Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content\_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
  - departmental and institutional committee work,
  - professional or disciplinary activities, and
  - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - access to research materials and equipment,
  - the employment of research assistants,
  - research expenses on/off campus, and
  - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - the development of teaching expertise,
  - innovations in teaching, and
  - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
  - the average course load,
  - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
  - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
  - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
  - family needs of faculty and staff, and
  - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Dean for Research

The George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs is seeking an Assistant Dean for Research. Located in the heart of Washington, D.C., the Elliott School has been ranked by Foreign Policy as one of the top ten international affairs programs in the U.S. As the leader of the research team at the Elliott School, the Assistant Dean for Research has the principal strategic role of growing the school's research enterprise, and works closely with all stakeholders in doing so, including all relevant offices across the university, external donors, institute and center directors, and Elliott School faculty.

The Assistant Dean for Research leads the research team and oversees all research related activities at the school, including the promotion of faculty publications and research accomplishments, coordination and communication with Research Center and Institute Directors, planning and organizing staff and faculty research related training, and the sponsored research process. The Assistant Dean for Research is a member of the Elliott School leadership team and coordinates closely with all the school's relevant units, including Public Affairs, Development, Finance, and Faculty and Academic Affairs. The Assistant Dean for Research reports to the Associate Dean for Faculty Affairs and Research Initiatives but represents the Elliott School in all research-related functions at the university level, including with the Office of the Vice President for Research and with the Development office Corporate and Foundation Relations team. The Assistant Dean for Research also acts as the internal peer reviewer for faculty research proposals and serves as the ESIA's final approver for grants submitted by the faculty.

We are seeking someone with broad expertise in international affairs, with 2-3 years of experience in sponsored research and a track record of working with foundations and/or government funding agencies. It is essential that the applicant have strong writing and communication skills and a proven ability to work with faculty members from various disciplines, to set priorities, manage competing demands and provide a timely response to urgent issues. This is a full-time, non-tenure accruing position. Salary and benefits are competitive.

University of Louisiana at Lafayette

Rank: Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center: Director

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Administration, American Government and Politics

The Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center seeks a dynamic director who is passionate about the work of the Blanco Center to serve as Founding Director. The Director of the Blanco Center will lead the Center's efforts to provide policy expertise and data to elected officials and agencies, provide training to state and local officials, and host lectures, forums, and meetings on matters of public interest. The Director is a twelve-month administrative position. Potential for faculty status and tenure in an academic department dependent on qualifications.

Inspired by the leadership and vision of Kathleen Babineaux Blanco, Governor of Louisiana (2004-2008), the University of Louisiana at Lafayette has created the Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center (Blanco Center). The Blanco Center is an independent, interdisciplinary research center, bringing together experts from different academic departments to conduct research, analyze data, create white papers and write grants. The Blanco Center, which is a partnership between the College of Liberal Arts and the Edith Garland Dupre Library, will work primarily in the public policy areas emphasized by Governor Blanco during her long and distinguished career in state government. These include governmental ethics, criminal justice reform, poverty and economic opportunity, and education. The Blanco Center aims to provide policymakers and the public with the information necessary to improve lives and communities all across Louisiana. With this in mind, a special interest of the Center is promoting and expanding the role of women in politics and providing training for community leaders and elected officials. The Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center serves the public interest through leadership in state and local policy.

The Center is housed in the College of Liberal Arts and reports to the Dean of that College. The Director is responsible for all activities and personnel working in the Center as well as superintending the Center's archives which includes Governor Blanco's records and papers.

For a full description and to apply, please visit <https://louisiana.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&id=348> and upload Letter of Interest, Curriculum Vitae, and three references with contact information.

The review process will continue until the position is filled. For initial consideration please submit your application by July 15, 2018.

The University of Louisiana at Lafayette does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or disability in admission to, access to, treatment in, or employment in its programs and activities as required by Title VI and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, Age Discrimination Act of 1975, the Equal Pay Act of 1963, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Executive Order 11246, Section 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Section 402 of the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 and the 1990 Americans With Disabilities Act. ## AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American politics, political behavior)

Position summary: The Department of Government at William & Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics with specialty in political behavior. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in racial or ethnic politics, or the politics of inclusion. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level.

Required qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2019).

Preferred qualifications: Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching racial or ethnic politics, the politics of inclusion, or research methods (qualitative or quantitative methods, including political polling and survey methods) is preferred.

Application instructions: Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted by the system with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 17, 2018. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Additional information: Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Data Science, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies, International Relations, Public Health, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC. William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment.

Georgetown University

Rank: Senior Tenured Scholar - McDonough School of Business and the Walsh School of Foreign Service

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both schools. We seek scholars who work at the intersection of business and international affairs in fields such as international political economy, international trade, and international business and public policy. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Full Professor, though we welcome applications from accomplished associate professors. We also welcome applications from and nominations of senior scholars with extensive policymaking experience.

This joint position is one of a number of new interdisciplinary positions at Georgetown intended to foster scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Because of our location in Washington, DC, extensive linkages to the international policy and business communities, and strong tradition of scholarship and teaching in business, international affairs, and political economy, Georgetown has a unique opportunity to pursue integrative opportunities in scholarship and educational programs at the intersection of these fields, and the person appointed to the joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB and SFS are currently undertaking a transformative cooperation to create a new joint undergraduate degree, the first in Georgetown's history, and plans are also underway for joint centers and research initiatives. This cooperation builds on the success of several joint graduate degrees, as well as a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. The successful candidate will help provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. The MSB has strengths in core business disciplines as well as international business, public policy, and international political economy. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here: <https://www.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business attracts faculty and students from around the world. We are committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here: <https://msb.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE: The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and language. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to apply.interfolio.com/52848. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2018, but will accept applications and nominations until the position is filled. Professors Dennis P. Quinn of MSB and Erik Voeten of SFS will co-chair the search.

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; urban politics, civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; feminist legal studies; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2019. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications, and effective written and oral communication. We are especially interested in candidates who have a long-term interest in helping to develop and advise students in Muhlenberg's pre-law program.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates should also submit a separate statement describing how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, applicants can find the latest updates to the College's Diversity Strategic Plan at: <http://www.muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/>.

Complete applications should be sent via email as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair to: pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. In order to receive full consideration, applications must be received by September 17, 2018.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in eastern Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley. Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia.

University of Cincinnati

Rank: Islamic Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The University of Cincinnati invites applications by advanced assistant and associate professors to fill the Inayat and Ishrat Malik Professorship in Islamic Studies. The position will begin in the fall of 2019. The search committee welcomes applications from scholars in the field of Islamic Studies, with research and teaching interests in such areas as Anthropology, Comparative Religion, Arabic, Ethics, Gender Studies, History, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, and Theology.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. is required, as well as prior teaching experience and evidence of scholarly excellence.

The successful candidate is expected to engage in research, to teach on the graduate and undergraduate levels in their area, and to contribute, via interdisciplinary education and as appropriate, to undergraduate certificate programs in such areas as Religious Studies, Middle Eastern Studies, Arabic Studies, Asian Studies, Security Studies, and Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies. The successful candidate should be thoroughly knowledgeable in the Islamic intellectual tradition and in Qur'anic Studies. Enthusiasm to present Islamic teachings in multiple areas of thought and experience and in a style accessible to diverse student audiences is essential. This effort will include the presentation of at least one public lecture in Islamic Studies each academic year. The candidate should also have a track-record of engagement with the Islamic community, demonstrate a willingness to contribute to the Islamic Center of Greater Cincinnati, and be able to build productive relationships with academic partners across campus and with interfaith and cultural groups in the Cincinnati area.

The tenure-track position will be housed in the department in the College of Arts & Sciences most appropriate to the candidate's degree. Joint appointments are possible.

The successful candidate will be expected to make service contributions to the mission of that department and commensurate with the position of Professorship in Islamic Studies. The teaching load will accord with that of research-active faculty. The University of Cincinnati is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity. The University is interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community, and we hope to attract applicants who have experience in promoting the success of students from diverse backgrounds. We encourage women, members of racial/ethnic/gender groups underrepresented in higher education, persons with disabilities, and veterans to apply.

For full consideration, interested and qualified apply online at <https://jobs.uc.edu> (Search Requisition #31164). A complete application will include a letter of interest, a CV, an article-length writing sample, and a one-page statement summarizing your contributions or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion as they relate to teaching, research and/or mentoring. Please use the Additional Documents function to submit the required documents. Three letters of reference must be directly submitted by recommenders to history@ucmail.uc.edu.

For questions or additional information, please contact Professor Jeff Zalar, Chair of the Search Committee, at zalarjy@ucmail.uc.edu.

School of Advanced Air and Space Studies

Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Strategy and Security Studies

Subfield(s): Other, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Defense, History & Politics, International Security

The School of Advanced Air and Space Studies (SAASS) is seeking a scholar of strategic or security studies, specializing in space policy, space law, space history, or technology and innovation to begin summer, 2019.

SAASS educates strategists for the US Air Force and the nation. The faculty develops and presents a yearlong graduate curriculum designed to educate students in the art of strategy and strategic studies, enhancing the Air Force's capacity to defend the United States through the control and exploitation of air, space, and cyberspace. Graduates receive a Master of Philosophy in Military Strategy degree with the possibility to continue toward a PhD in Military Strategy. The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges accredits both programs through The Air University.

Successful applicants will support the Air University and SAASS missions and have substantial experience in the development, study, evaluation, or implementation of space power theory, history, and practice. Applicants must have a completed PhD or JD, in an area relevant to strategic studies, with emphasis on the control and exploitation of space, air, and cyberspace. Extensive professional experience in these areas is highly desired, as is teaching proficiency in fields such as strategic studies, political science or history. The selection committee will consider applicants at the assistant and associate levels.

Primary duties include teaching graduate-level courses across the breadth of the school's curriculum, advising thesis and dissertation students, curriculum development, course direction, scholarly research and publication, and service to the school and university commensurate with individual experience.

Applicants will be required to submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation and samples of research, course syllabi and teaching evaluations to the chair of the search committee (via email or regular mail). Additionally, candidates will need to formally apply for the position using the USAJobs site, which will begin accepting applications on 1 September 2018. Review of applications will begin 1 October and continue until the position is filled.

Preliminary interviews will be conducted at the APSA annual meeting in Boston from August 30-Sep 1, 2018.

To schedule a meeting at APSA or for further information, please direct inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Derrick Frazier (derrick.frazier@us.af.mil); SAASS, 125 Chennault Circle, Room 2222A, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112).

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Whittier College

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Public Policy and American Politics, and capable of teaching a core course in Public Administration. We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: race and politics, minority politics, environmental politics, state and local politics with an emphasis on California, and/or political theory.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach 20 units each year and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as First-year Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of materials will begin September 10, and will continue until the appointment is made. If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please let us know, and send your c.v. and letter of application by August 1. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance. Full applications should include: a letter of application, including discussion of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation, sent by your references. Please email (PDFs preferred) materials to Prof. Deborah Norden, Department Chair, at <mailto:dnorden@whittier.edu>. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Prof. Deborah Norden, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Given multiple expected retirements and the demographics of departmental faculty, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. This is an exciting opportunity for a senior scholar to aid in the mentoring of rising junior scholars, to continue hiring of diverse and productive faculty, and promote one the largest majors in the college and University. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be named the "Vail Pittman Professor of Political Science" and have access to an endowment that comes with the Pittman Professorship.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Required Qualifications

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Department Information

The Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, and a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

University of Oregon

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Congress, Electoral Systems, Quantitative Methods

The University of Oregon's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position of Assistant Professor in Political Science, to begin in fall 2019. We seek candidates specializing in U.S. Congress, parties, political participation and elections, interest groups and/or public opinion with demonstrated sophistication in quantitative methods. Competitive applicants will be capable of outstanding research and teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Our faculty employ diverse theoretical and methodological approaches but share the pursuit of meaningful answers to big questions with real-world implications. The department features a strong pole of research and teaching about American politics, with particular strengths in institutions, American political development, and the politics of race, gender and sexuality. We particularly welcome applications from scholars who are from populations historically underrepresented in the academy, and/or who have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds.

UO is committed to recruiting and retaining a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty. We encourage applications from all qualified candidates, and strongly encourage women faculty, faculty of color and faculty with disabilities to apply. We are especially interested in candidates who can support our work in mentoring, research, teaching, and outreach with women, first-generation students, communities of color, and other underrepresented groups. All applicants are requested to include in their cover letter information about how they will contribute to this work.

Brandeis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Brandeis University invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American Politics. The successful candidate's term will begin in the Fall of 2019. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American Politics, open as to subfield. We are especially interested in candidates working on campaigns and elections, state and local politics, or public policy, particularly as these areas intersect with race, ethnicity, and gender. We prefer candidates who will have a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August of 2019. Candidates should show evidence of teaching and research excellence to qualify for consideration. The course load is 2/2, and candidates will have the opportunity to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings, a chapter or article length writing sample, and three letters of reference. Brandeis University is committed to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion in faculty scholarship, teaching, and service. Applicants are encouraged to address these goals in their cover letter or in their teaching and research statement. These materials can be submitted electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11383>. First consideration will be given to applications received by October 1, 2018. Questions about the position can be directed to: Jill Greenlee (greenlee@brandeis.edu) and Daniel Kryder (kryder@brandeis.edu), Co-Chairs, Search Committee on American Politics. Brandeis University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer that is committed to creating equitable access and opportunities for applicants for all employment positions. We value and are seeking candidates that represent a variety of social identities, including those what have been underrepresented in higher education. Diversity in its student body, staff and faculty is important to Brandeis' primary mission. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their creative endeavors, teaching and/or service experiences, will increase Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and better prepare its students to participate within a pluralistic society.

University of Delaware

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Political Behavior, Political Psychology

THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE
 DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
 ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS

The University of Delaware's academic leadership has identified the Department Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) (POSCIR) as a priority for academic growth and prominence. We invite applications for a position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor (tenure track) beginning September 1, 2019. We seek a scholar studying American politics who has strong methodological skills and exhibits exemplary potential. Ideal candidates will have a record of publishing, evident interest in securing research funding, and experience teaching courses in American politics. The successful applicant must have a Ph.D. in hand by August 31, 2019.

We are especially interested in scholars engaging generally with inequality in the American political context. This could include research related to race and ethnicity, economic or educational inequality, or gender politics, but is not limited to these areas. We encourage scholars working on inequality from either institutional or behavioral perspectives including but not limited to the study of political parties, interest groups, social groups and movements, to apply.

The Department has 26 faculty, nearly 1,000 undergraduate majors and minors, and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. We offer two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law), comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, <http://apply.interfolio.com/52194> applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, teaching evaluations, one article-length writing sample, and three letters of reference. Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to Professor Jason Mycoff (mycoff@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu).

Barnard College-Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Barnard College is a highly selective liberal arts college for women, affiliated with Columbia University. The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of American Politics. We are open to exact area of specialization, but are particularly interested in a candidate with expertise in the politics of race and ethnicity, gender, or institutions, broadly defined. We are especially interested in applicants who can make connections to at least one of Barnard's many interdisciplinary programs and establish professional networks in the broader New York and/or Washington DC policy communities that might benefit our students.

Applicants must have completed the PhD, show promise in their scholarship (hold the prospect of publication in major refereed journals and as a university press book in political science), and have demonstrated excellence in teaching at or beyond the level of teaching assistant.

Barnard College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is actively committed to creating a diverse and inclusive community. We especially encourage applications from women, people of color, persons with disabilities, LGBT people, people from diverse economic backgrounds, and individuals from other underrepresented groups.

Applications should include a cover letter describing research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; one dissertation chapter or published writing sample; and an unofficial graduate transcript; and the contact information for three letters of recommendation.

Recommended additional documents include teaching evaluations and syllabi for courses taught independently (or potential courses the applicant would like to teach). Please submit these under the optional "other document" upload field.

Please apply online to: <http://careers.barnard.edu/postings/3505>.

Applications must be received by September 15, 2018 to receive full consideration.

Santa Clara University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: State Politics, Political Behavior, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Santa Clara University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in U.S. Politics, to begin fall 2019, with a specialization in either public policy, state and local politics, or political behavior. Applicants must have a PhD at the time of appointment, experience teaching at the university level, and a clear research trajectory, with a record of publication strongly preferred. To support SCU's strategic priority of engagement with Silicon Valley, we are especially interested in candidates whose scholarship and teaching will promote student engagement with the local community, e.g. by involving students in a locally-focused research project or by integrating an experiential-learning component into a course. The person we hire will contribute to the Department's offerings in public-sector studies by teaching upper-division courses in her/his area of specialty, will contribute to the University's core curriculum by teaching Introduction to U.S. Politics, and may occasionally be called upon to teach Introduction to Political Science Research.

The application deadline is August 24, 2018. Applicants should submit: (1) a CV, (2) a letter articulating teaching areas and philosophy, research plans, as well as experiences working with people of diverse cultures and identities, (3) teaching evaluations, (4) sample syllabi, (5) a writing sample (no more than 40 pages), and (6) unofficial graduate transcripts. Three letters of reference will be automatically solicited through the applicant portal system upon submission of the application. The application portal can be found at <https://jobs.scu.edu/postings/7369>.

Located in the heart of northern California's Silicon Valley, Santa Clara is a private, Jesuit, Catholic university committed to promoting social justice in a comprehensive educational setting. It is an AA/EOE employer. Faculty are teaching-scholars who balance a commitment to quality teaching with active programs of research. A full-time teaching load is 7 courses over three 10-week quarters, with a 1-course reduction for research. Faculty receive scholarship support through sabbaticals and travel funds. Housing assistance is available.

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics to begin in the academic year 2019-2020.

We are seeking candidates with expertise in a wide range of fields; the only exception is law, in which we are already well-staffed. We are particularly interested in the politics of race and ethnicity, minority politics, immigration politics, urban politics, media and politics, and public opinion in the United States. We are also interested in candidates who can teach an introductory methods course, whether qualitative, quantitative, or some combination. The person hired will also be expected to teach our introductory course in American politics.

Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research, and service that they can contribute to this goal. Familiarity with, and experience using, pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential will be considered a valuable additional qualification.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members teach two courses per semester.

Ph.D. completed or near completed preferred, ABD considered. All applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vita, a sample of your research, teaching materials (for example student evaluations or sample syllabi), your graduate transcript, and three letters of reference.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. The deadline for receipt of all application materials is September 17, 2018. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system please email us at working@wellesley.edu. ## Michigan State University

Rank: Research Associate (Postdoc)- Fixed Term

Minority Politics – Research Associate/Post-Doc

- Rank: Post-Doc
- Start: August 16, 2018 or January 1, 2019
- Salary: $60,000
- Research Support: $10,000

Michigan State University (MSU) invites outstanding candidates from political science disciplines to apply to a Research Associate/Postdoctoral Fellowship. The initial appointment will be for one year, with an option for reappointment for another year. The purpose of this postdoc is to support promising scholars who are committed to diversity in the academy.

The position begins on August 16, 2018 or January 1, 2019 and all applicants must have received a Ph.D. within the last five years and by the position's start date.

Special consideration will be given to those with research interests in race, ethnicity or minority politics, inequality or the intersection of gender with minority politics in the United States. The successful applicant will be housed in the Department of Political Science. They must be in residence at Michigan State University during the academic terms and are expected to participate in their host department's seminars and research seminars, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates should also demonstrate evidence of securing external research funding, a record of publishing high quality research, and a strong future research agenda.

There is no teaching requirement for this position.

The closing date for applications is June 30, 2018. Applicants must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Applicant Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu>, Job number 508508. Please submit cover letter, CV, research statement, two samples of written work, diversity and inclusion statement (which should discuss the applicant's ability and experience working with underrepresented student populations), and three letters of recommendations sent directly from referees.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Please contact Eric Juenke (juenke@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Mount Holyoke College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics - American Politics

We invite applications for a position in American politics. We envision hiring a new scholar and teacher of American politics whose research and teaching would engage the role of national institutions and/or public policy in creating and responding to class, race, and/or gender inequality. The new hire will teach classes that complement and strengthen current offerings in the American politics subfield. The ideal candidate would be able to teach courses that contribute to the college's interdisciplinary programs. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level beginning in Fall 2019. Mount Holyoke supports faculty scholarship through research funds, travel support, and sabbaticals, and a 2-2 teaching load. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the time of appointment.

We will begin accepting applications on July 1, 2018. Please submit a letter of application, C.V., graduate transcripts, sample syllabi of an Introduction to American Politics course and a course in your field of specialization, a short writing sample, and statements covering (1) research interests, (2) teaching philosophy, (3) the mentoring of a diverse student body. The successful candidate should be able to demonstrate excellence at teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Deadline for applications is September 15, 2018. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted on their behalf. Electronic prompts to referees will be generated automatically after the completed application has been submitted. Applications must be made online at <https://jobs.mtholyoke.edu/>. For further information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Prof. Preston Smith, at: psmith@mtholyoke.edu.

Mount Holyoke is an undergraduate liberal arts college for women with 2,200 students and 220 faculty. Over half the faculty are women; one-fourth are persons of color. Mount Holyoke College is located about 90 miles west of Boston in the Connecticut River Valley, and is a member of the Five College Consortium consisting of Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

Mount Holyoke College is committed to enriching the educational experience it offers through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff members. Mount Holyoke seeks to recruit and support a broadly diverse faculty who will contribute to the college's academic excellence, diversity of viewpoints and experiences, and relevance in a global society. In furtherance of academic excellence, the College encourages applications from individuals from underrepresented groups in the professoriate, and individuals with a demonstrated commitment to applying and including diverse perspectives to learning, scholarship, service, and leadership in the academy.

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: American Politics, Political Development, Presidency

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2019. Ph.D. preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses in American political thought and American political development. Additional teaching and research areas might include power and the American presidency; religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; and rural and/or labor politics. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique. The department seeks candidates that have demonstrated a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Applications received by September 15, 2018, will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a statement explaining how your skills and experience support the campus' commitment to diversity. Please arrange to have three letters of reference sent via Interfolio. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

Rank: Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center: Director

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Administration, American Government and Politics

The Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center seeks a dynamic director who is passionate about the work of the Blanco Center to serve as Founding Director. The Director of the Blanco Center will lead the Center's efforts to provide policy expertise and data to elected officials and agencies, provide training to state and local officials, and host lectures, forums, and meetings on matters of public interest. The Director is a twelve-month administrative position. Potential for faculty status and tenure in an academic department dependent on qualifications.

Inspired by the leadership and vision of Kathleen Babineaux Blanco, Governor of Louisiana (2004-2008), the University of Louisiana at Lafayette has created the Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center (Blanco Center). The Blanco Center is an independent, interdisciplinary research center, bringing together experts from different academic departments to conduct research, analyze data, create white papers and write grants. The Blanco Center, which is a partnership between the College of Liberal Arts and the Edith Garland Dupre Library, will work primarily in the public policy areas emphasized by Governor Blanco during her long and distinguished career in state government. These include governmental ethics, criminal justice reform, poverty and economic opportunity, and education. The Blanco Center aims to provide policymakers and the public with the information necessary to improve lives and communities all across Louisiana. With this in mind, a special interest of the Center is promoting and expanding the role of women in politics and providing training for community leaders and elected officials. The Kathleen Babineaux Blanco Public Policy Center serves the public interest through leadership in state and local policy.

The Center is housed in the College of Liberal Arts and reports to the Dean of that College. The Director is responsible for all activities and personnel working in the Center as well as superintending the Center's archives which includes Governor Blanco's records and papers.

Visiting Assistant Professor (One Year)

Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one year visiting position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2018. Ph.D preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper level courses in American political thought and American political development. Other teaching and research areas might include religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; rural and/or labor politics; and power and the American presidency. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

Applications received by March 16, 2018 will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. The department will conduct preliminary reviews at this year's WPSA meeting in San Francisco. Applicants should indicate whether they will be attending the meeting.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and arrange to have three letters of reference sent. Applicants should submit all materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/48507>. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

University of Cincinnati

Rank: Islamic Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The University of Cincinnati invites applications by advanced assistant and associate professors to fill the Inayat and Ishrat Malik Professorship in Islamic Studies. The position will begin in the fall of 2019. The search committee welcomes applications from scholars in the field of Islamic Studies, with research and teaching interests in such areas as Anthropology, Comparative Religion, Arabic, Ethics, Gender Studies, History, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, and Theology.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. is required, as well as prior teaching experience and evidence of scholarly excellence.

The successful candidate is expected to engage in research, to teach on the graduate and undergraduate levels in their area, and to contribute, via interdisciplinary education and as appropriate, to undergraduate certificate programs in such areas as Religious Studies, Middle Eastern Studies, Arabic Studies, Asian Studies, Security Studies, and Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies. The successful candidate should be thoroughly knowledgeable in the Islamic intellectual tradition and in Qur'anic Studies. Enthusiasm to present Islamic teachings in multiple areas of thought and experience and in a style accessible to diverse student audiences is essential. This effort will include the presentation of at least one public lecture in Islamic Studies each academic year. The candidate should also have a track-record of engagement with the Islamic community, demonstrate a willingness to contribute to the Islamic Center of Greater Cincinnati, and be able to build productive relationships with academic partners across campus and with interfaith and cultural groups in the Cincinnati area.

The tenure-track position will be housed in the department in the College of Arts & Sciences most appropriate to the candidate's degree. Joint appointments are possible.

The successful candidate will be expected to make service contributions to the mission of that department and commensurate with the position of Professorship in Islamic Studies. The teaching load will accord with that of research-active faculty. The University of Cincinnati is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity. The University is interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community, and we hope to attract applicants who have experience in promoting the success of students from diverse backgrounds. We encourage women, members of racial/ethnic/gender groups underrepresented in higher education, persons with disabilities, and veterans to apply.

For full consideration, interested and qualified apply online at <https://jobs.uc.edu> (Search Requisition #31164). A complete application will include a letter of interest, a CV, an article-length writing sample, and a one-page statement summarizing your contributions or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion as they relate to teaching, research and/or mentoring. Please use the Additional Documents function to submit the required documents. Three letters of reference must be directly submitted by recommenders to history@ucmail.uc.edu.

Non-Tenure Track Faculty Fellow
Center for European & Mediterranean Studies
New York University Arts and Science

The Center for European and Mediterranean Studies in Arts and Science at New York University invites applicants for a Faculty Fellow position. The initial appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2019, renewable annually for a maximum of three years, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

CEMS seeks a scholar specializing in one or more of the following fields of Mediterranean Studies: comparative European and Mediterranean politics, anthropology, or sociology; or modern Mediterranean history. We are particularly interested in candidates with research and/or teaching interests concerning Southern Europe and the Mediterranean regions. Additionally, we would value academic interest in the European Union and issues of Mediterranean migration and cultural diversity. Responsibilities include teaching three graduate and undergraduate courses per year - possibly including a graduate research methods seminar and overseeing undergraduate independent studies.

The position also involves a significant role in advising theses for both master's students and undergraduate honors majors. Service to the program will involve representing the Center at university occasions and committee meetings. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to interdisciplinary scholarship and excellence in teaching, and have completed the Ph.D. no earlier than 2014 and no later than August 1, 2019.

All application materials should be submitted via Interfolio through the following link: apply.interfolio.com/51492. ## Franklin & Marshall College

Rank: Comparative Politics, Assistant Professor

POSITION: Comparative Politics, Assistant Professor

Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a tenure-track position for Comparative Politics in the Department of Government beginning Fall 2019. The rank will be Assistant Professor or Instructor depending on qualifications. Applicants must possess or be close to completing a doctorate (or terminal degree) in political science.

Responsibilities include teaching introductory, intermediate and advanced courses in comparative politics with a preference for expertise in either Asia or the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region.

Teaching experience is preferred. Teaching load is 3/2 and includes participation in the College's general education requirement, "Connections". Candidates must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), teaching and research statement, diversity statement, a writing sample, and teaching evaluation forms to <https://apply.interfolio.com/52454>. Applicants must arrange for three letters of support to be submitted by recommenders directly to Interfolio. For full consideration applications must be completed by October 1, 2018.

Pursuant to cultivating an inclusive college community, the search committee will holistically assess the qualifications of each applicant. We will consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds. We will also consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to academic success.

The person selected for this tenure-track position may also be considered for a supplemental appointment as a Franklin & Marshall (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar. These are scholars who possess outstanding promise for inspiring and supporting the educational development of underrepresented minority students in a higher educational setting such as F&M. Selected finalists who meet these additional qualifications, in addition to those outlined by this ad, may be nominated by the department as an F&M (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar. If selected as a M/HIES, the person will receive a two-year appointment (additional to the tenure-track appointment) that begins as soon as the person joins the campus on the tenure-track. The M/HIES program supports the acceleration of one's research trajectory with a significantly reduced teaching load for two years along with supportive mentoring to advance the scholar's research and professional development. Candidates interested in being considered for nomination should indicate their interest in their cover letter and highlight any previous work in this area in their diversity statement.

University of Mannheim

Rank: Professor in Political Science

The School of Social Sciences, Department of Political Science at the University of Mannheim, invites applications for the position of beginning at the earliest date possible.

The University of Mannheim is looking for a scholar with outstanding commitment to research to strengthen the department's expertise in the field of empirical democracy research. Applicants should have an empirical and theoretical research agenda that addresses matters such as causes for the consolidation, deconsolidation and persistence of democracy, conditions for the functioning of democracies and authoritarian regimes.

The successful candidate must have a university and doctoral degree, commitment to excellence in teaching, and documented excellence in research (§ 47 LHG of the State of Baden-Württemberg). She/he will teach undergraduate and graduate courses. Acquisition of external grants is expected.

The University of Mannheim offers an excellent international environment, visible in the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research (MZES), the Graduate School of Economic and Social Sciences (GESS), the Collaborative Research Centre SFB 884 on "Political Economy of Reforms" and the editorship of the American Political Science Review (APSR). The candidate is expected to play an active role in the further development of these centres.

The University of Mannheim places great emphasis on the training and mentoring of students and therefore expects full-time presence of its teaching staff and the ability to teach in English. In order to foster the integration of the University into the region, it is expected that professors move to Mannheim or the larger metropolitan area.

The University of Mannheim is an equal opportunity employer. Applicants with disabilities are treated with preference given comparable qualification. The University seeks to increase the number of women in research and teaching and thus strongly and explicitly encourages qualified female scholars to apply.

Please submit your application online at <http://jobs.sowi.uni-mannheim.de/>. Your application should consist of a single file including a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae including a list of publications, certificates and records and the two most recent teaching evaluations.

If you cannot submit your application online, please send the above mentioned documents to the Dean of the School of Social Sciences at the University of Mannheim, Prof. Dr. Michael Diehl, A5, 6, 68131 Mannheim, Germany (dekanat@sowi.uni-mannheim.de) or as pdf-file to gerner@sowi.uni-mannheim.de.

Wheaton College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Specializations: International Political Economy, Foreign Policy, International Security

APPLY ONLINE AT: <http://jobs.wheatoncollege.edu/postings/2423>

The Department of Political Science at Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations to begin in the Fall of 2019. The ideal candidate will possess the ability to teach introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations, as well as to extend departmental coverage in Comparative Politics in regions including South Asian, South-East Asian, East Asian, or Central and Eastern European (including Russia) politics. The Political Science Department is home to both a political science major and an interdisciplinary international relations major, and the successful candidate will collaborate with colleagues in the management of the international relations major program.

All International Relations subfield specializations will be considered, including, but not limited to, the following areas:

- international political economy
- comparative foreign policy
- security studies
- intra or inter-state conflict
- peace studies
- conflict resolution.

We are especially interested in the ability to develop and teach courses at the intersections of traditional discipline and subfield specializations. We are committed to providing our students with excellent educational and co-curricular opportunities, and our faculty has significant mentoring experience with new teachers in postdoctoral and junior faculty appointments. For example, we offer regular programming in professional development and all tenure-track faculty are entitled to a fully paid pre-tenure sabbatical and research funds to support scholarship.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

- A PhD at the onset of the appointment (August 2019) is required.
- A commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarship.
- For full consideration, the following are to be submitted via Wheaton's online application system: letter of application; curriculum vitae; statement of teaching philosophy; statement of research philosophy; evidence of teaching effectiveness (materials on your teaching history, including sample syllabi and course evaluations); and at least one scholarly writing sample.
- Wheaton strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. Candidates should describe in their letter of application how their teaching and scholarship might support the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion. In addition, the letter of application should also include areas of specialty, as well as explain the candidate's interest in teaching in a liberal arts environment.
- Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Prior teaching experience; classroom experience is highly desirable.
- Dedication to scholarly achievement.
- Commitment to the liberal arts environment.

Bucknell University*Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in the comparative politics of Europe beginning in the fall semester of 2019. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in comparative politics, a course in European politics, a course in either quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other courses in the candidate's field of specialization.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence, as well as the promise of being a productive scholar, are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in Comparative Politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations (if available), along with any other relevant materials. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 24, 2018.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Along with its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas, and the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the interdisciplinary investigation of the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. In 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Comparative Politics of Identity and Representation

The College of Social Science at Michigan State University seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure system position in Comparative Politics. We are looking to hire an Assistant Professor, preferably at a more advanced level. As part of a new initiative on Minority Politics, we seek applicants whose research and teaching (graduate and undergraduate) falls in the politics of identity and representation (related to ethnicity, race, religion, caste, tribe, region, gender, sexual orientation, and/or class) in a comparative context. The position is open with regard to regional specialization, social scientific disciplinary training, and tenure home within the College of Social Science. A successful candidate will have evidence of securing external funding, a record of publishing high quality research, a strong future research agenda, and a documented commitment to teaching. The position begins August 16, 2019.

The closing date for applications is September 30, 2018, though later applications may be accepted if the search remains open.

Interested candidates must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Applicant Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu>, Job Posting number 515382. Please submit your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, one sample of your written work, a teaching statement, and a diversity and inclusion statement. Applicants should arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Please contact Ani Sarkissian (asarkiss@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Tulane University

Rank: The Scott and Marjorie Cowen Chair in Latin American Social Sciences based in the Political Science Department, Tulane University

The Political Science Department at Tulane University invites applications for the Scott and Marjorie Cowen Chair in Latin American Social Sciences. We seek an accomplished full professor with an international reputation who has helped to shape the contemporary understanding of Latin American politics through research that has been published in university press books and peer-reviewed journals. The candidate's work should be empirically grounded, sensitive to context, and primarily focused on Latin America. It should contribute to new forms of description, concept formation, causal inference, and theoretical innovations on socially relevant phenomena in the region. Methods of research and analysis should be a function of the problem to be studied rather than the reverse. Preferred areas of specialization include state-society relations, political regimes, state building, state erosion, and citizen rights; institutional analysis, change, and development, including questions of political representation and the politics of social and economic development and economic inequality; and policy making, including both general policy-making processes and particular policy areas crucial to economic development and sustainability, such as environmental, economic, and social policy.

Applications received by November 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled. The appointment will begin July 2019.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae and three letters of recommendation online at apply.interfolio.com/52071. Queries may be addressed to Professor Eduardo Silva, Friezo Family Foundation Chair in Political Science (gesilva@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Studies

The Department of Political Science and the International Studies Program at Trinity College invite applications for a joint, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in the Comparative Politics of the Global South commencing with the 2019-2020 academic year. We especially welcome applications from candidates whose research intersects the subjects of comparative urban politics, ethnic politics, and/or contentious politics. The successful applicant will be expected to design courses that contribute to both Political Science and International Studies. The candidate should demonstrate the potential for becoming an outstanding scholar and teacher. The Ph.D. should be in hand or expected by the end of August, 2019.

To ensure full consideration please submit a letter of application (including statement of research and teaching interests), CV, graduate transcript, sample of scholarly writing, course syllabi and evaluations (if available) and at least three letters of reference on <https://trincoll.peopleadmin.com> by October 1, 2018.

Trinity College is coeducational independent, nonsectarian liberal arts college with approximately 2,200 undergraduate students and 200 faculty members, located in Hartford, Connecticut. Candidates should have a strong commitment to undergraduate and interdisciplinary teaching in a liberal arts context, and a well-articulated plan for sustained research. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to attracting and supporting a faculty of women and men who fully represent the racial, ethnic, and cultural diversity of the United States. ## Lake Forest College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Lake Forest College Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in comparative politics, to begin August 2019. The Department is open to regions of expertise but will seek applicants who can address global, transnational issues such as environmentalism, human rights, migration, political and economic development, or others.

The College has a significant program in International Relations which is interdisciplinary but relies heavily on the Department of Politics for courses and advisors; the successful candidate will contribute to IR. The College also has programs in Asian Studies, Gender and Women's Studies, Islamic World Studies, Latin American Studies, Legal Studies, and Social Justice; contribution to any of those is a plus. We seek an instructor to teach multiple sections of Introduction to Global Politics in addition to offering other courses in comparative and global politics. Candidates must be able to teach a research methods course, required of students majoring in politics or international relations, that includes quantitative methods.

Candidates will be expected to have a record of demonstrated teaching excellence and evidence of scholarly productivity, commensurate with experience. A Ph.D. in political science must be completed by the time of appointment. Our teaching load is 3/3, with small classes (typically 15-25 students). We support faculty research through provision of student research assistants and summer research funds; successful passage of the third-year review earns a half-year sabbatical at full pay, in the fourth or fifth year of service. Tenure review takes place at the start of the sixth year.

A highly selective liberal arts college located on Chicago's North Shore, Lake Forest College enrolls approximately 1,600 students from more than 40 states and from more than 70 countries. At Lake Forest College, the quality of a faculty member's teaching is the most important criterion for evaluation. The College also expects peer-reviewed publications and active participation in the College community. Lake Forest College embraces diversity and encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

All application materials must be submitted electronically. Applicants should send a letter of application, CV, sample syllabi for no more than two courses, an unofficial transcript (we will ask for official transcripts only of candidates invited for on campus interviews), evidence of teaching effectiveness (in the form of student evaluations), and a brief writing sample (no more than ten pages; it may be an excerpt from a longer work) to Polsearch2018@lakeforest.edu. Please arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to Polsearch2018@lakeforest.edu. Review of completed applications will begin as early as October 1, 2018. Questions about the position should be addressed to the department chair, Professor Siobhan Moroney, moroney@lakeforest.edu.

The Department will conduct a few interviews at the APSA meeting in Boston. If you are interested in scheduling one, send only a cover letter and CV to Siobhan Moroney, moroney@lakeforest.edu. We will give full consideration to applicants not attending the APSA conference.

- Expertise on strategic global issues or regions of the world;

- The ability to teach courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations;
- Experience or willingness to teach online;
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness and dynamism;
- Effective written and verbal communication skills;
- Effective interpersonal skills;
- Strong research agenda and scholarly potential.

Preferred qualifications include:

- Willingness to collaborate with students;
- Ability to teach American Foreign Policy, Political Economy and/or the Political Science capstone.

SALARY:

Commensurate with qualifications.

UNIVERSITY/COMMUNITY:

SDSU is a land grant institution and the state's largest institution of higher education with an enrollment of approximately 13,000. The Department is located in the College of Arts and Sciences and provides majors in History and Political Science along with minors in Philosophy, Religion and Legal Studies. Various members of the department contribute courses to the Global Studies Program, the American Indian Program, and the Teacher Education Program.

Brookings, South Dakota is a community of 22,000 on the eastern border of the state. It is located 50 miles north of the city of Sioux Falls, a city of approximately 150,000. The drive to Sioux Falls takes approximately 40 minutes, as the north-south interstate runs alongside the town. Brookings has an eclectic mix of fine restaurants and shops and an excellent K-12 educational system. The city is also accessible to major medical facilities, has an active social and cultural environment, and has numerous lakes and parks within easy distance. The state arboretum is part of the SDSU campus. Brookings is also located about 200 miles west of the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, a metropolitan area with major design and art centers.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:

The position will be open until filled with full consideration given to applications received by August 15, 2018.

APPLICATION PROCESS:

SDSU accepts applications through an online employment site. To apply, visit: <https://yourfuture.sdbor.edu>, search for the position by title, view the job announcement, and click on "apply for this job." The system will guide you through the electronic application form. The employment site will also require the attachment of a cover letter, which should specifically address how the candidate meets the qualifications as outlined in the advertisement indicating the courses you are qualified to teach based on the list above; Curriculum Vitae; evidence of teaching effectiveness, particularly recent IDEA scores (attached as 'other document'); and reference page with the contact information for three professional references. Email applications will not be accepted. Please contact SDSU Human Resources at (605) 688-4128 if you require assistance with the electronic application process.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities in the fields of economics, social sciences and humanities, and has emerged as a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was ranked 48th in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and is among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

One of its unique features has been its direct involvement in socioeconomic reforms in Russia, which has allowed HSE to develop as a "project and research university" where education, fundamental and applied research, and "think tank" activities are combined for the comprehensive development of society. Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has more than 30 international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world.

Since 2006 the HSE has been recruiting professional academics from international research universities in order to raise the standards of research at the University. HSE now employs more than 100 international tenure-track and postdoctoral fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and centers in Moscow and at HSE's campuses in St. Petersburg and Perm.

School of Political Science

The School of Political Science offers an array of educational options for students from Russia and abroad. We teach a full range of subjects based on the latest developments in academic research in political science. From comparative politics to political theory and quantitative and qualitative approaches, the professors of the School pursue research across the entire spectrum of modern political science. Not only is there methodological diversity; there is considerable breadth in terms of substantive and geographic specializations. Among the School's academic "trademarks" are comparative politics and Russian politics, including politics in the Russian regions.

The quality of research at Higher School of Economics has already been widely recognized, and HSE counts among the top-100 universities in the world according to the QS ranking in this subject field.

Princeton University

Rank: Fellowship

Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Candidates will be considered in three categories: (1) Four of the fellowships will be awarded to early-career scholars employed in the equivalent of tenure-track positions who are expected to return to their position. (2) One fellowship is set aside for a postdoctoral research associate who at the time of application does not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. (3) In addition, one fellowship will be awarded to a senior scholar. All candidates must be based outside the United States.

During the academic year 2019-20, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal of this research theme is to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We also want to understand how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. The Program will also examine rival world ideas that have challenged prevailing orthodoxies. Nowadays, with cooperative norms under challenge, global institutions under stress, and a century of guiding ideas about global convergence in doubt, we want to take a broad look at where these ideas came from, their effects, and the prospects for intellectual renewal or rethinking. The goal of the 2019-20 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applications are due on November 9, 2018. All candidates must reside outside the United States. To be eligible, postdoctoral applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. before August 1, 2019 but cannot have received their degrees more than three years prior to the start of the appointment on September 1, 2019. Early-career fellows must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2009. Senior scholars, who have received their doctorates before 2009, must have faculty appointments and a record of scholarly accomplishment in the designated theme of the program. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program.

Georgetown University

Rank: Senior Tenured Scholar - McDonough School of Business and the Walsh School of Foreign Service

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both schools. We seek scholars who work at the intersection of business and international affairs in fields such as international political economy, international trade, and international business and public policy. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Full Professor, though we welcome applications from accomplished associate professors. We also welcome applications from and nominations of senior scholars with extensive policymaking experience.

This joint position is one of a number of new interdisciplinary positions at Georgetown intended to foster scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Because of our location in Washington, DC, extensive linkages to the international policy and business communities, and strong tradition of scholarship and teaching in business, international affairs, and political economy, Georgetown has a unique opportunity to pursue integrative opportunities in scholarship and educational programs at the intersection of these fields, and the person appointed to the joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB and SFS are currently undertaking a transformative cooperation to create a new joint undergraduate degree, the first in Georgetown's history, and plans are also underway for joint centers and research initiatives. This cooperation builds on the success of several joint graduate degrees, as well as a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. The successful candidate will help provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. The MSB has strengths in core business disciplines as well as international business, public policy, and international political economy. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here: <https://www.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business attracts faculty and students from around the world. We are committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here: <https://msb.georgetown.edu/>

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE: The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and language. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to apply.interfolio.com/52848. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2018, but will accept applications and nominations until the position is filled. Professors Dennis P. Quinn of MSB and Erik Voeten of SFS will co-chair the search.

University of Cincinnati

Rank: Islamic Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The University of Cincinnati invites applications by advanced assistant and associate professors to fill the Inayat and Ishrat Malik Professorship in Islamic Studies. The position will begin in the fall of 2019. The search committee welcomes applications from scholars in the field of Islamic Studies, with research and teaching interests in such areas as Anthropology, Comparative Religion, Arabic, Ethics, Gender Studies, History, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, and Theology.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. is required, as well as prior teaching experience and evidence of scholarly excellence.

The successful candidate is expected to engage in research, to teach on the graduate and undergraduate levels in their area, and to contribute, via interdisciplinary education and as appropriate, to undergraduate certificate programs in such areas as Religious Studies, Middle Eastern Studies, Arabic Studies, Asian Studies, Security Studies, and Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies. The successful candidate should be thoroughly knowledgeable in the Islamic intellectual tradition and in Qur'anic Studies. Enthusiasm to present Islamic teachings in multiple areas of thought and experience and in a style accessible to diverse student audiences is essential. This effort will include the presentation of at least one public lecture in Islamic Studies each academic year. The candidate should also have a track-record of engagement with the Islamic community, demonstrate a willingness to contribute to the Islamic Center of Greater Cincinnati, and be able to build productive relationships with academic partners across campus and with interfaith and cultural groups in the Cincinnati area.

The tenure-track position will be housed in the department in the College of Arts & Sciences most appropriate to the candidate's degree. Joint appointments are possible.

The successful candidate will be expected to make service contributions to the mission of that department and commensurate with the position of Professorship in Islamic Studies. The teaching load will accord with that of research-active faculty. The University of Cincinnati is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity. The University is interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community, and we hope to attract applicants who have experience in promoting the success of students from diverse backgrounds. We encourage women, members of racial/ethnic/gender groups underrepresented in higher education, persons with disabilities, and veterans to apply.

For full consideration, interested and qualified apply online at <https://jobs.uc.edu> (Search Requisition #31164). A complete application will include a letter of interest, a CV, an article-length writing sample, and a one-page statement summarizing your contributions or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion as they relate to teaching, research and/or mentoring. Please use the Additional Documents function to submit the required documents. Three letters of reference must be directly submitted by recommenders to history@ucmail.uc.edu.

For questions or additional information, please contact Professor Jeff Zalar, Chair of the Search Committee, at zalarj@ucmail.uc.edu.

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Given multiple expected retirements and the demographics of departmental faculty, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. This is an exciting opportunity for a senior scholar to aid in the mentoring of rising junior scholars, to continue hiring of diverse and productive faculty, and promote one the largest majors in the college and University. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be named the "Vail Pittman Professor of Political Science" and have access to an endowment that comes with the Pittman Professorship.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Required Qualifications

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Department Information

The Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, and a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

We are especially interested in the ability to develop and teach courses at the intersections of traditional discipline and subfield specializations.

We are committed to providing our students with excellent educational and co-curricular opportunities, and our faculty has significant mentoring experience with new teachers in postdoctoral and junior faculty appointments. For example, we offer regular programming in professional development and all tenure-track faculty are entitled to a fully paid pre-tenure sabbatical and research funds to support scholarship.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

- A PhD at the onset of the appointment (August 2019) is required.
- A commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarship.
- For full consideration, the following are to be submitted via Wheaton's online application system: letter of application; curriculum vitae; statement of teaching philosophy; statement of research philosophy; evidence of teaching effectiveness (materials on your teaching history, including sample syllabi and course evaluations); and at least one scholarly writing sample.
- Wheaton strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. Candidates should describe in their letter of application how their teaching and scholarship might support the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion. In addition, the letter of application should also include areas of specialty, as well as explain the candidate's interest in teaching in a liberal arts environment.
- Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Prior teaching experience; classroom experience is highly desirable.
- Dedication to scholarly achievement.
- Commitment to the liberal arts environment.

Arcadia University

Rank: Part-time Faculty - Historical and Political Studies

Specializations: Environmental Policy, International Law & Organizations, Foreign Policy

The Department of Historical & Political Studies (HAPS) at Arcadia University, invites applications for a part-time lecturer to teach two courses in the fall of 2018, specifically Global Environmental Politics (on Monday/Wednesday/Friday late mornings) and Global Governance & International Organizations (on Tuesday/Thursday early afternoons).

The ideal candidate would be able to teach both courses, but applications for teaching one of these courses will be considered. It is also likely that two courses will be available to teach in spring 2019, which could reflect the candidate's area of expertise, depending on department need and teaching effectiveness.

A Ph.D. by September 2018 is preferred, as is a demonstrated excellence in and commitment to teaching. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion are highly desirable. We welcome candidates with training in History, Political Science, Anthropology, and other related disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields. HAPS is an inter-disciplinary department with three undergraduate majors (History; International Studies; Politics, Government & Law) and one Master's program (International Peace and Conflict Resolution), and most faculty members in HAPS teach in multiple areas of the department as per their areas of expertise.

Arcadia's College of Arts and Sciences offers programs in science, technology, and math; humanities; visual and performing arts; communications; and historical and political studies. These programs prepare students for careers that contribute to a global society and allow students to exhibit, perform, and publish on campus through a variety of campus media outlets, including an art gallery, a literary magazine, and an online journal.

Arcadia University is a top-ranked private university in Greater Philadelphia and promises a distinctly global, integrative, and personal learning experience that prepares students to contribute and lead in a diverse and dynamic world. A national leader in study abroad and international education, Arcadia has been named #1 in undergraduate study abroad participation by the Institute of International Education's Open Doors Report for the past seven years. Approximately 3,900 students attend Arcadia, and the University's 2,500 undergraduate students choose from more than 65 fields of study.

Candidates should apply online at <https://faculty-arcadia.icims.com/>, where they will submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three academic references.

Questions can be submitted to Department Chair Amy Widstrom (widstroma@arcadia.edu).

Applications must be received online by July 15, 2018 for full consideration through Arcadia's Human Resources portal. Please do not email application materials to hiring manager.

Full consideration will be given to applicants who successfully upload the following:

Cover letter

Curriculum vitae

Names and contact information for three academic references

Application review will begin immediately. Posting will be removed from the website once we've established a sufficient talent pool for consideration.

University of Toronto

Rank: Endowed Chair, Japanese Politics and Global Affairs

The University of Toronto invites applications for a joint tenure-stream, endowed chair appointment in the Department of Political Science (51%) and the Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy (49%) in the area of Japanese Politics and Global Affairs. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate or Full Professor and will commence July 1, 2019.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in politics, government, international relations, or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment and be able to provide evidence of innovative research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing.

Candidates should have an established international reputation based on a scholarly record of excellence appropriate to their career stage. Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, graduate supervision, dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The ideal candidate will focus on Japanese politics (including political history) in comparative and international perspective, Japanese policy in global and regional context, or international relations and contemporary Japan.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

We seek applications from candidates whose research program fits well with the Department and with the global focus of the Munk School. The appointee will contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students in both the Department and the School. The opportunity is also available to direct a new Centre for the Study of Global Japan established in the School to stimulate collaborative scholarship and public outreach.

We encourage applicants to review both academic units' research and teaching profiles prior to applying. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>; Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy <http://www.munkschool.utoronto.ca/>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 9, 2018.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Utah State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Utah State University
Department of Political Science
Assistant Professor of International Relations

Position: The Department of Political Science at Utah State University invites applications for a nine-month tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2019. We seek to fill a position in international relations. While the area of specialization in international relations is open, topical expertise in interstate conflict, subnational conflict, and/or emerging security threats is welcome. An ability to offer a course in Middle Eastern, African, or South-Asian security is a plus. The salary is competitive.

The position is available beginning August 1, 2019. Application review will begin September 28, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will conduct research and teach courses in International Relations. Teaching responsibilities will include master's and upper and lower division undergraduate courses in their areas of specialization. Responsibilities will include a primary role in research along with strong undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service. Performance will be consistent with a faculty role in a Carnegie Doctoral/Research Extensive University.

Minimum Qualifications:

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a strong research profile in international relations. Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Political Science or a comparable field of study as of employment date, and demonstrated accomplishment and/or clear potential for success in research as well as undergraduate and graduate teaching in these specialties. They must also generate a satisfactory outcome on a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:

Preference will be given to those with a strong research trajectory and demonstrated interest in teaching courses of need to the department.

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications and experience, plus excellent benefits.

Academic Setting:

The Political Science Department at USU is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The Department offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, Law and Constitutional Studies, and International Studies. It also offers a political science Master's degree. Additionally, the department provides service courses or general education to students throughout the broader university community. Utah State University is a land-grant university founded in 1888. The university is a Carnegie Doctoral land-grant university with approximately 27,000 students (24,000 undergraduates and 3,000 graduate students) from all 50 states and 80 foreign countries. The USU campus is located in Logan, Utah. Logan is located in a picturesque mountain valley with a population of over 100,000, about 80 miles north of Salt Lake City. Ski resorts, lakes, rivers, and mountains in the area make it one of the finest outdoor recreation environments in the nation. Visit <http://www.usu.edu> for more information about the University, College, and Department.

Applications should be submitted through the online application link: <http://jobs.usu.edu>.

Please attach:

- 1) a cover letter;
- 2) curriculum vitae;
- 3) The names and email addresses of three references (your references will be sent an email from USU asking them to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf).
- 4) a professional writing sample;
- 5) a statement of teaching philosophy and, if available, evidence of teaching performance.
- 6) recent transcripts.

Brown University

Rank: Professor

As part of a major new hiring initiative, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for faculty positions in the field of international security to begin July 2019. We hope to hire multiple faculty through this search. We are seeking applicants whose research focuses on various aspects of international security broadly defined, including but not limited to grand strategy and geopolitical rivalry, civil war and post-war reconstruction, defense policy and military intervention, nuclear proliferation and deterrence, terrorism and counterterrorism, cybersecurity and surveillance, and resource conflicts and the security implications of climate change.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field, and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member(s) will hold a joint appointment in the Watson Institute and Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references whom the search committee can contact at an appropriate time. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Politics)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in international relations beginning in the fall semester of 2019. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach the core course in international relations, courses in global security and/or conflict resolution, a course in either quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other courses in the candidate's field of specialization. We welcome applications from qualified candidates who approach international relations from a variety of theoretical perspectives.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence, as well as the promise of being a productive scholar, are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in international relations, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations (if available). Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 24, 2018.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Along with its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas, and the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the interdisciplinary investigation of the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. In 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Open rank faculty position in Government

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position, open in terms of rank, in the areas of international law and/or human rights, beginning July 1, 2019. A qualified candidate, with PhD in political science in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research experience in one or more of these areas, and the capacity to teach core courses in international relations as well as courses of his or her specialization(s).

The candidate must have demonstrated ability to maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinion, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty\_opening.php

The review of applications will begin August 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Studies

The departments of International Studies and Political Science at Dickinson College are seeking qualified applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position beginning in academic year 2019-20. A completed or nearly-completed Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or related discipline is required.

Applicants should have a research and teaching focus on Africa, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. The specific sub-field of research can be comparative politics, international relations, security studies (including human security), or other related fields. In addition to teaching upper-level courses in that research area, the successful candidate must demonstrate ability and interest in teaching introductory International Relations and upper-level American Foreign Policy on a regular basis. Candidates should identify in their application letter courses they are prepared to teach and should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an interdisciplinary liberal arts environment. The yearly teaching load is five courses. The successful candidate is expected to participate fully in the intellectual life of the departments, including serving as one of the oral examiners for the International Studies exams at the end of the academic year. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate.

Dickinson College is a private, four-year liberal arts college with 2,400 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC, and Philadelphia.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically, online application system at <https://jobs.dickinson.edu>.

Please submit the following materials:

- * a letter of application;
- * curriculum vitae;
- * graduate transcript;
- * names and email addresses for three letters of recommendation;
- * writing sample;
- * teaching statement;
- * sample syllabi – preferably for one or more of the above listed courses.
- * teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness

Review of applications will begin October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: International Security, Middle East, Africa

The Department of Political Science at Carleton College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in International Relations with expertise in security and with significant research interest or field experience in the Middle East and North Africa. Candidates with a scholarly focus on Sub-Saharan Africa will also be considered. The department defines security broadly to include the traditional issues of peace and violent inter-state conflict as well as human security concepts such as human and gender rights; resource, water and food security; and refugees, diasporas and displaced persons. Successful candidates will be able to teach the introductory course in international relations as well as courses in security and regional politics. Candidates whose interests speak to dominant paradigms of security and engage the debate with non-traditional approaches in the field are especially welcomed. The promise of excellence in scholarship and teaching is required. Teaching duties are five courses per year on a trimester schedule. PhD or its imminent completion is required. The appointment will begin September 1, 2019.

The following materials are required: letter of application; curriculum vitae; contact information for three letters of reference; statements addressing the candidate's teaching experience and interests and scholarly agenda; graduate school transcript; teaching evaluations or other evidence of demonstrated or potential excellence in undergraduate instruction; sample syllabi; and at least one scholarly writing sample. Early applicants should indicate whether they will be available for interview at the APSA meetings in Boston in September, 2018. Interviews will also be scheduled and conducted online. To ensure full consideration we request that applications be filed by Friday September 14. All application materials can be submitted at jobs.carleton.edu.

We are particularly interested in candidates who are enthusiastic about teaching a diverse student body. Carleton is committed to developing its faculty to better reflect the diversity of our students and American society. Women and members of traditionally underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Carleton College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, ethnicity, religion, sex, national origin, marital status, veteran status, actual or perceived sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, status with regard to public assistance, disability, or age in providing employment or access to its educational facilities or activities. Carleton College is a small, highly selective, residential liberal arts college located 45 minutes away from the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul. We are consistently ranked among the best undergraduate teaching institutions in the country. Our mission is to provide excellent educational opportunities for students. The College provides generous professional development support for both research and teaching.

South Dakota State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, Philosophy and Religion at South Dakota State University in Brookings is seeking a dynamic teacher and scholar for a full-time, 9-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. The primary fields are Comparative Politics and International Relations; secondary area(s) of expertise are open with the exception of Political Theory/Philosophy and Latin America. The appointment will begin no later than August 22, 2019. The curriculum in this area is not set so there is opportunity to develop new courses in the applicant's area of expertise. The successful candidate should understand the land-grant mission of SDSU.

SDSU is especially interested in candidates that can contribute to and/or coordinate course offerings that address the experiences of underrepresented minorities in organizations. Women, minorities, veterans, and people with disabilities are especially encouraged to apply.

This position is open until filled with full consideration given to applications received by August 15, 2018. We will be conducting preliminary interviews at the APSA in Boston.

Responsibilities include:

- A teaching load of 9 credits per semester;
- Research in your area of expertise;
- Service to the Department and University, including advising.

Minimum qualifications include:

- A PhD in Political Science in hand or near completion at the time of application (ABD can be considered);
- Expertise on strategic global issues or regions of the world;
- The ability to teach courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations;
- Experience or willingness to teach online;
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness and dynamism;
- Effective written and verbal communication skills;
- Effective interpersonal skills;
- Strong research agenda and scholarly potential.

Preferred qualifications include:

- Willingness to collaborate with students;
- Ability to teach American Foreign Policy, Political Economy and/or the Political Science capstone.

SALARY:

Commensurate with qualifications.

UNIVERSITY/COMMUNITY:

SDSU is a land grant institution and the state's largest institution of higher education with an enrollment of approximately 13,000. The Department is located in the College of Arts and Sciences and provides majors in History and Political Science along with minors in Philosophy, Religion and Legal Studies. Various members of the department contribute courses to the Global Studies Program, the American Indian Program, and the Teacher Education Program.

Brookings, South Dakota is a community of 22,000 on the eastern border of the state. It is located 50 miles north of the city of Sioux Falls, a city of approximately 150,000. The drive to Sioux Falls takes approximately 40 minutes, as the north-south interstate runs alongside the town. Brookings has an eclectic mix of fine restaurants and shops and an excellent K-12 educational system. The city is also accessible to major medical facilities, has an active social and cultural environment, and has numerous lakes and parks within easy distance. The state arboretum is part of the SDSU campus. Brookings is also located about 200 miles west of the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, a metropolitan area with major design and art centers.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:

The position will be open until filled with full consideration given to applications received by August 15, 2018.

APPLICATION PROCESS:

SDSU accepts applications through an online employment site. To apply, visit: <https://yourfuture.sdbor.edu>, search for the position by title, view the job announcement, and click on "apply for this job." The system will guide you through the electronic application form. The employment site will also require the attachment of a cover letter, which should specifically address how the candidate meets the qualifications as outlined in the advertisement indicating the courses you are qualified to teach based on the list above; Curriculum Vitae; evidence of teaching effectiveness, particularly recent IDEA scores (attached as 'other document'); and reference page with the contact information for three professional references. Email applications will not be accepted. Please contact SDSU Human Resources at (605) 688-4128 if you require assistance with the electronic application process.

Any offer of employment is contingent upon the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to, a criminal background check.

South Dakota State University is a tobacco free environment.

For questions on the position, contact Dr. Evren Çelik Wiltse, Search Chair at evren.wiltse@sdstate.edu or (605) 688-4311.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase “cPASS Postdoc Fellow” in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Rank: Baker Center Post-doctoral Fellow

Baker Center Global Security Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Howard H. Baker Jr. Center for Public Policy
The Baker Center’s mission is to educate the public, conduct research to further the public’s knowledge, and highlight the critical importance of public service. The Baker Center focuses on education, public policy, and research in the areas of Energy and the Environment, Global Security, and Leadership and Governance, along with academic courses and student engagement programs. The Center is a place for civil, bipartisan discussion of issues affecting us all.

Global Security Program

The Center's Global Security Program focuses primarily on conflict management, covering conflict resolution, civil wars, territorial and maritime disputes, piracy, terrorism and other political violence, foreign policy and US national security policy. The program hosts a bi-weekly research workshop, a series of visiting lectures on different aspects of global security and foreign policy, and a biannual conference on some aspect of prevention, management, and resolution of international conflicts, civil wars, and terrorism and other political violence.

Position Summary

Fellows will spend a year working full time at the Baker Center, starting in August 2018, with a potential extension for an additional year. During their time at the Center, Fellows will conduct independent and joint research primarily with Dr. Krista Wiegand, and potentially other faculty and graduate students on topics related to conflict processes issues, with an expectation of producing several journal article length manuscripts. Fellows will also be involved in applying for grants to fund data collection projects and Baker Center programming. In addition to academic research, Fellows will be expected to produce a small number of policy briefs and/or content for a non-academic audience. Fellows are expected to contribute to the activities of the Baker Center, supervise undergraduate researchers involved in research projects, mentor IR graduate students, present and participate in the research workshop, and participate in the lectures and meetings of visiting speakers. Equally, Fellows may be involved in managing a major international relations journal, which the Baker Center has an active bid to edit. Participants will receive an annual stipend of $50,000 and individual health insurance.

Eligibility and How to Apply:

Applicants must be recent Ph.D. recipients in Political Science (within the last 3 years), and specialize in conflict management. To apply, submit a cover letter outlining the planned research and expectations about a topic in the area of conflict management, how your research project fits with the work being done at the Baker Center and Dr. Krista Wiegand, and if you have any experience working on an academic journal. Our courses in need of instructors are:

* Theory and Methodology for the Social Sciences: This course focuses on foundational ideas of social science research, including strengths and weaknesses of different research designs, interpretation of data drawn from various sources, and strategies for evaluating evidence. Students write memos, make presentations and write a final research proposal.

* Practicum on Large-Scale Data Analysis and Processing: This course is a "hands-on" training seminar dealing with organizing large, data-intensive projects. Students will practice accessing a variety of large-scale data sources and formats; conducting advanced analysis of big data; and "productizing" their results and findings via dashboards, reports, interactive graphics, and apps. An instructor with experience in industry would be particularly valuable for this course.

* Introduction to Data Science Algorithms: This course introduces the logic, basic design and analysis of algorithms relevant to data science, machine learning and data analysis. Topics include algorithms for: sorting, searching, graph processing, string processing, SVD and PCA, hashing, count-min sketch, nearest neighbors, network flows, and data compression.

* Natural Language Processing for Social Science: This course introduces students to the key concepts and theories behind natural language processing, or understanding how to analyze and reproduce human speech. Topics include language modeling; part of speech tagging; parsing; information extraction; tokenizing; topic modeling; machine translation; automatic summarization; supervised machine learning; and hidden Markov models.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. in a social science or a related field is required. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until positions are filled. A CV, cover letter, list of professional references and teaching evaluations (if available) should be sent as PDF files to qmss@columbia.edu with the subject line "Fall 2018 Part-Time Lecturer Application." Let us know which courses you might be interested in teaching. An optional writing sample and statement of teaching philosophy may also be included.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities in the fields of economics, social sciences and humanities, and has emerged as a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was ranked 48th in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and is among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

One of its unique features has been its direct involvement in socio-economic reforms in Russia, which has allowed HSE to develop as a "project and research university" where education, fundamental and applied research, and "think tank" activities are combined for the comprehensive development of society. Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has more than 30 international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world.

Since 2006 the HSE has been recruiting professional academics from international research universities in order to raise the standards of research at the University. HSE now employs more than 100 international tenure-track and postdoctoral fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and centers in Moscow and at HSE's campuses in St. Petersburg and Perm.

School of Political Science

The School of Political Science offers an array of educational options for students from Russia and abroad. We teach a full range of subjects based on the latest developments in academic research in political science. From comparative politics to political theory and quantitative and qualitative approaches, the professors of the School pursue research across the entire spectrum of modern political science.

Not only is there methodological diversity; there is considerable breadth in terms of substantive and geographic specializations. Among the School's academic "trademarks" are comparative politics and Russian politics, including politics in the Russian regions.

The quality of research at Higher School of Economics has already been widely recognized, and HSE counts among the top-100 universities in the world according to the QS ranking in this subject field.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase “cPASS Postdoc Fellow” in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate in Experimental Political Economy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Postdoctoral Research Associate in Experimental Political Economy

The Department of Political Science seeks a Postdoctoral Research Associate in Experimental Political Economy to work on a variety of projects related to voting, elections, information, strategic sophistication, and fairness.

We seek applicants with a PhD in Economics, Political Science, or a related social science discipline. Required qualifications include: 1) experience running lab experiments, 2) programming skills in an experimental platform (z-tree or o-tree), 3) PhD completed by July 31, 2018. Experience with Qualtrics and Mechanical Turk is desirable, but not required.

The successful candidate will work under the supervision of Professor Jonathan Woon, including collaboration on joint projects with the aim of producing coauthored publications as well as the candidate’s own research, and will be expected to participate in the intellectual life of the Department and the Pittsburgh Experimental Economics Laboratory. The behavioral and experimental economics community in Pittsburgh offers a vibrant, stimulating intellectual environment. The position carries no teaching or service responsibilities and provides a research allocation for travel and research expenses (including subject payments). The initial appointment is for one year, with the potential for multiple renewals based on performance. The start date is September 1, 2017.

To apply for the position, please submit a letter of interest, CV, example of relevant research, graduate transcript(s), and 2 letters of recommendation to <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mj12>. Review of applications will begin on March 30, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries can be directed to Jonathan Woon (woon@pitt.edu)

Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Candidates will be considered in three categories: (1) Four of the fellowships will be awarded to early-career scholars employed in the equivalent of tenure-track positions who are expected to return to their position. (2) One fellowship is set aside for a postdoctoral research associate who at the time of application does not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. (3) In addition, one fellowship will be awarded to a senior scholar. All candidates must be based outside the United States.

During the academic year 2019-20, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal of this research theme is to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We also want to understand how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. The Program will also examine rival world ideas that have challenged prevailing orthodoxies. Nowadays, with cooperative norms under challenge, global institutions under stress, and a century of guiding ideas about global convergence in doubt, we want to take a broad look at where these ideas came from, their effects, and the prospects for intellectual renewal or rethinking. The goal of the 2019-20 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applications are due on November 9, 2018. All candidates must reside outside the United States. To be eligible, postdoctoral applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. before August 1, 2019 but cannot have received their degrees more than three years prior to the start of the appointment on September 1, 2019. Early-career fellows must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2009. Senior scholars, who have received their doctorates before 2009, must have faculty appointments and a record of scholarly accomplishment in the designated theme of the program. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program.

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; urban politics, civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; feminist legal studies; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2019. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications, and effective written and oral communication. We are especially interested in candidates who have a long-term interest in helping to develop and advise students in Muhlenberg's pre-law program.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates should also submit a separate statement describing how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, applicants can find the latest updates to the College's Diversity Strategic Plan at: <http://www.muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/>.

Complete applications should be sent via email as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair to: pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. In order to receive full consideration, applications must be received by September 17, 2018.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in eastern Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley. Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia.

Non-Tenure Track Faculty Fellow
 Center for European & Mediterranean Studies
 New York University Arts and Science

The Center for European and Mediterranean Studies in Arts and Science at New York University invites applicants for a Faculty Fellow position. The initial appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2019, renewable annually for a maximum of three years, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

CEMS seeks a scholar specializing in one or more of the following fields of Mediterranean Studies: comparative European and Mediterranean politics, anthropology, or sociology; or modern Mediterranean history. We are particularly interested in candidates with research and/or teaching interests concerning Southern Europe and the Mediterranean regions. Additionally, we would value academic interest in the European Union and issues of Mediterranean migration and cultural diversity. Responsibilities include teaching three graduate and undergraduate courses per year - possibly including a graduate research methods seminar and overseeing undergraduate independent studies.

The position also involves a significant role in advising theses for both master's students and undergraduate honors majors. Service to the program will involve representing the Center at university occasions and committee meetings. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to interdisciplinary scholarship and excellence in teaching, and have completed the Ph.D. no earlier than 2014 and no later than August 1, 2019.

All application materials should be submitted via Interfolio through the following link: apply.interfolio.com/51492. For more information about the NYU Center for European and Mediterranean Studies, please visit the website at <http://cems.as.nyu.edu/page/employment>.

Candidates must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, three references, and a list of courses taught. Diversity is an important part of the NYU mission. As part of your letter of interest, please provide a paragraph describing how diversity figures in your past and present teaching and research. Looking forward, how would you imagine bringing issues of diversity to bear on the teaching and programming concerns of NYU's Center for European and Mediterranean Studies? The deadline for applications is January 21, 2019.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. ### School of Advanced Air and Space Studies

Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Strategy and Security Studies

Subfield(s): Other, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Defense, History & Politics, International Security

The School of Advanced Air and Space Studies (SAASS) is seeking a scholar of strategic or security studies, specializing in space policy, space law, space history, or technology and innovation to begin summer, 2019.

SAASS educates strategists for the US Air Force and the nation. The faculty develops and presents a yearlong graduate curriculum designed to educate students in the art of strategy and strategic studies, enhancing the Air Force's capacity to defend the United States through the control and exploitation of air, space, and cyberspace. Graduates receive a Master of Philosophy in Military Strategy degree with the possibility to continue toward a PhD in Military Strategy. The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges accredits both programs through The Air University.

Successful applicants will support the Air University and SAASS missions and have substantial experience in the development, study, evaluation, or implementation of space power theory, history, and practice. Applicants must have a completed PhD or JD, in an area relevant to strategic studies, with emphasis on the control and exploitation of space, air, and cyberspace. Extensive professional experience in these areas is highly desired, as is teaching proficiency in fields such as strategic studies, political science or history. The selection committee will consider applicants at the assistant and associate levels.

Primary duties include teaching graduate-level courses across the breadth of the school's curriculum, advising thesis and dissertation students, curriculum development, course direction, scholarly research and publication, and service to the school and university commensurate with individual experience.

Denison University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty Position in Global Commerce
Specializations: International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations, Trade

The Global Commerce program at Denison University invites applications for a tenure track position at the assistant professor or senior level beginning in Fall 2019. Global Commerce is a new interdisciplinary major (started in 2016) that trains students to think critically and creatively, in the liberal arts tradition, about global processes and structures of exchange by examining how factors including culture, history, politics, financial practices, and social structures shape both for-profit and non-profit activity in different contexts around the globe. Field of specialization for this position is open, but research and teaching experience must be related to international business, international financial institutions, global political economy, institutions of commerce (including non-profits or NGOs), or liberal market economies. Teaching responsibilities will include some combination of the core Global Commerce courses (Commerce and Society; Elements of Commerce; Global Financial Markets; and possibly a future applied statistics course for Global Commerce majors), as well as rotating responsibilities for the senior capstone course. (For details on our Global Commerce curriculum and course descriptions, please see: <https://denison.edu/academics/global-commerce>.) The successful candidate will also have regular opportunities to teach topical seminars investigating the structures, strategies, cultures, and contexts of global business and non-profit organizations and must be prepared to mentor undergraduate scholarship and research. The teaching load is 5 courses per year, including both introductory and upper-level courses, the largest of which is capped at 28 students.

Possible disciplinary backgrounds include political science, economic history, sociology, economics, industrial and organizational psychology, or international management. Regardless of discipline, applicants must have superior teaching skills, a commitment to a liberal arts approach to education, and the clearly articulated desire to contribute to the development of this innovative program, as well as an active research agenda related to some aspect of global commerce. Additional work experience in the business or non-profit sectors, as well as a willingness to help foster connections between our Global Commerce program and outside practitioners, are preferred.

Denison University is located just 25 miles east of Columbus, OH, the state capital. We are an increasingly diverse, highly-selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2200 students from across the nation and around the world. Our college and the Global Commerce program are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty who are successful and effective teachers, who develop active and productive research programs, and who are involved in the life of the college.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2018, and will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. We will conduct Skype interviews with prospective candidates in early November 2018. We will consider both ABD and Ph.D.-in-hand candidates, but degree must be conferred within a year of appointment at Denison in order for contract to be renewed.

Applicants should submit the following electronic application materials on-line at employment.denison.edu: a cover letter that includes discussion of commitment to liberal arts teaching, a brief description of the candidate's research agenda, mention of relevant non-academic work experience in the business or non-profit sectors, and a statement addressing the potential to foster and support diversity among our students, faculty, and community; curriculum vitae; two proposed syllabi for Global Commerce courses that reflect the candidate's area of expertise and interests; three letters of recommendation from academic references; and other supporting documents.

Denison University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer. To achieve our mission as a liberal arts college, we continually strive to foster a diverse campus community, which recognizes the value of all persons regardless of religion, race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or socioeconomic background. For additional information and resources about diversity at Denison please see our Diversity Guide at www.denison.edu/forms/diversity-guide.

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Conflict Resolution)

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship in any field of political science, with a research and teaching profile that will contribute to the department's Master of Arts Program in Conflict Resolution. The Conflict Resolution Program offers an innovative and rigorous curriculum encompassing the core skills and multidisciplinary knowledge needed to pursue diverse careers, both in the U.S. and abroad, related to conflict management and conflict resolution.

Applicants should have the ability to field core courses in conflict resolution theory and research methodology, and to contribute to other departmental needs at the undergraduate and doctoral levels. A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester.

The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11484>. ## Cornell University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Conflict Resolution

Assistant or Associate Professor in Conflict Resolution
ILR School, Cornell University

The ILR School at Cornell University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in the area of conflict/dispute resolution at either the Assistant Professor or Associate Professor level, to begin August 2019. Applicants should have research and teaching interests related to topics such as arbitration, mediation, negotiation, conflict management, dispute resolution, collective action, and social movements. We are open to scholars using qualitative, quantitative, legal, and mixed methods, and studying conflict at various levels of analysis including societal, organizational, group, or individual. Applicants should have a doctorate (PhD or JD) in a relevant field, such as industrial relations, organizational behavior, law, psychology, sociology, or management. Evidence of very strong research and teaching potential is essential.

The ILR School (www.ilr.cornell.edu) is the world's leading college focused on work, employment, and labor issues. Our faculty come from a number of disciplinary backgrounds and study a broad range of issues related to labor, employment, and organizations. A successful candidate's appointment will be in either the Department of Labor Relations, Law, and History or the Department of Organizational Behavior. Faculty in these departments publish in top-tier journals in their field, such as ILR Review, Industrial Relations, Administrative Science Quarterly, Academy of Management Journal, American Journal of Sociology, American Sociological Review, Journal of Personality and Social Psychology, Psychological Science, Journal of Experimental Social Psychology, Journal of Empirical Legal Studies, and in major law reviews.

The ILR School is home to the Scheinman Institute on Conflict Resolution and the Experimental Psychology and Organizations Lab (ExPO) Lab, among other centers and institutes. The Scheinman Institute (<http://www.ilr.cornell.edu/scheinman-institute>) is the nation's leading center for the study of workplace conflict resolution, engaging in a broad range of research, teaching, and outreach activities. The Institute has existing relationships with leading organizations in the conflict resolution field, which provide research opportunities for affiliated faculty. A successful candidate will be expected to participate in and contribute to the activities of the Scheinman Institute. The ExPO Lab (<https://www.ilr.cornell.edu/expo>) seeks to advance knowledge about fundamental psychological processes relevant to human attitudes, cognitions and behavior in organizations. Within and beyond these centers and institutes, ILR provides a rich intellectual environment for research on conflict and related organizational processes, with strong ties to members of the Psychology and Sociology Departments, the SC Johnson College of Business, and the Law School.

To be considered, please apply via Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/11371>. Interested candidates should submit: a cover letter describing their research and teaching interests, a vita, and a writing sample, and three reference letters. Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018. Questions about this position can be directed to Professor Alex Colvin (ajc22@cornell.edu), Professor Harry Katz (hck2@cornell.edu), Professor Marya Besharov (mlb363@cornell.edu), Professor Pam Tolbert (pam.tolbert@cornell.edu), or Professor Kate Griffith (kategriffith@cornell.edu).

George C. Marshall European Center for Security Studies

Rank: Associate Professor of National Security Studies

The College of International and Security Studies at the George C. Marshall European Center for Security Studies invites applications for a faculty appointment at the rank of associate professor. This is a Title 10 three-year renewable appointment. The candidate's teaching responsibilities will include giving lectures in his/her field of expertise and leading graduate-level seminars with a specialty in security policy issues confronting Europe and Eurasia. Expertise in international economics, U.S. foreign and security policy, and European politics and security would be particularly welcome.

The College of International and Security Studies faculty combines U.S., German and international faculty, both civilian academics and military professors. The appointment requires teaching in our resident program and travel to support outreach and alumni programs across Europe, Eurasia and Central Asia.

The Marshall Center is one of five Defense Department Regional Centers for Security Studies. It is a German-American partnership, operated jointly by the U.S. Defense Department and the German Ministry of Defense, located in Garmisch, Germany. The Center's mission is to foster a cooperative security environment in Europe and beyond by relying on the whole of government approach to security. The Center's program combines Security Studies courses with courses on combatting transnational terrorism, strengthening cyber security, countering organized crime and corruption, as well as regional security challenges, including state-on-state conflict and migration.

Social Science Research Council

Rank: Social Data Initiative Program Officer

DESCRIPTION

The Social Science Research Council (SSRC) is an independent, international, nonprofit organization devoted to the advancement of interdisciplinary research in the social sciences through a wide variety of workshops and conferences, fellowships and grants, summer training institutes, scholarly exchanges, research, and publications. For more information, please visit our website: www.ssrc.org.

The longstanding study of media effects on democracy has taken on new resonance with the rise of social media platforms, the dramatic change in the business model of traditional news media, the influence of algorithms on advertising, and increasingly globalized and interconnected communications. The Social Data Initiative (SDI) at the SSRC was launched to examine the impact of social media on society, explore questions about the responsible use of social network data, generate insights to inform policy at the intersection of media, technology, and democracy, and advance new avenues for future research. The SSRC, as a respected and nonpartisan organization, is acting as a trusted broker to bridge new collaborations between industry and academia in partnership with a consortium of foundations, and will administer a number of grants on a rolling basis. To learn more, visit the program page on our website.

This is a one year appointment, with potential for renewal contingent on funding.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Manage, in partnership with the Program Director, the planning and operations of a rolling grants competition, including its promotion, application process, peer-review process, and awards.
- Conduct research related to the intellectual vision of the program, contribute to strategic planning, and monitor and evaluate adherence to program protocols.
- Communicate and correspond with SDI applicants, awardees, peer-review panels, and other SDI partners.
- Organize and facilitate peer-review meetings, workshops for fellows, and other program-related events.

- Represent SDI in internal and external meetings, briefings, and conferences, including academic and industry conferences both in the US and internationally. The ability to travel is necessary.
- Facilitate communications and network-building among review panels, fellows, researchers, policymakers, and institutions in the United States and internationally.
- Oversee the initiative's electronic applications portal, database, website, and social media.
- Track program budget and write annual reports and proposals to funders. Responsible for program budget administration, expenses, and reporting on financial health of the program.
- Liaise with the SSRC Fellowships Office team to share and integrate best practices for program administration.
- Supervise the SDI staff.
- Other responsibilities and projects, as required.

QUALIFICATIONS

Required:

- PhD in one of the social sciences or a closely related field.
- High level of interest in and a strong commitment to understanding the impacts of social media on society and the importance to the public of unfettered research on privately held datasets.
- An understanding of quantitative social sciences or data science methods and practices.
- Familiarity with and a strong interest in programs designed to support and strengthen the work of researchers.
- Record of demonstrated success in administering complex tasks in an office environment and ability to manage multiple priorities and projects.
- Excellent interpersonal and organizational skills, attention to detail, and a high degree of professionalism.
- Team player with demonstrated ability to take initiative, work independently, and respond flexibly to changing demands.
- Ability to write clear and compelling prose and to communicate effectively to a variety of stakeholders.
- Availability for international and domestic travel.
- Strong computer skills (Word, Excel, databases, internet).

Preferred:

- Administrative experience - such as work for similar programs, supervision of support personnel, or preparation and/or review of grant proposals.

TERMS, SALARY, AND BENEFITS

Annual salary will be commensurate with experience. Comprehensive benefits include health, dental vision, disability, life, and gym reimbursement; outstanding pension plan and tax savings programs; generous vacation and sick leave; and more. Provisions are made for professional staff to continue their development as professional social scientists while at the Council.

APPLICATION INFORMATION

To apply, candidates must submit a detailed letter of application and curriculum vitae electronically through our job listings page. To apply, please copy and paste link: <https://grnh.se/2ae2c0b72>

Applications should be received by July 25, 2018, for priority consideration. Applications will be accepted until the position has been filled.

The Social Science Research Council is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. We are dedicated to equal employment opportunity and to cultivating and sustaining a diverse, equitable,

University of Toronto

Rank: Endowed Chair, Japanese Politics and Global Affairs

The University of Toronto invites applications for a joint tenure-stream, endowed chair appointment in the Department of Political Science (51%) and the Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy (49%) in the area of Japanese Politics and Global Affairs. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate or Full Professor and will commence July 1, 2019.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in politics, government, international relations, or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment and be able to provide evidence of innovative research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing.

Candidates should have an established international reputation based on a scholarly record of excellence appropriate to their career stage. Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, graduate supervision, dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The ideal candidate will focus on Japanese politics (including political history) in comparative and international perspective, Japanese policy in global and regional context, or international relations and contemporary Japan.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

We seek applications from candidates whose research program fits well with the Department and with the global focus of the Munk School. The appointee will contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students in both the Department and the School. The opportunity is also available to direct a new Centre for the Study of Global Japan established in the School to stimulate collaborative scholarship and public outreach.

We encourage applicants to review both academic units' research and teaching profiles prior to applying. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>; Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy <http://www.munkschool.utoronto.ca/>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 9, 2018.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

American University-School of International Service

Rank: New Technology & Security, Tenure-track, Assistant Professor (beginning AY 2019-20)

Assistant Professor

Tenure Track

NEW TECHNOLOGY AND SECURITY

School of International Service

American University

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-line position in New Technology and Security at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2019.

Applicants should possess a Ph.D. or the highest equivalent degree by August 2019. We seek scholar-teachers whose research focuses on new technologies and emerging security threats, especially the strategic, ethical, legal, and governance concerns related to their past and future evolution. These include (but are not limited to) artificial intelligence, autonomy, social media, cyber security, robotics, additive manufacturing (or "3-D printing"), unmanned aerial vehicles ("drones"), gene alteration, human enhancement, and other technologies or initiatives associated with what's known as the Fourth Industrial Revolution. The focus of his or her research will be on the advantages and disadvantages of new technological innovations as they relate to the past, present and future security of human beings. Scholars who come from a wide range of disciplines are especially welcome to apply.

The successful candidate will be enthusiastic about working in a multidisciplinary environment that includes social scientists and natural scientists, as well as experts in the humanities. Being knowledgeable about both the technical aspects of these technologies and the human context in which they are used is highly desirable. The University has faculty who address a wide array of security policy, strategic studies, information security, and national defense issues; but we have particular strengths in the areas of cyber security, risk assessment, asymmetrical conflict, non-traditional security threats, conflict analysis, data analytics, and technological innovation.

As a school that includes a variety of scholarly disciplines and approaches, we seek the best candidates without respect to a particular discipline. We seek scholar-teachers whose work is theoretically grounded, empirically tested, and policy relevant. Candidates may hold terminal degrees in physics, computer science, biotechnology, mathematics, political science, history, international relations, anthropology, economics, or a range of other fields. Candidates should demonstrate excellence in research and teaching and a commitment to school and university service. Candidates should also share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion. A desire to mentor PhD candidates in our vibrant PhD program is also desirable. Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin late August and will continue until the position is filled. Please submit applications via: <https://apply.interfolio.com/49810>. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, recent teaching evaluations, and recent published papers as well as a statement of past and/or future contributions to diversity and inclusion through teaching, research, and/or service.

You also need to submit via Interfolio the names and email addresses of three references and request that Interfolio contact them for a confidential letter of recommendation. ## Social Science Research Council

Rank: Media & Democracy Program Officer

Specializations: Political Communication, American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory

DESCRIPTION

The Social Science Research Council (SSRC) is an independent, international, nonprofit organization devoted to the advancement of interdisciplinary research in the social sciences through a wide variety of workshops and conferences, fellowships and grants, summer training institutes, scholarly exchanges, research, and publications. For more information, please visit our website: www.ssrc.org.

The Media & Democracy program at the SSRC encourages academic research, practitioner reflection, and public debate on all aspects of the close relationship between media and democracy. Media & Democracy asks, for example, how recent transformations in journalism have affected democratic discourse and participation. Conversely, the program also examines how changes in the political landscape, such as increasing polarization, have affected the media. The program takes a wide definition of media (including but not limited to news and journalism) and looks at various aspects of democracy.

The Media & Democracy program now seeks a Program Officer whose principal responsibility will be for a new initiative, the "Understanding Digital Mis- and Disinformation" research mapping project. Disinformation, misinformation, and "fake news" are long-standing phenomena that, in the wake of the digital revolution, have become newly politicized and consequential. Now more than ever, citizens around the world have instant access to a vast variety of information—some of which is purposely misleading or manufactured, frequently to political ends. Research on these phenomena is rapidly accumulating in a diverse set of disciplines, sometimes resulting in parallel efforts.

As a respected and nonpartisan organization, the SSRC has developed a project to help consolidate this emerging scholarly literature and communicate its findings to the broader public. The "Understanding Digital Mis- and Disinformation" research mapping project will, among other activities:

- Curate a compendium of recent research on (mis)information in the digital era.
- Summarize the state of the field in continuously updated "living" literature reviews.
- Produce written reflections on the state of the field and policy recommendations.
- Publish these products on a designated web platform whose intended audience includes scholars, public policy practitioners, technology practitioners, journalists, and interested citizens.

The Program Officer will have a PhD in a relevant field and prior knowledge of the scholarly literature related to digital mis- and disinformation. (S)he will be able to effectively track developments in the relevant scholarly fields, write literature reviews summarizing recent developments and scientific findings, communicate take-aways to audiences beyond the academy, and represent the SSRC at professional gatherings. The role also requires effective teamwork and management skills.

This is a two-year position, with the potential of renewal for a third year. The Program Officer will report to the Codirector of the Media & Democracy program.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Oversee the development of the project's web platform by working closely with the technology development team.
- Manage the research content of the project, including gathering, documenting, and communicating a compendium of research.
- Write literature reviews that summarize recent research; continue to update these as new research is published.
- Oversee the editorial and publishing process of material on the project's web platform.
- Attend conferences and convenings with the dual aims of learning about the latest not-yet-published research and promoting awareness of this project among relevant scholars; engage in activities to promote awareness of the initiative among journalists and practitioners.
- Liaise with the project's advisory board of leading scholars. This will include recruiting scholars to the board, coordinating written reflection pieces from individual members of the board, and working with them on the project's strategic direction.
- Oversee planning for events and conferences.
- Manage program budgets; prepare and draft grant proposals as well as grant narrative reports.

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Princeton Society of Fellows in the Liberal Arts, an interdisciplinary group of scholars in the humanities, social sciences, and selected natural sciences, invites applications for the 2019-22 fellowship competition. Four fellowships will be awarded: Two Open Fellowships in any discipline represented in the Society; one Fellowship in Humanistic Studies, and one Fellowship in LGBT Studies.

Applicants may apply for more than one fellowship pertinent to their research and teaching. Please see the Society's website princeton.edu/sf/ for fellowship details, eligibility, disciplines and application.

Appointed in the Humanities Council and academic departments, postdoctoral fellows pursue their research, attend weekly seminars and teach half-time as lecturers for a term of three years. In each of the first two years, fellows teach one course each semester; in their third year, only one course. The salary for 2019-2020 will be approximately $88,800. Fellows must reside in or near Princeton during the academic year.

Applicants holding the Ph.D. at the time of application must have received the degree after January 1, 2017. Applicants not yet holding the Ph.D. must have completed a substantial portion of the dissertation - approximately half - at the time of application. Successful candidates must fulfill all requirements for the Ph.D., including filing of the dissertation, by June 15, 2019. Candidates for/recipients of doctoral degrees in Education, Jurisprudence and from Princeton University are not eligible. Applicants may apply only once to the Princeton Society of Fellows.

Selection is based on exceptional scholarly achievement and evidence of unusual promise, range and quality of teaching experience, and potential contributions to an interdisciplinary community. The Society of Fellows seeks a diverse and international pool of applicants, and especially welcomes those from underrepresented backgrounds.

Applicants are asked to submit an online application by August 22, 2018 (11:59 p.m. EST). Finalists to whom an offer has been made must pass a background check successfully.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. EEO IS THE LAW.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Yale University

Rank: Mars Fellow in Business Ethics

Yale University's Mars Brothers Interdisciplinary Program on Business Ethics seeks postdoctoral fellows for 2018-2019 from relevant disciplines (philosophy, business, economics, political science, sociology, psychology). Fellowships are for one year, renewable to two at a salary of $60,000 with health benefits. In addition to performing research under the supervision of Program faculty, Fellows will teach one seminar, be available to meet undergraduates of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics major, assist with senior essays, and help to organize and run a workshop series of 4-6 visitors a year. Applicants should have completed PhD requirements by September 2018. Mentoring of the fellows will draw on the established strengths of Yale's interdisciplinary faculty, beginning with the faculty of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics interdisciplinary undergraduate major.

Please submit a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, draft syllabus, and the names of two recommenders whom we will contact separately, online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47996>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled.

Please direct inquiries to Frances Rosenbluth, Director of Ethics, Politics and Economics, frances.rosenbluth@yale.edu.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and under-represented minorities are particularly welcome.

New School for Social Research

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Politics Department at The New School for Social Research and Eugene Lang College seeks to appoint a political theorist, for a tenure track position at the assistant professor level, subject to budgetary approval.

We seek candidates with a strong background in the history of political thought and with promise of excellence in research as well as teaching.

We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated, historically sensitive, and politically critical and who are committed to engaging with colleagues outside the theory subfield.

We aim to appoint someone with broad interests and a lively mind, who can contribute to cross-field discussions in a politics department committed to blurring subfield divisions; to interdisciplinary debate in a graduate division dedicated to critically-oriented social science, philosophy and history; and to collegial life in an innovative liberal arts college dedicated to seminar teaching.

While we expect a strong background in the history of political thought, we are especially interested in candidates whose primary focus is on theoretical approaches and questions linked to contemporary political problems—for example, race, indigeneity, colonialism, imperialism/capitalism, domination, intersectionality, borders, globalization, transnationalism, international law; and environmental issues.

The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is July 1, 2019. Applicants apply on-line using the faculty application on The New School human resources website <http://careers.newschool.edu/postings/16212/>. Using this online system, applicants should submit 1) a letter of intent, 2) a CV, 3) a list of references, and 4) a piece of recent research. Applicants should have the PhD completed by the time of their contract start date.

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

Specializations: American Politics, Gender Politics & Policy, African American Politics

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in political theory, beginning August 2019. Responsibilities include teaching ten to twelve credit hours a semester (typically two or three sections of an undergraduate introductory American government survey and one or two undergraduate upper level courses per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year, student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, profession, and community. While subfield specialization is open within political theory, we would particularly welcome candidates who could teach courses in African-American political theory, gender and political theory and/or constitutional law. Evidence of productive scholarship or research potential is necessary. Successful candidates will demonstrate teaching excellence as instructor of record.

Ph.D. in Political Science is required; advanced ABD will be considered with evidence of degree completion by start date. Experience teaching an introductory American Government survey will be preferred.

The University of South Carolina Aiken (USC Aiken) is a comprehensive university within the University of South Carolina system. As a comprehensive institution with a focus on the liberal arts and sciences, it offers undergraduate and master's degrees in 47 programs of study. With a 15:1 student/faculty ratio, USC Aiken is committed to active learning through excellence in teaching, undergraduate research, scholarship, and civic engagement. As a result, USC Aiken is ranked the #1 public regional college in the South by U.S. News & World Report's guide "America's Best Colleges." 2018 marks USC Aiken's 20th consecutive ranking among the top three colleges in this category and its 13th time in first place. USCA is also a recipient of The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Best Place to Work" designation, with special recognition for collaborative governance, and has also been designated a Military-Friendly School by Victory Media, Best for Vets by the Military Times, and a Top School in Military Advanced Education & Transition's 2016 Guide to Colleges & Universities.

Founded in 1961, USC Aiken is situated on 453 acres, with an enrollment of approximately 3,500 students from 29 states and 23 countries. The campus is located one hour from Columbia (SC), thirty minutes from Augusta (GA) and within three hours of Charleston (SC), Atlanta (GA), Charlotte (NC), Hilton Head (SC), and the Appalachian Mountains. Learn more about USC Aiken at www.usca.edu.

Applicants must complete the online application and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts, and a statement of teaching philosophy. Applicants will be asked to provide contact information for three professional references.

Please direct questions to Matthew Thornburg or David Dillard-Wright, search committee co-chairs, at matthewth@usca.edu or davididd@usca.edu. Additional materials may be sought from some candidates as the search progresses.

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Economy, Political Thought: Historical

James Madison College at Michigan State University seeks to fill an Assistant Professor Tenure-Stream position in political economy and political theory with a focus on state and marketplace interaction and the history of modern commercial democracy. The position fills a commitment to infuse economics training with a major that focuses on modern constitutional democracy (its origins, practice, critics, and defenders) from the perspective of political philosophy. It also contributes to our Political Economy minor. Potential areas of research and teaching focus include feminist theory, religion and economics, family and gender issues in the workplace, and federalism, as such issues complement the study of constitutional structure and modern capitalism.

Successful candidates will have demonstrated ability to teach courses on state and market interaction as well as core courses in the history of political thought. Applicants should demonstrate commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching in an interdisciplinary program and to achieving a substantial record of scholarship. Ph.D. in a related field is required by time of appointment.

Interested candidates must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Applicant Tracking System at: <https://careers.msu.edu>. Please see posting number 518407 for complete instructions on how to apply. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018. Please contact Lynn Lee (leely@msu.edu) with any questions.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal opportunity employer. MSU is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Political Theory)

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in political theory, with a broad interest in candidates working in the periods of medieval, Renaissance, and early modern thought, as well as in the areas of state theory, religion and politics, and the history of Continental political thought. The department has a strong record of research and teaching in the history of political thought, broadly conceived, and applications are encouraged from scholars whose work speaks to this tradition.

A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and Ph.D.-level offerings.

The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11429>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Shannon Stimson (ss3491@georgetown.edu). For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive by September 21, 2018, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Utah State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Utah State University
Department of Political Science
Assistant Professor of Political Theory

Position: The Department of Political Science at Utah State University invites applications for a nine-month tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2019. We seek to fill a position in political theory. While the area of specialization is open, expertise in the study of the leading texts of Western political thought in addition to an emphasis on early modern and American political thought would be welcome. The salary is competitive.

The position is available beginning August 1, 2019. Application review will begin September 28, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will conduct research and teach courses in political theory. Teaching responsibilities will include Master's and lower and upper division undergraduate courses in their areas of specialization. Responsibilities will include a primary role in research along with strong undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service. Performance will be consistent with a faculty role in a Carnegie Doctoral/Research Extensive University.

Minimum Qualifications:

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a strong research profile in political theory. Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Political Science or a comparable field of study as of employment date, and demonstrated accomplishment and/or clear potential for success in research as well as undergraduate and graduate teaching in these specialties. They must also generate a satisfactory outcome on a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:

Preference will be given to those with a strong research trajectory and demonstrated interest in teaching courses of need to the department.

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications and experience, plus excellent benefits.

Academic Setting:

The Political Science Department at USU is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The Department offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, Law and Constitutional Studies, and International Studies. It also offers a political science Master's degree. Additionally, the department provides service courses or general education to students throughout the broader university community.

Utah State University is a land-grant university founded in 1888. The university is a Carnegie Doctoral land-grant university of higher research activity with approximately 27,000 students (24,000 undergraduates and 3,000 graduate students) from all 50 states and 80 foreign countries. The USU campus is located in Logan, Utah. Logan is located in a picturesque mountain valley with a population of over 100,000, about 80 miles north of Salt Lake City. Ski resorts, lakes, rivers, and mountains in the area make it one of the finest outdoor recreation environments in the nation. Visit <http://www.usu.edu> for more information about the University, College, and Department.

Applications should be submitted through the online application link: <http://jobs.usu.edu>.

Please attach:

- 1) a cover letter;
- 2) curriculum vitae;
- 3) The names and email addresses of three references (your references will be sent an email from USU asking them to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf).
- 4) a professional writing sample;
- 5) a statement of teaching philosophy and, if available, evidence of teaching performance.
- 6) recent transcripts.

McGill University

Rank: Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory

Applications are invited for a one-semester or full-year Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory in academic year 2019-20. This fellowship for US citizens includes a $US 25,000 stipend with no teaching responsibilities.

Hosted in the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS), a unit of the Yan P. Lin Centre for the Study of Freedom and Global Orders in the Ancient and Modern Worlds, this award is open to scholars in political theory and is open with respect to methodology and approach in that field. Applications are also invited from scholars in neighbouring areas of legal theory and jurisprudence, political philosophy and political science. The Chair will pursue research in political and constitutional theory broadly construed. The ability to engage with scholars and students across methodologies — normative, empirical, intellectual-historical, jurisprudential, and formal, for example — is more important than particular areas of emphasis.

While Ph.D. must be in hand, the fellowship is otherwise open as to seniority. Most applicants will be on sabbatical or other leave from an existing faculty position, but it is not a requirement that the applicant already hold a faculty appointment.

The Chair-holder will be in residence at RGCS for one semester, will deliver one public lecture, regularly attend and also present work at an RGCS workshop, and, if appropriate, guest-lecture or lead guest discussions in political science classes. The Chair will more generally take an active part in the intellectual life of McGill, RGCS, and the Groupe de Recherche Interuniversitaire en Philosophie Politique.

Full eligibility information and the online application are available at <http://www.fulbright.ca/programs/american-scholars/primary-awards/policy.html>. Those interested are encouraged to contact Jacob Levy at rgcs.mcgill@gmail.com (especially for questions about thematic fit) and Brad Hector at bhector@fulbright.ca (especially for procedural questions) early in the application process. Applications must be fully complete by August 1.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities in the fields of economics, social sciences and humanities, and has emerged as a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was ranked 48th in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and is among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

One of its unique features has been its direct involvement in socioeconomic reforms in Russia, which has allowed HSE to develop as a "project and research university" where education, fundamental and applied research, and "think tank" activities are combined for the comprehensive development of society. Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has more than 30 international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world.

Since 2006 the HSE has been recruiting professional academics from international research universities in order to raise the standards of research at the University. HSE now employs more than 100 international tenure-track and postdoctoral fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and centers in Moscow and at HSE's campuses in St. Petersburg and Perm.

School of Political Science

The School of Political Science offers an array of educational options for students from Russia and abroad. We teach a full range of subjects based on the latest developments in academic research in political science. From comparative politics to political theory and quantitative and qualitative approaches, the professors of the School pursue research across the entire spectrum of modern political science.

Not only is there methodological diversity; there is considerable breadth in terms of substantive and geographic specializations. Among the School's academic "trademarks" are comparative politics and Russian politics, including politics in the Russian regions.

The quality of research at Higher School of Economics has already been widely recognized, and HSE counts among the top-100 universities in the world according to the QS ranking in this subject field.

University of North Texas

Rank: Open Rank Search in Political Theory

We invite applications for an open-rank position beginning fall 2018 in the broadly defined field of the history of political theory. We are interested in prospective candidates who specialize in Medieval, early modern/Enlightenment, or 19th/20th century German (post-rationalist) thought. An additional strength in non-Western thought, such as Islamic or Chinese political thought, is considered an advantage.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science, (2) evidence of excellence in scholarly productivity, and (3) evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching and mentoring students in independent activities. Preference will be given to candidates who have published books and/or articles in top-tier journals.

The successful candidate will have responsibilities that may include but are not limited to teaching core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continuing a record of robust scholarly research, directing graduate research in the Theory field, and providing service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 25 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Political Science Education, and is the current home of Religion and Politics. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site is: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With 37,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) two published writing samples, (5) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (6) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquiries to Richard Ruderman, search committee chair (Richard.Ruderman@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 18, 2017 and will remain open until the position is closed. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Whittier College

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Public Policy and American Politics, and capable of teaching a core course in Public Administration. We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: race and politics, minority politics, environmental politics, state and local politics with an emphasis on California, and/or political theory.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach 20 units each year and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as First-year Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of materials will begin September 10, and will continue until the appointment is made. If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please let us know, and send your c.v. and letter of application by August 1. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance. Full applications should include: a letter of application, including discussion of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation, sent by your references. Please email (PDFs preferred) materials to Prof. Deborah Norden, Department Chair, at <mailto:dnorden@whittier.edu>. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Prof. Deborah Norden, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

PUBLIC LAW

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; urban politics, civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; feminist legal studies; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2019. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications, and effective written and oral communication. We are especially interested in candidates who have a long-term interest in helping to develop and advise students in Muhlenberg's pre-law program.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates should also submit a separate statement describing how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, applicants can find the latest updates to the College's Diversity Strategic Plan at: <http://www.muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/>.

Complete applications should be sent via email as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair to: pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. In order to receive full consideration, applications must be received by September 17, 2018.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in eastern Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley. Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia.

George Mason University

Rank: Instructional Faculty Legal Studies

Instructional Faculty – Legal Studies

The Schar School of Policy and Government at George Mason University invites applications for a Professor in the field of Legal Studies (including Constitutional Law, Public Law, Judicial Process, Law and Society, Comparative Legal Studies, and related fields) to begin in Fall 2019. This search is open with respect to rank as we seek to hire either an established scholar with an excellent record of research or an emerging scholar with high potential. George Mason University has a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff, and strongly encourages candidates to apply who will enrich Mason's academic and culturally inclusive environment.

The Schar School has over 80 faculty members with backgrounds in political science, public policy, computer science, anthropology, economics, and engineering. The School houses three Ph.D. programs, 13 Master's degree programs, and two undergraduate degree programs. The School is housed on two campuses in Fairfax and Arlington, Virginia both of which are located within the greater Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. It has unmatched geographical access to federal agencies, national laboratories, and non-governmental organizations, as well as one of the largest concentrations of high-tech firms in the nation. The D.C. metropolitan area is also consistently rated among the best places to live in the United States. The Schar School receives over $3 million in annual research funding, and is the beneficiary of a generous naming gift from the philanthropist Dwight Schar. The terms of this gift are publicly available and the Schar School is committed to scholarly independence, integrity, and excellence. More information can be found at schar.gmu.edu.

George Mason University is the largest and most diverse public research university in Virginia, with an enrollment of over 35,000 students studying in over 200 degree programs. Mason has been an R1 university since 2016 (Carnegie Classifications), and has received top rankings among "Up-and-Coming" national universities (U.S. News and World Report).

Required Qualifications:

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. (or equivalent) by the position's start date. (Candidates with a JD and an exceptional record of scholarship also will be considered.) George Mason University has a strong institutional commitment to excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff, and strongly encourages applications from candidates who will enrich Mason's academic and culturally inclusive environment. Candidates must be prepared to teach courses that open the field of legal studies to undergraduates, and that make unique contributions within our multidisciplinary graduate program.

Preferred Qualifications:

We prefer candidates whose research is both impactful within a sub-discipline, and also addresses substantive issues of broad contemporary concern. Such issues might include, but are by no means restricted to, civil rights, immigration, or gender. The successful candidate should have a strong commitment to research and teaching; s/he will advise students, participate in all aspects of the school's mission, and serve the profession.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

For full consideration, applicants must apply for position number F5914Z through the George Mason University website: <http://jobs.gmu.edu/>. Complete applications will include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research goals, statement of teaching philosophy and/or evidence of successful teaching, and a list of three references, with contact information.

Applications received before September 30, 2018 will be given full consideration although the position will remain open until filled.

George Mason University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, committed to promoting inclusion and equity in its community. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Indiana University's School of Global and International Studies seeks a full-time tenure-track assistant professor in Chinese Economics and Trade to begin fall 2019. The position is in the School's renowned multidisciplinary Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures. We welcome candidates who hold a Ph.D. in economics, international studies, law, political science, or sociology. Candidates must have active research agendas involving Chinese-language sources and field-work experience in China.

The successful candidate will hold the endowed GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair of Chinese Economics and Trade. The teaching load is two courses per semester, and position responsibilities include teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels. This is an exciting moment to join the new and expanding School of Global and International Studies as it leads Indiana University's international research and teaching missions. The East Asian Languages and Cultures Department is over fifty years old and has a long history of teaching across many disciplines, including such social science fields as political economy and sociology. EALC's teaching and research missions have also benefited since the founding of the School of Global and International Studies from increasing synergies with our allied Department of International Studies and other area studies units.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree or clear indication that the degree will be in hand by July 31, 2019. All applications received by October 5, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application; CV; three letters of recommendation; official transcripts of graduate studies; a 25-30 page writing sample at: <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com>. Questions regarding the position or application process may be directed to Prof. Gardner Bovingdon, Chair, Search Committee for the GLP-Ming Z. Applications are invited for a one-semester or full-year Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory in academic year 2019-20. This fellowship for US citizens includes a $US 25,000 stipend with no teaching responsibilities.

Hosted in the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS), a unit of the Yan P. Lin Centre for the Study of Freedom and Global

Orders in the Ancient and Modern Worlds, this award is open to scholars in political theory and is open with respect to methodology and approach in that field. Applications are also invited from scholars in neighbouring areas of legal theory and jurisprudence, political philosophy and political science. The Chair will pursue research in political and constitutional theory broadly construed. The ability to engage with scholars and students across methodologies — normative, empirical, intellectual-historical, jurisprudential, and formal, for example — is more important than particular areas of emphasis.

While Ph.D. must be in hand, the fellowship is otherwise open as to seniority. Most applicants will be on sabbatical or other leave from an existing faculty position, but it is not a requirement that the applicant already hold a faculty appointment.

The Chair-holder will be in residence at RGCS for one semester, will deliver one public lecture, regularly attend and also present work at an RGCS workshop, and, if appropriate, guest-lecture or lead guest discussions in political science classes. The Chair will more generally take an active part in the intellectual life of McGill, RGCS, and the Groupe de Recherche Interuniversitaire en Philosophie Politique.

Full eligibility information and the online application are available at <http://www.fulbright.ca/programs/american-scholars/primary-awards/policy.html>. ### Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Constitutional Law and Legal Philosophy

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2019-2020

Areas of Specialization: Constitutional Law, Legal Philosophy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in law and upper-level courses focused on constitutional case law and jurisprudence. Within two years, the successful candidate will be expected to assume the directorship of the Law and American Civilization (LWAC) program, an interdisciplinary program housed within the department.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2019. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Directorship of LWAC will count as a course. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; syllabi of any courses taught; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252. Please reference search: CLA-N-3202.

Application review will begin in October. Initial committee review will end on December 15, 2018.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

PUBLIC POLICY

Georgetown University

Rank: Senior Tenured Scholar - McDonough School of Business and the Walsh School of Foreign Service

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both schools. We seek scholars who work at the intersection of business and international affairs in fields such as international political economy, international trade, and international business and public policy. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Full Professor, though we welcome applications from accomplished associate professors. We also welcome applications from and nominations of senior scholars with extensive policymaking experience.

This joint position is one of a number of new interdisciplinary positions at Georgetown intended to foster scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Because of our location in Washington, DC, extensive linkages to the international policy and business communities, and strong tradition of scholarship and teaching in business, international affairs, and political economy, Georgetown has a unique opportunity to pursue integrative opportunities in scholarship and educational programs at the intersection of these fields, and the person appointed to the joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB and SFS are currently undertaking a transformative cooperation to create a new joint undergraduate degree, the first in Georgetown's history, and plans are also underway for joint centers and research initiatives. This cooperation builds on the success of several joint graduate degrees, as well as a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. The successful candidate will help provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. The MSB has strengths in core business disciplines as well as international business, public policy, and international political economy. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here: <https://www.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business attracts faculty and students from around the world. We are committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here: <https://msb.georgetown.edu/>

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE: The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and language. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to apply.interfolio.com/52848. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2018, but will accept applications and nominations until the position is filled. Professors Dennis P. Quinn of MSB and Erik Voeten of SFS will co-chair the search.

University of Michigan

Rank: Assistant Professor - Water Policy, Politics and Planning

Faculty Position Opening in Water Policy, Politics and Planning School for Environment and Sustainability, University of Michigan

The School for Environment and Sustainability (SEAS) at the University of Michigan (UM) seeks applicants for a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Water Policy, Politics and Planning. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in environmental policy or planning, political science, public policy, water resource management, or a closely related discipline, or a J.D. in environmental law with a demonstrated record of scholarly research.

The focus of the proposed position is on water policy and collective decision-making processes that enable sustainable resource management. Preference will be given to candidates that understand water systems and policy interventions worldwide but have a particular depth in North American policy, institutions and politics. Candidates should be knowledgeable about political behavior and dynamics; emphasis could focus on federal, regional, state, local or collaborative decision-making and governance.

The School offers a Ph.D. as well as both research and professional M.S. degrees in six fields of study: conservation ecology; geospatial data science; sustainable systems; environmental policy and planning; behavior, education and communication; and environmental justice. The School also offers a Master's degree in Landscape Architecture (M.L.A.) and a cross-campus undergraduate program in the environment. The student body includes over 350 M.S./M.L.A. and 60 doctoral students. SEAS also participates in dual degree programs with the Schools of Architecture and Urban Planning, Business, Engineering, Law, Public Health, and Public Policy. Additional information about the School can be found at www.seas.umich.edu.

The successful candidate will be expected to:

- 1) Develop a widely recognized research program that attracts external funding and contributes to the interdisciplinary mission of the School;
- 2) Support SEAS's teaching mission at both graduate and undergraduate levels, including mentoring and supervising doctoral and master's students;
- 3) Contribute to the stewardship of SEAS, the University, relevant professions and society through service, collaboration and engagement.

The position will be filled at the assistant professor (tenure-track) level.

Applications should include (1) a cover letter; (2) CV; (3) a concise personal statement describing your vision and plans for research, teaching and societal engagement; (4) a one-page statement on how you have or plan to contribute to diversity efforts, and (5) a list of three academic references with contact information.

To apply, submit application materials (in a single PDF file), via the following web address: <http://seas.umich.edu/employment>. For assistance or further information, you may contact SEAS.faculty-search.staff@umich.edu.

Review of applications will begin on September 14, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. SEAS hopes to appoint a faculty member to this position to begin Fall 2019.

At SEAS we are committed to creating and maintaining an inclusive and equitable environment that respects diverse experiences, promotes generous listening and communications, and discourages and restoratively responds to acts of discrimination, harassment, or injustice. Our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion is deeply rooted in our values for a sustainable and just society.

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Whittier College

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Public Policy and American Politics, and capable of teaching a core course in Public Administration. We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: race and politics, minority politics, environmental politics, state and local politics with an emphasis on California, and/or political theory.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach 20 units each year and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as First-year Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of materials will begin September 10, and will continue until the appointment is made. If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please let us know, and send your c.v. and letter of application by August 1. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance. Full applications should include: a letter of application, including discussion of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation, sent by your references. Please email (PDFs preferred) materials to Prof. Deborah Norden, Department Chair, at <mailto:dnorden@whittier.edu>. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Prof. Deborah Norden, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EEO employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

We welcome candidates with training in History, Political Science, Anthropology, and other related disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields. HAPS is an inter-disciplinary department with three undergraduate majors (History; International Studies; Politics, Government & Law) and one Master's program (International Peace and Conflict Resolution), and most faculty members in HAPS teach in multiple areas of the department as per their areas of expertise.

Arcadia's College of Arts and Sciences offers programs in science, technology, and math; humanities; visual and performing arts; communications; and historical and political studies. These programs prepare students for careers that contribute to a global society and allow students to exhibit, perform, and publish on campus through a variety of campus media outlets, including an art gallery, a literary magazine, and an online journal.

Arcadia University is a top-ranked private university in Greater Philadelphia and promises a distinctly global, integrative, and personal learning experience that prepares students to contribute and lead in a diverse and dynamic world. A national leader in study abroad and international education, Arcadia has been named #1 in undergraduate study abroad participation by the Institute of International Education's Open Doors Report for the past seven years. Approximately 3,900 students attend Arcadia, and the University's 2,500 undergraduate students choose from more than 65 fields of study.

Candidates should apply online at <https://faculty-arcadia.icims.com/>, where they will submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three academic references.

Questions can be submitted to Department Chair Amy Widstrom (widstroma@arcadia.edu).

Applications must be received online by July 15, 2018 for full consideration through Arcadia's Human Resources portal. Please do not email application materials to hiring manager.

Full consideration will be given to applicants who successfully upload the following:

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.
