Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Nonprofit Management and Policy, Assistant/Associate Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy in the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Nonprofit Management and Policy position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates should be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

Our program on Nonprofit Management, ranked 10th in US News and World Report, emphasizes the “nuts and bolts” of operating and sustaining nonprofit organizations and the tactics and strategies of creating social change toward greater equity and justice. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality nonprofit management and policy research in these areas. Candidates conducting research on nonprofit governance, resource generation and sustainability, nonprofit public policy, policy advocacy, collaboration, and/or nonprofit networks are especially encouraged to apply. We are open to scholars conducting research in domestic, international or global contexts, and who use qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Senior applicants should have a well-established research program; junior applicants should have a trajectory to develop a tenurable research record.
- Applicants must be able to teach in Nonprofit Management and in core Public Policy or Public Administration courses, and be able to, or have the potential to, fulfill the mission and goals of Rockefeller College.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in Public Administration, Public Management, Public Affairs, or an allied field such as Sociology or Political Science.
- Experience in a nonprofit organization, and working on or writing research grants for external funding, will be considered a plus in the selection process but not a requirement.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant or Associate Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

Rank: Visiting Teaching Assistant Professor

Visiting Teaching Assistant Professor in US public law and politics

Job Description

The Department of Political Science consists of active scholars offering the Bachelors of Arts degree in political science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of Denver. Our undergraduate program of study includes courses in the fields of American politics, law, comparative and international politics, and political theory, as well as an introduction to the methods of inquiry in political science. Serving over 180 majors and students across campus, our faculty value inclusive excellence: a commitment by all constituents to create an academic experience that embraces and engages diverse perspectives and communities within an atmosphere of mutual respect. Our curriculum endeavors to develop student's ability to think critically, communicate clearly, and develop compelling analytical argumentation based on justifiable sources of empirical evidence and logical reasoning.

Position Summary

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a non-tenure track, full-time Visiting Teaching Assistant Professor in the fields of American law and politics for the 2018-19 academic year. The position may be extended for an additional year, contingent on continued need and funding. The candidate hired will teach the equivalent of eight courses in the fields of US public law and American politics over three quarters. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach both Introduction to American politics and Introduction to Law and Society, as well as a variety of upper-division courses in American public law and politics. Successful candidates will demonstrate a record of excellence in undergraduate teaching and a strong commitment to constructively engaging students with diverse backgrounds and learning styles.

Essential Functions

- Teach large introductory courses serving the common curriculum and major programs such as Introduction to American politics and/or Introduction to Law and Society.
- Teach smaller, writing intensive upper-division courses in the fields of American public law and politics.
- Availability to meet outside of class in office hours on campus to provide guidance and assistance to students enrolled in courses taught.

The work schedule will be coordinated with the department chair.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities

- Advanced scholarly expertise in the fields of American public law and politics (ABD/PhD level).
- Excellent skills in oral and written communication.
- Ability to interact constructively with a diverse population of faculty, staff, and undergraduate students.

Required Qualifications

- ABD in political science or relevant interdisciplinary social sciences area (e.g. Jurisprudence and Social Policy doctoral program).
- Experience teaching undergraduate courses in political science.

Preferred Qualifications

- PhD in political science or relevant interdisciplinary social sciences area (e.g. Jurisprudence and Social Policy doctoral program).
- Experience teaching Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Law and Society, and upper-division undergraduate courses in American public law and politics.

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 4:00 p.m. (MST) Tuesday, May 1, 2018.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply.

Please include the following documents with your application:

Please submit C.V, letter of interest, and teaching portfolio documents in PDF form

- C.V. that indicates specialization and comprehensive exam fields
- Letter of interest that specifies courses you have taught and/or would like to teach at DU, articulates your teaching philosophy and methods to engage students, and explains how you foster inclusive excellence in your teaching.
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness such as syllabi, detailed descriptions of particular course assignments, grading rubrics for writing assignments, and other artifacts of teaching excellence, preferably combined into one pdf file.
- Two letters of recommendation sent via email to conant@du.edu. If you have questions regarding this position please contact: Lisa Conant, Chair of Political Science at conant@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 10 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

East Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science is one of sixteen departments in the Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences at East Carolina University. ECU is located in Greenville, North Carolina, a rapidly growing city of approximately 90,000. Greenville is located about 80 miles east of Raleigh and is within a short drive to the Outer Banks and other Atlantic Ocean beaches. In 2012, Greenville was ranked in the top ten of Forbes Magazine's "Best Small Places for Business and Careers." Greenville is known as the health, entertainment and educational hub of eastern North Carolina. The Department is composed of 14 full-time faculty. It offers BS and BA degrees in political science and minors in public administration, comparative politics/international relations, leadership studies, and security studies at the undergraduate level. It is also home to the multidisciplinary studies majors in security studies and international studies. At the graduate level, it offers a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration degree, a Master of Science in Security Studies and certificates in public management and security studies. It emphasizes excellent teaching, quality research, and a tradition of service to the community, the university, and the discipline. More information about the department can be found at its home page: <http://www.ecu.edu/polsci>.

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, fixed-term position at the title of Teaching Assistant Professor to begin August 13, 2018. The successful candidate will become one of the faculty members in the Department of Political Science with primary teaching responsibilities in the Security Studies program and will be expected to teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in the classroom and online. Teaching load will be a 4:4. Service to the university, community and profession is expected. Salary is competitive.

A PhD in Political Science or a related field, such as International Relations or National Security Studies.

The position is open in terms of regional or issue-area specialization within the broader security-related context. Qualifying degrees must be received from appropriately accredited institutions. Teaching experience at the graduate and undergraduate levels is required.

Given the department's current needs, preference will be given to candidates who have experience (studies, teaching, and/or research) in Middle East and/or Homeland Security. Distance education teaching experience is strongly preferred.

To apply, complete a candidate profile and submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita and statement of research interests and teaching experience/philosophy online at www.jobs.ecu.edu. Arrange for three current, signed, original letters of reference to be sent to: Dr. Armin Krishnan, Chair, Security Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Mail Stop 564, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC 27858-4353 (krishnana@ecu.edu). Official transcripts are required upon employment. Review of applications will begin on 04/18/2018 and continue until the position is filled

In order to be considered for this position, applicants must complete a candidate profile online via the PeopleAdmin system and submit any requested documents. Additionally, applicants that possess the preferred education and experience must also possess the minimum education/experience, if applicable.

Applications will be considered until position is filled. Please submit an online ECU application for vacancy # 939002 to ECU Human Resources at <http://jobs.ecu.edu>.

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Public Policy

UNC Charlotte - Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

The Post-doctoral Research Fellow is a 12 month in-residence position to conduct and support research at UNC Charlotte and to collaborate in areas related to public opinion, public policy, political psychology, and/or political communication. The research fellow will maintain his/her own research agenda and have the opportunity to define collaborative projects within one or more interdisciplinary research teams working on topics related to: the emotional processing of political information; measuring political content, framing, and affect in text using natural language processing; exploring contagion processes in social media; and/or using psycho-physiology measurement to assess affective and cognitive responses to novel or risk-based information. Specific project work within this broader framework will be determined based on the fellow's interests and skills.

In addition, the fellow will provide project management and training and support for doctoral students in two closely related research support labs: an established survey and experimental research lab housed in Political Science and Public Administration, and a newly forming Public Policy Interdisciplinary Research Lab house in the Public Policy PhD Program.

The position requires a PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related Social Science discipline (completed within the last three years) and strong training in research design and quantitative data analysis using both R and Stata. Preference will be given to applicants with skills in one or more of the following areas: survey methodology, experimental design, causal inference, data science, natural language processing, network analysis, large scale text processing, or social media analytics.

The position reports to Professor Cherie Maestas. The fellow will participate in the broader intellectual life of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration and the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program. The position is renewable for an additional year based on performance and availability of funding. Salary range for the position is $52,000-56,000 with an option for research and travel support.

Review of applications begins April 18, 2018, and continues until the position is filled. Applications must be submitted electronically to <https://jobs.uncc.edu/postings/21147>. Please attach the following documents with your electronic application: (1) letter of application outlining your area of research and experience related to the qualifications outlined above; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) a copy of graduate transcript; and (4) one sample of professional writing. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be sent either electronically in PDF format to cmaestas@uncc.edu or by regular mail. All letters must be addressed to Cherie Maestas, Rauch Distinguished Professor and Director of Public Policy PhD. Program, UNC Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd, Charlotte, NC 28223.

Rhodes College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor in American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology
Specializations: African American Politics, Latino Politics, Research Methods

Visiting Assistant Professor Position in American Politics
 The Department of Political Science at Rhodes College, a highly selective, national liberal arts college located in Memphis, TN, invites applications for a one-year appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor in American Politics, beginning in August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching in an undergraduate, liberal arts environment. The successful candidate must have classroom experience and must be able to teach the introductory survey course in U.S. Politics and the research methods course. Additional courses will be based on the candidate's area of specialization. We particularly encourage candidates to apply who could teach in the areas of race, ethnicity, and politics; or public policy. Preference will be given to candidates whose courses can contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latin American and Latinx Studies, or Urban Studies. The teaching responsibility is 3 courses per semester. The Ph. D. in political science is preferred. Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi for the course in US Politics and the course in research methods, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, and their proposed teaching contributions to the department. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin March 19, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders, once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and all other required application materials have been submitted. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Beloit College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Beloit College, a selective liberal arts college with a proud tradition of innovation, seeks an energetic teacher-scholar for a replacement position of five courses per year. The successful candidate will be responsible for introductory courses in political theory and US government, and for upper-level courses in the history of political theory, American political thought, and constitutional law. Ability to approach these courses from critical perspectives is a plus. We prefer candidates with a desire to collaborate with colleagues from other disciplines, and who develop pedagogical approaches that foster creativity and apply theoretical knowledge to address real problems such as institutionalized racism. Our friendly department offers support for scholarship and actively mentors junior colleagues. This position is for the 2018-2019 academic year with a strong possibility of renewal.

Because equity and inclusion are central to our students' liberal arts education and vital to the thriving of all members of our residential learning community, Beloit College aspires to be an actively anti-racist institution. We recognize our aspiration as ongoing and institution-wide, involving collective commitment and accountability. We seek employees who are committed to and will actively contribute to our efforts to celebrate our cultural and intellectual richness and be resolute in advancing inclusion and equity.

Located in a diverse community close to Madison, Milwaukee, and Chicago, Beloit attracts students from across the United States and the world. The college emphasizes excellence in teaching, learning beyond the traditional classroom, international perspectives, and collaborative research among students and faculty. It is recognized as one of the Colleges That Change Lives.

Candidates should email a cover letter, c.v., three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, writing sample, and sample syllabi polstheory2018@beloit.edu

Inquiries about the position can be sent to John Rapp, chair of the search committee, at: rappja@beloit.edu. Review of applications begins immediately and all applications received by March 1st 2018 will be given full consideration.

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: VAP American Politics and American Political Thought

Visiting Assistant Professor (One Year)

Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one year visiting position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2018. Ph.D preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper level courses in American political thought and American political development. Other teaching and research areas might include religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; rural and/or labor politics; and power and the American presidency. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

Applications received by March 16, 2018 will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. The department will conduct preliminary reviews at this year's WPSA meeting in San Francisco. Applicants should indicate whether they will be attending the meeting.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and arrange to have three letters of reference sent. Applicants should submit all materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48507>. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy.

Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor – International Relations/Comparative Politics

The Department of International Studies at Rhodes College, a highly selective, national liberal arts college located in Memphis, invites applications for an appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching in an undergraduate, liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will have classroom experience and is expected to teach introductory and advanced courses in either International Relations or Comparative Politics. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach research methods and an upper-level course on international conflict or security. Additional courses will be based on the candidate's area of specialization. The successful candidate must earn their Ph.D. by August 2018. The teaching responsibility is 3 courses per semester, and the position offers the possibility for renewal up to a second year after the successful completion of the first year.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their proposed teaching contributions to the department, and their research interests. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin March 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Risley, chair of the search committee, at risleya@rhodes.edu.

Luther College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Luther College is an undergraduate liberal arts college with a population of two thousand students located in Decorah, IA. Our faculty and students are highly engaged in academics and research, music programs, athletics, sustainability, and service. Founded in 1861 by Norwegian immigrants, Luther values its heritage, just as it values the diversity of its students, staff, and faculty, who hail from many faith backgrounds and heritages. Coming from 39 states and 74 countries, 11% of our students are domestic students of color and 8% are international students.

Our location in the beautiful driftless region of northeast Iowa offers a wealth of opportunities not often found in small towns. The economic vitality of the Decorah area is attributable to being a regional hub for outdoor recreation, two nationally recognized healthcare systems, top ranked schools, business, agriculture, specialty retail, dining, and tourism. In a scenic rural setting, we are an easy 70 mile drive to three urban cities including Rochester, MN, home of Mayo Clinic and an IBM major campus.

Position and Qualifications: Luther College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science, with expertise in the field of Comparative Politics. This is a one-year, non-tenure track position to begin late August 2018. Ph.D. preferred; candidates who are advanced ABD will be considered. Teaching responsibilities will include Global Politics, Comparative Politics, and courses in the candidate's geographic (outside the US) or thematic area of expertise: for example Latin American politics, or the politics of development. The teaching load is 7 courses, spread over the Fall, January, and Spring terms.

Apply: Review of applications begins February 22, 2018 and continues until the position is filled. Apply at <https://luthercollege.hiretouch.com>. Applicant's dossier will include:

- letter of application (outline your qualifications, summarize your teaching and research interests, and briefly highlight strengths that align with strengths of Luther College)

- curriculum vitae
- unofficial graduate and undergraduate transcripts
- three letters of recommendation from those familiar with the candidate's teaching and scholarship (the college will send an email link to each letter writer identified in application process to upload their letter)

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Dr. Carly Hayden Foster, Political Science Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Luther College; email: fosterc@luther.edu. Additional information about the college is available by visiting the college website, www.luther.edu. Questions regarding the application process should be directed to facultysearch@luther.edu.

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Macau Rank: Full/Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science/Public Administration

Full/Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science/Public Administration

The University of Macau (UM) is the flagship public university in Macao, which gives it a unique advantage in pursuing the goal of becoming a world-class university with regional characteristics. English is the working language. In recent years, UM has made significant progress and has gained increasing international recognition for its teaching, research, and community service. To better support higher education development in Macao and to meet society's ever-increasing demand for high-quality professionals, UM in 2014 relocated to the current campus which covers approximately 1.09 km². The large campus, the implementation of Asia's largest residential college system, the unique '4-in-1' education model combine to provide a multifaceted education to students to help them achieve well-rounded development. In addition to adopting a governance and management system in line with international standards and practices, UM recruits outstanding scholars worldwide to create a multilingual and multicultural learning environment for students. Recently, UM has appointed a world renowned scholar as Rector to lead the University in its next stage of development. With the new Rector's rich experience in higher education management and global vision, as well as the new developments and initiatives of the University, UM is faced with unprecedented opportunities and provides exciting new possibilities for professional development.

The Department of Government and Public Administration of the Faculty of Social Sciences invites applications for the position of Full/Associate/Assistant Professor in the discipline of political science and public administration. The area of specialization is open, but preference will be given to individuals with research and teaching expertise in one or more of the following: methodology, theory of public administration, public administration law, domestic and foreign policy analysis, state/society/global governance, and comparative politics.

The Department of Government and Public Administration is currently comprised of 16 full-time staff members and offers programmes leading to Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees. Faculty members actively engage in research with particular focus on comparative politics, public administration and policy, international relations, and studies of the greater China regions. More information about the Department is available at the UM website: <http://www.umac.mo/fss/pa/>.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a PhD in a relevant field and a proven record of publication in high caliber international journals and presses in the areas of public administration and policy analysis. Applicants should demonstrate a strong commitment to quality research and scholarship and documented excellence in teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants must be able to lecture and publish research in English. Ability to speak Chinese may be considered an advantage, but is not a prerequisite for appointment.

The selected candidate is expected to assume duty in August 2018.

Position and Remuneration

Remuneration and appointment rank offered will be competitive and commensurate with the successful applicants' academic qualification, current position and professional experience. The current local maximum income tax rate is 12% but is effectively around 5% - 7% after various discretionary exemptions.

Application Procedure

Applicants should visit <http://www.umac.mo/career> for more details, and apply ONLINE at Career@UM (<https://isw.umac.mo/recruitment>) (Ref. No.: FSS/DGPA/04/2018). Review of applications will commence on 23 April 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants may consider their applications not successful if they were not invited for an interview within 3 months of application.

East Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science is one of sixteen departments in the Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences at East Carolina University. ECU is located in Greenville, North Carolina, a rapidly growing city of approximately 90,000. Greenville is located about 80 miles east of Raleigh and is within a short drive to the Outer Banks and other Atlantic Ocean beaches. In 2012, Greenville was ranked in the top ten of Forbes Magazine's "Best Small Places for Business and Careers." Greenville is known as the health, entertainment and educational hub of eastern North Carolina. The Department is composed of 14 full-time faculty. It offers BS and BA degrees in political science and minors in public administration, comparative politics/international relations, leadership studies, and security studies at the undergraduate level. It is also home to the multidisciplinary studies majors in security studies and international studies. At the graduate level, it offers a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration degree, a Master of Science in Security Studies and certificates in public management and security studies. It emphasizes excellent teaching, quality research, and a tradition of service to the community, the university, and the discipline. More information about the department can be found at its home page: <http://www.ecu.edu/polsci>.

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, fixed-term position at the title of Teaching Assistant Professor to begin August 13, 2018. The successful candidate will become one of the faculty members in the Department of Political Science with primary teaching responsibilities in the Security Studies program and will be expected to teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in the classroom and online. Teaching load will be a 4:4. Service to the university, community and profession is expected. Salary is competitive.

A PhD in Political Science or a related field, such as International Relations or National Security Studies. The position is open in terms of regional or issue-area specialization within the broader security-related context. Qualifying degrees must be received from appropriately accredited institutions. Teaching experience at the graduate and undergraduate levels is required.

Given the department's current needs, preference will be given to candidates who have experience (studies, teaching, and/or research) in Middle East and/or Homeland Security. Distance education teaching experience is strongly preferred.

To apply, complete a candidate profile and submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita and statement of research interests and teaching experience/philosophy online at www.jobs.ecu.edu. Arrange for three current, signed, original letters of reference to be sent to: Dr. Armin Krishnan, Chair, Security Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Mail Stop 564, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC 27858-4353 (krishnana@ecu.edu). Official transcripts are required upon employment. Review of applications will begin on 04/18/2018 and continue until the position is filled

In order to be considered for this position, applicants must complete a candidate profile online via the PeopleAdmin system and submit any requested documents. Additionally, applicants that possess the preferred education and experience must also possess the minimum education/experience, if applicable.

Applications will be considered until position is filled. Please submit an online ECU application for vacancy # 939002 to ECU Human Resources at <http://jobs.ecu.edu>.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Visiting Assistant Professor in U.S. National Security Policy
The Virginia Military Institute's Department of International Studies and Political Science (IS) announces a one-year, full-time visiting assistant professor position in U.S. National Security Policy, beginning 01 August 2018. The appointment is for a 4-4 teaching load.

The primary teaching responsibility is an undergraduate course on the history, development, and future of U.S. National Security Policy, which is a mid-level core requirement in the IS curriculum. Candidates would also be expected to teach two upper-level undergraduate elective courses on security studies-related topics. The visiting professor may be eligible for other professional resources during his/her one-year appointment, such as on-campus housing and travel funding.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations is preferred, but ABD applicants expecting to complete their dissertation prior to appointment will be considered. Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is required.

Applicants should complete an application and submit a cover letter summarizing their interest in the position and qualifications, a curriculum vitae, and graduate transcripts online at: <http://virginiajobs.peopleadmin.com/postings/104589>.

Separately, applicants should submit three letters of recommendation via e-mail to the VMI International Studies Department Head, Dennis Foster, at fosterdm@vmi.edu.

To receive full consideration, all application materials should be submitted by 15 April 2018. Representatives of the IS department will be at the International Studies Association Conference in San Francisco in early April, and will seek to set up meetings with select candidates. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled.

Rhodes College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor – International Relations/Comparative Politics

The Department of International Studies at Rhodes College, a highly selective, national liberal arts college located in Memphis, invites applications for an appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching in an undergraduate, liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will have classroom experience and is expected to teach introductory and advanced courses in either International Relations or Comparative Politics. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach research methods and an upper-level course on international conflict or security. Additional courses will be based on the candidate's area of specialization. The successful candidate must earn their Ph.D. by August 2018. The teaching responsibility is 3 courses per semester, and the position offers the possibility for renewal up to a second year after the successful completion of the first year.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their proposed teaching contributions to the department, and their research interests. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin March 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Baker Center Post-doctoral Fellow

Baker Center Global Security Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Howard H. Baker Jr. Center for Public Policy

The Baker Center's mission is to educate the public, conduct research to further the public's knowledge, and highlight the critical importance of public service. The Baker Center focuses on education, public policy, and research in the areas of Energy and the Environment, Global Security, and Leadership and Governance, along with academic courses and student engagement programs. The Center is a place for civil, bipartisan discussion of issues affecting us all.

Global Security Program

The Center's Global Security Program focuses primarily on conflict management, covering conflict resolution, civil wars, territorial and maritime disputes, piracy, terrorism and other political violence, foreign policy and US national security policy. The program hosts a bi-weekly research workshop, a series of visiting lectures on different aspects of global security and foreign policy, and a biannual conference on some aspect of prevention, management, and resolution of international conflicts, civil wars, and terrorism and other political violence.

Position Summary

Fellows will spend a year working full time at the Baker Center, starting in August 2018, with a potential extension for an additional year. During their time at the Center, Fellows will conduct independent and joint research primarily with Dr. Krista Wiegand, and potentially other faculty and graduate students on topics related to conflict processes issues, with an expectation of producing several journal article length manuscripts. Fellows will also be involved in applying for grants to fund data collection projects and Baker Center programming. In addition to academic research, Fellows will be expected to produce a small number of policy briefs and/or content for a non-academic audience. Fellows are expected to contribute to the activities of the Baker Center, supervise undergraduate researchers involved in research projects, mentor IR graduate students, present and participate in the research workshop, and participate in the lectures and meetings of visiting speakers. Equally, Fellows may be involved in managing a major international relations journal, which the Baker Center has an active bid to edit. Participants will receive an annual stipend of $50,000 and individual health insurance.

Eligibility and How to Apply:

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Baker Center Post-doctoral Fellow

Baker Center Global Security Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Howard H. Baker Jr. Center for Public Policy

The Baker Center's mission is to educate the public, conduct research to further the public's knowledge, and highlight the critical importance of public service. The Baker Center focuses on education, public policy, and research in the areas of Energy and the Environment, Global Security, and Leadership and Governance, along with academic courses and student engagement programs. The Center is a place for civil, bipartisan discussion of issues affecting us all.

Global Security Program

The Center's Global Security Program focuses primarily on conflict management, covering conflict resolution, civil wars, territorial and maritime disputes, piracy, terrorism and other political violence, foreign policy and US national security policy. The program hosts a bi-weekly research workshop, a series of visiting lectures on different aspects of global security and foreign policy, and a biannual conference on some aspect of prevention, management, and resolution of international conflicts, civil wars, and terrorism and other political violence.

Position Summary

Fellows will spend a year working full time at the Baker Center, starting in August 2018, with a potential extension for an additional year. During their time at the Center, Fellows will conduct independent and joint research primarily with Dr. Krista Wiegand, and potentially other faculty and graduate students on topics related to conflict processes issues, with an expectation of producing several journal article length manuscripts. Fellows will also be involved in applying for grants to fund data collection projects and Baker Center programming. In addition to academic research, Fellows will be expected to produce a small number of policy briefs and/or content for a non-academic audience. Fellows are expected to contribute to the activities of the Baker Center, supervise undergraduate researchers involved in research projects, mentor IR graduate students, present and participate in the research workshop, and participate in the lectures and meetings of visiting speakers. Equally, Fellows may be involved in managing a major international relations journal, which the Baker Center has an active bid to edit. Participants will receive an annual stipend of $50,000 and individual health insurance.

Eligibility and How to Apply:

Applicants must be recent Ph.D. recipients in Political Science (within the last 3 years), and specialize in conflict management. To apply, submit a cover letter outlining the planned research and expectations about a topic in the area of conflict management, how your research project fits with the work being done at the Baker Center and Dr. Krista Wiegand, and if you have any experience working on an academic journal. Luther College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Luther College is an undergraduate liberal arts college with a population of two thousand students located in Decorah, IA. Our faculty and students are highly engaged in academics and research, music programs, athletics, sustainability, and service. Founded in 1861 by Norwegian immigrants, Luther values its heritage, just as it values the diversity of its students, staff, and faculty, who hail from many faith backgrounds and heritages. Coming from 39 states and 74 countries, 11% of our students are domestic students of color and 8% are international students.

Our location in the beautiful driftless region of northeast Iowa offers a wealth of opportunities not often found in small towns. The economic vitality of the Decorah area is attributable to being a regional hub for outdoor recreation, two nationally recognized healthcare systems, top ranked schools, business, agriculture, specialty retail, dining, and tourism. In a scenic rural setting, we are an easy 70 mile drive to three urban cities including Rochester, MN, home of Mayo Clinic and an IBM major campus.

Position and Qualifications: Luther College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science, with expertise in the field of Comparative Politics. This is a one-year, non-tenure track position to begin late August 2018. Ph.D. preferred; candidates who are advanced ABD will be considered. Teaching responsibilities will include Global Politics, Comparative Politics, and courses in the candidate's geographic (outside the US) or thematic area of expertise: for example Latin American politics, or the politics of development. The teaching load is 7 courses, spread over the Fall, January, and Spring terms.

Apply: Review of applications begins February 22, 2018 and continues until the position is filled. Apply at <https://luthercollege.hiretouch.com>. Applicant's dossier will include:

- letter of application (outline your qualifications, summarize your teaching and research interests, and briefly highlight strengths that align with strengths of Luther College)
- curriculum vitae
- unofficial graduate and undergraduate transcripts
- three letters of recommendation from those familiar with the candidate's teaching and scholarship (the college will send an email link to each letter writer identified in application process to upload their letter)

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Dr. Carly Hayden Foster, Political Science Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Luther College; email: fosterc@luther.edu. Additional information about the college is available by visiting the college website, www.luther.edu. Questions regarding the application process should be directed to facultysearch@luther.edu.

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professors in International Affairs/Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (National University of Singapore), a premier public policy institution in Asia, invites applications for full-time tenure track positions at the Assistant and Associate Professor level in International Relations/Comparative Politics. Candidates are expected to demonstrate evidence of a high level of competence in theoretically sound, empirically grounded policy-relevant research in International Relations/Comparative Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who work on (A) International Political Economy; (B) Global Governance; and (C) The International Relations of ASEAN/Southeast Asia. For positions (A) and (B), applicants whose research and writing focus on Asia will have an advantage. The School is interested in candidates with a strong commitment to publishing at the highest level and would particularly welcome applications with a demonstrated record of research excellence. The School has just launched a new 2-year Master in International Affairs (MIA) and it is keen to hire faculty who will contribute energetically to the new programme.

Candidates should possess the following: a PhD degree in the relevant discipline; have a commitment to research and teaching excellence; and an ability to engage with policy and research communities in Asia and around the world.

Application Procedure

Applicants should submit, in electronic form (MS Word or PDF file), the following:

- Cover note
- Detailed curriculum vitae
- Names of three references
- Brief statement of past and current research
- Top 5 publications
- Three courses that you would be interested in teaching (please refer to <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/admissions/> for the list of courses)

Those who have a teaching record should submit the following as well:

- Teaching dossier including teaching evaluations (for those who have a teaching record)
- Representative samples of course outlines (for those who have a teaching record)

Please send the electronic submission to Ms Laura Lim, lkysppjoinus@nus.edu.sg.

Applicants may submit hard copies to the following address:

Ms Laura Lim

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Fellow, Center for the Study of Statesmanship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Religion & Politics

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall of 2018. This appointment is to be combined with a research appointment at the Center for the Study of Statesmanship (CSS). As a CSS Fellow the appointee will have a reduced teaching load. Although the appointment is likely to be made at a junior rank, more senior applicants will be considered.

The search is not confined to a particular field, but we are especially interested in scholars in foreign policy, international relations, or national security, or some combination thereof, who are able to place world politics in a philosophical, historical or cultural context. A background in political theory, the history of ideas or American constitutionalism is desirable. Candidates who are alert to the moral and religious dimensions of their areas of expertise are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major with many distinguished alumni and a strong MA and PhD program with graduates on numerous college and university faculties in America and abroad.

Established in the spring of 2017, CSS explores the meaning of statesmanship and how it can defuse conflict and foster respectful foreign and domestic relations. Administratively, CSS is independent of the Department of Politics and under the University Provost. To learn more about the Center and its research orientation candidates may go to the CSS website: <https://css.cua.edu>

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, departmental chair, at coyle@cua.edu and/or Dr. William S. Smith, managing director of CSS, at smithws@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10 and continue until the position is filled.

Catholic University seeks candidates who are supportive of the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a CV, and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one-to-two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will contribute to the University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found at: http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost_constitutions/documents/hf_jp-ii_apc_15081990_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html.

Official transcripts or verification of degrees will be required before any offer is made. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment.

The Catholic University of America is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Saint Lawrence University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professors in International Relations (3 openings)

Specializations: Middle East, International Security, Foreign Policy

Due to administrative appointments, retirements, and sabbatical leaves, the Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for three Visiting Assistant Professor (VAP) positions in International Relations. These positions begin August 2018. Successful candidates will teach three courses per semester, including introductory courses in international relations and upper-level courses within their fields of expertise. Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2018.

- 1) The first position seeks expertise in the Middle East and is renewable for up to one additional year.
- 2) The second position seeks expertise in security studies or American foreign policy and is renewable for up to one additional year.
- 3) The third position is open regarding expertise, except that it will not duplicate the other searches in the Middle East, security studies, and American foreign policy.

Additionally, the department expects to conduct one international relations tenure-track search in the fall of 2018.

We welcome applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic and national perspectives to their scholarship and teaching.

Minimum Qualifications: Candidates with Ph.D. in hand preferred, though ABD candidates may be considered.

To apply, please visit: <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1288>

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vita, graduate school transcript, writing sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants should also submit a separate document with a statement indicating how they can contribute in tangible ways to St. Lawrence University's commitment to cultivating a diverse and inclusive community and classrooms. These documents can be uploaded in the "Applicant Documents" section of your application.

Additionally, three confidential references are required [the required information input in the reference contact information section of your application will be utilized to send a system-derived email requesting a recommendation letter from each reference].

Questions about the position may be sent to Dr. Ronnie Olesker (rolesker@stlawu.edu), Search Chair, International Relations Searches.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Public Policy

UNC Charlotte - Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

The Post-doctoral Research Fellow is a 12 month in-residence position to conduct and support research at UNC Charlotte and to collaborate in areas related to public opinion, public policy, political psychology, and/or political communication. The research fellow will maintain his/her own research agenda and have the opportunity to define collaborative projects within one or more interdisciplinary research teams working on topics related to: the emotional processing of political information; measuring political content, framing, and affect in text using natural language processing; exploring contagion processes in social media; and/or using psycho-physiology measurement to assess affective and cognitive responses to novel or risk-based information. Specific project work within this broader framework will be determined based on the fellow's interests and skills.

In addition, the fellow will provide project management and training and support for doctoral students in two closely related research support labs: an established survey and experimental research lab housed in Political Science and Public Administration, and a newly forming Public Policy Interdisciplinary Research Lab house in the Public Policy PhD Program.

The position requires a PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related Social Science discipline (completed within the last three years) and strong training in research design and quantitative data analysis using both R and Stata. Preference will be given to applicants with skills in one or more of the following areas survey methodology, experimental design, causal inference, data science, natural language processing, network analysis, large scale text processing, or social media analytics.

The position reports to Professor Cherie Maestas. The fellow will participate in the broader intellectual life of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration and the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program. The position is renewable for an additional year based on performance and availability of funding. Salary range for the position is $52,000-56,000 with an option for research and travel support.

Review of applications begins April 18, 2018, and continues until the position is filled. Applications must be submitted electronically to <https://jobs.uncc.edu/postings/21147>. Please attach the following documents with your electronic application: (1) letter of application outlining your area of research and experience related to the qualifications outlined above; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) a copy of graduate transcript; and (4) one sample of professional writing. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be sent either electronically in PDF format to cmaestas@uncc.edu or by regular mail. All letters must be addressed to Cherie Maestas, Rauch Distinguished Professor and Director of Public Policy PhD. Program, UNC Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd, Charlotte, NC 28223.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase “cPASS Postdoc Fellow” in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

University of Georgia

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): Other, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for full time lecturer position to begin in the fall semester of 2018. This is a nine-month academic year appointment that is renewable for six years.

The successful candidate is expected to have expertise and interest in teaching political science courses in data analytics. The candidate will become part of a team offering undergraduate courses in research methods in such areas as big data analysis, computational statistics, research design, data visualization, statistics, measurement, and comparable subfields in data analytics. The candidate for this position will also likely have a substantive area of expertise in political science, such as electoral politics, identity politics, public opinion, interest groups, or political psychology. However, apart from the data science requirement, the substantive field of expertise will remain open for this position. The regular teaching load is eight courses per year.

Minimum Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. If ABD, the Ph.D. requirement will have to be completed by June 30, 2018.

Preferred Qualifications:

Candidates should be able to teach introductory courses in American Politics as well as offer upper division courses that are specific to their expertise. A minimum of two years of teaching experience is preferred.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a letter of interest describing their teaching philosophy, a curriculum vita, teaching evaluations, original transcripts, and a list of three letter writers who will separately provide letters of recommendation (in electronic form) to the UGA Faculty Job site at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/3545>. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications received by April 25, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Visiting Assistant Professor Position in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Rhodes College, a highly selective, national liberal arts college located in Memphis, TN, invites applications for a one-year appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor in American Politics, beginning in August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching in an undergraduate, liberal arts environment. The successful candidate must have classroom experience and must be able to teach the introductory survey course in U.S. Politics and the research methods course. Additional courses will be based on the candidate's area of specialization. We particularly encourage candidates to apply who could teach in the areas of race, ethnicity, and politics; or public policy. Preference will be given to candidates whose courses can contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latin American and Latinx Studies, or Urban Studies. The teaching responsibility is 3 courses per semester. The Ph. D. in political science is preferred. Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi for the course in US Politics and the course in research methods, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, and their proposed teaching contributions to the department. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin March 19, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders, once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and all other required application materials have been submitted. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

University of Illinois at Chicago - College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs

Rank: Associate Director, Government Finance Research Center

Associate Director of the GOVERNMENT FINANCE RESEARCH CENTER, UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS AT CHICAGO

The College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs (CUPPA) announces the formation of a research center funded by an anonymous donor, the Government Finance Research Center, which will be the center for research on issues of state and local government finance and budgeting. GFRC will focus on projects and activities that help lead to a better understanding of subnational fiscal challenges and make headway towards a sustainable fiscal system. GFRC will build on CUPPA's connections with national associations, academic scholars and state/local policy leaders, the municipal bond industry and rating agencies, and will work to be the nationally recognized center of informed fiscal policy and scholarly discourse, thereby shaping the debate on state, municipal, county and regional governance and public finance. The objectives of the GFRC include the identification, planning and execution of research that will be the focus of regular and periodic reports, informed analysis, and the most inclusive and up-to-date forums and workshops for discussion of fiscal and governance issues. GFRC is designed to make a difference in state and local finance. Its website can be found at: <https://gfric.uic.edu>

The GFRC is seeking an Associate Director for research who, with the director, academic advisory board, and external advisory panel, will identify research projects that address contemporary government finance issues confronting US cities, local governments and states. The Associate Director will be required to: implement strategic priorities of the GFRC; design, conduct, and coordinate research on GFRC initiatives; pursue external funding for GFRC research; meet with external constituencies to promote and advance GFRC priorities; organize and arrange programs and workshops of the GFRC in cooperation with the academic advisory panel and the external advisory panel; among other tasks.

The candidate should possess minimally a master's degree in public administration, economics, urban planning, political science or other social-science disciplines with a focus on government finance, financial management and budgeting. Preference is given to candidates who hold a relevant PhD or terminal degree in their field and to candidates who have research related experience in the government, public policy sector, or related fields. This position requires strong communication, supervisory, planning and budgeting skills.

All application materials must be submitted via HireTouch. For fullest consideration, candidates must submit a cover letter outlining their qualifications for and interest in the Associate Director position, a current curriculum vitae, names of at least three professional references, and two samples of professional papers or publications. Please submit by May 7, 2018 to: <https://jobs.uic.edu/job-board/job-details> HireTouch Job ID/EEO # 93739. The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer that has a strong institutional commitment to the principle of diversity and is particularly interested in receiving applications from a broad spectrum of people, including members of ethnic minorities, women, covered veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The University of Illinois conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of contingent offer of employment. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Job Description

The Department of Political Science, with undergraduate majors in Political Science and in Legal Studies, invites applications for a full-time position as Lecturer. Primary responsibility will be to teach Junior Year Writing with occasional teaching of Legal Studies undergraduate content courses, in accordance with program needs and state funding, to start September 2018. Initial appointment will be for one year with the possibility of renewal contingent upon performance and funding. The Lecturer will be responsible for developing and delivering courses, one for each of the Department's two majors, that meet the goals of the "Writing Across the Curriculum" (WAC) movement, that satisfy the University's Junior Year Writing requirement, and that are approved by the University Writing Committee. The Lecturer will be responsible for teaching three course sections in the Fall of 2018 and three course sections in the Spring of 2019. Junior Year Writing courses require extensive written feedback and interaction with undergraduates beyond classroom teaching. The Lecturer will coordinate and consult with Undergraduate Program Directors and professional staff for Junior Year Writing in the Department in conjunction with the undergraduate student committee and in coordination with the University Junior Year Writing Program.

The Department of Political Science has 40 faculty, more than 1,000 undergraduate majors in two programs (Political Science and Legal Studies), and about 55 graduate students (primarily doctoral students and candidates). The Legal Studies Program is the oldest such undergraduate program in the country. We place special emphasis on high quality research, on excellence and innovation in teaching, on faculty-student interaction and on thematic inquiry. We share a fundamental commitment to teach, support and attract a diverse student body.

The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and service in an increasingly diverse globalized society. Therefore, in holistically assessing many qualifications of each applicant we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes students and colleagues with broadly diverse perspectives, experiences and backgrounds in educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degree. Positive consideration is given to candidates with a teaching, research and/or service record that encourages diversity of backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives of students.

Requirements:

Applicants are required to have a PhD or equivalent background in Political Science, Legal Studies or a closely related field, and at least two years of experience and demonstrated strong performance teaching college-level writing and composition.

Additional Information:

Salary is commensurate with skills and experience. Starting salary expected: $52,000 - $55,000.

The University of Massachusetts is committed to a policy of equal opportunity without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry, disability, military status, or genetic information in employment, admission to and participation in academic programs, activities, and services, and the selection of vendors who provide services or products to the University. To fulfill that policy, the University of Massachusetts is further committed to a program of affirmative action to eliminate or mitigate artificial barriers and to increase opportunities for the recruitment and advancement of qualified minorities, women, persons with disabilities, and covered veterans. It is the policy of the University of Massachusetts to comply with the applicable federal and state statutes, rules, and regulations concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action.

Application Instructions:

To apply, submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, evaluations from writing courses taught, a statement of teaching philosophy, samples of course syllabi, and contact information for three academic references to the following link: <https://umass.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=95264#pageTop>

East Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science is one of sixteen departments in the Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences at East Carolina University. ECU is located in Greenville, North Carolina, a rapidly growing city of approximately 90,000. Greenville is located about 80 miles east of Raleigh and is within a short drive to the Outer Banks and other Atlantic Ocean beaches. In 2012, Greenville was ranked in the top ten of Forbes Magazine's "Best Small Places for Business and Careers." Greenville is known as the health, entertainment and educational hub of eastern North Carolina. The Department is composed of 14 full-time faculty. It offers BS and BA degrees in political science and minors in public administration, comparative politics/international relations, leadership studies, and security studies at the undergraduate level. It is also home to the multidisciplinary studies majors in security studies and international studies. At the graduate level, it offers a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration degree, a Master of Science in Security Studies and certificates in public management and security studies. It emphasizes excellent teaching, quality research, and a tradition of service to the community, the university, and the discipline. More information about the department can be found at its home page: <http://www.ecu.edu/polsci>.

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, fixed-term position at the title of Teaching Assistant Professor to begin August 13, 2018. The successful candidate will become one of the faculty members in the Department of Political Science with primary teaching responsibilities in the Security Studies program and will be expected to teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in the classroom and online. Teaching load will be a 4:4. Service to the university, community and profession is expected. Salary is competitive.

A PhD in Political Science or a related field, such as International Relations or National Security Studies.

The position is open in terms of regional or issue-area specialization within the broader security-related context. Qualifying degrees must be received from appropriately accredited institutions. Teaching experience at the graduate and undergraduate levels is required.

Given the department's current needs, preference will be given to candidates who have experience (studies, teaching, and/or research) in Middle East and/or Homeland Security. Distance education teaching experience is strongly preferred.

To apply, complete a candidate profile and submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita and statement of research interests and teaching experience/philosophy online at www.jobs.ecu.edu. Arrange for three current, signed, original letters of reference to be sent to: Dr. Armin Krishnan, Chair, Security Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Mail Stop 564, East Carolina University, Greenville, NC 27858-4353 (krishnana@ecu.edu). Official transcripts are required upon employment. Review of applications will begin on 04/18/2018 and continue until the position is filled

In order to be considered for this position, applicants must complete a candidate profile online via the PeopleAdmin system and submit any requested documents. Additionally, applicants that possess the preferred education and experience must also possess the minimum education/experience, if applicable.

Applications will be considered until position is filled. Please submit an online ECU application for vacancy # 939002 to ECU Human Resources at <http://jobs.ecu.edu>.

Selections will be made based on candidates' relevance to our theme for the year, "Truth and Rhetoric," as well as on their ability to promote the larger mission of the CWCTP. Scholars in Residence should expect to teach one course per semester. They will participate regularly in the extended community of the Center and the Department of Political Science through attendance at lectures, engagement with students, and participation in the academic life of the University.

Candidates are expected to hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment.

Please apply online at <https://cu.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.ftl?job=12936&lang=en>. All candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references. The letter should articulate the intellectual significance of the candidates' research project, the sort of tangible results that will be achieved by the end of the appointment, and how those results can contribute to the Center, the Department of Political Science, and the broader university community. Additionally, applicants are encouraged to identify two courses that they could teach, either chosen from the department's regular offerings or designed to fit under a "Special Topics" rubric (see <https://catalog.colorado.edu/courses-a-z/psi/>).

Special Instructions to Applicants: Review of applications will begin on May 1, 2018; applications will be accepted until the position is filled. If you have technical difficulties submitting application information, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200, extension 2 or cucareershelp@cu.edu. All other job-related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact for this posting. For further information, contact Professor David S. Brown at david.s.brown@colorado.edu.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher

The Program in Corporate Welfare Studies at the University of California Irvine is seeking a postdoctoral researcher. The researcher would conduct his or her own research on corporate welfare, broadly defined as the causes and consequences of governmental policies that affect particular firms. Examples of related research supported by the Program include how regulations on airline pilot hours affect airline behavior, how the bailouts of banks deemed too large to fail affect different firms, conditions which make corruption especially likely, and how political pressures can affect the behavior of multinational firms. The postdoctoral researcher would spend most of the time conducting his or her own research. PhD students and undergraduates may be available to support the research. The researcher would also participate in related workshops, and would assist selected students in their research.

The initial full-time position will be for one year with the possibility of funding for an additional year. The annual pay is about $60,000, plus benefits, and support for travel to conferences.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science by the start of the appointment. Knowledge of U.S. political institutions, and U.S. data. Ability to work as part of a team.

Application procedure:

Completed applications must be submitted electronically through: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04508>

All candidates are required to submit:

- 1) Cover letter with a clear statement of research interests
- 2) Curriculum Vitae
- 3) Statement of Contributions on Diversity
- 4) One research paper
- 5) Three reference letters submitted through <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu>

University of Georgia

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): Other, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for full time lecturer position to begin in the fall semester of 2018. This is a nine-month academic year appointment that is renewable for six years.

The successful candidate is expected to have expertise and interest in teaching political science courses in data analytics. The candidate will become part of a team offering undergraduate courses in research methods in such areas as big data analysis, computational statistics, research design, data visualization, statistics, measurement, and comparable subfields in data analytics. The candidate for this position will also likely have a substantive area of expertise in political science, such as electoral politics, identity politics, public opinion, interest groups, or political psychology. However, apart from the data science requirement, the substantive field of expertise will remain open for this position. The regular teaching load is eight courses per year.

Minimum Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. If ABD, the Ph.D. requirement will have to be completed by June 30, 2018.

Preferred Qualifications:

Candidates should be able to teach introductory courses in American Politics as well as offer upper division courses that are specific to their expertise. A minimum of two years of teaching experience is preferred.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a letter of interest describing their teaching philosophy, a curriculum vita, teaching evaluations, original transcripts, and a list of three letter writers who will separately provide letters of recommendation (in electronic form) to the UGA Faculty Job site at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/3545>. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications received by April 25, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Athens is well known for its quality of life including both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The Department of Political Science is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area, in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (facultyjobs@uga.edu). Announcement of Anticipated Part-Time Faculty Openings

Department: Political Science

Effective Date of Appointment: Academic Year 2018-2019

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

About the College:

The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences includes the departments of Africana Studies, Anthropology, Criminology and Justice Studies, Geography and Environmental Studies, History, Political Science, Psychology, Social Work, Sociology, and Urban Studies and Planning. We are committed to student success and inclusive excellence. The college incorporates the study of the challenges of urban America in a multi-ethnic setting, and provides a superior liberal arts education set across the disciplines of the social sciences. The college has approximately 150 full-time faculty members and an enrollment of approximately 6100 undergraduate students and 500 graduate students.

About the Department:

The Department of Political Science is committed to fostering all of our students through intellectual rigor and a focus on student success, with a particular emphasis on experiential learning. The department has sixteen full-time faculty members serving approximately 625 undergraduate majors and thirty graduate students in our Master's Program. We offer concentrations in Politics and Government, Law and Society, and Public Policy and Management, and coursework in all major areas of the discipline. We are committed to inclusivity and actively interested in a diversity of standpoints on all dimensions.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

University of Virginia

Rank: DeOlazarra Research Associates

The University of Virginia's program in Political Philosophy, Policy & Law (PPL) invites applications for possibly two full-time DeOlazarra Research Associates for the academic year beginning August 25, 2018, renewable for a second academic year. Renewals are subject to availability of funding and performance. Compensation will take the form of salary and benefits. Applicants must specialize in contemporary political theory/philosophy, particularly as it applies to the evaluation of important issues in public policy. A background in jurisprudence or legal theory is also desirable. PPL is a selective interdisciplinary undergraduate major in which fourth year students develop substantial research projects in the context of a capstone seminar. The research associate will preside over this seminar during the spring semester as well as teach one fall semester course in his or her area of interest. Applicants for this position must be on track to complete their PhD degree by May 31, 2018, and candidates are required to have earned their degrees by August 1, 2018. Candidates must combine strong research potential with commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching.

To apply, please complete a Candidate Profile online through Jobs@UVA (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>), and electronically attach the following: a current CV, cover letter, statement of teaching, unofficial transcript, writing sample, and provide contact information for three (3) references. Search on posting 0622576.

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by April 15, 2018; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Questions regarding the position should be directed to:

Yale University

Rank: Mars Fellow in Business Ethics

Yale University's Mars Brothers Interdisciplinary Program on Business Ethics seeks postdoctoral fellows for 2018-2019 from relevant disciplines (philosophy, business, economics, political science, sociology, psychology). Fellowships are for one year, renewable to two at a salary of $60,000 with health benefits. In addition to performing research under the supervision of Program faculty, Fellows will teach one seminar, be available to meet undergraduates of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics major, assist with senior essays, and help to organize and run a workshop series of 4-6 visitors a year. Applicants should have completed PhD requirements by September 2018. Mentoring of the fellows will draw on the established strengths of Yale's interdisciplinary faculty, beginning with the faculty of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics interdisciplinary undergraduate major.

Please submit a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, draft syllabus, and the names of two recommenders whom we will contact separately, online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47996>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Frances Rosenbluth, Director of Ethics, Politics and Economics, frances.rosenbluth@yale.edu.

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Fellow, Center for the Study of Statesmanship
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Religion & Politics

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall of 2018. This appointment is to be combined with a research appointment at the Center for the Study of Statesmanship (CSS). As a CSS Fellow the appointee will have a reduced teaching load. Although the appointment is likely to be made at a junior rank, more senior applicants will be considered.

The search is not confined to a particular field, but we are especially interested in scholars in foreign policy, international relations, or national security, or some combination thereof, who are able to place world politics in a philosophical, historical or cultural context. A background in political theory, the history of ideas or American constitutionalism is desirable. Candidates who are alert to the moral and religious dimensions of their areas of expertise are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major with many distinguished alumni and a strong MA and PhD program with graduates on numerous college and university faculties in America and abroad.

Established in the spring of 2017, CSS explores the meaning of statesmanship and how it can defuse conflict and foster respectful foreign and domestic relations. Administratively, CSS is independent of the Department of Politics and under the University Provost. To learn more about the Center and its research orientation candidates may go to the CSS website: <https://css.cua.edu>

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, departmental chair, at coyle@cua.edu and/or Dr. William S. Smith, managing director of CSS, at smithws@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10 and continue until the position is filled.

Catholic University seeks candidates who are supportive of the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a CV, and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one-to-two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will contribute to the University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found at: http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost_constitutions/documents/hf_jp-ii_apc_15081990_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html.

Official transcripts or verification of degrees will be required before any offer is made. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment.

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Union Institute & University

Rank: PT Faculty for Interdisciplinary Doctoral Program-Public Policy and Social Change

Specializations: Political Theory, American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties

Union Institute & University, a national university for adult students offering programs of study leading to bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees is seeking to fill a half-time faculty position in Public Policy and Social Change for its interdisciplinary doctoral program. The primary responsibility of this position will be to teach in the Public Policy and Social Change concentration. In addition, this position will provide leadership to the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Specialization program. This position requires a Ph.D. in political science (with a primary specialization in public policy) or a related related discipline, evidence of an active and productive research agenda, and successful college teaching experience.

Union Institute & University's doctoral program in interdisciplinary studies is designed for working/professional adults and is offered in a low-residency format that combines face-to-face residencies with a variety of approaches (we-based learning tools, interactive video seminar sessions, telephone conferences) to distance instruction. The program emphasizes interdisciplinary study, with a strong attentiveness to social justice, creativity, and engaging difference. The low-residency, distance format of the program does not require Cincinnati residence. Faculty are expected to attend a week-long residency each term in Cincinnati. We encourage applications from historically under-represented groups as well as individuals who have experience with diverse student populations.

Teaching and Professional Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to maintain an active research agenda accompanied by regular publication; to teach foundational and advanced seminars at the doctoral level; to be involved with dissertation advising; and to serve on program and university committees. Participation in professional scholarly organizations, advocacy groups, or organizations reasonably related to field of scholarship and doctoral program goals is also expected.

The candidate will have a Ph.D. in political science (with a primary field of study in public policy) or a related discipline with demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary scholarship, research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with prior graduate teaching experience who are able to chair doctoral dissertation committees and whose research/teaching interests include one or more of the following areas: Social and Political Theory, State and Local Politics, Social Movements, Critical Race Theory, American Political Development, Latin American and/or Indigenous Studies.

Application materials should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and names and contact information for at least three references. Review of applications will begin on April 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date in the search process. In addition, candidates selected for further review will be asked to submit a summary or examples of teaching evaluations, a conference paper or (preferably) published work. No references will be contacted without prior notification. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit material to: https://rew11.ultipro.com/UNI1045/jobboard/NewCandidateExt.aspx?__JobID=202

Union Institute & University is a private, non-profit university accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.

Individuals with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should notify the Human Resources Department at 513-487-1122.

Beloit College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Beloit College, a selective liberal arts college with a proud tradition of innovation, seeks an energetic teacher-scholar for a replacement position of five courses per year. The successful candidate will be responsible for introductory courses in political theory and US government, and for upper-level courses in the history of political theory, American political thought, and constitutional law. Ability to approach these courses from critical perspectives is a plus. We prefer candidates with a desire to collaborate with colleagues from other disciplines, and who develop pedagogical approaches that foster creativity and apply theoretical knowledge to address real problems such as institutionalized racism. Our friendly department offers support for scholarship and actively mentors junior colleagues. This position is for the 2018-2019 academic year with a strong possibility of renewal.

Because equity and inclusion are central to our students' liberal arts education and vital to the thriving of all members of our residential learning community, Beloit College aspires to be an actively anti-racist institution. We recognize our aspiration as ongoing and institution-wide, involving collective commitment and accountability. We seek employees who are committed to and will actively contribute to our efforts to celebrate our cultural and intellectual richness and be resolute in advancing inclusion and equity.

Located in a diverse community close to Madison, Milwaukee, and Chicago, Beloit attracts students from across the United States and the world. The college emphasizes excellence in teaching, learning beyond the traditional classroom, international perspectives, and collaborative research among students and faculty. It is recognized as one of the Colleges That Change Lives.

Candidates should email a cover letter, c.v., three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, writing sample, and sample syllabi polstheory2018@beloit.edu

Inquiries about the position can be sent to John Rapp, chair of the search committee, at: rappja@beloit.edu. Review of applications begins immediately and all applications received by March 1st 2018 will be given full consideration.

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: VAP American Politics and American Political Thought

Visiting Assistant Professor (One Year)

Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one year visiting position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2018. Ph.D preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper level courses in American political thought and American political development. Other teaching and research areas might include religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; rural and/or labor politics; and power and the American presidency. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

Applications received by March 16, 2018 will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. The department will conduct preliminary reviews at this year's WPSA meeting in San Francisco. Applicants should indicate whether they will be attending the meeting.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and arrange to have three letters of reference sent. Applicants should submit all materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48507>. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

University of Maine

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maine invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic-year faculty position in Political Theory and U.S. Constitutional Law at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of September 1, 2018.

Responsibilities and Duties: This position includes teaching, research, and service. The faculty member will maintain a productive research program. The standard teaching load is 2/3, with a mix of introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses. Teaching and service responsibilities include holding regular office hours, advising students on their course of study, aiding them in the registration process, advising students in pre-law and the interdisciplinary minor in Legal Studies, developing relationships with the Maine legal community, and participating actively in the internal governance of the department and representing it in interactions with the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and university communities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.

Qualifications: We are interested in hiring a broadly trained political theorist who can teach courses in the history of political thought and contemporary political theory as well as on U.S. constitutional law and related topics. Additional requirements include evidence of ability for success in university-level teaching and evidence of ability to develop and pursue a research agenda, including peer-reviewed publications, in the candidate's area of expertise. ABDs may apply but a

Ph.D. in Political Science or equivalent field is required by the start of the position.

Application: Applicants should submit a letter of application describing their credentials and experience relative to the qualifications above, a current C.V., official or unofficial graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations, a one page teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. Additional information, such as official transcripts, course syllabi, and writing samples may be requested at a later time. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by February 10, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Incomplete applications cannot be considered. Appropriate background checks will be required. Applicants should submit applications electronically to: <https://umaine.hiretouch.com>. Letters of Reference should be emailed to polisci@maine.edu. Specific questions may be addressed to Amy Fried, Professor and Chair, Department of Political Science, amyfried@maine.edu, 207-581-1797.

We are a faculty that values work-life balance and particularly maintaining a productively collegial workplace. The greater Bangor-Orono area offers access to a wealth of outdoor activities, a thriving cultural scene, and is close to Bar Harbor, Acadia National Park, and Portland. The University of Maine is the flagship campus of the University of Maine System. It is the state's land grant and sea grant university, enrolling over 11,000 students. The Department offers a BA degree. Further information about the Department can be found at <https://umaine.edu/polisci/>.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. The Department of Political Science encourages applications from a diverse pool of applicants.

On January 1, 2011, UMaine became a tobacco-free campus. Information regarding UMaine's tobacco-free policy is online at <http://umaine.edu/tobaccofree/>.

Catholic University of America

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Fellow, Center for the Study of Statesmanship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Religion & Politics

The Department of Politics at the Catholic University of America invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall of 2018. This appointment is to be combined with a research appointment at the Center for the Study of Statesmanship (CSS). As a CSS Fellow the appointee will have a reduced teaching load.

Although the appointment is likely to be made at a junior rank, more senior applicants will be considered.

The search is not confined to a particular field, but we are especially interested in scholars in foreign policy, international relations, or national security, or some combination thereof, who are able to place world politics in a philosophical, historical or cultural context. A background in political theory, the history of ideas or American constitutionalism is desirable. Candidates who are alert to the moral and religious dimensions of their areas of expertise are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Department of Politics offers a popular undergraduate major with many distinguished alumni and a strong MA and PhD program with graduates on numerous college and university faculties in America and abroad.

Established in the spring of 2017, CSS explores the meaning of statesmanship and how it can defuse conflict and foster respectful foreign and domestic relations. Administratively, CSS is independent of the Department of Politics and under the University Provost. To learn more about the Center and its research orientation candidates may go to the CSS website: <https://css.cua.edu>

Questions about the position may be addressed to Dr. Dennis Coyle, departmental chair, at coyle@cua.edu and/or Dr. William S. Smith, managing director of CSS, at smithws@cua.edu. Review of applications will begin January 10 and continue until the position is filled.

Catholic University seeks candidates who are supportive of the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "As the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

Applicants should send a letter of interest, a CV, and a writing sample to pol-search@cua.edu and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference. In addition, applicants are asked to submit a one-to-two-page statement indicating how their research, teaching, and service will contribute to the University's mission and to the vision of Catholic education outlined in the Apostolic Constitution on Catholic Universities Ex Corde Ecclesiae, which can be found at: http://w2.vatican.va/content/john-paul-ii/en/apost_constitutions/documents/hf_jp-ii_apc_15081990_ex-corde-ecclesiae.html.

Official transcripts or verification of degrees will be required before any offer is made. The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making the final offer of employment.

The Catholic University of America is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Macau
Rank: Full/Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science/Public Administration

Full/Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science/Public Administration

The University of Macau (UM) is the flagship public university in Macao, which gives it a unique advantage in pursuing the goal of becoming a world-class university with regional characteristics. English is the working language. In recent years, UM has made significant progress and has gained increasing international recognition for its teaching, research, and community service. To better support higher education development in Macao and to meet society's ever-increasing demand for high-quality professionals, UM in 2014 relocated to the current campus which covers approximately 1.09 km². The large campus, the implementation of Asia's largest residential college system, the unique '4-in-1' education model combine to provide a multifaceted education to students to help them achieve well-rounded development. In addition to adopting a governance and management system in line with international standards and practices, UM recruits outstanding scholars worldwide to create a multilingual and multicultural learning environment for students. Recently, UM has appointed a world renowned scholar as Rector to lead the University in its next stage of development. With the new Rector's rich experience in higher education management and global vision, as well as the new developments and initiatives of the University, UM is faced with unprecedented opportunities and provides exciting new possibilities for professional development.

The Department of Government and Public Administration of the Faculty of Social Sciences invites applications for the position of Full/Associate/Assistant Professor in the discipline of political science and public administration. The area of specialization is open, but preference will be given to individuals with research and teaching expertise in one or more of the following: methodology, theory of public administration, public administration law, domestic and foreign policy analysis, state/society/global governance, and comparative politics.

The Department of Government and Public Administration is currently comprised of 16 full-time staff members and offers programmes leading to Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees. Faculty members actively engage in research with particular focus on comparative politics, public administration and policy, international relations, and studies of the greater China regions. More information about the Department is available at the UM website: <http://www.umac.mo/fss/pa/>.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a PhD in a relevant field and a proven record of publication in high caliber international journals and presses in the areas of public administration and policy analysis. Applicants should demonstrate a strong commitment to quality research and scholarship and documented excellence in teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants must be able to lecture and publish research in English. Ability to speak Chinese may be considered an advantage, but is not a prerequisite for appointment.

The selected candidate is expected to assume duty in August 2018.

Position and Remuneration

Remuneration and appointment rank offered will be competitive and commensurate with the successful applicants' academic qualification, current position and professional experience. The current local maximum income tax rate is 12% but is effectively around 5% - 7% after various discretionary exemptions.

Application Procedure

Applicants should visit <http://www.umac.mo/career> for more details, and apply ONLINE at Career@UM (<https://isw.umac.mo/recruitment>) (Ref. No.: FSS/DGPA/04/2018). Review of applications will commence on 23 April 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants may consider their applications not successful if they were not invited for an interview within 3 months of application.

Announcement of Anticipated Part-Time Faculty Openings

Department: Political Science

Effective Date of Appointment: Academic Year 2018-2019

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

About the College:

The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences includes the departments of Africana Studies, Anthropology, Criminology and Justice Studies, Geography and Environmental Studies, History, Political Science, Psychology, Social Work, Sociology, and Urban Studies and Planning. Rank: Visiting Teaching Assistant Professor

Visiting Teaching Assistant Professor in US public law and politics

Job Description

The Department of Political Science consists of active scholars offering the Bachelors of Arts degree in political science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of Denver. Our undergraduate program of study includes courses in the fields of American politics, law, comparative and international politics, and political theory, as well as an introduction to the methods of inquiry in political science. Serving over 180 majors and students across campus, our faculty value inclusive excellence: a commitment by all constituents to create an academic experience that embraces and engages diverse perspectives and communities within an atmosphere of mutual respect. Our curriculum endeavors to develop student's ability to think critically, communicate clearly, and develop compelling analytical argumentation based on justifiable sources of empirical evidence and logical reasoning.

Position Summary

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a non-tenure track, full-time Visiting Teaching Assistant Professor in the fields of American law and politics for the 2018-19 academic year. The position may be extended for an additional year, contingent on continued need and funding. The candidate hired will teach the equivalent of eight courses in the fields of US public law and American politics over three quarters. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach both Introduction to American politics and Introduction to Law and Society, as well as a variety of upper-division courses in American public law and politics. Successful candidates will demonstrate a record of excellence in undergraduate teaching and a strong commitment to constructively engaging students with diverse backgrounds and learning styles.

Essential Functions

- Teach large introductory courses serving the common curriculum and major programs such as Introduction to American politics and/or Introduction to Law and Society.
- Teach smaller, writing intensive upper-division courses in the fields of American public law and politics.
- Availability to meet outside of class in office hours on campus to provide guidance and assistance to students enrolled in courses taught.

The work schedule will be coordinated with the department chair.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities

- Advanced scholarly expertise in the fields of American public law and politics (ABD/PhD level).
- Excellent skills in oral and written communication.

- Ability to interact constructively with a diverse population of faculty, staff, and undergraduate students.

Required Qualifications

- ABD in political science or relevant interdisciplinary social sciences area (e.g. Jurisprudence and Social Policy doctoral program).
- Experience teaching undergraduate courses in political science.

Preferred Qualifications

- PhD in political science or relevant interdisciplinary social sciences area (e.g. Jurisprudence and Social Policy doctoral program).
- Experience teaching Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Law and Society, and upper-division undergraduate courses in American public law and politics.

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 4:00 p.m. (MST) Tuesday, May 1, 2018.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply.

Please include the following documents with your application:

Please submit C.V, letter of interest, and teaching portfolio documents in PDF form

- C.V. that indicates specialization and comprehensive exam fields
- Letter of interest that specifies courses you have taught and/or would like to teach at DU, articulates your teaching philosophy and methods to engage students, and explains how you foster inclusive excellence in your teaching.
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness such as syllabi, detailed descriptions of particular course assignments, grading rubrics for writing assignments, and other artifacts of teaching excellence, preferably combined into one pdf file.
- Two letters of recommendation sent via email to conant@du.edu. If you have questions regarding this position please contact: Lisa Conant, Chair of Political Science at conant@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 10 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

Beloit College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Beloit College, a selective liberal arts college with a proud tradition of innovation, seeks an energetic teacher-scholar for a replacement position of five courses per year. The successful candidate will be responsible for introductory courses in political theory and US government, and for upper-level courses in the history of political theory, American political thought, and constitutional law. Ability to approach these courses from critical perspectives is a plus. We prefer candidates with a desire to collaborate with colleagues from other disciplines, and who develop pedagogical approaches that foster creativity and apply theoretical knowledge to address real problems such as institutionalized racism. Our friendly department offers support for scholarship and actively mentors junior colleagues. This position is for the 2018-2019 academic year with a strong possibility of renewal.

Because equity and inclusion are central to our students' liberal arts education and vital to the thriving of all members of our residential learning community, Beloit College aspires to be an actively anti-racist institution. We recognize our aspiration as ongoing and institution-wide, involving collective commitment and accountability. We seek employees who are committed to and will actively contribute to our efforts to celebrate our cultural and intellectual richness and be resolute in advancing inclusion and equity.

Located in a diverse community close to Madison, Milwaukee, and Chicago, Beloit attracts students from across the United States and the world. The college emphasizes excellence in teaching, learning beyond the traditional classroom, international perspectives, and collaborative research among students and faculty. It is recognized as one of the Colleges That Change Lives.

Candidates should email a cover letter, c.v., three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, writing sample, and sample syllabi polstheory2018@beloit.edu

Inquiries about the position can be sent to John Rapp, chair of the search committee, at: rappja@beloit.edu. Review of applications begins immediately and all applications received by March 1st 2018 will be given full consideration.

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maine invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic-year faculty position in Political Theory and U.S. Constitutional Law at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of September 1, 2018.

Responsibilities and Duties: This position includes teaching, research, and service. The faculty member will maintain a productive research program. The standard teaching load is 2/3, with a mix of introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses. Teaching and service responsibilities include holding regular office hours, advising students on their course of study, aiding them in the registration process, advising students in pre-law and the interdisciplinary minor in Legal Studies, developing relationships with the Maine legal community, and participating actively in the internal governance of the department and representing it in interactions with the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and university communities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.

Qualifications: We are interested in hiring a broadly trained political theorist who can teach courses in the history of political thought and contemporary political theory as well as on U.S. constitutional law and related topics. Additional requirements include evidence of ability for success in university-level teaching and evidence of ability to develop and pursue a research agenda, including peer-reviewed publications, in the candidate's area of expertise. ABDs may apply but a Ph.D. in Political Science or equivalent field is required by the start of the position.

Application: Applicants should submit a letter of application describing their credentials and experience relative to the qualifications above, a current C.V., official or unofficial graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations, a one page teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. Additional information, such as official transcripts, course syllabi, and writing samples may be requested at a later time. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by February 10, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Incomplete applications cannot be considered. Appropriate background checks will be required. Applicants should submit applications electronically to: <https://umaine.hiretouch.com>. Letters of Reference should be emailed to polisci@maine.edu. Specific questions may be addressed to Amy Fried, Professor and Chair, Department of Political Science, amyfried@maine.edu, 207-581-1797.

Union Institute & University's doctoral program in interdisciplinary studies is designed for working/professional adults and is offered in a low-residency format that combines face-to-face residencies with a variety of approaches (we-based learning tools, interactive video seminar sessions, telephone conferences) to distance instruction. The program emphasizes interdisciplinary study, with a strong attentiveness to social justice, creativity, and engaging difference. The low-residency, distance format of the program does not require Cincinnati residence. Faculty are expected to attend a week-long residency each term in Cincinnati. We encourage applications from historically under-represented groups as well as individuals who have experience with diverse student populations.

Teaching and Professional Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to maintain an active research agenda accompanied by regular publication; to teach foundational and advanced seminars at the doctoral level; to be involved with dissertation advising; and to serve on program and university committees. Participation in professional scholarly organizations, advocacy groups, or organizations reasonably related to field of scholarship and doctoral program goals is also expected.

The candidate will have a Ph.D. in political science (with a primary field of study in public policy) or a related discipline with demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary scholarship, research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with prior graduate teaching experience who are able to chair doctoral dissertation committees and whose research/teaching interests include one or more of the following areas: Social and Political Theory, State and Local Politics, Social Movements, Critical Race Theory, American Political Development, Latin American and/or Indigenous Studies.

Application materials should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and names and contact information for at least three references. Review of applications will begin on April 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date in the search process. In addition, candidates selected for further review will be asked to submit a summary or examples of teaching evaluations, a conference paper or (preferably) published work. No references will be contacted without prior notification. The position will remain open until filled. Visiting Assistant Professor Position in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Rhodes College, a highly selective, national liberal arts college located in Memphis, TN, invites applications for a one-year appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor in American Politics, beginning in August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching in an undergraduate, liberal arts environment. The successful candidate must have classroom experience and must be able to teach the introductory survey course in U.S. Politics and the research methods course. Additional courses will be based on the candidate's area of specialization. We particularly encourage candidates to apply who could teach in the areas of race, ethnicity, and politics; or public policy. Preference will be given to candidates whose courses can contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latin American and Latinx Studies, or Urban Studies. The teaching responsibility is 3 courses per semester. The Ph. D. in political science is preferred. Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi for the course in US Politics and the course in research methods, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, and their proposed teaching contributions to the department. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin March 19, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professors in International Affairs/Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (National University of Singapore), a premier public policy institution in Asia, invites applications for full-time tenure track positions at the Assistant and Associate Professor level in International Relations/Comparative Politics. Candidates are expected to demonstrate evidence of a high level of competence in theoretically sound, empirically grounded policy-relevant research in International Relations/Comparative Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who work on (A) International Political Economy; (B) Global Governance; and (C) The International Relations of ASEAN/Southeast Asia. For positions (A) and (B), applicants whose research and writing focus on Asia will have an advantage. The School is interested in candidates with a strong commitment to publishing at the highest level and would particularly welcome applications with a demonstrated record of research excellence. The School has just launched a new 2-year Master in International Affairs (MIA) and it is keen to hire faculty who will contribute energetically to the new programme.

Candidates should possess the following: a PhD degree in the relevant discipline; have a commitment to research and teaching excellence; and an ability to engage with policy and research communities in Asia and around the world.

Application Procedure

Applicants should submit, in electronic form (MS Word or PDF file), the following:

- Cover note
- Detailed curriculum vitae
- Names of three references
- Brief statement of past and current research
- Top 5 publications
- Three courses that you would be interested in teaching (please refer to <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/admissions/> for the list of courses)

Those who have a teaching record should submit the following as well:

- Teaching dossier including teaching evaluations (for those who have a teaching record)
- Representative samples of course outlines (for those who have a teaching record)

Please send the electronic submission to Ms Laura Lim, lkysppjoinus@nus.edu.sg.

Applicants may submit hard copies to the following address:

Ms Laura Lim
Senior Associate Director, Human Resources
Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy
National University of Singapore
469C Bukit Timah Road
Singapore 259772

The deadline for applications is open until filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified and it is possible that interviews will be held at the International Studies Association Annual Meeting in San Francisco in April. Interested candidates are encouraged to find out more about the National University of Singapore and the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy at <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/>.

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.
