

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

February 2018 | Volume 7, Issue 2

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 14
Comparative Politics 44
International Relations 73
Methodology 108
Non-Academic 122
Other 123
Political Theory 146
Public Administration 164
Public Law 173
Public Policy 178

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

February 2018 | Volume 7, Issue 2

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (14 listings)

American Government and Politics 14 (62 listings)

Comparative Politics 44 (59 listings)

International Relations 73 (73 listings)

Methodology 108 (29 listings)

Non-Academic 122 (1 listings)

Other 123 (36 listings)

Political Theory 146 (33 listings)

Public Administration 164 (15 listings)

Public Law 173 (10 listings)

Public Policy 178 (31 listings)

Total listings this issue 363

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for February

ADMINISTRATION

University of California, Irvine

Rank: EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, NATIONAL CENTER OF FREE SPEECH & CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

JOB SUMMARY

The Executive Director of the National Center for Free Speech and Civic Engagement serves as lead strategist for the initiative, with broad authority on behalf of the UCI Chancellor to organize and implement the programmatic aims, represent the Center to the Advisory Board, UC leadership, faculty and fellows of the Center, external constituents, and other stakeholders in Washington, DC, California, and across the nation. The Executive Director is responsible for both program management and execution of the initiatives key activities, and for designing program activities to successfully launch the Fellows program, national conferences, serve as liaison to UCI, UC Office of the President, other UC campuses, and other universities and organizations engaged in shaping the national dialog about free speech.

The position requires a high degree of independent action and works in close collaboration with the UCI Chancellor to realize the initiative aims. The incumbent must have excellent communication, collaboration, and coordination skills in a complex organization that includes UCI in Irvine, California, the UCDC center in Washington and the UC Office of the President in Oakland, California.

The incumbent will serve in an ex-officio capacity on the Advisory Board for the Center.

The Executive Director will plan and execute the Center's activities based in the UCDC Center in Washington, DC with significant communication and liaison with the UCI Chancellor, the UC Office of the President and the Advisory Board co-chair at UC Berkeley.

This is a 3-year contract position, with a possibility of extension and will be primarily located in Washington, D.C.

The National Center for Free Speech and Civic Engagement is an initiative of the University of California launched to engage in current national debates about the First Amendment and the role of universities, college students, and the public in relation to free speech and civic engagement. The Center seeks to foster examination of major issues arising concerning freedom of speech on campuses, provide tools and education to increase civil discourse and civic engagement, and assist colleges and universities in dealing with the difficult issues concerning free speech and civic engagement on campus. The Center will achieve these aims through a teaching and research fellowship program, national conferences, and other activities consistent with the initiative. The Center will be overseen by UCI Chancellor Howard Gillman in collaboration with an Advisory Board co-chaired by UC Berkeley Law Dean Erwin Chemerinsky.

Salary: Commensurate with experience

Career Position.

REQUIRED

- Bachelor's degree in related area and/or equivalent experience/training.
- Demonstrated knowledge and background on issues concerning freedom of speech.
- Demonstrated leadership experience, especially in designing and implementing a program.
- Knowledge of the legal constraints and opportunities for higher education in the State of California and through Federal programs and regulations.
- Knowledge of the organizational environment of higher education and large research universities to understand client priorities, issues, motivations and constraints.

- Working knowledge of organization and system-wide organizational reporting structure, as well as an understanding of the interactive roles of management throughout the organization.

DESIRED

- Advanced degree preferred.
- Expert knowledge of organizational processes, protocols and procedures preferred.

To review a complete job description and apply, please follow this link: Executive Director, National Center of Free Speech & Civic Engagement (https://staffing2.hr.uci.edu/CSS_External/CSSPage_Referred.ASP?Req=2018-0100) visit UCI's job site at <http://jobs.uci.edu> and search job 2018-0100.

About the University of California, Irvine: Founded in 1965, UCI is the youngest member of the prestigious Association of American Universities. The campus has produced three Nobel laureates and is known for its academic achievement, premier research, innovation and anteater mascot. Led by Chancellor Howard Gillman, UCI has more than 30,000 students and offers 192 degree programs. It's located in one of the world's safest and most economically vibrant communities and is Orange County's second-largest employer, contributing $5 billion annually to the local economy. For more on UCI, visit www.uci.edu.

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Apply Here: https://staffing2.hr.uci.edu/CSS_External/CSSPage_Referred.ASP?Req=2018-0100

PI100987378

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3998

Arizona State University

Rank: Director (Professor of Practice FSC)

Arizona State University, College of Public Service and Community Solutions is seeking a Director, (Professor of Practice FSC) to lead the Design Studio for Community Solutions.

The Design Studio for Community Solutions functions as a bridge between the design resources of the university and the wider Phoenix metropolitan region and addressing the central role of design and place making in the achievement of progressive, sustainable urbanism. It accomplishes this through lectures, conferences, symposia, exhibitions, research, coursework, studios, and publications.

The Design Studio for Community Solutions

- Embrace a systems-view of the city – the city will be studied as a complex adaptive systems that embraces the diversity of agents, objects, and institutions that reside and interact with the city.
- Co-create innovative solutions with citizens, the public, non-profit, and the private sector to solve complex urban challenges and realize opportunities for the betterment of the city and the quality of life of its residents.

- Provide an open space for community experimentation and dialogue to plan, design, and discuss solutions to create a physical and intellectual forum space for communities and individuals, thereby allowing for iterative and collaborative learning opportunities for all stakeholders.
- Cultivate a living lab for students to work in a 'living-lab' context.
- Inform and improve best practice in planning, design, engineering, development, law, sustainability, public policy, informatics, public administration, decision science, and GIS.
- Establish and maintain a structured, yet agile, methodology for identification, qualification, and pursuit of projects, both in tactical and strategic timeframes.
- Develop and sustain a flexible funding stream that is supplemented by project-specific funding.
- Adhere to an organizational framework that is neither "top down" nor "bottom up," but both.
- Provide value to all stakeholders as a clearinghouse that draws upon all ASU units and repository of urban interests within the University, thus defusing competition interests and redundancy.
- Serve as a vehicle for integration and collaboration, both within the University and with other, similar entities – locally and internationally.

Director Responsibilities:

- Design and launch new program that blend various services, practitioners and policymakers and research.
- Apply technical knowledge and expertise to the development of new crosscutting programs and/or participate in enhancing existing crosscutting programs of work.
- Design and host convening's and other outreach to build new programs of work.
- Work closely with senior scholars and resource development colleagues to develop compelling concepts for funding strategic initiatives and growing research programs.
- Coordinate with scholars to identify upcoming opportunities to build support for strategic initiatives and research programs and provide coaching on pitch and approach.
- Serve as the proposal director for other key strategic initiatives, and ensure that research and policy teams create a competitive proposal and maintain collaborative and productive relationships.
- Oversee and collaborate with key stakeholders to make key decisions regarding both the technical and cost components of proposals.
- Remain informed and up-to-date on major donor trends, policies, and procurement opportunities.
- Collaborate closely with scholars to strengthen Design Studio for Community Solutions program development capacity, by working with and managing other stakeholders that develop trainings and host brown bags on key topics such as program development, translating research to policy and practice, developing evidence-informed policy recommendations.
- Advise research colleagues on strategies to engage philanthropy in thought partnerships.
- Partner with research colleagues in thought partnerships with philanthropy.
- Establish and maintain effective relationships with key donors.
- Represent PURL to key external audiences and networks.

Required Qualifications

- Master's degree in Public Policy or a related field; or the academic knowledge of and experience in a discipline that is generally associated with the attainment of a Master's degree.

Desired Qualifications

- Ph.D. is valued but not required.
- Senior management experience with a minimum 10 years of experience designing and managing programs and mobilizing resources and engaging diverse constituencies.
- Demonstrated track record in securing funding.
- Demonstrated skill in brokering partnerships and aligning the interests and goals of diverse stakeholder groups
- Highly developed proposal-writing skills with the ability to develop programs for philanthropic investment.
- Highly developed critical thinking to craft approaches to secure new funding opportunities.
- Established networks within/familiarity with research, policy and donor community.
- Excellent writing and verbal communication skills to distill complicated concepts into clear, consistent, and direct messages to a diverse audience.
- Proven ability to think and act strategically, and mobilize support for a vision.
- Policy and research programming experience and perspective preferred, including ability to work productively with a diverse range of researchers.
- Strong interpersonal skills, ability to work effectively in teams.

Academic and non-academic candidates will be considered.

The first review of applications will begin on (March 2, 2018); and every week thereafter until the search is closed. Please feel free to contact Dean Jonathan Koppell (Koppell@asu.edu) with questions.

Application Procedure

To apply, visit <https://publicservice.asu.edu/content/jobs> and upload your application as one combined pdf document.

- Letter of interest outlining qualifications and experience as it relates to this position
- Curriculum vitae
- Information for three professional references (their position, title, e-mail, phone number)

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or any other basis protected by law. For complete statements on ASU's non-discrimination policies, please refer to go to: <http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>.

ASU offers applicants an opportunity to voluntarily self-disclose information for the University affirmative action plan; applicants may complete an EEO survey for the position they are applying for online. Information you will need to complete the survey: Job Number: 12270. Job Title: Director, Department Name: College of Public Service and Community Solutions

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3957

Bentley University

Rank: Dean of Arts & Sciences

Bentley is launching its search for a new dean of arts & sciences. The next dean will have an unprecedented and exciting platform from which to shape not only the future of Bentley University but to influence the future of undergraduate education in our nation and beyond.

The next dean will be an articulate and compelling spokesperson for the importance of the arts and sciences to an exceptional business education as well as to the intellectual and civic development of students. Reporting to the provost, the next dean will oversee eight academic departments and work closely with an outstanding faculty and staff, providing inspirational leadership to forge new initiatives and unite an academic community to address institutional challenges.

Who we are looking for

The successful candidate will bring a strong record of scholarship, a demonstrated commitment to education, strong management and operational experience and the interpersonal and relationship-building skills to help Bentley realize its strategic goals. Read the full leadership profile: https://www.bentley.edu/files/2018/01/07/Bentley_Dean_of_Arts_and_Sciences_Leadership_Profile.pdf

How to apply

Inquiries, nominations and applications are invited. For fullest consideration, applicant materials should be received as soon as possible but no later than February 16, 2018. Candidates should provide a CV, a letter of application and the names of five references. References will not be contacted without prior approval. Bentley University has retained Witt/Kieffer to partner on this search. Candidate materials should be sent via e-mail to BentleyDeanArtsSciences@wittkieffer.com. The consultants can be reached at (630) 575-6178.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/16/2018

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3950

Bentley University

Rank: Dean of Arts & Sciences

Bentley University, located in Waltham, MA, is launching its search for a new dean of arts & sciences. The next dean will have an unprecedented and exciting platform from which to shape not only the future of Bentley University but to influence the future of undergraduate education in our nation and beyond.

The next dean will be an articulate and compelling spokesperson for the importance of the arts and sciences to an exceptional business education as well as to the intellectual and civic development of students. Reporting to the provost, the next dean will oversee eight academic departments and work closely with an outstanding faculty and staff, providing inspirational leadership to forge new initiatives and unite an academic community to address institutional challenges.

Who we are looking for

The successful candidate will bring a strong record of scholarship, a demonstrated commitment to education, strong management and operational experience and the interpersonal and relationship-building skills to help Bentley realize its strategic goals. Read the full leadership profile: https://www.bentley.edu/files/2018/01/07/Bentley_Dean_of_Arts_and_Sciences_Leadership_Profile.pdf

How to apply

Inquiries, nominations and applications are invited. For fullest consideration, applicant materials should be received as soon as possible but no later than February 16, 2018. Candidates should provide a CV, a letter of application and the names of five references. References will not be contacted without prior approval. Bentley University has retained Witt/Kieffer to partner on this search. Candidate materials should be sent via e-mail to BentleyDeanArtsSciences@wittkieffer.com. The consultants can be reached at (630) 575-6178.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3951

Bentley University

Rank: Dean of Arts & Sciences

Bentley University, located in Waltham, MA, is launching its search for a new dean of arts & sciences. The next dean will have an unprecedented and exciting platform from which to shape not only the future of Bentley University but to influence the future of undergraduate education in our nation and beyond.

The next dean will be an articulate and compelling spokesperson for the importance of the arts and sciences to an exceptional business education as well as to the intellectual and civic development of students. Reporting to the provost, the next dean will oversee eight academic departments and work closely with an outstanding faculty and staff, providing inspirational leadership to forge new initiatives and unite an academic community to address institutional challenges.

Who we are looking for

The successful candidate will bring a strong record of scholarship, a demonstrated commitment to education, strong management and operational experience and the interpersonal and relationship-building skills to help Bentley realize its strategic goals. Read the full leadership profile: https://www.bentley.edu/files/2018/01/07/Bentley_Dean_of_Arts_and_Sciences_Leadership_Profile.pdf

How to apply

Inquiries, nominations and applications are invited. For fullest consideration, applicant materials should be received as soon as possible but no later than February 16, 2018. Candidates should provide a CV, a letter of application and the names of five references. References will not be contacted without prior approval. Bentley University has retained Witt/Kieffer to partner on this search. Candidate materials should be sent via e-mail to BentleyDeanArtsSciences@wittkieffer.com. The consultants can be reached at (630) 575-6178.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/16/2018

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3952

Clemson University

Rank: Dean, College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences

Clemson University announces a search for the next Dean of the College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences (CBSHS). The College seeks to continue to develop as a national and international leader in education and research. The Dean will lead and build the college according to the university's recently approved strategic plan, ClemsonForward (<https://www.clemson.edu/forward/>).

The Opportunity

The College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences was formed in July 2016, integrating programs in communication; nursing; parks, recreation and tourism management; political science; psychology; public health sciences; sociology, anthropology and criminal justice; and youth, family and community studies. The College is focused on becoming a national and international leader in solving the problems faced by individuals, families, communities and societies. Through its unique combination of departments and schools, the College conducts significant research and outreach and prepares students to understand human behavior, to address health and wellness challenges, and to build stronger and more sustainable communities within a globalized world system.

A successful candidate for Dean will embrace the challenges and opportunities associated with continuing to build one of the premier colleges of Clemson, a highly ranked land grant university, and will possess the skills, leadership, and vision to advance the goals in the ClemsonForward strategic plan.

In addition to the conventional job functions described below, the Dean will be expected to:

- Design, justify, and implement a visionary strategic plan for CBSHS that aligns with ClemsonForward;
- Acquire and manage research and teaching resources, including faculty, staff, and facilities, that align with ClemsonForward;
- Dedicate significant time to raise funds for the College in order to yield new resources and opportunities.

Job Description

The Dean is the chief academic and administrative officer of the college and reports directly to the Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs. The Dean holds faculty rank and provides leadership, vision, and strategic planning to help formulate and implement educational policies while serving as the collegiate faculty's agent in the execution of such policies. The Dean serves as the principal internal and external spokesperson for the college as well as for its mission of promoting all areas associated with this college. Performance in office is reviewed at regular intervals by the Provost per the Faculty Manual.

The Dean will be responsible for:

- Fiduciary decisions: manage the budget and other resources;
- Departmental Administration: appoint department chairs and college administrators, and periodically review the performance of chairs and administrators in concert with the Provost;
- Personnel: hiring; establish job titles and salaries; make decisions and review policies regarding renewal, tenure, promotion, and dismissal; authorize faculty leave; review faculty annual evaluations; promote departmental mentoring and development opportunities, and support professional development of faculty and staff;
- Educational Leadership: provide leadership and vision for academic programs, considering innovation, cost effectiveness, fidelity to standards and accreditation; establish and maintain high academic standards; ensure effective student quality, recruitment and retention;
- Endowment and Outreach: establish a foundation for active and sustainable fund raising; participate in various councils, commissions, and committees as set forth in university policy; represent the college within state and national boards and organizations, and other appropriate groups;

- College Governance: create ad hoc committees of the collegiate faculty; hear faculty grievances; promote academic freedom and responsibility; ensure that the college provides a diverse, opportunity and perspective-rich environment;
- Diversity and Inclusion: champion diversity and inclusivity among students, faculty and staff;
- Effectively demonstrate a commitment to Clemson Core Values and engage the college in the campus, state, national and global communities.

Job Qualifications

Minimum qualifications for this position are an earned doctorate, a distinguished record of achievements that would merit an appointment as professor with tenure in an academic department in the college, and an excellent record of academic leadership and administrative experience.

The successful candidate for Dean will demonstrate outstanding capacity to communicate with a multiple constituencies, provide leadership for the college's broad spectrum of academic activities, an engaging vision for the future of the College, a demonstrated record of recruiting and retaining faculty, a commitment to the principles and practices of shared governance, a strong commitment to diversity, strong fiscal and personnel management skills, an ability to enhance research, and demonstrated success in strengthening philanthropic support from individuals, foundations and corporations, and/or a genuine appetite to engage in such fundraising; and stewardship of such philanthropic support.

College Resources

The College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences is one of seven colleges at Clemson University. A recent university reorganization has brought together eight well-established departments offering BA, BS, MA, MS, MPA and PhD degree programs. The College prepares all Clemson University students to become more engaged and healthy life-long learners in their families, their communities and the world.

Departments:

Communication

Nursing

Parks, Recreation and Tourism Management

Political Science

Psychology

Public Health Sciences

Sociology, Anthropology and Criminal Justice

Youth, Family and Community Studies

Centers & Institutes:

Center for Research and Collaborative Activities

Center for Research on Health Disparities

Clemson Human Factors Institute

Clemson Outdoor Lab

Clemson University Institute for Parks

Clinical Learning and Research Center

Institute for Engaged Aging

School of Health Research

Institute on Family and Neighborhood Life

Joseph F. Sullivan Center

Osher Lifelong Learning Institute

Social Media Listening Center

Strom Thurmond Institute

The college has 220 faculty and 131 staff, with 3,034 undergraduate majors and 557 graduate students. This year the College is expected to have over $3.5M in research expenditures.

Clemson University

South Carolina's highest-ranked national university is located at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains and surrounded by Lake Hartwell and the Clemson Experimental Forest. A top-25 public university with a reputation for excellence, Clemson University provides a hands-on education — in the lab, in the arts and in the field. Academic programs lay the groundwork for innovative research, and real-world experiences carry forward to rewarding careers. This strikingly beautiful campus enjoys a temperate and pleasant climate. Clemson recently achieved the status of Carnegie classification of Highest Research Activities, which is in line with its recently refocused strategic plan (ClemsonForward).

Enrollment: 18,599 undergraduate and 4,807 graduate students

Faculty: 1,493

Staff: 3,726

Application Process

The Search Committee invites letters of nomination, applications (with a letter of interest, a complete CV, and a list of at least four references that includes contact information), or expressions of interest in the position to be submitted to the search firm assisting Clemson University. Review of materials will begin immediately, and continue until an appointment is made. Please submit nominations, applications or expressions of interest by March 16, 2018. Applications received after this date may be considered at the discretion of the committee and/or hiring authority. The successful applicant will be required to send academic degree transcripts to Clemson University. Background checks will be conducted prior to the final selection of the next Dean. Please submit applications through the Parker Executive Search website (<https://www.parkersearch.com/current-opportunities/clemson-university/dean-college-behavioral-social-and-health-sciences>). For additional information, please contact:

Laurie Wilder, President

Porsha L. Williams, Vice President

Grant Higgison, Associate

Parker Executive Search

Five Concourse Parkway, Suite 2900

Atlanta GA, 30328

Tel: 770-804-1996 ext. 118 || Fax: 770-804-1917

pwilliams@parkersearch.com || ghiggison@parkersearch.com

Clemson University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, pregnancy, national origin, age, disability, veteran's status, genetic information or protected activity (e.g., opposition to prohibited discrimination or participation in any complaint process, etc.) in employment, educational programs and activities, admissions and financial aid. This includes a prohibition against sexual harassment and sexual violence as mandated by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

—

—

—

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/qcbs4vt6c3bghyx>

PI100802327

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/11/2018

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3940

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Dean

Subfield(s): Administration, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

DEAN, COLLEGE OF THE LIBERAL ARTS

The Pennsylvania State University seeks candidates for the position of Dean, College of the Liberal Arts. Penn State is the land-grant University of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with the University Park campus as its administrative hub, 23 other campuses located throughout the state, and its online World Campus. Reporting directly to the Executive Vice President and Provost of the University, the Dean serves as the principal academic and administrative officer of the College. The Dean holds the Susan Welch Dean's Chair and is known as the Susan Welch Dean of the College of the Liberal Arts. The Dean's Chair was named in honor of Dean Welch with an endowment gift of $5 million in 2010.

The position requires a distinguished scholar and strong proponent of the liberal arts. The new dean will work aggressively to advance the College's position as a leader among institutions of higher education in the creation and dissemination of knowledge for increasingly diverse and global constituencies. The successful candidate will be able to lead and manage the College in a multi-disciplinary and highly interdisciplinary research university. Prior leadership experience with responsibility for strategic management of personnel, programs, communication, and resources is required, along with an ability to inspire students to expand their knowledge and understand their impact in a multicultural, global society. In addition, the successful candidate should be a visionary leader; have a commitment to high-quality disciplinary and interdisciplinary education, as well as diversity and inclusion; a record of accomplishment in research, teaching, and fundraising; and familiarity with national issues affecting undergraduate and graduate education, with credentials appropriate for a tenured appointment at the rank of professor. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

The College of the Liberal Arts, founded in 1909, has approximately 6,000 undergraduate and 850 graduate students enrolled in residence, and an additional 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in online certificate and degree programs delivered through the Penn State World Campus. The College's faculty teach about 30 percent of all undergraduate credit hours at University Park and a higher percentage in the World Campus. The College has more than 700 full-time faculty members, about half of whom are on the tenure track, including many who are recognized leaders in their fields. Departments in the College span the humanities, social sciences, and the life sciences and many of the departments are among the top 10 of their peers in the last National Research Council rankings. Several interdisciplinary research centers and institutes, within the College and across the University, enhance the College's teaching, research, and outreach missions. College centers support research ranging from ethics to cognitive neuroscience, from the Civil War to human evolution, and from the bilingual brain to counterterrorism.

The 2017-18 operating budget for the College is approximately $102 million, with the World Campus generating significant additional income. In 2016-17, the College had about $30 million in research expenditures. The College has an endowment of approximately $130 million with more than 600 active funds, and an annual fundraising commitment that averages $15 million per year.

The College provides instruction and research opportunities in 21 departments and schools—African American Studies; African Studies; Anthropology; Applied Linguistics; Asian Studies; Classics and Ancient Mediterranean Studies; Communication Arts and Sciences; Comparative Literature; Economics; English; French and Francophone Studies; Germanic and Slavic Languages and Literatures; History; Jewish Studies; Labor and Employment Relations; Philosophy; Political Science; Psychology; Sociology and Criminology; Spanish, Italian and Portuguese; and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

To apply for this position, send (cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information of four references) via the University's employment web site at <https://psu.jobs/job/76213>. Please send any questions to the Chair of the Dean, Liberal Arts Search Committee at PSU-Search@psu.edu. The Search Committee will review applications and nominations beginning February 1, 2018, and will continue to receive them until the position is filled. For more information about the College of the Liberal Arts, visit our web site at <http://www.la.psu.edu/>.

Employment will require successful completion of background check(s) in accordance with University policies. Final candidate(s) for the position will be required to complete a full background check process, including education, employment, credit, motor vehicle verifications, criminal, and child abuse as appropriate.

To review the Penn State Annual Security Report, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>; a hard copy of the report is available on request.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to minorities, women, veterans, disabled individuals, and members of other protected groups.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3933

University of Georgia

Rank: Director

The University of Georgia's School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) seeks applications for the Director of the Center for International Trade and Security (CITS). The successful candidate must have a record appropriate for an academic professional faculty position (non-tenured) with adjunct faculty status in the School's Department of International Affairs and must have a strong record of grant and contract acquisition.

The University of Georgia, located in Athens, Georgia, approximately 60 miles northeast of Atlanta, is a Research I institution in the University System of Georgia. Founded in 1785, the University is the largest and most comprehensive educational institution in the state.

The Center for International Trade and Security's mission is to promote peace and prosperity through programs that focus on the mitigation of threats posed by the transfer, trade, and use of technologies and materials associated with weapons of mass destruction (WMD). This includes the safety and security of chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear materials, and strategic trade controls on dual use products related to both WMD and conventional weapons. The Center is eager to broaden its scope to address other unconventional threats to national security, such as cybersecurity, threats to energy infrastructure, and terrorism.

CITS has a distinguished record of policy-relevant research, and worldwide has provided outreach and training to US and foreign policymakers and industry representatives to secure the supply chain of advanced technologies and materials, and stop the proliferation of WMD. The Center also engages these communities, educators, students, and the general public via international colloquia and Track II negotiations on emerging security issues. CITS's Security and Strategic Trade Management Academy alone has trained more than 800 government officials, academics and industry representatives from 70 countries on the establishment, implementation, and enforcement of strategic trade controls. The Center's programs are sustained by private foundation grants, individual and corporate gifts, and corporate and government contracts.

CITS contributes to SPIA's Master of International Policy (MIP) Program that prepares graduate students for careers in international security and nonproliferation. CITS experts serve as instructors in the MIP Program, whose graduates have been placed in prestigious educational and government institutions. Likewise, CITS experts administer the year-long Richard B. Russell Security Leadership Program which prepares undergraduates for careers in nonproliferation and national security. SLP Fellows have earned distinguished national and international scholarships and have been hired by US government agencies, international organizations, corporations, and consulting firms.

The Director of the Center reports to the Dean of the School of Public and International Affairs, and is a non-tenured, academic professional with adjunct faculty status in the Department of International Affairs. For more information, visit: <http://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/center-for-international-trade-and-security-cits/>.

A terminal degree is required in policy, law, science, technology, or engineering. The Center seeks a candidate with demonstrated leadership skills and a solid record of grant- and/or contract-funded research and service. Depending on experience and interests, the Director may have opportunities to teach graduate courses on issues such as WMD nonproliferation, counterterrorism, arms trade cybersecurity, or other emerging threats to national and international security.

Applications received by February 16, 2018 are assured consideration. Please apply using the FacultyJobs@UGA online system (<https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/>). Include in your application (1) a cover letter (2) a curriculum vita or resume, and (3) contact information for three individuals who can provide reference letters. If you have questions or would like more information, please contact Amanda Sandoval at amandapaige@uga.edu or 706-542-2985.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3930

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Director of the Nanovic Institute for European Studies

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs seeks a full professor of modern or contemporary Europe to be the Director of the Nanovic Institute for European Studies. The Director will be a scholar who specializes in subjects relevant to the academic mission of the School, including:

- the historical, political, economic, and cultural dimensions of, and challenges to, European unity;
- migration, refugee and larger integration issues;
- Europe as a global site of institutional, organizational and ethical commitments to sustainable development, peace and international human rights.

This search for a modern Europeanist and Director of the Nanovic Institute coincides with the founding of the first new school at Notre Dame in nearly a century. The Keough School of Global Affairs (<http://keough.nd.edu>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a master's degree, and supports undergraduate and doctoral programs as well as a policy studies program. We seek applicants for the position who can play a creative role of leadership and program-building within the Keough School.

The successful candidate will serve a five-year term as Director of the Nanovic Institute, and will be periodically reviewed, with the possibility of renewal for a second term. To fulfill its mission of exploring the evolving ideas, cultures, beliefs, and institutions that shape Europe, the Nanovic Institute draws upon dozens of Notre Dame faculty and an international network of scholars who provide a vibrant interdisciplinary center for undergraduate and graduate students, faculty fellows and visiting professors. The position offers an opportunity for a Europeanist who will thrive in this unique interdisciplinary and collaborative atmosphere. <http://nanovic.nd.edu/about/>

A joint or concurrent appointment in the appropriate department is possible. The successful candidate will have an outstanding publication, grant writing, and teaching record, an established international reputation, and experience as an administrator. Applications should include a Curriculum Vitae, a cover letter containing a description of the candidate's vision for the Nanovic Institute and its potential role in the Keough School, as well as the names and email addresses of three references who know the applicant's scholarship and can speak to his/her gifts as a leader and administrator.

Application materials should be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <https://apply.interfolio.com/47973>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Scott Appleby
Chair, Search Committee & Marilyn Keough Dean
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
appleby.3@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin on February 15, 2018.

The University of Notre Dame supports the needs of dual career couples and has a Dual Career Assistance Program in place to assist relocating spouses and significant others with their job search. The University is also a member of the Greater Chicago Midwest Higher Education Recruitment Consortium

This appointment is also contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Applicants will be asked to identify all felony convictions and/or pending felony charges. Felony convictions do not automatically bar an individual from employment. Each case will be examined separately to determine the appropriateness of employment in the particular position. Failure to be forthcoming or dishonesty with respect to felony disclosures can result in the disqualification of a candidate. The full procedure can be viewed at <http://facultyhandbook.nd.edu/university-policies/background-check-procedure-for-prospective-faculty/>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3886

University of Wyoming

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Wyoming invites diverse applicants to consider our employment opportunities. We are also especially interested in candidates who have experience working with diverse populations and/or diverse initiatives.

The School of Politics, Public Affairs, and International Studies invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor who specializes in public administration beginning August 2018. Preference may be given to candidates whose teaching and research interests include public personnel and non-governmental (NGO) or not-for-profit administration. A Ph.D. is required at time of appointment. The successful candidate is expected to teach in the core curriculum of the School's MPA program. Other possible teaching areas include not-for-profit management and personnel, and some undergraduate classes in the candidate's areas of interest. The teaching load for this position is 2/3 with course reductions possible based on exemplary research.

Interested candidates should apply at https://jobs.uwyo.edu/psp/EREK/UWEXTERNAL/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&SiteId=6&JobOpeningId=9285&PostingSeq=1

Minimum Qualifications

Ph.D. in Public Administration or related field expected at time of appointment

Evidence of ability to teach at the college/university level

Evidence of a scholarly research agenda

Desired Qualifications

Demonstrated ability to teach classes in the areas of personnel and non-governmental/not-for-profit management

Demonstrated ability to make teaching contributions to the School's undergraduate curriculum, which includes political science and international studies

Demonstrated excellence in teaching

Evidence of publications in peer reviewed journals and/or scholarly books

Demonstrated commitment to furthering diversity, equity, and inclusion

Interest in developing collaborative, multi-disciplinary research

Required Materials

Complete on-line application and upload the following as one document:

Cover letter indicating candidate's teaching philosophy, research agenda on how to contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion
 Current Curriculum Vitae
 Writing sample
 Graduate transcripts
 Teaching evaluation, if available
 Contact information for three academic references
 For further information or questions contact Professor Gregg Cawley, cawley@uwyo.edu

Hiring Statement

The University of Wyoming is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status or any other characteristic protected by law and University policy. To review the EEO is the Law Poster and its Supplement, please see The Diversity & Fairness page.

Pursuant to Wyoming State law, W.S. 19-14-102, as amended, an honorably discharged veteran who has been a resident of the state of Wyoming for one (1) year or more at any time prior to the date when the veteran applies for employment, or any surviving spouse who was married to such veteran at the time of the veteran's death, who is receiving federal survivor benefits based on the veteran's military service and is applying for employment, shall receive an interview preference during the applicant screening process with the University of Wyoming. At the time of application the applicant must possess the business capacity, competency, education or other qualifications required for the position. If disabilities do not materially interfere with performance of job duties, disabled veterans will be given preference over able-bodied veterans. Appropriate documentation of veteran status must be provided at time of application as outlined in the application process. No preference will be given to a veteran currently employed by a public department.

We conduct background investigations for all final candidates being considered for employment. Offers of employment are contingent upon the completion of the background check.

Applicants with disabilities may request accommodation to complete the application and selection process. Please notify Human Resources at least three (3) working days prior to the date of need.

Welcome to Laramie

The University of Wyoming is located in Laramie, a town of 30,000 in the heart of the Rocky Mountain West. The state of Wyoming continues to invest in its university, helping to make it a leader in academics, research and outreach. The university has state-of-the-art facilities in many areas and the community provides the advantages of a major university.

Located in a high mountain valley near the Colorado border, Laramie offers both outstanding recreational opportunities and close proximity to Colorado's Front Range, a bustling group of metropolitan cities including Denver, Boulder, and Fort Collins. This beautiful mountain landscape offers outdoor enjoyment in all seasons, with over 300 days of sunshine annually. For more information about the region, please visit <http://visitlaramie.org/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3871

The University of Arizona

Rank: Faculty/Department Head

The University of Arizona Department of Political Economy and Moral Science anticipates appointing a tenured faculty member with an appointment beginning as early as the fall of 2018. The position is contingent upon funding. Rank: Full or Associate Professor. The successful candidate will serve, for at least one five-year term, as Head of the new Department of Political Economy and Moral Science. A record of successful administration, research, and teaching is required, with a preference for candidates with a record of success as Department Head. The successful candidate will have a distinguished research record in moral and social philosophy broadly construed, "PPE" (Philosophy, Politics and Economics) or political economy. Candidates must be willing to teach both graduate level courses and courses in the Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law undergraduate major. A Ph.D. in philosophy, political science or economics is required.

The Center emphatically welcomes applications from scholars with diverse disciplinary perspectives and methods who are eager to work in a collaborative setting. Applications should include a letter of application along with a current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching experience, a statement of research objectives, and a detailed description of administrative current and past responsibilities. Application materials and nominations should be addressed to Professor Jerry Gaus, Department of Political Economy and Moral Sciences, 213 Social Sciences, University of Arizona, Tucson, AZ 85721-0027. Application materials should be submitted in hard copy. This announcement appears in various venues. Review of materials to begin on November 1, 2017 and to continue until the positions are filled. The University of Arizona is an EEO/AA/M/W/D/V employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty and staff.

Applicants will also need to apply online at uacareers.com and reference posting #F21172

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3752

Portland State University

Rank: Director

Portland State University seeks Director of the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government

Click here to view position profile. https://summitsearchsolutions.com/wp-content/uploads/2017/10/PSU_HatfieldSOG_Profile.pdf

Location: Portland, Oregon

The Director of the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government (HSOG) provides leadership and coordination among its various Programs, Centers, and Institutes, and articulates a strategic vision for how the School can thrive and expand its impact. The Director works with a diverse staff, across multiple disciplines and topic areas, and with numerous organizations and constituencies both internal and external to the University. In particular, the Director's role is to:

- 1) Raise the visibility of the School in the community, state and nation;
- 2) Seek extramural projects and funding related to research and partnerships;
- 3) Support advancement of Centers and Institutes in the School and their connectivity to the community and to the broader University;
- 4) Oversee the School's two interdisciplinary degree programs: Master of Public Policy and PhD in Public Affairs and Policy; and
- 5) Recognize and promote connectivity among School faculty, staff, and students.

The Director reports to the Dean of the College of Urban and Public Affairs and sits on the Dean's Executive Committee. This is a twelve-month position, with a five-year renewable term, and will be offered to the candidate of choice with indefinite tenure at the rank of professor. The Director typically teaches one course in each of the three terms of the academic year, often in the interdisciplinary degree programs, but teaching responsibilities are negotiable.

Qualifications:

- Doctorate in one of HSOG's disciplines or a related field, and scholarly achievement commensurate with appointment at the rank of tenured full Professor. Candidates of extraordinary accomplishment outside academia may also be considered.
- Administrative experience directing an academic unit, program, center, or institute.
- Passion for and experience in interdisciplinary research and/or teaching.
- Experience working with community partners and other stake holders, with a track record of securing external funding and contracts.
- Ability to work productively with a diverse faculty, staff, and student population.

Key cultural competencies:

- Creates an environment that acknowledges, encourages and celebrates differences.
- Functions and communicates effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities and cultural backgrounds.
- Seeks opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement.
- Willingness to adhere to and support adherence to all PSU policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.

About the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government

The Hatfield School of Government was created in 1999 to honor the legacy of Mark O. Hatfield, a public servant who served as both Oregon Governor and U.S. Senator. Hatfield's independent spirit, strong moral compass, and commitment to the public good are hallmarks of his leadership style and public service. The School's first Director was appointed in 2000 and the current Director recently stepped down in preparation for retirement. The Hatfield School offers real-world application of studies only steps away from the classroom. Students actively engage in a variety of hands-on public service projects throughout Oregon, the nation, and the world. Locally renowned, the Hatfield School has also gained national prestige as one of the top 50 Public Affairs graduate programs in the nation, according to the 2016 U.S. News and World Report rankings.

The Hatfield School is home to three academic departments whose chairs report to the Dean: Criminology & Criminal Justice, Political Science and Public Administration. All departments offer undergraduate and graduate programs in addition to two programs offered by multiple units in the School: Master of Public Policy and PhD in Public Affairs and Policy. The School is also home to the multiple centers and institutes including the National Policy Consensus Center, the Center for Public Service, the Institute for Tribal Governance, the Nonprofit Institute, the Center for Turkish Studies, and the Center for Women's Leadership.

The Hatfield School of Government is part of the College of Urban and Public Affairs (CUPA). CUPA is among the oldest colleges of its kind in the country. CUPA's academic programs prepare students to be effective leaders, collaborators, and problem-solvers. The College now contains, in addition to the Hatfield School of Government, the Toulon School of Urban Studies & Planning, the Department of Economics, and the Department of International and Global Studies. The College is dedicated to public service and social justice and does more than teach as it prepares students for community leadership and for making the world a better place.

About Portland State University

Portland State University (PSU) is Oregon's urban research university recognized for excellence in sustainability and community engagement, and is located in the heart of downtown Portland. PSU offers more than 200 degrees with opportunities to work with businesses, schools and organizations on real-world projects. The University's reputation is built on excellence through accessibility, innovation, collaboration, engagement, sustainability, and transformation. As the state's only urban public university, Portland State provides comprehensive undergraduate education as well as professional education to thousands of Oregonians as well as to students from over 90 countries around the globe. Portland State is renowned for innovative academic programs and excellence – particularly in fields related to urban and public affairs; business administration; science, technology, and sustainability – that combine student learning, research, and community engagement. The university's programs continue to garner national recognition and rankings and it was named one of the top ten innovative universities in the country (US News and World Report 2016-2017). To see an up-to-date list of the outstanding PSU rankings and references by Princeton Review, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and other nationally respected organizations, please click on the following link: <http://www.pdx.edu/profile/portland-state-university-rankings-and-references>.

Portland State University's motto is "Let Knowledge Serve the City." The University is an anchor institution, providing the Portland region with a highly-educated population, substantial economic impact, and distinctive contributions to its culture. The University promotes access, inclusion and equity as pillars of excellence. It is committed to curiosity, collaboration, stewardship and sustainability; strives for excellence and innovation that solves problems, and believes everyone should be treated with integrity and respect.

Portland State University has approximately 27,200 students with over 21,000 undergraduates and 5,600 graduate students. Some 62 percent of the students are full time, approximately 76 percent are residents of Oregon, and 64 percent are transfer students. The university has approximately 7,000 employees, including research and instructional faculty, academic professionals, managers, and staff and administrators.

For more information about Portland State University, click here:
<http://www.pdx.edu/aboutpsu>

Procedure to apply:

While review of applications and nominations will be accepted until the position is filled, parties who apply by December 11, 2017 will be given first consideration. To apply online, go to <http://www.highereddecisions.com/sss/> and select this vacancy. Please submit a PDF version of your curriculum vitae and letter of interest upon application. All applications and nominations will be held in confidence.

The projected start date for the Director is July 1, 2018.

For nominations or further information:

Beth Baldino
 Senior Consultant
 Summit Search Solutions, Inc.
 Direct: (828) 645-8967
bbaldino@summitsearchsolutions.com

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3720

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3560

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Nonprofit Management and Policy, Assistant/Associate Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy in the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Nonprofit Management and Policy position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates should be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

Our program on Nonprofit Management, ranked 10th in US News and World Report, emphasizes the "nuts and bolts" of operating and sustaining nonprofit organizations and the tactics and strategies of creating social change toward greater equity and justice. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality nonprofit management and policy research in these areas. Candidates conducting research on nonprofit governance, resource generation and sustainability, nonprofit public policy, policy advocacy, collaboration, and/or nonprofit networks are especially encouraged to apply. We are open to scholars conducting research in domestic, international or global contexts, and who use qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Senior applicants should have a well-established research program; junior applicants should have a trajectory to develop a tenurable research record.

- Applicants must be able to teach in Nonprofit Management and in core Public Policy or Public Administration courses, and be able to, or have the potential to, fulfill the mission and goals of Rockefeller College.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in Public Administration, Public Management, Public Affairs, or an allied field such as Sociology or Political Science.
- Experience in a nonprofit organization, and working on or writing research grants for external funding, will be considered a plus in the selection process but not a requirement.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant or Associate Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86289>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- Cover letter addressed to Jennifer Dodge, Chair of the Search Committee
- Curriculum vitae
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (associate faculty only submit teaching evaluations for the past 4 semesters)
- Three letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts, emailed to PADsearch@albany.edu

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.). See the FAQ for using our online system. Please contact us if you need assistance applying through this website.

Returning Applicants - Login to your UAlbany Careers Account to check your completed application.

A review of applications will start October 1, 2017 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2945

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Anderson University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science, Tenure Track

Anderson University seeks a founding faculty member for its recently approved BA program in Political Science. The successful candidate will have a record of effective teaching and advising experience and a commitment to recruiting students and developing a Political Science curriculum. Field of specialization is open, but the position entails teaching a variety of introductory and upper-division courses in American Politics. A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Rank and salary commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Date of Appointment: August, 2018

Anderson University is a selective, student-centered Christian university providing a challenging education grounded in the liberal arts, enhanced by professional and graduate programs and a co-curricular focus on the development of character, servant leadership, and cultural engagement. Our faculty strive to provide students with the knowledge to discover, build, serve, create, succeed, and innovate. Affiliated with the South Carolina Baptist Convention, we seek to attract culturally and academically diverse faculty of the highest caliber, active in the scholarship of teaching, discovery, application, and integration of faith.

In addition to being named as one of the best Southeastern Colleges by the Princeton Review, Anderson University was also recognized as a Top Tier Regional University by U.S. News & World Report, who also ranked AU the seventh "Most Innovative School" among Regional Universities in the South. AU is a two-time recipient of Apple's Distinguished School recognition, one of just a handful of universities in the world to achieve this. We are located in South Carolina's Upstate region, a growing and thriving community with award-winning public schools with convenient access to major cities and year-round outdoor recreation.

Review Date: Review of applications begins on January 16 and will continue until the position is filled.

Your application should include a letter specifically addressing how your abilities and experiences might contribute to teaching undergraduates consistent with Anderson University's unique Christian mission (<https://www.andersonuniversity.edu/about-au/mission-vision-values-statement>). Include a teaching statement that highlights your philosophy, goals, accomplishments, and future plans. In addition, include a curriculum vitae, official transcripts, letters from three references, and an Anderson University faculty application.

Electronic (PDF or Word) copies of all application materials are required and can be sent to cas@andersonuniversity.edu (Please reference Political Science Search in the e-mail subject line).

Political Science Search Committee

C/O

Ms. Annie Brink

Administrative Assistant

College of Arts and Sciences
Anderson University, Anderson, SC 29621

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4003

Anderson University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science, Tenure Track

Anderson University seeks a founding faculty member for its recently approved BA program in Political Science. The successful candidate will have a record of effective teaching and advising experience and a commitment to recruiting students and developing a Political Science curriculum. Field of specialization is open, but the position entails teaching a variety of introductory and upper-division courses in American Politics. A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Rank and salary commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Date of Appointment: August, 2018

Anderson University is a selective, student-centered Christian university providing a challenging education grounded in the liberal arts, enhanced by professional and graduate programs and a co-curricular focus on the development of character, servant leadership, and cultural engagement. Our faculty strive to provide students with the knowledge to discover, build, serve, create, succeed, and innovate. Affiliated with the South Carolina Baptist Convention, we seek to attract culturally and academically diverse faculty of the highest caliber, active in the scholarship of teaching, discovery, application, and integration of faith. In addition to being named as one of the best Southeastern Colleges by the Princeton Review, Anderson University was also recognized as a Top Tier Regional University by U.S. News & World Report, who also ranked AU the seventh "Most Innovative School" among Regional Universities in the South. AU is a two-time recipient of Apple's Distinguished School recognition, one of just a handful of universities in the world to achieve this. We are located in South Carolina's Upstate region, a growing and thriving community with award-winning public schools with convenient access to major cities and year-round outdoor recreation.

Review Date: Review of applications begins on January 16 and will continue until the position is filled.

Your application should include a letter specifically addressing how your abilities and experiences might contribute to teaching undergraduates consistent with Anderson University's unique Christian mission (<https://www.andersonuniversity.edu/about-au/mission-vision-values-statement>). Include a teaching statement that highlights your philosophy, goals, accomplishments, and future plans. In addition, include a curriculum vitae, official transcripts, letters from three references, and an Anderson University faculty application. Electronic (PDF or Word) copies of all application materials are required and can be sent to cas@andersonuniversity.edu (Please reference Political Science Search in the e-mail subject line).

Political Science Search Committee
C/O

Ms. Annie Brink
Administrative Assistant
College of Arts and Sciences
Anderson University, Anderson, SC 29621

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4004

Anderson University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science, Tenure Track

Anderson University seeks a founding faculty member for its recently approved BA program in Political Science. The successful candidate will have a record of effective teaching and advising experience and a commitment to recruiting students and developing a Political Science curriculum. Field of specialization is open, but the position entails teaching a variety of introductory and upper-division courses in American Politics. A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Rank and salary commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Date of Appointment: August, 2018

Anderson University is a selective, student-centered Christian university providing a challenging education grounded in the liberal arts, enhanced by professional and graduate programs and a co-curricular focus on the development of character, servant leadership, and cultural engagement. Our faculty strive to provide students with the knowledge to discover, build, serve, create, succeed, and innovate. Affiliated with the South Carolina Baptist Convention, we seek to attract culturally and academically diverse faculty of the highest caliber, active in the scholarship of teaching, discovery, application, and integration of faith.

In addition to being named as one of the best Southeastern Colleges by the Princeton Review, Anderson University was also recognized as a Top Tier Regional University by U.S. News & World Report, who also ranked AU the seventh "Most Innovative School" among Regional Universities in the South. AU is a two-time recipient of Apple's Distinguished School recognition, one of just a handful of universities in the world to achieve this. We are located in South Carolina's Upstate region, a growing and thriving community with award-winning public schools with convenient access to major cities and year-round outdoor recreation.

Review Date: Review of applications begins on January 16 and will continue until the position is filled.

Your application should include a letter specifically addressing how your abilities and experiences might contribute to teaching undergraduates consistent with Anderson University's unique Christian mission (<https://www.andersonuniversity.edu/about-au/mission-vision-values-statement>). Include a teaching statement that highlights your philosophy, goals, accomplishments, and future plans. In addition, include a curriculum vitae, official transcripts, letters from three references, and an Anderson University faculty application.

Electronic (PDF or Word) copies of all application materials are required and can be sent to cas@andersonuniversity.edu (Please reference Political Science Search in the e-mail subject line).

Political Science Search Committee
C/O
Ms. Annie Brink
Administrative Assistant

College of Arts and Sciences
Anderson University, Anderson, SC 29621

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4005

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: VAP American Politics and American Political Thought

Visiting Assistant Professor (One Year)
Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one year visiting position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2018. Ph.D preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper level courses in American political thought and American political development. Other teaching and research areas might include religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; rural and/or labor politics; and power and the American presidency. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

Applications received by March 16, 2018 will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. The department will conduct preliminary reviews at this year's WPSA meeting in San Francisco. Applicants should indicate whether they will be attending the meeting.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and arrange to have three letters of reference sent. Applicants should submit all materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48507>. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/30/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4001

University of Central Arkansas

Rank: Lecturer-1

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Arkansas invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin August 16, 2018. The department seeks candidates qualified to teach multiple sections of introductory level courses in American government and international relations, and serve as the coordinator of the Arkansas Model United Nations program. The AMUN program sponsors an annual high school Model UN conference that involves more than 500 students from high schools in Arkansas and neighboring states. The successful candidate will possess excellent teaching skills and a minimum of 3 years of experience in planning and successfully supervising Model U.N. or similar programs. An M.A. in Political Science is required; the Ph.D. is preferred. To apply, submit a letter of application, current vita, transcripts, three letters of recommendation, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations via UCA's online application system (<https://jobs.uca.edu>). Review of applications will begin February 22, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, please submit a complete application by February 22.

Founded in 1907, the University of Central Arkansas (www.uca.edu) has an enrollment of approximately 11,700 students. The university offers 87 undergraduate and 58 graduate certificate and degree programs, including doctoral programs in five disciplines. The student body consistently scores above the national average on the ACT exam. UCA is proud of its tradition of teaching excellence and its contributions in scholarly and creative activities. The campus is widely acclaimed for its beauty. UCA is located in Conway, Arkansas, a thriving city of approximately 60,000, located in central Arkansas, and thirty minutes from Little Rock. Conway is home to a number of major industries, two private colleges, an excellent public school system, and strong K-12 parochial schools. Residents have easy access to the Ouachita and Ozark National Forests and pristine wild areas near the Buffalo National River. The University of Central Arkansas is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and encourages women and minorities to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/29/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3999

Colorado State University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Colorado State University invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position in American Government and Politics. We are open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus, and methodological approaches. Successful candidates will be expected to offer three undergraduate courses each semester, including one section of Introduction to American Government. We seek candidates who can teach some combination of upper-division courses on interest groups, race and ethnicity, constitutional law, US civil rights and liberties, US environmental politics and policy, gender and politics, or executive politics.

Required qualifications: Primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in American government and politics; evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Preferred qualifications: PhD in political science completed by August 16, 2018.

Applicants should submit (in electronic form) 1) a letter of application outlining teaching experience and interests; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts acceptable at the initial stage of the search); 4) evidence of demonstrated or potential teaching effectiveness (syllabi, teaching evaluations, letters of observation), 5) the names and contact information of three professional references, including at least one who can speak to teaching, to april.lindgren@colostate.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled; to ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by February 11, 2018. Questions about the position can be directed to Michele Betsill, Chair (m.betsill@colostate.edu).

CSU is an EO/EA/AA employer and conducts background checks on all final candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3992

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD) in the Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for one-year Research Associate / Postdoc positions (with limited teaching), with an anticipated start date of August 25, 2018 and ending May 24, 2019. This research associate position is renewable, based on performance and continued availability of funding, for an additional academic year. Pay is competitive, and benefits are available. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. It promotes scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition.

Applicants for the research associate position must have achieved the status of ABD by February 10, 2018 and must be on track to complete a PhD by June 2018. All requirements for the Ph.D., including a successful defense, must be completed by June 20, 2018.

Research associates will conduct their own research and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). Fellows at their discretion may request to teach a second course in one of the semesters.

To apply, please submit a Candidate Profile online through Jobs@UVA (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>); search for Posting Number 0622244. Please attach: a curriculum vitae, cover letter, brief statement of research interest, contact information for three (3) references, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages), and an unofficial copy of your graduate transcript.

Review of applications will begin on or after Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2018, and the positions are open until filled.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVa should be directed to Ms. Bonnie Bragg at bb6a@virginia.edu.

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3988

University of Virginia

Rank: Predoctoral Research Specialist

University of Virginia invites applications for one-year predoctoral Research Specialist positions (with limited teaching), with an anticipated start date of August 25, 2018 and ending August 24, 2019. This end date may be extended, based on performance and continued availability of funding, through May 24, 2020. Pay is competitive, and benefits are available. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. It promotes scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition.

Applicants for the research specialist position must be on schedule to acquire the status of ABD by June 30, 2018 with a planned completion of PhD by May 24, 2019.

Research specialists will conduct their own research and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). Research specialists at their discretion may request to teach a second course in one of the semesters.

Research specialists will be responsible for completing their dissertation, using the methods and techniques appropriate to their project. Research specialists will also be tasked with teaching one or both of the two courses mentioned, which will require as background a concentration in political theory and/or an approach to American politics focusing on American political thought and American political development.

To apply, please submit a staff application online through Jobs@UVA (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>); search for Posting Number 0622468. Please attach: a curriculum vitae, cover letter, brief statement of research interest, contact information for three (3) references, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages), and an unofficial copy of your graduate transcript (attach as Other 1).

Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2018, and the positions are open until filled.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVa should be directed to Ms. Bonnie Bragg at bb6a@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3987

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Campus

Danforth Campus

Advertised Title

Postdoctoral Research Associate

Job Category
Faculty

Job Type
Faculty - Full-time

Average number of hours per week
Based on job requirements

Recruiting Salary Range
Commensurate with experience

Department Name/Job Location
This position is in the Department of Political Science. The position is located at Seigle Hall. This position is for the Danforth Campus in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Job Description
The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis is seeking candidates for up to three post-doc (non-tenure track) positions. We are currently searching for candidates in the area of American, comparative, methods, international relations, and environmental policy. These appointments begin officially on September 1 with the start of the Fall 2018 semester and continue for one academic year. The expected teaching load of the individual in these positions is one course per semester. Coursework is focused on teaching undergraduate and possibly graduate courses. There will be opportunities for professional development for the successful candidate.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to sex, race, ethnicity, protected veteran, or disability status.

Required Qualifications
The successful candidate must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science. Evidence of commitment to teaching.

Special Instructions to Applicants
Completed applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation. The application deadline is 2/23/18.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically. Please visit the Washington University Human Resources web page (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>) and search for job requisition number 39039. Candidates should create an account, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Please follow the directions below for uploading documents to your profile.

1. Log into your account. Click on 'My Activities'
2. Click on 'Add Attachment'
3. Choose attachment type and purpose and click 'Upload Attachment'
4. Browse for document on your computer and upload file

You may upload your documents as one file or individual files. Letters of reference and questions should be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3977

College of Southern Nevada

Rank: Political Science Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Political Science Instructor

Political Science Instructor - Tenure Track - Fall 2018

This position will be open until filled. For full consideration all application related material should be submitted by 02/01/2018.

Department:

- Social Sciences.

Job Description:

- The College of Southern Nevada (CSN) is currently seeking one (1) full-time tenure track political science instructor beginning Fall semester 2018.
 - Primary teaching assignment involves teaching a core course (Introduction to American Politics) but also Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to International Relations, Survey of Political Theory and other courses as determined by department need.
 - Teach a minimum of 15 credit hours per semester and hold five office hours per week.
 - The successful candidate will be expected to participate in department and division (school) meetings, participate in college and department committees, and engage in participatory governance activities and other service activities.
 - The successful candidate is expected to assume leadership roles both within the assigned department and in the institution as a whole. In addition, the successful candidate is expected to engage in ongoing professional development.
 - Teaching assignments may be multi-campus with the possibility of day, evening, weekend, or online classes in accord with department needs.
 - Note: This position is open until filled. Review of applications will begin on 02/02/2018. For full consideration, all application materials should be received no later than 02/01/2018. In addition to submitting a complete application, applicants should submit, at a minimum, a cover letter addressing each aspect of the required and preferred qualifications, college transcripts, current curriculum vitae, a minimum of three (3) letters of recommendation and a sample syllabus for an introductory (survey) introductory American government course.
- Required Qualifications:
- Master's degree in political science from a regionally accredited college or university.
 - Have a minimum of one year (two semesters) experience teaching college level introductory political science courses within the last three (3) years.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Possess an earned Ph.D. in political science from a regionally accredited college or university.
- Documented background and experience teaching college-level urban politics/urban studies courses.
- Evidence of research in political science within the last three (3) years, which includes conference paper presentations or publications.
- Evidence of an understanding and appreciation of the community college mission, and ability to design curriculum and learning activities that address diverse learning levels.
- Background and experience in web-based and computer-aided instruction.
- Demonstrated ability to work effectively with a culturally and educationally diverse student population.

Required Documents:

Required documents (Cover Letter, Resume, and Transcripts) must be attached directly to the ONLINE application. If you are unable to attach the required documents to your ONLINE application, you may send them to Human Resources via email <mailto:hr.recruitment@csn.edu> or fax to 702.651.5778.

SPECIAL NOTE: Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications. The search committee will use this information during the initial review of application materials.

Salary:

- Initial salary placement is based on educational level and total years of full-time equivalent teaching experience. A maximum of 10 years of experience will be considered for initial salary placement purposes.

For more details on this position, please visit our website at <http://apptrkr.com/1153841>

CSN is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution. For more information, visit <http://www.csn.edu/nondiscrimination>

To apply, visit <http://apptrkr.com/1153841>

About Us

The College of Southern Nevada (CSN) creates opportunities and changes lives through access to quality teaching, services, and experiences that enrich our diverse community. CSN has three main campuses in Las Vegas, North Las Vegas and Henderson and multiple sites and centers.

The Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) is committed to providing a place of work and learning free of discrimination on the basis of a person's age, disability, whether actual or perceived by others (including service-connected disabilities), gender (including pregnancy related conditions), military status or military obligations, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, national origin, race, or religion.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-57d5992dd3ea5b4692e6bf9cd8b6d07d>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3967

Rider UniversityRank: Director, Rebovich Institute for NJ Politics

Rider University invites applications for the Director of the Rebovich Institute for New Jersey Politics who will oversee the day-to-day activities of the Institute, including: planning its research agenda; developing and promoting programs for students and the general public; branding and marketing Institute activities; engaging University alumni/ae and community groups, corporate neighbors, associations, etc. interested in politics and government; acting as a media contact by providing expert analysis of New Jersey politics; coordinating with University Communications in providing expert commentators on issues of politics and public policy; and disseminating polling and other data provided by the Department of Political Science. Further, the Director will work directly with students in a mentoring role, providing counsel on engaged learning opportunities, resume writing, networking, skills development, internships, and job placement. The Director will seek to raise additional funds to augment support from the University for Institute programming and intern scholarships for Rider students. In addition, the Director will work with faculty in the Department of Political Science to develop polling data and other material for dissemination to the news media. The Director may teach classes for appropriate adjunct compensation if requested to do so by the Department of Political Science and/or the Honors Program, as suitable for the Director's schedule. ??Successful candidate must be a distinguished scholar or practitioner; currently or potentially a public intellectual with a deep understanding of the subject matter and a dedication to providing students with engaged learning opportunities such as internships, seminars, speakers, and participation in research projects. Having connections that will enable the Institute to collaborate with local, regional, and (ideally) national governmental, NGO, corporate, and communications organizations is highly desirable. ??The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of cultural backgrounds. Candidates with a demonstrated commitment supportive of the multi-cultural needs of Rider University and the surrounding community are highly desired. ??Rider University has once again been included as one of the nation's best universities by US News & World Report 2018 and remained in the top tier in the Regional Universities - North category. Additionally, The Princeton Review named Rider among its "Best 382 Colleges" in the nation. Both publications have ranked the University favorably in their respective surveys for more than a decade. ??Please visit RiderHires at <https://rider.peopleadmin.com/> to apply for position no. 300033.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3964

Alma College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor in US Politics and History

Alma College in Alma, Michigan invites applications for a one-year visiting assistant professor position in U.S. political science and history, beginning in August 2018, with the possibility of renewal for a second year. The successful candidate will teach six courses in American politics and history, equally divided between the Departments of History and Political Science. We especially welcome candidates who can contribute to inter-disciplinary programs, such as Public Affairs and Policy, Environmental Studies, etc. A Ph.D. in U.S. political science or history (with the qualifications to teach the other field) is required by August 2018.

Review of applications will begin on March 5, 2018. Please e-mail all application materials to Barbara Tripp (tripp@alma.edu)

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Transcripts
- Teaching Statement
- Contact Information for three references

A Phi Beta Kappa institution, Alma is a selective, baccalaureate liberal arts college committed to academic excellence and an equal opportunity employer committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty, staff and student body. For more information about the College, visit www.alma.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3963

University of Maine

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maine invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic-year faculty position in Political Theory and U.S. Constitutional Law at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of September 1, 2018.

Responsibilities and Duties: This position includes teaching, research, and service. The faculty member will maintain a productive research program. The standard teaching load is 2/3, with a mix of introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses. Teaching and service responsibilities include holding regular office hours, advising students on their course of study, aiding them in the registration process, advising students in pre-law and the interdisciplinary minor in Legal Studies, developing relationships with the Maine legal community, and participating actively in the internal governance of the department and representing it in interactions with the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and university communities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.

Qualifications: We are interested in hiring a broadly trained political theorist who can teach courses in the history of political thought and contemporary political theory as well as on U.S. constitutional law and related topics. Additional requirements include evidence of ability for success in university-level teaching and evidence of ability to develop and pursue a research agenda, including peer-reviewed publications, in the candidate's area of expertise. ABDs may apply but a Ph.D. in Political Science or equivalent field is required by the start of the position.

Application: Applicants should submit a letter of application describing their credentials and experience relative to the qualifications above, a current C.V., official or unofficial graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations, a one page teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. Additional information, such as official transcripts, course syllabi, and writing samples may be requested at a later time. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by February 10, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Incomplete applications cannot be considered. Appropriate background checks will be required. Applicants should submit applications electronically to: <https://umaine.hiretouch.com>. Letters of Reference should be emailed to polisci@maine.edu. Specific questions may be addressed to Amy Fried, Professor and Chair, Department of Political Science, amyfried@maine.edu, 207-581-1797.

We are a faculty that values work-life balance and particularly maintaining a productively collegial workplace. The greater Bangor-Orono area offers access to a wealth of outdoor activities, a thriving cultural scene, and is close to Bar Harbor, Acadia National Park, and Portland. The University of Maine is the flagship campus of the University of Maine System. It is the state's land grant and sea grant university, enrolling over 11,000 students. The Department offers a BA degree. Further information about the Department can be found at <https://umaine.edu/polisci/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. The Department of Political Science encourages applications from a diverse pool of applicants.

On January 1, 2011, UMaine became a tobacco-free campus. Information regarding UMaine's tobacco-free policy is online at <http://umaine.edu/tobaccofree/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3958

University of Chicago

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher

The Harris School of Public Policy seeks postdoctoral researchers in political economy. Postdoctoral researchers work on independent research under a senior faculty member's guidance, teach 2 quarter-length courses per year, and participate in the academic life of the school (including attending workshops and seminars). The position of postdoctoral researcher at the rank of instructor is initially for a one-year, renewable term.

Candidates are required to have their PhD and a demonstrated record of research achievement. Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, and two letters of recommendation at <https://tinyurl.com/ydghfkg6>. Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2018. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 6/30/2018

Date Posted: 1/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3883

Barry University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of History and Political Science at Barry University in Miami Shores, Florida invites applications for a full-time, continuing track position of Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning in August, 2018.

The Department offers bachelor's degrees in Political Science, International Studies, History and Pre-law and is housed in the College of Arts & Sciences.

This full-time Assistant Professor of Political Science teaches undergraduate courses; provides academic advising and mentoring to undergraduate students; contributes departmental, college, university, community, and professional service; and engages in sustained scholarship.

Applications should be submitted by March 1, 2018.

Essential Functions

- The applicant must be able to teach courses on American politics and institutions, or on international relations, international organizations, and international political economy.
- The ideal candidate would also be able to teach research methods and/or political theory to undergraduates. In addition, the applicant should be able to teach Introduction to American Government.

- The course load is 12 credits per semester. Experience with developing and teaching distance courses is desirable.
- Additional duties include academic advising, professional service within the university and the community, and ongoing scholarship.

Qualifications/Requirements

- The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialization in American Government and/or International Relations and with a secondary area in research methods.
- Experience with developing and teaching distance courses is desirable.
- The applicant should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vita, an official transcript, and three letters of professional reference.

Benefits: Barry University offers a comprehensive benefits package to full-time employees that includes health, dental, vision, life insurance, retirement, tuition assistance, paid time off and work/life balance initiatives such as wellness programs, spirituality in the workplace, and training and development.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3953

Georgia Southern University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Congress, Electoral Behavior

Assistant Professor of American Politics—Search #67566

College of Behavioral and Social Sciences

Department of Political Science and International Studies

The Department of Political Science and International Studies in the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences invites applications and nominations for the position of Assistant Professor of American Politics at the Armstrong campus of Georgia Southern University.

In January 2017, the University System of Georgia Board of Regents voted to consolidate Armstrong State University and Georgia Southern University. The new, 27,000-student university will be named Georgia Southern University with campuses in Savannah, Statesboro, and Hinesville. The expected timeline for the first entering class will be fall 2018. Complete details are available at <http://consolidation.georgiasouthern.edu/>.

Within this setting, the successful applicant will join a Department of more than 25 faculty and staff dedicated to excellence in teaching, research, and service. The Department is committed to undergraduate teaching and is committed to providing students with significant educational opportunities through internships, Study Abroad, and a variety of experiential groups and clubs. Through the Department's academic and extracurricular activities, Georgia Southern students develop relevant perspectives and an understanding of issues at both the domestic and international levels. The Department focuses on providing students with practical and competitive skills and career prospects in an increasingly globalized economic reality. The prospective hire is expected to sustain and expand this vision.

Situated on the south side of the beautiful coastal city of Savannah, Georgia, the Armstrong campus of Georgia Southern University serves over 7,000 students. The Armstrong campus is small enough to foster a genuine sense of community and large enough to offer more than 100 academic programs that prepare our graduates for success in their careers and leadership in their communities. The Department of Political Science and International Studies offers a fully staffed baccalaureate program in political science on the Armstrong campus and plays a major role in the graduate program in Professional Communication and Leadership Studies as well.

Position Description. Reporting to the Department Chair, the Assistant Professor of American Politics position requires teaching, service, and research responsibilities as well as a terminal degree. A Ph.D. degree in American Politics and conferred by the position start date (August 1, 2018) is preferred.

Evidence of existing or prospective excellence in teaching is a must, as the position will require the faculty to teach advanced-level courses in American Politics, as well as introductory-level courses, such as American Government. The position comes with a 3-3 teaching load and an expectation of academic service in the Department of Political Science and International Studies. The prospective faculty must also be an active scholar, and fulfill the criteria necessary for a tenure track position. Research and publication work is expected

The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. The faculty position will reside on the Armstrong campus.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science
- University-level successful teaching experience, backed by evidence.
- Existence of successful research and publishing agenda in American Politics
- Evidence of effective communication skills (in English)
- Willingness to teach via web-based instruction
- Must be authorized to work in the United States for the duration of employment without assistance from the institution

Preferred Qualifications:

- Experience working with a diverse student body
- Experience with Professional Communication and Leadership Studies

Screening of applications begins February 15, 2018, and continues until the position is filled. The preferred position starting date is August 1, 2018. A complete application consists of a letter addressing the qualifications cited above; a curriculum vitae, evidence regarding teaching excellence (student evaluations, etc.), a scholarly writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and a copy of unofficial graduate transcripts. Other documentation may be requested. Only complete applications and applications submitted electronically will be considered. Finalists will be required to submit to a background investigation. Applications and nominations should be sent to:

Daniel Skidmore-Hess, Search Chair, Search #67566
 Department of Political Science and International Studies
 Georgia Southern University
 P. O. Box 8101
 Statesboro GA 30460-8101
 Electronic mail: Daniel.skidmore-hess@armstrong.edu
 Telephone: (912) 344-2532

More information about the institution is available through <http://www.georgiasouthern.edu> or <http://cbss.georgiasouthern.edu/>. Georgia Southern University seeks to recruit individuals who are committed to working in diverse academic and professional communities and who are committed to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and professional service within the University and beyond. The names of applicants and nominees, vitae, and other non-evaluative information may be subject to public inspection under the Georgia Open Records Act. Georgia Southern University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity institution. Individuals who need reasonable accommodations under the ADA to participate in the search process should contact the Vice Provost.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3949

University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow: WEALTHPOL: The Politics of Wealth Inequality and Mobility in the Twenty-first Century

The Department of Politics and International Relations at the University of Oxford is looking for a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join a research team to work on an exciting new project directed by Professor Ben Ansell, the Project Investigator (PI), and supported by the European Research Council (ERC).

The project examines political causes and consequences of wealth inequality across the industrialised world. The project divides into three core work packages, which are to be accomplished over the life of the grant. The first two work packages are macro data collection exercises assembling cross-nationally and historically comparable surveys of wealth mobility outcomes and policies. The last work package focuses on the micro-foundations of attitudes towards wealth mobility using both laboratory and survey experiments.

The successful candidate will provide research support across all three projects though their own skillset and interests may fit more closely into particular areas. S/he will be expected to contribute to the running of the project as well as to co-author work with the Principal Investigator, and pursue their own related research agenda.

The post-holder's duties will include assisting in compiling a cross-national database of wealth inequality and mobility, and to aid in disseminating the results of this work including the construction of an online open-access database. They will also be expected to develop a policy database of inheritance, gift, capital gains and other wealth-related policies, dating back to 1945 across the industrialised world. In addition, they will assist with the tendering, design, implementation and analysis of survey experiments to be conducted across six European countries.

The successful candidate will hold a doctorate in the field of political science, sociology, and economics or be close to completion of a PhD in a relevant subject. Applicants should have an interest in and strong understanding of wealth and income inequality, with the ability to use statistical software at an advanced level, with skills in data collection, management and analysis. In addition, they should have a willingness and ability to contribute to the dissemination of project results and to represent the project at conferences and external events.

This post is offered on a full-time basis, for a period of three years, to commence from 1 September 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter.

The duties, responsibilities and skills required are described in more detail in the further particulars, (Vacancy ID: 132098) which also contains details on how to apply. These are available from: <http://www.politics.ox.ac.uk/vacancies-and-jobs.html>. If you have any questions regarding the vacancy please contact Katarina Buehling, Personnel Office, at vacancies@politics.ox.ac.uk.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 3939

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Dean

Subfield(s): Administration, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

DEAN, COLLEGE OF THE LIBERAL ARTS

The Pennsylvania State University seeks candidates for the position of Dean, College of the Liberal Arts. Penn State is the land-grant University of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with the University Park campus as its administrative hub, 23 other campuses located throughout the state, and its online World Campus. Reporting directly to the Executive Vice President and Provost of the University, the Dean serves as the principal academic and administrative officer of the College. The Dean holds the Susan Welch Dean's Chair and is known as the Susan Welch Dean of the College of the Liberal Arts. The Dean's Chair was named in honor of Dean Welch with an endowment gift of $5 million in 2010.

The position requires a distinguished scholar and strong proponent of the liberal arts. The new dean will work aggressively to advance the College's position as a leader among institutions of higher education in the creation and dissemination of knowledge for increasingly diverse and global constituencies. The successful candidate will be able to lead and manage the College in a multi-disciplinary and highly interdisciplinary research university. Prior leadership experience with responsibility for strategic management of personnel, programs, communication, and resources is required, along with an ability to inspire students to expand their knowledge and understand their impact in a multicultural, global society. In addition, the successful candidate should be a visionary leader; have a commitment to high-quality disciplinary and interdisciplinary education, as well as diversity and inclusion; a record of accomplishment in research, teaching, and fundraising; and familiarity with national issues affecting undergraduate and graduate education, with credentials appropriate for a tenured appointment at the rank of professor. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

The College of the Liberal Arts, founded in 1909, has approximately 6,000 undergraduate and 850 graduate students enrolled in residence, and an additional 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in online certificate and degree programs delivered through the Penn State World Campus. The College's faculty teach about 30 percent of all undergraduate credit hours at University Park and a higher percentage in the World Campus. The College has more than 700 full-time faculty members, about half of whom are on the tenure track, including many who are recognized leaders in their fields. Departments in the College span the humanities, social sciences, and the life sciences and many of the departments are among the top 10 of their peers in the last National Research Council rankings. Several interdisciplinary research centers and institutes, within the College and across the University, enhance the College's teaching, research, and outreach missions. College centers support research ranging from ethics to cognitive neuroscience, from the Civil War to human evolution, and from the bilingual brain to counterterrorism.

The 2017-18 operating budget for the College is approximately $102 million, with the World Campus generating significant additional income. In 2016-17, the College had about $30 million in research expenditures. The College has an endowment of approximately $130 million with more than 600 active funds, and an annual fundraising commitment that averages $15 million per year.

The College provides instruction and research opportunities in 21 departments and schools—African American Studies; African Studies; Anthropology; Applied Linguistics; Asian Studies; Classics and Ancient Mediterranean Studies; Communication Arts and Sciences; Comparative Literature; Economics; English; French and Francophone Studies; Germanic and Slavic Languages and Literatures; History; Jewish Studies; Labor and Employment Relations; Philosophy; Political Science; Psychology; Sociology and Criminology; Spanish, Italian and Portuguese; and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

To apply for this position, send (cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information of four references) via the University's employment web site at <https://psu.jobs/job/76213>. Please send any questions to the Chair of the Dean, Liberal Arts Search Committee at PSU-Search@psu.edu. The Search Committee will review applications and nominations beginning February 1, 2018, and will continue to receive them until the position is filled. For more information about the College of the Liberal Arts, visit our web site at <http://www.la.psu.edu/>.

Employment will require successful completion of background check(s) in accordance with University policies. Final candidate(s) for the position will be required to complete a full background check process, including education, employment, credit, motor vehicle verifications, criminal, and child abuse as appropriate.

To review the Penn State Annual Security Report, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>; a hard copy of the report is available on request.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to minorities, women, veterans, disabled individuals, and members of other protected groups.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3933

University of Richmond

Rank: John Marshall Visiting Research Fellow for 2018-19

Specializations: Political Economy, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The John Marshall International Center for the Study of Statesmanship at the Jepson School of Leadership Studies at the University of Richmond is accepting applications for the position of John Marshall Visiting Research Fellow for 2018-19.

The Marshall Fellow will pursue his or her own advanced research in political economy as it relates to the theory and practice of statesmanship, and be in residence during academic terms at the Jepson School actively contributing to the intellectual life of the School and University through meaningful interactions with faculty and participation in Marshall Center programs. Educational requirements: Ph.D. program in economics, history, philosophy, or political science. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, but must have completed the Ph.D. in one of these fields by August 1, 2018. Applications for the fellowship are encouraged from those who have just finished or who are about to finish their doctoral dissertations.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The nation's first school of leadership studies, a top-ranked business school, and a nationally recognized international education program enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers an intellectually challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, one-page research plan, and writing sample; and provide the names and emails of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin on March 10, 2018. For questions contact Stephanie Trent, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, strent@richmond.edu. Additional information about the Marshall Center can be found at <http://jepson.richmond.edu/conferences/marshall/index.html>.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 4/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3926

Wake Forest University

Rank: Anna Julia Cooper Center Postdoctoral Fellowship on Gender, Race, and Politics

Postdoctoral Fellowship on Gender, Race, and Politics

The Anna Julia Cooper Center invites applications for a postdoctoral fellowship on gender, race, and American politics.

The Anna Julia Cooper Center is an interdisciplinary center at Wake Forest University with a mission of advancing justice through intersectional scholarship. The AJC Center supports, generates, and communicates innovative research at the intersections of gender, race, and place, sustaining relationships between partners on campus and throughout the nation in order to ask new questions, reframe critical issues, and pursue equitable outcomes. Central to that mission is creating a hub for intellectual collaboration, collegial interaction, and scholarly support of interdisciplinary research with attention to intersectional identities and experiences. We invite scholars engaged in research similarly positioned to apply.

The AJC Center postdoctoral fellow is expected to teach two courses in the fall semester and one course in the spring semester in the Department of Politics and International Affairs. These courses are expected contribute to the subfield of American politics broadly defined. The AJC Center postdoctoral Fellow is expected to be involved with and present at AJC Center events; to present annually and participate in AJC Center faculty research seminars; to work closely with AJC Center undergraduate research fellows and to be part of the intellectual life of the AJC Center.

Applicants are welcome from a broad range of social science discipline with the understanding of the expectation of ability to teach courses for the Department of Politics and International Affairs in the subfield of American politics with any of the following focus areas: American political history, American political institutions, American political behavior, American public opinion, human and civil rights, African American politics, Latino/a politics, Asian-American politics, race and politics, gender and American politics, and sexuality and queer politics.

Candidates must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D by September 1, 2018. Applicants should submit the following materials in ONE single PDF file by February 5, 2018 at 4:00 p.m. EST:

A cover letter directed to Melissa Harris-Perry, director of the Anna Julia Cooper Center

Curriculum vitae

Graduate transcripts (unofficial)

A statement of research program

A statement of teaching philosophy

Writing sample or publication

Additional supporting documents will be requested if an interview is granted.

Applicants must make arrangements to have three confidential letters of recommendation sent to letters@wfu.edu.

The submission of an online application for Wake Forest University is required for this position. Questions about the application process may be addressed to wakejobs@wfu.edu.

In order to provide a safe and productive learning and living community, Wake Forest University conducts background investigations for all final faculty candidates being considered for employment.

Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and inclusivity, and seeks applicants with demonstrated success in working with diverse populations. Wake Forest University is an AA/EO employer and values an inclusive and diverse learning community and campus climate.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/5/2018

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3925

ETH ZurichRank: Post-Doc -- Law, Economics, & Data ScienceSubfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Public LawSpecializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Communication, Judicial Politics

The Center for Law and Economics, ETH Zurich, invites applications for Postdoctoral Researchers. The newly established research group, headed by Professor Elliott Ash, JD/PhD (elliottash.com), conducts empirical research on legal and political institutions using tools at the intersection of economics and data science. We are looking for postdoc applicants holding a PhD in empirical social science (e.g. economics, political science) or data science (e.g. computer science, machine learning, computational linguistics), with research interests in this area.

The research focus is on representing legal and political language as statistical data using tools from natural language processing, and then recovering causal relations between language and outcomes in society and the economy. The postdocs will be involved in all aspects of the research, including project planning, research design, data analysis, presentation of findings at conferences, and preparation of manuscripts for submission to leading peer-reviewed journals. Postdocs will have the opportunity to co-author papers with lab colleagues, work with an array of affiliated faculty from ETH and University of Zurich, and develop independent projects related to these research areas. Organizational and teaching duties are limited to a few hours per week. Our offices are located in downtown Zurich, and the working language is English.

The appointment will be for at least one year and up to three years (contingent on satisfactory performance), with flexible starting date beginning July 2018. Salaries are internationally competitive, paid according to ETH standards (<https://www.ethz.ch/en/the-eth-zurich/working-teaching-and-research/working-conditions/employment-and-salary.html>).

The ideal candidate will have, at the time of appointment, completed a PhD in empirical social science (e.g. economics, political science), data science (e.g. computer science, machine learning, computational linguistics), or related fields. Social science applicants should have graduate-level expertise in causal inference research design, data management, and data analysis. Data science applicants should have graduate-level expertise in natural language processing and machine learning. Excellent English writing skills are essential.

For further information about the position, please contact Prof. Elliott Ash by email at e@elliottash.com. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design, data analysis, and/or machine prediction exercise (as appropriate to expertise) as part of the interview process. Application review will begin on February 1, 2018 and continue until the positions are filled.

Apply Here: <https://apply.refline.ch/845721/5895/index.html?cid=1&clang=en>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 4/15/2018Date Posted: 1/5/2018Salary: $90,000 - $99,999eJobs ID: 3904University of Arkansas, Fayetteville*Rank: Assistant ProfessorSpecializations: American Politics, Middle East, Gender Politics & Policy

Quick Link for Posting: <http://jobs.uark.edu/postings/24353>. Posting Number F384P.

About the College: The J. William Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences is the largest and most academically diverse unit on campus with 3 schools, 16 departments, and 43 academic programs and research centers. The college provides the core curriculum for all University of Arkansas students and is named for J. William Fulbright, former university president, and longtime U.S. senator.

The University of Arkansas is committed to providing an educational and work environment in which thought, creativity, and growth are stimulated, and in which individuals are free to realize their full potential. The J. W. Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences promotes these ideas and welcomes applicants who foster an inclusive environment through an open exchange of voices and ideas from populations of diverse backgrounds.

About the Department: The Department of Political Science offers a vibrant community of scholars and educators whose work centers around American Politics, Comparative Politics & International Relations, and Public Policy/Public Administration & Nonprofit Studies. The Department offers B.A., M.A., and M.P.A. degrees. The Department also plays a vital role in area studies programs as well as interdisciplinary programs across campus, such as the Public Policy Ph.D. program.

Summary of Job Duties: The Department of Political Science and the King Fahd Center for Middle East Studies invite applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank, to start in August 2018. Primary duties include teaching comparative politics with a focus on the Middle East at the graduate and undergraduate levels, engaging in a research program that results in outstanding scholarly publications, soliciting grants, and contributing to the work of the King Fahd Center for Middle East Studies.

The candidate may focus on issues such as the emergence of civil society and community engagement in a complex institutional environment, gender dynamics, migration, conflict resolution, or human rights.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or a related field conferred by the start of employment.

Special Instructions Summary: Completed applications received by February 4, 2018, will be assured full consideration. Late applications will be reviewed as necessary to fill the position.

Applicants must submit a curriculum vitae and a cover letter/letter of application demonstrating how your strengths match the duties and qualifications. A list of three professional references (name, title, email address, and contact number) willing to provide letters of reference will be requested during the application process.

Additional information, such as transcripts, teaching evaluations, and writing samples will be requested from the finalists.

The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 2/4/2018
Date Posted: 1/4/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3917

Wingate University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR. Wingate University, a residential, comprehensive university located near Charlotte, North Carolina, announces an opening for a full-time, continuing contract position in Political Science in the Department of History and Political Science beginning August 2018. In continuing contract positions, faculty members are considered for professional security after six years of successful teaching. An earned PhD in Political Science is preferred, though qualified advanced ABDs will be considered.

We seek a broadly-trained political scientist who specializes in American and Comparative Politics. Our new hire will teach American Politics classes in our growing political science major and will contribute to our Global Perspectives core curriculum, teaching a sophomore-level course called "Global Perspectives in Economics and Political Science." The GPS 220 class most closely resembles Introduction to Comparative Politics at other universities, with an additional focus on economics.

Applicants should submit information electronically in an email attachment to political-science-search-2018-grp@wingate.edu. Initial application materials should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three references. Please do not send additional materials at this stage. Applications are due on January 22, 2018. Dr. Magdalena Krajewska, Associate Professor of Political Science, is the chair of the search committee.

Wingate, a comprehensive, independent and growing university, serves more than 3,600 students in North Carolina. Founded in 1896, the University offers 37 undergraduate majors as well as graduate and professional programs. Wingate is home to the Cannon College of Arts and Sciences, the Levine College of Health Sciences, the Byrum School of Business, the Thayer School of Education and the School of Sport Sciences. Wingate blends in-class exploration with out-of-class application to deliver an uncommon and life-changing educational experience. Nearly one-in-five Wingate undergraduate students is preparing to be a pharmacist, physician assistant, physical therapist or nurse, and 60 percent of graduate students are enrolled in health sciences. Wingate offers six master's degree programs and three doctoral degree programs. Students are supported by more than 325 endowed scholarships. The University's motto is "Faith, Knowledge, Service." View current news and videos at www.wingate.edu. EOE

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/22/2018
Date Posted: 1/3/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3913

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Kinder Postdoctoral Fellow in American Political Thought & Constitutionalism

Kinder Postdoctoral Fellow in American Political Thought & Constitutionalism

The Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy at the University of Missouri is currently accepting applications for a 2018-19 Postdoctoral Fellow in American Political Thought and Constitutionalism, with the possibility of renewal for the 2019-20 academic year. Founded in 2014, the Kinder Institute is an interdisciplinary signature academic center at MU dedicated to excellence in research, teaching, and community engagement on the subject of American political thought, history, and institutions, with a particular emphasis on the ideas and events of the American Founding and their continued global impact and relevance today.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or Government is required by the time the fellowship begins in August 2018. Candidates' work should align broadly with the Kinder Institute's scholarly mission, and we are especially interested in individuals whose research focuses on American constitutional and political development and/or American political thought.

The Fellowship is a 1.0 FTE position that comes with a competitive salary, university benefits, an office at the Kinder Institute, and E&E funds for conference travel, research, and other professional expenses. Postdoctoral Fellows teach one class per semester, as determined by the Kinder Institute and/or the MU Department of Political Science, and are expected to be in residence in Columbia for the duration of the academic year and to be active participants in intellectual life at the Institute. A more detailed job description can be found at democracy.missouri.edu.

To apply, please submit the following materials: a letter of interest, research proposal of no more than 10 pages, curriculum vitae, two emblematic examples of written scholarship, and sample syllabi for two courses that you would be interested in teaching or developing. In addition, applicants should supply three letters of reference, sealed or under separate cover, or emailed directly by the referee. All materials should be sent to Kinder Institute Communications Associate Thomas Kane, electronically at KaneTC@missouri.edu, using "Kinder Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the subject line, or by post to: Thomas Kane, Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy, 409A Jesse Hall, Columbia, MO, 65211. Specific queries about the position should be directed to Kinder Institute Director and Professor of Political Science Justin Dyer (DyerJB@missouri.edu).

Review of applications will begin on February 1, 2018, and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Missouri is an EO/AA employer. Women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. To request ADA Accommodations, please contact the university's ADA Coordinator Amber Cheek (CheekA@missouri.edu or 573.884.7278).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/2/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3882

Wabash College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor (American Politics)

The Political Science Department at Wabash College invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning July 1, 2018. This position is a one-year sabbatical replacement, and the teaching load is 6 courses (3-3). ABD required; PhD preferred.

We seek candidates who will teach introductory American Politics and a range of upper-level undergraduate courses. Any specialization will be considered, but we are especially interested in candidates who will engage students in the 2018 midterm elections and/or develop courses that will contribute to at least one of the College's interdisciplinary programs (e.g., Black Studies, Gender Studies, Hispanic Studies, Global Health, Film & Digital Media; for a full listing of programs, see <https://www.wabash.edu/academics/>). We give preference to candidates with a strong commitment to the liberal arts, college-level teaching experience, support for undergraduate research, and an ability to work effectively with a diverse student body.

Wabash College is located in Crawfordsville, Indiana, approximately 45 minutes from both Indianapolis and West Lafayette. In addition to the amenities these cities offer, Crawfordsville is located near some of the best outdoor recreational opportunities in the state. For more information about the College and the local area, see <http://www.wabash.edu>.

To ensure full consideration, applications must be received by February 5, 2018. To apply, please visit <http://www.wabash.edu/employment/home>. At the time of application, please be prepared to submit your cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, unofficial undergraduate and graduate transcripts (official transcripts will be required upon hire), and email addresses for three persons who will submit confidential letters of recommendation. In addition to highlighting your research interests and trajectory, your cover letter should indicate which courses you have taught, which courses you are immediately ready to teach, as well as those you would be willing and able to prepare. Please direct questions to Pam Sacco, Academic Administrative Coordinator, at saccop@wabash.edu or Shamira Gelbman, Chair of the Political Science Department, at gelbmans@wabash.edu.

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men, seeks faculty and staff who are committed to providing quality engagement with students, high levels of academic challenge and support, and meaningful experiences that prepare students for life and leadership in a diverse, multicultural world. Wabash is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes applications from persons of all backgrounds.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 2/5/2018
Date Posted: 12/29/2017
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 3908

Oberlin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics/ Quantitative Policy Analysis Post-Doctoral Fellow

The Politics Department at Oberlin College invites applications for a post-doctoral faculty position in quantitative policy analysis in the College of Arts and Sciences. Appointment is for the 2018-19 academic year. This is a non-continuing position.

The incumbent will teach one course per semester in the quantitative analysis of public policy with at least some emphasis on American politics, help direct a series of guest scholars/policy practitioners, and mentor students interested in policy analysis.

The incumbent will pursue teaching responsibilities for one class per semester in the quantitative analysis of public policy.

The incumbent will also engage in sustained scholarly research and/or other creative work appropriate to the position, help direct a series of guest scholars/policy practitioners, and participate in a range of mentoring responsibilities for students interested in policy analysis.

Among the qualifications required for appointment is the Ph.D. degree (in hand or expected by fall semester of 2018). Candidates must demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Successful teaching experience at the college level is desirable.

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at <https://jobs.oberlin.edu>. A complete application will be comprised of 1) a cover letter that includes an articulation of the applicant's teaching philosophy and scholarship / artistic interests; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) unofficial transcript; 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness; 5) a writing sample; and 6) letters of reference from three (3) recommenders.* All application materials must be submitted electronically through Oberlin College and Conservatory's online application process at: <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/>

*By providing three (3) Professional References (names and email addresses), you agree that we may contact them through our applicant web portal. Reference writers will be asked to submit an electronic letter of recommendation. Please note: at this time we are unable to accept letters of recommendation from an Interfolio email address. Review of applications will begin on January 29, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by the January 29, 2018 deadline will be guaranteed full consideration. Questions about the position can be addressed to: Marc Blecher, Professor and Chair of the Politics Department, at marc.blecher@oberlin.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/29/2018
Date Posted: 12/19/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3892

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Rank: Faculty Member

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: International Security, Southeast Asia, Political Economy

The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a Department of Defense executive education institution that educates, empowers, connects, current and future leaders from the Indo-Pacific region. The Center offers in-resident courses, workshops and dialogue events in Honolulu and the Indo-Pacific region, and conducts policy-relevant research in order to build security capacity and collaboration in the Indo-Pacific. DKI APCSS address traditional and non-traditional security issues, including the relationship between governance and the security sector; transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, violent extremism, and trafficking; maritime security and the international rule of law; management of natural and man-made crises through HADR; analytical security assessments; and whole-of-society collaboration to include the role of women, peace and security. The audience of Fellows are mid to senior level civilian and military officials from all over the world. The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is located in Honolulu, Hawaii.

FACULTY MEMBER

The Center currently seeks world-class educators to teach, facilitate, research, and build capacity in the Indo-Pacific Region: Responsibilities include:

- Teaching executive education courses in a participant-centered, activity-based context

- Facilitating seminars and workshops in residential courses, regional seminars, and workshops
- Contributing to capacity building endeavors and security cooperation projects in the region
- Contributing analysis of security-related trends in the Asia-Pacific region
- Contributing to curriculum development
- Performing administrative and staff duties to support the Center's academic functions

Of particular interest are candidates with expertise in the following areas:

Expertise is sought in the following areas:

- Violent Extremism/Terrorism: Background and understanding of violent extremism and terrorism, broadly defined.
- OR
- Transnational Crime, Organized Crime, Combatting Illicit Activities: Background understanding in any of these areas, whether through academic training or government practice
- Ideal candidates will possess the following:
 - Master Degree or PhD in a related area or discipline.
 - Proven ability in teaching and seminar facilitation.
 - Proven ability to function as a team member.

The following are preferred for all faculty positions:

- Experience working in the Indo-Asia Pacific region
- Expertise in the security sector of one or more Asia-Pacific countries.
- Familiarity with facilitation-based teaching, and state-of-the-art educational technology.
- Professional expertise at the operational, strategic or policy level in a whole-of-government or multilateral setting.

Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications. Salary range is $90,789 - $120,157 excludes locality pay (17.92%) and cost of living allowance (COLA), currently 11.32% but subject to change). These are limited-term, excepted-service positions, for up to three years (with the possibility of renewal). Relocation expenses may be authorized.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

1. Interested candidates should submit the following items:
 - a. LETTER OF INTEREST. Provide a brief description of your vocational goals, personal interests and expected areas of study in the coming year, and explain your interest in future career considerations with the Department of Defense.
 - b. CURRICULUM VITAE. Should reflect the following: educational background, work experience, publications and salary history.
 - c. TWO LETTERS OF REFERENCE.
 - d. TRANSCRIPT(S). Provide bona fide transcripts from the academic institutions granting advance degree(s).
2. Submit all required documents to physical address:

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies
 Attn: Chief, Human Resources Department
 2058 Maluhia Road

Honolulu, Hawaii 96815-1949

or email to:

hrapplications@dkiapcss.net

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

1. Application deadline: Open until filled. Cut off: February 2, 2018.
2. Applications will be considered against current Faculty requirements. Application packages will be retained for one year.
3. Application materials become the property of the U.S. Department of the Defense and will not be returned.
4. The Department of the Defense is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status, political affiliation, sexual orientation, or any other non-merit factor. U.S. Citizenship is not required however applicants must be eligible for an H1B or other work visa.
5. The Department of the Defense provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact the Center's Human Resources Department at hrapplications@dkiapcss.org to ensure that the Department of the Defense can consider such a request. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis.
6. Frequent travel required.
7. Learn more about the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies by visiting: www.apcss.org.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 12/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3884

Roosevelt University

Rank: Lecturer, Political Science

The Department of Government, Law and Justice at Roosevelt University invites applications for a non-tenure track position in American Politics to begin August 15, 2018.

The department seeks candidates specializing in U.S. Constitutional law and judicial politics. Additional expertise in the fields of social movements or Chicago and Illinois politics is preferred but not required.

Candidates will be expected to teach the core sequence of the department's Legal Studies minor, which is designed to prepare students to apply to law school, as well as to serve as the program director of the minor. Candidates with ideas and experience about how to grow the stature and effectiveness of the minor as well as to establish more and deeper partnerships with regional law schools are especially welcome. Roosevelt University particularly seeks candidates who can successfully teach, work with and mentor a diverse student population.

Roosevelt University is a private, non-sectarian university with over 4,500 students studying at campuses in Chicago's south Loop, suburban Schaumburg and online. Founded on the principles of inclusion and social justice, Roosevelt is the fourth most ethnically diverse college in the Midwest, with a mission to prepare students to assume roles as leaders in their professions and communities.

Ph.D. in American Politics specializing in U.S. Constitutional law and judicial politics.

Departmental contact is David Faris at dfaris@roosevelt.edu

For more information on this posting, please visit us at: <http://jobs.roosevelt.edu/postings/4196>

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3887

Arizona State University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor Job Code #12239

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Thought: Historical, Religion & Politics

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-eligible position in Classical Liberal Education. Rank and tenure status will be commensurate with experience. The candidate will develop a new Master of Arts program in Classical Liberal Education and Leadership, with anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and reviving the nexus of classical liberal education and civic education.

The School is launching a Master of Arts degree for teachers and adult learners interested in deeper study of the Western intellectual tradition. The focus will be study of great works, debates, and themes of classical liberal education but an important theme will be civic questions of character and leadership. The program and its curriculum will be conducted partly through on-campus immersion in the summer and partly online during the academic year. As with any Arizona State University professor, the successful candidate will be expected to develop a research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, history, philosophy, classics, religion, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on an important work, theme, or area of the Western intellectual tradition; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: interest and ability to teach courses spanning the Western intellectual tradition and the recognized works and themes of classical liberal education; interest in study, teaching and discussion of civic education and leadership as a component of the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; experience with graduate teaching; experience with education programs for school teachers; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is January 30th, 2018; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: Classical Liberal Education Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Kent Wright; email: Kent.Wright@asu.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3881

Rollins College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor, American Politics Rollins College

The Department of Political Science at Rollins College invites applications for a one year visiting assistant professor of American politics position, beginning August 2018. We seek a candidate with broad training in American politics and specializations in some combination of political behavior, political communication/information, methodology, and Latino or minority politics. The successful candidate will also have a demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts institution.

Rollins College, the first institution of higher learning in Florida, is a small liberal arts college in Winter Park, historically emphasizing innovative and quality teaching in a small class setting. We are dedicated to building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from minorities and women. Ph.D. at time of appointment is preferred, but ABDs will be considered. Our visitor teaching load is four courses a semester, including introduction to American government and a possible general education course for non-majors.

Through its mission to create global citizens, Rollins College is firmly committed to creating a just community that embraces diversity and inclusion; persons from historically under-represented minority groups are encouraged to apply. All candidates should be prepared to address (in the online application and throughout the interview process) their ability to contribute to and sustain a diverse and inclusive environment through teaching, scholarship, and service.

Rollins College is a comprehensive, liberal arts college located just north of Orlando, Florida, a diverse metropolitan community with a thriving economic and cultural scene. Nearby, Orlando International Airport provides easy access to U.S. and international destinations. The College emphasizes innovative and quality teaching in small classes, and ranks number one among 121 Southern master's-level universities in the annual rankings of “America’s Best Colleges,” released by U.S. News & World Report. Please visit the College website at www.rollins.edu.

Rollins College offers a generous benefits package featuring comprehensive health coverage, retirement savings plan with generous employer contribution and full tuition waiver after one year for employees, spouses, domestic partners and dependents.

To apply, submit your application and upload the following materials by Feb. 20, 2018:

1. Letter of interest
2. Curriculum vita
3. Transcripts
4. List of three references (referees will receive email asking them to upload reference letter)
5. Statement of teaching philosophy
6. Teaching evaluations (if available)

Questions may be directed to: Mike Gunter, Chair, Department of Political Science mgunter@rollins.edu.

Apply link: <http://jobs.rollins.edu/cw/en-us/job/492679/visiting-assistant-professor-american-politics>

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 2/20/2018

Date Posted: 12/12/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3872

Valdosta State University

Rank: Department Head

Valdosta State University seeks qualified applicants for a fiscal (12-month) administrative faculty position in the Department of Political Science to serve as the department head. Position is tenure earning and rank is dependent upon credentials. Reporting directly to the Dean of the College, the department head is responsible for the overall day to day functions of the Political Science Department. This includes, but is not limited to:

?

- Hiring, managing and evaluating faculty members within the department.?
- Conducting periodic Departmental meetings.?
- Scheduling classes and sections for each faculty member in each academic semester.
- Advising, scheduling, overseeing internships and providing overrides, where appropriate, for students during the academic year.?
- Teaching required courses during the academic year.
- Conducting required research during the academic year.
- Attending required conferences, including those associated with academic presentations during the academic year.
- Participating in Executive Committee meetings during the academic year.
- Attending monthly University Department Head meetings.?
- Serves as Budget Manager for the departmental budget.

Required qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field; a demonstrated leadership abilities in managing personnel, budgets, and administrative duties; meets qualifications for tenure and appointment as associate professor or professor; a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching and learning, as well as scholarship; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Online application is required and should be submitted to <https://valdosta.peopleadmin.com/postings/15327>. Deadline for submission is February 1, 2018. For more information on the position contact Dr. Ross, Search Chair, via email dross@valdosta.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 12/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3867

University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a Lecturer appointment in American Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This is a nine-month, full-time, non-tenure accruing, renewable appointment with the opportunity for advancement in UF’s Lecturer track, funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The role of lecturers is highly valued by the department and the university. To encourage and facilitate their professional development, lecturers at the University of Florida are eligible for promotion through the ranks of Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, and Master Lecturer.. The prospective hire is expected to enhance our broad training of undergraduate students. We especially welcome applications from candidates with a track record of excellence in teaching and student mentoring at the undergraduate level. Specialization within the field of American Politics is open. We seek applicants who have proven excellence in undergraduate teaching and who have broad training in political science research methods. Applicants should be as comfortable offering a large introductory American Federal Government course as they are teaching a small Research Methods course for our Honors Students, in addition to upper division undergrad courses in their own areas of interest. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per semester, but a reduction in teaching is possible with significant service to the department, such as coordinating the Department’s Political Internship Program or Study Abroad Programs. The successful candidate should possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (<http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>) to learn more about the Department of Political Science. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504705/lecturer-american-politics/>

All applications must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- d) Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- e) Statement of research interests/plans
- f) Up to two reprints or pre-prints, and
- g) The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered “official” if a designation of “Issued to Student” is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3853

Western Michigan University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Urban Politics

Western Michigan University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in American Politics beginning Fall 2018 at the rank of Assistant Professor, pending budgetary approval. Preferred areas of specialization include subnational politics (State and Local Politics and/or Urban Politics) and public policy. The candidate should have experience with (or interest in) the operation and growth of internship programs and other professional field experiences for undergraduates. Administrative and teaching responsibilities related to our internship program will account for a substantial part of the instructional workload associated with this position. Successful candidates are expected to have a well-defined research agenda, to be prepared to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, and should have a completed PhD by August, 2018.

Western Michigan University (WMU), located in Southwest Michigan, is a vibrant, nationally recognized student-centered research institution with an enrollment of nearly 25,000. WMU delivers high-quality undergraduate instruction, has a strong graduate division, and fosters significant research activities. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has placed WMU among the 76 public institutions in the nation designated as research universities with high research activities.

The Political Science Department offers Bachelors, Masters, and Ph.D. degrees with a unique opportunity for individuals seeking a balanced research and teaching career. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, with an excellent benefits package. Please visit wmich.edu/hr/jobs for detailed information and application procedures. For additional questions, please contact Dr. John Clark (john.clark@wmich.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, MI 49008-5346. Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2018, and continue until position is filled.

WMU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Minorities, women, veterans, individuals with disabilities and all other qualified individuals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/8/2018

Date Posted: 12/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3857

Tarleton State University

Rank: Political Science Instructor

Specializations: State Politics, United States, American Politics

The Department of Social Sciences seeks a full-time Instructor of Political Science. The position will be primarily responsible for the teaching and management of a redesign course model for sections of GOVT 2306 Texas Government. The position may be transitioned to 15 hours of undergraduate courses per semester in GOVT 2306 or 2305 based on the instructional needs of the department. The position is based on the Stephenville campus and requires a Masters Degree in Political Science and redesign, hybrid and/or online teaching experience.

REQUIRED EDUCATION/EXPERIENCE: Masters Degree in Political Science; Experience teaching redesign, hybrid and/or online courses. Experience teaching Texas or Federal Government.

PROPOSED EMPLOYMENT DATE: 09/01/2018

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS: Applications accepted only online at <https://jobs.tarleton.edu>. The department requires a letter of application, statement of teaching philosophy, cv, transcripts (official or unofficial), and three recommendations for this position. If you are not able to attach the documents when applying, please mail the requested documents to:

Dr. Eric V. Morrow

Department Head

Department of Social Sciences

Tarleton State University

Box T-0660, Tarleton Station

Stephenville, TX 76402

If mailing, please make sure you reference the Requisition Number #0801761 and title of this position.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3832

Lee University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Humanities at Lee University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position of Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science beginning in the fall of 2018.

Duties

The successful candidate will have a concentration in American Politics and will be expected to teach courses in American Politics, the university core course in American Government, and a two-course sequence in Research Methods. Secondary specialization is open. An ability and willingness to teach courses in Public Administration would be an asset. Additional duties will include mentoring undergraduate research, advising students in the department's majors, developing curriculum, serving on university committees, seeking ways to serve the greater community, and working cooperatively with the Department Chair and departmental faculty.

Required Qualifications

The successful candidate will hold a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialty in American Politics. (ABD considered with evidence of completion by start date.) The candidate will express a strong commitment to faith in Jesus Christ and Christian lifestyle expectations, indicate a commitment to undergraduate education, passionately support the Christian liberal arts, demonstrate college teaching ability, and, effectively integrate Christian faith into the academic discipline and the classroom.

Lee University is a Christ-centered, comprehensive university that is recognized as an emerging leader in higher education in the southeastern region. To apply please send a completed application form (available at the website listed below), curriculum vitae, statement of Christian faith, and statement describing the integration of Christian faith with discipline of expertise, transcripts, three letters of reference, and student evaluations (if available) to Dr. Randy Wood, Chair of the Department of History, Political Science and Humanities, Lee University, P.O. Box 3450, Cleveland, TN 37320-3450 or by email to rwood@leeuniversity.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. For additional information contact Dr. Randy Wood at rwood@leeuniversity.edu or (423) 614-8137. The application form is available at: <http://www.leeuniversity.edu/uploadedFiles/Content/human-resources/faculty-application%281%29.pdf>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/27/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3828

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Position 1: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specialization: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in Campaigns and Public Opinion starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, but not exclusively, interested in candidates whose research addresses the role of emerging technologies such as social media in campaigns and elections; and/or who are working with advanced methods in statistical or experimental analysis.

Candidates will be asked to teach courses in Public Opinion, Political Communication, Research Methods, and Statistics and Forecasting; and should show acumen for innovative, applied teaching methods focused on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current network and partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Campaigns and Public Opinion to IESIR1@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3784

Birmingham-Southern College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Political Behavior

Birmingham-Southern College seeks candidates with a demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning August 2018. Candidates should hold a doctorate in Political Science or expect to complete their degree by August 2018. The College seeks exceptional individuals committed to the liberal arts, with a proven record of teaching excellence and a demonstrated potential for developing a distinguished scholarly agenda. The successful candidate must be able to support one or more of the interdisciplinary programs offered at the College as well as the general education curriculum.

Teaching responsibilities will include at least four of the following courses: American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Statistics, Research Methods, Comparative or American Political Behavior.

The teaching load is 3-1-3 including an interim term in January. During January, professors offer unique, innovative, experiential, and/or travel courses.

Review of applicants will begin immediately. Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial), and three professional recommendation letters. Email applications are preferred: pssearch@bsc.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Birmingham-Southern College (BSC) is a selective residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 1,300 undergraduate students. BSC is included in Pope's Colleges that Change Lives and is a sheltering institution for Phi Beta Kappa. The College's curriculum is based on close faculty-student interaction in teaching, advising, and research. For more on the College's faculty, students, educational mission, and national reputation visit www.bsc.edu.

Birmingham-Southern College is located just minutes from downtown Birmingham, which is the largest city in Alabama and a leading hub for banking and medical care and research in the Southeast, and a vibrant center for entertainment, commerce, and recreational activities. There are six higher education institutions within a short commute; a symphony; a ballet; a zoo; botanical garden; the largest art museum in the Southeast; a world-class civil rights institute and annual art, music, and film festivals – as well as numerous opportunities for outdoor adventure activities. In 2015, Birmingham was ranked as the #1 “next hot food city” by Zagat's.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3769

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under “other” document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3759

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3760

Missouri Southern State University

Rank: Master Instructor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

Seeking an Master Instructor to teach on campus in the area(s) of introductory American Government, public law, as well as supervise the MSSU Mock Trial program. Must have a Master's degree in the related discipline area, (PhD preferred). Certification in certain fields may also be accepted depending on subject matter. Employment will require a background check. E-verify participating employer. Applicant materials include a letter of application, curriculum vitae with the names, addresses, email and phone numbers of three references, and unofficial transcripts. Submit materials at www.mssu.edu/jobs. Official transcripts are required within 45 days of hire. Review of applicant materials begins immediately and will continue until the position(s) has been filled. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3721

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpgzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3436

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education.

Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin

September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

Cornell University

Rank: Endowed Professorship in American Politics

Cornell University invites applications for an endowed professorship in American politics, for a position beginning July 1, 2018. We seek to hire an individual with a distinguished record of scholarship and a strong commitment to teaching. We are interested in mid-career scholars with unusual promise as well as in established senior candidates.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9501>. We also welcome nominations, which can be submitted to Ms. Jerrica Brown, jc2322@cornell.edu. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3158

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of American Politics/Political Behavior. We seek a scholar doing research on U.S. politics in one or more of the following areas of political behavior: public opinion, elections, political psychology, political communications, political parties, and social movements. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the time of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-american-politics-political-behavior/1209/5281327>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3142

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is seeking to hire a Full or Associate Professor with expertise in American Politics. The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M is a doctoral level department with an active research-oriented faculty. The department is particularly interested in identifying individuals who could exercise a leadership role in the department's research programs in Political Behavior & Institutions, Political Economy & Political Violence and/or a university-wide initiative related to democracy. Ph.D. is required. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Indeed, the ideal candidate would possess a research profile (quality, output, and influence) that would make them competitive for an endowed faculty position, subject to approvals. The starting date for this position is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18th, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3132

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head,

Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the field of American politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3069

Connecticut College

Rank: Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior

U.S. Politics

The Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior, beginning on July 1, 2018. The successful candidate must demonstrate an ability to teach an introductory U.S. politics course and intermediate-level courses on parties and elections. Preference will be given to candidates whose scholarship and teaching are in the area of political behavior. Courses might include US social movements, identity politics, interest groups, political participation, lobbying, voting, and media. The department already has specialists in national institutions and legal studies. Required: ABD in Political Science with a U.S. Politics focus. Desirable: Ph.D. in hand and teaching experience. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment to be hired as an Assistant Professor; a candidate may be hired as an Instructor if the candidate does not have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment, but will complete the Ph.D. within one year of hire.

Salary is competitive. In addition to providing ongoing support for teaching and research, the College offers the following resources for pre-tenured faculty: a 2-2 teaching load in the first year, a research fund in the first two years, and a semester's sabbatical (at full salary) after a successful third-year review.

The College's Board of Trustees, President, administration, faculty and staff share a commitment to diversity. To this end, the College, located in New London, CT is continuing what has been a very successful initiative to diversify its faculty, staff, and student body. We encourage applications from candidates who share this understanding and will contribute to the diversity of our college community, including members of historically underrepresented groups. The College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Please visit our website, <http://www.conncoll.edu>, for more information about the College and our faculty searches.

Offering two popular majors (a government major and an interdisciplinary international relations major), Government and International Relations is a collegial department with 11 full-time faculty members. There are also opportunities for collaboration with interdisciplinary programs on campus. Moreover, the College's general education program, Connections, provides ample opportunity for collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching. For an overview of this innovative curriculum, please visit <http://www.conncoll.edu/connections/>

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43334>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Tristan Borer, Chair of the Department of Government and International Relations, at tabor@conncoll.edu. In your application letter, we invite you to describe your cultural competencies and experiences engaging a diverse student body. Review of applications will begin October 13, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, although we expect file review to be completed by October 27, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3049

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3019

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 7/18/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3006

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Political Behavior)

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in the fall semester of 2018. The primary focus of our search is American Political Behavior. Preference will be given to candidates conducting quantitative research in public opinion, voting behavior, political parties, and/or media, though candidates with a comparative perspective will be given consideration. Duties include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the University.

The normal teaching load is 2 courses per semester, but may be subject to change. Candidates are expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate, and graduate MA/PhD). Candidates must be able to teach an introduction to American Politics course. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication. Experience with external grant funding is a plus. Preference will be given to candidates whose research demonstrates methodological sophistication and who have the ability to teach research methodology at the graduate, MA/Ph.D. level. Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 15th, 2018.

To apply, please visit: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25082> for more information and application process. Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017.

The University of Nevada, Reno is the State of Nevada's land grant institution of higher education and is one of eight institutions of higher education governed by the State of Nevada System of Higher Education. With a growing and increasingly diverse student enrollment of approximately 21,000 including over 2,800 graduate students, the University provides a comprehensive selection of degree programs at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. The University is currently classified (Carnegie) as "Research University/High" which places it among the top 200 colleges and universities in the United States. The University of Nevada, is located 45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and within four hours from San Francisco and the Napa-Sonoma wine country.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2940

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Duke University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Political Development

The DevLab@Duke has one opening for a Post-Doctoral fellow working to develop rigorous programming, collect monitoring and evaluation data, and conduct impact evaluations of development projects. Prospective candidates are expected to have done graduate work in one or more of these areas:

- International Development
- Economics
- Political Science

Successful candidates will collaborate with Professors Erica Field, Erik Wibbels, Pablo Beramendi, Edmund Malesky, Manoj Mohanan, Marc Jeuland, Robert Garlick and other members of the lab in an interdisciplinary environment. They will be expected to work with lab associates to provide timely input to development practitioners affiliated with the DevLab—including donors, implementers and evaluators—at all stages of project conceptualization, design, implementation and evaluation. Lab activities will leave considerable time for independent research, and the position offers ample opportunity for developing new research projects in conjunction with DevLab members.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening, but applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The start date is July 1, 2018. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year, with the possibility of renewal for a second year. Applicants should submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10802>. Address correspondence to: Professor Elaine Denny, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall, Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204; or email: elaine.denny@duke.edu.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Date Posted: 1/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4002

Bucknell University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics beginning in the fall semester of 2018. The teaching load is three courses per semester, and the successful candidate will be prepared to teach European politics, a core course in comparative politics, and quantitative or qualitative research methods, as well as other courses in the candidate's area of specialization.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience, potential teaching excellence, and the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. or be ABD in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in comparative politics.

For additional information and to apply, please go to <http://www.careers.bucknell.edu>. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations, along with any other relevant materials. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on February 26, 2018, and applications received by that date will be guaranteed full consideration.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Apart from its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas; the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies, and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. Bucknell also has a small but growing community of Asia scholars. In the spring of 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. For those who crave the city, Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3995

Luther College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Luther College is an undergraduate liberal arts college with a population of two thousand students located in Decorah, IA. Our faculty and students are highly engaged in academics and research, music programs, athletics, sustainability, and service. Founded in 1861 by Norwegian immigrants, Luther values its heritage, just as it values the diversity of its students, staff, and faculty, who hail from many faith backgrounds and heritages. Coming from 39 states and 74 countries, 11% of our students are domestic students of color and 8% are international students.

Our location in the beautiful driftless region of northeast Iowa offers a wealth of opportunities not often found in small towns. The economic vitality of the Decorah area is attributable to being a regional hub for outdoor recreation, two nationally recognized healthcare systems, top ranked schools, business, agriculture, specialty retail, dining, and tourism. In a scenic rural setting, we are an easy 70 mile drive to three urban cities including Rochester, MN, home of Mayo Clinic and an IBM major campus.

Position and Qualifications: Luther College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science, with expertise in the field of Comparative Politics. This is a one-year, non-tenure track position to begin late August 2018. Ph.D. preferred; candidates who are advanced ABD will be considered. Teaching responsibilities will include Global Politics, Comparative Politics, and courses in the candidate's geographic (outside the US) or thematic area of expertise: for example Latin American politics, or the politics of development. The teaching load is 7 courses, spread over the Fall, January, and Spring terms.

Apply: Review of applications begins February 22, 2018 and continues until the position is filled. Apply at <https://luthercollege.hiretouch.com>. Applicant's dossier will include:

- letter of application (outline your qualifications, summarize your teaching and research interests, and briefly highlight strengths that align with strengths of Luther College)
- curriculum vitae
- unofficial graduate and undergraduate transcripts
- three letters of recommendation from those familiar with the candidate's teaching and scholarship (the college will send an email link to each letter writer identified in application process to upload their letter)

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Dr. Carly Hayden Foster, Political Science Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Luther College; email: fosterc@luther.edu. Additional information about the college is available by visiting the college website, www.luther.edu. Questions regarding the application process should be directed to facultysearch@luther.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/26/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3994

Shepherd University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Global Studies at Shepherd University invites applicants for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Political Science with specialization in global security/peace or global political economy. Regional specialization is open but preference for specialization in Latin America or Asia. Candidates with ability to teach either research methods or American political institution will receive preference.

Responsibilities include teaching 12 hours per semester (which could include 2 sections of either Introduction to American Government or an Introduction to Political Science course), scholarship, participation in Shepherd's Global Studies Program, student advisement and supervision of research projects, and participation in service activities. Candidates with a Ph.D in Political Science (or related field) in hand are preferred but candidates who are ABD with substantial evidence of nearing completion will be considered. Candidates should have demonstrated teaching ability and potential as a researcher. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. AA/EOE. Salary is commensurate with experience.

The Department of Political Science and Global Studies is a vibrant department which offers Bachelors Degrees in Political Science and in Global Studies. Within Political Science students have the opportunity to concentrate in legal studies. The Global Studies Program, an interdisciplinary program, offers concentrations in Global Governance and Peace, Global Economics and Development, Global Environments, and Global Culture and History. At the moment the Department has four full-time faculty members and between 80 and 100 majors.

Founded in 1871, Shepherd, a public liberal arts University, is located in Shepherdstown, a historic town on the Potomac River about 75 miles west of Washington, DC. Review of applications will begin immediately; applications received by March 5, 2018 will receive priority consideration. Submit a cover letter, CV, unofficial transcripts, list of references, and statement of teaching philosophy and research interests to <https://jobs.shepherd.edu>. Only electronic applications will be accepted. For more information, please contact Dr. Aart Holtslag, Search Committee Chair, at aholtsla@shepherd.edu.

Minimum Qualifications:

ABD in Political Science and primary area of competence in International Relations/Comparative Politics (area specialty other than Europe) with an ability to teach Political Philosophy, Public Policy, or Research Methods as a secondary competency.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3989

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies at Stanford University seeks to appoint a postdoctoral research associate for the academic year 2018-19, beginning September 4, 2018 and concluding August 30, 2019. The position involves working on the Freeman Spogli Institute's Governing the Global Economy research initiative with Professor Kenneth Scheve. Responsibilities will vary but likely include assisting with the design and implementation of original surveys, data collection and management, assistance in archival research, data analysis, and grant writing. There will also be substantial opportunities for the postdoc to pursue their own research projects, participate in collaborative research, and take advantage of the intellectual life at the Freeman Spogli Institute and related departments. Technical skills such as computer programming are highly desirable as is some coursework in political economy. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Proof of completion of doctoral degree is required before starting the position and the start date must be no more than three years after degree conferral. The position provides stipend and benefits, set and adjusted in accordance with Stanford University rules. Stanford University is an equal opportunity-affirmative action employer. Stanford values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty, and strongly encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Questions about the position can be directed to Professor Scheve at scheve@stanford.edu. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All applications must be submitted on-line through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10773>. Applications should be submitted by February 23, 2018

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/23/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3982

Grinnell College

Rank: Comparative Politics - 1-year term

Specializations: Social Movements, Political Economy, Gender Politics & Policy

GRINNELL COLLEGE. The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year appointment in comparative politics beginning Fall 2018. Assistant Professor (Ph.D.) preferred; Instructor (ABD) or Associate Professor possible. Expertise open to all regions except Africa, Europe and the Post-Communist region. Research and teaching interests might include, but are not limited to, social movements, political violence, gender and politics, or political economy of industrialized societies. The teaching schedule of five courses over two semesters will likely include Introduction to Political Science, two intermediate courses in comparative politics, and a seminar. Grinnell College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts college with a strong tradition of social responsibility. In letters of application, candidates should discuss their potential to contribute to a college community that maintains a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. To be assured of full consideration, all application materials should be received by February 15, 2018. Please visit our application website at <https://jobs.grinnell.edu> to find more details about the job and submit applications online. Candidates will need to upload a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts (copies are acceptable), and sample syllabi, and provide email addresses for three references. Questions about this search should be directed to the search chair, Professor Danielle Lussier, at [PoliSciSearch@grinnell.edu] or 641-269-3173.

An offer for this position will be contingent on successful completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3980

Ibn Haldun University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Positions (3) in the Department of Political Science and International Relations Ibn Haldun University

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Open Rank Faculty Positions (3) in the Department of Political Science and International Relations Ibn Haldun University

Location: Istanbul-Turkey

Salary: Not-specified

Hours: Full Time

Rank: Open

Closing Date: 22nd February 2018

The Political Science and International Relations Department at Ibn Haldun University invites applications for 3 full-time faculty positions. The ranks are open and the appointment will begin on September 1, 2018. Candidates are expected to be specialist in the specified subfields:

- * Comparative Politics with specific focus on quantitative research methods
- * Peace and Conflict Studies
- * International Security/ Security Studies
- * International Political Economy/ Comparative Political Economy

Qualifications: Candidates must possess a Ph.D. at the time of appointment from an accredited institution, have strong training in Political Science or International Relations with a specific focus on the subfields that are mentioned above. Candidates are expected to demonstrate excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, the ability to maintain dynamic scholarly productivity, and a willingness to be active in service to the university.

Responsibilities: Successful candidates will teach undergraduate and graduate level courses. Active research and publication agenda and willingness to engage in collaborative research with departmental colleagues and graduate students.

Ibn Haldun University (IHU), founded by TURGEV in Istanbul is an endowment university with the vision to stand out as a "research" university in social sciences. Graduate students will constitute more than half of IHU's student population. IHU will be an international university in that one-third of the students will be admitted from abroad. The medium of instruction at IHU is English. Its campus is located in Basaksehir, Istanbul.

Ibn Haldun University is an equal opportunity employer. It offers competitive salaries, which are commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications of the candidates.

Comprehensive package of benefits, including housing and travel allowance, private health insurance will be offered to all employees.

Interested candidates should send (via email)

- Curriculum vitae
- A cover letter including relevant research experience
- Teaching philosophy including teaching evaluations
- Research papers
- Research statement with a clear goal setting for the coming 3 to 5 years
- Two letters of recommendation.

The application deadline is February 22, 2018.

Please send your documents to pols@ihu.edu.tr

For further information and question you can contact to Talha Köse, chair of the Political Science and International Relations Department (talha.kose@ihu.edu.tr)

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/23/2018

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3973

University of Essex

Rank: Professor of Comparative Politics

Professor of Comparative Politics

Department of Government

The Department of Government at Essex are world leaders in Political Science, ranked top in the UK for research excellence (REF2014), among the top 10 Universities for Politics in the UK (The Times Good University Guide 2017), top 10 in the world for Political Science and International Relations according to the Centre for World University Rankings (2017), and among the top 50 Politics & International studies departments according to the QS World University Rankings. With 96% student satisfaction (NSS 2016) and having been awarded Q-Step Affiliate Status, we are committed to excellence in education and research.

The Role and Duties

The post-holder is expected to conduct research and teaching in Comparative Politics. The ideal candidate will also have a strong background in political behaviour. They will supervise undergraduate projects, MA, and PhD dissertations. In addition, the successful candidate will be expected to generate research income, to contribute to the administration and leadership responsibilities within the Department, and to the local, regional and international profile of the Department.

Key responsibilities include building up a sustained and effective record of impact at a strategic level in relation to teaching and learning, as part of a wider commitment to academic practice and pursuing research that is world leading in terms of originality, significance and rigour, in keeping with the REF criteria.

The post-holder will undertake a full range of Education, Research and Leadership and Citizenship responsibilities as detailed in the job pack.

Qualifications and Skills

The successful candidate will hold a relevant doctoral-level research degree in Political Science or allied field or have equivalent professional experience / practice. They will be expected to have a distinguished academic record, including internationally excellent research in the field of Political Science and be a member of the Fellowship of the Higher Education Academy or ability to gain this at an appropriate level within a defined period of appointment.

Candidates will be required to demonstrate evidence of teaching excellence at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels appropriate to the discipline; a strong, sustained record of academic publication at international or world-leading levels of recognition, with evidence of a clear publication plan for submission to future Research Excellence Framework (REF) programmes; and an established record of success in securing and managing substantial research grants (appropriate to the discipline).

We particularly welcome applications from those who identify as female or non-binary as they are under-represented in the Department.

At the University of Essex internationalism is central to who we are and what we do. We are committed to being a cosmopolitan, internationally-oriented university that is welcoming to staff and students from all countries and a university where you can find the world in one place.

Please visit our website (<http://www.essex.ac.uk/vacancies/>) for a full job description, person specification and more information relating to this post. We recommend you read this information carefully before making an application. Applications should be made on-line, but if you would like advice or help in making an application, or need information in a different format, please telephone the Resourcing Team (01206 874588/873521).

Closing date: 4 March 2018

Interviews are planned for: 30 April 2018

Salary: On the Professorial scale, commensurate with experience and achievements

https://vacancies.essex.ac.uk/tlive_webrecruitment/wrd/run/ETREC107GF.open?VACANCY_ID=140660FmJl&WVID=9918109NEm&LANG=USA

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/4/2018

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3974

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Campus

Danforth Campus

Advertised Title

Postdoctoral Research Associate

Job Category

Faculty

Job Type

Faculty - Full-time

Average number of hours per week

Based on job requirements

Recruiting Salary Range

Commensurate with experience

Department Name/Job Location

This position is in the Department of Political Science. The position is located at Seigle Hall. This position is for the Danforth Campus in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Job Description

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis is seeking candidates for up to three post-doc (non-tenure track) positions. We are currently searching for candidates in the area of American, comparative, methods, international relations, and environmental policy. These appointments begin officially on September 1 with the start of the Fall 2018 semester and continue for one academic year. The expected teaching load of the individual in these positions is one course per semester. Coursework is focused on teaching undergraduate and possibly graduate courses. There will be opportunities for professional development for the successful candidate.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to sex, race, ethnicity, protected veteran, or disability status.

Required Qualifications

The successful candidate must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science. Evidence of commitment to teaching.

Special Instructions to Applicants

Completed applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation. The application deadline is 2/23/18.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically. Please visit the Washington University Human Resources web page (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>) and search for job requisition number 39039. Candidates should create an account, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Please follow the directions below for uploading documents to your profile.

1. Log into your account. Click on 'My Activities'

2. Click on 'Add Attachment'
3. Choose attachment type and purpose and click 'Upload Attachment'
4. Browse for document on your computer and upload file

You may upload your documents as one file or individual files. Letters of reference and questions should be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3977

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Summary:

The Institute of Political Science (IPS) in The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts as early as Fall 2018. The opening is in the field of comparative politics (with or without a focus on China), research methodology, and political theory (order is by preference). A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years. The tenure-track faculty members are expected to publish research on major journals of international reputation, offer high quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background:

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas.

The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five Year Plan. SUFE is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system and offers globally competitive salaries for entry-level faculty in the discipline of political science. The newly established Institute of Political Science has nine members. Seven of them hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents:

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

Procedures:

The deadline for accepting applications is March 20, 2018, for this round of recruitment. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2018 Midwest Political Science Association conference in Chicago. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend the meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype.

Contact:

Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/20/2018

Date Posted: 1/20/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3968

College of Southern Nevada

Rank: Political Science Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Political Science Instructor

Political Science Instructor - Tenure Track - Fall 2018

This position will be open until filled. For full consideration all application related material should be submitted by 02/01/2018.

Department:

- Social Sciences.

Job Description:

- The College of Southern Nevada (CSN) is currently seeking one (1) full-time tenure track political science instructor beginning Fall semester 2018.

- Primary teaching assignment involves teaching a core course (Introduction to American Politics) but also Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to International Relations, Survey of Political Theory and other courses as determined by department need.

- Teach a minimum of 15 credit hours per semester and hold five office hours per week.

- The successful candidate will be expected to participate in department and division (school) meetings, participate in college and department committees, and engage in participatory governance activities and other service activities.

- The successful candidate is expected to assume leadership roles both within the assigned department and in the institution as a whole. In addition, the successful candidate is expected to engage in ongoing professional development.

- Teaching assignments may be multi-campus with the possibility of day, evening, weekend, or online classes in accord with department needs.

- Note: This position is open until filled. Review of applications will begin on 02/02/2018. For full consideration, all application materials should be received no later than 02/01/2018. In addition to submitting a complete application, applicants should submit, at a minimum, a cover letter addressing each aspect of the required and preferred qualifications, college transcripts, current curriculum vitae, a minimum of three (3) letters of recommendation and a sample syllabus for an introductory (survey) introductory American government course.

Required Qualifications:

- Master's degree in political science from a regionally accredited college or university.
- Have a minimum of one year (two semesters) experience teaching college level introductory political science courses within the last three (3) years.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Possess an earned Ph.D. in political science from a regionally accredited college or university.
- Documented background and experience teaching college-level urban politics/urban studies courses.
- Evidence of research in political science within the last three (3) years, which includes conference paper presentations or publications.
- Evidence of an understanding and appreciation of the community college mission, and ability to design curriculum and learning activities that address diverse learning levels.
- Background and experience in web-based and computer-aided instruction.
- Demonstrated ability to work effectively with a culturally and educationally diverse student population.

Required Documents:

Required documents (Cover Letter, Resume, and Transcripts) must be attached directly to the ONLINE application. If you are unable to attach the required documents to your ONLINE application, you may send them to Human Resources via email <mailto:hr.recruitment@csn.edu> or fax to 702.651.5778.

SPECIAL NOTE: Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications. The search committee will use this information during the initial review of application materials.

Salary:

- Initial salary placement is based on educational level and total years of full-time equivalent teaching experience. A maximum of 10 years of experience will be considered for initial salary placement purposes.

For more details on this position, please visit our website at <http://apptrkr.com/1153841>

CSN is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution. For more information, visit <http://www.csn.edu/nondiscrimination>

To apply, visit <http://apptrkr.com/1153841>

About Us

The College of Southern Nevada (CSN) creates opportunities and changes lives through access to quality teaching, services, and experiences that enrich our diverse community. CSN has three main campuses in Las Vegas, North Las Vegas and Henderson and multiple sites and centers.

The Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) is committed to providing a place of work and learning free of discrimination on the basis of a person's age, disability, whether actual or perceived by others (including service-connected disabilities), gender (including pregnancy related conditions), military status or military obligations, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, national origin, race, or religion.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-57d5992dd3ea5b4692e6bf9cd8b6d07d>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3967

St. Olaf College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

St. Olaf College invites applications for a two-third time (0.67 FTE) term position in comparative politics offered by the Department of Political Science. The successful candidate will teach two sections of an introductory course and two separate intermediate courses in their areas of expertise.

Position Description

The position requires teaching two sections during the fall semester of any one of our introductory comparative courses: the survey course; human rights, or global democracy, plus two thematic or area-specific intermediate courses offered either fall, interim or spring semester. Maximum teaching load per semester is three courses. The ideal candidate will have demonstrated commitment to excellent teaching at the undergraduate level. Starting date is September 1, 2018. Applicants are expected to have completed, or be near completion of, a Ph.D. in political science. Appointment will be as an instructor or visiting assistant professor, depending on whether a Ph.D. is completed.

Please direct any questions about the position to the Department Chair, Katherine Tegtmeyer Pak, ktp@stolaf.edu. We will begin reviewing candidates on February 7 but will continue to accept applications until the position is filled.

A liberal arts college affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA), St. Olaf College is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity in its students, faculty, and staff. To provide a safe and secure educational environment, St. Olaf College verifies the accuracy of all credentials presented by applicants and conducts a criminal background check on every new hire.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3962

Columbia University

Rank: Lecturer in Discipline - Comparative Politics, Policy Making and Political Development

Lecturer in Discipline

Comparative Politics, Policy-making and Political Development

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track, renewable for up to 3 years, position of Lecturer in Discipline in the fields of political development and in comparative politics and policy-making, to begin July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a demonstrated record of accomplishment in teaching, research and/or practice related to comparative politics and policy-making and political development. Research interests or practice should be policy-relevant. Master's degree or equivalent degree required. Ph.D. and/or relevant professional experience at senior level strongly preferred.

Applicants should be qualified to teach courses related to comparative politics, policy analysis, policy-making and political development in demanding Master's degree programs in international and public affairs. There also is a strong preference for candidates who have demonstrated success in teaching large lecture courses with a writing intensive focus. A major component of the lecturer's instructional responsibilities include teaching policy analysis and policy memo-writing to Master's students as part of a required course on policy-making in comparative context.

Please visit our online application site at:

<https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65750>

for further information about this position and to submit your application.

Screening of the candidates will begin as soon as possible. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@sipa.columbia.edu.

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs brings together an interdisciplinary faculty to conduct research in policy-related fields and train students at the master's and doctoral level for careers in global public policy.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of SIPA's academic community. Applications from women and underrepresented minorities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3956

Centenary College of Louisiana

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Centenary College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the Assistant Professor level in the Department of History and Political Science, starting 1 August 2018. Candidates should be broadly trained in Comparative Politics and International Relations, and prepared to teach a range of introductory, upper division, and core departmental classes such as Research Methods and the capstone Senior Seminar. The Ph.D. in hand by time of start date, strong teaching skills, and a commitment to scholarship are required. The standard teaching load is six courses per year, with some opportunity to teach in immersive May and August terms, and to participate in college-wide programs such as the first year experience (TREK) and Centenary in Paris.

Centenary College of Louisiana is a selective, residential, national liberal arts college affiliated with the United Methodist Church. Founded in 1825, it is the oldest chartered liberal arts college west of the Mississippi river and is a member of the Associated Colleges of the South.

To apply, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts from all institutions of higher learning, sample course syllabi, and three letters of recommendation to hr@centenary.edu or to:

Political Science Search Committee
c/o Director of Human Resources
Centenary College of Louisiana
2911 Centenary Boulevard
Shreveport, LA 71104

Review of applications will begin on February 5 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3947

University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow: WEALTHPOL: The Politics of Wealth Inequality and Mobility in the Twenty-first Century

The Department of Politics and International Relations at the University of Oxford is looking for a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join a research team to work on an exciting new project directed by Professor Ben Ansell, the Project Investigator (PI), and supported by the European Research Council (ERC).

The project examines political causes and consequences of wealth inequality across the industrialised world. The project divides into three core work packages, which are to be accomplished over the life of the grant. The first two work packages are macro data collection exercises assembling cross-nationally and historically comparable surveys of wealth mobility outcomes and policies. The last work package focuses on the micro-foundations of attitudes towards wealth mobility using both laboratory and survey experiments.

The successful candidate will provide research support across all three projects though their own skillset and interests may fit more closely into particular areas. S/he will be expected to contribute to the running of the project as well as to co-author work with the Principal Investigator, and pursue their own related research agenda.

The post-holder's duties will include assisting in compiling a cross-national database of wealth inequality and mobility, and to aid in disseminating the results of this work including the construction of an online open-access database. They will also be expected to develop a policy database of inheritance, gift, capital gains and other wealth-related policies, dating back to 1945 across the industrialised world. In addition, they will assist with the tendering, design, implementation and analysis of survey experiments to be conducted across six European countries.

The successful candidate will hold a doctorate in the field of political science, sociology, and economics or be close to completion of a PhD in a relevant subject. Applicants should have an interest in and strong understanding of wealth and income inequality, with the ability to use statistical software at an advanced level, with skills in data collection, management and analysis. In addition, they should have a willingness and ability to contribute to the dissemination of project results and to represent the project at conferences and external events.

This post is offered on a full-time basis, for a period of three years, to commence from 1 September 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter.

The duties, responsibilities and skills required are described in more detail in the further particulars, (Vacancy ID: 132098) which also contains details on how to apply. These are available from: <http://www.politics.ox.ac.uk/vacancies-and-jobs.html>. If you have any questions regarding the vacancy please contact Katarina Buehling, Personnel Office, at vacancies@politics.ox.ac.uk.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/15/2018
Date Posted: 1/11/2018
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 3939

Lund University

Rank: One Postdoctoral Position in Political Science with a Specialization in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations

Online listing: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what:job/jobID:182617/type:job/where:4/apply:1>

The holder of this post will be expected to conduct research (about 90 percent) and to teach (about 10 percent).

This position is associated with the research program State-Making and the Origins of Global Order in the Long Nineteenth Century and Beyond (STANCE), led by Professor Jan Teorell at the Department of Political Science in Lund, and funded by Riksbankens Jubileumsfond (www.stanceatlund.org). The project started in 2015 and will end in 2020. Overall, the project aims to bridge the gaps between comparative politics and international relations, and between the study of political thought and positive empirical political science. Three overall research themes form the core of this research program: (1) How did the different dimensions of state-making, including internal and external sovereignty, revenue extraction, professionalization of the bureaucracy and the development of infrastructural capacity, evolve and interact during this time period? What actors and organized interests supported or put up resistance to these processes? (2) How were these dimensions of state-making affected by geopolitical competition, warfare and the diffusion of novel political technologies? (3) What were the consequences for the international system, both with respect to the type of state that emerged and what entities were granted membership in the states system?

Each post-doctoral fellow will be expected to carry out research that contributes to the fulfilment of at least one of these overall research objectives. However, each member of the project conducts independent research and enjoys the freedom to choose his or her own research questions, to develop his or her own theoretical ideas, and to choose the methods he or she finds most appropriate. Since the program methodologically aims for a mixed-methods approach ranging from quantitative methods to single case studies, textual interpretation and archival studies, we expect candidates with broad methodological training and an open mind to take on novel approaches.

In order to allow the research group to function as a team, all participants will be expected to have the Department of Political Science in Lund as their main place of work.

Qualifications:

Eligibility for employment as a postdoctoral researcher is restricted to applicants with a PhD degree in a relevant subject. Priority is given to applicants who have completed their PhD less than three years prior to the deadline for applying to the post. The three-year limit can be extended in cases of parental leave, sickness leave or similar circumstances occurring after the PhD defense. Applicants who have yet to complete their PhDs are welcome to apply but should demonstrate that they will receive their PhD degree before 1 September 2018.

Research skills and academic promise will be the main selection criteria, but teaching skills will also be considered. Proficiency in spoken and written English and the ability to teach in English is a requirement. The ability to conduct research independently and the ability to participate in international research collaboration are very important considerations.

The most important qualification for the positions is the capacity to contribute to the research program's overall goals, as expressed in the project proposal (see below).

Appointment Procedure:

The Lund University job application portal should be used when applying. Complementary documents should be sent to: Registry office, Lund University, P.O. Box 117, SE-221 00 LUND, SWEDEN (Address for delivery of packages: Byråloggen 5C). The official record number should be clearly stated when sending complementary documents.

Your application must contain (a) a cover letter, (b) a CV, (c) one or two article-length writing samples (approximately 10,000 words), at least one of which should be single-authored, (d) a research proposal for your contribution to the STANCE research program (approx. 3-5 pages), and (e) two letters of recommendation.

Salary is determined on an individual basis, within certain guidelines for this type of position. If you wish, please state the requested salary in your application.

The employment is limited for two years.

Lund University welcomes applicants with diverse backgrounds and experiences. We regard gender equality and diversity as a strength and an asset.

We kindly decline all sales and marketing contacts.

Type of employment: Temporary position longer than 6 months
 Contract type: Full time
 First day of employment: According to agreement but preferably on 2018-09-01
 Salary: Monthly salary
 Number of positions: 1
 Working hours: 100 %
 City: Lund
 County: Skåne län
 Country: Sweden
 Reference number PA2017/3989
 Contact
 Jan Teorell, Principal investigator, +46-46-222 80 93, jan.teorell@svet.lu.se
 Björn Badersten, Head of the department, +46-46-222 01 59, bjorn.-badersten@svet.lu.se

Online listing: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what/job/jobID:182617/type/job/where:4/apply:1>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/28/2018
Date Posted: 1/10/2018
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3935

Gallaudet University

Rank: Lecturer In International Relations or Comparative Government

Gallaudet University
 Department of Government and Public Affairs
 Non- Tenure Track Position
 Lecturer, Government, specializing in International Relations or Comparative Politics (Europe, Russia, Asia, Middle East).
 Gallaudet University serves Deaf, Hard-of-Hearing, and hearing students from many different backgrounds and seeks to develop a workforce that reflects the diversity of its student body. Gallaudet is an equal employment opportunity/affirmative action employer and actively encourages deaf, hard-of-hearing, members of traditionally under-represented groups, people with disabilities, women, and veterans to apply for open positions.

General Information: The Department of Government and Public Affairs seeks candidates for a full-time 9-month non-tenure track position. Rank is dependent on qualifications. Appointment date: August 16, 2018. Position is contingent upon funding.

Qualifications: A M.A. in International Relations or Comparative Politics with specialization in any of the following fields: Western Europe, Eastern Europe and Russia, or Asia and the Middle East. College undergraduate teaching experience required; candidates should show a strong commitment to students and the department through quality teaching and service. The candidate should be fluent in American Sign Language or be willing to become fluent in American Sign Language.

Responsibilities: The candidate is expected to teach within the interdisciplinary general education curriculum and within the major. The candidate is expected to teach upper division courses within their specialization and international relations, a comparative government course, European Union course, American foreign policy, and a graduate course in international relations and development. The successful candidate will be expected to engage in in service activities for the Department, University and Community including advising and mentoring majors, participation in Department meetings and events, recruitment of students and open houses, assessment of students and other appropriate activities.

Application: Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until filled. Send a letter of application clearly outlining your qualifications and fit with the job description and requirements, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and research interests, and your personal and/or academic connection to diverse communities. In addition to this letter, please send your curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to:

Dr. Frances Marquez, Faculty Search Chair
 Department of Government & public Affairs
 Gallaudet University
 800 Florida Avenue, NE
 Washington, D.C. 20002

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/9/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3929

Lund University

Rank: Associate Senior Lecturer (4-year research job; possible to apply for promotion to permanent position)

We are looking for a ambitious political scientist at the start of her/his career. The work duties consist of research, with the stated specialisation of the post, and teaching in political science at the undergraduate and Master's levels. The position is comprised of at least 50 per cent research and no more than 50 per cent tuition and administrative tasks. The research component may amount to 70 per cent in the first three years.

The position is linked to a research project led by Professor Johannes Lindvall at the Lund University Department of Political Science and funded by the Swedish Research Council. The project started in 2017 and is expected to run until 2022. The aim is to conduct comparative and historical research on public services, focusing especially on political conflicts concerning such services. The successful candidate is expected to pursue research contributing to the general aims of the project Policing, Schooling, and Public Health in Comparative and Historical perspective. All participants will, however, conduct independent research and will be free to choose their own research topics, develop their own theoretical ideas and apply the research methods they deem best suited.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/22/2018
Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3934

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Dean

Subfield(s): Administration, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

DEAN, COLLEGE OF THE LIBERAL ARTS

The Pennsylvania State University seeks candidates for the position of Dean, College of the Liberal Arts. Penn State is the land-grant University of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with the University Park campus as its administrative hub, 23 other campuses located throughout the state, and its online World Campus. Reporting directly to the Executive Vice President and Provost of the University, the Dean serves as the principal academic and administrative officer of the College. The Dean holds the Susan Welch Dean's Chair and is known as the Susan Welch Dean of the College of the Liberal Arts. The Dean's Chair was named in honor of Dean Welch with an endowment gift of $5 million in 2010.

The position requires a distinguished scholar and strong proponent of the liberal arts. The new dean will work aggressively to advance the College's position as a leader among institutions of higher education in the creation and dissemination of knowledge for increasingly diverse and global constituencies. The successful candidate will be able to lead and manage the College in a multi-disciplinary and highly interdisciplinary research university. Prior leadership experience with responsibility for strategic management of personnel, programs, communication, and resources is required, along with an ability to inspire students to expand their knowledge and understand their impact in a multicultural, global society. In addition, the successful candidate should be a visionary leader; have a commitment to high-quality disciplinary and interdisciplinary education, as well as diversity and inclusion; a record of accomplishment in research, teaching, and fundraising; and familiarity with national issues affecting undergraduate and graduate education, with credentials appropriate for a tenured appointment at the rank of professor. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

The College of the Liberal Arts, founded in 1909, has approximately 6,000 undergraduate and 850 graduate students enrolled in residence, and an additional 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in online certificate and degree programs delivered through the Penn State World Campus. The College's faculty teach about 30 percent of all undergraduate credit hours at University Park and a higher percentage in the World Campus. The College has more than 700 full-time faculty members, about half of whom are on the tenure track, including many who are recognized leaders in their fields. Departments in the College span the humanities, social sciences, and the life sciences and many of the departments are among the top 10 of their peers in the last National Research Council rankings. Several interdisciplinary research centers and institutes, within the College and across the University, enhance the College's teaching, research, and outreach missions. College centers support research ranging from ethics to cognitive neuroscience, from the Civil War to human evolution, and from the bilingual brain to counterterrorism.

The 2017-18 operating budget for the College is approximately $102 million, with the World Campus generating significant additional income. In 2016-17, the College had about $30 million in research expenditures. The College has an endowment of approximately $130 million with more than 600 active funds, and an annual fundraising commitment that averages $15 million per year.

The College provides instruction and research opportunities in 21 departments and schools—African American Studies; African Studies; Anthropology; Applied Linguistics; Asian Studies; Classics and Ancient Mediterranean Studies; Communication Arts and Sciences; Comparative Literature; Economics; English; French and Francophone Studies; Germanic and Slavic Languages and Literatures; History; Jewish Studies; Labor and Employment Relations; Philosophy; Political Science; Psychology; Sociology and Criminology; Spanish, Italian and Portuguese; and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

To apply for this position, send (cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information of four references) via the University's employment web site at <https://psu.jobs/job/76213>. Please send any questions to the Chair of the Dean, Liberal Arts Search Committee at PSU-Search@psu.edu. The Search Committee will review applications and nominations beginning February 1, 2018, and will continue to receive them until the position is filled. For more information about the College of the Liberal Arts, visit our web site at <http://www.la.psu.edu/>.

Employment will require successful completion of background check(s) in accordance with University policies. Final candidate(s) for the position will be required to complete a full background check process, including education, employment, credit, motor vehicle verifications, criminal, and child abuse as appropriate.

To review the Penn State Annual Security Report, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>; a hard copy of the report is available on request.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to minorities, women, veterans, disabled individuals, and members of other protected groups.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3933

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellow

Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Foreign Policy

<http://www.cmu.edu/ips/>

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for teaching postdoctoral fellowship positions in Comparative Politics, IPE, International Relations, and International Security.

The postdoctoral fellow will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, complete independent research, and attend IPS sponsored seminars and other events. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of IPS and become involved in Carnegie Mellon's rich interdisciplinary community.

The postdoctoral fellowship position will run from August 1, 2018, to July 31, 2020. The salary for this position is $45,000 with a $2,500 research and travel budget. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Preference will be given to applicants who have received their PhD degree between November 30, 2015, and August 31, 2018. The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on February 8, 2018.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter of one to two pages briefly stating the applicant's academic background, research agenda, and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Research Statement;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach)
- Two scholarly writing samples;
- Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees; and
- Two reference letters.

Please e-mail your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Carnegie Mellon University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/8/2018

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3924

Koç University

Rank: ERC FUNDED POST-DOCTORAL POSITION AT KOÇ UNIVERSITY

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Social Welfare, Developing Nations

The Department of Sociology, Koç University, Istanbul, is currently inviting applications for a post-doctoral researcher position. The successful candidate will work with Assistant Professor Erdem Yörük on his European Research Council (ERC)-funded project on the politics of welfare in emerging market economies.

The project investigates the political causes of welfare state development in emerging market economies (please see emw.ku.edu.tr and the brief summary of the project below). The project is building two databases: (i) welfare state database (the most comprehensive database in terms of countries, variables, and years covered), and (ii) protest events database on emerging markets (the creation of which employs artificial intelligence, machine learning, and natural language processing (NPL) methods on local news sources). The successful candidate is expected to conduct advanced quantitative analyses using these two databases, and other microdata sources, in order to test the hypotheses of the project.

Candidates with the following backgrounds are encouraged to apply: (i) PhD in a social science discipline (e.g. sociology, economics, political science, social policy, or public policy.), (ii) extensive knowledge and experience in quantitative research methods, (iii) interest in welfare state studies, social movements, political economy, comparative-historical sociology, and emerging markets.

The successful candidate is expected to:

- Have extensive knowledge and experience in advanced quantitative analysis, including time-series analysis, content analysis methods, and data cleaning and management operations.
- Have working knowledge of Stata and/or R statistical software packages.
- Have completed their PhD degree by the start date of the position.
- Work with other research team members to co-author research articles on the topics of the grant.
- Be comfortable working in an international environment and have no restrictions on travelling internationally.

The targeted start date of the position is September 2018. However, an earlier start date is negotiable. The initial term of the position is for a full year. Renewal of the position for up to three years is possible contingent on research productivity and continued substantive fit of the candidate. This is a full-time position with a competitive salary as well as additional benefits such as private health insurance and housing. Funding for conferences is available contingent on the relevance of the conference to the project. The position will not have any teaching responsibilities.

Please send your application electronically as a single pdf. file comprising your motivation letter, CV (including a list of publications), a writing sample which includes a quantitative empirical analysis, and two letters of recommendation to the Principal Investigator, Dr. Erdem Yörük: (send to both eryoruk@ku.edu.tr and emw@ku.edu.tr). The deadline for applications is February 28, 2018, but early applications are welcome.

The New Politics of Welfare: Towards an "Emerging Markets" Welfare State Regime (ERC Starting Grant)

This research project aims to identify a new welfare regime in emerging market economies and explain why it has emerged. The project will compare Brazil, China, India, Indonesia, Mexico, South Africa, and Turkey to test two hypotheses: (i) emerging market economies are forming a new welfare regime that differs from liberal, corporatist and social democratic welfare regimes of the global north on the basis of extensive and decommodifying social assistance programmes, (ii) the new welfare regime emerges principally as a response to the growing political power of the poor as a dual source of threat and support for governments. Based on a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective, the project follows a multi-method strategy that combines protest event data collection techniques, macro-historical methods, quantitative data analyses and qualitative content analysis.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/28/2018

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3923

University of Oxford

Rank: Gwilym Gibbon Senior Research Fellow in British Policy and Politics

Gwilym Gibbon Senior Research Fellow in British Policy and Politics

Salary: GBP 86,000 to GBP 95,000 per annum

The Department of Politics and International Relations and Nuffield College at the University of Oxford seek to appoint a Gwilym Gibbon Senior Research Fellow in British Policy and Politics to provide intellectual leadership and to undertake world class research in British

Policy and Politics. The successful candidate will be expected to establish the strategic direction of, and to lead, a major research programme in the field of British Policy and Politics; to provide vision and direction for research collaborators, colleagues and research students; to act as Director of the Gwilym Gibbon Centre for Public Policy at Nuffield College; and to play a full and active role in the academic life of the Department of Politics and International Relations and of Nuffield College.

The successful candidate for this post will be a distinguished scholar in the field of British Policy and Politics, with the ability to conduct internationally excellent research and to provide leadership in this research area. She or he will hold a doctorate in a relevant field and will have an outstanding publication record and excellent reputation in teaching and academic supervision, as well as proven ability and evidence of commitment to engagement with policymakers, practitioners and the public. It is expected that the successful candidate will operate at the level of professor in a top research university. On appointment, the Professorial title may be sought, if appropriate.

The post is full-time, permanent and tenable from 1 September 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter. An earlier start date could also be considered. The successful candidate will be based at Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations.

Further particulars, including information on the duties of the post, the selection criteria, and how to apply, are available from the College web page: https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/2407/srf_britishpolicy_fp.pdf or from the College Registrar, Email: academic.admin@nuffield.ox.ac.uk.

The deadline for applications is 12 noon (UK time) on Friday 9 February 2018.

Queries about the post should be addressed to the College's Warden, Sir Andrew Dilnot (andrew.dilnot@nuffield.ox.ac.uk) and/or Professor Desmond King (desmond.king@nuffield.ox.ac.uk). Queries about the application process should be addressed to the College's Academic Office at academic.admin@nuffield.ox.ac.uk (telephone: +44 (0) 1865 278516).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/9/2018

Date Posted: 1/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3920

Wingate University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR. Wingate University, a residential, comprehensive university located near Charlotte, North Carolina, announces an opening for a full-time, continuing contract position in Political Science in the Department of History and Political Science beginning August 2018. In continuing contract positions, faculty members are considered for professional security after six years of successful teaching. An earned PhD in Political Science is preferred, though qualified advanced ABDs will be considered.

We seek a broadly-trained political scientist who specializes in American and Comparative Politics. Our new hire will teach American Politics classes in our growing political science major and will contribute to our Global Perspectives core curriculum, teaching a sophomore-level course called "Global Perspectives in Economics and Political Science." The GPS 220 class most closely resembles Introduction to Comparative Politics at other universities, with an additional focus on economics.

Applicants should submit information electronically in an email attachment to political-science-search-2018-grp@wingate.edu. Initial application materials should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three references. Please do not send additional materials at this stage. Applications are due on January 22, 2018. Dr. Magdalena Krajewska, Associate Professor of Political Science, is the chair of the search committee.

Wingate, a comprehensive, independent and growing university, serves more than 3,600 students in North Carolina. Founded in 1896, the University offers 37 undergraduate majors as well as graduate and professional programs. Wingate is home to the Cannon College of Arts and Sciences, the Levine College of Health Sciences, the Byrum School of Business, the Thayer School of Education and the School of Sport Sciences. Wingate blends in-class exploration with out-of-class application to deliver an uncommon and life-changing educational experience. Nearly one-in-five Wingate undergraduate students is preparing to be a pharmacist, physician assistant, physical therapist or nurse, and 60 percent of graduate students are enrolled in health sciences. Wingate offers six master's degree programs and three doctoral degree programs. Students are supported by more than 325 endowed scholarships. The University's motto is "Faith, Knowledge, Service." View current news and videos at www.wingate.edu. EOE

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/22/2018

Date Posted: 1/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3913

SUNY, Binghamton University

Rank: Post Doc Institute for Genocide and Mass Atrocity Prevention

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Binghamton University's Institute for Genocide and Mass Atrocity Prevention seeks applications for a one-year (non-renewable) post-doctoral research and teaching Fellow. The GMAP Fellowship supports recent recipients of terminal degrees in academic disciplines contributing to the study of policies and practices designed to predict and prevent genocide and mass atrocities. Applicants must have their terminal degree conferred by the Fellowship start date of August 20, 2018. Recent PhDs in such disciplines (e.g. political science and international studies, sociology or anthropology, geography or public administration) are welcome to apply. In appropriate circumstances applications by recent recipients of the J.D. will also be considered, as will those already occupying temporary or tenure-track positions. For the 2018-19 academic year, the Institute particularly welcomes applicants whose research programs intersect with question of gender and prevention.

Binghamton University's GMAP Institute concentrates specifically on the formation, implementation, and assessment of practical preventative measures and policies. Applicants should present a research program or proposal that documents this practical dimension. The Fellow will conduct research, collaborate with Binghamton University faculty and graduate students associated with the Institute, and will offer at least one public lecture and/or workshop during the academic year.

The Fellow will also be expected to offer one course per academic year, at either the graduate or undergraduate level, in an appropriate department.

Deadline for External Applicants: Open until filled

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the vacancy is filled.

Persons interested in this position should apply online.

Please submit:

1. A short cover letter
2. A CV
3. A detailed research proposal including a statement of how the proposal further research in the prevention of genocide and mass atrocity
4. Titles of two or three possible courses
5. Three confidential letters of recommendation

Informal inquiries can be directed to Prof. Max Pensky (mpensky@binghamton.edu).

You may add additional files/documents after uploading your resume. After you fill out your contact information, you will be directed to the upload page. Please login to check/edit your profile or to upload additional documents: <https://binghamton.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=92541>

The State University of New York is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. As required by title IX and its implementing regulations Binghamton University does not discriminate on the basis of sex in the educational programs and activities which it operates. This requirement extends to employment and admission. Inquiries about sex discrimination may be directed to the University Title IX Coordinator or directly to the Office of Civil Rights (OCR). Contact information for the Title IX Coordinator and OCR, as well as the University's complete Non-Discrimination Notice may be found here: <https://www.binghamton.edu/diversity-equity-inclusion/policies/title-ix.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/22/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3903

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Rank: Faculty Member

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: International Security, Southeast Asia, Political Economy

The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a Department of Defense executive education institution that educates, empowers, connects, current and future leaders from the Indo-Pacific region. The Center offers in-resident courses, workshops and dialogue events in Honolulu and the Indo-Pacific region, and conducts policy-relevant research in order to build security capacity and collaboration in the Indo-Pacific. DKI APCSS address traditional and non-traditional security issues, including the relationship between governance and the security sector; transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, violent extremism, and trafficking; maritime security and the international rule of law; management of natural and man-made crises through HADR; analytical security assessments; and whole-of-society collaboration to include the role of women, peace and security. The audience of Fellows are mid to senior level civilian and military officials from all over the world. The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is located in Honolulu, Hawaii.

FACULTY MEMBER

The Center currently seeks world-class educators to teach, facilitate, research, and build capacity in the Indo-Pacific Region: Responsibilities include:

- Teaching executive education courses in a participant-centered, activity-based context
- Facilitating seminars and workshops in residential courses, regional seminars, and workshops
- Contributing to capacity building endeavors and security cooperation projects in the region
- Contributing analysis of security-related trends in the Asia-Pacific region
- Contributing to curriculum development
- Performing administrative and staff duties to support the Center's academic functions

Of particular interest are candidates with expertise in the following areas:

Expertise is sought in the following areas:

- Violent Extremism/Terrorism: Background and understanding of violent extremism and terrorism, broadly defined.
- OR
- Transnational Crime, Organized Crime, Combatting Illicit Activities: Background understanding in any of these areas, whether through academic training or government practice
- Ideal candidates will possess the following:
 - Master Degree or PhD in a related area or discipline.
 - Proven ability in teaching and seminar facilitation.
 - Proven ability to function as a team member.

The following are preferred for all faculty positions:

- Experience working in the Indo-Asia Pacific region
- Expertise in the security sector of one or more Asia-Pacific countries.
- Familiarity with facilitation-based teaching, and state-of-the-art educational technology.
- Professional expertise at the operational, strategic or policy level in a whole-of-government or multilateral setting.

Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications. Salary range is $90,789 - $120,157 excludes locality pay (17.92%) and cost of living allowance (COLA), currently 11.32% but subject to change). These are limited-term, excepted-service positions, for up to three years (with the possibility of renewal). Relocation expenses may be authorized.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

1. Interested candidates should submit the following items:

- a. LETTER OF INTEREST. Provide a brief description of your vocational goals, personal interests and expected areas of study in the coming year, and explain your interest in future career considerations with the Department of Defense.

b. CURRICULUM VITAE. Should reflect the following: educational background, work experience, publications and salary history.

c. TWO LETTERS OF REFERENCE.

d. TRANSCRIPT(s). Provide bona fide transcripts from the academic institutions granting advance degree(s).

2. Submit all required documents to physical address:

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies
Attn: Chief, Human Resources Department
2058 Maluhia Road
Honolulu, Hawaii 96815-1949

or email to:

hrapplications@dkiapcss.net

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

1. Application deadline: Open until filled. Cut off: February 2, 2018.
2. Applications will be considered against current Faculty requirements. Application packages will be retained for one year.

3. Application materials become the property of the U.S. Department of the Defense and will not be returned.

4. The Department of the Defense is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status, political affiliation, sexual orientation, or any other non-merit factor. U.S. Citizenship is not required however applicants must be eligible for an H1B or other work visa.

5. The Department of the Defense provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact the Center's Human Resources Department at hrapplications@dkiapcss.org to ensure that the Department of the Defense can consider such a request. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis.

6. Frequent travel required.

7. Learn more about the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies by visiting: www.apcss.org.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 12/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3884

University of St. Gallen

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with a focus on Business and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

The University of St. Gallen, Switzerland, seeks to appoint an Assistant Professor of Political Science with a focus on Business and Politics

starting September 1st, 2018 or by mutual agreement

The University of St Gallen and its Department of Political Science invite outstanding candidates to apply for an assistant professorship in the field of Business and Politics.

We are looking for an excellent scholar with a specialization in empirical research on the role of private business actors in politics. This may include, among others, business-government relations; contributions about firms' roles in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals; the political effects of varying ownership of key infrastructures and natural resources; managerial preferences, corporate control, and political development; the link between corporate social responsibility and public policy (e.g., corruption, welfare, environment, security); governance by private actors; or industry self-regulation.

Applicants should have a doctorate in political science, a promising research agenda, strong quantitative methods skills, and a willingness to collaborate on research and teaching with scholars from other fields, notably business management and corporate governance.

The successful candidate is expected to undertake research of the highest international standards within his or her own field of specialization and to teach in English in the university's programmes in International Affairs and Governance (two classes per week during term).

The Department of Political Science is a member of the School of Economics and Political Science (SEPS) and offers excellent research conditions and a stimulating academic environment. Through its collaborations, research centres and exchange programmes, it maintains a wide international network. The SEPS is committed to promoting young scholars in their career advancement. The appointment is for a term of 6 years. Applications from qualified women are particularly welcome.

We seek to appoint the successful candidate per September 1st, 2018 or by mutual agreement. For further information, please contact Professor Patrick Emmenegger, Chairman of the Search Committee (Patrick.Emmenegger@unisg.ch).

Candidates should submit their application, that is a cover letter including a presentation of research interests and a statement on teaching strategy and philosophy, curriculum vitae, publications list, a job market paper that best represents their current research profile, and the contact details of two academic referees, in electronic form to the President of the University of St. Gallen, Professor Thomas Bieger (online: <https://www.unisg.ch/universitaet/arbeitenanderhsjg/aktuellstellenangebote/jobs>).

The deadline for applications is February 18th, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/18/2018

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: $120,000 - $129,999

eJobs ID: 3876

Michigan State University

Rank: Research Associate - Fixed Term

The Department of Political Science is seeking to hire a full time Research Associate in the broad areas of International and Comparative Political Economy. The successful candidate will be expected to work with Professor Cristina Bodea to enhance the department's research agenda in Political Economy, through the publication of co-authored work with the Political Economy faculty and graduate students.

The requirements include: 1) A PhD in Political Science; 2) advanced training in Statistics and Econometrics. The teaching obligations for this position include one undergraduate course and several lab sessions for graduate students in the candidate's area of expertise. The initial appointment will be for one year, with an option for reappointment for another year.

Review of applications will begin February 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is August 15, 2018.

Interested applicants should apply via Michigan State University's Applicant Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu/>. Please submit cover letter, CV, copy of graduate transcripts, one research paper, statement of proposed research ideas (2-3 pages) and two letters of reference. For further questions please contact Professor Cristina Bodea at bodeaana@msu.edu. MSU is an Affirmative-Action equal-opportunity employer and is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3852

Yale University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship in Political Economy, Leitner Program in International and Comparative Political Economy, The MacMillan Center, Yale University

The Leitner Program in International and Comparative Political Economy at Yale invites applications for a post-doctoral position for AY 2018-2019. Candidates must have a robust research program in political economy, broadly construed, and must have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

The post-doctoral fellow will teach one course during the year, either in the Fall or the Spring semester, pursue his/her own research, and participate in the activities of the Leitner program. Fellows are expected to be in residence from August 2018 to May 2019.

We will begin accepting applications immediately with review beginning on Friday, December 15, 2017 and continuing until the selections are final.

Yale University is an equal opportunity employer. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Compensation is competitive, and includes benefits and health coverage. We expect to be able to cover a junior scholar's salary for the full academic year and up to half of a senior scholar's salary. Senior scholars who will be taking leave from their home institution to accept the fellowship should indicate salary requirements and whether they expect to receive salary support from their university or outside sources.

To apply, send a cover letter, CV, research statement and a draft of a syllabus of a course you propose to teach at Yale. You'll also need to have three letters of recommendation submitted on your behalf.

All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46617>

Ms. Hira Jafri, Program Manager, Leitner Program in International and Comparative Political Economy, The Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, 34 Hillhouse Avenue, P.O. Box 208206 New Haven, CT 06520-8206 USA. Email: hira.jafri@yale.edu. For details on the Leitner program, please consult the website: <http://www.yale.edu/leitner>

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3851

Rhode Island College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Assistant Professor, Political Science. The Political Science Department at Rhode Island College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the field Comparative Politics, with specialization in the politics of the Middle East, to begin Fall, 2018. The person hired will teach introductory political science courses, upper-level courses in their areas of specialization, and a course on non-governmental organizations. Additionally, we seek candidates who can teach our required course on research and writing in Political Science. The standard teaching load is three 4-credit courses per semester. Additional information on the position and application instructions can be found at <https://employment.ric.edu>.

Rhode Island College serves a diverse student population and is located in the vibrant city of Providence, Rhode Island.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3824

University of Calgary

Rank: Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in The Politics of Decolonization

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The University of Calgary is engaged in a consultative process with knowledge keepers, Elders, and leaders of the Treaty #7 peoples, the Métis Nation, and academics and university administrators. This ongoing process has resulted in the development of an Indigenous Strategy designed to guide the University's relationship with the Indigenous peoples in whose territory the University resides. One of the goals identified during this consultation is to increase the number of Indigenous scholars in leading positions on campus. In addition to Indigenous cluster hires in the Faculty of Arts and the Werklund School of Education, the University of Calgary is now seeking three Canada Research Chairs (Tier II).

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in the Politics of Decolonization. We are seeking a scholar who will establish and maintain an active research program leading to excellence in our understanding of decolonization. Themes may include, but are not limited to, the study of political processes that redistribute land from colonial states to Indigenous nations, the revitalization of Indigenous land-based governance practices, the study of Indigenous decolonizing political movements, and gendered perspectives on decolonization. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) or Associate Professor (with tenure). The anticipated start date is July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will hold a PhD in Political Science or a related field. The appointee's research agenda may be grounded in any of the fields of political science (political theory, Canadian politics, comparative politics, international relations) or be inter-disciplinary in focus. A research program focused on Canada would be an asset but is not required to be considered for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to build relationships with the Treaty #7 Nations and the Métis Nation. This may include incorporating the experiences and needs of the Treaty #7 peoples and the Métis into their research. This appointment will contribute to the University of Calgary's commitment to create a rich, vibrant and culturally competent campus – one that welcomes and supports Indigenous learners, is inclusive of Indigenous perspectives in teaching and learning, encourages Indigenous community partnerships in research and academic programming and is appropriate and thoughtful in its response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's 'Calls to Action'.

The successful candidate at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of excellence in research, teaching and community engagement, commensurate with academic experience. This would normally include publications in high quality journals, success with securing competitive research funding, and evidence of a commitment to teaching effectiveness and to engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions. The successful candidate at the Associate Professor level must demonstrate a proven track record of research and teaching excellence, including a record of publications in high quality journals, proven success in obtaining competitive research funding, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a record of successful graduate student supervision, where possible. The successful candidate at this level should also provide evidence of successful engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions, including evidence of success in community-engaged projects and scholarship.

The Department of Political Science is housed in the Faculty of Arts. The Department administers the International Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program that attracts students from across the University. The program focuses on various aspects of Indigenous people's experience including arts, culture, ways of knowing, languages, economies, politics, and community structures. The candidate's willingness to teach in this program will be considered an asset. As part of its Indigenous Strategy, the Faculty has created eight tenure-track positions in Indigenous research and scholarship, across various departments. This community of scholars facilitates cross-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada. The Canada Research Chair in the Politics of Decolonization will provide leadership in these areas.

Tier II chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e., candidates must have been an active researcher in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier II chair assessed through the program's Tier II justification process. Please consult the Government of Canada's CRC website for full program information, including further details on eligibility criteria.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit their application online via the 'Apply Now' link at <http://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/8164474-canada-research-chair-tier-ii-in-the-politics-of-decolonization-faculty-of-arts> and include:

- A letter of interest and curriculum vitae, including a statement providing evidence of the applicant's connection to the Indigenous community
- Three examples of recent scholarly work
- Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- Description of a proposed 5-year research plan for the Chair

Applicants should also arrange to have three electronic confidential letters of reference sent under separate cover directly to the chair of the selection committee:

Dr. Antonio Franceschet
 Department Head, Department of Political Science
 Faculty of Arts, University of Calgary
 Email: polihire@ucalgary.ca

Questions regarding this opportunity should be addressed to Dr. Antonio Franceschet by email (polihire@ucalgary.ca)

Deadline: January 30, 2018

The University of Calgary recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research experiences of the entire campus and greater community. We are committed to removing barriers that have been historically encountered by some people in our society. We strive to recruit individuals who will further enhance our diversity and will support their academic and professional success while they are here; in particular, we encourage members of the four designated groups (women, Aboriginal People, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities) to apply. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. To ensure a fair and equitable assessment, we offer accommodation at any stage during the recruitment process to applicants with disabilities. Questions regarding diversity or requests for accommodation can be sent to Human Resources (hrhire@ucalgary.ca).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3813

Cornell University

Rank: Visiting Associate Professor

Cornell University's Department of Government seeks to fill a three-year visiting position, beginning July 1, 2018, in International Relations and Comparative Politics, with a focus on the politics and foreign policies of the Middle East. The ideal candidate will be able to teach courses on Israeli politics in comparative perspective (Middle East and cross-regional), the politics of nationalism and separatist movements, and international politics more broadly. The Department welcomes applicants who cross subfield boundaries (e.g., with connections to political theory) and would interact with other departments and programs, such as Near East Studies and the Judith Reppy Institute for Peace and Conflict Studies. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10478>. We will begin to review applications starting December 1, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3789

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Position 1: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specialization: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in Campaigns and Public Opinion starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, but not exclusively, interested in candidates whose research addresses the role of emerging technologies such as social media in campaigns and elections; and/or who are working with advanced methods in statistical or experimental analysis.

Candidates will be asked to teach courses in Public Opinion, Political Communication, Research Methods, and Statistics and Forecasting; and should show acumen for innovative, applied teaching methods focused on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current network and partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Campaigns and Public Opinion to IESIR1@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3784

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Position 3: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Rank: Assistant Professor

Disciplines: International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Subfield: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in International or Comparative Political Economy starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in technologies impacting global economic governance such as Blockchain, FinTech and others.

Candidates will be expected to teach courses in International Political Economy, International Trade, and International Finance, as well as core courses in Micro- and Macro-Economics. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, International Relations, or

Economics is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Political Economy to IESIR3@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3786

Birmingham-Southern College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Political Behavior

Birmingham-Southern College seeks candidates with a demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning August 2018. Candidates should hold a doctorate in Political Science or expect to complete their degree by August 2018. The College seeks exceptional individuals committed to the liberal arts, with a proven record of teaching excellence and a demonstrated potential for developing a distinguished scholarly agenda. The successful candidate must be able to support one or more of the interdisciplinary programs offered at the College as well as the general education curriculum.

Teaching responsibilities will include at least four of the following courses: American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Statistics, Research Methods, Comparative or American Political Behavior.

The teaching load is 3-1-3 including an interim term in January. During January, professors offer unique, innovative, experiential, and/or travel courses.

Review of applicants will begin immediately. Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial), and three professional recommendation letters. Email applications are preferred: pssearch@bsc.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Birmingham-Southern College (BSC) is a selective residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 1,300 undergraduate students. BSC is included in Pope's Colleges that Change Lives and is a sheltering institution for Phi Beta Kappa. The College's curriculum is based on close faculty-student interaction in teaching, advising, and research. For more on the College's faculty, students, educational mission, and national reputation visit www.bsc.edu.

Birmingham-Southern College is located just minutes from downtown Birmingham, which is the largest city in Alabama and a leading hub for banking and medical care and research in the Southeast, and a vibrant center for entertainment, commerce, and recreational activities. There are six higher education institutions within a short commute; a symphony; a ballet; a zoo; botanical garden; the largest art museum in the Southeast; a world-class civil rights institute and annual art, music, and film festivals – as well as numerous opportunities for outdoor adventure activities. In 2015, Birmingham was ranked as the #1 “next hot food city” by Zagat's.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3769

Roger Williams University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Roger Williams University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics with a regional specialization in Latin America. The successful candidate must be committed to the excellent standards of teaching within the department's two majors of Political Science and International Relations. The successful candidate must also be willing to support the interdisciplinary Latino and Latin American Studies program and the University's Core (general education) program. The ability to teach in the interdisciplinary Public Health major would be an asset. Solid secondary expertise in a region not already covered by existing faculty is also desirable. As well as teaching, the candidate will be responsible for advising students, curricular development, scholarly activity, and service to the department and the university community.

DPIR consists of seven full-time faculty covering American Politics, International Relations, International Political economy, Middle Eastern Politics, Public Administration, and Chinese and Russian Politics. We value collegiality, service to the department and university and are engaged with the academic and wider community in various ways.

The candidate must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or Government with an emphasis in Comparative Politics at the time of appointment. The search committee will consider extraordinarily qualified Ph.D. candidates (ABD) with the condition that they will have completed their dissertation defense by the time of appointment. Highly desirable candidates will have at least two years of teaching experience at the undergraduate level as well as a solid record of scholarly activity.

Qualified applicants should submit materials electronically, including: 1) a letter of intent along with statements of teaching philosophy and research interests; 2) a current vita; 3) representative sample syllabi; 4) evidence of teaching experience including student evaluations (if available); and 5) name and contact information for at least three references. The online application is available here: <http://rwu.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=91486>

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3775

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the 2018-19 academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2018. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the Center's faculty. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Applicants must apply online at :<https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4781> (D-18-PII-00004)

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
3. A current curriculum vitae
4. Contact information for two references
5. Two writing samples.

Application deadline: February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3765

University of Rochester

Rank: Post-doctoral fellowship

Applications for 2018-19 are welcome in any area of international or comparative politics, but preference will be given to applicants whose work focuses on Central and Eastern Europe, broadly defined. Fellows offer two courses during the academic year and receive a stipend of $42,000. Applicants without a Ph.D. should describe their plans for completing the degree by the time the fellowship commences.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a 3-5 page research project description, a one-page sketch of proposed courses, one or more writing samples, and three letters of recommendation to: Fellowship in International and Central European Politics, Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies, University of Rochester, Harkness Hall 101, Rochester, New York 14627-0147. Applications must be postmarked by Jan. 5, 2018. Direct questions to Dr. Bozena Sobolewska, bsobolew@mail.rochester.edu, or 585-275-9898.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3766

American University in Cairo

Rank: Comparative Politics/Methods

Comparative Politics/ Methods

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in Comparative Politics with emphasis on methods at the Assistant or Associate Level Professor beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in comparative politics, using examples outside as well as inside the Middle East and North Africa. Candidates who can teach quantitative & qualitative methods and apply them to studies of surveys and elections in the Arab region are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3744

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Comparative Law and Courts

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Economic, Political, and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas (UTD) invites applications for a full-time, open rank tenure-track position beginning in August of 2018 in the Political Science Program. Candidates at the associate or full rank are preferred, although advanced assistants will be considered. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory undergraduate comparative law course, specialized upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, and to be involved with the pre-law administrative team. Possible specializations might include: human rights, cyberlaw, comparative and foreign law, or trade law, among others. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.

The University of Texas at Dallas is a fast-growing, suburban research university and has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public university in Texas. UTD is ranked 1st among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine and is classified by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education as R1 (Highest Research Activity). The Political Science program currently has approximately 60 graduate students and 250 undergraduate majors.

Faculty typically teach two courses per semester, and opportunities for leave become available after a successful third-year review.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue through January 31, 2018. Position starts in August 2018.

Apply at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/8997>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3740

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs:

undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3589

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3574

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) Official transcripts
- (3) A curriculum vita
- (4) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (5) A writing sample
- (6) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3537

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjovy8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpogzop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3440

SUNY, CortlandRank: Assistant Professor*Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/13/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3412Higher School of Economics*Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3361

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3351

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3329

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3156

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of Comparative Politics. Areas of interest include state formation and capacity, authoritarianism and democratization, contentious politics, identity politics, political institutions and policymaking, and the political economy of development. We welcome applications from scholars studying any developing region, including South Asia, Latin America, and Africa. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the start of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-comparative-politics/1209/5281326>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3141

Cornell University

Rank: Tenture-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Government at Cornell University welcomes applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The department has special interest in candidates whose research and teaching interests include formal theory, Europe, the Middle East, and/or South Asia. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2018.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9482>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is complete.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3125

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Widener University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Political Science Department at Widener University seeks a tenure-track assistant professor to teach introductory and upper level courses in International Relations beginning August 2018. The ideal candidate should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations. The candidate should be prepared to contribute to student programming in Global Engagement and general education courses focused on global citizenship. The department would welcome candidates who could contribute to Widener's African and African American Studies curriculum and/or teach graduate courses on leadership and management in international organizations in the Masters of Public Administration program and the Non-profit Leadership Certificate program. The successful candidate will have demonstrated excellence in teaching, be expected to pursue an active research agenda, and contribute to campus and professional service.

Responsibilities: Teaching responsibilities each semester will include one or two introductory courses in international relations and two upper-division courses in the candidate's areas of expertise. The candidate will also be expected to teach international relations theory and periodically co-teach the department's senior research course. Teaching load is three-four (9 semester hours/12 semester hours).

Job Qualifications:

Qualifications: Minimum requirements are a commitment to, and experience with, undergraduate education and clear evidence of scholarly potential. A Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations is required by the time of appointment.

To Apply: Applicants must complete the on-line application at https://widener.igreentree.com/CSS_External/CSSPage_JobDetail.ASP?T=20180129203539&

Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, one copy of an introductory international relations course syllabus with assignments, and one copy of a potential upper-division course syllabus with assignments through the on-line system. In addition, the applicant should arrange to have three confidential letters of reference sent to Arts_and_Sciences@widener.edu. Please be certain all documents are submitted as as either .docx or .pdfs

Complete applications received by February 21, 2018 are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee.

Widener University, an independent, metropolitan, doctoral-intensive University, connects curricula to social issues through civic engagement. Dynamic teaching, active scholarship, personal attention and experiential learning are key components of the Widener Experience. Located in Chester, PA, Widener's main campus is nestled between Philadelphia, PA and Wilmington, DE, with satellite campuses in Harrisburg Pennsylvania and Wilmington Delaware. For more information about the University, please visit our website at www.widener.edu.

EOE M/F/V/D

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/21/2018

Date Posted: 1/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4000

University of Central Arkansas

Rank: Lecturer-1

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Arkansas invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin August 16, 2018. The department seeks candidates qualified to teach multiple sections of introductory level courses in American government and international relations, and serve as the coordinator of the Arkansas Model United Nations program. The AMUN program sponsors an annual high school Model UN conference that involves more than 500 students from high schools in Arkansas and neighboring states. The successful candidate will possess excellent teaching skills and a minimum of 3 years of experience in planning and successfully supervising Model U.N. or similar programs. An M.A. in Political Science is required; the Ph.D. is preferred. To apply, submit a letter of application, current vita, transcripts, three letters of recommendation, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations via UCA's online application system (<https://jobs.uca.edu>). Review of applications will begin February 22, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, please submit a complete application by February 22.

Founded in 1907, the University of Central Arkansas (www.uca.edu) has an enrollment of approximately 11,700 students. The university offers 87 undergraduate and 58 graduate certificate and degree programs, including doctoral programs in five disciplines. The student body consistently scores above the national average on the ACT exam. UCA is proud of its tradition of teaching excellence and its contributions in scholarly and creative activities. The campus is widely acclaimed for its beauty. UCA is located in Conway, Arkansas, a thriving city of approximately 60,000, located in central Arkansas, and thirty minutes from Little Rock. Conway is home to a number of major industries, two private colleges, an excellent public school system, and strong K-12 parochial schools. Residents have easy access to the Ouachita and Ozark National Forests and pristine wild areas near the Buffalo National River. The University of Central Arkansas is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and encourages women and minorities to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3999

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for the endowed Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy starting August 2018. The Khaled Chair is for a three-year term (renewable, upon a satisfactory review) and comes with a stipend, research support, and a reduction in teaching load. The successful candidate will have the credentials to be appointed at the rank of associate or full professor with tenure in the department, and must be a specialist in international relations with a Ph.D. in political science, international affairs, international relations, or public policy.

The successful candidate will teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, including at least one course in the master's degree program in public administration, and supervise students in the doctoral program.

Review of applications will begin March 9, 2018. To apply, complete an online application at <http://www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/3034> and upload the following materials: 1) a letter of application to include specification of training, current and future research agenda, teaching areas and teaching philosophy, and most significant professional service; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) one recent writing sample; 4) graduate transcript (official transcript will be needed at time of hire); and 5) contact information for three professional references. Three confidential letters of reference are required and must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu by the application deadline.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate degree in political science and a nationally ranked, NASPAA-accredited master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM) is the metropolitan campus of Auburn University. Located in the state capital, AUM enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. Montgomery offers diverse cultural and recreational opportunities including the Alabama Shakespeare Festival, world-class museums and memorials, a ballet company, a natural habitat zoo, a chamber music society, an independent film theater, and the Montgomery Biscuits Double-A baseball team; it is home to Maxwell-Gunter Air Force Base and Air University, Hyundai Motor's first U.S. production facility, and the headquarters of leading non-profits including Equal Justice Initiative and the Southern Poverty Law Center.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is open until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/9/2018

Date Posted: 1/28/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3997

Bucknell University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Start Date: Fall 2018

Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until filled

Subfield: International Relations

Rank: Visiting Assistant

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position in International Relations beginning in the fall semester of 2018. The teaching load is three courses per semester, and the successful candidate will be prepared to teach multiple sections of a core course in international relations, a course in international security, and a course in the candidate's field of specialization. We will not be hiring in the area of international political economy.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience, potential teaching excellence, and the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. or be ABD in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in International Relations.

For additional information and to apply, please go to <http://www.careers.bucknell.edu>. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations, along with any other relevant materials. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on February 26, 2018, and applications received by that date will be guaranteed full consideration.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Apart from its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas; the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies, and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. Bucknell also has a small but growing community of Asia scholars. In the spring of 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. For those who crave the city, Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3996

Luther College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Luther College is an undergraduate liberal arts college with a population of two thousand students located in Decorah, IA. Our faculty and students are highly engaged in academics and research, music programs, athletics, sustainability, and service. Founded in 1861 by Norwegian immigrants, Luther values its heritage, just as it values the diversity of its students, staff, and faculty, who hail from many faith backgrounds and heritages. Coming from 39 states and 74 countries, 11% of our students are domestic students of color and 8% are international students.

Our location in the beautiful driftless region of northeast Iowa offers a wealth of opportunities not often found in small towns. The economic vitality of the Decorah area is attributable to being a regional hub for outdoor recreation, two nationally recognized healthcare systems, top ranked schools, business, agriculture, specialty retail, dining, and tourism. In a scenic rural setting, we are an easy 70 mile drive to three urban cities including Rochester, MN, home of Mayo Clinic and an IBM major campus.

Position and Qualifications: Luther College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science, with expertise in the field of Comparative Politics. This is a one-year, non-tenure track position to begin late August 2018. Ph.D. preferred; candidates who are advanced ABD will be considered. Teaching responsibilities will include Global Politics, Comparative Politics, and courses in the candidate's geographic (outside the US) or thematic area of expertise: for example Latin American politics, or the politics of development. The teaching load is 7 courses, spread over the Fall, January, and Spring terms.

Apply: Review of applications begins February 22, 2018 and continues until the position is filled. Apply at <https://luthercollege.hiretouch.com>. Applicant's dossier will include:

- letter of application (outline your qualifications, summarize your teaching and research interests, and briefly highlight strengths that align with strengths of Luther College)

- curriculum vitae
- unofficial graduate and undergraduate transcripts
- three letters of recommendation from those familiar with the candidate's teaching and scholarship (the college will send an email link to each letter writer identified in application process to upload their letter)

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Dr. Carly Hayden Foster, Political Science Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Luther College; email: fosterc@luther.edu. Additional information about the college is available by visiting the college website, www.luther.edu. Questions regarding the application process should be directed to facultysearch@luther.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/26/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3994

Shepherd University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Global Studies at Shepherd University invites applicants for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Political Science with specialization in global security/peace or global political economy. Regional specialization is open but preference for specialization in Latin America or Asia. Candidates with ability to teach either research methods or American political institution will receive preference.

Responsibilities include teaching 12 hours per semester (which could include 2 sections of either Introduction to American Government or an Introduction to Political Science course), scholarship, participation in Shepherd's Global Studies Program, student advisement and supervision of research projects, and participation in service activities. Candidates with a Ph.D in Political Science (or related field) in hand are preferred but candidates who are ABD with substantial evidence of nearing completion will be considered. Candidates should have demonstrated teaching ability and potential as a researcher. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. AA/EOE. Salary is commensurate with experience.

The Department of Political Science and Global Studies is a vibrant department which offers Bachelors Degrees in Political Science and in Global Studies. Within Political Science students have the opportunity to concentrate in legal studies. The Global Studies Program, an interdisciplinary program, offers concentrations in Global Governance and Peace, Global Economics and Development, Global Environments, and Global Culture and History. At the moment the Department has four full-time faculty members and between 80 and 100 majors.

Founded in 1871, Shepherd, a public liberal arts University, is located in Shepherdstown, a historic town on the Potomac River about 75 miles west of Washington, DC. Review of applications will begin immediately; applications received by March 5, 2018 will receive priority consideration. Submit a cover letter, CV, unofficial transcripts, list of references, and statement of teaching philosophy and research interests to <https://jobs.shepherd.edu>. Only electronic applications will be accepted. For more information, please contact Dr. Aart Holtslag, Search Committee Chair, at aholtsla@shepherd.edu.

Minimum Qualifications:

ABD in Political Science and primary area of competence in International Relations/Comparative Politics (area specialty other than Europe) with an ability to teach Political Philosophy, Public Policy, or Research Methods as a secondary competency.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3989

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area StudiesRank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, linking this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, growth and development, peace and security, power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a

Postdoctoral Research Fellow

within the Leibniz Association-funded Junior Research Group "Sources and Consequences of Legitimation Strategies of Regional Organisations" headed by Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz. Applications are invited for a full-time position, with a 4-year-contract, preferably starting 1 June 2018. The salary is commensurate with TV-AVH / TVöD EG 13.

The Research Group seeks to map and explain the sources and consequences of legitimation strategies in regional organisations over time. It studies (1) how state representatives and regional organisation bureaucrats justify to relevant internal and external audiences an organisation's right to rule, (2) why such discursive legitimation strategies may change over time and vary across organisations; and (3) whether and how they are related to institutional legitimation strategies. The Group's research agenda consists of a quantitative component that aims to map, and explain basic patterns in, the discursive and institutional legitimation strategies of 30 regional organisations worldwide in the period from 1980 to 2015 and several qualitative components that seek to identify the causal mechanisms and political dynamics of legitimation and delegitimation in regional organisations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The successful candidate will

- work as part of a research team on developing a dataset on the legitimation strategies of regional organisations as well as co-developing and testing the theoretical framework of the project leading to publications in international journals and a book;
- be an active member of the GIGA, affiliated to one of its Regional Institutes and at least one Research Programme;
- have no teaching obligation.

Your qualifications:

- a doctoral degree in the social sciences, or a dissertation manuscript that has been submitted, specialised in international politics / international organisations; knowledge of regional organisations is an asset

- a strong scientific track record (visible in among other things international journal publications and international academic experience)
- excellent skills in quantitative methods of data analysis; knowledge of quantitative text analysis is an asset
- excellent written and oral communication skills in English; knowledge of Spanish and/or French is an asset

Part-time options will be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate. Diversity and the reconciliation of work and family life are of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-18-02) including relevant supporting documentation (cover letter outlining your motivation and skills, CV and list of publications, Bachelor and Master level study transcripts, two letters of recommendation, and two writing samples, at least one of which is single-authored) to:

Stephanie Stövesand, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-ilas@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 1 March 2018.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz (email: tobias.lenz@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 428 25 765).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3983

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area StudiesRank: Research Fellow to work on regional legitimacy crises

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, linking this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, growth and development, peace and security, power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a

Research Fellow to work on regional legitimacy crises

within the Leibniz Association-funded Junior Research Group "Sources and Consequences of Legitimation Strategies of Regional Organisations" headed by Prof. Dr.

Tobias Lenz. Applications are invited for a part-time position (65%), with a 3-year contract, preferably starting 1 June 2018. The salary is commensurate with TV-AVH / TVöD EG 13. The GIGA strongly encourages concurrent work on a doctoral degree in line with the candidate's work in the project. The fellow would become a member of the GIGA Doctoral Programme.

The Research Group seeks to map and explain the sources and consequences of legitimation strategies in regional organisations over time. It studies (1) how state representatives and regional organisation bureaucrats justify to relevant internal and external audiences an organisation's right to rule, (2) why such discursive legitimation strategies may change over time and vary across organisations; and (3) whether and how they are related to institutional legitimation strategies. The Group's research agenda consists of a quantitative component that aims to map, and explain basic patterns in, the discursive and institutional legitimation strategies of 30 regional organisations worldwide in the period from 1980 to 2015 and several qualitative components that seek to identify the causal mechanisms and political dynamics of legitimation and delegitimation in regional organisations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The successful candidate will

- work as part of a research team in developing and conducting a comparative case study that examines the effects of legitimacy crises on regional organisation's discursive and institutional legitimation strategies
- assist in coding the legitimation strategies of regional organisations over time
- be an active member of the GIGA, affiliated to one of its Regional Institutes and at least one Research Programme.

Your qualifications:

- a completed MA degree in International Relations or a related social science discipline with a solid training in research design and social science methods
- outstanding academic track record and excellent marks; international academic experience is an advantage
- solid knowledge of the theory and practice of regional and/or international organisations; in-depth knowledge of regional cooperation in Asia, Africa, the Middle East or Latin America, and corresponding language skills, are an asset
- excellent written and oral communication skills in English
- readiness to conduct field research

Other part-time options may be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate.

Diversity and the reconciliation of work and family life are of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref-No. GIGA-18-03) including relevant supporting documentation (letter of motivation, CV including list of language skills, academic transcripts/credentials, one letter of recommendation, one writing sample – e.g. Master's thesis, term paper or published work, two-page outline of a comparative case study in line with the project's objectives) to:

Stephanie Stövesand, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-ilas@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 1 March 2018.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz (email: tobias.lenz@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 428 25 765).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3984

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies Rank: Research Fellow to work on the normative foundations of regional organisations

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, linking this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, growth and development, peace and security, power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a

Research Fellow to work on the normative foundations of regional organisations

within the Leibniz Association-funded Junior Research Group "Sources and Consequences of Legitimation Strategies of Regional Organisations" headed by Prof. Dr.

Tobias Lenz. Applications are invited for a part-time position (65%), with a 3-year contract, preferably starting 1 June 2018. The salary is commensurate with TV-AVH / TVöD EG 13. The GIGA strongly encourages concurrent work on a doctoral degree in line with the candidate's work in the project. The fellow would become a member of the GIGA Doctoral Programme.

The Research Group seeks to map and explain the sources and consequences of legitimation strategies in regional organisations over time. It studies (1) how state representatives and regional organisation bureaucrats justify to relevant internal and external audiences an organisation's right to rule, (2) why such discursive legitimation strategies may change over time and vary across organisations; and (3) whether and how they are related to institutional legitimation strategies. The Group's research agenda consists of a quantitative component that aims to map, and explain basic patterns in, the discursive and institutional legitimation strategies of 30 regional organisations worldwide in the period from 1980 to 2015 and several qualitative components that seek to identify the causal mechanisms and political dynamics of legitimation and delegitimation in regional organisations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The successful candidate will

- work as part of a research team in developing and conducting a comparative case study that examines how regional organisations' legitimation strategies respond to different normative values of their core constituency and how they seek to deal with normative conflict among core constituencies
- assist in coding the legitimation strategies of regional organisations over time
- be an active member of the GIGA, affiliated to one of its Regional Institutes and at least one Research Programme.

Your qualifications:

- a completed MA degree in International Relations or a related social science discipline with a solid training in research design and social science methods
- outstanding academic track record and excellent marks; international academic experience is an advantage
- solid knowledge of the theory and practice of regional and/or international organisations; in-depth knowledge of regional cooperation in Asia, Africa, the Middle East or Latin America, and corresponding language skills, are an asset
- excellent written and oral communication skills in English
- readiness to conduct field research

Other part-time options may be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate.

Diversity and the reconciliation of work and family life are of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-18-04) including relevant supporting documentation (letter of motivation, CV including list of language skills, academic transcripts/credentials, one letter of recommendation, one writing sample – e.g. Master's thesis, term paper or published work, two-page outline of a comparative case study in line with the project's objectives) to:

Stephanie Stövesand, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-ilas@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 1 March 2018.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz (email: tobias.lenz@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 428 25 765).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3985

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies at Stanford University seeks to appoint a postdoctoral research associate for the academic year 2018-19, beginning September 4, 2018 and concluding August 30, 2019. The position involves working on the Freeman Spogli Institute's Governing the Global Economy research initiative with Professor Kenneth Scheve. Responsibilities will vary but likely include assisting with the design and implementation of original surveys, data collection and management, assistance in archival research, data analysis, and grant writing. There will also be substantial opportunities for the postdoc to pursue their own research projects, participate in collaborative research, and take advantage of the intellectual life at the Freeman Spogli Institute and related departments. Technical skills such as computer programming are highly desirable as is some coursework in political economy. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Proof of completion of doctoral degree is required before starting the position and the start date must be no more than three years after degree conferral. The position provides stipend and benefits, set and adjusted in accordance with Stanford University rules. Stanford University is an equal opportunity-affirmative action employer. Stanford values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty, and strongly encourages applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

Questions about the position can be directed to Professor Scheve at scheve@stanford.edu. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All applications must be submitted on-line through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/10773>. Applications should be submitted by February 23, 2018

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/23/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3982

Ibn Haldun University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Positions (3) in the Department of Political Science and International Relations Ibn Haldun University

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Open Rank Faculty Positions (3) in the Department of Political Science and International Relations Ibn Haldun University

Location: Istanbul-Turkey

Salary: Not-specified

Hours: Full Time

Rank: Open

Closing Date: 22nd February 2018

The Political Science and International Relations Department at Ibn Haldun University invites applications for 3 full-time faculty positions. The ranks are open and the appointment will begin on September 1, 2018. Candidates are expected to be specialist in the specified subfields:

* Comparative Politics with specific focus on quantitative research methods

* Peace and Conflict Studies

* International Security/ Security Studies

* International Political Economy/ Comparative Political Economy

Qualifications: Candidates must possess a Ph.D. at the time of appointment from an accredited institution, have strong training in Political Science or International Relations with a specific focus on the subfields that are mentioned above. Candidates are expected to demonstrate excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, the ability to maintain dynamic scholarly productivity, and a willingness to be active in service to the university.

Responsibilities: Successful candidates will teach undergraduate and graduate level courses. Active research and publication agenda and willingness to engage in collaborative research with departmental colleagues and graduate students.

Ibn Haldun University (IHU), founded by TURGEV in Istanbul is an endowment university with the vision to stand out as a “research” university in social sciences. Graduate students will constitute more than half of IHU’s student population. IHU will be an international university in that one-third of the students will be admitted from abroad. The medium of instruction at IHU is English. Its campus is located in Basaksehir, Istanbul.

Ibn Haldun University is an equal opportunity employer. It offers competitive salaries, which are commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications of the candidates.

Comprehensive package of benefits, including housing and travel allowance, private health insurance will be offered to all employees.

Interested candidates should send (via email)

- Curriculum vitae
- A cover letter including relevant research experience
- Teaching philosophy including teaching evaluations
- Research papers
- Research statement with a clear goal setting for the coming 3 to 5 years
- Two letters of recommendation.

The application deadline is February 22, 2018. Please send your documents to pols@ihu.edu.tr

For further information and question you can contact to Talha Köse, chair of the Political Science and International Relations Department (talha.kose@ihu.edu.tr)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/23/2018
Date Posted: 1/22/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3973

Kalamazoo College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Relations

Kalamazoo College invites applications for a one-year sabbatical replacement for 2018-2019 in international relations beginning in September 2018. Preference will be given to candidates with Ph.D. at time of appointment. Salary is competitive and consistent with level of experience. Teaching responsibilities will consist of six courses over three terms, including Introduction to International Relations (twice), U.S. Foreign Policy, and at least two other I.R. courses. The ability to teach a course in Latin American Politics or East Asian Politics would be a plus, but is not a prerequisite. Candidates are expected to have high aptitude and interest in undergraduate teaching, a commitment to the liberal arts, and a desire to involve undergraduates in scholarship both inside and outside the classroom. Kalamazoo College is a highly selective, nationally known liberal arts college offering an integrated undergraduate experience that weaves a traditional liberal arts curriculum into educational experiences in both domestic and international settings. Review of applications will begin April 1, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. Upload cover letter, curriculum vitae (including a description of scholarly interests), graduate transcript (unofficial acceptable), a detailed statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and teaching evaluations if available below. Have three confidential letters of recommendation sent to PolSciSearch@kzoo.edu. Kalamazoo College especially encourages candidates who will contribute to the cultural diversity of the College to apply and to identify themselves if they wish. Equal Opportunity Employer.

<https://www.kzoo.edu/search/polsci/>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 4/1/2018
Date Posted: 1/22/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3979

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty

Middle Tennessee State University’s Department of Political Science and International Relations seeks applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant/Associate Professor level. A Ph.D. in Political Science by the appointment date of August 2018 is required.

The ideal candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in international relations, graduate level courses in peace and security studies, and coordinate the department’s Model UN program. Faculty are also expected to maintain an active research agenda.

MTSU is located on a growing campus of 22,000 students 35 miles outside of Nashville in Murfreesboro. Murfreesboro and Nashville are two of the fastest growing cities in the U.S. The Department of Political Science and International Relations consists of 15 full-time faculty and 325 majors with undergraduate degrees in political science with special concentrations in pre-law and public administration, a separate undergraduate degree in international relations and a Master’s program in International Affairs. The Master’s program, with a current enrollment of 25 students, offers concentrations in Peace and Security, and International Development and Globalization.

To apply or for more detailed information visit <http://mtsjobs.mtsu.edu>. MTSU is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that values diversity in all its forms. Women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/22/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3976

University of Notre Dame

Rank: 2018 Emerging Scholars Conference Participant

The Notre Dame International Security Center (NDISC) seeks nominations of outstanding candidates (advanced ABD students or pre/post doctoral fellows) to present their work at the third Emerging Scholars in Grand Strategy Conference. The two-day conference will consist of six workshops, one for each successful nominee. Each workshop will include a research presentation by the Emerging Scholar, a response by a senior scholar in the field, and a general discussion. NDISC will make all arrangements and cover all expenses related to the conference, which will be held May 23-25, 2018, at Oakwood Resort, IN.

By grand strategy, we mean some aspect of where, when, and how states (as well as armed groups) consider using military force among other instruments of statecraft to achieve foreign policy goals, broadly defined. We seek nominees whose work applies the very best scholarship to the most pressing issues facing the United States in the 21st Century and does so in a way that broadens the intellectual and practical discussion of these issues in innovative ways. In addition to having first-rate scholarly credentials, the ideal nominee will also have an interest in applying their scholarly work to some aspect of the formulation and implementation of foreign policy goals.

Nominee(s) should upload a CV, a brief bio, and a 250-word abstract that describes their project to this posting. The automated system will subsequently ask nominators for a letter of recommendation; letters that have already been written for other purposes (e.g. fellowships, academic jobs) are sufficient.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48463>

The deadline for receipt of all materials is February 23, 2018.

This appointment is also contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Applicants will be asked to identify all felony convictions and/or pending felony charges. Felony convictions do not automatically bar an individual from employment. Each case will be examined separately to determine the appropriateness of employment in the particular position. Failure to be forthcoming or dishonesty with respect to felony disclosures can result in the disqualification of a candidate. The full procedure can be viewed at <http://facultyhandbook.nd.edu/university-policies/background-check-procedure-for-prospective-faculty/>.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 2/23/2018

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3975

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Campus
Danforth Campus

Advertised Title
Postdoctoral Research Associate

Job Category
Faculty

Job Type
Faculty - Full-time

Average number of hours per week
Based on job requirements

Recruiting Salary Range
Commensurate with experience

Department Name/Job Location

This position is in the Department of Political Science. The position is located at Seigle Hall. This position is for the Danforth Campus in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Job Description

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis is seeking candidates for up to three post-doc (non-tenure track) positions. We are currently searching for candidates in the area of American, comparative, methods, international relations, and environmental policy. These appointments begin officially on September 1 with the start of the Fall 2018 semester and continue for one academic year. The expected teaching load of the individual in these positions is one course per semester. Coursework is focused on teaching undergraduate and possibly graduate courses. There will be opportunities for professional development for the successful candidate.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to sex, race, ethnicity, protected veteran, or disability status.

Required Qualifications

The successful candidate must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science. Evidence of commitment to teaching.

Special Instructions to Applicants

Completed applications must include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation. The application deadline is 2/23/18.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically. Please visit the Washington University Human Resources web page (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>) and search for job requisition number 39039. Candidates should create an account, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Please follow the directions below for uploading documents to your profile.

1. Log into your account. Click on 'My Activities'
2. Click on 'Add Attachment'
3. Choose attachment type and purpose and click 'Upload Attachment'
4. Browse for document on your computer and upload file

You may upload your documents as one file or individual files. Letters of reference and questions should be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3977

College of Southern Nevada

Rank: Political Science Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Political Science Instructor

Political Science Instructor - Tenure Track - Fall 2018

This position will be open until filled. For full consideration all application related material should be submitted by 02/01/2018.

Department:

- Social Sciences.

Job Description:

- The College of Southern Nevada (CSN) is currently seeking one (1) full-time tenure track political science instructor beginning Fall semester 2018.
- Primary teaching assignment involves teaching a core course (Introduction to American Politics) but also Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to International Relations, Survey of Political Theory and other courses as determined by department need.
- Teach a minimum of 15 credit hours per semester and hold five office hours per week.
- The successful candidate will be expected to participate in department and division (school) meetings, participate in college and department committees, and engage in participatory governance activities and other service activities.
- The successful candidate is expected to assume leadership roles both within the assigned department and in the institution as a whole. In addition, the successful candidate is expected to engage in ongoing professional development.
- Teaching assignments may be multi-campus with the possibility of day, evening, weekend, or online classes in accord with department needs.
- Note: This position is open until filled. Review of applications will begin on 02/02/2018. For full consideration, all application materials should be received no later than 02/01/2018. In addition to submitting a complete application, applicants should submit, at a minimum, a cover letter addressing each aspect of the required and preferred qualifications, college transcripts, current curriculum vitae, a minimum of three (3) letters of recommendation and a sample syllabus for an introductory (survey) introductory American government course.

Required Qualifications:

- Master's degree in political science from a regionally accredited college or university.
- Have a minimum of one year (two semesters) experience teaching college level introductory political science courses within the last three (3) years.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Possess an earned Ph.D. in political science from a regionally accredited college or university.
- Documented background and experience teaching college-level urban politics/urban studies courses.
- Evidence of research in political science within the last three (3) years, which includes conference paper presentations or publications.
- Evidence of an understanding and appreciation of the community college mission, and ability to design curriculum and learning activities that address diverse learning levels.
- Background and experience in web-based and computer-aided instruction.

- Demonstrated ability to work effectively with a culturally and educationally diverse student population.

Required Documents:

Required documents (Cover Letter, Resume, and Transcripts) must be attached directly to the ONLINE application. If you are unable to attach the required documents to your ONLINE application, you may send them to Human Resources via email <mailto:hr.recruitment@csn.edu> or fax to 702.651.5778.

SPECIAL NOTE: Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications. The search committee will use this information during the initial review of application materials.

Salary:

- Initial salary placement is based on educational level and total years of full-time equivalent teaching experience. A maximum of 10 years of experience will be considered for initial salary placement purposes.

For more details on this position, please visit our website at <http://apprkr.com/1153841>

CSN is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution. For more information, visit <http://www.csn.edu/nondiscrimination>

To apply, visit <http://apprkr.com/1153841>

About Us

The College of Southern Nevada (CSN) creates opportunities and changes lives through access to quality teaching, services, and experiences that enrich our diverse community. CSN has three main campuses in Las Vegas, North Las Vegas and Henderson and multiple sites and centers.

The Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) is committed to providing a place of work and learning free of discrimination on the basis of a person's age, disability, whether actual or perceived by others (including service-connected disabilities), gender (including pregnancy related conditions), military status or military obligations, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, national origin, race, or religion.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-57d5992dd3ea5b4692e6bf9cd8b6d07d>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3967

Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO)

Rank: Senior Researcher

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Recruitment at the Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO)

The Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO) is an independent, international and interdisciplinary research institute, founded in 1959. Its purpose is to conduct research on the conditions for peaceful relations between states, groups and people. PRIO's research targets scholars, policy-makers, practitioners and the general public. The institute cultivates the highest standards of academic excellence, and is a leader in shaping the global peace research agenda.

PRIO has an international research staff of approximately 85 members in full and part-time positions, plus 15 in administrative and support functions. The working language at the institute is English. For further information about the institute, see www.prio.org.

Senior Researcher

PRIO is growing and invites applications from senior researchers to form part of the institute's international team of excellent researchers. The successful candidates can demonstrate experience with cutting-edge research within PRIO's relevant fields, project development and research communication. We are looking to recruit two researchers, one of which should ideally be highly experienced (7-10 years since PhD) with an extensive project development and publication record.

As a Senior Researcher at PRIO you are first and foremost an active, productive, entrepreneurial and open-minded academic. You develop and lead projects, and you communicate and engage with both the academic community and other stakeholders. You take an active part in institutional life at PRIO, and you provide input, advice and supervision to your colleagues. Ultimately, you identify with PRIO's vision to produce knowledge to the service of a more peaceful world.

Competence requirements:

- A doctoral degree in a relevant field
- A scientific publication record
- Solid research competence and methods skills
- Strong writing skills
- Expertise in one or more areas within the scope of PRIO's research
- Project development resulting in a fundable project portfolio

In addition, we expect you to demonstrate competence in one or more of the following areas:

- Versatility in research engagements
- Project leadership
- Research collaboration
- Engagement with policy and practice
- Popular dissemination of research
- Curricular development, teaching and supervision of students

Ideas for future research

Candidates are encouraged to outline idea(s) for future development of their own research should they be employed at PRIO, including thoughts of specific funding opportunities.

PRIO offers:

- an opportunity for you to become part of a world-renowned research institute and work alongside highly motivated staff who are international experts within their respective fields;
- access to a highly professional support staff to assist with administration, project development and research communication;
- opportunities for collaboration with a large network of Norwegian and international scholars and policymakers;
- offices in attractive premises in central Oslo;
- competitive remuneration commensurate with the applicant's competence and experience;
- membership in the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund.

PRIO is an equal opportunity employer and values staff diversity.

How to apply

Application for the position of Senior Researcher is to be submitted by way of an online form.

Before you start filling in the form, make sure you have the following necessary information and documents ready:

Information provided directly in the online form:

- ? Contact details: Name, email, address, phone number.
- ? Personal information: Current position, citizenship, gender, date-of-birth.
- ? PhD details: Granting institution, year of completion/defense, title of dissertation.
- ? Titles of maximum 3 academic publications for evaluation.
- ? References: Name and contact details of a minimum of two referees.

Attachments – to be uploaded to the online form as PDFs:

1. Application letter, which should describe the ways in which you are qualified for the position of Senior Researcher at PRIO, including a presentation of your educational background, academic merits and other relevant experience.
2. Ideas for future research to be outlined in no more than two pages.
3. CV in English, and including a list of publications.
4. Certifications of university degrees.
5. The full text of the academic publications you wish to submit for academic evaluation (max 3).

When you have all the necessary information and documentation ready, you may fill out and submit the application form to be found here: <https://www.prio.org/About/Careers/Senior-Researcher/>

For more information, please contact PRIO's Director Henrik Urdal, email Urdal@prio.org, mobile phone: +47 92 04 78 41.

Deadline for applications is 31 January 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 1/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3959

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

Postdoctoral Fellowship – Christopher H. Browne Center for International Politics

The Christopher H. Browne Center for International Politics at the University of Pennsylvania invites applications for a postdoctoral fellowship during the 2018-2019 academic year. The Browne Center supports research on all aspects of international politics. Applications are welcomed from political scientists who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the last two years, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2018.

Fellows at the Browne Center will pursue their own research as well as teaching one course in Penn's Political Science Department. The position pays a stipend of $49,000.

The University of Pennsylvania is an EO/AA employer and we welcome applications from women and minorities. Applications will be reviewed starting February 15, 2018. To receive full consideration, applications should be received by that date. To apply, send a c.v., a research statement, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to either browne-center@sas.upenn.edu or:

Postdoctoral Program
Browne Center for International Politics
University of Pennsylvania
Political Science Department
223 Stiteler Hall
208 S. 37th Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104-6215

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/16/2018
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3955

University of Cambridge

Rank: 3-year Lecturer (Assistant Professor) International Relations

Applications are invited for a 3-year Lectureship in International Relations in the Department of Politics and International Studies, from 1 October 2018. This is an exceptional opportunity to join a growing department at Cambridge.

The postholder is expected to give lectures and seminars to a minimum level of 40 hours a year at undergraduate and potentially postgraduate levels. They will also be required to engage in the small group teaching of undergraduates.

The successful candidate will have good experience of teaching at undergraduate level and the primary teaching responsibility will be to teach into the first-year introductory international relations course (POL2), and/or the second-year course on international organization (POL3). Other responsibilities will include the delivery and supervision of undergraduate papers and graduate students.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

Good first degree and a doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);

Evidence of ability to teach the subject effectively, and at all relevant levels;

Evidence of ability to engage in internationally recognised high-level research in International Relations, with publications and participation in scholarly activity commensurate with stage of career;

Ability to play an effective role in the life and work of the Department;

Ability to work as part of a team.

Fixed-term: The funds for this post are available for 3 years in the first instance.

To apply online for this vacancy, please click on the link <https://hrsystems.admin.cam.ac.uk/recruit-ui/pages/auth/login.xhtml>. This will route you to the University's Web Recruitment System, where you will need to register an account (if you have not already) and log in before completing the online application form.

Queries about the post should be directed to Professor Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk).

Please quote reference UE14469 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

The University values diversity and is committed to equality of opportunity.

The University has a responsibility to ensure that all employees are eligible to live and work in the UK.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/15/2018
Date Posted: 1/15/2018
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3954

Barry University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of History and Political Science at Barry University in Miami Shores, Florida invites applications for a full-time, continuing track position of Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning in August, 2018.

The Department offers bachelor's degrees in Political Science, International Studies, History and Pre-law and is housed in the College of Arts & Sciences.

This full-time Assistant Professor of Political Science teaches undergraduate courses; provides academic advising and mentoring to undergraduate students; contributes departmental, college, university, community, and professional service; and engages in sustained scholarship.

Applications should be submitted by March 1, 2018.

Essential Functions

- The applicant must be able to teach courses on American politics and institutions, or on international relations, international organizations, and international political economy.
- The ideal candidate would also be able to teach research methods and/or political theory to undergraduates. In addition, the applicant should be able to teach Introduction to American Government.
- The course load is 12 credits per semester. Experience with developing and teaching distance courses is desirable.
- Additional duties include academic advising, professional service within the university and the community, and ongoing scholarship.

Qualifications/Requirements

- The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialization in American Government and/or International Relations and with a secondary area in research methods.
- Experience with developing and teaching distance courses is desirable.
- The applicant should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vita, an official transcript, and three letters of professional reference.

Benefits: Barry University offers a comprehensive benefits package to full-time employees that includes health, dental, vision, life insurance, retirement, tuition assistance, paid time off and work/life balance initiatives such as wellness programs, spirituality in the workplace, and training and development.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3953

Centenary College of Louisiana

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Centenary College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the Assistant Professor level in the Department of History and Political Science, starting 1 August 2018. Candidates should be broadly trained in Comparative Politics and International Relations, and prepared to teach a range of introductory, upper division, and core departmental classes such as Research Methods and the capstone Senior Seminar. The Ph.D. in hand by time of start date, strong teaching skills, and a commitment to scholarship are required. The standard teaching load is six courses per year, with some opportunity to teach in immersive May and August terms, and to participate in college-wide programs such as the first year experience (TREK) and Centenary in Paris.

Centenary College of Louisiana is a selective, residential, national liberal arts college affiliated with the United Methodist Church. Founded in 1825, it is the oldest chartered liberal arts college west of the Mississippi river and is a member of the Associated Colleges of the South.

To apply, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts from all institutions of higher learning, sample course syllabi, and three letters of recommendation to hr@centenary.edu or to:

Political Science Search Committee
c/o Director of Human Resources
Centenary College of Louisiana
2911 Centenary Boulevard
Shreveport, LA 71104

Review of applications will begin on February 5 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3947

Lund University

Rank: One Postdoctoral Position in Political Science with a Specialization in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations

Online listing: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what:job/jobID:182617/type:job/where:4/apply:1>

The holder of this post will be expected to conduct research (about 90 percent) and to teach (about 10 percent).

This position is associated with the research program State-Making and the Origins of Global Order in the Long Nineteenth Century and Beyond (STANCE), led by Professor Jan Teorell at the Department of Political Science in Lund, and funded by Riksbankens Jubileumsfond (www.stanceatlund.org). The project started in 2015 and will end in 2020. Overall, the project aims to bridge the gaps between comparative politics and international relations, and between the study of political thought and positive empirical political science. Three overall research themes form the core of this research program: (1) How did the different dimensions of state-making, including internal and external sovereignty, revenue extraction, professionalization of the bureaucracy and the development of infrastructural capacity, evolve and interact during this time period? What actors and organized interests supported or put up resistance to these processes? (2) How were these dimensions of state-making affected by geopolitical competition, warfare and the diffusion of novel political technologies? (3) What were the consequences for the international system, both with respect to the type of state that emerged and what entities were granted membership in the states system?

Each post-doctoral fellow will be expected to carry out research that contributes to the fulfilment of at least one of these overall research objectives. However, each member of the project conducts independent research and enjoys the freedom to choose his or her own research questions, to develop his or her own theoretical ideas, and to choose the methods he or she finds most appropriate. Since the program methodologically aims for a mixed-methods approach ranging from quantitative methods to single case studies, textual interpretation and archival studies, we expect candidates with broad methodological training and an open mind to take on novel approaches.

In order to allow the research group to function as a team, all participants will be expected to have the Department of Political Science in Lund as their main place of work.

Qualifications:

Eligibility for employment as a postdoctoral researcher is restricted to applicants with a PhD degree in a relevant subject. Priority is given to applicants who have completed their PhD less than three years prior to the deadline for applying to the post. The three-year limit can be extended in cases of parental leave, sickness leave or similar circumstances occurring after the PhD defense. Applicants who have yet to complete their PhDs are welcome to apply but should demonstrate that they will receive their PhD degree before 1 September 2018.

Research skills and academic promise will be the main selection criteria, but teaching skills will also be considered. Proficiency in spoken and written English and the ability to teach in English is a requirement. The ability to conduct research independently and the ability to participate in international research collaboration are very important considerations.

The most important qualification for the positions is the capacity to contribute to the research program's overall goals, as expressed in the project proposal (see below).

Appointment Procedure:

The Lund University job application portal should be used when applying. Complementary documents should be sent to: Registry office, Lund University, P.O. Box 117, SE-221 00 LUND, SWEDEN (Address for delivery of packages: Byråloggen 5C). The official record number should be clearly stated when sending complementary documents.

Your application must contain (a) a cover letter, (b) a CV, (c) one or two article-length writing samples (approximately 10,000 words), at least one of which should be single-authored, (d) a research proposal for your contribution to the STANCE research program (approx. 3-5 pages), and (e) two letters of recommendation.

Salary is determined on an individual basis, within certain guidelines for this type of position. If you wish, please state the requested salary in your application.

The employment is limited for two years.

Lund University welcomes applicants with diverse backgrounds and experiences. We regard gender equality and diversity as a strength and an asset.

We kindly decline all sales and marketing contacts.

Type of employment: Temporary position longer than 6 months

Contract type: Full time

First day of employment: According to agreement but preferably on 2018-09-01

Salary: Monthly salary

Number of positions: 1

Working hours: 100 %

City: Lund

County: Skåne län

Country: Sweden

Reference number PA2017/3989

Contact

Jan Teorell, Principal investigator, +46-46-222 80 93, jan.teorell@svet.lu.se

Björn Badersten, Head of the department, +46-46-222 01 59, bjorn.-badersten@svet.lu.se

Online listing: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what:job/jobID:182617/type:job/where:4/apply:1>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/28/2018

Date Posted: 1/10/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3935

Gallaudet University

Rank: Lecturer In International Relations or Comparative Government

Gallaudet University

Department of Government and Public Affairs

Non- Tenure Track Position

Lecturer, Government, specializing in International Relations or Comparative Politics (Europe, Russia, Asia, Middle East).

Gallaudet University serves Deaf, Hard-of-Hearing, and hearing students from many different backgrounds and seeks to develop a workforce that reflects the diversity of its student body. Gallaudet is an equal employment opportunity/affirmative action employer and actively encourages deaf, hard-of-hearing, members of traditionally under-represented groups, people with disabilities, women, and veterans to apply for open positions.

General Information: The Department of Government and Public Affairs seeks candidates for a full-time 9-month non-tenure track position. Rank is dependent on qualifications. Appointment date: August 16, 2018. Position is contingent upon funding.

Qualifications: A M.A. in International Relations or Comparative Politics with specialization in any of the following fields: Western Europe, Eastern Europe and Russia, or Asia and the Middle East. College undergraduate teaching experience required; candidates should show a strong commitment to students and the department through quality teaching and service. The candidate should be fluent in American Sign Language or be willing to become fluent in American Sign Language.

Responsibilities: The candidate is expected to teach within the interdisciplinary general education curriculum and within the major. The candidate is expected to teach upper division courses within their specialization and international relations, a comparative government course, European Union course, American foreign policy, and a graduate course in international relations and development. The successful candidate will be expected to engage in in service activities for the Department, University and Community including advising and mentoring majors, participation in Department meetings and events, recruitment of students and open houses, assessment of students and other appropriate activities.

Application: Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until filled. Send a letter of application clearly outlining your qualifications and fit with the job description and requirements, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and research interests, and your personal and/or academic connection to diverse communities. In addition to this letter, please send your curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to:

Dr. Frances Marquez, Faculty Search Chair
Department of Government & public Affairs
Gallaudet University
800 Florida Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3929

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellow

Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Foreign Policy

<http://www.cmu.edu/ips/>

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for teaching postdoctoral fellowship positions in Comparative Politics, IPE, International Relations, and International Security.

The postdoctoral fellow will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, complete independent research, and attend IPS sponsored seminars and other events. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of IPS and become involved in Carnegie Mellon's rich interdisciplinary community.

The postdoctoral fellowship position will run from August 1, 2018, to July 31, 2020. The salary for this position is $45,000 with a $2,500 research and travel budget. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Preference will be given to applicants who have received their PhD degree between November 30, 2015, and August 31, 2018. The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on February 8, 2018.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter of one to two pages briefly stating the applicant's academic background, research agenda, and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Research Statement;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach)
- Two scholarly writing samples;
- Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees; and
- Two reference letters.

Please e-mail your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Carnegie Mellon University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/8/2018

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3924

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Middle East, Gender Politics & Policy

Quick Link for Posting: <http://jobs.uark.edu/postings/24353>. Posting Number F384P.

About the College: The J. William Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences is the largest and most academically diverse unit on campus with 3 schools, 16 departments, and 43 academic programs and research centers. The college provides the core curriculum for all University of Arkansas students and is named for J. William Fulbright, former university president, and longtime U.S. senator.

The University of Arkansas is committed to providing an educational and work environment in which thought, creativity, and growth are stimulated, and in which individuals are free to realize their full potential. The J. W. Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences promotes these ideas and welcomes applicants who foster an inclusive environment through an open exchange of voices and ideas from populations of diverse backgrounds.

About the Department: The Department of Political Science offers a vibrant community of scholars and educators whose work centers around American Politics, Comparative Politics & International Relations, and Public Policy/Public Administration & Nonprofit Studies. The Department offers B.A., M.A., and M.P.A. degrees. The Department also plays a vital role in area studies programs as well as interdisciplinary programs across campus, such as the Public Policy Ph.D. program.

Summary of Job Duties: The Department of Political Science and the King Fahd Center for Middle East Studies invite applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank, to start in August 2018. Primary duties include teaching comparative politics with a focus on the Middle East at the graduate and undergraduate levels, engaging in a research program that results in outstanding scholarly publications, soliciting grants, and contributing to the work of the King Fahd Center for Middle East Studies.

The candidate may focus on issues such as the emergence of civil society and community engagement in a complex institutional environment, gender dynamics, migration, conflict resolution, or human rights.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in political science or a related field conferred by the start of employment.

Special Instructions Summary: Completed applications received by February 4, 2018, will be assured full consideration. Late applications will be reviewed as necessary to fill the position.

Applicants must submit a curriculum vitae and a cover letter/letter of application demonstrating how your strengths match the duties and qualifications. A list of three professional references (name, title, email address, and contact number) willing to provide letters of reference will be requested during the application process.

Additional information, such as transcripts, teaching evaluations, and writing samples will be requested from the finalists.

The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 2/4/2018

Date Posted: 1/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3917

Georgetown University

Rank: Professor in the Practice of International Affairs and Concentration Co-Chair for Global Politics and Security

Georgetown University Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service, Master of Science in Foreign Service Program, Professor in the Practice of International Affairs and Concentration Co-Chair for Global Politics and Security

The Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University invites applications for a three-year, non-tenure-track position as a Professor in the Practice of International Affairs and Concentration Co-Chair for Global Politics and Security beginning in August, 2018. This position will have teaching and administrative responsibilities in the Master of Science in Foreign Service (MSFS) Program.

The Concentration Co-Chair will have an academic background in the field of international relations, broadly defined, and will teach three courses per year in his/her area of specialization. Ideally, the Co-Chair will teach one or more sections of the required course for all students in the Concentration. The Co-Chair will be responsible for assisting with the selection and preparation of faculty for the concentration. The Co-Chair serves as an academic and career advisor to students in the concentration.

The successful candidate will have a record of professional experience in international affairs, working in or with national governments, international organizations, and/or relevant non-profit institutions.

Applicants should submit a cover letter outlining professional background and teaching experience, curriculum vitae and at least three letters of recommendation.

Applications for this position should be submitted online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10672>. Questions about the online application system should be directed to Sarah Nebbeling at ska60@georgetown.edu. Faxed, mailed, or emailed applications will not be accepted.

Review of applications will begin February 15 and will continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 1/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3910

University of Northern Colorado

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Northern Colorado invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in International Relations, beginning August 2018. Ph.D. in Political Science, demonstrated teaching excellence or the potential for teaching excellence, and a record of scholarly publication or potential for scholarly excellence are required.

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs has five full-time faculty members. The Department houses an interdisciplinary major in International Affairs and a traditional Political Science major as well as three minors: Political Science, Public Policy, and Legal Studies.

We are interested in candidates with expertise in global political economy, and we value research that uses critical, interpretative and/or historical approaches.

We seek candidates broadly trained in the field and able to teach a wide-range of courses, with a strong liberal arts background and an interest in developing new courses. The normal teaching load is 3-3, which covers a variety of courses, accounting for 60 percent of the typical workload; the remainder is divided between scholarly activity and service responsibilities. We seek candidates with experience in teaching the following: U.S. National Government, Fundamentals of Politics, Global Issues, International Political Economy, International Law and Organization, Globalization, U.S. Foreign Policy, War and Peace as well as a course on Russian politics. In addition, we seek someone with experience teaching senior seminars.

Candidates should be firmly committed to working collegially in a small undergraduate-only department. We are looking for a candidate committed to departmental and university service with experience in advising majors, pre-law undergraduates and legal studies minors, and internships. We also seek someone who has experience in developing student learning outcomes and managing member assessment reports. We are an inclusive department that values diversity among our faculty.

Applicants should complete the electronic application form at careers.unco.edu/ and include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Review of applications will begin on February 2, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 1/2/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3909

SUNY, Binghamton University

Rank: Post Doc Institute for Genocide and Mass Atrocity Prevention

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Binghamton University's Institute for Genocide and Mass Atrocity Prevention seeks applications for a one-year (non-renewable) post-doctoral research and teaching Fellow. The GMAP Fellowship supports recent recipients of terminal degrees in academic disciplines contributing to the study of policies and practices designed to predict and prevent genocide and mass atrocities. Applicants must have their terminal degree conferred by the Fellowship start date of August 20, 2018. Recent PhDs in such disciplines (e.g. political science and international studies, sociology or anthropology, geography or public administration) are welcome to apply. In appropriate circumstances applications by recent recipients of the J.D. will also be considered, as will those already occupying temporary or tenure-track positions. For the 2018-19 academic year, the Institute particularly welcomes applicants whose research programs intersect with question of gender and prevention.

Binghamton University's GMAP Institute concentrates specifically on the formation, implementation, and assessment of practical preventative measures and policies. Applicants should present a research program or proposal that documents this practical dimension. The Fellow will conduct research, collaborate with Binghamton University faculty and graduate students associated with the Institute, and will offer at least one public lecture and/or workshop during the academic year. The Fellow will also be expected to offer one course per academic year, at either the graduate or undergraduate level, in an appropriate department.

Deadline for External Applicants: Open until filled

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the vacancy is filled.

Persons interested in this position should apply online.

Please submit:

1. A short cover letter
2. A CV
3. A detailed research proposal including a statement of how the proposal further research in the prevention of genocide and mass atrocity
4. Titles of two or three possible courses
5. Three confidential letters of recommendation

Informal inquiries can be directed to Prof. Max Pensky (mpensky@binghamton.edu).

You may add additional files/documents after uploading your resume. After you fill out your contact information, you will be directed to the upload page. Please login to check/edit your profile or to upload

additional documents: <https://binghamton.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=92541>

The State University of New York is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. As required by title IX and its implementing regulations Binghamton University does not discriminate on the basis of sex in the educational programs and activities which it operates. This requirement extends to employment and admission. Inquiries about sex discrimination may be directed to the University Title IX Coordinator or directly to the Office of Civil Rights (OCR). Contact information for the Title IX Coordinator and OCR, as well as the University's complete Non-Discrimination Notice may be found here: <https://www.binghamton.edu/diversity-equity-inclusion/policies/title-ix.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/22/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3903

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, Social Science. NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Social Movements

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2018. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, research sample and three letters of reference, all in PDF format. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science September 22, 2017, sociology on November 1, 2017 and applications from economics December 1, 2017.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3898

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Center for the Study of Contemporary China (<http://cscs.sas.upenn.edu/>) at the University of Pennsylvania invites applications to fill two postdoctoral fellowship positions for the 2018-2019 academic year. Applications are welcomed from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the last two years, or who expect to complete their degree by June 30, 2018.

The CSCC postdoctoral fellowships support research on all aspects of contemporary China that fall within the broad mission of the CSCC -- to advance Penn's leadership in programs, research, and scholarship about the political, legal, economic, and social factors shaping China and its role in the world today. The Center provides an institutional home for campus-wide collaboration among departments, programs, institutes, faculty and students at Penn engaged in work pertaining to contemporary China. Activities include conferences, roundtables, and a speaker series.

Fellows at the CSCC will pursue their own research and participate in the activities of the Center. Because fellows are expected to be fully integrated with the intellectual life of the Center, they must plan to physically reside in the vicinity of the University of Pennsylvania. Each fellow receives a stipend of $48,000, a $2500 research fund, and health insurance.

The University of Pennsylvania is an EO/AA employer and we welcome applications from women and minorities. CSCC starts to accept application on December 1, 2017. Applications will be reviewed starting March 1, 2018. To receive full consideration, your application should be received by that date. Applicants will be notified of the outcome in early April, 2018. To apply, please send a C.V., a research statement, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to cscs-contact@sas.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/19/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3896

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Rank: Faculty Member

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: International Security, Southeast Asia, Political Economy

The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a Department of Defense executive education institution that educates, empowers, connects, current and future leaders from the Indo-Pacific region. The Center offers in-resident courses, workshops and dialogue events in Honolulu and the Indo-Pacific region, and conducts policy-relevant research in order to build security capacity and collaboration in the Indo-Pacific. DKI APCSS address traditional and non-traditional security issues, including the relationship between governance and the security sector; transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, violent extremism, and trafficking; maritime security and the international rule of law; management of natural and man-made crises through HADR; analytical security assessments; and whole-of-society collaboration to include the role of women, peace and security. The audience of Fellows are mid to senior level civilian and military officials from all over the world. The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is located in Honolulu, Hawaii.

FACULTY MEMBER

The Center currently seeks world-class educators to teach, facilitate, research, and build capacity in the Indo-Pacific Region: Responsibilities include:

- Teaching executive education courses in a participant-centered, activity-based context
- Facilitating seminars and workshops in residential courses, regional seminars, and workshops
- Contributing to capacity building endeavors and security cooperation projects in the region
- Contributing analysis of security-related trends in the Asia-Pacific region
- Contributing to curriculum development
- Performing administrative and staff duties to support the Center's academic functions

Of particular interest are candidates with expertise in the following areas:

Expertise is sought in the following areas:

- Violent Extremism/Terrorism: Background and understanding of violent extremism and terrorism, broadly defined.
- OR
- Transnational Crime, Organized Crime, Combating Illicit Activities: Background understanding in any of these areas, whether through academic training or government practice
- Ideal candidates will possess the following:
 - Master Degree or PhD in a related area or discipline.
 - Proven ability in teaching and seminar facilitation.
 - Proven ability to function as a team member.

The following are preferred for all faculty positions:

- Experience working in the Indo-Asia Pacific region
- Expertise in the security sector of one or more Asia-Pacific countries.
- Familiarity with facilitation-based teaching, and state-of-the-art educational technology.
- Professional expertise at the operational, strategic or policy level in a whole-of-government or multilateral setting.

Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications. Salary range is $90,789 - $120,157 excludes locality pay (17.92%) and cost of living allowance (COLA), currently 11.32% but subject to change). These are limited-term, excepted-service positions, for up to three years (with the possibility of renewal). Relocation expenses may be authorized.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

1. Interested candidates should submit the following items:

- a. LETTER OF INTEREST. Provide a brief description of your vocational goals, personal interests and expected areas of study in the coming year, and explain your interest in future career considerations with the Department of Defense.
- b. CURRICULUM VITAE. Should reflect the following: educational background, work experience, publications and salary history.
- c. TWO LETTERS OF REFERENCE.
- d. TRANSCRIPT(s). Provide bona fide transcripts from the academic institutions granting advance degree(s).

2. Submit all required documents to physical address:

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies
 Attn: Chief, Human Resources Department
 2058 Maluhia Road
 Honolulu, Hawaii 96815-1949

or email to:

hrapplications@dkiapcss.net

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

1. Application deadline: Open until filled. Cut off: February 2, 2018.
2. Applications will be considered against current Faculty requirements. Application packages will be retained for one year.
3. Application materials become the property of the U.S. Department of the Defense and will not be returned.
4. The Department of the Defense is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status, political affiliation, sexual orientation, or any other non-merit factor. U.S. Citizenship is not required however applicants must be eligible for an H1B or other work visa.
5. The Department of the Defense provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact the Center's Human Resources Department at hrapplications@dkiapcss.org to ensure that the Department of the Defense can consider such a request. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis.

6. Frequent travel required.

7. Learn more about the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies by visiting: www.apcss.org.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 12/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3884

London School of Economics

Rank: Montague Burton Chair of International Relations

The Department of International Relations wishes to appoint a new Montague Burton Chair of International Relations. The Montague Burton Chair was established in 1934 and is one of the oldest International Relations Chairs in the United Kingdom.

We invite applications from eminent scholars of outstanding international reputation in International Relations, with a proven record of influential publications and leadership in the discipline. The successful candidate will have: published work of the highest quality in top-ranked scholarly journals and university presses; a strong intellectual vision for the field's future development; a clear and viable strategy for future outstanding research and publication; and a significant track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas of teaching covered by the Department. Candidates should have a completed PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a closely related subject. The successful candidate should also have a record in providing intellectual leadership in advancing scholarly research, have experience of and a commitment to supervise PhD and Masters students and have experience of advancing PhD training and placement. The post holder should have the potential ability to provide leadership in effective departmental administration and contribute to strategic decision-making in the Department.

Further information about the Department and its research can be found at www.lse.ac.uk/International-Relations

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the "contact us" links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email r.mokogwu@lse.ac.uk.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 31 January 2018 (23.59 UK time). Regrettably, we are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3879

University of Alabama, Huntsville

Rank: Eminent Scholar in Global Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration

Specializations: India, Central Asia, Economic Policy

The College of Business at The University of Alabama in Huntsville invites applications and nominations for an Eminent Scholar in Global Studies. The Global Studies Eminent Scholar is expected to be a visible leader in international affairs, international business policy, and/or economic development. This individual will lead efforts within the university and community to conduct research, influence policy, and develop programs with the goal of improving international business, trade, and cultural relationships, with an emphasis on security cooperation. Expertise on India and other countries on the Silk Road is critical to the success of the individual. The candidate is expected to be active in scholarly research and policy development, to conduct externally funded projects, and to engage in outreach with government agencies located at Redstone Arsenal and other similar locations.

We seek applicants who welcome the challenges and rewards of serving on a diverse and intellectually curious faculty of a growing college in a research intensive university located in a dynamic and supportive high technology community. A Ph.D. in Business, International Business or Economics, or a related discipline, with experience in security cooperation and policy development is required. A Ph.D. from an AACSB accredited institution and eligibility to hold Personnel Security Clearance are preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to develop academic programs and educational opportunities in global studies and security cooperation. In addition to a strong commitment to work with the security cooperation industry and government agencies, the successful candidate must be able to teach graduate and undergraduate students and mentor graduate students and junior faculty.

The Eminent Scholar in Global Studies must have a strong academic background, must be an internationally known researcher in international affairs, international business, and/or economic development, and must be committed to a continuing program of scholarship. In addition, the preferred candidate will have a background in or working knowledge of Department of State security cooperation activities and policies, and have familiarity with the policies and economic development, international business, and international relations of India and other countries on the Silk Road. Candidates need to have an understanding of the Civil Service Career Program (CP60) Field (foreign affairs track). Depending on qualifications, the Eminent Scholar may be appointed at the rank of Associate Professor with tenure or Professor with tenure. Depending on the interests and background of the candidate, this position may be a joint position with the Department of Political Science in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.

ABOUT THE COLLEGE: The College of Business is accredited by AACSB International and has approximately 30 tenured and tenure-track faculty, 35 research and part-time faculty, and 1,000 undergraduates and 400 graduate students. It offers a BSBA degree with majors in management, marketing, information systems, accounting, and finance; a BS in Economics and Computational Analysis degree; and seven graduate degrees: an MBA and specialized masters' degrees in Accounting, Business Analytics, Cybersecurity, Human Resource Management, Information Systems, and Supply Chain and Logistics Management. Recent publications by our faculty members have appeared in journals such as Science, the Academy of Management Journal, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Scheduling, Marketing Science, MIS Quarterly, Operations Research, Organization Science, Strategic Management Journal, and The Accounting Review. For detailed information about the college and its programs, please visit uah.edu/business.

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY: The University of Alabama in Huntsville, classified as a High Research Active institution, offers academic and research programs in the Colleges of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, Business, Education, Engineering, Nursing, Professional and Continuing Studies, and Science. The University is located in the midst of a high technology community consisting of the second largest industrial research park in the U.S. and is adjacent to Redstone Arsenal, which is home to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, the Missile Defense Agency, the Army Materiel Command, and the Aviation and Missile Command. For more information about UAH, see uah.edu/about.

ABOUT THE CITY OF HUNTSVILLE: The Huntsville area is a culturally diverse community and maintains one of the highest per capita incomes and standards of living in the southeast. Known as the "Rocket City," Huntsville has a major presence of technology, space, and defense industries, which allows the city to offer a variety of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. Located in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, Huntsville/Madison County is a diversified high-tech economy and is rich in cultural and recreational activities with a thriving music and arts scene. The population of the metropolitan area is over 400,000 and growing. Huntsville's Cummings Research Park is the country's second largest research and technology park, containing nearly 300 companies employing 29,000 people involved in technology research and development. Huntsville has a high concentration of Ph.D.'s, engineers, and STEM workers, and is recognized as a leading technology city with a rapidly expanding and diverse corporate ecosystem that is rich in innovation. Several museums and historic sites can be found in Huntsville, including the Huntsville Museum of Art, the Burritt Museum and Park, the EarlyWorks Children's Museum, the Alabama Constitution Village, the Huntsville Botanical Gardens, Monte Sano State Park, and the U.S. Space and Rocket Center. A vibrant downtown entertainment district, including Broadway and symphony performances, contribute to Huntsville's vibrant cultural life. For more information about Huntsville and its convenient location to Nashville, Birmingham, and Atlanta, please visit huntsville.org.

Applicants must submit the following via email to GSscholarsearch@uah.edu: a letter of nomination or application; a curriculum vitae, summary of current research interests (2-4 pages), teaching philosophy (1-2 pages), and names and affiliations for three references. Formal review of applications will begin February 2, 2018. Receipt and review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

For questions or additional information, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Jeet Gupta via e-mail (GSscholarsearch@uah.edu) or via telephone at 256-824-6593.

The University of Alabama in Huntsville is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer of minorities/ females/ veterans/ disabled.

Please refer to Log #18/19-116

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3880

University of St. Gallen

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with a focus on Business and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

The University of St. Gallen, Switzerland, seeks to appoint an Assistant Professor of Political Science with a focus on Business and Politics

starting September 1st, 2018 or by mutual agreement

The University of St Gallen and its Department of Political Science invite outstanding candidates to apply for an assistant professorship in the field of Business and Politics.

We are looking for an excellent scholar with a specialization in empirical research on the role of private business actors in politics. This may include, among others, business-government relations; contributions about firms' roles in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals; the political effects of varying ownership of key infrastructures and natural resources; managerial preferences, corporate control, and political development; the link between corporate social responsibility and public policy (e.g., corruption, welfare, environment, security); governance by private actors; or industry self-regulation.

Applicants should have a doctorate in political science, a promising research agenda, strong quantitative methods skills, and a willingness to collaborate on research and teaching with scholars from other fields, notably business management and corporate governance.

The successful candidate is expected to undertake research of the highest international standards within his or her own field of specialization and to teach in English in the university's programmes in International Affairs and Governance (two classes per week during term).

The Department of Political Science is a member of the School of Economics and Political Science (SEPS) and offers excellent research conditions and a stimulating academic environment. Through its collaborations, research centres and exchange programmes, it maintains a wide international network. The SEPS is committed to promoting young scholars in their career advancement. The appointment is for a term of 6 years. Applications from qualified women are particularly welcome.

We seek to appoint the successful candidate per September 1st, 2018 or by mutual agreement. For further information, please contact

Professor Patrick Emmenegger, Chairman of the Search Committee (Patrick.Emmenegger@unisg.ch).

Candidates should submit their application, that is a cover letter including a presentation of research interests and a statement on teaching strategy and philosophy, curriculum vitae, publications list, a job market paper that best represents their current research profile, and the contact details of two academic referees, in electronic form to the President of the University of St. Gallen, Professor Thomas Bieger (online: <https://www.unisg.ch/universitaet/arbeitenanderhsg/aktuellstellenangebote/jobs>).

The deadline for applications is February 18th, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/18/2018
Date Posted: 12/14/2017
Salary: $120,000 - $129,999
eJobs ID: 3876

Michigan State University

Rank: Research Associate - Fixed Term

The Department of Political Science is seeking to hire a full time Research Associate in the broad areas of International and Comparative Political Economy. The successful candidate will be expected to work with Professor Cristina Bodea to enhance the department's research agenda in Political Economy, through the publication of co-authored work with the Political Economy faculty and graduate students.

The requirements include: 1) A PhD in Political Science; 2) advanced training in Statistics and Econometrics. The teaching obligations for this position include one undergraduate course and several lab sessions for graduate students in the candidate's area of expertise. The initial appointment will be for one year, with an option for reappointment for another year.

Review of applications will begin February 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is August 15, 2018.

Interested applicants should apply via Michigan State University's Applicant Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu/>. Please submit cover letter, CV, copy of graduate transcripts, one research paper, statement of proposed research ideas (2-3 pages) and two letters of reference. For further questions please contact Professor Cristina Bodea at bodeana@msu.edu. MSU is an Affirmative-Action equal-opportunity employer and is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 12/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3852

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Fellow, Center for the Study of Statesmanship
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Religion & Politics

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall of 2018. This appointment is to be combined with a research appointment at the Center for the Study of Statesmanship (CSS). As a CSS Fellow the appointee will have a reduced teaching load. Although the appointment is likely to be made at a junior rank, more senior applicants will be considered.

The search is not confined to a particular field, but we are especially interested in scholars in foreign policy, international relations, or national security, or some combination thereof, who are able to place world politics in a philosophical, historical or cultural context. A background in political theory, the history of ideas or American constitutionalism is desirable. Candidates who are alert to the moral and religious dimensions of their areas of expertise are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major with many distinguished alumni and a strong MA and PhD program with graduates on numerous college and university faculties in America and abroad.

Established in the spring of 2017, CSS explores the meaning of statesmanship and how it can defuse conflict and foster respectful foreign and domestic relations. Administratively, CSS is independent of the Department of Politics and under the University Provost. To learn more about the Center and its research orientation candidates may go to the CSS website: <https://css.cua.edu>

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, departmental chair, at coyle@cua.edu and/or Dr. William S. Smith, managing director of CSS, at smithws@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10 and continue until the position is filled.

Catholic University seeks candidates who are supportive of the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a CV, and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one-to-two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will contribute to the University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found at: http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost_constitutions/documents/hf_jp-ii_apc_15081990_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html.

Official transcripts or verification of degrees will be required before any offer is made. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment.

The Catholic University of America is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3843

University of Southern California

Rank: Teaching Postdoctoral Fellowship (Asia and China)

The School of International Relations in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (USC; Los Angeles, California) invites applications for a postdoctoral position with two-course teaching for AY2018-19. The fall semester starts in the third week of August 2018. We seek applicants with expertise in the international relations of Asia and China. The successful candidate will join the Center for International Studies (CIS) at USC as a postdoctoral fellow, and is expected to teach one 15-week course per semester for two semesters. We also look for candidates with strong research profile with emphasis on academic publications, and interest in engaging in the vibrant research community of the School of International Relations and the CIS. A Ph.D. is required by time of appointment.

Applications should be complete by February 15, 2018 to receive fullest consideration. Applicants are required to complete the on-line application process (with few exceptions—such as published books—materials submitted by regular post will not be accepted). Follow this link or paste it in a browser: https://usc.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/ExternalUSCCareers/job/Los-Angeles-CA---University-Park-Campus/Postdoctoral-Scholar---Teaching-Fellow_REQ20053068

Required materials include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, research sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, the three reference letters, and official graduate transcripts. Inquiries may be sent to sirsearch@dornsife.usc.edu.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3846

University of Calgary

Rank: Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in The Politics of Decolonization

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The University of Calgary is engaged in a consultative process with knowledge keepers, Elders, and leaders of the Treaty #7 peoples, the Métis Nation, and academics and university administrators. This ongoing process has resulted in the development of an Indigenous Strategy designed to guide the University's relationship with the Indigenous peoples in whose territory the University resides. One of the goals identified during this consultation is to increase the number of Indigenous scholars in leading positions on campus. In addition to Indigenous cluster hires in the Faculty of Arts and the Werklund School of Education, the University of Calgary is now seeking three Canada Research Chairs (Tier II).

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in the Politics of Decolonization. We are seeking a scholar who will establish and maintain an active research program leading to excellence in our understanding of decolonization. Themes may include, but are not limited to, the study of political processes that redistribute land from colonial states to Indigenous nations, the revitalization of Indigenous land-based governance practices, the study of Indigenous decolonizing political movements, and gendered perspectives on decolonization. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) or Associate Professor (with tenure). The anticipated start date is July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will hold a PhD in Political Science or a related field. The appointee's research agenda may be grounded in any of the fields of political science (political theory, Canadian politics, comparative politics, international relations) or be inter-disciplinary in focus. A research program focused on Canada would be an asset but is not required to be considered for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to build relationships with the Treaty #7 Nations and the Métis Nation. This may include incorporating the experiences and needs of the Treaty #7 peoples and the Métis into their research. This appointment will contribute to the University of Calgary's commitment to create a rich, vibrant and culturally competent campus – one that welcomes and supports Indigenous learners, is inclusive of Indigenous perspectives in teaching and learning, encourages Indigenous community partnerships in research and academic programming and is appropriate and thoughtful in its response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's 'Calls to Action'.

The successful candidate at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of excellence in research, teaching and community engagement, commensurate with academic experience. This would normally include publications in high quality journals, success with securing competitive research funding, and evidence of a commitment to teaching effectiveness and to engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions. The successful candidate at the Associate Professor level must demonstrate a proven track record of research and teaching excellence, including a record of publications in high quality journals, proven success in obtaining competitive research funding, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a record of successful graduate student supervision, where possible. The successful candidate at this level should also provide evidence of successful engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions, including evidence of success in community-engaged projects and scholarship.

The Department of Political Science is housed in the Faculty of Arts. The Department administers the International Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program that attracts students from across the University. The program focuses on various aspects of Indigenous people's experience including arts, culture, ways of knowing, languages, economics, politics, and community structures. The candidate's willingness to teach in this program will be considered an asset. As part of its Indigenous Strategy, the Faculty has created eight tenure-track positions in Indigenous research and scholarship, across various departments. This community of scholars facilitates cross-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada. The Canada Research Chair in the Politics of Decolonization will provide leadership in these areas.

Tier II chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e., candidates must have been an active researcher in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier II chair assessed through the program's Tier II justification process. Please consult the Government of Canada's CRC website for full program information, including further details on eligibility criteria.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit their application online via the 'Apply Now' link at <http://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/8164474-canada-research-chair-tier-ii-in-the-politics-of-decolonization-faculty-of-arts> and include:

- A letter of interest and curriculum vitae, including a statement providing evidence of the applicant's connection to the Indigenous community
- Three examples of recent scholarly work
- Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- Description of a proposed 5-year research plan for the Chair

Applicants should also arrange to have three electronic confidential letters of reference sent under separate cover directly to the chair of the selection committee:

Dr. Antonio Franceschet
 Department Head, Department of Political Science
 Faculty of Arts, University of Calgary
 Email: polihire@ucalgary.ca

Questions regarding this opportunity should be addressed to Dr. Antonio Franceschet by email (polihire@ucalgary.ca)

Deadline: January 30, 2018

The University of Calgary recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research experiences of the entire campus and greater community. We are committed to removing barriers that have been historically encountered by some people in our society. We strive to recruit individuals who will further enhance our diversity and will support their academic and professional success while they are here; in particular, we encourage members of the four designated groups (women, Aboriginal People, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities) to apply. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. To ensure a fair and equitable assessment, we offer accommodation at any stage during the recruitment process to applicants with disabilities. Questions regarding diversity or requests for accommodation can be sent to Human Resources (hrhire@ucalgary.ca).

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3813

Cornell University

Rank: Visiting Associate Professor

Cornell University's Department of Government seeks to fill a three-year visiting position, beginning July 1, 2018, in International Relations and Comparative Politics, with a focus on the politics and foreign policies of the Middle East. The ideal candidate will be able to teach courses on Israeli politics in comparative perspective (Middle East and cross-regional), the politics of nationalism and separatist movements, and international politics more broadly. The Department welcomes applicants who cross subfield boundaries (e.g., with connections to political theory) and would interact with other departments and programs, such as Near East Studies and the Judith Reppy Institute for Peace and Conflict Studies. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10478>. We will begin to review applications starting December 1, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3789

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Position 3: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Rank: Assistant Professor

Disciplines: International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Subfield: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in International or Comparative Political Economy starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in technologies impacting global economic governance such as Blockchain, FinTech and others.

Candidates will be expected to teach courses in International Political Economy, International Trade, and International Finance, as well as core courses in Micro- and Macro-Economics. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, International Relations, or Economics is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Political Economy to IESIR3@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3786

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Security Studies
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Position 4: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Security Studies
 Rank: Assistant Professor
 Disciplines: International Relations
 Subfield: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security
 Deadline: January 31st, 2018
 Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Security Studies starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in security innovation with a focus on new weapons systems, artificial intelligence, and cybersecurity.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and Masters level courses in International Relations Theory, Global Governance, and Peace and Conflict Resolution, and Globalization. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, or International Relations is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Security Studies to IESIR4@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/31/2017
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3787

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Fellowship in Grand Strategy, Security, and Statecraft

With the support of the Charles Koch Foundation, the MIT Security Studies Program and the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs are now accepting applications for joint two-year, pre- and post-doctoral fellowships in "the Project on Grand Strategy, Security and Statecraft."

(Link to more detailed description and application details: <https://ssp.mit.edu/node/354>)

Applications for 2018-19 Fellowships are being accepted until January 30, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3780

Dickinson College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of International Studies

The departments of International Studies and Political Science at Dickinson College are seeking qualified candidates for a two-year replacement position at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor, beginning in academic year 2018-19 and continuing through the end of academic year 2019-20.

The teaching load for this position is five courses per year, to include introductory International Relations, upper-level American Foreign Policy, American National Security, and other courses related to international relations and security studies. Candidates should identify in the application letter the courses they are prepared to teach. Applicants should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an interdisciplinary liberal arts environment, and the successful candidate is expected to participate fully in the intellectual life of the departments, including serving as oral examiner for the International Studies exams at the end of the academic year. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. A completed or nearly-completed Ph.D. is required.

Dickinson College is a highly selective, private, four-year liberal arts college with 2,400 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC, and Philadelphia.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically, via QUEST (online application system) at <https://jobs.dickinson.edu>. Please submit the following materials: a letter of application; curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; three letters of recommendation; teaching statement; sample syllabi (preferably for one or more of the above listed courses); and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Review of applications will begin January 15. The College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3774

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the 2018-19 academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2018. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the Center's faculty. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4781> (D-18-PII-00004)

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
3. A current curriculum vitae
4. Contact information for two references
5. Two writing samples.

Application deadline: February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3765

University of Rochester

Rank: Post-doctoral fellowship

Applications for 2018-19 are welcome in any area of international or comparative politics, but preference will be given to applicants whose work focuses on Central and Eastern Europe, broadly defined. Fellows offer two courses during the academic year and receive a stipend of $42,000. Applicants without a Ph.D. should describe their plans for completing the degree by the time the fellowship commences.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a 3-5 page research project description, a one-page sketch of proposed courses, one or more writing samples, and three letters of recommendation to: Fellowship in International and Central European Politics, Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies, University of Rochester, Harkness Hall 101, Rochester, New York 14627-0147. Applications must be postmarked by Jan. 5, 2018. Direct questions to Dr. Bozena Sobolewska, bsobolew@mail.rochester.edu, or 585-275-9898.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3766

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Nuclear Security Fellow

NUCLEAR SECURITY FELLOWS PROGRAM

The Security Studies Program at MIT invites applications for fellows in the field of nuclear security. Fellowships are available for pre-doctoral and post-doctoral scholars and for junior faculty. Fellows are expected to produce policy-relevant research, including book manuscripts, draft articles, dissertations, chapters in edited volumes, or reports. Nuclear security is defined broadly to include nuclear terrorism, nuclear proliferation and nonproliferation, nuclear weapons, nuclear doctrine and force structure, nuclear energy as it relates to nuclear security, and other topics that involve nuclear security. The deadline for applications is 30 January 2018. Application forms (and further information about eligibility requirements) are available at <https://ssp.mit.edu/about/nuclear-security-fellows-program>. Applications, along with any further questions should be submitted by post or email to: Fellowship Coordinator, Security Studies Program, MIT, Bldg. E40, 4th Floor, 77 Massachusetts Ave, Cambridge, MA 02139 (email: ssp-fellowships@mit.edu). MIT is an AA/EQ employer and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3762

American University in Cairo

Rank: International Relations/ Middle East Politics

International Relations/ Middle East Politics

Job Description

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in International Relations emphasis on the Middle East at the Assistant Level Professor beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on International Politics in the Middle East, International organization, Contemporary Foreign Policy. Candidates who can teach Issues in Middle East Politics, Contemporary Egypt and Egyptian Foreign Policy are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3745

American University in Cairo

Rank: International Relations/IR Theory

International Relations/IR Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in international relations at the Assistant Professor level beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on theories of international relations, contemporary foreign policies, international organization. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3746

Saint Lawrence University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professors in International Relations (3 openings)

Specializations: Middle East, International Security, Foreign Policy

Due to administrative appointments, retirements, and sabbatical leaves, the Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for three Visiting Assistant Professor (VAP) positions in International Relations. These positions begin August 2018. Successful candidates will teach three courses per semester, including introductory courses in international relations and upper-level courses within their fields of expertise. Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2018.

- 1) The first position seeks expertise in the Middle East and is renewable for up to one additional year.
- 2) The second position seeks expertise in security studies or American foreign policy and is renewable for up to one additional year.
- 3) The third position is open regarding expertise, except that it will not duplicate the other searches in the Middle East, security studies, and American foreign policy.

Additionally, the department expects to conduct one international relations tenure-track search in the fall of 2018.

We welcome applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic and national perspectives to their scholarship and teaching.

Minimum Qualifications: Candidates with Ph.D. in hand preferred, though ABD candidates may be considered.

To apply, please visit: <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1288>

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vita, graduate school transcript, writing sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants should also submit a separate document with a statement indicating how they can contribute in tangible ways to St. Lawrence University's commitment to cultivating a diverse and inclusive community and classrooms. These documents can be uploaded in the "Applicant Documents" section of your application.

Additionally, three confidential references are required [the required information input in the reference contact information section of your application will be utilized to send a system-derived email requesting a recommendation letter from each reference].

Questions about the position may be sent to Dr. Ronnie Olesker (rolesker@stlawu.edu), Search Chair, International Relations Searches.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3743

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component (ancient or modern). Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. In some cases Fellows will be welcome to teach a course at the University of Texas. Each appointment is for one year, and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3723

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants pursuing a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component (ancient or modern). This fellowship is designed to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one year (or in exceptional cases two years) of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 3724

University of Iowa

Rank: Lecturer - East Asian Security and/or Political Economy

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Lecturer in East Asian Security and/or Political Economy

The University of Iowa's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track Instructional Faculty (Lecturer) position in international security and/or political economy in East Asia, beginning August 15, 2018 renewable for an additional two years (2019-2021 and renewable thereafter in three year increments pending positive reviews). Duties of this position include teaching 18-24 semester hours per academic year, professional development and departmental service.

A Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 1, 2018, and must be free to assume the duties of this position on that date. Candidates must demonstrate the potential for outstanding teaching

Review of applications will begin on January 20, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Applications should include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, three recommendation letters, a statement on teaching, a statement on research, publications, and manuscripts in progress.

JOB Requisition number: 71355
<https://jobs.uiowa.edu/faculty/view/71355>

University of Iowa | Department of Political Science
<https://clas.uiowa.edu/polisci>
<https://clas.uiowa.edu/polisci/about-us/open-faculty-staff-positions>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3722

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3589

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3574

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) Official transcripts
- (3) A curriculum vita
- (4) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (5) A writing sample
- (6) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3537

Fordham University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Politics

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning August 2018. The position is located at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates who possess research and teaching expertise in the areas of international security, U.S. foreign policy, and international diplomacy. Alternatively, the candidate may specialize in international organizations, law, and cooperation. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science and the Master's Program in International Political Economy and Development. Additional expertise in a particular region of the world, including East or South Asia, Africa, or Europe would be welcome. We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated and methodologically rigorous.

We invite candidates with an ability to make a positive contribution to the department's climate fostering inclusiveness and diversity. We believe that cultural and intellectual pluralism is essential to the excellence of our academic programs, and we strive to foster an academic culture and campus community that attracts and supports the development of a diverse faculty reflecting the global environment in which we live and work. As our student body grows increasingly diverse, experience and commitment to teaching and mentoring students from a range of economic, social, and cultural backgrounds is preferred and welcomed.

Review of applications will begin on October 25. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor José Alemán, Committee Chair, via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/45328>: cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3483

Troy University

Rank: Adjunct Professor

Adjunct faculty members are employed to provide specific courses on an as-needed basis. Contracts for adjunct faculty members are issued on a semester/term basis. Adjunct Instructors hold the responsibility for the courses taught. Adjunct Instructors are expected to be available for a reasonable amount of time for each course taught to counsel students regarding course work.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3449

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Computational Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The University of Chicago invites applications for one or more position(s) as Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Computational Social Science. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

These are full-time teaching positions beginning September 2018 with a renewable three-year term. The successful applicant will teach five graduate courses per year; advise MA students; evaluate MA theses; hire and manage teaching assistants; participate in program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the MA Program in Computational Social Science (macss.uchicago.edu). Prior teaching experience is required.

The ideal candidate would be able to teach in three or more of the following areas: scientific programming with Python; coding best practices; SQL and file-based databases; Spark or Hadoop frameworks; machine learning using structured, semi-structured or unstructured data; Bayesian statistical inference and graphical models; statistical programming with R; optimization; or computational statistics. Other courses may be drawn from the candidate's area of disciplinary expertise.

Lecturers must have the PhD in hand by September 1, 2018. Senior Lecturers are normally more advanced, though the offer might be made in cases of exceptional promise.

Applicants must apply on the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website. The posting for the Senior Lectureship can be found here <http://tinyurl.com/ydfjov8>.

The posting for the Lectureship is available here <http://tinyurl.com/ybpozop>.

The following materials should be submitted: 1) a cover letter, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a chapter-length writing sample, 4) a sample course syllabus, 5) course evaluations or evidence of past teaching performance, and 6) three letters of reference.

We will begin reviewing applications November 1 and will continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by January 1 will receive full consideration from our committee. Later applicants are encouraged to contact Chad Cyrenne (c-cyrenne@uchicago.edu) for updates on the status of the search.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3440

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in international relations. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3362

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3351

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3337

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3320

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. Candidates should have a primary research and teaching interest in International Relations with a principal focus on security studies. A Ph.D. degree is required. Candidates with ABD status will be considered but they must possess a Ph.D. degree by the time of appointment. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. The teaching load is four classes per year, a 2-2 load.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of approximately 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Policy and Administration, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 16 faculty members, 200 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 Ph.D. students. The department has strong ties to several research centers within the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, and the Stennis Center for Public Service. More information is available on the department at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Brian Shoup, at bds223@msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://explore.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF#496143) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, a vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin on or around September 25th, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/24/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3260

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3156

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with research and teaching in the field of International Relations with specialization in International Organizations to begin the fall semester of 2018.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

Candidates will be expected to teach undergraduate political science courses in the area of international politics that serve as requirements for both the Political Science and the new International Studies & Diplomacy undergraduate degrees as well as teach other courses in the International Relations graduate program. Candidates will also be expected to publish original research in the field of international politics, advise undergraduate students, and provide service to the department, the university and the profession.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2018, in Political Science, International Relations, or related field
- 2) Primary or secondary field in the area of International Organizations
- 3) Evidence of college-level teaching commensurate with level of academic experience
- 4) Demonstrated ability to teach introductory political science courses in the area of international politics
- 5) Demonstrated evidence of research in the field of international politics with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience
- 6) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: diplomacy, human rights, international law, environmental justice, food security, international migration, political asylum, or refugee flows
- 2) Internationally relevant experience working with international organizations, conducting international fieldwork, or strong foreign language skills

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

The application deadline is October 1, 2017.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: <https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/2628>

Please attach (PDF) the following documents to your online application:

- 1) Cover letter that describes your interest in this position
- 2) Curriculum vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document)
- 3) Brief research and teaching statement
- 4) If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3144

Texas A&M UniversityRank: Assistant Professor*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/4/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3129Texas A&M University*Rank: Associate/Full Professor*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/3/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3115University of California, San Diego*Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy*Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmission to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

Harvard University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenure-track professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2018. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Doctorate or terminal degree in Political Science or related disciplines required by the time the appointment begins.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching is desired.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIeS portal (<http://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2017.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement (describing teaching approach and philosophy)
4. Research statement
5. Names and contact information of 3-5 referees, who will be asked by a system-generated email to upload a letter of recommendation once the candidate's application has been submitted. Three letters of recommendation are required, and the application is considered complete only when at least three letters have been received.
6. Writing samples and publications, if applicable.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Contact Information: Natasha Khrustalova, Department of Government, Harvard University, 1737 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, MA 02138.
nkhrustalova@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2994

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

METHODOLOGY

Duke University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Political Development

The DevLab@Duke has one opening for a Post-Doctoral fellow working to develop rigorous programming, collect monitoring and evaluation data, and conduct impact evaluations of development projects. Prospective candidates are expected to have done graduate work in one or more of these areas:

- International Development
- Economics
- Political Science

Successful candidates will collaborate with Professors Erica Field, Erik Wibbels, Pablo Beramendi, Edmund Malesky, Manoj Mohanan, Marc Jeuland, Robert Garlick and other members of the lab in an interdisciplinary environment. They will be expected to work with lab associates to provide timely input to development practitioners affiliated with the DevLab—including donors, implementers and evaluators—at all stages of project conceptualization, design, implementation and evaluation. Lab activities will leave considerable time for independent research, and the position offers ample opportunity for developing new research projects in conjunction with DevLab members.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening, but applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The start date is July 1, 2018. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year, with the possibility of renewal for a second year. Applicants should submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10802>. Address correspondence to: Professor Elaine Denny, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall, Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204; or email: elaine.denny@duke.edu.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Date Posted: 1/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4002

Bucknell University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics beginning in the fall semester of 2018. The teaching load is three courses per semester, and the successful candidate will be prepared to teach European politics, a core course in comparative politics, and quantitative or qualitative research methods, as well as other courses in the candidate's area of specialization.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience, potential teaching excellence, and the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. or be ABD in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in comparative politics.

For additional information and to apply, please go to <http://www.careers.bucknell.edu>. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations, along with any other relevant materials. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on February 26, 2018, and applications received by that date will be guaranteed full consideration.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Apart from its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas; the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies, and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. Bucknell also has a small but growing community of Asia scholars. In the spring of 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. For those who crave the city, Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3995

Shepherd University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Global Studies at Shepherd University invites applicants for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Political Science with specialization in global security/peace or global political economy. Regional specialization is open but preference for specialization in Latin America or Asia. Candidates with ability to teach either research methods or American political institution will receive preference.

Responsibilities include teaching 12 hours per semester (which could include 2 sections of either Introduction to American Government or an Introduction to Political Science course), scholarship, participation in Shepherd's Global Studies Program, student advisement and supervision of research projects, and participation in service activities. Candidates with a Ph.D in Political Science (or related field) in hand are preferred but candidates who are ABD with substantial evidence of nearing completion will be considered. Candidates should have demonstrated teaching ability and potential as a researcher. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. AA/EOE. Salary is commensurate with experience.

The Department of Political Science and Global Studies is a vibrant department which offers Bachelors Degrees in Political Science and in Global Studies. Within Political Science students have the opportunity to concentrate in legal studies. The Global Studies Program, an interdisciplinary program, offers concentrations in Global Governance and Peace, Global Economics and Development, Global Environments, and Global Culture and History. At the moment the Department has four full-time faculty members and between 80 and 100 majors.

Founded in 1871, Shepherd, a public liberal arts University, is located in Shepherdstown, a historic town on the Potomac River about 75 miles west of Washington, DC. Review of applications will begin immediately; applications received by March 5, 2018 will receive priority consideration. Submit a cover letter, CV, unofficial transcripts, list of references, and statement of teaching philosophy and research interests to <https://jobs.shepherd.edu>. Only electronic applications will be accepted. For more information, please contact Dr. Aart Holtslag, Search Committee Chair, at aholtsla@shepherd.edu.

Minimum Qualifications:

ABD in Political Science and primary area of competence in International Relations/Comparative Politics (area specialty other than Europe) with an ability to teach Political Philosophy, Public Policy, or Research Methods as a secondary competency.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3989

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, linking this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, growth and development, peace and security, power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a

Postdoctoral Research Fellow

within the Leibniz Association-funded Junior Research Group "Sources and Consequences of Legitimation Strategies of Regional Organisations" headed by Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz. Applications are invited for a full-time position, with a 4-year-contract, preferably starting 1 June 2018. The salary is commensurate with TV-AVH / TVöD EG 13.

The Research Group seeks to map and explain the sources and consequences of legitimation strategies in regional organisations over time. It studies (1) how state representatives and regional organisation bureaucrats justify to relevant internal and external audiences an organisation's right to rule, (2) why such discursive legitimation strategies may change over time and vary across organisations; and (3) whether and how they are related to institutional legitimation strategies. The Group's research agenda consists of a quantitative component that aims to map, and explain basic patterns in, the discursive and institutional legitimation strategies of 30 regional organisations worldwide in the period from 1980 to 2015 and several qualitative components that seek to identify the causal mechanisms and political dynamics of legitimation and delegitimation in regional organisations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The successful candidate will

- work as part of a research team on developing a dataset on the legitimation strategies of regional organisations as well as co-developing and testing the theoretical framework of the project leading to publications in international journals and a book;
- be an active member of the GIGA, affiliated to one of its Regional Institutes and at least one Research Programme;
- have no teaching obligation.

Your qualifications:

- a doctoral degree in the social sciences, or a dissertation manuscript that has been submitted, specialised in international politics / international organisations; knowledge of regional organisations is an asset
- a strong scientific track record (visible in among other things international journal publications and international academic experience)

- excellent skills in quantitative methods of data analysis; knowledge of quantitative text analysis is an asset
- excellent written and oral communication skills in English; knowledge of Spanish and/or French is an asset

Part-time options will be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate. Diversity and the reconciliation of work and family life are of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-18-02) including relevant supporting documentation (cover letter outlining your motivation and skills, CV and list of publications, Bachelor and Master level study transcripts, two letters of recommendation, and two writing samples, at least one of which is single-authored) to:

Stephanie Stövesand, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-ilas@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 1 March 2018.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz (email: tobias.lenz@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 428 25 765).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3983

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

Rank: Research Fellow to work on regional legitimacy crises

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, linking this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, growth and development, peace and security, power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a

Research Fellow to work on regional legitimacy crises

within the Leibniz Association-funded Junior Research Group "Sources and Consequences of Legitimation Strategies of Regional Organisations" headed by Prof. Dr.

Tobias Lenz. Applications are invited for a part-time position (65%), with a 3-year contract, preferably starting 1 June 2018. The salary is commensurate with TV-AVH / TVöD EG 13. The GIGA strongly encourages concurrent work on a doctoral degree in line with the candidate's work in the project. The fellow would become a member of the GIGA Doctoral Programme.

The Research Group seeks to map and explain the sources and consequences of legitimation strategies in regional organisations over time.

It studies (1) how state representatives and regional organisation bureaucrats justify to relevant internal and external audiences an organisation's right to rule, (2) why such discursive legitimisation strategies may change over time and vary across organisations; and (3) whether and how they are related to institutional legitimisation strategies. The Group's research agenda consists of a quantitative component that aims to map, and explain basic patterns in, the discursive and institutional legitimisation strategies of 30 regional organisations worldwide in the period from 1980 to 2015 and several qualitative components that seek to identify the causal mechanisms and political dynamics of legitimisation and delegitimisation in regional organisations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The successful candidate will

- work as part of a research team in developing and conducting a comparative case study that examines the effects of legitimacy crises on regional organisation's discursive and institutional legitimisation strategies
- assist in coding the legitimisation strategies of regional organisations over time
- be an active member of the GIGA, affiliated to one of its Regional Institutes and at least one Research Programme.

Your qualifications:

- a completed MA degree in International Relations or a related social science discipline with a solid training in research design and social science methods
- outstanding academic track record and excellent marks; international academic experience is an advantage
- solid knowledge of the theory and practice of regional and/or international organisations; in-depth knowledge of regional cooperation in Asia, Africa, the Middle East or Latin America, and corresponding language skills, are an asset
- excellent written and oral communication skills in English
- readiness to conduct field research

Other part-time options may be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate.

Diversity and the reconciliation of work and family life are of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-18-03) including relevant supporting documentation (letter of motivation, CV including list of language skills, academic transcripts/credentials, one letter of recommendation, one writing sample – e.g. Master's thesis, term paper or published work, two-page outline of a comparative case study in line with the project's objectives) to:

Stephanie Stövesand, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-ilas@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 1 March 2018.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz (email: tobias.lenz@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 428 25 765).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3984

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies Rank: Research Fellow to work on the normative foundations of regional organisations

The GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies / Leibniz-Institut für Globale und Regionale Studien is an independent social-science research institute based in Hamburg. It analyses political, social and economic developments in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, linking this knowledge to questions of global significance. It combines region-specific analysis with innovative comparative research on accountability and participation, growth and development, peace and security, power and ideas. The GIGA seeks to appoint a

Research Fellow to work on the normative foundations of regional organisations

within the Leibniz Association-funded Junior Research Group "Sources and Consequences of Legitimation Strategies of Regional Organisations" headed by Prof. Dr.

Tobias Lenz. Applications are invited for a part-time position (65%), with a 3-year contract, preferably starting 1 June 2018. The salary is commensurate with TV-AVH / TVöD EG 13. The GIGA strongly encourages concurrent work on a doctoral degree in line with the candidate's work in the project. The fellow would become a member of the GIGA Doctoral Programme.

The Research Group seeks to map and explain the sources and consequences of legitimisation strategies in regional organisations over time. It studies (1) how state representatives and regional organisation bureaucrats justify to relevant internal and external audiences an organisation's right to rule, (2) why such discursive legitimisation strategies may change over time and vary across organisations; and (3) whether and how they are related to institutional legitimisation strategies. The Group's research agenda consists of a quantitative component that aims to map, and explain basic patterns in, the discursive and institutional legitimisation strategies of 30 regional organisations worldwide in the period from 1980 to 2015 and several qualitative components that seek to identify the causal mechanisms and political dynamics of legitimisation and delegitimisation in regional organisations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The successful candidate will

- work as part of a research team in developing and conducting a comparative case study that examines how regional organisations' legitimisation strategies respond to different normative values of their core constituency and how they seek to deal with normative conflict among core constituencies
- assist in coding the legitimisation strategies of regional organisations over time
- be an active member of the GIGA, affiliated to one of its Regional Institutes and at least one Research Programme.

Your qualifications:

- a completed MA degree in International Relations or a related social science discipline with a solid training in research design and social science methods

- outstanding academic track record and excellent marks; international academic experience is an advantage
- solid knowledge of the theory and practice of regional and/or international organisations; in-depth knowledge of regional cooperation in Asia, Africa, the Middle East or Latin America, and corresponding language skills, are an asset
- excellent written and oral communication skills in English
- readiness to conduct field research

Other part-time options may be considered, if so desired by the successful candidate.

Diversity and the reconciliation of work and family life are of great importance to the institute. The GIGA promotes gender equality and actively encourages applications from women. Among equally qualified applicants, women will receive preferential consideration in those areas in which they are underrepresented.

Please fill out the GIGA application form (found at www.giga-hamburg.de/en/vacancies) and send it with your full application (Ref.-No. GIGA-18-04) including relevant supporting documentation (letter of motivation, CV including list of language skills, academic transcripts/credentials, one letter of recommendation, one writing sample – e.g. Master's thesis, term paper or published work, two-page outline of a comparative case study in line with the project's objectives) to:

Stephanie Stövesand, GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies,
Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg, Germany
Email: jobs-ilas@giga-hamburg.de (email applications are particularly welcome).

Screening of applications will begin on 1 March 2018.

For further information, please visit the GIGA homepage (www.giga-hamburg.de) or contact Prof. Dr. Tobias Lenz (email: tobias.lenz@giga-hamburg.de, phone: +49 (0)40 – 428 25 765).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3985

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies at Stanford University seeks to appoint a postdoctoral research associate for the academic year 2018-19, beginning September 4, 2018 and concluding August 30, 2019. The position involves working on the Freeman Spogli Institute's Governing the Global Economy research initiative with Professor Kenneth Scheve. Responsibilities will vary but likely include assisting with the design and implementation of original surveys, data collection and management, assistance in archival research, data analysis, and grant writing. There will also be substantial opportunities for the postdoc to pursue their own research projects, participate in collaborative research, and take advantage of the intellectual life at the Freeman Spogli Institute and related departments. Technical skills such as computer programming are highly desirable as is some coursework in political economy. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Proof of completion of doctoral degree is required before starting the position and the start date must be no more than three years after degree conferral. The position provides stipend and benefits, set and adjusted in accordance with Stanford University rules. Stanford University is an equal opportunity-affirmative action employer. Stanford values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty, and strongly encourages applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

Questions about the position can be directed to Professor Scheve at scheve@stanford.edu. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All applications must be submitted on-line through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/10773>. Applications should be submitted by February 23, 2018

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/23/2018

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3982

Ibn Haldun University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Positions (3) in the Department of Political Science and International Relations Ibn Haldun University

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Open Rank Faculty Positions (3) in the Department of Political Science and International Relations Ibn Haldun University

Location: Istanbul-Turkey

Salary: Not-specified

Hours: Full Time

Rank: Open

Closing Date: 22nd February 2018

The Political Science and International Relations Department at Ibn Haldun University invites applications for 3 full-time faculty positions. The ranks are open and the appointment will begin on September 1, 2018. Candidates are expected to be specialist in the specified subfields:

- * Comparative Politics with specific focus on quantitative research methods
- * Peace and Conflict Studies
- * International Security/ Security Studies
- * International Political Economy/ Comparative Political Economy

Qualifications: Candidates must possess a Ph.D. at the time of appointment from an accredited institution, have strong training in Political Science or International Relations with a specific focus on the subfields that are mentioned above. Candidates are expected to demonstrate excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, the ability to maintain dynamic scholarly productivity, and a willingness to be active in service to the university.

Responsibilities: Successful candidates will teach undergraduate and graduate level courses. Active research and publication agenda and willingness to engage in collaborative research with departmental colleagues and graduate students.

Ibn Haldun University (IHU), founded by TURGEV in Istanbul is an endowment university with the vision to stand out as a “research” university in social sciences. Graduate students will constitute more than half of IHU’s student population. IHU will be an international university in that one-third of the students will be admitted from abroad. The medium of instruction at IHU is English. Its campus is located in Basaksehir, Istanbul.

Ibn Haldun University is an equal opportunity employer. It offers competitive salaries, which are commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications of the candidates. Comprehensive package of benefits, including housing and travel allowance, private health insurance will be offered to all employees.

Interested candidates should send (via email)

- Curriculum vitae
- A cover letter including relevant research experience
- Teaching philosophy including teaching evaluations
- Research papers
- Research statement with a clear goal setting for the coming 3 to 5 years
- Two letters of recommendation.

The application deadline is February 22, 2018.
Please send your documents to pols@ihu.edu.tr

For further information and question you can contact to Talha Köse, chair of the Political Science and International Relations Department (talha.kose@ihu.edu.tr)

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/23/2018
Date Posted: 1/22/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3973

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics
Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Summary:

The Institute of Political Science (IPS) in The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts as early as Fall 2018. The opening is in the field of comparative politics (with or without a focus on China), research methodology, and political theory (order is by preference). A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years. The tenure-track faculty members are expected to publish research on major journals of international reputation, offer high quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background:

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas.

The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five Year Plan. SUFE is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system and offers globally competitive salaries for entry-level faculty in the discipline of political science. The newly established Institute of Political Science has nine members. Seven of them hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents:

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

Procedures:

The deadline for accepting applications is March 20, 2018, for this round of recruitment. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2018 Midwest Political Science Association conference in Chicago. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend the meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype.

Contact:

Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 3/20/2018
Date Posted: 1/20/2018
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3968

Barry UniversityRank: Assistant ProfessorSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of History and Political Science at Barry University in Miami Shores, Florida invites applications for a full-time, continuing track position of Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning in August, 2018.

The Department offers bachelor's degrees in Political Science, International Studies, History and Pre-law and is housed in the College of Arts & Sciences.

This full-time Assistant Professor of Political Science teaches undergraduate courses; provides academic advising and mentoring to undergraduate students; contributes departmental, college, university, community, and professional service; and engages in sustained scholarship.

Applications should be submitted by March 1, 2018.

Essential Functions

- The applicant must be able to teach courses on American politics and institutions, or on international relations, international organizations, and international political economy.
- The ideal candidate would also be able to teach research methods and/or political theory to undergraduates. In addition, the applicant should be able to teach Introduction to American Government.
- The course load is 12 credits per semester. Experience with developing and teaching distance courses is desirable.
- Additional duties include academic advising, professional service within the university and the community, and ongoing scholarship.

Qualifications/Requirements

- The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialization in American Government and/or International Relations and with a secondary area in research methods.
- Experience with developing and teaching distance courses is desirable.
- The applicant should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vita, an official transcript, and three letters of professional reference.

Benefits: Barry University offers a comprehensive benefits package to full-time employees that includes health, dental, vision, life insurance, retirement, tuition assistance, paid time off and work/life balance initiatives such as wellness programs, spirituality in the workplace, and training and development.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 3/1/2018Date Posted: 1/12/2018Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 3953Koç University*Rank: ERC FUNDED POST-DOCTORAL POSITION AT KOÇ UNIVERSITYSubfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, MethodologySpecializations: Quantitative Methods, Social Welfare, Developing Nations

The Department of Sociology, Koç University, Istanbul, is currently inviting applications for a post-doctoral researcher position. The successful candidate will work with Assistant Professor Erdem Yörük on his European Research Council (ERC)-funded project on the politics of welfare in emerging market economies.

The project investigates the political causes of welfare state development in emerging market economies (please see emw.ku.edu.tr and the brief summary of the project below). The project is building two databases: (i) welfare state database (the most comprehensive database in terms of countries, variables, and years covered), and (ii) protest events database on emerging markets (the creation of which employs artificial intelligence, machine learning, and natural language processing (NLP) methods on local news sources). The successful candidate is expected to conduct advanced quantitative analyses using these two databases, and other microdata sources, in order to test the hypotheses of the project.

Candidates with the following backgrounds are encouraged to apply: (i) PhD in a social science discipline (e.g. sociology, economics, political science, social policy, or public policy.), (ii) extensive knowledge and experience in quantitative research methods, (iii) interest in welfare state studies, social movements, political economy, comparative-historical sociology, and emerging markets.

The successful candidate is expected to:

- Have extensive knowledge and experience in advanced quantitative analysis, including time-series analysis, content analysis methods, and data cleaning and management operations.
- Have working knowledge of Stata and/or R statistical software packages.
- Have completed their PhD degree by the start date of the position.
- Work with other research team members to co-author research articles on the topics of the grant.
- Be comfortable working in an international environment and have no restrictions on travelling internationally.

The targeted start date of the position is September 2018. However, an earlier start date is negotiable. The initial term of the position is for a full year. Renewal of the position for up to three years is possible contingent on research productivity and continued substantive fit of the candidate. This is a full-time position with a competitive salary as well as additional benefits such as private health insurance and housing. Funding for conferences is available contingent on the relevance of the conference to the project. The position will not have any teaching responsibilities.

Please send your application electronically as a single pdf. file comprising your motivation letter, CV (including a list of publications), a writing sample which includes a quantitative empirical analysis, and two letters of recommendation to the Principal Investigator, Dr. Erdem Yörük: (send to both eryoruk@ku.edu.tr and emw@ku.edu.tr). The deadline for applications is February 28, 2018, but early applications are welcome.

The New Politics of Welfare: Towards an "Emerging Markets" Welfare State Regime (ERC Starting Grant)

This research project aims to identify a new welfare regime in emerging market economies and explain why it has emerged. The project will compare Brazil, China, India, Indonesia, Mexico, South Africa, and Turkey to test two hypotheses: (i) emerging market economies are forming a new welfare regime that differs from liberal, corporatist and social democratic welfare regimes of the global north on the basis of extensive and decommodifying social assistance programmes, (ii) the new welfare regime emerges principally as a response to the growing political power of the poor as a dual source of threat and support for governments. Based on a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective, the project follows a multi-method strategy that combines protest event data collection techniques, macro-historical methods, quantitative data analyses and qualitative content analysis.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/28/2018
Date Posted: 1/8/2018
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3923

ETH Zurich

Rank: Post-Doc -- Law, Economics, & Data Science
Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Communication, Judicial Politics

The Center for Law and Economics, ETH Zurich, invites applications for Postdoctoral Researchers. The newly established research group, headed by Professor Elliott Ash, JD/PhD (elliottash.com), conducts empirical research on legal and political institutions using tools at the intersection of economics and data science. We are looking for postdoc applicants holding a PhD in empirical social science (e.g. economics, political science) or data science (e.g. computer science, machine learning, computational linguistics), with research interests in this area.

The research focus is on representing legal and political language as statistical data using tools from natural language processing, and then recovering causal relations between language and outcomes in society and the economy. The postdocs will be involved in all aspects of the research, including project planning, research design, data analysis, presentation of findings at conferences, and preparation of manuscripts for submission to leading peer-reviewed journals. Postdocs will have the opportunity to co-author papers with lab colleagues, work with an array of affiliated faculty from ETH and University of Zurich, and develop independent projects related to these research areas. Organizational and teaching duties are limited to a few hours per week. Our offices are located in downtown Zurich, and the working language is English.

The appointment will be for at least one year and up to three years (contingent on satisfactory performance), with flexible starting date beginning July 2018. Salaries are internationally competitive, paid according to ETH standards (<https://www.ethz.ch/en/the-eth-zurich/working-teaching-and-research/working-conditions/employment-and-salary.html>).

The ideal candidate will have, at the time of appointment, completed a PhD in empirical social science (e.g. economics, political science), data science (e.g. computer science, machine learning, computational linguistics), or related fields. Social science applicants should have graduate-level expertise in causal inference research design, data management, and data analysis. Data science applicants should have graduate-level expertise in natural language processing and machine learning. Excellent English writing skills are essential.

For further information about the position, please contact Prof. Elliott Ash by email at e@elliottash.com. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design, data analysis, and/or machine prediction exercise (as appropriate to expertise) as part of the interview process. Application review will begin on February 1, 2018 and continue until the positions are filled.

Apply Here: <https://apply.refline.ch/845721/5895/index.html?cid=1&lang=en>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 4/15/2018
Date Posted: 1/5/2018
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 3904

Lee University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Humanities at Lee University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position of Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science beginning in the fall of 2018.

Duties

The successful candidate will have a concentration in American Politics and will be expected to teach courses in American Politics, the university core course in American Government, and a two-course sequence in Research Methods. Secondary specialization is open. An ability and willingness to teach courses in Public Administration would be an asset. Additional duties will include mentoring undergraduate research, advising students in the department's majors, developing curriculum, serving on university committees, seeking ways to serve the greater community, and working cooperatively with the Department Chair and departmental faculty.

Required Qualifications

The successful candidate will hold a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialty in American Politics. (ABD considered with evidence of completion by start date.) The candidate will express a strong commitment to faith in Jesus Christ and Christian lifestyle expectations, indicate a commitment to undergraduate education, passionately support the Christian liberal arts, demonstrate college teaching ability, and, effectively integrate Christian faith into the academic discipline and the classroom.

Lee University is a Christ-centered, comprehensive university that is recognized as an emerging leader in higher education in the southeastern region. To apply please send a completed application form (available at the website listed below), curriculum vitae, statement of Christian faith, and statement describing the integration of Christian faith with discipline of expertise, transcripts, three letters of reference, and student evaluations (if available) to Dr. Randy Wood, Chair of the Department of History, Political Science and Humanities, Lee University, P.O. Box 3450, Cleveland, TN 37320-3450 or by email to rwood@leeuniversity.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. For additional information contact Dr. Randy Wood at rwood@leeuniversity.edu or (423) 614-8137. The application form is available at: <http://www.leeuniversity.edu/uploadedFiles/Content/human-resources/faculty-application%281%29.pdf>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/27/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3828

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Position 1: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specialization: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in Campaigns and Public Opinion starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, but not exclusively, interested in candidates whose research addresses the role of emerging technologies such as social media in campaigns and elections; and/or who are working with advanced methods in statistical or experimental analysis.

Candidates will be asked to teach courses in Public Opinion, Political Communication, Research Methods, and Statistics and Forecasting; and should show acumen for innovative, applied teaching methods focused on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current network and partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Campaigns and Public Opinion to IESIR1@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3784

Birmingham-Southern College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Political Behavior

Birmingham-Southern College seeks candidates with a demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning August 2018. Candidates should hold a doctorate in Political Science or expect to complete their degree by August 2018. The College seeks exceptional individuals committed to the liberal arts, with a proven record of teaching excellence and a demonstrated potential for developing a distinguished scholarly agenda. The successful candidate must be able to support one or more of the interdisciplinary programs offered at the College as well as the general education curriculum.

Teaching responsibilities will include at least four of the following courses: American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Statistics, Research Methods, Comparative or American Political Behavior.

The teaching load is 3-1-3 including an interim term in January. During January, professors offer unique, innovative, experiential, and/or travel courses.

Review of applicants will begin immediately. Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial), and three professional recommendation letters. Email applications are preferred: pssearch@bsc.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Birmingham-Southern College (BSC) is a selective residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 1,300 undergraduate students. BSC is included in Pope's Colleges that Change Lives and is a sheltering institution for Phi Beta Kappa. The College's curriculum is based on close faculty-student interaction in teaching, advising, and research. For more on the College's faculty, students, educational mission, and national reputation visit www.bsc.edu.

Birmingham-Southern College is located just minutes from downtown Birmingham, which is the largest city in Alabama and a leading hub for banking and medical care and research in the Southeast, and a vibrant center for entertainment, commerce, and recreational activities. There are six higher education institutions within a short commute; a symphony; a ballet; a zoo; botanical garden; the largest art museum in the Southeast; a world-class civil rights institute and annual art, music, and film festivals – as well as numerous opportunities for outdoor adventure activities. In 2015, Birmingham was ranked as the #1 "next hot food city" by Zagat's.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3769

Princeton UniversityRank: Associate or More Senior Research Scholar

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a full time Associate or more senior Research Scholar with a preferred start date of September 1, 2018.

The Center conducts research that advances the study of contemporary China at Princeton University and provides substantive analysis from social science perspectives of the dramatic sociological shifts taking place in China today. The Research Scholar's duties include: working collaboratively with the Director to analyze multiple large datasets; coordinating, designing, implementing, and reporting on the results of such analyses; interfacing with collaborators or potential collaborators in research; potential course instruction pending departmental need, sufficient course enrollments and with the approval of the Office of the Dean of the Faculty; offering of workshops; preparing manuscripts for publication; training junior scholars and graduate students on research study design, methodology, and theory; guiding junior scholars and students in research projects; being familiar with quantitative data sources on China; providing data resource services on China to Princeton's scholars and students; and managing and participating in research conferences, seminars, and lecture series. The successful applicant will also contribute to the overall research agenda of the Center. There will be opportunities for authorship on publications, including first authorship, and preparing applications for external funding. The appointment is for three years with reappointment contingent upon successful department and University committee review.

Required Qualifications: Qualified individuals will have a Ph.D. in the social sciences and have: strong data management skills, ability to interpret data with coherent theory, strong methodological skills and interests, an interest in quantitative research methods and theory, strongly motivated, and work well in a team setting. Excellent written and oral communication skills in English and Chinese are required. The ideal candidate will have demonstrated productivity in terms of published journal articles and scientific conference presentations. Preference will be given to candidates who are interested in contemporary China.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Applicants must apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4941> by the application deadline of February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST and submit the following:

1. A cover letter
2. A current curriculum vitae
3. Contact information for two references
4. Two writing samples

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 2/2/2018Date Posted: 11/10/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3764American University in Cairo*Rank: Comparative Politics/Methods

Comparative Politics/ Methods

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in Comparative Politics with emphasis on methods at the Assistant or Associate Level Professor beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in comparative politics, using examples outside as well as inside the Middle East and North Africa. Candidates who can teach quantitative & qualitative methods and apply them to studies of surveys and elections in the Arab region are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 11/7/2017Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 3744University of Texas at Dallas*Rank: Comparative Law and Courts*Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Economic, Political, and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas (UTD) invites applications for a full-time, open rank tenure-track position beginning in August of 2018 in the Political Science Program. Candidates at the associate or full rank are preferred, although advanced assistants will be considered. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory undergraduate comparative law course, specialized upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, and to be involved with the pre-law administrative team. Possible specializations might include: human rights, cyberlaw, comparative and foreign law, or trade law, among others. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.

The University of Texas at Dallas is a fast-growing, suburban research university and has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public university in Texas. UTD is ranked 1st among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine and is classified by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education as R1 (Highest Research Activity). The Political Science program currently has approximately 60 graduate students and 250 undergraduate majors.

Faculty typically teach two courses per semester, and opportunities for leave become available after a successful third-year review.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue through January 31, 2018. Position starts in August 2018.

Apply at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/8997>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3740

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Open Rank Faculty in Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR)

The University of Texas at Dallas seeks a quantitatively oriented social scientist to become an integral member of our new Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR) master's program within the School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (<http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/>). The ideal candidate will have strengths in big data analytics, knowledge discovery/mining, data management, data visualization, research design, qualitative data analysis and multivariate statistics. In addition, this individual will have substantive interests in some area of the social sciences, including criminology, economics, geography/geospatial science, political science, public affairs, public policy, international political economy, and/or sociology. While individuals of all ranks will be considered, preference will be given to senior scholars who can immediately assume a leadership role in the SDAR program.

For information on the SDAR master's program, see: <http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/sdar/>

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/9031>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3741

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Open Rank Faculty in Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR)

The University of Texas at Dallas seeks a quantitatively oriented social scientist to become an integral member of our new Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR) master's program within the School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (<http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/>). The ideal candidate will have strengths in big data analytics, knowledge discovery/mining, data management, data visualization, research design, qualitative data analysis and multivariate statistics. In addition, this individual will have substantive interests in some area of the social sciences, including criminology, economics, geography/geospatial science, political science, public affairs, public policy, international political economy, and/or sociology. While individuals of all ranks will be considered, preference will be given to senior scholars who can immediately assume a leadership role in the SDAR program.

For information on the SDAR master's program, see: <http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/sdar/>

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/9031>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3742

Missouri Southern State University

Rank: Master Instructor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

Seeking an Master Instructor to teach on campus in the area(s) of introductory American Government, public law, as well as supervise the MSSU Mock Trial program. Must have a Master's degree in the related discipline area, (PhD preferred). Certification in certain fields may also be accepted depending on subject matter. Employment will require a background check. E-verify participating employer. Applicant materials include a letter of application, curriculum vitae with the names, addresses, email and phone numbers of three references, and unofficial transcripts. Submit materials at www.mssu.edu/jobs. Official transcripts are required within 45 days of hire. Review of applicant materials begins immediately and will continue until the position(s) has been filled. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3721

Virginia Commonwealth UniversityRank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, MethodologySpecializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)

8. Writing Sample

9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 12/15/2017Date Posted: 11/1/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3725Troy University*Rank: Assistant Professor*Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 10/6/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3574

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3560

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Methodology

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in quantitative methodology. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years,

HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3364

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Research Methods

The Government Department at the University of Texas at Austin is hoping to hire two distinguished methodologists (including statistical methodologists and formal theorists) at the rank of full Professor to begin in Fall 2018. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of political science research methods and formal theory, broadly defined.

Duties will include both undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the University. The successful candidates will have a highly distinguished scholarly record of publication, a record of teaching excellence, and demonstrated excellence in intellectual and institutional leadership. Applicants must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications.

Applicants should upload a vitae, examples of scholarly work, and teaching materials. The department will begin reviewing applications immediately and continue receiving applications until the positions are filled. Applicants should apply online at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44115>. Position funding is pending budgetary approval. A background check will be conducted for successful applicants. AA/EEO employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3269

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at polscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Rice University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Rice University, as part of its $150 million investment in research excellence, intends to hire multiple tenure-track faculty members whose research focus is in data science. These new hires will join the four faculty members hired in the 2016-2017 academic year, along with the community of scholars at Rice who focus on data-driven research. We seek to hire two distinct kinds of specialists: (1) data scientists who can make fundamental contributions to the theory, algorithms, and systems aspects of data science, and (2) scholars who work on emerging applications of data science to problems in health and medicine, urban analytics, and high-volume or high-velocity data-intensive science. The candidate's cover letter or research statement should make clear how their research relates to one of these three problem areas.

The Data Science initiative seeks candidates at all ranks, for employment as early as July 1, 2018. All new hires will have an appointment in one or more relevant department. Assistant Professors will have a single primary department that will be responsible for their mentoring and promotion. At higher ranks, appointments across multiple departments are desirable. Individual departments at Rice also have active faculty searches this year. Those searches are distinct from the Data Science search and may include research areas beyond those included in the Data Science search. Interested candidates should consider applying to both the Data Science search and any appropriate departmental search.

Applicants to the Data Science search should submit the following: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) research statement which describes how the candidate's work fits with Rice's data science initiative and in one or more of the three problem areas (not to exceed three pages including figures); (4) teaching statement; and (5) the names, professional affiliations, and email addresses of three references. For full details, please visit: <http://datascience.rice.edu>, and to apply, please visit: <https://jobs.rice.edu/postings/11380>. These positions require a PhD, or PhD requirements fulfilled by November 1 of the year employment commences. Applications will be evaluated beginning on September 15, 2017 and will continue to be accepted until all positions are filled. Recommendation of candidates or questions regarding this opportunity can be directed to the committee at datascience@rice.edu.

Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, is a private, coeducational, nonsectarian university that aspires to path-breaking research, unsurpassed teaching, and contributions to the betterment of our world. Rice fulfills this mission by cultivating a diverse community of learning and discovery that produces leaders across the spectrum of human endeavor. From its beginning in 1912, Rice has been dedicated to excellence in all regards.

Rice University is an Equal Opportunity Employer with commitment to diversity at all levels, and considers for employment qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3103

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

NON-ACADEMIC

Stanford University

Rank: Program Manager

Program Manager - 77496

Description

The McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society seeks a full time Program Manager (Job Classification: Academic Program Professional I) to develop and direct innovative, dynamic, and diverse opportunities for undergraduates to engage in rigorous ethical reflection outside of the traditional classroom experience. We are interested in reaching students from across the university, especially undergraduates in STEM fields. The Program Manager will also support research initiatives, such as the Basic Income Lab, led by faculty associated with the Center.

The ideal candidate will be an outspoken advocate for the McCoy Center, and will initiate and lead creative programming to engage undergraduates across disciplines. Working closely with the Faculty Director for the Undergraduate Program, the person will identify appropriate campus partners and student groups to expand the reach of the Center's initiatives, promote our Undergraduate Honors Program and its Minor, and develop new undergraduate opportunities for incorporating ethical reflection into their studies and extracurricular activities. In addition to being an innovative program strategist, we seek someone with strong administrative skills who can work both independently and with a small team to oversee the details of the existing Undergraduate Honors Program (e.g., meeting with students to discuss their research, enforcing deadlines, and scheduling classes).

S/he will be able to continually evaluate all of our undergraduate programming and enact changes to meet student needs and create meaningful opportunities for the entire undergraduate community.

This position will also support research initiatives at the Center, such as our new Basic Income Lab (BIL). BIL engages undergraduates, graduate students, and postdoctoral fellows across the University through classes, public events, and research opportunities. The Program Manager will work closely with the Lab's Faculty Director to support the full range of BIL activities, including communications, grant writing, event planning, and other tasks as needed.

This is a 2-year fixed term position (with possibility of renewal).

Note: This position is not intended to be a stepping stone to a tenure-track position, here or elsewhere. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. who are interested in an ongoing position at the Center.

To apply, please submit a cover letter and a CV.

CORE DUTIES*:

- Participate in assigned research activities and/or programs by participating in the development of programs within assigned area or entity; implementing, administering, and evaluating programs; and/or analyzing data, creating reports, reviewing trends, and making program improvement recommendations.
 - May teach and/or assist in the teaching and administration of courses, as needed. Assist in the development of curriculum.
 - Write and edit content for proposals, research grants, peer-reviewed publications, and other program activities.
 - Perform outreach activities, including program communications, events, conferences, partnerships, and/or fundraising.
- * - Other duties may also be assigned

Qualifications

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS:

Education & Experience:

Bachelor's degree and two or more years of relevant experience or combination of education, training, and relevant experience. A Ph.D. in a Humanities, Social Science, or related discipline with significant focus on ethics and/or political philosophy, and demonstrated strength in teaching is highly desired. Program administration experience preferred.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities:

- Demonstrated oral, written, and analytical skills, exhibiting fluency in area of specialization.
- Ability to oversee and provide basic direction to staff.

Certifications and Licenses:

- For teaching jobs, advanced degree or certification may be required for some programs.

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS*:

- Frequently stand/walk, sitting, grasp lightly/fine manipulation, perform desk-based computer tasks.
- Occasionally use a telephone, writing by hand, lift/carry/push/pull objects that weigh up to 40 pounds.
- Rarely sort/file paperwork or parts, lift/carry/push/pull objects that weigh >40 pounds.
- Ability to use voice to present information/communicate with others.
- On-campus mobility.

* - Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodation to any employee with a disability who requires accommodation to perform the essential functions of the job.

WORKING CONDITIONS:

- May work extended hours, evenings or weekends.
- May travel locally.
- Occasional overnight travel.

WORK STANDARDS:

- Interpersonal Skills: Demonstrates the ability to work well with Stanford colleagues and clients and with external organizations.
- Promote Culture of Safety: Demonstrates commitment to personal responsibility and value for safety; communicates safety concerns; uses and promotes safe behaviors based on training and lessons learned.
- Subject to and expected to comply with all applicable University policies and procedures, including but not limited to the personnel policies and other policies found in the University's Administrative Guide, <http://adminguide.stanford.edu>.

Final offers of employment are contingent upon successful completion of national criminal background check, national sex offender registry search and, where applicable, driving record.

Job

: Administration

Location

: School of Humanities and Sciences

Schedule

: Full-time

Grade: H

Job Code: 4111

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/10/2018

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 3938

OTHER

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSITION AVAILABILITY

Subject to Budgetary Approval

School of Management

Specialization: Business, Government, and Society

Job Opening ID (JOID): 24351

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor (Tenure-track)

Qualifications:

A doctorate from an accredited university and/or scholarly active (SA) status under AACSB standards. A doctoral degree must be awarded by the date of appointment.

A record of research that pertains to some aspect of the rubric of business, government, and society. Applicants from disciplines outside of business, including political science, history, and law, are welcomed.

Candidates applying at the Associate Professor rank should have a documented record of published research, teaching excellence and professional achievement appropriate to the rank.

Demonstrated awareness of and sensitivity to educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching, and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

Excellence in teaching, research, and service will be expected.

The successful candidate's primary teaching responsibility will be the upper-division course Business, Government, and Society, which surveys corporate social responsibility and other topics pertaining to the business firm's relationships with its regulatory, political, social, economic, and natural environments. (It will not encompass Business Ethics, which is addressed in a separate course.)

Offering a secondary teaching area, which could be in organizational behavior, business law, strategic management, or human resource management.

Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language, ability, work experience, and academic preparation – through course materials, student advisement, and teaching strategies.

Salary Range: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 17, 2018

Eligibility: Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure:

For full consideration, please send the following by Jan 31, 2018 to apply.interfolio.com/47561.

Letter of application (please include any specific reasons for your interest in us, the Silicon Valley region, or the Bay Area)

Curriculum vitae

Statement of teaching and research interest.

One or two writing samples or references to publications available online

Teaching evaluations (if available)

Three confidential letters of recommendation with contact information.

The position remains open until filled.

If you have any questions, you may contact Dr. Randy Stross at Randall.Stross@sjsu.edu

Please include Job Opening ID (JOID) on all correspondence.

San José State University is California's oldest institution of public higher learning. The campus is located on the southern end of San Francisco Bay in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000), hub of the world-famous Silicon Valley high-technology research and development center. Many of California's most popular national, recreational, and cultural attractions are conveniently close. A member of the 23-campus CSU system, San José State University enrolls approximately 30,000 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students, and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3986

Georgia Southern University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

Specializations: Developing Nations, East Asia, Political Development

Assistant Professor of International Studies—Search #67558

College of Behavioral and Social Sciences

Department of Political Science and International Studies

The Department of Political Science and International Studies in the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences invites applications and nominations for the position of Assistant Professor of International Studies. This position will be located on the Statesboro campus.

In January 2017, the University System of Georgia Board of Regents voted to consolidate Armstrong State University and Georgia Southern University. The new, 27,000-student university will be named Georgia Southern University with campuses in Savannah, Statesboro, and Hinesville. The expected timeline for the first entering class will be fall 2018. Complete details are available at <http://consolidation.georgiasouthern.edu/>.

Within this setting, the successful applicant will join a department of more than 25 faculty and staff dedicated to excellence in teaching, research, and service. The department is committed to providing students with significant educational opportunities offering an international perspective. Through the Department's academic and extracurricular activities, Georgia Southern students develop international perspectives and an understanding of global issues and contemporary world cultures. The Department's philosophy of education embraces International Studies as a practical interdisciplinary field of studies devoted to finding solutions to global problems and advancement of the global well-being. With that, the Department focuses on providing students with practical and competitive skills and career prospects in an increasingly globalized economic reality. The prospective hire is expected to sustain and expand this vision.

Position Description. Reporting to the Department Chair, the Assistant Professor of International Studies position requires teaching, service, and research responsibilities as well as a terminal degree. A Ph.D. degree in International Studies, Political Science, Sociology, Geography or a closely related field with documented evidence of an international focus conferred by the position start date (August 1, 2018) is required. All applicants must demonstrate that they have completed their research and graduate work with a clear and documented international focus. The applicants' preferred specialization should be economic or political development or other humanitarian or development-oriented field of interest, such as human security and sustainability. A regional focus should be on areas of the "Global South."

Evidence of existing or prospective excellence in teaching is a must, as the position will require the faculty to teach advanced-level courses on Contemporary World Cultures, Global Issues, the Senior Capstone Seminar on International Studies, courses in political and economic international development and humanitarian issues, as well as introductory-level courses such as Introduction to International Studies, and Research Methods in International Studies. The position comes with a 3-3 teaching load and an expectation of academic service in the thriving Department of Political Science and International Studies, which features two interdisciplinary majors (International Studies and International Trade) in addition to Political Science. The prospective faculty must also be an active scholar and fulfill the criteria necessary for a tenure-track position in their respective academic field of studies. Research and publication work is expected.

The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in International Studies, Political Science, Sociology, Geography or a closely related discipline with documented evidence of an international focus finished by August 1, 2018
- University-level teaching experience in International Studies or related disciplines, backed by evidence
- Evidence of successful research and publishing agenda
- Evidence of effective communication skills (in English)
- Evidence of commitment to international education with regard to curricular development, student mentoring, and the development of study abroad programs
- Must be authorized to work in the United States for the duration of employment without assistance from the institution

Preferred Qualifications:

- University-level successful experience in leading study abroad courses in International Studies or related disciplines, backed by evidence
- Evidence of commitment to international education with regard to curricular development, student mentoring, and the development of study abroad programs
- Documented teaching experience in world cultures, global issues, economic and political development
- Evidence of experience of teaching via web-based instruction
- Documented scholarly interest and successful record of publications, in fields of economic and political development, public health or other humanitarian fields
- Ability to teach and guide undergraduate students in successful pursuit of careers in international studies
- Experience working with a diverse student body
- Evidence of collegiality and ability to work in a team in projects involving international education

Screening of applications begins February 23, 2018, and continues until the position is filled. The preferred position starting date is August 1, 2018. A complete application consists of a letter addressing the qualifications cited above; a curriculum vitae, evidence regarding teaching excellence (student evaluations, etc.), a scholarly writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and a copy of unofficial graduate transcripts. Other documentation may be requested. Only complete applications submitted electronically will be considered. Finalists will be required to submit to a background investigation. Applications and nominations should be sent to:

Jacek Lubecki, Search Chair, Search #67558
 Department of Political Science and International Studies
 Georgia Southern University
 P. O. Box 8101
 Statesboro GA 30460-8101
 Electronic mail: jlubecki@georgiasouthern.edu
 Telephone: (912) 478-7299

More information about the institution is available through <http://www.georgiasouthern.edu> or <http://cbss.georgiasouthern.edu/>. Georgia Southern University seeks to recruit individuals who are committed to working in diverse academic and professional communities and who are committed to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and professional service within the University and beyond. The names of applicants and nominees, vitae, and other non-evaluative information may be subject to public inspection under the Georgia Open Records Act. Georgia Southern University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity institution. Individuals who need reasonable accommodations under the ADA to participate in the search process should contact the Vice Provost.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3965

Georgia Southern University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Trade

Specializations: Trade, Economic Policy, Advanced Industrial Societies

Assistant Professor of International Trade—Search #67561
College of Behavioral and Social Sciences
Department of Political Science and International Studies

The Department of Political Science and International Studies in the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences invites applications and nominations for the position of Assistant Professor of International Trade. This position will be located on the Statesboro campus.

In January 2017, the University System of Georgia Board of Regents voted to consolidate Armstrong State University and Georgia Southern University. The new, 27,000-student university will be named Georgia Southern University with campuses in Savannah, Statesboro, and Hinesville. The expected timeline for the first entering class will be fall 2018. Complete details are available at <http://consolidation.georgiasouthern.edu/>.

Within this setting, the successful applicant will join a department of more than 25 faculty and staff dedicated to excellence in teaching, research, and service. The department is committed to providing students with significant educational opportunities offering an international perspective. Through the Department's academic and extracurricular activities, Georgia Southern students develop international perspectives and an understanding of global issues and contemporary world cultures. The Department's philosophy of education embraces International Trade/International Studies as a practical interdisciplinary field of studies devoted to finding solutions to global problems and advancement of the global well-being. With that, the Department focuses on providing students with practical and competitive skills and career prospects in an increasingly globalized economic reality. The prospective hire is expected to sustain and expand this vision.

Position Description. Reporting to the Department Chair, the Assistant Professor of International Trade position requires teaching, service, and research responsibilities as well as a terminal degree. A Ph.D. degree in International Studies, Business, Economics, or Political Science with a concentration in International Trade or International Business completed by the position start date (August 1, 2018) is required.

Evidence of excellence in teaching is a must, as the position will require the faculty to teach advanced-level courses on International Trade, as well as introductory-level courses such as Introduction to International Studies and Research Methods in International Trade. The position comes with a 3-3 teaching load and an expectation of academic service in the thriving International Trade program within the Department of Political Science and International Studies, which features two interdisciplinary majors (International Studies and International Trade). The prospective faculty must also be an active scholar, and fulfill the criteria necessary for a tenure track position in their respective academic field of studies. Research and publication work is expected.

The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in International Studies, International Business, Economics, or Political Science with documented evidence of an interdisciplinary focus on international trade finished by August 1, 2018.
- University-level successful teaching experience with a focus on international trade or related disciplines, backed by evidence.
- Existence of successful research and publishing agenda in the area of international trade or related disciplines, backed by evidence.
- Evidence of effective communication skills (in English).
- Willingness to teach via web-based instruction.
- Evidence of commitment to international education with regard to curricular development, student mentoring, and the development of study abroad programs.
- Must be authorized to work in the United States for the duration of employment without assistance from the institution.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Experience working with a diverse student body.
- Experience overseeing internship programs and other forms of career development for undergraduate students.
- Experience working across disciplines of business, social science, and policy studies.
- Evidence of collegiality and ability to work in a team in projects involving international education

Screening of applications begins February 23, 2018, and continues until the position is filled. The required position starting date is August 1, 2018. A complete application consists of: a letter addressing the qualifications cited above, a curriculum vitae, evidence regarding teaching excellence (student evaluations, etc.), a scholarly writing sample, and a copy of unofficial graduate transcripts. Three letters of recommendation should be sent directly to the search chair via email. Other documentation may be requested. Only complete applications submitted electronically will be considered. Finalists will be required to submit to a background investigation. Applications and nominations should be sent to:

Jose A. da Cruz, Search Chair, Search #67558

Department of Political Science and International Studies

Georgia Southern University

P. O. Box 8101

Statesboro GA 30460-8101

Electronic mail: jose.dacruz@armstrong.edu

Telephone: (912) 344-2679

More information about the institution is available through <http://www.georgiasouthern.edu> or <http://cbss.georgiasouthern.edu/>. Georgia Southern University seeks to recruit individuals who are committed to working in diverse academic and professional communities and who are committed to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and professional service within the University and beyond. The names of applicants and nominees, vitae, and other non-evaluative information may be subject to public inspection under the Georgia Open Records Act. Georgia Southern University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity institution. Individuals who need reasonable accommodations under the ADA to participate in the search process should contact the Vice Provost.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3966

ETH Zurich

Rank: Professor of Environmental Policy

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Science & Technology, Political Development

The Department of Environmental Systems Science (www.usys.ethz.ch) and the Department of Humanities, Social and Political Sciences (www.gess.ethz.ch) at ETH Zurich invite applications for the above-mentioned position.

The successful candidate should have an excellent publication record in social science and interdisciplinary research, focusing on design, implementation, and outcomes of policy instruments to address environmental problems, including the role of political institutions. The new professor will focus on land-use change, terrestrial resource allocation, water allocation and quality, or environmental issues associated with urban and regional development. Teaching will contribute to the social science curriculum in Environmental Sciences, with an emphasis on analyzing the drivers and outcomes of public policies. Generally, at ETH Zurich undergraduate level courses are taught in German or English and graduate level courses are taught in English.

Please apply online: www.facultyaffairs.ethz.ch

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, a list of publications, a statement of future research and teaching interests, a description of the three most important achievements, and the contact details of three referees. The letter of application should be addressed to the President of ETH Zurich, Prof. Dr. Lino Guzzella. The closing date for applications is 28 February 2018. ETH Zurich is an equal opportunity and family friendly employer and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples. We specifically encourage women to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3891

University College London

Rank: Professor of Public Policy

UCL Department of Political Science/School of Public Policy

London

Professor of Public Policy

Full Time

The appointment will be on UCL Grade Professorial. The salary range will be At an appropriate point on the UCL Professorial scale, which starts at £69,039 per annum inclusive of London Allowance, inclusive of London Allowance.

The Department of Political Science is looking for a specialist in Public Policy with a reputation for international level research, an ability to provide intellectual leadership to a team of public policy scholars and a commitment to high-quality teaching. The Department welcomes applications from candidates from all substantive areas of public policy, specialist topics and methodological orientations and will seek to appoint the best candidate whatever his or her specialist area. However, an interest in a comparative approach, broadly conceived, would be an advantage, as would a supplementary interest in Public Management, though neither is essential. The successful candidate will have an established portfolio of high-quality published work and show evidence of an ability to conduct research of international quality in the future.

As well as undertaking his or her own research, the appointee should make a contribution to the research culture of the Department. He or she will normally be expected to contribute the full professorial range of teaching within the Department.

The appointment is available from 1 September 2018 or as soon thereafter as is mutually agreed.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or cognate discipline in Public Policy, a proven ability to undertake academic research of high internationally recognised quality, a proven track record of publications with major university publishers or leading journals in Public Policy, experience of promoting excellence in research-led teaching, experience in senior administrative roles and experience of supervising doctoral students and mentoring researchers.

For further details about the vacancy and how to apply online please go to <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/human-resources/working-ucl/jobs-ucl> and search on Reference Number 1707821

Informal enquiries may be made to Professor David Coen (d.coen@ucl.ac.uk). If you have any queries regarding the vacancy or the application process, please contact Ajay Patel, Finance and Staffing Administrator (ajay.patel@ucl.ac.uk , tel +44 (0)20 7679 4944).

Closing Date: 12 February 2018

Latest time for the submission of applications: 23:59.

Interview Date: TBC

We particularly welcome female applicants and those from an ethnic minority, as they are under-represented within UCL at this level.

To apply click here <https://atsv7.wcn.co.uk/saf/login.cgi?owner=5041178&ownertype=fair&cjcode=1707821&external=236774>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/12/2018

Date Posted: 1/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3961

Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO)

Rank: Senior Researcher

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Recruitment at the Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO)

The Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO) is an independent, international and interdisciplinary research institute, founded in 1959. Its purpose is to conduct research on the conditions for peaceful relations between states, groups and people. PRIO's research targets scholars, policy-makers, practitioners and the general public. The institute cultivates the highest standards of academic excellence, and is a leader in shaping the global peace research agenda.

PRIO has an international research staff of approximately 85 members in full and part-time positions, plus 15 in administrative and support functions. The working language at the institute is English. For further information about the institute, see www.prio.org.

Senior Researcher

PRIO is growing and invites applications from senior researchers to form part of the institute's international team of excellent researchers. The successful candidates can demonstrate experience with cutting-edge research within PRIO's relevant fields, project development and research communication. We are looking to recruit two researchers, one of which should ideally be highly experienced (7-10 years since PhD) with an extensive project development and publication record.

As a Senior Researcher at PRIO you are first and foremost an active, productive, entrepreneurial and open-minded academic. You develop and lead projects, and you communicate and engage with both the academic community and other stakeholders. You take an active part in institutional life at PRIO, and you provide input, advice and supervision to your colleagues. Ultimately, you identify with PRIO's vision to produce knowledge to the service of a more peaceful world.

Competence requirements:

- A doctoral degree in a relevant field
- A scientific publication record
- Solid research competence and methods skills
- Strong writing skills
- Expertise in one or more areas within the scope of PRIO's research
- Project development resulting in a fundable project portfolio

In addition, we expect you to demonstrate competence in one or more of the following areas:

- Versatility in research engagements
- Project leadership
- Research collaboration
- Engagement with policy and practice
- Popular dissemination of research
- Curricular development, teaching and supervision of students

Ideas for future research

Candidates are encouraged to outline idea(s) for future development of their own research should they be employed at PRIO, including thoughts of specific funding opportunities.

PRIO offers:

- an opportunity for you to become part of a world-renowned research institute and work alongside highly motivated staff who are international experts within their respective fields;
- access to a highly professional support staff to assist with administration, project development and research communication;
- opportunities for collaboration with a large network of Norwegian and international scholars and policymakers;
- offices in attractive premises in central Oslo;
- competitive remuneration commensurate with the applicant's competence and experience;
- membership in the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund.

PRIO is an equal opportunity employer and values staff diversity.

How to apply

Application for the position of Senior Researcher is to be submitted by way of an online form.

Before you start filling in the form, make sure you have the following necessary information and documents ready:

Information provided directly in the online form:

- ? Contact details: Name, email, address, phone number.
- ? Personal information: Current position, citizenship, gender, date-of-birth.
- ? PhD details: Granting institution, year of completion/defense, title of dissertation.
- ? Titles of maximum 3 academic publications for evaluation.
- ? References: Name and contact details of a minimum of two referees.

Attachments – to be uploaded to the online form as PDFs:

1. Application letter, which should describe the ways in which you are qualified for the position of Senior Researcher at PRIO, including a presentation of your educational background, academic merits and other relevant experience.
2. Ideas for future research to be outlined in no more than two pages.
3. CV in English, and including a list of publications.
4. Certifications of university degrees.
5. The full text of the academic publications you wish to submit for academic evaluation (max 3).

When you have all the necessary information and documentation ready, you may fill out and submit the application form to be found here: <https://www.prio.org/About/Careers/Senior-Researcher/>

For more information, please contact PRIO's Director Henrik Urdal, email Urdal@prio.org, mobile phone: +47 92 04 78 41.

Deadline for applications is 31 January 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 1/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3959

Centenary College of Louisiana

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Centenary College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the Assistant Professor level in the Department of History and Political Science, starting 1 August 2018. Candidates should be broadly trained in Comparative Politics and International Relations, and prepared to teach a range of introductory, upper division, and core departmental classes such as Research Methods and the capstone Senior Seminar. The Ph.D. in hand by time of start date, strong teaching skills, and a commitment to scholarship are required. The standard teaching load is six courses per year, with some opportunity to teach in immersive May and August terms, and to participate in college-wide programs such as the first year experience (TREK) and Centenary in Paris.

Centenary College of Louisiana is a selective, residential, national liberal arts college affiliated with the United Methodist Church. Founded in 1825, it is the oldest chartered liberal arts college west of the Mississippi river and is a member of the Associated Colleges of the South.

To apply, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts from all institutions of higher learning, sample course syllabi, and three letters of recommendation to hr@centenary.edu or to:

Political Science Search Committee
c/o Director of Human Resources
Centenary College of Louisiana
2911 Centenary Boulevard
Shreveport, LA 71104

Review of applications will begin on February 5 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3947

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Diversity Predoctoral Fellowship

2018-2019 Diversity Predoctoral Fellowships

The School of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences, Massachusetts Institute of Technology invites applications for the 2018-2019 Diversity Predoctoral Fellowships.

The purpose of the Diversity Predoctoral Fellowships program is to enhance diversity in the School and to provide the Fellow with additional professional support and mentoring as they enter the field.

The fellowships are intended to support scholars from a wide range of backgrounds, who can contribute to the diversity of SHASS and the higher education community. Applicants from members of racial and ethnic groups that have historically been underrepresented in the humanities and social sciences and from disadvantaged backgrounds are encouraged to apply.

These Fellowships support graduate scholars for a 9-month appointment at MIT that generally runs from September through May. They offer an opportunity for scholars who plan a career in higher education and have completed all other PhD requirements to finish their dissertations with access to libraries and faculty of the School. Fellows may be pursuing the PhD degree in any discipline or area taught in the School of Humanities, Arts, and Social Sciences. Current fields of study can be viewed on the MIT SHASS website <http://shass.mit.edu/fields>. Each Fellow will be affiliated with a department or program in the School. Fellows will not be required to teach while at MIT.

This year up to ten Fellowships will be awarded. Each Fellowship provides a stipend of $37,500, office area, and library privileges.

In order to qualify for this Fellowship candidates must be:

- Authorized to work in the United States.
- Enrolled in a PhD program in the humanities or social sciences at an accredited institution other than MIT.
- o Have passed their PhD qualifying examinations
- o Have an approved dissertation proposal
- Be a student of exceptional academic merit who belongs to a group underrepresented in higher education or who comes from a disadvantaged background.

Applications consist of:

- A personal statement of no more than 1,000 words, which mentions:
 - o The academic unit (or units) within SHASS that the student wishes to be affiliated with.
 - o A description of the student's dissertation, which addresses the dissertation's aim, methodologies (how the student will conduct the research), originality, and contribution to its field.
 - o Any additional information that the student would like to present to the selection committee.
- Current curriculum vitae.
- Transcript.
- Three letters of recommendation.
- One chapter of the dissertation.

All applications and attached materials are due no later than Thursday, February 15, 2018, at 11:59 p.m. EST. Late applications will not be considered.

These materials should be sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10722>.

Questions can be addressed to the SHASS Dean's office at predoc-shass@mit.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3946

University College London

Rank: Lecturer in Human Rights

UCL Department of Political Science
School of Public Policy
London

Lecturer in Human Rights

Full Time

The appointment will be on UCL Grade 7 or 8. The salary range will be Grade 7: £38,581 - £41,864 per annum / Grade 8: £43,023 - £50,753, inclusive of London Allowance.

The Department of Political Science seeks to appoint a new Lecturer in Human Rights to contribute to research and teaching within the Department of Political Science.

The Lecturer will be the Programme Director for the MA in Human Rights and will be expected to contribute to the core teaching of the MA in Human Rights by either teaching on existing modules, (potentially the 'International Law and Human Rights' core module) and/or creating and developing a new module that complements the existing offerings in the department.

The new Lecturer will be expected to undertake research of the highest international standard to add to the research standing and culture of the Department. Candidates may be engaged in research in any area of human rights including: human rights political/moral theory, human rights institutions, international human rights principles, standards, norms, and/or politics, moral/political theories of international human rights constitutionalism, the intersection of international human rights standards with political questions, etc.

This appointment is available from the 1st September 2018.

or the application process, please contact Mr. Ajay Patel (email: polsci.staffing@ucl.ac.uk / telephone: 20 7679 4944).

Closing Date: 11 February 2018

Latest time for the submission of applications: 23:59

Interview Date: 7 March 2018

Any offer of employment will be subject to a Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) check.

We particularly welcome female applicants and those from an ethnic minority, as they are under-represented within UCL at this level.

UCL Taking Action for Equality

To apply click here <https://atsv7.wcn.co.uk/saf/login.cgi?owner=5041178&ownertype=fair&jcode=1706154&external=236597>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/11/2018

Date Posted: 1/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3945

American Political Science Association

Rank: Associate Director, Academic and Professional Development Programs

POSITION DESCRIPTION

The Associate Director reports to the Senior Director for Academic Programs, Professional Development, and Congressional Fellowship Program and leads and manages three main areas of the Association's work: teaching and learning, professional development and departmental services. The position is a unique opportunity to expand APSA's programming in these three vital areas for the benefit of the APSA membership, the political science discipline, and more broadly, the higher education community.

REPORTING RELATIONSHIP

Reports to: Senior Director for Academic Programs, Professional Development, and Congressional Fellowship Program

SUPERVISION EXERCISED

Supervises one direct report.

FLSA STATUS

This position is considered exempt under the Fair Labor Standards Act and is therefore not eligible for overtime pay. This position is recognized as the specialist/manager for assigned projects or functional area and exercises independent judgment on a variety of issues affecting APSA.

ESSENTIAL FUNCTIONS

- Lead the creation, expansion, and implementation of programming to address issues in political science research, teaching, and service. Specifically:
 - o Lead and expand teaching and learning programming and resources, including the APSA Teaching and Learning Conference, teaching workshops at the APSA Centennial Center, APSA on-line resources, and workshops at regional meetings.

- o Lead and expand professional development programming and resources especially for graduate students in political science and early career scholars. These efforts could include: career development workshops, research symposia, and roundtables at the Annual Meeting, regional meetings and APSA headquarters, and webinars and online resources to support professional development at diverse career stages.
- o Lead and expand programming to serve political science departments and department chairs, including Annual Meeting workshops and panels, webinars, and other resources on departmental leadership.
- Collaborate with and support APSA committees, including the Council Policy Committee on Teaching and Learning, Status Committees on Community Colleges and Graduate Students, Committee on Departmental Services, and the Teaching and Learning Conference Program Committee.
- Additional responsibilities as assigned.

ESSENTIAL SKILLS

- Advanced degree in political science or related other social science discipline, Ph.D. preferred;
- Familiarity with current events and issues facing higher education, the social sciences, and the discipline of political science;
- 2+ years' experience in higher education preferred, including experience in teaching and/or academic administration;
- Strong analytical and public speaking skills and ability to write clearly and concisely;
- Excellent organizational skills with high attention to detail and adherence to deadlines;
- Adaptability and ability to work in a fast-paced team environment;
- Interest in program innovation for faculty, students and administrators in political science;
- Superb collaboration skills to work with colleagues across departments at APSA to meet shared goals;
- Sound judgment and initiative related to appropriate and independent action and problem-solving;
- Ability to maintain confidentiality while working on sensitive tasks; and,
- Fluency in various software and database applications such as Microsoft Office Suite and experience with administrative responsibilities.

APSA is seeking a high-energy team player with initiative, a strong work ethic, ability to easily collaborate with several association departments, and a capacity to work closely with the diverse APSA membership.

ABOUT APSA

The APSA is a 501(c) 3 nonprofit educational association that serves a membership base of 13,000 in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments and institutions, APSA brings together political scientists from all fields of inquiry, regions and occupational endeavors within and outside academe in order to expand awareness and understanding of politics. To learn more about APSA, please visit www.apsanet.org. APSA offers a comprehensive compensation and benefits package. APSA has a Metro-accessible location in DuPont Circle in Washington, DC, with a full-time staff of 25. APSA is an equal opportunity employer committed to workplace diversity and welcomes applications from anyone with the qualifications indicated above.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered, submit a resume with cover letter indicating how your experience and skills align with the Associate Director, Academic and Professional Development Programs position, as PDF attachments by email to APSA at hr@apsanet.org. Consideration of applications will begin immediately; the position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3936

Stanford University

Rank: Research Scholar

Specializations: Japan, Political Economy, Economic Policy

Research Scholar

The Japan Program at the Walter H. Shorenstein Asia Pacific Research Center is seeking a research scholar with a Ph.D. in political science, economics, or related areas to conduct research on Japanese politics or economy and to assist in teaching a course on Contemporary Japan.

The position is one-year, fixed-term, renewable for an additional year based on performance and funding availability. Start date September 1, 2018.

The research scholar will assist faculty members of the Japan Program in teaching a course on contemporary Japan:

- Lecture and lead class discussions
- Schedule guest instructors
- Hold office hours for students
- Maintain the course website on canvas
- Develop topics for short papers and assist faculty instructors with evaluation process
- Promote student awareness of course related seminars and panel discussions that are occurring within APARC and other centers at FSI

The research scholar will help the Japan Program organize academic conferences that will be scheduled during the academic year 2018-2019:

- Invite speakers and communicate agenda and logistics
- Participate in the conferences
- Author, write and publish a detailed report on the conferences
- Publish the report on the Japan Program website

The research scholar will contribute to the Japan Program:

- Conduct his/her own research related to Japan
 - Present his/her own research at Japan Program colloquium
- Interact with other researchers at the Japan Program

Qualifications

- Working in a capacity which ordinarily requires a Ph.D. or its equivalent in research skill and subject knowledge, a Research Scholar is involved directly in the execution, and frequently the design, of a PI's research activities.
- For consideration and job details, please submit curriculum vitae, cover letter, two writing samples on relevant topics, and the names and contact information of three references by May 31, 2018 at the link below for requisition id 77423:

<http://stanfordcareers.stanford.edu/job-search>

- A background check will be required for the final candidate

Job Family: Research

Job Code: 6784

Grade: R99

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/1/2018

Date Posted: 1/9/2018

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 3931

Tufts University

Rank: Senior Researcher - The Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning & Engagement (CIRCLE), Tisch College-18001002

Job Description

Senior Researcher - The Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning & Engagement (CIRCLE), Tisch College-18001002 Description

The Jonathan M. Tisch College of Civic Life prepares students in all fields of study for lifetimes of active citizenship. Tisch College promotes new knowledge in the field and applies this knowledge to evidence-based practice in programs, community partnerships, and advocacy efforts. Central to the university's mission, the college offers Tufts' students opportunities to engage in meaningful community building, civic and political experiences, and explore commitments to civic participation.

The Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning and Engagement (CIRCLE) is a research-based think tank that studies how young people in the United States learn to become active participants in our democracy. CIRCLE studies a broad range of topics, from K-12 civic education, youth organizing, youth and civic media, to community characteristics that promote civic development. The central focus of its work is on expanding access to civic learning and engagement opportunities, especially for marginalized youth.

CIRCLE is seeking a Senior Researcher with a background in quantitative research methodologies and varied experience in planning and executing research projects.

Responsibilities include serving as the lead quantitative researcher on a range of research projects that may include secondary data-analysis, large dataset creation/analysis, literature reviews, field experiments, and original surveys. The Senior Researcher's tasks include producing analytic plans, methodology documentations, datasets, reports, fact sheets, formal and informal research briefs and press releases on timely and relevant topics, often in close collaboration with CIRCLE colleagues. The Senior Researcher will assist with research grant proposals writing especially with the methodology sections. They will occasionally represent CIRCLE research conferences, practitioner forums, and press events. The Senior Researcher will work alongside colleagues, including a current Senior Researcher, Director of Impact, and Researcher, and provide inputs and peer training to other CIRCLE staff who produce research (quantitative and qualitative). All CIRCLE staff report directly to Director of CIRCLE, who reports to Associate Dean of Research at Tisch College.

Qualifications

Basic Requirements:

- *Minimum 5 years' experience.

*Master's degree in a discipline related to social science.
 *Knowledge of statistical package, such as SPSS and STATA.
 *Because of CIRCLE's explicit focus on improving civic education and engagement for young people of color and other underserved youth, and because of Tisch College and Tufts University's foundational commitments to diversity and inclusion, candidates with diverse backgrounds and experiences are especially encouraged to apply.

Preferred Qualifications:

*Research experience in a professional setting in which quick deadlines and collaborative team work were common.
 *Comfort with multiple projects and delegating and receiving tasks, and making decisions about research and analytic design choices with minimal guidance.
 *Experience with multivariate statistical techniques, evaluation methods, and psychometric analysis.
 *Experience with developing and executing surveys.
 *Ability to communicate effectively with practitioners, reporters, scholars, and young people through writing, speech, and graphs.
 *Ability to produce reliable, accurate, and readable research products on short deadlines.
 *Ability to work collaboratively with CIRCLE colleagues from varied backgrounds and to interact with practitioners of diverse backgrounds, views, and positions.
 *Ability to teach research methods to colleagues and student/workers.
 *Concern for youth civic engagement is necessary; however, prior research in this specific area is not required.

An employee in this position must complete all appropriate background checks at the time of hire, promotion, or transfer.

Equal Opportunity Employer – minority/females/veterans/disability/sexual orientation/gender identity.

Primary Location: United States-Massachusetts-Medford/Somerville
 Job: Research
 Organization: Tisch College
 Employee Status: Regular Schedule: Full-time
 Job Posting: Jan 2, 2018, 3:42:54 PM

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/zc7nt9d3mfd8czb3>

PI100751778

Start Date:

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3927

Pew Research Center

Rank: Research Associate, Religion

Pew Research Center is a nonpartisan fact tank that informs the public about the issues, attitudes and trends shaping America and the world. It conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, media content analysis and other empirical social science research in the areas of U.S. politics and policy views; media and journalism; internet and technology; religion and public life; Hispanic trends; global attitudes and U.S. social and demographic trends. Pew Research does not take policy positions. It is a subsidiary of The Pew Charitable Trusts. Pew Research Center's work is carried out by a staff of 150.

Position Summary

This position requires substantial knowledge and skill in the social scientific study of religion. We are looking for a person with particular expertise in the quantitative study of religion among African Americans as well as a broad interest in studying U.S. religious life. We expect the successful candidate to play a key role in advancing the team's survey research on religion among racial and ethnic minority groups in the U.S.

The Research Associate will be involved in all aspects of the department's domestic research agenda. Research Associates assist in the design and drafting of survey questionnaires, create tables and charts for survey reports, perform sophisticated statistical analyses, and work collaboratively with other team members to write and review reports. The successful candidate also will be responsible for helping to manage projects and field requests for information from the press, government officials, and other target audiences.

Primary Responsibilities

Data Analysis (35%)

- * Conduct analyses of survey datasets
- * Prepare tables and charts

Survey Design and Questionnaire Development (35%)

- * Develop research questions
- * Draft questionnaires
- * Compile and analyze trend data

Writing and Communication (20%)

- * Write analyses for research reports
- * Respond to external requests for information
- * Present research findings to external audiences

Project Planning and Management (10%)

- * Allocate resources and staff time to best meet project objectives
- * Map out steps in projects
- * Set and adhere to deadlines and deliverables
- * Keep colleagues and senior staff informed

- * Strong quantitative skills, including an ability to use SPSS and other statistical programs to organize and analyze data
- * Subject matter expertise in the study of religion among African Americans
- * Scrupulous attention to detail, including adherence to exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products
- * Ability to work collaboratively and collegially with members of the Religion Research department, as well as with staff from other Pew Research Center projects and outside organizations
- * Sound editorial judgment and strong oral and written communications skills
- * Ability to balance numerous projects simultaneously
- * Demonstrated skills in project development and management

Education/Training/Experience

- * PhD in Sociology, Political Science or related field strongly preferred
- * Proven ability to conduct rigorous data analysis, including substantial experience with SPSS, stata, R, or similar software
- * Experience studying religion among minority groups in the U.S. (especially African Americans) is highly desirable
- * Academic training or work experience in studying religion from a social scientific perspective
- * Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including multiple regression analysis
- * Experience in helping manage research projects, including working collaboratively with other researchers, is highly desirable

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/8n9b369tjxtm738h>

PI100750863

Start Date:

Date Posted: 1/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3921

Brigham Young University

Rank: Political Science Adjunct Faculty

The Brigham Young University Political Science Department seeks applications from well-qualified candidates to teach one political science course in spring and/or summer term, 2018.

To apply, please visit yjobs.byu.edu and search for "Political Science - Adjunct Faculty" (Job ID 68826).

BYU is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 3/31/2018

Date Posted: 1/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3919

Brigham Young University

Rank: Visiting Faculty

The Department of Political Science seeks applications from well-qualified candidates for a full-time visiting faculty position. Candidates should have a completed Ph.D. in any area of political science by the time the appointment begins in Fall 2018.

The visiting appointment will begin in Fall 2018.

Successful candidates will have a strong research agenda, demonstrate potential for high-quality teaching, and be committed to giving the university's students a sound academic experience.

Rank is open. Salary, teaching load, and research and travel support are competitive.

BYU, an equal opportunity employer, requires all faculty to observe the university's Honor Code and Dress & Grooming Standards.

To apply, please go to yjobs.byu.edu and search for Political Science Visiting Faculty (Job ID 68890). Review of applicants will begin immediately.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3918

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor – Human Rights, Peace, and Justice in Latin America

The Center for Latin American Studies at the University of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with a teaching and research focus on questions of human rights, transitional justice, peace and conflict/post-conflict, and related fields. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work addresses how these areas are interconnected. We seek applicants with superior promise who combine rigorous scholarship with excellence in teaching, and who can contribute to one or more of the Center's interdisciplinary research and training initiatives. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to work collaboratively across disciplinary boundaries with faculty and students from diverse backgrounds and perspectives. We strongly encourage applicants from historically underrepresented groups in the profession. Candidates should have their Ph.D. in hand or near completion at the time of hiring. The successful candidate will hold a full-time appointment in the Center and will report to the Director of the Center for Latin American Studies.

The UF Center for Latin American Studies is the oldest and one of the largest Latin American Studies programs in the United States. The Latin American program was formed in the 1930s and renamed the Center for Latin American Studies in 1963. It was among the first institutions in the country to be designated a National Resource Center by the U.S. Department of Education (USDE) and to receive assistance through fellowships and the USDE's Title VI program. Today, the Center is ranked among the best in the world, and UF libraries host a world-class collection of Latin American and Caribbean materials. Students can choose from among 350 Latin American and Caribbean area and language courses routinely offered by 50 departments at UF.

The Center offers a Masters of Arts in Latin American Studies (MALAS), a Masters of Arts in Sustainable Development Practice (MDP), graduate and undergraduate certificates, an undergraduate minor, and a joint law degree. The Center is linked to departments with strong PhD programs across campus. More information about the Center can be found at: <http://www.latam.ufl.edu/>.

Applications must be submitted on-line at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/505836/assistant-professor-human-rights-peace-and-justice-in-latin-america> and must include a letter of application, CV, a writing sample, a research statement, evidence of teaching excellence and accomplishments, and samples of peer or student teaching evaluations (as available). In addition, names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letter. The committee will begin reviewing applications February 15, 2018. Applications received after this date may be considered at the discretion of the Committee and/or hiring authority.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an education institution outside of the United States are required to be evaluated by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3916

University of Alabama, Huntsville

Rank: Dean

THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA IN HUNTSVILLE

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF ARTS, HUMANITIES, AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

The University of Alabama in Huntsville invites applications and nominations for the position of Dean of the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (CAHS). The Dean serves as the chief academic, administrative, and fiscal officer for the College and reports to the Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs. The Dean provides leadership to advance the College's mission and realize its strategic plan. He or she fosters outstanding teaching, student learning, and persistence to graduation; scholarly and creative works; and service to the university, the community, and the profession. The Dean is responsible for all day-to-day activities of the College, including curriculum development, faculty recruitment and evaluation, planning, and budget.

Qualifications: Candidates for the position of CAHS Dean must hold a Ph.D. or appropriate terminal degree from an accredited institution, as well as academic and scholarly accomplishments meriting appointment to the rank of professor with tenure in an academic department within the College.

The CAHS Dean shall nurture a vibrant intellectual environment that encourages student and faculty success, research and creative achievement, community engagement, and collaboration. The ideal candidate will be able to

- advance enrollment, student retention, and persistence to graduation
- build working relationships between students, faculty, staff, alumni and other UAH colleges and divisions
- promote excellence in teaching, learning, and student success
- demonstrate a record of successful administrative experience and leadership in higher education that includes collaborative leadership, effective fiscal management, and development
- display excellent communication and interpersonal skills
- champion diversity among faculty and students

College: The College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (CAHS) at UAH comprises 10 departments and 75 full-time faculty. It offers undergraduate degrees in Art History, Art Studio, Communications Arts, English, History, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Theatre, World Languages and Cultures, and Writing, along with graduate programs in English, History, Psychology, Professional Communications, and Public Affairs. CAHS plays a key role in Charger Foundations, the University's general education curriculum, and participates in multiple interdisciplinary minors or programs, including Ancient and Medieval Studies, Game Production, Global Studies, Latin American Studies, Public History, Web Communications, and Women's and Gender Studies. CAHS houses the Humanities Center, an NEH-funded endowment that promotes research and public discussions by funding eminent scholars, scholarly presentations, library enhancement, workshops, and faculty research and travel.

The University: UAH offers 85 degree-granting programs that meet the highest standards of excellence, including 41 bachelor's, 29 master's, and 15 doctoral degree programs through its seven Academic Colleges -- Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences; Business; Education; Engineering; Nursing; Professional and Continuing Studies; and Science as well as the Graduate School. The UAH Honors College blends traditional emphasis on arts and sciences and critical thinking with a practical, career-oriented education. Since 2008, the University has undertaken more than $160 million in new construction. The University is implementing new strategic and campus master plans that plot a clear vision for our future. For more information on the strategic plan, visit <http://www.uah.edu/president/strategic-plan>. Total UAH enrollment is approximately 9,100, including approximately 2,000 graduate students. The undergraduate class is made up of 42% women and 58% men. The UAH 2017 freshman class scored an average of 27.9 on the ACT examination, the best of Alabama's public universities. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching rates UAH as a "high" research activity institution.

UAH tops many lists. It is number one in Alabama both for early career pay after graduation and for the economic outcome of its graduates. U.S. News and World Report ranks UAH as a Tier 1 university where students are "eager to enroll" and touts UAH as the number one return on investment in Alabama for both in-state and out-of-state students. UAH is ranked Alabama's second most affordable college for incoming freshmen with financial need.

UAH is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges. Numerous departments and programs also hold accreditation or certification from professional associations, including the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, and the National Association of Schools of Music.

The Greater Huntsville Community: Located in the Tennessee Valley of Northern Alabama, Huntsville is the home of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center where the first rockets to take Americans to the moon were designed and built. Huntsville has an international reputation as a high tech center with ties to NASA, the Army's Redstone Arsenal, and major government and private research organizations. UAH is the anchor tenant of Cummings Research Park, the second largest university-related research park in the United States, and home to approximately 300 companies.

The population of the Huntsville metropolitan area is over 400,000 and is the fastest growing area in the state. The Huntsville community is recognized nationally for its strong economy and high levels of educational attainment, with public schools that are among the best in the nation. The Wall Street Journal named it among the nation's "New Silicon Cities" and Southern Living referred to Huntsville as among the best college towns in the South. MoveHub recently described Huntsville as one of the 20 most "hip" cities in the U.S. We are number four on the list of cities with the lowest cost of living, one of the top seventeen most affordable U.S. cities, number twenty-seven on the list of most educated cities in America, and number three on the list of best mid-size cities to make a living in the U.S.

In addition to its diversified high-tech economy, Huntsville offers abundant outdoor activities, is rich in cultural and recreational activities and has a thriving music and arts scene. The College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences plays an integral role in this cultural fabric. There are collaborative efforts with the professional symphony orchestra, a renowned community chorus, a world-class community concerts series, and several theatre and arts organizations. Within the college, there is a strong commitment to community service. Huntsville is also the home to America's largest independent center for the arts, housed in the historic Lowe Mill. For more information on the Greater Huntsville Community, visit <http://www.huntsvillealabamusa.com>.

Applicants should submit a cover letter describing professional experience as it relates to the requirements of the position; a current resume/curriculum vita; and the names, addresses, telephone numbers and email addresses of five references. Please send the application to search.dean@uah.edu. For additional information or questions please contact William Wilkerson, Dean of the Honors College and Chair of the Search Committee at William.wilkerson@uah.edu or Peggy Bower, Search Committee Support at bowerp@uah.edu. For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 31, 2018, although applications will be received until the position is filled.

The University of Alabama in Huntsville is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer of minorities, females, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Please refer to log number: 18/19-349

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3914

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: two year postdoctoral teaching fellowship

Two-Year Postdoctoral Teaching Fellowships

The College of the Holy Cross invites applications for two postdoctoral teaching fellowships for a two-year term to begin in August 2018. The first position will be in the Study of Race and Ethnicity, and the second will be in Asian American and Asian Diasporic studies. Each fellow will teach three courses per year. These full-time fellowships offer a competitive salary and full benefits, conference travel support, and a $2000 faculty development account to support scholarship. Renewal for the second year will be contingent on a successful first-year review. A key priority of this fellowship is to encourage scholars from underrepresented groups to consider tenure-track opportunities at liberal arts colleges and universities.

The Center for Interdisciplinary Studies (<https://www.holycross.edu/academics/programs/center-interdisciplinary-studies>) invites applications for a two-year Postdoctoral Teaching Fellowship related to the study of race and ethnicity to begin in August 2018. The Fellow will teach three courses per year, ideally including an introductory level course related to the study of race and/or ethnicity along with two additional courses aligned with the research interests of the applicant.

The College would like this postdoctoral position to address some of the larger issues and politics facing the United States today. As a result, we especially invite applications from scholars who work either on the philosophy of race or on the political economy of race, gender, and class, particularly in relation to urban politics. The Fellow will receive mentorship from faculty affiliated with the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies and an appropriate College department. The Center for Interdisciplinary Studies encourages and supports innovative teaching and scholarship that reaches across academic fields and methods. Several academic programs are part of the Center including African American Studies; Gender, Sexuality and Women's Studies; Latin American and Latino Studies; and Peace and Conflict Studies.

For application instructions and further information on this position, please visit <http://apply.interfolio.com/47987>. Review of applications will begin on January 23, 2018 and will continue until the position has been filled. For full consideration, please apply by January 23, 2018. Questions about the position may be directed to Professor Lorelle Semley, Director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies at LSemley@holycross.edu.

Asian American & Asian Diasporic Studies Position

The Asian Studies Program (<https://www.holycross.edu/academics/programs/asian-studies>) invites applications for a two-year postdoctoral fellowship in Asian American and Asian Diasporic Studies to begin in August 2018. Teaching and research foci within Asian American and Asian Diasporic Studies are open. We seek early-career applicants who could benefit from mentorship from faculty in Asian Studies and in an appropriate disciplinary home department in the social sciences, humanities, or arts.

The Asian Studies Program at Holy Cross includes faculty and courses in history, anthropology, Chinese language, literature, religion, philosophy, political science, economics, music, and theatre. We are especially interested in fellows who could design and teach compelling, innovative courses in Asian American and Asian Diasporic Studies to undergraduates as part of an initiative to expand our curriculum in this area.

For application instructions and further information on this position, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/47922>. Review of applications will begin on January 19 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will take place through Skype in late January. Questions about this search may be directed to Ann Marie Leshkowich, Professor of Anthropology and Director of Asian Studies, at aleshkov@holycross.edu.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to undergraduate teaching as well as promise of scholarly achievement. The successful candidate must have earned the doctorate by August 2018.

As a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college, the College values dialog among people from diverse perspectives as integral to the mission and essential to the excellence of our academic program (see <http://www.holycross.edu/mission>). In your application please highlight how your teaching, scholarship, mentorship and/or service might support the College's mission and its commitment to diversity and inclusion. Previous experience teaching, mentoring or advising diverse student populations is an asset. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about faculty life at the College, please visit <http://holycross.edu/join>. The College enrolls about 2,900 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community. Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the Higher Education Consortium of Central Massachusetts and the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (<http://www.newenglandherc.org>). The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/23/2018

Date Posted: 12/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3899

Yale University

Rank: Mars Fellow in Business Ethics

Yale University's Mars Brothers Interdisciplinary Program on Business Ethics seeks postdoctoral fellows for 2018-2019 from relevant disciplines (philosophy, business, economics, political science, sociology, psychology). Fellowships are for one year, renewable to two at a salary of $60,000 with health benefits. In addition to performing research under the supervision of Program faculty, Fellows will teach one seminar, be available to meet undergraduates of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics major, assist with senior essays, and help to organize and run a workshop series of 4-6 visitors a year. Applicants should have completed PhD requirements by September 2018. Mentoring of the fellows will draw on the established strengths of Yale's interdisciplinary faculty, beginning with the faculty of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics interdisciplinary undergraduate major.

Please submit a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, draft syllabus, and the names of two recommenders whom we will contact separately, online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47996>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Frances Rosenbluth, Director of Ethics, Politics and Economics, frances.rosenbluth@yale.edu.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and under-represented minorities are particularly welcome.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 12/19/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3897

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Lecturer

University of North Carolina at Charlotte

Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Permanent Lecturer Position

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for an open-field permanent Lecturer position in Political Science. Required qualifications include: Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; excellent teaching ability; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment. Candidates with prior teaching experience and the ability to teach a broad array of introductory classes are preferred, as is the ability to teach undergraduate research methods. The nine-month non-tenure track position begins Fall 2018.

The 4-4 load will include teaching two sections per year of LBST 2301 Critical Thinking and Communication, a new general education requirement, in addition to courses in the major. The Critical Thinking course topic is at the discretion of the instructor, though the small classes will emphasize communicating in the political science discipline.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers an M.P.A., B.A., and a minor. It has 26 full-time faculty members. Many participate in one or more interdisciplinary programs, including the Public Policy Ph.D. program, Latin American Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Africana Studies.

Review of applications will begin January 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications must be submitted electronically to <https://jobs.uncc.edu>. Please attach the following documents with your electronic application: (1) letter of application outlining your teaching philosophy, including teaching experience, related to the qualifications outlined above; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) a copy of graduate transcript; and (4) evidence of teaching effectiveness. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be sent either electronically in PDF format or by regular mail. All letters must be addressed to John Szmer, Lecturer Search Committee Chair, Political Science & Public Administration, UNC Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd, Charlotte, NC 28223 or jjszmer@uncc.edu. Any questions should be directed to Dr. Szmer.

Finalists will be asked during their screening interview to discuss how the topics of diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their teaching.

UNC Charlotte is a rapidly growing doctoral-granting urban university located in the largest metropolitan area between Washington DC, and Atlanta. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus. Close to 29,000 culturally diverse students currently are enrolled at the University. As the largest college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 20 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and natural sciences, as well as 25 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. It offers eight doctoral degrees, 36 master's degrees and graduate certificates, and 32 undergraduate degrees.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is an AA/EOE and an ADVANCE Institution that strives to create an academic climate in which the dignity of all individuals is respected and maintained. It values diversity that includes, but is not limited to ability/disability, age, culture, ethnicity, gender, language, race, religion, sexual orientation, and socio-economic status. Applicants will be subject to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3885

Leiden University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Institute of Political Science of the Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants for the position of:

Assistant Professor of Political Science (1.0 fte)

Vacancy number 4462

Key responsibilities

Building upon our institute's historic strength in the area of Dutch politics, we are looking for candidates qualified to conduct research on Dutch politics and to teach introductory and advanced courses in Dutch politics at the national and local levels within our bachelors and masters programmes. The appointment may also include teaching general introductory courses in political science or advanced courses on other topics reflecting the candidate's expertise. Candidates are also expected to supervise undergraduate and graduate theses, to acquire external research funding, to contribute to the Institute's research agenda, and to participate in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute.

Selection criteria

- Applicants must hold (or be near to completing) a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- Applicants must have a promising research agenda and publications focused on Dutch politics, plus relevant teaching experience and good teaching evaluations; knowledge of Dutch political history is desirable.
- Applicants must be able to teach in both Dutch and English;
- Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the University Teaching Qualification (BKO). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, s/he must obtain this qualification within two years.

Research at our Faculty/Institute

The Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises four institutes: Education and Child Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology. The Faculty also includes the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Our teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see <http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences>.

The Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. Its research programme focuses on the design, workings and implications of political institutions, broadly defined, though individual members of staff pursue research projects within and beyond this theme. The Institute consistently receives high peer-reviewed ratings of its teaching and research programs. It has around 70 faculty members, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multi-disciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy. The Institute is based in Leiden but some teaching is done in The Hague.

The Institute offers a range of taught programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The Master programmes (taught in Dutch and English) include a one-year MSc with four specialisations in Leiden and two in The Hague (including Nederlandse Politiek), plus a two-year Research MSc co-sponsored by the Institute of Public Administration.

Terms & Conditions

The position starts as soon as possible and preferably no later than September 2018. The appointment will be made on a temporary contract of up to 6 years depending upon prior experience. A permanent appointment may be possible during or after the term of the initial contract, depending upon performance and the budgetary situation of the Institute. Salary range from 3.427,- to 4.757,- gross per month (pay scale 11 in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities)

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3 %), training and career development and sabbatical leave. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break.

Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the basic University Teaching Qualification (UTQ). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, he/ she must be willing to obtain this Qualification within two years.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

Further enquiries can be directed to Professor Ruud Koole, chair of the selection committee, at email koole@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Applications

Please submit online your application no later than 1 February 2018 via the blue button of our application system <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/vacancies/2017-2/kwartaal4/17-529-4462-assistant-professor-of-political-sciences>

Applicants should submit online a letter of interest, a CV (with list of publications), a research statement covering current and future research agenda, a sample paper or article, and a statement of teaching interests and experience including sample syllabi or teaching evaluations.

Applicants should also ask three people to submit recommendation letters commenting on their professional qualifications and suitability for the position directly (i.e. not through the applicant) to vacature_powe@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

All documents, except recommendation letters from non-Dutch scholars, should be in Dutch.

The selection procedure will take place in February or March 2018. Selected candidates will first be invited for an online pre-interview; some will then be invited for in-person interview and research talk. You are kindly requested to be available in this period.

Acquisition following this advertisement is not appreciated

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 12/13/2017
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 3875

American University in Cairo

Rank: Political Economy

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a five-year fixed term contract position in Political Economy with emphasis on the International Political Economy and Political Economy of MENA region, at the Assistant or Associate Professor level beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on Introduction to Political Economy, Theory and History of Political Economy, Political Economy in the Middle East and North Africa and International Political Economy & Political Economy of Egypt. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by February 1st, 2018. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 12/10/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3866

Yale University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship in Political Economy, Leitner Program in International and Comparative Political Economy, The MacMillan Center, Yale University

The Leitner Program in International and Comparative Political Economy at Yale invites applications for a post-doctoral position for AY 2018-2019. Candidates must have a robust research program in political economy, broadly construed, and must have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

The post-doctoral fellow will teach one course during the year, either in the Fall or the Spring semester, pursue his/her own research, and participate in the activities of the Leitner program. Fellows are expected to be in residence from August 2018 to May 2019.

We will begin accepting applications immediately with review beginning on Friday, December 15, 2017 and continuing until the selections are final.

Yale University is an equal opportunity employer. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Compensation is competitive, and includes benefits and health coverage. We expect to be able to cover a junior scholar's salary for the full academic year and up to half of a senior scholar's salary. Senior scholars who will be taking leave from their home institution to accept the fellowship should indicate salary requirements and whether they expect to receive salary support from their university or outside sources.

To apply, send a cover letter, CV, research statement and a draft of a syllabus of a course you propose to teach at Yale. You'll also need to have three letters of recommendation submitted on your behalf.

All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46617>

Ms. Hira Jafri, Program Manager, Leitner Program in International and Comparative Political Economy, The Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, 34 Hillhouse Avenue, P.O. Box 208206 New Haven, CT 06520-8206 USA. Email: hira.jafri@yale.edu. For details on the Leitner program, please consult the website: <http://www.yale.edu/leitner>

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 12/6/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3851

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Fellow, Center for the Study of Statesmanship
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Religion & Politics

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall of 2018. This appointment is to be combined with a research appointment at the Center for the Study of Statesmanship (CSS). As a CSS Fellow the appointee will have a reduced teaching load. Although the appointment is likely to be made at a junior rank, more senior applicants will be considered.

The search is not confined to a particular field, but we are especially interested in scholars in foreign policy, international relations, or national security, or some combination thereof, who are able to place world politics in a philosophical, historical or cultural context. A background in political theory, the history of ideas or American constitutionalism is desirable. Candidates who are alert to the moral and religious dimensions of their areas of expertise are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major with many distinguished alumni and a strong MA and PhD program with graduates on numerous college and university faculties in America and abroad.

Established in the spring of 2017, CSS explores the meaning of statesmanship and how it can defuse conflict and foster respectful foreign and domestic relations. Administratively, CSS is independent of the Department of Politics and under the University Provost. To learn more about the Center and its research orientation candidates may go to the CSS website: <https://css.cua.edu>

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, departmental chair, at coyle@cua.edu and/or Dr. William S. Smith, managing director of CSS, at smithws@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10 and continue until the position is filled.

Catholic University seeks candidates who are supportive of the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a CV, and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one-to-two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will contribute to the University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found at: http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost_constitutions/documents/hf_jp-ii_apc_15081990_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html.

Official transcripts or verification of degrees will be required before any offer is made. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment.

The Catholic University of America is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3843

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Junior Faculty Search in Cybersecurity, Tenure Track
Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks to fill a tenure-track, junior faculty position in cybersecurity policy with a start date in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will show evidence of progress toward a record of strong research, teaching, and service. We are open to scholars from a broad array of disciplines including, but not limited to, political science, law, engineering, and data science. Given the interdisciplinary nature of this position, the successful candidate would have the potential for a joint or secondary appointment with other academic units at UVA. Whatever their discipline, successful candidates must have the desire and ability to speak to and influence ongoing policy debates in the area of cybersecurity.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The research faculty includes psychologists, economists, and political scientists, and is enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership, as well as multiple dual degree programs with other units at UVA.

For more information about the position and to apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0621821, and complete a candidate profile. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests and contact information for three references. The position is open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3796

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the 2018-19 academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2018. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the Center's faculty. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Applicants must apply online at :<https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4781> (D-18-PII-00004)

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
3. A current curriculum vitae
4. Contact information for two references
5. Two writing samples.

Application deadline: February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3765

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: RESEARCH PROFESSOR

http://careers.umich.edu/job_detail/149488/research_professor

Institute for Social Research Research Professor Track Social Science

The University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR) is seeking candidates for an open-rank appointment in the research professor track, with the potential for a joint appointment in a tenure-track position in another University of Michigan school or college. ISR seeks to recruit outstanding researchers with interests related to racial, ethnic, gender, and/or socioeconomic inequality.

The Institute for Social Research, founded in 1949, is one of the world's leading interdisciplinary social science research institutions. ISR's five research centers – Center for Political Studies, Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research, Population Studies Center, Research Center for Group Dynamics, and Survey Research Center – span a wide range of disciplines and methodological approaches. Research faculty positions in ISR include 100% ISR appointments as well as joint appointments with many departments and colleges across the university. For more information about ISR, please visit our web site: <http://home.isr.umich.edu/>

Potential units for joint appointments for this position include the School of Social Work, the School of Information, the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy, the School of Public Health, or social science departments within the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts. Disciplinary background of applicants could be in any of several areas of relevance, including, for example, economics, education, political science, psychology, public health, social work, sociology, or statistics.

Required Qualifications*

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in a social science or related field by the time the position begins.

Senior candidates should demonstrate experience and success with externally-funded research, along with a national reputation and strong publication record.

How to Apply: Review of submitted credentials will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. All candidates should submit the following materials electronically to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/46573>

Cover letter

Curriculum vitae

Three representative research papers or publications

Statement of current and future research plans

Statement of teaching experience

Junior candidates (new and recent PhDs): Three letters of recommendation

Senior candidates: Names of three references (letters will be solicited separately)

Additional Information

The Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the diverse people of Michigan, to maintain the excellence of the university, and to ground our research in varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Background Screening

The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer and may use a third party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

U-M EEO/AA Statement

The University of Michigan is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3755

Brown University: Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

Specializations: Caribbean, Latin American, Latino Politics

The Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies at the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University invites applications for a one-year non-renewable postdoctoral fellowship as part of the Mellon Sawyer Seminar on Race and Indigeneity in the Americas. The successful applicant will have research and teaching interests that focus on race, racism, and indigeneity in the Americas. We seek candidates who can complement the Center's interdisciplinary strengths and contribute to the existing emphasis on race and racialization in Latin America, the Caribbean, and Latinx communities. Theoretical attention to questions of race, gender and sexuality is strongly encouraged.

The successful candidate must demonstrate scholarly promise and will be expected to collaborate with two graduate student fellows to coordinate workshops and seminars, co-curate a related exhibit, and contribute to the development of promotional materials. The postdoctoral fellow will teach an undergraduate course on race and indigeneity in Latin America and the Caribbean from the perspective of his/her own discipline.

Fellow will receive a salary of $60,000, benefits, and a research/travel fund of $3,000 per year.

Qualifications

The successful applicant will have research and teaching interests that focus on race, racism, and indigeneity in the Americas. We seek candidates who can complement the Center's interdisciplinary strengths and contribute to the existing emphasis on race and racialization in Latin America, the Caribbean, and Latinx communities. Theoretical attention to questions of race, gender and sexuality is strongly encouraged.

Ph.D. should be in hand by the start of the appointment on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. in any discipline in the humanities or social sciences from institutions other than Brown.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/46311>.

1) a cover letter, including a discussion of the relevance of your research and training to the Sawyer Seminar theme as well as a discussion of any prior experience organizing interdisciplinary, scholarly events; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a list of three referees; and 4) a brief undergraduate course proposal related to the Sawyer Seminar theme. Review of applications will begin on January 31, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3737

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Director

The Johns Hopkins University seeks to appoint the inaugural Director of the SNF Agora Institute at JHU, a collaboration between the University and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation to forge new ways to facilitate the restoration of open and inclusive discourse that is the cornerstone of healthy democracies. Established with a $150 million gift from the Foundation and housed in the University's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the Institute will become a leading academic and public forum bringing together experts from a range of fields in order to design and test mechanisms for improving dialogue, decision-making, and social engagement. The Director will have an extraordinary opportunity to build and shape the Institute's faculty, programs, physical space, and reputation.

The Director will report to the Dean of the Krieger School and will work with the President and Provost and an international advisory board to fulfill the potential of the Agora vision. The Director will be a tenured member of the Arts and Sciences faculty and may have additional appointments elsewhere at Hopkins.

Candidates must possess academic stature worthy of appointment as full professor and a reputation that will attract attention to the Institute. The Director will exemplify both the inter-disciplinary and transnational ethos of the Institute and will have a track record of academic leadership and effective development and management of human, financial, and programmatic resources. S/he will have shown a strong commitment to enhancing diversity and inclusion.

Johns Hopkins University has retained Opus Partners to support this recruitment. Please send recommendations, nominations, or questions to lead Partner Craig Smith, PhD, via email: craig.smith@opuspartners.net. The search will continue in confidence until the Director is appointed, but candidates should submit their materials (c.v. and cover letter as separate PDF files) before December 1, 2017. The University intends to make this appointment effective no later than July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3666

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Gender Studies

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with scholarly expertise in gender, broadly interpreted to embrace interdisciplinary and disciplinary approaches, to begin August 2018. The successful candidate's primary appointment will be either in their home discipline or joint with Gender Studies, as appropriate. This position is part of the first phase of a three-year College growth plan, with several cluster hires meant to support an interdisciplinary liberal arts approach.

We are open with respect to research and teaching interests. However, the successful candidate's work must engage with questions of intersectionality and we encourage those with expertise in transnational feminisms, the global south, or diasporic studies to apply. We will consider a variety of methodological approaches, although quantitative expertise would especially complement our existing strengths. We are particularly interested in applicants with PhDs in gender/women's/feminist/sexuality studies; we also welcome applications from those trained in other interdisciplinary fields, the social sciences, humanities, or natural sciences who have a graduate certificate or significant interdisciplinary training in gender studies. Receipt of the PhD is expected by the time of appointment.

Candidates should be prepared to teach an Introduction to Gender Studies course and additional courses in their areas of expertise. The teaching responsibility is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. In addition to classes and tutorials, faculty members provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior undergraduate theses/projects, and serve on baccalaureate committees. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to work collaboratively with faculty from across campus to develop the existing Gender Studies Program. Faculty are also expected to establish and maintain a strong program of research or creative work.

New College is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty interested in working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, LGBTQ+, underrepresented groups, and those whose knowledge or skills support an inclusive culture and learning environment.

Applications (submitted online at <http://www.ncf.edu/employment>) should include: a cover letter, CV, unofficial graduate transcript, description of teaching philosophy, brief course descriptions for Introduction to Gender Studies and one or two upper-level courses in your area of expertise (~300 words each), a research statement, and a statement regarding your contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment. Please also arrange to have three reference letters (at least one of which should speak to your teaching abilities) sent to: gendersearch@ncf.edu. We will begin reviewing files October 23rd, and continue until the position is filled.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, selective public honors college with a 10:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis/project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. New College is committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourages collaborative student-faculty scholarship. www.ncf.edu.

According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need reasonable accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. New College is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access Institution.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/23/2017

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3644

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor (open field) in Migration Studies

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor focusing on Migration Studies. This position is open with regard to field of Ph.D., and the appointment will be in that field with the opportunity of a joint appointment in another field or interdisciplinary program. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline, teaching experience, a career interest in liberal arts education, and a vibrant research agenda. The person filling this line will be expected to teach courses on migration and build and coordinate interdisciplinary initiatives related to this subject, as well as contribute to the curriculum in the field of appointment. Experience using and teaching GIS and a willingness to guide students in developing GIS research skills is highly valued. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to MigrationSearch@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: Migration Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3551

Purdue University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenured full professor with the area of expertise open. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an excellent record of research and teaching in any subfield of political science. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include a record of attracting external funding; teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required. Credentials commensurate with a full professor are required. A successful candidate is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus and anticipates developing a professional master's program in public policy. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include a letter discussing the applicant's interest in the position and a curriculum vitae. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to search committee chair Dr. S. Laurel Weldon, weldons@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/7/2017

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3460

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3314

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/19/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3019

POLITICAL THEORY

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: VAP American Politics and American Political Thought

Visiting Assistant Professor (One Year)

Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one year visiting position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2018. Ph.D preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper level courses in American political thought and American political development. Other teaching and research areas might include religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; rural and/or labor politics; and power and the American presidency. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

Applications received by March 16, 2018 will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. The department will conduct preliminary reviews at this year's WPSA meeting in San Francisco. Applicants should indicate whether they will be attending the meeting.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and arrange to have three letters of reference sent. Applicants should submit all materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48507>.

Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/30/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4001

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD) in the Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for one-year Research Associate / Postdoc positions (with limited teaching), with an anticipated start date of August 25, 2018 and ending May 24, 2019. This research associate position is renewable, based on performance and continued availability of funding, for an additional academic year. Pay is competitive, and benefits are available. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. It promotes scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition.

Applicants for the research associate position must have achieved the status of ABD by February 10, 2018 and must be on track to complete a PhD by June 2018. All requirements for the Ph.D., including a successful defense, must be completed by June 20, 2018.

Research associates will conduct their own research and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). Fellows at their discretion may request to teach a second course in one of the semesters.

To apply, please submit a Candidate Profile online through Jobs@UVA (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>); search for Posting Number 0622244. Please attach: a curriculum vitae, cover letter, brief statement of research interest, contact information for three (3) references, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages), and an unofficial copy of your graduate transcript.

Review of applications will begin on or after Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2018, and the positions are open until filled.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVa should be directed to Ms. Bonnie Bragg at bb6a@virginia.edu.

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/24/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3988

University of Virginia

Rank: Predoctoral Research Specialist

University of Virginia invites applications for one-year predoctoral Research Specialist positions (with limited teaching), with an anticipated start date of August 25, 2018 and ending August 24, 2019. This end date may be extended, based on performance and continued availability of funding, through May 24, 2020. Pay is competitive, and benefits are available. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. It promotes scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition.

Applicants for the research specialist position must be on schedule to acquire the status of ABD by June 30, 2018 with a planned completion of PhD by May 24, 2019.

Research specialists will conduct their own research and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). Research specialists at their discretion may request to teach a second course in one of the semesters.

Research specialists will be responsible for completing their dissertation, using the methods and techniques appropriate to their project. Research specialists will also be tasked with teaching one or both of the two courses mentioned, which will require as background a concentration in political theory and/or an approach to American politics focusing on American political thought and American political development.

To apply, please submit a staff application online through Jobs@UVA (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>); search for Posting Number 0622468. Please attach: a curriculum vitae, cover letter, brief statement of research interest, contact information for three (3) references, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages), and an unofficial copy of your graduate transcript (attach as Other 1).

Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2018, and the positions are open until filled.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVA should be directed to Ms. Bonnie Bragg at bb6a@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/24/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3987

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: Political Theory Instructor

The Department of Political Science at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, seeks applicants for a one year, full time non-tenure track position, to teach undergraduate classes in the field of political theory, beginning September 1, 2018. Appointment will be at the Lecturer/Instructor rank and is non-renewable. The appointment entails a 6 course teaching load (3/3) per academic year, a salary of $56,000, and includes full health and pension benefits. A PhD or equivalent terminal degree in Political Science or related field by start date is required. The successful candidate will teach courses in the department's undergraduate curriculum, such as our large lecture introduction to political theory course, Democratic political theory, and Western political thought. Ability to teach religion and politics and/or gender and political theory a major plus. Additional teaching may be built around the applicant's research interests.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, list of courses taught, sample syllabi, and 3 letters of recommendation to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48470>. Review of applicants will begin on February 22 and continue until the job is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3978

Wellesley College

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College is seeking outstanding candidates for a one-year position as a Lecturer in Political Theory for the academic year 2018-2019. The full teaching load is five courses over two semesters. The successful candidate must have experience teaching introductory and advanced courses in the field, and areas of interest are open. The ability to teach one course in another subfield of political science is preferred but not required.

Candidates should have a Ph.D. and a strong commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment. Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer, and we are committed to increasing diversity and equity in the college community and curriculum. In that spirit, we are particularly interested in receiving applications from a broad spectrum of people, including under-represented groups.

Applicants should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, graduate transcripts, sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, samples of research and three letters of reference. All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. Applications should be submitted as soon as possible. We will begin reviewing candidates on February 16, 2018, but will continue to accept applications until the position is filled.

If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our online application system, please email us at working@wellesley.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3981

Shanghai University of Finance and EconomicsRank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track*Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Summary:

The Institute of Political Science (IPS) in The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts as early as Fall 2018. The opening is in the field of comparative politics (with or without a focus on China), research methodology, and political theory (order is by preference). A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years. The tenure-track faculty members are expected to publish research on major journals of international reputation, offer high quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background:

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas.

The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five Year Plan. SUFE is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system and offers globally competitive salaries for entry-level faculty in the discipline of political science. The newly established Institute of Political Science has nine members. Seven of them hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents:

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

Procedures:

The deadline for accepting applications is March 20, 2018, for this round of recruitment. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2018 Midwest Political Science Association conference in Chicago. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend the meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype.

Contact:

Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 3/20/2018Date Posted: 1/20/2018Salary: $60,000 - $69,999eJobs ID: 3968University of Maine*Rank: Assistant Professor*Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, American Government and PoliticsSpecializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maine invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic-year faculty position in Political Theory and U.S. Constitutional Law at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of September 1, 2018.

Responsibilities and Duties: This position includes teaching, research, and service. The faculty member will maintain a productive research program. The standard teaching load is 2/3, with a mix of introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses. Teaching and service responsibilities include holding regular office hours, advising students on their course of study, aiding them in the registration process, advising students in pre-law and the interdisciplinary minor in Legal Studies, developing relationships with the Maine legal community, and participating actively in the internal governance of the department and representing it in interactions with the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and university communities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.

Qualifications: We are interested in hiring a broadly trained political theorist who can teach courses in the history of political thought and contemporary political theory as well as on U.S. constitutional law and related topics. Additional requirements include evidence of ability for success in university-level teaching and evidence of ability to develop and pursue a research agenda, including peer-reviewed publications, in the candidate's area of expertise. ABDs may apply but a Ph.D. in Political Science or equivalent field is required by the start of the position.

Application: Applicants should submit a letter of application describing their credentials and experience relative to the qualifications above, a current C.V., official or unofficial graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations, a one page teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. Additional information, such as official transcripts, course syllabi, and writing samples may be requested at a later time. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by February 10, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Incomplete applications cannot be considered. Appropriate background checks will be required. Applicants should submit applications electronically to: <https://umaine.hiretouch.com>. Letters of Reference should be emailed to polisci@maine.edu. Specific questions may be addressed to Amy Fried, Professor and Chair, Department of Political Science, amyfried@maine.edu, 207-581-1797.

We are a faculty that values work-life balance and particularly maintaining a productively collegial workplace. The greater Bangor-Orono area offers access to a wealth of outdoor activities, a thriving cultural scene, and is close to Bar Harbor, Acadia National Park, and Portland. The University of Maine is the flagship campus of the University of Maine System. It is the state's land grant and sea grant university, enrolling over 11,000 students. The Department offers a BA degree. Further information about the Department can be found at <https://umaine.edu/polisci/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. The Department of Political Science encourages applications from a diverse pool of applicants.

On January 1, 2011, UMaine became a tobacco-free campus. Information regarding UMaine's tobacco-free policy is online at <http://umaine.edu/tobaccofree/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3958

University of Essex

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Political Theory

Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Political Theory
Department of Government

The Department of Government at Essex are world leaders in Political Science, ranked top in the UK for research excellence (REF2014), among the top 10 Universities for Politics in the UK (The Times Good University Guide 2017), top 10 in the world for Political Science and International Relations according to the Centre for World University Rankings (2017), among the top 50 departments on the planet according to the QS World University Rankings. With 96% student satisfaction (NSS 2016) and having been awarded Q-Step Affiliate Status, we are committed to excellence in education and research.

The Department of Government is seeking to appoint an academic at Assistant or Associate Professor level in Political Theory with demonstrable excellence in research and teaching. An ability to connect with existing areas of strength in the Department is also an advantage.

Please note that the appointment will be made at the UK equivalent of Lecturer (Assistant Professor), Senior Lecturer (Associate Professor) or Reader (Associate Professor) level and will be referred to by these titles throughout this advertisement and University of Essex documentation.

The Role and Duties

The post holder is expected to conduct research and teaching in Political Theory at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. They will also (co-)supervise undergraduate projects, MA, and PhD dissertations, and assess students through coursework and examination as well as contribute to the successful administration and management of the Department.

In addition, at the level of Senior Lecturer, the post holder is expected to provide research support and leadership to junior colleagues in the group, take on senior administrative and management roles in the Department and be publishing high-quality research in top-ranked international peer-reviewed journals.

In addition to the above, at the level of Reader, the post holder is expected to be able to demonstrate a significant research portfolio to include a well-established track record of high quality (3* and 4* level) publications in leading refereed journals, research funding from a variety of sources and capability for dissemination to different audiences for research.

Qualifications and Skills

The successful candidate will have obtained a PhD in Political Science or an allied field by the time the appointment begins.

They should have academic expertise in the area of Political Theory; evidence of a sophisticated research agenda in Political Science; demonstrable potential of excellence in both research and teaching; and evidence of a clear publication plan for submission to future Research Excellence Framework (REF) programmes. The potential to generate external funding is also essential for this post.

In addition, at the level of Senior Lecturer or Reader, they will have experience of PhD supervision; a proven track record of raising research funds and managing research projects; and proven experience in managing academic programmes. Demonstrable ability to support the teaching and learning experience of all academic colleagues in a higher education environment is also essential for this post.

We particularly welcome applications from those who identify as female or non-binary as they are under-represented in the Department.

At the University of Essex internationalism is central to who we are and what we do. We are committed to being a cosmopolitan, internationally-oriented university that is welcoming to staff and students from all countries and a university where you can find the world in one place.

Please visit our website (<http://www.essex.ac.uk/vacancies/>) for a full job description, person specification and more information relating to this post. We recommend you read this information carefully before making an application. Applications should be made on-line, but if you would like advice or help in making an application, or need information in a different format, please telephone the Resourcing Team (01206 874588/873521).

Closing date: 4 March 2018

Interviews are planned for: 1 May 2018

Salary: £39,993 - £47,722 per annum (Lecturer), £50,618 - £56,951 per annum (Senior Lecturer/Reader)

https://vacancies.essex.ac.uk/tlive_webrecruitment/wrd/run/ETREC107GF.open?VACANCY_ID=255917FgCx&WVID=9918109NEm&LANG=USA

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 3/4/2018
Date Posted: 1/9/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3928

University of Richmond

Rank: John Marshall Visiting Research Fellow for 2018-19

Specializations: Political Economy, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The John Marshall International Center for the Study of Statesmanship at the Jepson School of Leadership Studies at the University of Richmond is accepting applications for the position of John Marshall Visiting Research Fellow for 2018-19.

The Marshall Fellow will pursue his or her own advanced research in political economy as it relates to the theory and practice of statesmanship, and be in residence during academic terms at the Jepson School actively contributing to the intellectual life of the School and University through meaningful interactions with faculty and participation in Marshall Center programs. Educational requirements: Ph.D. program in economics, history, philosophy, or political science. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, but must have completed the Ph.D. in one of these fields by August 1, 2018. Applications for the fellowship are encouraged from those who have just finished or who are about to finish their doctoral dissertations.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The nation's first school of leadership studies, a top-ranked business school, and a nationally recognized international education program enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers an intellectually challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, one-page research plan, and writing sample; and provide the names and emails of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin on March 10, 2018. For questions contact Stephanie Trent, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, strent@richmond.edu. Additional information about the Marshall Center can be found at <http://jepson.richmond.edu/conferences/marshall/index.html>.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 4/15/2018
Date Posted: 1/8/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3926

Catholic University of Chile

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Theory

The Institute of Political Science (ICP) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position (Assistant Professor) in Political Theory, broadly defined.

The ICP is among the highest ranked political science departments in Latin America. Comprised of a highly international group of scholars, it is a hub of theoretical, empirical and applied research in the region. The ICP offers undergraduate, M.A. and Ph.D. programs. It admits the most talented Chilean students to its undergraduate and graduate programs, and hosts a large number of exchange students and a steady stream of visiting professors from all over the world. Santiago is a vibrant metropolitan area and a short drive from Chile's renowned pacific coast and spectacular Andean mountain range. The Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile is consistently ranked as one of the best universities in Latin America.

Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to high quality research, publication and teaching. Teaching obligations are limited to three courses per year. Fluency in Spanish is valued, but candidates who express the willingness to perfect basic proficiency are encouraged to apply. The ICP offers financial support for language classes and courses may initially be taught in English. The University strongly values diversity and we encourage members of all nationalities and backgrounds to apply.

Salary is competitive and complemented by research grants, travel stipends, and support for international exchanges. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs are welcome to apply as long as they obtain their degree by the position's starting date.

Applications should include a personal letter, curriculum vitae and a writing sample (journal article, book or dissertation chapter) that provides evidence of research performance. Applicants should also include teaching evaluations and course syllabi to assess teaching potential, graduate transcripts, an official copy of their B.A., M.A., and Ph. D. degrees, and three letters of recommendation.

Please direct informal inquiries or application packages (in either English or Spanish) via e-mail to Cristian Pérez Muñoz (searchicp@uc.cl), Chair of the Search Committee until February 15th, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/15/2018
Date Posted: 1/7/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3922

Furman University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in Western and American Political Thought

The Tocqueville Program at Furman University invites applications for a 2-year Postdoctoral Fellowship in Western and American Political Thought to begin in August 2018. Housed in the Department of Politics and International Affairs, the Tocqueville Program exists to encourage serious and open engagement with the moral questions at the heart of political life through the study of classic texts of the Western and American political and philosophic tradition. We encourage applicants whose teaching philosophy and research agenda fit with this mission. The PhD degree (in hand or expected by the beginning of the 2018-2019 academic year) is a required qualification.

The teaching load for the Postdoctoral Fellow will be three courses per academic year; courses to be taught include American Political Thought, Introduction to Political Thought, and other upper-level Political Thought courses as needed by the Department of Politics and International Affairs. The Postdoctoral Fellow will also participate actively in the Tocqueville Program's activities and contribute to its administration as needed.

Furman University is a selective private liberal arts and sciences college committed to helping students develop intellectually, personally, and interpersonally and providing the practical skills necessary to succeed in a rapidly-changing world. Furman professors are exceptional teacher-scholars who mentor undergraduate students within a campus community that values and encourages diverse ideas and perspectives. Our recently-launched strategic vision, The Furman Advantage, promises students an individualized four-year pathway facilitated by team of mentors and infused with a rich and varied set of high impact experiences outside the classroom that include undergraduate research, study away, internships, community-focused learning, and opportunities to engage across differences.

Furman is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and staff. The University aspires to create a community of people representing a multiplicity of identities including gender, race, religion, spiritual belief, sexual orientation, geographic origin, socioeconomic background, ideology, world view, and varied abilities. Domestic partners of employees are eligible for comprehensive benefits.

The Furman student experience is supported by a rich network of centers and institutes that includes The Riley Institute, The David E. Shi Center for Sustainability, The Institute for the Advancement of Community Health, The Rinker Center for Study Away and International Education, The Cothran Center for Vocational Exploration, The Shucker Center for Leadership Development, The Malone Center for Career Engagement, and our newest addition, The Center for Inclusive Communities.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is one of the fastest growing cities in the Southeast and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The charming downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains in the country.

Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. Greenville is 2 1/2 hours from Atlanta and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. It is an ideal place to live and work.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/20/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3900

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, Social Science. NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Social Movements

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2018. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, research sample and three letters of reference, all in PDF format. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science September 22, 2017, sociology on November 1, 2017 and applications from economics December 1, 2017.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3898

Vassar College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Vassar College invites applications for a tenure track position to teach Political Theory at the Assistant Professor rank beginning in the academic year 2018-19. Vassar College is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer with a strong commitment to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum, and promoting an environment of equality, inclusion, and respect for difference. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Individuals from groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding are particularly encouraged to apply.

Candidates should have completed or be nearing completion of a Ph.D. at the time of appointment. We are seeking to fill a position in political theory with an emphasis on gender in western and/or non-western thought. We invite applicants in political theory with a range of diverse substantive areas or approaches. The successful candidate will teach Introductory Political Theory, as well as an advanced course in and/or cross-listed with Women's and Gender Studies and/or one or more of Vassar's Multidisciplinary Programs. Teaching load is five courses (four preparations) per year.

Candidates should submit a complete dossier including a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate school transcript, at least three letters of recommendation, a sample of professional writing, a diversity statement highlighting contributions to and/or future plans for promoting diversity and inclusion through teaching, research and/or professional involvements, a statement of teaching approach and interests, and evidence of teaching potential such as teaching evaluations and syllabuses.

To apply, please visit <http://employment.vassar.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=52402>

Please direct any questions to Himadeep Muppidi, Chair, Department of Political Science, Vassar College, Box 632, 124 Raymond Avenue, Poughkeepsie NY 12604. Review of applications will begin February 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. For inquiries, email: himmuppidi@vassar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3877

Bowdoin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of Government and Legal Studies at Bowdoin College invites applications for a one-year full-time visiting assistant professor with a specialty in political theory for the 2018-19 academic year. A second year is possible pending administrative approval. Evidence of teaching excellence or promise, and scholarly engagement is expected; Ph.D. in hand by the date of appointment is preferred, though ABDs will be considered. Teaching load is two courses each semester. We seek candidates able to offer a broad range of courses in political theory, for example classical political philosophy, modern political philosophy, contemporary political philosophy, American political thought, or others in the applicant's area of research.

Bowdoin College accepts only electronic submissions. Please visit <https://careers.bowdoin.edu> to submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three references who have agreed to provide letters of recommendation upon request.

Review of applications will begin on January 20, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Founded on the Maine coast in 1794, Bowdoin is one of the oldest and most selective coeducational, residential liberal arts colleges in the country. Located in Brunswick, Maine, a 30-minute drive north of Portland, the College is in an area rich with natural beauty and year-round outdoor activities. Bowdoin's reputation rests on the excellence of its faculty and students, its intimate size, its strong sense of community, and its commitment to diversity (31.5% students of color, 5% international students and approximately 15% first-generation college students). Bowdoin College complies with applicable provisions of federal and state laws that prohibit unlawful discrimination in employment, admission, or access to its educational or extracurricular programs, activities, or facilities based on race, color, ethnicity, ancestry and national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression, age, marital status, place of birth, genetic predisposition, veteran status, or against qualified individuals with physical or mental disabilities on the basis of disability, or any other legally protected statuses. For further information about the College please visit our website: <http://www.bowdoin.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3863

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Fellow, Center for the Study of Statesmanship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Religion & Politics

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall of 2018. This appointment is to be combined with a research appointment at the Center for the Study of Statesmanship (CSS). As a CSS Fellow the appointee will have a reduced teaching load. Although the appointment is likely to be made at a junior rank, more senior applicants will be considered.

The search is not confined to a particular field, but we are especially interested in scholars in foreign policy, international relations, or national security, or some combination thereof, who are able to place world politics in a philosophical, historical or cultural context. A background in political theory, the history of ideas or American constitutionalism is desirable. Candidates who are alert to the moral and religious dimensions of their areas of expertise are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major with many distinguished alumni and a strong MA and PhD program with graduates on numerous college and university faculties in America and abroad.

Established in the spring of 2017, CSS explores the meaning of statesmanship and how it can defuse conflict and foster respectful foreign and domestic relations. Administratively, CSS is independent of the Department of Politics and under the University Provost. To learn more about the Center and its research orientation candidates may go to the CSS website: <https://css.cua.edu>

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, departmental chair, at coyle@cua.edu and/or Dr. William S. Smith, managing director of CSS, at smithws@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10 and continue until the position is filled.

Catholic University seeks candidates who are supportive of the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a CV, and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one-to-two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will contribute to the University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found at: http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost_constitutions/documents/hf_jp-ii_apc_15081990_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html.

Official transcripts or verification of degrees will be required before any offer is made. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment.

The Catholic University of America is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3843

University of Calgary

Rank: Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in The Politics of Decolonization

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The University of Calgary is engaged in a consultative process with knowledge keepers, Elders, and leaders of the Treaty #7 peoples, the Métis Nation, and academics and university administrators. This ongoing process has resulted in the development of an Indigenous Strategy designed to guide the University's relationship with the Indigenous peoples in whose territory the University resides. One of the goals identified during this consultation is to increase the number of Indigenous scholars in leading positions on campus. In addition to Indigenous cluster hires in the Faculty of Arts and the Werklund School of Education, the University of Calgary is now seeking three Canada Research Chairs (Tier II).

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in the Politics of Decolonization. We are seeking a scholar who will establish and maintain an active research program leading to excellence in our understanding of decolonization. Themes may include, but are not limited to, the study of political processes that redistribute land from colonial states to Indigenous nations, the revitalization of Indigenous land-based governance practices, the study of Indigenous decolonizing political movements, and gendered perspectives on decolonization. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) or Associate Professor (with tenure). The anticipated start date is July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will hold a PhD in Political Science or a related field. The appointee's research agenda may be grounded in any of the fields of political science (political theory, Canadian politics, comparative politics, international relations) or be inter-disciplinary in focus. A research program focused on Canada would be an asset but is not required to be considered for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to build relationships with the Treaty #7 Nations and the Métis Nation. This may include incorporating the experiences and needs of the Treaty #7 peoples and the Métis into their research. This appointment will contribute to the University of Calgary's commitment to create a rich, vibrant and culturally competent campus – one that welcomes and supports Indigenous learners, is inclusive of Indigenous perspectives in teaching and learning, encourages Indigenous community partnerships in research and academic programming and is appropriate and thoughtful in its response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's 'Calls to Action'.

The successful candidate at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of excellence in research, teaching and community engagement, commensurate with academic experience. This would normally include publications in high quality journals, success with securing competitive research funding, and evidence of a commitment to teaching effectiveness and to engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions. The successful candidate at the Associate Professor level must demonstrate a proven track record of research and teaching excellence, including a record of publications in high quality journals, proven success in obtaining competitive research funding, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a record of successful graduate student supervision, where possible. The successful candidate at this level should also provide evidence of successful engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions, including evidence of success in community-engaged projects and scholarship.

The Department of Political Science is housed in the Faculty of Arts. The Department administers the International Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program that attracts students from across the University. The program focuses on various aspects of Indigenous people's experience including arts, culture, ways of knowing, languages, economies, politics, and community structures. The candidate's willingness to teach in this program will be considered an asset. As part of its Indigenous Strategy, the Faculty has created eight tenure-track positions in Indigenous research and scholarship, across various departments. This community of scholars facilitates cross-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada. The Canada Research Chair in the Politics of Decolonization will provide leadership in these areas.

Tier II chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e., candidates must have been an active researcher in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier II chair assessed through the program's Tier II justification process. Please consult the Government of Canada's CRC website for full program information, including further details on eligibility criteria.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit their application online via the 'Apply Now' link at <http://careers.ualgary.ca/jobs/8164474-canada-research-chair-tier-ii-in-the-politics-of-decolonization-faculty-of-arts> and include:

- A letter of interest and curriculum vitae, including a statement providing evidence of the applicant's connection to the Indigenous community
- Three examples of recent scholarly work
- Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- Description of a proposed 5-year research plan for the Chair

Applicants should also arrange to have three electronic confidential letters of reference sent under separate cover directly to the chair of the selection committee:

Dr. Antonio Franceschet
 Department Head, Department of Political Science
 Faculty of Arts, University of Calgary
 Email: polihire@ualgary.ca

Questions regarding this opportunity should be addressed to Dr. Antonio Franceschet by email (polihire@ualgary.ca)

Deadline: January 30, 2018

The University of Calgary recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research experiences of the entire campus and greater community. We are committed to removing barriers that have been historically encountered by some people in our society. We strive to recruit individuals who will further enhance our diversity and will support their academic and professional success while they are here; in particular, we encourage members of the four designated groups (women, Aboriginal People, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities) to apply. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. To ensure a fair and equitable assessment, we offer accommodation at any stage during the recruitment process to applicants with disabilities. Questions regarding diversity or requests for accommodation can be sent to Human Resources (hrhire@ualgary.ca).

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3813

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for an assistant professor position in political theory and law beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level classes in political theory and public law and contribute to the department's Politics, Philosophy, and Law (PPLW) concentration. The PPLW concentration allows focused attention on theoretical issues related to the law, so the ability to offer classes in jurisprudence, legal theory, or constitutional law would be particularly welcome. A PhD in Political Science or a related field is required. Primary teaching and advising responsibilities will be in the undergraduate political science program, and the teaching load is six courses per academic year. The College of Charleston is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 1,100 graduate students. The Political Science Department has 21 fulltime faculty, approximately 320 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program. The College is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. Additional information about the institution and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>. Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter, a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references. Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Claire Curtis (curtisc@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin December 16, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The College of Charleston is an AA/EO employer and strongly encourages women and minority candidates to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/16/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3798

Brown University

Rank: Mellon Post-doc in Environmental and Indigenous Political Theory

Brown University invites applications for a 2-year Mellon Postdoctoral Fellowship in the area of Environmental and Indigenous Political Theory. This position is to be held jointly at the Cogut Center for the Humanities and the Department of Political Science, effective July 1, 2018. We are especially interested in scholarship that explores the processes and procedures of social and civic engagement that can address the issues of environmental impact on particular communities that have longstanding spiritual, residential, economic, or religious claims to land and water. Work in this area can be engaged from all the approaches common to contemporary political theory: normative, critical, genealogical, historical, feminist, activist, engaged, indigenous, and deliberative. The appointment would be open to any approach, with the department seeking to appoint the person who is best able to offer courses and inspire students to attend to this important area of research, while producing work of importance for publication. The successful candidate will teach two courses per year, one in each semester, in the Department of Political Science cross-listed in the Cogut Center's Humanities course offerings. The fellow will also be affiliated with the Cogut Center and is expected to participate in the weekly Tuesday seminars as well as other activities of the Center. PhD must be in hand by July 1, 2018 and must have been awarded in the last five years. Stipend of $61,500 with an increase to $63,907 the second year plus benefits and a research budget of $2,000 per year. Applications will be reviewed beginning January 15, 2018 and accepted until the position is filled.

Candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, two sample course descriptions, and three letters of recommendation. To view more details and to apply, please see: <http://apply.interfolio.com/47158>. Brown University is an EEO/AA employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3788

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3759

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3760

American University in Cairo

Rank: Political Theory

Political Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory at the Assistant Professor level beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on classical and contemporary political theories. Candidates who can teach courses on issues of religion in politics are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu); Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3747

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2018-2019, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society at Stanford seeks to appoint up to three postdoctoral fellows. Selected fellows will be designated as either General Ethics Fellows or Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows. The two types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, but they form a common community at the Center and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. The programs are described in detail below.

We aim to appoint fellows in both programs (three total across the two programs). All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships and do not need to tailor their application for one or the other fellowship.

General Ethics Fellowship

Some selected fellows will be part of our longstanding postdoctoral program that is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within philosophy or political science. For 2018-19, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in inequality, immigration, global justice, environmental ethics, and ethics and technology, but we welcome all applicants with strong normative interests. Applicants must have normative training and hold a PhD in philosophy or political science. Scholars with a PhD in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center for Ethics in Society (attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

2018-19 will be the third year of this fellowship program at the Center. The program is rooted in the Center's commitment to bringing ethical reflection to bear on pressing social problems. Addressing many of these social problems involves knowledge of the work of social science, law, and the life sciences. The premise of this program is that the normative scholarship of our fellows will be enhanced by engagement with empirically-oriented scholars. To that end, each fellow in the program will be matched with a partner research center at Stanford that is dedicated to interdisciplinary research. For 2018-19, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in engineering/computer science or biomedical ethics, but all applicants whose work may intersect with empirically-oriented scholarship will be considered. Applicants need not name a possible partner center on campus or tailor their materials for this type of fellowship. The Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the natural match between their work.

Applicants must have normative training and hold a PhD in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a PhD in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. Fellows will participate in the regular intellectual life of the partner center and the Center for Ethics in Society (e.g., attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across campus.

Appointment Requirements and Application Details

For both types of fellowships, the appointment term is September 1, 2018 - August 31, 2019. The initial term may be renewed for an additional year. Applicants must have completed all requirements for their PhD by June 30, 2018. Candidates must also be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2015).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its scholarly community. We welcome applications from women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions. Salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single spaced), and list of classes they have taught and/or are prepared to teach. Additional materials will not be considered. All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships, and finalists will be consulted about whether they may be designated as Interdisciplinary Ethics or General Ethics fellows.

Applications will be collected via Interfolio. Applications will not be accepted by email. Please visit the Center's website for information about how to submit your materials: <https://ethicsinsociety.stanford.edu/postdocs/application-process>

If you have questions, please email ethics_submissions@stanford.edu. Application Due Date: December 11, 2017 at 5:00 pm PST.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/11/2017

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3646

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

University of North Texas

Rank: Open Rank Search in Political Theory

We invite applications for an open-rank position beginning fall 2018 in the broadly defined field of the history of political theory. We are interested in prospective candidates who specialize in Medieval, early modern/Enlightenment, or 19th/20th century German (post-rationalist) thought. An additional strength in non-Western thought, such as Islamic or Chinese political thought, is considered an advantage.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science, (2) evidence of excellence in scholarly productivity, and (3) evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching and mentoring students in independent activities. Preference will be given to candidates who have published books and/or articles in top-tier journals.

The successful candidate will have responsibilities that may include but are not limited to teaching core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continuing a record of robust scholarly research, directing graduate research in the Theory field, and providing service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 25 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Political Science Education, and is the current home of Religion and Politics. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site is: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With 37,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) two published writing samples, (5) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (6) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquires to Richard Ruderman, search committee chair (Richard.Ruderman@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 18, 2017 and will remain open until the position is closed. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3400

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in political theory. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3363

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3314

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Aarhus University

Rank: Full professorship in leadership in the healthcare sector

Full professorship in leadership in the healthcare sector 957037

Department of Political Science at Aarhus BSS, Aarhus University invites applications for a full professorship with special focus on research in leadership in healthcare organizations.

Job description

The professorship is part of a major investment in scholarship that is relevant for improvements in public leadership, and the new professor will be part of a team that aims to make the public sector better through excellent research, strong leader development and continuous dialogue with practitioners. We are dedicated to excellence in leadership education, application and scholarship, and we are improving public organizations both nationally and internationally through research, teaching and dissemination. We are looking for eminent candidates who can develop our research, education and societal impact.

The professorship has been made possible by a substantial donation from the novo Nordisk Foundation that will allow the professor to hire a research team focused on leadership in healthcare.

The professor will be part of the very strong Public Administration section at Department of Political Science, Aarhus University. We collaborate with other disciplines at Aarhus University (Management, Economics, Psychology etc.), with national and international scholars from other universities, and with our colleagues from other sections at the department (for example Comparative Politics, Public Policy and Political Sociology).

The position is permanent. Key tasks are research, dissemination and teaching focused on healthcare leadership and management. The professor is expected to participate in seminars, workshops, examination and supervision of students at the department in general and in the Public Administration section in particular.

The successful candidate is expected to take up appointment as soon as possible after assessment.

Your qualifications

Applicants should have a strong academic background and demonstrate significant contributions to developments in the field. The applicant's potential for undertaking research, teaching and dissemination related to leadership in healthcare is especially important, but we also welcome applicants with a general leadership/management profile combined with an interest in the healthcare sector. The essential qualifications are thus:

- A proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by a strong international reputation and recognized articles in top international journals.
- A track record of excellence in teaching in leadership, public administration and/or management.
- A clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications as well as a commitment to innovate teaching and dissemination.
- A track record of good citizenship in the wider academic community combined with commitment to contribute to a vibrant work environment in the whole department.
- Commitment to share insights and knowledge in the public debate, take societal responsibility and prioritize dialogue with practitioners.
- Experience with or commitment to teaching that gives students real-life competences as well as the ability to reflect critically on the world and its problems.
- The ability and willingness to attract external research funding.

Non-Danish speakers are required to attain reasonable knowledge of the Danish language within max. three years. The department will grant time off from teaching to attend Danish courses during the first two years of employment.

Permanent employment as professor at Aarhus BSS requires completion of the supervision course and also the course Blended Learning – Go Online provided by Centre for Teaching and Learning at Aarhus BSS. If you have not completed the courses before commencement of employment, continued employment will be conditional on completion of the courses within a five year period.

Who we are

The Department of Political Science is one of the six departments at Aarhus BSS and one of the four faculties at Aarhus University. Aarhus BSS unites the business and social science-related research fields and brings them closer together to reflect the close relationship between society and the business community. As part of a Top 100 university Aarhus BSS has achieved the distinguished AACSB, AMBA and Equis accreditations.

At the Department of Political Science, we emphasise a dynamic and flexible research and teaching profile characterised by pluralism and openness. With around 90 academic staff members and 40 PhD students, we offer a lively and ambitious research and teaching environment.

The research carried out at the department not only covers a variety of political science disciplines, but also represents a variety of methodological approaches. This not only enables us to focus on new problem areas as they appear on the national and international political arenas, but also allows us to contribute actively to the development of the discipline. We also emphasise communicating our research results to the political-administrative system and to the public in general.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit: <http://ps.au.dk/en/>

Further information

For further information about the position, please contact: Head of department, Professor Peter Munk Christiansen, phone +45 30115340, email: pmc@ps.au.dk

If you need help uploading your application or have any questions about the recruitment process, please contact HR supporter Mette Fisker Præstegaard, Tel.: +45 871 52497, email: mfp@au.dk

International applicant? Aarhus University offers a broad variety of services for international researchers and accompanying families, including relocation service and career counselling to expat partners. Please find more information about entering and working in Denmark here and here.

Place of work

Department of Political Science, Aarhus BSS, Aarhus University, Bartholins Allé 7, 8000 Aarhus C

Terms of employment

The appointment is in accordance with the Memorandum on Job Structure for Academic Staff at Danish Universities as well as the circular on the Collective Agreement for Academics Employed by the State.

The job content and qualification requirements are described in further detail in Circular on Terms of Employment for Academic Staff at Universities.

Application procedure

It is obligatory to attach the following when you apply for this position:

- Application
- Curriculum Vitae. You are encouraged to declare any periods of leave without research activity, including, for example, maternity leave, since your research activities are assessed in relation to your actual research time
- Education (diploma for master's, PhD and possibly higher doctoral degree)
- List of publications (the enclosed publications must be clearly marked on the list of publications)
- Publications. Up to 10 publications can be included in the application. In the event of several authors the publications must be accompanied by a co-author statement concerning the applicant's share of the collaborative work with the consent of the co-authors. This form can be used for the purpose
- Teaching portfolio. The specific requirements regarding the documentation can be found here

Materials which cannot be uploaded together with the application may be submitted in five copies to Aarhus BSS HR & PhD, Aarhus University, Tåsingevej 1, 2nd floor, DK-8000 Aarhus C.

Read more about how to apply for an academic post at Aarhus BSS here.

The evaluation process

After the application deadline, an assessment committee is appointed. Please note that the assessment of applicants is based solely on the material received prior to the application deadline. For further information, see Guidelines for Assessment Committee, Aarhus BSS.

Read more about Aarhus BSS' professorship policy here.

All interested candidates are encouraged to apply regardless of personal background.

Deadline

All applications must be made online and received by: 03/04/2018

Please apply online here:

<http://www.au.dk/en/about/vacant-positions/scientific-positions/stillinger/Vacancy/show/957037/5283/>

Top

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 4/3/2018

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: $110,000 - $119,999

eJobs ID: 3960

Alma College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor in US Politics and History

Alma College in Alma, Michigan invites applications for a one-year visiting assistant professor position in U.S. political science and history, beginning in August 2018, with the possibility of renewal for a second year. The successful candidate will teach six courses in American politics and history, equally divided between the Departments of History and Political Science. We especially welcome candidates who can contribute to inter-disciplinary programs, such as Public Affairs and Policy, Environmental Studies, etc. A Ph.D. in U.S. political science or history (with the qualifications to teach the other field) is required by August 2018.

Review of applications will begin on March 5, 2018. Please e-mail all application materials to Barbara Tripp (tripp@alma.edu)

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Transcripts

- Teaching Statement
- Contact Information for three references

A Phi Beta Kappa institution, Alma is a selective, baccalaureate liberal arts college committed to academic excellence and an equal opportunity employer committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty, staff and student body. For more information about the College, visit www.alma.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3963

Arizona State University

Rank: Director (Professor of Practice FSC)

Arizona State University, College of Public Service and Community Solutions is seeking a Director, (Professor of Practice FSC) to lead the Design Studio for Community Solutions.

The Design Studio for Community Solutions functions as a bridge between the design resources of the university and the wider Phoenix metropolitan region and addressing the central role of design and place making in the achievement of progressive, sustainable urbanism. It accomplishes this through lectures, conferences, symposia, exhibitions, research, coursework, studios, and publications.

The Design Studio for Community Solutions

- Embrace a systems-view of the city – the city will be studied as a complex adaptive systems that embraces the diversity of agents, objects, and institutions that reside and interact with the city.
- Co-create innovative solutions with citizens, the public, non-profit, and the private sector to solve complex urban challenges and realize opportunities for the betterment of the city and the quality of life of its residents.
- Provide an open space for community experimentation and dialogue to plan, design, and discuss solutions to create a physical and intellectual forum space for communities and individuals, thereby allowing for iterative and collaborative learning opportunities for all stakeholders.
- Cultivate a living lab for students to work in a ‘living-lab’ context.
- Inform and improve best practice in planning, design, engineering, development, law, sustainability, public policy, informatics, public administration, decision science, and GIS.
- Establish and maintain a structured, yet agile, methodology for identification, qualification, and pursuit of projects, both in tactical and strategic timeframes.
- Develop and sustain a flexible funding stream that is supplemented by project-specific funding.
- Adhere to an organizational framework that is neither “top down” nor “bottom up,” but both.
- Provide value to all stakeholders as a clearinghouse that draws upon all ASU units and repository of urban interests within the University, thus defusing competition interests and redundancy.
- Serve as a vehicle for integration and collaboration, both within the University and with other, similar entities – locally and internationally.

Director Responsibilities:

- Design and launch new program that blend various services, practitioners and policymakers and research.

- Apply technical knowledge and expertise to the development of new crosscutting programs and/or participate in enhancing existing crosscutting programs of work.
- Design and host convening’s and other outreach to build new programs of work.
- Work closely with senior scholars and resource development colleagues to develop compelling concepts for funding strategic initiatives and growing research programs.
- Coordinate with scholars to identify upcoming opportunities to build support for strategic initiatives and research programs and provide coaching on pitch and approach.
- Serve as the proposal director for other key strategic initiatives, and ensure that research and policy teams create a competitive proposal and maintain collaborative and productive relationships.
- Oversee and collaborate with key stakeholders to make key decisions regarding both the technical and cost components of proposals.
- Remain informed and up-to-date on major donor trends, policies, and procurement opportunities.
- Collaborate closely with scholars to strengthen Design Studio for Community Solutions program development capacity, by working with and managing other stakeholders that develop trainings and host brown bags on key topics such as program development, translating research to policy and practice, developing evidence-informed policy recommendations.
- Advise research colleagues on strategies to engage philanthropy in thought partnerships.
- Partner with research colleagues in thought partnerships with philanthropy.
- Establish and maintain effective relationships with key donors.
- Represent PURL to key external audiences and networks.

Required Qualifications

- Master’s degree in Public Policy or a related field; or the academic knowledge of and experience in a discipline that is generally associated with the attainment of a Master’s degree.

Desired Qualifications

- Ph.D. is valued but not required.
- Senior management experience with a minimum 10 years of experience designing and managing programs and mobilizing resources and engaging diverse constituencies.
- Demonstrated track record in securing funding.
- Demonstrated skill in brokering partnerships and aligning the interests and goals of diverse stakeholder groups
- Highly developed proposal-writing skills with the ability to develop programs for philanthropic investment.
- Highly developed critical thinking to craft approaches to secure new funding opportunities.
- Established networks within/familiarity with research, policy and donor community.
- Excellent writing and verbal communication skills to distill complicated concepts into clear, consistent, and direct messages to a diverse audience.
- Proven ability to think and act strategically, and mobilize support for a vision.
- Policy and research programming experience and perspective preferred, including ability to work productively with a diverse range of researchers.
- Strong interpersonal skills, ability to work effectively in teams.

Academic and non-academic candidates will be considered.

The first review of applications will begin on (March 2, 2018); and every week thereafter until the search is closed. Please feel free to contact Dean Jonathan Koppell (Koppell@asu.edu) with questions.

Application Procedure

To apply, visit <https://publicservice.asu.edu/content/jobs> and upload your application as one combined pdf document.

- Letter of interest outlining qualifications and experience as it relates to this position
- Curriculum vitae
- Information for three professional references (their position, title, e-mail, phone number)

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or any other basis protected by law. For complete statements on ASU's non-discrimination policies, please refer to go to: <http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>.

ASU offers applicants an opportunity to voluntarily self-disclose information for the University affirmative action plan; applicants may complete an EEO survey for the position they are applying for online. Information you will need to complete the survey: Job Number: 12270. Job Title: Director, Department Name: College of Public Service and Community Solutions

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3957

SUNY, Binghamton University

Rank: Post Doc Institute for Genocide and Mass Atrocity Prevention

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Binghamton University's Institute for Genocide and Mass Atrocity Prevention seeks applications for a one-year (non-renewable) post-doctoral research and teaching Fellow. The GMAP Fellowship supports recent recipients of terminal degrees in academic disciplines contributing to the study of policies and practices designed to predict and prevent genocide and mass atrocities. Applicants must have their terminal degree conferred by the Fellowship start date of August 20, 2018. Recent PhDs in such disciplines (e.g. political science and international studies, sociology or anthropology, geography or public administration) are welcome to apply. In appropriate circumstances applications by recent recipients of the J.D. will also be considered, as will those already occupying temporary or tenure-track positions. For the 2018-19 academic year, the Institute particularly welcomes applicants whose research programs intersect with question of gender and prevention.

Binghamton University's GMAP Institute concentrates specifically on the formation, implementation, and assessment of practical preventative measures and policies. Applicants should present a research program or proposal that documents this practical dimension. The Fellow will conduct research, collaborate with Binghamton University faculty and graduate students associated with the Institute, and will offer at least one public lecture and/or workshop during the academic year.

The Fellow will also be expected to offer one course per academic year, at either the graduate or undergraduate level, in an appropriate department.

Deadline for External Applicants: Open until filled

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the vacancy is filled.

Persons interested in this position should apply online.

Please submit:

1. A short cover letter
2. A CV
3. A detailed research proposal including a statement of how the proposal further research in the prevention of genocide and mass atrocity
4. Titles of two or three possible courses
5. Three confidential letters of recommendation

Informal inquiries can be directed to Prof. Max Pensky (mpensky@binghamton.edu).

You may add additional files/documents after uploading your resume. After you fill out your contact information, you will be directed to the upload page. Please login to check/edit your profile or to upload additional documents: <https://binghamton.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=92541>

The State University of New York is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. As required by title IX and its implementing regulations Binghamton University does not discriminate on the basis of sex in the educational programs and activities which it operates. This requirement extends to employment and admission. Inquiries about sex discrimination may be directed to the University Title IX Coordinator or directly to the Office of Civil Rights (OCR). Contact information for the Title IX Coordinator and OCR, as well as the University's complete Non-Discrimination Notice may be found here: <https://www.binghamton.edu/diversity-equity-inclusion/policies/title-ix.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/22/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3903

University of Alabama, Huntsville

Rank: Eminent Scholar in Global Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration

Specializations: India, Central Asia, Economic Policy

The College of Business at The University of Alabama in Huntsville invites applications and nominations for an Eminent Scholar in Global Studies. The Global Studies Eminent Scholar is expected to be a visible leader in international affairs, international business policy, and/or economic development. This individual will lead efforts within the university and community to conduct research, influence policy, and develop programs with the goal of improving international business, trade, and cultural relationships, with an emphasis on security cooperation. Expertise on India and other countries on the Silk Road is critical to the success of the individual. The candidate is expected to be active in scholarly research and policy development, to conduct externally funded projects, and to engage in outreach with government agencies located at Redstone Arsenal and other similar locations.

We seek applicants who welcome the challenges and rewards of serving on a diverse and intellectually curious faculty of a growing college in a research intensive university located in a dynamic and supportive high technology community. A Ph.D. in Business, International Business or Economics, or a related discipline, with experience in security cooperation and policy development is required. A Ph.D. from an AACSB accredited institution and eligibility to hold Personnel Security Clearance are preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to develop academic programs and educational opportunities in global studies and security cooperation. In addition to a strong commitment to work with the security cooperation industry and government agencies, the successful candidate must be able to teach graduate and undergraduate students and mentor graduate students and junior faculty.

The Eminent Scholar in Global Studies must have a strong academic background, must be an internationally known researcher in international affairs, international business, and/or economic development, and must be committed to a continuing program of scholarship. In addition, the preferred candidate will have a background in or working knowledge of Department of State security cooperation activities and policies, and have familiarity with the policies and economic development, international business, and international relations of India and other countries on the Silk Road. Candidates need to have an understanding of the Civil Service Career Program (CP60) Field (foreign affairs track). Depending on qualifications, the Eminent Scholar may be appointed at the rank of Associate Professor with tenure or Professor with tenure. Depending on the interests and background of the candidate, this position may be a joint position with the Department of Political Science in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.

ABOUT THE COLLEGE: The College of Business is accredited by AACSB International and has approximately 30 tenured and tenure-track faculty, 35 research and part-time faculty, and 1,000 undergraduates and 400 graduate students. It offers a BSBA degree with majors in management, marketing, information systems, accounting, and finance; a BS in Economics and Computational Analysis degree; and seven graduate degrees: an MBA and specialized masters' degrees in Accounting, Business Analytics, Cybersecurity, Human Resource Management, Information Systems, and Supply Chain and Logistics Management. Recent publications by our faculty members have appeared in journals such as Science, the Academy of Management Journal, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Scheduling, Marketing Science, MIS Quarterly, Operations Research, Organization Science, Strategic Management Journal, and The Accounting Review. For detailed information about the college and its programs, please visit uah.edu/business.

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY: The University of Alabama in Huntsville, classified as a High Research Active institution, offers academic and research programs in the Colleges of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, Business, Education, Engineering, Nursing, Professional and Continuing Studies, and Science. The University is located in the midst of a high technology community consisting of the second largest industrial research park in the U.S. and is adjacent to Redstone Arsenal, which is home to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, the Missile Defense Agency, the Army Materiel Command, and the Aviation and Missile Command. For more information about UAH, see uah.edu/about.

ABOUT THE CITY OF HUNTSVILLE: The Huntsville area is a culturally diverse community and maintains one of the highest per capita incomes and standards of living in the southeast. Known as the "Rocket City," Huntsville has a major presence of technology, space, and defense industries, which allows the city to offer a variety of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. Located in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, Huntsville/Madison County is a diversified high-tech economy and is rich in cultural and recreational activities with a thriving music and arts scene. The population of the metropolitan area is over 400,000 and growing. Huntsville's Cummings Research Park is the country's second largest research and technology park, containing nearly 300 companies employing 29,000 people involved in technology research and development. Huntsville has a high concentration of Ph.D.'s, engineers, and STEM workers, and is recognized as a leading technology city with a rapidly expanding and diverse corporate ecosystem that is rich in innovation. Several museums and historic sites can be found in Huntsville, including the Huntsville Museum of Art, the Burritt Museum and Park, the EarlyWorks Children's Museum, the Alabama Constitution Village, the Huntsville Botanical Gardens, Monte Sano State Park, and the U.S. Space and Rocket Center. A vibrant downtown entertainment district, including Broadway and symphony performances, contribute to Huntsville's vibrant cultural life. For more information about Huntsville and its convenient location to Nashville, Birmingham, and Atlanta, please visit huntsville.org.

Applicants must submit the following via email to GSscholarsearch@uah.edu: a letter of nomination or application; a curriculum vitae, summary of current research interests (2-4 pages), teaching philosophy (1-2 pages), and names and affiliations for three references. Formal review of applications will begin February 2, 2018. Receipt and review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

For questions or additional information, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Jeet Gupta via e-mail (GSscholarsearch@uah.edu) or via telephone at 256-824-6593.

The University of Alabama in Huntsville is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer of minorities/ females/ veterans/ disabled.

Please refer to Log #18/19-116

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3880

Valdosta State University

Rank: Department Head

Valdosta State University seeks qualified applicants for a fiscal (12-month) administrative faculty position in the Department of Political Science to serve as the department head. Position is tenure earning and rank is dependent upon credentials. Reporting directly to the Dean of the College, the department head is responsible for the overall day to day functions of the Political Science Department. This includes, but is not limited to:

- ?
- Hiring, managing and evaluating faculty members within the department.?
- Conducting periodic Departmental meetings.?
- Scheduling classes and sections for each faculty member in each academic semester.
- Advising, scheduling, overseeing internships and providing overrides, where appropriate, for students during the academic year.?

- Teaching required courses during the academic year.
- Conducting required research during the academic year.
- Attending required conferences, including those associated with academic presentations during the academic year.
- Participating in Executive Committee meetings during the academic year.
- Attending monthly University Department Head meetings.?
- Serves as Budget Manager for the departmental budget.

Required qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field; a demonstrated leadership abilities in managing personnel, budgets, and administrative duties; meets qualifications for tenure and appointment as associate professor or professor; a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching and learning, as well as scholarship; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Online application is required and should be submitted to <https://valdosta.peopleadmin.com/postings/15327>. Deadline for submission is February 1, 2018. For more information on the position contact Dr. Ross, Search Chair, via email dross@valdosta.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 12/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3867

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor – POSITION STILL AVAILABLE -- DEADLINE EXTENDED

Political Science: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor – POSITION STILL AVAILABLE -- DEADLINE EXTENDED. The position will begin in the 2018-19 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major in Public Administration and courses for the MA program and have substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis; develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching, including the introduction to Public Administration and other advanced courses that contribute to the public administration major; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; take part in the undergraduate major in public administration, teach related courses for the MA program, contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with a specialty and/or an active research agenda in nonprofit organizations and have a background in quantitative methodology and "big data."

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4587>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin January 31, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3860

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position in public policy or public administration beginning August 2018. The appointment is renewable based on funding, need, performance, and mutual agreement; this position also may be converted to tenure track based on enrollment growth in the Department's programs. The teaching load for this position is nine hours (three courses) per semester.

The position is open with regard to specialization. Successful candidates will be able to offer courses for the department's undergraduate program in political science and its NASPAA-accredited master's degree program in public administration; evidence of a promising research agenda in topics related to public administration and/or public policy is also essential. A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or public administration is expected at the time of the appointment.

Preference will be given to applications received by January 31, 2018, but applicants will be considered until the position is filled. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/2963 and upload 1) a letter of application to include research agenda and teaching interests and philosophy, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) graduate transcript (official transcript is required at time of appointment), 4) one writing sample, 5) teaching evaluations and sample syllabi; and 6) a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Visiting Assistant Professor Search Committee
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
Auburn University at Montgomery
P.O. Box 244023
Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers a bachelor's and master's degree in political science, a master's degree in public administration, and a Ph.D. in public administration and public policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3833

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

Position 2: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

TENURE TRACK FACULTY POSITION-The Governance of Emerging Technologies

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Public Policy, Public Administration

Area of Expertise: Science and Technology

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Public Policy and Governance of Emerging Technologies starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a solid track record of monographs and articles in top-tier peer-reviewed international journals, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. He/she will also have acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving, and show passion for institution building, and desire to have a strong impact on society.

He/she is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses on the political, social, and economic challenges and opportunities brought by new technological trends such as Big Data, Digitalization, Automation, and Artificial Intelligence. He/she should know the current state of these technologies and reflect on their implications for governments, the private sector, educational systems and society.

He/she should also be willing to collaborate with the IE's Center for the Governance of Change, a newly created institution that seeks to enhance our ability to understand, anticipate, and manage technological innovation and its externalities in a variety of domains – political, economic, and societal. This collaboration will include the organization of academic events and the securing and management of research grants in his/her area. Experience in policy-making and consulting of governments, tech companies, and international organizations will be advantages.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Governance of Emerging Technologies to IESIR2@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3785

University of North Carolina, Wilmington

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public and International Affairs

Summary of Position

The Department of Public and International Affairs (PIA) at the University of North Carolina Wilmington (UNCW) invites applications for a position as a tenure-track assistant professor to play a role in our Master of Public Administration (MPA) Program. This position requires an active research program and carries a 3-3 teaching load. The candidate will teach primarily in the Master of Public Administration program but may also contribute to one or more of the other PIA programs: the undergraduate major in political science, the Master of Coastal and Ocean Policy (MCOP) program, and/or our Master of Conflict Management and Resolution (CMR) program.

Minimum Requirements

The successful candidate must be able to teach one of the core MPA courses (e.g., budgeting, human resources management) and contribute to one of the MPA concentrations in Public Management, Non-profit Management, Public Policy, etc. A doctorate in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, or a closely related field is required. ABD candidates will be considered, however, the candidate must complete their doctorate prior to starting the position in August 2018.

Preferred Qualifications

The preferred candidate will be able to teach more than one of the core MPA courses and/or contribute to more than one of the MPA concentrations. Prior professional experience and prior teaching experience are desirable. A willingness to teach courses using online and distance education technologies and alternative scheduling formats is desired. Additional information about the PIA department and the MPA program can be found at <http://uncw.edu/pia/> and <http://uncw.edu/mpa/>.

Primary Function of Organizational Unit

The Department of Public and International Affairs supports the Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and several minors: International Affairs, Nonprofit Management and Leadership, Political Science, Pre-Law, Public Administration, and Security Studies. At the graduate level, faculty support courses in the Master of Public Administration, Master of Arts in Conflict Management and Resolution, and Master of Coastal and Ocean Policy.

College/School Information

At UNCW, the College of Arts and Sciences provides the vital foundation for the university's pursuit of excellence. Through our teaching, we educate students for lives of fulfillment in the twenty-first century. Through our research, we advance the state of knowledge and creativity in the arts and sciences. And through our outreach, we improve the quality of life in Southeastern North Carolina and beyond.

University Information

The University of North Carolina Wilmington, the state's coastal university, is dedicated to learning through the integration of teaching and mentoring with research and service. A public institution with over 15,000 students, the university is known for its superb faculty and staff and powerful academic experience. With an array of high-quality programs at the baccalaureate and master's levels, and doctoral programs in marine biology, educational leadership, psychology and nursing practice. UNCW is consistently recognized at a national level for academic excellence and affordability by publications like U.S. News & World Report, Kiplinger's Personal Finance and The Business Journals. UNCW also recently earned the 2015 Community Engagement Classification from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, bestowed to higher education institutions dedicated to community involvement.

EEO Statement

UNC Wilmington actively fosters a diverse and inclusive working and learning environment and is an equal opportunity employer. Qualified persons from all racial, ethnic or other minority groups, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Priority Consideration Information

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by January 01, 2018; however, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Position details and full applicant instructions can be found at <https://jobs.uncw.edu/postings/9783>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3731

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, AL, invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. The successful candidate will become a core faculty member in the Master of Public Administration Program, and will also be expected to teach undergraduate public policy and administration courses. Although applicants from all disciplines of public administration who demonstrate excellence in research and teaching are encouraged to apply, we are particularly interested in those with teaching and research interests in either public budgeting, human resources, or quantitative methods. A completed Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, political science, or related discipline is required for appointment at the level of Assistant Professor.

The University of Alabama is the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system, enrolling over 38,000 students. Its Department of Political Science has 18 faculty members and offers a Masters of Public Administration degree, along with a B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degree in Political Science.

To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41898> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, a transcript of graduate work, samples of publications and papers, and teaching evaluations, if available. Send three letters of recommendation directly to: Public Administration Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Alabama, Box 870213, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrik@ua.edu (please state the position in the email). For more information, contact James Gerard Caillier, Search Committee Chair, at jgcaillier@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on January 15, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3616

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together.

Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

PUBLIC LAW

University of Maine

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maine invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic-year faculty position in Political Theory and U.S. Constitutional Law at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of September 1, 2018.

Responsibilities and Duties: This position includes teaching, research, and service. The faculty member will maintain a productive research program. The standard teaching load is 2/3, with a mix of introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses. Teaching and service responsibilities include holding regular office hours, advising students on their course of study, aiding them in the registration process, advising students in pre-law and the interdisciplinary minor in Legal Studies, developing relationships with the Maine legal community, and participating actively in the internal governance of the department and representing it in interactions with the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and university communities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.

Qualifications: We are interested in hiring a broadly trained political theorist who can teach courses in the history of political thought and contemporary political theory as well as on U.S. constitutional law and related topics. Additional requirements include evidence of ability for success in university-level teaching and evidence of ability to develop and pursue a research agenda, including peer-reviewed publications, in the candidate's area of expertise. ABDs may apply but a Ph.D. in Political Science or equivalent field is required by the start of the position.

Application: Applicants should submit a letter of application describing their credentials and experience relative to the qualifications above, a current C.V., official or unofficial graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations, a one page teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. Additional information, such as official transcripts, course syllabi, and writing samples may be requested at a later time. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by February 10, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Incomplete applications cannot be considered. Appropriate background checks will be required. Applicants should submit applications electronically to: <https://umaine.hiretouch.com>. Letters of Reference should be emailed to polisci@maine.edu. Specific questions may be addressed to Amy Fried, Professor and Chair, Department of Political Science, amyfried@maine.edu, 207-581-1797.

We are a faculty that values work-life balance and particularly maintaining a productively collegial workplace. The greater Bangor-Orono area offers access to a wealth of outdoor activities, a thriving cultural scene, and is close to Bar Harbor, Acadia National Park, and Portland. The University of Maine is the flagship campus of the University of Maine System. It is the state's land grant and sea grant university, enrolling over 11,000 students. The Department offers a BA degree. Further information about the Department can be found at <https://umaine.edu/polisci/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. The Department of Political Science encourages applications from a diverse pool of applicants.

On January 1, 2011, UMaine became a tobacco-free campus. Information regarding UMaine's tobacco-free policy is online at <http://umaine.edu/tobaccofree/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3958

ETH Zurich

Rank: Post-Doc -- Law, Economics, & Data Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Communication, Judicial Politics

The Center for Law and Economics, ETH Zurich, invites applications for Postdoctoral Researchers. The newly established research group, headed by Professor Elliott Ash, JD/PhD (elliottash.com), conducts empirical research on legal and political institutions using tools at the intersection of economics and data science. We are looking for postdoc applicants holding a PhD in empirical social science (e.g. economics, political science) or data science (e.g. computer science, machine learning, computational linguistics), with research interests in this area.

The research focus is on representing legal and political language as statistical data using tools from natural language processing, and then recovering causal relations between language and outcomes in society and the economy. The postdocs will be involved in all aspects of the research, including project planning, research design, data analysis, presentation of findings at conferences, and preparation of manuscripts for submission to leading peer-reviewed journals. Postdocs will have the opportunity to co-author papers with lab colleagues, work with an array of affiliated faculty from ETH and University of Zurich, and develop independent projects related to these research areas. Organizational and teaching duties are limited to a few hours per week. Our offices are located in downtown Zurich, and the working language is English.

The appointment will be for at least one year and up to three years (contingent on satisfactory performance), with flexible starting date beginning July 2018. Salaries are internationally competitive, paid according to ETH standards (<https://www.ethz.ch/en/the-eth-zurich/working-teaching-and-research/working-conditions/employment-and-salary.html>).

The ideal candidate will have, at the time of appointment, completed a PhD in empirical social science (e.g. economics, political science), data science (e.g. computer science, machine learning, computational linguistics), or related fields. Social science applicants should have graduate-level expertise in causal inference research design, data management, and data analysis. Data science applicants should have graduate-level expertise in natural language processing and machine learning. Excellent English writing skills are essential.

For further information about the position, please contact Prof. Elliott Ash by email at e@elliottash.com. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design, data analysis, and/or machine prediction exercise (as appropriate to expertise) as part of the interview process. Application review will begin on February 1, 2018 and continue until the positions are filled.

Apply Here: <https://apply.refine.ch/845721/5895/index.html?cid=1&lang=en>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 4/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/5/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 3904

University of Wyoming

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Wyoming's School of Politics, Public Affairs, and International Studies invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science with expertise in Public Law beginning August 2018.

Minimum qualifications are a PHD in political science or related field and the ability to teach courses in judicial process, constitutional law, civil liberties and civil rights, and other upper-division/graduate courses related to the study of law. Desired qualifications are the ability to teach introductory American government; the ability to contribute other courses to the Political Science curriculum; the ability to mentor students as undergraduate and graduate students, and in preparation for attending law school; the ability to supervise internships; and a JD degree in addition to the PHD degree.

Interested individuals must complete on-line application at:

https://jobs.uwyo.edu/psp/EREC/UWEXTERNAL/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&SiteId=6&JobOpeningId=9279&PostingSeq=1

A completed application includes uploading the following as one PDF document: Letter of application that includes a statement of teaching interests and experience, and statement of research agenda; current CV; list of graduate courses or a graduate transcript; and contact information for at least three work-related references. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

The School of Politics, Public Affairs, and International Studies offers bachelor's degrees in Political Science and International Studies and master's degrees in Political Science, International Studies, and Public Administration. Political Science majors pursue a variety of career interests with a plurality having the goal of attending law school. SPPAIS faculty members are drawn from diverse academic backgrounds, utilize a variety of approaches in teaching and scholarly activity, and collaborate with faculty in other academic units.

The University of Wyoming is located in Laramie, a town of 30,000 in the heart of the Rocky Mountain West. The state of Wyoming continues to invest in its university, helping to make it a leader in academics, research and outreach. The university has state-of-the-art facilities in many areas and the community provides the advantages of a major university.

Located in a high mountain valley near the Colorado border, Laramie offers both outstanding recreational opportunities and close proximity to Colorado's Front Range, a bustling group of metropolitan cities including Denver, Boulder, and Fort Collins. This beautiful mountain landscape offers outdoor enjoyment in all seasons, with over 300 days of sunshine annually. For more information about the region, please visit <http://visitlaramie.org/>

The University of Wyoming is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status or any other characteristic protected by law and University policy. To review the EEO is the Law Poster and its Supplement, please see The Diversity & Fairness page. Pursuant to Wyoming State law, W.S. 19-14-102, as amended, an honorably discharged veteran who has been a resident of the state of

Wyoming for one (1) year or more at any time prior to the date when the veteran applies for employment, or any surviving spouse who was married to such veteran at the time of the veteran's death, who is receiving federal survivor benefits based on the veteran's military service and is applying for employment, shall receive an interview preference during the applicant screening process with the University of Wyoming. At the time of application the applicant must possess the business capacity, competency, education or other qualifications required for the position. If disabilities do not materially interfere with performance of job duties, disabled veterans will be given preference over able-bodied veterans. Appropriate documentation of veteran status must be provided at time of application as outlined in the application process. No preference will be given to a veteran currently employed by a public department.

We conduct background investigations for all final candidates being considered for employment. Offers of employment are contingent upon the completion of the background check.

Applicants with disabilities may request accommodation to complete the application and selection process. Please notify Human Resources at least three (3) working days prior to the date of need.

Questions regarding the position can be directed to Jim King, search committee chair, at jking@uwyo.edu or 307-766-6484.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3865

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for an assistant professor position in political theory and law beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level classes in political theory and public law and contribute to the department's Politics, Philosophy, and Law (PPLW) concentration. The PPLW concentration allows focused attention on theoretical issues related to the law, so the ability to offer classes in jurisprudence, legal theory, or constitutional law would be particularly welcome. A PhD in Political Science or a related field is required. Primary teaching and advising responsibilities will be in the undergraduate political science program, and the teaching load is six courses per academic year. The College of Charleston is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 1,100 graduate students. The Political Science Department has 21 fulltime faculty, approximately 320 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program. The College is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. Additional information about the institution and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>. Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter, a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references. Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Claire Curtis (curtisc@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin December 16, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The College of Charleston is an AA/EO employer and strongly encourages women and minority candidates to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3798

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3759

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/9/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3760

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Comparative Law and Courts
Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Economic, Political, and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas (UTD) invites applications for a full-time, open rank tenure-track position beginning in August of 2018 in the Political Science Program. Candidates at the associate or full rank are preferred, although advanced assistants will be considered. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory undergraduate comparative law course, specialized upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, and to be involved with the pre-law administrative team. Possible specializations might include: human rights, cyberlaw, comparative and foreign law, or trade law, among others. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.

The University of Texas at Dallas is a fast-growing, suburban research university and has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public university in Texas. UTD is ranked 1st among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine and is classified by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education as R1 (Highest Research Activity). The Political Science program currently has approximately 60 graduate students and 250 undergraduate majors.

Faculty typically teach two courses per semester, and opportunities for leave become available after a successful third-year review.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue through January 31, 2018. Position starts in August 2018.

Apply at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/8997>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3740

Missouri Southern State University

Rank: Master Instructor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Methodology
Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

Seeking an Master Instructor to teach on campus in the area(s) of introductory American Government, public law, as well as supervise the MSSU Mock Trial program. Must have a Master's degree in the related discipline area, (PhD preferred). Certification in certain fields may also be accepted depending on subject matter. Employment will require a background check. E-verify participating employer. Applicant materials include a letter of application, curriculum vitae with the names, addresses, email and phone numbers of three references, and unofficial transcripts. Submit materials at www.mssu.edu/jobs. Official transcripts are required within 45 days of hire. Review of applicant materials begins immediately and will continue until the position(s) has been filled. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3721

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3436

PUBLIC POLICY

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professors in International Affairs/Comparative Politics

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (National University of Singapore), a premier public policy institution in Asia, invites applications for full-time tenure track positions at the Assistant and Associate Professor level in International Relations/Comparative Politics. Candidates are expected to demonstrate evidence of a high level of competence in theoretically sound, empirically grounded policy-relevant research in International Relations/Comparative Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who work on (A) International Political Economy; (B) Global Governance; and (C) The International Relations of ASEAN/Southeast Asia. For positions (A) and (B), applicants whose research and writing focus on Asia will have an advantage. The School is interested in candidates with a strong commitment to publishing at the highest level and would particularly welcome applications with a demonstrated record of research excellence. The School has just launched a new 2-year Master in International Affairs (MIA) and it is keen to hire faculty who will contribute energetically to the new programme.

Candidates should possess the following: a PhD degree in the relevant discipline; have a commitment to research and teaching excellence; and an ability to engage with policy and research communities in Asia and around the world.

Application Procedure

Applicants should submit, in electronic form (MS Word or PDF file), the following:

- Cover note
 - Detailed curriculum vitae
 - Names of three references
 - Brief statement of past and current research
 - Top 5 publications
 - Three courses that you would be interested in teaching (please refer to <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/admissions/> for the list of courses)
- Those who have a teaching record should submit the following as well:
- Teaching dossier including teaching evaluations (for those who have a teaching record)
 - Representative samples of course outlines (for those who have a teaching record)

Please send the electronic submission to Ms Laura Lim, lkysppjoi-nus@nus.edu.sg.

Applicants may submit hard copies to the following address:

Ms Laura Lim
Senior Associate Director, Human Resources
Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy
National University of Singapore
469C Bukit Timah Road
Singapore 259772

The deadline for applications is Feb 15, 2018. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified and it is possible that interviews will be held at the International Studies Association Annual Meeting in San Francisco in April. Interested candidates are encouraged to find out more about the National University of Singapore and the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy at <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/15/2018

Date Posted: 1/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3969

Aarhus University

Rank: Full professorship in leadership in the healthcare sector

Full professorship in leadership in the healthcare sector 957037

Department of Political Science at Aarhus BSS, Aarhus University invites applications for a full professorship with special focus on research in leadership in healthcare organizations.

Job description

The professorship is part of a major investment in scholarship that is relevant for improvements in public leadership, and the new professor will be part of a team that aims to make the public sector better through excellent research, strong leader development and continuous dialogue with practitioners. We are dedicated to excellence in leadership education, application and scholarship, and we are improving public organizations both nationally and internationally through research, teaching and dissemination. We are looking for eminent candidates who can develop our research, education and societal impact.

The professorship has been made possible by a substantial donation from the novo Nordisk Foundation that will allow the professor to hire a research team focused on leadership in healthcare.

The professor will be part of the very strong Public Administration section at Department of Political Science, Aarhus University. We collaborate with other disciplines at Aarhus University (Management, Economics, Psychology etc.), with national and international scholars from other universities, and with our colleagues from other sections at the department (for example Comparative Politics, Public Policy and Political Sociology).

The position is permanent. Key tasks are research, dissemination and teaching focused on healthcare leadership and management. The professor is expected to participate in seminars, workshops, examination and supervision of students at the department in general and in the Public Administration section in particular.

The successful candidate is expected to take up appointment as soon as possible after assessment.

Your qualifications

Applicants should have a strong academic background and demonstrate significant contributions to developments in the field. The applicant's potential for undertaking research, teaching and dissemination related to leadership in healthcare is especially important, but we also welcome applicants with a general leadership/management profile combined with an interest in the healthcare sector. The essential qualifications are thus:

- A proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by a strong international reputation and recognized articles in top international journals.
- A track record of excellence in teaching in leadership, public administration and/or management.
- A clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications as well as a commitment to innovate teaching and dissemination.
- A track record of good citizenship in the wider academic community combined with commitment to contribute to a vibrant work environment in the whole department.
- Commitment to share insights and knowledge in the public debate, take societal responsibility and prioritize dialogue with practitioners.
- Experience with or commitment to teaching that gives students real-life competences as well as the ability to reflect critically on the world and its problems.
- The ability and willingness to attract external research funding.

Non-Danish speakers are required to attain reasonable knowledge of the Danish language within max. three years. The department will grant time off from teaching to attend Danish courses during the first two years of employment.

Permanent employment as professor at Aarhus BSS requires completion of the supervision course and also the course Blended Learning – Go Online provided by Centre for Teaching and Learning at Aarhus BSS. If you have not completed the courses before commencement of employment, continued employment will be conditional on completion of the courses within a five year period.

Who we are

The Department of Political Science is one of the six departments at Aarhus BSS and one of the four faculties at Aarhus University. Aarhus BSS unites the business and social science-related research fields and brings them closer together to reflect the close relationship between society and the business community. As part of a Top 100 university Aarhus BSS has achieved the distinguished AACSB, AMBA and Equis accreditations.

At the Department of Political Science, we emphasise a dynamic and flexible research and teaching profile characterised by pluralism and openness. With around 90 academic staff members and 40 PhD students, we offer a lively and ambitious research and teaching environment.

The research carried out at the department not only covers a variety of political science disciplines, but also represents a variety of methodological approaches. This not only enables us to focus on new problem areas as they appear on the national and international political arenas, but also allows us to contribute actively to the development of the discipline. We also emphasise communicating our research results to the political-administrative system and to the public in general.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit: <http://ps.au.dk/en/>

Further information

For further information about the position, please contact: Head of department, Professor Peter Munk Christiansen, phone +45 30115340, email: pmc@ps.au.dk

If you need help uploading your application or have any questions about the recruitment process, please contact HR supporter Mette Fisker Præstegaard, Tel.: +45 871 52497, email: mfp@au.dk

International applicant? Aarhus University offers a broad variety of services for international researchers and accompanying families, including relocation service and career counselling to expat partners. Please find more information about entering and working in Denmark here and here.

Place of work

Department of Political Science, Aarhus BSS, Aarhus University, Bartholins Allé 7, 8000 Aarhus C

Terms of employment

The appointment is in accordance with the Memorandum on Job Structure for Academic Staff at Danish Universities as well as the circular on the Collective Agreement for Academics Employed by the State.

The job content and qualification requirements are described in further detail in Circular on Terms of Employment for Academic Staff at Universities.

Application procedure

It is obligatory to attach the following when you apply for this position:

- Application
- Curriculum Vitae. You are encouraged to declare any periods of leave without research activity, including, for example, maternity leave, since your research activities are assessed in relation to your actual research time
- Education (diploma for master's, PhD and possibly higher doctoral degree)
- List of publications (the enclosed publications must be clearly marked on the list of publications)
- Publications. Up to 10 publications can be included in the application. In the event of several authors the publications must be accompanied by a co-author statement concerning the applicant's share of the collaborative work with the consent of the co-authors. This form can be used for the purpose
- Teaching portfolio. The specific requirements regarding the documentation can be found here

Materials which cannot be uploaded together with the application may be submitted in five copies to Aarhus BSS HR & PhD, Aarhus University, Tåsingevej 1, 2nd floor, DK-8000 Aarhus C.

Read more about how to apply for an academic post at Aarhus BSS here.

The evaluation process

After the application deadline, an assessment committee is appointed. Please note that the assessment of applicants is based solely on the material received prior to the application deadline. For further information, see Guidelines for Assessment Committee, Aarhus BSS.

Read more about Aarhus BSS' professorship policy here.

All interested candidates are encouraged to apply regardless of personal background.

Deadline

All applications must be made online and received by:
03/04/2018

Please apply online here:

<http://www.au.dk/en/about/vacant-positions/scientific-positions/stillinger/Vacancy/show/957037/5283/>

Top

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 4/3/2018

Date Posted: 1/19/2018

Salary: $110,000 - $119,999

eJobs ID: 3960

Alma College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor in US Politics and History

Alma College in Alma, Michigan invites applications for a one-year visiting assistant professor position in U.S. political science and history, beginning in August 2018, with the possibility of renewal for a second year. The successful candidate will teach six courses in American politics and history, equally divided between the Departments of History and Political Science. We especially welcome candidates who can contribute to inter-disciplinary programs, such as Public Affairs and Policy, Environmental Studies, etc. A Ph.D. in U.S. political science or history (with the qualifications to teach the other field) is required by August 2018.

Review of applications will begin on March 5, 2018. Please e-mail all application materials to Barbara Tripp (tripp@alma.edu)

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Transcripts
- Teaching Statement
- Contact Information for three references

A Phi Beta Kappa institution, Alma is a selective, baccalaureate liberal arts college committed to academic excellence and an equal opportunity employer committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty, staff and student body. For more information about the College, visit www.alma.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3963

Columbia University

Rank: Lecturer in Discipline - Comparative Politics, Policy Making and Political Development

Lecturer in Discipline

Comparative Politics, Policy-making and Political Development

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track, renewable for up to 3 years, position of Lecturer in Discipline in the fields of political development and in comparative politics and policy-making, to begin July 1, 2018.

Candidates must have a demonstrated record of accomplishment in teaching, research and/or practice related to comparative politics and policy-making and political development. Research interests or practice should be policy-relevant. Master's degree or equivalent degree required. Ph.D. and/or relevant professional experience at senior level strongly preferred.

Applicants should be qualified to teach courses related to comparative politics, policy analysis, policy-making and political development in demanding Master's degree programs in international and public affairs. There also is a strong preference for candidates who have demonstrated success in teaching large lecture courses with a writing intensive focus. A major component of the lecturer's instructional responsibilities include teaching policy analysis and policy memo-writing to Master's students as part of a required course on policy-making in comparative context.

Please visit our online application site at:

<https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65750>

for further information about this position and to submit your application.

Screening of the candidates will begin as soon as possible. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@sipa.columbia.edu.

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs brings together an interdisciplinary faculty to conduct research in policy-related fields and train students at the master's and doctoral level for careers in global public policy.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of SIPA's academic community. Applications from women and underrepresented minorities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3956

University of Chicago

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher

The Harris School of Public Policy seeks postdoctoral researchers in political economy. Postdoctoral researchers work on independent research under a senior faculty member's guidance, teach 2 quarter-length courses per year, and participate in the academic life of the school (including attending workshops and seminars). The position of postdoctoral researcher at the rank of instructor is initially for a one-year, renewable term.

Candidates are required to have their PhD and a demonstrated record of research achievement. Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, and two letters of recommendation at <https://tinyurl.com/ydghfkg6>. Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2018. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2018.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 6/30/2018

Date Posted: 1/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3883

University of Nevada, Las Vegas - UNLV

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow, UNLV Women's Research Institute of Nevada

The University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applications for Postdoctoral Research Fellow, UNLV Women's Research Institute of Nevada, College of Liberal Arts [R0106845]

PROFILE of the UNIVERSITY

UNLV is a doctoral-degree-granting institution of approximately 29,000 students and more than 3,000 faculty and staff that is classified by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as a research university with high research activity. UNLV offers a broad range of respected academic programs and is on a path to join the top tier of national public research universities. The university is committed to recruiting and retaining top students and faculty, educating the region's diversifying population and workforce, driving economic activity through increased research and community partnerships, and creating an academic health center for Southern Nevada that includes the launch of a new UNLV School of Medicine. UNLV is located on a 332-acre main campus and two satellite campuses in Southern Nevada. For more information, visit us on line at: <http://www.unlv.edu>

COMMITMENT to DIVERSITY

The successful candidate will demonstrate support for diversity, equity and inclusiveness as well as participate in maintaining a respectful, positive work environment.

ROLE of the POSITION

This Postdoctoral Research Fellow is expected to pursue research on major Women's Research Institute of Nevada initiatives under the supervision of Dr. Rebecca Gill. Among these initiatives is the Status of Women in Nevada report, which involves assembling and analyzing secondary data and original survey research. Functioning somewhat independently, the Fellow will engage in research activities related to these initiatives, including designing survey research instruments, collecting and analyzing data, and presenting results and writing reports for scholarly and lay audiences. This position will also provide experience with grant writing, research budgeting, and the supervision of research staff.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires a Ph.D. in sociology, political science, psychology, public policy, applied statistics, or related field from a regionally accredited college or university.

SALARY RANGE

Salary competitive with those at similarly situated institutions. Position is contingent upon funding.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin on February 1, 2018 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Dr. Rebecca Gill, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted online (<https://www.unlv.edu/jobs>) as we do not accept emailed materials. For assistance with the application process, please contact UNLV Human Resources at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

INTERNAL APPLICANTS ONLY

UNLV employees or employees within the Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) MUST use the "Find Jobs" process within Workday to find and apply for jobs at UNLV and other NSHE Institutions. Once you log into Workday, type "Find Jobs" in the search box which will navigate to the internal job posting site. Locate this specific job posting by typing the requisition number, "R0106845" in the search box.

If you complete an application outside of the internal application process, your application will be returned and you will have to reapply as an internal applicant which may delay your application.

UNLV is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action educator and employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to, among other things, race, color, religion, sex, age, creed, national origin, veteran status, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, or any other factor protected by anti-discrimination laws. The University of Nevada, Las Vegas employs only United States citizens and non-citizens lawfully authorized to work in the United States. Women, under-represented groups, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/y6xsvdb7w7bzv9n4>

PI100823096

Start Date:

Date Posted: 1/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3948

Koç University

Rank: ERC FUNDED POST-DOCTORAL POSITION AT KOÇ UNIVERSITY

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Social Welfare, Developing Nations

The Department of Sociology, Koç University, Istanbul, is currently inviting applications for a post-doctoral researcher position. The successful candidate will work with Assistant Professor Erdem Yörük on his European Research Council (ERC)-funded project on the politics of welfare in emerging market economies.

The project investigates the political causes of welfare state development in emerging market economies (please see emw.ku.edu.tr and the brief summary of the project below). The project is building two databases: (i) welfare state database (the most comprehensive database in terms of countries, variables, and years covered), and (ii) protest events database on emerging markets (the creation of which employs artificial intelligence, machine learning, and natural language processing (NLP) methods on local news sources). The successful candidate is expected to conduct advanced quantitative analyses using these two databases, and other microdata sources, in order to test the hypotheses of the project.

Candidates with the following backgrounds are encouraged to apply: (i) PhD in a social science discipline (e.g. sociology, economics, political science, social policy, or public policy.), (ii) extensive knowledge and experience in quantitative research methods, (iii) interest in welfare state studies, social movements, political economy, comparative-historical sociology, and emerging markets.

The successful candidate is expected to:

- Have extensive knowledge and experience in advanced quantitative analysis, including time-series analysis, content analysis methods, and data cleaning and management operations.
- Have working knowledge of Stata and/or R statistical software packages.
- Have completed their PhD degree by the start date of the position.
- Work with other research team members to co-author research articles on the topics of the grant.
- Be comfortable working in an international environment and have no restrictions on travelling internationally.

The targeted start date of the position is September 2018. However, an earlier start date is negotiable. The initial term of the position is for a full year. Renewal of the position for up to three years is possible contingent on research productivity and continued substantive fit of the candidate. This is a full-time position with a competitive salary as well as additional benefits such as private health insurance and housing. Funding for conferences is available contingent on the relevance of the conference to the project. The position will not have any teaching responsibilities.

Please send your application electronically as a single pdf. file comprising your motivation letter, CV (including a list of publications), a writing sample which includes a quantitative empirical analysis, and two letters of recommendation to the Principal Investigator, Dr. Erdem Yörük: (send to both eryoruk@ku.edu.tr and emw@ku.edu.tr). The deadline for applications is February 28, 2018, but early applications are welcome.

The New Politics of Welfare: Towards an "Emerging Markets" Welfare State Regime (ERC Starting Grant)

This research project aims to identify a new welfare regime in emerging market economies and explain why it has emerged. The project will compare Brazil, China, India, Indonesia, Mexico, South Africa, and Turkey to test two hypotheses: (i) emerging market economies are forming a new welfare regime that differs from liberal, corporatist and social democratic welfare regimes of the global north on the basis of extensive and decommodifying social assistance programmes, (ii) the new welfare regime emerges principally as a response to the growing political power of the poor as a dual source of threat and support for governments. Based on a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective, the project follows a multi-method strategy that combines protest event data collection techniques, macro-historical methods, quantitative data analyses and qualitative content analysis.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/28/2018

Date Posted: 1/8/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3923

University of Oxford

Rank: Gwilym Gibbon Senior Research Fellow in British Policy and Politics

Gwilym Gibbon Senior Research Fellow in British Policy and Politics

Salary: GBP 86,000 to GBP 95,000 per annum

The Department of Politics and International Relations and Nuffield College at the University of Oxford seek to appoint a Gwilym Gibbon Senior Research Fellow in British Policy and Politics to provide intellectual leadership and to undertake world class research in British Policy and Politics. The successful candidate will be expected to establish the strategic direction of, and to lead, a major research programme in the field of British Policy and Politics; to provide vision and direction for research collaborators, colleagues and research students; to act as Director of the Gwilym Gibbon Centre for Public Policy at Nuffield College; and to play a full and active role in the academic life of the Department of Politics and International Relations and of Nuffield College.

The successful candidate for this post will be a distinguished scholar in the field of British Policy and Politics, with the ability to conduct internationally excellent research and to provide leadership in this research area. She or he will hold a doctorate in a relevant field and will have an outstanding publication record and excellent reputation in teaching and academic supervision, as well as proven ability and evidence of commitment to engagement with policymakers, practitioners and the public. It is expected that the successful candidate will operate at the level of professor in a top research university. On appointment, the Professorial title may be sought, if appropriate.

The post is full-time, permanent and tenable from 1 September 2018 or as soon as possible thereafter. An earlier start date could also be considered. The successful candidate will be based at Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations.

Further particulars, including information on the duties of the post, the selection criteria, and how to apply, are available from the College web page: https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/2407/srf_britishpolicy_fp.pdf or from the College Registrar, Email: academic.admin@nuffield.ox.ac.uk.

The deadline for applications is 12 noon (UK time) on Friday 9 February 2018.

Queries about the post should be addressed to the College's Warden, Sir Andrew Dilnot (andrew.dilnot@nuffield.ox.ac.uk) and/or Professor Desmond King (desmond.king@nuffield.ox.ac.uk). Queries about the application process should be addressed to the College's Academic Office at academic.admin@nuffield.ox.ac.uk (telephone: +44 (0) 1865 278516).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/9/2018

Date Posted: 1/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3920

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, Social Science. NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, International Relations
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Social Movements

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2018. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, research sample and three letters of reference, all in PDF format. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science September 22, 2017, sociology on November 1, 2017 and applications from economics December 1, 2017.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/20/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3898

Arizona State University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor Job Code #12239

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Thought: Historical, Religion & Politics

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-eligible position in Classical Liberal Education. Rank and tenure status will be commensurate with experience. The candidate will develop a new Master of Arts program in Classical Liberal Education and Leadership, with anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and reviving the nexus of classical liberal education and civic education.

The School is launching a Master of Arts degree for teachers and adult learners interested in deeper study of the Western intellectual tradition. The focus will be study of great works, debates, and themes of classical liberal education but an important theme will be civic questions of character and leadership. The program and its curriculum will be conducted partly through on-campus immersion in the summer and partly online during the academic year. As with any Arizona State University professor, the successful candidate will be expected to develop a research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, history, philosophy, classics, religion, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on an important work, theme, or area of the Western intellectual tradition; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: interest and ability to teach courses spanning the Western intellectual tradition and the recognized works and themes of classical liberal education; interest in study, teaching and discussion of civic education and leadership as a component of the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; experience with graduate teaching; experience with education programs for school teachers; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is January 30th, 2018; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: Classical Liberal Education Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Kent Wright; email: Kent.Wright@asu.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3881

University of Alabama, Huntsville

Rank: Eminent Scholar in Global Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration

Specializations: India, Central Asia, Economic Policy

The College of Business at The University of Alabama in Huntsville invites applications and nominations for an Eminent Scholar in Global Studies. The Global Studies Eminent Scholar is expected to be a visible leader in international affairs, international business policy, and/or economic development. This individual will lead efforts within the university and community to conduct research, influence policy, and develop programs with the goal of improving international business, trade, and cultural relationships, with an emphasis on security cooperation. Expertise on India and other countries on the Silk Road is critical to the success of the individual. The candidate is expected to be active in scholarly research and policy development, to conduct externally funded projects, and to engage in outreach with government agencies located at Redstone Arsenal and other similar locations.

We seek applicants who welcome the challenges and rewards of serving on a diverse and intellectually curious faculty of a growing college in a research intensive university located in a dynamic and supportive high technology community. A Ph.D. in Business, International Business or Economics, or a related discipline, with experience in security cooperation and policy development is required. A Ph.D. from an AACSB accredited institution and eligibility to hold Personnel Security Clearance are preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to develop academic programs and educational opportunities in global studies and security cooperation. In addition to a strong commitment to work with the security cooperation industry and government agencies, the successful candidate must be able to teach graduate and undergraduate students and mentor graduate students and junior faculty.

The Eminent Scholar in Global Studies must have a strong academic background, must be an internationally known researcher in international affairs, international business, and/or economic development, and must be committed to a continuing program of scholarship. In addition, the preferred candidate will have a background in or working knowledge of Department of State security cooperation activities and policies, and have familiarity with the policies and economic development, international business, and international relations of India and other countries on the Silk Road. Candidates need to have an understanding of the Civil Service Career Program (CP60) Field (foreign affairs track). Depending on qualifications, the Eminent Scholar may be appointed at the rank of Associate Professor with tenure or Professor with tenure. Depending on the interests and background of the candidate, this position may be a joint position with the Department of Political Science in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.

ABOUT THE COLLEGE: The College of Business is accredited by AACSB International and has approximately 30 tenured and tenure-track faculty, 35 research and part-time faculty, and 1,000 undergraduates and 400 graduate students. It offers a BSBA degree with majors in management, marketing, information systems, accounting, and finance; a BS in Economics and Computational Analysis degree; and seven graduate degrees: an MBA and specialized masters' degrees in Accounting, Business Analytics, Cybersecurity, Human Resource Management, Information Systems, and Supply Chain and Logistics Management. Recent publications by our faculty members have appeared in journals such as Science, the Academy of Management Journal, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of Scheduling, Marketing Science, MIS Quarterly, Operations Research, Organization Science, Strategic Management Journal, and The Accounting Review. For detailed information about the college and its programs, please visit uah.edu/business.

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY: The University of Alabama in Huntsville, classified as a High Research Active institution, offers academic and research programs in the Colleges of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, Business, Education, Engineering, Nursing, Professional and Continuing Studies, and Science. The University is located in the midst of a high technology community consisting of the second largest industrial research park in the U.S. and is adjacent to Redstone Arsenal, which is home to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, the Missile Defense Agency, the Army Materiel Command, and the Aviation and Missile Command. For more information about UAH, see uah.edu/about.

ABOUT THE CITY OF HUNTSVILLE: The Huntsville area is a culturally diverse community and maintains one of the highest per capita incomes and standards of living in the southeast. Known as the "Rocket City," Huntsville has a major presence of technology, space, and defense industries, which allows the city to offer a variety of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. Located in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, Huntsville/Madison County is a diversified high-tech economy and is rich in cultural and recreational activities with a thriving music and arts scene. The population of the metropolitan area is over 400,000 and growing. Huntsville's Cummings Research Park is the country's second largest research and technology park, containing nearly 300 companies employing 29,000 people involved in technology research and development. Huntsville has a high concentration of Ph.D.'s, engineers, and STEM workers, and is recognized as a leading technology city with a rapidly expanding and diverse corporate ecosystem that is rich in innovation. Several museums and historic sites can be found in Huntsville, including the Huntsville Museum of Art, the Burritt Museum and Park, the EarlyWorks Children's Museum, the Alabama Constitution Village, the Huntsville Botanical Gardens, Monte Sano State Park, and the U.S. Space and Rocket Center. A vibrant downtown entertainment district, including Broadway and symphony performances, contribute to Huntsville's vibrant cultural life. For more information about Huntsville and its convenient location to Nashville, Birmingham, and Atlanta, please visit huntsville.org.

Applicants must submit the following via email to GSScholarsearch@uah.edu: a letter of nomination or application; a curriculum vitae, summary of current research interests (2-4 pages), teaching philosophy (1-2 pages), and names and affiliations for three references. Formal review of applications will begin February 2, 2018. Receipt and review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

For questions or additional information, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Jeet Gupta via e-mail (GSScholarsearch@uah.edu) or via telephone at 256-824-6593.

The University of Alabama in Huntsville is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer of minorities/ females/ veterans/ disabled.

Please refer to Log #18/19-116

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3880

University of St. Gallen

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with a focus on Business and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

The University of St. Gallen, Switzerland, seeks to appoint an Assistant Professor of Political Science with a focus on Business and Politics

starting September 1st, 2018 or by mutual agreement

The University of St Gallen and its Department of Political Science invite outstanding candidates to apply for an assistant professorship in the field of Business and Politics.

We are looking for an excellent scholar with a specialization in empirical research on the role of private business actors in politics. This may include, among others, business-government relations; contributions about firms' roles in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals; the political effects of varying ownership of key infrastructures and natural resources; managerial preferences, corporate control, and political development; the link between corporate social responsibility and public policy (e.g., corruption, welfare, environment, security); governance by private actors; or industry self-regulation.

Applicants should have a doctorate in political science, a promising research agenda, strong quantitative methods skills, and a willingness to collaborate on research and teaching with scholars from other fields, notably business management and corporate governance.

The successful candidate is expected to undertake research of the highest international standards within his or her own field of specialization and to teach in English in the university's programmes in International Affairs and Governance (two classes per week during term).

The Department of Political Science is a member of the School of Economics and Political Science (SEPS) and offers excellent research conditions and a stimulating academic environment. Through its collaborations, research centres and exchange programmes, it maintains a wide international network. The SEPS is committed to promoting young scholars in their career advancement. The appointment is for a term of 6 years. Applications from qualified women are particularly welcome.

We seek to appoint the successful candidate per September 1st, 2018 or by mutual agreement. For further information, please contact Professor Patrick Emmenegger, Chairman of the Search Committee (Patrick.Emmenegger@unisg.ch).

Candidates should submit their application, that is a cover letter including a presentation of research interests and a statement on teaching strategy and philosophy, curriculum vitae, publications list, a job market paper that best represents their current research profile, and the contact details of two academic referees, in electronic form to the President of the University of St. Gallen, Professor Thomas Bieger (online: <https://www.unisg.ch/universitaet/arbeitenanderhsg/aktuellstellenangebote/jobs>).

The deadline for applications is February 18th, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/18/2018
Date Posted: 12/14/2017
Salary: $120,000 - $129,999
eJobs ID: 3876

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor – POSITION STILL AVAILABLE -- DEADLINE EXTENDED

Political Science: Assistant Professor in Public Administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor – POSITION STILL AVAILABLE -- DEADLINE EXTENDED. The position will begin in the 2018-19 academic year.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major in Public Administration and courses for the MA program and have substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis; develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and master's level graduate teaching, including the introduction to Public Administration and other advanced courses that contribute to the public administration major; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; take part in the undergraduate major in public administration, teach related courses for the MA program, contribute to all aspects of the departmental mission; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration will be given to those with a specialty and/or an active research agenda in nonprofit organizations and have a background in quantitative methodology and "big data";

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=4587>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin January 31, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 12/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3860

Western Michigan University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Urban Politics

Western Michigan University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in American Politics beginning Fall 2018 at the rank of Assistant Professor, pending budgetary approval. Preferred areas of specialization include subnational politics (State and Local Politics and/or Urban Politics) and public policy. The candidate should have experience with (or interest in) the operation and growth of internship programs and other professional field experiences for undergraduates. Administrative and teaching responsibilities related to our internship program will account for a substantial part of the instructional workload associated with this position. Successful candidates are expected to have a well-defined research agenda, to be prepared to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, and should have a completed PhD by August, 2018.

Western Michigan University (WMU), located in Southwest Michigan, is a vibrant, nationally recognized student-centered research institution with an enrollment of nearly 25,000. WMU delivers high-quality undergraduate instruction, has a strong graduate division, and fosters significant research activities. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has placed WMU among the 76 public institutions in the nation designated as research universities with high research activities.

The Political Science Department offers Bachelors, Masters, and Ph.D. degrees with a unique opportunity for individuals seeking a balanced research and teaching career. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, with an excellent benefits package. Please visit wmich.edu/hr/jobs for detailed information and application procedures. For additional questions, please contact Dr. John Clark (john.clark@wmich.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, MI 49008-5346. Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2018, and continue until position is filled.

WMU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Minorities, women, veterans, individuals with disabilities and all other qualified individuals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/8/2018
Date Posted: 12/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3857

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position in public policy or public administration beginning August 2018. The appointment is renewable based on funding, need, performance, and mutual agreement; this position also may be converted to tenure track based on enrollment growth in the Department's programs. The teaching load for this position is nine hours (three courses) per semester.

The position is open with regard to specialization. Successful candidates will be able to offer courses for the department's undergraduate program in political science and its NASPAA-accredited master's degree program in public administration; evidence of a promising research agenda in topics related to public administration and/or public policy is also essential. A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or public administration is expected at the time of the appointment.

Preference will be given to applications received by January 31, 2018, but applicants will be considered until the position is filled. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/2963 and upload 1) a letter of application to include research agenda and teaching interests and philosophy, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) graduate transcript (official transcript is required at time of appointment), 4) one writing sample, 5) teaching evaluations and sample syllabi; and 6) a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Visiting Assistant Professor Search Committee
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
Auburn University at Montgomery
P.O. Box 244023
Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers a bachelor's and master's degree in political science, a master's degree in public administration, and a Ph.D. in public administration and public policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3833

National University of Singapore

Rank: Senior Tutor or Assistant Professor

The National University of Singapore is offering Overseas Graduate Scholarships (OGS), a prestigious and much sought after Scholarship to attract talented Singaporeans to embark on an academic career with us. The OGS provides attractive financial support for an overseas PhD degree program, and an offer of an academic position after completion of the PhD candidature.

OGS Scholarships may be awarded to Singaporean applicants who:

- are currently completing their Masters' degree and looking to pursue a PhD thereafter
- are currently enrolled in a PhD program overseas

On successful completion of the PhD degree program, the OGS Scholar will be

- sponsored for a further 2 years' postdoctoral degree before joining NUS as a Tenure Track Assistant Professor
- or
- considered to join NUS as a Tenure Track Senior Tutor or Assistant Professor in any of the NUS Faculties / Schools

Eligibility & Selection Criteria

- Singapore Citizens
- Graduates with Master degrees
- Excellent and consistent academic track record
- A keen motivation to join NUS' academic career

Application Procedure

Candidates who are keen to apply for a position in the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy or to any other NUS School/Faculty may contact:

Ms Laura Lim
Senior Associate Director
NUS Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy
Email : spplfy@nus.edu.sg

Information Session

We would like to invite all candidates who are interested to learn more about NUS' OGS scheme, to meet us in San Francisco for an information session-

Date: 2 & 3 April 2018 (Monday & Tuesday)

Time: 3-6pm

Venue: Parc 55 Hilton Hotel

RSVP: by 21 Feb 2018

Please register for the session and confirm your attendance via email to: spplfy@nus.edu.sg

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/21/2018

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3818

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Junior Faculty Search in Cybersecurity, Tenure Track

Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks to fill a tenure-track, junior faculty position in cybersecurity policy with a start date in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will show evidence of progress toward a record of strong research, teaching, and service. We are open to scholars from a broad array of disciplines including, but not limited to, political science, law, engineering, and data science. Given the interdisciplinary nature of this position, the successful candidate would have the potential for a joint or secondary appointment with other academic units at UVA. Whatever their discipline, successful candidates must have the desire and ability to speak to and influence ongoing policy debates in the area of cybersecurity.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The research faculty includes psychologists, economists, and political scientists, and is enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership, as well as multiple dual degree programs with other units at UVA..

For more information about the position and to apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0621821, and complete a candidate profile. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests and contact information for three references. The position is open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3796

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

Position 2: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

TENURE TRACK FACULTY POSITION-The Governance of Emerging Technologies

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Public Policy, Public Administration

Area of Expertise: Science and Technology

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Public Policy and Governance of Emerging Technologies starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a solid track record of monographs and articles in top-tier peer-reviewed international journals, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. He/she will also have acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving, and show passion for institution building, and desire to have a strong impact on society.

He/she is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses on the political, social, and economic challenges and opportunities brought by new technological trends such as Big Data, Digitalization, Automation, and Artificial Intelligence. He/she should know the current state of these technologies and reflect on their implications for governments, the private sector, educational systems and society.

He/she should also be willing to collaborate with the IE's Center for the Governance of Change, a newly created institution that seeks to enhance our ability to understand, anticipate, and manage technological innovation and its externalities in a variety of domains – political, economic, and societal. This collaboration will include the organization of academic events and the securing and management of research grants in his/her area. Experience in policy-making and consulting of governments, tech companies, and international organizations will be advantages.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Governance of Emerging Technologies to IESIR2@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3785

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Position 3: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Rank: Assistant Professor

Disciplines: International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Subfield: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in International or Comparative Political Economy starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in technologies impacting global economic governance such as Blockchain, FinTech and others.

Candidates will be expected to teach courses in International Political Economy, International Trade, and International Finance, as well as core courses in Micro- and Macro-Economics. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, International Relations, or Economics is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Political Economy to IESIR3@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3786

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/5/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3567

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3560

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohns.edu/silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osullivan@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3131

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3117

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3006

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching

· Sample Course Syllabus

· Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001