teaching, and contributions to the betterment of our world. Rice fulfills this mission by cultivating a diverse community of learning and discovery that produces leaders across the spectrum of human endeavor. From its beginning in 1912, Rice has been dedicated to excellence in all regards.

Rice University is an Equal Opportunity Employer with commitment to diversity at all levels, and considers for employment qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3103

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3116

University of Rochester

Rank: Methods/American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in Methodology. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3095

University of Rochester

Rank: Political Economy/ American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3096

University of Rochester

Rank: Political Economy/ International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in International Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/8/2017

Date Posted: 8/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3092

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant Professor

International Relations/Methodology (Assistant Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University Bloomington invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor in the field of International Relations (IR) and/or methodology beginning August 2018. We have a particular interest in scholars who will contribute to our professional reputation in empirical International Relations and our research methods courses at all levels. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, the candidate is expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate in departmental activities.

This position is authorized at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful candidates who have completed their Ph.D. degree by Sept. 30, 2017 will be appointed as Assistant Professor, while Ph.D. candidates without degree in hand would be appointed as Acting Assistant Professor at a lower salary. Upon final completion of the degree by Jan. 31, 2018, the appointment would be changed to Assistant Professor at a higher salary for the spring semester. Candidates at the Associate Professor level or seeking a tenured appointment will be considered only under unusual circumstances.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA Services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status. To ensure full consideration applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, copies of research publication and course syllabi, and teaching evaluations by October 1, 2017. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, however.

Interested candidates should review the job requirements and submit application materials on-line at <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/4339>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to:

Jessica Williams
Department of Political Science
Indiana University Bloomington
1100 E. Seventh Street
Bloomington, IN 47405-7110
(812) 855-1209
jeewilli@indiana.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3078

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3061

University of Delaware

Rank: Professor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, American Politics, Political Psychology

PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for appointment as a full professor with tenure in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) We seek a scholar of American Political Behavior/Political Psychology, with a particular focus on quantitative methodologies.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 26 full-time and jointly appointed faculty, nearly 800 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a tenured full professor with an exemplary record of scholarship and teaching in American political behavior/political psychology. The successful candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized senior scholar with a strong record of graduate student and junior faculty mentoring, a strong record of grant-writing success, and an interest in actively building the quantitative American politics capacity in our methodologically diverse department. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns: (1) the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior (2) the political psychology of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; and/or (3) electoral processes and representation.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position and a current CV. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to the attention of Professor Philip Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3024

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Comparative Politics

Specializations: Western Europe, Quantitative Methods, Electoral Systems

Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics for the 2018-19 academic year beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses, including introductory courses in Comparative Politics, advanced courses in European Politics, and one to two sections of research methods.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status is required. The opportunity to maintain a personal research program will be available.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2174>. A curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 7/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2976

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 7/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2963

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2018-19 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science.

During the 2018-19 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2018
2. Substantive interest in any social science field
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Instructions

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth

- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2018. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42907

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2964

NON-ACADEMIC

Democracy Fund

Rank: Project Manager

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Non-Academic

Specializations: Electoral Systems, Electoral Behavior, Quantitative Methods

VOTER STUDY GROUP PROJECT MANAGER – CONTRACT ROLE

Position Description

Overview and Responsibilities

The Democracy Fund Voter Study Group is a research collaboration comprised of nearly two dozen analysts and scholars from across the political spectrum offering new data and analysis exploring American voters' beliefs and behaviors. The mission of the Voter Study Group is to help policy makers and thought leaders listen more closely, and respond more powerfully, to the views of American voters. We hope the study group's research and analysis will help us understand each other and make our democracy more functional.

In June, the Voter Study Group released its first four reports based on a unique longitudinal survey commissioned by the group (www.voterstudygroup.org). Further quantitative and qualitative research will be commissioned in the future, which will be designed and analyzed by study group members.

The Project Manager is a contract role that will be responsible for the day-to-day management of the group's research and communications, working closely with the Voter Study Group's Project Director and Research Director, as well as the Democracy Fund communications teams. We anticipate that this will be a part-time contract position, but are open to explore different working relationships for the right candidate.

Project Manager responsibilities include:

- Research Design
 - o Participate in the research design process for new research commissioned by the Voter Study Group
 - o Ensure adequate input from members into the design of the original research
 - o Work with the research director on developing and finalizing research designs, including research questions and questionnaire
- Research Analysis

- o Work with members of the study group to conduct in-depth analyses of commissioned research
- o Edit papers written by study group members and solicit feedback from study group members
- o Work with members of the communications team to design and publish papers written by the group
- o Present research findings to key audiences

- Communication
 - o Coordinate with the communications team on outreach to media and other key audiences to disseminate research findings
 - o Coordinate with the communications team on the development and maintenance of the project web site
 - o Produce content for the project web site to communicate new findings
- Event Management
 - o Organize events to support dialogue among the Voter Study Group
 - o Manage the planning and orchestration of public facing events with media and other leaders to discuss and disseminate research findings
- Study Group Management
 - o Maintain communication among members of the study group
 - o Support recruitment of new members of the study group

Qualifications

- PhD in political science, public policy, or related field
- Exceptional writing and editing skills
- Demonstrated project management skills
- Strong quantitative analysis skills, including an ability to use statistical programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data
- Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including multiple regression analysis
- Significant experience in the design of public opinion research
- Experience with publishing academic research
- Willingness to work with scholars from across the political spectrum
- Professional maturity, high sense of personal responsibility and integrity, proven ability to exercise discretion and good judgment
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products
- Flexibility and initiative to work both independently and as part of a team
- Deep passion for strengthening American democracy
- The position is based in the Washington, DC, area.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter explaining their interest in the position and the organization and resume to <http://www.democracyfund.org/page/jobs#VSGPM>. No phone calls please.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3660

Pew Research Center

Rank: Research Assistant, Politics

Research Assistants are involved in all aspects of the survey research process within the Politics team, including questionnaire development, data management, statistical analysis, quality control, reporting of survey results, and data visualization. For all of these tasks, attention to detail and individual judgment are critical.

Research Assistants work integrally within a broader research team to ensure that questionnaires are designed and developed effectively, that data management and coding is carried out without errors, that data analysis, that reports meet the highest standards of accuracy and impartiality, and that data is reported in a clear and compelling way.

A typical project cycle – from initial questionnaire development to final report distribution – can be as long as six months or as short as a few weeks. On each project, Research Assistants will be assigned specific roles within the broader research team, and must be able to fulfill their primary responsibilities while meeting tight deadlines and balancing multiple tasks. This position reports to the Director, Political Research and works closely with other researchers on staff.

Education/Training/Experience

- Bachelor's degree required.
- Background in data management and analysis required.
- Experience with MS Word, Excel and PowerPoint.
- Experience with SPSS or other statistical software.
- Background in Social Science preferred.

Knowledge & Skills Requirements

- Interest in American politics and polling required.
- A “numbers person” with strong quantitative and statistical skills.
- Strong verbal, written and graphical communications skills.
- Detail oriented and ability to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products.
- Ability to work well in a team setting.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/qk59qqz8vyz3rx3s>

PI99859725

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3657

Princeton University

Rank: Communications Associate

The Department of Politics seeks a Communications Associate for the Arab Barometer. This individual will promote and disseminate findings through media relations, in both Arabic and English, and play a large role in event planning including the training workshops in the region. The Communications Associate will serve as initial point of contact for media and policy inquiries. The associate will also reach out to print, broadcast and online media through press releases, media advisories and pitch calls, while leading efforts on social media outreach to promote the Arab Barometer's work.

This is a full time, 18 month term position, based in Washington D.C. The possibility of renewal exists depending on performance and grant funding.

Responsibilities

- Develop strategies and tactics to best serve the media, key stakeholders and interested parties in MENA and the U.S.
- Assist with digital outreach including website and social media in Arabic and English
- Oversee planning for training workshops to train key stakeholders in MENA in how to successfully use project data
- Serve as initial point of contact for external inquiries, especially media inquiries
- Respond to incoming media requests promptly, accurately and efficiently
- Reach out to print, broadcast and online media in the Arab world, the U.S. and beyond through press releases, media advisories and pitch calls
- Take responsibility for creating, updating and maintaining lists of media and other key stakeholders
- Identify new people and organizations within the target audiences
- Track success of written reports, media outreach, and other external outreach activities

Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree required; degree in communications, journalism or related field
- 3-5 years' experience in communications, including media relations
- Background working with press corps and public-policy community in MENA and the U.S.
- Background in event planning
- Strong writing skills and ability to work on a variety of materials for different audiences
- Knowledge of Salesforce or similar contact databases
- Experience with Microsoft Office (especially Word, Excel, PowerPoint)
- Fluency (spoken and written) in Arabic and English
- Demonstrated interest in and knowledge of MENA issues, as well as those at the intersection of religion and public affairs
- Ability to work with numbers and statistics
- Strong skills in organization, ability to balance multiple project, and to meet multiple deadlines
- Ability to work strategically and collegially with the Arab Barometer team

To be considered application must be submitted at <https://careers.princeton.edu/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3640

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Managing Director - Project on Resources, Development and Governance

The Project on Resources, Development and Governance (PRDG), <https://prdgucdablog.wordpress.com/> is seeking a full-time Managing Director to oversee our new organization, which will promote randomized evaluations in resource-dependent countries in Africa, Latin America, and Asia. The position is based in Los Angeles at the UCLA campus. PRDG is a network of social scientists and practitioners dedicated to generating rigorous, systematic evidence about policies that can improve the lives of citizens in countries dependent on oil, gas, and mining revenues. It will convene biannual workshops, distribute research grants, promote research partnerships and training, and disseminate evidence about policy effectiveness.

The Managing Director's responsibilities will include:

- Strategic planning:

Working with the academic leadership to develop and oversee a long-term strategy for PRDG's outreach, communications, and growth; Designing a strategy to solicit and review applications for research grants;

Fostering partnerships with related initiatives and organizations;

- Organizational management:

Organizing meetings of researchers and practitioners twice a year, one in the US and one overseas. This will entail coordinating with cosponsors, identifying and inviting participants, and supervising the meeting logistics;

Managing the flow of PRDG funds, including the disbursement of research grants and meeting expenses;

Coordinating the drafting and submission of grant applications to support PRDG's growth;

Developing a staffing plan that will meet PRDG's needs. This will include recruiting, hiring and supervising administrative staff and research assistants;

- Communications:

Communicating with the academic leadership, grantees, and representatives of other organizations;

Responding to general inquiries about PRDG;

Developing a strategy to raise awareness of PRDG's work.

The ideal candidate will have a record of successful program management, excellent problem-solving skills, experience in developing and meeting budget goals, a strong sense of initiative, the capacity to manage multiple time-sensitive projects, and exceptional written and oral communications skills. We strongly prefer candidates who have a graduate degree, an interest in public policy in low and middle income countries, and a familiarity with social science research methods.

The position comes with a competitive salary, outstanding UCLA benefits, <https://www.chr.ucla.edu/new-employee/employee-benefits> a flexible working environment, and opportunities for both travel and professional development.

Please apply through the UCLA Career Opportunities website by November 1; the link to the job application is here:

<https://hr.mycareer.ucla.edu/applicants/jsp/shared/frameset/Frameset.jsp?time=1507843753875>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/15/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3622

OTHER

American Political Science Association

Rank: Program Assistant

POSITION TITLE: PROGRAM ASSISTANT, RESEARCH

SALARY: Commensurate with Experience

REQUIRED EDUCATION: BA in Political Science or related field

REQUIRED EXPERIENCE: 2+ years' experience preferred. Additional education (e.g., MA) can be substituted for experience. Experience in analyzing data in STATA, SPSS, Microsoft Excel, or related programs. Familiarity with data visualization and Tableau preferred; knowledge of R is a plus.

POSITION DESCRIPTION

The American Political Science Association (APSA) seeks candidates for the position of Program Assistant, Research. The assistant reports to the Manager for Research and works closely with Deputy Director. This person will be responsible for providing (i) supporting data-oriented research on the profession, including the cleaning, coding, and analyzing of APSA's surveys on the profession to support understanding of the field of political science, and the strategic planning of the Association's work; (ii) support for APSA governance functions, including work with the APSA Council as needed. Ability to work independently and within a team setting is essential; and (iii) administrative and scheduling support for the Deputy Director. Knowledge of, and interest in, understanding diversity and inclusion in higher education settings is highly desirable. This position is an excellent opportunity for a recent graduate interested in learning about and using social science research in a non-profit setting, and/or who may wish to pursue graduate opportunities in the social sciences.

STATUS

Full-time, non-exempt

ESSENTIAL RESPONSIBILITIES

Research and data analysis

- Survey data analysis, including cleaning, coding, and analyzing data
- Editing and formatting reports and their citations
- Engaging with APSA members to respond to inquiries, collect information, and troubleshoot issues as they relate to research and development initiatives; update and curate Research on the Profession resources for the APSA website
- Preparing data for use in online, interactive dashboards for APSA members and the public
- Creating the APSA Chart of the Month

Administrative Support

- Support the Deputy Director, with scheduling, travel, and other administrative duties as required
- Support APSA committee activities, including facilitating semi-annual meetings, note-taking, preparing meeting minutes, and responding to routine enquiries from committee members
- Other tasks as assigned

ESSENTIAL SKILLS

- Experience with Microsoft Excel, SPSS, STATA, R., or related programs
- Familiarity with quantitative and qualitative research methodologies, through coursework or previous experience
- Aptitude for quickly learning and utilizing new information, concepts, and programs
- High energy and initiative, positive, "can-do" attitude, flexibility, and teamwork
- Well-organized and detail-oriented.
- Excellent writing skills; strong verbal communication and interpersonal skills
- Experience supporting public and/or member engagement a plus
- Knowledge of advanced Microsoft Office Suite functions, especially Word, Excel, and Outlook

ABOUT APSA

The APSA is a 501(c)3 nonprofit educational association that serves a membership base of 14,000 in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments and institutions, APSA brings together political scientists from all fields of inquiry, regions and occupational endeavors within and outside academe in order to expand awareness and understanding of politics. To learn more about APSA, please visit www.apsanet.org. APSA offers a comprehensive compensation and benefits package. APSA has a Metro-accessible location in DuPont Circle in Washington, DC, with a full-time staff of 26. APSA is an equal opportunity employer committed to workplace diversity and welcomes applications from anyone with the qualifications indicated above.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered, submit a resume with cover letter indicating how your experience and skills align with the description and the essential skills required of the position, as PDF attachments by email to APSA at hr@apsanet.org. Review of applications will begin on 6 November 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3718

Coastal Carolina University

Rank: Lecturer of Intelligence and National Security Studies

Lecturer of Intelligence and National Security Studies

The College of Humanities and Fine Arts at Coastal Carolina University invites applications for a Lecturer position in the Intelligence and National Security Studies program beginning August 2018.

The successful applicant must possess a graduate degree in Political Science (i.e. M.A., M.S., M.P.A., or M.P.P.) or other relevant field by the time of appointment. A Ph.D. is preferred but not required. Preference will be given to applicants with particular interests in intelligence, homeland security, emergency/disaster management, critical infrastructure protection at the state or local level, and cyber security. The ideal candidate will also have practical experience in the field.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate courses in the field, as well as support the continued growth and development of the Intelligence and National Security Studies program.

Coastal Carolina University is a public comprehensive liberal arts institution located just nine miles from the Atlantic coast resort of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Coastal enrolls more than 10,000 students from 45 states and 58 nations. The University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award the baccalaureate and selective master's degrees of national and/or regional significance in the arts and sciences, business, humanities, education, and health and human services, a specialist degree in educational leadership, and a Ph.D. degree in Marine Science.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, recent teaching evaluations, and three (3) professional references electronically at <http://jobs.coastal.edu>. To ensure full consideration application must be received before January 15, 2018. Review of applications and materials will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Coastal Carolina University is building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. CCU is an EO/AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3719

Harvard University

Rank: Frank Stanton Professorship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Economic Policy, Religion & Politics

Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government seeks applications from scholars of American democracy, politics, and institutions for a chaired, tenured professorship. The position is broadly defined to attract accomplished scholars whose research has important implications for the health, quality, and durability of the United States' liberal democratic system. Scholars who conduct empirical or normative research on issues related to the politics of speech, assembly, media, association, or religion in America are particularly welcome to apply. The search is open to candidates from a wide array of disciplines, including political science, law, history, economics, sociology, and communications. The ideal applicant, who is expected to hold the Frank Stanton Professorship, will have produced influential scholarship that advances clear and compelling analytical perspectives, will have demonstrated a commitment to applying those perspectives in order to solve public problems, and will seek to engage with policymakers, practitioners, and the public. Applicants must also be able to fulfill the distinctive teaching and institutional requirements of a school of public policy that trains leaders and citizens and generates ideas to address national and international challenges. The Harvard Kennedy School is committed to building a diverse intellectual community. We therefore encourage applications from women and minorities.

Applicants should submit a CV and a letter of interest. Applications received by December 31, 2017 will receive full consideration. Applications should be addressed to: Stanton Chair Search, c/o Donald Olander, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, 79 JFK Street, Cambridge, MA 02138 USA, e-mail: don_olander@hks.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3716

Cornell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Social & Behavioral Science in Nutrition

Assistant Professor of Social & Behavioral Science in Nutrition
Division of Nutritional Sciences

Candidates for this position are expected to demonstrate future promise for establishing and maintaining a vibrant, independent and extramurally-funded research program, and for teaching undergraduate and graduate students. The qualifications of the candidate should be consistent with a tenure-track appointment at the level of an Assistant Professor, with a Doctoral degree in a social science discipline such as sociology, social psychology, cultural anthropology or another social science field. Prospective candidates should have foundational knowledge and experience in interdisciplinary research at the interface of food, eating, or human nutrition and the social and behavioral sciences, with an interest in U.S. community or public health settings. Demonstrated research excellence in areas of interest include, but are not limited to, maternal and child nutrition, obesity and chronic disease prevention, and nutrition disparities. Research excellence should be demonstrated through publications in recognized journals and prior experience in seeking independent research funding is highly desirable. The applicant must have an interest in and be qualified to teach an undergraduate course on Social Science Perspectives on Food and Nutrition and a graduate level course. Demonstrated scholarship within community and public health nutrition is central to this position.

The Division of Nutritional Sciences is a broadly based interdisciplinary unit that integrates theories and methods from across many academic disciplines to understand the complex relationships among biology, nutrition, food systems and lifestyle patterns, social and institutional environments and governmental policies in relation to human health. This position recognizes and highlights the importance of the relationship of factors in the social, cultural, information/electronic, economic, physical, and policy environments to the health and nutritional well-being of human populations. The successful candidate should have experience in and/or the potential to develop collaborations with other faculty who have broad interests in basic and applied aspects of food and nutrition.

Academic Environment at Cornell University

Cornell is a major Land Grant research and teaching institution established in 1865 with both endowed and state-assisted units. The student population on the Ithaca campus is approximately 5,350 graduate/professional students and 13,670 undergraduates. Cornell offers a strong, interdisciplinary research environment. Recently, the university initiated campus-wide investments in the Life Sciences, the Cornell Population Program, the Institute for Social Sciences, the Global Health Program, and the Weill Cornell Medical College and Cornell Technology Campus, which are located in New York City. The Division of Nutritional Sciences

The Division of Nutritional Sciences (DNS) at Cornell University is among the largest academic units in the United States devoted to human nutrition. DNS is a multidisciplinary unit with scholarly activities that integrate knowledge from the physical, biological and social sciences in the areas of molecular, human, international and community nutrition through teaching, research, and outreach related to food, food systems, nutrition and health. Multidisciplinary research, graduate training, and outreach programs include Maternal & Child Nutrition, Nutritional Genomics, Food Systems for Health and Nutrition, Global Health & International Nutrition and Obesity & Chronic Disease. In carrying out its mission, DNS supports and contributes to advancements in basic disciplines and promotes the health and well-being of populations in the US and globally. The DNS undergraduate program consists of four majors. The Nutritional Sciences major and the Global and Public Health Sciences major are offered through the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences and the College of Human Ecology. The Human Biology, Health and Society major is offered through the College of Human Ecology, and the concentration in Nutrition in the Biological Sciences Major is offered through the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences and the College of Arts and Sciences. The Division of Nutritional Sciences is the administrative home for the Cornell Graduate Field of Nutrition and the Graduate Field of Epidemiology.

Qualifications

- Ph.D., ScD, DrPH, or related degree in a social science discipline (i.e., sociology, social psychology, cultural anthropology, or another social science field) with foundational knowledge and a research focus at the interface of the social sciences and food, eating, and nutrition in U.S. community/public health settings;
- Demonstrated research excellence in areas generating knowledge that contributes to theory, methods, practice, and policy for understanding social aspects of food, eating, and nutrition in the context of nutritional disparities, maternal and child nutrition, obesity and chronic disease prevention, or other areas;
- Interest and/or experience in teaching at the undergraduate and/or graduate level with a focus on application of the social sciences to the study of food and nutrition;
- Research excellence that is demonstrated through publications in peer-reviewed journals in the field; and
- Experience in grant writing and/or a history of obtaining independent research funding.

Responsibilities

The candidate is expected to:

- Initiate and sustain a vigorous, externally funded research program;
- Teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses related to social science expertise and food, eating, and nutrition;
- Mentor and train graduate students;
- Maintain a high level of scholarly activity; and
- Forge professional relationships within the Division of Nutritional Sciences and with other academic units on campus and beyond.

Academic Rank and Compensation

Assistant Professor with 9-month appointment and expectation of tenure. Position is designated as 60% effort in research, 40% in teaching/instruction. Salary level will depend on experience and expertise and will be competitive with comparable positions at peer universities.

Applicants must apply through Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10158> and upload a cover letter, CV, research statement and a teaching statement. Applicants must also arrange to that three confidential letters of recommendation submitted through Academic Jobs Online. Review of applications will begin in November of 2017 and will continue until this position has been filled. Start date for this position is as soon as July 1, 2018.

Cornell University is an innovative Ivy League university and a great place to work. Our inclusive community of scholars, students and staff impart an uncommon sense of larger purpose and contribute creative ideas to further the university's mission of teaching, discovery and engagement. With our main campus located in Ithaca, NY, Cornell's far-flung global presence includes the medical college's campuses on the Upper East Side of Manhattan and Doha, Qatar, as well as the Cornell Tech campus located on Roosevelt Island in the heart of New York City.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/mc4hfz4k47fhtrsf>

PI99985997

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/30/2017

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3714

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in Development Management

Department of International Development

Assistant Professor in Development Management

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and not less than £53,905 pa inclusive

This appointment is due to commence on 1 September 2018

Candidates should have (or be close to completing) a PhD, by the post start date, related to the political economy of development from a social science discipline such as Politics, Economics, Development Studies, Sociology or similar subject. Candidates will also have a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by existing publications, or potential, to publish in top journals or with leading book publishers in the political economy of development, as well as research experience in the developing world, or evidence that such a record is being developed.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the “contact us” links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email j.p.faguet@lse.ac.uk.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 28 November 2017 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Job talks and interviews will be held in January 2018.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/28/2017

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3710

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Other

The University of Arkansas at Little Rock invites nominations and applications for a twelve-month appointment as associate or full professor (with tenure) to serve as the Director of the School of Public Affairs (position #R99296), with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2018. A Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Affairs, or a related field is required. Applicants with the rank of full professor are desirable, although associate professor applicants and academically qualified candidates not currently in a faculty position will also be considered.

The selected candidate will lead a diverse and dynamic group of scholars and practitioners in building UA Little Rock’s newly founded School of Public Affairs. The School is part of the College of Social Sciences & Communication (CSSC), a community of teacher-scholars and professionals whose mission is to apply theory and research to drive social change and inspire human expression, reflection, and interconnection (see ualr.edu/cssc).

UA Little Rock’s School of Public Affairs (SPA) includes a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration, graduate certificate programs in Nonprofit Management and Conflict Management, Bachelor’s degree programs in Political Science, International Studies, Legal Studies, Community Management and Development, and undergraduate minor programs in Nonprofit Leadership Studies and Presidential Studies. It also participates in a joint JD/MPA program with the UA Little Rock Bowen School of Law. The School also houses the Survey Research Center, the Center for Nonprofit Organizations, and the Center for Public Collaboration. The Survey Research Center provides a full range of survey research services and is one of the largest not-for-profit survey research organizations in the mid-South.

The School of Public Affairs is also the organizational home of the Arkansas Public Administration Consortium (APAC), a consortium between the MPA programs at UA Little Rock, UA Fayetteville, and Arkansas State University. The Arkansas Public Administration Consortium offers a nationally accredited Certified Public Manager training program, as well as Arkansas Government Manager and Certified Volunteer Management certificate programs. It also provides tailored training for local and county government groups. The School enjoys close relationships with state and local government leaders and nonprofit organizations. For more information about all the programs in the SPA, consult the School webpage at <http://ualr.edu/publicaffairs/>.

Desired Qualifications:

The School seeks an experienced, dynamic, entrepreneurial, collaborative, and engaged leader who will leverage the potential of the School, its faculty, and its students in scholarly and applied research, external funding (grants and contracts), technical outreach and public service, teaching, and fundraising. Supporting evidence of the ability to attract external funding and to develop and manage collaboration with stakeholders is highly desirable. The ability to teach public administration courses in the graduate programs, including methodology courses, is desirable. Evidence of accomplishments and innovation in administration, scholarship, and community engagement; professional experience in public or nonprofit management; a commitment to diversity and student success; and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching will all enhance an application for this position.

The Director’s primary responsibilities are to:

- ? Serve as the chief administrative officer of the School;
- ? Further develop the School’s strategic direction;
- ? Provide leadership for the School as a whole, including working with and collaborating with program and center coordinators;
- ? Ensure that budgetary decision-making and execution are driven by principle, transparency, consultation, and accountability;
- ? Continually develop vibrant and productive relationships with stakeholders and the community at large;
- ? Advance the applied and academic research profile of the School in the community and in the profession, nationally and internationally;
- ? Encourage and enhance academic connections with other units in the College of Social Sciences and across the University; and
- ? Support and advance the College and University missions.

The Director joins the leadership team of the College of Social Sciences and Communication (CSSC) and reports to the CSSC Dean. The Director collaborates closely with and is accountable to the School’s faculty as well, and is responsible for leading the development and operation of the School. The Director is appointed by the Executive Vice Chancellor and Provost of the University, acting upon the recommendation of the School’s faculty and CSSC Dean.

General Information about UA Little Rock and the Broader Metropolitan Community

UA Little Rock is a research intensive public urban/metropolitan university located in the state capital. It enrolls around 11,000 students per semester, including over 1,800 graduate students. UA Little Rock supports a full range of undergraduate programs, 38 master's programs, a law degree, and eight doctoral programs. UA Little Rock is part of the University of Arkansas system. UA Little Rock supports neighborhood revitalization through the University District working with housing, education, public safety, and commercial development in the neighborhoods surrounding the campus.

Little Rock is the capital city and the largest metropolitan area in Arkansas, boasting affordable housing, proximity to wilderness and recreational areas, and numerous cultural and civic attractions, including the William J. Clinton Presidential Library, the Arkansas Studies Institute, the Arkansas Arts Center, the Arkansas Repertory Theater, and the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra. The larger Little Rock area has a population of 900,000 people and is the state center for government, medicine, commerce and the arts.

Application materials must be submitted through the online application system. Additional information about these positions are available under the Jobs link on the Human Resources' website at <http://ualr.edu/humanresources/>. Consideration of applications will begin on December 1, 2017. Incomplete applications cannot be considered; any materials not submitted as requested using the online application system renders an application incomplete. Inquiries about the position may be made to Dr. April Chatham-Carpenter, chair of the search committee, at axchatham@ualr.edu or by phone at 501-569-3158.

The position is subject to a pre-employment criminal and financial history background check. A criminal conviction or arrest pending adjudication and/or adverse financial history alone shall not disqualify an applicant in the absence of a relationship to the requirements of the position. Background check information will be used in a confidential, non-discriminatory manner consistent with state and federal law.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/30/2017
Salary: $110,000 - $119,999
eJobs ID: 3713

Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster

Rank: Professor in the Social Sciences

The Faculty of Educational and Social Science at the University of Münster, Germany, is looking to fill the post of a

Professor in the Social Sciences
 (salary level W3)
 to study Islam in Europe in the 20th and 21st centuries

The post will be filled at the earliest possible date. The professorship will be based either in the Institute of Political Science or the Institute of Sociology.

Position overview

This position is intended to strengthen and promote interdisciplinary research on religion and politics at the University of Münster, which has been undertaken over the past 10 years within the framework of the Cluster of Excellence "Religion and Politics in Pre-Modern and Modern Cultures". Therefore, we seek candidates with an excellent track record in empirical research on the state of Islam and on the social situation of Muslims in Europe and/or on the social and political treatment of Islam and Muslims in European societies.

For appointment to a professorship in the Institute of Political Science, the successful candidate must be able to carry out research and teaching in general political science. Furthermore, the candidate is required to have specific research and teaching experience either in comparative political science or in gender relations and the political treatment of social diversity.

For appointment to a professorship in the Institute of Sociology, the successful candidate must display expertise in the theories and methods of sociology. In addition, the candidate is required to have demonstrable competence in research and teaching in the areas of migration, integration, and religious and social diversity.

Qualifications and expertise

Regardless of the institute of appointment, the successful candidate is expected to have a track record of high-level research contributions and relevant, including internationally notable, publications. It is assumed that the successful candidate has experience in securing research funding. In addition, the successful candidate will be expected to participate in the teaching programmes of the respective institute, as well as have research and teaching strengths compatible with those of the institute.

Prerequisites for appointment are a university degree, pedagogical aptitude, and a particular capacity for academic work, usually demonstrated by a doctorate of high quality. For appointment to the Institute of Political Science, this doctorate degree must be in political science; for appointment to the Institute of Sociology, in sociology.

Moreover, the successful candidate is required to have additional relevant academic achievements, demonstrated within the framework of a junior professorship, a post-doctoral monograph, or activity as a researcher at a university or non-university institution, or as part of scholarly activity in the private sector, in administration, or in another social sector either in Germany or abroad.

The University of Münster is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the proportion of women academics. Consequently, we actively encourage applications by women. Female candidates with equivalent qualifications and academic achievements will be preferentially considered within the framework of the legal possibilities. We also welcome applications from candidates with severe disabilities. Disabled candidates with equivalent qualifications will be preferentially considered.

Please send applications with full supporting documents (CV, list of publications, list of courses taught and list of committee work) electronically (if possible, in the form of a PDF document) by XX XX XXXX to:

University of Münster
 The Dean of Faculty 06
 Prof. Dr. Martin Bonsen
 E-mail: dek.fb06@uni-muenster.de

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/30/2017
Date Posted: 10/30/2017
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 3702

Colorado Mesa University

Rank: Visiting Professor of History or Political Science

Distinguished scholars in History or Political Science are invited to apply for the Wayne N. Aspinall Chair at Colorado Mesa University. For a $10,000 stipend, the visiting professor will spend three weeks on the Colorado Mesa University campus from late March-to mid-April 2019, teach a one credit course, give a major public lecture, and make any other invited appearances. Applications must include a vitae, a brief outline of a course proposal and a topic for the major public lecture. Submit application by February 9, 2018 to: Professor Steven C. Schulte, Department of History, Colorado Mesa University, 1100 North Ave., Grand Junction, CO 81501. Feel free to direct any inquiries to Schulte@coloradomesa.edu or 970 248-1418.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 2/9/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3677

University of Maryland, Baltimore County

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Health Policy

The School of Public Policy in the College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) is searching for an advanced assistant or associate professor of health policy, to begin August 2018. We are seeking candidates who have a commitment to inclusive excellence, a strong record of research productivity, a track-record of external funding, and expertise in teaching quantitative methods to graduate students. Candidates with interests in policy approaches to address health equity, and/or health disparities are strongly encouraged to apply.

The School of Public Policy includes 9 full-time tenured/tenure-track faculty members and more than 30 affiliate faculty members from related departments. The department offers Master's and PhD degrees in Public Policy, including a strong health policy concentration.

Successful candidates will have experience in or the potential for working collaboratively with faculty to mentor students with diverse life experiences, and from a variety of disciplines and academic backgrounds. Start up funds are available for the successful candidate.

A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or a related field is required.

Full consideration will be given to applicants who submit all materials to apply.interfolio.com/45973 by January 2, 2018. Complete applications will include: Cover Letter; addressing teaching, research and advising; the names of 3 references; and a curriculum vitae. Candidates must also submit a statement concerning the candidate's experience with and commitment to diversity efforts and the mission of UMBC. Questions may be addressed to Ms. Pam Doppler, pmollen@umbc.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3687

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

As part of a multi-year, cross-discipline strategic hiring and growth initiative in Early Childhood, the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Oklahoma (OU) seeks applications and informal candidate nominations for a faculty opening at the rank of Assistant or Tenured Associate Professor. The disciplinary background for this position is open, and applicants from psychology, sociology, social work, political science, anthropology, and other relevant areas will be considered. The successful candidate will play a key role in shaping and building a cross-discipline Early Childhood research initiative. Over the next several years, we anticipate multiple Early Childhood hires in varied disciplines and colleges to augment OU's cutting-edge academic programming and research in Early Childhood; this cross-campus initiative includes Arts & Sciences, Education, Medicine, Engineering, and allied areas.

Ideal candidates will have established reputations for high-quality interdisciplinary scholarship, evidenced by (a) externally funded and published collaborative research, (b) effective graduate and undergraduate teaching and program development, and (c) inclusive service and professional outreach. The successful candidate will contribute to the University's growing national reputation for excellence in Early Childhood and enhance university-wide research capabilities through offering expertise in neurobiological processes (e.g., cortisol and HPA axis) associated with early adversity, as well as more generally the social, community, and psychological determinants (both proximal and distal) of children's development, health, and well-being. We also welcome expertise in innovative assessments, methodologies, and multilevel, longitudinal data analysis.

About the University of Oklahoma: Established in 1890, the University of Oklahoma is the flagship public research university in the state of Oklahoma (Carnegie Classification R1: highest research activity), with over 30,000 students and more than 2700 full-time faculty members offering nearly 500 different graduate and undergraduate degrees programs on three campuses (Norman, Oklahoma City, and Tulsa). OU continues to break external sponsored research and private fundraising records, including more than $2.3 billion in gifts and pledges since 1994, providing funding for dramatic capital improvements, as well as an unparalleled increase in faculty endowment and student scholarships. OU is the only public university in U.S. history to ever rank first among both public and private universities in freshman National Merit Scholar enrollment. OU is a leader in international exchange and study abroad programs, offering programs in 79 countries and over 223 cities on six continents. OU has one of the oldest comprehensive colleges of fine arts in the Great Plains states, with highly-regarded schools of Music, Musical Theatre, Drama, Art and Dance, and programs in opera and sculpture. The OU College of Law is Oklahoma's premiere law school and The Michael F. Price College is ranked as one of the nation's top business schools. The OU Health Sciences Center is one of only four comprehensive academic health centers in the nation with seven professional schools, including more than 660 doctors practicing in nearly every adult and child specialty.

OU Research & Innovation: In 2013, the Norman research campus was named the No.1 research campus in the nation by the Association of Research Parks. Adjacent to the beautiful and historic Main campus in Norman, with 277 acres and over 1 million square feet of high-tech facilities located along the Oklahoma Technology Corridor, the research campus hosts the National Weather Center and affiliated organizations, the National Institute for Risk & Resilience, the South Central Climate Science Center, the Center for Applied Social Research, the WaTER Center, and the FAA Center of Excellence for Technical Training & Human Performance, among numerous others. By synergistically co-locating State and Federal agency research and operational organizations, along with more than a dozen private companies and several University centers and academic programs, the Norman research campus creates a uniquely rich environment for collaboration, innovation, and commercialization. Over the last 20 years, OU's Office of Technology Development has helped faculty and other partners launch dozens of new companies that have generated more than $75 million in capital.

Local Community & Culture: The city of Norman, Oklahoma, is a perennial contender on "best place to live" rankings with outstanding schools, amenities, a low cost of living, small town charm, a variety of recreational opportunities, four distinct seasons, and more than 225 days of sunshine each year. Norman is located 20 miles south of Oklahoma City, the Capital and economic hub of the state of Oklahoma. The Oklahoma City Metroplex, including Norman and several other suburban cities, is home to about 1.5 million residents, offering all the amenities of a major modern metropolitan community, including rich cultural diversity and heritage, an abundance of the arts, superb dining and night-life, major sporting and concert events, family entertainment, recreational adventure activities, and much more.

The University of Oklahoma is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and encourages diversity in the workplace. We strongly encourage applications from women, members of minority groups, veterans, those with disabilities, the LGBTQ community, and all others who are committed to excellence, inclusion, and diversity. The University of Oklahoma is also sensitive to the needs of dual-career couples. To the extent that opportunities exist, our goal is to recruit the whole family, not just the candidate.

QUALIFICATIONS

To be considered for this position, candidates must have a Ph.D. and evidence of excellence in Early Childhood scholarship. Successful candidates must demonstrate strong interest in contributing to the University's cross-campus, cross-discipline Early Childhood initiative; and a willingness to collaborate with the established research activities of the Early Childhood Education Institute (ECEI) located on the Tulsa Campus of OU; <http://www.ou.edu/content/tulsa/early-childhood-education-institute.html>. Candidates must also have an established record of excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, and be prepared to expand course offerings in their area of specialization. An established history of successful leadership and/or collaboration on funded research involving multidisciplinary teams is a highly-preferred qualification.

The University of Oklahoma is committed to investing in the success of its faculty at all stages of their careers. The University offers unique and essential research and professional development resources characteristic of a Flagship Public Research University. It is expected that the successful candidate will be affiliated with the Early Childhood Education Institute (ECEI). By mutual agreement, the successful candidate may also affiliate with other University-wide strategic research organizations and centers (e.g., the Center for Applied Social Research, the National Institute for Risk & Resilience). Salary, benefits, and start-up packages are highly-competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

To apply, please submit the following materials:

- a cover letter specifically addressing position fit, qualifications, and background
- a curriculum vitae
- three confidential letters of recommendation
- up to 3 publications/working papers
- a brief statement of research interests (e.g., 300-2000 words)
- a brief statement of teaching philosophy and interests (e.g., 300-2000 words)

Consideration of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, submit application materials by January 1, 2018. The position will remain open until filled. All application materials must be submitted electronically using the OU Career web site [<http://apply.interfolio.com/45790>] (see the "apply now" link at the bottom of the page).

For help signing up, accessing your account, or submitting your application please check out our help and support section or get in touch via email at help@interfolio.com or phone at (877) 997-8807.

Please send inquiries, informal candidate nominations, and other suggestions or comments to the co-chairs of the search committee, Dr. Diane Horm (dhorm@ou.edu) and Dr. Eric Day (eday@ou.edu).

The University of Oklahoma, in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations, does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. This includes, but is not limited to: admissions, employment, financial aid, and educational services.

APPLY NOW: <http://apply.interfolio.com/45790>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3688

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship at UCLA

The Project on Resources, Development, and Governance (PRDG) is a network of social scientists, policymakers, non-governmental organizations and industry representatives dedicated to finding policies that promote welfare, peace, and accountability in resource-rich countries. Its goals are to seed new research projects involving social scientists and practitioners and promote evidence-based policymaking. It is supported by grants from the Hewlett Foundation, the Natural Resources Governance Institute, and UCLA's Luskin Center for Innovation.

PRDG is soliciting applications for a two-year Post-Doctoral Fellowship beginning in Fall 2018 to support innovative research on programs addressing the economic and political challenges facing resource-rich countries. Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, Public Policy or a related field in the last five years or have the Ph.D. expected in AY 2018-19; have ongoing or planned research projects on natural resources and development or governance in low or middle-income countries; and have strong training in quantitative research methods, particularly causal inference.

PRDG Fellows are expected to be in residence during the fellowship period and will receive applicable UCLA benefits. They will be based at UCLA's Political Science Department and the Luskin School of Public Affairs, and supervised by Professor Michael Ross. The Fellow will also engage with the co-PIs based at UCLA, Graeme Blair and Darin Christensen.

In addition to conducting independent research and (optionally) develop joint research with the co-PIs, the Fellow will work up to 10 hours a week on PRDG projects that may include: identifying and engaging with organizations implementing programs in this sector; crafting PRDG's research agenda, including drafting a white paper that reviews research on natural resources, governance, and development; and helping draft and edit policy briefs based on PRDG research.

The position is compensated with a competitive salary and outstanding UCLA benefits.

To apply, please fill out this Google form: <https://goo.gl/forms/KDN5pNgOFQ8cqVH2>

We particularly encourage women and scholars of color to apply.

Applications are due by January 1, 2018.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination and Affirmative Action Policy at <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3680

City University of Hong Kong

Rank: Chair Professor/Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor (Comparative Politics)

Worldwide Search for Talent

City University of Hong Kong is a dynamic, fast-growing university that is pursuing excellence in research and professional education. As a publicly-funded institution, the University is committed to nurturing and developing students' talents and creating applicable knowledge to support social and economic advancement. The University has seven Colleges/Schools. As part of its pursuit of excellence, the University aims to recruit outstanding scholars from all over the world in various disciplines, including business, creative media, energy and environment, science and engineering, humanities and social sciences, law, veterinary medicine and life sciences.

Applications and nominations are invited for :

Chair Professor/Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor (Comparative Politics)
Department of Asian and International Studies [Ref. C/440/09]

Duties : Be an active researcher, dedicated to university teaching and supervision of students at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels, including Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees; and undertake administrative responsibilities as assigned by the Head of Department.

Requirements : A PhD in related disciplines, with teaching experience and a strong research record or demonstrated research potential in the field of Comparative Politics of East Asia, preferably Northeast Asia (Southeast Asia-focused candidates will also be favourably considered). Candidates with teaching and research expertise in one or more of the areas relating to their countries, namely domestic politics, political-economy and state-society relations, are preferred.

(For enquiries, please contact Professor Mark R Thompson, Head of Department via email at mark.thompson@cityu.edu.hk)

Salary and Conditions of Service

Remuneration package will be driven by market competitiveness and individual performance. Excellent fringe benefits include gratuity, leave, medical and dental schemes, and relocation assistance (where applicable). Initial appointment will be made on a fixed-term contract.

Information and Application

Further information on the posts and the University is available at <http://www.cityu.edu.hk>, or from the Human Resources Office, City University of Hong Kong, Tat Chee Avenue, Kowloon Tong, Hong Kong [Email : hrojob@cityu.edu.hk/Fax : (852) 2788 1154 or (852) 3442 0311].

To apply, please submit an online application at <http://jobs.cityu.edu.hk>, with a current curriculum vitae (with status of journal submission stated), a teaching portfolio (including teaching evaluations where applicable), a research plan with a three-year timeframe and a list of three referees (with full contact details). Nominations can be sent directly to the Human Resources Office. Applications and nominations received by 5 January 2018 will receive full consideration. Only shortlisted applicants will be contacted; and those shortlisted for the post of Assistant Professor will be requested to arrange for at least 3 reference reports sent directly by the referees to the Department, specifying the position applied for. The University's privacy policy is available on the homepage.

City University of Hong Kong is an equal opportunity employer and we are committed to the principle of diversity. Personal data provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.

Worldwide recognition ranking 49th (QS survey 2017/18), and 4th among top 50 universities under age 50 (QS survey 2016/17); 1st in Engineering/Technology/Computer Sciences in Hong Kong (ARWU survey 2016); and 2nd Business School in Asia-Pacific region (UT Dallas survey 2016).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3669

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Director

The Johns Hopkins University seeks to appoint the inaugural Director of the SNF Agora Institute at JHU, a collaboration between the University and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation to forge new ways to facilitate the restoration of open and inclusive discourse that is the cornerstone of healthy democracies. Established with a $150 million gift from the Foundation and housed in the University's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the Institute will become a leading academic and public forum bringing together experts from a range of fields in order to design and test mechanisms for improving dialogue, decision-making, and social engagement. The Director will have an extraordinary opportunity to build and shape the Institute's faculty, programs, physical space, and reputation.

The Director will report to the Dean of the Krieger School and will work with the President and Provost and an international advisory board to fulfill the potential of the Agora vision. The Director will be a tenured member of the Arts and Sciences faculty and may have additional appointments elsewhere at Hopkins.

Candidates must possess academic stature worthy of appointment as full professor and a reputation that will attract attention to the Institute. The Director will exemplify both the inter-disciplinary and transnational ethos of the Institute and will have a track record of academic leadership and effective development and management of human, financial, and programmatic resources. S/he will have shown a strong commitment to enhancing diversity and inclusion.

Johns Hopkins University has retained Opus Partners to support this recruitment. Please send recommendations, nominations, or questions to lead Partner Craig Smith, PhD, via email: craig.smith@opuspartners.net. The search will continue in confidence until the Director is appointed, but candidates should submit their materials (c.v. and cover letter as separate PDF files) before December 1, 2017. The University intends to make this appointment effective no later than July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3666

Idaho State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (3411)

Assistant Professor, Political Science (3411)

Posting Number: req558

9 Month Full-Time

Faculty Tenure Track

College of Arts and Letters

Pocatello - Main

Primary Purpose

Idaho State University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor appointment in the Department of Political Science. The Department of Political Science has one of the largest graduate programs in the Idaho State University College of Arts & Letters. The appointment will begin in the Fall semester of 2018. This position carries a 3-3 course load of undergraduate and graduate courses. The candidate must also be able to teach one of the department's introductory courses in political science. Faculty are additionally expected to have an active research agenda and carry out service obligations.

Key Responsibilities

The department is looking for a candidate with the ability to contribute broadly to its undergraduate and three graduate programs (DA, MA, and MPA). The position carries a 3-3 teaching load of undergraduate and graduate courses. The candidate must be able to teach one of the department's introductory courses in political science. The position also requires an active research agenda and service obligations.

Minimum Qualifications

A Doctorate in Political Science or Public Administration is required, ABDs finishing by August 2018 will be considered. The candidate must also be able to teach one of the department's introductory courses in political science.

Preferred Qualifications

The ideal candidate would demonstrate expertise in the following pair of political science subfields: (1) Public Administration and (2) US Politics, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. Because the candidate is expected to help develop and deliver courses within the Master of Public Administration program, the ability to teach general courses in public administration is essential. The ability to teach specialized courses such as Public Administration Ethics, Qualitative Methods in Public Administration, Introduction to Public Administration, Non-profit administration, and State and Local politics would be an asset. MPA courses are regularly broadcast via distance learning and the candidate will teach one or two such courses a year. Apply online at <https://isu.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?id=558&site=1>

Please submit the following documents with your application:

Cover Letter; Curriculum Vita; Unofficial Transcripts (official transcripts will be required of the successful candidate); Teaching Philosophy which includes a list of possible classes to be taught, as well as teaching evaluations; a sample of scholarly research; and a list of names with contact information for three (3) professional references.

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by November 15, 2017. However, the position will remain open until filled. Salary will be commensurate with education and experience. Includes a competitive benefits package. Offers of employment may be conditional pending successful completion of a background investigation.

Idaho State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. We have an institution-wide commitment to inclusion and diversity and encourage all qualified individuals to apply. Veterans' preference. Upon request, reasonable accommodations in the application process will be provided to individuals with disabilities.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/8v59rw3gzt9b6zjj>

PI99861784

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3659

Maine Maritime Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of Humanities & Social Sciences

The Department of Arts and Sciences seeks applicants for a permanent, full-time position in Maine Maritime Academy's humanities and social sciences program to begin August 2018. Applicants must have college teaching experience and a Ph.D. in one of the following disciplines: Cultural / Political Geography, Cultural Anthropology, or Comparative / International Politics. They should have a generalist's commitment to crossing disciplinary boundaries and national borders.

The successful candidate will teach courses in her or his core discipline, a first-year composition / writing seminar, and an interdisciplinary humanities survey focused on the cultural roots of the contemporary world. Ability to teach courses in Geographic Information Systems a plus. While all candidates must have an active interest in the teaching of writing, we especially seek those with experience teaching first-year writing seminars or other writing-intensive courses. Course load is three-three. The successful applicant will also advise undergraduates and engage in scholarship and service to the department and college.

Applicants must submit in a single PDF file the following documents in the following order: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) contact information for three professional references, (4) an application, and (5) copies of transcripts. Send the PDF of the complete application package via email to personnel@mma.edu. Please do not apply through this website. For a full job description and application information see: <http://mainemaritime.edu/about-mma/employment-at-mma>. Applications received by January 15, 2018 will be given full consideration, although screening may continue until position is filled. MMA is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages women, minorities, and members of other underrepresented groups to apply.

MMA is a college of engineering, management, science, and transportation located in the coastal village of Castine on Penobscot Bay.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3650

University of California, Riverside

Rank: Chair of Social Medicine, Population and Public Health

The University of California Riverside (UCR) School of Medicine seeks to hire a tenured faculty member in Social Medicine, Population and Public Health. We seek to hire a leader in the field of health disparities, community-based participatory research, population health, or other areas related to social sciences and social determinants of health. The UCR School of Medicine is a community-based medical school with a mission of serving the medically underserved region of Inland Southern California. UCR is the fastest growing campus in the University of California system and is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. UC Riverside seeks candidates whose experience, teaching, research, and/or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence as UCR is a world-class research university with an exceptionally diverse student body. Its mission is explicitly linked to providing routes to educational success for underrepresented and first-generation college students. A commitment to this mission is a preferred qualification. Advancement through the faculty ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input.

The successful candidate must possess an M.D. or Ph.D. degree. The successful candidate should demonstrate notable scientific contributions, evidenced by high quality peer reviewed publications and a stellar record of sustained extramural funding. Candidate's research interest should focus on health disparities, community-based participatory research, population and public health, or areas related to social sciences and social determinants of health. The candidate should also have methodological experience with community partnered and mixed methods research. Successful candidates will be also expected to show a strong commitment to education of medical students and residents. Finally, the candidate must demonstrate appropriate administrative experience and a proven record of academic, and administrative leadership qualities. The successful candidate will be responsible for the overall management, academic planning, budget, personnel, resource allocation and program development for department of Social Medicine, Population and Public Health in the School of Medicine. The candidate will be expected to engage in research and seek grant-funding. This position will also provide leadership and direction in meeting the mission of the School of Medicine. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience.

TO APPLY: <https://medschool.ucr.edu/employment/faculty/>

Initial review of applications will begin on November 18, 2017 and applicants will be considered until the positions are filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/v2sw9hqjmbjffrq8>

PI99838791

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3652

University of Delaware

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Psychology

University of Delaware

College of Arts & Sciences

Department of Political Science and International Relations

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY

Location: Newark, DE

The University of Delaware's academic leadership has identified the Department Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu>) (POSCIR) as a priority for academic growth and prominence. The POSCIR department aims to add a highly productive political psychology scholar to our nationally and internationally known faculty. The search is for a tenured associate professor of political psychology to begin September 1, 2018. While we anticipate making a tenured appointment at the Associate Professor level, we encourage advanced Assistant Professors to apply. The position will have a 75% appointment in POSCIR and a 25% appointment in the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences (www.psych.udel.edu) (PSYCH).

We seek a scholar with an exemplary record of publishing, securing research funding, and teaching in political psychology. The ideal candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized scholar with an interest in actively building the interdisciplinary political psychology field at UD, and developing an interdisciplinary political psychology lab.

We construe political psychology broadly, but are particularly interested in scholars who build upon our strengths in: the politics of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; international security, conflict, and violence; political communication; the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior; and experimental and other research methodologies. The exact substantive area is open – scholarly excellence is preferred above all else. The successful candidate will have opportunities to associate with new facilities on campus, including the 11,600 square foot Center for Biomedical and Brain Imaging (<https://www.psych.udel.edu/research/fmri-center>), housing a 3T Siemens Magnetom Prisma and transcranial magnetic stimulation machine, and the newly formed Biden Institute (<https://www.sppa.udel.edu/bideninstitute>), a research and policy center devoted to solving the most pressing domestic policy problems facing America.

The PSYCH Department is simultaneously conducting a political psychology search (<http://apply.interfolio.com/46266>), with a 75% appointment in that department, and 25% in POSCIR. Applicants may wish to consider either position, depending on their primary discipline. The goal of this position, and others, is to strengthen the prominence and impact of collaborative interdisciplinary social science research at UD.

POSCIR, which resides within the College of Arts and Sciences, has 23 full-time faculty, nearly 850 undergraduate majors and minors and 39 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The Department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The POSCIR faculty is methodologically diverse, and a collegial group of research-intensive scholars, outstanding teachers, engaged mentors, and committed advisers and public servants.

Applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position, academic strengths and proposed contributions to the above stated goals, and vision for a research laboratory; and a current CV that includes up to date contact information. The committee will request letters of recommendation at a later date. Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to Professor Phil Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, Political Psychology Search Committee. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu).

UD recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting the academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds, and this is a primary goal for our department. We provide equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression.

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge. Apply Now:

<https://apply.interfolio.com/46263>

The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer which encourages applications from Minority Group Members, Women, Individuals with Disabilities and Veterans. The University's Notice of Non-Discrimination can be found at <http://www.udel.edu/aboutus/legalnotices.html>

The University of Delaware does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, religion, age, veteran status, gender identity or expression, or sexual orientation in its employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions as required by Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and other applicable statutes and University policies. The University of Delaware prohibits sexual harassment, including sexual violence.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3653

Montana State University, Bozeman

Rank: Postdoctoral researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Environmental Policy, Australia

The Montana State University Department of Political Science in Bozeman, Montana is seeking an exceptional postdoctoral researcher to join our international interdisciplinary research team in August 2018. The appointment is for two years. Eligible applicants must have completed the Ph.D. by July 2018.

The purpose of the position is to conduct research for a National Science Foundation funded project, specifically focused on risk communication in a coupled-natural human system in Australia. The research scholar will spend their time on a National Science Foundation project on the coupled dynamics of a zoonotic system in Australia. The primary research focus for this position centers on risk perception and communication. As such, the research efforts include field work to collect data on risk perceptions, risk narratives, information sources, and decisions.

Required Qualifications: (1) Applicants should hold a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Affairs, or equivalent degree by July 2018. (2) Demonstrated research experience.

Preferred Qualifications: (1) Knowledge of Narrative Policy Framework, hazards, and risk communication. (2) Experience interviewing and conducting surveys. (3) Strong background in mixed methods. (4) Consideration will be given to collaborative skills and interests, and how the applicant's experience and skills complement and strengthen ongoing research for this NSF project.

Physical demands: With or without reasonable accommodation, the person in this position must be able to: (1) Travel to Australia for fieldwork. (2) Traverse uneven ground and travel to field sites.

Screening of applications will begin on or before November 15, 2017; however, applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.

To apply, please submit your a cover letter indicating your interest in the position and a curriculum vitae that also lists three references. Applicants should submit their materials through MSU: <https://jobs.montana.edu/postings/10011>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3639

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Gender Studies

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with scholarly expertise in gender, broadly interpreted to embrace interdisciplinary and disciplinary approaches, to begin August 2018. The successful candidate's primary appointment will be either in their home discipline or joint with Gender Studies, as appropriate. This position is part of the first phase of a three-year College growth plan, with several cluster hires meant to support an interdisciplinary liberal arts approach.

We are open with respect to research and teaching interests. However, the successful candidate's work must engage with questions of intersectionality and we encourage those with expertise in transnational feminisms, the global south, or diasporic studies to apply. We will consider a variety of methodological approaches, although quantitative expertise would especially complement our existing strengths. We are particularly interested in applicants with PhDs in gender/women's/feminist/sexuality studies; we also welcome applications from those trained in other interdisciplinary fields, the social sciences, humanities, or natural sciences who have a graduate certificate or significant interdisciplinary training in gender studies. Receipt of the PhD is expected by the time of appointment.

Candidates should be prepared to teach an Introduction to Gender Studies course and additional courses in their areas of expertise. The teaching responsibility is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. In addition to classes and tutorials, faculty members provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior undergraduate theses/projects, and serve on baccalaureate committees. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to work collaboratively with faculty from across campus to develop the existing Gender Studies Program. Faculty are also expected to establish and maintain a strong program of research or creative work.

New College is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty interested in working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, LGBTQ+, underrepresented groups, and those whose knowledge or skills support an inclusive culture and learning environment.

Applications (submitted online at <http://www.ncf.edu/employment>) should include: a cover letter, CV, unofficial graduate transcript, description of teaching philosophy, brief course descriptions for Introduction to Gender Studies and one or two upper-level courses in your area of expertise (~300 words each), a research statement, and a statement regarding your contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment. Please also arrange to have three reference letters (at least one of which should speak to your teaching abilities) sent to: gendersearch@ncf.edu. We will begin reviewing files October 23rd, and continue until the position is filled.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, selective public honors college with a 10:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis/project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. New College is committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourages collaborative student-faculty scholarship. www.ncf.edu.

According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need reasonable accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. New College is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access Institution.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/23/2017

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3644

Princeton University

Rank: Senior Research Specialist

The Department of Politics seeks a Senior Research Specialist to work directly under the Project Director for the Arab Barometer. The Senior Research Specialist assists in questionnaire development, performs quality control procedures, assists in statistical analysis, undertakes data analysis to support reports and presentations for dissemination of the findings. This individual is also responsible for conducting analysis using Arab Barometer data in support of outreach to academics, government officials, the press, and other target audiences.

This position will be based in Washington, D.C. and is an 18 month term position with the possibility of renewal based on performance and grant funding.

Responsibilities

Data analysis

- Conduct analyses of survey data

- Prepare summary findings

- Run advanced statistical models

- Conduct analysis for academic research projects

- Perform data visualization for reports and presentations

- Compile and analyze trend data

Quality control

- Perform quality control checks on survey data
- Fact-check and number-check Arab Barometer products
- Clean and prepare datasets for public release

Survey design and questionnaire development

- Develop research questions
- Draft questionnaires
- Design samples to meet project needs

Outreach

- Respond to external requests for information
- Present research to key audiences

Qualifications

Essential:

- Strong analytical and research skills
- Experience working with survey data
- Background in quantitative analysis
- Knowledge of Stata, R, or other statistical software is required
- Strong verbal and written communications skills
- Demonstrated attention to detail
- Ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely
- Ability to meet tight deadlines across multiple survey projects while ensuring accuracy of results
- Proven experience in undertaking research involving survey data analysis, including using Stata, R, and other software
- Familiarity and experience with regression and MLE techniques, including advanced techniques such as multilevel modeling
- Knowledge and interest in the Middle East and North Africa

Preferred:

- Advanced degree in social sciences or statistics with Ph.D. strongly preferred
- Experience with conducting international survey research
- Arabic language skills highly desirable

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 10/17/2017Salary: $60,000 - $69,999eJobs ID: 3641Princeton University*Rank: Senior Research Specialist

The Department of Politics seeks a Senior Research Specialist to work directly under the Project Director for the Arab Barometer. The Senior Research Specialist assists in questionnaire development, performs quality control procedures, assists in statistical analysis, undertakes data analysis to support reports and presentations for dissemination of the findings. This individual is also responsible for conducting analysis using Arab Barometer data in support of outreach to academics, government officials, the press, and other target audiences.

This position will be based in Washington, D.C. and is an 18 month term position with the possibility of renewal based on performance and grant funding.

Responsibilities

Data analysis

- Conduct analyses of survey data
- Prepare summary findings

•Run advanced statistical models

- Conduct analysis for academic research projects
- Perform data visualization for reports and presentations
- Compile and analyze trend data

Quality control

- Perform quality control checks on survey data
- Fact-check and number-check Arab Barometer products
- Clean and prepare datasets for public release

Survey design and questionnaire development

- Develop research questions
- Draft questionnaires
- Design samples to meet project needs

Outreach

- Respond to external requests for information
- Present research to key audiences

Qualifications

Essential:

- Strong analytical and research skills
- Experience working with survey data
- Background in quantitative analysis
- Knowledge of Stata, R, or other statistical software is required
- Strong verbal and written communications skills
- Demonstrated attention to detail
- Ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely
- Ability to meet tight deadlines across multiple survey projects while ensuring accuracy of results
- Proven experience in undertaking research involving survey data analysis, including using Stata, R, and other software
- Familiarity and experience with regression and MLE techniques, including advanced techniques such as multilevel modeling
- Knowledge and interest in the Middle East and North Africa

Preferred:

- Advanced degree in social sciences or statistics with Ph.D. strongly preferred
- Experience with conducting international survey research
- Arabic language skills highly desirable

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 10/17/2017Salary: $60,000 - $69,999eJobs ID: 3642The University of Hong Kong*Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Nonprofit Management (Ref.: 201701358)

The University of Hong Kong

Founded in 1911, the University of Hong Kong is committed to the highest international standards of excellence in teaching and research, and has been at the international forefront of academic scholarship for many years. The University has a comprehensive range of study programmes and research disciplines spread across 10 faculties and over 140 academic departments and institutes/centres. There are over 28,000 undergraduate and postgraduate students who are recruited globally, and more than 2,000 members of academic and academic-related staff coming from multi-cultural backgrounds, many of whom are internationally renowned.

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Nonprofit Management (Ref.: 201701358)

Applicants are invited for appointment as Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Nonprofit Management in the Department of Politics and Public Administration, to commence on August 15, 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter, on a three-year fixed-term basis, with the possibility of renewal and consideration for tenure before the expiry of a second three-year fixed-term contract.

Applicants should possess a Ph.D. degree and demonstrate achievements of, or potential for, excellence in research and teaching (applicants who are close to completing a Ph.D. degree will also be considered). Those with expertise in one or more of the following areas: nonprofit management; philanthropy and volunteering; civil society and governance; and NGO studies are preferred. While the Department is open to all methodological approaches, the applicants' primary training should be in public administration/political science.

A globally competitive remuneration package commensurate with qualifications and experience will be offered, in addition to leave and medical benefits. At current rates, salaries tax does not exceed 15% of gross income. The appointment will attract a contract-end gratuity and University contribution to a retirement benefits scheme, totalling up to 15% of basic salary. Housing benefits will be provided as applicable.

Applicants should send a completed application form together with an up-to-date C.V., a letter of interest, graduate transcripts, writing samples, a research statement, a teaching statement and teaching evaluations to the Department at ppahr@hku.hk. They should also arrange for three confidential references (quoting the job reference number) to be sent directly by the referees to the Department at ppahr@hku.hk. Please quote the job reference no. and post title in the e-mail subject. Application forms (341/1111) can be downloaded at <http://www.hku.hk/apptunit/form-ext.doc>. Further particulars can be obtained at <http://jobs.hku.hk/>. Closes January 7, 2018.

The University thanks applicants for their interest, but advises that only shortlisted candidates shortlisted for interviews will be notified of the application result.

The University is an equal opportunities employer and is committed to equality, ethics, inclusivity, diversity and transparency

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/7/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3633

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor – Teaching Stream, The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice

Assistant Professor – Teaching Stream

The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice

Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto

Closing Date: November 27th, 2017

The Munk School of Global Affairs at the University of Toronto invites applications for a teaching-stream position at the rank of Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, in the field of Peace, Conflict, and Justice. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018.

The School seeks a scholar with an emerging record of exceptional teaching and pedagogical research, with experience and a demonstrated commitment to pedagogical enquiry and teaching innovation. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in any field, with a focus on peace, conflict, and justice, by date of appointment or shortly thereafter.

Evidence of excellence in teaching is necessary, as demonstrated through strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, and the teaching dossier also submitted here as part of the application. Candidates should also provide evidence of pedagogical research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, and strong endorsements by referees.

The successful candidate will be expected to be committed to both undergraduate and graduate education. Applicants should also show well-articulated and innovative pedagogical practices and research and teaching interests that speak to the broad field of global peace, conflict, and justice. Areas of specialization could include post-conflict labour markets, poverty and inequality as drivers of conflict, and the effects of economic inequality. The School is particularly interested in a candidate with interests in the global south.

The successful candidate will be appointed in the Munk School of Global Affairs. The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice hosts an undergraduate program that attracts outstanding students. The successful candidate would be expected to teach in the Peace, Conflict and Justice program. Collaboration with colleagues in disciplinary departments of the University of Toronto is encouraged.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online

(<https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl?job=1701712>)

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching dossier (including a teaching statement, course evaluations, as well as samples of syllabus), a statement outlining current and future pedagogical research interests, and a writing sample. If you have questions about this position, please contact munkschool.director@utoronto.ca. Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF format.

In addition to the online submission, applicants must also arrange for at least three referees to e-mail letters (PDF format, signed, on letterhead) directly to the department via email to the attention of Professor Randall Hansen, Interim Director, Munk School of Global Affairs at the University of Toronto, at munkschool.director@utoronto.ca. Letters must be submitted by the closing date of November 27, 2017.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs please visit us at www.munkschool.utoronto.ca

The University of Toronto is a preeminent research university and located at the center of one of North America's largest and the world's most cosmopolitan cities, offering the opportunity to teach, conduct research and live in one of the most vibrant intellectual and cultural settings in the world.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3624

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Africa, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is seeking to fill the position of

Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs.

This position is to be combined at the earliest possible date with a permanent University Professorship at Freie Universität Berlin.

Salary grade: W3

The successful applicant will cover the area of "Governance in Africa" in research and teaching in connection to the position as Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs. As IAA Director, the successful candidate is required to be based in Hamburg. The directorship (renewable 5-year terms) comes with a permanent researcher position at the GIGA. An appointment for a permanent professorship at Freie Universität Berlin is also planned. The appointee is thus expected to teach classes and collaborate with the Otto Suhr Institute of Political Science of Freie Universität Berlin. The teaching load will be reduced to one 2-hour course per semester.

Appointment requirements are governed by Article 100 of the Berlin Higher Education Act (Berliner Hochschulgesetz).

Key duties as the Director of the GIGA Institute of African Affairs (IAA) will include:

- provide academic leadership to the IAA (to be developed in conjunction with GIGA's Research Programmes as part of the Institute's matrix structure)
- manage the IAA (including duties as member of the GIGA Executive Board and other bodies, mentoring and pastoral responsibilities towards staff, and responsibility for quality assurance)
- interact closely with policy-makers (especially at the Federal Foreign Office) and provide policy advice
- represent the IAA in the media and to the broader public

- network in area-specific, disciplinary and other relevant professional associations

The position requires the following professional and personal attributes and skills:

- outstanding academic record with a clear fit to the GIGA's research agenda, demonstrated through publications in internationally recognised peer-reviewed journals and university presses, as well as successful third-party funding acquisitions
- well-established record of working on and with Sub-Saharan Africa, including language skills relevant to the region
- academic training and expertise in Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or Political Sociology
- research specialism in one or more of the following topics will be an advantage:
 - o Political regimes and social movements
 - o Conflict transformation and mediation
 - o Growth and sustainable development
 - o Role of domestic/international norms and ideas
- proven ability to engage in cross-regional, comparative, interdisciplinary, and multi-level analysis
- demonstrated record in management and excellent leadership skills
- strong commitment to impactful research, demonstrated through active policy engagement and knowledge transfer
- agenda-setting presence in established policy and academic networks will be an asset
 - excellent English language skills and (if applicable) willingness to learn German in due course
 - university teaching experience (preferably international).

The reconciliation of work and family life is of great importance to the Institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-17-22) including a private postal and an email address as well as relevant supporting documentation (cover letter outlining motivation and suitability for the position, CV, list of publications, evidence of teaching competence, list of courses taught, evidence of involvement in ongoing and future research endeavors, list of third-party funding acquired, copies of certificates of academic qualification) to:

Denise Sablinski, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies, Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: director-iaa@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 20 November 2017.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Julia Kramer (email: julia.kramer@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 42825-540).

Start Date: 2017

Application Deadline: 11/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 3602

Davidson College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Africana Studies Department at Davidson College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Africana Studies with an emphasis in Africana politics and/or economics, starting July 1, 2018. Preference will be given to candidates who can complement our existing strengths in history, sociology, and literature by bringing expertise in the political economy of Africa and/or the African Diaspora. The successful candidate will be able to develop and teach the Africana methods course as well as Introduction to Africana Studies. Collaborations with Political Science, Economics, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and/or Philosophy are encouraged, as are cross-listing courses with these areas. We are looking for a committed teacher-scholar who will maintain an active research agenda, participate in departmental and college-wide initiatives, advise and mentor students, supervise student research, and participate actively in curriculum building.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. (in hand before July 1, 2018) in Africana Studies, Political Science, Economics, and/or Philosophy is preferred although candidates with specializations in additional fields that are underrepresented in our department will also be considered.

Basic Functions:

We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on Africana politics and/or economics. We encourage applicants with teaching and research interests in Africana Studies in one or more of the following areas: electoral politics, political theory, black political economy, development and underdevelopment theory, gerrymandering/gentrification, environmental justice, criminal justice, carceral studies, immigration, colonialism, and/or capitalism and slavery.

The candidate must show clear evidence of an active research agenda, demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching, and interest in departmental and college-wide initiatives that promote Africana Studies. Regular teaching load is five courses over two semesters, with four courses in the first year. These include Introduction to Africana Studies, 300-level methods course, and courses in the applicant's areas of expertise. The successful candidate will also mentor undergraduate research projects. The candidate is expected to participate in an active young department with a vision of Africana Studies that celebrates interdisciplinary teaching and scholarship and a transnational and diasporic focus.

Application Procedures: Deadline for submissions is December 1. All interested applicants should apply online at <http://employment.davidson.edu>. The following materials are required:

1. Letter of application describing research and teaching interests,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Unofficial graduate transcripts (official ones will be required before hire),
4. Teaching dossier (1-page statement of inclusive pedagogy and 2 sample syllabi)
5. One sample publication, or article-length manuscript
6. Names and email addresses for at least three references who are prepared to provide letters of recommendation.

All questions can be directed to the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Devyn Spence Benson and Laurian Bowles at africanapoliecon@davidson.edu.

Other Information: Davidson College is a highly selective, independent liberal arts college located 20 miles north of the city of Charlotte.

The College has graduated 23 Rhodes Scholars and is consistently ranked among the top liberal arts colleges in the country. Davidson faculty enjoy a low faculty-student ratio, emphasis on and appreciation of excellence in teaching, and a collegial, respectful atmosphere that honors academic achievement and integrity. Davidson is strongly committed to achieving excellence and cultural diversity, and welcomes applications from women, members of minority groups, and others who would bring additional dimensions to the college's mission.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3597

McMaster University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR (or Junior Associate), SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY

The Social Psychology program at McMaster University, in partnership with the Department of Political Science and Department of Sociology, invites applications for a tenure-track position starting July 1, 2018 at the rank of Assistant Professor (or junior Associate Professor level in exceptional circumstances).

This position reflects a novel collaboration in the Faculty of Social Sciences. The successful applicant will be appointed in either Political Science or Sociology, as appropriate given background and training, but will commit half their core teaching to the Social Psychology program and will fulfil their administrative responsibilities primarily in the program.

The Social Psychology program is a multidisciplinary undergraduate program that allows students to explore the relationship between individual and society through courses in a broad range of disciplines. We seek an outstanding candidate who will contribute to the development of the LAW, JUSTICE, CRIME AND DEVIANCE stream within the program and whose research interests fall within this general area. Among the topics covered in this stream are social psychological approaches to crime, criminality, deviance, dissent and extra-legal mobilization (including cybercrime and hacktivism); mechanisms of social control (including policing, law enforcement, and medicalization); deviant identities; pathologies of law, power and social control (including authoritarianism); decision-making and persuasion (including jury deliberation); violence, terrorism and fear (including genocide).

The Department of Political Science is a leading centre for the study of contemporary political developments in the areas of governance, institutions and public policy; equality, identity and representation; sovereignty, democracy, immigration and citizenship; and international conflict, security and authoritarianism. At the graduate level, the Department offers MA degrees in Political Science and International Relations, and PhDs in Comparative Public Policy and International Relations. The Department also offers a range of undergraduate degrees, including an Honours BA with a Specialization in Public Law and Judicial Studies as well as a Minor in Law, Justice and Order.

The Department of Sociology is a leading, research-intensive department, seeking to advance the discipline, build Canadian Sociology, and help globalize the sociological imagination. McMaster Sociology is committed to enhancing diversity and to fortifying the strengths of current faculty and students in: Education, Work and Occupations;

Gender, Sexuality and Family; Political Sociology, Social Movements and Social Policy; Race, Ethnicity and Immigration; Social Inequality, and Social Psychology. The Department offers both undergraduate and graduate (MA and PhD) degrees.

Applicants must either hold a PhD or be expected to complete their PhD by July 1, 2018. Indicators of potential for excellence in research and teaching are essential. As a full-time faculty member in the Faculty of Social Sciences, and consistent with McMaster's vision of being a student-centred, research-intensive university, the successful applicant will be expected to develop a dynamic program research yielding significant peer-reviewed publications, to attract external peer-reviewed research funding, and to demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching, mentorship, and curriculum development, including teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and supervising graduate students.

Applications must include the following: a letter of interest, a current curriculum vitae including a list of publications, a statement of teaching and research interests, a selection of research papers and three letters of reference (see below).

Application materials should be sent by e-mail to socpsyrecruit@mcmaster.ca, with a subject line that reads "Law, Justice, Crime and Deviance Position" followed by your full name. Applicants must arrange to have three letters of reference sent to the same address with the same subject line.

Review of applications begins on November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. McMaster University is strongly committed to employment equity within its community, and to recruiting a diverse faculty and staff. For more information about the Social Psychology program or the Departments of Political Science or Sociology, please consult:

<https://socialsciences.mcmaster.ca/>

To comply with the Government of Canada's reporting requirements, the University is obliged to gather information about applicants' status as either Permanent Residents of Canada or Canadian citizens. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or current citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements:

"Yes, I am a citizen or permanent resident of Canada."

"No, I am not a citizen or permanent resident of Canada."

Employment Equity Statement

In keeping with its Statement on Building an Inclusive Community with a Shared Purpose, McMaster University strives to embody the values of respect, collaboration and diversity, and has a strong commitment to employment equity. The diversity of our workforce is at the core of our innovation and creativity and strengthens our research and teaching excellence. The University seeks qualified candidates who share our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion. While all qualified candidates are invited to apply, we particularly welcome applications from women, persons with disabilities, First Nations, Métis and Inuit peoples, members of visible minorities, and LGBTQ+ persons. Job applicants requiring accommodation to participate in the hiring process should contact the Human Resources Service Centre at 905-525-9140 ext. 222-HR (22247) or the Faculty of Health Sciences Human Resources office at ext. 22207 to communicate accommodation needs.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3598

Pew Research Center

Rank: Research Analyst, Internet & Technology

Pew Research Center is a nonpartisan fact tank that informs the public about the issues, attitudes and trends shaping America and the world. It conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, media content analysis and other empirical social science research in the areas of U.S. politics and policy views; media and journalism; internet and technology; religion and public life; Hispanic trends; global attitudes and U.S. social and demographic trends. Pew Research does not take policy positions. It is a subsidiary of The Pew Charitable Trusts. Pew Research Center's work is carried out by a staff of 150.

The Research Analyst is a position within the Pew Research Center's Internet & Technology team which produces reports exploring the impact of the internet and technology on families, communities, work and home, daily life, education, health care, and civic and political life. Key topics include: technology use, social networking and social media, mobile connectivity, and digitally-relevant policy issues such as privacy, cybersecurity and harassment.

The Research Analyst supports all aspects of the team's survey research agenda. In addition, the Research Analyst assists in creating top lines and tables for survey reports, performing statistical analysis, and helping to write and review survey reports.

Candidates with more extensive experience or exceptionally strong qualifications may be considered for appointment at the Research Associate level. This position works closely with other researchers on staff and reports to the Associate Director for Research.

Primary Responsibilities

Survey design and questionnaire development (50%)

- Perform literature reviews and background material for research subjects
- Develop research questions
- Compile and analyze trend data
- Draft questionnaires
- Seek feedback on draft questionnaires from external academic advisors and other experts
- Coordinate the translation and checking of questionnaires in non-English

Data analysis (25%)

- Conduct advanced analyses of survey datasets
- Analyze and assess key findings

Writing and communication (25%)

- Write in-depth data analyses for research reports using charts and tables as appropriate
- Respond to external requests for information
- Respond to internal requests for information

- Background in best practices in questionnaire development and testing
- Background in internet and technology topics
- Quantitative skills, including an ability to use SPSS and other statistical programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data
- Strong verbal and written communications skills
- Ability to balance numerous projects simultaneously
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products
- Editorial judgment and proven ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely in both verbal and written form
- Ability to work collaboratively and collegially with other team members, as well as with staff from other Pew Research Center teams and outside organizations
- Ability to balance multiple projects and meet tight deadlines while ensuring accuracy in data management, fact checking and research

Education/Training/Experience

- Master's degree in the social sciences or 2-3 years' experience in opinion research
- Proven experience in undertaking questionnaire development, research involving data analysis, including using SPSS, Excel and other software
- Project management experience is a strong plus

FLSA Status: Exempt

The Pew Research Center is an equal opportunity employer, committed to a diverse and inclusive workplace. Pew considers qualified applicants for employment without regard to age, sex, ethnicity, religion, disability, marital status, sexual orientation or gender identity, military/veteran status, or any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/b95gmhbd2jx4zn56>

PI99731957

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3587

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Fellowships are awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who are expected to return to their positions, and who have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and exhibit unusual intellectual promise but who are still early in their careers.

During the academic year 2018-19, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Interdependence." Food, clothes, entertainment, and the security and health of the planet depend on what distant people do for, with, and against others. Sometimes, recognition of interdependence has led to cooperation, other times to conquest or competition, and frequently to a mixture of all three. Oftentimes, new social identities and movements, national, regional, and religious, emerge in response to rising interdependence and the convergences and inequities it has produced. The goal of the 2018-19 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We invite applications from scholars whose work addresses this topic in any historical period or world region and from any disciplinary background.

The application deadline has been extended to November 20, 2017. To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2008. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record and ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information on eligibility requirements and the application process, see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggfp/>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3600

Cornell University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Conflict Resolution

Assistant or Associate Professor in Conflict Resolution

ILR School, Cornell University

The ILR School at Cornell University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in the area of conflict resolution at either the Assistant Professor or Associate Professor (with tenure) level to begin August 2018. Applicants should have research and teaching interests related to topics in the area of conflict resolution, such as arbitration, mediation, negotiation, conflict management, or dispute resolution. Applicants can have research interests at various levels of analysis, including conflict at the societal, organizational, small group, or individual level. Applicants should have a Ph.D. (or J.D.) in a relevant field, such as industrial relations, organizational behavior, psychology, sociology, organization studies, management, law, or other related discipline. Evidence of very strong research and teaching potential is essential.

The ILR School is the world's leading college focused on work, employment, and labor issues. Information about the ILR School is available at www.ilr.cornell.edu. Our faculty includes leading scholars from a number of disciplinary backgrounds who study a broad range of issues related to labor, employment, and organizations. A successful candidate's appointment will be either in the ILR School's Department of Labor Relations, Law, and History; the Department of Organizational Behavior; the Department of Human Resource Management; the Department of International and Comparative Labor; or in the Department of Labor Economics.

The ILR School is home to the Scheinman Institute on Conflict Resolution. The Scheinman Institute is the nation's leading center for the study of workplace conflict resolution, engaging in a broad range of research, teaching, and outreach activities: <http://www.ilr.cornell.edu/scheinman-institute>. The Scheinman Institute has existing relationships with leading organizations in the conflict resolution field, which provide research opportunities for its associated faculty. A successful candidate will be expected to participate in and contribute to the activities of the Scheinman Institute.

Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged.

To be considered, please apply at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10063>. Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their research and teaching interests, a vita, a writing sample, and three references.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and continue until position is filled. Questions about this position can be directed to Professor Harry Katz at ilrcresearch@cornell.edu.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/yn3227w8wwktxqw>

PI99710599

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3585

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Director of Global Studies Program

Vanderbilt University invites applications from established scholars in the social sciences and the humanities to serve as the inaugural Director of a new Global Studies Program in the College of Arts & Science. We seek applicants with proven leadership abilities, whose research and teaching engage issues of global concern informed by interdisciplinary insights, as well as firm grounding and demonstrated accomplishments in a discipline. Substantive themes of interest include, but are not limited to, migration and diaspora; health, environment, and sustainability; political economy; global humanities; and conflict and peace studies, either current or historical.

We anticipate that the appointment will be made at the Associate or Full Professor rank in the Global Studies Program and an appropriate home department. All applications must include 1) a cover letter, 2) curriculum vitae (including relevant language, method, and field experience), 3) research statement, 4) a recent piece of scholarship, and 5) a list of three references. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates must apply online at <https://apply.interfolio.com/45834>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3578

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Immigration Policy Lab, Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Position: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (www.immigrationlab.org). The Immigration Policy Lab conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and cutting-edge analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can inspire solutions and ultimately improve lives.

The Immigration Policy Lab reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of projects related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, Jeremy Weinstein, and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. Additionally, the postdoc will work closely with faculty, staff and partner organizations in developing and designing innovative policies and programs to pilot and evaluate. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects related to immigration policy evaluation.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science program, with a preference for Political Science, Economics, or Sociology. She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Appointment: The initial appointment will be for one year beginning between January and June 2018, with an expected renewal for a second year contingent on satisfactory performance and funding. Salary is negotiable and based on experience. Benefits are provided. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications will only be accepted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10036>, ID 10036). Applications should be submitted by November 17, 2017, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2017).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3569

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Chair, Department of Africana Studies

Specializations: African American Politics, Africa, Latin American

Chair, Department of Africana Studies, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

Senior level twelve-month appointment beginning July 1, 2018.

Applications are invited from candidates in any disciplinary tradition whose teaching and research demonstrate a commitment to Africana Studies as an interdisciplinary enterprise and a vision that holistically embraces the experiences of peoples of African descent with emphasis on Africa, the United States, the Caribbean, and Latin America. Candidates should (1) have a doctoral degree, (2) be a tenured associate or full professor with credentials and experience that are appropriate for a senior level appointment at UNC Charlotte, (3) have administrative experience that demonstrates potential for success as a department chair, (4) have a commitment to the education of the department's diverse student population, and (5) have a strong interest in community engagement. A record of success in securing program-related funding is highly desirable. Finalists will be asked during their screening interview to discuss how the topics of diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their teaching and research.

The Department of Africana Studies at UNC Charlotte has eight core faculty whose disciplinary affiliations include both the humanities and social sciences; the department also has close curricular and faculty connections with departments and programs across the University. More than 25 faculty in other units are affiliated with the Africana Studies department. The department enjoys a collegial and collaborative culture, and its faculty are committed to advancing scholarship, and serving students and community. The department offers a B.A. in Africana Studies (with an optional Concentration in Health and Environment), a minor in Africana Studies, and a Graduate Certificate in Africana Studies.

UNC Charlotte is a rapidly growing doctoral-granting urban university located in the largest metropolitan area between Washington DC, and Atlanta. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus. Close to 29,000 culturally diverse students currently are enrolled at the University. As the largest college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 20 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and natural sciences, as well as 25 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. It offers eight doctoral degrees, 36 master's degrees and graduate certificates, and 34 undergraduate degrees.

Applications must be made electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number 005161). We are asking applicants to submit a letter of interest including your vision for the department, curriculum vitae, and the names of three referees. AA/EOE employer: minorities, persons with disabilities, and women are especially encouraged to apply. Screening of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. For more information please contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Gregory Weeks at gbweeks@uncc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3562

Rider University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Intelligence, Criminal Justice, International Security

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

Rider University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of homeland security politics with emphases on counterterrorism, intelligence studies, public policy, crime, or national security to start Fall 2018. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, or related discipline, be broadly trained, have strong communication skills, a commitment to both teaching and research in the liberal arts environment, the ability to establish a research program that can engage undergraduate and graduate students and be able to teach courses on any of the following areas: military operations, law enforcement policy at the national level, disaster management, conflict management, counter-terrorism, intelligence gathering, national preparedness for conventional, hybrid, unconventional war or homeland security policy challenges. Prior teaching experience and post-doctoral research are desirable. Field experience is also preferable.

The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of culturally diverse backgrounds. Applicants should be experienced with, and committed to work in and with, such a diverse population. Rider University is a private, coeducational university of nearly 4,500 students located between Philadelphia and New York, near Princeton, New Jersey. Rider is ranked in the top tier of northern regional universities offering master's degrees by US News and World Report and is ranked as "A Best 378 College" by the Princeton Review.

All applicants must complete an on-line application at www.rider.edu/hr, 'Employment Opportunities'; 'Create Application'; and attach letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and a detailed statement of research interests, plans, goals, and needs. Undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation also are required and can be sent separately to: Associate Director, Human Resources, 2083 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648. Please reference Position # 312261.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 3558

University of Pennsylvania, Wharton School

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Wharton Ethics & Legal Studies Ph.D. Program invites applications for a Postdoctoral Fellowship. We expect that the Fellowship will aid scholars in developing research and teaching careers in business ethics and legal studies. We will consider applications from a variety of backgrounds, including philosophy, the social sciences, and law. Applicants must have a Ph.D. (expected completion by June 30, 2018 is acceptable) from an accredited institution. Applicants are expected to show outstanding capacity for research as well as excellent communication skills.

Postdocs will take an active part in the intellectual life of the Department of Legal Studies and Business Ethics, which has twenty standing faculty members working on diverse issues in business from the perspectives of law, moral philosophy, political theory, sociology, history, anthropology, and psychology. The Department holds regular colloquia and workshops in which Postdocs will be expected to participate. Postdocs will also have the opportunity to attend research seminars across the School and across the University.

The Wharton School is one of the world's leading business schools. Postdocs will gain exposure to the business school culture and its distinctive approaches to teaching at both the undergraduate and MBA level. We ask that Postdocs teach one course each year.

The duration of the Fellowship is one year, with the appointment renewable for a second year. Compensation is competitive. The appointment is expected to begin July 1, 2018 and is contingent upon funding.

If you wish to apply, please submit electronically your letter of application, C.V., writing sample, and a statement of your proposed research project in pdf format by December 15th, 2017: <https://lgst.wharton.upenn.edu/faculty/faculty-positions/>.

The University of Pennsylvania is an equal opportunity employer. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3561

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-track Professor in Asian American Studies

Specializations: Asian American Politics, Gender Politics & Policy, Immigration Policy

Cornell University's Asian American Studies Program invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position to begin July 2018. We are searching at all ranks—Assistant, Associate, and Full Professor—and across multiple fields within the humanities and the social sciences. The candidate must demonstrate a commitment to research and teaching in the field of Asian American Studies. We seek candidates with expertise in areas such as cinema and media studies, transnational Asian and Asian American cultural production, citizenship studies, immigration studies, political theory, environmental studies, ethnographic filmmaking, and gender studies. We welcome comparative and interdisciplinary work within a transpacific framework.

The candidate will hold a joint appointment in the Asian American Studies Program and the Cornell department most appropriate to their disciplinary training. The doctoral degree must be in hand prior to the appointment. Please submit a letter of application, c.v., dissertation abstract (if applying at the beginning Assistant Professor level), three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample of no more than 30 pages, to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9992>.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3552

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor (open field) in Migration Studies

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor focusing on Migration Studies. This position is open with regard to field of Ph.D, and the appointment will be in that field with the opportunity of a joint appointment in another field or interdisciplinary program. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline, teaching experience, a career interest in liberal arts education, and a vibrant research agenda. The person filling this line will be expected to teach courses on migration and build and coordinate interdisciplinary initiatives related to this subject, as well as contribute to the curriculum in the field of appointment. Experience using and teaching GIS and a willingness to guide students in developing GIS research skills is highly valued. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to MigrationSearch@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: Migration Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfcteau@ncf.edu. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3551

Florida State UniversityRank: Teaching Faculty 1

Title: Teaching Faculty I 9 Mo SAL

Closing Date: 12/01/17

Florida State University – College of Social Science and Public Policy, Interdisciplinary Programs in Social Science

Position Description

The College of Social Sciences and Public Policy at Florida State University invites applications for a non-tenure track teaching position in the field of Interdisciplinary Social Science (ISS). This is a unique position designed to integrate disciplinary education and related activities within the College. The successful applicant will have a strong interdisciplinary orientation grounded in Political Science, Sociology, Economics, Geography, Urban and Regional Planning or Public Administration. He or she will work with faculty in several disciplines to create and teach courses for majors in Interdisciplinary Social Science that demonstrate how insights from multiple disciplines bring value to the analysis of public policy issues and that emphasize evidence based decision making.

Additional responsibilities will include mentoring and advising students, engaging ISS majors in undergraduate research and policy seminars, internship opportunities and similar activities. The position will begin in August, 2018.

Application Requirements

Applicants should hold a PhD in one of the disciplines of social science and have interdisciplinary teaching and research experience. Preferred qualifications include demonstrated commitment to and success in teaching undergraduates, as well as experience with contemporary instructional technology and on-line teaching applications.

Our Program

The Florida State University program in Interdisciplinary Social Science strives to engender individually driven social goals that guide student vision and learning attainment. To that end, we focus our efforts on providing an environment which promotes holistic understandings of complex social dynamics through the integration of various social, economic and political perspectives. We are committed to the creation of an environment of creative learning based on the goals and tenets of interdisciplinary study.

For more information about the Florida State University program for Interdisciplinary Social Science please visit <http://www.coss.fsu.edu/iss/>.

FSU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer and educational provider committed to a policy of non-discrimination for any member of the University's community. http://www.hr.fsu.edu/PDF/Publications/diversity/EEO_Statement.pdf

How to Apply:

Applicants should provide one pdf attachment that includes a letter of application, CV and contact information for three recommendations. Apply at Florida State University at <https://jobs.fsu.edu>. If you are a current FSU employee, apply via myFSU >; Self Service. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2017.

For additional information please visit our website: <https://jobs.fsu.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 12/1/2017Date Posted: 9/26/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3512Princeton University*Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate*Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 1/5/2018Date Posted: 9/26/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3509Johns Hopkins University*Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia*Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political TheorySpecializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & PoliticsSchool Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Princeton University

Rank: 2018-2019 LAPA Fellowships

The Program in Law and Public Affairs (LAPA) at Princeton University invites outstanding faculty members of any discipline, independent scholars, lawyers, and judges to apply for visiting, residential appointments for the academic year 2018–2019. LAPA Fellows devote the major portion of their time to their own research and writing on law-related subjects of empirical, interpretive, doctrinal and/or normative significance. All applicants must have received a doctorate, juris doctor, or an equivalent professional degree at the time of submission of the fellowship application. Successful LAPA applicants should demonstrate substantial expertise in law-related matters. The program does not support, as a primary activity, off-site fieldwork or work in remote archives, development of course materials, work in legal practice, direct advocacy of causes or residence elsewhere.

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2883>

THE DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION IS 11:59 PM (EST) NOVEMBER 13 2017.

For additional information see: <http://lapa.princeton.edu/fellowships>

LAPA is cosponsored by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the University Center for Human Values and Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3464

Purdue University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenured full professor with the area of expertise open. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an excellent record of research and teaching in any subfield of political science. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include a record of attracting external funding; teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required. Credentials commensurate with a full professor are required. A successful candidate is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus and anticipates developing a professional master's program in public policy. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include a letter discussing the applicant's interest in the position and a curriculum vitae. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to search committee chair Dr. S. Laurel Weldon, weldons@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/7/2017
Date Posted: 9/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3460

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/13/2017
Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3447

Princeton University

Rank: The Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics

The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for the Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics. The Shapiro Fellowship supports outstanding scholars studying ethical issues arising from developments in medicine, the biological sciences, or population health. We particularly encourage proposals focusing on problems of practical importance that have broader theoretical interest.

The Shapiro Fellow will spend from one to three years at Princeton conducting research and teaching the equivalent of one course each year (subject to sufficient enrollments and approval by the Dean of the Faculty). He or she will participate in the Ira W. DeCamp Seminar in Bioethics and will be invited to participate in other activities of the University Center for Human Values including a year-long research seminar for visiting fellows and Center faculty.

Qualifications

Applicants must have completed all the requirements for the Ph.D., M.D., or other equivalent doctoral degree by September 1, 2018, and should not have held the degree for more than three years by that date. An applicant may have a background in any area of ethical studies, not necessarily in bioethics. However, the proposed research plan should be related to the field of bioethics.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments and the promise of the proposed research project in bioethics. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of the fellowship is one year, beginning September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal for up to two additional years pending satisfactory performance. Appointment will be made to the rank of Postdoctoral Research Associate; the Shapiro Fellow will also carry the title of Lecturer when teaching. Princeton University offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2244>

A complete application will include the following supporting materials:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words). Please provide an indicative title in the heading;
3. A scholarly paper (not to exceed 50 pages) representing the applicant's scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who should be prepared to comment specifically about the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 16. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. We hope to announce decisions in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/13/2017
Date Posted: 9/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3448

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential "core" of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position. The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant's academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/14/2017
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 3419

Cornell University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Islam in the modern Middle East and North Africa

The Department of Near Eastern Studies, College of Arts and Sciences, Cornell University, seeks to appoint a tenure track assistant professor who specializes in Islam in the modern Middle East and North Africa. We especially welcome candidates whose work is interdisciplinary, comparative, and expands the department's existing strengths. Discipline open. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample, and three letters of recommendation electronically to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9624>. The deadline for applications is November 15, 2017. Incomplete or late applications will not be considered. Diversity and inclusion are a part of Cornell University's heritage. We are a recognized employer and educator valuing AA/EEO, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3397

Dartmouth College

Rank: Afro-Caribbean and African Diaspora Studies, Tenure-Track Position

The African and African American Studies (AAAS) Program at Dartmouth College invites applications for an open-rank position in Afro-Caribbean and African Diaspora Studies, with a preference for historians and social scientists. The position begins on July 1, 2018. We are interested in innovative scholars whose work interfaces with a variety of geographical regions. Scholars of all ranks will be given equal consideration. We will start to review applications on October 20, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

AAAS at Dartmouth College originated in 1969, making it one of the oldest programs of its kind in the nation. Faculty are committed to interdisciplinary approaches to understandings of Africa and the African diaspora within a global context. We seek to build AAAS through the addition of cutting-edge scholars who transcend disciplinary boundaries within the College, as well as nationally and internationally.

Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching. The Dartmouth student body is diverse by many measures. We are interested in applicants with a record of and interest in successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, members of racial, ethnic and religious minorities, and members of the LGBTQ community). The successful candidate will also have the opportunity to contribute to Dartmouth's undergraduate diversity initiatives in research, such as the Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship.

Qualifications
 PhD or ABD (with PhD in hand by July 1, 2018).

Application Instructions
 Please provide (1) a letter of application, indicating current research, future research, and teaching philosophy; (2) a current CV with the contact information listed for 3-5 references. Submit materials through the Interfolio dossier service at apply.interfolio.com/44943. Direct any questions to AAAS@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3421

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/16/2017
Date Posted: 9/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3407

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3411

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration

Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration with a concentration in health administration. This position will primarily be teaching in the Master of Public Administration program and with the main responsibility of providing courses for the health concentration as part of our MPA degree program. Some undergraduate teaching may be required on an as-needed basis. Courses are regularly taught in the online format, but successful candidates should expect on campus courses to be part of their rotation. Preferences will be given to candidates that can also teach human resources for public administrators and to those interested in studying rural health administration or issues in rural health policy.

Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the classroom. In addition to strong teaching, the department is seeking an individual who is interested in being an active member of the department and has career aspiration of becoming a program director in the future.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3. The Master of Public Administration program at UNCP is targeted to developing skills, research capabilities, and knowledge in working professionals within our community and across North Carolina, and as well as across the United States and abroad through our online program.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration or health administration or be ABD with a clear date of completion. Because of the program's practitioner focus, candidates with professional experience in health administration are strongly encouraged to apply.

To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3406

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty positions in Political Economy

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2018. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2018.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. Each applicant must upload their files and arrange for three letters or recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2017. For an application to be considered complete, it must contain a CV, a job market paper and three letters of recommendation. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 11/30/2017Date Posted: 9/11/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3377Princeton University*Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty FellowshipsSubfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public PolicySpecializations: Political Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Normative Political Theory

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2018-19. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2243> The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;

3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 6, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 9. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in early March 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 11/6/2017Date Posted: 9/8/2017Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 3372University of Minnesota, Twin Cities*Rank: Assistant Professor (study of Muslims/Islam in North America)

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities and the Religious Studies Program invite applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position at the assistant professor level in the study of Muslims/Islam in North America to begin fall semester 2018 (08/27/2018). A Ph.D. in Religious Studies or other related field is required by the start date. Possible areas of specialization include, but are not limited to:

- History of Muslim communities or Islam in North America
- Religious experience or expression of Muslims in North America
- Social/political experience of the Muslim diaspora in North America
- Gender, race, class, identity issues related to Muslim experience in North America

Successful candidates will be expected to demonstrate a strong foundation in the academic study of religion and in their specific research area along with an ability to work across disciplinary boundaries.

Successful candidates must also show evidence or potential for a strong research profile and excellence in teaching.

Appointment will be 100% time over the nine-month academic year (late-August to late-May). Appointment will be at the rank of tenure-track assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience, and consistent with collegiate and University policy.

Candidates will be evaluated according to a) overall quality of their academic preparation and scholarly work, b) relevance of their scholarly research to the department's academic priorities and fields of inquiry, c) evidence of commitment to teaching and skills as a teacher, and d) strength of recommendations.

About the Job

This will be a joint appointment between the interdepartmental Religious Studies Program and the tenure-granting department within the College of Liberal Arts that best fits the candidate's scholarship and research field. Potential departments include (but are not limited to) Anthropology, Sociology, History, African American and African Studies, English, Asian Languages and Literatures, Political Science, or American Studies. As a tenure-track faculty member, responsibilities will include executing an innovative and consistent research and publication agenda; teaching core courses in the Religious Studies undergraduate and graduate curricula (Introduction to the Study of Religion in America, Introduction to Religions of the World, Theory and Methods in the Study of Religion), and in the area/department of research specialty; supervising undergraduate and graduate research in Religious Studies and the joint department; creating new avenues for cross-disciplinary research at the University; and service to the Religious Studies Program, the home department, the College and the University.

Additional responsibilities in the tenure department will be determined. The regular teaching load is 2/2.

The Workload Principles and Guidelines for Regular Faculty in the College of Liberal Arts are available at: <https://sites.google.com/umn.edu/cla-intranet/ofaa/resources/workload-principles--guidelines>

How to Apply

Applications must be submitted online at <https://humanresources.umn.edu/jobs> to be considered for this position. Click the "External Faculty and Staff Applicants" button and search Job Opening ID #319765. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach your application letter (cover letter) and curriculum vitae (resume). Additional documents, including a writing sample, must be attached after application by accessing your "My Activities" page and uploading documents there. Three letters of reference should be sent separately by their authors to clafcty@umn.edu.

A complete application includes the following materials: (1) a letter of application, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) sample of scholarly work not more than 40 pages, (4) three letters of reference (sent to clafcty@umn.edu). Candidates who make the initial cut will be asked for a philosophy of teaching statement, sample syllabi, and/or course evaluations.

Application deadline: October 15, 2017

Inquiries should be directed to search committee chair, Jeanne Kilde, jkilde@umn.edu.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Diversity

The University recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting its academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds.

The University of Minnesota provides equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. To learn more about diversity at the U: <http://diversity.umn.edu>.

Background Check Information

Any offer of employment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Our presumption is that prospective employees are eligible to work here.

Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify finalists from employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3339

University of Hawaii, Manoa

Rank: Assistant Professor

Job Announcement: Assistant Professor (Indigenous and Native Hawaiian Politics)

Position Number: #84121

Date Posted: 08/01/2017

Closing Date: Continuous - application review begins 01/02/2018

Monthly Type: 9-Month

Tenure Track: Tenure track

Full Time/Part Time: Full Time

Temporary/Permanent: Permanent

Funding Type: General

Other Conditions: To begin on 08/01/2018, pending position clearance and availability of funds.

The College of Social Sciences and the Political Science Department at the University of Hawaii at Manoa have strongly supported the growth of Native Hawaiian and Indigenous politics as areas of research and teaching. At the heart of the College's vision for a globally-connected Hawaiian Place of Learning lies an ethos of Aloha 'Aina. The College of Social Sciences seeks applications from interested and qualified candidates for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor rank to sustain and grow this area of focus within the department and college. We seek scholars who approach Native Hawaiian and Indigenous politics from a critical lens, with an emphasis on engaged scholarship and community engagement. We welcome scholars with interdisciplinary training and research experience.

Duties: Candidates will be expected to teach courses in Native Hawaiian politics, Hawai'i politics and Indigenous politics; advise and mentor undergraduate and graduate students, develop and conduct high-quality research, sustain strong community relations for teaching and research purposes, work collaboratively towards solving challenging and complex problems in Hawai'i and beyond, support the College's Native Hawaiian Initiative, and participate in departmental, university, and professional activities, with a particular focus on developing interdisciplinary partnerships to advance the Indigenous politics concentration. The candidate will be expected to strengthen the college and university focus on Hawai'i and Oceania. Other duties as assigned.

Minimum qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field relevant to the position, with a research specialization in Native Hawaiian issues [ABD with all requirements for degree completed by date of hire considered] from an accredited college or university or foreign equivalent. Demonstrated ability to teach on Native Hawaiian and Indigenous political theories and issues. Demonstrated commitment to Native Hawaiian communities and/or political issues. Demonstrated record of peer-reviewed research commensurate with time in field.

Desirable qualifications:

Teaching experience with innovative educational strategies, attentive to issues of diversity; Ability to work effectively as part of an interdisciplinary team in cooperative endeavors; Ability to supplement the Indigenous politics concentration with a focus on Oceania/Pacific Islands, political theory, Indigenous governance, Indigenous epistemologies, environmental politics, and/or futures studies.

Pay range: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To Apply: Electronic applications only. All documents should be uploaded at this link:

<http://adminsrv.socialsciences.manoa.hawaii.edu/pols-84121/>. Submit a curriculum vitae; a writing sample in which you are sole author or primary author; a statement of teaching that includes areas of strength in teaching; a sample course syllabus; a cover letter indicating how you satisfy the minimum and desirable qualifications, as well as how you would enhance the College's Native Hawaiian Initiative; the names and contact information of three professional references; and official transcripts (copies are acceptable, however, official transcripts will be required upon hire). Questions about the position can be sent to Kathy Ferguson, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at polisci@hawaii.edu.

Review of applications will begin Jan 2, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications received by that date will be given priority. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

The University of Hawaii is an EEO/AA Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3245

University of Michigan

Rank: Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship

Fellowship period: September 2018 – August 2020

Application deadline: January 15, 2018

The Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) at the University of Michigan invites postdoctoral scholars to apply for the Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship. The two-year fellowship supports research on the broad historical, political, economic, and societal conditions under which democracies emerge—and autocracies endure.

Up to three awards are available for the 2018-20 fellowship. Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in WCED workshops and events, and present at least one public lecture during their fellowship year, while in residence at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. A teaching opportunity may be possible during the second year of the fellowship, if desired.

We welcome excellent applicants from all disciplines. Fellows must have successfully defended and filed their dissertation before beginning the fellowship. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received their PhD after January 1, 2016.

Fellowships carry an annual salary of $50,000 and up to $7,000 per year in research funds during the post-doctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning September 1, 2018 through August 31, 2020). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Candidates will be required to submit:

- A two-page research plan that outlines the research project and how the fellow will spend his/her time during the fellowship year.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter, conference paper, or journal article.
- Two letters of recommendation.

Fellowship applications must be received by January 15, 2018, 11:59 pm EST. Applicants will be notified in March 2018.

Application link available at <https://www.ii.umich.edu/wced/postdoctoral-fellows.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3235

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3314

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer - International Studies

Specializations: International Security, Africa, Gender Politics & Policy

International Studies
University of California, Irvine
School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers

The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during Winter 2018 and/or Spring 2018 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer
Salary Range: $5,700 - $6,200 per course
Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.
Positions May Be Available: Winter 2018 and Spring 2018

Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at:

<https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04263>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:

Winter 2018 Quarter, November 30, 2017

Spring 2018 Quarter, January 30, 2018

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3286

Miami University

Rank: Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies

Specializations: Latino Politics, Latin American, Foreign Policy

Global & Intercultural Studies: Assistant Professor of Latina/o Studies with a focus on the U.S., Latinidad, and the Américas to link the Latina/o experience in the United States to Latin American and Caribbean countries of origin. Among the ways to make those links could be through consideration of transnational processes, diasporic networks, global economic developments, remittances, US and Latin American foreign policies, immigration policy (in both U.S. and in sending countries), long distance nationalism, border relations, cultural practice and change, hometown associations, or cross-border organizing. We are also interested in those who engage issues of race and racialization of Latino/as in the US, as well as critical race/ethnic studies approaches to Afro-Latino/as and Afro-Latinidad. We are particularly interested in interdisciplinary scholars with research experience grounded both in the United States and in Latin America or the Caribbean. The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching, research, and service to the department, college, and university.

Require: Ph.D. in Latin American Studies, anthropology, geography, history, political science, languages, and literatures, or a closely related field, by date of appointment.

Consideration will be given to those with native or near-native fluency in Spanish; commitment to diverse curricula in the Department of Global and Intercultural Studies, potentially contributing to interdisciplinary teaching and research in the department's multiple programs: American Studies; Asian and Asian American Studies; Black World Studies; International Studies; Latin American, Latino/a and Caribbean Studies; and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Submit cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4623>.

For inquiries about the position, contact Jana Braziel at brazieje@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3249

Brown University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

As part of a major hiring initiative across multiple fields, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a faculty position in international security -- with a particular emphasis on China's foreign relations, Chinese foreign policy, and Chinese security policy -- to begin July 2018.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member will hold a joint appointment in both the Watson Institute and the Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on October 2, 2017, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references who will be contacted at the appropriate time by the Director of Watson Institute. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/43731

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3212

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Philosophy & Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science – Political Theory

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. We are searching for faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, or global ethics. The positions are open rank. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

The review of applications will begin from September 15, 2017, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3162

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: International Security

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech invites applications for a tenure-track (or tenured) position in International Security at the rank of either Assistant or Associate Professor to begin Fall 2018. The Nunn School seeks to hire an individual whose demonstrated scholarly research and teaching in the field have a functional concentration broadly related to the nexus of science and technology with national/international security policies and strategy. Research foci of greatest interest include cyber/information security or other emerging technology challenges. The School has a secondary interest in candidates able to apply modern analytical techniques such as big data/social media analytics or networks analysis to their research or teaching. There exist opportunities for joint appointments with another School at Georgia Tech, in particular those in the Colleges of Sciences, Engineering, and Computing. Thus, comfort in working with technical experts and teaching interdisciplinary courses is strongly encouraged.

Named for former US Senator Sam Nunn whose continued presence and work on global issues inspires our efforts to be both useful and innovative, our school draws on its unique setting at a premier technological university to deliver innovative programs and cutting-edge research that integrate science and technology with the study of international affairs. The School focuses on how technology affects national security, economic well-being and competitiveness, and prospects for international cooperation and conflict. Our School seeks to equip our students with Georgia Tech's cutting edge technology tools, a global perspective and leadership skills through a new model of professional education that is theoretically grounded and practice and policy oriented.

Located in midtown Atlanta, Georgia Tech enrolls over 25,000 students and is consistently ranked as one of the top seven public universities in the country. Georgia Tech is a unit of the University System of Georgia and an AA/EO employer; women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. Additional information pertaining to the Nunn School is available at <http://www.inta.gatech.edu/>.

Applicant review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To receive full consideration, application materials should be received by October 1, 2017 and include: (1) a letter of interest describing the candidate's relevant experience, including statement of research and teaching; (2) a curriculum vita; and (3) the names, positions, and contact information of five references. The position is subject to budgetary developments.

Materials should be sent either by mail to: Chair, Nunn School Search Committee, ATTN: Marilu Suarez; The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs; Georgia Institute of Technology; 781 Marietta Street NW; Atlanta, Georgia 30318 or electronically to intl-security-search@t-square.gatech.edu. Applicant files will be treated confidentially

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3148

Yale UniversityRank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43427>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date. Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018Date Posted: 8/7/2017Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 3135University of Rochester*Rank: Political Economy/ American Politics

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 9/8/2017Date Posted: 8/2/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3097University of Rochester*Rank: Political Economy/ International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2018, from candidates working in International Political Economy. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 8, 2017, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 9/8/2017Date Posted: 8/2/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3093U.S. Coast Guard Academy*Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance*Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, OtherSpecializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/1/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3045University of Delaware*Rank: Professor of American Politics*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, OtherSpecializations: Political Behavior, American Politics, Political Psychology

PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for appointment as a full professor with tenure in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) We seek a scholar of American Political Behavior/Political Psychology, with a particular focus on quantitative methodologies.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 26 full-time and jointly appointed faculty, nearly 800 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a tenured full professor with an exemplary record of scholarship and teaching in American political behavior/political psychology. The successful candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized senior scholar with a strong record of graduate student and junior faculty mentoring, a strong record of grant-writing success, and an interest in actively building the quantitative American politics capacity in our methodologically diverse department. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns: (1) the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior (2) the political psychology of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; and/or (3) electoral processes and representation.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position and a current CV. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to the attention of Professor Philip Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3024

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3018

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

University of Alaska, Anchorage

Rank: UAA Post-Doctoral Fellow for Political Science

Political Science Professor Landry Signé is looking for a postdoctoral political economist to assist on the project entitled "Why African Nations Fail: The Political Economy of Economic Growth and Democratic Development," partly funded by the Andrew Carnegie fellowship for 2016-2018. He is conducting a systematic comparative analysis of the evolution, determinants, performance, and impacts of all African economies, governance and political systems from the pre-colonial era to date, combining quantitative and qualitative methods.

The successful candidate may have background in economics, political science, statistics, international affairs, or a related field. Experience in using statistical software, creating and analyzing large datasets, geocoding, and collaboration with research teams are desirable. Consideration is highly selective and limited to candidates of exceptional scholarly promise and strong orientation toward rigorous mathematical approaches to economics and political science. Candidates with limited but reasonable statistical skills, who have an outstanding understanding of Africa, and superior qualitative and mix method and writing skills may also be considered. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellence writing, editorial, and organizational skills; and expertise in causality models, barro regressions, experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science. The postdoctoral political economist is also expected to contribute to group publications, both disciplinary, and interdisciplinary.

Although employed by the Department of Political Science of the University of Alaska Anchorage, the candidate may be fully hosted as a visiting scholar in one of the centers (upon their approval) where Professor Signé anticipates periods of residency during his Andrew Carnegie Fellowship (Stanford University, a New York or Washington D.C. university or research center, and possibly Harvard University). Being hosted in their home city is possible if the candidate lives in a city where one of the five largest libraries with African resources is hosted.

This position may be part or full time.

Qualifications

1. Ph.D. in economics, political science, statistics, or a related social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2017 or during fall 2017.
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise.
3. A proven ability to work expeditiously, independently, collaboratively, and prolifically.
4. Proven knowledge or interest for African economies, governance, development, or political systems.

TO APPLY, PLEASE VISIT: <http://careers.alaska.edu/cw/en-us/job/506331/uaa-postdoctoral-fellow-for-political-science>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/13/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 2987

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications

- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 7/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2963

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2018-19 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science.

During the 2018-19 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2018
2. Substantive interest in any social science field
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Instructions

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2018. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42907

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2964

CUNY-Lehman College

Rank: Assistant Professor

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in the field of science policy. The candidate's scholarship and research interests will be expected to focus on emerging technologies, artificial intelligence, energy, environment and sustainability, or food and water security.

We are interested in a candidate who can contribute to the development of a Lehman College Center for Science Policy Development. S/he may also become involved in the Graduate Center of the City University of New York. The faculty member will be expected to conduct research; publish refereed journal articles; teach undergraduate courses at all levels; provide student advisement; provide service to the Department, College, University, and community; and participate fully in the life of the College and the University.

The Lehman College campus is located in Bronx, New York and is a Senior College within the City University of New York (CUNY) system. Lehman is the only four-year public college in the Bronx and is recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution. The college serves mainly undergraduate students preparing them for employment, the professions and further study. The teaching load is 21 hours (7 courses) per year and although the college is predominantly teaching focused, faculty at Lehman are active in research, scholarship and creative works. Service to the college, university and community is part of the mission as is a clear commitment to student engagement including advisement. Teaching is reduced for junior faculty over the first five years for scholarly development and all faculty are actively encouraged to seek external funding. Opportunities are available for faculty development and travel awards. Lehman College and CUNY internal funding is available through competitive grants for scholarship support.

QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in Political Science or related field, with a focus upon American Politics.

COMPENSATION

Salaries are commensurate with experience.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

Visit www.cuny.edu, access the employment page, log in or create a new user account, and search for this vacancy using the Job ID or Title. Select "Apply Now" and provide the requested information.

Candidates must attach a resume, cover letter, a statement of teaching philosophy, a research plan that describes how to include undergraduate and graduate students in the enterprise, and three professional references (name, title, organization, and contact information). Upload your application documents. Candidates should provide a CV/resume and statement of scholarly interests, and three (3) letters of recommendation when applying via CUNYfirst.

For technical issues:

Contact the service desk by email: service.desk@cuny.edu. If you can, provide screenshots. Please do not provide your User Account password; it is not needed to investigate any issue.

For other questions:

For questions about the content of any job posting, please contact the Human Resources department: Recruiting@lehman.cuny.edu.

CLOSING DATE

Review of CVs will begin mid-August and continue until October 24, 2017.

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2561

POLITICAL THEORY

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Department Chair, specialization in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position beginning Fall 2018 at the Associate or Full Professor level to serve as the Department Chair with a teaching specialization in political theory, ethics, and history of political thought. The position is a 12-month appointment that includes full administrative and leadership responsibilities for a department offering B.A. and M.A. degree programs in Political Science, Global Affairs, Politics and Law, and Geography/Environmental Sustainability. The Department is in UTSA's College of Liberal and Fine Arts and is home to approximately 570 undergraduate and graduate majors, 18 T/TT faculty, and several adjunct faculty focused on research and instructional missions. Faculty are actively engaged in areas of individual and collaborative research leading to publication in such areas as Latin American governance; Middle East, Asian and European political developments; security regimes; national security and intelligence; cyber security and politics; political communications; federal justice policies; race and gender issues; human migration patterns; and political and policy research using geographic information systems. The Department is actively engaged in pursuing internal and collaborative research grants in some of these areas. We are especially interested in candidates with a research and teaching portfolio in political theory and who considers major theoretical questions underlying contemporary social, political, economic, and policy issues.

Responsibilities include overseeing departmental organization, administration (including curricular and fiscal management), program development and leadership, supervision and evaluation of faculty and staff, communications with internal and external constituents, pursuit of grant opportunities, and participation in teaching, research, and scholarly publication.

Required Qualifications: As an element in the application process, all applicants must provide evidence of a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field and evidence of significant high-quality teaching experience in political theory; evidence of sustained excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; strong interpersonal, written, and oral communication skills; and successful administrative and leadership experience in an academic unit, including budgetary experience, time management and scheduling, conflict resolution, and unit advancement. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of political theory courses.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have a significant record of department-level administrative experience, an established research agenda and record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must have an established record of department-level administrative experience, an established long-term research agenda, a strong record of publications in political theory or related areas, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Associate or Full Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to pursue or to manage external funding opportunities.

The University of Texas at San Antonio is a dynamic institution with a diverse and growing student population of approximately 31,000. The City of San Antonio is the second largest in Texas and the seventh largest in the nation. Its cosmopolitan character, extensive recreational opportunities, low cost-of-living, excellent health care, and temperate climate make it a highly desirable place to live.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, teaching experiences, research interests, and focus on position qualifications;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Separate statements on research, teaching, and leadership;
4. Copies of all graduate transcripts;
5. Representative samples of scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);

8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's administrative experiences, scholarship, and teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3711

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Department Chair, specialization in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position beginning Fall 2018 at the Associate or Full Professor level to serve as the Department Chair with a teaching specialization in political theory, ethics, and history of political thought. The position is a 12-month appointment that includes full administrative and leadership responsibilities for a department offering B.A. and M.A. degree programs in Political Science, Global Affairs, Politics and Law, and Geography/Environmental Sustainability. The Department is in UTSA's College of Liberal and Fine Arts and is home to approximately 570 undergraduate and graduate majors, 18 T/TT faculty, and several adjunct faculty focused on research and instructional missions. Faculty are actively engaged in areas of individual and collaborative research leading to publication in such areas as Latin American governance; Middle East, Asian and European political developments; security regimes; national security and intelligence; cyber security and politics; political communications; federal justice policies; race and gender issues; human migration patterns; and political and policy research using geographic information systems. The Department is actively engaged in pursuing internal and collaborative research grants in some of these areas. We are especially interested in candidates with a research and teaching portfolio in political theory and who considers major theoretical questions underlying contemporary social, political, economic, and policy issues.

Responsibilities include overseeing departmental organization, administration (including curricular and fiscal management), program development and leadership, supervision and evaluation of faculty and staff, communications with internal and external constituents, pursuit of grant opportunities, and participation in teaching, research, and scholarly publication.

Required Qualifications: As an element in the application process, all applicants must provide evidence of a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field and evidence of significant high-quality teaching experience in political theory; evidence of sustained excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; strong interpersonal, written, and oral communication skills; and successful administrative and leadership experience in an academic unit, including budgetary experience, time management and scheduling, conflict resolution, and unit advancement. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of political theory courses.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have a significant record of department-level administrative experience, an established research agenda and record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must have an established record of department-level administrative experience, an established long-term research agenda, a strong record of publications in political theory or related areas, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Associate or Full Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to pursue or to manage external funding opportunities.

The University of Texas at San Antonio is a dynamic institution with a diverse and growing student population of approximately 31,000. The City of San Antonio is the second largest in Texas and the seventh largest in the nation. Its cosmopolitan character, extensive recreational opportunities, low cost-of-living, excellent health care, and temperate climate make it a highly desirable place to live.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, teaching experiences, research interests, and focus on position qualifications;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Separate statements on research, teaching, and leadership;
4. Copies of all graduate transcripts;
5. Representative samples of scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's administrative experiences, scholarship, and teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3712

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow - Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy at the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies has two openings in its post-doctoral fellows' program. We will accept applications from candidates who specialize in global peace and security (broadly construed) but are particularly interested in those doing policy relevant research on the effects of inclusion on violence, peace building, and governance. Fellows will engage in their own research, participate in center activities, and have opportunities to contribute to collaborative research designed to inform (and be informed by) contemporary policy concerns and strategies. The Fellowship will begin September 1, 2018. Post-doctoral fellows will spend one academic year at the Sié Center.

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy is a center of excellence within the Josef Korbel School that leads research, education and policy programs focused on global peace and security. Eight faculty, visiting and post-doctoral scholars, and over 40 Korbel MA and PhD students contribute to the Center's activities. While at the Sié Center, post-doctoral fellows have opportunities to work with Center faculty and graduate students, engage with relevant policy practitioners, and receive clerical and research/travel support sufficient to allow the completion of a major research product. Fellows will be expected to attend and contribute to a seminar series and engage with other program initiatives including conferences, commentary, and publications.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $50,000 and access to additional funding for research support, professional development, and travel, and a comprehensive benefits package.

Essential Functions

- Participate in a research seminar series.
- Participate in workshops.
- Present research findings to interdisciplinary academic and audiences.
- Participate in independent and collaborative research.
- Submit manuscripts for publication.

Required Qualifications

- Substantial progress toward a Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant discipline. Applicants should complete all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- Policy-relevant research agenda related to the Center's program.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants should be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2014).

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 6:00 p.m. (MST) on December 15, 2017.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions regarding this position, please contact Jill Schmieder-Hereau, Executive Director of the Sié Center at Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Writing Sample
4. Two letters of recommendation sent directly to Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3705

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought with an anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on American constitutionalism and institutions, and American political thought; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: expertise and interest in the American presidency with a historical focus, and in civic education and leadership; interest in the study, teaching, and discussion of civic education and leadership as well as the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is December 1, 2017; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to:

American Politics Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Peter McNamara; email: peter.mcnamara@asu.edu.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3697

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, in Classical and Medieval Political Philosophy

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor, in Classical and Medieval Political Philosophy, with an anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, history, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on Classical Greek, Roman, or Medieval political philosophy, or the intellectual history of Classical and Medieval Political thought; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: interest and ability to teach courses that span Western political theory and some comparative theory; interest in civic education and leadership; interest in study, teaching and discussion of civic education and leadership as well as the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is December 1, 2017; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send via email to scetl@asu.edu: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: Classical and Medieval Political Philosophy Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Carol McNamara; email: carol.mcnamara@asu.edu.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3696

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy of Race

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Political Economy, Social Movements

The Department of African American Studies at Emory University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor training in one of the social science disciplinary areas who will engage research and teaching focused on the Political Economy of Race. We seek scholars working on racialized structures of inequality. The successful candidate will 1) provide evidence of research projects in-progress or published; 2) demonstrate commitment to undergraduate teaching in diverse settings; and 3) envision, and be prepared to implement, cross-disciplinary collaborations with other Emory Departments. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester. The Ph.D is required by the time of appointment.

Applicants should know that this hire in the Political Economy of Race is proceeding alongside similar Assistant Professor searches in the social sciences at Emory University: one in Sociology for the Sociology of Race and the other in Oxford Division of Social Sciences (an Emory campus) for Critical Race Theory.

Applications are due December 11, 2017. Please submit a letter of interest, inclusive of current and planned research; a teaching statement that describes experiences with, and commitment to, teaching a diverse student body; curriculum vitae, three letters of support; and a writing sample of no more than 25 pages. Only applications submitted through Interfolio will be considered.

<http://apply.interfolio.com/46493>

Emory University, in Atlanta, Georgia, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3694

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW, The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies, Contemporary Middle Eastern Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Middle East, Political Economy, Urban Politics

FACULTY FELLOW

The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies

Contemporary Middle Eastern Studies

ARTS ANS SCIENCE

New York University

The Hagop Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies at New York University invites applicants for a full-time, non-tenure track position as Faculty Fellow to begin September 1st, 2018, pending budgetary and administrative approval. The appointment will be for one year, renewable for a further two years.

We are looking for an outstanding junior scholar in any social science or humanities discipline whose research offers a critical perspective on the contemporary Middle East and would complement the strengths of our existing faculty in Middle Eastern Studies. The ideal candidate has an in-depth understanding of the modern Middle East, knowledge of at least one Middle Eastern language, and has a Ph.D. in one of the following fields: Anthropology, Comparative Middle Eastern Studies, Cultural Studies, Politics/Political Economy, Sociology, Urban Studies/Geography, or similar. The appointee will be expected to teach at the graduate level (MAs and some PhDs), advise MA students, and participate in the activities of the Kevorkian Center.

A demonstrated research and teaching experience is required, and advising experience is a plus. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2018. We are especially interested in receiving applications from women and minority candidates. Please submit a cover letter, a CV, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. To apply, please go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/46267>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here.

(<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3662

Duke Kunshan University

Rank: Faculty Positions (Rank Open) in Social Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Duke Kunshan University (DKU) invites applications for faculty positions in the Social Sciences: Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Sociology, Psychology & Neuroscience, and Cultural Anthropology. These positions are open with regard to rank including tenured, tenure track, and non-tenure track. We are especially interested in considering advanced assistant professors to full professors.

These positions are open with regard to sub-field. Besides our general interest in each area, in some areas we are especially interested in:

- Political Science: political economy, institutions and governance, international and global affairs, and political behavior and identities;
- Public Policy: policy and political analysis, ethics, public opinion, and media and communications;
- Economics: macroeconomics, microeconomics, entrepreneurship and finance, environmental and development economics, and the history of economic thought;
- Sociology: social theory, sociology of culture, statistical methodology and computational sociology, inequality, organizations, and contemporary social problems.

DKU will launch an innovative, integrated and interdisciplinary liberal arts and sciences undergraduate program leading to both Duke and DKU degrees. Students interested in social sciences will be immersed in integrated core courses including decision making under uncertainty and foundational questions in social sciences, as well as a common set of university-wide courses on China, global challenges, and ethics. Areas of study in the social sciences include, but are not limited to, Political Economy, Institutions and Governance, Movements and Cultures, China and US Studies, Ethics and Leadership, Global Health, Environmental Policy, and Cognitive Science. Faculty will have the unique opportunity to pioneer, lead and implement an interdisciplinary and integrated social science curriculum and to conduct research in the related fields. These positions may start as early as Fall 2018 or begin a year later.

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. degree or equivalent in an appropriate field. Successful candidates should show a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching in a liberal arts curriculum. Research and scholarship are also highly valued. Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, a research statement and a teaching statement, as well as names and contact information for three references. All materials should be submitted through Academic Jobs Online: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10175>. The search committee also invites and encourages letters of nomination for potential candidates. Nominations and questions about the positions may be sent to social-science-search@dukekunshan.edu.cn using "Social Science Search" as the subject line. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1, 2017; we will accept applications until the positions are filled.

DKU is a partnership of Duke University, Wuhan University and the Municipality of Kunshan, China (<https://dukekunshan.edu.cn>).* The DKU campus is 37 miles west of Shanghai in Kunshan, and is connected to Shanghai via an 18-minute high-speed train and a sub-way-light rail train system. DKU provides competitive compensation, benefits and start-up packages.

As an international intellectual community that encourages diversity, openness and creative learning, DKU welcomes outstanding faculty from around the world who contribute diverse perspectives and experiences to a global learning and research environment. DKU particularly welcomes applications from underrepresented groups and minorities.

*Duke University is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) to award baccalaureate, master's and doctorate degrees. Duke Kunshan University is not accredited by SACSCOC and the accreditation of Duke University does not extend to or include Duke Kunshan University or its students. Duke Kunshan University is accredited by the Ministry of Education of the People's Republic of China. Further, although Duke University agrees to accept certain course work from DKU to be applied toward an award from Duke University, that course work may not be accepted by other colleges or universities in transfer, even if it appears on a transcript from Duke University. The decision to accept course work in transfer from any institution is made by the institution considering the acceptance of credits or course work.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3635

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2018-2019, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society at Stanford seeks to appoint up to three postdoctoral fellows. Selected fellows will be designated as either General Ethics Fellows or Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows. The two types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, but they form a common community at the Center and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. The programs are described in detail below.

We aim to appoint fellows in both programs (three total across the two programs). All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships and do not need to tailor their application for one or the other fellowship.

General Ethics Fellowship

Some selected fellows will be part of our longstanding postdoctoral program that is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within philosophy or political science. For 2018-19, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in inequality, immigration, global justice, environmental ethics, and ethics and technology, but we welcome all applicants with strong normative interests. Applicants must have normative training and hold a PhD in philosophy or political science. Scholars with a PhD in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center for Ethics in Society (attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

2018-19 will be the third year of this fellowship program at the Center. The program is rooted in the Center's commitment to bringing ethical reflection to bear on pressing social problems. Addressing many of these social problems involves knowledge of the work of social science, law, and the life sciences. The premise of this program is that the normative scholarship of our fellows will be enhanced by engagement with empirically-oriented scholars. To that end, each fellow in the program will be matched with a partner research center at Stanford that is dedicated to interdisciplinary research. For 2018-19, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in engineering/computer science or biomedical ethics, but all applicants whose work may intersect with empirically-oriented scholarship will be considered. Applicants need not name a possible partner center on campus or tailor their materials for this type of fellowship. The Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the natural match between their work.

Applicants must have normative training and hold a PhD in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a PhD in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. Fellows will participate in the regular intellectual life of the partner center and the Center for Ethics in Society (e.g., attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across campus.

Appointment Requirements and Application Details

For both types of fellowships, the appointment term is September 1, 2018 - August 31, 2019. The initial term may be renewed for an additional year. Applicants must have completed all requirements for their PhD by June 30, 2018. Candidates must also be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2015).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its scholarly community. We welcome applications from women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions. Salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single spaced), and list of classes they have taught and/or are prepared to teach. Additional materials will not be considered. All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships, and finalists will be consulted about whether they may be designated as Interdisciplinary Ethics or General Ethics fellows.

Applications will be collected via Interfolio. Applications will not be accepted by email. Please visit the Center's website for information about how to submit your materials: <https://ethicsinsociety.stanford.edu/postdocs/application-process>

If you have questions, please email ethics_submissions@stanford.edu. Application Due Date: December 11, 2017 at 5:00 pm PST.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/11/2017

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3646

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Governance/International Policy Theory with an emphasis on human security/governance and sub-specializations in critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area. (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in global governance theory/international policy theory. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in human security, critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching global governance, international policy, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170154, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Karen Hult (khult@vt.edu), chairs, Global Governance Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Major Williams Hall, Room 531 (0130), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3607

University of Southern Denmark

Rank: Assistant Professor in Social Science: War Studies (D-IAS)

The Danish Institute for Advanced Study (D-IAS) seeks outstanding candidates to fill a position as assistant professor at Faculty of Business and Social Sciences, Department of Political Science and Public Management.

This announcement is available on our website www.sdu.dk/vacancies

You can therefore not apply for the position based on this advertisement.

Application deadline 27 November 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3606

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Postcolonial Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Postcolonial Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science

College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Postcolonial Theory

and Global Governance/Globalization Theory with an emphasis on human security and sub-specializations in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in postcolonial theory and global governance/globalization theory with an emphasis on human security. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching postcolonial, global governance/globalization, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170155, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than 4 academic references. Screening of applications will begin January 5, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Timothy W. Luke (twluke@vt.edu), chairs, Postcolonial Theory Search Committee, ASPECT, Major Williams Hall, Room 202 (0192), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3608

Cardiff University

Rank: Research Fellows, Centre for Political and Legal Analytics (CPLA)

Specializations: Political Theory, International Law & Organizations, Political Development

Research Fellows, Centre for Political and Legal Analytics (CPLA), School of Law and Politics, Cardiff University
Vacancy Number: 6564BR

The newly founded Centre for Political and Legal Analytics (CPLA) in the School of Law and Politics invites applications for two Research Fellows (postdoctoral researchers). The primary purpose of the new centre is to provide a hub in the School to disseminate knowledge about quantitative data analytics to both faculty members as well as postgraduate research students. The Research Associates will carry out independent research as well as collaborate with faculty members (as co-authors), who are interested in using quantitative methods in their research but might not have the expertise to do so on their own. They will also take the lead on identifying and applying for grants to support the activities of the Centre; support, on an ad-hoc basis, the School's Teaching and Learning Team in strengthening the methods component of the curriculum; help with the organisation of events, including presentations by external speakers and workshops; and help forge links with similar centres/initiatives within the university and at other UK and international universities.

Both positions are full time, fixed term (3 years) and available immediately.

Salary: £41,212 - £47,722 per annum (Grade 7)

For more information and to apply please visit <http://www.cardiff.ac.uk/jobs>

Closing date: Thursday, 2 November 2017

Please be aware that Cardiff University reserves the right to close this vacancy early should sufficient applications be received.

Cardiff University is committed to supporting and promoting equality and diversity and to creating an inclusive working environment. We believe this can be achieved through attracting, developing, and retaining a diverse range of staff from many different backgrounds who have the ambition to create a University which seeks to fulfil our social, cultural and economic obligation to Cardiff, Wales, and the world. In supporting our employees to achieve a balance between their work and their personal lives, we will also consider proposals for flexible working or job share arrangements.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/2/2017

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3604

Ludwig Maximilians Universitaet, Center for Advanced Studies

Rank: Fellowship in the CAS Research Group "Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions"

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Call for Applications

Fellowships in the CAS Research Group "Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions"
Center for Advanced Studies, LMU Munich

The Center for Advanced Studies at LMU Munich <http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/index.html> is a forum for intensive international academic exchange. Its purpose is to promote cooperation with national and international Visiting Fellows who work closely on collaborative projects with LMU professors. In order to intensify cooperation between researchers at LMU Munich and leading experts from other universities, the Center has set up a major program, the CAS Research Groups http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/research_groups/index.html.

The CAS Research Group "Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions" http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/research_groups/upcoming_rg_rg_zangl/index.html is initiated by Bernhard Zangl (Political Sciences) and will commence work in October 2018.

The CAS Research Group will study the adaptation of international institutions to shifts in the global distribution of power. As powers such as China rise and powers such as the US decline, international institutions such as the IMF, the WTO or the UN come under pressure to adapt to new power realities. Yet, the pathways to institutional adaptation vary considerably. In some cases, adaptation comes through a pathway of power bargaining, but in other cases, pathways of strategic cooptation or rhetorical coercion prevail. What is more, sometimes attempts of institutional adaptation are successful and sometimes they fail. The CAS Research Group therefore investigates the conditions under which different pathways to institutional adaptation are taken as well as the pathway-specific conditions for the success or failure of institutional adaptation. The group's initial proposition is that depending on whether power shifts involve revisionist or reformist powers and depending on whether power shifts imply hard or soft power, the resulting pathways to institutional adaptation will take the shape of power bargaining, strategic cooptation or rhetorical coercion, which in turn feature specific conditions for the success or failure of institutional adaptation. Taking this proposition as a starting point, the research group seeks to develop a power shift theory of institutional adaptation, which will be assessed in case studies on power shifts in a variety of international institutions. The Research Group aims at publishing its results as a special issue of a high-ranking International Relations Journal or as an edited volume of a high-quality University Press.

The CAS Research Group will bring together internationally renowned researchers who are invited to LMU Munich to contribute to the group's research, i.e. to the development of a power shift theory of institutional adaptation and/or the empirics of power shifts in (one or several) international institutions. Applications from senior and junior researchers are equally welcome. The Center for Advanced Studies will provide financing and organizational support for visits of between four weeks and nine months during the period between October 2018 and September 2019. Travel and accommodation will be paid for and an expense allowance or other compensation (according to individual agreement) will be provided to cover operating costs or as recompense for any loss of income sustained. Guests will receive a workspace in the Center and will have access to all its facilities. Visiting researchers will find an open and stimulating research environment in an interdisciplinary setting.

Applications should consist of a brief outline (1-2 pages) of the expertise, field of exchange and intended contribution to the CAS Research Group. Applications should also contain relevant credentials and a résumé including a list of the most recent publications. In order to strengthen the role of women in research, female scholars are strongly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all the application documents electronically (in one PDF file) by 10 December 2017 to

Email: Bernhard.Zangl@LMU.de

Prof. Dr. Bernhard Zangl
Geschwister-Scholl-Institut für Politikwissenschaft
Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München
Oettingenstraße 67
80538 München
Germany

For any questions on the CAS Research Groups please contact Dr. Julia Schreiner at CAS:

Email: Julia.Schreiner@cas.lmu.de

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/10/2017
Date Posted: 10/11/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3601

Northeastern University

Rank: Network Science - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: Health Care, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Communication

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars in Network Science with an expected start date of Fall 2018. Candidates at all ranks are welcome. Areas of interest are open. We are especially interested in candidates with expertise in economics, statistical methods, and social media analysis. The position includes an appointment in one of the social science units in CSSH (Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Criminal Justice, and/or Public Policy) as well as affiliation with the Network Science Institute (www.networkscienceinstitute.org/). Cross-departmental appointments within CSSH are possible as are cross-college appointments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record or promise of one and will join an outstanding interdisciplinary community representing 7 departments, including Political Science, Physics, Computer Science, Business, Health Science, Communications, and Mathematics. The individual filling this position will contribute to our distinctive PhD program in Network Science, which is currently the only NetSci graduate program in the US and will teach courses at all levels of Network Science as well as in their domain area.

Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

To apply, please go to

<http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to d.lazer@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3603

Colorado State University, Pueblo

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Tenure Track)

The Department of History, Political Science, Philosophy, and Geography at Colorado State University-Pueblo, a regional comprehensive university and Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI), seeks an outstanding scholar of American politics to serve as a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. The successful candidate will show demonstrated ability or clear potential to teach an introductory course in American national politics as well as upper-level courses in the Congress, the Presidency, and National Elections. The ability to teach courses in political theory would also be valuable. It is also expected that the successful candidate will engage in scholarly activities appropriate to this discipline.

Applicants must be able to work as a collegial part of a multi-disciplinary team including political scientists, historians, philosophers, and geographers. The successful candidate will take an active part in advising students in our majors, minors, and certificates, and in promoting our programs. As with every faculty position, it is expected that the successful candidate participate in service-related activities of the University.

POSITION DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

All responsibilities of faculty members at CSU-Pueblo are in accordance with the Faculty Handbook. The Faculty Handbook is the authoritative guide on specific requirements with regard to teaching assignments, scholarly activity, research, and service.

Primary Duties

-- Teach baccalaureate level political science courses as needed by the program (12 credit hours per semester). This includes preparing and presenting course materials; administering appropriate tests; evaluating student outcomes; selecting and ordering texts; preparing, administering and grading assignments; and assigning final grades. Evidence of teaching success or potential is required upon application.

-- Conducts and maintains an active research agenda. This includes conducting research, presenting research at appropriate conferences, and publishing in appropriate scholarly venues. Evidence of an active research agenda is required upon application.

-- Participate in service related activities. This includes advising political science majors and minors, to include graduation requirements, course scheduling, and overall progress; counseling students considering departmental or department-supported majors and minors, to include graduation requirements and course scheduling; and participating in the shared governance and administrative responsibilities of the department, college, and university.

Ancillary Duties

-- General administrative duties, to include preparation of reports, attendance at departmental meetings and functions, and support of departmental recruiting and retention initiatives.

QUALIFICATIONS:

Preferred Qualifications

- Ph.D., Political Science, or a closely related field (public policy, government, public administration, etc.)
- University level teaching experience

Minimum Qualifications

- ABD, Political Science, or a closely related field (public policy, government, public administration, etc.)
- Classroom management, instruction, and assessment skills
- Demonstrated skill in political science research methodologies

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

CSU-Pueblo is a regional, comprehensive university. The 275-acre campus, which overlooks the Front Range of south-central Colorado, is located in Pueblo, approximately 100 miles south of Denver in one of the more culturally dynamic regions of the country. Pueblo is proud of its ethnically and culturally diverse populations of over 100,000 people. The University is dedicated to having a multi-cultural campus and is designated as a Hispanic Serving Institution. The University enrolls more than 4,000 students in twenty-eight undergraduate programs with approximately 510 full-time faculty and staff. The University is committed to diversity, and has made educational equity for students one of its highest priorities. With the endorsement of campus, community, system and government constituencies, the University has enthusiastically embarked on a strategic plan to enhance admissions standards, increase program offerings, and improve academic services, including the teaching/ learning process. The Pueblo community offers a major arts center, several golf courses, Lake Pueblo - a large reservoir for sailing and boating - and a 20.5 mile long nature trail for hikers and cyclists. The city is within a short drive of the Sangre de Cristo Mountain Range, allowing for hiking, mountain climbing, fishing, camping, and skiing.

All interested candidates must apply through the on-line application system. No other format of application materials will be accepted. Applicants must attach a letter of intent (cover letter); a current resume or CV; an unofficial transcript; a sample of written research; a sample American Government syllabus; and three professional references including contact information to the on-line application. Applications submitted without the required information above will be considered incomplete and will not move forward in the selection process. Once submitted, applicants will not be able to make changes or add information to their application packet, with exception to their personal contact and demographic information.

Early submission of application materials is encouraged. Screening of application materials will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, though all applications received by Monday, November 6, 2017 at 4 p.m. will be considered.

Colorado State University - Pueblo is committed to providing a safe and productive learning and living community. To achieve that goal, we conduct background investigations for all final candidates being considered for employment. Background checks may include, but are not limited to criminal history (felony and misdemeanor), national sex offender search, and/or motor vehicle history. Candidates who are extended an offer of employment must submit to and pass a background check prior to beginning employment. Some positions depending on the job duties may be required to complete a DMV and/or credit check.

The University reserves the right to check additional references, with prior notification given to the candidate.

This position is contingent upon available funding.

Note: The successful candidate must provide official transcripts of academic work completed and, under U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services regulations, be able to submit evidence of the ability to accept work in the U.S. by the day employment begins.

In compliance with the Clery Act 1990, the University's annual security report is available at: <https://www.csupueblo.edu/campus-safety/index.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3596

Northeastern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: International Security, Civil Rights & Liberties, Science & Technology

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor College of Social Sciences & Humanities Northeastern University

Responsibilities

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, tenure/tenure-track, in the area(s) of cyber security, privacy, ethics, and resilience (all broadly defined), with an expected start date of Fall 2018. We welcome applications from scholars working in any combination of these areas and are especially interested in those that focus on key issues in cybersecurity and privacy as they relate to applied ethics, human behavior, economics, institutions and policy. Interdisciplinary expertise in computational methods, data science, social science and/or humanities is preferred. This is an interdisciplinary position and candidates will be considered for joint appointments across suitable colleges and departments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record and demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership and interdisciplinary collaboration.

The position will facilitate cross-college teaching, research and collaboration between the College of Social Sciences and Humanities and the College of Computer and Information Science. The position will also support the University's commitment to innovation in teaching and contribute to the Cybersecurity & Privacy Institute (<https://cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/>), the Global Resilience Institute (<https://globalresilience.northeastern.edu/>), and/or the Security & Resilience Studies program (<https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/polisci/security-resilience-studies/>). The candidate who fills this position will share the college's commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a PhD or its equivalent at the time of appointment.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

How to Apply

Applicants should submit a CV and letter of interest along with the names of three references. Candidates will be notified before their references are contacted. Full dossiers will be requested for first-round interviews.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Rory Smead at r.smead@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3599

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FULL-TIME CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSORS Liberal Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Philosophy & Theory, Gender Politics & Policy

FULL-TIME CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSORS

Liberal Studies

ARTS AND SCIENCE

New York University

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for three full-time Clinical Assistant Professor positions to begin September 1, 2018, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Liberal Studies is an interdisciplinary unit, with a faculty from a broad range of disciplinary backgrounds. Liberal Studies offers the Bachelor of Arts in Global Liberal Studies, one of NYU's premier liberal arts degrees. LS includes an innovative, two-year global core curriculum, where students may also complete their degrees in any of NYU's liberal arts divisions.

We seek colleagues in the following areas who will, as needed, teach both advanced classes in the fields of specialization listed and courses in the global core:

Environmental Science

PhD in Environmental Science or related field; ability to teach courses on global environmental policy, the intersection of science and policy, and similar issues welcome.

Social and Political Philosophy or Political Theory

PhD in Philosophy, History, or Politics, with a focus on contemporary international political theory and/or global justice. Ability to teach our introductory survey courses in pre-modern periods (Social Foundations I and II) is desirable.

Feminist Ethics

PhD in philosophy, sociology, gender and/or women's studies, history, political theory, or religious studies. Broad global/chronological scope and ability to teach our introductory survey courses in pre-modern periods (Social Foundations I and II) is desirable.

Minimum qualifications: a Ph.D. or other appropriate terminal degree in hand by the date of appointment; three years of college-level teaching experience; and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Publications and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are strongly encouraged.

All Liberal Studies full-time faculty hold renewable term contracts, initially three years, and later potentially five years in duration. There is no limit to the number of times a contract may be renewed, contingent upon satisfactory performance. Faculty normally teach three classes per semester. Faculty also are expected to remain engaged in their fields of expertise, to advise undergraduates, and to contribute service to Liberal Studies and to the University. Faculty are eligible for promotion within the Clinical faculty ranks to Clinical Associate and Clinical Professor based on LS and University criteria that includes duration of appointment, teaching excellence, and professional development.

Applications consisting ONLY of a cover letter and a current c.v. should be submitted by midnight, November 12th, 2017, Eastern Standard Time (US). Applications submitted after this date will not be considered. Full instructions for submitting an application and additional information about these positions and about Liberal Studies may be found in an extended position description at:

<https://www.nyu.edu/projects/mediamosaic/1718LSJobs/>

Or you may apply directly through the following links:

Environmental Science - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45434>

Social and Political Philosophy or Political Theory - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45436>

Feminist Ethics - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45437>

Liberal Studies offers a global liberal arts curriculum at sites around the globe in the context of a leading research university. We seek scholar/educators of the highest caliber whose work reflects an interest in global diversity. Liberal Studies strongly encourages applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion, please read here: <http://as.nyu.edu/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/12/2017

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3582

Ashoka University

Rank: Professor/Associate Professor/ Tenure-track Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at Ashoka University invites applications for upto two tenured Professor/Associate Professor/tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty positions with an expected start date of July 1, 2018. We are open to outstanding candidates in any subfield, but we are particularly interested in candidates whose work is in the areas of comparative politics, political economy, or methods. A Ph.D is required by the time of appointment.

Ashoka is a research university based near New Delhi, India. It offers internationally competitive terms and condition. The teaching load is comparable to the top universities in the world, and the University supports research in various ways.

Ashoka University strongly encourages applications by women and members of other groups underrepresented in academia.

Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) two samples of academic writings (article length); 4) teaching evaluations (if available); 5) three confidential letters of reference.

Note: The Ashoka job portal further asks for statements of teaching and research philosophy for all applications. For this search they are optional.

All materials should be submitted through: <https://www.ashoka.edu.in/facultypositions/>

The deadline for submitting a complete application is: November 15th, 2017.

For any queries or further information, please contact: polscience.recruitment@ashoka.edu.in

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3555

New York University Shanghai

Rank: TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Social Welfare, Energy Policy

TENURED/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Environmental Studies. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in geography, sociology, anthropology, political science, or a related social science field, and whose work demonstrates a capacity for excellence in interdisciplinary environmental research and high-quality classroom instruction. We are especially but not exclusively interested in scholars whose research adopts a global perspective on disasters, urban ecology, or energy and climate change.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching, and electronic copies of up to five relevant publications. To complete the online process, junior applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted and asked to upload their reference letter. In the case of senior applicants, reference letters will be requested at a later stage as needed.

Review of applications will begin October 16th and will continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. To apply, follow this link <https://apply.interfolio.com/45330>. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher-education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, NYU Shanghai resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of innovative research and transformative teaching, and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common educational interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3524

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Study of Islam

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY, Department of Religion invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of Islam. The position would begin on September 1, 2018. The candidate's area of expertise within the study of Islam is open but we especially welcome candidates who complement the department's offerings in ethics, intellectual history, philosophy or South Asia. Princeton also supports a wide range of vibrant interdisciplinary programs, including programs in African Studies, American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Near Eastern Studies, Political Philosophy, and South Asian Studies, and we welcome applicants who might contribute to any of these programs. The search committee will begin reviewing applications November 1, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. Applications from women and members of minority groups are especially encouraged. Applicants should submit the following materials: Cover letter including teaching interests and research plans, Curriculum Vitae, writing sample, and at least 3 letters of recommendation will be reviewed starting November 1, 2017.

Please apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3801>

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applications will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3527

Princeton University

Rank: Religion and Critical Thought

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY, Department of Religion invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Religion and Critical Thought. The position would begin on September 1, 2018. The candidate's area of expertise is open but we especially welcome candidates who complement the department's offerings in epistemology, ethics, religion and philosophy, social criticism, theology or theories of religion. Princeton also supports a wide range of vibrant interdisciplinary programs and initiatives, including Environmental Humanities, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Law and Public Affairs, Political Philosophy and the University Center for Human Values, and we welcome applicants who might contribute to any of these programs. The search committee will begin reviewing applications November 1, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled. Applications from women and members of minority groups are especially encouraged. Applicants should submit the following materials: Cover letter including teaching interests and research plans, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and at least 3 letters of recommendation will be reviewed starting November 1, 2017. Please apply online at:

<https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3782>

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applications will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3526

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3447

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location:

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration:

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2018 to August 2019. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation:

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- C.V.
- One academic writing sample and one non-academic piece, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Arthur Milikh

Associate Director

B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics

The Heritage Foundation

214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE

Washington, D.C. 20002

Email: arthur.milikh@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3438

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3429

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in political theory, beginning August 16, 2018. Candidate must demonstrate teaching excellence and research potential. Responsibilities include teaching ten to twelve credit hours a semester (typically two or three sections of American government and one or two upper level courses per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year, student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, profession, and community.

Position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 16, 2018 and ability to teach introductory and upper level undergraduate courses in political theory and the introductory American Government course.

The University of South Carolina Aiken, a public comprehensive university in the University of South Carolina system, located just 20 minutes from Augusta, GA, offers undergraduate and master's degrees to more than 3,500 students in 50 programs of study. USC Aiken is ranked the #1 public regional college in the South by U.S. News & World Report's guide "America's Best Colleges." The 2017 distinction marks USC Aiken's 19th consecutive ranking among the top three in this category and its 12th time in first place.

USC Aiken pumps $281 million into the local economy every year, and was listed among the 2016 Great Colleges to Work For. We boast students from 35 states and 32 countries. USC Aiken has eleven NCAA Division II Athletic programs. The City of Aiken is best noted as a cultural and horse community. Visit: www.usca.edu.

Application deadline is November 15, 2017.

Apply online at: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/19196>

Please submit the following documents with your online application: curriculum vitae; letter of application with your teaching philosophy, and upload copies of your undergraduate and graduate transcripts. Send three letters of recommendation to

Dr. Matthew Thornburg
Search Committee Chair
Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy
USC Aiken
471 University Parkway
Aiken, SC 29801

Questions may be directed to Dr. Thornburg at matthewth@usca.edu, 803-641-3222. Additional materials may be sought from some candidates as the search progresses. Finalists will be required to submit official hard copy transcripts.

Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. USCA is an AA/EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3423

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

University of North Texas

Rank: Open Rank Search in Political Theory

We invite applications for an open-rank position beginning fall 2018 in the broadly defined field of the history of political theory. We are interested in prospective candidates who specialize in Medieval, early modern/Enlightenment, or 19th/20th century German (post-rationalist) thought. An additional strength in non-Western thought, such as Islamic or Chinese political thought, is considered an advantage.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science, (2) evidence of excellence in scholarly productivity, and (3) evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching and mentoring students in independent activities. Preference will be given to candidates who have published books and/or articles in top-tier journals.

The successful candidate will have responsibilities that may include but are not limited to teaching core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continuing a record of robust scholarly research, directing graduate research in the Theory field, and providing service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 25 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Political Science Education, and is the current home of Religion and Politics. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site is: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With 37,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) two published writing samples, (5) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (6) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquires to Richard Ruderman, search committee chair (Richard.Ruderman@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 18, 2017 and will remain open until the position is closed. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3400

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Assistant Professor

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT GREENSBORO: Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: Political Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning August 1, 2018. Candidates should have a Ph.D. by time of appointment. Applicants should have teaching experience and an active research agenda. The faculty member will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate classes in political theory. The ability to teach in a second field in women's and gender studies, environmental politics/policy or minority politics is desirable. The department has fifteen full-time faculty and has strong B.A. and M.P.A. programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool. UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate student body consisting of approximately 28% African Americans and 8% Hispanic or Latino Americans. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools. We are an EOE/Affirmative Action/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should submit all materials electronically (to apply, visit <https://jobsearch.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" and apply to position #998942), including a cover letter, a CV, a description of their research program, up to three representative writing samples, sample syllabi, and a statement of teaching interests. Applicants are asked to provide the names and email addresses of at least three (3) references in the References section of the electronic application. These references will be solicited by The UNCG jobsearch system via email. They will be asked to provide a confidential letter of reference/recommendation on behalf of the applicant. This will occur as soon as the applicant successfully submits the application and receives a confirmation number from the UNCG jobsearch system.

Inquiries can be sent to Professor Ruth DeHoog (rhdehoog@uncg.edu). The program webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 30, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3382

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in political theory. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3363

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Normative Political Theory

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2018-19. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2243> The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 6, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 9. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in early March 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3372

Ohio State UniversityRank: The Health of DemocracySubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 10/15/2017Date Posted: 9/5/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3336American University of Afghanistan*Rank: Assistant or Associate ProfessorSubfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political TheorySpecializations: Central Asia, Developing Nations, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science

Reports to: Chair of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Starting: Spring 2018

The American University of Afghanistan (AUAF) is a private, non-profit university offering an American-style liberal arts education. We opened our doors in 2005 and currently offer 4 undergraduate academic majors and an MBA program. We follow a strict non-discriminatory policy, and applicants from all ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds are encouraged to apply. We are a young, dynamic university with a student population of above 1000 students. Construction continues on a new 75-acre international campus.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration is seeking a qualified candidate for a full-time faculty position, an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science.

Responsibilities and duties:

- Teach lower and higher level courses in Political Science (ability to teach Political Science and Public Administration courses is highly desirable)
- Teach 12 credit hours per semester
- In addition to teaching, full-time faculty are required to provide service to the university in some capacity either by serving on a committee, assisting the Department Chair with various administrative tasks, mentoring and advising students on academic affairs, or in other ways.
- Although AUAF is primarily a teaching institute, research, especially the preparation of publications in academic or policy journals, is highly desirable

Requirements:

- Earned PhD in Political Science. (MA holders with experience in the field and a proven track record of teaching experience at the post-secondary level may be considered)
- Prior teaching experience at the post-secondary level
- Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at AUAF is English.
- Experience teaching in international locations and multicultural settings preferred
- When hired, the successful applicant is expected to provide official proof of academic degrees (transcripts sent from the degree granting school directly to AUAF)

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled.

The American University of Afghanistan offers a generous benefits package that includes a competitive salary, air transportation, University-provided accommodation, and paid health care insurance. This is an unprecedented opportunity to teach at a newly formed American University in an emerging and rapidly changing society.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching purpose, and contact information for three references to jobs@auaf.edu.af. Please include Political Science in the subject line of the email.

Start Date: Spring 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/2/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3325

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of political theory beginning in the fall of 2018.

The area of specialization is open, but the successful candidate should be able to teach courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. We also strongly prefer a candidate who is willing and able to teach graduate-level courses for our growing Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered, but all degree requirements should be completed by August 1, 2018.
- Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Responsibilities:

Teaching duties may include Introduction to Political Theory, American National Government, Classical and Medieval Political Thought, Modern Political Thought, American Political Thought, Executive Process, and other upper-level courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. Teaching courses for the MPA program is also expected.

The successful candidate will also be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching.

Special Instruction to Applicants:

Applicants should apply online at <https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/7109>

All applicants should submit 1) a cover letter, 2) a current CV, 3) statement of teaching and research, 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness, 5) transcripts, and 6) one writing sample.

Three letters of recommendations should be directly mailed to: Dr. Choong-Nam Kang, Chair, Department of Political Science and Sociology, Faculty Hall 5A, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Murray State University is an equal education and employment opportunity, M/F/D, AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3323

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3314

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics – Tenured

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, broadly defined. The holder of the chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. We particularly seek candidates who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Dickey Center, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Rockefeller Center, the Irving Energy Institute, and Tuck School of Business. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or ABD by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on October 7, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/44031. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3253

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Philosophy & Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science – Political Theory

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. We are searching for faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, or global ethics. The positions are open rank. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

The review of applications will begin from September 15, 2017, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 2017-2018 Academic Year. Terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3162

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/tenure-track positions in Political Science. Candidates from all sub-fields will be considered. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor), from scholars of Middle Eastern politics, and from scholars of political theory are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2018, or September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

The review of applications will begin in October, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the academic year of 2017/2018, with potential campus visits to NYUNY occurring in the Spring 2018. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3163

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Theory

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3062

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Assistant Professor: Political Theory

Department of Political Science

Southern Methodist University

Dallas, Texas

(Position No. 00006294) The Political Science Department at Southern Methodist University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Theory, starting Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include an introductory course in political theory, a history of political thought sequence, and upper-level courses reflecting the candidate's expertise. Candidates with clear and well-developed teaching and research interests in the nexus between equality and liberty, especially in the context of political-economic relationships, are especially encouraged to apply. Minimum qualifications include the completed Ph.D. in political science (required at the time of the appointment), experience teaching undergraduate courses in political science, and a detailed research agenda.

The Political Science Department at SMU is currently a faculty of fifteen administering programs in political science, international studies, and public policy for approximately 300 undergraduate majors and minors. The Department also houses and has access to the resources of the John G. Tower Center for Political Studies. Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas.

Applicants should submit a letter of application (including a statement of research and teaching interests), complete curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation to: Joseph F. Kobylka, Chair, Political Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Dedman College, Southern Methodist University, P.O. Box 750117, Dallas, TX 75275-0117; or as e-mail attachments (pdf preferred) to plsc@smu.edu. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017. Applications must be postmarked by this date to ensure full consideration for the position, but the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. The committee will notify applicants of the employment decision after the position is filled.

Southern Methodist University will not discriminate in any program or activity on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation, or gender identity and expression. The Executive Director for Access and Equity/Title IX Coordinator is designated to handle inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies and may be reached at the Perkins Administration Building, Room 204, 6425 Boaz Lane, Dallas, TX 75205, 214-768-3601, accessequity@smu.edu.

Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3038

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnicity

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor – American Politics/Political Thought/Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory courses in political thought and advanced courses in American politics, political thought, and race, ethnicity, and politics.

A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2180>. Submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate teaching philosophy statement. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2977

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a tenure-track position in political theory to begin August 2018. A Ph.D. in political science is required. ABDs must possess the degree by the time of appointment. Advanced scholars are encouraged to apply with some consideration given to faculty who are tenured or on the tenure track. The Department is also hiring for a tenure-track position in American political behavior, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

The teaching load for this position is five courses per year. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to Political Theory and upper division courses. These courses may be open with regard to the candidate's area of interest, but candidates should be able to offer courses related to issues of diversity, identity, inclusion, justice, and citizenship. These courses should reflect the thematic, not chronological, approach to our theory curriculum, and we are especially interested in courses such as African-American Political Thought, Feminist Theory, and American Political Thought. The successful candidate will show evidence of effective classroom teaching and a commitment to scholarly research and publication.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. The University of the South is an equal opportunity educational institution that is committed to creating and maintaining a diverse and inclusive campus environment.

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief writing sample, sample syllabi, course evaluations, graduate transcript, and at least three letters of recommendation. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu>. (Any materials that are not able to be uploaded may be sent directly to krkleinf@sewanee.edu.) Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. To be considered for an interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association, applications must be received by August 15, 2017. For full consideration applications must be received by September 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/30/2017

Date Posted: 5/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2816

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Other

The University of Arkansas at Little Rock invites nominations and applications for a twelve-month appointment as associate or full professor (with tenure) to serve as the Director of the School of Public Affairs (position #R99296), with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2018. A Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Affairs, or a related field is required. Applicants with the rank of full professor are desirable, although associate professor applicants and academically qualified candidates not currently in a faculty position will also be considered.

The selected candidate will lead a diverse and dynamic group of scholars and practitioners in building UA Little Rock's newly founded School of Public Affairs. The School is part of the College of Social Sciences & Communication (CSSC), a community of teacher-scholars and professionals whose mission is to apply theory and research to drive social change and inspire human expression, reflection, and interconnection (see ualr.edu/cssc).

UA Little Rock's School of Public Affairs (SPA) includes a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration, graduate certificate programs in Nonprofit Management and Conflict Management, Bachelor's degree programs in Political Science, International Studies, Legal Studies, Community Management and Development, and undergraduate minor programs in Nonprofit Leadership Studies and Presidential Studies. It also participates in a joint JD/MPA program with the UA Little Rock Bowen School of Law. The School also houses the Survey Research Center, the Center for Nonprofit Organizations, and the Center for Public Collaboration. The Survey Research Center provides a full range of survey research services and is one of the largest not-for-profit survey research organizations in the mid-South.

The School of Public Affairs is also the organizational home of the Arkansas Public Administration Consortium (APAC), a consortium between the MPA programs at UA Little Rock, UA Fayetteville, and Arkansas State University. The Arkansas Public Administration Consortium offers a nationally accredited Certified Public Manager training program, as well as Arkansas Government Manager and Certified Volunteer Management certificate programs. It also provides tailored training for local and county government groups. The School enjoys close relationships with state and local government leaders and nonprofit organizations. For more information about all the programs in the SPA, consult the School webpage at <http://ualr.edu/publicaffairs/>.

Desired Qualifications:

The School seeks an experienced, dynamic, entrepreneurial, collaborative, and engaged leader who will leverage the potential of the School, its faculty, and its students in scholarly and applied research, external funding (grants and contracts), technical outreach and public service, teaching, and fundraising. Supporting evidence of the ability to attract external funding and to develop and manage collaboration with stakeholders is highly desirable. The ability to teach public administration courses in the graduate programs, including methodology courses, is desirable. Evidence of accomplishments and innovation in administration, scholarship, and community engagement; professional experience in public or nonprofit management; a commitment to diversity and student success; and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching will all enhance an application for this position.

The Director's primary responsibilities are to:

- ? Serve as the chief administrative officer of the School;
- ? Further develop the School's strategic direction;
- ? Provide leadership for the School as a whole, including working with and collaborating with program and center coordinators;
- ? Ensure that budgetary decision-making and execution are driven by principle, transparency, consultation, and accountability;

- ? Continually develop vibrant and productive relationships with stakeholders and the community at large;
- ? Advance the applied and academic research profile of the School in the community and in the profession, nationally and internationally;
- ? Encourage and enhance academic connections with other units in the College of Social Sciences and across the University; and
- ? Support and advance the College and University missions.

The Director joins the leadership team of the College of Social Sciences and Communication (CSSC) and reports to the CSSC Dean. The Director collaborates closely with and is accountable to the School's faculty as well, and is responsible for leading the development and operation of the School. The Director is appointed by the Executive Vice Chancellor and Provost of the University, acting upon the recommendation of the School's faculty and CSSC Dean.

General Information about UA Little Rock and the Broader Metropolitan Community

UA Little Rock is a research intensive public urban/metropolitan university located in the state capital. It enrolls around 11,000 students per semester, including over 1,800 graduate students. UA Little Rock supports a full range of undergraduate programs, 38 master's programs, a law degree, and eight doctoral programs. UA Little Rock is part of the University of Arkansas system. UA Little Rock supports neighborhood revitalization through the University District working with housing, education, public safety, and commercial development in the neighborhoods surrounding the campus.

Little Rock is the capital city and the largest metropolitan area in Arkansas, boasting affordable housing, proximity to wilderness and recreational areas, and numerous cultural and civic attractions, including the William J. Clinton Presidential Library, the Arkansas Studies Institute, the Arkansas Arts Center, the Arkansas Repertory Theater, and the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra. The larger Little Rock area has a population of 900,000 people and is the state center for government, medicine, commerce and the arts.

Application materials must be submitted through the online application system. Additional information about these positions are available under the Jobs link on the Human Resources' website at <http://ualr.edu/humanresources/>. Consideration of applications will begin on December 1, 2017. Incomplete applications cannot be considered; any materials not submitted as requested using the online application system renders an application incomplete. Inquiries about the position may be made to Dr. April Chatham-Carpenter, chair of the search committee, at axchathamca@ualr.edu or by phone at 501-569-3158.

The position is subject to a pre-employment criminal and financial history background check. A criminal conviction or arrest pending adjudication and/or adverse financial history alone shall not disqualify an applicant in the absence of a relationship to the requirements of the position. Background check information will be used in a confidential, non-discriminatory manner consistent with state and federal law.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/30/2017
Salary: $110,000 - $119,999
eJobs ID: 3713

Bowling Green State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Department of Political Science: Assistant Professor, Bowling Green State University (Main Campus). Tenure-track faculty position available August 2018.

Responsibilities: Successful candidates are expected to be effective teachers and scholars. They are expected to teach a variety of courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, develop an academic and/or applied research program that results in high levels of productivity, and participate in unit/college/university professional service.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. or D.P.A in Political Science, Public Administration, or related field is required (ABD candidates will be considered but must complete requirements for the doctoral degree prior to employment); college-level teaching experience; and a demonstrated record of scholarly activity. Preferred areas of specialization for this position include nonprofit management, urban planning, GIS, and/or local government.

For a complete job description & instructions on how to apply for this position visit <https://bgsu.hiretouch.com/> or contact the Office of Human Resources, BGSU.

Questions may be directed to the Faculty Search Committee Chair, Dr. Shannon K. Orr, skorr@bgsu.edu.

Application deadline is December 1, 2017. Background check is required for employment. BGSU is an AA/EEO/Vet employer. We encourage applications from women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities regardless of age, gender identity, genetic information, religion, or sexual orientation.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3706

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Arkansas invites applications for 9-month Visiting Assistant Professor. The duties and responsibilities of this Visiting Assistant Professor position entail contributing to the teaching mission of the department and conducting research in a field related to Political Science. The teaching load is 3-3 with a focus on American national government, public administration, and public policy.

Regular, reliable, and non-disruptive attendance is an essential job duty, as is the ability to create and maintain collegial, harmonious working relationships with others.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/30/2017
Date Posted: 10/27/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3678

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration to begin August 16, 2018. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with rigorous, theoretically-informed research agendas who have an established record of publishing in leading public administration and political science outlets. Successful candidates will be able to contribute to the department's Master in Public Administration program, with the ability to teach core and elective classes in this program. Successful candidates will also be able to contribute to the department's methods sequence in the undergraduate, MPA, and/or Ph.D. programs. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field of study is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Applications received by November 6, 2017 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities – Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Susan Miller (sumiller@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3701

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in Health Policy

The School of Public Administration, University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for the Blue Cross/Blue Shield Chair of Health Administration and Policy with an emphasis on Health Policy. This position, which we seek to fill at the level of senior Associate Professor or Full Professor, will begin August 13, 2018. We seek candidates who will make significant contributions in our doctoral and masters programs and whose teaching areas include public and nonprofit management and/or policy process and implementation; and whose research interests focus on health with an emphasis on underserved populations, food and nutrition, policy data analytics, or other topics related to health.

Candidates must have a distinguished record of academic and research accomplishments. Additionally, they must have a Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Affairs, or a related field.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It has a statewide mission and offers the only accredited master's program in public administration in the state. The School is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling approximately 275 graduate students each year. The MPA program is ranked #25 overall of all such programs in the 2016 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools. The School's Ph.D. in Public Administration is one of the only programs at its level in the Great Plains region. The School's Master of Science in Urban Studies is closely aligned with UNO's focus on engaged research and outreach, with a new focus on sustainability. Omaha is a dynamic metropolitan area with a population of nearly 900,000 boasting a wide array of employers, numerous lifestyle amenities, and a high-quality K-12 educational system. Especially relevant to this position, the Omaha metropolitan area is home to two major medical centers (the University of Nebraska Medical Center and CHI Health), 15 hospitals, and several major health care systems. For more information about the School of Public Administration visit our web page at: <http://spa.unomaha.edu/> or contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Bryce Hoflund (ahoflund@unomaha.edu).

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is an equal opportunity employer. The university and school have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of under-represented groups and strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply for this position.

To apply for this position go to: <https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/5253>. Current curriculum vita; a letter addressing professional experience and qualifications – specifically highlighting evidence of managing research and outreach projects, a research and outreach agenda; the names and contact information for three references; and evidence of teaching excellence, productive scholarly research, and commitment to community engagement must be included in the application. Review of applications will begin in mid-January. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3692

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Criminal Justice and Public Affairs

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Administration, Public Policy

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University welcomes applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant level in the area of criminal justice. We especially encourage applications from scholars who study topics such as criminal justice, drug policy implementation, policing, law enforcement, courts, criminal law, or public law. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches.

The position begins fall 2018. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed or be nearing completion of all Ph.D. degree requirements. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in public administration, public policy, criminology, sociology, or a related field. Highly desirable candidates will have practical experience, university teaching experience, a strong potential for developing a successful research portfolio, and demonstrated success in working with diverse populations and a commitment to diversifying the profession.

Application Instructions

Applications will be evaluated as they are received and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by November 5, 2017 are guaranteed full consideration. To apply, please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three professional reference letters to Glenn-CJPA@osu.edu. Alternatively, materials can be mailed to: Office of the Dean, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, 350 Page Hall, 1810 College Road, Columbus, OH, 43210.

About the Glenn College and OSU

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs was recently ranked 25th overall among other graduate professional programs in public affairs. Our curricular offerings include the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration and In-Career Master of Arts in Public Policy and Management; dual master's degrees with Law, City and Regional Planning, Public Health, Environment and Natural Resources, Social Work, Business Administration, Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics, Slavic and East European Studies, and Latin American Studies; a joint degree in Arts Policy and Administration; a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Management; a B.A. in Public Management, Leadership, and Policy; a B.S. in Public Policy Analysis, and a variety of undergraduate and graduate minors. The College also offers a wide array of non-degree management and leadership training seminars, programs and certificates, serving over 2,000 mid-career professionals each year. For more information about the Glenn College, please visit our website: glenn.osu.edu.

The Ohio State University, the flagship public university of Ohio, is located in the state's capital, Columbus, providing direct access to public sector organizations and practitioners from all levels of government, as well as a large and vibrant nonprofit and philanthropic community. The Glenn College is housed in a state-of-the-art building in the center of the University campus. Columbus is the 14th largest city in the United States and offers many cultural and recreational amenities. It was recently rated by Forbes as the #1 opportunity city in the country and #7 in best cities for young professionals. Money Magazine rated it #3 for best cities for millennials. Ohio ranks #5 for states with the most Fortune 500 headquarters.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3683

New York University School of Professional Studies

Rank: Clinical Assistant/Associate Professor of Global Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Conflict Processes, International Security

Clinical Assistant/Associate Professor of Global Affairs
NYU School of Professional Studies
Center for Global Affairs

The Center for Global Affairs (CGA) at the NYU School of Professional Studies invites applications for a full time clinical (non tenured)

faculty position. We seek an individual with the ability to teach courses on cybercrime, cybersecurity, cyberlaw, cyberconflict, cyberwar, and/or terrorists' use of the Internet. The ideal candidate would have professional and/or government experience as well as excellent academic credentials.

The CGA currently offers a Masters in Global Affairs which is interdisciplinary with concentrations in Transnational Security, Global Futures, Global Economy, Energy and Environment, Development and Humanitarian Assistance, International Law and Human Rights, Gender Studies and Peacebuilding. A second graduate program in Global Security, Conflict and Cybercrime is in the final stage of approval. The successful candidate will be expected to play a full role in curricular development, student advisement and the Center's robust series of public events besides the primary role of teaching graduate level courses.

Successful candidates will possess an advanced degree, with an earned doctorate and experience teaching at the graduate level preferred. The individual selected for this position should possess the background and experience necessary to teach a variety of courses in the cyber curriculum; a record of publishing and research is desirable. The rank of the position will be dependent upon experience and qualifications.

The Center for Global Affairs (CGA) educates and inspires its community to become global citizens capable of identifying and implementing solutions to pressing global challenges. Through rigorous graduate and continuing higher education programs and provocative public events, the Center prepares global citizens who will be at home, and thus be effective agents of change, in diverse environments around the world. For more information, visit www.sps.nyu.edu/global.affairs.

The NYU School of Professional Studies offers a broad range of degree and noncredit programs that are professionally oriented, integrate theory with real-world applications, and are taught by faculty members who are leaders and innovators in their fields. The School of Professional Studies captures the expertise of the key sectors that make New York City a great global capital, such as real estate, finance, marketing, public relations, global affairs, hospitality and tourism, sports management, philanthropy and fundraising, communications, media, writing, the arts, and others. Full- and part-time students enroll in on-site and online credit programs, including graduate degrees, graduate certificates, and undergraduate degrees for both adults returning to school and traditional-aged students. In addition, working professionals and other adult learners pursue career objectives or intellectual discovery in over 2,500 continuing education courses, diploma programs, conferences, and seminars annually.

Applications and nominations will be accepted until December 1, 2017. Applications will be considered as they arrive. NYU appreciates all applications but can only respond to qualified candidates.

To apply, go to: apply.interfolio.com/46285

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3671

Presbyterian College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Health Care, Life Sciences & Politics, Science & Technology

Tenure-Track Position/Department of Political Science at Presbyterian College

The Political Science Department at Presbyterian College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American Politics or Policy to begin in the Fall 2018 semester. The ideal candidate will have teaching or research interests that include health care policy, management, administration or politics and who will work with current faculty to develop a health policy-related concentration within the political science major. The successful candidate will also contribute to the department by teaching in its current introductory and upper-level offerings in public administration, public policy, research methods and/or American politics, broadly defined.

Demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, research, student advising, and service to the College and community are essential for successful applicants. The candidate selected will be expected to offer seven courses per year (3-4 teaching load). Applications from those with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related fields and very advanced ABDs will be considered. Candidates who represent diverse backgrounds are especially encouraged to apply.

Presbyterian College is a four-year undergraduate liberal-arts college affiliated with the Presbyterian Church USA. The college supports academic freedom and encourages community involvement. Located in Clinton, South Carolina, PC is approximately 40 minutes from the Greenville and Spartanburg, S.C. metro area and about one hour from Columbia, S.C. The region offers abundant opportunities for social and recreational activities in one of the fastest growing regions of the country and easy access to Charlotte, N.C., Asheville, N.C., and Atlanta, GA.

Interested individuals should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching experience and philosophy, college and graduate school transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Justin Lance, Associate Professor of Political Science, Presbyterian College, 503 South Broad Street, Clinton, SC, 29325. Electronic submissions of application materials are encouraged and should be sent to politicalscience@presby.edu. For specific questions regarding the position, please contact Dr. Justin Lance directly at jelance@presby.edu. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled.

Presbyterian College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The College seeks to hire the most qualified candidate and does not discriminate against any legally protected class.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3670

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2018, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamu.edu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective.

The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3679

Sonoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Sonoma State University Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship to teach undergraduate courses in American Political Institutions, and graduate courses in Public Policy and/or Public Administration. The ability to teach advanced undergraduate courses in such policy areas as immigration or healthcare policy, or on topics dealing with race, ethnicity, and similar issues is especially desirable. The successful candidate will also be expected to teach introductory American Government and Research Methods, and needs to be comfortable working with both undergraduate and graduate students. Candidates with a record of scholarly activity with students and a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse populations are encouraged to apply.

To obtain the full position opportunity announcement, please go to: http://web.sonoma.edu/aa/docs/poas/tt/poa_104469.pdf.

To apply for this position, go to <http://www.sonoma.edu/jobs/> by November 12, 2017.

For additional information about the position, candidates may contact Dr. Robert McNamara, Department of Political Science, Sonoma State University, 1801 E. Cotati Avenue, Rohnert Park, CA 94928-3609.

Sonoma State is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/12/2017

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3664

Montana State University, Bozeman

Rank: Postdoctoral researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Environmental Policy, Australia

The Montana State University Department of Political Science in Bozeman, Montana is seeking an exceptional postdoctoral researcher to join our international interdisciplinary research team in August 2018. The appointment is for two years. Eligible applicants must have completed the Ph.D. by July 2018.

The purpose of the position is to conduct research for a National Science Foundation funded project, specifically focused on risk communication in a coupled-natural human system in Australia. The research scholar will spend their time on a National Science Foundation project on the coupled dynamics of a zoonotic system in Australia. The primary research focus for this position centers on risk perception and communication. As such, the research efforts include field work to collect data on risk perceptions, risk narratives, information sources, and decisions.

Required Qualifications: (1) Applicants should hold a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Affairs, or equivalent degree by July 2018. (2) Demonstrated research experience.

Preferred Qualifications: (1) Knowledge of Narrative Policy Framework, hazards, and risk communication. (2) Experience interviewing and conducting surveys. (3) Strong background in mixed methods. (4) Consideration will be given to collaborative skills and interests, and how the applicant's experience and skills complement and strengthen ongoing research for this NSF project.

Physical demands: With or without reasonable accommodation, the person in this position must be able to: (1) Travel to Australia for fieldwork. (2) Traverse uneven ground and travel to field sites.

Screening of applications will begin on or before November 15, 2017; however, applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.

To apply, please submit your a cover letter indicating your interest in the position and a curriculum vitae that also lists three references. Applicants should submit their materials through MSU: <https://jobs.montana.edu/postings/10011>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3639

East Tennessee State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Latin American, Middle East

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs and Public Administration in the College of Arts and Sciences at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in public administration at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. The department offers undergraduate majors in Political Science and International Affairs, a Master of Public Administration, and undergraduate minor programs in Political Science, International Affairs, Legal Studies, and Public Administration.

Required Qualifications: Candidates for the position must hold a D.P.A. or Ph.D. in Public Administration, or a Ph.D. in Political Science with substantial expertise in public administration, by no later than August 1, 2018. Applicants must be prepared to teach a variety of graduate courses in the Master of Public Administration Program as well as some undergraduate courses in political science.

Preferred Qualifications: Ability to teach undergraduate courses in either Latin American or Middle Eastern Politics and in American government is preferred.

More information may be found on the ETSU HR website at <https://jobs.etsu.edu/postings/9580>

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/10/2018

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3610

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, AL, invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. The successful candidate will become a core faculty member in the Master of Public Administration Program, and will also be expected to teach undergraduate public policy and administration courses. Although applicants from all disciplines of public administration who demonstrate excellence in research and teaching are encouraged to apply, we are particularly interested in those with teaching and research interests in either public budgeting, human resources, or quantitative methods. A completed Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, political science, or related discipline is required for appointment at the level of Assistant Professor.

The University of Alabama is the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system, enrolling over 38,000 students. Its Department of Political Science has 18 faculty members and offers a Masters of Public Administration degree, along with a B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degree in Political Science.

To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41898> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, a transcript of graduate work, samples of publications and papers, and teaching evaluations, if available. Send three letters of recommendation directly to: Public Administration Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Alabama, Box 870213, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrick@ua.edu (please state the position in the email). For more information, contact James Gerard Caillier, Search Committee Chair, at jgcaillier@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on January 15, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3616

Azusa Pacific University

Rank: Faculty Director - Center for Public Affairs

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is seeking applicants for a founding director for the Center for Public Affairs in Sacramento, California. The director will be responsible for teaching a combination of public administration and/or public policy courses and establishing study away internship opportunities in the Sacramento area within government and non-profit agencies. The director will also be responsible for developing and directing an externally-accredited Master's program in Public Administration (MPA).

Candidates should possess an earned Ph.D. in Political Science or Government or Public Administration, and maintain a strong commitment to Christian higher education. The appointment could begin as soon as January 2018, although a later start date may be negotiated with the dean.

Responsibilities:

- Promote the mission and purpose of the Center for Public Affairs among campus faculty, administrators, students, and external partners;
- In conjunction with with the dean of CLAS and other university officials, expand the network of partners, donors, and alumni in order to augment the influence of the Center on campus and around the state;
- Coordinate internship opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students and direct the corresponding internship courses;
- Develop curricula for an externally-accredited MPA program;

- Teach 6 units of public administration and/or public policy courses each semester;
- Identify adjunct instructors to assist with undergraduate and graduate-level coursework;
- Develop, plan, and coordinate outreach events for Center activities, such as a speaker series, donor visits, and interactions with public officials;
- Assist with the development of a communication publication that highlights Center activities and influence;
- Manage the program budget and coordinate fundraising efforts, including grant solicitations and other funding proposals
- Advise and mentor students;
- Integrate Christian faith in all aspects of instruction and service;
- Maintain an active scholarly research agenda.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or Government or Public Administration. A commitment to teaching excellence and a scholarly research agenda. A demonstrated, vibrant Christian faith compatible with the mission of Azusa Pacific University.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3588

California State University, Northridge

Rank: Part Time Lecturer

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

FACULTY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

PART-TIME (formerly AA-6)

Department: Political Science Effective Date of Appointment: Spring 2018

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

For more information about the University, visit our website at: <http://www.csun.edu>

Anticipated Needs:

Instructors for face-to-face Washington, D.C.-based classes in support of the CSUN in DC Internship Program. Specific classes are listed below:

Note: All part-time faculty appointments are temporary and do not confer academic rank. Final determination of part-time teaching assignments is contingent upon student enrollment figures and funding.

Qualifications

- 1) Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field in hand or must be in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy or must have at least 10 years of professional experience working in government, politics, non-profit management, or advocacy. Applicants who are in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy must have passed the comprehensive examination for the Ph.D. in their field.
- 2) A demonstrated ability and commitment to diversity and to teach/mentor a diverse student population.
- 3) University teaching experience is strongly preferred.

Courses or Specialization Current Salary Range
 (Specify time if appropriate) Fractional Amount of Base Salary
 ($4757 - $5971)
 Paid in 6 Monthly Installments

Upper division courses in:

- (1) POLS 486SOC. Social Science Career Internship
- (2) POLS 494I/A. Political Science Internship
- (3) POLS 496DC. DC Politics, Culture, and History
- (4) POLS 496PR. Professional Development in DC

Application Process:

Applicants should forward a current resume, a cover letter, a sample syllabus, evidence of teaching effectiveness and the attached checklist indicating which course(s) they are interested in teaching. The resume should include educational background, prior teaching experience, evidence of scholarship, and/or related professional experience. Candidates must be available to teach classes face-to-face in the D.C. metro area.

Inquiries and applications should be addressed to:

Dr. David Leitch
 Chair and Eugene C. Price Professor
 Department of Political Science
 California State University, Northridge
 18111 Nordhoff St.

Northridge, CA 91330-8254

Application Deadline:

For Spring Semester 2018 Only: October 31, 2017

General Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Northridge has made crime-reporting statistics available on-line here. Print copies are available by request from the Department of Police Services, the Office for Faculty Affairs, and the Office of Equity and Diversity.

The person holding this position may be considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

CSUN is an Equal Opportunity Employer and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, and disability. Our nondiscrimination policy is set forth in CSU Executive Order 1096. Reasonable accommodations will be provided for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose by contacting Recruitment Services at (818) 677-2101.

Department of Political Science
 Temporary/Part-Time Teaching Interests Checklist– Spring 2018
 Name of Applicant: _____

v PLEASE INDICATE COURSES YOU ARE INTERESTED IN TEACHING:

- ___ 486SOC Social and Science Career Internship
- ___ 494I/IA Political Science Internship
- ___ 496DC DC Politics, Culture, and History
- ___ 496PR Professional Development in DC

C o m m e n t s: _____

Application material required:

1. This form completed
2. CV
3. Sample syllabus
4. Copies of teaching evaluations or
5. Letter of recommendation if you have not previously taught

Mail to:

Dr. David Leitch, Chair and Eugene C. Price Professor
 Department of Political Science
 California State University, Northridge
 18111 Nordhoff Street
 Northridge, CA 91330-8254

Application Deadline: For Spring 2018: October 31, 2017

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 10/31/2017
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3575

Eastern Kentucky University

Rank: Public Administration - Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Government and Economics at Eastern Kentucky University seeks a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor with expertise in nonprofit management for its NASPAA accredited Master of Public Administration Program, beginning August 1, 2018. The Department also houses undergraduate majors in Political Science, Political Science, Paralegal Science, Economics, Globalization, and International Affairs. Successful applicants will be expected to develop and teach core courses in the area of non-profit management for the MPA Program, and one or more elective courses for the MPA degree. Preference will be given to candidates with experience in nonprofit management and/or grants administration.

A Ph. D. in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, nonprofit management, or a closely related field is required and must be obtained within the first academic year of employment. Teaching load is 12 hours per semester. Successful candidates should be, or have the potential to be, an active scholar and a high quality teacher with the ability to develop and teach fully online courses.

Review of applications will begin October 20, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Qualified candidates must apply to requisition number 0620876 at <http://jobs.eku.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3556

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohns.edu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&xjobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

Sam Houston State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Political Science Department at Sam Houston State University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in public administration beginning in Fall 2018. The position requires teaching online MPA level courses. Specialization in disasters and emergency management is required, as is the ability to teach budgeting/finance and research methods. Successful candidates will possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a strong potential for a productive scholarly program. The teaching load for this position will be 3/3. The successful candidate will be expected to hold regular on-campus office hours and participate in program, department, and university activities.

A Ph.D. in political science, government, politics, public administration, public affairs, or public policy is required. ABD will be considered but must have a Ph.D. by the start date (August 2018).

Salary commensurate with education and experience.

Those interested should apply online at <https://shsu.peopleadmin.com/>. To complete the application, the following documents are required: cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, and copies of graduate transcripts. Please direct any questions about the position to Dr. Jonathan Brown at jnb047@shsu.edu. The search committee will begin reviewing materials immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3540

Northern Arizona University

Rank: Lecturer, Public Administration

We're Hiring At Northern Arizona University. You can address questions to me at Lori.Poloni-Staudinger@nau.edu:

Special Information

Northern Arizona University's Department of Politics and International Affairs invites applications for a Lecturer appointment, with a focus on public administration and policy beginning August 2018. The position is expected to be continuing, with potential for promotion. Renewal is contingent on performance and department needs. The typical teaching load for a lecturer is 4-4.

The NAU Department of Politics and International Affairs is a research-oriented department that offers three undergraduate degree programs, two masters degree programs (including an MPA degree for which we are seeking accreditation) and a doctoral program. The department currently has 20 full-time faculty (both tenure track and non tenure track). The Department's strengths and foci are in environmental politics, global development, and diversity politics. We also have expertise in social movements. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes. The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

Job Description

We are seeking applicants for a full-time, nine month, non-tenure-track lecturer position to join the Department faculty.

We are seeking individuals who can teach our core Master's of Public Administration courses as well as a broad range of electives for that program. Candidates must be able to offer courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels in public administration and policy. Teaching will constitute at least 80% of assignments, with remaining workload time to be devoted to research and/or service activity.

This is an online teaching position; however, there will be options to teach in person on the Flagstaff campus.

Applicants must reside in Arizona or be willing to relocate to Arizona by the time of appointment.

Minimum Qualifications

Applicants must be A.B.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs or related discipline by the time of appointment, and have completed graduate level coursework in public administration and policy. Applicants must have an ability to teach organizational theory.

Preferred Qualifications

Preferred qualifications include:

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs, or related discipline broadly trained in public administration and public policy demonstrated evidence of teaching skills and effectiveness (through sample syllabi, student opinion surveys, and teaching statements) demonstrated potential or evidence of effective online teaching demonstrated professional development activities (including research, applied work, grant work or other professional development) in public administration and policy demonstrated evidence of commitment to working effectively within a diverse university community

We encourage applications from individuals who have an ability to teach budgeting and human resources or other areas of specialization in public administration.

Preference will also be given to individuals who are able to contribute to our MPA program as well as to our NASPAA accreditation process. We are also looking for candidates who complement the Department's particular strengths and foci in global development, environmental policy, and diversity.

General Information

Northern Arizona University has a student population of 30,368, including approximately 22,000 on its main campus in Flagstaff and the remainder at more than 20 locations statewide and online.

Committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment, NAU has earned a solid reputation as a university with all the features of a large institution but with a personal touch. NAU carefully balances teaching, scholarship and service with a faculty and staff dedicated to each student's success. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes.

While our emphasis is undergraduate education, we offer a wide range of graduate programs and research that extend to such national concerns as forest health and bioterrorism. Our institution has carefully integrated on-campus education with distance learning, forming seamless avenues for students to earn degrees.

Flagstaff has a population of about 70,000, rich in cultural diversity. Located at the base of the majestic San Francisco Peaks, Flagstaff is 140 miles north of Phoenix at the intersection of Interstate 17 and Interstate 40.

With its elevation of 7,000 feet and four-season climate, Flagstaff is ideal for year-round outdoor activities. Nearby attractions include the Grand Canyon, Lowell Observatory, Oak Creek Canyon, Sedona, Monument Valley, Sunset Crater, Meteor Crater, and Arizona Snow-bowl.

The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

For information about diversity, access and equity at NAU, see nau.edu/Center-for-University-Access-and-Inclusion/.

Background Information

Northern Arizona University requires satisfactory results for the following: a criminal background investigation, an employment history verification and a degree verification (in some cases) prior to employment. You may also be required to complete a fingerprint background check.

Additionally, as an employer in the state of Arizona, NAU is required to participate in the federal E-Verify program that assists employers with verifying new employees' right to work in the United States.

Finally, each year the Northern Arizona University Police Department releases an annual security report. The report is a result of the federal law known as the Clery Act and contains policy statements that address the school's policies, procedures and programs concerning safety and security including policies for responding to emergency situations and sexual offenses. The report contains three years of data for Clery reportable crime statistics for the campus along with the most current year's Fire Safety Report, which includes policy statements and fire statistics for Flagstaff on-campus student housing.

The report may be viewed at nau.edu/clery or by visiting the NAUPD website at: <http://www.nau.edu/police>. A printed copy of the report is available upon request by contacting the NAU Police Department, Records Department at (928)523-8884 or by visiting the department at Building 98A on the NAU Mountain Campus.

Salary

Commensurate with experience and educational qualifications.

Benefits

This is a Faculty (FAC) position. NAU offers an excellent benefit package including generous health, dental and vision insurance; participation in the Arizona State Retirement System (ASRS) or the Optional Retirement Program (ORP); sick leave accruals and 10 holidays per year; and tuition reduction for employees and qualified family members. More information on benefits at NAU is available at <https://nau.edu/Human-Resources/Benefits/>

Faculty are hired on a contract basis, renewable according to terms of the Conditions of Faculty Service <http://nau.edu/Provost/Resources-Policies/>

Employees offered a position will be eligible for state health plans (including NAU's BCBS Plan). Employees will have 31 days from date of hire to enroll in benefits, and their benefits will then be effective the first day of the pay period following their completed enrollment.

If a new employee chooses the Arizona State Retirement System (ASRS) retirement option, participation in the ASRS Plan (and the long-term disability coverage that accompanies it) will begin on the first of the pay period following 183 days of employment. New employees who choose to participate in the Optional Retirement Plan (ORP; an alternative to the ASRS plan) will begin to participate on the first day of employment. The long-term disability plan that accompanies the ORP will begin on the first day of the pay period following 90 days of employment. More information about NAU benefits is available at <https://nau.edu/Human-Resources/Benefits/>

Submission Deadline

This vacancy will be open until filled or closed. Review of applications will begin on October 27, 2017.

How to Apply

To apply for this position, please click on the "Apply" button on this [NAU Human Resources] page. Application must include a single attachment, either a word document or pdf, that contains: 1) letter of interest including your relevant experience for the position, 2) sample syllabi, 3) a teaching statement, 4) teaching evaluations, 5) a statement or evidence of professional development (such as but not limited to research, grants, applied reports, or other professional development experience), 6) a curriculum vita, 7) unofficial academic transcripts.

Additionally, three letters of reference should be sent under separate cover by referees to Heaven Johnson, Administrative Assistant at <Heaven.Johnson@nau.edu>.

If you have problems submitting application attachments in the form of a Word or PDF document please contact the department for assistance.

If you need assistance completing your application there are instructions available on line at <http://hr.nau.edu> or in person in the Human Resources Department located in Building 91 on the NAU Campus - on the corner of Beaver and DuPont Streets.

If you are an individual with a disability and need reasonable accommodation to participate in the hiring process please contact the Office of Equity and Access at: 928-523-3312/TDD - 928-523-1006 or PO Box 4083, Flagstaff AZ 86011.

FLSA Status

This position is exempt from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and therefore will not earn overtime or compensatory time for additional time worked.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Northern Arizona University is a committed Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Institution. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. NAU is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

EEO is the Law Poster and Supplements

NAU is an Employer of National Service. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other National Service alumni are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3523

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/13/2017
Date Posted: 9/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3447

University of Maryland, Baltimore County
Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor position beginning August 2018 to teach courses in public policy, public administration, and public management. In addition to teaching an introductory course, the successful candidate will develop a portfolio of upper-level and possibly graduate-level courses. Consistent with the department's five-year hiring plan, preference will be given to scholars with expertise in urban, health, or environmental policy, but those with expertise in other public policy, public management, and public administration topics also will be given consideration.

The department has over 250 undergraduate majors, and 15 full-time faculty members with a wide range of research and teaching interests. Department faculty also support the MPP and PhD programs in Public Policy, an undergraduate program in Global Studies, and the Sondheim Public Affairs Scholars Program.

UMBC is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as a research university--high research activity. The university has a diverse student population of 13,640 graduate and undergraduate students and is located in the dynamic Baltimore-Washington corridor. UMBC is especially proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position.

Preference will be given to candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or Public Administration, or a nearly completed dissertation in one of these fields. Candidates must provide evidence of a focused research agenda and of high quality undergraduate teaching experience. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to fostering "inclusive excellence," by describing a commitment or experience with research with underserved and diverse populations, a capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the learning needs of students from diverse backgrounds, or other such experience or plans.

Applicants should submit their applications by November 1, 2017 for best consideration. Please submit all application materials - cover letter describing teaching and research experiences and interests, sample syllabi, and formal statement about how the candidate's experiences and interests demonstrate a commitment to "inclusive excellence" - electronically via Interfolio. Three confidential letters of recommendation should also be submitted. Required application materials and submission instructions are available at: apply.interfolio.com/44698

For questions regarding the position, contact Professor Roy Meyers, Committee Chair at meyers@umbc.edu. UMBC is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3437

University of North Carolina, Pembroke
Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology
Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Administration, Public Policy

Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration or political science. This position will be responsible for teaching methodology courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, courses in public administration and policy at the undergraduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or State and Local Politics). The area of teaching and research specialization is open, but candidates should be comfortable teaching Introduction to Public Administration at the undergraduate level both in the online setting. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching one graduate course and two undergraduate courses each semester.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or political science, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/13/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3405

University of North Carolina, Pembroke
Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration

Assistant Professor of Public Administration with a Concentration in Health Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration with a concentration in health administration. This position will primarily be teaching in the Master of Public Administration program and with the main responsibility of providing courses for the health concentration as part of our MPA degree program. Some undergraduate teaching may be required on an as-needed basis. Courses are regularly taught in the online format, but successful candidates should expect on campus courses to be part of their rotation. Preferences will be given to candidates that can also teach human resources for public administrators and to those interested in studying rural health administration or issues in rural health policy.

Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the classroom. In addition to strong teaching, the department is seeking an individual who is interested in being an active member of the department and has career aspiration of becoming a program director in the future.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3. The Master of Public Administration program at UNCP is targeted to developing skills, research capabilities, and knowledge in working professionals within our community and across North Carolina, and as well as across the United States and abroad through our online program.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration or health administration or be ABD with a clear date of completion. Because of the program's practitioner focus, candidates with professional experience in health administration are strongly encouraged to apply.

To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3406

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva

College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

University of Central Arkansas

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Arkansas invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public administration to begin August 15, 2018. Teaching responsibilities include upper-division courses in an undergraduate public administration program. The department seeks candidates who can teach upper-division public administration courses in public management, non-profit/NGO management, and local government. The ability to teach a substantive public policy course would be attractive, especially in the fields of health care policy or community and economic development policy. Beyond courses in public administration and public policy, teaching responsibilities include introductory sections of U.S. government & politics.

The successful candidate will possess excellent teaching skills and demonstrate the potential for scholarly research and publication. A Ph. D. in Public Administration or Political Science (with an emphasis in public administration) is preferred. An MPA degree is desirable. ABDs will be considered. If the candidate does not have the Ph. D. in hand, he/she will be hired as an instructor until the degree is obtained. In addition to public administration, the Department of Political Science also offers undergraduate degrees in political science and international studies.

To apply, submit a letter of application, current vita, transcripts, a scholarly writing sample, course syllabi, and teaching evaluations via UCA's online application system. Please provide three references with contact information that can supply a reference letter for you. For full consideration, please submit a complete application by October 15, 2017.

Founded in 1907, UCA has enrollment of approximately 11,500, of which more than 1,800 are graduate students. The university offers 91 undergraduate and 59 graduate certificate and degree programs, including seven doctoral programs. The student body consistently scores above the national average on the ACT exam. UCA is proud of its tradition of teaching excellence and its contributions in scholarship and creative activities. The campus is widely acclaimed for its beauty. UCA is located in Conway, Arkansas, a thriving city of approximately 65,000 in central Arkansas, and thirty minutes from Little Rock. Conway is home to several major industries, two private colleges, an excellent public school system, and strong private K12 schools.

Residents have easy access to the Ouachita and Ozark National forest and pristine wildlife areas near the Buffalo National River.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3373

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public/Non-Profit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Public Law

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs
- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3378

Washburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science and Public Administration

Washburn University's Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a 9-month, tenure-track position as an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science/Public Administration. A completed Ph.D. is required for the tenure-track appointment but ABDs will be considered. If the Ph. D will be earned by December, 2018.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: 1) A Ph.D. in political science with specialized training in public administration (e.g. MPA or public administration as a subfield) or a PhD in public administration with American government as a subfield. 2) The position requires teaching experience or coursework that demonstrates ability to teach core public administration and nonprofit certificate courses to undergraduate public administration majors and political science majors seeking coursework in those fields. The position also requires the ability to teach American government, and courses of the candidate's choice in the field of American government in the areas of institutions, process and or behavior. 3) evidence of university teaching experience and an active research agenda. PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Ability to teach state and local government and or empirical research methods as demonstrated through experience, coursework or teaching experience.

RESPONSIBILITIES: 12 hour teaching load, demonstrated collegiality, strong commitment to undergraduate education, and ability and motivation to engage undergraduates in active research. The position requires the cultivation and maintenance of contacts with state and local government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and relevant interest groups as well as the establishment of internships in the above mentioned organizations. The position further requires working with the rest of the faculty to attempt to grow the size of the public administration major and to participate with the department in program offerings under the auspices of the Washburn Center for Government and public service.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Review of applications begins November 6, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. Send a cover letter, vita, evidence of teaching experience, copies of transcripts, and names/address/phone and e-mail to Mrs. Cathy Tunnell at cathy.tunnell@washburn.edu (use po/pa as the subject line). Only electronic application materials will be accepted. Send questions to Dr. Linsey Modellmog, chair of the search committee at linsey.moddelmog@washburn.edu. The successful candidate will be required to submit to a background check prior to hire and to submit official transcripts. Washburn University is an EOE. To enrich education through diversity, candidates from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. www.washburn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3346

Evergreen State College

Rank: Public Administration Faculty

The Evergreen State College is seeking a regular, full-time faculty member to teach in the Master of Public Administration (MPA) Program. Successful candidates will have broad knowledge of the field of public administration, including expertise in subfields related to our three concentrations: Public & Nonprofit Administration, Public Policy, and Tribal Governance. All MPA faculty teach in each of the three concentrations in our evening and weekend program. The successful candidate will assist with developing contemporary curriculum across all three concentrations. They will team teach the core courses in the MPA curriculum (Context of Public Administration; Doing Democratic Public Administration; Policy, Finance, and Budgeting for Public Administration; Analytical Techniques for Public Service; and Capstone), as well as elective courses. A typical teaching load is one core course (6 credits) plus one elective course (4 credits) per quarter for each of the three quarters of the academic year. Experience working with diverse and underserved populations is highly desirable.

Most faculty will teach in full-time, team-taught, 16-credit programs connected by a particular theme or line of inquiry. Faculty are generally responsible for evaluating 25 students/quarter, though their programs may include up to 50-75 students, depending on the size of their teaching team. This arrangement allows for in-depth, interdisciplinary and experiential learning, and the building of strong learning communities. Faculty are also responsible for advising students as they reflect on their learning process, develop a pathway of study, and formulate their own areas of concentration.

Our teaching is student-centered, which means we are interested in helping students develop strong skills in critical thinking, problem solving, communication and collaborative work. Because over 80% of our students come from underserved and marginalized groups, we are particularly invested in approaches to teaching that emphasize diversity and equity, that provide opportunities for challenge and growth, and that foster a learning environment where all are welcome and all can learn from each other.

A complete list of faculty responsibilities can be found in the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D or DPA degree in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field (ABD candidates will be considered)
- Capacity to teach in a variety of courses in a graduate public administration program

Preferred Qualifications

- Experience working with diverse and underserved populations
- Experience working with Tribal Nations, Tribal governments, or other Tribal organizations
- Teaching experience, preferably at the graduate-level
- Professional experience (2+ years)
- Experience doing applied research
- Team-teaching experience/experience working in teams
- Experience mentoring and advising

See and apply to job announcement at <http://evergreen.peopleadmin.com/postings/1600>.

Review of complete applications begins October 15, 2017. The posting may close to new application materials any time after this date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3324

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of political theory beginning in the fall of 2018.

The area of specialization is open, but the successful candidate should be able to teach courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. We also strongly prefer a candidate who is willing and able to teach graduate-level courses for our growing Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered, but all degree requirements should be completed by August 1, 2018.
- Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Responsibilities:

Teaching duties may include Introduction to Political Theory, American National Government, Classical and Medieval Political Thought, Modern Political Thought, American Political Thought, Executive Process, and other upper-level courses in the fields of Political Theory and American Politics. Teaching courses for the MPA program is also expected.

The successful candidate will also be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching.

Special Instruction to Applicants:

Applicants should apply online at <https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/7109>

All applicants should submit 1) a cover letter, 2) a current CV, 3) statement of teaching and research, 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness, 5) transcripts, and 6) one writing sample.

Three letters of recommendations should be directly mailed to: Dr. Choong-Nam Kang, Chair, Department of Political Science and Sociology, Faculty Hall 5A, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Murray State University is an equal education and employment opportunity, M/F/D, AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3323

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law.

Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3308

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Administration

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for professor and endowed chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required.

Successful applicants will teach in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9587>.

The committee will begin considering applications on September 15, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3287

University of Montana

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor, Public Administration

UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA; Lecturer in Public Administration

The University of Montana invites applications for a Lecturer in Public Administration with the appointment beginning January 2018. The position is renewable for up to three years, contingent upon funding and performance reviews. The Master of Public Administration is one of the most successful graduate programs in the College of Humanities and Sciences at UM, attracting both in-state and out-of-state students. The successful candidate will be expected to teach public administration courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels online and in-person. The area of expertise in public administration is open; however, applicants with an interest in American Government, policy analysis, public administration ethics, program evaluation, public administration research methods, human resource management, and/or performance measurement are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to applicants who can demonstrate promise of excellence in teaching campus and online courses, commitment to professional service, and promise of high-quality scholarship.

Qualifications
 A Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Administration is expected by date of hire.

How to Apply
 Priority Application Deadline: September 30, 2017.
 Applications received by 9/30 will be guaranteed consideration. Application review will begin on 10/1/17 and continue until the position is filled.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below. Applications must be submitted via the UM Jobs system at <https://umjobs.silkroad.com>.

Please submit the following application materials via "New Resume/CV" button below.

*Please note: only five (5) attachments are allowed per application. Please combine documents accordingly.

- Letter of Interest – addressing qualifications (including research interests, ability to teach online and in person)

- Detailed curriculum vita
- Official graduate transcripts
- Teaching Evaluations
- Professional References – names and contact information for three (3) professional references.

For additional information, please contact Professor Sara Rinfret, MPA Director (sara.rinfret@umontana.edu).

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3264

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
 Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
 Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3205

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/9/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3169

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration, with a focus on local government, beginning in August 2018. Requirements: PhD in Political Science (primary focus in Public Administration), Public Administration, or a related field; ability to teach undergraduate courses in public administration, state and local government, and graduate courses in our NAASPA-accredited MPA program; capacity to administer our robust undergraduate political science internship program; willingness to connect with our community advisory board; interest in contributing to the public administration curriculum at the graduate and undergraduate level; a willingness to engage in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan; and, a strong commitment to teach undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Those with practitioner experience are encouraged to apply. Candidates should provide evidence of teaching experience if available and their willingness to provide instruction through a variety of approaches, including online. Review of applications will begin September 20, 2017; while preference will be given to applications received by that date, the review will continue until the position is filled. Applications should be uploaded to https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc_faculty/jobdetail.ftl?job=17000000QP

Dossiers should include a letter of interest; current curriculum vitae; evidence of teaching effectiveness, including sample syllabi for relevant courses; a philosophy of teaching; a statement of your research agenda; and copies of transcripts. The names and contact information for three references will be requested. Inquiries may be made to Dr. Irina Khmelko at 423.425.4281. Further information about the department is available at <http://www.utc.edu/pmps>.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second largest school in the University of Tennessee System, serving a diverse student body of more than 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions and is a driving force for achieving excellence, embracing diversity, inspiring positive change, and enriching the community. Since its founding as Chattanooga University in 1886, UTC has developed a reputation for excellence build on an unusual blend of the private and public traditions of American higher education. For more than 83 years, the university was a private school. In 1969, UTC became part of the state university system. Today, UTC is on a journey to excellence - boldly embracing a passion for excellence in all things and focused on changing lives and transforming communities. The UTC commitment—each and every day—is to earn the trust and confidence of those we serve. Our goal is to make a difference in our community and in the lives of our students.

Chattanooga, the fourth largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee near the border of Georgia at the junction of four interstate highways. The city has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront. Chattanooga also has the fastest internet in the country. Home to the first Gig Internet in the United States, Chattanooga has a 100% fiber network that links every home and business in a 600-square mile area. Companies like Unum, McKee, U.S. Xpress, Volkswagen, Coke United and Amazon.com have chosen to set up shop in Chattanooga. Attractions such as the Tennessee Aquarium, Lookout Mountain, Civil War battlefield sites, the African American Museum, and the Appalachian Trail bring thousands of people to the area, as do events like the Riverbend Festival, Nightfall, Jazzanooga, the Creative Discovery Museum for Children, and the Southern Writers Conference. Chattanooga is the home to the seven-time NCAA Southern Conference Football Champions, The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Mocs. People who love the outdoors use Chattanooga as a base for hang-gliding, bass fishing, mountain climbing and caving expeditions; the beautiful Smoky Mountains and Tennessee River support the greatest variety of flora of any area in the United States. Chattanooga also has a long and rich past with regard to diversity, which includes Native American heritage, Civil War history, and the Civil Rights movement. Chattanooga is also just a two hour (or less) drive from Atlanta, Nashville, Knoxville, and Birmingham.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3164

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor

Political Science: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-19 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major in Public Administration and courses for the MA program and have substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis; develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching, including the introduction to Public Administration and other advanced courses that contribute to the public administration major; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; take part in the undergraduate major in public administration, teach related courses for the MA program, contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with a specialty and/or an active research agenda in nonprofit organizations and have a background in quantitative methodology and "big data."

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4587>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3127

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and,

for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at

https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2988

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Graduate School of Public and International Affairs (GSPIA) at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications and nominations for two (2) tenure-stream faculty positions at the assistant professor level in public policy or public administration. Both appointments begin Fall term 2018. A PhD in public policy, public administration, public management, or social science field (political science, sociology, economics, or related field) is expected at the time of the appointment. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests related to public administration, public policy and/or public management, broadly defined. The area of specialization is open, but candidates are expected to teach in the school and program core, as well as substantive policy or management area of research. Evidence of a promising research agenda leading to high quality publications in any of the wide variety of topics related to public administration and public policy is essential. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the positions are filled. Candidates who would enhance the diversity of the school, including women and minorities, are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualified applicants can submit their materials online through email attachments (see email address below). Submitted materials should include a letter of application describing the applicant's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, two samples of scholarly writing, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations (if available):

Search Committee Chair
 c/o Mary Ann Gebet, Executive Assistant to the Dean
 Graduate School of Public and International Affairs
 University of Pittsburgh
 MPAGSPIA@pitt.edu

Applications must be submitted by November 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2985

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Urban Politics, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
 DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
 ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Urban Studies, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and urban government and politics. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in urban policy and/or local government. Particular area(s) of specialization may include poverty, racial segregation, transportation, housing, infrastructure, homelessness, crime, education, collaborative governance, and/or economic development.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/16/2017
Date Posted: 6/26/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 2920

Lamar University

Rank: Jack Brooks Endowed Chair of Government & Public Service

Specializations: Congress, Leadership Studies, Legislative Studies

The Department of Political Science is seeking a scholar with outstanding teaching and research potential for the Jack Brooks Chair in Government and Public Service beginning August 15, 2018.

The holder of the Chair will have a tenure track appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Department of Political Science. The Chair will teach six hours per semester, including graduate seminars and undergraduate courses in Congress, Legislative Processes and Leadership.

In addition to a nine-month salary, which is dependent on qualifications and experience, the Brooks Chair includes a summer research stipend.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or Government. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials. Preference will be given to PhD candidates with advanced degrees in Political Science or Government and specializing in leadership studies or the legislature.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students; maintain an active service agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: Political Science Search Committee Chairperson, <https://jobs.lamar.edu>

If your letters of recommendation are confidential, please have the letters mailed to the address above or emailed to: jobs@lamar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/12/2018
Date Posted: 6/19/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2894

PUBLIC LAW

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Criminal Justice and Public Affairs
Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Administration, Public Policy

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University welcomes applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant level in the area of criminal justice. We especially encourage applications from scholars who study topics such as criminal justice, drug policy implementation, policing, law enforcement, courts, criminal law, or public law. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches.

The position begins fall 2018. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed or be nearing completion of all Ph.D. degree requirements. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in public administration, public policy, criminology, sociology, or a related field. Highly desirable candidates will have practical experience, university teaching experience, a strong potential for developing a successful research portfolio, and demonstrated success in working with diverse populations and a commitment to diversifying the profession.

Application Instructions

Applications will be evaluated as they are received and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by November 5, 2017 are guaranteed full consideration. To apply, please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three professional reference letters to Glenn-CJPA@osu.edu. Alternatively, materials can be mailed to: Office of the Dean, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, 350 Page Hall, 1810 College Road, Columbus, OH, 43210.

About the Glenn College and OSU

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs was recently ranked 25th overall among other graduate professional programs in public affairs. Our curricular offerings include the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration and In-Career Master of Arts in Public Policy and Management; dual master's degrees with Law, City and Regional Planning, Public Health, Environment and Natural Resources, Social Work, Business Administration, Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics, Slavic and East European Studies, and Latin American Studies; a joint degree in Arts Policy and Administration; a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Management; a B.A. in Public Management, Leadership, and Policy; a B.S. in Public Policy Analysis, and a variety of undergraduate and graduate minors. The College also offers a wide array of non-degree management and leadership training seminars, programs and certificates, serving over 2,000 mid-career professionals each year. For more information about the Glenn College, please visit our website: glenn.osu.edu.

The Ohio State University, the flagship public university of Ohio, is located in the state's capital, Columbus, providing direct access to public sector organizations and practitioners from all levels of government, as well as a large and vibrant nonprofit and philanthropic community. The Glenn College is housed in a state-of-the-art building in the center of the University campus. Columbus is the 14th largest city in the United States and offers many cultural and recreational amenities. It was recently rated by Forbes as the #1 opportunity city in the country and #7 in best cities for young professionals. Money Magazine rated it #3 for best cities for millennials. Ohio ranks #5 for states with the most Fortune 500 headquarters.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 10/24/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3683

New York University School of Professional Studies

Rank: Clinical Assistant/Associate Professor of Global Affairs
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Public Administration
Specializations: Foreign Policy, Conflict Processes, International Security

Clinical Assistant/Associate Professor of Global Affairs
 NYU School of Professional Studies
 Center for Global Affairs

The Center for Global Affairs (CGA) at the NYU School of Professional Studies invites applications for a full time clinical (non tenured) faculty position. We seek an individual with the ability to teach courses on cybercrime, cybersecurity, cyberlaw, cyberconflict, cyberwar, and/or terrorists' use of the Internet. The ideal candidate would have professional and/or government experience as well as excellent academic credentials.

The CGA currently offers a Masters in Global Affairs which is interdisciplinary with concentrations in Transnational Security, Global Futures, Global Economy, Energy and Environment, Development and Humanitarian Assistance, International Law and Human Rights, Gender Studies and Peacebuilding. A second graduate program in Global Security, Conflict and Cybercrime is in the final stage of approval. The successful candidate will be expected to play a full role in curricular development, student advisement and the Center's robust series of public events besides the primary role of teaching graduate level courses.

Successful candidates will possess an advanced degree, with an earned doctorate and experience teaching at the graduate level preferred. The individual selected for this position should possess the background and experience necessary to teach a variety of courses in the cyber curriculum; a record of publishing and research is desirable. The rank of the position will be dependent upon experience and qualifications.

The Center for Global Affairs (CGA) educates and inspires its community to become global citizens capable of identifying and implementing solutions to pressing global challenges. Through rigorous graduate and continuing higher education programs and provocative public events, the Center prepares global citizens who will be at home, and thus be effective agents of change, in diverse environments around the world. For more information, visit www.sps.nyu.edu/global.affairs.

The NYU School of Professional Studies offers a broad range of degree and noncredit programs that are professionally oriented, integrate theory with real-world applications, and are taught by faculty members who are leaders and innovators in their fields. The School of Professional Studies captures the expertise of the key sectors that make New York City a great global capital, such as real estate, finance, marketing, public relations, global affairs, hospitality and tourism, sports management, philanthropy and fundraising, communications, media, writing, the arts, and others. Full- and part-time students enroll in on-site and online credit programs, including graduate degrees, graduate certificates, and undergraduate degrees for both adults returning to school and traditional-aged students. In addition, working professionals and other adult learners pursue career objectives or intellectual discovery in over 2,500 continuing education courses, diploma programs, conferences, and seminars annually.

Applications and nominations will be accepted until December 1, 2017. Applications will be considered as they arrive. NYU appreciates all applications but can only respond to qualified candidates.

To apply, go to: apply.interfolio.com/46285

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3671

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: 3-Year Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin Fall 2018. The successful candidate will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/21/2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3661

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Tenure-Track Faculty in Indigenous Business

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Canada, Native American Politics, Leadership Studies

The Beedie School of Business at Simon Fraser University in Metro Vancouver, British Columbia seeks outstanding candidates for a tenure-track position to build on the School's strengths in the study and teaching of Indigenous business.

The School has created and established an Executive MBA in Aboriginal Business and Leadership, now in its third cohort, which draws students from across Canada and is the only program of its kind outside of New Zealand. The degree is part of SFU's wider commitment to leadership in the scholarship of Indigenous issues, and community engagement more broadly. The School wishes to complement the development of globally-recognized graduate teaching in Indigenous business with an equally strong research base. It will be the new hire's primary responsibility to work on and catalyze that research agenda. Meaningful research in this area will be first and foremost publishable in top academic journals, and additionally engaged with real-world issues and communities or organizations. The development of published teaching cases on Indigenous business would make a valuable contribution as part of the successful hire's impactful research agenda, but ideally only in synergy with rigorous, peer-reviewed publications.

The successful candidate will have a strong research and publication record, or potential to develop such a record, in one or more of our existing areas of business including, but not limited to, organizational behaviour, entrepreneurship, sustainable development, public policy of business or strategy. We also welcome the interest of exceptional candidates with expertise in Aboriginal contexts who may have been trained in a core discipline like economics, sociology, law or political science, but who can see the potential in pivoting their research agenda to focus on business and related issues. We do expect candidates to be able to demonstrate familiarity with Indigenous business and economic development. Additionally, the candidate must have demonstrated teaching competence at the undergraduate, graduate, and/or executive education levels, with potential to become a very strong teacher to experienced executive MBA students. A Ph.D. is required by August 2018. Candidates of any rank are welcome to apply, however the School has a preference for an assistant or junior associate professor.

The Beedie School of Business is recognized as a top ranked research school, is accredited by both AACSB and EQUIS, and is signatory to Principles for Responsible Management Education. We have programs at the Undergraduate, Masters, Ph.D. and Executive levels, including Canada's first Executive MBA program.

SFU Beedie was named following a $22 million gift from alumnus Ryan Beedie and his father Keith in 2011. The donation has allowed the school to build on its strong reputation as a global leader in research, while pursuing its strategic vision of developing innovative and socially responsible business leaders with a global perspective through education. The successful candidate will share Beedie's commitment to diversity, engagement and generating positive change in its communities.

With three award-winning British Columbia campuses located in Burnaby, Surrey and downtown Vancouver, Simon Fraser University offers a strong research environment in a dynamic Pacific Rim setting that is ranked by the Economist Intelligence Unit as the world's most liveable city. For further details about the Beedie School of Business, visit our website at: <http://www.beedie.sfu.ca/>.

Your complete application including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a published work that best represents your current research profile and teaching evaluations, should be submitted in electronic format to chair_busappts@sfu.ca. Please ask three references to send confidential letters of recommendation directly to chair_busappts@sfu.ca. Applications should clearly specify the competition number (2017ABL) and the position title. Unfortunately, we are unable to process general applications at this time.

For best consideration, complete applications must be received by the initial deadline for applications, November 15, 2017, although applications will be accepted until the position is filled. A strong candidate whose job market timing will resolve before November can reach out to us earlier, noting the time conflict. We anticipate the position will start September 1, 2018 or on a mutually agreed upon date.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and Permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is committed to the principle of equity in employment and offers equal employment opportunities to qualified applicants. All positions are subject to budgetary approval and approval by the Board of Governors.

Under the authority of the University Act, personal information required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html

For further details regarding this position, please see the following web site:

<http://beedie.sfu.ca/about/openings>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3380

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Vanderbilt Political Science faculty member, Alan Wiseman, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita, a cover letter, and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking during the postdoc. Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applicants should submit materials electronically through Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46317>. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before October 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3658

California Polytechnic State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science - Law and Society

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, POLITICAL SCIENCE - The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at California Polytechnic State University (Cal Poly), San Luis Obispo, California, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic year Assistant Professor with a specialization in empirical Law and Society to begin September 13, 2018. The successful candidate will have research expertise and the ability to teach courses in our pre-law concentration/ Law & Society minor (e.g., judicial politics, judicial process, civil rights and/or constitutional law) as well as our undergraduate research design and/or quantitative methods courses. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work emphasizes issues of justice, diversity and inclusion.

The typical teaching assignment is 12 units (three courses) per quarter, with correspondingly reasonable research and service expectations, and with a significant reduction in course load in the first two years to help establish an active program of research and professional development. An earned doctorate (Ph.D. or equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution or international equivalent is required. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered, but must provide proof that the doctorate was completed prior to appointment. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, we believe that cultivating an environment that embraces and promotes diversity is fundamental to the success of our students, our employees and our community. Bringing people together from different backgrounds, experiences and value systems fosters the innovative and creative thinking that exemplifies Cal Poly's values of free inquiry, cultural and intellectual diversity, mutual respect, civic engagement, and social and environmental responsibility. Cal Poly's commitment to diversity informs our efforts in recruitment, hiring and retention. California Polytechnic State University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

HOW TO APPLY: Interested applicants should complete the required online faculty application at WWW.CALPOLYJOBS.ORG and submit to Requisition #104644. Please attach to your online application the following required materials: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Statement of Teaching Philosophy, Evidence of teaching effectiveness and teaching evaluations, Statement of Professional/Research Goals, a PDF file of a recent publication or manuscript, a Statement of Diversity and Inclusion describing past experience and contributions to diversity and inclusion efforts and a description of how you will demonstrate a commitment in these areas regarding teaching, research and/or service at Cal Poly, and an unofficial copy of transcripts.

Applicants should be prepared to submit the names and email addresses for a minimum of three professional references. Cal Poly will directly solicit letters from the individuals listed by applicants. Letters must be dated within the year of recruitment. Sealed official transcripts showing highest degree earned will be required prior to appointment.

REVIEW BEGIN DATE: December 1, 2017. This position is open until filled. Completed applications (all required materials submitted) received by the review begin date will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3628

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

St. Bonaventure University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Methodology, American Government and Politics

St. Bonaventure University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American politics and public law, beginning fall 2018.

Teaching responsibilities include courses in law and society, the introductory course in American government and politics, a quantitative research methods course for undergraduate Political Science majors, as well as courses in your area of interest. Teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester. Additional responsibilities include assisting with the Law and Society program, advising pre-law students, involvement in student affairs and university service, and an active research agenda. Applicants must have a PhD in hand or demonstrate that they will defend their dissertation by August 2018. Founded in 1858, St. Bonaventure University is a Catholic university dedicated to educational excellence in the Franciscan tradition. We are a predominately undergraduate, liberal arts based institution with 2000 students located in the Allegheny Mountains near Olean, NY. St. Bonaventure University emphasizes small classes, close engagement with students, and a mission-based liberal arts curriculum. Applicants should send curriculum vitae, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching effectiveness such as summaries of student evaluations, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter that discusses your approach to teaching and your research interests. St. Bonaventure University is committed to enhancing the diversity of our faculty and strongly encourages applications from under-represented groups of all faiths. The deadline for application is December 15, 2018. Email application and supporting documents to:

Josiah B. Lambert, PhD
poliscisearch@sbu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3549

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track)
Department of Political Science
Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in judicial politics/public law to begin Fall 2018. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2018. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications should be submitted online at www.lsusystemcareers.lsu.edu <http://www.lsusystemcareers.lsu.edu/>, Req. number is R00017208. Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to popare@lsu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3502

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty

Middle Tennessee State University's Department of Political Science and International Relations seeks applications for a full time, tenure-track faculty position (#128050) in Public Law/American Government at the assistant/associate professor rank. Start date for this position is August 1, 2018.

The Successful candidate will be expected to teach introductory and upper level American government and public law classes, including U.S. Constitutional law, contribute to MTSU's public law-related programs such as mock trial, moot court, and mediation, and pursue an active research agenda.

Mock Trial at MTSU has a long tradition and has become an integral part of the pre-law curriculum. In addition to competing in invitational, regional, and national tournaments throughout the year, students also participate in the MTSU-sponsored Mid-South Mock Trial Invitational.

To apply or for more detailed information visit <http://mtsujobs.mtsu.edu>. MTSU is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that values diversity in all its forms. Women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3542

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3532

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3533

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH
 DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
 ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3436

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:
 Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3429

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public/Non-Profit Management
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Public Law

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs
- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3378

University of Connecticut

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor of Law
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The University of Connecticut School of Law solicits applications for one or two tenured or tenure-track faculty positions to commence in fall 2018. We are considering candidates with a broad range of scholarly interests, including with those with a terminal degree (such as a Ph.D.) in a field other than law, so long as their research and teaching address questions relating to the law.

The School of Law is the top-ranked public law school in the Northeast, with a nationally landmarked campus in Hartford, and part of one of the nation's top research universities. The School is committed to building and supporting a vibrant, multicultural and diverse community of students, faculty and staff. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer, and in keeping with our strong commitment to build a diverse community, we encourage applications from such traditionally under-represented populations as members of minority groups, people with disabilities, veterans and women.

Successful candidates will teach courses; advise students on independent projects; complete research in their academic areas of interest; and publish scholarship. As members of the faculty, successful candidates will participate in faculty management via committee work; participate in national organizations related to their area of research/scholarship interest; attend and speak at national, regional and local conferences and other events; work closely with other departments and faculty; and perform related duties as required.

Minimum Qualifications: A J.D. from an accredited institution or equivalent terminal degree such as a Ph.D. in a relevant field (equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable); a demonstrated capacity for serious and sustained scholarly work of a quality commensurate with, or leading to, a tenured position; a well-defined research and teaching agenda; and demonstrated skills to be an effective teacher.

Preferred Qualifications: Expertise and ability to teach in one or more of the following areas: inequalities related to race and ethnicity, advanced constitutional law, criminal procedure, commercial law, intellectual property, trusts and estates, evidence, and other areas of specialization; the completion of one or more works of scholarship that demonstrate intellectual depth and facility with written expression; and a demonstrated ability to contribute through research, teaching, and public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the law school.

This is a full time 9-month position. Salary and position rank at Associate or Full Professor will be commensurate with background, qualifications, and experience. Candidates should expect to work at the Law School located in Hartford, Connecticut.

To Apply: Applications must be submitted online at <http://hr.uconn.edu/faculty>. Please upload a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a list of references, a writing sample, recent teaching evaluations, if any, and a research agenda.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3326

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3308

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2018. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in political science with a primary field of Public Law. A secondary field in Comparative Politics is preferred. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will help direct the Legal Studies concentration within the Government major, work closely with other departments within the university (primarily the Criminal Justice program), and teach introductory, advanced undergraduate, and Master's level courses in the area of Public Law such as "Law for Women", "Constitutional Rights and Criminal Justice," and "Constitutional Law". Candidates will also advise students within the Legal Studies concentration and serve the department, university, and profession. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. by the appointment date.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers Bachelor and Master's degrees in Government (with Politics and Legal Studies concentrations) as well as a Bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has five Government faculty members (plus History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 100 undergraduate Government majors and 15 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, C.V., evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to facultyjobs@twu.edu. Please include the job code (IRC11435) in the subject line of the email. Review of applications will begin on November 1.

Texas Woman's University strives to provide an educational environment that affirms the rights and dignity of each individual, fosters diversity, and encourages a respect for the differences among persons. Discrimination or harassment of any kind is considered inappropriate. TWU is a "Tobacco Free Campus".

Texas Woman's University is committed to equal opportunity in employment and education and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national or ethnic origin, age, veteran's status, genetic information or against qualified disabled persons.

Individuals may qualify for a Veteran's Employment Preference or a Former Foster Youth Employment Preference at Texas Woman's University over other applicants for the same position who do not have a greater qualification. If you believe you may qualify, click here for more information and instructions on how to claim an employment preference for this position: <http://www.twu.edu/recruitment-selection/6589.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3246

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant Professor – Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law/Law and Courts at the assistant professor level. The position will begin in the fall of 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in American courts, empirical legal studies, public law, and/or judicial behavior. The successful applicant will primarily teach undergraduate courses on American law, including constitutional law.

Successful candidates should have rigorous methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applicants should also have a well thought out research agenda. Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars. With over 600 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, the UH Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000255. To apply, please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Lydia Tiede, Chair, Public Law Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Houston.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3204

PUBLIC POLICY

Harvard University

Rank: Frank Stanton Professorship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Economic Policy, Religion & Politics

Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government seeks applications from scholars of American democracy, politics, and institutions for a chaired, tenured professorship. The position is broadly defined to attract accomplished scholars whose research has important implications for the health, quality, and durability of the United States' liberal democratic system. Scholars who conduct empirical or normative research on issues related to the politics of speech, assembly, media, association, or religion in America are particularly welcome to apply. The search is open to candidates from a wide array of disciplines, including political science, law, history, economics, sociology, and communications. The ideal applicant, who is expected to hold the Frank Stanton Professorship, will have produced influential scholarship that advances clear and compelling analytical perspectives, will have demonstrated a commitment to applying those perspectives in order to solve public problems, and will seek to engage with policymakers, practitioners, and the public. Applicants must also be able to fulfill the distinctive teaching and institutional requirements of a school of public policy that trains leaders and citizens and generates ideas to address national and international challenges. The Harvard Kennedy School is committed to building a diverse intellectual community. We therefore encourage applications from women and minorities.

Applicants should submit a CV and a letter of interest. Applications received by December 31, 2017 will receive full consideration. Applications should be addressed to: Stanton Chair Search, c/o Donald Olander, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, 79 JFK Street, Cambridge, MA 02138 USA, e-mail: don_olander@hks.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/31/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3716

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Arkansas invites applications for 9-month Visiting Assistant Professor. The duties and responsibilities of this Visiting Assistant Professor position entail contributing to the teaching mission of the department and conducting research in a field related to Political Science. The teaching load is 3-3 with a focus on American national government, public administration, and public policy.

Regular, reliable, and non-disruptive attendance is an essential job duty, as is the ability to create and maintain collegial, harmonious working relationships with others.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/30/2017
Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3678

Georgetown University

Rank: Professor of International Business and Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Political Economy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both Schools. The position is one of a number of multidisciplinary new positions at Georgetown intended to foster multidisciplinary scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Georgetown has a unique opportunity to integrate the fields of business and international affairs in its scholarship and programs, and this joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB has strengths in the core business disciplines as well as international business, international political economy and trade, and ethics. The MSB offers highly ranked undergraduate, MBA, and executive programs. Each of these programs contains successful and innovative global components. The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses some aspect of business and policy in the global economy. The successful candidate's work has appeared, and will continue to appear, in leading scholarly outlets.

Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty, and the successful applicant will be someone who fits that tradition. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Associate or Full Professor.

The MSB and SFS already have a number of joint initiatives in place, including two joint graduate degrees (the Global Executive MBA and the newly launched Master's in International Business and Policy) and a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. In our joint activities, we seek to enhance both research and teaching by focusing on the creative integration of business with the international public policy environment. The successful candidate will provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Located in Washington, D.C., Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here.

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE

The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and languages. The SFS is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, led by a faculty of both scholars and practitioners. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector. In the study of international affairs, Georgetown's Jesuit values inspires SFS students to be principled, just practitioners of diplomacy. Students apply these values of service internationally across the public, private, and academic sectors in pursuit of a better world.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should upload a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://www.econjobmarket.org/postings.php?posid=4681>. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2017, but will accept inquiries until the position is filled.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/10/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3691

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in Health Policy

The School of Public Administration, University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for the Blue Cross/Blue Shield Chair of Health Administration and Policy with an emphasis on Health Policy. This position, which we seek to fill at the level of senior Associate Professor or Full Professor, will begin August 13, 2018. We seek candidates who will make significant contributions in our doctoral and masters programs and whose teaching areas include public and nonprofit management and/or policy process and implementation; and whose research interests focus on health with an emphasis on underserved populations, food and nutrition, policy data analytics, or other topics related to health.

Candidates must have a distinguished record of academic and research accomplishments. Additionally, they must have a Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Affairs, or a related field.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It has a statewide mission and offers the only accredited master's program in public administration in the state. The School is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling approximately 275 graduate students each year.

The MPA program is ranked #25 overall of all such programs in the 2016 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools. The School's Ph.D. in Public Administration is one of the only programs at its level in the Great Plains region. The School's Master of Science in Urban Studies is closely aligned with UNO's focus on engaged research and outreach, with a new focus on sustainability. Omaha is a dynamic metropolitan area with a population of nearly 900,000 boasting a wide array of employers, numerous lifestyle amenities, and a high-quality K-12 educational system. Especially relevant to this position, the Omaha metropolitan area is home to two major medical centers (the University of Nebraska Medical Center and CHI Health), 15 hospitals, and several major health care systems. For more information about the School of Public Administration visit our web page at: <http://spa.unomaha.edu/> or contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Bryce Hoflund (ahoflund@unomaha.edu).

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is an equal opportunity employer. The university and school have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of under-represented groups and strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply for this position.

To apply for this position go to: <https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/5253>. Current curriculum vita; a letter addressing professional experience and qualifications – specifically highlighting evidence of managing research and outreach projects, a research and outreach agenda; the names and contact information for three references; and evidence of teaching excellence, productive scholarly research, and commitment to community engagement must be included in the application. Review of applications will begin in mid-January. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3692

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Criminal Justice and Public Affairs

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Administration, Public Policy

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University welcomes applications and nominations for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant level in the area of criminal justice. We especially encourage applications from scholars who study topics such as criminal justice, drug policy implementation, policing, law enforcement, courts, criminal law, or public law. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches.

The position begins fall 2018. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed or be nearing completion of all Ph.D. degree requirements. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in public administration, public policy, criminology, sociology, or a related field. Highly desirable candidates will have practical experience, university teaching experience, a strong potential for developing a successful research portfolio, and demonstrated success in working with diverse populations and a commitment to diversifying the profession.

Application Instructions

Applications will be evaluated as they are received and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by November 5, 2017 are guaranteed full consideration. To apply, please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three professional reference letters to Glenn-CJPA@osu.edu. Alternatively, materials can be mailed to: Office of the Dean, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, 350 Page Hall, 1810 College Road, Columbus, OH, 43210.

About the Glenn College and OSU

The John Glenn College of Public Affairs was recently ranked 25th overall among other graduate professional programs in public affairs. Our curricular offerings include the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration and In-Career Master of Arts in Public Policy and Management; dual master's degrees with Law, City and Regional Planning, Public Health, Environment and Natural Resources, Social Work, Business Administration, Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics, Slavic and East European Studies, and Latin American Studies; a joint degree in Arts Policy and Administration; a Ph.D. in Public Policy and Management; a B.A. in Public Management, Leadership, and Policy; a B.S. in Public Policy Analysis, and a variety of undergraduate and graduate minors. The College also offers a wide array of non-degree management and leadership training seminars, programs and certificates, serving over 2,000 mid-career professionals each year. For more information about the Glenn College, please visit our website: glenn.osu.edu.

The Ohio State University, the flagship public university of Ohio, is located in the state's capital, Columbus, providing direct access to public sector organizations and practitioners from all levels of government, as well as a large and vibrant nonprofit and philanthropic community. The Glenn College is housed in a state-of-the-art building in the center of the University campus. Columbus is the 14th largest city in the United States and offers many cultural and recreational amenities. It was recently rated by Forbes as the #1 opportunity city in the country and #7 in best cities for young professionals. Money Magazine rated it #3 for best cities for millennials. Ohio ranks #5 for states with the most Fortune 500 headquarters.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3683

Presbyterian College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Health Care, Life Sciences & Politics, Science & Technology

Tenure-Track Position/Department of Political Science at Presbyterian College

The Political Science Department at Presbyterian College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in American Politics or Policy to begin in the Fall 2018 semester. The ideal candidate will have teaching or research interests that include health care policy, management, administration or politics and who will work with current faculty to develop a health policy-related concentration within the political science major. The successful candidate will also contribute to the department by teaching in its current introductory and upper-level offerings in public administration, public policy, research methods and/or American politics, broadly defined.

Demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, research, student advising, and service to the College and community are essential for successful applicants. The candidate selected will be expected to offer seven courses per year (3-4 teaching load). Applications from those with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related fields and very advanced ABDs will be considered. Candidates who represent diverse backgrounds are especially encouraged to apply.

Presbyterian College is a four-year undergraduate liberal-arts college affiliated with the Presbyterian Church USA. The college supports academic freedom and encourages community involvement. Located in Clinton, South Carolina, PC is approximately 40 minutes from the Greenville and Spartanburg, S.C. metro area and about one hour from Columbia, S.C. The region offers abundant opportunities for social and recreational activities in one of the fastest growing regions of the country and easy access to Charlotte, N.C., Asheville, N.C., and Atlanta, GA.

Interested individuals should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching experience and philosophy, college and graduate school transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Justin Lance, Associate Professor of Political Science, Presbyterian College, 503 South Broad Street, Clinton, SC, 29325. Electronic submissions of application materials are encouraged and should be sent to politicalscience@presby.edu. For specific questions regarding the position, please contact Dr. Justin Lance directly at jlance@presby.edu. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled.

Presbyterian College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The College seeks to hire the most qualified candidate and does not discriminate against any legally protected class.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3670

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2018, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and non-profit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamuedu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective.

The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3679

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Presidency, Research Methods, American Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Academic accomplishment in Political Science with an emphasis in American Politics/Congress/Presidency (Ph.D. required); (ii) Authoritative knowledge of American political development, institutions, and political participation and experience teaching American politics; (iii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate courses in American politics and other related sub-fields; (iv) Ability to conduct research and present results in a variety of media; (v) Ability to lead and guide student research and offer academic counseling and mentorship.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 3672

University of Delaware

Rank: Associate or Full Professors (tenured): US Domestic Policy

Specializations: American Politics, Urban Politics, Social Movements

Associate or Full Professors (tenured): US Domestic Policy (2)

School of Public Policy and Administration

The University of Delaware

Newark, Delaware

The University of Delaware's School of Public Policy and Administration (SPPA) has been identified by university leadership as a priority for growth and development. This will build upon its recognition as a comprehensive school of public affairs that integrates academic excellence with professional practice. The launch of our new Joseph R. Biden Institute will strengthen our role as a driving force in the formation and analysis of consequential domestic policy solutions to some of the nation's most compelling challenges. The creation of the Biden Institute, and the focus on domestic policy, will strengthen our tradition of integrating academic excellence with professional practice.

We invite applications for (2) tenured positions at the rank of Associate or Full Professor. We seek candidates with excellent scholarly records who are interested in propelling the School's national and international reputations. The specific areas of domestic policy include social, health, economic, or urban policy (including "smart cities"), or policy analysis. Ideal candidates will have strengths in quantitative policy analysis, a record of success in securing external funding, and experience supervising graduate students. The start date for the positions is September 1, 2018.

Qualified candidates must have a Ph.D. degree at the time of application, and training in Public Policy, Public Administration, Economics, Social Work, Education, or related fields in the social/behavioral sciences. We also encourage applications from candidates in intellectual areas such as Computer Science, Engineering, Mathematics and Statistics, and Epidemiology who have a strong record of domestic policy research and analysis. All candidates must have a scholarly record appropriate for the rank of tenured associate or full professor that includes substantial publications, an active research agenda, and successful teaching experiences.

SPPA engages faculty, professional staff, and students from a variety of disciplines and diverse backgrounds in the classroom, on public service project teams, and in collaboration with outside organizations. The School offers a Master of Public Administration (M.P.A.) in-person and online, an M.A. and Ph.D. in Urban Affairs and Public Policy, an M.S. and Ph.D. in Disaster Science and Management, and an M.S. and Ph.D. in Energy and Environmental Policy. Undergraduate degrees are offered in Public Policy, Organizational and Community Leadership, and Energy and Environmental Policy. In addition, the faculty of SPPA are pursuing the creation of a Master of Public Policy (M.P.P.) program to begin September 2018. Candidates will be expected to contribute to multiple SPPA programs.

The Biden Institute is the newest of the research and public service units affiliated with SPPA, which also include the Center for Applied Demography and Survey Research, the Center for Community Research and Service, the Center for Historic Architecture and Design, the Disaster Research Center, and the Institute for Public Administration. The successful candidate may seek appointment in one or more of these units. See <http://www.sppa.udel.edu/>.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest outlining their academic strengths and proposed contributions toward the above stated goals of prominence for the School, a current curriculum vitae, and contact information for at least three references, using the Interfolio® online system at UD (<http://apply.interfolio.com/45555>). Additional information may be requested after initial review of applicants. The committee will begin reviewing applications December 15, and the searches will continue until the positions are filled. Submit inquiries, but not application materials, to Professor Dan Smith, Search Committee Co-Chair, at dansmith@udel.edu. Please do not send application materials to the search committee.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching classifies UD as a research university with very high research activity. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research. The Department is located within the College of Arts & Sciences. With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). UD is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from minority group members and women.

UD recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting the academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds, and this is a primary goal for our department. We provide equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3673

Sonoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Sonoma State University Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship to teach undergraduate courses in American Political Institutions, and graduate courses in Public Policy and/or Public Administration. The ability to teach advanced undergraduate courses in such policy areas as immigration or healthcare policy, or on topics dealing with race, ethnicity, and similar issues is especially desirable. The successful candidate will also be expected to teach introductory American Government and Research Methods, and needs to be comfortable working with both undergraduate and graduate students. Candidates with a record of scholarly activity with students and a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse populations are encouraged to apply.

To obtain the full position opportunity announcement, please go to: http://web.sonoma.edu/aa/docs/poas/tt/poa_104469.pdf.

To apply for this position, go to <http://www.sonoma.edu/jobs/> by November 12, 2017.

For additional information about the position, candidates may contact Dr. Robert McNamara, Department of Political Science, Sonoma State University, 1801 E. Cotati Avenue, Rohnert Park, CA 94928-3609.

Sonoma State is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/12/2017

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3664

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: 3-Year Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin Fall 2018. The successful candidate will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/21/2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3661

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Tenure-Track Faculty in Indigenous Business

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Law, Public Policy

Specializations: Canada, Native American Politics, Leadership Studies

The Beedie School of Business at Simon Fraser University in Metro Vancouver, British Columbia seeks outstanding candidates for a tenure-track position to build on the School's strengths in the study and teaching of Indigenous business.

The School has created and established an Executive MBA in Aboriginal Business and Leadership, now in its third cohort, which draws students from across Canada and is the only program of its kind outside of New Zealand. The degree is part of SFU's wider commitment to leadership in the scholarship of Indigenous issues, and community engagement more broadly. The School wishes to complement the development of globally-recognized graduate teaching in Indigenous business with an equally strong research base. It will be the new hire's primary responsibility to work on and catalyze that research agenda. Meaningful research in this area will be first and foremost publishable in top academic journals, and additionally engaged with real-world issues and communities or organizations. The development of published teaching cases on Indigenous business would make a valuable contribution as part of the successful hire's impactful research agenda, but ideally only in synergy with rigorous, peer-reviewed publications.

The successful candidate will have a strong research and publication record, or potential to develop such a record, in one or more of our existing areas of business including, but not limited to, organizational behaviour, entrepreneurship, sustainable development, public policy of business or strategy. We also welcome the interest of exceptional candidates with expertise in Aboriginal contexts who may have been trained in a core discipline like economics, sociology, law or political science, but who can see the potential in pivoting their research agenda to focus on business and related issues. We do expect candidates to be able to demonstrate familiarity with Indigenous business and economic development. Additionally, the candidate must have demonstrated teaching competence at the undergraduate, graduate, and/or executive education levels, with potential to become a very strong teacher to experienced executive MBA students. A Ph.D. is required by August 2018. Candidates of any rank are welcome to apply, however the School has a preference for an assistant or junior associate professor.

The Beedie School of Business is recognized as a top ranked research school, is accredited by both AACSB and EQUIS, and is signatory to Principles for Responsible Management Education. We have programs at the Undergraduate, Masters, Ph.D. and Executive levels, including Canada's first Executive MBA program.

SFU Beedie was named following a $22 million gift from alumnus Ryan Beedie and his father Keith in 2011. The donation has allowed the school to build on its strong reputation as a global leader in research, while pursuing its strategic vision of developing innovative and socially responsible business leaders with a global perspective through education. The successful candidate will share Beedie's commitment to diversity, engagement and generating positive change in its communities.

With three award-winning British Columbia campuses located in Burnaby, Surrey and downtown Vancouver, Simon Fraser University offers a strong research environment in a dynamic Pacific Rim setting that is ranked by the Economist Intelligence Unit as the world's most liveable city. For further details about the Beedie School of Business, visit our website at: <http://www.beedie.sfu.ca/>.

Your complete application including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a published work that best represents your current research profile and teaching evaluations, should be submitted in electronic format to chair_busappts@sfu.ca. Please ask three references to send confidential letters of recommendation directly to chair_busappts@sfu.ca. Applications should clearly specify the competition number (2017ABL) and the position title. Unfortunately, we are unable to process general applications at this time.

For best consideration, complete applications must be received by the initial deadline for applications, November 15, 2017, although applications will be accepted until the position is filled. A strong candidate whose job market timing will resolve before November can reach out to us earlier, noting the time conflict. We anticipate the position will start September 1, 2018 or on a mutually agreed upon date.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and Permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is committed to the principle of equity in employment and offers equal employment opportunities to qualified applicants. All positions are subject to budgetary approval and approval by the Board of Governors.

Under the authority of the University Act, personal information required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html

For further details regarding this position, please see the following web site:
<http://beedie.sfu.ca/about/openings>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3380

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Vanderbilt Political Science faculty member, Alan Wiseman, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are required.

Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita, a cover letter, and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking during the postdoc. Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applicants should submit materials electronically through Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46317>. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before October 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3658

Northwestern University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships in Global, Comparative, or International Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Social Movements

The Buffett Institute for Global Studies at Northwestern University invites applications for two-year postdoctoral fellowships in the study of global, comparative, or international affairs. Up to three fellows will be selected. Applications are welcome from scholars from any range of social science or interdisciplinary perspectives whose research addresses global, international, or transnational social processes, problems, governance, or conflicts. Fellowships will run from September 1, 2018 to August 31, 2020.

The salary is $55,000. In addition, fellows are eligible for $5,000 per year to fund research and conference travel and up to $2,000 in reimbursement for allowable relocation expenses in the first year. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Applicants must have received their PhD between December 14, 2015, and August 31, 2018.

Application deadline is December 15, 2017, at 5 p.m. (CT).

For a complete position description and application procedures, visit: <http://buffett.northwestern.edu/funding-grants/buffett-postdocs.html>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3651

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy Group

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business invites applications for a tenure-track position in its Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy group. The Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy area includes individuals whose primary research and teaching interests lie in economics, international business, international political economy, and strategy. The area is collegial and multi-disciplinary, with several members crossing boundaries in research and teaching.

The position is open to scholars interested in conducting applied, international research. It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses firm behavior in the global economy and whose work has appeared or will appear in leading scholarly outlets.

The position is at the rank of assistant professor. Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty and the successful applicant will be someone who fits that tradition. Our preference is for someone who has demonstrated teaching ability.

We encourage applicants to send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://www.econjobmarket.org/postings.php?posid=4719>. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2017, but will accept inquiries until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3626

Montana State University, Bozeman

Rank: Postdoctoral researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Environmental Policy, Australia

The Montana State University Department of Political Science in Bozeman, Montana is seeking an exceptional postdoctoral researcher to join our international interdisciplinary research team in August 2018. The appointment is for two years. Eligible applicants must have completed the Ph.D. by July 2018.

The purpose of the position is to conduct research for a National Science Foundation funded project, specifically focused on risk communication in a coupled-natural human system in Australia. The research scholar will spend their time on a National Science Foundation project on the coupled dynamics of a zoonotic system in Australia. The primary research focus for this position centers on risk perception and communication. As such, the research efforts include field work to collect data on risk perceptions, risk narratives, information sources, and decisions.

Required Qualifications: (1) Applicants should hold a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Affairs, or equivalent degree by July 2018. (2) Demonstrated research experience.

Preferred Qualifications: (1) Knowledge of Narrative Policy Framework, hazards, and risk communication. (2) Experience interviewing and conducting surveys. (3) Strong background in mixed methods. (4) Consideration will be given to collaborative skills and interests, and how the applicant's experience and skills complement and strengthen ongoing research for this NSF project.

Physical demands: With or without reasonable accommodation, the person in this position must be able to: (1) Travel to Australia for fieldwork. (2) Traverse uneven ground and travel to field sites.

Screening of applications will begin on or before November 15, 2017; however, applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled.

To apply, please submit your a cover letter indicating your interest in the position and a curriculum vitae that also lists three references. Applicants should submit their materials through MSU: <https://jobs.montana.edu/postings/10011>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3639

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Policy at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2018 pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2018. We seek applications from candidates with research and teaching interests in Public Policy. Candidates from across all subfields of Political Science and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Areas of particular interest for the department include environmental policy, political economy, public health, race, gender and social justice. Individuals with cross-cutting disciplinary and/or methodological interests are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in Public Policy and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and letters from at least three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries please contact: Public Policy Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students. The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to diversifying its work force. Applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3643

Columbia UniversityRank: Lecturer in DisciplineSubfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Columbia University
 School of International and Public Affairs
 Lecturer in Discipline
 Comparative Social Policy and International Political Economy

School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track, renewable position of Lecturer in Discipline in the fields of comparative social policy and international political economy, to begin July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a demonstrated record of accomplishment in teaching and research related to comparative social policy and international political economy and, preferably, comparative urban policy. Research interests or practice should be policy-relevant. Master's degree or equivalent degree required. Ph.D. and/or relevant professional experience at senior level strongly preferred.

Applicants should be qualified to teach courses related to comparative social policy, international political economy and comparative urban policy in demanding Master's degree programs in international and public affairs. There also is a strong preference for candidates who are qualified to teach a workshop in writing and presentation skills for Master's degree students.

Please visit our online application site at:

<https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65346>

for further information about this position and to submit your application.

Screening of the candidates will begin as soon as possible. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@sipa.columbia.edu.

The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of SIPA's academic community.

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs brings together an interdisciplinary faculty to conduct research in policy-related fields and train students at the master's and doctoral level for careers in global public policy.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Applications from women and underrepresented minorities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 10/16/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3625Virginia Tech*Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Governance Theory/International Policy TheorySubfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor
 Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
 College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
 Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Governance/International Policy Theory with an emphasis on human security/governance and sub-specializations in critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area. (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in global governance theory/international policy theory. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in human security, critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching global governance, international policy, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170154, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Karen Hult (khult@vt.edu), chairs, Global Governance Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Major Williams Hall, Room 531 (0130), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3607

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Postcolonial Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor
Postcolonial Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Postcolonial Theory and Global Governance/Globalization Theory with an emphasis on human security and sub-specializations in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in postcolonial theory and global governance/globalization theory with an emphasis on human security. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching postcolonial, global governance/globalization, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170155, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than 4 academic references. Screening of applications will begin January 5, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Timothy W. Luke (twluke@vt.edu), chairs, Postcolonial Theory Search Committee, ASPECT, Major Williams Hall, Room 202 (0192), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3608

Ludwig Maximilians Universitaet, Center for Advanced Studies

Rank: Fellowship in the CAS Research Group "Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions"

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Call for Applications

Fellowships in the CAS Research Group "Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions"
Center for Advanced Studies, LMU Munich

The Center for Advanced Studies at LMU Munich <http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/index.html> is a forum for intensive international academic exchange. Its purpose is to promote cooperation with national and international Visiting Fellows who work closely on collaborative projects with LMU professors. In order to intensify cooperation between researchers at LMU Munich and leading experts from other universities, the Center has set up a major program, the CAS Research Groups http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/research_groups/index.html.

The CAS Research Group "Power Shifts and Institutional Change in International Institutions" http://www.en.cas.uni-muenchen.de/research_groups/upcoming_rg/rg_zangl/index.html is initiated by Bernhard Zangl (Political Sciences) and will commence work in October 2018.

The CAS Research Group will study the adaptation of international institutions to shifts in the global distribution of power. As powers such as China rise and powers such as the US decline, international institutions such as the IMF, the WTO or the UN come under pressure to adapt to new power realities. Yet, the pathways to institutional adaptation vary considerably. In some cases, adaptation comes through a pathway of power bargaining, but in other cases, pathways of strategic cooptation or rhetorical coercion prevail. What is more, sometimes attempts of institutional adaptation are successful and sometimes they fail. The CAS Research Group therefore investigates the conditions under which different pathways to institutional adaptation are taken as well as the pathway-specific conditions for the success or failure of institutional adaptation. The group's initial proposition is that depending on whether power shifts involve revisionist or reformist powers and depending on whether power shifts imply hard or soft power, the resulting pathways to institutional adaptation will take the shape of power bargaining, strategic cooptation or rhetorical coercion, which in turn feature specific conditions for the success or failure of institutional adaptation. Taking this proposition as a starting point, the research group seeks to develop a power shift theory of institutional adaptation, which will be assessed in case studies on power shifts in a variety of international institutions. The Research Group aims at publishing its results as a special issue of a high-ranking International Relations Journal or as an edited volume of a high-quality University Press.

The CAS Research Group will bring together internationally renowned researchers who are invited to LMU Munich to contribute to the group's research, i.e. to the development of a power shift theory of institutional adaptation and/or the empirics of power shifts in (one or several) international institutions. Applications from senior and junior researchers are equally welcome. The Center for Advanced Studies will provide financing and organizational support for visits of between four weeks and nine months during the period between October 2018 and September 2019. Travel and accommodation will be paid for and an expense allowance or other compensation (according to individual agreement) will be provided to cover operating costs or as recompense for any loss of income sustained. Guests will receive a workspace in the Center and will have access to all its facilities. Visiting researchers will find an open and stimulating research environment in an interdisciplinary setting.

Applications should consist of a brief outline (1-2 pages) of the expertise, field of exchange and intended contribution to the CAS Research Group. Applications should also contain relevant credentials and a résumé including a list of the most recent publications. In order to strengthen the role of women in research, female scholars are strongly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all the application documents electronically (in one PDF file) by 10 December 2017 to

Email: Bernhard.Zangl@LMU.de

Prof. Dr. Bernhard Zangl
Geschwister-Scholl-Institut für Politikwissenschaft
Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München
Oettingenstraße 67
80538 München
Germany

For any questions on the CAS Research Groups please contact Dr. Julia Schreiner at CAS:

Email: Julia.Schreiner@cas.lmu.de

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3601

Northeastern University

Rank: Network Science - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: Health Care, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Communication

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars in Network Science with an expected start date of Fall 2018. Candidates at all ranks are welcome. Areas of interest are open. We are especially interested in candidates with expertise in economics, statistical methods, and social media analysis. The position includes an appointment in one of the social science units in CSSH (Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Criminal Justice, and/or Public Policy) as well as affiliation with the Network Science Institute (www.networkscienceinstitute.org/). Cross-departmental appointments within CSSH are possible as are cross-college appointments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record or promise of one and will join an outstanding interdisciplinary community representing 7 departments, including Political Science, Physics, Computer Science, Business, Health Science, Communications, and Mathematics. The individual filling this position will contribute to our distinctive PhD program in Network Science, which is currently the only NetSci graduate program in the US and will teach courses at all levels of Network Science as well as in their domain area.

Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

To apply, please go to

<http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to d.lazer@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3603

Azusa Pacific University

Rank: Faculty Director - Center for Public Affairs

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is seeking applicants for a founding director for the Center for Public Affairs in Sacramento, California. The director will be responsible for teaching a combination of public administration and/or public policy courses and establishing study away internship opportunities in the Sacramento area within government and non-profit agencies. The director will also be responsible for developing and directing an externally-accredited Master's program in Public Administration (MPA).

Candidates should possess an earned Ph.D. in Political Science or Government or Public Administration, and maintain a strong commitment to Christian higher education. The appointment could begin as soon as January 2018, although a later start date may be negotiated with the dean.

Responsibilities:

- Promote the mission and purpose of the Center for Public Affairs among campus faculty, administrators, students, and external partners;
- In conjunction with with the dean of CLAS and other university officials, expand the network of partners, donors, and alumni in order to augment the influence of the Center on campus and around the state;
- Coordinate internship opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students and direct the corresponding internship courses;
- Develop curricula for an externally-accredited MPA program;

- Teach 6 units of public administration and/or public policy courses each semester;
- Identify adjunct instructors to assist with undergraduate and graduate-level coursework;
- Develop, plan, and coordinate outreach events for Center activities, such as a speaker series, donor visits, and interactions with public officials;
- Assist with the development of a communication publication that highlights Center activities and influence;
- Manage the program budget and coordinate fundraising efforts, including grant solicitations and other funding proposals
- Advise and mentor students;
- Integrate Christian faith in all aspects of instruction and service;
- Maintain an active scholarly research agenda.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or Government or Public Administration. A commitment to teaching excellence and a scholarly research agenda. A demonstrated, vibrant Christian faith compatible with the mission of Azusa Pacific University.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3588

Northeastern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: International Security, Civil Rights & Liberties, Science & Technology

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor College of Social Sciences & Humanities Northeastern University

Responsibilities

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, tenure/tenure-track, in the area(s) of cyber security, privacy, ethics, and resilience (all broadly defined), with an expected start date of Fall 2018. We welcome applications from scholars working in any combination of these areas and are especially interested in those that focus on key issues in cybersecurity and privacy as they relate to applied ethics, human behavior, economics, institutions and policy. Interdisciplinary expertise in computational methods, data science, social science and/or humanities is preferred. This is an interdisciplinary position and candidates will be considered for joint appointments across suitable colleges and departments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record and demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership and interdisciplinary collaboration.

The position will facilitate cross-college teaching, research and collaboration between the College of Social Sciences and Humanities and the College of Computer and Information Science. The position will also support the University's commitment to innovation in teaching and contribute to the Cybersecurity & Privacy Institute (<https://cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/>), the Global Resilience Institute (<https://globalresilience.northeastern.edu/>), and/or the Security & Resilience Studies program (<https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/polisci/security-resilience-studies/>). The candidate who fills this position will share the college's commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a PhD or its equivalent at the time of appointment.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

How to Apply

Applicants should submit a CV and letter of interest along with the names of three references. Candidates will be notified before their references are contacted. Full dossiers will be requested for first-round interviews.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Rory Smead at r.smead@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3599

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FULL-TIME CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSORS Liberal Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Philosophy & Theory, Gender Politics & Policy

FULL-TIME CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSORS

Liberal Studies

ARTS AND SCIENCE

New York University

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for three full-time Clinical Assistant Professor positions to begin September 1, 2018, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Liberal Studies is an interdisciplinary unit, with a faculty from a broad range of disciplinary backgrounds. Liberal Studies offers the Bachelor of Arts in Global Liberal Studies, one of NYU's premier liberal arts degrees. LS includes an innovative, two-year global core curriculum, where students may also complete their degrees in any of NYU's liberal arts divisions.

We seek colleagues in the following areas who will, as needed, teach both advanced classes in the fields of specialization listed and courses in the global core:

Environmental Science

PhD in Environmental Science or related field; ability to teach courses on global environmental policy, the intersection of science and policy, and similar issues welcome.

Social and Political Philosophy or Political Theory

PhD in Philosophy, History, or Politics, with a focus on contemporary international political theory and/or global justice. Ability to teach our introductory survey courses in pre-modern periods (Social Foundations I and II) is desirable.

Feminist Ethics

PhD in philosophy, sociology, gender and/or women's studies, history, political theory, or religious studies. Broad global/chronological scope and ability to teach our introductory survey courses in pre-modern periods (Social Foundations I and II) is desirable.

Minimum qualifications: a Ph.D. or other appropriate terminal degree in hand by the date of appointment; three years of college-level teaching experience; and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Publications and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are strongly encouraged.

All Liberal Studies full-time faculty hold renewable term contracts, initially three years, and later potentially five years in duration. There is no limit to the number of times a contract may be renewed, contingent upon satisfactory performance. Faculty normally teach three classes per semester. Faculty also are expected to remain engaged in their fields of expertise, to advise undergraduates, and to contribute service to Liberal Studies and to the University. Faculty are eligible for promotion within the Clinical faculty ranks to Clinical Associate and Clinical Professor based on LS and University criteria that includes duration of appointment, teaching excellence, and professional development.

Applications consisting ONLY of a cover letter and a current c.v. should be submitted by midnight, November 12th, 2017, Eastern Standard Time (US). Applications submitted after this date will not be considered. Full instructions for submitting an application and additional information about these positions and about Liberal Studies may be found in an extended position description at:

<https://www.nyu.edu/projects/mediamosaic/1718LSJobs/>

Or you may apply directly through the following links:

Environmental Science - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45434>

Social and Political Philosophy or Political Theory - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45436>

Feminist Ethics - <https://apply.interfolio.com/45437>

Liberal Studies offers a global liberal arts curriculum at sites around the globe in the context of a leading research university. We seek scholar/educators of the highest caliber whose work reflects an interest in global diversity. Liberal Studies strongly encourages applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion, please read here: <http://as.nyu.edu/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/12/2017

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3582

California State University, Northridge

Rank: Part Time Lecturer

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

FACULTY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

PART-TIME (formerly AA-6)

Department: Political Science Effective Date of Appointment: Spring 2018

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

For more information about the University, visit our website at: <http://www.csun.edu>

Anticipated Needs:

Instructors for face-to-face Washington, D.C.-based classes in support of the CSUN in DC Internship Program. Specific classes are listed below:

Note: All part-time faculty appointments are temporary and do not confer academic rank. Final determination of part-time teaching assignments is contingent upon student enrollment figures and funding.

Qualifications

- 1) Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field in hand or must be in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy or must have at least 10 years of professional experience working in government, politics, non-profit management, or advocacy. Applicants who are in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy must have passed the comprehensive examination for the Ph.D. in their field.
- 2) A demonstrated ability and commitment to diversity and to teach/mentor a diverse student population.
- 3) University teaching experience is strongly preferred.

Courses or Specialization Current Salary Range
(Specify time if appropriate) Fractional Amount of Base Salary
($4757 - $5971)
Paid in 6 Monthly Installments

Upper division courses in:

- (1) POLS 486SOC. Social Science Career Internship
- (2) POLS 494I/A. Political Science Internship
- (3) POLS 496DC. DC Politics, Culture, and History
- (4) POLS 496PR. Professional Development in DC

Application Process:

Applicants should forward a current resume, a cover letter, a sample syllabus, evidence of teaching effectiveness and the attached checklist indicating which course(s) they are interested in teaching. The resume should include educational background, prior teaching experience, evidence of scholarship, and/or related professional experience. Candidates must be available to teach classes face-to-face in the D.C. metro area.

Inquiries and applications should be addressed to:

Dr. David Leitch
Chair and Eugene C. Price Professor
Department of Political Science
California State University, Northridge
18111 Nordhoff St.
Northridge, CA 91330-8254

Application Deadline:

For Spring Semester 2018 Only: October 31, 2017

General Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Northridge has made crime-reporting statistics available on-line here. Print copies are available by request from the Department of Police Services, the Office for Faculty Affairs, and the Office of Equity and Diversity.

The person holding this position may be considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

CSUN is an Equal Opportunity Employer and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, and disability. Our nondiscrimination policy is set forth in CSU Executive Order 1096. Reasonable accommodations will be provided for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose by contacting Recruitment Services at (818) 677-2101.

Department of Political Science
Temporary/Part-Time Teaching Interests Checklist– Spring 2018
Name of Applicant: _____

v PLEASE INDICATE COURSES YOU ARE INTERESTED IN TEACHING:

___ 486SOC Social and Science Career Internship
___ 494I/IA Political Science Internship
___ 496DC DC Politics, Culture, and History
___ 496PR Professional Development in DC

C o m m e n t s: _____

Application material required:

1. This form completed
2. CV
3. Sample syllabus
4. Copies of teaching evaluations or
5. Letter of recommendation if you have not previously taught

Mail to:
Dr. David Leitch, Chair and Eugene C. Price Professor
Department of Political Science
California State University, Northridge
18111 Nordhoff Street
Northridge, CA 91330-8254

Application Deadline: For Spring 2018: October 31, 2017

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 10/31/2017
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3575

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor American Politics

Specializations: Latino Politics, African American Politics, Women & Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Florida invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-earning Assistant Professor position at its main Orlando Campus in the field of American Politics, with an anticipated start date of August 2018. Preferred subfields in American politics are public policy, race, ethnicity, gender, or identity politics. The successful candidate will be expected to teach research methods. It is expected that some courses will be taught online. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field from an accredited institution by the time of appointment required.

The University of Central Florida (UCF) is a research-intensive university with a diverse enrollment in excess of 66,000 students. Information about UCF may be found at www.ucf.edu. The Political Science department has approximately 1,300 undergraduates in the Political Science and International & Global Studies majors combined, as well as several minors. The department also offers an M.A. in Political Science and a Ph.D. in Security Studies. The Kurdish Political Studies Program, the India Center, the Prince Mohammed bin Fahd Program for Strategic Research and Studies, and the Lou Frey Institute of Politics & Government, as well as the Intelligence Community Center for Academic Excellence are all housed in the Political Science department. We value the perspectives and contributions of a diverse student and faculty body.

Interested applicants must apply using the UCF online application system at <https://www.jobswithucf.com> by November 16, 2017. Applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, syllabi of any courses taught as instructor of record, student evaluations (where available), a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation. All materials other than reference letters must be uploaded to the online submission system. Note: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be attached at that time. Once the online submission process is finalized, ~~the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents~~ at a later date. Reference letters can be emailed to Politics@ucf.edu, or mailed to: Attn: Dr. Terri Susan Fine, Assistant Professor Search Committee Chair, 4297 Andromeda Loop N., Howard Phillips Hall 302, Orlando, FL 32816. All materials must be postmarked no later than November 16, 2017. Questions can be addressed to the Assistant Professor Search Committee Chair, at the mailing address or email address listed above.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/16/2017
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3573

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: International Affairs Fellowship Programs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Foreign Policy

The Council on Foreign Relations' (CFR) is seeking applicants for the 2018-2019 fellowship programs. Each fellowship offers unique opportunities for mid-career scholars and practitioners who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy. Fellows are recruited year-round and come from a wide variety of fields, such as academia, business, government, media, NGOs, and think tanks. The duration of each fellowship is generally twelve months, and the program offers a competitive stipend. CFR is seeking applicants for the following 2018-2019 programs:

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP

The International Affairs Fellowship aims to bridge the gap between the study and making of U.S. foreign policy by creating the next generation of scholar-practitioners. The program offers its fellows the unique chance to experience a new field and gain a different perspective at a pivotal moment in their careers. Academics are thus placed in public service and policy-oriented settings, while government officials are placed in scholarly settings. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens, be mid-career professionals, possess a strong record of professional achievement, and have a firm grounding in the field of foreign policy. The program awards a stipend of $100,000. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in March.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP FOR TENURED INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS SCHOLARS

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars, sponsored by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, offers tenured professors of U.S. foreign policy and international relations direct experience in the foreign policymaking field through placement in a U.S. government agency or international organization for a period of twelve months. The program will match 50% of the fellow's base salary for the academic year at their university (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year). The fellowship is open to tenured professors who hold a PhD, have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university, propose to work on peace and security issues, and have never worked at a U.S. government agency or an international organization. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN CANADA

The International Affairs Fellowship in Canada, sponsored by the Power Corporation of Canada, seeks to strengthen mutual understanding and cooperation between rising generations of leaders and thinkers in the United States and Canada. Fellows are drawn from academia, business, government, media, NGOs, and think tanks. CFR will work with its network of contacts to assist the fellows in finding suitable host organizations in Canada. The fellowship is only open to mid-career professionals who have demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Canada relations. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens and have a strong record of professional achievement. The program awards a stipend of $95,000 for a period of twelve months as well as a modest travel allowance. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN JAPAN

The International Affairs Fellowship in Japan, sponsored by Hitachi, Ltd., provides a selected group of mid-career U.S. citizens the opportunity to expand their professional horizons by spending a period of research or other professional activity in Japan. The IAF in Japan is only open to mid-career professionals who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Japan relations. The program is intended primarily for those without substantial prior experience in Japan, and knowledge of the Japanese language is not a requirement. Qualified candidates must be U.S. citizens. The duration of the fellowship is between three and twelve months. The program awards a stipend in yen, which covers travel and living expenses in Japan. CFR awards approximately three to five fellowships annually. The online application deadline is October 31, 2017.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS FELLOWSHIP IN INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS

The International Affairs Fellowship in International Economics, sponsored by Kimberly Querrey, provides the next generation of economic scholars and business economist hands-on experience in the policymaking field. Through the program, fellows expand their range of thinking and apply their work to international economic policy. Possible host placements for the fellowship include but are not limited to the U.S. Department of the Treasury, U.S. Department of Commerce, and relevant parts of the U.S. Department of State and the White House. A stipend in the range of $150,000 to $175,000 is awarded along with relocation assistance. The fellowship is only open to mid-career business economists and university-based economics scholars who have demonstrated commitment to a career in international economics or a related field. Qualified applicants must be U.S. citizens and hold a PhD in economics or a closely related discipline. Interested applicants should apply on CFR's website by October 31, 2017. Official selections will be made in December.

STANTON NUCLEAR SECURITY FELLOWSHIP

The Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship Program, made possible by a generous grant from the Stanton Foundation, offers young scholars studying nuclear security issues the opportunity to spend a period of twelve months at CFR offices in New York or Washington, DC, conducting policy-relevant research. Qualified candidates must be postdoctoral fellows or junior faculty in a tenure-track position at a recognized university. Junior faculty at law schools or with a law degree as their terminal degree are also eligible. The program awards a stipend of $110,000 for junior faculty and $80,000 for postdoctoral fellows. The application deadline is December 15, 2017.

For more information, please contact fellowships@cfr.org or 212.434.9740.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3568

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Immigration Policy Lab, Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Position: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (www.immigrationlab.org). The Immigration Policy Lab conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and cutting-edge analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can inspire solutions and ultimately improve lives.

The Immigration Policy Lab reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of projects related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, Jeremy Weinstein, and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. Additionally, the postdoc will work closely with faculty, staff and partner organizations in developing and designing innovative policies and programs to pilot and evaluate. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects related to immigration policy evaluation.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science program, with a preference for Political Science, Economics, or Sociology. She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Appointment: The initial appointment will be for one year beginning between January and June 2018, with an expected renewal for a second year contingent on satisfactory performance and funding. Salary is negotiable and based on experience. Benefits are provided. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications will only be accepted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10036>, ID 10036). Applications should be submitted by November 17, 2017, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2017).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3569

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2018-2019

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the ten-month 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2018-2019 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req number D-18-WWS-00013 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4161>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3564

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for the 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2018-2019 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2018-2019 should apply to req number D-18-WWS-00014. <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4221>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3563

Rider University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Intelligence, Criminal Justice, International Security

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

Rider University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of homeland security politics with emphases on counter terrorism, intelligence studies, public policy, crime, or national security to start Fall 2018. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, or related discipline, be broadly trained, have strong communication skills, a commitment to both teaching and research in the liberal arts environment, the ability to establish a research program that can engage undergraduate and graduate students and be able to teach courses on any of the following areas: military operations, law enforcement policy at the national level, disaster management, conflict management, counter-terrorism, intelligence gathering, national preparedness for conventional, hybrid, unconventional war or homeland security policy challenges. Prior teaching experience and post-doctoral research are desirable. Field experience is also preferable.

The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of culturally diverse backgrounds. Applicants should be experienced with, and committed to work in and with, such a diverse population. Rider University is a private, coeducational university of nearly 4,500 students located between Philadelphia and New York, near Princeton, New Jersey. Rider is ranked in the top tier of northern regional universities offering master's degrees by US News and World Report and is ranked as "A Best 378 College" by the Princeton Review.

All applicants must complete an on-line application at www.rider.edu/hr, 'Employment Opportunities'; 'Create Application'; and attach letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and a detailed statement of research interests, plans, goals, and needs. Undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation also are required and can be sent separately to:

Associate Director, Human Resources, 2083 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648. Please reference Position # 312261.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 3558

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3560

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia 2018-19
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics
Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2018–2019 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2018–19 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral by July 31, 2018) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate of $52,000 plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2018–19 academic year.

Applications must be received by December 20, 2017. For additional information and to apply, visit: <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/20/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3528

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&cjobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osullivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

University of Rochester

Rank: Faculty

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Program in Public Health-Related Majors in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rochester is conducting an open rank faculty search for a scholar specializing in the historical, social, political, and/or ethical dimensions of health policy. The program seeks outstanding candidates who work at the boundaries between public health, the humanities, and the social sciences and who are able to engage with multiple audiences, both inside and outside of the University. This will be a tenure-track appointment in one of several appropriate departments in Arts and Sciences at the level of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor.

The candidate should be prepared to:

1. Maintain an active program of research and scholarship on health policy. Applicants should have an established record of research and publication commensurate with their rank and their field of expertise.
2. Take an active role in the Steering Committee and academic advising for the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, as well as in the functioning of the home academic department.
3. Teach an introductory-level overview of the U.S. health care system and upper-level courses on US health care policy and/or global health issues for the program, as well as courses for the home department.

The interdisciplinary Program in Public Health-Related Majors requires students to examine health and health care through many different lenses: anthropological, psychological, historical, epidemiological, economic, political, and ethical. The members of the Steering Committee collaborate to oversee the five majors in the program: Bioethics; Epidemiology; Environmental Health; Health Policy; and Health, Behavior, and Society. The Steering Committee insures that students get a consistent and rigorous liberal arts education. In addition, it actively seeks to expand the curriculum by soliciting new course offerings from faculty across the university who can address emerging issues in health and health care and develop innovative programs that engage our students with both the local and the global communities.

The position is open to candidates in any academic discipline. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D in hand by July 1, 2018, and will join an appropriate department in the School of Arts and Sciences. To apply, visit www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting and submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample, and the names and contact information for three references by November 1, 2017. Please note that the job is listed under the department "Dean's Office-SAS."

For more information about the Program in Public Health-Related Majors, visit <http://www.rochester.edu/college/ph/index.html>. The University of Rochester has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups under-represented in higher education. University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Review of applications will continue until a successful candidate is identified. For more information about the position, please contact: Daniel Reichman, chair of the search committee, daniel.reichman@rochester.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3535

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

The Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab seeks an in-residence postdoctoral scholar in LGBT Policy Studies (broadly defined) for AY 18-19 and 19-20. The ideal candidate is an empirical social scientist who has an interest in studying the causes and consequences of LGBT-related public policies (e.g., same-sex marriage, non-discrimination laws, 'bathroom bills', religious freedom restoration acts, and others) on a range of social, economic, political, health, education, and demographic outcomes. Experience with programming in advanced statistical packages (e.g., STATA, SAS, and/or R) and handling large datasets is required. A PhD (or equivalent) in anthropology, demography, economics, education, health services research, law/jurisprudence, LGBT studies, political science, public health, public policy, sociology, or a related field is required.

Responsibilities include:

1. Carrying out an active research program focusing on LGBT policies and populations.
2. Developing a course on LGBT policies and advocacy to be co-taught with a Vanderbilt faculty member in AY 18-19 and AY 19-20.
3. Coordinating a regular colloquium series on LGBT policies and populations.
4. Coordinating a national academic conference to be held at Vanderbilt in Spring 2020.
5. Serving as a liaison to campus and community leaders on LGBT policy topics.

With funding from a Vanderbilt Trans-Institutional Programs Award (<http://vanderbilt.edu/strategicplan/trans-institutional-programs/tipshome.php>), the LGBT Policy Lab brings together Vanderbilt experts from multiple units including: economics; education; divinity; health policy; law; medicine; MHS; political science; religious studies; and sociology. The postdoc would work closely with the PI (Kitt Carpenter) and related faculty.

The fellowship term is 7/1/2018-6/30/2020. The position carries a twelve-month salary of $55,000, a $5,000 research fund, office space, health insurance, and eligibility for other benefits (<https://gradschool.vanderbilt.edu/postdoctoral/postdoctoral-scholars/benefits.php>). This in-residence position requires a physical presence in Nashville for the term of the fellowship.

Applicants should apply via Interfolio at the following link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/45287>. A complete application requires a cover letter describing the candidate's interest, a cv, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please note that the application portal references the postdoc's logistical home is in the economics department, but this search is not limited to economists, nor is it primarily targeted to economists. We strongly encourage qualified applicants from any of the above disciplines, and every effort will be made to obtain office space nearest the postdoc's main disciplinary home.

Questions about the position can be directed to Kitt Carpenter at: christopher.s.carpenter@vanderbilt.edu. Applications will be reviewed immediately.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3543

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eoo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/25/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3493

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight appointees for the 2018-2019 academic year Postdoctoral Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST
Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3901>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3469

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more candidates for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3922>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018
Date Posted: 9/21/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3471

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Program Visiting Fellow

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2018-2019 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST
 Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3921>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 12/8/2017
Date Posted: 9/21/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3468

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018
 Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3923>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;

- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3470

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Tenure Track Positions in Social Policy

We invite applications for full-time, tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor for Fall, 2018. Candidates should demonstrate a substantive specialization, such as in policy analysis, politics of public policy, economics, statistics, or management and may have a topical area of interest in fields relevant to the substantive areas such as advancing equity, health policy, poverty policy, social insurance, global policy, housing policy, environmental policy, or other some other important current or emerging policy area. Candidates should have an earned doctorate in an appropriate and relevant field; competence to teach at the master's and PhD levels; and commitment to conduct high-level research, including the production of scholarly publications and preparation of research proposals for external funding.

The Brown School at Washington University in St. Louis is committed to a 'one school' approach that integrates the disciplines of social work, public health and social policy. We currently offer a Masters in Social Policy (MSP) degree along with outstanding MSW, MPH and PhD programs in a vibrant, interdisciplinary environment that supports innovative research and excellence in teaching to achieve social impact. Diversity and Inclusion are core values at Washington University, and the strong candidate will demonstrate the ability to create inclusive classrooms and environments in which a diverse array of students can learn and thrive.

The Brown School (brownschool.wustl.edu) is home to a top-ranked school of social work, which conducts path-breaking work on social policy, social and economic development, mental health and welfare of children, youth, and families. A highly respected and accredited MPH program was added in 2008. Together with Washington University's world-class School of Medicine and campus-wide Institute for Public Health, the Brown School is a dynamic environment for transdisciplinary research and problem solving in public health.

Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications. Applications are preferred prior to October 31, 2017; however, applications will be accepted until positions are filled by suitable candidates. Early application is encouraged. Positions will be filled when suitable candidates are selected. Candidates should create a profile at jobs.wustl.edu, and apply for job ID 37846. During that process, candidates will upload a single PDF containing: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a description of their research agenda, three professional references (contact information only), and three writing samples. For questions during the application process, please contact Tiffany Phillips at facultyapps@brownschool.wustl.edu.

<https://jobs.wustl.edu>

Job ID 37846

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3444

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location:

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration:

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2018 to August 2019. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation:

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- C.V.
- One academic writing sample and one non-academic piece, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Arthur Milikh
Associate Director
B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: arthur.milikh@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3438

University of Maryland, Baltimore County

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor position beginning August 2018 to teach courses in public policy, public administration, and public management. In addition to teaching an introductory course, the successful candidate will develop a portfolio of upper-level and possibly graduate-level courses. Consistent with the department's five-year hiring plan, preference will be given to scholars with expertise in urban, health, or environmental policy, but those with expertise in other public policy, public management, and public administration topics also will be given consideration.

The department has over 250 undergraduate majors, and 15 full-time faculty members with a wide range of research and teaching interests.

Department faculty also support the MPP and PhD programs in Public Policy, an undergraduate program in Global Studies, and the Sondheim Public Affairs Scholars Program.

UMBC is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as a research university--high research activity. The university has a diverse student population of 13,640 graduate and undergraduate students and is located in the dynamic Baltimore-Washington corridor. UMBC is especially proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position.

Preference will be given to candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or Public Administration, or a nearly completed dissertation in one of these fields. Candidates must provide evidence of a focused research agenda and of high quality undergraduate teaching experience. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to fostering "inclusive excellence," by describing a commitment or experience with research with underserved and diverse populations, a capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the learning needs of students from diverse backgrounds, or other such experience or plans.

Applicants should submit their applications by November 1, 2017 for best consideration. Please submit all application materials - cover letter describing teaching and research experiences and interests, sample syllabi, and formal statement about how the candidate's experiences and interests demonstrate a commitment to "inclusive excellence" - electronically via Interfolio. Three confidential letters of recommendation should also be submitted. Required application materials and submission instructions are available at: apply.interfolio.com/44698

For questions regarding the position, contact Professor Roy Meyers, Committee Chair at meyers@umbc.edu. UMBC is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3437

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential “core” of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position. The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant’s academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)

Dear Colleagues:

The Georgia Institute of Technology’s School of Public Policy is seeking applications for a tenure-track position, assistant professor rank. We are seeking someone with a Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related field who will teach policy analysis and advise graduate students on Georgia Tech’s Atlanta campus. We welcome all qualified applicants to apply, including women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

We seek to expand our existing strengths in one of the core areas of the department, including: science, technology and innovation policy;

climate, energy and environmental policy; information and communication technologies, and cybersecurity policy; and urban economic development and smart cities. We also are expanding our expertise in the health policy area. Our work in these areas benefits from synergies with Georgia Tech’s world-class engineering, data analytics and computer science, design and planning, STEM workforce, and biomedical engineering curricula, and a tradition of interdisciplinary innovative research. Basic job duties will include teaching, research, and service activities for the school.

Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three publications; 4) research and teaching statement, including concrete descriptions of future research plans and teaching interests; and 5) names and contact information of three academic references. Please apply using the on-line application process at <https://academicjobsonline.org>. Direct any questions by email to facesearch@pubpolicy.gatech.edu with “pubpol” in the subject line. Applications are due on or before November 1, 2017.

The School of Public Policy has 31 faculty members and we instruct students in undergraduate, masters and Ph.D. programs. See our webpage at <http://spp.gatech.edu/> for more information. The Georgia Institute of Technology is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, dedicated to recruiting a diverse faculty.

Sincerely yours,

Kaye Husbands Fealing Chair, School of Public Policy

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3398

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Administration, Public Policy

Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Political Science with a specialization in Methodology.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of public administration or political science. This position will be responsible for teaching methodology courses at the graduate and undergraduate level, courses in public administration and policy at the undergraduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or State and Local Politics). The area of teaching and research specialization is open, but candidates should be comfortable teaching Introduction to Public Administration at the undergraduate level both in the online setting. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching one graduate course and two undergraduate courses each semester.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or political science, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Neff-Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu) or the MPA program director, Dr. Joe West (joe.west@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3405

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public/Non-Profit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Public Law

The Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs seeks applications and nominations for a tenure-track position as assistant professor with teaching and research interests in public policy. Primary responsibilities of the position include:

- 1) Conducting a program of research leading to scholarly publications
- 2) Teaching graduate courses in the MPA and Ph.D. programs
- 3) Internal service
- 4) Outreach activities related to research

Applicants for this position are expected to demonstrate high potential for scholarly research, publication, grant activity and teaching excellence. An earned doctorate in public policy, economics, political science, sociology or a related field is required at the time of appointment.

Screening will begin October 15th, 2017 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired. We will be conducting interviews at meetings of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management in Chicago, IL, November 2-4, 2017.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. At least three reference letters should be sent electronically to KellerW@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Chair, Truman School Recruitment Committee, Harry S Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri, 106 Middlebush Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-6100. Applicants may contact Professor Peter Mueser, Chair of the Search Committee (MueserP@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3378

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Normative Political Theory

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2018-19. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2243>. The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 6, 2017. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 9. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in early March 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3372

Hendrix College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

The Department of Politics & International Relations at Hendrix College invites applications for a tenure track position for an Assistant Professor of Public Policy to begin in August 2018. The College seeks to extend its tradition of excellence in teaching and scholarship by attracting faculty who combine mastery of their disciplines with broad intellectual interests and commitment to the aims of a liberal arts college. The successful applicant will teach the basic public policy course; one section of Research Methods; one or two upper-level, policy specific courses in the candidate's area of expertise and research interests. Candidates will also be expected to contribute to the Department's core introductory and senior research courses, as well as cultivate collaborative research and engaged learning opportunities with Hendrix students. Doctorate is expected by the start date; however, applicants who are ABD at the time of application will be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter addressing the candidate's interest in teaching in a demanding liberal arts environment; a curriculum vitae; statement of teaching interests; evidence of teaching effectiveness; graduate and undergraduate transcripts; and a statement of scholarly interests. Three letters of recommendation should be sent by e-mail to facultyrecs@hendrix.edu. Address cover letter to Dr. Daniel Whelan, Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations. All application materials must be submitted electronically at <https://goo.gl/ic5XSA>. Review of materials will begin October 16, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Hendrix is a distinguished liberal arts college located in Conway, Arkansas, thirty miles from Little Rock at the foothills of the Ozark Mountains. The College, affiliated with the United Methodist Church, has a strong commitment to excellence in teaching liberal arts. Hendrix College strives to maintain an environment free from discrimination and harassment, where employees treat each other with respect, dignity and courtesy. The College adheres to the principle of equal educational and employment opportunity without regard to age, race, color, religion, gender, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, or national origin.

The following individuals have been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies:

Shawn Goicoechea, Assistant Director of Human Resources & Title IX Coordinator 1600 Washington Ave, Conway, AR 72032 501-450-1415 goicoechea@hendrix.edu

Julie Brown, Director of Academic Success and Section 504 Coordinator, brownj@hendrix.edu (not for application questions), 501-505-2954

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3345

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2018-19

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences.

Preference will be given to those working in the areas of contemporary domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, and social/legal/economic development of China, particularly on issues related to urbanization, political/economic reform, energy/environment, social welfare, and civil society. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center throughout the academic year also required (e.g. weekly doctoral fellows workshop series). It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation during the fellowship period as well as participate in the Center's publication program. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have his/her degree conferral by June 1, 2018.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2018 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

To submit an application for the 2018-20 fellowship, please refer to <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 15, 2017 (Friday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters must be emailed directly by the recommenders. All recommendation letters must be received for full consideration.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Manager for Ash Center Fellows Programs
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1968

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3308

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in quantitative methodology, with a focus on causal inference and/or cost-benefit analysis. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, be able to teach quantitative methods and policy analysis effectively to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to an anticipated professional MA program in public policy. The candidate will also have opportunities to teach in his or her substantive area of expertise. The department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; ability to attract external funding; potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods Cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3306

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Administration

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for professor and endowed chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required.

Successful applicants will teach in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift that allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/9587>.

The committee will begin considering applications on September 15, 2017 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3287

University of Kansas

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics & Policy

The University of Kansas Political Science Department invites candidates to apply for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level in Political Science. We are interested in candidates whose work focuses on American Politics and Public Policy. The position provides collaborative research opportunities, which may include participation in interdisciplinary centers – Center for Research Methods and Data Analysis, Institute for Policy and Social Research. The position is expected to begin as early as August 18, 2018. The faculty member will be expected to research, write, and publish in American Politics and Public Policy; develop and teach courses in American Politics and Public Policy; serve on graduate student committees, direct theses and dissertations, and perform advising responsibilities; and serve on departmental, College, and University committees, and engage in professional service activities.

The University of Kansas is particularly interested in hiring faculty members who can contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, including a diversity of scholarly approaches, and four key campus-wide strategic initiatives: (1) Sustaining the Planet, Powering the World; (2) Promoting Well-Being, Finding Cures; (3) Building Communities, Expanding Opportunities; and (4) Harnessing Information, Multiplying Knowledge. For more information see <http://www.provost.ku.edu/strategic-plan/initiatives>.

We especially encourage woman and minorities to apply.

KU is a Research 1 (RU/VH) institution, the flagship of the Kansas system, and a member of the AAU. It is located in Lawrence, a thriving and progressive community a short drive from Kansas City.

Qualifications:

1. A Ph.D. in Political Science from an accredited school is expected by the start date of the appointment (08-18-2018).
2. Demonstrated ability to work in interdisciplinary and collaborative environments.
3. A proven record or demonstration for high potential in research and publications. Should demonstrate mastery of mathematical and computing skills that are requisite to success in the field of political methodology.
4. Demonstrated ability to teach effectively at undergraduate and graduate levels.

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/9684BR> or <https://employment.ku.edu> and click "Search Faculty Jobs"; search by key word [AMERICAN POLITICS]. A complete online application includes the following materials: cover letter, curriculum vitae, research samples, proof of teaching experience (e.g. course evaluations), and letters of recommendation from three professional references.

Initial review of applications will begin October 1, 2017 and will continue as long as needed to identify a qualified pool. EOE M/F/D/V.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3247

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.

4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).

5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

University of Kentucky

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Public Policy

The Martin School of Public Policy & Administration at the University of Kentucky seeks applicants for a tenure track position beginning August 2018. Rank is open. We are particularly interested in a scholar who brings a political science perspective to the study of policy formulation, implementation, and outcomes. The substantive area within public policy is open. Responsibilities will include research and teaching with a focus on masters and Ph.D. level course work and advising. The successful candidate will teach a 2-2 course load and is expected to maintain an active, high quality research agenda

Interested applicants should submit a UK Online Application at www.uky.edu/ukjobs, and search for requisition <https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/153346>.

Please include the following information when applying for this position.

1. Letter of Interest/Cover Letter
2. Current/Updated Curriculum Vitae, including list of references with contact information.
3. Research writing sample

For questions regarding the position, please contact us at msrecruiting@uky.edu. Please note that, to be considered an applicant for this position, you must submit an application via UK's online employment system.

The search will remain open until the position is filled. However, the Search Committee will begin reviewing applications immediately. For more information about the department, please visit <http://www.martin.uky.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3161

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor

Political Science: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2018-19 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major in Public Administration and courses for the MA program and have substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis; develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching, including the introduction to Public Administration and other advanced courses that contribute to the public administration major; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; take part in the undergraduate major in public administration, teach related courses for the MA program, contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with a specialty and/or an active research agenda in nonprofit organizations and have a background in quantitative methodology and "big data."

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4587>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3127

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3131

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3117

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3045

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Cyber Policy, Strategy and Security

International Relations/Comparative Politics/Cyber Policy, Strategy and Security

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the area of cyber policy, strategy and security within the field of international relations, comparative politics, economics, or public policy. Texas A&M University has invested considerable resources in the cyber realm, including standing up the Texas A&M Cybersecurity Center. The Bush School will be a central contributor to that University-wide effort, with this position playing an important role in that contribution. Candidates with research competency in cyber policy, strategy and security who specialize in areas such as international law and institutions, regulatory law, science and technology, international security, the comparative politics of information, and other relevant topics are invited to apply.

Ideally, the successful candidate would teach a required course in introductory-level research methods for our students, all of whom are seeking a master's degree in international affairs, along with offerings in the cyber area. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics or a related discipline by September 2018. The individual selected will have demonstrated a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2018.

Applicants should send a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae, a sample of written work and three letters of recommendation to:

Professor Gregory Gause

c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tamu.edu)

The Bush School of Government & Public Service

Texas A&M University

4220 TAMU

College Station, TX 77843-4220

The review of applications will begin on September 20, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Additional information is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3048

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3006

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required.

Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at

https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2988

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Graduate School of Public and International Affairs (GSPIA) at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications and nominations for two (2) tenure-stream faculty positions at the assistant professor level in public policy or public administration. Both appointments begin Fall term 2018. A PhD in public policy, public administration, public management, or social science field (political science, sociology, economics, or related field) is expected at the time of the appointment. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests related to public administration, public policy and/or public management, broadly defined. The area of specialization is open, but candidates are expected to teach in the school and program core, as well as substantive policy or management area of research. Evidence of a promising research agenda leading to high quality publications in any of the wide variety of topics related to public administration and public policy is essential. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the positions are filled. Candidates who would enhance the diversity of the school, including women and minorities, are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualified applicants can submit their materials online through email attachments (see email address below). Submitted materials should include a letter of application describing the applicant's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, two samples of scholarly writing, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations (if available):

Search Committee Chair
c/o Mary Ann Gebet, Executive Assistant to the Dean
Graduate School of Public and International Affairs
University of Pittsburgh
MPAGSPIA@pitt.edu

Applications must be submitted by November 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2985

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a position at the assistant professor rank to begin in August 2018. Area of specialization is Public Policy. Sub-specialization is open, however, the person filling this position would teach courses and advise graduate students within political science and the Fire and Emergency Management Administration programs. Overlap between these programs might include areas such as: environmental and climate change policy, natural resources, policy analysis, emergency management policy or disaster policy. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or related field is expected at the time of the appointment. The successful candidate will demonstrate the potential for both productive scholarship and effective teaching in the area of Public Policy.

Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department of Political Science has 20 full-time faculty members and offers an undergraduate major in political science, various undergraduate minors (including campaigns and lobbying, law and legal studies, intelligence and security analysis, and emergency management), an M.A. in Political Science, an M.S. in Fire and Emergency Management Administration, and a Ph.D. in Fire and Emergency Management Administration. OSU provides significant support for scholarly productivity. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester. A successful faculty candidate will be committed to creating a culturally inclusive space for their students to develop critical thinking skills that are vital in living in our diverse society and mentoring our rising undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. Currently, 35 percent of our undergraduate majors and 33 percent of our graduate students are either minority or international scholars. The department encourages applications from women and minorities. Among our faculty currently, 20 percent are minority or international scholars and 40 percent are female.

Interested applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, evidence of successful teaching and scholarship, and statements of teaching and research interests. The application package, compiled as a single pdf file, should be uploaded to the application portal at <https://okstate.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?id=3593://okstate.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?id=3593/a> Letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts can also be sent to cindy.hutchinson@okstate.edu >; cindy.hutchinson@okstate.edu. Please direct any academic inquiries to the search chair, Rebekah Herrick. Review of applications will commence on September 01, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. However, only complete applications will be assured of full consideration.

Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. 41 CFR 60-1.35(c)

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2959

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Urban Politics, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Urban Studies, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and urban government and politics. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in urban policy and/or local government. Particular area(s) of specialization may include poverty, racial segregation, transportation, housing, infrastructure, homelessness, crime, education, collaborative governance, and/or economic development.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 6/26/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2920

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2747