

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

October 2018 | Volume 7, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4

American Government and Politics 7

Comparative Politics 67

International Relations 126

Methodology 188

Non-Academic 203

Other 203

Political Theory 255

Public Administration 283

Public Law 301

Public Policy 316

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

October 2018 | Volume 7, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (5 listings)

American Government and Politics 7 (130 listings)

Comparative Politics 67 (115 listings)

International Relations 126 (130 listings)

Methodology 188 (29 listings)

Non-Academic 203 (95 listings)

Other 203 (51 listings)

Political Theory 255 (27 listings)

Public Administration 283 (24 listings)

Public Law 301 (77 listings)

Public Policy 316 (listings)

Total listings this issue 683

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for October

ADMINISTRATION

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Public Administration

Specializations: American Politics, Congress, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior

Assistant Professor (JOB#12544)
School of Politics and Global Studies
Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor beginning August 2019. We are interested in candidates whose research and teaching focus is on American institutions, broadly defined. Candidates with expertise in the U.S. Congress, the presidency, interest groups, institutional interactions, representation or opinion-policy linkages are encouraged to apply.

We are open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus, and methodological approaches. Position duties include teaching courses in the American politics curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, including an upper-division undergraduate course; advising and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students; developing an active research agenda; and providing service to the department, college, and university.

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; the ability to teach advanced statistical methods, particularly at the graduate level; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses, demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program.

The application deadline is November 2, 2018; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2019.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/12022>. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment. Questions about the position or search should be directed to the search committee chair at kahn@asu.edu.

The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University. Candidates who can make use of our experimental laboratories are particularly encouraged to apply.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4855

University of Georgia

Rank: IA Faculty and Director of the Center for International Trade & Security

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Administration

Specializations: International Security, Trade, Regulatory Policy

The University of Georgia's School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) seeks applications for the Director of the Center for International Trade and Security (CITS) and faculty member in the Department of International Affairs (DIA). The successful candidate must have a strong record of grant and contract acquisition and have a scholarly record appropriate for an academic appointment at a research university. The ideal candidate will also have policy relevant experience or expertise, fundraising experience, and previous management responsibilities. The Director of the Center reports to the Dean of SPIA. The position is open rank, tenured or tenure-track.

CITS was established in 1987 with the support of former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk. It has a distinguished record of policy-relevant research, training, and public service, focusing primarily on security issues related to the trade, transfer, and use of materials and technology associated with weapons of mass destruction (WMD), nuclear security culture, and nonproliferation policy. CITS is fortifying its connections to DIA and to other UGA academic units by broadening its scope to include human security, counterterrorism, counterinsurgency, cybersecurity, and energy security. While strategic trade management and nonproliferation remain central to CITS' mission, outstanding candidates with research and policy experience outside this area are also encouraged to apply.

The Center's programs are sustained by corporate and government contracts, private foundation grants, and individual and corporate gifts. For more than three decades, these sources of support have enabled the Center to design and implement training and outreach programs to U.S. and foreign policymakers and industry representatives. The Center also engages these communities, educators, students, and the general public via international colloquia on emerging security issues. CITS's Security and Strategic Trade Management Academy alone has trained more than 1,000 government officials, academics and industry representatives from 70 countries on the establishment, implementation, and enforcement of export controls.

CITS contributes to SPIA's Master of International Policy (MIP) Program that prepares graduate students for careers in international security and nonproliferation. CITS experts serve as instructors in the MIP Program, whose graduates have been placed in prestigious educational and government institutions. In addition, CITS experts administer the year-long Richard B. Russell Security Leadership Program which prepares undergraduates for careers in nonproliferation and national security. SLP Fellows have earned distinguished national and international scholarships and have been hired by US government agencies, international organizations, corporations, and consulting firms. For more information, visit: <http://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/center-for-international-trade-and-security-cits/>.

DIA is a vibrant and extremely research-active department of twenty-two faculty members that specialize in a wide array of topics, including international conflict, human rights, human security, political institutions, extremism, political economy, and environmental governance. The faculty are leading scholars in their fields, have earned distinguished national and international honors, oversee externally-funded research projects, and serve in editorial positions at top peer-reviewed journals. Members of the faculty have also won prestigious teaching awards at the school and university levels. The department has an undergraduate degree program and contributes to multiple graduate degree programs, including the Ph.D. program in Political Science and International Affairs. Both DIA and CITS are housed within SPIA, one of the fastest growing public affairs schools in the world. SPIA ranks sixth among graduate schools of public affairs, according to the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings.

The University of Georgia, located in Athens, Georgia, approximately 75 miles northeast of Atlanta, is a Research I institution in the University System of Georgia. Founded in 1785, the University is the largest and most comprehensive educational institution in the state. UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution. Georgia is well known for its quality of life, with both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov).

Prospective candidates must apply for the position through the UGA Jobs site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/30612>. To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three individuals who can provide reference letters. A Ph.D. is required. The position is open until filled. Applications received by November 1, 2018 will be assured full consideration. For questions concerning the position, please contact Amanda Murdie, Head, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 327, Athens, GA 30602 (telephone: 706-542-9659, email: murdie@uga.edu)

SPIA is committed to enhancing the diversity of the School and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Date Posted: 8/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4747

Dartmouth College

Rank: Director of Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences

Position Description

Dartmouth College solicits applications and nominations for the position of the Director of the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences. The Rockefeller Center is a catalyst for public policy research, teaching, and deliberation. Dedicated to providing an interdisciplinary perspective on policy-related topics, the Center fosters a commitment to the ideals of public service and informed public debate exemplified by Nelson A. Rockefeller, former governor of New York State and Vice President of the United States. The Director will lead a variety of activities related to public policy, including research initiatives, grants, conferences, speakers, experiential learning, and leadership development programs for students. The Rockefeller Center is an important and vibrant institution on campus, and we seek someone who will support and stimulate existing efforts and encourage new initiatives.

Qualifications

We are searching for an individual who has demonstrated expertise in social science research and a proven ability to work with people across disciplines at a variety of levels. We welcome internal as well as external candidates. The successful candidate for Director preferably would be tenurable in one of the social science departments or programs and have a record of excellence in research, classroom teaching, and professional service. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful collaboration, teaching, and mentoring of people from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences at Dartmouth College. Applicants must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and curriculum vitae. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or further information, contact Dean Lacy (dean.lacy@dartmouth.edu). Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/53740

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4712

University of British Columbia

Rank: Director, UBC School of Public Policy and Global Affairs

Director, UBC School of Public Policy and Global Affairs

The Faculty of Arts at the University of British Columbia – Vancouver seeks an outstanding candidate for the position of Director of the UBC School of Public Policy and Global Affairs. The appointment as Director, anticipated to begin July 1, 2019, carries an initial five-year term, with the possibility of reappointment for a second term.

Formed in 2017, UBC's School of Public Policy and Global Affairs is a Professional School dedicated to global affairs and a broad approach to public policy issues. Bringing together scholars and practitioners across a wide range of research fields in the social, natural and applied sciences, as well as the humanities, the School fosters a deep interdisciplinary approach to complex local, national, and global problems, drawing upon its research expertise in the domains of sustainability, security and social justice, and its long-established strengths in Asia and democratic governance. The School is currently home to the Institute of Asian Research, the Liu Institute for Global Issues, the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions, and the Canadian International Resources and Development Institute and administers a graduate level professional program: the Master of Public Policy and Global Affairs (MPPGA). For information, visit: <https://policyschool.ubc.ca>.

UBC-Vancouver's Point Grey Campus is located on the traditional, ancestral and unceded territories of the Musqueam people, with whom UBC shares a framework Memorandum of Affiliation. For information relating to Aboriginal initiatives that are available at UBC, visit the UBC Vancouver Aboriginal portal at: <http://aboriginal.ubc.ca/>.

The position of Director provides an excellent opportunity for an outstanding scholar who will lead and shape a globally focused policy school for a new era, having primary responsibility for the management and operation of the School, with its world-class, professionally-oriented research and education programs geared toward building policy capacity for multiple sectors. The Director will be expected to maintain a leadership role in a variety of academic and professional settings by engaging stakeholders in business and government, enhancing and transforming public policy dialogue, and providing a global perspective on public policy research and education.

The Director will report to the Dean of the Faculty of Arts, chair the School's Partnership Council, and participate in the School's Advisory Council. Responsibilities will include: leading the School's visioning and planning processes; setting strategic directions for the School; maintaining the School as an interdisciplinary hub for research, scholarship, and knowledge exchange; fostering research excellence; developing scholarly initiatives; recruiting, mentoring, and evaluating faculty; supporting academic programs and initiatives to ensure a high quality learning environment; maintaining and enhancing community, alumni, and donor partnerships; overseeing the financial health of the School; developing the School's internal policies and procedures on governance and administrative matters; and continuing to build the profile of the School locally, nationally, and internationally.

We seek applicants who have a PhD, a distinguished record of research publications and scholarship activity commensurate with appointment at the rank of Full Professor (or senior Associate Professor may also be considered), a record of high quality undergraduate and graduate teaching, and graduate supervision, a record of policy engagement, which includes public scholarship and experience in engaging government, business, and not-for-profits in policy design, development, and implementation, and a record of leadership and administrative skills. The successful candidate will be expected to demonstrate vision and creativity, to foster a collaborative, respectful, and inclusive environment for students, staff, and faculty, to build relationships with policy leaders at all levels, and to liaise with granting agencies, industry partners, and other research sponsors.

How to apply:

Apply online by October 31, 2018 at: <https://ardo.air.arts.ubc.ca/sppga-application-form/>. Applicants must be prepared to upload a single bookmarked PDF file containing the following items, in the order listed: cover letter; curriculum vitae; and statements (no longer than 1 page each) summarizing their (a) research program, (b) policy engagement, (c) teaching philosophy/practice and ability to work with a diverse student body, and (d) experience in and approach to leadership and administrative roles. Applicants are also asked to provide the names and contact information for four referees who may be approached at a later date to provide confidential and objective assessment of the applicant's suitability for the SPPGA leadership position. Enquiries may be directed to: Marcia Lang via email at marcia.lang\(at\)ubc.caubc.ca) with "SPPGA Director" in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin in October 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. At a later stage of the search process, long-listed applicants will be asked to provide evidence of teaching effectiveness.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4656

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Full-time Tenure Track Professor

The Management Department of the Wharton School is seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position at any level: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in the areas of:

- Entrepreneurial Management
- Human Resource Management
- Multinational /Comparative Management
- Organizational Behavior
- Organizational Theory
- Strategy

Demonstrated ability or potential for high quality research and teaching are important. Applicants must have a Ph.D. (expected completion by June 30, 2020 is acceptable) from an accredited institution.

The appointment is expected to begin July 1, 2019.

Interested individuals should complete and submit our online application via our secure website, and must include:

- A cover letter (indicating the areas for which you wish to be considered)
- Curriculum vitae
- Names of three recommenders, including email addresses [junior-level candidates]
- Sample publications and abstracts

To apply please visit our website:

<https://mgmt.wharton.upenn.edu/faculty/management-faculty-positions/>

Recruitment Committee review of applications will begin on September 30, 2018. Candidates are strongly encouraged to have their completed applications submitted by that date for full consideration.

The University of Pennsylvania is an EOE. Minorities/Women/Individuals with disabilities/Protected Veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: 9/30/2018
Date Posted: 7/16/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4390

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in American Politics and Constitutional Law

Specializations: American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and interest in the enduring questions of American Politics and Constitutional Law for a Spring 2019 position.

Candidates for Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor should have a Ph.D.; candidates for Instructor should be ABD. The teaching load for the one-semester Spring 2019 position is four courses with three preparations. The four courses will include: two sections of an introductory American Politics course (each capped at 30 students); one section of a Mock Trial course (capped at 20 students); and one section of a Constitutional Law course (capped at 30 students). Service duties will be assigned by Chair.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission).

Please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to complete the online application. Using the link above, electronically submit a curriculum vita, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations, if available), sample syllabi for proposed courses, if available (use Other 1), a list of three references who could comment on teaching abilities, and a cover letter that explicitly incorporates a clear understanding of the mission of Jesuit higher education and how one will contribute to this mission.

If materials cannot be electronically uploaded to the website, please email to: Dr. Kevin Hula (khula@loyola.edu) or, if unable to send electronically, mail to him at Dept. of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Reviews of applications will begin November 1.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2018
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4901

SUNY, Oswego State

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Assistant Professor of American Politics is a broadly trained political scientist, well versed in historical, interpretive, and critical approaches, who can teach a range of courses in American politics. The Assistant Professor will teach an introductory survey of American politics and other courses determined by area of research and interests.

The Assistant Professor of American Politics will demonstrate potential for excellence in teaching and scholarship and a commitment to undergraduate education, and must possess communication and interpersonal skills sufficient to work effectively with an increasingly diverse array of students and colleagues.

A commitment to interdisciplinarity, the ability to contribute to departmental offerings in political theory, a strong interest and desire to work with students from diverse backgrounds, and ability to promote students' ability to succeed in a global community is preferred.

For additional details and to submit an application, visit www.oswego.edu/vacancies

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2018
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 4908

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor - Judicial Political (American) , Gender and Development, and Global Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Assistant Professor - Judicial Political (American) , Gender and Development, and Global Politics (38494)

University of Florida: College of Liberal Arts & Sciences: 16380000 - LS-POLITICAL SCIENCE. Gainesville, FL

Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for three full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professors in Judicial Politics (American), Gender and Development, and Global Politics to begin August 16, 2019. The Department hopes to hire faculty broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our Department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. For all three tenure-track positions, we are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with the cluster hire themes of race and ethnicity, representation and justice, gender and other categories of identity, and the politics of inequality. Substantive research fields and methodological approaches are open.

For the Judicial Politics position, we are particularly interested in applicants conducting research on questions of race, ethnicity, gender, immigration status, or other categories of identity and the judicial system in the U.S. Scholars conducting research on the carceral state are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates should be able to offer courses on the judicial process at the graduate and undergraduate levels and should be excited about advising undergraduate pre-law students and assisting with undergraduate internships in the legal field.

For the Gender and Development position, we are seeking applicants specializing in research on how changes in the social, political, and economic status of women (both progress and backlash) shape economic and human development outcomes in the current age of globalism. The successful applicant should be prepared to not only teach specialized courses in his or her area of scholarly research at the graduate and undergraduate level, but also to offer general courses in the fields of comparative or international political economy. An ability to contribute to the Department's methods sequence (qualitative or quantitative approaches) is a plus.

For the Global Politics position, we are especially interested in applicants whose scholarship focuses on transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and post-conflict studies. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between domestic and international politics and the respective fields of comparative politics and international relations. In line with the overall theme of the search, candidates combining studies of identity and inequality or race, ethnicity and justice are especially encouraged to apply.

While we are open with regard to regional focus in these two positions, we are particularly interested in applicants conducting research in Latin America, Central or South Asia, or Europe.

Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

Qualifications

A Ph.D is required.

Application Instructions

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/55446> and must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. One article reprint or pre-print
7. Three confidential letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018, and continue until all three positions are filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4907

Duquesne University

Rank: Full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

AMERICAN POLITICS

Assistant Professor of Political Science, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts, Duquesne University

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests in any aspect of American politics, policy, and law. The ability to teach Constitutional law to undergraduates would be welcome. Candidates will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body. Duquesne is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources.

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on November 1, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Ph.D. by start date is strongly preferred. Applications from female and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted directly to <http://apply.interfolio.com/54864>. Start date is August 15, 2019. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Ms. Cheri Cunningham at cunningc@duq.edu.

Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and through service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world.” We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting <http://www.duq.edu/about/mission-and-identity/mission-statement>. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked about ways in which they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4887

Duquesne University

Rank: Full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

AMERICAN POLITICS

Assistant Professor of Political Science, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts, Duquesne University

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests in any aspect of American politics, policy, and law. The ability to teach Constitutional law to undergraduates would be welcome. Candidates will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body. Duquesne is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources.

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on November 1, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Ph.D. by start date is strongly preferred. Applications from female and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted directly to <http://apply.interfolio.com/54864>. Start date is August 15, 2019. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Ms. Cheri Cunningham at cunningc@duq.edu.

Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to “serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and through service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world.” We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting <http://www.duq.edu/about/mission-and-identity/mission-statement>. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked about ways in which they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Duquesne University values equality of opportunity as an educational institution and as an employer. We aspire to attract and sustain a diverse faculty and staff that reflects contemporary society, serves our academic goals and enriches our campus community. We particularly encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups and support dual-career couples through our charter membership in this region's HERC (<http://www.hercjobs.org/oh-western-pa-wv/>).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4888

Indiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Indiana State University (www.indstate.edu) invites applications for an American politics position at the assistant professor rank to begin in August 2019. The department's mission is tied to community engagement and experiential learning, and the successful candidate must demonstrate a willingness to promote those aims via teaching, research, and activities outside the classroom. Indiana State University is a comprehensive institution of higher learning with approximately 14,000 students.

The candidate selected will become the ninth full-time faculty member of the Department of Political Science, which offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Legal Studies. We also offer an online MPA program that draws students from Indiana and across the United States. Applicants should demonstrate the potential for both productive scholarship and effective teaching. We seek a new colleague trained in American politics, with an emphasis in public policy formation, implementation, and/or analysis. The successful candidate will be able to contribute introductory and upper division courses to the department's political science undergraduate program. The successful candidate will also offer courses in ISU's Foundational Studies curriculum the instructions of which would include, among other topics, ethics and social responsibility in a political context. Furthermore, the ability to contribute courses to the Master of Public Administration in the areas of public policy, nonprofit management, community development, and/or public-private partnerships is desired.

The typical teaching load for assistant professors in the department is 3 courses per semester, with an active research agenda and service responsibilities also expected. Review of applications will begin on October 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications completed by October 25 will be given full consideration. A Ph.D. at the time of the appointment in Political Science or in a closely related field is preferred. We will consider advanced ABDs who are able to demonstrate that they will have the Ph.D. in hand at that time.

Indiana State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and conducts its recruitment and hiring based solely upon job-related qualifications, without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, veteran status or citizenship status. The College of Arts and Sciences welcomes all faculty, staff, and students, regardless of identity or affiliation. The College values the contribution of all individuals in the execution of its primary mission, which is to educate undergraduate and graduate students. To that end, we will strive to attract representative staff and faculty. The College will actively support endeavors that embrace and explore human differences and global awareness. View the diversity plan at <https://www.indstate.edu/cas/diversity-plan>. Questions may be addressed to polisci@indstate.edu. Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.indstate.edu>. Please include a letter of application, curricula vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a teaching philosophy statement), three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4891

MCPHS University

Rank: Faculty - Political Science

For nearly 200 years, MCPHS University, formerly known as Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences, has been at the forefront of innovation in the healthcare world. We take pride in our history, yet are motivated by a curiosity about the future. That's why we are constantly updating our state-of-the-art labs, innovating our curriculums, and adding programs to coincide with the needs of an ever-changing healthcare landscape.

Faculty and staff continue to bring their talents and skills to MCPHS University to contribute to our mission of guiding and supporting students toward successful and sustainable careers in healthcare. Whatever position an employee holds, their efforts make an important impact on the overall quality of campus life. Employees are an integral part of a community that is proud of its heritage and the accomplishments that make MCPHS University a first-class educational institution.

The Faculty in Political Science is a 9-month, full time faculty position with responsibility for instruction in an introductory course on social science disciplines; electives in the instructor's areas of specialization; service to the School of Arts and Sciences and the University, and scholarship commensurate with rank.

- Serve as instructor for American Culture, Identity and Public Life (the introduction to the Social Sciences disciplines), and courses to be developed in the field of Political Science.
- Work collaboratively with administrators, faculty, and staff in the School of Arts and Sciences
- Engage in service assignments related to the School of Arts and Sciences, committee work, and ongoing assessment
- Participate in Open House and other University-wide student recruitment and orientation events; curriculum development for Social Science courses, and program support as international student population expands
- Produce scholarship resulting in conference presentations, publishable manuscripts, peer-reviewed instructional materials, or other outcomes consistent with expectations for scholarly activities described in the Faculty Manual

Additional responsibilities may be assigned by the Department Chair or the Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences.

Rank is commensurate with education and experience.

Required:

- Candidate must have Doctorate degree (Ph.D.) in Political Science or a related field, or defend the dissertation by May 2019
- College teaching experience and evidence of teaching excellence
- Record of scholarly activities and evidence of potential for continuing professional development
- Excellent organizational and communication skills
- Ability to work effectively with a culturally and academically diverse student population
- Ability to work collaboratively with colleagues
- Commitment to undergraduate education and student success

The School of Arts and Sciences at MCPHS University emphasizes an interdisciplinary approach, and the Center for Healthcare Humanities at MCPHS hosts interdisciplinary speakers and fosters scholarship activity among its faculty. The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through their research, teaching, and/or service. MCPHS offers a competitive salary and excellent benefits, including a substantial health/dental insurance subsidy, generous holiday/vacation policy, and a significant pension plan contribution.

Please attach a cover letter and a curriculum vitae. Please submit application materials no later than October 15, 2018 for a Summer 2019 start. No phone calls, please. Principals only. Finalist candidate(s) for this position will be subject to a pre-employment background check as a condition of employment. MCPHS University is an equal opportunity employer. Applicants who would enrich the University's diversity are encouraged to apply.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/3qntppvp5tgrjst6>

PI104539111

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 10/25/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4899

Princeton University

Rank: Senior Research Specialist I - CSDP

The Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, Princeton University, is seeking an advanced PhD student or PhD for a half-time to full-time Research Specialist I position, to start as soon as possible. The research specialist will work with a multi-investigator team of Princeton University politics professors on CSDP's Project on Economic Inequality in the U.S. The position provides university staff benefits including health insurance, and the opportunity to co-author.

The successful candidate will have excellent statistical skills, good writing skills, experience designing and fielding surveys and experiments, and excellent attention to detail and conscientiousness. At least two years' experience conducting independent, doctoral-level research on individual-level political behavior is preferred. The candidate should be well organized, flexible, and be able to meet deadlines.

Preference will be given to candidates who can be in-residence and working on campus, but a remote work arrangement will be considered, with availability for some meetings in Princeton.

This position is a one-year term position, with the possibility of extension for a second year depending on funding and performance.

Preferred start date of November 1, 2018, but a somewhat later start may be possible.

ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATIONS:

- *Excellent research and writing skills
- *Proficiency in survey design and analysis of survey data, preferably on individual-level political behavior
- *Background in quantitative, experimental research and statistical methods
- *Knowledge of statistical packages including STATA or R
- *Detail-oriented, flexible, able to meet deadlines

EDUCATION REQUIRED:

- *Completed PhD coursework and masters-level research in political science required. Ph.D. in political science strongly preferred

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- *At least two years' experience conducting independent, doctoral-level research on individual-level political behavior

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Apply online on the Princeton University Careers site (careers.princeton.edu), position number 00008232 (Senior Research Specialist I - CSDP),

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4898

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: Professor of Public Policy
Specializations: Science & Technology, Gender Politics & Policy, Political Philosophy & Theory

The University of Michigan's Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy invites applications from social scientists with a PhD in political science, government, public policy or other closely-related disciplines for one or more tenured positions at the associate or full professor rank. The Ford School is committed to attracting and retaining a distinguished and diverse faculty. Areas of specialization and methodological approaches are open, with a particular interest in candidates whose scholarship addresses questions relating to poverty and inequality, politics in diverse societies, concentration of power and wealth, and science and technology policy. Focus may be domestic/US or comparative. Successful candidates must demonstrate a record of outstanding research impact; ability and willingness to teach core and elective courses in undergraduate, master and PhD degree programs in public policy; dedication to public engagement; and a keen interest in interacting with students, faculty, staff, and policy practitioners in an interdisciplinary professional school environment. Candidates should combine relevant substantive expertise with strong interests in public policy.

This is an ongoing search. First consideration will be given to applications received by December 1, 2018, but applications will be considered until the position is filled. Interested applicants may upload their application materials to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/54666>

The following application materials are required: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching philosophy, and a statement describing how your work would contribute to the Ford School's and University of Michigan's strategic commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion. (fordschool.umich.edu/dei)

The University of Michigan is an AA/EQ employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is supportive of the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4885

University of Washington, Tacoma

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics and Public Law
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Law

The University of Washington Tacoma invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics & Public Law, housed within the Division of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs in UWT's School of Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences. The successful candidate will address how power shapes systems of oppression in American law and politics. In particular, the successful candidate will research the relationship between law and marginalization on the basis of race, ethnicity, indigeneity or other social identities.

The ideal candidate will teach courses in American Politics, Race and the Law, Law in Society and other public law related courses. We seek a candidate ready to serve our diverse student populations, involve students in research, and initiate coursework engaging the community. We seek someone eager to integrate new pedagogical techniques, and technologies into coursework. The position will primarily contribute to our two majors: Law & Policy and Politics, Philosophy, & Economics. Depending upon the successful candidate's expertise, this position may also contribute to other UWT majors, such as Ethnic, Gender and Labor Studies and American Studies. This is a full-time position with a 9-month service period. The position begins September 15, 2019.

The University of Washington Tacoma was founded in 1990 with an interdisciplinary approach at its foundation. It has evolved into a thriving downtown campus that serves a wide range of students in the South Puget Sound. Faculty have access to the resources of a major research university, including an extensive library system, while also working and teaching in a small campus setting. Our campus provides a unique environment for the development of creative teaching, research and community collaborations. UW Tacoma's commitment to diversity is central to maintaining an atmosphere wherein students, staff, faculty and residents find abundant opportunities for intellectual, personal and professional growth. For more information about UW Tacoma, visit <http://www.tacoma.washington.edu>.

Qualifications

The position requires an earned doctorate or foreign equivalent in Political Science, Sociology, History, Law, American Studies, or related field at the time of appointment, and is contingent on funding. Candidates in the final stages of their dissertation will be appointed on an acting basis.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit:

A letter delineating your interests and qualifications, a description of research projects underway, and your teaching experience. Applicants' statements should also carefully detail how their teaching, service and/or scholarship has supported the success of students underrepresented in higher education; applicants not yet with such experience should note how their work will further UW Tacoma's commitment to equity and inclusion;

A curriculum vitae, including a list of courses taught,

A statement of your teaching philosophy,

An article-length writing sample,

Evidence of teaching effectiveness, and

Three letters of reference.

Please submit all application materials through Interfolio. We will not consider any application material, including letters of recommendation, received via email or mail. Priority will be given to candidates who apply by October 27, 2018. For further information, contact Dr. Katie Baird at kebaird@uw.edu or Dr. Sarah Hampson hampsons@uw.edu.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to complete the Equal Employment Opportunity questionnaire that is linked to the confirmation email. This information will not be shared with the search committee.

University of Washington Tacoma faculty engage in teaching, research and service, and generally participate in lower division, upper division, and graduate instruction.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

University of Washington is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, genetic information, gender identity or expression, age, disability, or protected veteran status.

Commitment to Diversity

The University of Washington is committed to building diversity among its faculty, librarian, staff, and student communities, and articulates that commitment in the UW Diversity Blueprint (<http://www.washington.edu/diversity/diversity-blueprint/>). Additionally, the University's Faculty Code recognizes faculty efforts in research, teaching and/or service that address diversity and equal opportunity as important contributions to a faculty member's academic profile and responsibilities (<https://www.washington.edu/admin/rules/policies/FCG/FCCH24.html#2432>).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/27/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4897

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Joel R. Williamson Distinguished Professor

Joel R. Williamson Distinguished Professorship

The College of Arts & Sciences of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill seeks to recruit a senior scholar to serve as the Joel R. Williamson Distinguished Professor. This professorship is a prestigious University chair representing the institution's enduring engagement with the study of the American South. Candidates considered for this position should have a consequential record of achievement and a demonstrable commitment to teaching. Additionally, the holder of the Williamson Distinguished Professorship would be expected to provide intellectual and visionary leadership in the area of Southern Studies, collaborate with colleagues across relevant fields and units, and materially assist in the further integration of the campus's significant resources related to the American South.

The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of full professor and will have a tenured appointment in one of the departments of the College of Arts & Sciences. The Williamson Distinguished Professorship provides generous annual support for the holder's research-related activities.

Qualified applicants should send a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information of three letter writers to:

Williamson Distinguished Professorship search committee

Attn.: Ms. Yulia Strizheus

College of Art & Sciences, University of North Carolina

Campus Box 3100

205 South Building

Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3100.

We will begin reviewing applications by December 15, 2018.

UNC is an equal opportunity employer committed to a diverse faculty, staff, and student body and welcomes all applicants. We invite applications from underrepresented groups and those who have academic experiences with diverse populations.

<https://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/148153>

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4882

Boise State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor

Political Science Program – School of Public Service

Requisition #181170

Boise State University's School of Public Service is dedicated to excellence in innovative teaching, cutting-edge scholarship and meaningful community outreach, serving the State of Idaho, the region, nation, and global communities. The school is comprised of rich and diverse academic programs, including Criminal Justice, Political Science, and Public Policy and Administration, as well as interdisciplinary programs such as Environmental Studies, Global Studies, and Urban Studies and Community Development. The mission of the school is supported by a variety of centers and institutes that facilitate research and public engagement.

The School of Public Service invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor position to begin in August of 2019. The area of specialization for this position is American politics with a focus on political institutions. Those studying how institutions intersect with class, race, and ethnicity are especially encouraged to apply.

Boise State University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty, staff, students, and academic program offerings and to strengthening sensitivity to diversity throughout the institution. Boise State University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer, and applications from members of historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. We are a welcoming campus that supports diversity and inclusion.

Position Overview:

- 1 vacancy

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Teaching undergraduate American Politics courses in Political Science with an emphasis on institutions.
- Opportunities to teach and contribute to interdisciplinary programs and the Ph.D. in Public Policy.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field (ABD will be considered).

Preferred Qualifications:

- Specialization in American politics with an emphasis on political institutions.
- Focus on areas of class, race, and ethnicity.

The successful candidate will possess the following knowledge, skills, and abilities:

- Interest and potential in building a strong research record in American political institutions.
- Research record demonstrating theoretical or empirical contributions to the field while utilizing quantitative, qualitative or mixed methods.
- Interest and potential in producing high-quality, peer-reviewed and public service scholarship.
- Interest, experience, and/or ability to promote cultural competency and/or diversity.

Salary and benefits: Competitive salary, plus an excellent benefits package is available for eligible employees, for more information visit: <http://hrs.boisestate.edu/careers/benefits/>.

Required Application Materials: Please attach a cover letter (indicating your interest and qualifications for this position), curriculum vita, summary of recent teaching evaluations, and written sample of your research, transcripts and three letters of recommendation. Please submit application materials using the following link: <https://boisestate.taleo.net/careersection/exfac/jobdetail.ftl?job=181170&tz=GMT-06%3A00>

Please submit Letters of Recommendation to Dr. Lori Hausegger:

lorihausegger@boisestate.edu
1910 University Drive
Boise, ID 83725-1935

Closing Date: October 19, 2018, 11:59PM MST
About the Boise: <http://boisechamber.org>
About the University: <https://www.boisestate.edu/about/>
About the School: <http://sps.boisestate.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4880

Cornell University

Rank: Endowed Professorship in American Politics

Cornell University invites applications for an endowed professorship in American politics, for a position beginning July 1, 2019. We seek to hire an individual with a distinguished record of scholarship and a strong commitment to teaching. We are interested in mid-career scholars with unusual promise as well as in established senior candidates. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/12049>. We also welcome nominations, which can be submitted to Ms. Jerrica Brown, jc2322@cornell.edu. We will begin to review applications starting October 15, 2018, and will continue until the search is completed.

Diversity and Inclusion are a part of Cornell University's heritage. The College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4865

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow, James Madison Program, Princeton University

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-19-POL-00004.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2018 for appointments beginning in September 2019. Awards will be announced in March 2019 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4866

Eastern Illinois University

Rank: American Politics/Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University invites applicants for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor. The successful candidate will be qualified to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American Politics and Research Methods. The position begins August 15, 2019.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status with evidence of substantial progress toward degree completion. Commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring, an active research agenda, and a commitment to service are essential. Primary courses include an introductory American government course, a rotation of undergraduate American politics courses (e.g. Presidency, Congress, and American Foreign Policy), undergraduate and graduate level research methods, and graduate seminars. Some graduate classes will be taught online. The position also includes directing undergraduate and graduate research. Ideal candidates will be committed to mentoring, applied learning, diversity, and promoting inclusive excellence.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references (including reference phone numbers and emails), three recent professional recommendation letters, and graduate school transcripts via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/55077>. Application review begins October 8 and will continue until the position is filled.

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University offers three undergraduate majors, including Political Science, an International Studies option, and a Civic and Nonprofit Leadership option. At the graduate level, the department offers an M.A. in Political Science and an online M.A. in Political Science with a Public Administration and Public Policy option. Questions about the search may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Melinda Mueller (mamueller@eiu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4857

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program, Princeton University

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2019 to September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at <https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs> by December 1, 2018; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2019 or before. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4863

Purdue University, Northwest

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics and Public Policy

The Department of Political Science, Economics, and World Languages and Cultures at Purdue University Northwest in Hammond and Westville, Indiana, invites applications for a Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Politics and Public Policy position starting on August 12, 2019.

The Department of Political Science, Economics, and World Languages and Cultures brings together scholars in political science, economics and foreign languages, creating unique synergies between its faculty, particularly with respect to public policy within political science and economics. With undergraduate majors and minors in Foreign Languages and Political Science, as well as a new minor in Economics, the department seeks to expand its public policy and state and local government focus.

Purdue University Northwest is an academically comprehensive regional university and part of the internationally respected Purdue

University system. The campuses are located in the northwest Indiana cities of Hammond, less than 25 miles southeast of downtown Chicago, and Westville, near the shores of Lake Michigan. Purdue University Northwest offers baccalaureate and master's degrees in such Purdue academic strengths as engineering; technologies; behavioral and social sciences; liberal arts; as well as professional programs consisting of nursing, business, education, and hospitality & tourism management. More than 12,000 students attend Purdue University Northwest. Adding to the unique character of the institution is a richly diverse student body including more than seven percent international students.

Essential Duties:

- Teaching multiple sections of the introductory courses in American Politics, as well as public policy courses in area of specialization.
- Teaching load will be three courses per semester.
- Participation in professional, university, and community service is expected.
- Opportunities for interacting with regional organizations and businesses are excellent and encouraged.
- Candidates with the ability to teach: introduction to international relations; introduction to public policy, state and local politics or immigration politics are strongly encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

A doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Applications from ABD candidates will be accepted with the expectation that the dissertation must be successfully defended by no later than January 1, 2019. Proficiency in English, written and spoken, is required.

Additional Information:

This position begins August 12, 2019. Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita with references, Letters of recommendation, and a statement of teaching philosophy to the address listed below. Electronic submission preferred. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled with a preferred date of Oct. 15, 2018.

Purdue University Northwest is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Political Science Search Committee
College of Humanities, Education and Social Sciences
Purdue University Northwest
2200 169th Street
Hammond, IN 46323
poljobs@pnw.edu

Purdue University Northwest offers an attractive salary and an excellent benefits package. For information regarding our excellent benefits package, please visit: www.purdue.edu/benefits

Professional references will be verified prior to any offer of employment. Employment is contingent upon completion of successful background check.

Purdue University Northwest is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Purdue University is an equal opportunity/equal access/affirmative action employer fully committed to achieving a diverse workforce. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

www.purdue.edu/ethics/policies/FosteringRespect_accessible.pdf

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4861

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Public Administration

Specializations: American Politics, Congress, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior

Assistant Professor (JOB#12544)

School of Politics and Global Studies

Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor beginning August 2019. We are interested in candidates whose research and teaching focus is on American institutions, broadly defined. Candidates with expertise in the U.S. Congress, the presidency, interest groups, institutional interactions, representation or opinion-policy linkages are encouraged to apply.

We are open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus, and methodological approaches. Position duties include teaching courses in the American politics curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, including an upper-division undergraduate course; advising and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students; developing an active research agenda; and providing service to the department, college, and university.

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; the ability to teach advanced statistical methods, particularly at the graduate level; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses, demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program.

The application deadline is November 2, 2018; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2019.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/12022>. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment. Questions about the position or search should be directed to the search committee chair at kahn@asu.edu.

The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University. Candidates who can make use of our experimental laboratories are particularly encouraged to apply.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4855

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks to fill an Assistant Professor of Political Science, Tenure-Track position with an anticipated start date in Fall 2019.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The research faculty includes psychologists, economists, and political scientists, and is enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership, as well as multiple dual degree programs with other units at U.Va. Given the interdisciplinary nature of this position, the candidates would have the potential for a joint or secondary appointment with other academic units at U.Va.

Candidates must have a PhD, or be on track to attaining the PhD, by August 1, 2019. Candidates must have the desire and ability to teach courses on leadership and public policy at the undergraduate (BA) and graduate (MPP) levels. Relevant courses in the curriculum focus on the politics of the policy processes. We invite applications from candidates who have earned their doctorate in political science with a focus on American Politics. Candidates with a focus on political institutions within American politics including but not limited to bureaucracy, legislative politics, parties, national or state/local are highly encouraged to apply. Candidates who study these topics as they relate to social policy are particularly encouraged.

To apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0623986, and complete a candidate profile. Include a CV, contact information for 3 references, and a cover letter describing your research and teaching interests. Candidates may also submit an optional diversity statement that describes contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Submitted as other).

The Batten School is a dynamic cross-disciplinary school offering an attractive 2-1 teaching load and highly competitive salaries.

Review of applications will begin in September 2018. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area.

To learn more please visit <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The University of Virginia is fundamentally committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and staff. UVA is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. We welcome nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities. We also welcome others who would bring additional dimensions of diversity to the university's research and teaching mission. We believe diversity is excellence expressing itself through every person's perspectives and lived experiences.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/rfc6xrw2nt37bjbq>

PI104424743

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4850

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position focused on race and ethnicity in any subfield of political science, with particular emphasis on American, Comparative or International Politics. This is an open-rank search that is part of a cluster hire within the College of the Liberal Arts at Penn State (<http://la.psu.edu/about/diversity-and-inclusion/faculty>). The department particularly seeks individuals who build on the strengths of the department. Note that this position is separate and in addition to a simultaneous search being conducted by the Department of African American Studies, and interested candidates may apply to both positions (posting available at <https://www.apsanet.org/CAREERS/eJobs/eJobs-Online/JBctl/ViewJob/JobID/4665>). Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Tenure track candidates should have a record that demonstrates potential to build a strong publication record, to secure external funding, and to serve as an excellent teacher and mentor. Tenured applicants should already have developed a strong record in each of these three areas. Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Applications must be submitted online, and should include as attachments a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates for the rank of assistant professor should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu; candidates seeking a tenured appointment should e-mail the names and contact information for three individuals who have agreed to serve as a reference to that address. Application review will begin on October 10, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to <https://police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports>, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report. Job URL: <https://psu.jobs/job/83036>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4838

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position focused on race and ethnicity in any subfield of political science, with particular emphasis on American, Comparative or International Politics. This is an open-rank search that is part of a cluster hire within the College of the Liberal Arts at Penn State (<http://la.psu.edu/about/diversity-and-inclusion/faculty>). The department particularly seeks individuals who build on the strengths of the department. Note that this position is separate and in addition to a simultaneous search being conducted by the Department of African American Studies, and interested candidates may apply to both positions (posting available at <https://www.apsanet.org/CAREERS/eJobs/eJobs-Online/JBctl/ViewJob/JobID/4665>). Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Tenure track candidates should have a record that demonstrates potential to build a strong publication record, to secure external funding, and to serve as an excellent teacher and mentor. Tenured applicants should already have developed a strong record in each of these three areas. Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Applications must be submitted online, and should include as attachments a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates for the rank of assistant professor should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu; candidates seeking a tenured appointment should e-mail the names and contact information for three individuals who have agreed to serve as a reference to that address. Application review will begin on October 10, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to <https://police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports>, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Job URL: <https://psu.jobs/job/83036>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4839

Knox College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

Assistant Professor, Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full time, tenure track assistant professor in the area of Public Law beginning September 1, 2019.

We seek an energetic and creative scholar who adopts innovative approaches to teaching and research in a residential, liberal arts setting. Candidates should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law and other courses in the area of law and politics. Possibilities include: civil liberties, medical law, immigration law, race and the legal system, international law, and environmental law. Ability to teach political theory a plus. Knox College operates on a trimester system with three ten week terms. The candidate hired for this position will teach five courses a year over those three terms and serve as Knox's pre-law adviser. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the intellectual diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their research, teaching, and service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field expected at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates considered.

Interested applicants should submit:

Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy and research agenda,

Curriculum Vitae,

Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential,

Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence, Unofficial graduate transcripts,

An example of recent scholarship such as an article, book chapter, or conference paper.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at politicalsciencesearch@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 12, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX

Coordinator or the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4835

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor in Constitutional Law and Political Theory

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory

Constitutional Law and Political Theory

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor focusing on Constitutional Law and Political Theory. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Philosophy, or related field, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. The successful candidate will offer a constitutional law sequence of courses in addition to contributions elsewhere in the curriculum. While we are open with regard to research and teaching interests in constitutional law and related areas, we would look especially favorably on candidates who focus on civil rights and civil liberties. The ability to teach courses in jurisprudence, gender and politics, or race and ethnic politics is strongly preferred as well. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2019.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 10:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ConLawSearch@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: Constitutional Law Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4824

Temple University

Rank: Assistant Professor in State/Local/Urban Policy and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in American politics focusing on state, local, or urban policy, politics, and governance. We are interested in candidates whose research and teaching engages any policy area. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching. Evidence of external grant/fellowship support is desirable. Teaching a survey course in state and local politics and policy on a regular basis is expected. Temple University is a state-related Carnegie Research University (highest research activity) located in Philadelphia. The College of Liberal Arts is home to 32 undergraduate majors, 32 minors, 23 certificate programs and 15 graduate degree programs. With its vibrant and diverse array of educational programs, the College of Liberal Arts plays a tremendous role in Temple University's academic success and its mission mirrors both the historical importance of the liberal arts in society and the principles on which the university was founded. Candidates are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/54756>. Applications received by October 15, 2018 will receive best consideration. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/16/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4825

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics

The University of California, Santa Barbara Department of Political Science seeks a scholar in American politics for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor effective July 1, 2019. We are open to scholars in all areas of American politics, but are most interested in candidates who have primary research and teaching interests involving American political institutions, understood broadly, and the ability to teach core graduate seminars in American political institutions. The Department has long-standing commitments to building strengths in areas involving the politics of identity and the politics of the environment. In light of those commitments, there would be special interest in candidates whose interests additionally touch on issues of migration and identity, including particularly Latino/a identity, and/or the intersection of institutions with race, ethnicity, class, gender or citizenship.

The minimum requirement to be considered an applicant is the completion of all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (or equivalent degree), except the dissertation, at the time of application. Ph.D. preferred. Applicants must demonstrate exceptional promise and a record of high achievement.

UCSB is the first Hispanic-Serving Institution in the American Association of Universities (AAU). The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service as appropriate to the position.

Completed applications received by October 17, 2018 will receive primary consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Applications must include a curriculum vitae, a research statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (or other evidence of teaching effectiveness), and three letters from academic references. All application materials should be submitted via UC Recruit: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF01313>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4828

Drake University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Drake University seeks a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science in American Politics, focusing on public policy and policy analysis. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in Political Science (ABDs with solid evidence of completion by the start of the Fall 2019 semester will be considered) and demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence. Teaching responsibilities include the introductory American Politics course and upper level courses covering domestic public policy (process and theory), policy analysis, and topics consistent with the individual's research specialization. Located in the fastest growing city in the Midwest and the state capital of Des Moines, Iowa, Drake is a hub of political activity during the Iowa caucuses and offers exceptional opportunities for experiential learning, student engagement, and scholarship on policy formulation and discourse in local, state, and national contexts. Salary is competitive with peer schools and dependent on qualifications and experience. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018. To apply, go to <https://drake.hiretouch.com> and submit a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a statement on teaching philosophy), and a writing sample. Questions may be directed to the search committee chair at Rachel.caulfield@drake.edu.

<https://drake.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=50547&job=assistant-professor-of-politics-998795><https://drake.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=50547&job=assistant-professor-of-politics-998795>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4806

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: American Politics, Assistant/Associate Professor, Department of Political Science

Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNLV-External/job/UNLV1-Maryland-Campus/American-Politics--Assistant-Associate-Professor--Department-of-Political-Science--R0112048-_R0112048

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4813

University of North Carolina, Asheville

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

The University of North Carolina Asheville Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin Fall 2019. An earned Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for a tenure-track position; however, candidates nearing completion of their doctorate (ABD) with a defense expected prior to August 2019 may be considered. Candidates should be broadly trained in Political Science but specifically prepared to teach a variety of classes in American Politics, while also sharing teaching responsibilities in the department's research methods and/or undergraduate research sequence. Priority will be given to candidates with expertise or teaching experience in the politics of race and ethnicity or in state, local, or urban politics. Candidates whose teaching, scholarship, and service contribute to the department's human rights and civil rights emphases are especially welcome, and the successful candidate will have the opportunity to contribute to related university programs such as Africana Studies; U.S. Ethnic Studies; American Indian and Indigenous Studies; Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies; and Human Rights Studies.

The person selected for this position will be expected to teach 12 contact hours per semester, establish a research program that involves undergraduates, and engage in service to the institution, the community and the profession. Individuals with a passion for undergraduate teaching and interest in a career at an institution focused on the liberal arts are strongly encouraged to apply. In addition to having a passion for undergraduate teaching, research and mentorship, the UNC Asheville faculty is committed to disciplinary teaching through an inter- and multi-disciplinary lens and providing a premier liberal arts education. Faculty members are expected to teach across the University's Liberal Arts Core (LAC) program, our required interdisciplinary liberal arts curriculum, in courses that include, but are not limited to: introductory (freshman) colloquia; diversity intensives; courses that satisfy the Scientific Perspectives, Social Science courses, and Arts and Ideas requirements; courses within the Humanities Program; and LAC Senior Capstone courses.

UNC Asheville has been a national leader in undergraduate research for more than 30 years, and over 60% of our students graduate each year having been involved in this important learning experience. The University fully embraces the idea of mentored undergraduate research being one of the highest forms of teaching, and the institution values success in this facet of a faculty member's work.

The University of North Carolina at Asheville is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic and educational community, welcoming and supportive of faculty and staff from all racial, ethnic, economic, religious, gender, and gender-identity backgrounds. We encourage applications from individuals whose backgrounds and interests align with this commitment. The successful candidate will be expected to engage students from among under-represented groups and to assist in the development of pedagogies and experiences appropriate for diverse learning styles and perspectives. We expect applicants to each write a 1-2 page Diversity Statement describing: (a) their experience in advancing diversity in teaching, scholarship and/or service; (b) examples of demonstrated leadership potential in the area of equity and inclusion; and (c) their understanding of the importance of diversity and inclusion to the mission of a liberal art university.

Applications for this position should be submitted electronically at <https://jobs.unca.edu>. Complete applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy that addresses Political Science pedagogy in the context of the liberal arts, a diversity statement (described above), copies of teaching evaluations, a scholarly writing sample, statement of research interest and plans, and copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts. The applicant should provide names and contact information for three references from whom we will request letters of reference to be sent separately; these references should address the candidate's written, verbal and interpersonal skills; ability to teach and mentor undergraduate students; and potential to develop and maintain a successful research program.

Priority will be given to applications received before October 1. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Dr. Linda Cornett at lcornett@unca.edu.

For more information, see: <https://jobs.unca.edu/postings/3430>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4807

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Professor/Assistant Professor/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seek nominations and applications of interest to appoint three or more distinguished scholars to establish a cluster of excellence in research and teaching on the challenges of contemporary democracy. We are especially interested in colleagues with an established record of scholarship examining the root causes and consequences of polarization, including its global and transnational dynamics. Successful candidates will join the Agora Institute's core faculty and will serve as full members of the Department of Political Science. We invite qualified candidates from all subfields of the discipline whose work connects with the core mission of the Institute. By conducting a broad and inclusive search, we are committed to identifying candidates who, through their research, teaching, and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of our academic community.

Political Science at Johns Hopkins is a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department open to a variety of research methods and intellectual approaches. We also will consider applications for potential cross-disciplinary appointments from scholars in fields such as History, Sociology, Psychology, and Philosophy as well as cross-divisional appointments.

Jointly conceived by the University and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF), the $150M SNF Agora Institute was founded to address the deterioration of civic engagement in democracies worldwide and facilitate the restoration of open and inclusive discourse that is the cornerstone of healthy democracies. Housed in the University's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading academic and public forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics—to examine the dynamics of civic strife and design and test mechanisms for improving dialogue, social engagement, and democratic governance (<http://agora.jhu.edu/>).

Applicants for Tenured Associate or Full Professor should submit a cover letter, research statement, and curriculum vitae using Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/54486>. Candidates applying at the level of advanced assistant professor should include the above as well as a writing sample and three letters of recommendation. Nominations of potential candidates should be sent directly to Professor Adam Sheingate (adam.sheingate@jhu.edu). Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4804

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Science-American/Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (LAS) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) invites applications for the position of tenure track Assistant Professor in American and Urban Politics with a specialization in Hispanic/Latinx Politics, beginning in the 2019-2020 academic year subject to budgetary approval.

Research focus might include but is not limited to: 1) voting behavior and descriptive representation, 2) political engagement and participation, including youth, 3) minority social movements and political mobilization; 4) racialized policy regimes at the subnational level (e.g., policing; education; health/welfare; refugee & immigrant integration). Final authorization of the position is subject to availability of funding. We welcome candidates with additional skills and specializations, such as quantitative and/or qualitative methodology, comparative politics, or political theory.

We seek candidates with PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline in hand, or very near completion, proof of ability to maintain a research agenda, and a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching. Evidence of the candidate's research performance or promise and appropriate teaching skills should be provided.

Assistant professors are expected to teach two (2) courses per semester at the undergraduate or graduate level, as assigned by the department head. They are also expected to maintain a consistent record of research and publication, provide service to the department and the profession, and contribute to the intellectual life of the department.

To apply, complete an on-line application, including the names and email addresses for three or more references, and upload full curriculum vitae and a cover letter that summarizes candidate's research and teaching qualifications at <https://jobs.uic.edu/job-board/job-details?jobID=100519>. Questions about the position can be directed to Prof. Alexandra Filindra at 312-413-2186 or aleka@uic.edu, the chair of the search committee. For fullest consideration, applications should be completed by October 8, 2018.

UIC is a Carnegie Doctoral/Research I institution (Highest Research Activity), located in the heart of the City of Chicago and one of the nation's largest metropolitan areas. It is a comprehensive public university with a diverse student body of more than 30,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. UIC is federally recognized as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI), fully funded by the US Department of Education.

The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer, dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, and covered veterans. The University of Illinois may conduct background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 4786

University of Minnesota, Duluth

Rank: Assistant Professor – American Politics Tenure-Track

The Political Science & International Studies Program at University of Minnesota Duluth seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American Politics with a start date of Aug. 19, 2019. We are open to exact area of teaching and research specialization, including both political institutions and behavior. Special attention will be given applicants willing to offer the department's research methods course. Competitive candidates will be capable of outstanding teaching and research.

A Ph.D. in hand is required by the time of appointment. The program offers two undergraduate majors: Political Science and an interdisciplinary degree in International Studies. Faculty offer courses in four subfields of Political Science – American Politics (including Public Law), Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Theory.

Political Science & International Studies Faculty are methodologically diverse and globally recognized scholars. University of Minnesota Duluth is part of the University of Minnesota system. Faculty are offered generous start-up packages and successfully compete for internal and external funding.

The University of Minnesota Duluth is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer committed to diversity. The university encourages applications from women, minorities, veterans, LGBT individuals, and individuals with disabilities.

Applicants should include a cover letter that includes a statement of research and teaching interests; curriculum vitae; evidence of teaching effectiveness; a writing sample; and three letters of recommendation.

The University of Minnesota requires that you apply online for this position at <http://employment.umn.edu> (Search for job requisition # 326238). To begin the application process, you must fill out the online application form. Except for letters of reference, all other required or optional documents, e.g. vita, letter of intent, etc., must be submitted online at this site. Have letters of reference sent to:

Dr. Cindy Rugeley, Chair American Politics Search Committee
crugeley@d.umn.edu

To ensure consideration, all required application materials must be received by Oct. 15, 2018, and review of completed applications will begin on this date and continue until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4768

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2019 pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2019. We seek applications from candidates in all areas of American Politics. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in American Politics and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a letter detailing current research interests and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and email addresses for three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries, please contact: American Politics Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 pending availability of funds. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students.

Please apply at: <https://workforum.memphis.edu/postings/19944>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4762

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track (Assistant Professor) positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2019.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 34 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should apply through Workday as instructed below. Applicants should submit the following material online through workday using the links below: a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, any available teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Applicants should also have three letters of reference submitted electronically to Professor William Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Our review of applications will begin on October 3, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

EXTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently are NOT a Texas A&M System employee please click below to go to our external career site to view our jobs. Go to External Career Site – https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Assistant-Professor_R-011658

INTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently ARE a Texas A&M System employee: Go to Internal Career Site – <https://jobs.tamu.edu/internal-applicants/>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4758

University of Richmond

Rank: Tyler Haynes Professorship of Interdisciplinary Studies
Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

The University of Richmond Jepson School of Leadership Studies and School of Law invite nominations and applications for an endowed professorship to be shared between the two schools. We seek candidates with a distinguished record of scholarship and teaching, or a similarly distinguished record of public service, and we anticipate an appointment at the full professor level. The ideal candidate will have earned J.D. and Ph.D. degrees, although we are open to considering candidates who have one or the other. Our vision is for the Tyler Haynes Professor to conduct interdisciplinary research and teach in an interdisciplinary environment. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research interests lie in the criminal justice system, the Supreme Court, healthcare, housing, immigration, social welfare, education policy, or institutional design and analysis, although any area of interest with crossover appeal to law and leadership will be considered. Successful candidates will teach courses in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the School of Law.

Applications and inquiries may be directed to Sandra Peart and Jessica Erickson at hayneschair@richmond.edu. Candidates should attach a cover letter and curriculum vitae. In their cover letters, candidates should address how their scholarly and teaching interests, or record of public service, connect to the study of leadership and law. Cover letters should also specify how the applicant might contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion in the classroom.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and continuing studies. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies and provides a challenging liberal arts curriculum designed to educate students for, and about, leadership. The Law School offers a curriculum that combines sophisticated legal theory with opportunities to put theory into practice, equipping students with the knowledge and skills they need to make valuable contributions to the legal system. For additional information about the two schools, see <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> and <https://law.richmond.edu/>.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4750

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics/Public Law)

Job Posting Title: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics/Public Law)

Position Type: Faculty

Department: LSUAM HSS - School of Political Science

Work Location: LSU - Baton Rouge

Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics / Public Law)

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in judicial politics/public law to begin Fall 2019. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Salary for the position will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Initial review of applications will begin September 15 and will continue until a candidate is selected.

Job Responsibilities:

Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses in Politics, conduct research and scholarship in the candidate's sub-specialty, and directing/supervising graduate and undergraduate student research activity.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2019.

Note: Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment.

Special Instructions:

Application materials should be submitted online and should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Chair, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to polichair@lsu.edu.

Applicant Link:

https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science--Judicial-Politics---Public-Law-_R00027683

Additional Position Information:

Background Check - An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check.

Benefits - LSU offers outstanding benefits to eligible employees and their dependents including health, life, dental, and vision insurance; flexible spending accounts; retirement options; various leave options; paid holidays; wellness benefits; tuition exemption for qualified positions; training and development opportunities.

EEO Statement:

LSU is committed to diversity and is an equal opportunity / equal access employer.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4748

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science – American politics

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Research Methods

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics, to begin fall of 2019. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2019. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course and upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. The candidate must also be able to teach quantitative research methods. Preference will be given to candidates who could contribute courses to the College's interdisciplinary programs (<https://www.rhodes.edu/content/majors-minors>).

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities (<http://www.rhodes.edu/content/liberal-arts-city>).

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu. A complete application will include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy, a research plan, a writing sample, graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are fine), three letters of recommendation, and a separate statement that addresses your interest in teaching at a liberal arts college and how your experiences with teaching, scholarship, and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values. In your cover letter, please address how you see yourself enhancing the offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs. Review of completed applications will begin October 8, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Candidates from backgrounds typically underrepresented in higher education are strongly encouraged to apply. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders, once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and all other required application materials have been submitted. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jaspersen, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4752

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Rank: Lecturer

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga College of Arts and Sciences invites applications for a lecturer in Political Science beginning Fall 2019.

The successful candidate must hold an M.A., M.S., or Ph.D. degree in Political Science and have proven experience effectively teaching general education courses in political science at the collegiate level. The successful candidate will teach general education courses in the discipline as well as some elective courses in their fields of expertise, advise students, and engage in the life of the department. This position is renewable and has the potential for multi-year contracts. Information about the Department of Political Science and Public Service is available at <http://www.utc.edu/psps>.

Qualifications:

Successful candidates will possess the following requirements:

- Master's, ABD, or Ph.D. in Political Science
- Ability to teach introductory courses in American politics and comparative politics, ideally with an emphasis on non-western states.
- Candidates should also be willing to engage in a variety of instructional modalities, including online instruction.
- Willingness to engage in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan, including a demonstrable commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Application Procedures:

Applicants should prepare to submit the following information within our online application system for consideration:

- Cover letter/letter of interest
- CV, including up-to-date, personal contact information (email, phone, etc.)
- Unofficial transcripts
- Teaching Statement
- Syllabi of related courses

Additionally, candidates will need to include names, titles, and email addresses for three (3) references for confidential letters of recommendation to be requested.

Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2018. Preference will be given to those qualified candidates who apply before October 1, 2018.

Applications must be submitted electronically through the UTC Faculty Career Site by visiting: https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc_faculty/jobdetail.fel?job=180000019V&tz=GMT-04%3A00

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second largest school in the University of Tennessee System, serving a diverse student body of more than 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions and is a driving force for achieving excellence, embracing diversity, inspiring positive change, and enriching the community. Since its founding as Chattanooga University in 1886, UTC has developed a reputation for excellence built on an unusual blend of the private and public traditions of American higher education. For more than 83 years, the university was a private school. In 1969, UTC became part of the state university system. Chattanooga, the fourth largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee near the border of Georgia at the junction of four interstate highways. The city has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 4754

American Association for the Advancement of Science

Rank: AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellows

Call for Applications: AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships

Applications are now being accepted for the AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships (STPF). This professional level fellowship is the premier opportunity for outstanding scientists to learn first-hand about policymaking, bring valuable expertise to policy, and enhance political science in the federal government.

Gain hands-on policy experience, help develop and execute solutions to address societal challenges, and join a strong corps of over 3,100 policy-savvy alumni fellows working across sectors to serve the nation and citizens around the world. Fellow contributions can include policy research, content analysis, and budgeting and research for interdisciplinary programs.

Fellows serve yearlong assignments in all three branches of the federal government in Washington D.C. and represent a broad range of backgrounds, disciplines and career stages. STPF is seeking candidates with strong social and/or behavioral science credentials, an interest in career transformation and a desire to enhance federal policy.

Application deadline for the 2019-20 fellowship year is November 1, 2018. Eligibility requirements include U.S. citizenship and a doctoral level degree.

Apply today! <http://go.stpf-aaas.org/socialscience.html>

QUALIFICATIONS

- Doctoral-level degree (PhD, MD, DVM, DSc, etc.) in any scientific, social science, or engineering discipline,

- U.S. citizenship.

STIPEND & BENEFITS

- $75,000–100,000.

- Health insurance

- Travel/training and relocation allowances.

ONLINE APPLICATIONS DUE: November 1, 2018 https://fellowshipapp.aaas.org/applications/?utm_campaign=2018-Recruitment&utm_medium=web&utm_source=socialscience&utm_content=jobpost

FELLOWSHIP YEAR: September 1, 2019 – August 31, 2020

For more information and to apply: <http://go.stpf-aaas.org/socialscience.html>

Questions? Email fellowships@aaas.org or call 202-326-6700

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4738

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2019. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to teach substantive courses in American Politics and contribute to the department's graduate and undergraduate programs in quantitative methods. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. Applications received by September 30, 2018 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, David Darmofal (darmofal@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 9/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4731

Baylor University

Rank: R.W. Morrison Professor of Political Science

Baylor University is a private Christian university and a nationally ranked research institution, consistently listed with highest honors among The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Great Colleges to Work For." The University is recruiting new faculty with a deep commitment to excellence in teaching, research and scholarship. Baylor seeks faculty who share in our aspiration to become a tier one research institution while strengthening our distinctive Christian mission as described in our strategic vision, Pro Futuris, (www.baylor.edu/profuturis/) and academic strategic plan, Illuminate (baylor.edu/illuminate). As the world's largest Baptist University, Baylor offers over 40 doctoral programs and has more than 17,000 students from all 50 states and more than 85 countries.

Baylor seeks to fill the following open rank faculty position within the College of Arts & Sciences:

Associate to Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for the position of R.W. Morrison Professor of Political Science. The accomplished scholar who fills this position is expected to have established research and teaching credentials in the field of constitutional law. The search is open in rank. Applicants will be expected to contribute immediately to the flourishing BA, MA, and PhD programs in the department. Review of applications will begin as they are received, and to assure full consideration applications should arrive by October 1, 2018.

Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in in Political Science in the field of American constitutional law. Please submit a letter of application, current curriculum vitae, official transcripts showing the highest degree conferred, three letters of recommendation (or, for applicants at a senior rank, the names of three references), evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications.

To learn more about the above position, the College of Arts and Sciences, and Baylor University, please visit www.baylor.edu/political_science; or www.baylor.edu/hr/facultypositions.

Please send application materials in one PDF file to: Jenice_Langston@baylor.edu or mail them to Professor James Curry, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Political Science, One Bear Place #97276, Waco, Tx 76798.

Baylor University is a private not-for-profit university affiliated with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, Baylor is committed to compliance with all applicable anti-discrimination laws, including those regarding age, race, color, sex, national origin, marital status, pregnancy status, military service, genetic information, and disability. As a religious educational institution, Baylor is lawfully permitted to consider an applicant's religion as a selection criterion. Baylor encourages women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4705

Dartmouth College

Rank: Director of Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Description

Dartmouth College solicits applications and nominations for the position of the Director of the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences. The Rockefeller Center is a catalyst for public policy research, teaching, and deliberation. Dedicated to providing an interdisciplinary perspective on policy-related topics, the Center fosters a commitment to the ideals of public service and informed public debate exemplified by Nelson A. Rockefeller, former governor of New York State and Vice President of the United States. The Director will lead a variety of activities related to public policy, including research initiatives, grants, conferences, speakers, experiential learning, and leadership development programs for students. The Rockefeller Center is an important and vibrant institution on campus, and we seek someone who will support and stimulate existing efforts and encourage new initiatives.

Qualifications

We are searching for an individual who has demonstrated expertise in social science research and a proven ability to work with people across disciplines at a variety of levels. We welcome internal as well as external candidates. The successful candidate for Director preferably would be tenurable in one of the social science departments or programs and have a record of excellence in research, classroom teaching, and professional service. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful collaboration, teaching, and mentoring of people from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences at Dartmouth College. Applicants must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and curriculum vitae. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or further information, contact Dean Lacy (dean.lacy@dartmouth.edu). Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.in-terfolio.com/53740

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4714

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor, starting Fall 2019. We seek candidates with expertise in judicial politics and constitutional law, broadly construed. Successful applicants should be versed in American public law, but could conduct research in a broad variety of related areas, such as, but not limited to, the role of race, ethnicity, sexualities, and/or gender in justice systems, comparative judicial politics, international courts and legal structures, or the politics of policing in the US or abroad. This is a 45% research, 45% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is 2-2, with a course release in the first three years. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate pre-law courses on American judicial politics, such as judicial process and constitutional law, but will also have ample opportunity to teach specialized courses of their choosing. Tenure-track political science faculty advise undergraduate students and may have opportunities to contribute to the supervision of MA and PhD students in criminal justice. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2019, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) competence to teach American judicial process and constitutional law, and 4) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of (potential) research productivity and quality, 2) have experience teaching American judicial process and/or constitutional law, 3) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, and/or 4) have experience pursuing or obtaining external funding.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 11 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. While faculty contribute primarily to teaching, curriculum development, and advising within their respective programs, the department provides opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration across fields, both in research and teaching. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has an a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>.

Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 240,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and contact information for 3 professional of references. All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/9576>.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, and will continue to accept and review applications until the position is filled. The department will provide search updates through APSA eJobs' update capability, and on Twitter, using the #PSJMInfo hashtag.

Potential applicants may direct questions about the search to Dan Pemstein, the search committee chair, at daniel.pemstein@ndsu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4706

Stonehill College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Stonehill College invites applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin August 2019. This position involves teaching undergraduates with a 3/3 load as well as participating in programming activities in the Department. We value candidates who exemplify the teacher-scholar model with a clear understanding of how to engage students with vibrant teaching and cutting-edge research. This person would join a department of five full-time faculty with a wide range of disciplinary expertise and a commitment to fostering diversity among faculty and students.

The department seeks candidates with research and teaching interests in American politics with a specialization in political behavior, institutions, public policy, or minority politics. We seek enthusiastic applicants who are committed to excellence in teaching, advising, and mentoring undergraduates and who have a demonstrated awareness of the importance of diversity in education. Qualifications include a recent Ph.D. in political science, a demonstrated commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching, and a dynamic research agenda. Founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross in 1948, Stonehill is a private Catholic college located just 22-miles from downtown Boston on a beautiful 384-acre campus in Easton, Massachusetts. With a student to faculty ratio of 13:1, the College engages its 2,500+ students in 80+ rigorous academic programs in the liberal arts, sciences, and pre-professional fields. Stonehill College is an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity. Candidates who will enrich the diversity of the campus community are strongly encouraged to apply.

Interested applicants should apply online with a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, statements of research and teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation. We encourage candidates to speak to how they aim to contribute to a diverse and inclusive classroom in their cover letters and teaching philosophies. Review of applications will begin on September 17, 2018. The URL link to submit applications is: <https://jobs.stonehill.edu>. Please email general inquiries to Robert Rodgers, Chair of the Department, at rroddgers@stonehill.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4707

Stonehill College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Stonehill College invites applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin August 2019. This position involves teaching undergraduates with a 3/3 load as well as participating in programming activities in the Department. We value candidates who exemplify the teacher-scholar model with a clear understanding of how to engage students with vibrant teaching and cutting-edge research. This person would join a department of five full-time faculty with a wide range of disciplinary expertise and a commitment to fostering diversity among faculty and students.

The department seeks candidates with research and teaching interests in American politics with a specialization in political behavior, institutions, public policy, or minority politics. We seek enthusiastic applicants who are committed to excellence in teaching, advising, and mentoring undergraduates and who have a demonstrated awareness of the importance of diversity in education. Qualifications include a recent Ph.D. in political science, a demonstrated commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching, and a dynamic research agenda. Founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross in 1948, Stonehill is a private Catholic college located just 22-miles from downtown Boston on a beautiful 384-acre campus in Easton, Massachusetts. With a student to faculty ratio of 13:1, the College engages its 2,500+ students in 80+ rigorous academic programs in the liberal arts, sciences, and pre-professional fields. Stonehill College is an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity. Candidates who will enrich the diversity of the campus community are strongly encouraged to apply.

Interested applicants should apply online with a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, statements of research and teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation. We encourage candidates to speak to how they aim to contribute to a diverse and inclusive classroom in their cover letters and teaching philosophies. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018. The URL link to submit applications is: <https://jobs.stonehill.edu>. Please email general inquiries to Robert Rodgers, Chair of the Department, at rroddgers@stonehill.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4708

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

The Political Science Department of the United States Naval Academy invites applications for tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in American Politics beginning August 2019. Application review will begin on 01 October 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

The U.S. Naval Academy is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching, research, and service. American Politics scholars with expertise in public policy; race, gender, and ethnicity; or political philosophy are encouraged to apply. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence, as well as a strong commitment to student advising and institutional service.

For more information about this position and how to apply please visit the USNA position announcement at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfessor-PolSciAY19.php>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4715

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Specializations: American Politics, Political Psychology, Electoral Behavior

The University of Michigan's Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy invites applications from outstanding candidates for a tenure-track position in American Politics and Public Policy, especially at the assistant professor rank. We are particularly interested in the following areas of specialization: political institutions/organizations, elections and political behavior, social policy, race and ethnic politics, politics of diverse communities, and political advocacy. Candidates should combine expertise in these areas with strong grounding in public policy. Promise of excellence in research and teaching is required. This is a university-year appointment and begins on September 1, 2019. First consideration will be given to applications received by October 1, 2018, but applications will continue to be considered until the position is filled.

Interested applicants may upload their application materials to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53518>. The following application materials are required: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, statement of current and future research plans, statement of teaching philosophy and experience, teaching evaluations (if available), and a brief statement describing how your work would contribute to the Ford School's and University of Michigan's strategic commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion (fordschool.umich.edu/dei). Letters of reference from three individuals also need to be uploaded to the system.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4698

University of North Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor

COMING SOON - University of North Florida: Assistant Professor-American Politics

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Florida seeks candidates for a tenure-track appointment as an assistant professor in American politics and government beginning in August 2019. The field in American Politics is open, although the department does have curricular needs in research methods. There are also opportunities to teach in the Masters of Public Administration Program. The department welcomes the use of innovative teaching technologies including distance learning and hybrid classes. Candidates should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research. The teaching load is three courses per semester. A Ph.D in Political Science, Government, or a related discipline is required by August 2019.

UNF enrolls about 17,000 students and is located in Jacksonville, Florida, a rapidly growing metropolitan area with a population of over one million. Jacksonville is part of northeastern Florida's historic "First Coast" and there are significant historical, cultural, and recreational resources in the immediate area including access to rivers and beaches. Further information is available at www.unf.edu/coas/pspa.

Applicants MUST complete an application ONLINE in OASys at COMING SOON Please use the above website above to upload the following materials:

- (1) a letter of interest stating teaching interests and research plans
- (2) a complete curriculum vitae
- (3) graduate school transcripts*
- (4) three current professional letters of recommendation
- (5) one sample of research and writing
- (6) evidence of teaching effectiveness to:

Review of applications is anticipated to begin early to mid-October, pending final University approval. This position will be considered open until filled.

For further information, please contact Dr. Michael Binder (m.binder@unf.edu).

*Official transcripts are required by the time of employment. The University of North Florida is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access/Affirmative Action Institution.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4704

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2019 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American political behavior, broadly defined. The ideal candidate will make use of new and emerging "big data" sources and innovative data collection techniques and analysis. Such methods might include, but are not limited to, survey data, geo-spatial data, network data, text analysis, machine learning, statistical and computer programming, and data visualization.

Candidates who are proficient in statistical science operations research, who develop cutting-edge solutions, and who collaborate across disciplines are particularly desirable, as are candidates with proven track records of grant funding. Though not required, we seek a scholar who can contribute to the University's mission to address problems of underrepresented and/or urban communities.

Successful candidates will be required to teach undergraduate Research Methods, Introduction to American Politics, and/or the Political Science Senior Seminar capstone course.

It is preferred that candidates be able to contribute to the existing curriculum, or offer new courses, according to area of expertise. Potential course offerings may include: Media & Politics, Social Movements, Political Parties & Elections, Public Opinion, Urban Politics, Latino Politics, or Politics of Race, Ethnicity, Class & Gender.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action university providing access to education and employment without regard to age, race, color, national origin, gender, religion, sexual orientation, veteran's status, political affiliation or disability.

We will be at the APSA Annual Meeting; to schedule an interview please contact polistaff@vcu.edu

For more detailed information and to apply, please visit: www.vcujobs.com

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/24/2018

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 4695

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Psychology

Assistant Professor – Political Psychology

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position beginning August 2019. We invite applications from individuals with a strong program of research in the area of political psychology, broadly defined.

Minimum required qualifications include: a Ph.D. in political science, psychology, or related field or evidence the degree will be completed by August 2019. Preferred qualifications include: evidence of research agenda focused on political psychology; an active research program with strong potential for producing high impact publications and attracting external grant funding; strong interest in interdisciplinary research and collaboration; and ability to teach American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Standard teaching load is four courses per year. Salary, start-up package, and fringe benefits are competitive.

Review of applications will begin October 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_180112, and click “apply for this job.” Candidates should submit a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample through this website (statements and writing sample will need to be combined into one document for submission). Three letters of recommendation should be emailed to ihaas2@unl.edu or mailed to: Dr. Ingrid Haas, Chair, Political Psychology Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0328.

As an EO/AA employer, qualified applicants are considered for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4681

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Psychology

Assistant Professor – Political Psychology

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position beginning August 2019. We invite applications from individuals with a strong program of research in the area of political psychology, broadly defined.

Minimum required qualifications include: a Ph.D. in political science, psychology, or related field or evidence the degree will be completed by August 2019. Preferred qualifications include: evidence of research agenda focused on political psychology; an active research program with strong potential for producing high impact publications and attracting external grant funding; strong interest in interdisciplinary research and collaboration; and ability to teach American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Standard teaching load is four courses per year. Salary, start-up package, and fringe benefits are competitive.

Review of applications will begin October 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_180112, and click “apply for this job.” Candidates should submit a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample through this website (statements and writing sample will need to be combined into one document for submission). Three letters of recommendation should be emailed to ihaas2@unl.edu or mailed to: Dr. Ingrid Haas, Chair, Political Psychology Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0328.

As an EO/AA employer, qualified applicants are considered for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4682

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://> www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4662

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4663

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4664

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track position as Assistant Professor, beginning September 16, 2019. Tenure-track faculty have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). The field of specialization is open but teaching responsibilities will include quantitative courses in the graduate methods track. All University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research and service.

Qualifications

Candidates must demonstrate a strong record of quantitative empirical work in one or more substantive areas of political science. Applicants should have or expect to have their PhD by the appointment start date.

Application Instructions

Applications should include a cover letter, current CV, writing sample, research statement, teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests as well as how that research agenda integrates quantitative methods. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness. As a public institution, the University of Washington seeks candidates committed to working with diverse student and community populations. Therefore, applicants are encouraged to describe how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities. We strongly encourage applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018. Applications must be submitted at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53523>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4668

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2019. Candidates for this position should be focused on teaching and research in the area of Public Policy. In addition to having a productive research agenda dedicated to the area of Public Policy, candidates must demonstrate potential for teaching excellence at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching courses with significant real-world applicability and service-learning opportunities, in accordance with college and departmental strategic goals of designing undergraduate curricula that emphasize career paths and the knowledge and skills students need after graduation. Although the area of specialization within Public Policy is open, areas especially fitting with this strategic priority might include public policy analysis, program evaluation, and behavioral public policy. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field is expected at the time of the appointment.

Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department offers the following degrees in Political Science: B.S., B.A. and M.A. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester. Completed applications received by October 1, 2018 will be given full consideration. Applicants are asked to apply online at Publicpolicyad@okstate.edu and submit: a letter of application, vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, evidence of successful teaching and scholarship, and statements of teaching and research interests.

The department is committed to creating an inclusive space for our students, faculty, and staff and to teaching and mentoring our undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. The department encourages applications from women and minorities. Currently, 37 percent of our undergraduate majors are minorities. Among our tenure-track faculty, 9 percent are from underrepresented racial/ethnic minority groups and 55 percent are female. Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. This position is contingent upon availability of funds.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4651

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Assistant Professor – Public Administration in Political Science

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2019. Candidates with specializations in public administration and public policy are especially welcome to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department and will contribute to a Master's of Public Administration Program. The faculty member will teach and advise in both the graduate and undergraduate program. As part of the political science undergraduate program, the faculty member will be expected to teach courses in one or more of our subfields in accordance to the faculty member's expertise: American politics, public administration, international relations, comparative politics, public law, and/or political theory. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many underrepresented minorities and first-generation college students.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or related disciplines such as Public Policy from an accredited university by August 1, 2019
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work as well as experience working in an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to work with graduate students on a range of thesis projects in public administration, as well as the ability to teach political science undergraduates. Expertise and work experience in areas such as public policy/program evaluation, urban politics and administration, community development/sustainability, and qualitative methods will be given careful consideration. Preference will also be given to candidates with research interests related to social or racial justice and who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by November 16, 2018. Early response is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53291>

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Applicants will provide contact information for recommenders during the application process and the system will contact recommenders and provide a method for uploading letters;
- A completed application form available on the application website;
- An unofficial transcript showing then highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Faculty Search Committee

Dr. Mario Guerrero, Faculty Search Chair

Political Science Department

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Phone: 909.869.3887

Fax: 909.869.6995

Email: knalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

APSA Interviews

Representatives of the department will be available to meet at APSA's Placement Services. Please send a CV to mag@cpp.edu if you are interested in meeting with department representatives at APSA.

The University: Cal Poly Pomona is one of two polytechnic universities in the 23-campus California State University system. Our ethnically diverse student population of approximately 22,000 enrolls in 52 baccalaureate, 26 master's degree programs, 11 credential and certificate programs, and a doctorate in Educational Leadership, presented by 1,200 faculty. We recruit students increasingly from throughout California and beyond. The students are success and career focused and extremely diverse. We are proud of our status as a Hispanic Serving Institution. We have a strong commitment to supporting scholarship, research, and student achievement. Our scenic and historic 1,400-acre campus, once the winter ranch of cereal magnate W. K. Kellogg, is located about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles in one of the most dynamic economic and cultural regions in the country, and within an hour's drive of beaches, mountains, and desert. The university is committed to diversifying its faculty and staff and has made educational equity one of its highest priorities. The mission of the university is to advance learning and knowledge by linking theory and practice in all disciplines, and to prepare students for lifelong learning, leadership, and careers in a changing, multicultural world.

The College: The College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences fosters intellectual and ethical development and helps students become individuals who value and apply critical thinking in our complex, diverse and technological world. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in numerous degree and certificate programs across the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University is also central to the mission of the College. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single-subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to "cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation" lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/>.

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over three hundred and fifty undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/16/2018

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4647

CUNY-Graduate Center

Rank: Associate, Full, or Distinguished Professor

The Graduate Center (GC) is the principal doctorate-granting institution of the City University of New York (CUNY). Offering thirty-four doctoral degrees from Anthropology to Urban Education, and fostering globally significant research in a wide variety of centers and institutes, the GC provides academic training in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. The Graduate Center is also integral to the intellectual and cultural vitality of New York City. Through its extensive public programs, The Graduate Center hosts a wide range of events - lectures, conferences, book discussions, art exhibits, concerts, and dance and theater that enrich and inform. In the last several years, the Graduate Center has emphasized recruitment of underrepresented groups, and has achieved success in this area. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

The Ph.D. and M.A. Program in Political Science at the GC seeks an Associate, Full, or Distinguished Professor in American Politics, broadly defined. The Political Science Program provides a collegial and inclusive environment to a diverse group of students and faculty. This is a tenure track position reporting to the Executive Officer of the Program.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, a commitment to graduate teaching, and a genuine interest in serving the GC community. S/he will advise Master's and Ph.D. students, and have regular administrative responsibilities within the Program and University.

The position will begin in Fall 2019.

QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Also required are evidence of successful teaching, distinguished scholarship, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

A preferred candidate should have:

- Ph.D. in Political Science.
- Extensive research experience in American Politics, as demonstrated by publications in books and peer-reviewed journals.
- Ability to teach graduate courses and supervise Master's theses and Ph.D. dissertations.
- Ability to work in collaboration with the GC and CUNY to create fellowship opportunities and employment pipelines for graduate students.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL will bring you to the registration screen. If you are a new user, you must register to apply. If you already have a user ID, please use your existing ID to apply. The application must include a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, a research statement including scholarly interests, a teaching statement including topics of seminars the candidate is prepared to offer, and four (4) references including one from a graduate student. Please upload all documents as one file.

CLOSING DATE

Open until filled with review of applications to begin on October 1, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4646

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in Latino Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

The Program in American Studies seeks applications for a faculty position in the area of Latino Studies, at the rank of associate or full professor. We welcome applicants from all fields of specialization, though preference will be given to candidates whose work, while rooted in Latino Studies, engages meaningfully with American Studies. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research takes a multi-method social science approach, emphasizing qualitative and/or interpretivist perspectives. The successful candidate will be appointed fully in American Studies. Interested candidates should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8061> with a brief statement of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three references. Applications received by October 1, 2018 will receive priority review. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4636

Syracuse University

Rank: American Politics

Syracuse University
American Politics

The Department of Political Science seeks a tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics for a position beginning in Fall 2019. We welcome candidates whose teaching and research focus on political institutions, particularly Congress, among other substantive areas of interest within the field. Candidates with an interest in gender are also welcome.

The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests. Successful candidates may be invited to affiliate with the Campbell Public Affairs Institute or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (<http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field or a credible expectation of completing all requirements for the Ph.D. by August 2019.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by September 15, 2018. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4608

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Social Movements, African American Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning June 24, 2019. Candidates with teaching and research interests in American politics are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in scholars engaging generally with political behavior in the American political context. This could include research related to race and ethnicity, economic or educational inequality, or gender politics, but is not limited to these areas. We encourage scholars working on American political behavior including but not limited to the study of political parties, interest groups, and social groups and movements to apply. Responsibilities include teaching upper division American politics courses and taking a lead role in the USAFA American government core course; maintaining a strong record of teaching and research; academic advising; and service to the department and Academy.

The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to our nation. The initial appointment is for three years. Successive reappointments of up to four years will be based upon an assessment of performance, Air Force and departmental needs, and funding availability. The Academy faculty is an integrated group of military and civilian educators, with a record of offering continuing appointments to civilian faculty after demonstrated excellence in the initial three-year appointment. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy is committed to building a culturally diverse educational environment. Applicants are requested to include in their cover letter information about how they will further this goal. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage is found at <https://www.usafa.edu/department/political-science/>.

To apply, go to www.usajobs.gov. Type in "United States Air Force Academy, CO" in the "Location" box, and scroll down until you find this position. The deadline for applications is Oct 15, 2018. A doctorate in Political Science or a related field by the start date and U.S.

citizenship is required. Essential qualities expected of every faculty member include the personal attributes of integrity, industry, cooperation, initiative, and breadth of intellectual interests.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4623

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning June 24, 2019. Candidates with teaching and research interests in American politics are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in scholars engaging generally with political behavior in the American political context. This could include research related to race and ethnicity, economic or educational inequality, or gender politics, but is not limited to these areas. We encourage scholars working on American political behavior including but not limited to the study of political parties, interest groups, and social groups and movements to apply. Responsibilities include teaching upper division American politics courses and taking a lead role in the USAFA American government core course; maintaining a strong record of teaching and research; academic advising; and service to the department and Academy.

The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to our nation. The initial appointment is for three years. Successive reappointments of up to four years will be based upon an assessment of performance, Air Force and departmental needs, and funding availability. The Academy faculty is an integrated group of military and civilian educators, with a record of offering continuing appointments to civilian faculty after demonstrated excellence in the initial three-year appointment. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy is committed to building a culturally diverse educational environment. Applicants are requested to include in their cover letter information about how they will further this goal. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage is found at <https://www.usafa.edu/department/political-science/>.

To apply, go to www.usajobs.gov. Type in "United States Air Force Academy, CO" in the "Location" box, and scroll down until you find this position. The deadline for applications is Oct 15, 2018. A doctorate in Political Science or a related field by the start date and U.S. citizenship is required. Essential qualities expected of every faculty member include the personal attributes of integrity, industry, cooperation, initiative, and breadth of intellectual interests.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4624

University of Rochester

Rank: Assistant Professor

As part of a broad initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications for tenure-track positions starting July 1, 2019, from candidates working in any area of American Politics. We are particularly interested in candidates with strong methodological skills and those working in race and ethnic politics. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 7, 2018, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates should submit c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and transcript. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting/login>. For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.sas.rochester.edu/psc/>

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 9/7/2018

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4619

Hamilton College

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The Government Department at Hamilton College invites applications for a two-year visiting position with possibility for renewal for an additional two years, at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor. Teaching load is four courses per year for the first year and five courses per year after. This position covers American politics, public policy, and political theory. Candidates may be from any field but must be able to teach courses from at least two of the three areas listed. Applicants who research the impact of digital technologies or incorporate innovative digital technologies into their research and teaching are especially encouraged to apply. We are seeking candidates who can demonstrate their experience in teaching or working with diverse student populations. Your cover letter should address the ways in which you would further the College's goal of building a diverse educational environment.

Appointment begins July 1, 2019. ABD or Ph.D. required. Please submit a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, a list of courses you are prepared to teach, evidence of teaching performance, and arrange for submission of three letters of recommendation to Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53422>. We will begin consideration of applications on December 1. Applicants with questions or wishing to be interviewed at the APSA should contact Philip Klinkner, Chair, Government Department, Hamilton College (govsrch@hamilton.edu).

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings at www.higheredcareers.com, as well as additional information at <https://www.hamilton.edu/offices/dof/faculty-support-resources/resources-for-prospective-or-newfaculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners> (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community. Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from underrepresented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

ABD or Ph.D. required.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4601

Rutgers University, Newark

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Rutgers University-Newark (RU-N) invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the Assistant Professor level, based at RU-N, to begin September 2019. We are seeking applicants from across the subfield of American politics.

Responsibilities:

The successful applicant will be responsible for teaching introductory, upper-level, and graduate-level courses in American politics and the applicant's area of expertise. Candidates must undertake independent scholarly activity appropriate for advancement within Rutgers University.

Requirements:

Applicants should be able to present evidence of scholarly accomplishment and effective teaching. Earned Ph.D. by September 2019 required.

All candidates must apply via the posting link in ROCS, and the required steps must be taken within ROCS prior to each stage of the search (reviewing applications, EEO review for interviews, initial interviews, on-campus interviews, etc.). Additionally, all offers will be contingent upon successful completion of all pre-employment screenings.

Posting Link:

<http://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/72021>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4513

Cornell College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics at the assistant professor level, beginning Fall 2019. Candidates should be prepared to teach the introductory course in American politics as well as upper-division courses on Congress & the Presidency and Campaigns & Elections. Candidates should have expertise in American institutions, American public policy, and/or American constitutional law. Second subfield training in political philosophy will be especially welcome, but any second subfield might work. Additionally, ability to contribute to a sophomore-level research design class, a senior-level capstone class, or both, depending on interest and expertise, will be expected. The teaching load is six courses (typically five preparations) per year. A Ph.D. in Political Science and a commitment to undergraduate education of a diverse student population in a residential liberal arts college are required. A.B.D. candidates will be considered only if the Ph.D. is expected to have been defended prior to Fall 2019.

Cornell College is an undergraduate liberal arts college that has attracted national attention for its distinctive academic calendar under which faculty teach and students take one course at a time in month-long terms. Academic immersion and unparalleled flexibility attract an ambitious student body from 45 states and 18 foreign countries. External endorsements include selection as one of the Colleges That Change Lives, a U.S. News Top 100 liberal arts college, and a Fiske Guide to Colleges Best Buy. Founded in 1853, Cornell's picturesque hilltop campus contains a mix of historic and modern facilities, ranging from the majestic King Chapel to the newly renovated Thomas Commons. It is located in Mount Vernon, Iowa, an urban fringe community recognized by Frommer's as one of "America's Coolest Small Towns" and located in the heart of Iowa's Creative Corridor.

The Department seeks individuals who are committed to building a creative, dynamic and diverse workplace that celebrates the uniqueness of our faculty, staff and students. The College is committed to excellence in teaching and encourages interdisciplinary interests among its faculty.

Submit letter of application, vita, statements of teaching approach and research interests, graduate transcript(s), research sample, and three letters of reference through Cornell's online employment application.

Sample teaching materials may also be included.

Full consideration will be given to applications received by November 1, 2018, but applications may be considered after that date until the position is filled.

For more information about the Politics program, please visit the website at <https://www.cornellcollege.edu/politics/index.shtml>

Cornell College is an AA/EO employer and encourages applications from women and minorities. Cornell complies with Iowa's smoke free air act. Cornell utilizes E-Verify and requires satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4585

Cornell College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics at the assistant professor level, beginning Fall 2019. Candidates should be prepared to teach the introductory course in American politics as well as upper-division courses on Congress & the Presidency and Campaigns & Elections. Candidates should have expertise in American institutions, American public policy, and/

or American constitutional law. Second subfield training in political philosophy will be especially welcome, but any second subfield might work. Additionally, ability to contribute to a sophomore-level research design class, a senior-level capstone class, or both, depending on interest and expertise, will be expected. The teaching load is six courses (typically five preparations) per year. A Ph.D. in Political Science and a commitment to undergraduate education of a diverse student population in a residential liberal arts college are required. A.B.D. candidates will be considered only if the Ph.D. is expected to have been defended prior to Fall 2019.

Cornell College is an undergraduate liberal arts college that has attracted national attention for its distinctive academic calendar under which faculty teach and students take one course at a time in month-long terms. Academic immersion and unparalleled flexibility attract an ambitious student body from 45 states and 18 foreign countries. External endorsements include selection as one of the Colleges That Change Lives, a U.S. News Top 100 liberal arts college, and a Fiske Guide to Colleges Best Buy. Founded in 1853, Cornell's picturesque hilltop campus contains a mix of historic and modern facilities, ranging from the majestic King Chapel to the newly renovated Thomas Commons. It is located in Mount Vernon, Iowa, an urban fringe community recognized by Frommer's as one of "America's Coolest Small Towns" and located in the heart of Iowa's Creative Corridor.

The Department seeks individuals who are committed to building a creative, dynamic and diverse workplace that celebrates the uniqueness of our faculty, staff and students. The College is committed to excellence in teaching and encourages interdisciplinary interests among its faculty.

Submit letter of application, vita, statements of teaching approach and research interests, graduate transcript(s), research sample, and three letters of reference through Cornell's online employment application: <https://cornellcollege.applicantpro.com/jobs/845220.html>

Sample teaching materials may also be included.

Full consideration will be given to applications received by November 1, 2018, but applications may be considered after that date until the position is filled.

For more information about the Politics program, please visit the website at <https://www.cornellcollege.edu/politics/index.shtml>

Cornell College is an AA/EO employer and encourages applications from women and minorities. Cornell complies with Iowa's smoke free air act. Cornell utilizes E-Verify and requires satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4587

Cornell College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics at the assistant professor level, beginning Fall 2019. Candidates should be prepared to teach the introductory course in American politics as well as upper-division courses on Congress & the Presidency and Campaigns & Elections. Candidates should have expertise in American institutions, American public policy, and/or American constitutional law. Second subfield training in political philosophy will be especially welcome, but any second subfield might work. Additionally, ability to contribute to a sophomore-level research design class, a senior-level capstone class, or both, depending on interest and expertise, will be expected. The teaching load is six courses (typically five preparations) per year. A Ph.D. in Political Science and a commitment to undergraduate education of a diverse student population in a residential liberal arts college are required. A.B.D. candidates will be considered only if the Ph.D. is expected to have been defended prior to Fall 2019.

Cornell College is an undergraduate liberal arts college that has attracted national attention for its distinctive academic calendar under which faculty teach and students take one course at a time in month-long terms. Academic immersion and unparalleled flexibility attract an ambitious student body from 45 states and 18 foreign countries. External endorsements include selection as one of the Colleges That Change Lives, a U.S. News Top 100 liberal arts college, and a Fiske Guide to Colleges Best Buy. Founded in 1853, Cornell's picturesque hilltop campus contains a mix of historic and modern facilities, ranging from the majestic King Chapel to the newly renovated Thomas Commons. It is located in Mount Vernon, Iowa, an urban fringe community recognized by Frommer's as one of "America's Coolest Small Towns" and located in the heart of Iowa's Creative Corridor.

The Department seeks individuals who are committed to building a creative, dynamic and diverse workplace that celebrates the uniqueness of our faculty, staff and students. The College is committed to excellence in teaching and encourages interdisciplinary interests among its faculty.

Submit letter of application, vita, statements of teaching approach and research interests, graduate transcript(s), research sample, and three letters of reference through Cornell's online employment application: <https://cornellcollege.applicantpro.com/jobs/845220.html>

Sample teaching materials may also be included.

Full consideration will be given to applications received by November 1, 2018, but applications may be considered after that date until the position is filled.

For more information about the Politics program, please visit the website at <https://www.cornellcollege.edu/politics/index.shtml>

Cornell College is an AA/EO employer and encourages applications from women and minorities. Cornell complies with Iowa's smoke free air act. Cornell utilizes E-Verify and requires satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4588

Duke University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Legislative Studies, Presidency

The Department of Political Science at Duke University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in the field of political institutions to begin July 1, 2019. The position is open with respect to institutional focus, including in American and comparative politics. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work provides opportunities for productive synergies. We also value strong theoretical and empirical skills, including the ability to contribute to our graduate methods sequence. Candidates should have potential for excellence in teaching and research at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Successful candidates will be expected to have completed the Ph.D. no later than July 1, 2019.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their research agenda, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, evidence of teaching excellence, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11635>. Address correspondence to: Chair,

Institutions Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall, Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204.

Review of applications will begin on September 12, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/12/2018

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4586

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2019 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <https://tinyurl.com/y7avs6af>. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2018. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2019.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4592

University of North Carolina, Asheville

Rank: Lecturer/Visiting Professor in American Politics

The University of North Carolina Asheville Department of Political Science invites applications for an 18-month Lecturer or Visiting Assistant Professor position for Spring 2019 and the 2019-20 academic year. An earned M.A. in Political Science or closely related field is required. Political Science ABDs are particularly encouraged to apply; however, a Ph.D. is required for appointment at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor. Candidates should be broadly trained in Political Science but specifically prepared to teach a variety of classes in American Politics, including Intro to American Politics and at least one course related to the politics of race and ethnicity.

The person selected for this position will be expected to teach 12 contact hours per semester. Individuals with a passion for undergraduate teaching and interest in a career at an institution focused on the liberal arts are strongly encouraged to apply. In addition to having a passion for undergraduate teaching, research and mentorship, the UNC Asheville faculty is committed to disciplinary teaching through an inter- and multi-disciplinary lens and providing a premier liberal arts education. Faculty members are expected to teach across the University's Liberal Arts Core (LAC) program, our required interdisciplinary liberal arts curriculum, in courses that include, but are not limited to: introductory (freshman) colloquia; diversity intensives; courses that satisfy the Scientific Perspectives, Social Science courses and Arts and Ideas requirements; courses within the Humanities Program; and LAC Senior Capstone courses.

UNC Asheville has been a national leader in undergraduate research for more than 30 years, and over 60% of our students graduate each year having been involved in this important learning experience. The University fully embraces the idea of mentored undergraduate research being one of the highest forms of teaching, and the institution values success in this facet of a faculty member's work.

The University of North Carolina at Asheville is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic and educational community, welcoming and supportive of faculty and staff from all racial, ethnic, economic, religious, gender, and gender-identity backgrounds. We encourage applications from individuals whose backgrounds and interests align with this commitment. The successful candidate will be expected to engage students from among under-represented groups and to assist in the development of pedagogies and experiences appropriate for diverse learning styles and perspectives. We expect applicants to each write a 1-2 page Diversity Statement describing: (a) their experience in advancing diversity in teaching, scholarship and/or service; (b) examples of demonstrated leadership potential in the area of equity and inclusion; and (c) their understanding of the importance of diversity and inclusion to the mission of a liberal art university.

Applications for this position should be submitted electronically at <https://jobs.unca.edu>. Complete applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy that addresses Political Science pedagogy in the context of the liberal arts, a diversity statement (described above), copies of syllabi and teaching evaluations (if available), and copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts. The applicant should provide names and contact information for three references from whom we will request letters of reference to be sent separately; these references should address the candidate's written, verbal and interpersonal skills; ability to teach and mentor undergraduate students; and potential to develop and maintain a successful research program. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Dr. Linda Cornett at lcornett@unca.edu.

Priority will be given to applications received by October 1.

More information about the position can be found here: <https://jobs.unca.edu/postings/3468>

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4595

Winthrop University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science is seeking engaging teachers and active scholars to join our diverse scholarly community by applying for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics, specifically in the areas of Public Administration/Public Policy and National Institutions. Strong preference will be given to candidates who can teach the Judiciary and/or Constitutional Law. We are seeking a dedicated and experienced teacher with demonstrated scholarly achievement to join our distinguished department. The Winthrop Department of Political Science boasts award-winning faculty who are recognized for the quality of their teaching, research, and service. The department also has three affiliated programs: (1) the 43-year old Model UN Program; (2) the Center for Public Opinion and Policy Research, which is home to the nationally renowned Winthrop Poll; and (3) the John C. West Forum on Politics and Policy, a major civic engagement initiative at the University. The department also collaborates with the Master of Liberal Arts program to provide a graduate Concentration in Political and Civic Engagement. Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach a variety of courses in American Politics, including Public Administration, Public Policy, The Judiciary, Constitutional Law: Federalism, and/or Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties. Strong preference will be given to candidates with teaching and/or research expertise in multiple areas of need, including Media and Politics and Women and US Politics.
- Teach both introductory and advanced courses in your areas of specialization, including graduate courses in our Political and Civic Engagement Concentration within the Master of Liberal Arts Program
- Teach a team-taught senior capstone course in Political Science
- Ability to conduct media interviews on commentary about campaigns and elections and analysis of American political institutions
- Ability to collaborate with the Center for Public Opinion and Policy Research a plus

- Teach courses in Winthrop University's innovative General Education Program, including American Government, which fulfills the Constitution Requirement
- Participate in departmental, college, and university service, including student advising
- Undertake research in the discipline and promote undergraduate research
- Be an interested and energetic participant in an active department
- Other duties as assigned

Required Qualifications:

- The Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or a related field is required for appointment at the assistant professor level. A successful candidate who is ABD at the time of employment will be appointed to a non-tenure track position as an instructor. The successful candidate will also be required to undergo a background check prior to hiring
- Specialization in areas among those listed above
- Evidence in the area of Student Intellectual Development, including teaching excellence and commitment to student learning
- Evidence in the area of Scholarly Activity, including an ongoing program of research and publication
- Evidence in the area of Professional Stewardship, including engagement with the discipline, profession, campus, and community
- Preference is given to candidates with experience teaching the courses listed above

Work Environment: This position requires regular contact with students, faculty, and staff on campus. Additionally, the successful candidate will be required to have the ability to work with the outside community, local public schools, the media, other universities, and international schools/companies/partners.

Background Check Statement: Winthrop University is committed to providing a safe campus community. Winthrop conducts background investigations for applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include reference checks, a criminal history record check, and when appropriate, a financial (credit) report or driving history check.

Employment Conditions: A nine-month, full-time tenure track appointment with faculty rank. Salary is competitive and dependent on academic qualifications.

Position Availability: August 16, 2019

Application Timeline and Procedures:

- Apply Here Now: apply.interfolio.com/53603
- Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.
- For more information about the position, please see <http://www.winthrop.edu/hr/>.

Required Materials for Online Application When Available:

- Application letter, with evidence of major responsibilities and required qualifications
- Curriculum vitae, including names, titles, addresses, phone numbers, and e-mail addresses, if available, of at least three persons who know the candidate professionally
- Sample of representative written work (article- or chapter- length)
- Statement of "teaching philosophy, including evidence of excellence in teaching and commitment to student learning
- Three professional letters of reference

- All graduate transcripts and evidence of highest degree achieved (unofficial transcripts are acceptable for initial review; official transcripts are required prior to final appointment)

Interfolio Application Link: apply.interfolio.com/53603

Founded in 1886, Winthrop University in Rock Hill, South Carolina, offers its 6,000-plus undergraduate and graduate students an educational experience that blends liberal arts, professional programs, global awareness, and civic engagement. In its colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, and Visual and Performing Arts, Winthrop embraces only those programs and activities that can be delivered at an exemplary level. Winthrop is well known for its inclusive and supportive campus environment, with University College supporting programs in both academic and student affairs. Winthrop University is achieving national stature as a competitive and distinctive co-educational, public, residential, comprehensive, values-oriented institution. The values of service, excellence, diversity, community, and leadership provide the foundation for Winthrop's continuing development and shape Winthrop's continuing success. Numerous national accolades reflect the sustained high quality and value of the Winthrop Experience, including the most recent U.S. News & World Report's ranking of Winthrop as one of the top-10 public comprehensive universities in the South. Winthrop is an active member of the Rock Hill community and recognized as a key component of the region's economic resurgence. In addition, Winthrop is located just 30 minutes south of Charlotte, North Carolina, ranked by U.S. News & World Report in 2018 as one of the top 25 best places to live in the country. For more information, visit us at www.winthrop.edu.

Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, or veteran status. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4584

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2019.

Candidates with specializations in public law are especially welcome to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department, which also has a Master's in Public Administration. The faculty member will teach and advise in the undergraduate program and participate as appropriate in the master's program. The faculty member will be expected to teach courses in the public law subfield, including Introduction to Public Law, Constitutional Law: Rights and Liberties, Constitutional Law: Government Powers, and Contemporary Issues in Law. There will be opportunities to develop new courses in accordance to the faculty member's expertise. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many under-represented minorities and first-generation college students.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, or related disciplines such as Law and Society, Law and Philosophy from an accredited university by August 1, 2019
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work as well as experience working in an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to teach constitutional law classes and other topics related to public law, including social justice and the law, civil rights, contemporary policy issues and the courts, legal philosophy, courts and the democratic process, and comparative politics and courts. Preference will also be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Instructions

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by September 14, 2018. Early response is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53294>

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;

- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Applicants will provide contact information for recommenders during the application process and the system will contact recommenders and provide a method for uploading letters;
- A completed application form available on the application website: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53294>
- An unofficial transcript showing the highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Jill Hargis, Faculty Search Committee Chair
 Political Science Department
 California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
 Phone: 909.869.3887
 Fax: 909.869.6995
 Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

APSA Interviews

Representatives of the department will be available to meet at APSA's Placement Services. Please send a CV to mag@cpp.edu if you are interested in meeting with department representatives at APSA.

Application Process

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/~police/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/14/2018

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4579

University of Utah

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Criminal Justice

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics with a focus in public law and the courts. This appointment begins July 1, 2019. To be hired, candidates must have a PhD in political science or a related field in-hand by the time of appointment.

The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and graduate (M.A. and Ph.D.) offerings. Applicants should be prepared to teach Introduction to American Government, Introduction to Law and Politics, and courses in Constitutional Law and Jurisprudence. Candidates should provide evidence of a sustainable record of high quality research and demonstrate evidence of the ability or the potential to generate extramural funding. Experience contributing to interdisciplinary research teams is also desirable. Applications received by September 24, 2018, will receive full consideration.

Applications should be filed using the online system at <http://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/80776>

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, writing sample, a statement of teaching focus and effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. As part of the cover letter or teaching statement we invite you to describe how your work and other experience contribute to the success of underrepresented students.

The University of Utah is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and does not discriminate based upon race, national origin, color, religion, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, status as a person with a disability, genetic information, or Protected Veteran status. Individuals from historically underrepresented groups, such as minorities, women, qualified persons with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply. Veterans' preference is extended to qualified applicants, upon request and consistent with University policy and Utah state law. Upon request, reasonable accommodations in the application process will be provided to individuals with disabilities. To inquire about the University's nondiscrimination or affirmative action policies or to request disability accommodation, please contact: Director, Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, 201 S. Presidents Circle, Rm 135, (801) 581-8365.

The University of Utah values candidates who have experience working in settings with students from diverse backgrounds, and possess a strong commitment to improving access to higher education for historically underrepresented students. The University of Utah offers unparalleled opportunities for interdisciplinary collaborative research. The university is home to the Scientific Computing and Imaging Institute (SCI), the Center for High Performance Computing (CHPC), the Global Change and Sustainability Center (GCSC), and a new "iNterdisciplinary EXchange for Utah Science" (NEXUS) research center housed within our new building.

The University is a participating employer with Utah Retirement Systems ("URS"). To be eligible for retirement contributions, you must be hired into a benefit-eligible position. Employees with prior URS service may elect to enroll in the URS within 30 days of hire. Regardless of whether they are hired into a benefit-eligible position or not, individuals who previously retired and are receiving monthly retirement benefits from URS must notify the Benefits Department upon hire. Please contact Utah Retirement Systems at (801)366-7770 or (800)695-4877 or the University's Benefits Department at (801)581-7447 for information. This position may require the successful completion of a criminal background check and/or drug screen and immunizations.

Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Matthew Burbank: mburbank@poli-sci.utah.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4567

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8001> Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. Teaching and research statements are optional. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00001

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4564

Princeton University

Rank: Senior Faculty in American Politics (joint with Woodrow Wilson School)

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from senior scholars in the field of American politics for one or more tenured faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8002> Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00002

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4566

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in American political behavior for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2019. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2018. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 15, 2018, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53090>

Qualifications

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4563

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Open Rank Search in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in the study of American Politics for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor or a tenured appointment at the Associate or Full Professor rank. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach and area of expertise. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2019. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2018. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 15, 2018, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and teaching evaluations (if applicable). Applicants for a non-tenured position should submit three letters of reference electronically via Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53095>

Qualifications

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4562

University of Miami

Rank: Open Rank Search in American Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Miami invites applications for an associate professor or full professor. The proposed start date is August 15, 2019. This is an endowed position providing a competitive salary and annual research budget. We seek candidates in the subfields of American politics or international relations who have developed a national or international reputation for their scholarship.

All applications can be submitted online via the Faculty Career Opportunities website (<https://umiami.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UMFaculty>) and all documents (CV, letters of nomination, and a list of three references) can be uploaded via this site. Applications will be considered until the position is filled. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (jwest@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/.

The University of Miami is an Equal Opportunity Employer - Females/Minorities/Protected Veterans/Individuals with Disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants and employees are protected from discrimination based on certain categories protected by Federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4542

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in Fall of 2019. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American Politics, especially those interested in political behavior. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 700 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000646. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Brandon Rottinghaus, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at bjrottin@central.uh.edu.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4511

University of Miami

Rank: Tenure-track International Relations or American Politics

Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in the field of international relations or American politics. Although the position is open as to these two subfields, preference will be given to international relations candidates who specialize in international security and preference will be given to American politics to candidates who complement our existing strengths. Candidates should have over their PhD by August 15, 2019 and show promise of high-quality research in top scholarly outlets as well as excellence in teaching. The expected teaching assignment is 2-2, and the position will involve teaching in the field of international relations or American politics, including an introductory course.

All application packages can be submitted online via the Faculty Career Opportunities website (<https://umiami.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UMFaculty>) and all documents (CV, letters of nomination, and a list of three references) can be uploaded via this site. Applicants applying for the rank of assistant professor should upload documents including a CV, a letter of interest, teaching evaluations if available, PhD transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a single-authored writing sample. More senior scholars applying for the rank of associate professor should upload documents including a CV, a letter of interest, and a list of three references. Applications received on or before Monday, October 15, 2018, will be given full consideration. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (jwest@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/. The University of Miami is an Equal Opportunity Employer — Females/Minorities/Protected Veterans/Individuals with Disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants and employees are protected from discrimination based on certain categories protected by Federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4532

Colorado State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics (racial and ethnic politics)

The Department of Political Science at Colorado State University invites applications for an entry-level tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American politics with a specialization in racial and ethnic politics. We are open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus, and methodological approaches.

The Department values both strong teaching and research. Successful candidates will be expected to offer courses in the American politics curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, including an upper-division undergraduate course in US racial and ethnic politics. Additional teaching assignments will depend on the candidate's interests and expertise as well as departmental needs. The normal teaching load is 2-2. Faculty members are also expected to advise and mentor graduate and undergraduate students; develop an active research agenda; and provide service to the department, college, university, and community. The Department offers programs of study leading to the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees; the doctoral program emphasizes the study of environmental politics and policy. Approximately one-third of undergraduate political science majors at CSU are first-generation college students.

Required Job Qualifications: Primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in American politics; evidence of an active research agenda focused on racial and ethnic politics in the US; PhD in Political Science or related field by August 16, 2019; evidence of teaching effectiveness; ability to enhance the Department's commitment to diversity and inclusion reflecting Departmental and institutional values.

Preferred Job Qualifications: Candidates who complement the department's existing strengths in environmental politics or who can teach any of the department's methods courses (quantitative, qualitative, or research design) are encouraged to apply.

Application Procedure: Applications will be accepted until the position is filled; to ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by September 9, 2018. Applicants should submit: 1) a letter of application outlining teaching interests and research agenda as well as a brief statement on how your teaching, research and/or service demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion; 2) Curriculum vitae; 3) Graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts acceptable at the initial stage of the search), 4) Evidence of demonstrated or potential teaching effectiveness (syllabi, teaching evaluations, letters of observation), 5) One sample of published or presented work, and 6) The names and contact information of three professional referees who will be emailed immediately upon submission of an application with a request to submit a letter of reference. Please note that a complete application consists of the requested materials and three letters of references. Your referees will be emailed a request for a letter of reference immediately upon submission of your application. As such, applicants should allow sufficient time for their letters to be submitted by September 16, 2018 to ensure full consideration. Application materials of semi-finalist candidates, including letters of reference, will be made available for review by the entire faculty in the Department of Political Science. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Courtenay Daum (Courtenay.Daum@colostate.edu). To apply, please visit: <http://jobs.colostate.edu/postings/59062>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4510

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Public Administration

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus and methodological approach. The position requires excellence in research and classroom teaching. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or be ABD with PhD expected by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and letters of recommendation from at least three references. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53055>. The review of applications will begin on September 17, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to: michael.herron@dartmouth.edu

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4512

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in American Politics for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01845>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4518

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Formal Theory / Political Economy for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. The applicant should demonstrate advanced skills in analytical reasoning and formal modeling (including but not limited to game theory), as well as a strong applied focus in at least one subfield. The successful candidate will be able to convey their insights to an audience that does not necessarily have extensive formal training but that is interested in the ideas as applied to a well-defined substantive problem. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01847>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4521

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: quantitative methods, formal theory, analytic political philosophy, or modelling. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01840> for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4523

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of assistant professor. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

Basic Qualifications: Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

Application Procedure: To apply please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/55187> and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching/research interest (including a summary of teaching evaluations, if available), and sample publications. In addition, please send at least three letters of recommendation to pscjobs@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on 9/17/2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4494

University of California, Irvine

Rank: 2018-19 Political Science Lecturer Pool (American Focus)

The Department of Political Science is seeking applicants for temporary part-time lecturer positions to teach in the field of American Political Institutions such as Congress, Judicial Behavior, and the Presidency. These positions will replace faculty on leave during the 2018-19 academic year and thus are based on departmental need.

Requirements - We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who might contribute to our undergraduate program in American Politics.

These part-time positions are based on an annual salary range beginning at $54,738 and the number of courses could vary.

Service Period Dates for 2018-2019 Academic Year:

Fall Quarter: 9/24/18 – 12/14/18

Winter Quarter: 1/2/19 - 3/22/19

Spring Quarter: 3/27/19 – 6/14/19

Application Procedure - Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching performance, and a Statement of Contributions to Diversity via our online recruit system: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04842>

Priority for positions will be given to applications completed by October 1st, 2018. Please note this is a continuous recruitment to fill classes on an as-needed basis. The department will refer to the pool of applications on file to fill assignments as necessary.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/17/2019

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4501

Oberlin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics/ Quantitative Policy Analysis Post-Doctoral Fellow

The Politics Department at Oberlin College invites applications for a post-doctoral faculty position in quantitative policy analysis in the College of Arts and Sciences. Appointment is for the 2019-20 academic year. This is a non-continuing position.

The incumbent will pursue teaching responsibilities for one class per semester in the quantitative analysis of public policy.

The incumbent will also engage in sustained scholarly research and/or other creative work appropriate to the position, help direct a series of guest scholars/policy practitioners, and participate in a range of mentoring responsibilities for students interested in policy analysis.

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at <https://jobs.oberlin.edu>. A complete application will be comprised of 1) a cover letter that includes an articulation of the applicant's teaching philosophy and scholarship / artistic interests; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) unofficial transcript; 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness; 5) a writing sample; and 6) letters of reference from three (3) recommenders.* All application materials must be submitted electronically through Oberlin College and Conservatory's online application process at: <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/>

*By providing three (3) Professional References (names and email addresses), you agree that we may contact them through our applicant web portal. Reference writers will be asked to submit an electronic letter of recommendation. Please note: at this time we are unable to accept letters of recommendation from an Interfolio email address. Completed applications received by the October 29, 2018 deadline will be guaranteed full consideration.

Questions about the position can be addressed to: Stephen Crowley, Professor and Chair of the Politics Department, at scrowley@oberlin.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4492

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Political Psychology, Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in American Politics. We are interested in candidates with expertise in legislatures, institutions, behavior, and political psychology. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/53018>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2018, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4488

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Race, Ethnicity and Migration

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Race, Ethnicity, and Migration. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations. This search is part of a cluster of hires, at multiple levels, the department is making over the next few years. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/53016>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2018, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4489

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department at the University of California, Merced invites applications for an assistant professor (tenure-track) position in either Political Institutions or Political Behavior. The department is particularly interested in applicants who focus on international relations and/or comparative politics but will also consider applicants in American politics.

In order to be considered, candidates must have a PhD in political science (or a closely related field) by the position start date and evidence of excellence in research.

The anticipated start date for this position is July 1, 2019.

Applications must be submitted online. Completed applications must be received no later than September 14, 2018, in order to be considered. Interested applicants are required to submit 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statement of research; 4) statement of teaching; 5) two writing samples; 6) a contributions to diversity statement; and,

7) a list of three references with contact information including mailing address, phone number and e-mail address.

The contributions to diversity statement should describe your past experience, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with UC Merced's mission to reflect the diversity of California and to meet the educational needs and interests of its diverse population. Some faculty candidates may not have substantial past activities. If that is the case, we recommend focusing on future plans in your statement. For additional information on what should be included on your Diversity Statement, please visit <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html#Are-there-any-guidelines-for-wr>.

Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted online. After an application is submitted, the letters of reference should be electronically uploaded by the letter writers (instructions will be provided by the application system). Letters of reference should be received no later than September 14, 2018.

The University of California, Merced is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, students and staff. The majority of students at UC Merced are members of under-represented minority groups and we encourage applications from candidates dedicated to working in a multicultural environment.

Salary is commensurate with education, experience, and UC academic salary scales.

For additional information, please contact Tom Hansford at thansford@ucmerced.edu.

Applicants will be notified when the final candidate has been selected.

To apply, please visit our UC Merced job posting at: <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00688>.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4483

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant professor starting August 2019. This position is part of the Department's continuing investment in its American Political Behavior hiring initiative. Candidates' research interests can be from any area of American Political Behavior (as opposed to institutions), and we view the subfield broadly. Duties include teaching and mentoring at the graduate and undergraduate levels and the publishing of original research in professional outlets.

Minimum Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or be ABD with a terminal degree transcript on file no later than nine months from appointment date.

Preferred Qualifications:

Candidates should have a demonstrated potential for excellence in scholarship. Strong quantitative skills are encouraged but not required.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, a recent publication or research-related writing sample, teaching evaluations (if available), original transcripts, and a list of three letter writers, who will separately provide letters of recommendation (in electronic form) to the UGA Job site at <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/29263>. Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications received by September 28th, 2018 will receive full consideration, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

For more information about the department, visit <http://spia.uga.edu/department-of-political-science/>.

Athens is well known for its quality of life including both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The Department of Political Science is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area, in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR. Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Contact:

Wendi Finch

Email:

wendif@uga.edu

Phone:

706-542-2057

Fax:

706-542-4421

Address:

180 Baldwin Hall

Athens GA, 30602-1615

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4479

Saint Mary's College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor — Research Methods and American Politics

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Visiting Assistant Professor – Political Science

The Program in Political Science invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor beginning August 2019. The position is for one year; there is a possibility of conversion to a tenure-track position if circumstances and funding permit. The Department seeks a scholar in Research Methods and American Politics who has a strong commitment to teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment. The candidate's primary responsibility will be to teach a 3-3 load, which in addition to the Research Methods course required of all Political Science majors may include such courses as Public Opinion, Political Parties and Interest Groups, and Gender and Politics. Ability to teach Foreign Policy and/or Security Studies is a plus. A strong commitment to diversity and inclusion, undergraduate education of women, liberal arts education, and service to the department and the College is expected.

PhD required. ABD considered if PhD to be completed within one year. Teaching experience required. Starting date is August 19, 2019. Classes begin on August 26, 2019.

Please send the following to Dr. Amy Cavender, chair, at posc+search@saintmarys.edu (PDF format preferred):

Letter of application

Curriculum vitae

Statement of teaching philosophy/research activity

Statement on diversity

Evidence of teaching excellence

Three letters of reference

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants invited to progress to the next round will also be asked to provide all official transcripts of undergraduate and graduate work.

Established in 1844, Saint Mary's College, the nation's premier Catholic Women's college, was founded and is sponsored by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. As a Catholic institution of higher learning, Saint Mary's College has a mission-driven responsibility to be diverse, inclusive, and equitable. The College encourages candidates from underrepresented backgrounds to apply. (See our full value statement on diversity and inclusion: <https://www.saintmarys.edu/about/president/presidents-council-inclusivity-multicultural-diversity>.) Saint Mary's College is a liberal arts college for women with a strong commitment to education of undergraduate women and graduate women and men. All faith traditions are welcome among our administrators, faculty, staff, and students.

Saint Mary's College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. In keeping with the College's mission, Saint Mary's is committed to increasing its diversity at all levels — students, faculty, and staff — and seeks applications from candidates who share this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4471

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American politics, political behavior)

Position summary: The Department of Government at William & Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics with specialty in political behavior. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in racial or ethnic politics, or the politics of inclusion. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level.

Required qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2019).

Preferred qualifications: Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching racial or ethnic politics, the politics of inclusion, or research methods (qualitative or quantitative methods, including political polling and survey methods) is preferred.

Application instructions: Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted by the system with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 17, 2018. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Additional information: Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Data Science, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies, International Relations, Public Health, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC. William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4459

Georgetown University

Rank: Senior Tenured Scholar - McDonough School of Business and the Walsh School of Foreign Service

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both schools. We seek scholars who work at the intersection of business and international affairs in fields such as international political economy, international trade, and international business and public policy. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Full Professor, though we welcome applications from accomplished associate professors. We also welcome applications from and nominations of senior scholars with extensive policymaking experience.

This joint position is one of a number of new interdisciplinary positions at Georgetown intended to foster scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Because of our location in Washington, DC, extensive linkages to the international policy and business communities, and strong tradition of scholarship and teaching in business, international affairs, and political economy, Georgetown has a unique opportunity to pursue integrative opportunities in scholarship and educational programs at the intersection of these fields, and the person appointed to the joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB and SFS are currently undertaking a transformative cooperation to create a new joint undergraduate degree, the first in Georgetown's history, and plans are also underway for joint centers and research initiatives. This cooperation builds on the success of several joint graduate degrees, as well as a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. The successful candidate will help provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. The MSB has strengths in core business disciplines as well as international business, public policy, and international political economy. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here: <https://www.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business attracts faculty and students from around the world. We are committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here: <https://msb.georgetown.edu/>

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE: The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and language. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to apply.interfolio.com/52848. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2018, but will accept applications and nominations until the position is filled. Professors Dennis P. Quinn of MSB and Erik Voeten of SFS will co-chair the search.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4455

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; urban politics, civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; feminist legal studies; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2019. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications, and effective written and oral communication. We are especially interested in candidates who have a long-term interest in helping to develop and advise students in Muhlenberg's pre-law program.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates should also submit a separate statement describing how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, applicants can find the latest updates to the College's Diversity Strategic Plan at: <http://www.muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/>.

muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/.

Complete applications should be sent via email as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair to: pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. In order to receive full consideration, applications must be received by September 17, 2018.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in eastern Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley. Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4457

School of Advanced Air and Space Studies

Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Strategy and Security Studies

Subfield(s): Other, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Defense, History & Politics, International Security

The School of Advanced Air and Space Studies (SAASS) is seeking a scholar of strategic or security studies to join our faculty beginning summer, 2019. Applicants with a specialization in space policy, space law, space history, or technology and innovation are of particular interest.

SAASS educates strategists for the US Air Force and the nation. The faculty develops and presents a yearlong graduate curriculum designed to educate students in the art of strategy and strategic studies, enhancing the Air Force's capacity to defend the United States through the control and exploitation of air, space, and cyberspace. Graduates receive a Master of Philosophy in Military Strategy degree with the possibility to continue toward a PhD in Military Strategy. The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges accredits both programs through The Air University.

Successful applicants will support the Air University and SAASS missions and have experience in the development, study, evaluation, or implementation of strategy, in terms of policy, history or practice. Applicants must have a completed PhD or JD, in an area relevant to strategic studies, with the ability to teach in a relevant field such as history, political science, and technology. Emphasis on the control and exploitation of space, air, and cyberspace and extensive professional experience in these areas is highly desired. The selection committee will consider applicants at the assistant and associate levels.

Primary duties include teaching graduate-level courses across the breadth of the school's curriculum, advising thesis and dissertation students, curriculum development, course direction, scholarly research and publication, and service to the school and university commensurate with individual experience.

Applicants will be required to submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation and samples of research, course syllabi and teaching evaluations to the chair of the search committee (via email or regular mail). Additionally, candidates will need to formally apply for the position using the USAJobs site, which will begin accepting applications on 1 September 2018. Review of applications will begin 1 October and continue until the position is filled.

Preliminary interviews will be conducted at the APSA annual meeting in Boston from August 30-Sep 1, 2018.

To schedule a meeting at APSA or for further information, please direct inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Derrick Frazier (derrick.frazier@us.af.mil); SAASS, 125 Chennault Circle, Room 2222A, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4446

Utah Valley University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in Political Science

Specializations: Political Psychology, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

The Department of History and Political Science at Utah Valley University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics to begin in the academic year 2019-2020. We are seeking candidates with expertise in the politics of race and ethnicity, minority politics, immigration politics, media and politics, and public opinion in the United States. We are also interested in candidates who are able to teach survey and experimental methods courses within the department. The person hired will also be expected to teach our large-section introductory course in American politics.

As an Elective Community Engagement designated university by the Carnegie Foundation, Utah Valley University is committed to making teaching excellence inclusive in every aspect of the institution. Diversity, inclusion and equity are prioritized learning resources for all UVU community members. Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an engaged learning environment.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to August 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate a potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship.

Interested applicants must apply for this position via the Utah Valley University job page. Please access the posting at <https://www.uvu.edu/jobs/postings/7932>. All applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample of your research, teaching materials (for example student evaluations or sample syllabi), your graduate transcript, and three letters of reference. All materials are due by October 1, 2018.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please email your curriculum vitae and cover letter by August 15 to Dr. Steven Sylvester, Search Committee Chair at ssylvester@uvu.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age (40 and over), disability, veteran status, pregnancy, childbirth, or pregnancy-related conditions, genetic information, or other bases protected by applicable federal, state, or local law.

Employment decisions are made on the basis of an applicant's qualifications and ability to perform the job without regard to race, color,

UVU offers an excellent benefits package which includes a generous leave policy, 12 paid holidays, affordable medical and dental insurance options, life and AD&D insurance, tuition waiver (undergraduate resident) for employee and dependents and substantial employer contribution to a retirement plan.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4437

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencect.uhc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4428

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgencut.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Select "Apply" to be redirected to Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4429

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgencut.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Please navigate to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11482> to apply via Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4430

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencect.uconn.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Please navigate to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11482> to apply via Academic Jobs Online. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Date Posted: 7/25/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4431

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Whittier College

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Public Policy and American Politics, and capable of teaching a core course in Public Administration. We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: race and politics, minority politics, environmental politics, state and local politics with an emphasis on California, and/or political theory.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach 20 units each year and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as First-year Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of materials will begin September 10, and will continue until the appointment is made. If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please let us know, and send your c.v. and letter of application by August 1. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance. Full applications should include: a letter of application, including discussion of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation, sent by your references. Please email (PDFs preferred) materials to Prof. Deborah Norden, Department Chair, at <mailto:dnorden@whittier.edu>. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Prof. Deborah Norden, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-4289f6e1d352e841a207bc2342f12ec7>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4413

Appalachian State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in American political behavior with a focus on political psychology. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: public opinion, voting/electoral politics, political psychology, and political communication. The ability to offer courses on gender, race, and/or ethnicity is a plus. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester for faculty with an active research agenda. The department is committed to promoting a community that celebrates and models the principles of diversity and inclusivity. Candidates should be on track to earn a Ph.D. prior to September 2019.

Appalachian State University is a member of the sixteen-campus University of North Carolina System, consistently ranking among the top regional universities in the South. Located in Boone, North Carolina, the University has nearly 19,000 students, primarily in bachelors and masters programs in both liberal arts and applied fields. The Department with 30 tenure-track faculty has undergraduate programs in political science, public administration and criminal justice and graduate programs in political science and public administration. Additional information about the Department of Government and Justice Studies can be found at <http://gjs.appstate.edu>. Additional information about the University and surrounding area can be found at www.appstate.edu.

Applicants must send a completed application consisting of a letter outlining teaching and research interests, a current vita, and three letters of recommendation. Inquiries and applications should be sent to Dr. Ellen Key, Department of Government and Justice Studies, at PSFaculty@appstate.edu. Appalachian State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Individuals with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact Dr. Ellen Key at the email listed. Any offer of employment to a successful candidate will be conditioned upon the University's receipt of a satisfactory criminal background report. Proper documentation of identity and employability will be required before the hiring process can be finalized. Review of applications will begin on September 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/10/2018

Date Posted: 7/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4405

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American Politics. The position is open with respect to substantive focus within American Politics. The start day is 1 July 2019, pending final budgetary approval. The successful candidate will teach four courses a year, variously geared to undergraduates and Ph.D. students.

Please submit a letter of application including research and teaching statements, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three references to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11463>.

Completed applications are due on 15 September 2018. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

The Department of Political Science at Boston University will be holding an informational session at APSA on Friday, August 31st from 1:00 to 4:00 pm. Candidates who are attending the conference and are interested in the position are welcome to stop by.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/15/2018

Date Posted: 7/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4407

DePaul University

Rank: Latinx Politics and Urban Politics

Latinx Politics and Urban Politics
DePaul University

The Department of Political Science (PSC) at DePaul University invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019 (6 courses in three academic quarters — 2-2-2). The Department seeks candidates with expertise and preparation in American Politics, specializing in Latinx Politics and Urban Politics.

Applicants who are qualified to teach in both fields will receive preference, although applicants who teach in one of two fields will receive full consideration. The successful candidate will also have opportunities to teach courses in the University's general education program and various interdisciplinary programs. DePaul University is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body and Chicago area communities.

Candidates should submit a letter of application [cover letter], CV, sample syllabus, course evaluations, and reference contact information online to our Faculty Recruiting site-- <http://facultyopportunities.depaul.edu/postings/2042> . For more information, email polisci@depaul.edu or visit the department's web site at <http://las.depaul.edu/psc>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4401

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in the Field of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of public policy.

The McCourt School has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching expertise focus on applying innovative research to find solutions to important public policy problems. Environmental policy (domestic or comparative) and comparative policymaking are two areas where we have especially strong needs.

We expect the applicant to have a Ph.D. by the time they start; the Ph.D. could be in political science, policy, sociology, economics or related fields.

Applications can be submitted at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11436>. The committee will begin considering applications on September 15th and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A small number of candidates may be interviewed at the American Political Science Association meeting in Boston. Applicants who submit their applications by August 25th who wish to be considered for APSA interviews should indicate their availability in their cover letter.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4403

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Given multiple expected retirements and the demographics of departmental faculty, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. This is an exciting opportunity for a senior scholar to aid in the mentoring of rising junior scholars, to continue hiring of diverse and productive faculty, and promote one of the largest majors in the college and University. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be named the "Vail Pittman Professor of Political Science" and have access to an endowment that comes with the Pittman Professorship.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Required Qualifications

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Department Information

The Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, and a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

For more information and to apply, please visit: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Professor-Chair-Political-Science_R0110642

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving expenses (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, annual and sick leave, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents.

Contact Information for this position

Eric Herzik, herzik@unr.edu

For full consideration please apply by October 8, 2018. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4397

Brandeis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Brandeis University invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American Politics. The successful candidate's term will begin in the Fall of 2019. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American Politics, open as to subfield. We are especially interested in candidates working on campaigns and elections, state and local politics, or public policy, particularly as these areas intersect with race, ethnicity, and gender. We prefer candidates who will have a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August of 2019. Candidates should show evidence of teaching and research excellence to qualify for consideration. The course load is 2/2, and candidates will have the opportunity to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings, a chapter or article length writing sample, and three letters of reference. Brandeis University is committed to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion in faculty scholarship, teaching, and service. Applicants are encouraged to address these goals in their cover letter or in their teaching and research statement. These materials can be submitted electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11383>. First consideration will be given to applications received by October 1, 2018. Questions about the position can be directed to: Jill Greenlee (greenlee@brandeis.edu) and Daniel Kryder (kryder@brandeis.edu), Co-Chairs, Search Committee on American Politics. Brandeis University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer that is committed to creating equitable access and opportunities for applicants for all employment positions. We value and are seeking candidates that represent a variety of social identities, including those that have been underrepresented in higher education. Diversity in its student body, staff and faculty is important to Brandeis' primary mission. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their creative endeavors, teaching and/or service experiences, will increase Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and better prepare its students to participate within a pluralistic society.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/16/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4391

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis seeks candidates for one position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of American politics to begin Fall 2019 or later. Duties include research and publication, course teaching, student advising, and department and university service. Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required at the assistant or associate level. In addition, candidates at the associate professor rank must, through research and publication, have made a significant contribution to one or more subfields in Political Science. Washington University in St. Louis is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status.

We will begin reviewing files on September 15 and will continue doing so until the search is concluded. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, at least three letters of reference, writing samples, and other relevant materials. All applications and supporting documentation should be submitted electronically through the Washington University HR system (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>). Candidates should create an account, search for job requisition number 40939, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Letters of reference can be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

If you encounter difficulties with the application process, please email artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu for additional instructions. All other questions may be directed to Heather Sloan-Randick at (314) 935-5852.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4392

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American Politics)

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship in American politics. The position is open as to research and teaching specialization, including both political institutions and behavior. Candidates with a focus on the presidency/executive branch are especially welcome.

A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and graduate (M.A. and Ph.D.) offerings. The department offers a nationally competitive doctoral program in political science as well as an innovative master's degree in American politics that takes advantage of Georgetown's location in Washington, DC.

The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11417>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Michele Swers, mls47@georgetown.edu. For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive by September 21, 2018, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 7/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4380

University of Delaware

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Political Behavior, Political Psychology

THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS

The University of Delaware's academic leadership has identified the Department Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>) (POSCIR) as a priority for academic growth and prominence. We invite applications for a position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor (tenure track) beginning September 1, 2019. We seek a scholar studying American politics who has strong methodological skills and exhibits exemplary potential. Ideal candidates will have a record of publishing, evident interest in securing research funding, and experience teaching courses in American politics. The successful applicant must have a Ph.D. in hand by August 31, 2019.

We are especially interested in scholars engaging generally with inequality in the American political context. This could include research related to race and ethnicity, economic or educational inequality, or gender politics, but is not limited to these areas. We encourage scholars working on inequality from either institutional or behavioral perspectives including but not limited to the study of political parties, interest groups, social groups and movements, to apply.

The Department has 26 faculty, nearly 1,000 undergraduate majors and minors, and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. We offer two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law), comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

Using the Interfolio® online system at UD, <http://apply.interfolio.com/52194> applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, teaching evaluations, one article-length writing sample, and three letters of reference. Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to Professor Jason Mycoff (mycoff@udel.edu), Chair, American Politics Search Committee. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4382

Boston College

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics: Citizen Politics--Political Behavior/Political Psychology

The Department of Political Science at Boston College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position, beginning late-August 2019, to teach courses in citizen politics, political behavior and/or political psychology (for example, public opinion, political attitude formation, voting, political participation, or the media and politics) as well as courses appropriate for upper-level undergraduates and graduate students in the logic and methods of political inquiry. Applicants should have completed the PhD or be very near to finishing. Rank will be Assistant Professor or Instructor, depending upon degree status. Interested candidates should send a letter of introduction, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, and writing sample to APPLY-INTERFOLIO.COM/52316. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded to Interfolio by the individual writers. Applications must be received by October 1, 2018. No email applications or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4376

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy and American politics, including judicial and/or state and local politics. Applicants are encouraged to discuss their ability to contribute to the Department's emphasis in Race, Class, and Gender. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Boston and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a Carnegie-classified Doctoral University (Moderate Research Activity) with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven academic colleges and five schools—the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment—with an Honors College that spans across disciplines. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2019. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 12, 2018. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492980/assistant-professor-of-political-science>. Submit a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the US, and the university will not sponsor an applicant for a work visa for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/12/2018
Date Posted: 7/9/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4356

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy and American politics, including judicial and/or state and local politics. Applicants are encouraged to discuss their ability to contribute to the Department's emphasis in Race, Class, and Gender. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Boston and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a Carnegie-classified Doctoral University (Moderate Research Activity) with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven academic colleges and five schools—the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment—with an Honors College that spans across disciplines. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2019. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 12, 2018. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492980/assistant-professor-of-political-science>. Submit a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the US, and the university will not sponsor an applicant for a work visa for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/12/2018
Date Posted: 7/9/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4357

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy and American politics, including judicial and/or state and local politics. Applicants are encouraged to discuss their ability to contribute to the Department's emphasis in Race, Class, and Gender. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Boston and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a Carnegie-classified Doctoral University (Moderate Research Activity) with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven academic colleges and five schools—the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment—with an Honors College that spans across disciplines. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2019. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 12, 2018. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492980/assistant-professor-of-political-science>. Submit a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the US, and the university will not sponsor an applicant for a work visa for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 7/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4358

Michigan State University

Rank: Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure system position in American Politics, with a Minority Politics emphasis. We are looking to hire an advanced Assistant or Associate Professor. Position begins August 16, 2019. Special consideration will be given to those with research and teaching interests in race, ethnicity, gender, inequality or minority politics in the U.S. context. The hire is part of a new initiative in Minority Politics in the College of Social Science.

A successful candidate will have evidence of publishing high quality research, a documented commitment to teaching, and a record of efforts to secure external research funding. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or have completed the Ph.D. by the date of hire.

The closing date for applications is September 15, 2018.

Interested candidates must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Applicant Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu>, posting number 515751. Please submit your curriculum vitae, cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, two samples of written work, diversity and inclusion statement (which should discuss the applicant's ability and experience working with underrepresented student populations).

Assistant Professor applicants should arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted. Associate Professor applicants should supply the names of at least five references that we may contact.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Please contact Eric Juenke (juenke@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4346

Barnard College-Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Barnard College is a highly selective liberal arts college for women, affiliated with Columbia University. The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of American Politics. We are open to exact area of specialization, but are particularly interested in a candidate with expertise in the politics of race and ethnicity, gender, or institutions, broadly defined. We are especially interested in applicants who can make connections to at least one of Barnard's many interdisciplinary programs and establish professional networks in the broader New York and/or Washington DC policy communities that might benefit our students.

Applicants must have completed the PhD, show promise in their scholarship (hold the prospect of publication in major refereed journals and as a university press book in political science), and have demonstrated excellence in teaching at or beyond the level of teaching assistant.

Barnard College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is actively committed to creating a diverse and inclusive community. We especially encourage applications from women, people of color, persons with disabilities, LGBT people, people from diverse economic backgrounds, and individuals from other underrepresented groups.

Applications should include a cover letter describing research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; one dissertation chapter or published writing sample; and an unofficial graduate transcript; and the contact information for three letters of recommendation.

Recommended additional documents include teaching evaluations and syllabi for courses taught independently (or potential courses the applicant would like to teach). Please submit these under the optional "other document" upload field.

Please apply online to: <http://careers.barnard.edu/postings/3505>.

Applications must be received by September 15, 2018 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/15/2018

Date Posted: 7/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4340

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of State and Local Government and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: State Politics, Urban Politics, Housing

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2019-2020

Areas of Specialization: State and Local Government and Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and state and local government and upper-level courses focusing on state governance and metropolitan development. Background in public policy preferred. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2019. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; syllabi of any courses taught; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252. Please reference search: CLA-N-3203.

Application review will begin in October. Initial committee review will end on December 15, 2018.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/15/2018

Date Posted: 6/27/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4335

Western Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Political Science Department at Western Washington University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning in September 2019. The department welcomes applications from all areas of the subfield and all policy areas.

Minimum requirements include: Doctorate or ABD in Political Science with expected completion by June 15, 2019; specialization in one or both of the following: American Political Institutions or Political Behavior, ability to effectively teach introductory and upper division courses in American Politics; ability to develop and sustain high quality research program; ability to work effectively within a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff. Preferred qualifications include: ability to teach introductory research methods, ability and commitment to cultivating learning environments that are equitable and inclusive of students with diverse social identities and backgrounds.

The Department of Political Science has 15 full-time tenured and tenure-track faculty members and approximately 350 majors and minors. Our work bridges American and comparative politics, international relations, public policy, and political theory. Tenure-track and tenured faculty teach two courses per term. Western Washington University, with over 15,000 students in seven colleges and the graduate school, is the highest-ranking public, master's-granting university in the Pacific Northwest, according to the 2017 U.S. News & World Report rankings. Criteria for tenure and promotion are described in the Political Science Department Unit Evaluation Plan, available on request. <https://chss.wwu.edu>.

Interested candidates should submit: letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications, curriculum vitae, syllabi and related teaching material, teaching evaluations (if available), example(s) of scholarly writing, transcript, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted through Western's PAGE UP system at <https://careers.wwu.edu/westernpageup.html>. Salary: Commensurate with experience and qualifications. Bargaining Union: United Faculty of Western Washington

Application review begins September 25, 2018; position closes October 15, 2018. Inquiries may be directed to the search committee chair, Todd Donovan, at Todd.Donovan@wwu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 6/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4339

Texas A&M University

Rank: Tenure-Track, Assistant Professor in National Security & Diplomacy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the broad area of National Security and Diplomacy. The Bush School of Government and Public Service has built an outstanding faculty who are looking to hire a collegial Assistant Professor. We are broadly open to a candidate's regional/topical area of international affairs specialization. Bush School faculty exclusively teach master's degree graduate students in international affairs in a standard 2-2 load. The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one section of the required course in introductory-level empirical methods. We have a preference for candidates who would also be able to teach U.S. foreign policy. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics or a related discipline by September 2019. The individual selected will have demonstrated a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2019.

Applications must be made through the Texas A&M Workday website. The job number for this position is R-008268.

Applicants who currently are not a Texas A&M System employee please go to our external career site at https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Tenure-Track--Assistant-Professor-in-National-Security---Diplomacy---International-Affairs_R-008268

Applicants who currently are a Texas A&M System employee please go to our internal career site at https://www.myworkday.com/tamus/d/inst/15\$158872/9925\$10485.html

Applicants should upload a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae and a sample of written work.

Additionally, please have three letters of recommendation sent to:

Professor Gregory Gause
 c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tamu.edu)
 The Bush School of Government & Public Service
 Texas A&M University
 4220 TAMU
 College Station, TX 77843-4220

The review of applications will begin September 20, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Spring 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/22/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4323

American University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, American Politics

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-line position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in American Politics beginning August 1, 2019. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2019. The Department is particularly interested in individuals who study the intersection of women and politics, and would contribute to the work of the School of Public Affairs Women & Politics Institute.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 24, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/51261>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and statement of research interests. Applicants at the rank of Assistant Professor should include three letters of recommendation and Associate Professor faculty candidates should include a list of three references. Please email govsearch@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4306

American University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, American Politics

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-line position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in American Politics beginning August 1, 2019. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2019. The Department is particularly interested in individuals who study the intersection of women and politics, and would contribute to the work of the School of Public Affairs Women & Politics Institute.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 24, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/51261>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and statement of research interests. Applicants at the rank of Assistant Professor should include three letters of recommendation and Associate Professor faculty candidates should include a list of three references. Please email govsearch@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4307

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant professor

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2019. We seek candidates whose research focuses on American politics and policy. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in political institutions. Priority will be given to candidates who can add to the department's strengths in rigorous empirical, formal, and/or experimental analysis. Successful candidates are expected to pursue an active program of research and contribute to the department's undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Florida State University is committed to broadening the gender, racial, and ethnic diversity of its faculty, and the Department of Political Science shares that goal. The university statement of commitment to increasing the diversity of the faculty and students can be found at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_home.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 7,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) writing samples, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (pdfs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Florida State University is an EO employer. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eoc/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 6/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4308

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2019. We seek candidates whose research focuses on institutions and political economy. The search is open with respect to the substantive subfield, and priority will be given to candidates who can add to the department's strength in formal theory and rigorous empirical analysis. Successful candidates are expected to pursue an active program of research and to contribute to the department's undergraduate and graduate game theory sequences.

Florida State University is committed to broadening the gender, racial and ethnic diversity of its faculty, and the Department of Political Science shares that goal. The university statement of commitment to increasing the diversity of the faculty and students can be found at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_home.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 7,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) writing samples, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (pdfs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Florida State University is an EO employer. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eoc/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 6/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4304

Wellesley College

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics to begin in the academic year 2019-2020.

We are seeking candidates with expertise in a wide range of fields; the only exception is law, in which we are already well-staffed. We are particularly interested in the politics of race and ethnicity, minority politics, immigration politics, urban politics, media and politics, and public opinion in the United States. We are also interested in candidates who can teach an introductory methods course, whether qualitative, quantitative, or some combination. The person hired will also be expected to teach our introductory course in American politics.

Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research, and service that they can contribute to this goal. Familiarity with, and experience using, pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential will be considered a valuable additional qualification.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members teach two courses per semester.

Ph.D. completed or near completed preferred, ABD considered. All applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vita, a sample of your research, teaching materials (for example student evaluations or sample syllabi), your graduate transcript, and three letters of reference.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. The deadline for receipt of all application materials is September 17, 2018. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system please email us at working@wellesley.edu. Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Inquiries should be addressed to Prof. Tom Burke, chair of the search committee (tburke@wellesley.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/17/2018
Date Posted: 6/11/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4300

Mount Holyoke College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics - American Politics

We invite applications for a position in American politics. We envision hiring a new scholar and teacher of American politics whose research and teaching would engage the role of national institutions and/or public policy in creating and responding to class, race, and/or gender inequality. The new hire will teach classes that complement and strengthen current offerings in the American politics subfield. The ideal candidate would be able to teach courses that contribute to the college's interdisciplinary programs. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level beginning in Fall 2019. Mount Holyoke supports faculty scholarship through research funds, travel support, and sabbaticals, and a 2-2 teaching load. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the time of appointment.

We will begin accepting applications on July 1, 2018. Please submit a letter of application, C.V., graduate transcripts, sample syllabi of an Introduction to American Politics course and a course in your field of specialization, a short writing sample, and statements covering (1) research interests, (2) teaching philosophy, (3) the mentoring of a diverse student body. The successful candidate should be able to demonstrate excellence at teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Deadline for applications is September 15, 2018. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted on their behalf. Electronic prompts to referees will be generated automatically after the completed application has been submitted. Applications must be made online at <https://jobs.mtholyoke.edu/>. For further information, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Prof. Preston Smith, at: psmith@mtholyoke.edu.

Mount Holyoke is an undergraduate liberal arts college for women with 2,200 students and 220 faculty. Over half the faculty are women; one-fourth are persons of color. Mount Holyoke College is located about 90 miles west of Boston in the Connecticut River Valley, and is a member of the Five College Consortium consisting of Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

Mount Holyoke College is committed to enriching the educational experience it offers through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff members. Mount Holyoke seeks to recruit and support a broadly diverse faculty who will contribute to the college's academic excellence, diversity of viewpoints and experiences, and relevance in a global society. In furtherance of academic excellence, the College encourages applications from individuals from underrepresented groups in the professoriate, and individuals with a demonstrated commitment to applying and including diverse perspectives to learning, scholarship, service, and leadership in the academy.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/15/2018
Date Posted: 6/2/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4285

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: American Politics, Political Development, Presidency

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2019. Ph.D. preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses in American political thought and American political development. Additional teaching and research areas might include power and the American presidency; religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; and rural and/or labor politics. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique. The department seeks candidates that have demonstrated a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Applications received by September 15, 2018, will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a statement explaining how your skills and experience support the campus' commitment to diversity. Please arrange to have three letters of reference sent via Interfolio. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/24/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4266

Bradley UniversityRank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bradley University

Assistant professor

Start Date: August 15, 2019

Application deadline: September 15, 2018

Salary: Competitive

Specialization: American Politics/Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science at Bradley University is seeking candidates for a tenure track position in American government at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in American politics and political behavior; publish scholarly research; and engage in service to the institution. Continued professional development is expected and will be supported, but a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching excellence is essential. Candidates able to teach in a second (open) field are preferred. Opportunities to teach online or hybrid courses are available. Applicants must have Ph.D. in hand by August 2019. The successful candidate must be eligible to work in the United States.

More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at <https://www.bradley.edu/academic/departments/polisci/>.

Applicants should submit via email a letter of interest, a current vita, three letters of recommendation, sample course syllabi, teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and one sample of professional writing (published work preferred). Information regarding how the candidate can contribute to diversity in teaching, research, or service should be provided either within the teaching and/or research statements or in a stand-alone diversity statement. Submissions should be made to Professor Craig Curtis, the chair of the search committee, at plsamerpol@fsmail.bradley.edu.

Preference will be given to applications received by September 15, 2018; review will continue until the position is filled. Salary is competitive.

Employment with Bradley University is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a criminal background check.

Bradley University is a top-ranked, private university in Peoria, Illinois, offering 5,400 undergraduate and graduate students the opportunities, choices and resources of a larger university and the personal attention and exceptional learning experience of a smaller university. Bradley offers a comprehensive array of undergraduate and graduate academic programs in business, communications, education, engineering, fine arts, health sciences, liberal arts and sciences, and technology. The University is located on an 85-acre campus in the largest metropolitan area in central Illinois.

Bradley University is an equal-opportunity, affirmative action employer. The administration, faculty, and staff are committed to attracting qualified candidates from underrepresented groups.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 5/4/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4224Virginia Commonwealth University*Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, MethodologySpecializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)

8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Leiden University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Environmental Policy, China, International Security

The Institute of Political Science of Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Political Science (1.0 FTE, 5 positions)

Vacancy number 5901

Key responsibilities

Due to the growth of our programme, we are looking to hire 5 assistant professors of political science. The appointment includes teaching introductory and advanced courses reflecting the candidate's expertise, supervising MSc and BSc theses, conducting scholarly research, acquiring external research funding, and participating in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute (i.e., department). It could also include teaching general introductory courses, working groups, and/or co-supervising PhD theses.

All applicants should be well trained in one or more of the major sub-disciplines (e.g., comparative politics, international relations, political philosophy) and in research methods appropriate to their field and interests. All specialisations will be considered, but we are especially interested in applicants working on Asian and Chinese politics and foreign policy, US politics and foreign policy, international environmental politics, international conflict resolution, politics of international law, international political economy, comparative public policy, and political behavior. Applicants who are prepared to teach research design, qualitative and/or quantitative research methods should outline their relevant training and/or teaching experience in their applications.

Selection criteria

- Applicants must hold (or be near to completing) a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- Applicants must have a promising research agenda, some scholarly publications, teaching experience and good teaching evaluations;
- Applicants must be able to teach in English; ability to teach in Dutch is a plus. Staff who do not speak Dutch are required to progress steadily toward Dutch competence through training financed by the institute;
- Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the University Teaching Qualification (BKO). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, s/he must obtain this qualification within two years.

Research at our Faculty/Institute

Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises four institutes: Education and Child Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology. The Faculty also includes the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Its teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see <http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences>.

The Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. The Institute has around 80 academic staff, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals and book series. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multi-disciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy. The Institute is based in Leiden but a large and growing part of the teaching is done nearby in The Hague.

The Institute offers a range of taught programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The one-year MSc programme (taught mostly in English) includes four specialisations in Leiden and two in The Hague. Terms and conditions

The position starts as soon as possible, preferably in January 2019. The appointment will be made on a temporary contract of up to 3 years depending upon prior experience. A permanent appointment may be possible during or after the term of the initial contract, depending upon performance (in teaching, research and administration) and the budgetary situation of the Institute. Salary range from 3,545 to 4,852 gross per month (pay scale 11 in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities).

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3%), training and career development. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. More at <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/working-at/job-application-procedure-and-employment-conditions>.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

Further enquiries can be directed to Professor Arjen Boin, chair of the selection committee, email: boin@fsw.leidenuniv.nl

Applications

Please submit online your application no later than 31 October 2018 via the blue button of our application system. Applicants should submit online a letter of interest, a CV (with list of publications), a research statement covering their current and future research agenda, a sample paper or article, and a statement of teaching interests and experience including sample syllabi and/or teaching evaluations. Applicants should also ask two people to submit recommendation letters commenting on their professional qualifications and suitability for the position directly (i.e. not through the applicant) to vacature_powe@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

The selection procedure will take place in November-December 2018. Selected candidates will first be invited for an online pre-interview; some will then be invited for in-person interview and research talk. You are kindly requested to be available in this period. Enquiries from agencies are not appreciated.

Start Date: Winter 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/28/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4918

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Armed Conflict and Violence - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications from scholars of armed conflict and violence for full-time open-rank appointments. The search is open as to substantive area—scholars working on civil conflict, micro dynamics of conflict, and inter-state conflict are all encouraged to apply. The search is also open with regards to disciplinary and methodological approaches. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment on September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 8, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52967> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4916

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Middle East/Asia - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications from scholars working on politics in the Middle East or Asia for full-time open-rank appointments. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment on September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 8, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52973> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4917

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/track appointments in Political Science. The open-rank search is open to all fields and methodologies. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor) are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval. You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum:

<https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 1, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52969> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses:

New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4915

Providence College

Rank: Adjunct Faculty in Political Science (Part-time)

The Department of Political Science at Providence College seeks applications for two part-time adjunct faculty positions for the Spring 2019 semester which commences on January 14, 2019. One position is to teach one section of Introduction to International Relations scheduled for 2:30 – 3:45 Tuesdays and Thursdays. The second position is to teach one section of African Politics scheduled for 4 – 5:15 Tuesdays and Thursdays. We are open to considering applicants, with expertise in both subjects, who wish to teach both courses. Applicants should possess either a PhD in Political Science or related field (candidates ABD will be considered). Prior college teaching experience preferred.

Interested candidates should submit on-line a statement of interest, current curriculum vitae, and copies of official graduate transcript(s). Applicants will be prompted to submit the names and email addresses of three reference providers who will receive an email from our on-line career site with a link and instructions on how to submit a letter recommendation that speaks primarily to the applicant's teaching. Application instructions are available at the following website: <https://careers.providence.edu>

The application deadline is November 1, 2018. Questions should be referred to Dr. William E. Hudson, department chair, at bhudson@providence.edu

Providence College is a Roman Catholic four-year liberal arts institution conducted under the auspices of the Dominican Friars and seeks candidates who can affirm and contribute to its mission. Providence College is committed to upholding an academic culture and campus community that attracts and supports the development of a diverse faculty reflecting the global environment in which we live and work. An AA/EOE, the College especially encourages the applications of women and persons of color.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 4911

Humboldt State University

Rank: Faculty Tenure-Track - Department of Politics

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Faculty Tenure-Track - Department of Politics

Humboldt State University

Vacancy Announcement

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2019

Department of Politics

JOB #1920-11

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty, staff, and administrators of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state

DESCRIPTION:Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher and scholar of global politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS:We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with considerable progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- Evidence of, or potential for, effective teaching using a variety of methodologies;
- Commitment to and/or experience fostering a learning environment that supports individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- Evidence of commitment to equity and inclusion in pedagogy and curricula;
- Evidence of, or potential for, scholarly productivity in the field of global politics;

- Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;

- Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.) and willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

Experience with first year student learning communities or other first year initiatives is preferred.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty Immigration Resources page: <https://extended.humboldt.edu/international-programs/immigration/faculty>.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

Professional Duties: At HSU, teaching effectiveness is essential for faculty retention, tenure, and promotion. Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong record of scholarship. Instructional assignments are expected to include introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations. We anticipate that candidates will also teach some combination of upper-division courses in our Global Politics concentration, on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, global governance, political economy, foreign policy, or a course focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; scholarship; and service to the University, profession and to the community. Related responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions including assessment of learning. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first two years of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

General Information: The Department of Politics is strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. We offer our majors three distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." For more information, please visit: politics.humboldt.edu

Application: Qualified candidates should submit the following materials through Interfolio:

Click here to apply: <http://apptrkr.com/1299595>

- Letter of application;
- Curriculum vitae;

- Sample of scholarly work, such as a journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter;
- Statement of teaching philosophy;
- Sample syllabi;
- Teaching evaluations (if available);
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- Three letters of recommendation.

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #1920-11.

Additional application materials may be requested at a later time.

Please direct any questions pertaining to this position, the Department of Politics, or Humboldt State University to:

Dr. Noah Zerbe, Search Committee Chair

Department of Politics

Humboldt State University

One Harpst Street

Arcata, California 95521-8299

Phone (707) 826-4494

Email: <mailto:globalpoliticssearch@humboldt.edu>

Application Deadline: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 31, 2018. Early response is encouraged.

See more photos at Humboldt State University's Flickr page.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU. Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'limited reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017 are subject to a 10 year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or <mailto:hsuhr@humboldt.edu>.

HSU is committed to enriching its educational environment and its culture through the diversity of its staff, faculty, and administration. Persons with interest and experience in helping organizations set and achieve goals relative to diversity and inclusion are especially encouraged to apply.

Human Resources

Siemens Hall - Room 211

Arcata, CA 95521-8299

(707) 826-3626

Fax: (707) 826-3625

<http://www.humboldt.edu/jobs>

Email: careers@humboldt.edu

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Incorrect or improperly completed applications will not be considered for vacancies. Any reference in this announcement to required periods of experience or education is full-time activity. Part-time experience or education - or activities only part of which are qualifying- will receive proportionate credit. In accordance with applicable Collective Bargaining Agreements, preference may be given to the campus applicants covered by these agreements. However, positions are open to all interested applicants, both on and off campus.

Evidence of required degree(s), certification(s), or license(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. The successful candidate for a position at HSU is required to be fingerprinted through the Humboldt State University Police Department or their local law enforcement agency. The results of the fingerprint process must be received by the university prior to the candidate's appointment. The cost of the fingerprinting is borne by the university.

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty and staff of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state. Additional information about Humboldt State University can be found at <http://www.humboldt.edu>.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status.

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-54b149bdf3a9e349996d9b08dcf1fb15>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4909

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in Comparative Politics/International Relations

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and interest in the enduring questions of comparative politics and international relations for a one-semester Spring 2019 position. Candidates for Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor should have a Ph.D.; candidates for Instructor should be ABD.

The teaching load for the one-semester Spring 2019 position is four courses in the spring (capped at 30 students each), with two or three preparations. The four courses will include two sections of an introductory Comparative Politics course and two sections in the specialty of the applicant. Depending on the course, this could be two sections of the same course or two distinct courses, with possible courses in Nationalism, courses related to Globalization, or another Comparative or International Relations course proposed by the candidate. Service duties will be assigned by Chair.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission).

Please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to complete the online application. Using the link above, electronically submit a curriculum vita, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations, if available), sample syllabi for proposed courses (use Other 1), a list of three references who could comment on teaching abilities, and a cover letter that explicitly incorporates a clear understanding of the mission of Jesuit higher education and how one will contribute to this mission.

If materials cannot be electronically uploaded to the website, please email to: Dr. Carsten Vala (cvala@loyola.edu) or, if unable to send electronically, mail to him at Dept. of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Reviews of applications will begin November 1.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4900

Midwestern State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Western Europe, International Political Economy, Developing Nations

The Department of Political Science seeks applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2019. We seek a candidate whose primary teaching interest is comparative politics with a specialization in European politics, as well as an additional ability to teach courses on International Political Economy, International Organizations, and/or Development. The applicant should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (an ABD candidate would be required to have a Ph.D. by August 2020), and should contribute to the teaching and research mission of the university.

The Department of Political Science offers a B.A. Political Science, a B.A. Global Studies, and an M.A. in Political Science. It also houses the interdisciplinary minor in Women's and Gender Studies and a successful Model United Nations program.

The teaching load is 12 hours per semester, with a course reduction when teaching graduate seminars. Salary is competitive, depending on experience.

Midwestern State University is a public liberal arts university with an enrollment of approximately 6,000 students located in Wichita Falls, a city of 106,000 about 2 hours northwest of Dallas/Fort Worth (www.msutexas.edu). As a Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC) member institution, Midwestern State University is particularly committed to excellence in teaching and seeks applicants that will contribute to this mission. This position is designated as security sensitive and requires the finalist to complete a criminal background check. EEO/ADAAA compliance employer.

Please send a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) teaching evaluations, 4) one example of scholarly work, and 5) three letters of recommendation to:

Dr. Linda Veazey,
Interim Chair
Department of Political Science
Midwestern State University
3410 Taft Boulevard
Wichita Falls, TX 76308
linda.veazey@msutexas.edu

The initial review of complete applications will begin January 10, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/10/2019

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4903

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Urban Politics, Economic Policy

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies
Department of Environmental Studies
New York University Arts and Science

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for two tenure-track positions (at the rank of Assistant Professor). The appointments will begin September 1, 2019, pending administrative and budgetary approval. The successful applicant will be an interdisciplinary scholar with a strong record of research and publishing who is ready to contribute to the education of undergraduates majoring in Environmental Studies and to at least one of two new graduate programs being launched by the department (Environmental Systems Studies and Animal Studies). We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in global environmental governance or urban ecology. We welcome candidates from a broad range of social science, physical science, and policy backgrounds (e.g., environmental studies, earth science, urban studies, ecology, political science, sociology, economics, public policy, geography).

Candidates should possess a Ph.D. by August 31, 2019, have a research program that demonstrates the potential to be a leader in the field of Environmental Studies, and have proven the ability to be an excellent teacher. Candidates should apply with a cover letter, CV, three (3) confidential letters of recommendation, a research and teaching statement, and two exemplary writing samples. Because diversity is an important part of the NYU mission, we request that you include a paragraph in your cover letter telling us how diversity figures into your past, present, and future teaching, research, and community engagement.

?

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 and will continue until the search is complete. More information is available at <http://as.nyu.edu/environment/employment.html>

To apply, please go to the following: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53172>

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here (<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>).

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4905

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor - Judicial Political (American) , Gender and Development, and Global Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Assistant Professor - Judicial Political (American) , Gender and Development, and Global Politics (38494)

University of Florida: College of Liberal Arts & Sciences: 16380000 - LS-POLITICAL SCIENCE. Gainesville, FL

Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for three full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professors in Judicial Politics (American), Gender and Development, and Global Politics to begin August 16, 2019. The Department hopes to hire faculty broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our Department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. For all three tenure-track positions, we are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with the cluster hire themes of race and ethnicity, representation and justice, gender and other categories of identity, and the politics of inequality. Substantive research fields and methodological approaches are open.

For the Judicial Politics position, we are particularly interested in applicants conducting research on questions of race, ethnicity, gender, immigration status, or other categories of identity and the judicial system in the U.S. Scholars conducting research on the carceral state are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates should be able to offer courses on the judicial process at the graduate and undergraduate levels and should be excited about advising undergraduate pre-law students and assisting with undergraduate internships in the legal field.

For the Gender and Development position, we are seeking applicants specializing in research on how changes in the social, political, and economic status of women (both progress and backlash) shape economic and human development outcomes in the current age of globalism. The successful applicant should be prepared to not only teach specialized courses in his or her area of scholarly research at the graduate and undergraduate level, but also to offer general courses in the fields of comparative or international political economy. An ability to contribute to the Department's methods sequence (qualitative or quantitative approaches) is a plus.

For the Global Politics position, we are especially interested in applicants whose scholarship focuses on transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and post-conflict studies. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between domestic and international politics and the respective fields of comparative politics and international relations. In line with the overall theme of the search, candidates combining studies of identity and inequality or race, ethnicity and justice are especially encouraged to apply.

While we are open with regard to regional focus in these two positions, we are particularly interested in applicants conducting research in Latin America, Central or South Asia, or Europe.

Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

Qualifications

A Ph.D is required.

Application Instructions

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/55446> and must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. One article reprint or pre-print
7. Three confidential letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018, and continue until all three positions are filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4907

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2019, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 6, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8901>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (within the last 5 years). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4894

University of Kentucky

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Kentucky (Lexington, Kentucky) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in Comparative Politics beginning in Fall 2019. The department encourages candidates with strong quantitative/methodological skills who demonstrate clear potential to conduct high-quality research and to attract extramural funds. The successful candidate will be expected to provide effective graduate and undergraduate teaching. We also encourage candidates with the ability to contribute to graduate methods training.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 2019.

Interested applicants should apply online at: <http://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/200546>. Applicants must submit the following: 1) letter stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, 2) curriculum vita, 3) publications or writing samples (upload under Writing Sample), 4) research statement (upload under Specific Request 1), 5) graduate transcripts and 6) a statement on inclusivity (upload under Specific Request 3): As a department and university, we are strongly committed to creating an inclusive and effective teaching, learning, research, and working environment for all. In one to two pages, applicants should reflect on their commitments, approaches, and insights related to inclusion, diversity, and equity. In addition, please provide the names and contact information for three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information will be utilized to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Applicants may also submit evidence of teaching experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught. This is optional and, if including, please upload under Specific Request 2.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4892

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor Focused on Korean Politics and Public Policy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science and the Truman School of Public Affairs at the University of Missouri invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor position focused on Korean politics and public policy (Job Opening ID 27940), to begin in the Fall Semester of 2019. Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda, strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Additional expectations include active engagement with the University of Missouri Institute for Korean Studies and facilitation of connections between the University of Missouri and Korea.

Applicants from all subfields of political science, public policy and public management whose research has an emphasis on Korea are encouraged to apply. An earned doctorate in political science, public policy, public affairs or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Candidates should submit their curriculum vitae, a cover letter, writing samples, and three current letters of recommendation. The cover letter should address the following: current and future research, teaching interests in both political science and public affairs, and how the applicant envisions engaging in Korean Studies and with universities in Korea. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15. Women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

The University of Missouri is fully committed to achieving the goal of a diverse and inclusive academic community of faculty, staff, and students. We seek individuals who are committed to this goal and our core campus values of respect, responsibility, discovery, and excellence.

The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please contact the Office of Accessibility & ADA Education at 573-884-7278 or CheekA@missouri.edu.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. When applying reference Job Opening ID 27940. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. Reference letters should be sent electronically to MUTSPADirector@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Mary Stegmaier, Co-Chair of Search Committee; 113 Middlebush;

University of Missouri, Columbia, MO 65211-0630. Applicants may contact the Chairs of the Search Committee Jonathan Kriekhaus (kriekhausj@missouri.edu) and Mary Stegmaier (stegmaierm@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4883

University of Washington, Tacoma

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics and Public Law

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Law

The University of Washington Tacoma invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics & Public Law, housed within the Division of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs in UWT's School of Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences. The successful candidate will address how power shapes systems of oppression in American law and politics. In particular, the successful candidate will research the relationship between law and marginalization on the basis of race, ethnicity, indigeneity or other social identities.

The ideal candidate will teach courses in American Politics, Race and the Law, Law in Society and other public law related courses. We seek a candidate ready to serve our diverse student populations, involve students in research, and initiate coursework engaging the community. We seek someone eager to integrate new pedagogical techniques, and technologies into coursework. The position will primarily contribute to our two majors: Law & Policy and Politics, Philosophy, & Economics. Depending upon the successful candidate's expertise, this position may also contribute to other UWT majors, such as Ethnic, Gender and Labor Studies and American Studies. This is a full-time position with a 9-month service period. The position begins September 15, 2019.

The University of Washington Tacoma was founded in 1990 with an interdisciplinary approach at its foundation. It has evolved into a thriving downtown campus that serves a wide range of students in the South Puget Sound. Faculty have access to the resources of a major research university, including an extensive library system, while also working and teaching in a small campus setting. Our campus provides a unique environment for the development of creative teaching, research and community collaborations. UW Tacoma's commitment to diversity is central to maintaining an atmosphere wherein students, staff, faculty and residents find abundant opportunities for intellectual, personal and professional growth. For more information about UW Tacoma, visit <http://www.tacoma.washington.edu>.

Qualifications

The position requires an earned doctorate or foreign equivalent in Political Science, Sociology, History, Law, American Studies, or related field at the time of appointment, and is contingent on funding. Candidates in the final stages of their dissertation will be appointed on an acting basis.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit:

A letter delineating your interests and qualifications, a description of research projects underway, and your teaching experience. Applicants' statements should also carefully detail how their teaching, service and/or scholarship has supported the success of students underrepresented in higher education; applicants not yet with such experience should note how their work will further UW Tacoma's commitment to equity and inclusion;

A curriculum vitae, including a list of courses taught,

A statement of your teaching philosophy,

An article-length writing sample,

Evidence of teaching effectiveness, and

Three letters of reference.

Please submit all application materials through Interfolio. We will not consider any application material, including letters of recommendation, received via email or mail. Priority will be given to candidates who apply by October 27, 2018. For further information, contact Dr. Katie Baird at kebaird@uw.edu or Dr. Sarah Hampson hampsons@uw.edu.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to complete the Equal Employment Opportunity questionnaire that is linked to the confirmation email. This information will not be shared with the search committee.

University of Washington Tacoma faculty engage in teaching, research and service, and generally participate in lower division, upper division, and graduate instruction.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

University of Washington is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, genetic information, gender identity or expression, age, disability, or protected veteran status.

Commitment to Diversity

The University of Washington is committed to building diversity among its faculty, librarian, staff, and student communities, and articulates that commitment in the UW Diversity Blueprint (<http://www.washington.edu/diversity/diversity-blueprint/>). Additionally, the University's Faculty Code recognizes faculty efforts in research, teaching and/or service that address diversity and equal opportunity as important contributions to a faculty member's academic profile and responsibilities (<https://www.washington.edu/admin/rules/policies/FCG/FCCH24.html#2432>).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/27/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4897

Tulane University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for four (4) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2019-2020, two with program administration duties and two with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowship carries a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2019. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/53827 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2018 until the positions are filled.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/24/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 4881

Westminster College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Westminster College in Fulton, MO invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Responsibilities include teaching eight courses per year, maintaining an active research agenda, advising students and contributing to the governance and extra-curricular life of the college. Successful candidates will be able to teach:

1. Introduction to International Politics, American Foreign Policy and Model UN;
2. Upper-level courses in Comparative Politics in two or more regions, and
3. Courses in one or more of the following fields –research methods, Security Studies, Women and Politics.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science at the onset of appointment (August 2019). A commitment to and evidence of excellence in teaching and research. A strong desire to teach at a small, liberal arts college where enhanced advising and mentoring of students is expected. Familiarity with digital teaching technologies (all Westminster faculty will be supplied with iPads by 2019 and will be strongly encouraged to use them in classroom instruction).

Application Documents:

The following materials are required:

1. Cover letter;
2. Curriculum vitae (CV) with three professional references

The following materials may be requested after the initial review process:

1. Graduate school transcript;
2. Statement of teaching philosophy and research agenda;
3. Evidence of teaching effectiveness;
4. Two sample syllabi.

To apply:

Please apply online to the Westminster College portal link: <https://westminster-college.apscareerportal.com/jobs/819148/apps/new>

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Diverse candidates are encouraged to apply; Westminster actively pursues the goal of inclusive excellence.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4879

Humboldt State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Politics

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2019

Department of Politics

JOB #1920-11

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty, staff, and administrators of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state.

DESCRIPTION: Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher and scholar of global politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS: We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with considerable progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- Evidence of, or potential for, effective teaching using a variety of methodologies;
- Commitment to and/or experience fostering a learning environment that supports individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- Evidence of, or potential for, commitment to equity and inclusion in pedagogy and curricula;
- Evidence of, or potential for, scholarly productivity in the field of global politics;
- Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;
- Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.) and willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

Experience with first year student learning communities or other first year initiatives is preferred.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty Immigration Resources page: <https://extended.humboldt.edu/international-programs/immigration/faculty>.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

PROFESSIONAL DUTIES: At HSU, teaching effectiveness is essential for faculty retention, tenure, and promotion. Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong record of scholarship. Instructional assignments are expected to include introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations. We anticipate that candidates will also teach some combination of upper-division courses in our Global Politics concentration, on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, global governance, political economy, foreign policy, or a course focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; scholarship; and service to the University, profession and to the community. Related responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions including assessment of learning. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first two years of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

GENERAL INFORMATION: The Department of Politics is strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. We offer our majors three distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." For more information, please visit: politics.humboldt.edu

APPLICATION: Qualified candidates should submit the following materials through Interfolio:

Click here to apply: <http://apply.interfolio.com/55194>

- Letter of application;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Sample of scholarly work, such as a journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter;
- Statement of teaching philosophy;
- Sample syllabi;
- Teaching evaluations (if available);
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- Three letters of recommendation.

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #1920-11.

Additional application materials may be requested at a later time.

Please direct any questions pertaining to this position, the Department of Politics, or Humboldt State University to:

Dr. Noah Zerbe, Search Committee Chair
Department of Politics
Humboldt State University
One Harpst Street
Arcata, California 95521-8299
Phone (707) 826-4494
Email: globalpoliticssearch@humboldt.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 31, 2018. Early response is encouraged.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU.

Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'limited reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017 are subject to a 10 year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or hsuhr@humboldt.edu.

Humboldt State University is part of the 23-campus California State University system. The University has a comprehensive arts and sciences curriculum, which is recognized nationally for its high academic quality. Founded in 1913, HSU is one of the premier public institutions in the western United States; it is a residential and rural campus with an enrollment of approximately 8,000 students. The main campus is located in Arcata, California, in the northwestern part of the state along the coast, situated among redwood trees in an area that offers unmatched scenic beauty, moderate climate and opportunities for outdoor activities. The surrounding Humboldt County locale has a population of around 130,000. The community offers an excellent range of businesses, services and cultural activities/performances. The local schools are ranked in the top performance percentiles, both nationally and in the state. Additional information about Humboldt State University can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4868

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow, James Madison Program, Princeton University

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-19-POL-00004.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2018 for appointments beginning in September 2019. Awards will be announced in March 2019 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4866

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in Comparative Politics and International Relations

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and interest in the enduring questions of comparative politics and international relations. Candidates for Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor should have a Ph.D.; candidates for Instructor should be ABD. The teaching load for the one-semester position is four courses in the spring (capped at 30 students each), with two or three preparations. The four courses will include two sections of an introductory Comparative Politics course and two sections in the specialty of the applicant. Depending on the course, this could be two sections of the same course or two distinct courses, with possible courses in Nationalism, courses related to Globalization, or another Comparative or International Relations course proposed by the candidate. Service duties will be assigned by Chair.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs. Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission).

Please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to complete the online application. Using the link above, electronically submit a curriculum vita, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations, if available), sample syllabi for proposed courses (use Other 1), a list of three references who could comment on teaching abilities, and a cover letter that explicitly incorporates a clear understanding of the mission of Jesuit higher education and how one will contribute to this mission. If materials cannot be electronically uploaded to the website, please email to: Dr. Carsten Vala (cvala@loyola.edu) or, if unable to send electronically, mail to him at Dept. of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Reviews of applications will begin November 1.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/z29mbzq89c5975s3>

PI104441738

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2018

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4858

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program, Princeton University

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2019 to September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at <https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs> by December 1, 2018; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2019 or before. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4863

University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with focus in Human Rights or IPE

Specializations: International Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University of Massachusetts Lowell (UML) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science, with a specialization International Relations and a focus in either human rights or political economy and development. Candidates must also have the capacity to develop and teach quantitative research methods courses for our Global Studies PhD program. Applicants should also be prepared to offer undergraduate Political Science courses and Global Studies PhD courses. The appointment is expected to begin in the fall of 2019.

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Current ABD candidates are encouraged to apply, although the Ph.D. must be in hand by the appointment date. Recommendation letters for ABD applicants should address when the applicant is expected to defend his or her dissertation.

The new hire would join a collegial and ambitious department and university where research productive faculty teach a 2/2 course load. UML is committed to increasing diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to that goal.

The Political Science Department is housed within the University's College of Fine Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (FAHSS). The College is the largest unit of the University, with 11 academic departments and over 180 full time faculty. FAHSS has experienced significant growth in recent years, including hiring more than 50 new faculty members, achieving 70% growth in funded research expenditures, and the addition of several new interdisciplinary graduate programs. The Political Science Department currently has 12 tenured and tenure track faculty members, 3 visiting positions, and 3 adjunct faculty members. The Political Science Department is also home to UML's interdisciplinary Global Studies Ph.D. Program (<https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Global-Studies/>). In addition, our faculty are also engaged in the teaching and design of the interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies Program (which offers undergraduate and master's degrees) and the newly established Master's in Public Administration. For more information, please visit our homepage: <https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Political-Science/>

Applicants should submit:

1. Cover letter delineating the applicants research and scholarship agenda
2. Writing sample (ideally a published paper or one in preparation for submission)
3. Teaching philosophy statement
4. CV
5. Name and contact information of three professional references

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science
- Evidence of expertise in international relations with a focus in human rights or international political economy and development
- Evidence of strong statistical skills and ability to teach quantitative methods at the doctoral level
- Evidence of ability to develop and teach graduate and undergraduate political science courses in either human rights or political economy and development

Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled, but the position may close when an adequate number of applications are received.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4843

University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with focus in Human Rights or IPE

Specializations: International Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University of Massachusetts Lowell (UML) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science, with a specialization International Relations and a focus in either human rights or political economy and development. Candidates must also have the capacity to develop and teach quantitative research methods courses for our Global Studies PhD program. Applicants should also be prepared to offer undergraduate Political Science courses and Global Studies PhD courses. The appointment is expected to begin in the fall of 2019.

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Current ABD candidates are encouraged to apply, although the Ph.D. must be in hand by the appointment date. Recommendation letters for ABD applicants should address when the applicant is expected to defend his or her dissertation.

The new hire would join a collegial and ambitious department and university where research productive faculty teach a 2/2 course load. UML is committed to increasing diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to that goal.

The Political Science Department is housed within the University's College of Fine Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (FAHSS). The College is the largest unit of the University, with 11 academic departments and over 180 full time faculty. FAHSS has experienced significant growth in recent years, including hiring more than 50 new faculty members, achieving 70% growth in funded research expenditures, and the addition of several new interdisciplinary graduate programs. The Political Science Department currently has 12 tenured and tenure track faculty members, 3 visiting positions, and 3 adjunct faculty members. The Political Science Department is also home to UML's interdisciplinary Global Studies Ph.D. Program (<https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Global-Studies/>). In addition, our faculty are also engaged in the teaching and design of the interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies Program (which offers undergraduate and master's degrees) and the newly established Master's in Public Administration. For more information, please visit our homepage: <https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Political-Science/>

Applicants should submit using the following link: <http://explorejobs.uml.edu/lowell/en-us/job/495651/assistant-professor-in-international-relations>

1. Cover letter delineating the applicants research and scholarship agenda
2. Writing sample (ideally a published paper or one in preparation for submission)

3. Teaching philosophy statement
4. CV
5. Name and contact information of three professional references

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science
- Evidence of expertise in international relations with a focus in human rights or international political economy and development
- Evidence of strong statistical skills and ability to teach quantitative methods at the doctoral level
- Evidence of ability to develop and teach graduate and undergraduate political science courses in either human rights or political economy and development

Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled, but the position may close when an adequate number of applications are received.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4844

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position focused on race and ethnicity in any subfield of political science, with particular emphasis on American, Comparative or International Politics. This is an open-rank search that is part of a cluster hire within the College of the Liberal Arts at Penn State (<http://la.psu.edu/about/diversity-and-inclusion/faculty>). The department particularly seeks individuals who build on the strengths of the department. Note that this position is separate and in addition to a simultaneous search being conducted by the Department of African American Studies, and interested candidates may apply to both positions (posting available at <https://www.apsanet.org/CAREERS/eJobs/eJobs-Online/JBctl/ViewJob/JobID/4665>). Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Tenure track candidates should have a record that demonstrates potential to build a strong publication record, to secure external funding, and to serve as an excellent teacher and mentor. Tenured applicants should already have developed a strong record in each of these three areas. Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Applications must be submitted online, and should include as attachments a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates for the rank of assistant professor should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu; candidates seeking a tenured appointment should e-mail the names and contact information for three individuals who have agreed to serve as a reference to that address. Application review will begin on October 10, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to <https://police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports>, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Job URL: <https://psu.jobs/job/83036>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4838

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position focused on race and ethnicity in any subfield of political science, with particular emphasis on American, Comparative or International Politics. This is an open-rank search that is part of a cluster hire within the College of the Liberal Arts at Penn State (<http://la.psu.edu/about/diversity-and-inclusion/faculty>). The department particularly seeks individuals who build on the strengths of the department. Note that this position is separate and in addition to a simultaneous search being conducted by the Department of African American Studies, and interested candidates may apply to both positions (posting available at posting available at <https://www.apsanet.org/CAREERS/eJobs/eJobs-Online/JBctl/ViewJob/JobID/4665>). Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Tenure track candidates should have a record that demonstrates potential to build a strong publication record, to secure external funding, and to serve as an excellent teacher and mentor. Tenured applicants should already have developed a strong record in each of these three areas. Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Applications must be submitted online, and should include as attachments a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates for the rank of assistant professor should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu; candidates seeking a tenured appointment should e-mail the names and contact information for three individuals who have agreed to serve as a reference to that address. Application review will begin on October 10, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to <https://police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports>, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Job URL: <https://psu.jobs/job/83036>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4839

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, POLITICS AND POLICY OF CHINA - CLUSTER HIRE

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in comparative politics or international relations, with a primary focus on China and a secondary focus on East Asia and the Pacific Rim. Potential areas of substantive expertise in the politics and policy of China include: political and economic development, human rights, environmental politics and policy, international political economy, international security, or international organizations/governance.

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment in either the Department of Political Science or the La Follette School of Public Affairs, with preference given to candidates interested in both political science and public affairs/public policy. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank. Teaching will include courses to undergraduates as well as graduates. Teaching and research will primarily focus on the successful candidate's area of expertise. This position is part of a research cluster proposed by the Title VI-funded National Resource Center, the Center for East Asian Studies, for the University's Cluster Hiring Initiative (<https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>) to enhance cross-disciplinary expertise on contemporary East Asia. Candidates should have an interest in collaborating with the Cluster and with colleagues affiliated with the Center for East Asian Studies. Three candidates will be recruited in this Cluster: 1) Assistant Professor, Sociology of Contemporary Korea [PVL# 95849]; 2) Assistant Professor, Chinese Politics and Policy [PVL# 95952]; and 3) Assistant Professor, Educational Policy Studies in East Asia [PVL # TBD].

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required with service at the professional and university level.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our university's interdisciplinary research strength in key areas of current and future research promise, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

TO APPLY:

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 95952. To begin the application process please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4837

Luther College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Luther College is an undergraduate liberal arts college with a population of two thousand students located in Decorah, IA. Our faculty and students are highly engaged in academics and research, music programs, athletics, sustainability, and service. Founded in 1861 by Norwegian immigrants, Luther values its heritage, just as it values the diversity of its students, staff, and faculty, who hail from many faith backgrounds and heritages. Coming from 39 states and 74 countries, 12% of our students are domestic students of color and 9% are international students.

Our location in the beautiful driftless region of northeast Iowa offers a wealth of opportunities not often found in small towns. The economic vitality of the Decorah area is attributable to being a regional hub for outdoor recreation, two nationally recognized healthcare systems, top ranked schools, business, agriculture, specialty retail, dining and tourism. In a scenic rural setting, we are an easy 70 mile drive to three urban cities including Rochester, MN, home of Mayo Clinic and an IBM major campus.

Luther College is committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty, with a focus on mentoring and providing development opportunities and support to new faculty cohorts. This support includes new faculty workshops, development and research funding, faculty mentoring groups, providing membership to the National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity (NCFDD), and opportunities through the Associated Colleges of the Midwest (ACM). Luther College is participating in the ACM-Big Ten Academic Alliance Faculty Fellows Program for a Diverse Professoriate funded by the Mellon Foundation; candidates from backgrounds underrepresented in higher education and with doctoral degrees from "Big Ten" institutions are especially encouraged to apply.

Position and Qualifications: Luther College seeks an Assistant Professor of Political Science, with expertise in the field of Comparative Politics. This is a tenure-eligible position to begin in August 2019. Ph.D. preferred; exceptional candidates who are advanced ABD will be considered at Instructor rank. Demonstrated teaching excellence and evidence of scholarly promise are required. Teaching responsibilities will include Global Politics, Comparative Politics, and courses in the candidate's geographic (outside the US) or thematic area of expertise: for example, Latin American politics or the politics of development. The successful candidate will also be prepared to contribute to teaching in Luther College's interdisciplinary International Studies program. The teaching load is 6 courses, spread over the fall, January, and spring terms. Additional duties include student advising, committee and departmental work, scholarship and meeting with prospective students.

Apply: Review of applications begins October 19, 2018 and continues until the position is filled. Apply at <https://luthercollege.hiretouch.com>. Applicant's dossier will include:

- letter of application (outline your qualifications, summarize your teaching and research interests, and briefly highlight strengths that align with strengths of Luther College)
- curriculum vitae
- unofficial graduate and undergraduate transcripts
- three letters of recommendation from professional references who can address your abilities in teaching and scholarship (the college will send an email to each letter writer identified in the application process with a link to upload their letter)

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Dr. Carly Hayden Foster, Political Science Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Luther College at email: fosterc@luther.edu. Additional information about the college is available on the college website www.luther.edu. Questions regarding the application process should be directed to facultysearch@luther.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4834

Glendon College, York University

Rank: Assistant Lecturer (tenure-track)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Political Science, Glendon College, York University, invites applications for a teaching stream (alternate stream) tenure-track position in any area of political science at the rank of Assistant Lecturer, to commence July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will teach large undergraduate courses as well as upper-year undergraduate seminars across subfields and may also teach graduate courses. The candidate will provide leadership in enhancing teaching and learning through curricular and pedagogical innovation. A Ph.D. in political science in hand or near completion by July 1, 2019 is required. The successful candidate must be fluent in English and French and be able to teach in both languages in a multicultural context.

The successful candidate will demonstrate excellence or clear potential for excellence in teaching university-level courses, a strong commitment to pedagogy and student success, and the capacity to bring a theoretical and practical orientation to teaching, learning, and program design. The successful candidate will demonstrate capacity to teach large undergraduate courses as well as upper-year undergraduate seminars across subfields. A record of pedagogical innovation in high priority areas such as experiential education, technology enhanced learning, and community-based learning is preferred as is experience with curriculum development and universal design approaches to teaching and assessment. Evidence of service contributions or potential to contribute to service in administrative and committee work is preferred.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

York U's bilingual Glendon Campus is home to Southern Ontario's Centre of Excellence for French Language and Bilingual Postsecondary Education. Glendon comprises about 2,700 students on a scenic campus in the heart of the cosmopolitan city of Toronto. Glendon is committed to high-quality teaching in the tradition of the liberal arts and offers a unique undergraduate academic experience for students within one of Canada's largest research universities. For information about Glendon and its programs, please consult the Faculty webpage at <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. The AA program, which applies to Aboriginal people, visible minorities, people with disabilities, and women, can be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> or by calling the AA office at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify can do so by downloading, completing and submitting the forms found at: <http://acadjobs.info>.

yorku.ca/ . Please select the 'Affirmative Action' tab under which forms pertaining to Citizenship and AA can be found. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous peoples in Canada will be given priority.

The deadline for receipt of applications is November 18, 2018. An application letter outlining professional experience, a curriculum vitae, a teaching dossier which supports excellence and innovation in teaching, evidence of research activity, and three signed confidential letters of recommendation should be sent to Professor Willem Maas, Chair, Political Science, Glendon College, York University, via email to polisci@glendon.yorku.ca with the subject heading "Teaching stream position". Referees should be advised to address the candidate's qualifications and experience in relation to this position.

**

Le Département de science politique du Collège universitaire Glendon de l'Université York sollicite des candidatures pour un poste menant à la permanence (volet enseignement) dans n'importe quel domaine de la science politique au rang de chargé d'enseignement, débutant le 1er juillet 2019. La personne sélectionnée devra enseigner de grands cours et séminaires au 1er cycle dans différents sous-domaines et pourra également enseigner des cours de 2e et 3e cycles. La personne sélectionnée devra contribuer de façon proactive à l'amélioration de l'enseignement et de l'apprentissage au sein de l'établissement, notamment à travers des initiatives et des pratiques innovantes en matière de curriculum et de pédagogie. Les candidat.e.s doivent être titulaires d'un doctorat en science politique ou ce dernier doit être en voie d'achèvement au plus tard le 1er juillet 2019. La personne retenue devra être bilingue en français et en anglais, et capable d'enseigner dans ces deux langues dans un environnement multiculturel.

La personne retenue devra faire preuve d'excellence, ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses dans l'enseignement de cours universitaires et s'investir activement dans la pédagogie et en faveur de la réussite des étudiants. La capacité du candidat à intégrer une approche à la fois théorique et pratique à l'enseignement, l'apprentissage et la création de cours sera considérée comme un atout. La personne retenue devra démontrer sa capacité d'enseigner de grands cours ainsi que des petits séminaires à travers les sous-domaines de science politique. L'innovation pédagogique dans des domaines hautement prioritaires, tels que l'éducation expérientielle, l'apprentissage assisté par les technologies et l'apprentissage communautaire, sera considérée comme un atout, ainsi que l'expérience dans l'élaboration de programmes d'études avec une conception universelle en matière d'enseignement et d'évaluation. La personne retenue devra aussi fournir des preuves de ses services passés ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses dans le service à l'administration et aux comités.

Le salaire sera établi en fonction de la convention collective et de l'expérience. Toutes les offres de poste à York sont sujettes à autorisation budgétaire de l'Université.

Le Collège universitaire Glendon de l'Université York a été désigné comme Centre d'excellence pour les études postsecondaires en français et bilingues dans le sud de l'Ontario. Glendon, Faculté bilingue (français-anglais), accueille environ 2 700 étudiants sur un campus pittoresque situé au cœur de la ville cosmopolite de Toronto. Glendon s'inscrit dans la tradition des arts libéraux et offre une expérience académique de 1er cycle unique dans une des plus grandes universités au Canada. Pour de plus amples renseignements sur ses programmes d'études, veuillez consulter le site Web de Glendon à <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

L'Université York est un employeur qui a adopté un programme d'action affirmative, et préconise la diversité dans sa communauté, notamment celle de sexe. Le programme d'action affirmative s'applique aux autochtones, aux minorités visibles, aux personnes en situation de handicap et aux femmes. Pour plus de renseignements sur ce programme, veuillez consulter le site Web de York à l'adresse : <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> , ou vous adresser Bureau d'action affirmative au (416) 736 5713. Toutes les personnes qualifiées sont encouragées à poser leur candidature ; toutefois, la priorité sera accordée aux personnes de citoyenneté canadienne ou détenant le statut de résident permanent, et aux populations autochtones du Canada.

La date limite de soumission des candidatures est le 18 novembre 2018. Les personnes intéressées doivent faire parvenir une lettre de motivation mettant en évidence leur expérience professionnelle, un curriculum vitae, un dossier d'enseignement qui démontre l'excellence et l'innovation en enseignement, preuve de l'activité de recherche, et faire envoyer directement trois lettres de recommandation confidentielles à Willem Maas, Directeur, Département de science politique, Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York, par courriel à polisci@glendon.yorku.ca avec sujet « Poste volet enseignement ». Les personnes rédigeant des lettres de recommandation doivent aborder dans celles-ci les qualifications et l'expérience du candidat ou de la candidate en rapport avec le poste.

Les candidat.e.s qui souhaitent déclarer leur appartenance à un groupe désigné peuvent le faire en téléchargeant et en soumettant le formulaire disponible sur le site : <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> . Prière de sélectionner l'onglet « Affirmative Action » pour accéder aux formulaires relatifs à la citoyenneté et à l'action affirmative.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4822

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship in Regional Political Economy Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Southeast Asia, Africa

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2019-2020 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 3, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8571>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 6, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4801

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 for the 2019-2020 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 – July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 30, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8569>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 5, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4800

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellowship in Regional Political Economy Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Middle East, Africa

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2019-2020 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 3, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8581>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 6, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4803

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellowship Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2019-2020 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 30, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8570>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 5, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4799

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in Global Education

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a faculty position in global education, with a preference for scholars whose work and interests include a focus on the intersection of education and development or international and comparative education policy. Scholars engaged in rigorous social science research from a variety of disciplines – economics, political science, sociology, education, and others – will be considered. Applicants should have an interest in interdisciplinary cooperation. Applicants attracted to a university with a Catholic identity are especially encouraged to apply. While priority will be given to consideration of junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant professors or non-tenured associate professors), senior applicants may also be considered. Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree required at the time of hire.

Qualifications

The successful hire will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs, with affiliations in the Kellogg Institute for International Studies and in Notre Dame's Institute for Educational Initiatives. Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of integral human development, the Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a master's degree, and supports undergraduate and doctoral programs. The Kellogg Institute for International Studies (<http://kellogg.nd.edu/>) has for over 35 years been a leading center for interdisciplinary research and programming on issues of democracy and human development. The Institute for Educational Initiatives (<http://iei.nd.edu/>) provides a home for nearly one hundred faculty fellows from across the University whose research and teaching interests focus on K-12 education, with a particular interest in Catholic education. Joint or concurrent appointments in the appropriate departments are also possible. Applicants should have an affirmative interest in contributing to the joint Kellogg Institute/ Institute for Educational Initiative Research Cluster in International Education (<https://kellogg.nd.edu/research-cluster-international-education>).

Application Instructions

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant or non-tenured associate professors) should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference. Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/54487>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Paolo Carozza

Chair, Global Education Search Committee

Keough School of Global Affairs

University of Notre Dame

pcarozza@nd.edu

Applications must be submitted by January 15, 2019. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4811

University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater anticipates a tenure-track opening at the Assistant Professor level in public law beginning August 22, 2019. The position is open to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative legal systems and/or international law. In addition, candidates who can expand course offerings in gender and law are highly desirable. Candidates will be expected to contribute to the department's general education curriculum, and experience in the use of online instructional technology is desirable. Criminal Background Check Required.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABD candidates may apply but must have their degree completed by the contract start date in August 2019; if not, they will be hired on a one-year contract with the understanding that their degree will be completed before January 2020 in advance of their first scheduled review. Demonstrated excellence in or commitment to teaching with an emphasis on promoting the success of undergraduate students, clear evidence of scholarly potential, commitment to working with diverse populations and serving as active member of the university community. Salary is commensurate with academic preparation and experience.

Complete applications received by October 14, 2018 are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee. Application materials will be evaluated and the most qualified applicants will be invited to participate in phone and/or online screening interviews and/or on campus interviews.

For questions regarding this position, please contact:

Edward Gimbel
Associate Professor
Department of Political Science
Phone: 262-472-1532
email: gimbele@uww.edu

To Apply:

Complete applications will include online submission of the following materials:

- a letter of application addressing your qualifications for the position
- curriculum vitae
- evidence of teaching effectiveness
- all undergraduate and graduate transcripts
- three (3) letters of recommendation

(letters of recommendation may also be sent separately to POL-ISCIPL@uww.edu)

To apply and submit these documents online, please visit <http://www.uww.edu/employment>, and then follow the "Faculty and Instructional Staff" link on the next page. The Job ID is 14707, listed under "Tenure Track Faculty – College of Letters & Sciences."

If you have questions regarding this recruitment, or if you are not able to complete the application online due to a disability or system problem, please contact us at 262/472-1024 or hirstudent@uww.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/14/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4809

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer in Comparative Politics

School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations
Wellington, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer in Comparative Politics (equivalent to tenured assistant professor), with a specialisation in the study of elections, political parties, and public opinion. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidate should have a strong background in quantitative methods. The ability to teach a course in American politics would be an advantage.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

This role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in political science; an active research profile; and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr Xavier Marquez, Head of Programme, Political Science and International Relations, email xavier.marquez@vuw.ac.nz phone +64 4 463 5889.

Applications close Monday, 15 October 2018 NZ time.

For more information and to apply online visit <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/about/careers/current-vacancies>

Reference 2381.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4814

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Professor/Assistant Professor/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seek nominations and applications of interest to appoint three or more distinguished scholars to establish a cluster of excellence in research and teaching on the challenges of contemporary democracy. We are especially interested in colleagues with an established record of scholarship examining the root causes and consequences of polarization, including its global and transnational dynamics. Successful candidates will join the Agora Institute's core faculty and will serve as full members of the Department of Political Science. We invite qualified candidates from all subfields of the discipline whose work connects with the core mission of the Institute. By conducting a broad and inclusive search, we are committed to identifying candidates who, through their research, teaching, and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of our academic community.

Political Science at Johns Hopkins is a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department open to a variety of research methods and intellectual approaches. We also will consider applications for potential cross-disciplinary appointments from scholars in fields such as History, Sociology, Psychology, and Philosophy as well as cross-divisional appointments.

Jointly conceived by the University and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF), the $150M SNF Agora Institute was founded to address the deterioration of civic engagement in democracies worldwide and facilitate the restoration of open and inclusive discourse that is the cornerstone of healthy democracies. Housed in the University's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading academic and public forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics—to examine the dynamics of civic strife and design and test mechanisms for improving dialogue, social engagement, and democratic governance (<http://agora.jhu.edu/>).

Applicants for Tenured Associate or Full Professor should submit a cover letter, research statement, and curriculum vitae using Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/54486>. Candidates applying at the level of advanced assistant professor should include the above as well as a writing sample and three letters of recommendation. Nominations of potential candidates should be sent directly to Professor Adam Sheingate (adam.sheingate@jhu.edu). Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4804

Columbia University Rank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2019. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 5, 2018, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Please visit our online application site at academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=66920

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4772

University of Pittsburgh Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in comparative politics, pending budgetary approval. We are open to a variety of methodological approaches. We are especially interested in scholars whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer 2019. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MjM4>. Review of applications will begin on September 26, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 12/26/2018
Date Posted: 9/5/2018

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4767

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track (Assistant Professor) positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2019.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 34 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should apply through Workday as instructed below. Applicants should submit the following material online through workday using the links below: a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, any available teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Applicants should also have three letters of reference submitted electronically to Professor William Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Our review of applications will begin on October 3, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

EXTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently are NOT a Texas A&M System employee please click below to go to our external career site to view our jobs. Go to External Career Site – https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Assistant-Professor_R-011658

INTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently ARE a Texas A&M System employee: Go to Internal Career Site – <https://jobs.tamu.edu/internal-applicants/>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/3/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4758

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford Center on Global Poverty and Development Postdoctoral Fellows program offers one-year (and will consider two-year) fellowships to outstanding new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development and poverty alleviation. The multi-disciplinary program offers a competitive stipend, as well as support for travel and research expenses. Postdoctoral Fellows have no teaching responsibilities and minimal administrative duties.

Application Details

The Stanford Center on Global Poverty and Development invites applications for multi-disciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2019 for one year (and will consider two years). The Center's postdoctoral fellows program is intended for promising new and recent PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to critical issues for international development and poverty alleviation.

The Center's postdoctoral fellows will be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University. The Center provides a competitive salary plus support for travel and research expenses.

For information, please visit <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

For full consideration, please submit all materials by December 1, 2018 via the online application form here: <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/postdoctoral-fellow-application-form>

Application Instructions:

Please apply online with the following materials: (1) Cover Letter, (2) Curriculum Vitae, (3) Job Market Paper or Writing Sample, and (4) Three Letters of Recommendation. Please submit items 1-3 in one PDF document through the online application form here: <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/postdoctoral-fellow-application-form> Recommenders can submit letters directly to globalpoverty@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4639

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Stanford Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2019. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2019.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must submit a CV, a job market paper and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2018. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford also welcomes applications from others who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4756

University of Georgia

Rank: IA Faculty and Director of the Center for International Trade & Security

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Administration

Specializations: International Security, Trade, Regulatory Policy

The University of Georgia's School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) seeks applications for the Director of the Center for International Trade and Security (CITS) and faculty member in the Department of International Affairs (DIA). The successful candidate must have a strong record of grant and contract acquisition and have a scholarly record appropriate for an academic appointment at a research university. The ideal candidate will also have policy relevant experience or expertise, fundraising experience, and previous management responsibilities. The Director of the Center reports to the Dean of SPIA. The position is open rank, tenured or tenure-track.

CITS was established in 1987 with the support of former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk. It has a distinguished record of policy-relevant research, training, and public service, focusing primarily on security issues related to the trade, transfer, and use of materials and technology associated with weapons of mass destruction (WMD), nuclear security culture, and nonproliferation policy. CITS is fortifying its connections to DIA and to other UGA academic units by broadening its scope to include human security, counterterrorism, counterinsurgency, cybersecurity, and energy security. While strategic trade management and nonproliferation remain central to CITS' mission, outstanding candidates with research and policy experience outside this area are also encouraged to apply.

The Center's programs are sustained by corporate and government contracts, private foundation grants, and individual and corporate

gifts. For more than three decades, these sources of support have enabled the Center to design and implement training and outreach programs to U.S. and foreign policymakers and industry representatives. The Center also engages these communities, educators, students, and the general public via international colloquia on emerging security issues. CITS's Security and Strategic Trade Management Academy alone has trained more than 1,000 government officials, academics and industry representatives from 70 countries on the establishment, implementation, and enforcement of export controls.

CITS contributes to SPIA's Master of International Policy (MIP) Program that prepares graduate students for careers in international security and nonproliferation. CITS experts serve as instructors in the MIP Program, whose graduates have been placed in prestigious educational and government institutions. In addition, CITS experts administer the year-long Richard B. Russell Security Leadership Program which prepares undergraduates for careers in nonproliferation and national security. SLP Fellows have earned distinguished national and international scholarships and have been hired by US government agencies, international organizations, corporations, and consulting firms. For more information, visit: <http://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/center-for-international-trade-and-security-cits/>.

DIA is a vibrant and extremely research-active department of twenty-two faculty members that specialize in a wide array of topics, including international conflict, human rights, human security, political institutions, extremism, political economy, and environmental governance. The faculty are leading scholars in their fields, have earned distinguished national and international honors, oversee externally-funded research projects, and serve in editorial positions at top peer-reviewed journals. Members of the faculty have also won prestigious teaching awards at the school and university levels. The department has an undergraduate degree program and contributes to multiple graduate degree programs, including the Ph.D. program in Political Science and International Affairs. Both DIA and CITS are housed within SPIA, one of the fastest growing public affairs schools in the world. SPIA ranks sixth among graduate schools of public affairs, according to the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings.

The University of Georgia, located in Athens, Georgia, approximately 75 miles northeast of Atlanta, is a Research I institution in the University System of Georgia. Founded in 1785, the University is the largest and most comprehensive educational institution in the state. UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution. Georgia is well known for its quality of life, with both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov).

Prospective candidates must apply for the position through the UGA Jobs site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/30612>. To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three individuals who can provide reference letters. A Ph.D. is required. The position is open until filled. Applications received by November 1, 2018 will be assured full consideration. For questions concerning the position, please contact Amanda Murdie, Head, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 327, Athens, GA 30602 (telephone: 706-542-9659, email: murdie@uga.edu)

SPIA is committed to enhancing the diversity of the School and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4747

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Rank: Lecturer

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga College of Arts and Sciences invites applications for a lecturer in Political Science beginning Fall 2019.

The successful candidate must hold an M.A., M.S., or Ph.D. degree in Political Science and have proven experience effectively teaching general education courses in political science at the collegiate level. The successful candidate will teach general education courses in the discipline as well as some elective courses in their fields of expertise, advise students, and engage in the life of the department. This position is renewable and has the potential for multi-year contracts. Information about the Department of Political Science and Public Service is available at <http://www.utc.edu/psps>.

Qualifications:

Successful candidates will possess the following requirements:

- Master's, ABD, or Ph.D. in Political Science
- Ability to teach introductory courses in American politics and comparative politics, ideally with an emphasis on non-western states.
- Candidates should also be willing to engage in a variety of instructional modalities, including online instruction.
- Willingness to engage in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan, including a demonstrable commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Application Procedures:

Applicants should prepare to submit the following information within our online application system for consideration:

- Cover letter/letter of interest
- CV, including up-to-date, personal contact information (email, phone, etc.)
- Unofficial transcripts
- Teaching Statement
- Syllabi of related courses

Additionally, candidates will need to include names, titles, and email addresses for three (3) references for confidential letters of recommendation to be requested.

Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2018. Preference will be given to those qualified candidates who apply before October 1, 2018.

Applications must be submitted electronically through the UTC Faculty Career Site by visiting: https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc_faculty/jobdetail.ftl?job=180000019V&tz=GMT-04%3A00

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second largest school in the University of Tennessee System, serving a diverse student body of more than 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions and is a driving force for achieving excellence, embracing diversity, inspiring positive change, and enriching the community. Since its founding as Chattanooga University in 1886, UTC has developed a reputation for excellence built on an unusual blend of the private and public traditions of American higher education. For more than 83 years, the university was a private school. In 1969, UTC became part of the state university system. Chattanooga, the fourth largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee near the border of Georgia at the junction of four interstate highways. The city has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 4754

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2019-21

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or history. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, environmental/energy governance, and social development in China, with a focus on public policy challenges. Knowledge of Chinese is required, specifically the ability to work with original Chinese language sources.

Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center (such as our biweekly doctoral fellows workshop series) is required. It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation or public talk during the fellowship period. Foreign nationals must be eligible for J-1 visa sponsorship.

Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources.

Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have completed ALL requirements for the Ph.D. degree (including the dissertation defense) by June 1, 2019. Preference will be given to applicants with no previous postdoctoral fellowships.

Each fellowship will run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $60,000, health insurance, and a work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

The next fellowship will begin August 1, 2019. To submit an application for the AY 2019-21 fellowship, please refer to <https://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 3, 2018 (Monday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "Postdoctoral Fellowships in China Public Policy" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters should be emailed directly to the Ash Center from the referees.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Ash Center Fellows Program Manager
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Please note that we do not provide critique/feedback on unsuccessful applications.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4744

Temple University

Rank: Professor of Integrative Knowledge in Russian, Soviet, and Post-Soviet Studies

Specializations: Russia, History & Politics, Post Soviet Region

The Departments of Political Science and History at Temple University invite applications for the position of Professor of Integrative Knowledge in Russian, Soviet, and Post-Soviet Studies. We seek an established interdisciplinary scholar whose research and teaching address both Russian and/or Soviet history as well as the legacies of these earlier eras in the post-Soviet era, including topics such as the persistence of authoritarian rule as well as the important roles of the Soviet Union and Russia in world politics. This joint appointment in the Departments of History and Political Science is part of a broader initiative in the College of Liberal Arts to recruit senior faculty studying important questions across disciplinary boundaries. We seek someone who can be tenured at the level of either Associate or Full Professor in either (or both) Political Science and History.

Temple University is a state-related Carnegie Research University (highest research activity) located in Philadelphia. The College of Liberal Arts is home of 32 undergraduate majors, 32 minors, 23 certificate programs and 15 graduate degree programs. With its vibrant and diverse array of educational programs, the College of Liberal Arts plays, and its missions mirrors, both the historical importance of the liberal arts in society and the principles on which the university was founded.

Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <http://apply.interfolio.com/53872>. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on October 15th. Professors Mark Pollack of Political Science and Alan McPherson of History will co-chair the search.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4736

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, International Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Africa, Middle East

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019. We invite applicants from any social science discipline with research on post-conflict dynamics and processes of reconstruction (e.g., transitional justice, peace-keeping/peace-building, social integration and reconciliation, state building, economic development in post-conflict contexts). We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Africa, the Middle East, and South or Southeast Asia.

Applicants should have a doctoral degree by the time of appointment, demonstrated excellence in research, and strong teaching potential. Professional experience in applied research, practice, or policy will be considered an asset.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada for 2016, 2017, and 2018). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, statements of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email only to intst@sfu.ca (letters of reference should be sent directly by the letter writers). In the subject line of the email, indicate the following information: "2018 Assistant Professor Application, (Applicant Name)." Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the university for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4726

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, International Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Africa, Middle East

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019. We invite applicants from any social science discipline with research on post-conflict dynamics and processes of reconstruction (e.g., transitional justice, peace-keeping/peace-building, social integration and reconciliation, state building, economic development in post-conflict contexts). We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Africa, the Middle East, and South or Southeast Asia.

Applicants should have a doctoral degree by the time of appointment, demonstrated excellence in research, and strong teaching potential. Professional experience in applied research, practice, or policy will be considered an asset.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada for 2016, 2017, and 2018). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, statements of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email only to intst@sfu.ca (letters of reference should be sent directly by the letter writers). In the subject line of the email, indicate the following information: "2018 Assistant Professor Application, (Applicant Name)." Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the university for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4727

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is recruiting five tenure-track faculty at the assistant or associate professor rank. We seek scholars who will make transformative contributions to Carolina's new Environment, Ecology and Energy Program (E3P). Candidates from the social and natural sciences are encouraged to apply. Faculty will hold an appointment in an appropriate home academic department. Candidates must have a demonstrated capacity and interest to stimulate interdisciplinary collaborations.

These cluster positions include:

Cities and Critical Infrastructure: sustainable cities and infrastructure needs for cities of the future.

Energy and Energy Analytics: emergent renewable energy resources or technologies, including modeling and data analytics.

Environment, Development and Economics: public policy and/or applied economics of environment and development or environment and inequality, especially related to energy, environment or water.

Inequality and the Environment: social and environmental issues related to inequality, vulnerability, and the growing need to address gaps in knowledge and uneven access to resources or services.

Water Resources and Hydrology: the impacts of climate, pollution, and land use to the hydrologic cycle.

For more information and application instructions, see <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/143098>. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4729

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin August 16, 2019. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in Comparative Politics and contribute to methods teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Applicants should submit a letter describing their interests and credentials, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, statements of research and teaching interests, samples of published and unpublished research, and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. Applications received by September 30, 2018 are assured full consideration. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Please contact the search committee chair, John Hsieh (Hsieh@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4733

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor in Politics

Assistant Professorship in Good Government
University of Virginia

The University of Virginia was founded in order to prepare citizens for participation in representative government. Building upon this unique inheritance, the University's College of Arts & Sciences recently launched the Democracy Initiative, an interdisciplinary research and teaching enterprise designed to enhance understanding of the challenges faced by democracies around the world. The Initiative is composed of a series of laboratories, one of which focuses on corruption and governance. For more details on the Initiative, please see <http://as.virginia.edu/democracy-initiative>.

To help catalyze the activities of the Democracy Initiative, we are seeking candidates for a tenure track faculty position at the level of Assistant Professor specializing in the political economy of good government. The position is open to candidates with a PhD in either Political Science or Economics. The search will be jointly conducted by faculty in the Departments of Politics and Economics, with the tenure home of the successful candidate located in one of these Departments. This position is part of series of cluster hires the University of Virginia has embarked on to enhance interdisciplinary scholarship.

We seek candidates with a strong research and publication record in the politics and economics of corruption, or in related areas such as the study of clientelism and the rule of law. Broader fields of specialization might include development, public choice, or institutional design. Candidates with experience conducting experiments and/or observational research based on best practices in program evaluation are particularly encouraged to apply. We will consider candidates with a geographical focus in any area of the world. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to the teaching, research, and public engagement missions of the Democracy Initiative.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018. This posting will remain open until filled.

The anticipated appointment start date will begin August 25, 2019. Applicants must hold a PhD at the time of appointment.

To apply, visit Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>) and search on posting number 0623821. Complete a candidate profile online that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

For questions about the application process, please contact Savanna Galambos at skh7b@virginia.edu.

The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVa & Charlottesville <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVa and living in and near Charlottesville.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4725

Australian National University

Rank: Academic Level B-C (Lecturer/Senior Lecturer)

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Quantitative Methods, Australia

We welcome applications from candidates with expertise in the area of Public Policy.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise Honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the Schools.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital, Canberra, and ranked as the leading international relations department in the country as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

This positions are based in Canberra.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years.

For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

For more information, please contact Dr Andrew Banfield,
E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4718

Duke University

Rank: Associate Director

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

DevLab@Duke connects social scientists at Duke University who work in international development with the community of development practitioners. The Lab works directly with donors such as USAID and the World Bank on research opportunities, the promotion of evaluable programming, and on impact evaluations themselves. The Lab also works with implementers, such as RTI, DAI and others at the project proposal stage as well as the implementation and monitoring/evaluation stages. We are cross-sectoral, interdisciplinary, and interested in pushing the boundary between the academic and policy worlds with a permanent eye toward improving the lives of the poor.

DevLab@Duke seeks an Associate Director to work with our team of scholars and graduate students focused on applied international development. Primary responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Maintaining and expanding our relationships with the international development industry, including donors and implementers.
- Grant conceptualization, proposal preparation, grants management and report writing. Above and beyond proposal preparation, the Associate Director will play a key intellectual role in helping to design research for funding proposals.
- Oversight of data efforts bearing on impact evaluations and other research, including an innovative project that combines machine learning and forecasting with coordinated, cross-country field experiments aimed at defending civil society in repressive environments.
- Coordination and facilitation of regular DevLab meetings.
- Research support to academic publications; we also welcome candidates with independent research agendas as there will be many opportunities to help design large field experiments, develop original surveys, etc.
- Engage closely with multiple interdisciplinary research teams working across a broad swath of development sectors.

The ideal candidate is a self-starter, has a PhD in a social science discipline (MAs with considerable experience are welcome to apply) and experience with both the academic and policy sides of impact evaluations in developing countries. Though the position is based in Durham, NC it will involve modest domestic and international travel.

Required Qualifications:

- 3+ years of field experience on impact evaluations and related research.
- Experience coordinating research in developing countries.
- Experience with budgeting and administration in the international development industry.
- Demonstrated success writing research proposals and interacting with private and public donors.
- Data analysis skills.
- Strong interpersonal skills and eagerness to work in a lab-like setting.

Desired Qualifications:

- Experience with IRB procedures.
- Experience developing survey instruments.
- Advanced data analysis skills.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening; applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year with possibility of renewal for up to three years.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina. Durham and the surrounding Research Triangle are home to several major universities and a booming cultural life. Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status. For questions, please contact David Dow at david.dow@duke.edu. Those interested should access the following link: <https://forms.hr.duke.edu/careers/external.php?reqid=104447BR>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4700

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, Trade, International Political Economy

The Department of National Security Affairs at the Naval Postgraduate School seeks applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant/Associate professor interested in research and teaching in the fields of either international or comparative political economy. Specialists with regional expertise in Europe or the Middle East and/or with a relevance to national security affairs, defense policy, or maritime policy are especially encouraged to apply. Relevant expertise might include international economic negotiations, global/regional economic regimes, comparative economic policies, trade sanctions, and the political economy of violence. Candidates should demonstrate a strong potential for teaching excellence and scholarly research. The successful candidate must also be prepared to teach an introductory Masters-level course on the politics of global economic relations or comparative economic systems, as well as courses in his/her specific research specialty.

The Naval Postgraduate School is a fully accredited graduate school the students of which are drawn from the armed forces and civilian agencies of the United States and other countries. The Department of National Security Affairs is multi-disciplinary, with curricula based on Political Science, History, and Economics. Tenure-track professors typically teach a 2-2 load on a quarter system and are expected to maintain an active portfolio of academic research, publishing, and institutional service.

Minimum qualifications:

- An earned doctoral degree from an accredited institution
- Evidence of teaching aptitude
- Evidence of potential to advise student theses and dissertations
- Evidence of strong potential for scholarship leading to scholarly publications

Employment requirements:

- U.S. citizenship is required
- Background check and eligibility for a Secret-level clearance

Applications should include a CV, cover letter (including teaching and research interests), official graduate transcripts, and syllabi of relevant courses taught, preferably at the graduate level. Candidates should also submit up to three writing samples and three letters of recommendation. These confidential letters of recommendation should be submitted separately. ABDs are welcome to apply with the understanding that the award of a Ph.D. degree is a condition of employment. Applications will be accepted until October 15, 2018. Expected start date is in the fall of 2019.

Address applications and supporting materials electronically to the National Security Affairs Department at nsadept@nps.edu.

Questions and any other inquiries may be directed to:

Prof. Anne Clunan
Chair, Political Economy Search Committee
Department of National Security Affairs
Naval Postgraduate School
Monterey, CA 93943
alclunan@nps.edu

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Relocation package, including recruitment/relocation incentive may be authorized.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an equal opportunity employer. For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc.).

Additional Veterans' Information: if you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>

For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4711

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor, starting Fall 2019. We seek candidates with expertise in judicial politics and constitutional law, broadly construed. Successful applicants should be versed in American public law, but could conduct research in a broad variety of related areas, such as, but not limited to, the role of race, ethnicity, sexualities, and/or gender in justice systems, comparative judicial politics, international courts and legal structures, or the politics of policing in the US or abroad. This is a 45% research, 45% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is 2-2, with a course release in the first three years. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate pre-law courses on American judicial politics, such as judicial process and constitutional law, but will also have ample opportunity to teach specialized courses of their choosing. Tenure-track political science faculty advise undergraduate students and may have opportunities to contribute to the supervision of MA and PhD students in criminal justice. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2019, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) competence to teach American judicial process and constitutional law, and 4) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of (potential) research productivity and quality, 2) have experience teaching American judicial process and/or constitutional law, 3) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, and/or 4) have experience pursuing or obtaining external funding.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 11 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. While faculty contribute primarily to teaching, curriculum development, and advising within their respective programs, the department provides opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration across fields, both in research and teaching. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has an a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>.

Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 240,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and contact information for 3 professional references. All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/9576>.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, and will continue to accept and review applications until the position is filled. The department will provide search updates through APSA eJobs' update capability, and on Twitter, using the #PSJMInfo hashtag.

Potential applicants may direct questions about the search to Dan Pemstein, the search committee chair, at daniel.pemstein@ndsu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4706

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Electoral Behavior, Gender Politics & Policy

The University of Michigan's Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy invites applications from outstanding candidates for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics and Public Policy, especially at the assistant professor rank. We are particularly interested in the following areas of specialization: development, political institutions/organizations, elections and political behavior, race and ethnic politics, democratic governance, and the politics of diverse societies. Candidates should combine expertise in these areas with strong grounding in public policy. Promise of excellence in research and teaching is required. This is a university-year appointment and begins on September 1, 2019. First consideration will be given to applications received by October 1, 2018, but applications will continue to be considered until the position is filled.

Interested applicants may upload their application materials to: apply.interfolio.com/53515. The following application materials are required: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, statement of current and future research plans, statement of teaching philosophy and experience, teaching evaluations (if available), and a brief statement describing how your work would contribute to the Ford School's and University of Michigan's strategic commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion (fordschool.umich.edu/dei). Letters of reference from three individuals also need to be uploaded to the system.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4699

Harvard University

Rank: Weatherhead Scholars Program

The Weatherhead Scholars Program, a new program at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs (WCFIA), welcomed its first class of participants in 2017–2018. Established in 1958, the WCFIA is the largest international social science research center within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. We support international, transnational, global, and comparative research, whether historical or contemporary, including policy analysis.

The Weatherhead Scholars Program offers visiting faculty, postdoctoral researchers, and experienced practitioners the opportunity to spend up to one year at Harvard conducting research. During their time in residence, Scholars are expected to participate in the biweekly Weatherhead Forum; contribute to some of the Center's many other intellectual activities, including our research clusters; and to engage with the undergraduate and graduate student communities.

As participants in the Weatherhead Scholars Program, postdoctoral researchers and visiting scholars receive a one-year formal appointment from Harvard University granting them important privileges. These include access to the Harvard library system, computer labs, and Harvard University faculty club. Our scholars are an integral part of the more than 300 faculty, fellows, students, and staff in residence at the Center.

To be eligible for a postdoctoral position, scholars must have completed their PhD after August 1, 2016 (admitted postdoctoral fellows will provide proof before enrollment that they have received their PhD). There are a limited number of $50,000 stipends for postdoctoral fellows (health insurance is also available to stipendiary postdocs). Visiting scholars – established faculty from other universities – are not eligible for funding support from the Weatherhead Center.

More information is available at <https://scholarsprogram.wcfia.harvard.edu>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4626

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track position as Assistant Professor, beginning September 16, 2019. Tenure-track faculty have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16–June 15). The field of specialization is open but teaching responsibilities will include quantitative courses in the graduate methods track. All University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research and service.

Qualifications

Candidates must demonstrate a strong record of quantitative empirical work in one or more substantive areas of political science. Applicants should have or expect to have their PhD by the appointment start date.

Application Instructions

Applications should include a cover letter, current CV, writing sample, research statement, teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests as well as how that research agenda integrates quantitative methods. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness. As a public institution, the University of Washington seeks candidates committed to working with diverse student and community populations. Therefore, applicants are encouraged to describe how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities. We strongly encourage applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018. Applications must be submitted at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53523>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4668

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2019. Candidates for this position should be focused on teaching and research in the area of Public Policy. In addition to having a productive research agenda dedicated to the area of Public Policy, candidates must demonstrate potential for teaching excellence at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching courses with significant real-world applicability and service-learning opportunities, in accordance with college and departmental strategic goals of designing undergraduate curricula that emphasize career paths and the knowledge and skills students need after graduation. Although the area of specialization within Public Policy is open, areas especially fitting with this strategic priority might include public policy analysis, program evaluation, and behavioral public policy. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field is expected at the time of the appointment.

Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department offers the following degrees in Political Science: B.S., B.A. and M.A. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester. Completed applications received by October 1, 2018 will be given full consideration. Applicants are asked to apply online at Publicpolicyad@okstate.edu and submit: a letter of application, vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, evidence of successful teaching and scholarship, and statements of teaching and research interests.

The department is committed to creating an inclusive space for our students, faculty, and staff and to teaching and mentoring our undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. The department encourages applications from women and minorities. Currently, 37 percent of our undergraduate majors are minorities. Among our tenure-track faculty, 9 percent are from underrepresented racial/ethnic minority groups and 55 percent are female. Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. This position is contingent upon availability of funds.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4651

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: GENDER AND COMPARATIVE POLITICS/INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick seeks applicants for a Tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin September 1, 2019, in the broad area of Gender and Comparative Politics/International Relations. Responsibilities include teaching and advising graduate students, including those in our PhD subfield of Women and Politics whose research interests span a broad range of subjects, approaches, and geographic areas. Candidate must be able to teach standard undergraduate survey courses in comparative politics or IR. Strong familiarity with interdisciplinary feminist scholarship is preferred. PhD required in Political Science or related field.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and a list of three references to: <https://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/73156> Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Confidential letters of recommendation should be emailed directly by the referee to wsilverman@polisci.rutgers.edu – the applicant's name should appear in the subject line.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4658

University of British Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science, University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in Comparative Politics of the Developing World at the level of Assistant Professor, effective 1 July 2019.

We are seeking applicants with strong research records appropriate to a research-oriented doctoral program and demonstrated ability and interest in high quality, innovative teaching. Applicants should have research interests that complement existing strengths in the department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and supervise at the graduate and undergraduate levels in Comparative Politics with a focus on the developing world and/or global south. Candidates must have a PhD or will have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be expected to maintain a program of scholarly research leading to publication, effective teaching, graduate supervision, and service.

The programs, faculty research interests and general activities of the Department of Political Science are found at www.politics.ubc.ca. The University of British Columbia's main campus is located in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Applications must be submitted to <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/job-application-assistant-professor-in-comparative-politics/>. Required documents include a c.v., a description of current and future research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a sample of their ongoing research preferably in the form of published material. Applicants must also arrange to have three signed and confidential letters of reference sent by email to poli.recruitment@ubc.ca. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4652

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Associate Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments can be from 15 days to one-month during the 2019-2020 academic year (September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Associate Research Scholars will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 21, 2018. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8142>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, 15 days to one-month during the academic year (September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020), title of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 – 2,000 words);
- 4) The names and contact information of three referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/21/2018

Date Posted: 8/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4611

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2019-2020 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2019-January 31, 2020; spring semester: February 1-June 30, 2020). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 21, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8141>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal (or syllabus) for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (2,000 – 3,000 words);

5) The names and contact information of three referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/21/2018

Date Posted: 8/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4612

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in Latino Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

The Program in American Studies seeks applications for a faculty position in the area of Latino Studies, at the rank of associate or full professor. We welcome applicants from all fields of specialization, though preference will be given to candidates whose work, while rooted in Latino Studies, engages meaningfully with American Studies. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research takes a multi-method social science approach, emphasizing qualitative and/or interpretivist perspectives. The successful candidate will be appointed fully in American Studies. Interested candidates should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8061> with a brief statement of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three references. Applications received by October 1, 2018 will receive priority review. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4636

Syracuse University

Rank: Comparative Politics

Syracuse University
Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire an Assistant or Associate Professor in Comparative Politics for a tenure-track or tenured position beginning in Fall 2019. We seek candidates whose teaching and research focus on political development and political economy, especially with regards to developing countries. Particular areas of interest include human security, health and well-being, global cities and urban politics, environment, and other public policy issues related to citizenship and governance in the Global South.

The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests. Successful candidates also may be invited to affiliate with the Moynihan Institute of Global Affairs or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (<http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/>), and contribute to undergraduate and graduate programs in International Relations. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. Rank and salary commensurate with experience and professional accomplishments.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by September 15, 2018. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4609

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning June 24, 2019. Candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to applicants whose main area of study is Latin America and also have expertise in political economy. Responsibilities include teaching Latin American politics, comparative politics, political economy, the USAFA core courses of American government or security studies, and other lower or upper division political science courses; maintaining a strong record of teaching and research; academic advising; and service to the department and Academy.

The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to our nation. The initial appointment is for three years. Successive reappointments of up to four years will be based upon an assessment of performance, Air Force and departmental needs, and funding availability. The Academy faculty is an integrated group of military and civilian educators, with a record of offering continuing appointments to civilian faculty after demonstrated excellence in the initial three-year appointment. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy is committed to building a culturally diverse educational environment. Applicants are requested to include in their cover letter information about how they will further this goal. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage is found at <https://www.usafa.edu/departments/political-science/>.

To apply, go to www.usajobs.gov. Type in "United States Air Force Academy, CO" in the "Location" box, and scroll down until you find this position. The deadline for applications is Oct 15, 2018. A doctorate in Political Science or a related field by the start date and U.S. citizenship is required. Essential qualities expected of every faculty member include the personal attributes of integrity, industry, cooperation, initiative, and breadth of intellectual interests.

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: 10/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/16/2018
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 4622

University of Hartford

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics, Economics, and International Studies at the University of Hartford invites applicants for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics beginning August 2019. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to teach undergraduate courses in Comparative Politics and International Studies.

Responsibilities

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate courses, both introductory and advanced, in Politics and International Studies with a teaching load of 3 courses per semester. Specialty within Comparative Politics is open but we are especially interested candidates with expertise in the Global South. The successful applicant will also contribute to the interdisciplinary program in International Studies. In addition, all members of the department share in the teaching of department and college service courses. There will be also be opportunities to teach in our innovative University Interdisciplinary Studies program. Candidates should show a willingness and ability to employ technology in teaching. Additionally, candidates will be expected to possess an active research agenda that will result in peer-reviewed publications. Successful applicants will be expected to participate in departmental and school committees, advise students, and contribute to student recruitment and retention.

Required Qualifications

Preference will be given to those with a Ph.D. in political science or related field in hand but ABD candidates will be considered. Candidates must demonstrate excellent teaching, organizational, communication and interpersonal skills. Prior teaching experience is highly desirable. Ability to teach an undergraduate course in methods is a plus. Candidates must also be able to show evidence of scholarly achievement and promise.

University Information

The University of Hartford offers personal attention associated with a small college, enhanced by expertise, breadth and intellectual excitement of a university. Our academic mission is to engage students in acquiring knowledge, skills and values necessary to thrive in and contribute to a pluralistic, complex world.

College Information

The College of Arts and Sciences is University's largest college with 23 undergraduate majors, 24 minors, 7 graduate programs and many interdisciplinary offerings. The College includes a faculty of 115 teachers and scholars, 24 staff, and a student body of 1,300 undergraduate and 300 graduate students.

The University of Hartford is located within the greater Hartford area rich in cultural and recreational activities, and is within driving distance from metropolitan Boston and New York.

Posting Detail Information

Posting Number F033P
 Open Date 08/15/2018
 Close Date 10/15/2018

Open Until Filled Yes

Special Instructions to Applicants

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://hartford.peopleadmin.com/postings/2134>. Dossiers must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcript, statement of teaching philosophy, teaching portfolio (sample syllabi, evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness), and scholarly writing sample. In addition, candidates should submit a short discussion (1-2 pages) summarizing their commitment to working with diverse populations. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 but applications received after that date will be considered until the position is filled. Inquiries should go to Michael Clancy at clancy@hartford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4599

Duke University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Legislative Studies, Presidency

The Department of Political Science at Duke University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in the field of political institutions to begin July 1, 2019. The position is open with respect to institutional focus, including in American and comparative politics. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work provides opportunities for productive synergies. We also value strong theoretical and empirical skills, including the ability to contribute to our graduate methods sequence. Candidates should have potential for excellence in teaching and research at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Successful candidates will be expected to have completed the Ph.D. no later than July 1, 2019.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their research agenda, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, evidence of teaching excellence, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11635>. Address correspondence to: Chair,

Institutions Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall, Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204.

Review of applications will begin on September 12, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/12/2018

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4586

ITAMRank: Professor (tenure-track or tenured), open rank

The Department of Political Science at ITAM invites applications for a full-time faculty position in Political Economy / Comparative Politics, to begin in the Fall of 2019. Candidates of all ranks are welcome to apply. The Department is especially interested in candidates whose research focuses on issues of direct relevance to middle- and low-income countries.

ITAM is an academic institution in Mexico City committed to scientific excellence and oriented to the international academic community. Salary, teaching load, and publication expectations are in line with US research universities. All classes can be taught in English or Spanish.

All candidates should submit: (1) A brief cover letter describing research completed and planned, (2) a writing sample such as an article or dissertation chapter, (3) a CV, and (4) a one-page summary of teaching experience. Senior candidates should provide the names of four references whom the hiring committee might contact. Junior candidates should provide three confidential letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted via email to marta-cebollada@itam.mx. Letters of recommendation should be emailed directly to this address by the referees. Applications will be accepted until October 1 2018.

Applicants are encouraged, but not required, to interview at the 2018 APSA Meeting in Boston. Selected applicants will be flown out for a formal job talk. If you have any questions, or to schedule an interview during the APSA Meeting, please contact: Marta Cebollada, Academic Coordinator, email: marta.cebollada@itam.mx, phone: +52(55)5628-4000 ext. 3788.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4576

California State Polytechnic University, PomonaRank: Assistant Professor in Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2019.

Candidates with specializations in public law are especially welcome to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department, which also has a Master's in Public Administration. The faculty member will teach and advise in the undergraduate program and participate as appropriate in the master's program. The faculty member will be expected to teach courses in the public law subfield, including Introduction to Public Law, Constitutional Law: Rights and Liberties, Constitutional Law: Government Powers, and Contemporary Issues in Law. There will be opportunities to develop new courses in accordance to the faculty member's expertise. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many under-represented minorities and first-generation college students.

QualificationsMinimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, or related disciplines such as Law and Society, Law and Philosophy from an accredited university by August 1, 2019
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work as well as experience working in an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to teach constitutional law classes and other topics related to public law, including social justice and the law, civil rights, contemporary policy issues and the courts, legal philosophy, courts and the democratic process, and comparative politics and courts. Preference will also be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application InstructionsApplication Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by September 14, 2018. Early response is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53294>

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Applicants will provide contact information for recommenders during the application process and the system will contact recommenders and provide a method for uploading letters;

- A completed application form available on the application website: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53294>
- An unofficial transcript showing the highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Jill Hargis, Faculty Search Committee Chair
Political Science Department
California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
Phone: 909.869.3887
Fax: 909.869.6995
Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

APSA Interviews

Representatives of the department will be available to meet at APSA's Placement Services. Please send a CV to mag@cpp.edu if you are interested in meeting with department representatives at APSA.

Application Process

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/~police/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/14/2018
Date Posted: 8/13/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4579

Harvard University

Rank: William Lyon Mackenzie King Postdoctoral Fellow

WILLIAM LYON MACKENZIE KING POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

The Canada Program at Harvard University's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs invites applications for the William Lyon Mackenzie King Postdoctoral Fellowships. Two fellows will be appointed for the 2019–2020 academic year, with the possibility of extending for one additional year—conditional on the approval of the dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, WCFIA associated faculty, and the co-hosting academic department.

The fellowships are open to scholars in all disciplines who are engaged in US-Canada comparative research and teaching, with preference given to individuals working within the social sciences and humanities. For postdoctoral candidates who will have completed the PhD within twelve months of the August 1, 2019 start date, verification of completion of the degree will be required prior to the appointment. Those in possession of a PhD for more than five years are ineligible.

The fellowships provide an annual stipend of $68,000, which is supplemented by funding for research and for individual health insurance coverage. The fellows will be required to teach one course during the year, and will be expected to engage with the Canada Program and with the University's wider community. Fellows receive shared office space at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs, and enjoy full access to the University's library, archival, and computing resources.

TO APPLY:

Candidates should submit: a letter of application describing their suitability for the fellowship; a curriculum vitae with a list of publications; a sample of their written work; a teaching portfolio, containing a statement on teaching experience and syllabi; and three letters of recommendation.

TO SUBMIT: <https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/8365>

DEADLINE:

All application materials must be received no later than Thursday, November 1, 2018.

For more information about the WCFIA Canada Program, please visit: http://programs.wcfia.harvard.edu/canada_program

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: 11/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/13/2018
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 4569

University of Toronto

Rank: Indigenous Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a tenure stream position in Indigenous Politics, at the rank of Assistant Professor. This position will be held on the St. George campus and will begin on July 1, 2019.

Candidates must have a PhD or be near completing a PhD in Political Science or a related social sciences or humanities discipline, with a focus on Indigenous politics, and with demonstrated excellence in teaching, research, and Indigenous community engagement. We are seeking a scholar with a strong record in Indigenous research methodologies and ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, whose work focuses on Indigenous feminist research, Indigenous governance and practices, related policies, and/or colonialism and decolonization. Long term ethical engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, and competence to instruct and engage in research from an Indigenous perspective, using Indigenous methodologies, knowledge systems, and epistemologies is required. Preference will be given to Indigenous Peoples of North America or Peoples of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations (status, non-status, treaty or non-treaty), Metis, Inuit, Alaskan Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian Peoples.

The Department of Political Science is a leading research-intensive department with large undergraduate and graduate programs. Responsibilities of the position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses (specific assignments to be negotiated), regular participation in departmental and university activities, maintaining a productive research agenda, supervising students at the undergraduate, MA and PhD levels, and student mentoring.

Excellence in research should be demonstrated through publications in high quality field relevant peer reviewed journals or forthcoming high quality publications, awards and accolades, presentations at significant conferences, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing, including a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement. Excellence in teaching should be demonstrated by the teaching dossier outlining experience and accomplishments, the teaching statement, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, and strong letters of reference. The successful candidate will play an important role in growing and shaping the Political Science department's commitment to Indigenous Studies in the next few years.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 25 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the world's most diverse cities, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is enhanced by the cultural diversity in its community. In response to the Final Report of the Canadian Truth and Reconciliation Commission, U of T established a TRC Steering Committee to guide the University's response to the 94 Calls to Action. The University recently established an office of Indigenous Initiatives that works in close collaboration with the Centre for Indigenous Studies, First Nations House and other Indigenous facets of the University of Toronto (such as Indigenous Medical Education, Waakebiness-Bryce, and the Indigenous Education Network) to motivate initiatives designed to recruit and retain Indigenous students. This office supports the intellectual and communal life of Indigenous students and scholars on campus, including Indigenous Staff and Faculty Gatherings, an Elders Symposium, organizing and hosting Indigenous Education Week, and various conference initiatives (such as sending individuals to the World Indigenous Peoples Conference on Education (WIPCE) and hosting the Native American and Indigenous Studies Association (NAISA) meetings in 2020). The office includes a large staff and Faculty advisory and collaboration committee. The University has also earmarked funding to host Indigenous scholars and Distinguished Visiting Faculty Fellows. This work complements a major recruitment drive to hire Indigenous faculty across the University.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Candidates must also arrange to have three confidential academic reference letters signed and on letterhead sent directly to the Chair of the Political Science department, Antoinette Handley, via email to chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. Candidates should also arrange to have a letter of support commenting on their Indigenous community engagement sent to the same address. All application materials must be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system by the closing date. Please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF or MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

The closing date for applications is October 15, 2018. If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Antoinette Handley at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4571

University of Toronto

Rank: Indigenous Politics at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a tenure stream position in Indigenous Politics, at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. This position will be held on the St. George campus and will begin on July 1, 2019.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related social sciences or humanities discipline, with a focus on Indigenous politics, and with demonstrated excellence in teaching, research, and Indigenous community engagement. We are seeking a scholar with a strong record in Indigenous research methodologies and ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, whose work focuses on Indigenous feminist research, Indigenous governance and practices, related policies, and/or colonialism and decolonization. Long term ethical engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, and competence to instruct and engage in research from an Indigenous perspective, using Indigenous methodologies, knowledge systems, and epistemologies is required. Preference will be given to Indigenous Peoples of North America or Peoples of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations (status, non-status, treaty or non-treaty), Metis, Inuit, Alaskan Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian Peoples.

The Department of Political Science is a leading research-intensive department with large undergraduate and graduate programs. Responsibilities of the position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses (specific assignments to be negotiated), regular participation in departmental and university activities, maintaining a productive research agenda, supervising students at the undergraduate, MA and PhD levels, and student mentoring.

Excellence in research should be evidenced through a demonstrated ability to attract external research funding; a record of sustained impactful publications in top-ranked field relevant peer reviewed academic journals; presentations at significant conferences; distinguished awards and accolades; and strong endorsements by referees of high standing, including a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement. Excellence in teaching should be demonstrated by the teaching dossier outlining experience and accomplishments, the teaching statement, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, and strong letters of reference. The successful candidate will play an important role in growing and shaping the Political Science department's commitment to Indigenous Studies in the next few years.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 25 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the world's most diverse cities, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is enhanced by the cultural diversity in its community. In response to the Final Report of the Canadian Truth and Reconciliation Commission, U of T established a TRC Steering Committee to guide the University's response to the 94 Calls to Action. The University recently established an office of Indigenous Initiatives that works in close collaboration with the Centre for Indigenous Studies, First Nations House and other Indigenous facets of the University of Toronto (such as Indigenous Medical Education, Waakebiness-Bryce, and the Indigenous Education Network) to motivate initiatives designed to recruit and retain Indigenous students. This office supports the intellectual and communal life of Indigenous students and scholars on campus, including Indigenous Staff and Faculty Gatherings, an Elders Symposium, organizing and hosting Indigenous Education Week, and various conference initiatives (such as sending individuals to the World Indigenous Peoples Conference on Education (WIPCE) and hosting the Native American and Indigenous Studies Association (NAISA) meetings in 2020). The office includes a large staff and Faculty advisory and collaboration committee. The University has also earmarked funding to host Indigenous scholars and Distinguished Visiting Faculty Fellows. This work complements a major recruitment drive to hire Indigenous faculty across the University.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Candidates must also arrange to have three confidential academic reference letters signed and on letterhead sent directly to the Chair of the Political Science department, Antoinette Handley, via email to chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. Candidates should also arrange to have a letter of support commenting on their Indigenous community engagement sent to the same address. All application materials must be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system by the closing date. Please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF or MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

The closing date for applications is October 15, 2018. If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Antoinette Handley at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4570

Albion College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics, tenure track)

The Political Science Department of Albion College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member who is broadly trained in comparative politics and is excited about teaching a diverse student body. The successful candidate will be required to teach both introductory and upper level courses in comparative politics as well as contribute to the broader political science curriculum in either a) American politics and policy or b) comparative law and/or political theory (preferably non-western). While the specific area of specialization is open, we are particularly interested in candidates who can teach research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative) at both an introductory and intermediate level. Successful applicants will have demonstrated excellence in teaching, a commitment to undergraduate research and student mentoring, and an active research agenda. The successful candidate will have a 3/3 teaching load, is expected to participate in co-curricular departmental activities, and contribute to interdisciplinary programs in the college community.

Qualifications:

- PhD in Political Science or related field by August 2019
- Specialization in Comparative Politics
- Demonstrated teaching effectiveness

Applicants should apply online : <https://apply.interfolio.com/52567>

- Cover letter
- CV
- Teaching Statement and Evaluations
- Research Statement
- Sample Syllabus for an Introduction to Comparative Politics course
- Writing Sample (publication or dissertation chapter)
- Graduate Transcripts
- Three Letters of Recommendation

Review of applications will begin September 21, and continue until the position is filled. Please contact Dr. Carrie Walling (cwalling@albion.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science for questions about the position or search.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/21/2018

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4559

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8001> Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. Teaching and research statements are optional. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00001

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4564

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Political Behaviour / Professeur adjoint, Approches de la politique comparée

McGill University
Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor, Comparative Political Behaviour
The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Political Behaviour. The position requires excellent skills and demonstrated training in methods such as advanced quantitative analysis, formal modelling, survey research methods, experimentation, or computational modelling. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to teaching in our sequence of methods courses, particularly at the graduate level.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have completed their PhD or be very near completion. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but a working knowledge of French is an asset.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2019.

For more information about the Department and University, please visit our website at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/. Inquiries may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/11565>

If the successful candidate satisfies the specific eligibility conditions of the program, the candidate may be supported by the University for nomination to a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair (CRC) in Canadian Politics, which provides protected time for research within a full-time academic appointment. Tier 2 Chairs are for emerging researchers (individuals who are no more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree). However, career interruptions (e.g. maternity or parental leave, extended sick leave, clinical training, family care, etc.) may be taken into consideration using the Tier 2 justification process to review the candidate's eligibility. Potential applicants who are more than 10 years from their highest degree with career interruptions may contact the institution to have their eligibility reviewed through the Tier 2 justification process. The eligibility conditions for the CRC chairs are found at http://www.chairs-chaires.gc.ca/programme/nomination-mise_en_candidature-eng.aspx#s3.

Candidates who do not satisfy the CRC eligibility criteria for a Tier 2 chair are nonetheless encouraged to apply. All Faculty of Arts positions at McGill are being advertised as potential CRCs.

McGill University hires on the basis of merit and is strongly committed to equity and diversity within its community. We especially welcome applications from visible minority group members, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, and others with the skills and knowledge to productively engage with diverse communities. We encourage members of equity-seeking groups to self-identify within their letter of intent in their application. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application and hiring process may contact, in confidence, Professor Angela Campbell, Associate Provost (Equity and Academic Policies) at (514) 398-1660 or at Angela.Campbell@mcgill.ca. Associate Provost Campbell can also answer questions related to equity, diversity and inclusion, or privacy concerns the candidate may have related to self-identifying. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill
Département de science politique

Professeur adjoint, Approches de la politique comparée

Le Département de sciences politiques sollicite des candidatures en vue de pourvoir un poste de professeur adjoint menant à la permanence en approches de la politique comparée. Le titulaire de ce poste doit posséder d'excellentes habiletés et une formation éprouvée en lien avec différentes méthodes, dont l'analyse quantitative, la modélisation formelle, les méthodes de recherche d'enquêtes, l'expérimentation et la modélisation informatique. Le candidat retenu sera appelé à prendre part aux activités d'enseignement, précisément sur la formation entourant les méthodes, et ce, particulièrement aux cycles supérieurs.

La feuille de route du candidat retenu devra inclure un potentiel éprouvé de qualités exceptionnelles dans le domaine de la recherche, les habiletés permettant d'enseigner de manière efficace aux 1er, 2e et 3e cycles et la compétence nécessaire afin d'exercer un rôle de supervision auprès d'étudiants aux cycles supérieurs. Le niveau du poste à pourvoir est celui de professeur adjoint. Il est néanmoins possible, dans certaines conditions exceptionnelles, que le niveau déterminé soit supérieur. Le candidat retenu doit posséder un diplôme d'études doctorales ou être sur le point de l'obtenir. La langue d'enseignement de l'Université McGill est l'anglais, mais la connaissance du français est un atout.

Les candidatures doivent comprendre un curriculum vitae détaillé, le nom de trois personnes pouvant fournir des références, un exemple de travaux écrits ainsi que des documents attestant de compétences en enseignement. La date d'entrée en fonction est le 1er août 2019.

Pour obtenir de plus amples renseignements sur le Département et sur l'Université McGill, veuillez vous rendre à www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/. Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de ce poste doivent être envoyées à la directrice du département, Juliet Johnson, à l'adresse suivante : juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

L'examen des candidatures commencera le 1er octobre 2018 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce que le poste soit pourvu.

VEUILLEZ SOUMETTRE VOTRE CANDIDATURE EN LIGNE ICI: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/11565>

Si le candidat retenu répond aux critères d'admissibilité du programme, l'Université pourrait appuyer sa candidature pour l'attribution d'une chaire de recherche du Canada de niveau 2 en politique canadienne. Le titulaire d'une chaire a droit à du temps réservé à la recherche dans le cadre de son poste de professeur à temps plein. Les chaires de niveau 2 sont destinées aux jeunes chercheurs, c'est-à-dire à ceux qui ont obtenu leur diplôme le plus avancé il y a au plus 10 ans. Toutefois, une interruption de carrière (congé de maternité, congé parental, congé de maladie de longue durée, formation clinique, soins à un membre de la famille, etc.) peut être jugée légitime (voir les justifications acceptables). Les personnes qui ont obtenu leur diplôme le plus avancé il y a au-delà de 10 ans, mais qui ont dû interrompre leur carrière, peuvent donc communiquer avec l'établissement, qui déterminera si elles sont admissibles à une chaire de niveau 2. Pour connaître les critères d'admissibilité aux chaires de recherche du Canada, consulter le http://www.chairs-chaire.gc.ca/programme/nomination-mise_en_candidature-eng.aspx#s3.

Les personnes ne répondant pas aux critères d'admissibilité des chaires de recherche du Canada de niveau 2 sont néanmoins invitées à soumettre leur candidature. À l'Université McGill, tout poste affiché rattaché à la Faculté des arts peut s'inscrire dans le cadre du programme des chaires de recherche du Canada.

L'Université McGill recrute en fonction du mérite et s'est fermement engagée à promouvoir et à instaurer l'équité et la diversité au sein de sa communauté. Nous accueillons favorablement les demandes d'emploi des personnes racisées et des minorités visibles, des femmes, des personnes autochtones, des personnes handicapées, des minorités ethniques, des personnes de toute orientation et identité de genre, ainsi que de toute personne possédant les aptitudes et les connaissances lui permettant de travailler en collaboration avec diverses communautés. L'Université McGill met en œuvre un programme d'équité en matière d'emploi et invite les membres des groupes visés à indiquer leur appartenance à ces derniers dans leur dossier de candidature. Les personnes handicapées qui pourraient avoir besoin d'accommodements à n'importe quelle étape du processus de candidature sont invitées à communiquer en toute confidentialité avec la professeure Angela Campbell, vice-principale exécutive adjointe (équité et politiques académiques), par courriel Angela.Campbell@mcgill.ca ou par téléphone, au 514 398-1660. La vice-principale exécutive adjointe peut également répondre aux questions liées à l'équité, à la diversité et à l'inclusion et à toute donnée de nature confidentielle ayant trait à l'auto-identification. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4552

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Rank: Faculty Member

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations, International Security

The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a Department of Defense executive education institution that educates, empowers, and connects current and future leaders from the Indo-Pacific region. The Center offers in-resident courses, workshops and dialogues in Honolulu and the Indo-Pacific region, and conducts policy-relevant research to build security capacity and collaboration. DKI APCSS addresses traditional and non-traditional security issues, including the relationship between governance and the security sector; transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, violent extremism, trafficking; maritime security; crises; analytical security assessments; and whole-of-society collaboration to include the role of women, peace and security. The audience of Fellows are mid- to senior-level civilian and military officials from all over the world. The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is located in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The Center invites applications for:

ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR FACULTY MEMBERS

For

Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief (HADR)

And

Security Sector Reform/Development (SSR/SSD)

The Center seeks world-class educators to teach, facilitate, research, and build capacity of security professionals in the Indo-Pacific Region. Responsibilities for associate/full professor faculty members

- Teaching executive education courses in a participant-centered, activity-based context
- Facilitating seminars, workshops, dialogues and visits

- Contributing to capacity building endeavors and security cooperation projects in the region
- Analyzing security-related trends in the Indo-Pacific region
- Contributing to curriculum development
- Performing administrative and staff duties to support the Center's academic functions

Desirable selection criteria for associate/full professor faculty members

- Knowledge of defense institution building including, civil-military, interagency and cross-sector coordination, strategic planning and information sharing
- Expertise in crisis and disaster management in one or more Indo-Pacific countries
- Familiarity with facilitation-based teaching and state-of-the-art educational technology
- Experience in development, capacity building, and national security consultations as related to the evolution and transformation of roles and responsibilities of security agencies
- Experience working with U.S. embassies in region, including familiarity with a country team, office of defense cooperation, U.S. State Department and USAID policies
- Experience with exercises and wargames
- Demonstrable skill in at least one regional language

Essential selection criteria for HADR associate/full professor faculty members

- High level of experience in crisis and disaster management
- Understanding of HADR at operational and strategic levels
- Knowledge of the disaster management phases including risk reduction and resilience
- Awareness of national, regional and international crisis response management frameworks, strategies and mechanisms
- Professional expertise at the operational, strategic or policy level in a multilateral setting

Essential selection criteria for SSR/SSD associate/full professor faculty members

- High level of experience in security and defense sector governance, development, and institutional capacity building of Indo-Pacific partner governments to increase capacity within their security institutions
- Experience in national security consultations, sector-wide coordination, and/or strategic planning as related to the evolution and transformation of roles and responsibilities of security agencies
- Demonstrable familiarity with U.S. Government legislation, policies, processes, and officials

Qualifications and attributes for associate/full professor faculty members

- Master's or doctoral degree
- Proven ability in teaching and seminar facilitation
- Proven ability to function as a team member

Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications. Salary range is $90,789 - $120,157 excludes locality pay (18.43%) and cost of living allowance (COLA), currently 10.99% but subject to change. All faculty at the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies are employed on limited-term, excepted-service positions, for up to three years, with the possibility of renewal. Relocation expenses may be authorized.

Application Procedure

Interested candidates must submit the following items by email to hrapplcations@dkiapcss.net

1. Letter of Interest. Provide a brief description of your vocational goals, personal interests and expected areas of study in the coming year, and explain your interest in future career considerations with the Department of Defense

2. Curriculum Vitae. Should reflect the following: educational background, work experience, publications and salary history
3. Two Letters of Reference

Additional information

- Application deadline: Open until filled; 31 August 2018
- Applications will be considered against current Faculty requirements
- Application packages will be retained for one year
- Application materials become the property of the U.S. Department of the Defense and will not be returned
- Individuals selected for interviews will be asked to provide bona fide transcripts from the academic institutions granting their advanced degree(s) and two samples of their publications
- The Department of the Defense is an Equal Opportunity Employer
- All qualified candidates will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status, political affiliation, sexual orientation, or any other non-merit factor
- U.S. Citizenship is not required but applicants must be eligible for an H1B or other work visa.
- The Department of the Defense provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact the Center's Human Resources Department at hrapplcations@dkiapcss.net to ensure that the Department of the Defense can consider such a request. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis

Learn more about the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies by visiting: www.apcss.org

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 8/31/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4530

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor In Comparative Politics or International Relations

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in international relations or comparative politics starting in August 2019. Previous teaching experience, evidence of research capacity, and a PhD in Political Science in hand by August 2019 are required. ABD candidates are encouraged to apply. The department has a preference for candidates able to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in European politics and policy and contribute classes to the department's International Studies program. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The normal teaching assignment for this position is 2/2. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science, a B.A. in International Studies, an M.A. in Political Science and, in conjunction with the Sociology and Anthropology department, a Ph.D. in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <https://jobs.slu.edu/postings/18703> and must include the applicant's curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans and teaching interests; at least one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught (if available). Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sharilyn.bazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after October 15, 2018 cannot be assured full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4535

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of International Affairs (DIA) at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure track position in comparative politics at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall of 2019. While we seek a scholar who is broadly trained in the concepts, methods, and approaches used in the study of comparative politics, we are particularly interested in candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative political economy. Candidates are expected to have a demonstrated ability to produce high quality research, show promise of attracting external funding and teaching effectiveness, and be well trained in research methods, broadly defined.

The School of Public and International Affairs, of which the DIA is one of three Departments, has two state of the art experimental research labs -- one for group surveys and experiments; the other for one or two-person observations (with technology to record skin conductance, heart rate variability, and electromyography). Candidates who can make use of our experimental laboratories are particularly encouraged to apply.

Prospective candidates should upload a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, original transcripts, and three letters of recommendation in electronic form to the UGA Jobs site at <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/29402>. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 309, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu). A Ph.D. degree in political science or a related discipline or near completion of dissertation is required. For ABD applicants, the degree must be completed by August 1, 2019. Applications received by September 15, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Georgia is well known for its quality of life both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The Department of International Affairs is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (employ@uga.edu).

Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4527

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and the International Studies Program at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invite applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations with a regional focus on East or South Asia to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate expertise in one region as well as an exceptional record or promise as a teacher-scholar of East or South Asian politics, society, and international relations. Candidates should identify in which subfields of international relations they hold expertise. Applicants must demonstrate the ability or potential to work effectively with a diverse student body. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester. During the faculty member's first year, s/he may apply for a competitive course reduction of one course for the following academic year. A Ph.D. is preferred, but the College will consider ABDs if the degree will be granted by time of appointment.

Completed applications received by September 21, 2018 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Submissions must be emailed to jobs@tcnj.edu, and must include:

- 1) Cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (CV);
- 3) Unofficial or official graduate transcript;
- 4) Scholarly writing sample;
- 5) Evidence of teaching effectiveness including teaching evaluations and sample syllabi;
- 6) Contact information for three references.

In addition, applicants should also have three referees email confidential letters of recommendation directly to irasiapoliticssearch-group@tcnj.edu. Questions can be directed to Brian Potter (potter@tcnj.edu) with "IR and East/South Asia politics recommendation" in the subject line.

Teaching and research are mutually supportive activities at TCNJ. Candidates should be strongly committed to the teacher-scholar model in a primarily undergraduate, residential institution, to maintaining both high quality teaching and an active and productive research program, and to encouraging and engaging highly motivated undergraduates in intensive, individual work both inside and outside the classroom (e.g., undergraduate research, independent study). Faculty members also have service responsibilities within the College.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its approximately 6,500 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. The College also offers focused graduate programs in Nursing, Education, and English. TCNJ was awarded, in 2006, a Phi Beta Kappa chapter—an honor shared by less than 10 percent of colleges and universities nationally. A strong liberal arts core forms the foundation for programs offered through TCNJ's seven schools—Arts and Communication; Business; Education; Engineering; Humanities and Social Sciences; Nursing, Health, and Exercise Science; and Science. TCNJ faculty members are teacher-scholars who share a commitment to liberal learning. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of New York City and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. TCNJ has 39 major buildings, including the 4th-best college library in the nation, according to the Princeton Review. For more information, visit www.tcnj.edu.

Employment is contingent upon completion of a successful background check. The successful applicant must present proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/21/2018
Date Posted: 8/7/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4514

University of California, Irvine

Rank: 2018-19 Political Science Lecturer Pool (Comparative Politics Focus)

The Department of Political Science is seeking applicants for temporary part-time lecturer positions to teach in the field of Comparative Politics contingent on departmental need. These positions will replace faculty on leave during the 2018-19 academic year.

Requirements - We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who might contribute to our undergraduate program in Comparative Politics. Candidates should have a Ph.D.

These part-time positions are based on an annual salary range beginning at $54,738 and the number of courses could vary.

Service Period Dates for 2018-2019 Academic Year:
 Fall Quarter: 9/24/18 – 12/14/18
 Winter Quarter: 1/2/19 - 3/22/19
 Spring Quarter: 3/27/19 – 6/14/19

Application Procedure - Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching performance, and a Statement of Contributions to Diversity via our online recruit system: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04847>

Priority for positions will be given to applications completed by October 1st, 2018. Please note this is a continuous recruitment to fill classes on an as-needed basis. The department will refer to the pool of applications on file to fill assignments as necessary.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 3/17/2019
Date Posted: 8/7/2018
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 4517

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Comparative Politics for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. The position is open with respect to substantive and regional focus. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01839>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4519

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Formal Theory / Political Economy for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. The applicant should demonstrate advanced skills in analytical reasoning and formal modeling (including but not limited to game theory), as well as a strong applied focus in at least one subfield. The successful candidate will be able to convey their insights to an audience that does not necessarily have extensive formal training but that is interested in the ideas as applied to a well-defined substantive problem. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01847>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4521

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: quantitative methods, formal theory, analytic political philosophy, or modelling. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01840> for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4524

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

Basic Qualifications: Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

Application Procedure: To apply please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/55192> and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching/research interest (including a summary of teaching evaluations, if available), and sample publications. In addition, please send at least three letters of recommendation to pscjobs@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on 9/17/2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4495

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Associate Professorship(s)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

We invite applications for one or more positions as Associate Professor at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Associate Professor are:

- Research within the field of politics and international relations
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, graduate and PhD students
- Administrative tasks related to the position
- Research and teaching management
- Project management and external fundraising
- Knowledge sharing with the rest of the society

Emphasis will be put on the applicant's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the Department through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching, disseminate knowledge and make a knowledge-based societal impact. An associate professor is expected to develop competences and experience within research, teaching and dissemination. Furthermore, the associate professor should have well-developed competences to attract funding within his or her specialist area.

Qualifications

To be qualified for the position the applicant must have research qualifications within the field of Political Science at the level that can be achieved by satisfactorily completing a period of employment at the level of assistant professor or equivalent as well as:

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced in a growing and ambitious publication profile that complements the existing research strengths of the Department and evidence of, or clear plans for attracting, external research funding
- A commitment to contribute to the delivery of an excellent student experience based on a sizable track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

We will expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Professor Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Phone: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4452

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Professorships in Political Science

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

We invite applications for one or more positions as Full Professor or fixed-termed Professor with Special Responsibilities at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of the Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Professor or Professor with Special Responsibilities (MSO) are:

- Research within the field of Political Science
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, post-graduate and PhD students
- Administrative tasks related to the position as Professor or Professor with Special Responsibilities
- Knowledge sharing with wider society
- Research and teaching management
- Fundraising

Applicants for a full professorship must be able to document a very high degree of original scholarly production at international level and have a highly recognised international reputation. Applicants for a MSO professorship must have the potential to make progress in the subject area and being able to document original scholarly production at an international level. The position is established to appoint particular talent, preferable younger researcher to develop a subject area full of perspectives at an international level.

In addition to the general professorial duties, the position as Professor with Special Responsibilities includes special responsibilities to make a specific contribution to realising the Department's strategic goals by either increasing societal impact or innovation in teaching by including problem-solving competences or internationalization.

Qualifications

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by a recognized international reputation in Political Science or a relevant subfield and demonstrated by a considerable number of existing high-quality publications, which constitute a significant contribution to the field and complements the existing research strengths of the Department. Publications should be published on a continuous basis in top-ranked journals and/or a highly influential publication record with leading book publishers.

- A commitment to contribute to the delivery and further development of an excellent student experience based on a significant track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates, who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Proven ability to provide leadership of research groups as well as an ability to operate in leadership roles at the Departmental, Faculty and University levels.
- The ability and willingness to attract external funding on a larger scale and to lead research projects.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Tel: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk.

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4451

Rice University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2019. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses and perform research in their specialized area. Therefore, successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in the areas of political violence, civil war, ethnic conflict, terrorism, and/or human rights. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by July 1, 2019.

The application deadline is September 15, 2018. A complete application must include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at <http://jobs.rice.edu/postings/16200>.

Equal Opportunity Employer - Females/Minorities/Veterans/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 9/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4485

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Race, Ethnicity and Migration

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Race, Ethnicity, and Migration. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations. This search is part of a cluster of hires, at multiple levels, the department is making over the next few years. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/53016>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2018, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4489

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy/Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy and Comparative Politics. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untentured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/53011>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2018, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4491

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department at the University of California, Merced invites applications for an assistant professor (tenure-track) position in either Political Institutions or Political Behavior. The department is particularly interested in applicants who focus on international relations and/or comparative politics but will also consider applicants in American politics.

In order to be considered, candidates must have a PhD in political science (or a closely related field) by the position start date and evidence of excellence in research.

The anticipated start date for this position is July 1, 2019.

Applications must be submitted online. Completed applications must be received no later than September 14, 2018, in order to be considered. Interested applicants are required to submit 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statement of research; 4) statement of teaching; 5) two writing samples; 6) a contributions to diversity statement; and, 7) a list of three references with contact information including mailing address, phone number and e-mail address.

The contributions to diversity statement should describe your past experience, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with UC Merced's mission to reflect the diversity of California and to meet the educational needs and interests of its diverse population. Some faculty candidates may not have substantial past activities. If that is the case, we recommend focusing on future plans in your statement. For additional information on what should be included on your Diversity Statement, please visit <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html#Are-there-any-guidelines-for-wr>.

Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted online. After an application is submitted, the letters of reference should be electronically uploaded by the letter writers (instructions will be provided by the application system). Letters of reference should be received no later than September 14, 2018.

The University of California, Merced is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, students and staff. The majority of students at UC Merced are members of under-represented minority groups and we encourage applications from candidates dedicated to working in a multicultural environment.

Salary is commensurate with education, experience, and UC academic salary scales.

For additional information, please contact Tom Hansford at thansford@ucmerced.edu.

Applicants will be notified when the final candidate has been selected.

To apply, please visit our UC Merced job posting at: <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00688>.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4483

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Asian Politics

The Department of Political Science in the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Richmond invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in comparative politics, to begin in August 2019. The department seeks to hire a teacher-scholar with expertise in Asian politics, broadly defined, who will meet and expand curricular goals within the major and broaden the department's research expertise. We welcome applicants to join an interdisciplinary community of scholars with interests in Asia. The position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on Asian politics, an upper-division course in the candidate's area of research interest, courses contributing to the department's ongoing offerings of introductory-level comparative politics and research methods courses, and possibly other service courses related to the individual's areas of expertise.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2019. Applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. The application should include the following: a cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests; separate statements on research interests/plans and on teaching philosophy/experience; current curriculum vitae; copies of graduate transcripts; and three letters of recommendation, at least one of which should also speak to the candidate's record of or potential for excellence in teaching. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, and goals as well as involvement and commitment to inclusive pedagogy.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Richard Dagger rdagger@richmond.edu, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018.

The School of Arts and Sciences, the liberal arts core of the University, is a thriving and inclusive community of 230 faculty, twenty-two departments, and ten interdisciplinary programs. We offer distinctive and engaging learning opportunities to students and outstanding resources to support the scholarly, creative, and pedagogical activities of the faculty. For information about the foundations, goals, and initiatives of the School of Arts and Sciences, see the Concept 30 Strategic Plan at: <https://as.richmond.edu/concept30/index.html>

The University of Richmond is a private, highly selective, predominantly liberal arts institution. The University is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community that values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department, see <http://polisci.richmond.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4478

Bogazici University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

New: Open Faculty Positions

The Political Science and International Relations Department at Bogazici University in Istanbul Turkey is seeking highly qualified applicants for two tenure-track assistant professor positions. One position is for International Relations and the other is an open call.

Interested applicants should submit all the relevant materials in electronic form, including a CV, a statement of research agenda, a sample of their scholarly work and teaching records to: BUPOlsjobapp@boun.edu.tr

Candidates can consult our website (www.pols.boun.edu.tr) for more information about the department.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 4213

Occidental College

Rank: Associate Professor in Global Political Economy/Development Practice

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Economic Policy

A search at the Associate Professor level in Global Political Economy/Development Practice. The expectation is that after a transitional period (commensurate with experience) this hire will serve as the Young Initiative Chair on the Global Political Economy, directing the use of its generously endowed fund.

We are looking for applicants who have powerfully demonstrated an ambitious research and practice agenda that can be translated into innovative Young Initiative programming (current Young programming includes both working with the Los Angeles mayor's office to integrate the Sustainable Development Goals into city-wide policies and initiatives in the field of Social Entrepreneurship). We are particularly interested in applicants whose research and practice agenda focuses on areas such as the Sustainable Development Goals; Human Rights-based Approaches to Economic Development; and/or Equity/Equality in Economic Development (with reference to race, class, identity, and/or gender). Priority will be given to applicants who have demonstrated a research and practice that leverages substantial fieldwork with international or regional organizations, transnational NGOs, and/or entities working in major urban cities or in a regional context. The eventual hire will be expected to teach at least one class that will be cross-listed with the Economics Department, and thus will need to demonstrate sufficient training in economics to teach such a course with attention to requisite mixed quantitative/qualitative methods. An expectation will be that an eventual hire will immediately catalyze Occidental College's continued engagement with on-the-ground work in international affairs, at the local/Los Angeles, transnational, and/or global levels. An additional priority is the ability to advance the College's mission, past evidence of and future plans for creating equitable opportunities in learning and mentoring for underrepresented students, an understanding of the distinctiveness of the Liberal Arts culture, and a commitment to constructively engage with faculty from other disciplines, e.g. (but not exclusively) Economics, Politics, Urban and Environmental Studies. Further, we expect the new faculty member will augment and invigorate the DWA department by collaborating with its existing faculty, ongoing initiatives, and continued curricular innovations.

The John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy is funded through a bequest from John Parke Young '17, a distinguished international economist, former chair of the college's Economics Department, and a 50-year member of the Occidental board of trustees. The Young Initiative has enabled faculty and student research and international opportunities at Occidental with the aim to promote national policies and actions of public and social benefit.

Occidental College is a highly selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Chamnan Lim at youngsearch@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter that details the interest in teaching at Occidental and the goals of the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy; (2) potential initiatives as part of the Young Initiative committee and as its eventual Chair; (3) a discussion of the applicant's academic research, field practice, teaching experience, and program development; (4) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes a discussion of demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for underrepresented students; (5) a list and brief descriptions of courses the applicant could teach at Oxy; (6) scholarly work sample; (7) Curriculum Vitae; and (8) three confidential letters of recommendation, with at least one attesting to your teaching; letters must be sent by recommenders.

All materials are due no later than October 1, 2018; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semi-finalists will be held via videoconference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. For information on the John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy, please visit our website at: <https://www.oxy.edu/john-parke-young-initiative-global-political-economy>. Inquiries about the position, the DWA department, and/or the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy can be directed to the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy Interim Chair, Professor Anthony Tirado Chase: achase@oxy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/1/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4470

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Government at Cornell University welcomes applications for two full-time, tenure-track positions in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The department has special interest in candidates whose research and teaching interests include the Middle East, South Asia, Eastern Europe/Russia, and/or big data topics, but the search is not limited to these areas, and candidates in all areas of Comparative Politics are encouraged to apply. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2019.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11491>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2018, and will continue until the search is complete. Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/24/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4424

Franklin & Marshall College

Rank: Comparative Politics, Assistant Professor

POSITION: Comparative Politics, Assistant Professor

Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a tenure-track position for Comparative Politics in the Department of Government beginning Fall 2019. The rank will be Assistant Professor or Instructor depending on qualifications. Applicants must possess or be close to completing a doctorate (or terminal degree) in political science.

Responsibilities include teaching introductory, intermediate and advanced courses in comparative politics with a preference for expertise in either Asia or the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region.

Teaching experience is preferred. Teaching load is 3/2 and includes participation in the College's general education requirement, "Connections". Candidates must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), teaching and research statement, diversity statement, a writing sample, and teaching evaluation forms to <https://apply.interfolio.com/52454>. Applicants must arrange for three letters of support to be submitted by recommenders directly to Interfolio. For full consideration applications must be completed by October 1, 2018.

Pursuant to cultivating an inclusive college community, the search committee will holistically assess the qualifications of each applicant. We will consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds. We will also consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to academic success.

The person selected for this tenure-track position may also be considered for a supplemental appointment as a Franklin & Marshall (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar. These are scholars who possess outstanding promise for inspiring and supporting the educational development of underrepresented minority students in a higher educational setting such as F&M. Selected finalists who meet these additional qualifications, in addition to those outlined by this ad, may be nominated by the department as an F&M (Mellon) High Impact Emerging Scholar. If selected as a M/HIES, the person will receive a two-year appointment (additional to the tenure-track appointment) that begins as soon as the person joins the campus on the tenure-track. The M/HIES program supports the acceleration of one's research trajectory with a significantly reduced teaching load for two years along with supportive mentoring to advance the scholar's research and professional development. Candidates interested in being considered for nomination should indicate their interest in their cover letter and highlight any previous work in this area in their diversity statement.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 7/18/2018
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4400

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in the Field of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of public policy.

The McCourt School has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching expertise focus on applying innovative research to find solutions to important public policy problems. Environmental policy (domestic or comparative) and comparative policymaking are two areas where we have especially strong needs.

We expect the applicant to have a Ph.D. by the time they start; the Ph.D. could be in political science, policy, sociology, economics or related fields.

Applications can be submitted at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/11436>. The committee will begin considering applications on September 15th and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A small number of candidates may be interviewed at the American Political Science Association meeting in Boston. Applicants who submit their applications by August 25th who wish to be considered for APSA interviews should indicate their availability in their cover letter.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4403

Harvard Business School

Rank: Tenure-Track Position: Political Science

Harvard Business School is seeking candidates for a tenure-track position in the Business, Government, and the International Economy (BGIE) unit. We will consider candidates whose research interests include international political economy or comparative political economy. The search is open with regard to methodological approach. Candidates may come directly from Ph.D. programs or from the faculties of other universities. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

All applicants should have excellent academic credentials and a demonstrated potential for conducting outstanding research. The School is particularly interested in applicants with interdisciplinary interests and strong records of, or potential for, excellence in teaching.

Successful candidates will, at the outset, teach a required first-year MBA course on the economic, political, and social environment of global business. Starting salaries will be highly competitive.

Applications must be received no later than September 27th, 2018 and should include: curriculum vitae, description of research, and writing sample (preferably dissertation chapters). Three confidential letters of recommendation should be submitted through the online portal by the referees.

To apply please go to this website and select "Tenure-Track Position: Political Science" when choosing a position on the application:

<http://www.hbs.edu/research/faculty-recruiting>

Material that can only be sent in hard copy can be sent to: Harvard Business School, Faculty Administration, Attn: BGIE Unit Application, Morgan Hall T25, Soldiers Field Road, Boston, MA 02163.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 9/27/2018

Date Posted: 7/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4385

Indiana University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Chinese Economics and Trade

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Asian American Politics, East Asia, Political Theory

Indiana University's School of Global and International Studies seeks a full-time tenure-track assistant professor in Chinese Economics and Trade to begin fall 2019. The position is in the School's renowned multidisciplinary Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures. We welcome candidates who hold a Ph.D. in economics, international studies, law, political science, or sociology. Candidates must have active research agendas involving Chinese-language sources and field-work experience in China.

The successful candidate will hold the endowed GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair of Chinese Economics and Trade. The teaching load is two courses per semester, and position responsibilities include teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels. This is an exciting moment to join the new and expanding School of Global and International Studies as it leads Indiana University's international research and teaching missions. The East Asian Languages and Cultures Department is over fifty years old and has a long history of teaching across many disciplines, including such social science fields as political economy and sociology. EALC's teaching and research missions have also benefitted since the founding of the School of Global and International Studies from increasing synergies with our allied Department of International Studies and other area studies units.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree or clear indication that the degree will be in hand by July 31, 2019. All applications received by October 5, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application; CV; three letters of recommendation; official transcripts of graduate studies; a 25-30 page writing sample at: <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com>. Questions regarding the position or application process may be directed to Prof. Gardner Bovington, Chair, Search Committee for the GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair in Chinese Economics and Trade, Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures, Global and International Studies Building 2035, 355 N. Jordan Ave., Bloomington, IN 47405-1105, or via e-mail at: gbovingd@indiana.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/5/2018

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4396

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Given multiple expected retirements and the demographics of departmental faculty, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. This is an exciting opportunity for a senior scholar to aid in the mentoring of rising junior scholars, to continue hiring of diverse and productive faculty, and promote one the largest majors in the college and University. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be named the "Vail Pittman Professor of Political Science" and have access to an endowment that comes with the Pittman Professorship.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Required Qualifications

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Department Information

The Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, and a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

For more information and to apply, please visit: <https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Professor-Chair-Political-Science-R0110642>

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving expenses (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, annual and sick leave, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents.

Contact Information for this position

Eric Herzik, herzik@unr.edu

For full consideration please apply by October 8, 2018. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4397

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for an international or comparative political economy position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in the Fall of 2019. This is a new position to support our growing undergraduate major in International Relations. The regular teaching load for this position must include Politics of the Global Economy and either introduction to international relations or comparative politics. The Department is open with regard to additional regional or thematic areas of expertise. LMU has a 2-2/2-3 teaching load, meaning that faculty teach two undergraduate courses per semester, with one 3 course load semester every other year. We are seeking to hire a dedicated teacher and emerging scholar who will embrace the department's mission of helping students become informed, analytically reflective, and engaged global citizens.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive Catholic university in the mainstream of American higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, the service of faith and the promotion of justice. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information.)

The application requires:

- 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission);
- 2) a curriculum vitae;
- 3) a writing sample;
- 4) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates your approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and, if available, teaching evaluations and/or sample syllabi;
- 5) three letters of recommendation.

Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: Alfred Kandlbauer at POLSjobs@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to Alfred Kandlbauer: POLS-jobs@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to Alfred Kandlbauer at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. The deadline for applications is September 14. The committee may conduct some preliminary interviews at APSA. To be considered for a preliminary interview, please submit application materials by August 20th.

Candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred; ABD applications who anticipate completion of the doctorate by Fall 2019 will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4387

Wheaton College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Specializations: International Political Economy, Foreign Policy, International Security

APPLY ONLINE AT: <http://jobs.wheatoncollege.edu/postings/2423>

The Department of Political Science at Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations to begin in the Fall of 2019. The ideal candidate will possess the ability to teach introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations, as well as to extend departmental coverage in Comparative Politics in regions including South Asian, South-East Asian, East Asian, or Central and Eastern European (including Russia) politics. The Political Science Department is home to both a political science major and an interdisciplinary international relations major, and the successful candidate will collaborate with colleagues in the management of the international relations major program.

All International Relations subfield specializations will be considered, including, but not limited to, the following areas:

- international political economy
- comparative foreign policy
- security studies
- intra or inter-state conflict
- peace studies
- conflict resolution.

We are especially interested in the ability to develop and teach courses at the intersections of traditional discipline and subfield specializations. We are committed to providing our students with excellent educational and co-curricular opportunities, and our faculty has significant mentoring experience with new teachers in postdoctoral and junior faculty appointments. For example, we offer regular programming in professional development and all tenure-track faculty are entitled to a fully paid pre-tenure sabbatical and research funds to support scholarship.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

- A PhD at the onset of the appointment (August 2019) is required.
- A commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarship.
- For full consideration, the following are to be submitted via Wheaton's online application system: letter of application; curriculum vitae; statement of teaching philosophy; statement of research philosophy; evidence of teaching effectiveness (materials on your teaching history, including sample syllabi and course evaluations); and at least one scholarly writing sample.

• Wheaton strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. Candidates should describe in their letter of application how their teaching and scholarship might support the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion. In addition, the letter of application should also include areas of specialty, as well as explain the candidate's interest in teaching in a liberal arts environment.

• Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Prior teaching experience; classroom experience is highly desirable.
- Dedication to scholarly achievement.
- Commitment to the liberal arts environment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4388

Boston College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics

The Department of Political Science of Boston College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank in Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics. The position is open in regard to research focus and methods. Preference will be given to candidates with substantive fieldwork and demonstrated teaching excellence. The appointment begins late-August 2019. Candidates are expected to have PhD in hand by the start date. Interested candidates should upload a letter of interest, stating research and teaching interests; curriculum vitae and a writing sample; and evidence of teaching quality to Interfolio at APPLY.INTERFOLIO.COM/52335. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded to Interfolio by the individual writers. Applications must be received by October 1, 2018. No email applications or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4377

Brown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Brown University invites applications for a faculty position at the level of assistant professor in the field of International Political Economy to begin July 2019. Candidates must have completed the PhD by summer 2019. Review of applications will begin September 21, 2018. Candidates should submit a cover letter identifying their primary interests as well as a current CV, writing sample, graduate transcript, teaching evaluations, and three letters of reference. Brown is an EEO/AA employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.

apply.interfolio.com/51713

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4368

Brown University

Rank: Professor

As part of a major new hiring initiative, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for faculty positions in the field of international security to begin July 2019. We hope to hire multiple faculty through this search. We are seeking applicants whose research focuses on various aspects of international security broadly defined, including but not limited to grand strategy and geopolitical rivalry, civil war and post-war reconstruction, defense policy and military intervention, nuclear proliferation and deterrence, terrorism and counterterrorism, cybersecurity and surveillance, and resource conflicts and the security implications of climate change.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field, and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member(s) will hold a joint appointment in the Watson Institute and Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references whom the search committee can contact at an appropriate time. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

Apply at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/51745>

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4369

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in the comparative politics of Europe beginning in the fall semester of 2019. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in comparative politics, a course in European politics, a course in either quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other courses in the candidate's field of specialization.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence, as well as the promise of being a productive scholar, are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in Comparative Politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations (if available), along with any other relevant materials. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 24, 2018.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Along with its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas, and the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the interdisciplinary investigation of the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. In 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4364

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, International Law & Organizations

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2019. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in Political Science with a primary field of International Relations and a secondary field in Comparative Politics. A geographical expertise in Asia or the Middle East in the secondary field is highly desirable. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will teach the introductory International Relations course and alternate teaching the introductory Comparative Politics course, as well as teaching advanced undergraduate courses and Master's level courses in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Candidates will also advise students and serve the department, university, and profession.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science or related field at the time of appointment
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers a Bachelor and Masters as well as the Bachelors in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has 5 full-time Political Science faculty members (plus 5 full-time History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 100 undergraduate Political Science majors and 20 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to facultyjobs@twu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 8, 2018.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/5/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4349

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Studies

The departments of International Studies and Political Science at Dickinson College are seeking qualified applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position beginning in academic year 2019-20. A completed or nearly-completed Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or related discipline is required.

Applicants should have a research and teaching focus on Africa, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. The specific sub-field of research can be comparative politics, international relations, security studies (including human security), or other related fields. In addition to teaching upper-level courses in that research area, the successful candidate must demonstrate ability and interest in teaching introductory International Relations and upper-level American Foreign Policy on a regular basis. Candidates should identify in their application letter courses they are prepared to teach and should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an interdisciplinary liberal arts environment. The yearly teaching load is five courses. The successful candidate is expected to participate fully in the intellectual life of the departments, including serving as one of the oral examiners for the International Studies exams at the end of the academic year. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate.

Dickinson College is a private, four-year liberal arts college with 2,400 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC, and Philadelphia.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically, online application system at <https://jobs.dickinson.edu>.

Please submit the following materials:

- * a letter of application;
- * curriculum vitae;
- * graduate transcript;
- * names and email addresses for three letters of recommendation;
- * writing sample;
- * teaching statement;
- * sample syllabi – preferably for one or more of the above listed courses.
- * teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness

Review of applications will begin October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4347

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Comparative Politics of Identity and Representation

The College of Social Science at Michigan State University seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure system position in Comparative Politics. We are looking to hire an Assistant Professor, preferably at a more advanced level. As part of a new initiative on Minority Politics, we seek applicants whose research and teaching (graduate and undergraduate) falls in the politics of identity and representation (related to ethnicity, race, religion, caste, tribe, region, gender, sexual orientation, and/or class) in a comparative context. The position is open with regard to regional specialization, social scientific disciplinary training, and tenure home within the College of Social Science. A successful candidate will have evidence of securing external funding, a record of publishing high quality research, a strong future research agenda, and a documented commitment to teaching. The position begins August 16, 2019.

The closing date for applications is September 30, 2018, though later applications may be accepted if the search remains open.

Interested candidates must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Applicant Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu>, Job Posting number 515382. Please submit your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, one sample of your written work, a teaching statement, and a diversity and inclusion statement. Applicants should arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Please contact Ani Sarkissian (asarkiss@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4341

Tulane University

Rank: The Scott and Marjorie Cowen Chair in Latin American Social Sciences based in the Political Science Department, Tulane University

The Political Science Department at Tulane University invites applications for the Scott and Marjorie Cowen Chair in Latin American Social Sciences. We seek an accomplished full professor with an international reputation who has helped to shape the contemporary understanding of Latin American politics through research that has been published in university press books and peer-reviewed journals. The candidate's work should be empirically grounded, sensitive to context, and primarily focused on Latin America. It should contribute to new forms of description, concept formation, causal inference, and theoretical innovations on socially relevant phenomena in the region. Methods of research and analysis should be a function of the problem to be studied rather than the reverse. Preferred areas of specialization include state-society relations, political regimes, state building, state erosion, and citizen rights; institutional analysis, change, and development, including questions of political representation and the politics of social and economic development and economic inequality; and policy making, including both general policy-making processes and particular policy areas crucial to economic development and sustainability, such as environmental, economic, and social policy.

Applications received by November 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled. The appointment will begin July 2019.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, current Curriculum Vitae and three letters of recommendation online at apply.interfolio.com/52071. Queries may be addressed to Professor Eduardo Silva, Friezo Family Foundation Chair in Political Science (gesilva@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4342

Trinity College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Studies

The Department of Political Science and the International Studies Program at Trinity College invite applications for a joint, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in the Comparative Politics of the Global South commencing with the 2019-2020 academic year. We especially welcome applications from candidates whose research intersects the subjects of comparative urban politics, ethnic politics, and/or contentious politics. The successful applicant will be expected to design courses that contribute to both Political Science and International Studies. The candidate should demonstrate the potential for becoming an outstanding scholar and teacher. The Ph.D. should be in hand or expected by the end of August, 2019.

To ensure full consideration please submit a letter of application (including statement of research and teaching interests), CV, graduate transcript, sample of scholarly writing, course syllabi and evaluations (if available) and at least three letters of reference on <https://trincoll.peopleadmin.com> <https://trincoll.peopleadmin.com> by October 1, 2018.

Trinity College is coeducational independent, nonsectarian liberal arts college with approximately 2,200 undergraduate students and 200 faculty members, located in Hartford, Connecticut. Candidates should have a strong commitment to undergraduate and interdisciplinary teaching in a liberal arts context, and a well-articulated plan for sustained research. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to attracting and supporting a faculty of women and men who fully represent the racial, ethnic, and cultural diversity of the United States. We seek applications from minorities, women, and other under-represented groups.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4327

Allegheny College

Rank: Assistant Professor Tenure Track of Political Science

Specializations: Western Europe, Political Theory, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Allegheny College invites applicants for a tenure track position beginning August 2019. The Department seeks a dynamic teacher and scholar focused on Comparative Politics/Europe who is interested in contributing to the College's International Studies Program (see: <https://sites.allegheny.edu/intstudies/>) Ability to teach additional courses in Political Theory or Political Economy is especially welcome.

Ph.D. at the time of appointment is preferred. Teaching load is six courses per year and all faculty are expected to participate in delivering college-wide first-year/sophomore seminars as part of their teaching load. A successful candidate will provide evidence of excellence in teaching, ongoing scholarship and professional development. Allegheny College is a highly selective private liberal arts college in NW Pennsylvania with an increasingly diverse student body and a dedicated faculty of teacher-scholars.

Dossiers (electronic preferred) should include a letter of application, c.v., three current letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations or other indicators of effective teaching, and a writing sample. Materials may be sent to Professor Shanna Kirschner, Chair, Department of Political Science, Sarah Holt, Allegheny College, Box 55, 520 North Main Street, Meadville, PA 16335 (poliscisearch@allegheny.edu). The Department will begin reviewing files October 15, 2018. We encourage interested candidates attending APSA in September to email Sarah Holt (sholt@allegheny.edu) to schedule a personal interview.

Allegheny College is an Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity. Members of underrepresented groups are highly encouraged to apply. Allegheny does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, or national origin.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/18/2018
Date Posted: 6/18/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4313

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2019. We seek candidates whose research focuses on institutions and political economy. The search is open with respect to the substantive subfield, and priority will be given to candidates who can add to the department's strength in formal theory and rigorous empirical analysis. Successful candidates are expected to pursue an active program of research and to contribute to the department's undergraduate and graduate game theory sequences.

Florida State University is committed to broadening the gender, racial and ethnic diversity of its faculty, and the Department of Political Science shares that goal. The university statement of commitment to increasing the diversity of the faculty and students can be found at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_home.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 7,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) writing samples, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (pdfs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Florida State University is an EO employer. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/ceo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/17/2018
Date Posted: 6/14/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4304

Augustana University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government and International Affairs

Augustana University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the Department of Government and International Affairs beginning in Fall 2019.

Responsibilities: This is an international relations and comparative politics position. The successful applicant must demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. Courses to be taught depend primarily on departmental needs in both areas of international and comparative, with some flexibility for the candidate's training and interests.

The typical load for members of the department is three courses per semester plus a course in two out of every three January terms.

Qualifications: Completed Ph.D. required. Evidence of teaching excellence and scholarly productivity is expected, as is an ability to contribute courses to Augustana's Civitas honors program and/or First Year Seminar program.

Application Procedure: Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a completed Augustana University employment application (http://augie.edu/sites/default/files/u75/Employment%20Application%20fillable_4.pdf), copies of graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including teaching evaluations), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, statement of commitment to diversity, a writing sample, and three recommendation letters electronically to humanresources@augie.edu. Review of applications begins on September 14, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Preliminary interviews will take place at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in Boston (August 30-September 2, 2018).

Contact Search Committee Chair with questions: Dr. Joel Johnson, Professor of Government and International Affairs, joel.johnson@augie.edu, 605.274.5319.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/14/2018
Date Posted: 6/13/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4303

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Political Science of the Higher School of Economics in Moscow*, Russia invites applications for multiple full-time, tenure track position in political science. The search is open with respect to subfield and topic of specialization, but we are particularly interested in candidates specializing in one or more of the following areas: political theory, comparative politics, international politics, global political economy, qualitative methodology, or data analysis and quantitative methods. Knowledge of Russian is not required as teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Requirements

Doctorate or terminal degree in political science or related fields by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2019 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Tenure review will be in the sixth year (or earlier at the discretion of the applicant).

Knowledge of Russian is not required; teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Benefits

The salary is internationally competitive, indexed to inflation annually, and subject to a 13% flat income tax. The university offers health insurance (free of charge), language assistance, and other social benefits; travel support and other research assistance are generous. Since we place a heavy emphasis on high quality research, the teaching load of newly hired faculty is relatively low and service is minimal.

Job Location

Moscow, Russia

Application

Position announcements are posted on the HSE International Faculty Recruitment portal.

Interested candidates should post a letter detailing the direction of research and teaching objectives, a CV, a recent research paper, and 2 letters of recommendation via online application form at <https://iri.hse.ru/>

Application deadline is September 1, 2018.

Late applications can be also considered if the position is not filled.

Learn More

More information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en>
 More information about the School of Political Science: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps>
 More information about recruitment procedures: <https://iri.hse.ru/>
 International Faculty Support portal with detailed information on various issues concerning move to Russia and work at HSE: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru>

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities in the fields of economics, social sciences and humanities, and has emerged as a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was ranked 48th in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and is among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

One of its unique features has been its direct involvement in socioeconomic reforms in Russia, which has allowed HSE to develop as a "project and research university" where education, fundamental and applied research, and "think tank" activities are combined for the comprehensive development of society. Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has more than 30 international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world.

Since 2006 the HSE has been recruiting professional academics from international research universities in order to raise the standards of research at the University. HSE now employs more than 100 international tenure-track and postdoctoral fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and centers in Moscow and at HSE's campuses in St. Petersburg and Perm.

School of Political Science

The School of Political Science offers an array of educational options for students from Russia and abroad. We teach a full range of subjects based on the latest developments in academic research in political science. From comparative politics to political theory and quantitative and qualitative approaches, the professors of the School pursue research across the entire spectrum of modern political science. Not only is there methodological diversity; there is considerable breadth in terms of substantive and geographic specializations. Among the School's academic "trademarks" are comparative politics and Russian politics, including politics in the Russian regions.

The quality of research at Higher School of Economics has already been widely recognized, and HSE counts among the top-100 universities in the world according to the QS ranking in this subject field.

Contact Information

Address: 20 Myasnitskaya ulitsa, Moscow, 101000

Phones:

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22535

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22428

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22834

E-mail: socscience@hse.ru

Website: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/1/2018

Date Posted: 5/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4225

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3589

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Leiden University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Environmental Policy, China, International Security

The Institute of Political Science of Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Political Science (1.0 FTE, 5 positions)

Vacancy number 5901

Key responsibilities

Due to the growth of our programme, we are looking to hire 5 assistant professors of political science. The appointment includes teaching introductory and advanced courses reflecting the candidate's expertise, supervising MSc and BSc theses, conducting scholarly research, acquiring external research funding, and participating in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute (i.e., department). It could also include teaching general introductory courses, working groups, and/or co-supervising PhD theses.

All applicants should be well trained in one or more of the major sub-disciplines (e.g., comparative politics, international relations, political philosophy) and in research methods appropriate to their field and interests. All specialisations will be considered, but we are especially interested in applicants working on Asian and Chinese politics and foreign policy, US politics and foreign policy, international environmental politics, international conflict resolution, politics of international law, international political economy, comparative public policy, and political behavior. Applicants who are prepared to teach research design, qualitative and/or quantitative research methods should outline their relevant training and/or teaching experience in their applications.

Selection criteria

- Applicants must hold (or be near to completing) a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;

- Applicants must have a promising research agenda, some scholarly publications, teaching experience and good teaching evaluations;
- Applicants must be able to teach in English; ability to teach in Dutch is a plus. Staff who do not speak Dutch are required to progress steadily toward Dutch competence through training financed by the institute;
- Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the University Teaching Qualification (BKO). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, s/he must obtain this qualification within two years.

Research at our Faculty/Institute

Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises four institutes: Education and Child Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology. The Faculty also includes the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Its teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see <http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences>.

The Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. The Institute has around 80 academic staff, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals and book series. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multi-disciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy. The Institute is based in Leiden but a large and growing part of the teaching is done nearby in The Hague.

The Institute offers a range of taught programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The one-year MSc programme (taught mostly in English) includes four specialisations in Leiden and two in The Hague. Terms and conditions

The position starts as soon as possible, preferably in January 2019. The appointment will be made on a temporary contract of up to 3 years depending upon prior experience. A permanent appointment may be possible during or after the term of the initial contract, depending upon performance (in teaching, research and administration) and the budgetary situation of the Institute. Salary range from 3,545 to 4,852 gross per month (pay scale 11 in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities).

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3%), training and career development. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. More at <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/working-at/job-application-procedure-and-employment-conditions>.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

Further enquiries can be directed to Professor Arjen Boin, chair of the selection committee, email: boin@fsw.leidenuniv.nl

Applications

Please submit online your application no later than 31 October 2018 via the blue button of our application system. Applicants should submit online a letter of interest, a CV (with list of publications), a research statement covering their current and future research agenda, a sample paper or article, and a statement of teaching interests and experience including sample syllabi and/or teaching evaluations. Applicants should also ask two people to submit recommendation letters commenting on their professional qualifications and suitability for the position directly (i.e. not through the applicant) to vacature_powe@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

The selection procedure will take place in November–December 2018. Selected candidates will first be invited for an online pre-interview; some will then be invited for in-person interview and research talk. You are kindly requested to be available in this period.

Enquiries from agencies are not appreciated.

Start Date: Winter 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/28/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4918

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Armed Conflict and Violence - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications from scholars of armed conflict and violence for full-time open-rank appointments. The search is open as to substantive area—scholars working on civil conflict, micro dynamics of conflict, and inter-state conflict are all encouraged to apply. The search is also open with regards to disciplinary and methodological approaches. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment on September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 8, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52967> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4916

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Middle East/Asia - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications from scholars working on politics in the Middle East or Asia for full-time open-rank appointments. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment on September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 8, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52973> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4917

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/track appointments in Political Science. The open-rank search is open to all fields and methodologies. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor) are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval. You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum:

<https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 1, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees.

Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52969> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4915

Providence College

Rank: Adjunct Faculty in Political Science (Part-time)

The Department of Political Science at Providence College seeks applications for two part-time adjunct faculty positions for the Spring 2019 semester which commences on January 14, 2019. One position is to teach one section of Introduction to International Relations scheduled for 2:30 – 3:45 Tuesdays and Thursdays. The second position is to teach one section of African Politics scheduled for 4 – 5:15 Tuesdays and Thursdays. We are open to considering applicants, with expertise in both subjects, who wish to teach both courses. Applicants should possess either a PhD in Political Science or related field (candidates ABD will be considered). Prior college teaching experience preferred.

Interested candidates should submit on-line a statement of interest, current curriculum vitae, and copies of official graduate transcript(s). Applicants will be prompted to submit the names and email addresses of three reference providers who will receive an email from our on-line career site with a link and instructions on how to submit a letter recommendation that speaks primarily to the applicant's teaching. Application instructions are available at the following website: <https://careers.providence.edu>

The application deadline is November 1, 2018. Questions should be referred to Dr. William E. Hudson, department chair, at bhudson@providence.edu

Providence College is a Roman Catholic four-year liberal arts institution conducted under the auspices of the Dominican Friars and seeks candidates who can affirm and contribute to its mission. Providence College is committed to upholding an academic culture and campus community that attracts and supports the development of a diverse faculty reflecting the global environment in which we live and work. An AA/EOE, the College especially encourages the applications of women and persons of color.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 4911

Yale University

Rank: Henry A. Kissinger Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Henry A. Kissinger Visiting Scholars Program awards one post-doctoral fellowship, funded by the Johnson Center for the Study of American Diplomacy for one year and renewable for one additional year. Postdoctoral Kissinger Visiting Scholars must have completed their Ph.D. degree to begin the fellowship.

Kissinger Visiting Scholars are expected to use the time to conduct original research and write manuscripts for publication, focused on the role of the United States in global affairs from World War II to the present, including the conduct of U.S. statecraft, diplomacy, and grand strategy. Kissinger Visiting Scholars fellowships will be awarded to candidates with outstanding proposals that require access to the Henry A. Kissinger Papers or other archival holdings related to American diplomacy at Yale. (<http://web.library.yale.edu/digital-collections/kissinger-collection>; <http://guides.library.yale.edu/american-diplomacy-primary-sources>).

Kissinger Visiting Scholars will also work with an active academic community of post-doctoral fellows and pre-doctoral fellows, as well as Yale faculty in history, political science, and other disciplines.

Postdoctoral Kissinger Visiting Scholars may teach small seminars if desired on subjects relevant to grand strategy, participate regularly in research colloquia on campus, and are granted opportunities to present their work. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to remain in residence through the duration of their fellowship and contribute to the intellectual life of the Program in Grand Strategy, International Security Studies, and the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs by participating in their activities and development. Offices are located on Yale's campus.

The Johnson Center for the Study of American Diplomacy was founded upon the 2011 donation of Dr. Henry Kissinger's papers to Yale related to his pre-government, government, and post-government careers (<http://news.yale.edu/2011/06/14/yale-receive-kissinger-papers-and-establish-johnson-center-study-american-diplomacy>). A program of the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs, in conjunction with International Security Studies and the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy, the Center brings academics and practitioners to Yale as Kissinger Visiting Scholars and Kissinger Senior Fellows, as well as hosts an annual conference a range of other activities relating to international affairs.

Qualifications

Recent Ph.D. in relevant field. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 1, 2019.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

A complete application includes:

1. C.V.
2. 100-word research proposal abstract.
3. 1000-word research proposal, to include an explanation of how access to the Kissinger Papers or other archival holdings related to diplomatic history at Yale would help achieve the goals of your project.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Two writing samples, e.g., dissertation chapters or journal articles.

Applications are due through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/54775>) by November 12th.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/12/2018

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4913

Yale University

Rank: Henry Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Henry Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowships are up to three positions funded by the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy for one year renewable for one additional year. We seek to attract outstanding junior scholars from around the globe whose work addresses questions of statecraft and grand strategy, broadly defined, and demonstrates excellence in one of a range of academic disciplines and methodologies. Postdoctoral fellows must have completed their PhD degree to begin the fellowship. They are expected to use their time at Yale to conduct original research and prepare manuscripts for publication. Fellows will work with an active academic community of postdoctoral and predoctoral fellows, as well as Yale faculty in history, political science, and other disciplines. Postdoctoral fellows may teach small seminars if desired. They participate regularly in research colloquia on campus and are granted opportunities to present their work. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to remain in residence through the duration of their fellowship and contribute to the intellectual life of the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy and to International Security Studies by participating in their activities and development. Offices are located on Yale's campus.

Qualifications

Recent Ph.D. in relevant field. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 1, 2019.

Application Instructions

A complete application consists of:

1. CV
2. A 100-word research proposal abstract.
3. A 1000-word research proposal.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Two writing samples, e.g., dissertation chapters or journal articles.

Applications are due through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/55016>) by December 3rd.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4912

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in Comparative Politics/International Relations

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and interest in the enduring questions of comparative politics and international relations for a one-semester Spring 2019 position. Candidates for Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor should have a Ph.D.; candidates for Instructor should be ABD.

The teaching load for the one-semester Spring 2019 position is four courses in the spring (capped at 30 students each), with two or three preparations. The four courses will include two sections of an introductory Comparative Politics course and two sections in the specialty of the applicant. Depending on the course, this could be two sections of the same course or two distinct courses, with possible courses in Nationalism, courses related to Globalization, or another Comparative or International Relations course proposed by the candidate. Service duties will be assigned by Chair.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission).

Please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to complete the online application. Using the link above, electronically submit a curriculum vita, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations, if available), sample syllabi for proposed courses (use Other 1), a list of three references who could comment on teaching abilities, and a cover letter that explicitly incorporates a clear understanding of the mission of Jesuit higher education and how one will contribute to this mission.

If materials cannot be electronically uploaded to the website, please email to: Dr. Carsten Vala (cvala@loyola.edu) or, if unable to send electronically, mail to him at Dept. of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Reviews of applications will begin November 1.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4900

Midwestern State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Western Europe, International Political Economy, Developing Nations

The Department of Political Science seeks applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2019. We seek a candidate whose primary teaching interest is comparative politics with a specialization in European politics, as well as an additional ability to teach courses on International Political Economy, International Organizations, and/or Development. The applicant should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (an ABD candidate would be required to have a Ph.D. by August 2020), and should contribute to the teaching and research mission of the university.

The Department of Political Science offers a B.A. Political Science, a B.A. Global Studies, and an M.A. in Political Science. It also houses the interdisciplinary minor in Women's and Gender Studies and a successful Model United Nations program.

The teaching load is 12 hours per semester, with a course reduction when teaching graduate seminars. Salary is competitive, depending on experience.

Midwestern State University is a public liberal arts university with an enrollment of approximately 6,000 students located in Wichita Falls, a city of 106,000 about 2 hours northwest of Dallas/Fort Worth (www.msutexas.edu). As a Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC) member institution, Midwestern State University is particularly committed to excellence in teaching and seeks applicants that will contribute to this mission. This position is designated as security sensitive and requires the finalist to complete a criminal background check. EEO/ADAAA compliance employer.

Please send a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) teaching evaluations, 4) one example of scholarly work, and 5) three letters of recommendation to:

Dr. Linda Veazey,
Interim Chair
Department of Political Science
Midwestern State University
3410 Taft Boulevard
Wichita Falls, TX 76308
linda.veazey@msutexas.edu

The initial review of complete applications will begin January 10, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 1/10/2019
Date Posted: 9/26/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4903

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Urban Politics, Economic Policy

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies

Department of Environmental Studies
New York University Arts and Science

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for two tenure-track positions (at the rank of Assistant Professor). The appointments will begin September 1, 2019, pending administrative and budgetary approval. The successful applicant will be an interdisciplinary scholar with a strong record of research and publishing who is ready to contribute to the education of undergraduates majoring in Environmental Studies and to at least one of two new graduate programs being launched by the department (Environmental Systems Studies and Animal Studies). We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in global environmental governance or urban ecology. We welcome candidates from a broad range of social science, physical science, and policy backgrounds (e.g., environmental studies, earth science, urban studies, ecology, political science, sociology, economics, public policy, geography).

Candidates should possess a Ph.D. by August 31, 2019, have a research program that demonstrates the potential to be a leader in the field of Environmental Studies, and have proven the ability to be an excellent teacher. Candidates should apply with a cover letter, CV, three (3) confidential letters of recommendation, a research and teaching statement, and two exemplary writing samples. Because diversity is an important part of the NYU mission, we request that you include a paragraph in your cover letter telling us how diversity figures into your past, present, and future teaching, research, and community engagement.

?

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 and will continue until the search is complete. More information is available at <http://as.nyu.edu/environment/employment.html>

To apply, please go to the following: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53172>

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here

(<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>).

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4905

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor - Judicial Political (American) , Gender and Development, and Global Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Assistant Professor - Judicial Political (American) , Gender and Development, and Global Politics (38494)

University of Florida: College of Liberal Arts & Sciences: 16380000 - LS-POLITICAL SCIENCE. Gainesville, FL

Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for three full-time, nine-month, and tenure track Assistant Professors in Judicial Politics (American), Gender and Development, and Global Politics to begin August 16, 2019. The Department hopes to hire faculty broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our Department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. For all three tenure-track positions, we are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with the cluster hire themes of race and ethnicity, representation and justice, gender and other categories of identity, and the politics of inequality. Substantive research fields and methodological approaches are open.

For the Judicial Politics position, we are particularly interested in applicants conducting research on questions of race, ethnicity, gender, immigration status, or other categories of identity and the judicial system in the U.S. Scholars conducting research on the carceral state are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates should be able to offer courses on the judicial process at the graduate and undergraduate levels and should be excited about advising undergraduate pre-law students and assisting with undergraduate internships in the legal field.

For the Gender and Development position, we are seeking applicants specializing in research on how changes in the social, political, and economic status of women (both progress and backlash) shape economic and human development outcomes in the current age of globalism. The successful applicant should be prepared to not only teach specialized courses in his or her area of scholarly research at the graduate and undergraduate level, but also to offer general courses in the fields of comparative or international political economy. An ability to contribute to the Department's methods sequence (qualitative or quantitative approaches) is a plus.

For the Global Politics position, we are especially interested in applicants whose scholarship focuses on transitional justice and human rights, or conflict and post-conflict studies. Preference will be given to candidates whose training and research explicitly address links and crossovers between domestic and international politics and the respective fields of comparative politics and international relations. In line with the overall theme of the search, candidates combining studies of identity and inequality or race, ethnicity and justice are especially encouraged to apply.

While we are open with regard to regional focus in these two positions, we are particularly interested in applicants conducting research in Latin America, Central or South Asia, or Europe.

Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

Qualifications

A Ph.D is required.

Application Instructions

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/55446> and must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans
4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. One article reprint or pre-print
7. Three confidential letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018, and continue until all three positions are filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4907

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from across the social sciences working in any area of the world on issues that can be understood in a comparative global context. Scholars of all nationalities who have received their PhDs within two years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows in other programs are not eligible to apply. As full members of the Watson Institute's scholarly community, fellows are required to be in residence during the academic year. Fellows will receive an annual stipend of $60,000, for this benefits eligible position. Additional funding will be made available for conference-related travel, research expenses, and research-related programming on campus. Candidates selected for the Postdoctoral Fellows program who have not completed their dissertations by July 1, 2019, will be paid a reduced salary until their dissertation is defended.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 22, 2018, to the application portal <http://apply.interfolio.com/54227>

A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample.

Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 22; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2019.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website (watson.brown.edu) or contact:

Professor J. Nicholas Ziegler, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. J_Ziegler@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/22/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4889

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2019, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 6, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8901>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (within the last 5 years). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4894

University of Mass/Lowell

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

Assistant Professor in International Relations

University of Massachusetts Lowell

Full-Time

The University of Massachusetts Lowell (UML) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science, with a specialization in International Relations and a focus in either human rights or political economy and development. Candidates must also have the capacity to develop and teach quantitative research methods courses for our Global Studies PhD program. Applicants should also be prepared to offer undergraduate Political Science courses and Global Studies PhD courses. The appointment is expected to begin in the fall of 2019.

A PhD in Political Science is required. Current ABD candidates are encouraged to apply, although the PhD must be in hand by the appointment date. Recommendation letters for ABD applicants should address when the applicant is expected to defend his or her dissertation.

The new hire would join a collegial and ambitious department and university where research productive faculty teach a 2/2 course load. UML is committed to increasing diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to that goal.

The Political Science Department is housed within the University's College of Fine Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (FAHSS). The College is the largest unit of the University, with 11 academic departments and over 180 full-time faculty. FAHSS has experienced significant growth in recent years, including hiring more than 60 new faculty members, achieving 70% growth in funded research expenditures, and the addition of several new interdisciplinary graduate programs. The Political Science Department currently has 12 tenured and tenure-track faculty members, 3 visiting positions, and 3 adjunct faculty members. The Political Science Department is also home to UML's interdisciplinary Global Studies PhD Program (<https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Global-Studies/>). In addition, our faculty are also engaged in the teaching and design of the interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies Program (which offers undergraduate and master's degrees) and the newly established Masters of Public Administration. For more information, please visit our homepage: <https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Political-Science/>

Minimum Qualifications (Required):

- PhD in Political Science (must have in hand by the time of appointment)
- Evidence of expertise in international relations with a focus in human rights or international political economy and development
- Evidence of strong statistical skills and ability to teach quantitative methods at the doctoral level
- Evidence of ability to develop and teach graduate and undergraduate political science courses in either human rights or political economy and development

Special Instructions to Applicants:

To apply, please submit a CV, cover letter delineating research and scholarship agenda, teaching statement/philosophy, writing sample (ideally a published paper or one in preparation for submission) to: <http://explorejobs.uml.edu/lowell/en-us/job/495651/assistant-professor-in-international-relations>

Names and contact information of three references will be required at the time of application.

Review of applications will begin October 10, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. However, the position may close when an adequate number of qualified applications are received.

The University of Massachusetts Lowell is committed to increasing diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to that goal and encourage you to apply and to identify your strengths in this area.

The University of Massachusetts Lowell is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action, Title IX employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, age over 40, protected veteran status, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, marital status, or other protected class.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/zs2m48bb2xggsgvk>

PI104497878

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4886

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor Focused on Korean Politics and Public Policy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science and the Truman School of Public Affairs at the University of Missouri invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor position focused on Korean politics and public policy (Job Opening ID 27940), to begin in the Fall Semester of 2019. Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda, strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Additional expectations include active engagement with the University of Missouri Institute for Korean Studies and facilitation of connections between the University of Missouri and Korea.

Applicants from all subfields of political science, public policy and public management whose research has an emphasis on Korea are encouraged to apply. An earned doctorate in political science, public policy, public affairs or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Candidates should submit their curriculum vitae, a cover letter, writing samples, and three current letters of recommendation. The cover letter should address the following: current and future research, teaching interests in both political science and public affairs, and how the applicant envisions engaging in Korean Studies and with universities in Korea. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15. Women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

The University of Missouri is fully committed to achieving the goal of a diverse and inclusive academic community of faculty, staff, and students. We seek individuals who are committed to this goal and our core campus values of respect, responsibility, discovery, and excellence. The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please contact the Office of Accessibility & ADA Education at 573-884-7278 or CheekA@missouri.edu.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. When applying reference Job Opening ID 27940. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. Reference letters should be sent electronically to MUTSPADirector@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Mary Stegmaier, Co-Chair of Search Committee; 113 Middlebush;

University of Missouri, Columbia, MO 65211-0630. Applicants may contact the Chairs of the Search Committee Jonathan Kriekhaus

(kriekhausj@missouri.edu) and Mary Stegmaier (stegmaierm@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4883

Tulane University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for four (4) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2019-2020, two with program administration duties and two with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowship carries a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2019. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/53827 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2018 until the positions are filled.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/24/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 4881

Westminster College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Westminster College in Fulton, MO invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Responsibilities include teaching eight courses per year, maintaining an active research agenda, advising students and contributing to the governance and extra-curricular life of the college. Successful candidates will be able to teach:

1. Introduction to International Politics, American Foreign Policy and Model UN;
2. Upper-level courses in Comparative Politics in two or more regions, and
3. Courses in one or more of the following fields –research methods, Security Studies, Women and Politics.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science at the onset of appointment (August 2019). A commitment to and evidence of excellence in teaching and research. A strong desire to teach at a small, liberal arts college where enhanced advising and mentoring of students is expected. Familiarity with digital teaching technologies (all Westminster faculty will be supplied with iPads by 2019 and will be strongly encouraged to use them in classroom instruction).

Application Documents:

The following materials are required:

1. Cover letter;
 2. Curriculum vitae (CV) with three professional references
- The following materials may be requested after the initial review process:
1. Graduate school transcript;
 2. Statement of teaching philosophy and research agenda;
 3. Evidence of teaching effectiveness;
 4. Two sample syllabi.

To apply:

Please apply online to the Westminster College portal link:

<https://westminster-college.apscareerportal.com/jobs/819148/apps/new>

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Diverse candidates are encouraged to apply; Westminster actively pursues the goal of inclusive excellence.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4879

Humboldt State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Politics

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2019

Department of Politics

JOB #1920-11

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty, staff, and administrators of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state.

DESCRIPTION: Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher and scholar of global politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS: We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with considerable progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- Evidence of, or potential for, effective teaching using a variety of methodologies;
- Commitment to and/or experience fostering a learning environment that supports individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- Evidence of, or potential for, commitment to equity and inclusion in pedagogy and curricula;
- Evidence of, or potential for, scholarly productivity in the field of global politics;
- Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;
- Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.) and willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

Experience with first year student learning communities or other first year initiatives is preferred.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty Immigration Resources page: <https://extended.humboldt.edu/international-programs/immigration/faculty>.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

PROFESSIONAL DUTIES: At HSU, teaching effectiveness is essential for faculty retention, tenure, and promotion. Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong record of scholarship. Instructional assignments are expected to include introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations. We anticipate that candidates will also teach some combination of upper-division courses in our Global Politics concentration, on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, global governance, political economy, foreign policy, or a course focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; scholarship; and service to the University, profession and to the community. Related responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions including assessment of learning. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first two years of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

GENERAL INFORMATION: The Department of Politics is strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. We offer our majors three distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." For more information, please visit: politics.humboldt.edu

APPLICATION: Qualified candidates should submit the following materials through Interfolio:

Click here to apply: <http://apply.interfolio.com/55194>

- Letter of application;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Sample of scholarly work, such as a journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter;
- Statement of teaching philosophy;
- Sample syllabi;
- Teaching evaluations (if available);
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- Three letters of recommendation.

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #1920-11.

Additional application materials may be requested at a later time.

Please direct any questions pertaining to this position, the Department of Politics, or Humboldt State University to:

Dr. Noah Zerbe, Search Committee Chair
 Department of Politics
 Humboldt State University
 One Harpst Street
 Arcata, California 95521-8299
 Phone (707) 826-4494
 Email: globalpoliticssearch@humboldt.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 31, 2018. Early response is encouraged.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU. Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'limited reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017 are subject to a 10 year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or hsuhr@humboldt.edu.

Humboldt State University is part of the 23-campus California State University system. The University has a comprehensive arts and sciences curriculum, which is recognized nationally for its high academic quality. Founded in 1913, HSU is one of the premier public institutions in the western United States; it is a residential and rural campus with an enrollment of approximately 8,000 students. The main campus is located in Arcata, California, in the northwestern part of the state along the coast, situated among redwood trees in an area that offers unmatched scenic beauty, moderate climate and opportunities for outdoor activities. The surrounding Humboldt County locale has a population of around 130,000. The community offers an excellent range of businesses, services and cultural activities/performances. The local schools are ranked in the top performance percentiles, both nationally and in the state. Additional information about Humboldt State University can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4868

Fordham University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Politics

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, Intelligence

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning Fall 2019. The position is located at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in US Foreign Policy and International Security who can teach courses on interstate conflict or interstate war, nuclear proliferation, cybersecurity, diplomacy, and/or terrorism. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Master's Program in International Political Economy and Development. We encourage candidates to apply who will deepen our engagement with institutions within New York City, such as the United Nations, and contribute to our University and department's commitment to quality teaching and research.

Consistent with our Jesuit and Catholic mission, we believe that cultural and intellectual diversity is central to the excellence of our academic program and we strive to create an academic community and campus culture that attracts and facilitates the development of promising and diverse teacher-scholars. As our student body becomes increasingly diverse, we are especially interested in candidates with substantive experience and commitment to teaching and mentoring students from a range of social, cultural and economic backgrounds.

Review of applications will begin on October 18. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor Ida Bastiaens, Committee Chair, via Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/54759>): cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Application materials should also address how the candidate's teaching, mentoring, scholarship, and/or community service supports Fordham University's commitment to diversity. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4846

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Studies

The Department of Global and Intercultural Studies invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor to teach in International Studies, to include Critical Security Studies of the Middle East; maintain an active research agenda; advise students; and provide service to the institution.

Require: A Ph.D. in Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, International Studies, Political Science or interdisciplinary work within these or related, cognate fields by date of appointment in August 2019. Candidates should have Middle East regional expertise, relevant language ability, and field work experience. Applicant must be a U.S. citizen, a lawful permanent resident, admitted for residence as an applicant under the 1986 immigration amnesty law, refugee or asylee.

Consideration may be given to candidates with interdisciplinary conceptual and methodological perspectives in both critical and applied analyses of the complex social, political, and economic changes shaping the contemporary Middle East; those whose scholarship may include but is not limited to: critical political economies; environmental and human security; international and civil conflict; migration; as well as the cultural, gender, sexuality, race, and class dimensions of these issues.

Consideration may also be given to candidates with demonstrated potential for interdisciplinary teaching that engages the International Studies curriculum and other of the academic majors and minors offered by the Department of Global and Intercultural Studies: Asian/Asian-American Studies; American Studies; Black World Studies; Latin American, Latino/a, and Caribbean Studies; Middle East and Islamic Studies; and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a writing sample (one chapter or journal article in length), and statement of teaching philosophy to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=6314>. Screening of applications will begin on October 8, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Direct queries about the search to Dr. Carl Dahlman at dahlmac@miamioh.edu or Dr. Nathan French at frenchns@miamioh.edu. Department will request letters of reference.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4842

University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with focus in Human Rights or IPE

Specializations: International Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University of Massachusetts Lowell (UML) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science, with a specialization International Relations and a focus in either human rights or political economy and development. Candidates must also have the capacity to develop and teach quantitative research methods courses for our Global Studies PhD program. Applicants should also be prepared to offer undergraduate Political Science courses and Global Studies PhD courses. The appointment is expected to begin in the fall of 2019.

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Current ABD candidates are encouraged to apply, although the Ph.D. must be in hand by the appointment date. Recommendation letters for ABD applicants should address when the applicant is expected to defend his or her dissertation.

The new hire would join a collegial and ambitious department and university where research productive faculty teach a 2/2 course load. UML is committed to increasing diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to that goal.

The Political Science Department is housed within the University's College of Fine Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (FAHSS). The College is the largest unit of the University, with 11 academic departments and over 180 full time faculty. FAHSS has experienced significant growth in recent years, including hiring more than 50 new faculty members, achieving 70% growth in funded research expenditures, and the addition of several new interdisciplinary graduate programs. The Political Science Department currently has 12 tenured and tenure track faculty members, 3 visiting positions, and 3 adjunct faculty members. The Political Science Department is also home to UML's interdisciplinary Global Studies Ph.D. Program

(<https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Global-Studies/>). In addition, our faculty are also engaged in the teaching and design of the interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies Program (which offers undergraduate and master's degrees) and the newly established Master's in Public Administration. For more information, please visit our homepage: <https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Political-Science/>

Applicants should submit:

1. Cover letter delineating the applicants research and scholarship agenda
2. Writing sample (ideally a published paper or one in preparation for submission)
3. Teaching philosophy statement
4. CV
5. Name and contact information of three professional references

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science
- Evidence of expertise in international relations with a focus in human rights or international political economy and development
- Evidence of strong statistical skills and ability to teach quantitative methods at the doctoral level
- Evidence of ability to develop and teach graduate and undergraduate political science courses in either human rights or political economy and development

Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled, but the position may close when an adequate number of applications are received.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4843

University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science with focus in Human Rights or IPE

Specializations: International Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University of Massachusetts Lowell (UML) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science, with a specialization International Relations and a focus in either human rights or political economy and development. Candidates must also have the capacity to develop and teach quantitative research methods courses for our Global Studies PhD program. Applicants should also be prepared to offer undergraduate Political Science courses and Global Studies PhD courses. The appointment is expected to begin in the fall of 2019.

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required. Current ABD candidates are encouraged to apply, although the Ph.D. must be in hand by the appointment date. Recommendation letters for ABD applicants should address when the applicant is expected to defend his or her dissertation.

The new hire would join a collegial and ambitious department and university where research productive faculty teach a 2/2 course load. UML is committed to increasing diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to that goal.

The Political Science Department is housed within the University's College of Fine Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (FAHSS). The College is the largest unit of the University, with 11 academic departments and over 180 full time faculty. FAHSS has experienced significant growth in recent years, including hiring more than 50 new faculty members, achieving 70% growth in funded research expenditures, and the addition of several new interdisciplinary graduate programs. The Political Science Department currently has 12 tenured and tenure track faculty members, 3 visiting positions, and 3 adjunct faculty members. The Political Science Department is also home to UML's interdisciplinary Global Studies Ph.D. Program (<https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Global-Studies/>). In addition, our faculty are also engaged in the teaching and design of the interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies Program (which offers undergraduate and master's degrees) and the newly established Master's in Public Administration. For more information, please visit our homepage: <https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Political-Science/>

Applicants should submit using the following link: <http://explorejobs.uml.edu/lowell/en-us/job/495651/assistant-professor-in-international-relations>

1. Cover letter delineating the applicants research and scholarship agenda
2. Writing sample (ideally a published paper or one in preparation for submission)
3. Teaching philosophy statement
4. CV
5. Name and contact information of three professional references

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science
- Evidence of expertise in international relations with a focus in human rights or international political economy and development
- Evidence of strong statistical skills and ability to teach quantitative methods at the doctoral level
- Evidence of ability to develop and teach graduate and undergraduate political science courses in either human rights or political economy and development

Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled, but the position may close when an adequate number of applications are received.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4844

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position focused on race and ethnicity in any subfield of political science, with particular emphasis on American, Comparative or International Politics. This is an open-rank search that is part of a cluster hire within the College of the Liberal Arts at Penn State (<http://la.psu.edu/>

about/diversity-and-inclusion/faculty). The department particularly seeks individuals who build on the strengths of the department. Note that this position is separate and in addition to a simultaneous search being conducted by the Department of African American Studies, and interested candidates may apply to both positions (posting available at <https://www.apsanet.org/CAREERS/eJobs/eJobs-Online/JBctl/ViewJob/JobID/4665>). Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Tenure track candidates should have a record that demonstrates potential to build a strong publication record, to secure external funding, and to serve as an excellent teacher and mentor. Tenured applicants should already have developed a strong record in each of these three areas. Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Applications must be submitted online, and should include as attachments a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates for the rank of assistant professor should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu; candidates seeking a tenured appointment should e-mail the names and contact information for three individuals who have agreed to serve as a reference to that address. Application review will begin on October 10, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to <https://police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports>, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report. Job URL: <https://psu.jobs/job/83036>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4838

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position focused on race and ethnicity in any subfield of political science, with particular emphasis on American, Comparative or International Politics. This is an open-rank search that is part of a cluster hire within the College of the Liberal Arts at Penn State (<http://la.psu.edu/about/diversity-and-inclusion/faculty>). The department particularly seeks individuals who build on the strengths of the department. Note that this position is separate and in addition to a simultaneous search being conducted by the Department of African American Studies, and interested candidates may apply to both positions (posting available at <https://www.apsanet.org/CAREERS/eJobs/eJobs-Online/JBctl/ViewJob/JobID/4665>). Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Tenure track candidates should have a record that demonstrates potential to build a strong publication record, to secure external funding, and to serve as an excellent teacher and mentor. Tenured applicants should already have developed a strong record in each of these three areas. Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Applications must be submitted online, and should include as attachments a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). All candidates for the rank of assistant professor should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu; candidates seeking a tenured appointment should e-mail the names and contact information for three individuals who have agreed to serve as a reference to that address. Application review will begin on October 10, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to <https://police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports>, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Job URL: <https://psu.jobs/job/83036>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4839

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, POLITICS AND POLICY OF CHINA - CLUSTER HIRE

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in comparative politics or international relations, with a primary focus on China and a secondary focus on East Asia and the Pacific Rim. Potential areas of substantive expertise in the politics and policy of China include: political and economic development, human rights, environmental politics and policy, international political economy, international security, or international organizations/governance.

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment in either the Department of Political Science or the La Follette School of Public Affairs, with preference given to candidates interested in both political science and public affairs/public policy. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank. Teaching will include courses to undergraduates as well as graduates. Teaching and research will primarily focus on the successful candidate's area of expertise. This position is part of a research cluster proposed by the Title VI-funded National Resource Center, the Center for East Asian Studies, for the University's Cluster Hiring Initiative (<https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>) to enhance cross-disciplinary expertise on contemporary East Asia. Candidates should have an interest in collaborating with the Cluster and with colleagues affiliated with the Center for East Asian Studies. Three candidates will be recruited in this Cluster: 1) Assistant Professor, Sociology of Contemporary Korea [PVL# 95849]; 2) Assistant Professor, Chinese Politics and Policy [PVL# 95952]; and 3) Assistant Professor, Educational Policy Studies in East Asia [PVL # TBD].

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required with service at the professional and university level.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our university's interdisciplinary research strength in key areas of current and future research promise, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

TO APPLY:

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 95952. To begin the application process please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4837

Naval War College

Rank: ASSISTANT / ASSOCIATE/ FULL PROFESSOR OF STRATEGY & POLICY

US NAVAL WAR COLLEGE SEEKS ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE/ FULL PROFESSOR OF STRATEGY & POLICY
AD-1701-03/05/07

The Department of Strategy and Policy at the US Naval War College in Newport, RI seeks to fill one vacancy beginning no later than September 2019. We invite applications from exceptionally qualified scholars to teach in the resident masters degree programs of the world's oldest graduate institution of professional military education.

Strategy and Policy: The Strategy and Policy Department is one of the College's three core academic teaching departments and is composed of tenured/ tenure-track civilian professors and military professors engaged in teaching, research, and professional service. It offers graduate level education in strategy and international affairs to mid-career students from the US military, the US government, and over sixty partner-nations. For more information, see the department's webpage: <https://usnwc.edu/Faculty-and-Departments/Academic-Departments/Strategy-and-Policy-Department>

Duties and Responsibilities: Specific responsibilities include teaching graduate-level courses on strategy, collaborating in development of the common core curriculum, developing and teaching elective courses in areas of expertise, carrying out research and publication, and engaging in College service. Teaching is primarily seminar-format with some lectures. The trimester system allows substantial time for research and professional development. The appointment is tenure-track, with possibility of an accelerated tenure schedule for senior-level applicants.

Qualifications: candidates must have a Ph.D in hand at time of starting employment in a field related to strategic studies, international relations, security studies, comparative politics, or military / naval / international history. Competitive candidates will have strong records of research and publication as well as demonstrated teaching excellence, particularly at the graduate level.

Candidates must be US citizens and capable of obtaining a Department of Defense SECRET clearance.

Salary Considerations: Salary is competitive and accompanied by a generous federal civil service package including health insurance, pension and retirement savings plans, paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with the Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Application Process: Applications will be accepted through 1 November 2018. The application package must include cover letter, vita, writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Applicants must reference V A#NWC-18-13 and send their application package to hro-sp-18-13@usnwc.edu.

Questions about the position may be directed to Department Chair Prof. David Stone at david.stone@usnwc.edu.

Active duty members may apply under this announcement but are subject to eligibility requirements of the Veterans Opportunity to Work Act (VOW). Active duty members must submit a statement of service printed on command letterhead and signed by the command. The statement of service must provide branch, rate/rank, all dates of service, the expected date of discharge and anticipated character of service (Honorable, General, etc.) Please note: you will be ineligible for consideration if your statement of service is not submitted with your application or shows an expected discharge or release date greater than 120 days after being submitted with your application.

Within the Department of Defense (DoD), the appointment of retired military members within 180 days immediately following retirement date to a civilian position is subject to the provisions of 5 United States Code 3326.

The U.S. Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4832

Glendon College, York University

Rank: Assistant Lecturer (tenure-track)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Political Science, Glendon College, York University, invites applications for a teaching stream (alternate stream) tenure-track position in any area of political science at the rank of Assistant Lecturer, to commence July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will teach large undergraduate courses as well as upper-year undergraduate seminars across subfields and may also teach graduate courses. The candidate will provide leadership in enhancing teaching and learning through curricular and pedagogical innovation. A Ph.D. in political science in hand or near completion by July 1, 2019 is required. The successful candidate must be fluent in English and French and be able to teach in both languages in a multicultural context.

The successful candidate will demonstrate excellence or clear potential for excellence in teaching university-level courses, a strong commitment to pedagogy and student success, and the capacity to bring a theoretical and practical orientation to teaching, learning, and program design. The successful candidate will demonstrate capacity to teach large undergraduate courses as well as upper-year undergraduate seminars across subfields. A record of pedagogical innovation in high priority areas such as experiential education, technology enhanced learning, and community-based learning is preferred as is experience with curriculum development and universal design approaches to teaching and assessment. Evidence of service contributions or potential to contribute to service in administrative and committee work is preferred.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

York U's bilingual Glendon Campus is home to Southern Ontario's Centre of Excellence for French Language and Bilingual Postsecondary Education. Glendon comprises about 2,700 students on a scenic campus in the heart of the cosmopolitan city of Toronto. Glendon is committed to high-quality teaching in the tradition of the liberal arts and offers a unique undergraduate academic experience for students within one of Canada's largest research universities. For information about Glendon and its programs, please consult the Faculty webpage at <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. The AA program, which applies to Aboriginal people, visible minorities, people with disabilities, and women, can be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> or by calling the AA office at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify can do so by downloading, completing and submitting the forms found at: <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>. Please select the 'Affirmative Action' tab under which forms pertaining to Citizenship and AA can be found. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous peoples in Canada will be given priority.

The deadline for receipt of applications is November 18, 2018. An application letter outlining professional experience, a curriculum vitae, a teaching dossier which supports excellence and innovation in teaching, evidence of research activity, and three signed confidential letters of recommendation should be sent to Professor Willem Maas, Chair, Political Science, Glendon College, York University, via email to polisci@glendon.yorku.ca with the subject heading "Teaching stream position". Referees should be advised to address the candidate's qualifications and experience in relation to this position.

**

Le Département de science politique du Collège universitaire Glendon de l'Université York sollicite des candidatures pour un poste menant à la permanence (volet enseignement) dans n'importe quel domaine de la science politique au rang de chargé d'enseignement, débutant le 1er juillet 2019. La personne sélectionnée devra enseigner de grands cours et séminaires au 1er cycle dans différents sous-domaines et pourra également enseigner des cours de 2e et 3e cycles. La personne sélectionnée devra contribuer de façon proactive à l'amélioration de l'enseignement et de l'apprentissage au sein de l'établissement, notamment à travers des initiatives et des pratiques innovantes en matière de curriculum et de pédagogie. Les candidat.e.s doivent être titulaires d'un doctorat en science politique ou ce dernier doit être en voie d'achèvement au plus tard le 1er juillet 2019. La personne retenue devra être bilingue en français et en anglais, et capable d'enseigner dans ces deux langues dans un environnement multiculturel.

La personne retenue devra faire preuve d'excellence, ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses dans l'enseignement de cours universitaires et s'investir activement dans la pédagogie et en faveur de la réussite des étudiants. La capacité du candidat à intégrer une approche à la fois théorique et pratique à l'enseignement, l'apprentissage et la création de cours sera considérée comme un atout. La personne retenue devra démontrer sa capacité d'enseigner de grands cours ainsi que des petits séminaires à travers les sous-domaines de science politique. L'innovation pédagogique dans des domaines hautement prioritaires, tels que l'éducation expérientielle, l'apprentissage assisté par les technologies et l'apprentissage communautaire, sera considérée comme un atout, ainsi que l'expérience dans l'élaboration de programmes d'études avec une conception universelle en matière d'enseignement et d'évaluation. La personne retenue devra aussi fournir des preuves de ses services passés ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses dans le service à l'administration et aux comités.

Le salaire sera établi en fonction de la convention collective et de l'expérience. Toutes les offres de poste à York sont sujettes à autorisation budgétaire de l'Université.

Le Collège universitaire Glendon de l'Université York a été désigné comme Centre d'excellence pour les études postsecondaires en français et bilingues dans le sud de l'Ontario. Glendon, Faculté bilingue (français-anglais), accueille environ 2 700 étudiants sur un campus pittoresque situé au cœur de la ville cosmopolite de Toronto. Glendon s'inscrit dans la tradition des arts libéraux et offre une expérience académique de 1er cycle unique dans une des plus grandes universités au Canada. Pour de plus amples renseignements sur ses programmes d'études, veuillez consulter le site Web de Glendon à <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

L'Université York est un employeur qui a adopté un programme d'action affirmative, et préconise la diversité dans sa communauté, notamment celle de sexe. Le programme d'action affirmative s'applique aux autochtones, aux minorités visibles, aux personnes en situation de handicap et aux femmes. Pour plus de renseignements sur ce programme, veuillez consulter le site Web de York à l'adresse : <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>, ou vous adresser Bureau d'action affirmative au (416) 736 5713. Toutes les personnes qualifiées sont encouragées à poser leur candidature ; toutefois, la priorité sera accordée aux personnes de citoyenneté canadienne ou détenant le statut de résident permanent, et aux populations autochtones du Canada.

La date limite de soumission des candidatures est le 18 novembre 2018. Les personnes intéressées doivent faire parvenir une lettre de motivation mettant en évidence leur expérience professionnelle, un curriculum vitae, un dossier d'enseignement qui démontre l'excellence et l'innovation en enseignement, preuve de l'activité de recherche, et faire envoyer directement trois lettres de recommandation confidentielles à Willem Maas, Directeur, Département de science politique, Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York, par courriel à polisci@glendon.yorku.ca avec sujet « Poste volet enseignement ». Les personnes rédigeant des lettres de recommandation doivent aborder dans celles-ci les qualifications et l'expérience du candidat ou de la candidate en rapport avec le poste.

Les candidat.e.s qui souhaitent déclarer leur appartenance à un groupe désigné peuvent le faire en téléchargeant et en soumettant le formulaire disponible sur le site : <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>. Prière de sélectionner l'onglet « Affirmative Action » pour accéder aux formulaires relatifs à la citoyenneté et à l'action affirmative.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4822

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer/ Senior Lecturer in International Relations

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Political Theory

School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations

Wellington, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme is a growing programme that seeks to appoint three permanent Lecturers/Senior Lecturers in International Relations (equivalent to assistant/associate professor). All candidates with a strong background in any area of International Relations are encouraged to apply, but we are seeking especially candidates specialising in any of the following: International Political Economy, International Organizations, Human Rights, Security, and/or Environmental Politics. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidates should be able to teach into core courses in International Relations and to supervise postgraduate theses across a range of areas in the discipline. Please indicate on your application the area/s of specialisation you are applying for.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

This role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in International Relations; an active research profile; contributing to public engagement and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr Xavier Marquez, Head of Programme, Political Science and International Relations, email xavier.marquez@vuw.ac.nz phone +64 4 463 5889.

Applications close Monday, 15 October 2018 NZ time.

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For more information and to apply online visit <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/about/careers/current-vacancies>

Reference 2382.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4829

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor International Political Economy/Development

Bucknell University's Department of International Relations is seeking to fill a tenure-track position in International Political Economy/Development beginning in August 2019. By the time of appointment, applicants are expected to hold a PhD in Anthropology, Heterodox Economics, International Relations, Sociology, or other relevant interdisciplinary degrees.

We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level, but candidates of all ranks are welcome to apply.

The successful candidate will teach five courses per academic year. We are seeking a candidate whose teaching and research interests are International Political Economy/Development. The selected candidate will be able to teach courses on globalization and Political Economy of Global Resources. He/she should have regional expertise in Latin America and/or the Caribbean.

Applications must be made online at: www.bucknell.edu/jobs Online applications require a cover letter, CV, statements on the candidate's teaching philosophy as well as his/her scholarly agenda, sample syllabi, and three letters of reference. Questions regarding the position should be addressed to Dr. Zhiqun Zhu (zhiqun.zhu@bucknell.edu). Full consideration will be given to applications received by October 1, 2018.

The Department of International Relations offers a multi-disciplinary major where students take courses from the International Relations faculty who have backgrounds in different disciplines, as well as courses offered in other departments.

About Bucknell

Founded in 1846 and located along the banks of the Susquehanna River in historic Lewisburg, Pa., Bucknell University is an undergraduate-focused institution that stands uniquely at the intersection of top-ranked liberal arts, engineering and management programs. Our students choose from more than 50 majors and 60 minors in the arts, engineering, humanities, management, and natural and social sciences, as well as extensive global study, service-learning and research opportunities. Bucknell's 3,600 undergraduate and 100 graduate students enjoy a low 9:1 student-faculty ratio and exceptional opportunities to collaborate with faculty mentors.

Bucknell's beautiful 450-acre campus includes first-rate facilities and is home to more than 90 percent of its students. Residential life is vibrant with about 150 student-run organizations, 27 NCAA Division I athletic teams, a robust arts culture, and a strong student commitment to community and global service work.

Bucknell is committed to fostering an environment that embraces diversity, equity and inclusion, and we seek candidates who will contribute to a climate that supports the growth and development of a diverse campus community. The University provides equal opportunity without regard to race, color, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, marital status, veteran status or disability in admissions, employment and in all of its educational programs and activities. We encourage individuals from historically underrepresented groups to apply.

The Community

Located in central Pennsylvania, Lewisburg features a variety of restaurants, beautiful Victorian homes, the restored art deco Campus Theatre (owned by the University), charming shops and boutiques, and the Barnes and Noble at Bucknell University Bookstore. About 33,000 residents live in the region.

The city of Williamsport is about a 30-minute drive from campus, and Penn State University's main campus is about an hour away, as is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's state capital. Bucknell is about three hours from New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

The cost of living here is low compared to that of major U.S. cities and suburbs. Bucknell's surroundings yield fresh produce, cultural activities and events, and many opportunities for outdoor activity on the Susquehanna River and in the nearby state parks and forests. The Lewisburg Area School District receives excellent reviews for its schools at all grade levels. Lewisburg Area High School is consistently ranked among the top 50 high schools in Pennsylvania for SAT scores and statewide exams.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/5rfszj8fzqw98ht>

PI104249363

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4808

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Teaching in African Studies

The African Studies program in Georgetown University's Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service invites applications for a three-year, non-tenure track appointment as an Assistant Professor of Teaching whose research and teaching focus on religion in Africa. The African Studies Program is an interdisciplinary academic program established in 1980.

Applicants from a range of disciplines will be considered; however, strong preference will be given to those in the areas of comparative religion or Theology. We are particularly interested in scholar-teachers whose work explores the growth and representation of religious beliefs and identity in Africa, and the intersection between religious life and domestic and international politics. Applicants with a regional expertise in West Africa are especially welcome. The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong record of teaching and scholarship. ABDs are welcome to apply but must have degree in hand by August 2019.

The deadline for applications is December 1, 2018. Interested applicants should submit the following: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample of scholarly writing, brief statement of teaching and research interests, copies of teaching evaluations, if available, and three (3) letters of recommendation.

Applications for this position must be submitted online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11694>. Faxed, mailed, or emailed applications will not be accepted.

Questions about the online application system should be directed to Sarah Nebbeling, Assistant Director of Faculty Affairs at ska60@georgetown.edu. Queries about the position should be directed to Dr. Scott Taylor, Professor and Director of the African Studies Program, at sdt@georgetown.edu.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4810

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship in Regional Political Economy
Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Southeast Asia, Africa

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2019-2020 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 3, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8571>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 6, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4801

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate
Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 for the 2019-2020 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 – July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 30, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8569>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 5, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4800

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellowship in Regional Political Economy Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Middle East, Africa

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2019-2020 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 3, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8581>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;

- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 6, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4803

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellowship Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2019-2020 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 30, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8570>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 5, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4799

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in Global Education

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a faculty position in global education, with a preference for scholars whose work and interests include a focus on the intersection of education and development or international and comparative education policy. Scholars engaged in rigorous social science research from a variety of disciplines – economics, political science, sociology, education, and others – will be considered. Applicants should have an interest in interdisciplinary cooperation. Applicants attracted to a university with a Catholic identity are especially encouraged to apply. While priority will be given to consideration of junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant professors or non-tenured associate professors), senior applicants may also be considered. Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree required at the time of hire.

Qualifications

The successful hire will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs, with affiliations in the Kellogg Institute for International Studies and in Notre Dame's Institute for Educational Initiatives. Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of integral human development, the Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a master's degree, and supports undergraduate and doctoral programs. The Kellogg Institute for International Studies (<http://kellogg.nd.edu/>) has for over 35 years been a leading center for interdisciplinary research and programming on issues of democracy and human development. The Institute for Educational Initiatives (<http://iei.nd.edu/>) provides a home for nearly one hundred faculty fellows from across the University whose research and teaching interests focus on K-12 education, with a particular interest in Catholic education. Joint or concurrent appointments in the appropriate departments are also possible. Applicants should have an affirmative interest in contributing to the joint Kellogg Institute/Institute for Educational Initiative Research Cluster in International Education (<https://kellogg.nd.edu/research-cluster-international-education>).

Application Instructions

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant or non-tenured associate professors) should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference. Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/54487>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Paolo Carozza

Chair, Global Education Search Committee

Keough School of Global Affairs

University of Notre Dame

pcarozza@nd.edu

Applications must be submitted by January 15, 2019. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4811

University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater anticipates a tenure-track opening at the Assistant Professor level in public law beginning August 22, 2019. The position is open to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative legal systems and/or international law. In addition, candidates who can expand course offerings in gender and law are highly desirable.

Candidates will be expected to contribute to the department's general education curriculum, and experience in the use of online instructional technology is desirable. Criminal Background Check Required.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABD candidates may apply but must have their degree completed by the contract start date in August 2019; if not, they will be hired on a one-year contract with the understanding that their degree will be completed before January 2020 in advance of their first scheduled review. Demonstrated excellence in or commitment to teaching with an emphasis on promoting the success of undergraduate students, clear evidence of scholarly potential, commitment to working with diverse populations and serving as active member of the university community. Salary is commensurate with academic preparation and experience.

Complete applications received by October 14, 2018 are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee. Application materials will be evaluated and the most qualified applicants will be invited to participate in phone and/or online screening interviews and/or on campus interviews.

For questions regarding this position, please contact:

Edward Gimbel
Associate Professor
Department of Political Science
Phone: 262-472-1532
email: gimbele@uww.edu

To Apply:

Complete applications will include online submission of the following materials:

- a letter of application addressing your qualifications for the position
 - curriculum vitae
 - evidence of teaching effectiveness
 - all undergraduate and graduate transcripts
 - three (3) letters of recommendation
- (letters of recommendation may also be sent separately to POL-ISCIP@uww.edu)

To apply and submit these documents online, please visit <http://www.uww.edu/employment>, and then follow the "Faculty and Instructional Staff" link on the next page. The Job ID is 14707, listed under "Tenure Track Faculty – College of Letters & Sciences."

If you have questions regarding this recruitment, or if you are not able to complete the application online due to a disability or system problem, please contact us at 262/472-1024 or hrstudent@uww.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/14/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4809

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Professor/Assistant Professor/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seek nominations and applications of interest to appoint three or more distinguished scholars to establish a cluster of excellence in research and teaching on the challenges of contemporary democracy. We are especially interested in colleagues with an established record of scholarship examining the root causes and consequences of polarization, including its global and transnational dynamics. Successful candidates will join the Agora Institute's core faculty and will serve as full members of the Department of Political Science. We invite qualified candidates from all subfields of the discipline whose work connects with the core mission of the Institute. By conducting a broad and inclusive search, we are committed to identifying candidates who, through their research, teaching, and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of our academic community.

Political Science at Johns Hopkins is a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department open to a variety of research methods and intellectual approaches. We also will consider applications for potential cross-disciplinary appointments from scholars in fields such as History, Sociology, Psychology, and Philosophy as well as cross-divisional appointments.

Jointly conceived by the University and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF), the $150M SNF Agora Institute was founded to address the deterioration of civic engagement in democracies worldwide and facilitate the restoration of open and inclusive discourse that is the cornerstone of healthy democracies. Housed in the University's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading academic and public forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics—to examine the dynamics of civic strife and design and test mechanisms for improving dialogue, social engagement, and democratic governance (<http://agora.jhu.edu/>).

Applicants for Tenured Associate or Full Professor should submit a cover letter, research statement, and curriculum vitae using Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/54486>. Candidates applying at the level of advanced assistant professor should include the above as well as a writing sample and three letters of recommendation. Nominations of potential candidates should be sent directly to Professor Adam Sheingate (adam.sheingate@jhu.edu). Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4804

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: International Relations Tenure Track Faculty Position

University of North Carolina at Charlotte
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
International Relations Tenure Track Faculty Position
(#007128POL)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in international relations. Required qualifications include: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a related field by August 15, 2019, with a primary focus on peace and conflict; demonstrated excellence or strong potential in research, including the ability to secure external funding; teaching experience at the college level; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment. The ability to teach substantive or methodological courses in the Ph.D. program in Public Policy is also valuable. The nine-month tenure track position begins Fall 2019.

Finalists will be asked during their screening interview to discuss how the topics of diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their teaching and research.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers an M.P.A., B.A., and a minor. It has 24 full-time faculty members. Many participate in one or more interdisciplinary programs, including the Public Policy Ph.D. program, Latin American Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Africana Studies.

UNC Charlotte is a rapidly growing doctoral-granting urban university located in the largest metropolitan area between Washington DC, and Atlanta. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus. Over 29,000 culturally diverse students currently are enrolled at the University. As the largest college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 20 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and military sciences, as well as 25 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. It offers eight doctoral degrees, 24 master's degrees, 12 graduate certificates, and 32 undergraduate degrees.

Review of applications will begin October 12, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Applications must be submitted electronically to <https://jobs.uncc.edu>. Please include the following documents with your electronic application: (1) letter of application outlining your scholarly interests and agenda, including experience with securing external funding and with teaching, related to the qualifications outlined above; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) a copy of graduate transcript; (4) one sample of professional writing; and (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be sent either in PDF format or by regular mail. All letters must be addressed to James Igoe Walsh, International Relations Search Committee Chair, UNC Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd, Fretwell 440, Charlotte, NC 28223 or jwalsh@uncc.edu. Direct questions to Dr. Walsh.

As an EOE/AA employer and an ADVANCE Institution that strives to create an academic climate in which the dignity of all individuals is respected and maintained, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte encourages applications from all underrepresented groups.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4793

Virginia Military Institute

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies and Political Science

Assistant Professor of International Studies and Political Science (tenure-track)

The Virginia Military Institute's Department of International Studies and Political Science (IS) announces a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in the subfield of international relations, beginning

1 August 2019. The position entails the instruction of three course sections per academic semester. The successful candidate will demonstrate a capacity to teach undergraduate-level courses on American Foreign and/or National Security Policy. In addition, the ideal candidate will possess a substantive and/or geographic specialization that complements the existing strengths of the department's faculty. Strong preference will be given to those candidates who provide evidence of their potential to develop and maintain a vibrant research agenda and to apply their research in the undergraduate classroom. These endeavors are highly valued and well-supported at VMI. Information on the IS department and curriculum can be found at <https://www.vmi.edu/academics/departments/international-studies-and-political-science/>.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations must be completed prior to 1 August 2019. Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is required.

Applicants should complete an application and submit a cover letter summarizing their interest in the position and qualifications, a curriculum vitae, and graduate transcripts online at: <http://virginiajobs.peopleadmin.com/postings/123588>.

Separately, applicants should submit three letters of recommendation via e-mail to the VMI International Studies Department Head, Dennis Foster, at fosterdm@vmi.edu.

To receive full consideration, all application materials should be submitted by 15 October 2018. Review of applications will begin immediately, and continue until the position is filled.

Virginia Military Institute is a state-supported four-year undergraduate military college of liberal arts, engineering, and the sciences. It is located in the southern Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Lexington, population 7,000, is also home to Washington and Lee University and offers a stimulating cultural atmosphere in a pleasant, rural setting. In a continuing effort to enrich its academic environment and provide equal educational and employment opportunities, VMI encourages women, minorities, disabled individuals and veterans to apply. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps and other national service alumni are also encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4791

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of Gender and Global Affairs

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. We seek applicants who have done substantial empirical work on the role of gender in international relations, international development, or global affairs. Among the issue-areas in which we have particular interest are human development, human security, and human rights. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including international relations, sociology, political science, economics, geography, anthropology, and history, and are open to all methodological approaches and regional specializations. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching. Candidates who have demonstrated policy expertise are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letters of recommendation electronically at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11809>. Questions about the position or the Pardee School may be directed to Ms. Elaine Bidianos at elaineb@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2019. The Pardee School of Global Studies offers B.A. and M.A. degrees and is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4785

Boston University

Rank: Part Time Lecturer - IR, Foreign Policy Devisonmaking, or Diplomacy

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks part time, adjunct faculty for spring 2019-2020 to teach an undergraduate lecture course in international relations, foreign policy decisionmaking, or diplomacy. Applicants should be ABD or hold a PhD in a relevant field. Please send a resume, letter of interest, and the names of three references to Wes Soper, Department Administrator, Department of Political Science, Boston University, by 17 September 2018. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4778

Dartmouth College

Rank: Wright Chair in Transnational Politics

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to the newly endowed James Wright Professorship. The person appointed to this chair is expected to be a tenured associate or full professor who holds a Ph.D. and has established a distinguished record of policy-relevant scholarship on international relations. We especially welcome applications from scholars whose research focuses on foreign policy and diplomacy. It is anticipated that the holder of the Wright Chair will have an association or affiliation with the John Sloan Dickey Center for International Understanding. The recipient of the professorship will have a distinguished academic record in both teaching and scholarship that will contribute significantly to the advancement of interdisciplinary knowledge and to the enduring liberal arts mission of Dartmouth. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV. The review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to: William.Wohlforth@Dartmouth.edu. Applications must be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/53882

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4783

Duke University

Rank: Pre/Postdoc

Specializations: Economic Policy, Developing Nations, Quantitative Methods

The DevLab@Duke has two openings for Pre/Post-Doctoral fellows working on an innovative project that combines machine learning and forecasting with coordinated, cross-country field experiments. The project aims to understand and forecast democratic breakdowns with an eye toward defending civil society against repression.

One pre/postdoc will focus on collecting, managing and analyzing field data from local partners and interventions aimed at promoting robust civil societies. Excellent data skills, a field experimental orientation, and capacity to work with partners in the international development industry are a must.

The other pre/postdoc will focus on scraping data, natural language processing, and building machine learning models to predict regime backsliding. Additional experience with visualization would be desirable, as would a background in both python and R.

Prospective candidates are expected to have done graduate work in one or more of these areas:

- International Development
- Economics
- Political Science
- Statistics
- Computer Science

Successful candidates will collaborate with Professors Scott de Marchi and Erik Wibbels, as well other members of the DevLab in an interdisciplinary environment. They will be expected to work with lab associates to provide timely input to development practitioners affiliated with the DevLab—including donors, implementers and evaluators—at all stages of project conceptualization, design, implementation and evaluation. DevLab activities will leave considerable time for independent research, and the position offers ample opportunity for developing new research projects in conjunction with DevLab members.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening, but applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately, and we are eager for the right applicant to join us. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year, with options of renewal for another one or two years. Applications (including a statement of research interests, a curriculum vitae, a sample of research, and three letters of recommendation) should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11836>. For questions/information, please email david.dow@duke.edu.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4771

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor in Global Studies

Assistant Teaching Professor in Global Studies

The Program in Global and International Studies (GLIS) invites applications for a three-year non-tenure track position as Assistant Teaching Professor in Global Studies. The preferred start date for the position is August 2019, and the appointment may be renewed based on factors including positive performance reviews. Responsibilities include teaching 2 introductory courses per semester in GLIS, which constitutes 2/3 of the position. For the remaining 1/3 of the position, the faculty member will assist with programmatic activities including curriculum and course development, student programs, and others as assigned. Requirements include a Ph.D. in a Humanities or Social Science discipline at the time of appointment and teaching experience in global studies. As Penn State's Program in GLIS combines both Humanities and Social Science methods, experience in teaching with both humanistic and social scientific approaches will be a plus. Preferred qualifications also include a record of program building, curriculum development, proposal writing, and experience developing online courses. To apply, submit via the Penn State jobs website: a cover letter explaining candidate's global studies teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy, and the names and contact information for two references who can address the candidate's teaching. Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. For more information on Penn State's Global and International Studies Program see: <http://glis.la.psu.edu/>.

Apply online at <http://apptrkr.com/1284835>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/>

jeid-da97bd4cf954ad459b3d880c032f6cb3

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4764

University of Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Mississippi invites applications to fill a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in International Relations, starting Fall 2019. The Department is foremost interested in hiring an excellent candidate, with all areas of specialization invited to apply. Successful candidates should add to the Department's strength in quantitative methods. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates must complete an online application at <https://careers.olemiss.edu>.

Requirements include at least ABD standing with the expectation of completion by Fall 2019, as well as a potential for or record of excellence in teaching and research. The online application should include a cover letter indicating research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, writing samples, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Review of all applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled or until an adequate applicant pool is established.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4763

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track (Assistant Professor) positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2019.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 34 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should apply through Workday as instructed below. Applicants should submit the following material online through workday using the links below: a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, any available teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Applicants should also have three letters of reference submitted electronically to Professor William Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Our review of applications will begin on October 3, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

EXTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently are NOT a Texas A&M System employee please click below to go to our external career site to view our jobs. Go to External Career Site – https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Assistant-Professor_R-011658

INTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently ARE a Texas A&M System employee: Go to Internal Career Site – <https://jobs.tamu.edu/internal-applicants/>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4758

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford Center on Global Poverty and Development Postdoctoral Fellows program offers one-year (and will consider two-year) fellowships to outstanding new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development and poverty alleviation. The multi-disciplinary program offers a competitive stipend, as well as support for travel and research expenses. Postdoctoral Fellows have no teaching responsibilities and minimal administrative duties.

Application Details

The Stanford Center on Global Poverty and Development invites applications for multi-disciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2019 for one year (and will consider two years). The Center's postdoctoral fellows program is intended for promising new and recent PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to critical issues for international development and poverty alleviation.

The Center's postdoctoral fellows will be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University. The Center provides a competitive salary plus support for travel and research expenses.

For information, please visit <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

For full consideration, please submit all materials by December 1, 2018 via the online application form here: <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/postdoctoral-fellow-application-form>

Application Instructions:

Please apply online with the following materials: (1) Cover Letter, (2) Curriculum Vitae, (3) Job Market Paper or Writing Sample, and (4) Three Letters of Recommendation. Please submit items 1-3 in one PDF document through the online application form here: <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/postdoctoral-fellow-application-form>

Recommenders can submit letters directly to globalpoverty@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4639

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, and Endowed Chair Innovation, Science, Technology, and Policy

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego invites applications for a tenured Endowed Chair of Innovation, Science, Technology, and Policy at the rank of Associate or Full Professor, to begin July 1st, 2019.

The faculty at the School of Global Policy and Strategy (gps.ucsd.edu) represents a broad range of academic backgrounds, including both social and physical sciences. We are united by a desire to understand, design, and rigorously test solutions to promote human advancement and mitigate against pressing challenges to human welfare and global issues.

We anticipate that the Endowed Chair of Innovation, Science, Technology, and Policy will expand our leadership at the interface of STEM fields and policy. We are looking for candidates with an outstanding record of research and leadership both within their field of training, and in the intersection of that field with questions of policy, welfare, or justice. Domains of interest include, but are not limited to: climate and the environment, critical infrastructure, cybersecurity, data and privacy, development engineering, digital technology and automation, energy, health, and technological innovation.

Applicants should be PhD graduates (or equivalent terminal degree in a research discipline) with proven leadership and scholarship records. The School of Global Policy and Strategy is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service, and contribute to -- and participate in -- our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education. We welcome applications from both STEM and social science scholars who can develop rich links to other UC San Diego units, including the Jacobs School of Engineering, Scripps Institution of Oceanography, Health Sciences, and the Halicioglu Data Science Institute.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

Application review will begin on November 25, 2018.

To apply:

Candidates should submit the following materials to UC San Diego Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01863>:

Curriculum Vitae

Two writing samples

A personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching

Three (3) contacts for reference

A summary of past and potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applclicant-C2D-Info.asp>).

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4743

John Cabot University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of International Affairs

Visiting Assistant Professor of International Affairs

John Cabot University, a four year, fully-accredited American liberal arts college in Rome, Italy, invites applications for a visiting faculty position in political science and international affairs at the assistant professor rank. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, demonstrated excellence in teaching and research, and commitment to academic service. The candidate will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses in international relations. The ideal candidate should be a graduate of an American university or have experience in the American liberal arts educational tradition. The appointment is for one year, beginning January 1st, 2019, and with possibility of renewal. Candidates are expected to be fluent in English, which is the language of instruction, and have permission to work in the EU. Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, letters of recommendation, one or two research papers or journal publications, and evidence of teaching excellence to: plsearch-visiting@johncabot.edu. Review of applications will begin September 15th, 2018 and remain open until filled. Only short-listed applicants will be notified.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 4746

University of Georgia

Rank: IA Faculty and Director of the Center for International Trade & Security

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Administration

Specializations: International Security, Trade, Regulatory Policy

The University of Georgia's School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) seeks applications for the Director of the Center for International Trade and Security (CITS) and faculty member in the Department of International Affairs (DIA). The successful candidate must have a strong record of grant and contract acquisition and have a scholarly record appropriate for an academic appointment at a research university. The ideal candidate will also have policy relevant experience or expertise, fundraising experience, and previous management responsibilities. The Director of the Center reports to the Dean of SPIA. The position is open rank, tenured or tenure-track.

CITS was established in 1987 with the support of former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk. It has a distinguished record of policy-relevant research, training, and public service, focusing primarily on security issues related to the trade, transfer, and use of materials and technology associated with weapons of mass destruction (WMD), nuclear security culture, and nonproliferation policy. CITS is fortifying its connections to DIA and to other UGA academic units by broadening its scope to include human security, counterterrorism, counterinsurgency, cybersecurity, and energy security. While strategic trade management and nonproliferation remain central to CITS' mission, outstanding candidates with research and policy experience outside this area are also encouraged to apply.

The Center's programs are sustained by corporate and government contracts, private foundation grants, and individual and corporate gifts. For more than three decades, these sources of support have enabled the Center to design and implement training and outreach programs to U.S. and foreign policymakers and industry representatives. The Center also engages these communities, educators, students, and the general public via international colloquia on emerging security issues. CITS's Security and Strategic Trade Management Academy alone has trained more than 1,000 government officials, academics and industry representatives from 70 countries on the establishment, implementation, and enforcement of export controls.

CITS contributes to SPIA's Master of International Policy (MIP) Program that prepares graduate students for careers in international security and nonproliferation. CITS experts serve as instructors in the MIP Program, whose graduates have been placed in prestigious educational and government institutions. In addition, CITS experts administer the year-long Richard B. Russell Security Leadership Program which prepares undergraduates for careers in nonproliferation and national security. SLP Fellows have earned distinguished national and international scholarships and have been hired by US government agencies, international organizations, corporations, and consulting firms. For more information, visit: <http://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/center-for-international-trade-and-security-cits/>.

DIA is a vibrant and extremely research-active department of twenty-two faculty members that specialize in a wide array of topics, including international conflict, human rights, human security, political institutions, extremism, political economy, and environmental governance. The faculty are leading scholars in their fields, have earned distinguished national and international honors, oversee externally-funded research projects, and serve in editorial positions at top peer-reviewed journals. Members of the faculty have also won prestigious teaching awards at the school and university levels. The department has an undergraduate degree program and contributes to multiple graduate degree programs, including the Ph.D. program in Political Science and International Affairs. Both DIA and CITS are housed within SPIA, one of the fastest growing public affairs schools in the world. SPIA ranks sixth among graduate schools of public affairs, according to the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings.

The University of Georgia, located in Athens, Georgia, approximately 75 miles northeast of Atlanta, is a Research I institution in the University System of Georgia. Founded in 1785, the University is the largest and most comprehensive educational institution in the state. UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution. Georgia is well known for its quality of life, with both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov).

Prospective candidates must apply for the position through the UGA Jobs site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/30612>. To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vitae, and the contact information for three individuals who can provide reference letters. A Ph.D. is required. The position is open until filled. Applications received by November 1, 2018 will be assured full consideration. For questions concerning the position, please contact Amanda Murdie, Head, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 327, Athens, GA 30602 (telephone: 706-542-9659, email: murdie@uga.edu)

SPIA is committed to enhancing the diversity of the School and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Date Posted: 8/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4747

Temple University

Rank: Professor of Integrative Knowledge in Russian, Soviet, and Post-Soviet Studies

Specializations: Russia, History & Politics, Post Soviet Region

The Departments of Political Science and History at Temple University invite applications for the position of Professor of Integrative Knowledge in Russian, Soviet, and Post-Soviet Studies. We seek an established interdisciplinary scholar whose research and teaching address both Russian and/or Soviet history as well as the legacies of these earlier eras in the post-Soviet era, including topics such as the persistence of authoritarian rule as well as the important roles of the Soviet Union and Russia in world politics. This joint appointment in the Departments of History and Political Science is part of a broader initiative in the College of Liberal Arts to recruit senior faculty studying important questions across disciplinary boundaries. We seek someone who can be tenured at the level of either Associate or Full Professor in either (or both) Political Science and History.

Temple University is a state-related Carnegie Research University (highest research activity) located in Philadelphia. The College of Liberal Arts is home of 32 undergraduate majors, 32 minors, 23 certificate programs and 15 graduate degree programs. With its vibrant and diverse array of educational programs, the College of Liberal Arts plays, and its missions mirrors, both the historical importance of the liberal arts in society and the principles on which the university was founded.

Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <http://apply.interfolio.com/53872>. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on October 15th. Professors Mark Pollack of Political Science and Alan McPherson of History will co-chair the search.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4736

University of New England

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations and Global Studies

The Department of Political Science at the University of New England is searching for tenure-track Assistant Professor in International Relations and Global Studies beginning in the 2019-2020 academic year.

The ideal candidate will offer a range of introductory and advanced level courses in international relations, depending on the candidate's interest and expertise. The candidate will also teach Introduction to Global Studies and help guide students interested in the Global Studies major. The ability to teach in another sub-field, especially American or Comparative Politics, would be of additional value to the department. Political science courses at UNE are generally taught in a seminar style, with an emphasis on high-engagement with students.

We seek a well-rounded teacher-scholar with a promising research agenda. The department values research that crosses traditional disciplinary boundaries to address original and important questions. Service to the University and a strong commitment to academic advising and student mentorship is expected.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Sciences or related field at the time of appointment.

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for the position, please visit <https://une.peopleadmin.com/postings/4912>

UNE has a beautiful campus ocean-side in Biddeford, Maine. It is 20 minutes away from Portland, one of the country's most livable cities. The political science department is small, but vibrant. We value great teachers and scholars.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/25/2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2018
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4737

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, International Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Africa, Middle East

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019. We invite applicants from any social science discipline with research on post-conflict dynamics and processes of reconstruction (e.g., transitional justice, peace-keeping/peace-building, social integration and reconciliation, state building, economic development in post-conflict contexts). We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Africa, the Middle East, and South or Southeast Asia.

Applicants should have a doctoral degree by the time of appointment, demonstrated excellence in research, and strong teaching potential. Professional experience in applied research, practice, or policy will be considered an asset.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada for 2016, 2017, and 2018). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, statements of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email only to intst@sfu.ca (letters of reference should be sent directly by the letter writers). In the subject line of the email, indicate the following information: "2018 Assistant Professor Application, (Applicant Name)." Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the university for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4726

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, International Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Africa, Middle East

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019. We invite applicants from any social science discipline with research on post-conflict dynamics and processes of reconstruction (e.g., transitional justice, peace-keeping/peace-building, social integration and reconciliation, state building, economic development in post-conflict contexts). We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Africa, the Middle East, and South or Southeast Asia.

Applicants should have a doctoral degree by the time of appointment, demonstrated excellence in research, and strong teaching potential. Professional experience in applied research, practice, or policy will be considered an asset.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada for 2016, 2017, and 2018). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, statements of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email only to intst@sfu.ca (letters of reference should be sent directly by the letter writers). In the subject line of the email, indicate the following information: "2018 Assistant Professor Application, (Applicant Name)." Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the university for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4727

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is recruiting five tenure-track faculty at the assistant or associate professor rank. We seek scholars who will make transformative contributions to Carolina's new Environment, Ecology and Energy Program (E3P). Candidates from the social and natural sciences are encouraged to apply. Faculty will hold an appointment in an appropriate home academic department. Candidates must have a demonstrated capacity and interest to stimulate interdisciplinary collaborations.

These cluster positions include:

Cities and Critical Infrastructure: sustainable cities and infrastructure needs for cities of the future.

Energy and Energy Analytics: emergent renewable energy resources or technologies, including modeling and data analytics.

Environment, Development and Economics: public policy and/or applied economics of environment and development or environment and inequality, especially related to energy, environment or water. Inequality and the Environment: social and environmental issues related to inequality, vulnerability, and the growing need to address gaps in knowledge and uneven access to resources or services. Water Resources and Hydrology: the impacts of climate, pollution, and land use to the hydrologic cycle.

For more information and application instructions, see <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/143098>. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4729

Trinity University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position beginning January 2019. Candidates should be ABD or have PhD completed.

The successful candidate is expected to teach three courses per semester: the lower division introductory course in international politics, and upper division courses in any subfield other than human rights and international law, with a preference for those who can focus on international politics in Asia.

Trinity University is an equal opportunity employer and as such provides equal opportunity for employment and advancement of all employees without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, disability, military/veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or any status protected by federal, state, or local laws.

Applicants must submit a letter of application, CV, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and transcripts to David Crockett, Department of Political Science, Trinity University, One Trinity Place, San Antonio, TX 78212. Phone: (210) 999-8344. Email: dcrocket@trinity.edu.

The position will remain open until filled. Deadline for receipt of applications is October 11, 2018.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 4721

Australian National University

Rank: Academic Level B-D (Lecturer/Senior Lecturer/Associate Professor)

Specializations: International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations, Quantitative Methods

We welcome applications from candidates with expertise in the following areas: International Relations, International Political Economy and Political Economy.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise Honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the School.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital, Canberra, and ranked as the leading international relations department in Australia as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

These positions are based in Canberra.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years. For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

For more information about these positions including how to apply please go to:

<http://www.anu.edu.au/jobs>

Lecturer B – D International Relations:

<http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/526171/lecturer-international-relations>

Lecturer B – D International Political Economy: <http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/526164/lecturer-international-political-economy>

Lecturer B – D Political Economy:

<http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/526172/lecture-political-economy>

Enquiries: Dr Andrew Banfield, E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4716

Duke University

Rank: Associate Director

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

DevLab@Duke connects social scientists at Duke University who work in international development with the community of development practitioners. The Lab works directly with donors such as USAID and the World Bank on research opportunities, the promotion of evaluable programming, and on impact evaluations themselves. The Lab also works with implementers, such as RTI, DAI and others at the project proposal stage as well as the implementation and monitoring/evaluation stages. We are cross-sectoral, interdisciplinary, and interested in pushing the boundary between the academic and policy worlds with a permanent eye toward improving the lives of the poor.

DevLab@Duke seeks an Associate Director to work with our team of scholars and graduate students focused on applied international development. Primary responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Maintaining and expanding our relationships with the international development industry, including donors and implementers.
- Grant conceptualization, proposal preparation, grants management and report writing. Above and beyond proposal preparation, the Associate Director will play a key intellectual role in helping to design research for funding proposals.
- Oversight of data efforts bearing on impact evaluations and other research, including an innovative project that combines machine learning and forecasting with coordinated, cross-country field experiments aimed at defending civil society in repressive environments.
- Coordination and facilitation of regular DevLab meetings.
- Research support to academic publications; we also welcome candidates with independent research agendas as there will be many opportunities to help design large field experiments, develop original surveys, etc.
- Engage closely with multiple interdisciplinary research teams working across a broad swath of development sectors.

The ideal candidate is a self-starter, has a PhD in a social science discipline (MAs with considerable experience are welcome to apply) and experience with both the academic and policy sides of impact evaluations in developing countries. Though the position is based in Durham, NC it will involve modest domestic and international travel.

Required Qualifications:

- 3+ years of field experience on impact evaluations and related research.
- Experience coordinating research in developing countries.
- Experience with budgeting and administration in the international development industry.
- Demonstrated success writing research proposals and interacting with private and public donors.
- Data analysis skills.
- Strong interpersonal skills and eagerness to work in a lab-like setting.

Desired Qualifications:

- Experience with IRB procedures.
- Experience developing survey instruments.
- Advanced data analysis skills.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening; applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year with possibility of renewal for up to three years.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina. Durham and the surrounding Research Triangle are home to several major universities and a booming cultural life. Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status. For questions, please contact David Dow at david.dow@duke.edu. Those interested should access the following link: <https://forms.hr.duke.edu/careers/external.php?reqid=104447BR>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4700

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, Trade, International Political Economy

The Department of National Security Affairs at the Naval Postgraduate School seeks applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant/Associate professor interested in research and teaching in the fields of either international or comparative political economy. Specialists with regional expertise in Europe or the Middle East and/or with a relevance to national security affairs, defense policy, or maritime policy are especially encouraged to apply. Relevant expertise might include international economic negotiations, global/regional economic regimes, comparative economic policies, trade sanctions, and the political economy of violence. Candidates should demonstrate a strong potential for teaching excellence and scholarly research. The successful candidate must also be prepared to teach an introductory Masters-level course on the politics of global economic relations or comparative economic systems, as well as courses in his/her specific research specialty.

The Naval Postgraduate School is a fully accredited graduate school the students of which are drawn from the armed forces and civilian agencies of the United States and other countries. The Department of National Security Affairs is multi-disciplinary, with curricula based on Political Science, History, and Economics. Tenure-track professors typically teach a 2-2 load on a quarter system and are expected to maintain an active portfolio of academic research, publishing, and institutional service.

Minimum qualifications:

- An earned doctoral degree from an accredited institution
- Evidence of teaching aptitude
- Evidence of potential to advise student theses and dissertations
- Evidence of strong potential for scholarship leading to scholarly publications

Employment requirements:

- U.S. citizenship is required
- Background check and eligibility for a Secret-level clearance

Applications should include a CV, cover letter (including teaching and research interests), official graduate transcripts, and syllabi of relevant courses taught, preferably at the graduate level. Candidates should also submit up to three writing samples and three letters of recommendation. These confidential letters of recommendation should be submitted separately. ABDs are welcome to apply with the understanding that the award of a Ph.D. degree is a condition of employment. Applications will be accepted until October 15, 2018. Expected start date is in the fall of 2019.

Address applications and supporting materials electronically to the National Security Affairs Department at nsadept@nps.edu.

Questions and any other inquiries may be directed to:

Prof. Anne Clunan
 Chair, Political Economy Search Committee
 Department of National Security Affairs
 Naval Postgraduate School
 Monterey, CA 93943
 alclunan@nps.edu

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Relocation package, including recruitment/relocation incentive may be authorized.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an equal opportunity employer. For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc.).

Additional Veterans' Information: if you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>

For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4711

Harvard University

Rank: Weatherhead Scholars Program

The Weatherhead Scholars Program, a new program at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs (WCFIA), welcomed its first class of participants in 2017–2018. Established in 1958, the WCFIA is the largest international social science research center within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. We support international, transnational, global, and comparative research, whether historical or contemporary, including policy analysis.

The Weatherhead Scholars Program offers visiting faculty, postdoctoral researchers, and experienced practitioners the opportunity to spend up to one year at Harvard conducting research. During their time in residence, Scholars are expected to participate in the biweekly Weatherhead Forum; contribute to some of the Center's many other intellectual activities, including our research clusters; and to engage with the undergraduate and graduate student communities.

As participants in the Weatherhead Scholars Program, postdoctoral researchers and visiting scholars receive a one-year formal appointment from Harvard University granting them important privileges. These include access to the Harvard library system, computer labs, and Harvard University faculty club. Our scholars are an integral part of the more than 300 faculty, fellows, students, and staff in residence at the Center.

To be eligible for a postdoctoral position, scholars must have completed their PhD after August 1, 2016 (admitted postdoctoral fellows will provide proof before enrollment that they have received their PhD). There are a limited number of $50,000 stipends for postdoctoral fellows (health insurance is also available to stipendiary postdocs). Visiting scholars – established faculty from other universities – are not eligible for funding support from the Weatherhead Center.

More information is available at <https://scholarsprogram.wcfia.harvard.edu>

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/22/2018
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 4626

Saint Lawrence University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in international relations. The successful candidate will teach introductory courses in international relations and upper-level courses that do not overlap with the department's existing strengths in the subfield, which are foreign policy, international conflict, and international security. The teaching load is three courses per semester. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field must be completed before the appointment begins in August 2019.

We welcome applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic and national perspectives to their scholarship and teaching.

Minimum Qualifications: Candidates with Ph.D. in hand preferred, though ABD candidates may be considered.

To apply, please visit: <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1614>

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vita, graduate school transcript, writing sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants should also submit a separate document with a statement indicating how they can contribute in tangible ways to St. Lawrence University's commitment to cultivating a diverse and inclusive community and classrooms. These documents can be uploaded in the "Applicant Documents" section of your application.

Additionally, three confidential references are required [the required information input in the reference contact information section of your application will be utilized to send a system-derived email requesting a recommendation letter from each reference].

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018. Questions about the position may be sent to Dr. Grace Huang (ghuang@stlawu.edu), Search Chair, International Relations Search.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4666

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track position as Assistant Professor, beginning September 16, 2019. Tenure-track faculty have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). The field of specialization is open but teaching responsibilities will include quantitative courses in the graduate methods track. All University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research and service.

Qualifications

Candidates must demonstrate a strong record of quantitative empirical work in one or more substantive areas of political science. Applicants should have or expect to have their PhD by the appointment start date.

Application Instructions

Applications should include a cover letter, current CV, writing sample, research statement, teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests as well as how that research agenda integrates quantitative methods. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness. As a public institution, the University of Washington seeks candidates committed to working with diverse student and community populations. Therefore, applicants are encouraged to describe how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities. We strongly encourage applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018. Applications must be submitted at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53523>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4668

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: GENDER AND COMPARATIVE POLITICS/INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick seeks applicants for a Tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin September 1, 2019, in the broad area of Gender and Comparative Politics/International Relations. Responsibilities include teaching and advising graduate students, including those in our PhD subfield of Women and Politics whose research interests span a broad range of subjects, approaches, and geographic areas. Candidate must be able to teach standard undergraduate survey courses in comparative politics or IR. Strong familiarity with interdisciplinary feminist scholarship is preferred. PhD required in Political Science or related field.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and a list of three references to: <https://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/73156> Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Confidential letters of recommendation should be emailed directly by the referee to wsilverman@polisci.rutgers.edu – the applicant's name should appear in the subject line.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4658

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: International Relations

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick seeks applicants for a fulltime, tenure track position in International Relations, beginning September 1, 2019, at the Assistant Professor level. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research focuses on Civil War, International Security/Terrorism, and/or American Foreign Policy, although other substantive interests in IR will also be considered. Strong preference for statistical, formal, and/or experimental methods. Candidate must be able to teach standard undergraduate survey courses in IR. PhD required in Political Science or related field.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and a list of three references to: <https://jobs.rutgers.edu/>

postings/73157 Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Confidential letters of recommendation should be emailed directly by the referee to wsilverman@polisci.rutgers.edu – the applicant's name should appear in the subject line.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4657

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Relations

Assistant Professor of Political Science – International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University is seeking applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in International Relations starting in August 2019. The area of specialization is open, and candidates may take any methodological or theoretical approach. The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach the introductory undergraduate class in international relations, the graduate level survey of the field, courses in his or her area of expertise, and courses that are part of the College of Liberal Arts' Integrated Cornerstone first-year curriculum. Required qualifications include an active research agenda, the ability to attract external funding, interest in contributing to university-wide initiatives to tackle grand challenges, the potential for teaching excellence, and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. Purdue is a member of the American Association of Universities and a top five public research university according to the Wall Street Journal. Faculty members in Political Science are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methodology cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, the Human Rights Program, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, the Center for C-SPAN Scholarship & Engagement, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. The department is also home to Politics, Groups, and Identities, an official journal of the Western Political Science Association. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as pdf attachments to Annie Wheeldon at polisci@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Interviews will begin in January 2019. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Professor Keith Shimko (kshimko@purdue.edu). A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Applicants should share Purdue University's commitment to principles of diversity and inclusion and the department's commitment to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and identify their strengths and experiences in these areas.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion. Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4641

Syracuse University

Rank: Associate Professor, International Relations/International Affairs

Associate Professor with Tenure Position
International Relations/International Affairs
Department of Public Administration and International Affairs
Maxwell School of Citizenship
Syracuse University

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) seeks to hire an Associate Professor (with tenure) in International Relations/International Affairs beginning in fall 2019.

We are interested in attracting a leading scholar in the areas of international political economy, development or security studies. The successful candidate will primarily support our professional Master of Arts in International Relations (MAIR) program. This individual would hold a joint appointment with the department of Political Science. Successful candidates also may affiliate with one of Maxwell's Centers.

The PAIA and Political Science departments are located within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. We are committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. The MAIR program seeks candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission, have interdisciplinary interests and are interested in training future leaders in international affairs.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. Rank and salary commensurate with experience and professional accomplishments.

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/>) and attach: a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, names and complete contact information for 3 references and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 1. However, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4643

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Associate Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments can be from 15 days to one-month during the 2019-2020 academic year (September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Associate Research Scholars will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 21, 2018. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8142>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, 15 days to one-month during the academic year (September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020), title of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 – 2,000 words);
- 4) The names and contact information of three referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/21/2018

Date Posted: 8/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4611

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2019-2020 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2019-January 31, 2020; spring semester: February 1-June 30, 2020). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 21, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8141>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal (or syllabus) for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (2,000 – 3,000 words);
- 5) The names and contact information of three referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/21/2018

Date Posted: 8/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4612

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Associate/Full Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a tenured position in international relations starting in January or August 2019. The position is open with respect to expertise in international relations; teaching expectations include undergraduate and graduate courses in international relations, and at least one course in the master's degree program in public administration in a relevant area of international policy. Supervision of students in the doctoral program is expected.

The successful candidate will hold the endowed Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy, which comes with a stipend, research support, and a reduction in teaching load for a three-year term (renewable upon a satisfactory review). We welcome applications from candidates at any rank. Appointment will be made at the associate or full professor level depending on the applicant's credentials. Applicants must be a specialist in international relations or international affairs with a Ph.D. in political science, international affairs, international relations, or public policy.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018. To apply, complete an online application at <http://www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/3034> and upload the following materials: 1) a letter of application to include specification of training, current and future research agenda, teaching areas and teaching philosophy, and most significant professional service; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) one recent writing sample; 4) graduate transcript (official transcript will be needed at time of hire); and 5) contact information for three professional references. Three confidential letters of reference are required and must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu by the application deadline.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate and master's degree in political science and a nationally ranked, NASPAA-accredited master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM) is the metropolitan campus of Auburn University. Located in the state capital, AUM enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. AUM is ranked by U.S. News and World Report as one of the top Comprehensive Regional Universities in the South. Montgomery offers diverse cultural and recreational opportunities including the Alabama Shakespeare Festival, world-class museums and memorials including the new Legacy Museum and the National Memorial for Peace and Justice, a ballet company, a natural habitat zoo, a chamber music society, an independent film theater, and the Montgomery Biscuits Double-A baseball team; it is home to Maxwell-Gunter Air Force Base and Air University, Hyundai Motor's first U.S. production facility, and the headquarters of leading non-profits including Equal Justice Initiative and the Southern Poverty Law Center.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is open until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

If you have questions or want to talk with someone about the position at the APSA meeting, please contact Prof. Andrew Cortell, Department Head, at acortell@aum.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4640

George Washington University

Rank: Open rank

The George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs invites applications for two tenure track faculty positions in the field of U.S. National Security Policy. Security studies is defined broadly to include U.S. grand strategy, defense analysis, weapons proliferation and arms control, the use of force, cybersecurity, intrastate war, terrorism and counterterrorism, and other contemporary policy issues; and international relations theories that are relevant to assessing these issue areas. One position will be made at the Professor, Associate, or Assistant rank; the other is at the rank of Assistant Professor. The positions will be based in the Elliott School's Institute for Security and Conflict Studies and affiliated with the M.A. program in Security Policy Studies, beginning in academic year 2019-2020. Successful candidates will also have an appointment in the GWU Political Science Department. Teaching responsibilities would include undergraduate and graduate students in the Elliott School and other students at the University.

Minimum qualifications for Professor/Associate/Assistant Professor: A Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant social science discipline or inter-disciplinary field at time of application. Applicants must have a record of sustained and continuing high-quality research and substantial teaching experience.

Minimum qualification for Assistant Professor: A Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant social science discipline or inter-disciplinary field at time of appointment. Applicants should have demonstrated significant research promise and teaching competence.

Application procedure for Professor/Associate/Assistant Professor: Please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/55499>. Applicants should upload a letter of interest detailing research and teaching interests and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, course syllabi and evaluations, a writing sample, and include the names and contact information of three referees. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Application procedure for Assistant Professor: Please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/55498>. Applicants should upload a research and teaching statement, a current curriculum vita, a writing sample, and send three letters of recommendation to esiafac@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4637

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Full Time Lecturer in International Studies

Position Description: The Lauder Institute invites applications for the position of full-time lecturer or senior lecturer. This position will support our International Studies Program in two academic areas. Primary responsibility is to oversee all aspects of the Lauder core course "Global and Regional Analysis," inclusive of lectures in one of its three modules, outreach to module-specific faculty, grading, student advising, and leadership of module wrap discussion sessions. The three course modules are: (1) Historical Drivers of Global Change; (2) Comparative Politics and Regional Political Economy, and (3) Global Governance, International Trade, and Law. In addition, the right candidate will support the Lauder Institute's Global Knowledge Lab through student advising and some administrative support of its M.A. thesis research and writing program, especially as it relates to M.A. thesis advisor outreach and support, and student on-boarding, advising, and milestone tracking. This full-time position also requires participation in curriculum development and internal meetings, plus attendance at events organized by the Institute on and off campus.

The right candidate will have the following minimum requirements: (a) PhD in History (any sub-field) or Political Science (comparative and/or international politics or political economy); (b) expertise to teach in one of the above three modules as demonstrated through research and/or existing syllabi. For module 2 above, regional area of expertise may include Africa, East and/or Southeast Asia; Europe, Latin America, MENA, or South Asia; © experience advising undergraduate and/or graduate students in field research and/or academic writing; (d) indication of administrative abilities; and (e) excellent teaching ratings.

The strongest candidate additionally has no less than three of the following qualifications: (a) prior experience working with Masters' level students in a professional degree program (e.g. Business, International Affairs, Law, Public Policy); (b) prior experience working with an international student body; © indication of teaching experience in a highly diverse, possibly interdisciplinary environment; (d) advanced proficiency in languages other than English; (e) field research experience; (f) demonstrated ability to convey complex theoretical concepts to non-specialists and (g) familiarity with Canvas or other course management software.

Interested candidates should submit a resume, cover letter, teaching evaluations, and a sample of possible lectures relevant to one of the three modules indicated above. A list of references is required of final round candidates. Application materials should be addressed to Ms. Jenny Seng-Russo, Program Manager, International Studies Program and submitted online at <http://facultysearches.provost.upenn.edu/postings/1420>. We will begin reviewing applications Monday, September 24, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

The Lauder Institute is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to creating a more diverse faculty (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>). The University of Pennsylvania is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Affirmative Action Statement: The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. Questions or complaints regarding this policy should be directed to the Executive Director of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, Sansom Place East, 3600 Chestnut Street, Suite 228, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6106; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4632

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations, Security/Cybersecurity

Assistant Professor in International Relations, Security/Cybersecurity for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to teach undergraduate courses in international relations, advanced courses in cybersecurity and/or national cyber policy or cyber-law, and courses for the MA program; advise students; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service. The position will begin in the 2019-20 academic year.

Require: PhD in political science, public policy, or related field by the date of appointment.

Consideration may be given to candidates with substantive expertise in an area of cybersecurity and/or national cyber policy.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, transcripts and writing sample to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=6188>. The department will solicit reference letters from references provided in application. For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Patrick Haney at haneypj@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will begin September 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4617

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations, Security/Cybersecurity

Assistant Professor in International Relations, Security/Cybersecurity for an appointment as a tenure-track Assistant Professor to teach undergraduate courses in international relations, advanced courses in cybersecurity and/or national cyber policy or cyber-law, and courses for the MA program; advise students; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service. The position will begin in the 2019-20 academic year.

Require: PhD in political science, public policy, or related field by the date of appointment.

Consideration may be given to candidates with substantive expertise in an area of cybersecurity and/or national cyber policy.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, transcripts and writing sample to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=6188>. The department will solicit reference letters from references provided in application. For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Patrick Haney at haneypj@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will begin September 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4618

Temple University

Rank: Associate or Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenured/tenure-track position at the level of Associate or Assistant Professor in international relations. The search is open to all sub-fields, but we are especially interested in candidates whose research focuses on Environmental Policy, Human Rights/Human Security, Non-State Actors, or Cyber Security/Terrorism. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching. Evidence of external grant/fellowship support is desirable. Temple University is a state-related Carnegie Research University (highest research activity) located in Philadelphia. The College of Liberal Arts is home to 32 undergraduate majors, 32 minors, 23 certificate programs and 15 graduate degree programs. With its vibrant and diverse array of educational programs, the College of Liberal Arts plays a tremendous role in Temple University's academic success and its mission mirrors both the historical importance of the liberal arts in society and the principles on which the university was founded. Candidates are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53465>. Applications received by October 1, 2018 will receive best consideration. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/16/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4613

University of Wisconsin, Eau Claire

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire is currently searching for a full-time, tenure track faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 26, 2019. The department seeks a dynamic candidate with expertise in the field of international relations who is committed to teaching excellence and to maintaining an active program involving undergraduates. This appointment carries an initial two-year probationary appointment beginning with the 2019/2020 academic year.

Responsibilities:

- Teach courses in the Department of Political Science based on program needs and in accordance with specialization;
- Participate in research and scholarly activities;
- Develop and/or maintain a scholarly research agenda;
- Provide academic advising to students as assigned;
- Engage in service to the department, University and profession.

Minimum qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in the field of political science by August 26, 2019. (ABD applicants may be considered but must complete the terminal degree by March 15, 2020.)

-We seek candidates with ability to teach courses in Theories of International Relations, US Foreign Policy, as well as courses within the candidate's area of specialization.

Preferred qualifications:

- Preference will be given to candidates that can teach in the areas of international law and international organizations.
- Evidence of successful university teaching, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusiveness is also preferred

Department Information: The Department of Political Science consists of 13 full-time faculty in the fields of political science and criminal justice. With over 425 majors and 100 minors, the department is one of the largest within the college. Our award-winning program faculty work collaboratively with students on research, oversee Service Learning and internship projects, and have the opportunity to teach abroad. Many of our students take jobs with local and regional agencies upon graduation, while others attend top law schools and graduate programs.

To apply, please visit the link below and follow the instructions; All applicants must provide the following in PDF format:

- Letter of application
- Curriculum vita
- Unofficial graduate school transcript
- Statement of teaching philosophy
- Names and contact information for three references

<https://www.uwec.edu/human-resources/employment-opportunities/job-openings/>

Please direct requests for additional information to Dr. Geoffrey Peterson, Department Chair, petersgd@uwec.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/12/2018
Date Posted: 8/16/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4625

Harvard University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies
 Academy Scholars Program, 2019-2020

The Academy Scholars Program identifies and supports outstanding scholars at the start of their careers whose work combines disciplinary excellence in the social sciences or law with a command of the language and history or culture of countries or regions outside of the United States or Canada. Their scholarship may elucidate domestic, comparative, or transnational issues, past or present.

The Academy Scholars are a select community of individuals with resourcefulness, initiative, curiosity, and originality, whose work in cultures or regions outside of the US or Canada shows promise as a foundation for exceptional careers in major universities or international institutions. Harvard Academy Scholarships are open only to recent PhD (or comparable professional school degree) recipients and doctoral candidates. Scholars applying by the October 1, 2018 deadline for the August 2019 postdoctoral fellowships must have completed the PhD or equivalent after September 30, 2015.

Academy Scholars are appointed for a two-year, in-residence, postdoctoral fellowship at The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA. They receive substantial financial and research assistance to undertake sustained projects of research and/or acquire accessory training in their chosen fields and areas. Some teaching is permitted but not required. The Senior Scholars, a distinguished group of Harvard University faculty members, act as mentors to the Academy Scholars to help them achieve their intellectual potential.

Postdoctoral Academy Scholars will receive an annual stipend of $67,000. Predoctoral Academy Scholars will receive an annual stipend of $31,000 until they are awarded the PhD or equivalent degree. The online application for the postdoctoral fellowships beginning in August 2019 is due by October 1, 2018. Finalist interviews will take place in Cambridge in early December 2018. Notification of scholarships will be made in late December 2018. For complete information on how to apply and for access to the online application, please visit: <https://academy.wcfia.harvard.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4602

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Professor-International Relations

The Government Department at the University of Texas at Austin is seeking to hire leading scholars in international relations for two tenured positions at the rank of Full Professor to begin in Fall 2019. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of international relations, broadly defined.

Duties will include both undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the University. The successful candidates will have a highly distinguished scholarly record of publication, a record of teaching excellence, and demonstrated excellence in intellectual and institutional leadership. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications.

Applicants should upload a vitae, examples of scholarly work, and teaching materials. The department will begin reviewing applications immediately and continue receiving applications until the positions are filled. Applicants should apply online at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53197>.

Position funding is pending budgetary approval. A background check will be conducted for successful applicants. AA/EEO employer.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4594

Harvard University

Rank: William Lyon Mackenzie King Postdoctoral Fellow

WILLIAM LYON MACKENZIE KING POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

The Canada Program at Harvard University's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs invites applications for the William Lyon Mackenzie King Postdoctoral Fellowships. Two fellows will be appointed for the 2019–2020 academic year, with the possibility of extending for one additional year—conditional on the approval of the dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, WCFIA associated faculty, and the co-hosting academic department.

The fellowships are open to scholars in all disciplines who are engaged in US-Canada comparative research and teaching, with preference given to individuals working within the social sciences and humanities. For postdoctoral candidates who will have completed the PhD within twelve months of the August 1, 2019 start date, verification of completion of the degree will be required prior to the appointment. Those in possession of a PhD for more than five years are ineligible.

The fellowships provide an annual stipend of $68,000, which is supplemented by funding for research and for individual health insurance coverage. The fellows will be required to teach one course during the year, and will be expected to engage with the Canada Program and with the University's wider community. Fellows receive shared office space at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs, and enjoy full access to the University's library, archival, and computing resources.

TO APPLY:

Candidates should submit: a letter of application describing their suitability for the fellowship; a curriculum vitae with a list of publications; a sample of their written work; a teaching portfolio, containing a statement on teaching experience and syllabi; and three letters of recommendation.

TO SUBMIT: <https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/8365>

DEADLINE:

All application materials must be received no later than Thursday, November 1, 2018.

For more information about the WCFIA Canada Program, please visit: http://programs.wcfia.harvard.edu/canada_program

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4569

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations (Tenure Track)

Assistant Professor of International Relations (Tenure Track)

The School of International Relations at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, California seeks to hire a tenure-track assistant professor to begin in August 2019. We are especially interested in candidates with training in advanced methods, such as formal modeling. The successful candidate should also have the interest and capacity to teach PhD level methods courses. The successful applicant will teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels depending on substantive or regional specialization. The Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment.

The School of International Relations is a department in USC Dornis College of Letters, Arts and Sciences. It offers the B.A. in International Relations and the Ph.D. in Political Science and International Relations jointly with the Department of Political Science. Please see www.usc.edu/sir and www.usc.edu/poir for more information.

The applicant should send a CV, a sample research paper, a statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of recommendation, and official graduate transcripts to sirsearch@dornsife.usc.edu, or

SIR Junior Search Committee
USC School of International Relations
3518 Trousdale Parkway, VKC 330
Los Angeles, CA 90089-0043

In order to be considered for this position, applicants are also required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://uscareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-of-international-relations/1209/8973703>.

Review of applications will begin starting September 15, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4575

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8001>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. Teaching and research statements are optional. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00001
Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/10/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4564

CUNY-Queens College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Queens College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the level of Assistant Professor in the field of International Relations, to begin in the Fall 2019 semester. We are looking for individuals who combine a strong record of scholarship with a commitment to excellence in teaching in an extraordinarily diverse environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can teach courses in International Political Economy and Europe. The successful applicant is also expected to participate actively in the department's advisement and service responsibilities. The Ph.D. is required by the date of appointment. Candidates should send a letter of interest, a writing sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a graduate school transcript, three letters of recommendation, and curriculum vitae to: Professor John Bowman, Department of Political Science, Queens College, 65-30 Kissena Blvd., Flushing, NY 11367. Applications must be received by October 1, 2018. In addition, in order for their application to be considered complete, applicants must upload a CV to CUNYfirst, the City University's human resources and service system. To do so, go to www.cuny.edu and place your cursor on "About;" click on "Employment;" scroll down and click on "Browse Job Openings;" in the job title box, enter 19166 and click on "Find Jobs;" click on "Assistant Professor—International Relations;" click on "Apply Now;" and follow instructions.

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian-Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/9/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4547

University of Miami

Rank: Open Rank Search in American Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Miami invites applications for an associate professor or full professor. The proposed start date is August 15, 2019. This is an endowed position providing a competitive salary and annual research budget. We seek candidates in the subfields of American politics or international relations who have developed a national or international reputation for their scholarship.

All applications can be submitted online via the Faculty Career Opportunities website (<https://umiami.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UMFaculty>) and all documents (CV, letters of nomination, and a list of three references) can be uploaded via this site. Applications will be considered until the position is filled. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (jwest@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/.

The University of Miami is an Equal Opportunity Employer - Females/Minorities/Protected Veterans/Individuals with Disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants and employees are protected from discrimination based on certain categories protected by Federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4542

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Rank: Faculty Member

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations, International Security

The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a Department of Defense executive education institution that educates, empowers, and connects current and future leaders from the Indo-Pacific region. The Center offers in-resident courses, workshops and dialogues in Honolulu and the Indo-Pacific region, and conducts policy-relevant research to build security capacity and collaboration. DKI APCSS addresses traditional and non-traditional security issues, including the relationship between governance and the security sector; transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, violent extremism, trafficking; maritime security; crises; analytical security assessments; and whole-of-society collaboration to include the role of women, peace and security. The audience of Fellows are mid- to senior-level civilian and military officials from all over the world. The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is located in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The Center invites applications for:

ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR FACULTY MEMBERS

For

Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief (HADR)

And

Security Sector Reform/Development (SSR/SSD)

The Center seeks world-class educators to teach, facilitate, research, and build capacity of security professionals in the Indo-Pacific Region. Responsibilities for associate/full professor faculty members

- Teaching executive education courses in a participant-centered, activity-based context
- Facilitating seminars, workshops, dialogues and visits
- Contributing to capacity building endeavors and security cooperation projects in the region
- Analyzing security-related trends in the Indo-Pacific region
- Contributing to curriculum development
- Performing administrative and staff duties to support the Center's academic functions

Desirable selection criteria for associate/full professor faculty members

- Knowledge of defense institution building including, civil-military, interagency and cross-sector coordination, strategic planning and information sharing
- Expertise in crisis and disaster management in one or more Indo-Pacific countries
- Familiarity with facilitation-based teaching and state-of-the-art educational technology
- Experience in development, capacity building, and national security consultations as related to the evolution and transformation of roles and responsibilities of security agencies
- Experience working with U.S. embassies in region, including familiarity with a country team, office of defense cooperation, U.S. State Department and USAID policies
- Experience with exercises and wargames

- Demonstrable skill in at least one regional language

Essential selection criteria for HADR associate/full professor faculty members

- High level of experience in crisis and disaster management
- Understanding of HADR at operational and strategic levels
- Knowledge of the disaster management phases including risk reduction and resilience
- Awareness of national, regional and international crisis response management frameworks, strategies and mechanisms
- Professional expertise at the operational, strategic or policy level in a multilateral setting

Essential selection criteria for SSR/SSD associate/full professor faculty members

- High level of experience in security and defense sector governance, development, and institutional capacity building of Indo-Pacific partner governments to increase capacity within their security institutions
- Experience in national security consultations, sector-wide coordination, and/or strategic planning as related to the evolution and transformation of roles and responsibilities of security agencies
- Demonstrable familiarity with U.S. Government legislation, policies, processes, and officials

Qualifications and attributes for associate/full professor faculty members

- Master's or doctoral degree
- Proven ability in teaching and seminar facilitation
- Proven ability to function as a team member

Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications. Salary range is $90,789 - $120,157 excludes locality pay (18.43%) and cost of living allowance (COLA), currently 10.99% but subject to change. All faculty at the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies are employed on limited-term, excepted-service positions, for up to three years, with the possibility of renewal. Relocation expenses may be authorized.

Application Procedure

Interested candidates must submit the following items by email to hrapplications@dkiapcss.net

1. Letter of Interest. Provide a brief description of your vocational goals, personal interests and expected areas of study in the coming year, and explain your interest in future career considerations with the Department of Defense
2. Curriculum Vitae. Should reflect the following: educational background, work experience, publications and salary history
3. Two Letters of Reference

Additional information

- Application deadline: Open until filled; 31 August 2018
- Applications will be considered against current Faculty requirements
- Application packages will be retained for one year
- Application materials become the property of the U.S. Department of the Defense and will not be returned
- Individuals selected for interviews will be asked to provide bona fide transcripts from the academic institutions granting their advanced degree(s) and two samples of their publications
- The Department of the Defense is an Equal Opportunity Employer
- All qualified candidates will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status, political affiliation, sexual orientation, or any other non-merit factor
- U.S. Citizenship is not required but applicants must be eligible for an H1B or other work visa.
- The Department of the Defense provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact the Center's Human Resources Department at hrappliations@dkiapcs.net to ensure that the Department of the Defense can consider such a request. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis

Learn more about the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies by visiting: www.apcss.org

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 8/31/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4530

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Position Summary: The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level to begin August 2019. Responsibilities include teaching five courses per year, maintaining an active research agenda, advising undergraduate students, and participating in governance at the departmental and College levels. The department encourages applications from candidates whose teaching, scholarship, or governance will contribute to the diversity of the campus curriculum and community. Additional information about the Political Science Department is available at http://www.gettysburg.edu/academics/political_science/

Qualifications: The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, be able to teach all levels of international relations courses, and show clear potential for scholarly engagement and student advising. Specialization can be in one or more of the following subfields: international conflict; international organizations; and human rights. The ability to teach the department's research methods course is a plus.

Ph.D. preferred; ABD considered.

Application Details: Visit our website to submit your electronic application: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2702>. Please include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter, addressed to Professor Roy Dawes, Chair, Department of Political Science; a separate statement of teaching philosophy; a separate statement of current and future research plans; and contact information for three professional references. References will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness. Applications and letters of recommendation received by October 1, 2018, will receive fullest consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Dawes: rdawes@gettysburg.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4529

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor In Comparative Politics or International Relations

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in international relations or comparative politics starting in August 2019. Previous teaching experience, evidence of research capacity, and a PhD in Political Science in hand by August 2019 are required. ABD candidates are encouraged to apply. The department has a preference for candidates able to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in European politics and policy and contribute classes to the department's International Studies program. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The normal teaching assignment for this position is 2/2. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science, a B.A. in International Studies, an M.A. in Political Science and, in conjunction with the Sociology and Anthropology department, a Ph.D. in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <https://jobs.slu.edu/postings/18703> and must include the applicant's curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans and teaching interests; at least one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught (if available). Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sharilyn.bazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after October 15, 2018 cannot be assured full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4535

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor In International Political Economy

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in international relations starting in August 2019. Previous teaching experience, evidence of research capacity, and a PhD in Political Science in hand by August 2019 are required. ABD candidates are encouraged to apply. The candidate must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Political Economy, an undergraduate Introduction to International Relations class, and classes in the department's International Studies program. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The normal teaching assignment for this position is 2/2. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science, a B.A. in International Studies, an M.A. in Political Science and, in conjunction with the Sociology and Anthropology department, a Ph.D. in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <https://jobs.slu.edu/postings/18655> and must include the applicant's curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans and teaching interests; at least one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught (if available). Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sharilyn.bazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2018 cannot be assured full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/8/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4534

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of International Affairs (DIA) at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure track position in international relations at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall of 2019. While we seek a scholar who is broadly trained in the concepts, methods, and approaches used in the study of international relations, we are particularly interested in candidates with teaching and research interests in foreign policy and security. Candidates are expected to have a demonstrated ability to produce high quality research, show promise of attracting external funding and teaching effectiveness, and be well trained in research methods, broadly defined.

The School of Public and International Affairs, within which DIA is one of three Departments, has two state-of-the-art experimental research labs -- one for group surveys and experiments and the other for one or two-person observations (with technology to record skin conductance, heart rate variability, and electromyography). Candidates who can make use of our state-of-the-art experimental political psychology research laboratory are particularly encouraged to apply.

Prospective candidates must apply for the position through the UGA Jobs site at <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/29520>. To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 309, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu). The Ph.D. degree in political science or near completion of dissertation is required. For ABD applicants, the degree must be completed by August 1, 2019. Applications received by September 15, 2018 will be assured full consideration.

Georgia is well known for its quality of life both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The Department of International Affairs is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (employ@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4528

University of Miami

Rank: Tenure-track International Relations or American Politics

Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in the field of international relations or American politics. Although the position is open as to these two subfields, preference will be given to international relations candidates who specialize in international security and preference will be given to American politics to candidates who complement our existing strengths. Candidates should have over their PhD by August 15, 2019 and show promise of high-quality research in top scholarly outlets as well as excellence in teaching. The expected teaching assignment is 2-2, and the position will involve teaching in the field of international relations or American politics, including an introductory course.

All application packages can be submitted online via the Faculty Career Opportunities website (<https://umiami.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UMFaculty>) and all documents (CV, letters of nomination, and a list of three references) can be uploaded via this site. Applicants applying for the rank of assistant professor should upload documents including a CV, a letter of interest, teaching evaluations if available, PhD transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a single-authored writing sample. More senior scholars applying for the rank of associate professor should upload documents including a CV, a letter of interest, and a list of three references. Applications received on or before Monday, October 15, 2018, will be given full consideration. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (jwest@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/. The University of Miami is an Equal Opportunity Employer — Females/Minorities/Protected Veterans/Individuals with Disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants and employees are protected from discrimination based on certain categories protected by Federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/8/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4532

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and the International Studies Program at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invite applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations with a regional focus on East or South Asia to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate expertise in one region as well as an exceptional record or promise as a teacher-scholar of East or South Asian politics, society, and international relations. Candidates should identify in which subfields of international relations they hold expertise. Applicants must demonstrate the ability or potential to work effectively with a diverse student body. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester. During the faculty member's first year, s/he may apply for a competitive course reduction of one course for the following academic year. A Ph.D. is preferred, but the College will consider ABDs if the degree will be granted by time of appointment.

Completed applications received by September 21, 2018 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Submissions must be emailed to jobs@tcnj.edu, and must include:

- 1) Cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (CV);
- 3) Unofficial or official graduate transcript;
- 4) Scholarly writing sample;
- 5) Evidence of teaching effectiveness including teaching evaluations and sample syllabi;
- 6) Contact information for three references.

In addition, applicants should also have three referees email confidential letters of recommendation directly to irasiapoliticssearch-group@tcnj.edu. Questions can be directed to Brian Potter (potter@tcnj.edu) with "IR and East/South Asia politics recommendation" in the subject line.

Teaching and research are mutually supportive activities at TCNJ. Candidates should be strongly committed to the teacher-scholar model in a primarily undergraduate, residential institution, to maintaining both high quality teaching and an active and productive research program, and to encouraging and engaging highly motivated undergraduates in intensive, individual work both inside and outside the classroom (e.g., undergraduate research, independent study). Faculty members also have service responsibilities within the College.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its approximately 6,500 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. The College also offers focused graduate programs in Nursing, Education, and English. TCNJ was awarded, in 2006, a Phi Beta Kappa chapter—an honor shared by less than 10 percent of colleges and universities nationally. A strong liberal arts core forms the foundation for programs offered through TCNJ's seven schools—Arts and Communication; Business; Education; Engineering; Humanities and Social Sciences; Nursing, Health, and Exercise Science; and Science. TCNJ faculty members are teacher-scholars who share a commitment to liberal learning. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of New York City and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. TCNJ has 39 major buildings, including the 4th-best college library in the nation, according to the Princeton Review. For more information, visit www.tcnj.edu.

Employment is contingent upon completion of a successful background check. The successful applicant must present proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/21/2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4514

University of California, Irvine

Rank: 2018-19 Political Science Lecturer Pool (International Relations Focus)

The Department of Political Science is seeking applicants for temporary part-time lecturer positions to teach in the field of International Relations contingent on departmental need. These positions will replace faculty on leave during the 2018-19 academic year.

Requirements - We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who might contribute to our undergraduate program in International Relations. Candidates should have a Ph.D.

These part-time positions are based on an annual salary range beginning at $54,738 and the number of courses could vary.

Service Period Dates for 2018-2019 Academic Year:

Fall Quarter: 9/24/18 – 12/14/18

Winter Quarter: 1/2/19 - 3/22/19

Spring Quarter: 3/27/19 – 6/14/19

Application Procedure - Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching performance, and a Statement of Contributions to Diversity via our online recruit system: <https://recruit.ap.ucj.edu/apply/JPF04844>

Priority for positions will be given to applications completed by October 1st, 2018. Please note this is a continuous recruitment to fill classes on an as-needed basis. The department will refer to the pool of applications on file to fill assignments as necessary.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/17/2019

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4515

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Formal Theory / Political Economy for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. The applicant should demonstrate advanced skills in analytical reasoning and formal modeling (including but not limited to game theory), as well as a strong applied focus in at least one subfield. The successful candidate will be able to convey their insights to an audience that does not necessarily have extensive formal training but that is interested in the ideas as applied to a well-defined substantive problem. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01847>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4521

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Relations)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in International Relations for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01838>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Relations).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4520

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: quantitative methods, formal theory, analytic political philosophy, or modelling. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01840> for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4524

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the rank of assistant professor. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

Basic Qualifications: Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

Application Procedure: To apply please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/55199> and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching/research interest (including a summary of teaching evaluations, if available), and sample publications. In addition, please send at least three letters of recommendation to pscjobs@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on 9/17/2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4496

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Professorships in Political Science

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

We invite applications for one or more positions as Full Professor or fixed-termed Professor with Special Responsibilities at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of the Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Professor or Professor with Special Responsibilities (MSO) are:

- Research within the field of Political Science
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, post-graduate and PhD students
- Administrative tasks related to the position as Professor or Professor with Special Responsibilities
- Knowledge sharing with wider society
- Research and teaching management
- Fundraising

Applicants for a full professorship must be able to document a very high degree of original scholarly production at international level and have a highly recognised international reputation. Applicants for a MSO professorship must have the potential to make progress in the subject area and being able to document original scholarly production at an international level. The position is established to appoint particular talent, preferable younger researcher to develop a subject area full of perspectives at an international level.

In addition to the general professorial duties, the position as Professor with Special Responsibilities includes special responsibilities to make a specific contribution to realising the Department's strategic goals by either increasing societal impact or innovation in teaching by including problem-solving competences or internationalization.

Qualifications

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by a recognized international reputation in Political Science or a relevant subfield and demonstrated by a considerable number of existing high-quality publications, which constitute a significant contribution to the field and complements the existing research strengths of the Department. Publications should be published on a continuous basis in top-ranked journals and/or a highly influential publication record with leading book publishers.
- A commitment to contribute to the delivery and further development of an excellent student experience based on a significant track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates, who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.

- Proven ability to provide leadership of research groups as well as an ability to operate in leadership roles at the Departmental, Faculty and University levels.
- The ability and willingness to attract external funding on a larger scale and to lead research projects.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Tel: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk.

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4451

Rice University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2019. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses and perform research in their specialized area. Therefore, successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in the areas of political violence, civil war, ethnic conflict, terrorism, and/or human rights. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by July 1, 2019.

The application deadline is September 15, 2018. A complete application must include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at <http://jobs.rice.edu/postings/16200>.

Equal Opportunity Employer - Females/Minorities/Veterans/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 9/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4485

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Race, Ethnicity and Migration

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Race, Ethnicity, and Migration. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations. This search is part of a cluster of hires, at multiple levels, the department is making over the next few years. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/53016>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2018, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4489

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank search in International Relations. We are interested in candidates from all areas of International Relations, though we have a particular interest in those with expertise in International Political Economy and International Organization. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2019.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/53014>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2018, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4490

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department at the University of California, Merced invites applications for an assistant professor (tenure-track) position in either Political Institutions or Political Behavior. The department is particularly interested in applicants who focus on international relations and/or comparative politics but will also consider applicants in American politics.

In order to be considered, candidates must have a PhD in political science (or a closely related field) by the position start date and evidence of excellence in research.

The anticipated start date for this position is July 1, 2019.

Applications must be submitted online. Completed applications must be received no later than September 14, 2018, in order to be considered. Interested applicants are required to submit 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statement of research; 4) statement of teaching; 5) two writing samples; 6) a contributions to diversity statement; and, 7) a list of three references with contact information including mailing address, phone number and e-mail address.

The contributions to diversity statement should describe your past experience, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with UC Merced's mission to reflect the diversity of California and to meet the educational needs and interests of its diverse population. Some faculty candidates may not have substantial past activities. If that is the case, we recommend focusing on future plans in your statement. For additional information on what should be included on your Diversity Statement, please visit <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html#Are-there-any-guide-lines-for-wr>.

Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted online. After an application is submitted, the letters of reference should be electronically uploaded by the letter writers (instructions will be provided by the application system). Letters of reference should be received no later than September 14, 2018.

The University of California, Merced is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, students and staff. The majority of students at UC Merced are members of under-represented minority groups and we encourage applications from candidates dedicated to working in a multicultural environment.

Salary is commensurate with education, experience, and UC academic salary scales.

For additional information, please contact Tom Hansford at thansford@ucmerced.edu.

Applicants will be notified when the final candidate has been selected.

To apply, please visit our UC Merced job posting at: <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00688>.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4483

Bogazici University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

New: Open Faculty Positions

The Political Science and International Relations Department at Bogazici University in Istanbul Turkey is seeking highly qualified applicants for two tenure-track assistant professor positions. One position is for International Relations and the other is an open call.

Interested applicants should submit all the relevant materials in electronic form, including a CV, a statement of research agenda, a sample of their scholarly work and teaching records to: BUPolsjobapp@boun.edu.tr

Candidates can consult our website (www.pols.boun.edu.tr) for more information about the department.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 4213

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Institutions

Department of International Relations

Assistant Professor in International Institutions

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and not less than £53,905pa inclusive of London allowance

We are looking to recruit an Assistant Professor in International Institutions.

Based in the Department of International Relations, the post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in the School and wider Department activities.

All candidates must have a research interest in international institutions and must also show a clear and viable strategy for future top quality research. We are open with respect to methodological and theoretical approaches.

Candidates will need a completed PhD, or be close to obtaining one, in International Relations or a related field by 1 September 2019. Candidates should also have a proven or developing record of publications in refereed international journals or with highly-respected book publishers based on research that is, or has the potential to be, internationally excellent and, ideally, world-leading in terms of originality, significance and rigour. Some experience of teaching International Institutions at undergraduate or postgraduate level is desirable.

Successful candidates should have excellent communication skills and an ability to work as part of a team with colleagues across the School. The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

The post will start on 1 September 2019.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the "contact us" links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email R.Mokogwu@lse.ac.uk

The closing date for receipt of applications is 23 September 2018 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/23/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4469

London School of EconomicsRank: Assistant Professor in International Relations Theory

Department of International Relations

Assistant Professor in International Relations Theory

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and not less than £53,905pa inclusive of London allowance

We are looking to recruit an Assistant Professor in International Relations Theory.

Based in the Department of International Relations, the post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in the School and wider Department activities.

All candidates must have a research interest in international relations theory and must also show a clear and viable strategy for future top quality research. We are open with respect to theoretical and methodological approaches.

Candidates will need a completed PhD, or be close to obtaining one, in International Relations or a related field by 1 September 2019. Candidates should also have a proven or developing record of publications in refereed international journals or with highly-respected book publishers based on research that is, or has the potential to be, internationally excellent and, ideally, world-leading in terms of originality, significance and rigour. Some experience of teaching International Relations Theory at undergraduate or postgraduate level is desirable.

Successful candidates should have excellent communication skills and an ability to work as part of a team with colleagues across the School. The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

The post will start on 1 September 2019.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the "contact us" links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email R.Mokogwu@lse.ac.uk

The closing date for receipt of applications is 23 September 2018 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: 9/23/2018Date Posted: 8/1/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4468New York University*Rank: Assistant Professor

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks qualified candidates for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions. We welcome applications in all sub-fields; however, we expect to hire one Assistant Professor in International Relations. The department seeks excellent scholars with a rigorous theoretical and empirical approach to the study of politics. The positions are to begin September 1, 2019, pending budgetary and administrative approval.

Candidates must possess a PhD by September 2019, in political science or a cognate discipline. They will have a record of excellent research that has been published or otherwise disseminated in a manner appropriate to career stage, and have the potential to be a future leader of the profession in their field of expertise. Candidates should also have proven ability as excellent teachers at undergraduate and/or graduate level.

Please apply online at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52766> with a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching and research statements. Applications should be received by October 1, 2018. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply a link to their professional website; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: 10/1/2018Date Posted: 8/1/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4448Occidental College*Rank: Assistant Professor in Global Political Economy*Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Economic Policy

A search at the Assistant Professor level in Global Political Economy. We are particularly interested in applicants whose research explicitly connects the study of Global Political Economy to other major sub-fields in International Relations, such as security, transnationalism/migration, international organizations and/or human rights. The successful candidate will be expected to teach Introduction to Global Political Economy (DWA103) and at least one other DWA core course, which includes Introduction to International Relations and/or International Organizations. Priority will be given to applicants who are developing a research agenda that shows promise in terms of leveraging substantial field work with international or regional organizations, transnational NGOs, and/or entities working on challenges that face major urban centers or particular regions. Consideration will be given to a candidate whose teaching and research are interdisciplinary, can contribute to the College's Core / Cultural Studies Programs, and advance the College's Mission and its commitment to the Liberal Arts. An expectation will be that an eventual hire will continue the DWA department, Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy, and Occidental College's engagement with on-the-ground work in international affairs, at the local/Los Angeles, transnational, and/or global levels. An additional priority is the ability to advance the College's mission, past evidence of and future plans for creating equitable opportunities in learning and mentoring for underrepresented students, and an understanding of the distinctiveness of the Liberal Arts culture. Further, we expect the new faculty member will augment and invigorate the DWA department by collaborating with its existing faculty, ongoing initiatives, and continued curricular innovations.

Occidental College is a highly-selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Romy Corona at oxysearches@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter that details the candidate's interest in teaching at Occidental, the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, and the goals of the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy; (2) potential initiatives as part of the Young Initiative committee; (3) a discussion of the applicant's academic research, field practice, teaching experience, and program development; (4) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes a discussion of demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for underrepresented students; (5) a list and brief descriptions of courses the applicant could teach at Oxy; (6) scholarly work sample; (7) Curriculum Vitae; and (8) three confidential letters of recommendation, with at least one attesting to your teaching; letters must be sent by recommenders. All materials are due no later than October 19, 2018; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semi-finalists will be held via videoconference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. For information on the John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy, please visit our website at: <https://www.oxy.edu/john-parke-young-initiative-global-political-economy>. For inquiries about the position, the DWA department, and/or the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy please direct questions to Sophal Ear, Associate Professor of Diplomacy & World Affairs: ear@oxy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/19/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4474

Occidental College

Rank: Associate Professor in Global Political Economy/Development Practice

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Economic Policy

A search at the Associate Professor level in Global Political Economy/Development Practice. The expectation is that after a transitional period (commensurate with experience) this hire will serve as the Young Initiative Chair on the Global Political Economy, directing the use of its generously endowed fund.

We are looking for applicants who have powerfully demonstrated an ambitious research and practice agenda that can be translated into innovative Young Initiative programming (current Young programming includes both working with the Los Angeles mayor's office to integrate the Sustainable Development Goals into city-wide policies and initiatives in the field of Social Entrepreneurship). We are particularly interested in applicants whose research and practice agenda focuses on areas such as the Sustainable Development Goals; Human Rights-based Approaches to Economic Development; and/or Equity/Equality in Economic Development (with reference to race, class, identity, and/or gender). Priority will be given to applicants who have demonstrated a research and practice that leverages substantial fieldwork with international or regional organizations, transnational NGOs, and/or entities working in major urban cities or in a regional context. The eventual hire will be expected to teach at least one class that will be cross-listed with the Economics Department, and thus will need to demonstrate sufficient training in economics to teach such a course with attention to requisite mixed quantitative/qualitative methods. An expectation will be that an eventual hire will immediately catalyze Occidental College's continued engagement with on-the-ground work in international affairs, at the local/Los Angeles, transnational, and/or global levels. An additional priority is the ability to advance the College's mission, past evidence of and future plans for creating equitable opportunities in learning and mentoring for underrepresented students, an understanding of the distinctiveness of the Liberal Arts culture, and a commitment to constructively engage with faculty from other disciplines, e.g. (but not exclusively) Economics, Politics, Urban and Environmental Studies. Further, we expect the new faculty member will augment and invigorate the DWA department by collaborating with its existing faculty, ongoing initiatives, and continued curricular innovations.

The John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy is funded through a bequest from John Parke Young '17, a distinguished international economist, former chair of the college's Economics Department, and a 50-year member of the Occidental board of trustees. The Young Initiative has enabled faculty and student research and international opportunities at Occidental with the aim to promote national policies and actions of public and social benefit.

Occidental College is a highly selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Chamnan Lim at youngsearch@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter that details the interest in teaching at Occidental and the goals of the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy; (2) potential initiatives as part of the Young Initiative committee and as its eventual Chair; (3) a discussion of the applicant's academic research, field practice, teaching experience, and program development; (4) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes a discussion of demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for underrepresented students; (5) a list and brief descriptions of courses the applicant could teach at Oxy; (6) scholarly work sample; (7) Curriculum Vitae; and (8) three confidential letters of recommendation, with at least one attesting to your teaching; letters must be sent by recommenders.

All materials are due no later than October 1, 2018; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semifinalists will be held via videoconference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. For information on the John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy, please visit our website at: <https://www.oxy.edu/john-parke-young-initiative-global-political-economy>. Inquiries about the position, the DWA department, and/or the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy can be directed to the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy Interim Chair, Professor Anthony Tirado Chase: achase@oxy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4470

Princeton University

Rank: Fellowship

Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Candidates will be considered in three categories: (1) Four of the fellowships will be awarded to early-career scholars employed in the equivalent of tenure-track positions who are expected to return to their position. (2) One fellowship is set aside for a postdoctoral research associate who at the time of application does not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. (3) In addition, one fellowship will be awarded to a senior scholar. All candidates must be based outside the United States.

During the academic year 2019-20, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal of this research theme is to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We also want to understand how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. The Program will also examine rival world ideas that have challenged prevailing orthodoxies. Nowadays, with cooperative norms under challenge, global institutions under stress, and a century of guiding ideas about global convergence in doubt, we want to take a broad look at where these ideas came from, their effects, and the prospects for intellectual renewal or rethinking. The goal of the 2019-20 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applications are due on November 9, 2018. All candidates must reside outside the United States. To be eligible, postdoctoral applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. before August 1, 2019 but cannot have received their degrees more than three years prior to the start of the appointment on September 1, 2019. Early-career fellows must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2009. Senior scholars, who have received their doctorates before 2009, must have faculty appointments and a record of scholarly accomplishment in the designated theme of the program. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/8/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4322

Georgetown University

Rank: Senior Tenured Scholar - McDonough School of Business and the Walsh School of Foreign Service

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both schools. We seek scholars who work at the intersection of business and international affairs in fields such as international political economy, international trade, and international business and public policy. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Full Professor, though we welcome applications from accomplished associate professors. We also welcome applications from and nominations of senior scholars with extensive policymaking experience.

This joint position is one of a number of new interdisciplinary positions at Georgetown intended to foster scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Because of our location in Washington, DC, extensive linkages to the international policy and business communities, and strong tradition of scholarship and teaching in business, international affairs, and political economy, Georgetown has a unique opportunity to pursue integrative opportunities in scholarship and educational programs at the intersection of these fields, and the person appointed to the joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB and SFS are currently undertaking a transformative cooperation to create a new joint undergraduate degree, the first in Georgetown's history, and plans are also underway for joint centers and research initiatives. This cooperation builds on the success of several joint graduate degrees, as well as a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. The successful candidate will help provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. The MSB has strengths in core business disciplines as well as international business, public policy, and international political economy. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here: <https://www.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business attracts faculty and students from around the world. We are committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here: <https://msb.georgetown.edu/>

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE: The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and language. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to apply.interfolio.com/52848.

Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2018, but will accept applications and nominations until the position is filled. Professors Dennis P. Quinn of MSB and Erik Voeten of SFS will co-chair the search.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4455

School of Advanced Air and Space Studies

Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Strategy and Security Studies

Subfield(s): Other, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Defense, History & Politics, International Security

The School of Advanced Air and Space Studies (SAASS) is seeking a scholar of strategic or security studies to join our faculty beginning summer, 2019. Applicants with a specialization in space policy, space law, space history, or technology and innovation are of particular interest.

SAASS educates strategists for the US Air Force and the nation. The faculty develops and presents a yearlong graduate curriculum designed to educate students in the art of strategy and strategic studies, enhancing the Air Force's capacity to defend the United States through the control and exploitation of air, space, and cyberspace. Graduates receive a Master of Philosophy in Military Strategy degree with the possibility to continue toward a PhD in Military Strategy. The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges accredits both programs through The Air University.

Successful applicants will support the Air University and SAASS missions and have experience in the development, study, evaluation, or implementation of strategy, in terms of policy, history or practice. Applicants must have a completed PhD or JD, in an area relevant to strategic studies, with the ability to teach in a relevant field such as history, political science, and technology. Emphasis on the control and exploitation of space, air, and cyberspace and extensive professional experience in these areas is highly desired. The selection committee will consider applicants at the assistant and associate levels.

Primary duties include teaching graduate-level courses across the breadth of the school's curriculum, advising thesis and dissertation students, curriculum development, course direction, scholarly research and publication, and service to the school and university commensurate with individual experience.

Applicants will be required to submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation and samples of research, course syllabi and teaching evaluations to the chair of the search committee (via email or regular mail). Additionally, candidates will need to formally apply for the position using the USAJobs site, which will begin accepting applications on 1 September 2018. Review of applications will begin 1 October and continue until the position is filled.

Preliminary interviews will be conducted at the APSA annual meeting in Boston from August 30-Sep 1, 2018.

To schedule a meeting at APSA or for further information, please direct inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Derrick

Frazier (derrick.frazier@us.af.mil; SAASS, 125 Chennault Circle, Room 2222A, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4446

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Assistant Professor – International Relations

Department of Political Science

Emory University

Atlanta, GA

The Department of Political Science at Emory University invites applications for a tenure track position in international relations, to begin in the fall semester 2019. The position is at the level of Assistant Professor.

Applicants must demonstrate excellence or the promise of excellence in both research and teaching. A complete application will include the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future research, writing sample, teaching portfolio, graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, and a diversity statement. Emory University is committed to student and faculty diversity, equity, and inclusion. In the diversity statement, applicants should reflect upon their experience and vision regarding the teaching and mentorship of students from diverse backgrounds. Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. or be on track to complete a Ph.D. prior to September 2019. The teaching load and benefits are competitive. Application review will begin on September 2, 2018. Applications received up to 30 days after review begins will be given full consideration.

To apply for this position, please submit your materials free of charge through Interfolio by visiting <https://apply.interfolio.com/52622>

Emory University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/2/2018

Date Posted: 7/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4423

Indiana University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Chinese Economics and Trade

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Asian American Politics, East Asia, Political Theory

Indiana University's School of Global and International Studies seeks a full-time tenure-track assistant professor in Chinese Economics and Trade to begin fall 2019. The position is in the School's renowned multidisciplinary Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures. We welcome candidates who hold a Ph.D. in economics, international studies, law, political science, or sociology. Candidates must have active research agendas involving Chinese-language sources and field-work experience in China.

The successful candidate will hold the endowed GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair of Chinese Economics and Trade. The teaching load is two courses per semester, and position responsibilities include teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels. This is an exciting moment to join the new and expanding School of Global and International Studies as it leads Indiana University's international research and teaching missions. The East Asian Languages and Cultures Department is over fifty years old and has a long history of teaching across many disciplines, including such social science fields as political economy and sociology. EALC's teaching and research missions have also benefitted since the founding of the School of Global and International Studies from increasing synergies with our allied Department of International Studies and other area studies units.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree or clear indication that the degree will be in hand by July 31, 2019. All applications received by October 5, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application; CV; three letters of recommendation; official transcripts of graduate studies; a 25-30 page writing sample at: <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com>. Questions regarding the position or application process may be directed to Prof. Gardner Bovington, Chair, Search Committee for the GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair in Chinese Economics and Trade, Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures, Global and International Studies Building 2035, 355 N. Jordan Ave., Bloomington, IN 47405-1105, or via e-mail at: gbovingd@indiana.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/5/2018

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4396

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor/Chair Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Given multiple expected retirements and the demographics of departmental faculty, the Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno invites applications for Department Chair. This is an exciting opportunity for a senior scholar to aid in the mentoring of rising junior scholars, to continue hiring of diverse and productive faculty, and promote one the largest majors in the college and University. Appointment to the position will begin July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be named the "Vail Pittman Professor of Political Science" and have access to an endowment that comes with the Pittman Professorship.

The department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. The position is open to all research areas in political science. The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 19 faculty members and staff, teach two courses a year, and oversee departmental operations that include budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. The chair will work closely with the Directors of Undergraduate Studies and Graduate Studies to provide teaching support for the department's 500 undergraduate majors and 60 graduate students. While the position can be from any research area within Political Science, the chair should have familiarity with standards and practices in support of specific degrees offered by the Department which include an undergraduate interdisciplinary International Affairs BA, traditional Political Science BA, MA and PhD degrees, and a thriving Masters of Public Administration (MPA). The chair is also expected to build a strong relationship with college administration to further strengthen the department's research and teaching agenda. Finally, the chair should be prepared to continue advancing our commitment to increasing the diversity of our department community, research expertise, and curriculum.

Required Qualifications

Qualifications for the position include a PhD in political science, public policy, public administration or related field; an established record of research and teaching excellence; and previous administrative experience that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Department Information

The Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno, and a Tier One university. The College of Liberal Arts administers more than 20 majors and minors, and is the largest college at the university (<http://www.unr.edu/liberalarts>). The department administers two undergraduate degree programs in political science and international affairs, and two accelerated BA/MA and BA/MPA degrees for 500 undergraduate majors. There are an additional 120 plus minors in Political Science, Renewable Energy, Asian Studies, and Latin American Studies (all administered by the Department).

The department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA, and PhD degrees. Additional information about the department can be found on its website: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. In recent years, the department has experienced substantial growth in the number of faculty, research productivity, and external funding awards. The department expects to play a significant role in the university's long-term expansion plans and its movement toward R1 research status.

For more information and to apply, please visit: <https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Professor-Chair-Political-Science-R0110642>

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving expenses (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, annual and sick leave, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents.

Contact Information for this position

Eric Herzik, herzik@unr.edu

For full consideration please apply by October 8, 2018. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4397

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis seeks candidates for one position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of international relations to begin Fall 2019 or later. Duties include research and publication, course teaching, student advising, and department and university service. Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required at the assistant or associate level. In addition, candidates at the associate professor rank must, through research and publication, have made a significant contribution to one or more subfields in Political Science. Washington University in St. Louis is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status.

We will begin reviewing files on September 15 and will continue doing so until the search is concluded. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, at least three letters of reference, writing samples, and other relevant materials. All applications and supporting documentation should be submitted electronically through the Washington University HR system (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>). Candidates should create an account, search for job requisition number 40934, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Letters of reference can be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

If you encounter difficulties with the application process, please email artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu for additional instructions. All other questions may be directed to Heather Sloan-Randick at (314) 935-5852.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4393

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for an international or comparative political economy position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in the Fall of 2019. This is a new position to support our growing undergraduate major in International Relations. The regular teaching load for this position must include Politics of the Global Economy and either introduction to international relations or comparative politics. The Department is open with regard to additional regional or thematic areas of expertise. LMU has a 2-2/2-3 teaching load, meaning that faculty teach two undergraduate courses per semester, with one 3 course load semester every other year. We are seeking to hire a dedicated teacher and emerging scholar who will embrace the department's mission of helping students become informed, analytically reflective, and engaged global citizens.

Loyola Marymount, a comprehensive Catholic university in the mainstream of American higher education, seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, the service of faith and the promotion of justice. LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information.)

The application requires:

- 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission);
- 2) a curriculum vitae;
- 3) a writing sample;
- 4) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates your approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and, if available, teaching evaluations and/or sample syllabi;
- 5) three letters of recommendation.

Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: Alfred Kandlbauer at POLStjobs@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to Alfred Kandlbauer: POLStjobs@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to Alfred Kandlbauer at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. The deadline for applications is September 14. The committee may conduct some preliminary interviews at APSA. To be considered for a preliminary interview, please submit application materials by August 20th.

Candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred; ABD applications who anticipate completion of the doctorate by Fall 2019 will be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Date Posted: 7/14/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4387

Wheaton College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science
Specializations: International Political Economy, Foreign Policy, International Security

APPLY ONLINE AT: <http://jobs.wheatoncollege.edu/postings/2423>

The Department of Political Science at Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations to begin in the Fall of 2019. The ideal candidate will possess the ability to teach introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations, as well as to extend departmental coverage in Comparative Politics in regions including South Asian, South-East Asian, East Asian, or Central and Eastern European (including Russia) politics. The Political Science Department is home to both a political science major and an interdisciplinary international relations major, and the successful candidate will collaborate with colleagues in the management of the international relations major program.

All International Relations subfield specializations will be considered, including, but not limited to, the following areas:

- international political economy
- comparative foreign policy
- security studies
- intra or inter-state conflict
- peace studies
- conflict resolution.

We are especially interested in the ability to develop and teach courses at the intersections of traditional discipline and subfield specializations. We are committed to providing our students with excellent educational and co-curricular opportunities, and our faculty has significant mentoring experience with new teachers in postdoctoral and junior faculty appointments. For example, we offer regular programming in professional development and all tenure-track faculty are entitled to a fully paid pre-tenure sabbatical and research funds to support scholarship.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

- A PhD at the onset of the appointment (August 2019) is required.
- A commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarship.
- For full consideration, the following are to be submitted via Wheaton's online application system: letter of application; curriculum vitae; statement of teaching philosophy; statement of research philosophy; evidence of teaching effectiveness (materials on your teaching history, including sample syllabi and course evaluations); and at least one scholarly writing sample.
- Wheaton strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. Candidates should describe in their letter of application how their teaching and scholarship might support the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion. In addition, the letter of application should also include areas of specialty, as well as explain the candidate's interest in teaching in a liberal arts environment.
- Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Prior teaching experience; classroom experience is highly desirable.
- Dedication to scholarly achievement.
- Commitment to the liberal arts environment.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/14/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4388

Brown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Brown University invites applications for a faculty position at the level of assistant professor in the field of International Political Economy to begin July 2019. Candidates must have completed the PhD by summer 2019. Review of applications will begin September 21, 2018. Candidates should submit a cover letter identifying their primary interests as well as a current CV, writing sample, graduate transcript, teaching evaluations, and three letters of reference. Brown is an EEO/AA employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.

apply.interfolio.com/51713
Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4368

University of Toronto

Rank: Endowed Chair, Japanese Politics and Global Affairs

The University of Toronto invites applications for a joint tenure-stream, endowed chair appointment in the Department of Political Science (51%) and the Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy (49%) in the area of Japanese Politics and Global Affairs. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate or Full Professor and will commence July 1, 2019.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in politics, government, international relations, or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment and be able to provide evidence of innovative research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing.

Candidates should have an established international reputation based on a scholarly record of excellence appropriate to their career stage. Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, graduate supervision, dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The ideal candidate will focus on Japanese politics (including political history) in comparative and international perspective, Japanese policy in global and regional context, or international relations and contemporary Japan.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

We seek applications from candidates whose research program fits well with the Department and with the global focus of the Munk School. The appointee will contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students in both the Department and the School. The opportunity is also available to direct a new Centre for the Study of Global Japan established in the School to stimulate collaborative scholarship and public outreach.

We encourage applicants to review both academic units' research and teaching profiles prior to applying. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>; Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy <http://www.munkschool.utoronto.ca/>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 9, 2018.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/9/2018
Date Posted: 7/11/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4373

Utah State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Utah State University
 Department of Political Science
 Assistant Professor of International Relations

Position: The Department of Political Science at Utah State University invites applications for a nine-month tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2019. We seek to fill a position in international relations. While the area of specialization in international relations is open, topical expertise in interstate conflict, subnational conflict, and/or emerging security threats is welcome. An ability to offer a course in Middle Eastern, African, or South-Asian security is a plus. The salary is competitive.

The position is available beginning August 1, 2019. Application review will begin September 28, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will conduct research and teach courses in International Relations. Teaching responsibilities will include master's and upper and lower division undergraduate courses in their areas of specialization. Responsibilities will include a primary role in research along with strong undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service. Performance will be consistent with a faculty role in a Carnegie Doctoral/Research Extensive University.

Minimum Qualifications:

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a strong research profile in international relations. Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Political Science or a comparable field of study as of employment date, and demonstrated accomplishment and/or clear potential for success in research as well as undergraduate and graduate teaching in these specialties. They must also generate a satisfactory outcome on a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:

Preference will be given to those with a strong research trajectory and demonstrated interest in teaching courses of need to the department.

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications and experience, plus excellent benefits.

Academic Setting:

The Political Science Department at USU is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The Department offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, Law and Constitutional Studies, and International Studies. It also offers a political science Master's degree. Additionally, the department provides service courses or general education to students throughout the broader university community. Utah State University is a land-grant university founded in 1888. The university is a Carnegie Doctoral land-grant university with approximately 27,000 students (24,000 undergraduates and 3,000 graduate students) from all 50 states and 80 foreign countries. The USU campus is located in Logan, Utah. Logan is located in a picturesque mountain valley with a population of over 100,000, about 80 miles north of Salt Lake City. Ski resorts, lakes, rivers, and mountains in the area make it one of the finest outdoor recreation environments in the nation. Visit <http://www.usu.edu> for more information about the University, College, and Department.

Applications should be submitted through the online application link: <http://jobs.usu.edu>.

Please attach:

- 1) a cover letter;
- 2) curriculum vitae;
- 3) The names and email addresses of three references (your references will be sent an email from USU asking them to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf).
- 4) a professional writing sample;
- 5) a statement of teaching philosophy and, if available, evidence of teaching performance.
- 6) recent transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4375

Brown University

Rank: Professor

As part of a major new hiring initiative, the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for faculty positions in the field of international security to begin July 2019. We hope to hire multiple faculty through this search. We are seeking applicants whose research focuses on various aspects of international security broadly defined, including but not limited to grand strategy and geopolitical rivalry, civil war and post-war reconstruction, defense policy and military intervention, nuclear proliferation and deterrence, terrorism and counterterrorism, cybersecurity and surveillance, and resource conflicts and the security implications of climate change.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. The successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of national and international scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence his/her field, and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. The new faculty member(s) will hold a joint appointment in the Watson Institute and Department of Political Science. Junior candidates must have completed the PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references whom the search committee can contact at an appropriate time. Senior candidates should submit their list of referees using the "additional documents" field.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

Apply at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/51745>

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4369

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Politics)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in international relations beginning in the fall semester of 2019. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach the core course in international relations, courses in global security and/or conflict resolution, a course in either quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other courses in the candidate's field of specialization. We welcome applications from qualified candidates who approach international relations from a variety of theoretical perspectives.

The Department of Political Science has a strong record of hiring diverse faculty whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence, as well as the promise of being a productive scholar, are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in international relations, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations (if available). Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 24, 2018.

About Bucknell University

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Along with its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas, and the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the interdisciplinary investigation of the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. In 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university.

Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4365

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, International Law & Organizations

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2019. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in Political Science with a primary field of International Relations and a secondary field in Comparative Politics. A geographical expertise in Asia or the Middle East in the secondary field is highly desirable. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will teach the introductory International Relations course and alternate teaching the introductory Comparative Politics course, as well as teaching advanced undergraduate courses and Master's level courses in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Candidates will also advise students and serve the department, university, and profession.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science or related field at the time of appointment
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers a Bachelor and Masters as well as the Bachelors in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has 5 full-time Political Science faculty members (plus 5 full-time History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 100 undergraduate Political Science majors and 20 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to facultyjobs@twu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 8, 2018.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/5/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4349

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for an entry-level tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor, in the areas of international law and/or human rights, beginning July 1, 2019. A qualified candidate, with PhD in political science in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research experience in one or more of these areas, and the capacity to teach core courses in international relations as well as courses of his or her specialization(s).

The candidate must have demonstrated ability to maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinion, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening.php

The review of applications will begin August 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4348

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Studies

The departments of International Studies and Political Science at Dickinson College are seeking qualified applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position beginning in academic year 2019-20. A completed or nearly-completed Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or related discipline is required.

Applicants should have a research and teaching focus on Africa, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. The specific sub-field of research can be comparative politics, international relations, security studies (including human security), or other related fields. In addition to teaching upper-level courses in that research area, the successful candidate must demonstrate ability and interest in teaching introductory International Relations and upper-level American Foreign Policy on a regular basis. Candidates should identify in their application letter courses they are prepared to teach and should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an interdisciplinary liberal arts environment. The yearly teaching load is five courses. The successful candidate is expected to participate fully in the intellectual life of the departments, including serving as one of the oral examiners for the International Studies exams at the end of the academic year. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate.

Dickinson College is a private, four-year liberal arts college with 2,400 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC, and Philadelphia.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically, online application system at <https://jobs.dickinson.edu>.

Please submit the following materials:

* a letter of application;

- * curriculum vitae;
- * graduate transcript;
- * names and email addresses for three letters of recommendation;
- * writing sample;
- * teaching statement;
- * sample syllabi – preferably for one or more of the above listed courses.
- * teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness

Review of applications will begin October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4347

Texas A&M University

Rank: Tenure-Track, Assistant Professor in National Security & Diplomacy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the broad area of National Security and Diplomacy. The Bush School of Government and Public Service has built an outstanding faculty who are looking to hire a collegial Assistant Professor. We are broadly open to a candidate's regional/topical area of international affairs specialization. Bush School faculty exclusively teach master's degree graduate students in international affairs in a standard 2-2 load. The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one section of the required course in introductory-level empirical methods. We have a preference for candidates who would also be able to teach U.S. foreign policy. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics or a related discipline by September 2019. The individual selected will have demonstrated a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2019.

Applications must be made through the Texas A&M Workday website. The job number for this position is R-008268.

Applicants who currently are not a Texas A&M System employee please go to our external career site at https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Tenure-Track--Assistant-Professor-in-National-Security--Diplomacy--International-Affairs_R-008268

Applicants who currently are a Texas A&M System employee please go to our internal career site at https://www.myworkday.com/tamus/d/inst/15\$158872/9925\$10485.html

Applicants should upload a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae and a sample of written work.

Additionally, please have three letters of recommendation sent to:

Professor Gregory Gause

c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tam.u.edu)
The Bush School of Government & Public Service
Texas A&M University
4220 TAMU
College Station, TX 77843-4220

The review of applications will begin September 20, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4323

Connecticut College

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations with a focus on US Foreign Policy

International Relations with a focus on US Foreign Policy
The Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in the subfield of International Relations with a specialization in U.S. Foreign Policy. The ability to teach Comparative Foreign Policy and the ability to offer courses in a region of global interest would be an asset. The department already have strengths in Europe, the Middle East and East Asia. The successful candidate must demonstrate an ability to teach an introductory International Politics course and intermediate- and advanced-level courses on foreign policy, at least one of which would be on US Foreign Policy. Required: ABD in Political Science or International Relations with a Foreign Policy focus. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment to be hired as an Assistant Professor; a candidate may be hired as an Instructor if the candidate does not have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment, but will complete the Ph.D. within one year of hire.

Salary is competitive. In addition to providing ongoing support for teaching and research, the College offers the following resources for pre-tenured faculty: a 2-2 teaching load in the first year, a research fund in the first two years, and a semester's sabbatical (at full salary) after a successful third-year review.

The College's Board of Trustees, President, administration, faculty and staff share a commitment to diversity. To this end, the College, located in New London, CT is continuing what has been a very successful initiative to diversify its faculty, staff, and student body. We encourage applications from candidates who share this understanding and will contribute to the diversity of our college community, including members of historically underrepresented groups. The College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Please visit our website, <http://www.conncoll.edu>, for more information about the College and our faculty searches.

Offering two popular majors (a government major and an interdisciplinary international relations major), Government and International Relations is a collegial department with 11 full-time faculty members. There are also opportunities for collaboration with interdisciplinary programs on campus. Moreover, the College's general education program, Connections, provides ample opportunity for collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching. For an overview of this innovative curriculum, please visit <http://www.conncoll.edu/connections/>

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <https://apply.interfolio.com/51489>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Tristan Anne Borer, Chair of the Department of Government and International Relations, at tabor@conncoll.edu. Applications received by October 5th will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4309

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2019. We seek candidates whose research focuses on institutions and political economy. The search is open with respect to the substantive subfield, and priority will be given to candidates who can add to the department's strength in formal theory and rigorous empirical analysis. Successful candidates are expected to pursue an active program of research and to contribute to the department's undergraduate and graduate game theory sequences.

Florida State University is committed to broadening the gender, racial and ethnic diversity of its faculty, and the Department of Political Science shares that goal. The university statement of commitment to increasing the diversity of the faculty and students can be found at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_home.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 7,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) writing samples, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (pdf's are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu. Review of applications will begin September 17, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Florida State University is an EO employer. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eeo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 6/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4304

Augustana University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government and International Affairs

Augustana University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the Department of Government and International Affairs beginning in Fall 2019.

Responsibilities: This is an international relations and comparative politics position. The successful applicant must demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. Courses to be taught depend primarily on departmental needs in both areas of international and comparative, with some flexibility for the candidate's training and interests.

The typical load for members of the department is three courses per semester plus a course in two out of every three January terms.

Qualifications: Completed Ph.D. required. Evidence of teaching excellence and scholarly productivity is expected, as is an ability to contribute courses to Augustana's Civitas honors program and/or First Year Seminar program.

Application Procedure: Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a completed Augustana University employment application (http://augie.edu/sites/default/files/u75/Employment%20Application%20fillable_4.pdf), copies of graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including teaching evaluations), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, statement of commitment to diversity, a writing sample, and three recommendation letters electronically to humanresources@augie.edu. Review of applications begins on September 14, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Preliminary interviews will take place at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in Boston (August 30-September 2, 2018).

Contact Search Committee Chair with questions: Dr. Joel Johnson, Professor of Government and International Affairs, joel.johnson@augie.edu, 605.274.5319.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/14/2018
Date Posted: 6/13/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4303

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: International Security, Middle East, Africa

The Department of Political Science at Carleton College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in International Relations with expertise in security and with significant research interest or field experience in the Middle East and North Africa. Candidates with a scholarly focus on Sub-Saharan Africa will also be considered. The department defines security broadly to include the traditional issues of peace and violent inter-state conflict as well as human security concepts such as human and gender rights; resource, water and food security; and refugees, diasporas and displaced persons. Successful candidates will be able to teach the introductory course in international relations as well as courses in security and regional politics. Candidates whose interests speak to dominant paradigms of security and engage the debate with non-traditional approaches in the field are especially welcomed. The promise of excellence in scholarship and teaching is required. Teaching duties are five courses per year on a trimester schedule. PhD or its imminent completion is required. The appointment will begin September 1, 2019.

The following materials are required: letter of application; curriculum vitae; contact information for three letters of reference; statements addressing the candidate's teaching experience and interests and scholarly agenda; graduate school transcript; teaching evaluations or other evidence of demonstrated or potential excellence in undergraduate instruction; sample syllabi; and at least one scholarly writing sample. Early applicants should indicate whether they will be available for interview at the APSA meetings in Boston in September, 2018. Interviews will also be scheduled and conducted online. To ensure full consideration we request that applications be filed by Friday September 14. All application materials can be submitted at jobs.carleton.edu.

We are particularly interested in candidates who are enthusiastic about teaching a diverse student body. Carleton is committed to developing its faculty to better reflect the diversity of our students and American society. Women and members of traditionally underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Carleton College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, ethnicity, religion, sex, national origin, marital status, veteran status, actual or perceived sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, status with regard to public assistance, disability, or age in providing employment or access to its educational facilities or activities. Carleton College is a small, highly selective, residential liberal arts college located 45 minutes away from the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul. We are consistently ranked among the best undergraduate teaching institutions in the country. Our mission is to provide excellent educational opportunities for students. The College provides generous professional development support for both research and teaching.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 9/14/2018
Date Posted: 6/4/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4291

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 4/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4173

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3589

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

METHODOLOGYYale University*Rank: Henry A. Kissinger Postdoctoral FellowshipSubfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Henry A. Kissinger Visiting Scholars Program awards one post-doctoral fellowship, funded by the Johnson Center for the Study of American Diplomacy for one year and renewable for one additional year. Postdoctoral Kissinger Visiting Scholars must have completed their Ph.D. degree to begin the fellowship.

Kissinger Visiting Scholars are expected to use the time to conduct original research and write manuscripts for publication, focused on the role of the United States in global affairs from World War II to the present, including the conduct of U.S. statecraft, diplomacy, and grand strategy. Kissinger Visiting Scholars fellowships will be awarded to candidates with outstanding proposals that require access to the Henry A. Kissinger Papers or other archival holdings related to American diplomacy at Yale. (<http://web.library.yale.edu/digital-collections/kissinger-collection>; <http://guides.library.yale.edu/american-diplomacy-primary-sources>).

Kissinger Visiting Scholars will also work with an active academic community of post-doctoral fellows and pre-doctoral fellows, as well as Yale faculty in history, political science, and other disciplines.

Postdoctoral Kissinger Visiting Scholars may teach small seminars if desired on subjects relevant to grand strategy, participate regularly in research colloquia on campus, and are granted opportunities to present their work. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to remain in residence through the duration of their fellowship and contribute to the intellectual life of the Program in Grand Strategy, International Security Studies, and the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs by participating in their activities and development. Offices are located on Yale's campus.

The Johnson Center for the Study of American Diplomacy was founded upon the 2011 donation of Dr. Henry Kissinger's papers to Yale related to his pre-government, government, and post-government careers (<http://news.yale.edu/2011/06/14/yale-receive-kissinger-papers-and-establish-johnson-center-study-american-diplomacy>). A program of the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs, in conjunction with International Security Studies and the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy, the Center brings academics and practitioners to Yale as Kissinger Visiting Scholars and Kissinger Senior Fellows, as well as hosts an annual conference a range of other activities relating to international affairs.

Qualifications

Recent Ph.D. in relevant field. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 1, 2019.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

A complete application includes:

1. C.V.
2. 100-word research proposal abstract.
3. 1000-word research proposal, to include an explanation of how access to the Kissinger Papers or other archival holdings related to diplomatic history at Yale would help achieve the goals of your project.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Two writing samples, e.g., dissertation chapters or journal articles.

Applications are due through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/54775>) by November 12th.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: 11/12/2018Date Posted: 9/27/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4913Yale University*Rank: Henry Chauncey Postdoctoral FellowshipSubfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Henry Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowships are up to three positions funded by the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy for one year renewable for one additional year. We seek to attract outstanding junior scholars from around the globe whose work addresses questions of statecraft and grand strategy, broadly defined, and demonstrates excellence in one of a range of academic disciplines and methodologies. Postdoctoral fellows must have completed their PhD degree to begin the fellowship. They are expected to use their time at Yale to conduct original research and prepare manuscripts for publication. Fellows will work with an active academic community of postdoctoral and predoctoral fellows, as well as Yale faculty in history, political science, and other disciplines. Postdoctoral fellows may teach small seminars if desired. They participate regularly in research colloquia on campus and are granted opportunities to present their work. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to remain in residence through the duration of their fellowship and contribute to the intellectual life of the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy and to International Security Studies by participating in their activities and development. Offices are located on Yale's campus.

Qualifications

Recent Ph.D. in relevant field. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 1, 2019.

Application Instructions

A complete application consists of:

1. CV
2. A 100-word research proposal abstract.
3. A 1000-word research proposal.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Two writing samples, e.g. dissertation chapters or journal articles.

Applications are due through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/55016>) by December 3rd.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: 12/3/2018Date Posted: 9/27/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4912Princeton University*Rank: Senior Research Specialist I - CSDP

The Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, Princeton University, is seeking an advanced PhD student or PhD for a half-time to full-time Research Specialist I position, to start as soon as possible. The research specialist will work with a multi-investigator team of Princeton University politics professors on CSDP's Project on Economic Inequality in the U.S. The position provides university staff benefits including health insurance, and the opportunity to co-author.

The successful candidate will have excellent statistical skills, good writing skills, experience designing and fielding surveys and experiments, and excellent attention to detail and conscientiousness. At least two years' experience conducting independent, doctoral-level research on individual-level political behavior is preferred. The candidate should be well organized, flexible, and be able to meet deadlines.

Preference will be given to candidates who can be in-residence and working on campus, but a remote work arrangement will be considered, with availability for some meetings in Princeton.

This position is a one-year term position, with the possibility of extension for a second year depending on funding and performance.

Preferred start date of November 1, 2018, but a somewhat later start may be possible.

ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATIONS:

- *Excellent research and writing skills
- *Proficiency in survey design and analysis of survey data, preferably on individual-level political behavior
- *Background in quantitative, experimental research and statistical methods
- *Knowledge of statistical packages including STATA or R
- *Detail-oriented, flexible, able to meet deadlines

EDUCATION REQUIRED:

- *Completed PhD coursework and masters-level research in political science required. Ph.D. in political science strongly preferred

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- *At least two years' experience conducting independent, doctoral-level research on individual-level political behavior

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Apply online on the Princeton University Careers site (careers.princeton.edu), position number 00008232 (Senior Research Specialist I - CSDP),

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4898

Ludwig Maximilians Universitaet

Rank: Fellowship in the CAS Research Group "Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation"

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Methodology, Other

Call for Applications

Fellowships in the CAS Research Group

"Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation"

Center for Advanced Studies, LMU Munich

The Center for Advanced Studies at LMU Munich is a forum for intensive international academic exchange. Its purpose is to promote cooperation with national and international Visiting Fellows who work closely on collaborative projects with LMU professors. In order to intensify cooperation between researchers at LMU Munich and leading experts from other universities, the Center has set up a major program, the CAS Research Groups.

The CAS Research Group "Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation" is initiated by Klaus H. Goetz (Political Science) and will commence its work in October 2019.

The CAS Research Group will investigate exceptional dynamics in political power constellations – local, regional, national, international, transnational, and multi-level - that affect their institutional, organizational, policy and ideational properties. Exceptional dynamics are associated with at least three concepts: temporality, turbulence, and transformation. Temporal understandings highlight time-related features, such as the speed of change; momentum; atypical sequences; compressed durations; and asynchronicity. Dynamics understood as turbulence relate to a broad range of phenomena, such as variability, inconsistency, irregularity, unexpectedness, unpredictability, randomness or seeming "chaos". Transformative understandings direct attention at the depth and extent of change. The CAS Research Group aims to advance our understanding of exceptional dynamics through a research program that combines empirical, conceptual, theoretical, and methodological concerns. It seeks to investigate what form exceptional dynamics take and under what conditions they occur; to build a conceptual map that helps to distinguish different variants of exceptional dynamics; to explore the contributions of different theoretical traditions; and to identify relevant novel methodological tools for researching into dynamics.

The CAS Research Group will bring together internationally renowned researchers who are invited to LMU Munich to contribute to the Group's research. Applications are welcomed from all the main substantive sub-disciplines of political science, including comparative politics and government; public policy and public administration; international relations; and political theory; cognate disciplines, including political sociology, political communication, political economy, political psychology, and contemporary history; and from experts in methodological advances. Both senior and junior postdoc researchers are encouraged to apply. The Center for Advanced Studies will provide financial and organizational support for visits of between four weeks and nine months during the period between October 2019 and September 2020. Travel and accommodation will be paid for and an expense allowance or other compensation (according to individual agreement) will be provided to cover operating costs or as recompense for any loss of income sustained. Guests will receive a workspace in the Center and will have access to all its facilities. Visiting researchers will find an open and stimulating research environment in an interdisciplinary setting.

Applications should consist of a brief outline (1-2 pages) of the expertise, field of exchange and intended contribution to the CAS Research Group. Applications should also contain relevant credentials and a résumé including a list of the most recent publications. In order to strengthen the role of women in research, female scholars are strongly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all the application documents electronically (in one PDF file) by 10 December 2018 to

Email: goetz.lmu@gmail.com

Prof. Dr. Klaus H. Goetz
Geschwister-Scholl-Institut für Politikwissenschaft
Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München
Oettingenstraße 67
80538 München
Germany

For any questions on the CAS Research Groups please contact Dr. Julia Schreiner at CAS:

Email: Julia.Schreiner@cas.lmu.de

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/10/2018

Date Posted: 9/23/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4873

Eastern Illinois University

Rank: American Politics/Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University invites applicants for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor. The successful candidate will be qualified to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American Politics and Research Methods. The position begins August 15, 2019.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status with evidence of substantial progress toward degree completion. Commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring, an active research agenda, and a commitment to service are essential. Primary courses include an introductory American government course, a rotation of undergraduate American politics courses (e.g. Presidency, Congress, and American Foreign Policy), undergraduate and graduate level research methods, and graduate seminars. Some graduate classes will be taught online. The position also includes directing undergraduate and graduate research. Ideal candidates will be committed to mentoring, applied learning, diversity, and promoting inclusive excellence.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references (including reference phone numbers and emails), three recent professional recommendation letters, and graduate school transcripts via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/55077>. Application review begins October 8 and will continue until the position is filled.

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University offers three undergraduate majors, including Political Science, an International Studies option, and a Civic and Nonprofit Leadership option. At the graduate level, the department offers an M.A. in Political Science and an online M.A. in Political Science with a Public Administration and Public Policy option. Questions about the search may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Melinda Mueller (mamueller@eiu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4857

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Professor of Education Policy in Equity and Inclusion

Subfield(s): Other, Methodology, Public Policy

The Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations at Peabody College of Education and Human Development at Vanderbilt University invites applications for the position of Professor of Education Policy in Equity and Inclusion. We seek distinguished applicants trained in the social sciences who study the ways in which education creates advantages and disadvantages for different individuals and groups in the United States. We are interested in a scholar whose work addresses the effectiveness of the nation's K-16 education system as a site for civic empowerment and social and economic mobility, and whose research critically examines fundamental questions around the role of schools and/or colleges in the achievement of an equitable, inclusive, and diverse society.

Candidates should possess an exemplary record of scholarly accomplishment and a demonstrated capacity to work collaboratively with colleagues commensurate with the rank of full professor. A successful record of external funding is expected. The successful candidate will have experience mentoring and training doctoral students for careers in academia and closely allied research organizations, and commitments to teaching undergraduate and professional degree students.

The mission of the Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations is to understand and improve the political, economic, organizational, and social contexts in which human learning takes place. The department embraces a range of disciplinary traditions and encourages multiple methodological approaches in the study of education policy and practice.

The department operates highly regarded programs and degrees at the undergraduate, master's, and doctoral level, including professional master's degree programs; an on-campus Ed.D. program in K-12 and in higher education leadership and policy; an online Ed.D. in leadership and learning in organizations; a Ph.D. program in K-12 and in higher education leadership and policy; and an undergraduate degree in Human and Organizational Development. For more information on the department, visit our website: <http://peabody.vanderbilt.edu/departments/lpo/index.php>

Applications

Review of formal applications will begin December 1, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. The anticipated start date is August 2019. Applicants should submit a letter addressing their qualifications and interests, a full curriculum vitae, three recent peer-reviewed publications, and the names and contact information of three references. Please apply at the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53826>

For questions about the position, please contact:

Ellen Goldring
 Patricia and Rodes Hart Chair
 Professor of Education Policy and Leadership
 Chair, Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations
 Peabody #414, 230 Appleton Place
 Nashville, TN 37203
ellen.goldring@vanderbilt.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 12/1/2018
Date Posted: 9/18/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4849

Columbia University

Rank: Professor (Open Rank)

Columbia University, Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank position in Political Methodology to begin July 1, 2019. Applications at both the junior and senior level are welcome. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Non-tenured applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and at least two brief writing samples. Tenured applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and letter of interest detailing current and future research plans. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 5, 2018, and the search will remain open until filled.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Please visit our online application site at academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=66923 to submit an application.

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4773

University of Delaware

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor Positions in Disaster Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Public Administration

The University of Delaware (UD) (<http://www.udel.edu/>) invites applications from talented scholars pursuing interesting questions related to disasters, hazards, and crisis. We are looking to fill multiple tenure-track/tenured positions in Disaster Science at the Assistant or Associate Professor level beginning September 1, 2019. This search is the first stage of an exciting university-wide, interdisciplinary cluster recruitment effort to expand research in disaster science, a major emphasis of the University, with hiring planned over the next two years. In this first stage, we are seeking exceptional candidates with interdisciplinary interests in a wide range of topics broadly construed as social perspectives on risk, hazards and disasters.

Faculty will have a tenure-track/tenured home in a department at the University of Delaware and join, as core faculty, the world-renowned Disaster Research Center (DRC) (www.drc.udel.edu), the world's oldest center focused on the social science and management aspects of disaster. UD has several environment- and disaster-oriented programs and research streams in its various colleges. DRC houses the flagship institution of the William A. Anderson Fund (BAF), an initiative devoted to increasing the participation of students from historically underrepresented populations in disaster science and practice.

QUALIFICATIONS

We seek scholars who are committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching, diversity and inclusion, and community engagement. Candidates should show experience or potential for securing external funding. The candidate should hold an earned Ph.D. or other relevant doctoral degree at the time of appointment. We will consider a broad range of research foci related to social perspectives on risk, hazards, and disasters. Possible, but not exclusive, areas of interest might include: individual and household preparedness for disaster; social determinants of disaster health outcomes and recovery; food security and connection of food delivery to health outcomes in disaster-affected settings; institutional systems for service delivery, such as for disaster behavioral health; functional and access needs, including elder populations and others requiring medical-support care in hospitals and nursing homes; environmental and social justice; risk perception/communication; environmental planning; hazard mitigation; and decision-making and social change. Researchers with strong methodological skills (one or more approaches, such as statistics, spatial analysis, social network analysis, GIS, participatory action research, qualitative methods, or mixed methods) are encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Applicants should submit: (1) a current curriculum vita; (2) a cover letter summarizing their interest, qualifications, likely department(s) they wish to be considered for their tenure/tenure-track home, and a description of progress on the dissertation, if not yet complete; (3) a research statement; (4) a teaching statement; (5) contact information for three references (references will not be contacted prior to notifying the candidate). Candidates should ensure that their materials address the qualifications stated above. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Those interested should apply through <http://www.udel.edu/faculty-staff/human-resources/careers/faculty-jobs/>.

Please direct questions, but not application materials, to Tricia Wachtendorf or James Kendra, Search Committee Co-Chairs (twachten@udel.edu or jmkendra@udel.edu).

Located in Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., UD is a Land Grant, State Grant, Space Grant, and Carnegie Research University (highest research activity; and a Carnegie public engagement designation), with external funding exceeding $200 million. A state-assisted, privately governed institution, the University enrolls approximately 19,000 undergraduates and 4,000 graduate students

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 9/4/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4761

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track (Assistant Professor) positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2019.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 34 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should apply through Workday as instructed below. Applicants should submit the following material online through workday using the links below: a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, any available teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Applicants should also have three letters of reference submitted electronically to Professor William Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Our review of applications will begin on October 3, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

EXTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently are NOT a Texas A&M System employee please click below to go to our external career site to view our jobs. Go to External Career Site – https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Assistant-Professor_R-011658

INTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently ARE a Texas A&M System employee: Go to Internal Career Site – <https://jobs.tamu.edu/internal-applicants/>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4759

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science – American politics

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Research Methods

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics, to begin fall of 2019. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2019. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course and upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. The candidate must also be able to teach quantitative research methods. Preference will be given to candidates who could contribute courses to the College's interdisciplinary programs (<https://www.rhodes.edu/content/majors-minors>).

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities (<http://www.rhodes.edu/content/liberal-arts-city>).

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu. A complete application will include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy, a research plan, a writing sample, graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are fine), three letters of recommendation, and a separate statement that addresses your interest in teaching at a liberal arts college and how your experiences with teaching, scholarship, and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values. In your cover letter, please address how you see yourself enhancing the offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs. Review of completed applications will begin October 8, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Candidates from backgrounds typically underrepresented in higher education are strongly encouraged to apply. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders, once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and all other required application materials have been submitted. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jaspersen, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4752

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Methodology

Political Methodology. The Department of Political Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2019. We seek a scholar doing innovative research in any area of quantitative political methodology, broadly defined. We welcome applications from scholars whose work crosses traditional subfield or disciplinary boundaries. Please submit a letter of application describing research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, a sample of current research, and four letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Applications from women and minorities are particularly welcome. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity employer that welcomes all to apply, including protected veterans and individuals with disabilities. To apply for the position, please follow this link: <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/147151>. Please attach your cover letter, curriculum vitae, and sample of current research on this site. At the time of application, candidates will be required to identify the names, titles, and email addresses of professional references (four are required). References must be at level of tenure-track assistant professor or higher. Recommenders identified by the applicant will be contacted via email with instructions for uploading their letters of support. Alternatively, applicants may list Interfolio as a reference and the application system will solicit recommendations directly from Interfolio. Applicants may also list the email of a Graduate Coordinator who will upload their references instead of the referring faculty. Departmental contact person is Shannon Eubanks; the department address is Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, CB# 3265, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3265; and the web address is <http://politicalscience.unc.edu>.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4730

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2019. The successful candidate should demonstrate strong skills in quantitative methodology; in addition, preference will be given to applicants with specialties in one or more of the following: data visualization, data science and analytics, survey methodology, or experimental methodology. In addition to having a productive research agenda, we seek a candidate that has the potential for effective teaching; of particular importance is the ability to relate the real-world applications of methodology and data analysis to students. The candidate is expected to teach courses in both our undergraduate and graduate research methods sequences in addition to elective courses in their substantive area of interest. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field is expected at the time of appointment.

Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department offers the following degrees in Political Science: B.S., B.A. and M.A. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester. Completed applications received by October 01, 2018 will be given full consideration. Applicants are asked to apply online at Methodsad@okstate.edu and submit: a letter of application, vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, evidence of successful teaching and scholarship, and statements of teaching and research interests.

The department is committed to creating an inclusive space for our students, faculty, and staff and to teaching and mentoring our undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. The department encourages applications from women and minorities. Currently, 37 percent of our undergraduate majors are minorities. Among our tenure-track faculty, 9 percent are from underrepresented racial/ethnic minority groups and 55 percent are female. Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. This position is contingent upon availability of funds.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4649

University of British Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Behaviour

The Department of Political Science, University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in Political Behavior at the level of Assistant Professor, effective 1 July 2019.

We are seeking applicants with strong research records appropriate to a research-oriented doctoral program and demonstrated ability and interest in high quality, innovative teaching. Applicants should have research interests that complement existing strengths in the department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and supervise at the graduate and undergraduate levels in political behavior within one of the subfields of political science. Candidates must have a PhD or will have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2019). The successful candidate will be expected to maintain a program of scholarly research leading to publication, effective teaching, graduate supervision, and service.

The programs, faculty research interests and general activities of the Department of Political Science are found at www.politics.ubc.ca. The University of British Columbia's main campus is located in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Applications must be submitted to <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/job-application-assistant-professor-in-political-behaviour/>. Required documents include a c.v., a description of current and future research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a sample of their ongoing research preferably in the form of published material. Applicants must also arrange to have three signed and confidential letters of reference sent by email to poli.recruitment@ubc.ca. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4653

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

The Political Science department at the University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member who will publish original quantitative methods research. The successful candidate will teach advanced quantitative research methods at the graduate level and substantive classes in American Politics, Comparative Politics or International Relations.

Faculty positions include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

To apply please go to <http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/498934/assistant-professor-in-political-science><http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/498934/assistant-professor-in-political-science>

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to excellence in research, teaching and service. Candidates from underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/25/2018

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4614

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Computational Social Science Professor - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) is inviting applications for full time faculty positions in Computational Social Sciences, from senior scholars – at the rank of associate and full professors - and exceptional early career scholars.

We encourage applications from all excellent candidates in any field answering social-science questions, as long as they have a strong focus on (big) data collection and visualization; data management and analysis techniques such as machine learning, text analysis, network science/analysis, spatial data analysis/GIS.

All candidates should demonstrate important contributions to their area of research as evidenced e.g. by significant publications in top international academic journals and a history of acquiring third party funding, as well as the ability to mentor and collaborate with a group of junior social scientists.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to continue to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The position features a standard teaching load of three courses per year. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

The review of applications will occur on a rolling basis. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 18/19 Academic Year. We anticipate that successful candidates will start employment on August 15, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

You may start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52984>

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4606

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Neuroscience Professor - Open Rank

The Division of Social Science at NYUAD is seeking to hire a faculty member in the area of Social Neuroscience. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. Although the specific area of research is open, the focus should be human research explicitly linked to social processes. Individuals from all academic backgrounds are encouraged to apply (e.g., biology, psychology, economics, political science or sociology). Preference will be given to applicants who use fMRI, EEG, or process tracing methods, whose research reflects the interdisciplinary nature of social science and who can forge linkages to other areas of study both within the Division (i.e., with economists, political scientists and sociologists) and outside the Division.

The facilities available include a state-of-the-art brain-imaging center housing a Siemens Prisma 3T MRI, MEG, EEG, eye tracking and behavioral testing facilities. The successful candidates will also have access to state of the art core facilities that include High Performance Computing facilities with more than 6,400 computing cores and a peak performance of 70 TFLOPS.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. We will begin consideration of applications October 1st, although review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

You can start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52983>

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4603

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Neuroscience Professor - Open Rank

The Division of Social Science at NYUAD is seeking to hire a faculty member in the area of Social Neuroscience. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. Although the specific area of research is open, the focus should be human research explicitly linked to social processes. Individuals from all academic backgrounds are encouraged to apply (e.g., biology, psychology, economics, political science or sociology). Preference will be given to applicants who use fMRI, EEG, or process tracing methods, whose research reflects the interdisciplinary nature of social science and who can forge linkages to other areas of study both within the Division (i.e., with economists, political scientists and sociologists) and outside the Division.

The facilities available include a state-of-the-art brain-imaging center housing a Siemens Prisma 3T MRI, MEG, EEG, eye tracking and behavioral testing facilities. The successful candidates will also have access to state of the art core facilities that include High Performance Computing facilities with more than 6,400 computing cores and a peak performance of 70 TFLOPS.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. We will begin consideration of applications October 1st, although review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

You can start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52983>

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4604

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Science and Genetics Professor - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) invites applications for full time faculty positions in New York University Abu Dhabi from scholars working at the intersection of genetics and social sciences. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. We will consider applicants from across social science or social science related disciplines (e.g. sociology, economics, political science, psychology, biological anthropology, psychology and human genetics) with active and cutting-edge research agendas that include, but are not limited to, population genetics and social identity, genetics and human behaviour, critical and historical approaches to the use of genetics in social science and public policy, and bioethics in relation to human genetics.

Successful candidates will benefit from resources at NYUAD that support work at the intersection of genetics and the social sciences by providing access to cohorts, populations, collaborations and research programs. These include the Center for Genomics and Systems Biology (<http://as.nyu.edu/biology/research/gsb/cgsb.html>), the Public Health Research Center (<https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/research/centers-labs-and-projects/public-health-research-center.html>), and seminars and colloquia that bring together faculty from biology and the social sciences.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals or books. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

The review of applications will begin on October 15 and continue until the position is filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 18/19 Academic Year. We anticipate that successful candidates will start employment on August 15, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

You may start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52985>

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4605

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations (Tenure Track)

Assistant Professor of International Relations (Tenure Track)

The School of International Relations at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, California seeks to hire a tenure-track assistant professor to begin in August 2019. We are especially interested in candidates with training in advanced methods, such as formal modeling. The successful candidate should also have the interest and capacity to teach PhD level methods courses. The successful applicant will teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels depending on substantive or regional specialization. The Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment.

The School of International Relations is a department in USC Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences. It offers the B.A. in International Relations and the Ph.D. in Political Science and International Relations jointly with the Department of Political Science. Please see www.usc.edu/sir and www.usc.edu/poir for more information.

The applicant should send a CV, a sample research paper, a statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of recommendation, and official graduate transcripts to sirsearch@dornsife.usc.edu, or

SIR Junior Search Committee
USC School of International Relations
3518 Trousdale Parkway, VKC 330
Los Angeles, CA 90089-0043

In order to be considered for this position, applicants are also required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-of-international-relations/1209/8973703>.

Review of applications will begin starting September 15, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4575

University of Toronto

Rank: Indigenous Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a tenure stream position in Indigenous Politics, at the rank of Assistant Professor. This position will be held on the St. George campus and will begin on July 1, 2019.

Candidates must have a PhD or be near completing a PhD in Political Science or a related social sciences or humanities discipline, with a focus on Indigenous politics, and with demonstrated excellence in teaching, research, and Indigenous community engagement. We are seeking a scholar with a strong record in Indigenous research methodologies and ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, whose work focuses on Indigenous feminist research, Indigenous governance and practices, related policies, and/or colonialism and decolonization. Long term ethical engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, and competence to instruct and engage in research from an Indigenous perspective, using Indigenous methodologies, knowledge systems, and epistemologies is required. Preference will be given to Indigenous Peoples of North America or Peoples of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations (status, non-status, treaty or non-treaty), Metis, Inuit, Alaskan Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian Peoples.

The Department of Political Science is a leading research-intensive department with large undergraduate and graduate programs. Responsibilities of the position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses (specific assignments to be negotiated), regular participation in departmental and university activities, maintaining a productive research agenda, supervising students at the undergraduate, MA and PhD levels, and student mentoring.

Excellence in research should be demonstrated through publications in high quality field relevant peer reviewed journals or forthcoming high quality publications, awards and accolades, presentations at significant conferences, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing, including a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement. Excellence in teaching should be demonstrated by the teaching dossier outlining experience and accomplishments, the teaching statement, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, and strong letters of reference. The successful candidate will play an important role in growing and shaping the Political Science department's commitment to Indigenous Studies in the next few years.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 25 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the world's most diverse cities, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is enhanced by the cultural diversity in its community. In response to the Final Report of the Canadian Truth and Reconciliation Commission, U of T established a TRC Steering Committee to guide the University's response to the 94 Calls to Action. The University recently established an office of Indigenous Initiatives that works in close collaboration with the Centre for Indigenous Studies, First Nations House and other Indigenous facets of the University of Toronto (such as Indigenous Medical Education, Waakebiness-Bryce, and the Indigenous Education Network) to motivate initiatives designed to recruit and retain Indigenous students. This office supports the intellectual and communal life of Indigenous students and scholars on campus, including Indigenous Staff and Faculty Gatherings, an Elders Symposium, organizing and hosting Indigenous Education Week, and various conference initiatives (such as sending individuals to the World Indigenous Peoples Conference on Education (WIPCE) and hosting the Native American and Indigenous Studies Association (NAISA) meetings in 2020). The office includes a large staff and Faculty advisory and collaboration committee. The University has also earmarked funding to host Indigenous scholars and Distinguished Visiting Faculty Fellows. This work complements a major recruitment drive to hire Indigenous faculty across the University.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Candidates must also arrange to have three confidential academic reference letters signed and on letterhead sent directly to the Chair of the Political Science department, Antoinette Handley, via email to chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. Candidates should also arrange to have a letter of support commenting on their Indigenous community engagement sent to the same address. All application materials must be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system by the closing date. Please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF or MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

The closing date for applications is October 15, 2018. If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Antoinette Handley at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4571

University of Toronto

Rank: Indigenous Politics at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a tenure stream position in Indigenous Politics, at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. This position will be held on the St. George campus and will begin on July 1, 2019.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related social sciences or humanities discipline, with a focus on Indigenous politics, and with demonstrated excellence in teaching, research, and Indigenous community engagement. We are seeking a scholar with a strong record in Indigenous research methodologies and ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, whose work focuses on Indigenous feminist research, Indigenous governance and practices, related policies, and/or colonialism and decolonization. Long term ethical engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, and competence to instruct and engage in research from an Indigenous perspective, using Indigenous methodologies, knowledge systems, and epistemologies is required. Preference will be given to Indigenous Peoples of North America or Peoples of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations (status, non-status, treaty or non-treaty), Metis, Inuit, Alaskan Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian Peoples.

The Department of Political Science is a leading research-intensive department with large undergraduate and graduate programs. Responsibilities of the position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses (specific assignments to be negotiated), regular participation in departmental and university activities, maintaining a productive research agenda, supervising students at the undergraduate, MA and PhD levels, and student mentoring.

Excellence in research should be evidenced through a demonstrated ability to attract external research funding; a record of sustained impactful publications in top-ranked field relevant peer reviewed academic journals; presentations at significant conferences; distinguished awards and accolades; and strong endorsements by referees of high standing, including a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement. Excellence in teaching should be demonstrated by the teaching dossier outlining experience and accomplishments, the teaching statement, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, and strong letters of reference. The successful candidate will play an important role in growing and shaping the Political Science department's commitment to Indigenous Studies in the next few years.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 25 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the world's most diverse cities, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is enhanced by the cultural diversity in its community. In response to the Final Report of the Canadian Truth and Reconciliation Commission, U of T established a TRC Steering Committee to guide the University's response to the 94 Calls to Action. The University recently established an office of Indigenous Initiatives that works in close collaboration with the Centre for Indigenous Studies, First Nations House and other Indigenous facets of the University of Toronto (such as Indigenous Medical Education, Waakebiness-Bryce, and the Indigenous Education Network) to motivate initiatives designed to recruit and retain Indigenous students. This office supports the intellectual and communal life of Indigenous students and scholars on campus, including Indigenous Staff and Faculty Gatherings, an Elders Symposium, organizing and hosting Indigenous Education Week, and various conference initiatives (such as sending individuals to the World Indigenous Peoples Conference on Education (WIPCE) and hosting the Native American and Indigenous Studies Association (NAISA) meetings in 2020). The office includes a large staff and Faculty advisory and collaboration committee. The University has also earmarked funding to host Indigenous scholars and Distinguished Visiting Faculty Fellows. This work complements a major recruitment drive to hire Indigenous faculty across the University.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Candidates must also arrange to have three confidential academic reference letters signed and on letterhead sent directly to the Chair of the Political Science department, Antoinette Handley, via email to chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. Candidates should also arrange to have a letter of support commenting on their Indigenous community engagement sent to the same address. All application materials must be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system by the closing date. Please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF or MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

The closing date for applications is October 15, 2018. If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Antoinette Handley at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4570

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Policy

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8001>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. Teaching and research statements are optional. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00001

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4565

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Public Administration

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus and methodological approach. The position requires excellence in research and classroom teaching. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or be ABD with PhD expected by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and letters of recommendation from at least three references. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53055>. The review of applications will begin on September 17, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to: michael.herron@dartmouth.edu

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4512

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Formal Theory / Political Economy for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. The applicant should demonstrate advanced skills in analytical reasoning and formal modeling (including but not limited to game theory), as well as a strong applied focus in at least one subfield. The successful candidate will be able to convey their insights to an audience that does not necessarily have extensive formal training but that is interested in the ideas as applied to a well-defined substantive problem. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01847>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4522

Saint Mary's College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor — Research Methods and American Politics

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Visiting Assistant Professor – Political Science

The Program in Political Science invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor beginning August 2019. The position is for one year; there is a possibility of conversion to a tenure-track position if circumstances and funding permit. The Department seeks a scholar in Research Methods and American Politics who has a strong commitment to teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment. The candidate's primary responsibility will be to teach a 3-3 load, which in addition to the Research Methods course required of all Political Science majors may include such courses as Public Opinion, Political Parties and Interest Groups, and Gender and Politics. Ability to teach Foreign Policy and/or Security Studies is a plus. A strong commitment to diversity and inclusion, undergraduate education of women, liberal arts education, and service to the department and the College is expected.

PhD required. ABD considered if PhD to be completed within one year. Teaching experience required. Starting date is August 19, 2019. Classes begin on August 26, 2019.

Please send the following to Dr. Amy Cavender, chair, at posc+search@saintmarys.edu (PDF format preferred):

- Letter of application
- Curriculum vitae
- Statement of teaching philosophy/research activity
- Statement on diversity
- Evidence of teaching excellence
- Three letters of reference

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants invited to progress to the next round will also be asked to provide all official transcripts of undergraduate and graduate work.

Established in 1844, Saint Mary's College, the nation's premier Catholic Women's college, was founded and is sponsored by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. As a Catholic institution of higher learning, Saint Mary's College has a mission-driven responsibility to be diverse, inclusive, and equitable. The College encourages candidates from underrepresented backgrounds to apply. (See our full value statement on diversity and inclusion: <https://www.saintmarys.edu/about/president/presidents-council-inclusivity-multicultural-diversity>.) Saint Mary's College is a liberal arts college for women with a strong commitment to education of undergraduate women and graduate women and men. All faith traditions are welcome among our administrators, faculty, staff, and students.

Saint Mary's College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. In keeping with the College's mission, Saint Mary's is committed to increasing its diversity at all levels — students, faculty, and staff — and seeks applications from candidates who share this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4471

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Political Science of the Higher School of Economics in Moscow*, Russia invites applications for multiple full-time, tenure track position in political science. The search is open with respect to subfield and topic of specialization, but we are particularly interested in candidates specializing in one or more of the following areas: political theory, comparative politics, international politics, global political economy, qualitative methodology, or data analysis and quantitative methods. Knowledge of Russian is not required as teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Requirements

Doctorate or terminal degree in political science or related fields by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2019 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Tenure review will be in the sixth year (or earlier at the discretion of the applicant).

Knowledge of Russian is not required; teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Benefits

The salary is internationally competitive, indexed to inflation annually, and subject to a 13% flat income tax. The university offers health insurance (free of charge), language assistance, and other social benefits; travel support and other research assistance are generous. Since we place a heavy emphasis on high quality research, the teaching load of newly hired faculty is relatively low and service is minimal.

Job Location

Moscow, Russia

Application

Position announcements are posted on the HSE International Faculty Recruitment portal.

Interested candidates should post a letter detailing the direction of research and teaching objectives, a CV, a recent research paper, and 2 letters of recommendation via online application form at <https://iri.hse.ru/>

Application deadline is September 1, 2018.

Late applications can be also considered if the position is not filled.

Learn More

More information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en>
 More information about the School of Political Science: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps>
 More information about recruitment procedures: <https://iri.hse.ru/>
 International Faculty Support portal with detailed information on various issues concerning move to Russia and work at HSE: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru>

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities in the fields of economics, social sciences and humanities, and has emerged as a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was ranked 48th in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and is among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

One of its unique features has been its direct involvement in socio-economic reforms in Russia, which has allowed HSE to develop as a "project and research university" where education, fundamental and applied research, and "think tank" activities are combined for the comprehensive development of society. Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has more than 30 international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world.

Since 2006 the HSE has been recruiting professional academics from international research universities in order to raise the standards of research at the University. HSE now employs more than 100 international tenure-track and postdoctoral fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and centers in Moscow and at HSE's campuses in St. Petersburg and Perm.

School of Political Science

The School of Political Science offers an array of educational options for students from Russia and abroad. We teach a full range of subjects based on the latest developments in academic research in political science. From comparative politics to political theory and quantitative and qualitative approaches, the professors of the School pursue research across the entire spectrum of modern political science.

Not only is there methodological diversity; there is considerable breadth in terms of substantive and geographic specializations. Among the School's academic "trademarks" are comparative politics and Russian politics, including politics in the Russian regions.

The quality of research at Higher School of Economics has already been widely recognized, and HSE counts among the top-100 universities in the world according to the QS ranking in this subject field.

Contact Information

Address: 20 Myasnitskaya ulitsa, Moscow, 101000

Phones:

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22535

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22428

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22834

E-mail: socscience@hse.ru

Website: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/1/2018

Date Posted: 5/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4225

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 4/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4173

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations(MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

NON-ACADEMIC

OTHER

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

The Institute for Practical Ethics, a newly founded interdisciplinary research unit at the University of California, San Diego, is dedicated to the pursuit of socially responsible science. Forming connections among ethicists, social scientists, natural scientists, health professionals, and the community, it seeks to address ethical and social issues facing society, from ethical issues in clinical trials, environmental conservation, stem cell research, engineering and big data, and much more. Further information about the Institute can be found at ipe.ucsd.edu.

Thanks to a generous grant from the Tata Foundation, one of the Institute's projects over the next few years will be focused on the Ethics and Social Implications of Active Genetics. "Active genetics" refers to new advances in genetic engineering, advances associated with more precise editing methods (e.g., through CRISPR-CAS9) combined with faster and more powerful ways of driving mutations through populations (commonly called a gene-drive). This emerging ability aspires to make progress in disease reduction, agriculture, and cancer research. For example, scientists are working on modifying a species of mosquito so that it cannot transmit malaria, along with a gene drive to ensure that this new mosquito quickly replaces the wild one. This technology's power to transform raises ethical issues and questions about social impact. The goal of this project is to anticipate and study these new issues. We are particularly interested in projects that will focus upon this technology's possible use in India.

To this end, the Institute has assembled an interdisciplinary research team of dissertation fellows, PhD candidates, postdoctoral scholars, and UC San Diego faculty who work in this area. Members of the research team plan and participate in a monthly meeting devoted to the science and ethics of active genetics; organize lectures, colloquia, round-tables, or other public events exploring the topic; and convene at least one major international conference. Postdoctoral scholars are also expected to be working on their own major project that concerns active genetics. While there is no existing field of gene drive studies per se, we anticipate that scholars with expertise in related questions will be especially competitive. We anticipate successful applicants being from, but not limited to, the fields of philosophy, ethics, bioethics, sociology, science studies and anthropology.

The Institute for Practical Ethics at the University of California, San Diego, invites applications for the position of postdoctoral scholar for the academic years 2019-2020 and 2020-2021. Applicants must possess a PhD granted from an accredited university before the position begins.

The postdoctoral scholar positions are two-year appointments, with the second year contingent upon acceptable performance in the first year. Salary, as based on UC's salary scales and candidate qualifications, will be provided in exchange for active participation in the Institute's program of activities and in particular its research project in Ethical Issues and Social Implications in Active Genetics. Postdoctoral scholars will be expected to lead monthly meetings on active genetics and ethics, attend a monthly meeting on scientific issues within active genetics, and assist with project activities (which may include writing grant proposals, organizing workshops, and research in the area). Duties will be decided through consultation between the postdoctoral scholar and Institute Co-Directors. Postdoctoral scholars are required to be in residence for the entirety of the academic years. The postdoctoral scholar position is open to international applicants. The Institute is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research and service.

Primary consideration will be given to applications submitted by December 1, 2018, but all applications will be considered until positions are filled. Applications should be submitted to Tara Nadeau (tnadeau@ucsd.edu) and should include:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Brief statement (1000 words maximum) summarizing the applicant's intellectual interests, scholarly training, and research agenda as these relate to Ethics and Implications of Active Genetics
- Copies of no more than two representative publications or dissertation chapters
- Two letters of recommendation

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 10/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4914

Yale University

Rank: Henry A. Kissinger Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Henry A. Kissinger Visiting Scholars Program awards one post-doctoral fellowship, funded by the Johnson Center for the Study of American Diplomacy for one year and renewable for one additional year. Postdoctoral Kissinger Visiting Scholars must have completed their Ph.D. degree to begin the fellowship.

Kissinger Visiting Scholars are expected to use the time to conduct original research and write manuscripts for publication, focused on the role of the United States in global affairs from World War II to the present, including the conduct of U.S. statecraft, diplomacy, and grand strategy. Kissinger Visiting Scholars fellowships will be awarded to candidates with outstanding proposals that require access to the Henry A. Kissinger Papers or other archival holdings related to American diplomacy at Yale. (<http://web.library.yale.edu/digital-collections/kissinger-collection>; <http://guides.library.yale.edu/american-diplomacy-primary-sources>).

Kissinger Visiting Scholars will also work with an active academic community of post-doctoral fellows and pre-doctoral fellows, as well as Yale faculty in history, political science, and other disciplines.

Postdoctoral Kissinger Visiting Scholars may teach small seminars if desired on subjects relevant to grand strategy, participate regularly in research colloquia on campus, and are granted opportunities to present their work. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to remain in residence through the duration of their fellowship and contribute to the intellectual life of the Program in Grand Strategy, International Security Studies, and the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs by participating in their activities and development. Offices are located on Yale's campus.

The Johnson Center for the Study of American Diplomacy was founded upon the 2011 donation of Dr. Henry Kissinger's papers to Yale related to his pre-government, government, and post-government careers (<http://news.yale.edu/2011/06/14/yale-receive-kissinger-papers-and-establish-johnson-center-study-american-diplomacy>). A program of the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs, in conjunction with International Security Studies and the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy, the Center brings academics and practitioners to Yale as Kissinger Visiting Scholars and Kissinger Senior Fellows, as well as hosts an annual conference a range of other activities relating to international affairs.

Qualifications

Recent Ph.D. in relevant field. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 1, 2019.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

A complete application includes:

1. C.V.
2. 100-word research proposal abstract.
3. 1000-word research proposal, to include an explanation of how access to the Kissinger Papers or other archival holdings related to diplomatic history at Yale would help achieve the goals of your project.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Two writing samples, e.g., dissertation chapters or journal articles.

Applications are due through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/54775>) by November 12th.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/12/2018

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4913

Yale University

Rank: Henry Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Henry Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Chauncey Postdoctoral Fellowships are up to three positions funded by the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy for one year renewable for one additional year. We seek to attract outstanding junior scholars from around the globe whose work addresses questions of statecraft and grand strategy, broadly defined, and demonstrates excellence in one of a range of academic disciplines and methodologies. Postdoctoral fellows must have completed their PhD degree to begin the fellowship. They are expected to use their time at Yale to conduct original research and prepare manuscripts for publication. Fellows will work with an active academic community of postdoctoral and predoctoral fellows, as well as Yale faculty in history, political science, and other disciplines. Postdoctoral fellows may teach small seminars if desired. They participate regularly in research colloquia on campus and are granted opportunities to present their work. Postdoctoral fellows are expected to remain in residence through the duration of their fellowship and contribute to the intellectual life of the Brady-Johnson Program in Grand Strategy and to International Security Studies by participating in their activities and development. Offices are located on Yale's campus.

Qualifications

Recent Ph.D. in relevant field. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 1, 2019.

Application Instructions

A complete application consists of:

1. CV
2. A 100-word research proposal abstract.
3. A 1000-word research proposal.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Two writing samples, e.g. dissertation chapters or journal articles.

Applications are due through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/55016>) by December 3rd.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4912

National Science Foundation

Rank: Division Director for the Division of Social and Economic Sciences

Summary:

Become a part of our mission to maintain and strengthen the vitality of the US science and engineering enterprise. For over 70 years, the http://www.nsf.gov/about/National Science Foundation \(NSF\) has remained the premier Federal agency supporting basic research at the frontiers of discovery across all fields, as well as science and engineering education at all levels

Responsibilities:

Serves as a member of the SBE Directorate leadership team and as a principal spokesperson in social and economic sciences for the Foundation. Provides leadership and direction to the NSF Division responsible for funding research and education activities, both nationally and internationally, to develop and advance scientific knowledge and methods focusing on our understanding of individuals, social and organizational behavior by creating and sustaining social science infrastructure, and by supporting disciplinary and interdisciplinary research that advances knowledge in the social and economic sciences. The incumbent has managerial and oversight responsibilities for the effective use of division staff and resources in meeting organizational goals and objectives (e.g., broadening participation). Assesses needs and trends involving the social and economic sciences, implements overall strategic planning and policy setting for the Division, provides leadership and guidance to Division staff members, determines funding requirements, prepares and justifies budget estimates, balances program needs, allocates resources, oversees the evaluation of proposals and recommendations for awards and declinations, and represents NSF to relevant external groups. Supervises and provides leadership and guidance to senior staff (Deputy Division Director), program officers, administrative and support personnel. Fosters partnerships with other Divisions, Directorates, Federal agencies, scientific organizations, and the academic community.

The complete job listing can be found at: <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/509838100><https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/509838100>

Start Date:Application Deadline: 10/31/2018Date Posted: 9/26/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4884University at Albany*Rank: School of Criminal Justice, Open Rank Faculty*About University at Albany:

Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The School of Criminal Justice invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position to begin Fall 2019. Preference is for Full or Associate Professor, though we will also consider applications for Assistant Professor. Area of specialization is open.

The School of Criminal Justice has an internationally renowned doctoral program that is celebrating its 50th Anniversary, offers a small MA program, and provides a select group of undergraduates the opportunity to earn the BA in Criminal Justice.

Requirements:Minimum Qualifications:

- PhD in Criminal Justice or a related discipline from a college or university accredited by a U.S. Department of Education (DOE) or internationally recognized accrediting organization

- Candidates must have a demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching and research.
- Applicants must address in their application their ability to work with and instruct a culturally diverse population.

Additional Information:Professional Rank and Salary Range: Open Rank Faculty

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <https://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=102678>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- CV
- Cover letter stating all the required minimum qualifications and any of the applicable preferred qualifications
- Statement of research and teaching interests
- Applicants will be asked to provide names and contact information for three references.

Special Note: Once applications have been initially screened, candidates will receive notification of how to submit three letters of reference through Interview Exchange.

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.). A review of applications will start on November 2, 2018 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/bjrg7hvrsg38gxbx>

PI104522358

Start Date:Date Posted: 9/25/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4895Ludwig Maximilians Universitaet

Rank: Fellowship in the CAS Research Group "Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation"
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Methodology, Other

Call for Applications

Fellowships in the CAS Research Group

"Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation"

Center for Advanced Studies, LMU Munich

The Center for Advanced Studies at LMU Munich is a forum for intensive international academic exchange. Its purpose is to promote cooperation with national and international Visiting Fellows who work closely on collaborative projects with LMU professors. In order to intensify cooperation between researchers at LMU Munich and leading experts from other universities, the Center has set up a major program, the CAS Research Groups.

The CAS Research Group “Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation” is initiated by Klaus H. Goetz (Political Science) and will commence its work in October 2019.

The CAS Research Group will investigate exceptional dynamics in political power constellations – local, regional, national, international, transnational, and multi-level - that affect their institutional, organizational, policy and ideational properties. Exceptional dynamics are associated with at least three concepts: temporality, turbulence, and transformation. Temporal understandings highlight time-related features, such as the speed of change; momentum; atypical sequences; compressed durations; and asynchronicity. Dynamics understood as turbulence relate to a broad range of phenomena, such as variability, inconsistency, irregularity, unexpectedness, unpredictability, randomness or seeming “chaos”. Transformative understandings direct attention at the depth and extent of change. The CAS Research Group aims to advance our understanding of exceptional dynamics through a research program that combines empirical, conceptual, theoretical, and methodological concerns. It seeks to investigate what form exceptional dynamics take and under what conditions they occur; to build a conceptual map that helps to distinguish different variants of exceptional dynamics; to explore the contributions of different theoretical traditions; and to identify relevant novel methodological tools for researching into dynamics.

The CAS Research Group will bring together internationally renowned researchers who are invited to LMU Munich to contribute to the Group’s research. Applications are welcomed from all the main substantive sub-disciplines of political science, including comparative politics and government; public policy and public administration; international relations; and political theory; cognate disciplines, including political sociology, political communication, political economy, political psychology, and contemporary history; and from experts in methodological advances. Both senior and junior postdoc researchers are encouraged to apply. The Center for Advanced Studies will provide financial and organizational support for visits of between four weeks and nine months during the period between October 2019 and September 2020. Travel and accommodation will be paid for and an expense allowance or other compensation (according to individual agreement) will be provided to cover operating costs or as recompense for any loss of income sustained. Guests will receive a workspace in the Center and will have access to all its facilities. Visiting researchers will find an open and stimulating research environment in an interdisciplinary setting.

Applications should consist of a brief outline (1-2 pages) of the expertise, field of exchange and intended contribution to the CAS Research Group. Applications should also contain relevant credentials and a résumé including a list of the most recent publications. In order to strengthen the role of women in research, female scholars are strongly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all the application documents electronically (in one PDF file) by

10 December 2018 to

Email: goetz.lmu@gmail.com

Prof. Dr. Klaus H. Goetz
Geschwister-Scholl-Institut für Politikwissenschaft
Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München
Oettingenstraße 67
80538 München
Germany

For any questions on the CAS Research Groups please contact Dr. Julia Schreiner at CAS:

Email: Julia.Schreiner@cas.lmu.de

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/10/2018

Date Posted: 9/23/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4873

The University of Arizona

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor (Multiple Positions), Political Economy & Moral Science

The University of Arizona Department of Political Economy and Moral Science anticipates appointing tenure track faculty members, with appointments beginning in the Fall of 2019. The positions are contingent upon funding. Expected rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor. A record of distinguished research in political economy broadly construed (analytic, experimental, or historical) or “PPE,” and a Ph.D. in a relevant field are required. The successful candidates will contribute to the Department’s undergraduate major in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law and to the Department’s development, including planning for a masters degree.

The Department of Political Economy and Moral Science emphatically welcomes applications from scholars with diverse perspectives and methods who are eager to work in an interdisciplinary setting. Applications should include a letter of application along with a current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching experience in political economy/ppe, a statement of research plans, and at least three letters of reference. Application materials must be submitted on the university website <https://uacareers.com>.

Duties & Responsibilities

Contribute to the Department’s undergraduate major in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law and to the Department’s development, including planning for a masters degree.

Teach one or two courses per semester.

Conduct research.

Provide service to the unit, college, university, profession, and community.

Knowledge, Skills, & Abilities

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in a relevant field (including but not limited to, Philosophy, Political Science and Economics) is required.

Preferred Qualifications

A record of distinguished research in political economy broadly construed (analytic, experimental, or historical) or “PPE.”

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4872

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Quantitative Social Science

Position Description

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College seeks a scholar for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor, to be appointed as early as July 1, 2019. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science. We welcome applications from scholars working in applied methods whose work advances knowledge in social science broadly construed. Applicants should demonstrate strong, applied skills in quantitative methods and should be highly motivated and qualified to teach undergraduate courses in methodology. The successful candidate will demonstrate a promise of a strong research agenda, and is expected to foster cross-disciplinary connections at Dartmouth around quantitative approaches in social science research.

Dartmouth has a strong focus on undergraduate research, and the successful candidate will have the opportunity to participate in programs sponsored by the College's Office of Undergraduate Advising and Research, including the Women in Science Project and the E.E. Just Program. QSS students are highly motivated and engaged with the program's curriculum, and the successful candidate will be able to work with and mentor young people who seek to apply quantitative and computational methods to contemporary problems and challenges in society.

To learn more about Dartmouth College and QSS, visit <http://qss.dartmouth.edu>

Qualifications

Applicants should have doctorate completed by the appointment date.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a current curriculum vitae, a writing sample that demonstrates strong applied skills in quantitative or computational methods, and letters of recommendation from three references. Applications will be administered via Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/54305>). Review of applications will begin on November 20, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to the search committee chair, John Carey, at John.M.Carey@Dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/20/2018

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4869

George Mason University

Rank: Education Policy (tenure-line position, rank open)

Education Policy (tenure-line position, rank open)

The George Mason University College of Education and Human Development (cehd.gmu.edu) invites applications for a tenure-line faculty position in Education Policy. Mason, a Carnegie Research I Institution, is the largest university in Virginia with 38,000 students. Located in northern Virginia in the National Capital Region, Mason is in close proximity to federal agencies and a wide-range of associated non-profit professional organizations. Mason is an innovative, entrepreneurial, culturally diverse public university, and the College of Education and Human Development is a top-tier academic unit focused on research of consequence and impactful teaching and service. George Mason University has a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff, and strongly encourages candidates to apply who will enrich Mason's academic and culturally inclusive environment.

Responsibilities include teaching graduate-level courses in Education Policy, mentoring graduate students, engaging in research, and seeking external funding. Faculty also are expected to engage in university and professional service activities and to contribute to special initiatives and collaborative programs designed to further the mission of the College in areas related to Education Policy.

Required qualifications for this position include an earned doctorate in a field related to education policy, significant associated experience in university teaching, and a portfolio of policy-relevant research and scholarship. The preference is for a person at the academic rank of associate professor or professor, although advanced assistant professors with notable accomplishments and experiences related to education policy will also be considered. Other preferred qualifications include a record of significant experience in the field of education policy with respect to public service or non-profit experience, academic program leadership, success mentoring doctoral students, and a demonstrated ability to secure external funding.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

For full consideration, applicants must apply at <https://jobs.gmu.edu/postings/43888>; complete and submit the online application; and upload a cover letter, CV, and a list of three professional references with contact information.

Equity Statement:

George Mason University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, committed to promoting inclusion and equity in its community. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/jyn5sxtsh7b52n8t>

PI104458237

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4870

Princeton University

Rank: 2019-2020 LAPA Fellowships

The Program in Law and Public Affairs (LAPA) at Princeton University invites outstanding faculty members of any discipline, independent scholars, lawyers, and judges to apply for a residential research fellowship for the academic year 2019–2020. LAPA Fellows devote the major portion of their time to their own research and writing on law-related subjects of empirical, interpretive, doctrinal and/or normative significance. All applicants must have received a doctorate, juris doctor, or an equivalent professional degree at the time of submission of the fellowship application. Successful LAPA applicants should demonstrate substantial expertise in law-related matters. The program does not support, as a primary activity, off-site fieldwork or work in remote archives, development of course materials, work in legal practice, or residence elsewhere.

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7981>

THE DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION IS 11:59 PM (EST) NOVEMBER 14, 2018.

For additional information see: <http://lapa.princeton.edu/fellowships>

LAPA is cosponsored by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the University Center for Human Values and Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/14/2018

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4859

California Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Division of the Humanities and Social Sciences at the California Institute of Technology (Caltech) invites applications for a tenure-track position in political science at the assistant professor level. Exceptionally well-qualified applicants at higher levels may also be considered. We are especially interested in applicants doing a combination of formal theoretical political science and political economy (broadly defined), with an active and established interest in some area of quantitative political economy. We are seeking highly qualified candidates who are committed to a career in research and teaching. The term of an initial untenured appointment is four years, and the appointment is contingent upon completion of the Ph.D.

Interested candidates should apply electronically: <https://applications.caltech.edu/job/politicalscience>

Candidates unable to apply electronically may send a letter of application describing their current research, a teaching statement, three letters of recommendation, current CV, and a sample of original written work to: Chair, Political Science Search, HSS 228-77 Caltech, Pasadena, CA 91125.

Application review will begin September 25, 2018 and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, or national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4856

Indiana University - Bloomington

Rank: SOCIAL POLICY

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL AFFAIRS (SPEA)

INDIANA UNIVERSITY-BLOOMINGTON CAMPUS

SOCIAL POLICY

Tenure Track or Tenured Faculty Position(s)

The School of Public and Environmental Affairs at Indiana University is searching for up to two tenure track or tenured faculty members with specialties in U.S. social policy in one or more of the following areas: poverty, inequality, race/ethnicity, immigration, and income security. Research methods may be quantitative and/or qualitative in nature. Candidates may have research interests in policy design, implementation, and/or evaluation. The successful candidate(s) will be expected to develop an extramurally supported research program. Candidates may be appointed at the rank of assistant or associate professor. Appointment at the full professor level may be possible for a candidate with an exceptional research record in the specified area(s) of expertise.

Minimum educational qualifications include a Ph.D. in a related field (e.g. public affairs/public policy, economics, sociology/demography, political science, public administration), evidence of a cohesive research program and a commitment to high quality teaching.

All SPEA faculty members are expected to interact with our diverse student and faculty community. As such, we are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from many backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), an interest in contributing to SPEA's programs, curricular offerings, and a research portfolio in ways that enhance diversity, equity, and inclusion; applicants are encouraged to address these topics in the letter of application.

SPEA-Bloomington is a world leader in public affairs education, and is among the largest schools of public administration and public policy in the United States with 34,000 alumni around the world. In the 2018 "Best Graduate Schools" reported by U.S. News & World Report, SPEA-Bloomington ranks first, making it the nation's highest-ranked professional graduate program in public affairs. Five of its specialty programs are ranked in the top-five listings.

To ensure full consideration, application materials must be received by October 15, 2018. The search will continue until the position is filled. Please submit a cover letter, current vita, writing sample, three letters of reference (for junior candidates; contact information on three references suffices for more senior candidates), and a teaching statement to <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/>. The expected start date is August 1, 2019; candidates are expected to have completed their Ph.D. by that date.

Inquiries regarding the position should be sent to search chair Kosali Simon at simonkos@indiana.edu

For more information see: <http://www.indiana.edu/~spea>.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status.

Apply here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/gxbg3g98zh5cfjq>

PI104424670

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4847

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral or more senior research positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas, in developing a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by Program/Center Directors and the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center, subject to approval by Program/Center/School Directors or Chairs.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from candidates who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, September 1, 2019. Applicants should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these and other areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2019, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application:

A complete application will include the following materials: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7461>

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Monday, November 12, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 15, 2018. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2019.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/12/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4853

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Sociology at Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position with particular interest in computational social science. We seek scholars with an innovative research program and a commitment to outstanding teaching. Applicants will be expected to teach courses at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a statement (not longer than 3 pages) describing research interests (including plans for the next 3-5 years), publications, professional accomplishments and teaching experience, and samples of recent scholarship. Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted by the deadline to Academic Jobs Online. Please go to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11959> in order to apply.

For full consideration, materials should be received by October 15, 2018. Only online submissions will be accepted. The term of appointment will begin in the 2019-20 academic year.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford also welcomes applications from others who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4848

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Water & Society

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Science & Technology

The School of the Earth, Ocean, and Environment invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin August 16, 2019. We seek an individual with outstanding research and teaching capabilities and interests that focus on the intersection of water and society. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in the social sciences (economics, environmental science, environmental studies, geography, public policy, political science, regional and urban planning, science and technology studies, sociology, or related fields). The specific area of expertise is open, but applicants' research must lie at the intersection of social and water issues, freshwater or marine, and should demonstrate specialization in areas including, but not limited to, water policy, politics, resources, or planning.

We seek candidates whose scholarship is methodologically rigorous, grounded in theory, and who can work across disciplinary boundaries to produce innovative research and teaching. Preferred candidates will have interdisciplinary training that spans both the biophysical and societal dimensions of water, a demonstrated interest in conducting interdisciplinary research, a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring, and an interest in research that can be applied in non-academic settings.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a leading research program capable of attracting external funding and is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment. The School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment (https://www.sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/earth_ocean_and_environment/index.php) is a multidisciplinary unit of approximately 600 undergraduate students, more than 80 graduate students, and 32 faculty representing research areas ranging from Earth and Ocean Sciences to Environmental Policy and History. Potential collaborative interactions exist within the School and with other units across the University. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses that support interdisciplinary degrees in Environmental Studies and Environmental Science as well as upper-level undergraduate and graduate level courses related to the candidate's specialty, with a standard teaching load of two courses per semester. Cross appointment with an appropriate unit at the University of South Carolina is possible, depending on the candidate's expertise.

All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/40377>. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, research statement, statement of teaching interests, contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. For more information please contact: Scott White, Water and Society Search Committee Chair, School of the Earth, Ocean & Environment, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208, swhite@seoe.sc.edu.

To ensure full consideration, applications and letters should be received by October 12, 2018. The committee will review files until a candidate is selected.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 4851

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Water & Society

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Science & Technology

The School of the Earth, Ocean, and Environment invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin August 16, 2019. We seek an individual with outstanding research and teaching capabilities and interests that focus on the intersection of water and society. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in the social sciences (economics, environmental science, environmental studies, geography, public policy, political science, regional and urban planning, science and technology studies, sociology, or related fields). The specific area of expertise is open, but applicants' research must lie at the intersection of social and water issues, freshwater or marine, and should demonstrate specialization in areas including, but not limited to, water policy, politics, resources, or planning.

We seek candidates whose scholarship is methodologically rigorous, grounded in theory, and who can work across disciplinary boundaries to produce innovative research and teaching. Preferred candidates will have interdisciplinary training that spans both the biophysical and societal dimensions of water, a demonstrated interest in conducting interdisciplinary research, a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring, and an interest in research that can be applied in non-academic settings.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a leading research program capable of attracting external funding and is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment. The School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment (https://www.sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/earth_ocean_and_environment/index.php) is a multidisciplinary unit of approximately 600 undergraduate students, more than 80 graduate students, and 32 faculty representing research areas ranging from Earth and Ocean Sciences to Environmental Policy and History. Potential collaborative interactions exist within the School and with other units across the University. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses that support interdisciplinary degrees in Environmental Studies and Environmental Science as well as upper-level undergraduate and graduate level courses related to the candidate's specialty, with a standard teaching load of two courses per semester. Cross appointment with an appropriate unit at the University of South Carolina is possible, depending on the candidate's expertise.

All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/40377>. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, research statement, statement of teaching interests, contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. For more information please contact: Scott White, Water and Society Search Committee Chair, School of the Earth, Ocean & Environment, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208, swhite@seoe.sc.edu.

To ensure full consideration, applications and letters should be received by October 12, 2018. The committee will review files until a candidate is selected.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 4852

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Professor of Education Policy in Equity and Inclusion

Subfield(s): Other, Methodology, Public Policy

The Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations at Peabody College of Education and Human Development at Vanderbilt University invites applications for the position of Professor of Education Policy in Equity and Inclusion. We seek distinguished applicants trained in the social sciences who study the ways in which education creates advantages and disadvantages for different individuals and groups in the United States. We are interested in a scholar whose work addresses the effectiveness of the nation's K-16 education system as a site for civic empowerment and social and economic mobility, and whose research critically examines fundamental questions around the role of schools and/or colleges in the achievement of an equitable, inclusive, and diverse society.

Candidates should possess an exemplary record of scholarly accomplishment and a demonstrated capacity to work collaboratively with colleagues commensurate with the rank of full professor. A successful record of external funding is expected. The successful candidate will have experience mentoring and training doctoral students for careers in academia and closely allied research organizations, and commitments to teaching undergraduate and professional degree students.

The mission of the Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations is to understand and improve the political, economic, organizational, and social contexts in which human learning takes place. The department embraces a range of disciplinary traditions and encourages multiple methodological approaches in the study of education policy and practice.

The department operates highly regarded programs and degrees at the undergraduate, master's, and doctoral level, including professional master's degree programs; an on-campus Ed.D. program in K-12 and in higher education leadership and policy; an online Ed.D. in leadership and learning in organizations; a Ph.D. program in K-12 and in higher education leadership and policy; and an undergraduate degree in Human and Organizational Development. For more information on the department, visit our website: <http://peabody.vanderbilt.edu/departments/lpo/index.php>

Applications

Review of formal applications will begin December 1, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. The anticipated start date is August 2019. Applicants should submit a letter addressing their qualifications and interests, a full curriculum vitae, three recent peer-reviewed publications, and the names and contact information of three references. Please apply at the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53826>

For questions about the position, please contact:

Ellen Goldring

Patricia and Rodes Hart Chair

Professor of Education Policy and Leadership

Chair, Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations

Peabody #414, 230 Appleton Place

Nashville, TN 37203

ellen.goldring@vanderbilt.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4849

Indiana University - Bloomington

Rank: ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL AFFAIRS
INDIANA UNIVERSITY-BLOOMINGTON CAMPUS

ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR

Tenure Track or Tenured Faculty Position

The School of Public and Environmental Affairs at Indiana University is searching for a tenure track or tenured faculty member with a specialty in Organizational Behavior. We are particularly interested in candidates with a focus on Public Personnel Management, Work Motivation and Work-Related Attitudes, Organizational Change, or Organizational Innovation. Research methods may be qualitative and/or quantitative in nature. We are particularly interested in candidates employing innovative research designs, such as (but not limited to) field experiments, and with expertise in psychometrics. The successful candidates will be expected to develop an extramurally-supported research program. Candidates may be appointed at the rank of assistant or associate professor. Appointment at the full professor level may be possible for a candidate with an exceptional research record in the specified areas of expertise.

We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.) and an interest in contributing to SPEA's programs, curricular offerings, and research portfolio in ways that enhance diversity, equity, and inclusion; applicants are encouraged to address these topics in the letter of application.

Minimum educational qualifications include a Ph.D. in a related field (e.g., public administration, public affairs, political science, public policy, psychology, sociology, or business administration) and evidence of a developed research program.

SPEA-Bloomington is a world leader in public affairs education, and is among the largest schools of public administration and public policy in the United States with 34,000 alumni around the world. In the 2018 "Best Graduate Schools" reported by U.S. News & World Report, SPEA-Bloomington ranks first, making it the nation's highest-ranked professional graduate program in public affairs. Five of its specialty programs are ranked in the top-five listings.

To ensure consideration, application materials must be received by October 15 2018; however, the search will continue until the position is filled. Please submit a letter of application, current vita, sample publication, and contact information for three references to <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/>

Inquiries regarding the position should be sent to Sergio Fernandez, Search Chair, at sefernan@indiana.edu.

For more information see: <http://www.indiana.edu/~spea>.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/h5yrbcs5gb7s3n4yt>

PI104368923

Start Date: Winter 2018

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4841

PEW RESEARCH CENTER

Rank: DIRECTOR OF DATA LABS

SEARCH FOR THE DIRECTOR OF DATA LABS
PEW RESEARCH CENTER

Washington, District of Columbia

Pew Research Center ("the Center"), a nonpartisan fact tank that informs the public about the issues, attitudes, and trends shaping the world, seeks an experienced and innovative leader to serve as its next Director of Data Labs. This role presents an exciting opportunity to shape the future of research at one of the nation's most respected institutions.

The Center conducts demographic research, public opinion polling, media content analysis, and other empirical social science research in the areas of U.S. politics and policy views; media and journalism; internet and technology; religion and public life; Hispanic trends; global attitudes; and U.S. social and demographic trends. The Center does not take policy positions, and among its core values are independence, objectivity, accuracy, rigor, humility, transparency, and innovation. More information about the Center is available at www.pewresearch.org.

In response to the changing nature of data on human behaviors and attitudes, the Center created Data Labs in 2015 to explore the emerging field of computational social science (CSS), which applies data science methods to social science research questions. Data Labs uses CSS to complement and expand on the Center's existing research agenda. The Center's long-term objectives for Data Labs are to integrate CSS among research teams across the Center and to build the Center's external reputation as a leader in applying CSS to practical research questions.

To achieve these goals, the Center seeks a Director with a combination of highly developed technical skills, including CSS expertise, as well as leadership and management experience in a rigorous research environment. Strong candidates will have a track record of building partnerships and relationships with multiple stakeholders both inside and outside an organization; recruiting and developing a high-performing, technically skilled team; superb judgment and focus; and exceptional communication skills and credibility when communicating with external audiences. A Masters, PhD, or other terminal degree with a strong quantitative focus is required.

All applications, inquiries, and nominations, which will remain confidential, should be directed to the search firm via www.imsearch.com/6751.

The Pew Research Center is an equal opportunity employer, committed to a diverse and inclusive workplace. Pew considers qualified applicants for employment without regard to age, sex, ethnicity, religion, disability, marital status, sexual orientation or gender identity, military/veteran status, or any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

PI104353287

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4836

Glendon College, York University

Rank: Assistant Lecturer (tenure-track)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Political Science, Glendon College, York University, invites applications for a teaching stream (alternate stream) tenure-track position in any area of political science at the rank of Assistant Lecturer, to commence July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will teach large undergraduate courses as well as upper-year undergraduate seminars across subfields and may also teach graduate courses. The candidate will provide leadership in enhancing teaching and learning through curricular and pedagogical innovation. A Ph.D. in political science in hand or near completion by July 1, 2019 is required. The successful candidate must be fluent in English and French and be able to teach in both languages in a multicultural context.

The successful candidate will demonstrate excellence or clear potential for excellence in teaching university-level courses, a strong commitment to pedagogy and student success, and the capacity to bring a theoretical and practical orientation to teaching, learning, and program design. The successful candidate will demonstrate capacity to teach large undergraduate courses as well as upper-year undergraduate seminars across subfields. A record of pedagogical innovation in high priority areas such as experiential education, technology enhanced learning, and community-based learning is preferred as is experience with curriculum development and universal design approaches to teaching and assessment. Evidence of service contributions or potential to contribute to service in administrative and committee work is preferred.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

York U's bilingual Glendon Campus is home to Southern Ontario's Centre of Excellence for French Language and Bilingual Postsecondary Education. Glendon comprises about 2,700 students on a scenic campus in the heart of the cosmopolitan city of Toronto. Glendon is committed to high-quality teaching in the tradition of the liberal arts and offers a unique undergraduate academic experience for students within one of Canada's largest research universities. For information about Glendon and its programs, please consult the Faculty webpage at <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. The AA program, which applies to Aboriginal people, visible minorities, people with disabilities, and women, can be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> or by calling the AA office at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify can do so by downloading, completing and submitting the forms found at: <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>. Please select the 'Affirmative Action' tab under which forms pertaining to Citizenship and AA can be found. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous peoples in Canada will be given priority.

The deadline for receipt of applications is November 18, 2018. An application letter outlining professional experience, a curriculum vitae, a teaching dossier which supports excellence and innovation in teaching, evidence of research activity, and three signed confidential letters of recommendation should be sent to Professor Willem Maas, Chair, Political Science, Glendon College, York University, via email to polisci@glendon.yorku.ca with the subject heading "Teaching stream position". Referees should be advised to address the candidate's qualifications and experience in relation to this position.

**

Le Département de science politique du Collège universitaire Glendon de l'Université York sollicite des candidatures pour un poste menant à la permanence (volet enseignement) dans n'importe quel domaine de la science politique au rang de chargé d'enseignement, débutant

le 1er juillet 2019. La personne sélectionnée devra enseigner de grands cours et séminaires au 1er cycle dans différents sous-domaines et pourra également enseigner des cours de 2e et 3e cycles. La personne sélectionnée devra contribuer de façon proactive à l'amélioration de l'enseignement et de l'apprentissage au sein de l'établissement, notamment à travers des initiatives et des pratiques innovantes en matière de curriculum et de pédagogie. Les candidat.e.s doivent être titulaires d'un doctorat en science politique ou ce dernier doit être en voie d'achèvement au plus tard le 1er juillet 2019. La personne retenue devra être bilingue en français et en anglais, et capable d'enseigner dans ces deux langues dans un environnement multiculturel.

La personne retenue devra faire preuve d'excellence, ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses dans l'enseignement de cours universitaires et s'investir activement dans la pédagogie et en faveur de la réussite des étudiants. La capacité du candidat à intégrer une approche à la fois théorique et pratique à l'enseignement, l'apprentissage et la création de cours sera considérée comme un atout. La personne retenue devra démontrer sa capacité d'enseigner de grands cours ainsi que des petits séminaires à travers les sous-domaines de science politique. L'innovation pédagogique dans des domaines hautement prioritaires, tels que l'éducation expérientielle, l'apprentissage assisté par les technologies et l'apprentissage communautaire, sera considérée comme un atout, ainsi que l'expérience dans l'élaboration de programmes d'études avec une conception universelle en matière d'enseignement et d'évaluation. La personne retenue devra aussi fournir des preuves de ses services passés ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses dans le service à l'administration et aux comités.

Le salaire sera établi en fonction de la convention collective et de l'expérience. Toutes les offres de poste à York sont sujettes à autorisation budgétaire de l'Université.

Le Collège universitaire Glendon de l'Université York a été désigné comme Centre d'excellence pour les études postsecondaires en français et bilingues dans le sud de l'Ontario. Glendon, Faculté bilingue (français-anglais), accueille environ 2 700 étudiants sur un campus pittoresque situé au cœur de la ville cosmopolite de Toronto. Glendon s'inscrit dans la tradition des arts libéraux et offre une expérience académique de 1er cycle unique dans une des plus grandes universités au Canada. Pour de plus amples renseignements sur ses programmes d'études, veuillez consulter le site Web de Glendon à <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

L'Université York est un employeur qui a adopté un programme d'action affirmative, et préconise la diversité dans sa communauté, notamment celle de sexe. Le programme d'action affirmative s'applique aux autochtones, aux minorités visibles, aux personnes en situation de handicap et aux femmes. Pour plus de renseignements sur ce programme, veuillez consulter le site Web de York à l'adresse : <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>, ou vous adresser Bureau d'action affirmative au (416) 736 5713. Toutes les personnes qualifiées sont encouragées à poser leur candidature ; toutefois, la priorité sera accordée aux personnes de citoyenneté canadienne ou détenant le statut de résident permanent, et aux populations autochtones du Canada.

La date limite de soumission des candidatures est le 18 novembre 2018. Les personnes intéressées doivent faire parvenir une lettre de motivation mettant en évidence leur expérience professionnelle, un curriculum vitae, un dossier d'enseignement qui démontre l'excellence et l'innovation en enseignement, preuve de l'activité de recherche, et faire envoyer directement trois lettres de recommandation confidentielles à Willem Maas, Directeur, Département de science politique, Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York, par courriel à polisci@glendon.yorku.ca avec sujet « Poste volet enseignement ». Les personnes rédigeant des lettres de recommandation doivent aborder dans celles-ci les qualifications et l'expérience du candidat ou de la candidate en rapport avec le poste.

Les candidat.e.s qui souhaitent déclarer leur appartenance à un groupe désigné peuvent le faire en téléchargeant et en soumettant le formulaire disponible sur le site : <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> . Prière de sélectionner l'onglet « Affirmative Action » pour accéder aux formulaires relatifs à la citoyenneté et à l'action affirmative.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4822

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor/Provost's Postdoctoral Fellow, Race and Capitalism

The Social Science Division at the University of Chicago invites applications from scholars working on Race and Capitalism. The appointment would be based in the Anthropology, Political Science or Sociology department. A goal of this search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Division, and we therefore welcome applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as Black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

We are broadly searching for scholars who theoretically and/or empirically explore the interaction of race and capitalism. The work could be focused on a historical period such as that of slavery; a specific institution such as the workplace; on concepts such as labor, credit, finance; on a specific theoretical question such as the meaning of justice in the context of communities that are affected by high levels of economic and racial inequality; or a particular empirical problem such as shifting participation rates by race and ethnicity in various sectors of the deindustrialized U.S. While we are very much open to various approaches to the study of race and capitalism, we would not be willing to entertain scholars whose work overwhelmingly focuses on either race or capitalism largely to the exclusion of the other.

The successful candidate will be appointed as either an Assistant Professor, or as a Provost Postdoctoral Fellow with an initial one or two-year appointment at the faculty rank of instructor. The appointment as a Provost Postdoctoral Fellow is intended to provide some relief from teaching in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period outside of the University. During the term as a Provost Postdoctoral Fellow, the successful candidate will teach only one course per year. At the end of the initial term, Provost Postdoctoral Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2019. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Candidates are expected to have the PH.D and no more than two years of postdoctoral experience by the start of the appointment. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website: <https://tinyurl.com/yafg8apn>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) two samples of scholarly writing; and 6) three letters of reference.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4820

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate Professor/Full Professor, Race and Capitalism

The Social Science Division at the University of Chicago invites applications from scholars working on Race and Capitalism. The appointment would be based in the Anthropology, Political Science or Sociology department. A goal of this search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Division, and we therefore welcome applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as Black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

We are broadly searching for scholars who theoretically and empirically explore the interaction of race and capitalism. The work could be focused on a historical period such as that of slavery or modern imperialism; a specific institution such as the workplace; on concepts such as labor, credit, or finance; on a specific theoretical question such as the meaning of justice in the context of communities affected by high levels of economic and racial inequality; or a particular empirical problem such as shifting participation rates by race and ethnicity in various sectors of the financialized U.S. economy. While we are very much open to various approaches to the study of race and capitalism, we are interested in scholarship on the intersection of these two phenomena, rather than work exploring one or the other.??

The successful candidate will be appointed as either an Associate Professor, or as a Full Professor. Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2019. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted online, at the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website, <https://tinyurl.com/yau7ukrf>, and are required to include 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae including the names and contact information for at least three references who may be contacted at a later date; 3) a research and teaching statement, including concrete descriptions of future plans for research and teaching philosophy; and 4) one or more recently published chapters, articles, or books.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4816

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in Global Education

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a faculty position in global education, with a preference for scholars whose work and interests include a focus on the intersection of education and development or international and comparative education policy. Scholars engaged in rigorous social science research from a variety of disciplines – economics, political science, sociology, education, and others – will be considered. Applicants should have an interest in interdisciplinary cooperation. Applicants attracted to a university with a Catholic identity are especially encouraged to apply. While priority will be given to consideration of junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant professors or non-tenured associate professors), senior applicants may also be considered. Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree required at the time of hire.

Qualifications

The successful hire will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs, with affiliations in the Kellogg Institute for International Studies and in Notre Dame's Institute for Educational Initiatives. Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of integral human development, the Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a master's degree, and supports undergraduate and doctoral programs. The Kellogg Institute for International Studies (<http://kellogg.nd.edu/>) has for over 35 years been a leading center for interdisciplinary research and programming on issues of democracy and human development. The Institute for Educational Initiatives (<http://iei.nd.edu/>) provides a home for nearly one hundred faculty fellows from across the University whose research and teaching interests focus on K-12 education, with a particular interest in Catholic education. Joint or concurrent appointments in the appropriate departments are also possible. Applicants should have an affirmative interest in contributing to the joint Kellogg Institute/Institute for Educational Initiative Research Cluster in International Education (<https://kellogg.nd.edu/research-cluster-international-education>).

Application Instructions

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant or non-tenured associate professors) should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference. Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/54487>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:
Prof. Paolo Carozza

Chair, Global Education Search Committee
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
pcaozza@nd.edu

Applications must be submitted by January 15, 2019. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4811

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in Policy Studies

The Keough School of Global Affairs at the University of Notre Dame seeks applicants for a tenured or tenure track faculty position in Policy Studies, rank open. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in policy or planning, political science, or a related discipline, and a strong commitment to research and teaching.

The successful candidate will contribute to teaching and research in a dynamic new school of global affairs at Notre Dame. We are particularly interested in a scholar who brings a global perspective to the study of policy analysis. Applicants should have an active research profile in a thematic area of global policy including, for example, migration and refugees, development, human rights, gender, or other area of focus. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses to graduate and undergraduate students, as well as courses in their area of thematic expertise.

This position is part of the founding of the first new school at Notre Dame in nearly a century. The Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, maintains an office in Washington, D.C., and offers a master's degree, joint doctoral degrees, and undergraduate programs.

Application Instructions

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant or non-tenured associate professors) should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference. Apply here: <http://apply.interfolio.com/54575>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Thomas Mustillo
Chair, Policy Studies Search Committee
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
tmustill@nd.edu

Applications must be submitted by October 15, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4812

University of Toronto at Scarborough

Rank: Indigenous Politics - Associate Professor/Professor

The University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in the field of Indigenous Politics. The primary appointment will be in the Department of Political Science (51%), with a cross appointment to the Centre for Critical Development Studies (49%). The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor and will commence on July 1, 2019.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related discipline. They must also have a demonstrated exceptional, sustained record of innovative and independent research and publications centered on Indigenous politics and/or governance. This position is part of the University of Toronto's response to the calls to action in Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) Report. Preference will be given to Indigenous Peoples of North America or Peoples of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations (status, non-status, treaty or non-treaty), Metis, Inuit, Alaskan Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian Peoples.

We are seeking a scholar who is able to integrate Indigenous knowledge/Indigenous ways of knowing, as well as research and teaching methods, into the classroom. We are seeking candidates with a geographic focus on Canada but also welcome candidates who study Indigenous politics from a transnational and comparative perspective.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The successful candidate is expected to have a strong and established record of ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities and organizations, including with community leaders and Elders of at least one Indigenous community in Canada, and an understanding of the importance of consensus-building relationships.

The successful candidate will have an established record of excellence in both research and teaching. Excellence in research can be demonstrated by the ability to attract external research funding; a record of continuous impactful publications in top-ranked field-relevant peer reviewed academic journals and book publishers; a record of influential consultancies to governments, international organizations and/or Indigenous organizations; presentations at major conferences; distinguished awards and honours; and strong endorsements by referees of high standing, including a letter of support commenting on the candidate's Indigenous community engagement. Excellence in teaching can be demonstrated by the teaching dossier outlining experience and accomplishments, the teaching statement, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, sample syllabi, course materials, course evaluations, and strong letters of reference.

Candidates should also include in their teaching dossier a one-page statement explaining how they can contribute to the delivery of the core curricula in Political Science (<http://www.utoronto.ca/polisci/>) and Critical Development Studies (<http://www.utoronto.ca/ccds/>). The position will include a graduate appointment in the Department of Political Science on the St. George campus of the University of Toronto. Candidates should also explain in their one-page statement how they can contribute to the development of the tri-campus graduate program (<https://politics.utoronto.ca>).

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach, and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The Greater Toronto Area offers amazing cultural and demographic diversity, including a vibrant Indigenous community. UTSC has a strong commitment to increasing the presence of Indigenous peoples and knowledge on campus, with steering committees examining campus wide responses to the calls to action in the TRC in terms of staff, faculty, research and teaching. Ongoing initiatives include Indigenous faculty and staff recruitment, an Indigenous curriculum committee, and grants for Indigenous research ethics education and community-based teaching development. Finally, the campus is designing a new building which will be a dedicated meeting space for Indigenous students, staff, faculty and elders.

All qualified applicants should apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.fll>

A complete application must include: a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, an article-length (8000 – 10,000 word) writing sample, a statement up to five pages in length outlining current and future research interests, and a teaching dossier (to include teaching experience and accomplishments, the teaching statement, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, sample syllabi and course materials, and teaching evaluations, a one-page statement explaining how they can contribute to the delivery of the core curricula in Political Science and Critical Development Studies), as well as a letter of support commenting on the candidate's Indigenous community engagement. Questions about this position should be directed to Sue-Ann Hicks (sahicks@utsc.utoronto.ca)

All applications materials must be submitted online by the closing date of October 15, 2018.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Applicants should list a minimum of three referees and arrange for these persons to submit their letter of recommendation (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to sahicks@utsc.utoronto.ca by the closing date.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons/persons of colour, women, Indigenous/ Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

Candidates are asked, as part of their application, to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information provided is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4795

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, General Faculty
 Department of Women Gender & Sexuality

The Women Gender & Sexuality Department at the University of Virginia seeks applications to fill a full-time Assistant Professor position on the Academic General Faculty. This is a teaching-oriented position that involves teaching 3 courses in the Fall semester and 3 courses in the Spring semester each year. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and advise students, and to perform service to the Department, the College & Graduate School of Arts & Sciences, the University, and the profession. Teaching areas of particular need include Introduction to Gender and Sexuality Studies, Feminist Theory, and/or Queer Theory; the successful candidate will also offer courses and seminars in his or her fields of specialization. Applicants must hold a PhD at the time of appointment, and must demonstrate strong commitment to high quality teaching and advising at the college level. Previous teaching experience in a Women Gender & Sexuality (or similar) department or program is required.

Review of applications will begin on September 18, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment is expected to start in July, 2019 with classroom teaching to begin in Fall semester, 2019.

To apply, visit jobs.virginia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=85376. Complete an Candidate Profile online and attach the following: a cover letter of interest describing teaching experience and listing proposed courses, a curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references. In addition, please have reference letter writers email letters directly to wgsuva@virginia.edu.

For questions about the application process, please contact Savanna Galambos, Faculty Search Advisor, skh7b@virginia.edu.

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more please visit <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4797

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2019-20. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7421>

The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/7/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4792

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Two Tenure-Track Positions, in African American Studies and U.S. Latina/o Studies (Assistant or Associate Professor)

Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies, Texas Christian University
The Department of Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies (CRES) at Texas Christian University invites applications for two tenure-track faculty positions: one in African American Studies and one in U.S. Latina/o Studies. One of the two appointments can be made at the Associate level; the other will be an Assistant Professor. Both will begin in fall 2019.

Successful candidates will demonstrate evidence of an ambitious research agenda centered on race/ethnicity. Candidates who wish to be considered at the Associate level must be tenured in their current institutions and exhibit an existing record of scholarship, teaching, and service commensurate with the requirements for tenure and promotion in the Department of CRES.

We especially seek scholars who apply comparative or relational approaches to the study of race/ethnicity and/or scholars who meaningfully integrate the intersectional study of women, gender, and sexuality.

Faculty in these positions will be expected to incorporate community-engaged pedagogy into their teaching and to take part in the wider Fort Worth and Texas communities as civic-minded scholars. Additionally, the faculty will serve as campus leaders in the development of CRES and larger university initiatives surrounding diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Required qualifications:

- A Ph.D. completed by August 15, 2019, in an interdisciplinary field or a traditional humanities or social science discipline with significant demonstrated background and experience related to race and ethnicity.
- Ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses on critical theoretical approaches to race and ethnicity and/or courses on applied inquiry, methods, and activism.

Preferred qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in Ethnic Studies, African American or Africana or Black Studies, Latina/o Studies, American Studies, Women and Gender Studies, with a primary focus on the United States
- Experience in community-based participatory research or creative activity
- Experience in activism, community engagement, or critical service learning
- Experience in curriculum development, strategic planning, and/or academic leadership roles

To apply, upload a letter of application, complete CV, syllabus for one proposed upper-division CRES course (junior- or senior-level), and a 1-page statement explaining how the applicant will contribute to diversity and inclusion in CRES and at TCU to https://tcu.igreentree.com/CSS_faculty. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be sent by recommenders or dossier service to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu. Candidates for terminal degrees must submit one of their letters from their primary advisor. All questions regarding the application process may be directed to Human Resources at hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu or 817-257-7790. Questions about the Department of CRES and its curriculum may be directed to cres@tcu.edu.

Review of applications begins October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. The position start date is in August 2019.

A highly selective teaching and research university with 10,000 students, TCU is an independent, nonsectarian, coeducational institution committed to academic freedom located in Fort Worth, Texas, the 16th largest city in the United States and part of the nation's fourth-largest metropolitan area. TCU has been recognized for eight consecutive years as one of the "Great Colleges to Work For" by The Chronicle of Higher Education. As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/7/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4794

Aberystwyth University

Rank: Lecturer in International Security

Department of International Politics

36.5 hours per week

Grade 7/8: £35,550 - £47,722 per annum*

*Appointment to Grade 8 will be dependent on experience and will carry additional responsibilities on module coordination.

To promote a flexible workforce, the University will consider applications from individuals seeking full time, part time, job share, or term time only working arrangements.

The Department of International Politics is looking for an exceptional scholar in the broad area of International Security, with a clear preference for candidates specialising in Strategic Studies and/ or Military History.

The successful candidate will have a completed PhD, proven research excellence, experience of engaged teaching in a university environment, and the ability to work as part of a dynamic and intellectually vibrant team. They will be expected to contribute to the Department's outstanding research environment and to enhance its Undergraduate and Masters curricula in the "Strategy, Intelligence and Security", "International Politics and Military History" (BA) and "International Politics" (MA) degree schemes.

To make an informal enquiry, please contact Prof. Richard Beardsworth at rib@aber.ac.uk

Closing Date 24 September 2018

Interview Date: 17/18 October 2018

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 9/24/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4774

Dartmouth College

Rank: Endowed Chair in Comparative Politics/Globalization

Position Description

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College invites applications and nominations for appointment to a newly-endowed chair in globalization. This position is one of three positions in a cluster hire in the study of globalization. The other two positions are in the Tuck School of Business and the Department of Economics. We are particularly interested in scholars who study democracy, capitalism, and/or human rights and the rule of law. We seek a scholar who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Department of Economics, the Tuck School of Business, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences, the Arthur L. Irving Institute for Energy and Society, and the John Sloan Dickey Center for International Understanding.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field. Dartmouth undergraduate and graduate student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to discuss relevant skills and experiences in their cover letter.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to: John.Carey@Dartmouth.edu. Application materials should be submitted electronically to: apply.interfolio.com/53804

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4784

Indiana University - Bloomington

Rank: Human Ecology Tenure-Track

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL AFFAIRS
INDIANA UNIVERSITY-BLOOMINGTON CAMPUS

HUMAN ECOLOGY

Tenure-Track

The School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) at Indiana University-Bloomington seeks to appoint a tenure-track faculty member at the assistant professor level in Human Ecology. SPEA is a multi-disciplinary professional school and home to one of the top environmental science and policy programs in the nation. This position is one of several new faculty lines created as part of Indiana University's Grand Challenge, Prepared for Environmental Change (see: <https://eri.iu.edu/> and <https://grandchallenges.iu.edu/environmental-change/index.html>). The successful candidate will be expected to demonstrate strong scholarly potential, to develop an extramurally-supported research program, and to contribute to the teaching mission of the School.

Applicants should have research interests in the general field of human behavior and the natural environment, with a focus on understanding society's adaptive capacity and resilience in the face of environmental change. Related research interests might include but are not limited to human risk perceptions and decision-making, human use of natural resources, human use and management of working lands, human/environment feedbacks, political ecology, and environmental justice. The Ph.D. or an equivalent terminal degree in a related field is required (e.g., human ecology, environmental studies, environmental anthropology, rural or environmental sociology, political science, environmental psychology, sustainability, etc.).

We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.) and an interest in contributing to SPEA's programs, curricular offerings, and research portfolio in ways that enhance diversity, equity, and inclusion; applicants are encouraged to address these topics in the letter of application.

SPEA-Bloomington is a world leader in public affairs education, and is among the largest schools of public administration and public policy in the United States with 34,000 alumni around the world. In the 2018 "Best Graduate Schools" reported by U.S. News & World Report, SPEA-Bloomington ranks first, making it the nation's highest-ranked professional graduate program in public affairs. Five of its specialty programs are ranked in the top-five listings.

To ensure consideration, application materials must be received by October 15; however, the search will continue until the position is filled. Please submit a letter of application, current vita, sample publications, and contact information for three references to <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/> (select "Bloomington" and "Public and Environmental Affairs", then Human Ecology"). Statements on teaching and service are optional but welcomed. The preferred start date is August 1, 2019. Doctoral degrees must be in hand by August 1, 2019.

Inquiries regarding the position should be sent to Professor Beth Gazley at bgazley@iu.edu

For more information see: <http://www.indiana.edu/~spea>

I

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/4zd9nv2rxztwgkgm>

PI104125517

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4787

Loyola Marymount University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of African American Studies (AFAM) at Loyola Marymount University seeks a scholar whose work delves into Black Political Thought for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin August 2019.

LMU values the teacher-scholar; therefore, successful candidates will demonstrate a strong research agenda and an ability to incorporate their research within a variety of courses in African American Studies, such as Introduction to African American Studies, and Research Methods (employing quantitative techniques). The Department places a high priority on community engagement, diversity, social justice and inclusive pedagogy in fostering academic excellence. Additionally, candidates should be able to demonstrate how they would develop courses in their area of specialization for the future trajectory of our department and university standards.

The typical teaching load for tenure track faculty spread across two years is 2-2-2-3, with an expectation to advise students of diverse populations on their academic and professional aspirations, and to engage in University, College, and Departmental service as needed. Applicants should have a demonstrated commitment to quality, innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in African American Studies with an emphasis in social science research (including quantitative techniques) and related traditional and interdisciplinary fields such as Political Science, Sociology, Anthropology, Psychology, and Critical Race Studies. A Ph.D. is required by the time of appointment.
- Evidence of success in teaching the African American experience
- Record of scholarly achievement in the discipline of African American Studies
- Willingness to serve the needs of the department, college, and university
- Demonstrated commitment to the teacher-scholar model and ability to thrive in an interdisciplinary unit
- Ability to incorporate LMU's mission in teaching, scholarship, and service to the university.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Engagement with community partners and organizations
- Evidence of creating co-curricular off-campus learning opportunities for students

The application requires: 1) a cover letter (outlining area of expertise, teaching and research interests, and resonance with LMU's mission); 2) a curriculum vita; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates the candidate's approach to teaching in the liberal arts tradition, and a sample syllabus; 4) a writing sample (article or chapter length); 5) three letters of recommendation. Candidate materials should be emailed together as a complete package to: Stefan Bradley at AFAMFacultySearch@lmu.edu. Three letters of recommendation should be scanned and signed by the recommenders and emailed by the recommender directly to Stefan Bradley: AFAMFacultySearch@lmu.edu. Please direct questions to Stefan Bradley at the above address. Only electronic applications will be considered. The deadline for applications and recommendations is November 1.

Loyola Marymount, founded in 1911, is a comprehensive university in the mainstream of American Catholic higher education. Located on the west side of Los Angeles overlooking the Pacific, LMU is one of the nation's 28 Jesuit colleges and universities and five Marymount institutions. It serves 6200 undergraduates and over 3000 graduate students in the Colleges/Schools of Liberal Arts, Science and Engineering, Business Administration, Communication and Fine Arts, Film and Television, Education, and Law. Loyola Marymount seeks professionally outstanding applicants who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence, the education of the whole person, and the building of a just society.

LMU is an equal opportunity institution actively working to promote an intercultural learning community. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. (Visit www.lmu.edu for more information).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4788

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Science-American/Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (LAS) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) invites applications for the position of tenure track Assistant Professor in American and Urban Politics with a specialization in Hispanic/Latinx Politics, beginning in the 2019-2020 academic year subject to budgetary approval.

Research focus might include but is not limited to: 1) voting behavior and descriptive representation, 2) political engagement and participation, including youth, 3) minority social movements and political mobilization; 4) racialized policy regimes at the subnational level (e.g., policing; education; health/welfare; refugee & immigrant integration). Final authorization of the position is subject to availability of funding. We welcome candidates with additional skills and specializations, such as quantitative and/or qualitative methodology, comparative politics, or political theory.

We seek candidates with PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline in hand, or very near completion, proof of ability to maintain a research agenda, and a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching. Evidence of the candidate's research performance or promise and appropriate teaching skills should be provided.

Assistant professors are expected to teach two (2) courses per semester at the undergraduate or graduate level, as assigned by the department head. They are also expected to maintain a consistent record of research and publication, provide service to the department and the profession, and contribute to the intellectual life of the department.

To apply, complete an on-line application, including the names and email addresses for three or more references, and upload full curriculum vitae and a cover letter that summarizes candidate's research and teaching qualifications at <https://jobs.uic.edu/job-board/job-details?jobID=100519>. Questions about the position can be directed to Prof. Alexandra Filindra at 312-413-2186 or aleka@uic.edu, the chair of the search committee. For fullest consideration, applications should be completed by October 8, 2018.

UIC is a Carnegie Doctoral/Research I institution (Highest Research Activity), located in the heart of the City of Chicago and one of the nation's largest metropolitan areas. It is a comprehensive public university with a diverse student body of more than 30,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. UIC is federally recognized as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI), fully funded by the US Department of Education.

The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer, dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, and covered veterans. The University of Illinois may conduct background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 4786

University of Toronto at Scarborough

Rank: Indigenous Politics - Assistant Professor

The University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in the field of Indigenous Politics. The primary appointment will be in the Department of Political Science (51%), with a cross appointment to the Centre for Critical Development Studies (49%). The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2019.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, or a related discipline, by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. They must also have a demonstrated record of innovative and independent research and publications centered on Indigenous politics and/or governance. This position is part of the University of Toronto's response to the calls to action in Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) Report. Preference will be given to Indigenous Peoples of North America or Peoples of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations (status, non-status, treaty or non-treaty), Metis, Inuit, Alaskan Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian Peoples.

We are seeking a scholar who is able to integrate Indigenous knowledge/Indigenous ways of knowing, as well as research and teaching methods, into the classroom. We are seeking candidates with a geographic focus on Canada but also welcome candidates who study Indigenous politics from a transnational and comparative perspective.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The successful candidate is expected to have an emerging record of ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities and organizations, including with community leaders and Elders of at least one Indigenous community in Canada, and an understanding of the importance of consensus-building relationships.

The successful candidate will have an emerging record of scholarly excellence. Such excellence can be demonstrated in the form of publications in leading field-relevant, academic journals, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, commission reports, government briefs, or forthcoming impactful publications, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing, as well as a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement.

The successful candidate will also be able to demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Such excellence can be demonstrated through a teaching dossier that includes a coherent statement of teaching philosophy linked to evidence of excellent pedagogical practice and excellent course evaluations, strong endorsements from referees, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, and/or demonstrated superior performance in other teaching related activities, including performance as a teaching assistant or course instructor, experience in leading successful workshops and seminars.

Candidates should also include in their teaching dossier a one-page statement explaining how they can contribute to the delivery of the core curricula in Political Science (<http://www.utscc.utoronto.ca/polisci/>) and Critical Development Studies (<http://www.utscc.utoronto.ca/ccds/>). The position will include a graduate appointment in the Department of Political Science on the St. George campus of the University of Toronto. Candidates should also explain in their one-page statement how they can contribute to the development of the tri-campus graduate program (<https://politics.utoronto.ca>).

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach, and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The Greater Toronto Area offers amazing cultural and demographic diversity, including a vibrant Indigenous community. UTSC has a strong commitment to increasing the presence of Indigenous peoples and knowledge on campus with steering committees examining campus wide responses to the calls to action in the TRC in terms of staff, faculty, research and teaching. Ongoing initiatives include Indigenous faculty and staff recruitment, an Indigenous curriculum committee, and grants for Indigenous research ethics education and community-based teaching development. Finally, the campus is designing a new building which will be a dedicated meeting space for Indigenous students, staff, faculty and elders.

All qualified applicants should apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl>

A complete application must include: a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, an article-length (8000-10,000) writing sample, a statement up to five pages in length outlining current and future research interests, and a teaching dossier (to include a statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, a one-page statement explaining how they can contribute to the core curricula in Political Science and Critical Development Studies, and excellent course evaluations or evidence of excellent performance in other teaching related activities), as well as a letter of support commenting on the candidate's Indigenous community engagement. Questions about this position should be directed to Sue-Ann Hicks (sahicks@utscc.utoronto.ca)

All applications materials must be submitted online by the closing date of October 15, 2018.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Applicants should list a minimum of three referees and arrange for these persons to submit their letter of recommendation (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to sahicks@utscc.utoronto.ca by the closing date.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons/persons of colour, women, Indigenous/ Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

Candidates are asked, as part of their application, to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information provided is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4776

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor Faculty Position in American Studies

Georgetown University in Qatar invites applications for a core faculty Full Professor or Advanced Associate Professor position in American Studies. Core faculty positions are full-time positions designed to replicate the institutional commitment to academic freedom and professional opportunities associated with tenure-track and tenured appointments.

We are especially interested in candidates with research and teaching interests in American politics and/or American relations with the world, broadly construed. We will consider candidates with a Ph.D. in American Studies and other relevant fields. The successful candidate will have experience in teaching and mentoring both undergraduate and graduate students. Experience in developing and/or managing graduate programs in American Studies is highly desirable. The successful applicant may be asked to teach a graduate seminar on theories and methods in American Studies. Applicants must have substantial research accomplishments and demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and research.

The teaching load for core faculty is 2-2. Colleagues with senior core faculty status are eligible to apply for periodic research sabbaticals.

Qatar offers a diverse, safe, and family-friendly environment. Compensation and expatriate benefits packages are extremely competitive. GU-Q provides generous research support and support for conference travel. Faculty members at GU-Q are eligible to apply for Qatar

National Priorities Research Program grants from the Qatar National Research Fund for various research opportunities.

For more information on GU-Q, see <https://www.qatar.georgetown.edu>. For a glimpse of what it is like to teach and live in Qatar, see: <https://youtu.be/HNoERrWln4k>.

Review of applications will begin on October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

Applicants should provide a cover letter detailing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, and the names of three scholarly references. All application materials should be emailed to: GUQ-AMST@georgetown.edu. Please reference "American Studies Search" in the subject line. Faxed applications will not be accepted.

Queries about the position should be directed to Dr. Karine Walther, chairperson of the search committee at: kvw@georgetown.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4770

University of Michigan

Rank: Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellow

Fellowship period: September 2019 - August 2021

Application deadline: January 15, 2019

The Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) at the University of Michigan invites scholars who have received their Ph.D. since 2017 to apply for the WCED Postdoctoral Fellowship. This two-year fellowship supports multidisciplinary research on the broad historical, political, economic, and societal conditions under which democracy and autocracy either emerge and endure or falter and fail.

Up to two awards are available for the 2019-21 fellowship. WCED Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in occasional WCED workshops and events, and present at least one public lecture during their two-year fellowship, while in full-time residence at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. A teaching opportunity may be possible during the second year of the fellowship, if desired.

We welcome applicants from all disciplines, though the majority of past applicants and Fellows have come from political science, sociology, and history. Fellows must have successfully defended and filed their dissertation before beginning the fellowship. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received their Ph.D. after January 1, 2017.

Fellowships carry an annual salary of $50,000 and up to $7,000 in research funds during the post-doctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning September 1, 2019 through August 31, 2021). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Candidates will be required to submit:

- A two-page research plan that outlines the research project and how the fellow will spend his/her time during the fellowship year.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter, conference paper, or journal article.
- Two letters of recommendation.

Fellowship applications must be received by January 15, 2019, 11:59 pm EST. Applicants will be notified in March 2019.

Application link available at <https://www.ii.umich.edu/wced/postdoctoral-fellows.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Date Posted: 9/1/2018
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 4677

University of New England

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations and Global Studies

The Department of Political Science at the University of New England is searching for tenure-track Assistant Professor in International Relations and Global Studies beginning in the 2019-2020 academic year.

The ideal candidate will offer a range of introductory and advanced level courses in international relations, depending on the candidate's interest and expertise. The candidate will also teach Introduction to Global Studies and help guide students interested in the Global Studies major. The ability to teach in another sub-field, especially American or Comparative Politics, would be of additional value to the department. Political science courses at UNE are generally taught in a seminar style, with an emphasis on high-engagement with students.

We seek a well-rounded teacher-scholar with a promising research agenda. The department values research that crosses traditional disciplinary boundaries to address original and important questions. Service to the University and a strong commitment to academic advising and student mentorship is expected.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Sciences or related field at the time of appointment.

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for the position, please visit <https://une.peopleadmin.com/postings/4912>

UNE has a beautiful campus ocean-side in Biddeford, Maine. It is 20 minutes away from Portland, one of the country's most livable cities. The political science department is small, but vibrant. We value great teachers and scholars.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/25/2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2018
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4737

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, International Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Africa, Middle East

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019. We invite applicants from any social science discipline with research on post-conflict dynamics and processes of reconstruction (e.g., transitional justice, peace-keeping/peace-building, social integration and reconciliation, state building, economic development in post-conflict contexts). We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Africa, the Middle East, and South or Southeast Asia.

Applicants should have a doctoral degree by the time of appointment, demonstrated excellence in research, and strong teaching potential. Professional experience in applied research, practice, or policy will be considered an asset.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada for 2016, 2017, and 2018). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, statements of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email only to intst@sfu.ca (letters of reference should be sent directly by the letter writers). In the subject line of the email, indicate the following information: "2018 Assistant Professor Application, (Applicant Name)." Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the university for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/29/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4726

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, International Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Africa, Middle East

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver, Canada) invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin September 2019. We invite applicants from any social science discipline with research on post-conflict dynamics and processes of reconstruction (e.g., transitional justice, peace-keeping/peace-building, social integration and reconciliation, state building, economic development in post-conflict contexts). We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Africa, the Middle East, and South or Southeast Asia.

Applicants should have a doctoral degree by the time of appointment, demonstrated excellence in research, and strong teaching potential. Professional experience in applied research, practice, or policy will be considered an asset.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada for 2016, 2017, and 2018). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, statements of research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email only to intst@sfu.ca (letters of reference should be sent directly by the letter writers). In the subject line of the email, indicate the following information: "2018 Assistant Professor Application, (Applicant Name)." Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the university for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4727

Australian National University

Rank: Academic Level B-D (Lecturer/Senior Lecturer/Associate Professor)

Specializations: Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Political Theory

We welcome applications from candidates with expertise in the following areas: International Relations, International Political Economy and Political Economy.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise Honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the School.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital, Canberra, and ranked as the leading international relations department in Australia as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years. For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

For more information about these positions including how to apply please go to:

<http://www.anu.edu.au/jobs>

Lecturer B – D International Relations:

<http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/526171/lecturer-international-relations>

Lecturer B – D International Political Economy: <http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/526164/lecturer-international-political-economy>

Lecturer B – D Political Economy:

<http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/526172/lecture-political-economy>

Enquiries: Dr Andrew Banfield, E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4717

Dartmouth College

Rank: Endowed Chair in Comparative Politics/Globalization

Position Description

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College invites applications and nominations for appointment to a newly-endowed chair in globalization. This position is one of three positions in a cluster hire in the study of globalization. The other two positions are in the Tuck School of Business and the Department of Economics. We are particularly interested in scholars who study democracy, capitalism, and/or human rights and the rule of law. We seek a scholar who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Department of Economics, the Tuck School of Business, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments, the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences, the Arthur L. Irving Institute for Energy and Society, and the John Sloan Dickey Center for International Understanding.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field. Dartmouth undergraduate and graduate student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to discuss relevant skills and experiences in their cover letter.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to: John.Carey@Dartmouth.edu. Application materials should be submitted electronically to: apply.interfolio.com/53804

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/27/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4713University of Houston*Rank: Assistant Professor Political Communication

Assistant Professor – Political Communications

The Department of Political Science and the Jack J. Valenti School of Communication, both housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston invite applications for a dual-appointment tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Communication to begin in Fall of 2019. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate teaching. Applicants with doctoral training in political science or communication are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the field of political communications, equally dividing their teaching between the two units. Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars.

Both the Department of Political Science, with over 700 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, and the Valenti School of Communication, with over 1,800 majors and over 50 M.A. students, provide high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. We capitalize on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000645. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Jason Casellas, Department of Political Science, at jcasella@central.uh.edu, or Associate Professor Dr. Lindita Camaj, Valenti School of Communication, at lcamaj@central.uh.edu.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/24/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4692University of Houston*Rank: Assistant Professor Political Communication

Assistant Professor – Political Communication

The Department of Political Science and the Jack J. Valenti School of Communication, both housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston invite applications for a dual-appointment tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Communication to begin in Fall of 2019. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate teaching. Applicants with doctoral training in political science or communication are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the field of political communications, equally dividing their teaching between the two units. Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars.

Both the Department of Political Science, with over 700 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, and the Valenti School of Communication, with over 1,800 majors and over 50 M.A. students, provide high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. We capitalize on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000645. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Jason Casellas, Department of Political Science, at jcasella@central.uh.edu, or Associate Professor Dr. Lindita Camaj, Valenti School of Communication, at lcamaj@central.uh.edu.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/24/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4693University of Houston*Rank: Assistant Professor Political Communications

Assistant Professor – Political Communications

The Department of Political Science and the Jack J. Valenti School of Communication, both housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston invite applications for a dual-appointment tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Communication to begin in Fall of 2019. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate teaching. Applicants with doctoral training in political science or communication are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the field of political communications, equally dividing their teaching between the two units. Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars.

Both the Department of Political Science, with over 700 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, and the Valenti School of Communication, with over 1,800 majors and over 50 M.A. students, provide high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. We capitalize on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000645. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Jason Casellas, Department of Political Science, at jcasella@central.uh.edu, or Associate Professor Dr. Lindita Camaj, Valenti School of Communication, at lcamaj@central.uh.edu.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4691

Colorado College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Environmental Law & Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Colorado College is hiring a tenure track assistant professor in environmental law and policy to join the college's interdisciplinary environmental studies program beginning in August 2019. The position requires expertise in environmental law and policy as well as an ability to engage in interdisciplinary approaches to environmental questions. The successful candidate will be able to teach courses including Environment & Society (an interdisciplinary introductory environmental studies course), U.S. Environmental Law & Policy, International Environmental Law & Policy, and electives in their field of expertise. The ideal candidate will be a JD/PhD who has worked in the field of environmental law and can teach courses that incorporate environmental case law. Yet they will also be able to situate the law within broader political and social questions of the relationship between humans and the environment.

The College actively promotes a dynamic and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work. Applicants should describe the ways in which they can contribute to this goal in their cover letter.

One distinguishing feature of Colorado College is its Block plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, and professors teach six of the eight blocks in an academic year. Applicants must be committed to high quality, innovative undergraduate teaching. Applicants should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, if available. The block plan lends itself to field and project based teaching. Funds and logistical support for field trips and community based learning projects are available through the college and through the environmental studies program.

Preferred Qualifications: J.D. and Ph.D.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. is required by the start of employment; expertise in environmental law

Applications should include: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a statement of research interests, (4) a statement of teaching philosophy, (5) a writing sample, and (6) a graduate school transcript. Optional documents: Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness (e.g. syllabi, course evaluations, etc.).

Applications must be submitted through <https://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/3477>

All applicants will need to list at least three references to submit a letter of recommendation. The application site will send emails to references with instructions for electronic submission.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4680

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Psychology

Assistant Professor – Political Psychology

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position beginning August 2019. We invite applications from individuals with a strong program of research in the area of political psychology, broadly defined.

Minimum required qualifications include: a Ph.D. in political science, psychology, or related field or evidence the degree will be completed by August 2019. Preferred qualifications include: evidence of research agenda focused on political psychology; an active research program with strong potential for producing high impact publications and attracting external grant funding; strong interest in interdisciplinary research and collaboration; and ability to teach American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Standard teaching load is four courses per year. Salary, start-up package, and fringe benefits are competitive.

Review of applications will begin October 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_180112, and click "apply for this job." Candidates should submit a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample through this website (statements and writing sample will need to be combined into one document for submission). Three letters of recommendation should be emailed to ihaas2@unl.edu or mailed to: Dr. Ingrid Haas, Chair, Political Psychology Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0328.

As an EO/AA employer, qualified applicants are considered for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4681

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Psychology

Assistant Professor – Political Psychology

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position beginning August 2019. We invite applications from individuals with a strong program of research in the area of political psychology, broadly defined.

Minimum required qualifications include: a Ph.D. in political science, psychology, or related field or evidence the degree will be completed by August 2019. Preferred qualifications include: evidence of research agenda focused on political psychology; an active research program with strong potential for producing high impact publications and attracting external grant funding; strong interest in interdisciplinary research and collaboration; and ability to teach American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Standard teaching load is four courses per year. Salary, start-up package, and fringe benefits are competitive.

Review of applications will begin October 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_180112, and click "apply for this job." Candidates should submit a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample through this website (statements and writing sample will need to be combined into one document for submission). Three letters of recommendation should be emailed to ihaas2@unl.edu or mailed to: Dr. Ingrid Haas, Chair, Political Psychology Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0328.

As an EO/AA employer, qualified applicants are considered for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4682

Leiden University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Institute of Political Science of the Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Political Science (1.0 FTE) Vacancy number 5861

Key responsibilities

Building upon our institute's historic strength in the area of Dutch politics, we are looking for candidates qualified to conduct research on Dutch politics and to teach introductory and advanced courses in Dutch politics at the national and local levels within our bachelors and masters programmes. The appointment may also include teaching general introductory courses in political science or advanced courses on other topics reflecting the candidate's expertise. Candidates are also expected to supervise undergraduate and graduate theses, to acquire external research funding, to contribute to the Institute's research agenda, and to participate in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute.

Selection criteria

- Applicants must hold (or be near to completing) a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- Applicants must have a promising research agenda and publications focused on Dutch politics, plus relevant teaching experience and good teaching evaluations;
- Applicants must be able to teach in both Dutch and English;
- Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the University Teaching Qualification (BKO). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, s/he must obtain this qualification within two years.

Research at our Faculty/Institute

The Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises four institutes: Education and Child Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology. The Faculty also includes the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Our teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see <http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences>.

The Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. Its research programme focuses on the design, workings and implications of political institutions, broadly defined, though individual members of staff pursue research projects within and beyond this theme. The Institute consistently receives high peer-reviewed ratings of its teaching and research programs. It has around 70 faculty members, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multidisciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy. The Institute is based in Leiden but some teaching is done in The Hague.

The Institute offers a range of taught programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The Master programmes (taught in Dutch and English) include a one-year MSc with four specialisations in Leiden and two in The Hague, including Nederlandse Politiek.

Terms and conditions

The position starts as soon as possible: preferably in January 2019 and in any case no later than March 2019. The appointment will be made on a temporary contract of up to 3 years depending upon prior experience. A permanent appointment may be possible during or after the term of the initial contract, depending upon performance and the budgetary situation of the Institute. Salary range from 3,545 to 4,852 gross per month (pay scale 11 in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities).

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3%), training and career development. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. More at <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/working-at/job-application-procedure-and-employment-conditions>.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

Further enquiries can be directed to Professor Ruud Koole, chair of the selection committee, email koole@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Applications

Please submit online your application no later than 30 September 2018 via the blue button of <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/vacancies/2018/wk31-40/18-336-5861-assistant-professor-of-political-sciences>. Applicants should submit online a letter of interest, a CV (with list of publications), a research statement covering current and future research agenda, a sample paper or article, and a statement of teaching interests and experience including sample syllabi or teaching evaluations.

Applicants should also ask three people to submit recommendation letters commenting on their professional qualifications and suitability for the position directly (i.e. not through the applicant) to vacature_powe@fsw.leidenuniv.nl. Documents submitted for this application may be in Dutch or English.

The selection procedure will take place in October-November 2018. Selected candidates will first be invited for an online pre-interview; some will then be invited for in-person interview and research talk. You are kindly requested to be available in this period.

Enquiries from agencies are not appreciated.

Start Date: Winter 2019

Application Deadline: 9/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4660

Leiden University

Rank: PhD researcher position (3 positions of 1.0 FTE)

The Institute of Political Science of the Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants (starting in January 2019) for PhD researcher positions (3 positions of 1.0 FTE)

Vacancy number 5862

Key responsibilities

Leiden University's Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. Its research programme focuses on the design, workings and implications of political institutions, broadly defined, though individual members of staff pursue research projects within and beyond this theme.

Positions 1 & 2: European economic governance / European political economy

These two PhD positions should focus on an aspect of European economic governance / European political economy related to European Union (EU) governance, the relations between the EU and its member states, the impact of aspects of European integration in the member states or relations between (a selection of) EU member states in particular in the field of European political economy. Both positions are linked to the institute's new Chair in European Politics and Political Economy held by Prof. Amy Verdun. The PhD candidate joins a team of researchers committed to learning about European economic governance in areas such as the European Semester with particular interest in the interactions between the EU institutions and the member states. Candidates with an interest in these specific issues are particularly encouraged to apply. The goal is to advance knowledge about governance and democracy in Europe including a better understanding of recent institutional developments in EU architecture, governance, and (dis)integration.

Candidates for these positions should have a strong understanding of the governance of the European Union, in particular in the area of EU economic governance, and solid training in qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Position 3: Open

Applicants for this position should propose a research project in any area of political science including comparative politics, Dutch politics, international relations or political theory/philosophy. All topics will be considered but projects linked to specific expertise within the institute's staff are most likely to succeed. Applicants for this position should therefore indicate in their motivation letter which member(s) of the institute's staff they would like to supervise the proposed project. Applicants for this position should have a strong understanding of the issues and scholarly literature related to their proposed area of study, plus solid training in qualitative or quantitative empirical methods or philosophical methods appropriate to the proposed project.

Candidates are expected to have:

- Conduct research and write a PhD dissertation;
- Undertake relevant coursework and other training;
- Assist in teaching of 2 courses a year on average;
- Participate in PhD program activities and the general intellectual life of the Institute.

Selection criteria

- A master's degree in Political Science or in a cognate discipline with an evident interest in political science;
- An excellent command of English plus any other language skills appropriate to the project;
- Excellent study results and academic skills, visible in the bachelors and masters course transcripts;
- Strong writing skills, visible in the research proposal;

- The ability to work independently, and as part of a team.

Our Faculty/Institute

The Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises four institutes: Education and Child Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology. The Faculty also includes the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Our teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see <http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences>.

The Institute of Political Science is consistently one of the top-ranked departments of its kind in Europe. It has over 50 academic staff, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multi-disciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy. The Institute is based in Leiden but also teaches at the university's campus in The Hague (12 minutes away by train). The Institute offers a range of programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The MSc programme (taught mostly in English) includes four specialisations taught in Leiden (International Politics; Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict; Parties, Parliaments and Democracy; Political Legitimacy and Justice) and two specialisations taught in The Hague (International Organisation; Dutch Politics).

Terms and conditions

The position starts in January 2019, or as soon as possible thereafter. If accepted, the candidates will initially be appointed for a probationary period of one year, with the prospect of a prolongation subject to satisfactory performance. The contract may be prolonged with an additional two years. Salary range from 2,266 to 2,897 gross per month (pay scale P in accordance with the collective employment agreement of Dutch universities). No tuition fees are required.

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3 %), training and career development. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. For international spouses we have set up a dual career programme. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. More at <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/working-at/job-application-procedure-and-employment-conditions>.

Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the University Teaching Qualification (UTQ). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, he/ she must be willing to obtain this Qualification within two years.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

Inquiries about positions 1 & 2 can be directed to Professor Amy Verdun, email a.c.verdun@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Inquiries about position 3 can be directed to Professor Joop van Holsteyn, email holsteyn@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Applications

Please submit online your application no later than 30 September 2018 via the blue button of our application system <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/vacancies/2018/wk31-40/18-335-5862-phd-researcher-positions>.

universiteitleiden.nl/en/vacancies/2018/wk31-40/18-335-5862-phd-researcher-positions.

Applicants should submit online:

- A letter of interest expressing the motivation for the application;
- A CV;
- Copies of final academic transcripts from prior study at Bachelors and Masters levels;
- A research proposal (max. 2,500 words) addressing the research question, methodology, theoretical approach or research tradition, academic and societal relevance of the subject;
- An abstract of the proposal (max. 100 words);
- A writing sample: the applicant's master's thesis or another academic paper
- Two recommendation letters submitted by email (directly by the letter writers, not by the applicant) with "PhD applicant" in the subject line to vacature_powe@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Incomplete applications will not be taken into consideration.

The selection procedure will take place in October/November. Selected candidates will first be invited for an online pre-interview; some will be invited to Leiden for an in-person interview. You are kindly requested to be available in this period.

Enquiries from agencies are not appreciated.

Start Date: Winter 2019

Application Deadline: 9/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4661

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor.

For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4662

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4663

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4664

University of British Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor in Canadian Politics

Subfield(s): Other, Other, Other

The Department of Political Science, University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in Canadian Politics at the level of Assistant Professor, effective 1 July 2019.

We are seeking applicants with strong research records appropriate to a research-oriented doctoral program and demonstrated ability and interest in high quality, innovative teaching. Applicants should have research interests that complement existing strengths in the department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and supervise at the graduate and undergraduate levels in Canadian politics. Candidates must have a PhD or will have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be expected to maintain a program of scholarly research leading to publication, effective teaching, graduate supervision, and service.

The programs, faculty research interests and general activities of the Department of Political Science are found at www.politics.ubc.ca. The University of British Columbia's main campus is located in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Applications must be submitted to <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/job-posting-assistant-professor-in-canadian-politics/>. Required documents include a c.v., a description of current and future research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a sample of their ongoing research preferably in the form of published material. Applicants must also arrange to have three signed and confidential letters of reference sent by email to poli.recruitment@ubc.ca. Review of applications will begin on October 30, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4654

University of British Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Behaviour

The Department of Political Science, University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in Political Behavior at the level of Assistant Professor, effective 1 July 2019.

We are seeking applicants with strong research records appropriate to a research-oriented doctoral program and demonstrated ability and interest in high quality, innovative teaching. Applicants should have research interests that complement existing strengths in the department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and supervise at the graduate and undergraduate levels in political behavior within one of the subfields of political science. Candidates must have a PhD or will have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will be expected to maintain a program of scholarly research leading to publication, effective teaching, graduate supervision, and service.

The programs, faculty research interests and general activities of the Department of Political Science are found at www.politics.ubc.ca. The University of British Columbia's main campus is located in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Applications must be submitted to <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/job-application-assistant-professor-in-political-behaviour/>. Required documents include a c.v., a description of current and future research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a sample of their ongoing research preferably in the form of published material. Applicants must also arrange to have three signed and confidential letters of reference sent by email to poli.recruitment@ubc.ca. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/21/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4653

Purdue University

Rank: Head of the Department of Political Science

Search for the Head of the Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University seeks applicants for the position of Head. The position will be available July 1, 2019, with a five-year renewable term reporting to the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or a related field and scholarly credentials commensurate with the rank of Professor. The field of specialization is open. The successful applicant will have an excellent record of research and teaching, experience attracting external support, and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. Candidates must also have demonstrated abilities in leadership and administration.

Duties include providing vision and leadership in discovery, learning, and engagement; managing and generating departmental resources; recruiting and retaining faculty, staff, and students; fostering excellence in teaching; mentoring faculty who are working toward tenure and/or promotion; advocating on behalf of the department's mission; interacting with alumni and fundraising; and representing the department to administrative offices and on the Council of Department Heads.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. Purdue is a member of the American Association of Universities and a top five public research university according to the Wall Street Journal. Faculty members in Political Science are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methodology cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, the Human Rights Program, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, the Center for C-SPAN Scholarship & Engagement, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. The department is also home to Politics, Groups, and Identities, an official journal of the Western Political Science Association. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to PolSciHeadSearch@purdue.edu. Applications should include a curriculum vitae and a letter of interest. This letter should outline approaches to departmental leadership, a vision for advancement of the department, as well as the candidate's scholarly interests. Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their letter of interest, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, but applications received after this date will be accepted until the position is filled. Names of references will be requested from finalists. Please address questions to search committee chair Dr. Linda Renzulli, renzulli@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4642

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Visiting Scholar

The Center for the Study of Liberal Democracy at the University of Wisconsin invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Scholars for the academic year running from August 20, 2019 to June 30, 2020.

All Visiting Scholars will spend an academic year in residence at UW-Madison. They enjoy access to the Memorial Union and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Visiting Scholars are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, expected to attend or to participate in various activities of the Center, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures. All CSLD Visiting Scholars must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Fellowships are open to all regardless of citizenship. Visiting Scholars normally receive a stipend of up to one-half their academic-year salary. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

To apply please go to <https://csld.wisc.edu/visiting-fellows/>

Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future; and (4) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to intellectual life of the Center.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2019

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4644

Cornell University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor - Social & Behavioral Science in Nutrition

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
 Social & Behavioral Science in Nutrition
 Division of Nutritional Sciences

The Division of Nutritional Sciences (DNS) at Cornell University is seeking candidates for two 9-month, full-salaried, tenure-track positions. We seek candidates with demonstrated research excellence in areas including, but not limited to, maternal and child nutrition, obesity and chronic disease prevention, application of behavioral theory in nutrition interventions and evaluation, food insecurity, and nutrition disparities in the U.S. Candidates may have disciplinary expertise in public health nutrition, community nutrition, nutrition intervention and policy, sociology, social psychology, cultural anthropology or a related field. Scholarship related to nutrition and human health, in the broadest sense, in the context of U.S. community or public health settings should be central to the candidate's research interests.

The qualifications of the candidate will determine the rank of the tenured/tenure-track appointment at the level of an Assistant, Associate or Full Professor. Candidates are expected to be leaders in their discipline and interested in advancing the understanding of the connection between nutrition and health. Commensurate with rank, research excellence should be demonstrated by an active, externally-funded research program as well as by a substantial record of publication in recognized peer-reviewed journals and books.

The successful candidate will teach in the Division's undergraduate and/or graduate program, bring unique expertise and perspectives to the Cornell curriculum, and mentor graduate students within and outside of the Division of Nutritional Sciences.

Responsibilities

The primary responsibility is to establish and maintain an independent and extramurally funded research program. Distribution of professional effort will be approximately 50% research, 50% instruction. Please visit <http://www.human.cornell.edu/dns> for more information on the Division of Nutritional Sciences and to review the full position description.

Applicants must apply through Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11566> and upload a cover letter, CV, research statement and a teaching statement. Applicants must also arrange to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted through Academic Jobs Online.

Review of applications will begin in September 15, 2018 and will continue until these positions have been filled.

Cornell University is an innovative Ivy League university and a great place to work. Our inclusive community of scholars, students and staff impart an uncommon sense of larger purpose and contribute creative ideas to further the university's mission of teaching, discovery and engagement. With our main campus located in Ithaca, NY Cornell's far-flung global presence includes the medical college's campuses in Manhattan and Doha, Qatar, as well as the new Cornell Tech campus located on Roosevelt Island in the heart of New York City. Diversity and Inclusion are a part of Cornell University's heritage. We are a recognized employer and educator valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/fjh3n2xhx62c4t5h>

PI103920302

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4633

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in Latino Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

The Program in American Studies seeks applications for a faculty position in the area of Latino Studies, at the rank of associate or full professor. We welcome applicants from all fields of specialization, though preference will be given to candidates whose work, while rooted in Latino Studies, engages meaningfully with American Studies. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research takes a multi-method social science approach, emphasizing qualitative and/or interpretivist perspectives. The successful candidate will be appointed fully in American Studies. Interested candidates should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8061> with a brief statement of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three references. Applications received by October 1, 2018 will receive priority review. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4636

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Canadian Politics / Professeur adjoint, politique canadienne

McGill University

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor, Canadian Politics

The Department of Political Science, McGill University, invites applications for a tenure-track position in Canadian Politics. An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have completed their PhD or be very near completion. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but a working knowledge of French is an asset.?

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2019.

For more information about the Department and University, please visit our website at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/. Inquiries may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11646>

If the successful candidate satisfies the specific eligibility conditions of the program, the candidate may be supported by the University for nomination to a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair (CRC) in Canadian Politics, which provides protected time for research within a full-time academic appointment. Tier 2 Chairs are for emerging researchers (individuals who are no more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree). However, career interruptions (e.g. maternity or parental leave, extended sick leave, clinical training, family care, etc.) may be taken into consideration using the Tier 2 justification process to review the candidate's eligibility. Potential applicants who are more than 10 years from their highest degree with career interruptions may contact the institution to have their eligibility reviewed through the Tier 2 justification process. The eligibility conditions for the CRC chairs are found at http://www.chairs-chaire.gc.ca/program-programme/nomination-mise_en_candidature-eng.aspx#s3.

Candidates who do not satisfy the CRC eligibility criteria for a Tier 2 chair are nonetheless encouraged to apply. All Faculty of Arts positions at McGill are now being advertised as potential CRCs.

McGill University hires on the basis of merit and is strongly committed to equity and diversity within its community. We especially welcome applications from visible minority group members, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, and others with the skills and knowledge to productively engage with diverse communities. We encourage members of equity-seeking groups to self-identify within their letter of intent in their application. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application and hiring process may contact, in confidence, Professor Angela Campbell, Associate Provost (Equity and Academic Policies) at (514) 398-1660 or at Angela.Campbell@mcgill.ca. Associate Provost Campbell can also answer questions related to equity, diversity and inclusion, or privacy concerns the candidate may have related to self-identifying. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill

Département de science politique

Professeur adjoint, politique canadienne

Le Département de sciences politiques sollicite des candidatures en vue de pourvoir un poste de professeur adjoint menant à la permanence en politique canadienne. La feuille de route du candidat retenu devra inclure un potentiel éprouvé de qualités exceptionnelles dans le domaine de la recherche, les habiletés permettant d'enseigner de manière efficace aux 1er, 2e et 3e cycles et la compétence nécessaire afin d'exercer un rôle de supervision auprès d'étudiants aux cycles supérieurs. Le niveau du poste à pourvoir est celui de professeur adjoint. Il est néanmoins possible, dans certaines conditions exceptionnelles, que le niveau déterminé soit supérieur. Le candidat retenu doit posséder un diplôme d'études doctorales ou être sur le point de l'obtenir. La langue d'enseignement de l'Université McGill est l'anglais, mais la connaissance du français est un atout.

Les candidatures doivent comprendre un curriculum vitae détaillé, le nom de trois personnes pouvant fournir des références, un exemple de travaux écrits ainsi que des documents attestant de compétences en enseignement. La date d'entrée en fonction est le 1er août 2019.

Pour obtenir de plus amples renseignements sur le Département et sur l'Université McGill, veuillez vous rendre à www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/. Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de ce poste doivent être envoyées à la directrice du département, Juliet Johnson, à l'adresse suivante : juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

L'examen des candidatures commencera le 1er octobre 2018 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce que le poste soit pourvu.

VEUILLEZ SOUMETTRE VOTRE CANDIDATURE EN LIGNE ICI: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/11646>

Si le candidat retenu répond aux critères d'admissibilité du programme, l'Université pourrait appuyer sa candidature pour l'attribution d'une chaire de recherche du Canada de niveau 2 en politique

canadienne. Le titulaire d'une chaire a droit à du temps réservé à la recherche dans le cadre de son poste de professeur à temps plein. Les chaires de niveau 2 sont destinées aux jeunes chercheurs, c'est-à-dire à ceux qui ont obtenu leur diplôme le plus avancé il y a au plus 10 ans. Toutefois, une interruption de carrière (congé de maternité, congé parental, congé de maladie de longue durée, formation clinique, soins à un membre de la famille, etc.) peut être jugée légitime (voir les justifications acceptables). Les personnes qui ont obtenu leur diplôme le plus avancé il y a au-delà de 10 ans, mais qui ont dû interrompre leur carrière, peuvent donc communiquer avec l'établissement, qui déterminera si elles sont admissibles à une chaire de niveau 2. Pour connaître les critères d'admissibilité aux chaires de recherche du Canada, consulter le http://www.chairs-chaire.gc.ca/program-programme/nomination-mise_en_candidature-eng.aspx#s3.

Les personnes ne répondant pas aux critères d'admissibilité des chaires de recherche du Canada de niveau 2 sont néanmoins invitées à soumettre leur candidature. À l'Université McGill, tout poste affiché rattaché à la Faculté des arts peut s'inscrire dans le cadre du programme des chaires de recherche du Canada.

L'Université McGill recrute en fonction du mérite et s'est fermement engagée à promouvoir et à instaurer l'équité et la diversité au sein de sa communauté. Nous accueillons favorablement les demandes d'emploi des personnes racisées et des minorités visibles, des femmes, des personnes autochtones, des personnes handicapées, des minorités ethniques, des personnes de toute orientation et identité de genre, ainsi que de toute personne possédant les aptitudes et les connaissances lui permettant de travailler en collaboration avec diverses communautés. L'Université McGill met en œuvre un programme d'équité en matière d'emploi et invite les membres des groupes visés à indiquer leur appartenance à ces derniers dans leur dossier de candidature. Les personnes handicapées qui pourraient avoir besoin d'accommodements à n'importe quelle étape du processus de candidature sont invitées à communiquer en toute confidentialité avec la professeure Angela Campbell, vice-principale exécutive adjointe (équité et politiques académiques), par courriel Angela.Campbell@mcgill.ca ou par téléphone, au 514 398-1660. La vice-principale exécutive adjointe peut également répondre aux questions liées à l'équité, à la diversité et à l'inclusion et à toute donnée de nature confidentielle ayant trait à l'auto-identification. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4597

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Computational Social Science Professor - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) is inviting applications for full time faculty positions in Computational Social Sciences, from senior scholars – at the rank of associate and full professors – and exceptional early career scholars.

We encourage applications from all excellent candidates in any field answering social-science questions, as long as they have a strong focus on (big) data collection and visualization; data management and analysis techniques such as machine learning, text analysis, network science/analysis, spatial data analysis/GIS.

All candidates should demonstrate important contributions to their area of research as evidenced e.g. by significant publications in top international academic journals and a history of acquiring third party funding, as well as the ability to mentor and collaborate with a group of junior social scientists.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to continue to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The position features a standard teaching load of three courses per year. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

The review of applications will occur on a rolling basis. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 18/19 Academic Year. We anticipate that successful candidates will start employment on August 15, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

You may start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52984>

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4606

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher - Division of Social Science

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2019. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, and a research sample. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/postdoctoral-and-research.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad-socialscience@nyu.edu.

Note: We will begin considering applicants from political science from September 15, 2018, sociology applicants from October 15, 2018, and economics applicants from December 1, 2018. However, we will continue to consider applicants until all positions are filled.

You may start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/51369>

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4607

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Neuroscience Professor - Open Rank

The Division of Social Science at NYUAD is seeking to hire a faculty member in the area of Social Neuroscience. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. Although the specific area of research is open, the focus should be human research explicitly linked to social processes. Individuals from all academic backgrounds are encouraged to apply (e.g., biology, psychology, economics, political science or sociology). Preference will be given to applicants who use fMRI, EEG, or process tracing methods, whose research reflects the interdisciplinary nature of social science and who can forge linkages to other areas of study both within the Division (i.e., with economists, political scientists and sociologists) and outside the Division.

The facilities available include a state-of-the-art brain- imaging center housing a Siemens Prisma 3T MRI, MEG, EEG, eye tracking and behavioral testing facilities. The successful candidates will also have access to state of the art core facilities that include High Performance Computing facilities with more than 6,400 computing cores and a peak performance of 70 TFLOPS.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. We will begin consideration of applications October 1st, although review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

You can start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52983>

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4603

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Neuroscience Professor - Open Rank

The Division of Social Science at NYUAD is seeking to hire a faculty member in the area of Social Neuroscience. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. Although the specific area of research is open, the focus should be human research explicitly linked to social processes. Individuals from all academic backgrounds are encouraged to apply (e.g., biology, psychology, economics, political science or sociology). Preference will be given to applicants who use fMRI, EEG, or process tracing methods, whose research reflects the interdisciplinary nature of social science and who can forge linkages to other areas of study both within the Division (i.e., with economists, political scientists and sociologists) and outside the Division.

The facilities available include a state-of-the-art brain- imaging center housing a Siemens Prisma 3T MRI, MEG, EEG, eye tracking and behavioral testing facilities. The successful candidates will also have access to state of the art core facilities that include High Performance Computing facilities with more than 6,400 computing cores and a peak performance of 70 TFLOPS.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF

format. We will begin consideration of applications October 1st, although review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

You can start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52983>

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4604

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Science and Genetics Professor - Open Rank

The Social Science Division at New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) invites applications for full time faculty positions in New York University Abu Dhabi from scholars working at the intersection of genetics and social sciences. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. We will consider applicants from across social science or social science related disciplines (e.g. sociology, economics, political science, psychology, biological anthropology, psychology and human genetics) with active and cutting-edge research agendas that include, but are not limited to, population genetics and social identity, genetics and human behaviour, critical and historical approaches to the use of genetics in social science and public policy, and bioethics in relation to human genetics.

Successful candidates will benefit from resources at NYUAD that support work at the intersection of genetics and the social sciences by providing access to cohorts, populations, collaborations and research programs. These include the Center for Genomics and Systems Biology (<http://as.nyu.edu/biology/research/gsb/cgsb.html>), the Public Health Research Center (<https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/research/centers-labs-and-projects/public-health-research-center.html>), and seminars and colloquia that bring together faculty from biology and the social sciences.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals or books. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

The review of applications will begin on October 15 and continue until the position is filled. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for campus visits to NYU Abu Dhabi throughout the 18/19 Academic Year. We anticipate that successful candidates will start employment on August 15, 2019, subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

You may start an application here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52985>

You may find further information about our group at: <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/divisions/social-science/faculty.html>

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

This position is not located in the United States. You must be willing to relocate to Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/15/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4605

University of Chicago

Rank: Collegiate Assistant Professor

The College at the University of Chicago is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. Collegiate Assistant Professors are members of the College Faculty whose primary responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program.

Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into eight year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen; Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions, Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; Poetry and the Human; and Language and the Human. For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/humanities-course-descriptions>

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, Collegiate Assistant Professors teach in five of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; Global Society; and Social Science Inquiry. Some Collegiate Assistant Professors also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence. European Civilization is taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents. For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/social-sciences-course-descriptions>

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2019. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in their original scholarship as well as in teaching.

In most years, Collegiate Assistant Professors teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. Each Collegiate Assistant Professor also has the opportunity to design an independent course and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical in the third year of residence. The position comes with an annual salary for 2019-20, of $70,890, carries full benefits, and an annual professional development fund of $5,000. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2019.

To apply for these positions, please see our web site at <http://fellows.uchicago.edu>. The web site will be available to accept applications beginning August 31, 2018.

These positions are part of the Service Employees International Union.

Important deadlines:

On line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 12, 2018.

Deadline for receipt of letters of recommendations: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 26, 2018. This includes letters of recommendation from your three recommenders or those received from a dossier service.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/12/2018
Date Posted: 8/13/2018
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 4568

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Associate Professor/Professor - Urban Innovation

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Urban Politics, Housing, Environmental Policy

The University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) and the Institute of Management and Innovation (IMI) invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in urban innovation and governance. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with a projected start date of July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will hold a 49% appointment in the Institute for Management and Innovation and in a relevant cognate discipline at UTM (51%) depending on their area of expertise. The successful candidate may also be appointed as the Director of MUI for an initial term of five years, renewable once.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in political science, human geography, planning or economics and an established and exceptional record of research excellence with an active and creative research program that focuses on urban innovation, a distinguished record of internationally recognized scholarship (which includes evidence provided in the research statement, a record of sustained and impactful publications in premier journals in their field, presentations at national and international conferences, accolades for innovative work and strong endorsements from referees of high international standing). Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, strong letters of reference and the teaching statement, including selected course materials that directly support and illustrate the teaching statement, submitted as part of the application. S/he will also demonstrate a commitment to experiential learning.

The Institute for Management & Innovation (IMI) is planning to start accepting students into its newest program, the Master of Urban Innovation (MUI) in September of 2019. MUI is a new degree professional program that focuses on urban economic development, community capacity building, innovation management, local and regional governance, urban sustainability and real estate development. This degree program aligns with the current programs offered at IMI, maintaining a focus on management, innovation and sustainability, and incorporates the research and teaching strengths from UTM Departments of Geography, Economics, Political Science and the Institute of Communication, Culture, Information and Technology (ICCIIT).

The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one of the following courses: the core course that focuses on how knowledge generation, learning and proximity interact to support the process of urban innovation and the role that economic governance plays in supporting that process, or a course on the theory, practice and policy of socially sustainable cities. Experience in managing a teaching program in urban economic development and innovation, or experience running a large research or policy-related urban network is considered an asset.

The Director of MUI will be responsible for building the new program, working from the initial curriculum developed by IMI and approved by the Governing Council of the University of Toronto. The successful candidate will inspire and engage UTM faculty and staff to work collaboratively to implement the new Master's program and achieve its successful launch. The successful candidate will have demonstrated ability to work effectively with colleagues from a wide breath of academic disciplines and the ability to inspire both a wide range of academic colleagues, administrative staff, and the initial cohort of students enrolled in the program. Strong leadership and people skills, demonstrated administrative ability, an effective management style, the capacity to integrate diverse interests, and forge a common vision for the MUI program are also required. Additionally, the successful candidate will ensure strong, two-way communications on an ongoing basis to sustain the enthusiasm, engagement and support of all stakeholders across the UTM community.

Salary and academic rank will be commensurate with experience.

All qualified applicants are invited to apply online by clicking on the link below. Applications must be submitted by September 24, 2018 and include a letter of application, an up-to-date curriculum vitae, a research statement with representative publications and a teaching statement including course evaluations and selected course materials supporting teaching quality and experience. The letter of application should also highlight any experience as an academic director or manager. If you have any questions about the position, please contact Professor Soo Min Toh, Director of the Institute for Management Innovation at imi@utoronto.ca. The UofT application system can accommodate up to fifteen attachments per candidate profile (8MB size limit per attachment); please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, dated, signed and scanned) directly to Sue Thomson at sue.thomson@utoronto.ca by the application date, Monday September 24, 2018. Referees should include the candidate's name and "MUI Director Search" in the subject line.

Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2-page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Housed in a newly expanded building and combining traditional teaching methods with a strong emphasis on experiential education, IMI represents a new approach to management education. IMI takes advantage of the full facilities of UTM as well as participating faculty from other divisions of the University of Toronto to offer multidisciplinary programs that combine the teaching of management with that of specific discipline, technologies, industry sectors or professions. Its graduate programs currently address management and biotechnology, professional accounting, innovation, and sustainability.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 20 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the most diverse regions, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is defined by the cultural diversity in its community. The University of Toronto Mississauga has a strong interdisciplinary commitment to teaching and research, a multicultural student body of more than 15,000 students, and a modern, spacious campus. For more information about the Institute for Management and Innovation, and University of Toronto Mississauga, please visit <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/imi/> and <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4554

Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Rank: Faculty Member

Specialization(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations, International Security

The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a Department of Defense executive education institution that educates, empowers, and connects current and future leaders from the Indo-Pacific region. The Center offers in-resident courses, workshops and dialogues in Honolulu and the Indo-Pacific region, and conducts policy-relevant research to build security capacity and collaboration. DKC APCSS addresses traditional and non-traditional security issues, including the relationship between governance and the security sector; transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, violent extremism, trafficking; maritime security; crises; analytical security assessments; and whole-of-society collaboration to include the role of women, peace and security. The audience of Fellows are mid- to senior-level civilian and military officials from all over the world. The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is located in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The Center invites applications for:

ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR FACULTY MEMBERS

For

Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief (HADR)

And

Security Sector Reform/Development (SSR/SSD)

The Center seeks world-class educators to teach, facilitate, research, and build capacity of security professionals in the Indo-Pacific Region.

Responsibilities for associate/full professor faculty members

- Teaching executive education courses in a participant-centered, activity-based context
- Facilitating seminars, workshops, dialogues and visits
- Contributing to capacity building endeavors and security cooperation projects in the region
- Analyzing security-related trends in the Indo-Pacific region
- Contributing to curriculum development
- Performing administrative and staff duties to support the Center's academic functions

Desirable selection criteria for associate/full professor faculty members

- Knowledge of defense institution building including, civil-military, interagency and cross-sector coordination, strategic planning and information sharing
- Expertise in crisis and disaster management in one or more Indo-Pacific countries
- Familiarity with facilitation-based teaching and state-of-the-art educational technology
- Experience in development, capacity building, and national security consultations as related to the evolution and transformation of roles and responsibilities of security agencies
- Experience working with U.S. embassies in region, including familiarity with a country team, office of defense cooperation, U.S. State Department and USAID policies
- Experience with exercises and wargames
- Demonstrable skill in at least one regional language

Essential selection criteria for HADR associate/full professor faculty members

- High level of experience in crisis and disaster management
- Understanding of HADR at operational and strategic levels
- Knowledge of the disaster management phases including risk reduction and resilience
- Awareness of national, regional and international crisis response management frameworks, strategies and mechanisms
- Professional expertise at the operational, strategic or policy level in a multilateral setting

Essential selection criteria for SSR/SSD associate/full professor faculty members

- High level of experience in security and defense sector governance, development, and institutional capacity building of Indo-Pacific partner governments to increase capacity within their security institutions
- Experience in national security consultations, sector-wide coordination, and/or strategic planning as related to the evolution and transformation of roles and responsibilities of security agencies
- Demonstrable familiarity with U.S. Government legislation, policies, processes, and officials

Qualifications and attributes for associate/full professor faculty members

- Master's or doctoral degree
- Proven ability in teaching and seminar facilitation
- Proven ability to function as a team member

Salary and rank are commensurate with qualifications. Salary range is $90,789 - $120,157 excludes locality pay (18.43%) and cost of living allowance (COLA), currently 10.99% but subject to change. All faculty at the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies are employed on limited-term, excepted-service positions, for up to three years, with the possibility of renewal. Relocation expenses may be authorized.

Application Procedure

Interested candidates must submit the following items by email to happlications@dkiapcss.net

1. Letter of Interest. Provide a brief description of your vocational goals, personal interests and expected areas of study in the coming year, and explain your interest in future career considerations with the Department of Defense
2. Curriculum Vitae. Should reflect the following: educational background, work experience, publications and salary history
3. Two Letters of Reference

Additional information

- Application deadline: Open until filled; 31 August 2018
- Applications will be considered against current Faculty requirements
- Application packages will be retained for one year
- Application materials become the property of the U.S. Department of the Defense and will not be returned
- Individuals selected for interviews will be asked to provide bona fide transcripts from the academic institutions granting their advanced degree(s) and two samples of their publications
- The Department of the Defense is an Equal Opportunity Employer
- All qualified candidates will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status, political affiliation, sexual orientation, or any other non-merit factor
- U.S. Citizenship is not required but applicants must be eligible for an H1B or other work visa.
- The Department of the Defense provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact the Center's Human Resources Department at happlications@dkiapcss.net to ensure that the Department of the Defense can consider such a request. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis

Learn more about the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies by visiting: www.apcss.org

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 8/31/2018

Date Posted: 8/8/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4530

Queen's University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor with a specialization in Indigenous Politics (new application deadline November 1, 2018)

Department of Political Studies
Mackintosh-Corry Hall, Room C321
Queen's University
Kingston, ON Canada K7L 3N6
Tel 613-533-6230

Fax 613-533-6848
<http://www.queensu.ca/politics>

The Department of Political Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at Queen's University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor with a specialization in Indigenous Politics, with a preferred starting date of July 1, 2019.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Studies or an equivalent degree completed at the start date of the appointment. The main criteria for selection are academic and teaching excellence. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high-quality scholarly output that demonstrates potential for independent research leading to peer-assessed publications and the securing of external research funding, as well as strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and an ongoing commitment to academic and pedagogical excellence in support of the department's programs. The successful candidate will be required to make substantive contributions through service to the department, the Faculty, the University, and/or the broader community. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. This position is subject to final budgetary approval by the University.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ persons. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information as to how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada." Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

A complete application consists of:
 ? a cover letter (including one of the two statements regarding Canadian citizenship / permanent resident status specified in the previous paragraph);
 ? a current Curriculum Vitae (including a list of publications);
 ? a statement of research interests;
 ? a statement of teaching interests and experience (including teaching outlines and evaluations, if available);
 ? a writing sample; and
 ? three letters of reference to be sent to directly to Dr. Zsuzsa Csergo, Department Head at polshead@queensu.ca

The review of applications will begin November 1, 2018. Applicants are encouraged to send all documents in their application packages electronically as PDFs to Michelle Knapp-Hermer at knappm@queensu.ca, although hard copy applications may be submitted to:

Michelle Knapp-Hermer
 Departmental Manager
 Department of Political Studies
 Room C316, Mackintosh-Corry Hall
 68 University Avenue
 Queen's University

Kingston, Ontario
 CANADA K7L 3N6

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact Michelle Knapp-Hermer in the Department of Political Studies, at knappm@queensu.ca, phone number 613-533-6226.

Academic staff at Queen's University are governed by a Collective Agreement between the University and the Queen's University Faculty Association (QUFA), which is posted at <http://queensu.ca/facultyrelations/faculty-librarians-and-archivists/collective-agreement> and at <http://www.qufa.ca>.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 11/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/8/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4526

Hebrew University of Jerusalem Rank: Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Hebrew University of Jerusalem seeks fill a tenure-track position (ranks: Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, or Associate Professor), beginning fall 2019. This is a research and teaching position.

We seek outstanding candidates with a record of excellence in research in all areas of political science. Junior and senior scholars with a PhD in political science are encouraged to apply. ABD's are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than October 1st 2019.

The language of teaching at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem is Hebrew, though some courses are taught in English. New faculty members are expected to be able to teach in Hebrew within a few years after their arrival.

For further information please see the full call on our website: https://en.politics.huji.ac.il/sites/default/files/politics-en/files/candidates-poli-sci2018job-call_final1.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/6/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4486

University of Copenhagen Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professorship(s)

We invite applications for one or more positions as Assistant Professor at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are offered as tenure-track Assistant Professorships. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Assistant Professor are:

- Research within the field of politics and international relations
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students
- Administrative tasks
- Knowledge sharing with the rest of the society

An assistant professorship is a further-education post. Supervision as well as pedagogical training is provided. The position(s) will be covered by the tenure track programme at the University of Copenhagen. The programme offers tenure-track candidates a contract of six years that can result in a tenured associate professorship. For additional information about assistant professorships, tenure-track assistant professorships and the Job Structure for Academic Staff at the University, see: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/career-at-upch/> and: <http://employment.ku.dk/tenure-track/tenure-track-at-ucph/>

Emphasis will be put on the applicant's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the Department through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching, disseminate knowledge and make a knowledge-based societal impact. An assistant professor is expected to develop competences and experience within research, teaching and dissemination. In time, the assistant professor should develop competences to attract funding within his or her specialist area.

Qualifications

To be qualified for the position the applicant must have a PhD in Political Science or equivalent academic qualifications as well as:

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced primarily by a well-received PhD dissertation and an emerging international reputation based on a publication profile that complements the existing research strengths of the Department
- A commitment to contribute to the delivery of an excellent student experience based on a track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates, who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

We will expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Professor Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Phone: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4453

University of Colorado-Denver

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Social Welfare, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Research Methods

The School of Public Affairs (SPA) at the University of Colorado Denver (CU Denver) seeks to fill a tenure-track position in public affairs, to start in August 2019. The position will be at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. We are looking for a candidate with expertise in public administration/management, and we are open to various sub-field areas of expertise. Interest in social equity, civil society, social vulnerabilities, nonprofit management, collaborative governance, emergency management, and/or performance management would be particularly valuable.

At the Assistant Professor level, we seek candidates who have completed PhDs, with evidence of excellence in teaching, publishing, and demonstrated efforts at attaining external grant funding. For consideration at the Associate Professor level, candidates are expected to be an emerging leader in their field, with an excellent record in research, demonstrated through both externally funded awards and publications, as well as excellence in teaching, mentoring, and funding graduate and/or undergraduate students.

We encourage applicants with diverse backgrounds and/or candidates whose research itself focuses on issues related to diversity and/or social equity. We are also open to candidates with a range of different methodological approaches and backgrounds.

The normal class teaching load is 2:2 and can involve teaching opportunities in our PhD in Public Affairs, MPA, and BA in Public Service programs. Applicants should be willing to teach in both face-to-face and online formats. The salary is competitive.

SPA has 28 full-time faculty and is currently ranked #29 in the country by US News and World Report in public management and leadership, and we are ranked in the top 75 programs in the world for public administration by Shanghai Academic rankings. SPA is a NASPAA-accredited MPA program ranked nationally at #34 overall by US News and World Report. In addition to the degree programs mentioned above, we also offer Master's and Bachelor's degrees in Criminal Justice. All programs except the PhD are available fully online, as well as in-person.

Our downtown Denver location provides unprecedented access to a diverse urban environment where policy becomes practice. SPA is a diverse learning community and one of the most culturally inclusive schools on campus, allowing our students to interact with people who reflect their own identity and with others who broaden their horizons. More than one-third of SPA students are students of color. CU Denver students come from all 50 states and 67 countries.

Denver is one of the fastest growing and most economically vibrant cities in America. Denver's Mayor, along with many other community leaders, are alums of our School. Our city and state are microcosms for research and teaching in public management, environmental policy, local government, nonprofits, emergency management, public health, and public finance.

Our faculty have grown their external funding by 200% over the past 5 years. Faculty currently have grants from NSF, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, Ford Foundation, Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, St. Louis Community Foundation, the Colorado Trust, the Community First Foundation, the Colorado Department of Public Health and the Environment, the US Department of Health and Human Services, the Annie E. Casey Foundation, and others. SPA faculty routinely attend and present at conferences around the world and are often invited to speak to both academic and practitioner communities on their areas of expertise. SPA faculty are nationally recognized leaders, currently or recently holding positions like NAPA members, PAR editor, PSJ editor, NASPAA Executive Council, ARNOVA board, NVSQ editorial board, and many others.

Many faculty are involved with SPA's Institute for Governance, the applied arm of the school, either through research, training, evaluation, or service. The Institute focuses on translational research, including but not limited to applied research in Colorado, through the work of Centers focused on local government, network sciences and collaborative governance, education policy, criminal justice, and policy process research. The Institute also runs a Certified Public Management (CPM) program and several other leadership development programs. We seek candidates who demonstrate interest in contributing to this mission in some manner.

Generally, SPA is seeking candidates who want to contribute to the dynamic efforts among faculty to support and expand our research and impact, as we continue to be recognized as a top public affairs school. Faculty are committed to working collaboratively and in support of making an impact on the field of public affairs and more broadly, the public sector. We are also committed to graduating high quality students who have the best experiences in the classroom, working alongside faculty in research, and making an impact as graduates who employers seek to hire. We expect that this candidate will quickly become part of an energetic effort to produce the best research and teaching in the field.

Application materials will ONLY be accepted online via the CU Careers job portal.

To apply, please visit <https://www.cu.edu/cu-careers> (Job ID#14311) and submit your curriculum vitae, letter of application summarizing qualifications, and contact information for three professional references. Finalists for the position should be prepared to provide letters of recommendation and evidence of research and teaching proficiency upon request.

Review of applications will continue until the positions are filled with full consideration given to those who apply by October 1, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4487

George Mason University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Conflict Resolution (Tenure-Track)

The George Mason University School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution (S-CAR) invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor of Conflict Resolution. The position begins in August 2019. George Mason University, a doctoral research university recently designated as "highest research activity," has a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff and strongly encourages candidates to apply who will enrich Mason's academic and culturally inclusive environment.

The School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution is committed to the development of theory, research and practice that interrupt cycles of violence. Having established the world's first M.S. program in conflict resolution in 1983, S-CAR is home to degree programs at the B.A./B.S., M.S., Ph.D., and Certificate levels and has an affiliate M.S. program in Malta and an undergraduate degree program in Incheon, South Korea. With four vibrant centers and multiple projects and programs, S-CAR faculty and students are engaged in significant research and practice worldwide; nationally; and locally, in the Washington, D.C., metro area. S-CAR is a Commonwealth Center for Excellence, recognized for its leadership in the field and its world-renowned faculty. For more information about the School, go to: <http://scar.gmu.edu/>.

Responsibilities:

The responsibilities for this position include:

- Teaching two courses per semester (including undergraduate and graduate instruction);
- Maintaining an active research and/or practice agenda;
- Participating in curricular development, student advising, and other service activities; and
- Contributing to the School's intellectual life.

Qualifications:

The School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution seeks highly qualified applicants whose work strengthens or complements the School's current offerings. Candidates with expertise in any area will be considered, but particular attention will be given to scholars with a demonstrated ability to develop new and innovative pathways for conflict analysis, resolution and transformation, especially those who are able to build on, expand, or reform the existing areas of focus at the School as represented by the curriculum concentrations at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and the four research centers. Candidates having a familiarity with any aspect of Conflict Analysis and Resolution are encouraged to apply. The School is interested in candidates who engage directly with today's real-world conflicts through intervention, advocacy, public scholarship, consultation, action research, evaluation and other forms of practice. There is no restriction on disciplinary affiliation or methodological expertise for this position. S-CAR invites applicants from any academic discipline or interdisciplinary background who can contribute to the vision for the School to promote and build on its characteristic approach to peace and conflict studies. Central to our approach is wide diversity in scholarly standpoint, the recognition of multiple and antithetical points of view, and the inclusion of once marginalized perspectives. Therefore, we encourage candidates of all backgrounds to apply. Applicants should have completed their doctoral degree or plan to defend their dissertation by August 1, 2019.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

For full consideration, applicants must apply for position number F7274Z at <http://jobs.gmu.edu/>; complete and submit the online application; and upload a CV, two writing samples (second writing sample may be uploaded into field marked "Other Doc" in the Additional Documents section), a cover letter that includes a statement of interest, and a list of the names and e-mails of three referees who have agreed to write letters of recommendation upon request. For additional information, please contact Jay Moon, Search Administrative Coordinator at jmoon6@gmu.edu or Dr. Solon Simmons, Search Committee Chair.

George Mason University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, committed to promoting inclusion and equity in its community. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/8qk9jbfrgn3dxjb9>

PI103643718

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4482

Midwest Political Science Association

Rank: Editorial Search, American Journal of Political Science, (2019 - 2022)

MPSA invites proposals from editorial teams to lead and manage the American Journal of Political Science (AJPS). The AJPS is one of the leading general research journals in Political Science. It strives to publish manuscripts that make outstanding contributions to scholarly knowledge about notable theoretical concerns, empirical issues or methodological strategies in any subfield. The editorial team will serve a four-year term beginning in June, 2019.

The editorial team has primary responsibility for the integrity, high standards, and ethics of the review process and the publication of articles dedicated to the scientific and public value of Political Science research. We seek proposals that offer a vision and plan for the AJPS to continue to be on the cutting-edge of innovation, excellence and rigor in the discipline specifically, and in the broader social sciences and inter-disciplinary communities as well.

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

The AJPS is one of the top journals in the discipline. It receives about 1,000 submissions each year and maintains a database of over 7,000 qualified reviewers. Serving as an editor of the AJPS requires substantial commitments of time, intellectual effort, and management skill. The MPSA believes that this can be best achieved with an editorial team. This team could be configured in different ways, including having two or more Co-Editors, a Lead Editor with several Associate Editors, etc. There is no need for the editorial team to be from the same institution. Candidates for Co-Editor or Lead Editor should be full professors in Political Science doctoral degree-granting programs. Applicants are expected to have records of significant research accomplishment, intellectual breadth and depth, and administrative, organizational, and interpersonal skills.

The AJPS editorial team reports directly to the MPSA Executive Council, primarily through the MPSA Executive Director and the MPSA President. They will also need to appoint and manage the AJPS Editorial Board, as well as interact with the Publisher (Wiley) and the broader Political Science research communities. The AJPS uses an online manuscript-processing system called Editorial Manager to manage the flow of manuscripts. The editorial team will need to hire and supervise staff including a Managing Editor and graduate assistants.

The AJPS has historically benefited from a cooperative arrangement between the MPSA and the Editors' home institutions, with both providing support for the Editors. Typically, the host institution will provide office space, IT support, course reductions, summer salary for the Editors, and some support for the graduate assistants and Managing Editor. The MPSA provides travel funding, an honorarium for the editors, funds for staffing, office expenses, and other monies that are needed. The MPSA also manages the technical aspects of the AJPS website, pays for the cost of the Editorial Manager software as well fees to have accepted manuscripts replicated and verified. Different host institutions have provided different types of support in the past, and the MPSA has flexibility in terms of what it can fund. Potential editorial teams are encouraged to discuss their proposed budgets with the Executive Director of the MPSA, William Morgan (morgan@mpsnet.org).

The new editorial team is expected to continue two current policies. First, all manuscripts that are accepted must comply with the Replication and Verification Policy which includes archiving any data used in the manuscript in the AJPS Dataverse. Second, the AJPS is currently implementing an Editorial Conflict of Interest (COI) policy, where any potential conflicts are to be disclosed and, if required, a different member of the editorial team will serve as Lead Editor for that manuscript.

TO APPLY

The search process will consist of two stages, the first of which is optional. First, by Friday, August 17, 2018, candidates should e-mail full curriculum vitae for each member of the editorial team and a letter of intent as PDF attachments to: rkw@rice.edu and morgan@mpsnet.org. The letter of intent should be no longer than four single-spaced and should address: the structure of the editorial team, the staff structure, and their vision for the AJPS if they become editors. The MPSA will talk with each team regarding how they might develop more detailed proposals.

Second, by Monday, October 1, 2018, editorial teams should e-mail a full c.v. for each member of the editorial team and a complete proposal to: rkw@rice.edu and morgan@mpsnet.org. This proposal should discuss: structure of the editorial team, staff structure, previous management and editorial expertise of the editorial team, vision for the AJPS, detailed budget and statements of financial support from host universities. All applicants will receive an e-mail confirmation that the proposal has been received.

NOMINATIONS AND QUESTIONS

Professor Rick Wilson of Rice University has agreed to chair the search committee for the new editorial team. Wilson will be joined by John Ishiyama of North Texas University, Sara Mitchell of University of Iowa, Kathy Cramer of University of Wisconsin, and Tasha Philpot of the University of Texas, Austin. If you wish to nominate a person to serve as Editor, please contact the Chair of the AJPS Search Committee, Rick Wilson (rkw@rice.edu).

If you have questions about the budget, please contact the Executive Director of the MPSA, William Morgan (morgan@mpsnet.org). If you have questions about the responsibilities of serving as an Editor of the AJPS, please contact the Chair of the AJPS Search Committee, Rick Wilson (rkw@rice.edu).

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4476

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks qualified candidates for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions. We welcome applications in all sub-fields; however, we expect to hire one Assistant Professor in International Relations. The department seeks excellent scholars with a rigorous theoretical and empirical approach to the study of politics. The positions are to begin September 1, 2019, pending budgetary and administrative approval.

Candidates must possess a PhD by September 2019, in political science or a cognate discipline. They will have a record of excellent research that has been published or otherwise disseminated in a manner appropriate to career stage, and have the potential to be a future leader of the profession in their field of expertise. Candidates should also have proven ability as excellent teachers at undergraduate and/or graduate level.

Please apply online at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/52766> with a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching and research statements. Applications should be received by October 1, 2018. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply a link to their professional website; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4448

Princeton University

Rank: Fellowship

Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Candidates will be considered in three categories: (1) Four of the fellowships will be awarded to early-career scholars employed in the equivalent of tenure-track positions who are expected to return to their position. (2) One fellowship is set aside for a postdoctoral research associate who at the time of application does not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. (3) In addition, one fellowship will be awarded to a senior scholar. All candidates must be based outside the United States.

During the academic year 2019-20, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal of this research theme is to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We also want to understand how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. The Program will also examine rival world ideas that have challenged prevailing orthodoxies. Nowadays, with cooperative norms under challenge, global institutions under stress, and a century of guiding ideas about global convergence in doubt, we want to take a broad look at where these ideas came from, their effects, and the prospects for intellectual renewal or rethinking. The goal of the 2019-20 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applications are due on November 9, 2018. All candidates must reside outside the United States. To be eligible, postdoctoral applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. before August 1, 2019 but cannot have received their degrees more than three years prior to the start of the appointment on September 1, 2019. Early-career fellows must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2009. Senior scholars, who have received their doctorates before 2009, must have faculty appointments and a record of scholarly accomplishment in the designated theme of the program. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/8/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4322

Princeton University

Rank: Professor, Contemporary East Asia

Princeton University seeks qualified candidates for a tenured full professorship in any discipline in the humanities, social sciences, engineering and the natural sciences. In addition to their core disciplinary specialization, candidates are required to have regional competence on China, Japan, or Korea, and knowledge of relevant foreign languages. Field of specialization is open.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7781>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree. Senior scholars should submit a brief letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae and a list of references. No publications, letters of recommendation or writing samples are required at this time. For fullest consideration, please apply by October 3, 2018.

Essential Qualifications: Excellence in a recognized discipline. Regional expertise and linguistic competence in Contemporary East Asia.

Further questions about this position may be directed to Nicole Bergman at nbergman@princeton.edu.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4462

Princeton University

Rank: Professor, Contemporary India

Princeton University seeks qualified candidates for a tenured professorship in any discipline, including the arts, the humanities, the social sciences, engineering and the natural sciences. Candidates are required to have regional expertise on India, knowledge of relevant foreign languages, and significant experience managing a center or program. In addition to contributing to their respective disciplinary department and to the wider research community of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS, <http://piirs.princeton.edu>), they are expected to strengthen regional course offerings at the University and, vitally, to broaden Princeton's international networks. Field of specialization is open.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7801>

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree. Senior scholars should submit a brief letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae and a list of references, but no publications, letters of recommendation or writing samples at this time. For fullest consideration, please apply by October 15, 2018.

Essential Qualifications: Excellence in a recognized field or discipline. Regional expertise on India.

Further questions about this position may be directed to Nicole Bergman at nbergman@princeton.edu.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4461

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; urban politics, civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; feminist legal studies; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2019. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications, and effective written and oral communication. We are especially interested in candidates who have a long-term interest in helping to develop and advise students in Muhlenberg's pre-law program.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates should also submit a separate statement describing how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, applicants can find the latest updates to the College's Diversity Strategic Plan at: <http://www.muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/>.

Complete applications should be sent via email as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair to: pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. In order to receive full consideration, applications must be received by September 17, 2018.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in eastern Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley. Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4457

University of Michigan

Rank: Contemporary Jewish Life

The Frankel Center for Judaic Studies at the University of Michigan invites applications for a tenured appointment at the Associate or Professor rank in the field of contemporary Jewish life. This is a university-year appointment with an expected start date of September 1, 2019. Specialization within the field is open. The successful candidate will be able to contribute to the Frankel Center's strengths in graduate training, and offer undergraduate courses that contribute to the curriculum of Judaic Studies. Applicants should submit a letter of application, which includes a statement of current and future research plans and teaching philosophy and experience, a curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching excellence, a writing sample, and the names of three references. Note that references will be contacted for finalists only. Review of applications will begin November 5, and will continue until an appointment is made.

Women and Minorities are encouraged to apply. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples, and is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Application materials must be submitted electronically. Please go to <https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/Apply/1134> to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/5/2018

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4454

School of Advanced Air and Space Studies

Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Strategy and Security Studies

Subfield(s): Other, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Defense, History & Politics, International Security

The School of Advanced Air and Space Studies (SAASS) is seeking a scholar of strategic or security studies to join our faculty beginning summer, 2019. Applicants with a specialization in space policy, space law, space history, or technology and innovation are of particular interest.

SAASS educates strategists for the US Air Force and the nation. The faculty develops and presents a yearlong graduate curriculum designed to educate students in the art of strategy and strategic studies, enhancing the Air Force's capacity to defend the United States through the control and exploitation of air, space, and cyberspace. Graduates receive a Master of Philosophy in Military Strategy degree with the possibility to continue toward a PhD in Military Strategy. The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges accredits both programs through The Air University.

Successful applicants will support the Air University and SAASS missions and have experience in the development, study, evaluation, or implementation of strategy, in terms of policy, history or practice. Applicants must have a completed PhD or JD, in an area relevant to strategic studies, with the ability to teach in a relevant field such as history, political science, and technology. Emphasis on the control and exploitation of space, air, and cyberspace and extensive professional experience in these areas is highly desired. The selection committee will consider applicants at the assistant and associate levels.

Primary duties include teaching graduate-level courses across the breadth of the school's curriculum, advising thesis and dissertation students, curriculum development, course direction, scholarly research and publication, and service to the school and university commensurate with individual experience.

Applicants will be required to submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation and samples of research, course syllabi and teaching evaluations to the chair of the search committee (via email or regular mail). Additionally, candidates will need to formally apply for the position using the USAJobs site, which will begin accepting applications on 1 September 2018. Review of applications will begin 1 October and continue until the position is filled.

Preliminary interviews will be conducted at the APSA annual meeting in Boston from August 30-Sep 1, 2018.

To schedule a meeting at APSA or for further information, please direct inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Derrick Frazier (derrick.frazier@us.af.mil); SAASS, 125 Chennault Circle, Room 2222A, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4446

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Psychology

The Department of Psychology at Michigan State University seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure-system position. We are looking to hire at the assistant professor level in the area of political psychology, with a focus on minority politics. Position begins August 16, 2019.

Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda, strong analytical skills and commitment to open science, and potential/record for securing extramural funding. We are particularly interested in researchers studying political psychology in a way that connects both with the multicultural initiative in the Psychology Department as well as with hires in minority politics in the Political Science Department. The hire will be part of a batch hire on minority politics with MSU's Department of Political Science and collaborations are expected. Candidates will also contribute to undergraduate and graduate training in political psychology.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities; applicants with diverse ideological views are encouraged to apply.

Interested applicants must apply for this position via Michigan State University Applicant Page (MAP). Please access the MAP system at <https://careers.msu.edu>, posting number 518700. Please submit your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, a research statement, three sample of your written work, a teaching statement, and a diversity and inclusion statement, which should address your ability and experience working with underrepresented student populations. Applicants should arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted.

Contact Joseph Cesario (cesario@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions. The closing date for applications is October 1, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4434

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4428

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Select "Apply" to be redirected to Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4429

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Please navigate to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/11482> to apply via Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4430

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgencct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencect.uconn.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching; integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Please navigate to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11482> to apply via Academic Jobs Online. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4431

Denison University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty Position in Global Commerce

Specializations: International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations, Trade

The Global Commerce program at Denison University invites applications for a tenure track position at the assistant professor or senior level beginning in Fall 2019. Global Commerce is a new interdisciplinary major (started in 2016) that trains students to think critically and creatively, in the liberal arts tradition, about global processes and structures of exchange by examining how factors including culture, history, politics, financial practices, and social structures shape both for-profit and non-profit activity in different contexts around the globe. Field of specialization for this position is open, but research and teaching experience must be related to international business, international financial institutions, global political economy, institutions of commerce (including non-profits or NGOs), or liberal market economies. Teaching responsibilities will include some combination of the core Global Commerce courses (Commerce and Society; Elements of Commerce; Global Financial Markets; and possibly a future applied statistics course for Global Commerce majors), as well as rotating responsibilities for the senior capstone course. (For details on our Global Commerce curriculum and course descriptions, please see: <https://denison.edu/academics/global-commerce>.) The successful candidate will also have regular opportunities to teach topical seminars investigating the structures, strategies, cultures, and contexts of global business and non-profit organizations and must be prepared to mentor undergraduate scholarship and research. The teaching load is 5 courses per year, including both introductory and upper-level courses, the largest of which is capped at 28 students.

Possible disciplinary backgrounds include political science, economic history, sociology, economics, industrial and organizational psychology, or international management. Regardless of discipline, applicants must have superior teaching skills, a commitment to a liberal arts approach to education, and the clearly articulated desire to contribute to the development of this innovative program, as well as an active research agenda related to some aspect of global commerce. Additional work experience in the business or non-profit sectors, as well as a willingness to help foster connections between our Global Commerce program and outside practitioners, are preferred.

Denison University is located just 25 miles east of Columbus, OH, the state capital. We are an increasingly diverse, highly-selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2200 students from across the nation and around the world. Our college and the Global Commerce program are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty who are successful and effective teachers, who develop active and productive research programs, and who are involved in the life of the college.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2018, and will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. We will conduct Skype interviews with prospective candidates in early November 2018. We will consider both ABD and Ph.D.-in-hand candidates, but degree must be conferred within a year of appointment at Denison in order for contract to be renewed.

Applicants should submit the following electronic application materials on-line at employment.denison.edu: a cover letter that includes discussion of commitment to liberal arts teaching, a brief description of the candidate's research agenda, mention of relevant non-academic work experience in the business or non-profit sectors, and a statement addressing the potential to foster and support diversity among our students, faculty, and community; curriculum vitae; two proposed syllabi for Global Commerce courses that reflect the candidate's area of expertise and interests; three letters of recommendation from academic references; and other supporting documents.

Denison University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer. To achieve our mission as a liberal arts college, we continually strive to foster a diverse campus community, which recognizes the value of all persons regardless of religion, race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or socioeconomic background. For additional information and resources about diversity at Denison please see our Diversity Guide at www.denison.edu/forms/diversity-guide.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4422

Texas A&M University

Rank: Tenure-Track, Assistant Professor in International Development and Economic Policy

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the broad area of International Development and Economic Policy. We are open to the candidate's area of expertise, which may include development economics, politics and institutions of developing countries, international political economy, comparative political economy, and other relevant areas. We welcome applicants with different regional expertise, with a preference for those focusing on Latin America. The successful candidate is expected to have a strong research portfolio commensurate with their academic trajectory, and teach at least one section of the required course in introductory-level quantitative methods and an intermediate quantitative methods course. Bush School faculty exclusively teach master's degree graduate students in international affairs in a standard 2-2 load. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics, or Public Policy by September 2019. The individual selected will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2019.

Applications must be made through the Texas A&M Workday website. Applicants who currently are not a Texas A&M System employee please go to our external career site at https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/TAMU_External.

Applicants who currently are a Texas A&M System employee please go to our internal career site at <https://jobs.tamu.edu/internal-applicants/>.

Applicants should upload a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae and a sample of written work. Additionally, please have three letters of recommendation sent to:

Professor Gregory Gause

c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tamu.edu)

The Bush School of Government & Public Service

Texas A&M University

4220 TAMU

College Station, TX 77843-4220

The review of applications will begin September 20, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4412

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Department Chair: Political Science and Geography

University of Texas at San Antonio

Department Chair: Political Science and Geography

The Department of Political Science and Geography at the University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for Department Chair at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. Teaching and research specialization are open. The department is home to 17 tenured and tenure-track faculty members, NTT faculty and administrative staff, and 530 majors pursuing B.A. and M.A. degrees in Political Science, Global Affairs, Politics and Law, and Geography and Environmental Sustainability. Faculty members engage in individual and collaborative research around the world in such areas as global governance, comparative politics, security regimes, national security and intelligence, cyber security strategy and politics, political communications and institutions, federal justice policies, race and gender issues, social policy, human rights issues, constitutional development and judicial institutions, human migration patterns, geospatial information systems, and political economy.

The chair provides leadership in academic program development, faculty and staff development, and research collaborations and pursuit of grant opportunities. S/he also administers the department's budget and course offerings, and oversees faculty and student conflict resolution, department outreach and development activities, and communication with internal and external constituents. As a faculty member, s/he also contributes to the department's teaching and research missions. The appointment begins August 15, 2019.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely-related field. The successful candidate will demonstrate sustained excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service. S/he should have strong interpersonal, written, and oral communication skills. Of paramount importance is a track record of academic administration and leadership.

For consideration as Associate Professor, candidates must have a strong record of publication, evidence of effective teaching, and substantial experience in department, university, and professional service. For consideration as full Professor, candidates must have a superior record of publication, evidence of effective teaching, and substantial experience in department, university, and professional service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants should demonstrate an ability to successfully pursue and manage external funding opportunities.

The University of Texas at San Antonio is a dynamic institution with a diverse and growing student population of approximately 31,000. San Antonio is the third largest metropolitan area in Texas, with a cosmopolitan, thriving urban culture, and attractive neighborhoods and extensive recreational opportunities. These qualities, coupled with the low cost-of-living and mild winters, make it a highly desirable place to live.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. Applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, teaching experiences, research interests, and focus on position qualifications;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Separate statements of research, teaching, and administrative leadership experience and vision;
4. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
5. Representative samples of scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two syllabi of courses taught by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations and/or other evidence of course instruction evaluation;
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who can be contacted to provide letters of reference regarding the applicant's administrative experiences, scholarship, and teaching.

Deadline: October 15, 2018.

Applicants selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 7/18/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4402

Bates College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Department of Politics at Bates College invites applications for a tenure-track position focusing on gender politics in the global South starting in the fall of 2019. We are particularly interested in candidates who have regional expertise in sub-Saharan Africa. Candidates should have a Ph.D. completed, or nearly complete. Applicants should show a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching, to scholarly research, and to the adoption of inclusive pedagogies. We are open to and encourage a variety of methodological approaches and paths to scholarly excellence. Responsibilities include teaching five courses per year (usually two courses per semester and one course during a five-week spring "short term") as well as advisement of individual senior theses. The college and the department are committed to enhancing the diversity and inclusivity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to this goal are encouraged to apply and identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Consideration of applications will begin October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

QUALIFICATIONS

ABD will be considered, Ph.D., preferred.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Review of applications begins October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit the following: (1) a letter of application, (2) curriculum vita, (3) pedagogy statement, (4) research statement, (5) statement on how attention to inclusion and equity informs your teaching and research, (6) writing sample, (7) graduate transcripts, and (8) three confidential letters of recommendation.

Employment is contingent upon successful completion of a background check

APPLY HERE: <https://apply.interfolio.com/51898>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4395

Harvard University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor of Government - Open Field

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenure-track professor. The position is open with respect to subfields of political science, with special interest in research focusing on democratic dysfunction, international insecurity, unequal development, or collective action problems in any area of the world or without a specific area focus. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2019. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Doctorate or terminal degree in Political Science or related disciplines required by the time the appointment begins.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching is desired.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIeS portal (<https://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2018.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement (describing teaching approach and philosophy)
4. Research statement
5. Names and contact information of 3-5 referees, who will be asked by a system-generated email to upload a letter of recommendation once the candidate's application has been submitted. Three letters of recommendation are required, and the application is considered complete only when at least three letters have been received.
6. Writing samples and publications, if applicable.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4370

University of Toronto

Rank: Endowed Chair, Japanese Politics and Global Affairs

The University of Toronto invites applications for a joint tenure-stream, endowed chair appointment in the Department of Political Science (51%) and the Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy (49%) in the area of Japanese Politics and Global Affairs. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate or Full Professor and will commence July 1, 2019.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in politics, government, international relations, or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment and be able to provide evidence of innovative research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing.

Candidates should have an established international reputation based on a scholarly record of excellence appropriate to their career stage. Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated by strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, graduate supervision, dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. The ideal candidate will focus on Japanese politics (including political history) in comparative and international perspective, Japanese policy in global and regional context, or international relations and contemporary Japan.

The appointment will be contingent upon a successful tenure review. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

We seek applications from candidates whose research program fits well with the Department and with the global focus of the Munk School. The appointee will contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students in both the Department and the School. The opportunity is also available to direct a new Centre for the Study of Global Japan established in the School to stimulate collaborative scholarship and public outreach.

We encourage applicants to review both academic units' research and teaching profiles prior to applying. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>; Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy <http://www.munkschool.utoronto.ca/>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 9, 2018.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/9/2018

Date Posted: 7/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4373

Furman University

Rank: Professor in American Politics

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics, Judicial Politics

The Department of Politics and International Affairs at Furman University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant, Associate, or Full rank in American politics to begin August 1,

2019. The candidate's teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses in American government and upper level courses in the area of constitutional law. The ability to offer classes in policy, jurisprudence, legal theory, criminology, and other related areas would be particularly welcome. S/he must demonstrate the potential for superb teaching and excellence in scholarship. The teaching load is typically five courses in a semester system. A Ph.D. is required by August 1, 2019. The department has a preference for a person who possesses or is a candidate for a Ph.D./J.D. and those licensed in the practice of law from any of the 50 states in the United States of America

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. We will also meet with interested and qualified candidates at the American Political Science Association convention in Boston, MA. To apply please go to <https://jobs.furman.edu/postings/5738>. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, CV, three letters of recommendation, sample course syllabi, teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and a sample(s) of professional writing (published work preferred). Candidates should also include a statement describing how their teaching, scholarship, mentoring and/or service might contribute to a liberal arts college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values. For any questions please contact the chairperson of the search committee Teresa Cosby at Teresa.cosby@furman.edu.

Furman University is a selective private liberal arts and sciences college committed to helping students develop intellectually, personally, and interpersonally and providing the practical skills necessary to succeed in a rapidly-changing world. Furman professors are exceptional teacher-scholars who mentor undergraduate students within a campus community that values and encourages diverse ideas and perspectives. Our recently-launched strategic vision, The Furman Advantage, promises students an individualized four-year pathway facilitated by team of mentors and infused with a rich and varied set of high impact experiences outside the classroom that include undergraduate research, study away, internships, community-focused learning, and opportunities to engage across differences.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is one of the fastest growing cities in the Southeast and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The charming downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains in the country. Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. Greenville is 2 1/2 hours from Atlanta and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. It is an ideal place to live and work.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4280

Furman University

Rank: Professor in American Politics

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

The Department of Politics and International Affairs at Furman University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant, Associate, or Full rank in American politics to begin August 1, 2019. The candidate's teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses in American government and upper level courses in the area of constitutional law. The ability to offer classes in policy, jurisprudence, legal theory, criminology, and other related areas would be particularly welcome. S/he must demonstrate the potential for superb teaching and excellence in scholarship. The teaching load is typically five courses in a semester system. A Ph.D. is required by August 1, 2019. The department has a preference for a person who possesses or is a candidate for a Ph.D./J.D. and those licensed in the practice of law from any of the 50 states in the United States of America

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. We will also meet with interested and qualified candidates at the American Political Science Association convention in Boston, MA. To apply please go to <https://jobs.furman.edu/postings/5738>. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, CV, three letters of recommendation, sample course syllabi, teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and a sample(s) of professional writing (published work preferred). Candidates should also include a statement describing how their teaching, scholarship, mentoring and/or service might contribute to a liberal arts college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values. For any questions please contact the chairperson of the search committee Teresa Cosby at Teresa.cosby@furman.edu.

Furman University is a selective private liberal arts and sciences college committed to helping students develop intellectually, personally, and interpersonally and providing the practical skills necessary to succeed in a rapidly-changing world. Furman professors are exceptional teacher-scholars who mentor undergraduate students within a campus community that values and encourages diverse ideas and perspectives. Our recently-launched strategic vision, The Furman Advantage, promises students an individualized four-year pathway facilitated by team of mentors and infused with a rich and varied set of high impact experiences outside the classroom that include undergraduate research, study away, internships, community-focused learning, and opportunities to engage across differences.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is one of the fastest growing cities in the Southeast and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The charming downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains in the country. Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. Greenville is 2 1/2 hours from Atlanta and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. It is an ideal place to live and work.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/1/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4281

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS - <http://cpass.ucsd.edu/>) has two postdoctoral positions available for the 2018-2019 academic year. Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director. Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 4/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4173

Yale University

Rank: Mars Fellow in Business Ethics

Yale University's Mars Brothers Interdisciplinary Program on Business Ethics seeks postdoctoral fellows for 2018-2019 from relevant disciplines (philosophy, business, economics, political science, sociology, psychology). Fellowships are for one year, renewable to two at a salary of $60,000 with health benefits. In addition to performing research under the supervision of Program faculty, Fellows will teach one seminar, be available to meet undergraduates of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics major, assist with senior essays, and help to organize and run a workshop series of 4-6 visitors a year. Applicants should have completed PhD requirements by September 2018. Mentoring of the fellows will draw on the established strengths of Yale's interdisciplinary faculty, beginning with the faculty of the Ethics, Politics, and Economics interdisciplinary undergraduate major.

Please submit a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, draft syllabus, and the names of two recommenders whom we will contact separately, online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47996>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Frances Rosenbluth, Director of Ethics, Politics and Economics, frances.rosenbluth@yale.edu.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and under-represented minorities are particularly welcome.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 12/19/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3897

POLITICAL THEORY

Leiden University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Environmental Policy, China, International Security

The Institute of Political Science of Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Political Science (1.0 FTE, 5 positions)

Vacancy number 5901

Key responsibilities

Due to the growth of our programme, we are looking to hire 5 assistant professors of political science. The appointment includes teaching introductory and advanced courses reflecting the candidate's expertise, supervising MSc and BSc theses, conducting scholarly research, acquiring external research funding, and participating in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute (i.e., department). It could also include teaching general introductory courses, working groups, and/or co-supervising PhD theses.

All applicants should be well trained in one or more of the major sub-disciplines (e.g., comparative politics, international relations, political philosophy) and in research methods appropriate to their field and interests. All specialisations will be considered, but we are especially interested in applicants working on Asian and Chinese politics and foreign policy, US politics and foreign policy, international environmental politics, international conflict resolution, politics of international law, international political economy, comparative public policy, and political behavior. Applicants who are prepared to teach research design, qualitative and/or quantitative research methods should outline their relevant training and/or teaching experience in their applications.

Selection criteria

- Applicants must hold (or be near to completing) a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- Applicants must have a promising research agenda, some scholarly publications, teaching experience and good teaching evaluations;
- Applicants must be able to teach in English; ability to teach in Dutch is a plus. Staff who do not speak Dutch are required to progress steadily toward Dutch competence through training financed by the institute;
- Leiden University requires teaching staff to obtain the University Teaching Qualification (BKO). If the successful applicant does not already possess this qualification or its equivalent, s/he must obtain this qualification within two years.

Research at our Faculty/Institute

Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises four institutes: Education and Child Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology. The Faculty also includes the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Its teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see <http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences>.

The Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. The Institute has around 80 academic staff, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals and book series. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multi-disciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy. The Institute is based in Leiden but a large and growing part of the teaching is done nearby in The Hague.

The Institute offers a range of taught programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The one-year MSc programme (taught mostly in English) includes four specialisations in Leiden and two in The Hague. Terms and conditions

The position starts as soon as possible, preferably in January 2019. The appointment will be made on a temporary contract of up to 3 years depending upon prior experience. A permanent appointment may be possible during or after the term of the initial contract, depending upon performance (in teaching, research and administration) and the budgetary situation of the Institute. Salary range from 3,545 to 4,852 gross per month (pay scale 11 in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities).

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3%), training and career development. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. More at <https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/working-at/job-application-procedure-and-employment-conditions>.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

Further enquiries can be directed to Professor Arjen Boin, chair of the selection committee, email: boin@fsw.leidenuniv.nl

Applications

Please submit online your application no later than 31 October 2018 via the blue button of our application system. Applicants should submit online a letter of interest, a CV (with list of publications), a research statement covering their current and future research agenda, a sample paper or article, and a statement of teaching interests and experience including sample syllabi and/or teaching evaluations. Applicants should also ask two people to submit recommendation letters commenting on their professional qualifications and suitability for the position directly (i.e. not through the applicant) to vacature_powe@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

The selection procedure will take place in November-December 2018. Selected candidates will first be invited for an online pre-interview; some will then be invited for in-person interview and research talk. You are kindly requested to be available in this period. Enquiries from agencies are not appreciated.

Start Date: Winter 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/28/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4918

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for full-time tenure/track appointments in Political Science. The open-rank search is open to all fields and methodologies. Applications from senior scholars (associate and full professor) are especially welcome. We expect successful candidates to commence their appointment September 1, 2019, subject to final budget approval. You may visit the Political Science programs website for a description of its innovative curriculum:

<https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html>

The review of applications will begin September 1, and will continue on a rolling basis until the positions are filled. The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative writing samples. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format.

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/52969> to apply.

If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its ninth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

For more information please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers.html>

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

The University is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4915

Tulane University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for four (4) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2019-2020, two with program administration duties and two with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowship carries a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2019. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/53827 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2018 until the positions are filled.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/31/2018

Date Posted: 9/24/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 4881

Ludwig Maximilians Universitaet

Rank: Fellowship in the CAS Research Group "Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation"

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Methodology, Other

Call for Applications

Fellowships in the CAS Research Group

"Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation"

Center for Advanced Studies, LMU Munich

The Center for Advanced Studies at LMU Munich is a forum for intensive international academic exchange. Its purpose is to promote cooperation with national and international Visiting Fellows who work closely on collaborative projects with LMU professors. In order to intensify cooperation between researchers at LMU Munich and leading experts from other universities, the Center has set up a major program, the CAS Research Groups.

The CAS Research Group "Exceptional Political Dynamics: Temporality, Turbulence, Transformation" is initiated by Klaus H. Goetz (Political Science) and will commence its work in October 2019.

The CAS Research Group will investigate exceptional dynamics in political power constellations – local, regional, national, international, transnational, and multi-level - that affect their institutional, organizational, policy and ideational properties. Exceptional dynamics are associated with at least three concepts: temporality, turbulence, and transformation. Temporal understandings highlight time-related features, such as the speed of change; momentum; atypical sequences; compressed durations; and asynchronicity. Dynamics understood as turbulence relate to a broad range of phenomena, such as variability, inconsistency, irregularity, unexpectedness, unpredictability, randomness or seeming "chaos". Transformative understandings direct attention at the depth and extent of change. The CAS Research Group aims to advance our understanding of exceptional dynamics through a research program that combines empirical, conceptual, theoretical, and methodological concerns. It seeks to investigate what form exceptional dynamics take and under what conditions they occur; to build a conceptual map that helps to distinguish different variants of exceptional dynamics; to explore the contributions of different theoretical traditions; and to identify relevant novel methodological tools for researching into dynamics.

The CAS Research Group will bring together internationally renowned researchers who are invited to LMU Munich to contribute to the Group's research. Applications are welcomed from all the main substantive sub-disciplines of political science, including comparative politics and government; public policy and public administration; international relations; and political theory; cognate disciplines, including political sociology, political communication, political economy, political psychology, and contemporary history; and from experts in methodological advances. Both senior and junior postdoc researchers are encouraged to apply. The Center for Advanced Studies will provide financial and organizational support for visits of between four weeks and nine months during the period between October 2019 and September 2020. Travel and accommodation will be paid for and an expense allowance or other compensation (according to individual agreement) will be provided to cover operating costs or as recompense for any loss of income sustained. Guests will receive a workspace in the Center and will have access to all its facilities. Visiting researchers will find an open and stimulating research environment in an interdisciplinary setting.

Applications should consist of a brief outline (1-2 pages) of the expertise, field of exchange and intended contribution to the CAS Research Group. Applications should also contain relevant credentials and a résumé including a list of the most recent publications. In order to strengthen the role of women in research, female scholars are strongly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all the application documents electronically (in one PDF file) by 10 December 2018 to

Email: goetz.lmu@gmail.com

Prof. Dr. Klaus H. Goetz
Geschwister-Scholl-Institut für Politikwissenschaft
Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München
Oettingenstraße 67
80538 München
Germany

For any questions on the CAS Research Groups please contact Dr. Julia Schreiner at CAS:

Email: Julia.Schreiner@cas.lmu.de

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/10/2018

Date Posted: 9/23/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4873

Longwood University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Political Science
Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy
Full-time, Tenure-track faculty, Position #F0018

Longwood University's Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science beginning August 2019. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the following courses: an introductory class in American government, the American presidency, US foreign policy, homeland security, and political philosophy. We also encourage applicants to propose additional classes that would enhance our existing curriculum. An active research program involving undergraduate students is expected. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred. Well-qualified ABD candidates will be considered, but must be on track to have all degree requirements completed prior to August 1, 2019.

Longwood is part of the proud tradition of higher education in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Roughly one-hour's drive from Lynchburg, Charlottesville and Richmond, Longwood is located in the historic two-college community of Farmville, at a historic crossroads near where the Civil War drew to a close and powerful strides in the civil rights movement began. Today, Longwood has more than 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students and more than 34,000 alumni. It maintains affiliations with the neighboring Robert Russa Moton Museum of civil rights history and the Longwood Center for Visual Arts, one of just a few dozen nationally accredited university art museums.

Salary will be commensurate with credentials and experience. Commonwealth of Virginia benefits accompany this position. A successful criminal background investigation is required. Position will be posted a minimum of five business days. Review of applications will begin October 31, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are encouraged to apply. To apply, please submit a letter of application suggesting courses that you could offer in Political Science, a statement of teaching philosophy, a plan for scholarly work, a curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, copies of graduate transcripts, and the names and contact details of three references. Please also submit a "Release of Information Form" (http://solomon.longwood.edu/media/human-resources/solomon/RELEASE_form04.05.doc), and "EEO Data Collection Form" (this form is voluntary) (<http://solomon.longwood.edu/media/human-resources/solomon/EEOFormrevJuly2012.pdf>) (Indicate position # F0018) to:

Human Resources
Longwood University
201 High Street
Farmville, VA 23909
Phone: 434-395-2074
Fax: 434-395-2666
Email: humres@longwood.edu

In compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Longwood University will provide, if requested, reasonable accommodations to applicants in need of accommodations in order to provide access to the application and/or interview process. You are not required to note the presence of a disability on your application. If, however, you require accommodations in the application and/or interview process, please contact the Office of Human Resources at 434-395-2074 or humres@longwood.edu.

The Annual Fire and Security Report(s) include campus security information, campus fire statistics, safety procedures, and provides statistics for criminal and disciplinary offenses. The report(s) are provided annually in compliance with the Clery Act and the Higher Education Opportunity Act (HEOA). Longwood University's Annual Safety and Security report and the Annual Fire Safety report is available at: <http://www.longwood.edu/media/police/solomon/2017-Annual-Security-and-Fire-Report.pdf>. A hard copy of the Annual Security and Fire Safety reports and/or a copy of the Fire Log are maintained at the Longwood Police Office and will be provided upon request.

A diversified workforce is an important part of our strategic plan. EOE/AA (09-20-18)

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4874

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow, James Madison Program, Princeton University

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2019 to June 30, 2020. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-19-POL-00004.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references;

* a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2018 for appointments beginning in September 2019. Awards will be announced in March 2019 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu

Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/20/2018

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 4866

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program, Princeton University

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2019 to September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education.

Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at <https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs> by December 1, 2018; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2019 or before. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4863

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral or more senior research positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas, in developing a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by Program/Center Directors and the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center, subject to approval by Program/Center/School Directors or Chairs.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from candidates who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, September 1, 2019. Applicants should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these and other areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2019, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application:

A complete application will include the following materials: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7461>

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Monday, November 12, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 15, 2018. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2019.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/12/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4853

Knox CollegeRank: Assistant Professor, Public Law*Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

Assistant Professor, Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full time, tenure track assistant professor in the area of Public Law beginning September 1, 2019.

We seek an energetic and creative scholar who adopts innovative approaches to teaching and research in a residential, liberal arts setting. Candidates should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law and other courses in the area of law and politics. Possibilities include: civil liberties, medical law, immigration law, race and the legal system, international law, and environmental law. Ability to teach political theory a plus. Knox College operates on a trimester system with three ten week terms. The candidate hired for this position will teach five courses a year over those three terms and serve as Knox's pre-law adviser. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the intellectual diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their research, teaching, and service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field expected at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates considered.

Interested applicants should submit:

Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy and research agenda,

Curriculum Vitae,

Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential,

Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence, Unofficial graduate transcripts,

An example of recent scholarship such as an article, book chapter, or conference paper.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at politicalsciencesearch@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 12, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights.

Start Date:Date Posted: 9/13/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4835California State University, Fullerton*Rank: Assistant Professor*Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

DIVISION OF POLITICS, ADMINISTRATION, AND JUSTICE

COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Political Theory

Tenure-Track

The Division of Politics, Administration, and Justice at California State University, Fullerton, invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory with appointment to begin Fall 2019. CSUF values and is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive community. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research, and/or service that they can contribute to the diversity and excellence of our community.

Position

The Division of Politics, Administration, and Justice at California State University, Fullerton is seeking candidates who will teach our undergraduate introductory political theory course (classics through modern), and seminars at the masters level on both classics and modern political philosophy, as well as elective courses in political theory. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas include democratic theory and critical theory, including race and feminist theory. Division faculty members are expected to develop courses in their areas of specialization. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to and participate in the life and development of the Division, advise students, serve on academic committees, and participate in the broader disciplinary community.

Qualifications

- Ph.D. in political theory or a related field. ABDs may apply but must show evidence that the degree will be completed by the appointment date.
- A strong record of scholarly accomplishments appropriate to the level of the appointment.
- Ability to balance excellent teaching, scholarship, and service.
- Experience in working collaboratively with colleagues and community
- Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.
- Ability to interact effectively with a wide and culturally diverse range of students including a large number of first-generation college students.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Rank and Salary

The positions will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, tenure-track. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Salary is subject to budgetary authorization and any California State University System faculty contract increases. Summer research grants, moving expenses, start-up funds, and a reduced teaching load may be available. An excellent comprehensive benefits package is available that includes health/vision/dental plans, spouse, domestic partner and dependent fee-waiver, access to campus childcare based on availability of openings, and a defined-benefit retirement through the state system along with optional tax sheltering opportunities. For a detailed description of benefits, go to http://hr.fullerton.edu/payroll_benefits/HealthCarePlans.php

Appointment Date

August 2019

Application Procedure

A complete on-line application/resume must be received by electronic submission in order to receive consideration. To apply, please go to: <https://apps.fullerton.edu/facultyrecruitment> to view all job listings and select 10688BR to begin the application process and provide the following materials:

1. letter of application in which you respond to the required qualifications
2. curriculum vitae
3. undergraduate and graduate transcripts
4. research statement in which you describe your research program and discuss how students can be incorporated into your research
5. reprints and preprints of publications and presentations
6. teaching portfolio including a teaching statement, course syllabi, and teaching evaluation summaries
7. a student success statement about your teaching experiences, as well as your commitment to teaching and working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)
8. three letters of recommendation (see instructions below)

On the References page of the online application, enter information and email addresses for three referents who will provide a confidential letter of reference for your application. They will immediately receive a request via email along with information on uploading the letter. You will be able to verify that each letter has been received by CSUF by logging back in to the recruitment system.

Please direct all questions about the position to: Shelly Arsneault at sarsneault@fullerton.edu or call 657-278-2456.

Application Deadline

Applications received by November 1, 2018 will be given full consideration. Expect on-campus interviews early in spring semester. Position is open until filled.

Multiple positions may be hired from this recruitment based on the strength of the applicant pool.

The persons holding these positions are considered 'mandated reporters' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment.

California State University Fullerton celebrates all forms of diversity and is deeply committed to fostering an inclusive environment within which students, staff, administrators and faculty thrive. Individuals interested in advancing the University's strategic diversity goals are strongly encouraged to apply. EEO employer. Reasonable accommodations will be provided for qualified applicants with disabilities who self-disclose.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4826

Glendon College, York University

Rank: Assistant Professor, political theory

The Department of Political Science, Glendon College, York University invites applications for a tenure-track professorial stream appointment in political theory at the Assistant Professor level, to commence July 1, 2019. A Ph.D. in Political Science in hand or near completion by July 1, 2019 is required. The successful candidate must show excellence or promise of excellence in teaching, scholarly research and publication, and service. The successful candidate must be fluent in English and French and be able to teach in both languages in a multicultural context.

Applicants should have an ongoing program of research in political theory. The successful candidate must be suitable for prompt appointment to the Faculty of Graduate Studies. The position will involve undergraduate teaching, research and service responsibilities, as well as graduate teaching and supervision. Pedagogical innovation in high priority areas such as experiential education and technology enhanced learning is preferred. Given Glendon's bilingual mandate, the selected candidate will also participate actively in College-wide service activities in both English and French.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

York U's bilingual Glendon Campus is home to Southern Ontario's Centre of Excellence for French Language and Bilingual Postsecondary Education. Glendon comprises about 2700 students on a scenic campus in the heart of the cosmopolitan city of Toronto. Glendon is committed to high-quality teaching in the tradition of the liberal arts and offers a unique undergraduate academic experience for students within one of Canada's largest research universities. For information about Glendon and its programs, please consult the Faculty webpage at <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>

York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. The AA program, which applies to Aboriginal people, visible minorities, people with disabilities, and women, can be found at <http://yorku.ca/acadjobs> or by calling the AA office at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify can do so by downloading, completing and submitting the forms found at: <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>. Please select the 'Affirmative Action' tab under which forms pertaining to Citizenship and AA can be found. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous peoples in Canada will be given priority.

The deadline for receipt of completed applications is November 18, 2018. An application letter with curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests, up to three representative publications if available, teaching evaluations, and at least three confidential letters of reference (at least one of which should address teaching) should be sent to Willem Maas, Chair, Political Science, Glendon College, York University, via email to polisci@glendon.yorku.ca with the subject heading "Political Theory".

**

Le Département de science politique du Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York, sollicite des candidatures pour un poste menant à la permanence dans le courant professoral en théorie politique au rang de professeur adjoint ou professeure adjointe, débutant le 1er juillet 2019. Les candidat(e)s doivent être titulaires d'un doctorat en science politique ou ce dernier doit être en voie d'achèvement au plus tard le 1er juillet 2019. La personne retenue doit faire preuve d'excellence, ou montrer des aptitudes prometteuses, en enseignement, recherche, publications et service. La personne retenue doit être bilingue (français-anglais), capable d'enseigner dans ces deux langues dans un environnement multiculturel.

Les candidat(e)s doivent avoir un programme de recherche en cours avec spécialisation dans le domaine de théorie politique. La personne retenue doit être rapidement admissible au titre de membre de la Faculté des études supérieures. Elle doit donner des cours de 1er cycle, enseigner et encadrer des étudiants et étudiantes des cycles supérieurs, ainsi que faire de la recherche. Elle doit être en mesure d'appliquer des méthodes pédagogiques innovantes dans des domaines prioritaires tels que l'éducation expérientielle et l'apprentissage assisté par la technologie. Compte tenu du mandat bilingue de l'établissement, la personne retenue devra participer aux services à la collectivité en français et en anglais.

Le salaire sera établi en fonction des qualifications et de l'expérience. Toutes les offres de poste à York sont sujettes à autorisation budgétaire de l'Université.

Le Campus bilingue Glendon de l'Université York a été désigné comme Centre d'excellence pour les études postsecondaires en français et bilingues dans le sud de l'Ontario. Le Campus Glendon de l'Université York, avec sa faculté bilingue (français-anglais), comprend environ 2 700 étudiants et est situé sur un campus pittoresque au cœur de la ville cosmopolite de Toronto. Glendon s'inscrit dans la tradition des arts libéraux et offre une expérience académique de 1er cycle sans pareil, dans une des plus grandes universités au Canada. Pour de plus amples renseignements sur ses programmes d'études, veuillez consulter le site Web de Glendon : <http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/>.

York est un employeur qui a adopté un programme d'action affirmative et préconise la diversité dans sa communauté, notamment celle de sexe. Le programme d'action affirmative s'applique aux autochtones, aux minorités visibles, aux personnes en situation de handicap et aux femmes. Pour plus de renseignements sur ce programme, veuillez consulter le site <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>, ou vous adresser au Bureau d'action affirmative au (416) 736-5713. Toutes les personnes qualifiées sont encouragées à poser leur candidature ; toutefois, la priorité sera accordée aux personnes de citoyenneté canadienne ou détenant le statut de résident permanent, et aux populations autochtones du Canada.

La date d'échéance de dépôt de candidature est le 18 novembre 2018. Les personnes intéressées doivent soumettre une lettre de motivation, un curriculum vitae, un énoncé sur les intérêts de recherche et d'enseignement, jusqu'à trois publications représentatives si disponibles, des évaluations de cours, au moins trois lettres de recommandation confidentielles (dont au moins une qui porte sur l'enseignement) à Willem Maas, Directeur, Département de science politique, Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York, par courriel à polisci@glendon.yorku.ca avec sujet «Théorie politique». Les candidat(e)s qui souhaitent indiquer leur appartenance à un groupe désigné peuvent le faire en téléchargeant et en soumettant le formulaire disponible sur le site :

<http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/>. Les formulaires relatifs à la citoyenneté et l'action affirmative se trouvent sous l'onglet Affirmative Action.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/18/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4823

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor in Constitutional Law and Political Theory

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory

Constitutional Law and Political Theory

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor focusing on Constitutional Law and Political Theory. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Philosophy, or related field, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. The successful candidate will offer a constitutional law sequence of courses in addition to contributions elsewhere in the curriculum. While we are open with regard to research and teaching interests in constitutional law and related areas, we would look especially favorably on candidates who focus on civil rights and civil liberties. The ability to teach courses in jurisprudence, gender and politics, or race and ethnic politics is strongly preferred as well. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2019.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 10:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ConLawSearch@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: Constitutional Law Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4824

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Theory

The University of California, Santa Barbara Department of Political Science seeks a scholar in Political Theory for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor effective July 1, 2019. We are open to scholars in all areas of Political Theory, but we are most interested in scholars who have an emphasis on theory which addresses environmental politics, such as environmental justice, or the politics of identity, two areas in which our department possesses strengths.

The minimum requirement to be considered an applicant is the completion of all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (or equivalent degree), except the dissertation, at the time of application, with a specialization in Political Theory/Political Philosophy. Ph.D. preferred. Applicants must demonstrate exceptional promise and a record of high achievement.

UCSB is the first Hispanic-Serving Institution in the American Association of Universities (AAU). The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service.

Completed applications received by October 17, 2018 will receive primary consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Applications must include a curriculum vitae, a research statement, unofficial graduate transcripts, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (or other evidence of teaching effectiveness), and three letters from academic references. All application materials should be submitted via UC Recruit: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF01314>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4827

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer/ Senior Lecturer in International Relations

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Political Theory

School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations

Wellington, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme is a growing programme that seeks to appoint three permanent Lecturers/Senior Lecturers in International Relations (equivalent to assistant/associate professor). All candidates with a strong background in any area of International Relations are encouraged to apply, but we are seeking especially candidates specialising in any of the following: International Political Economy, International Organizations, Human Rights, Security, and/or Environmental Politics. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidates should be able to teach into core courses in International Relations and to supervise postgraduate theses across a range of areas in the discipline. Please indicate on your application the area/s of specialisation you are applying for.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

This role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in International Relations; an active research profile; contributing to public engagement and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr Xavier Marquez, Head of Programme, Political Science and International Relations, email xavier.marquez@vuw.ac.nz phone +64 4 463 5889.

Applications close Monday, 15 October 2018 NZ time.

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For more information and to apply online visit <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/about/careers/current-vacancies>

Reference 2382.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4829

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2019-20. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7421>

The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/7/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4792

Brown University: Political Theory Project

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Political Theory Project (PTP) at Brown University will be appointing up to two Postdoctoral Research Fellows. PhD must have been received by July 2019 and within the previous three years. Salary is competitive.

Appointments are for two years. Postdoctoral fellows will pursue their own research, participate in PTP working groups, and teach one seminar course per year. In addition to a CV, three confidential letters of reference, and writing sample, applications should include a cover letter describing how their research fits within the mission of the PTP

Details about the Project's research and pedagogical missions can be found at www.politicaltheoryproject.org. Applications received by November 20, 2018 will be assured of full consideration.

In addition to a CV, three confidential letters of reference, and a writing sample, applications should include a cover letter describing how their research fits within the mission of the PTP.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4775

Northwestern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Urban Policy, Politics, and the Public

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

Specializations: Urban Politics, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Civil Rights & Liberties

Northwestern University's School of Education and Social Policy invites applicants for a tenure track faculty appointment in Human Development and Social Policy at the assistant, associate, or full professor level. We seek a scholar who specializes in urban policy and/or politics and their impact on society. We are especially interested in scholars who are interested in being in an interdisciplinary environment, and are open to scholars who use either quantitative, qualitative, or mixed methods. Possible areas of focus might include: city governance and social policymaking; criminal justice policy and practice; neighborhood segregation/integration; voter participation/representation in urban settings; juvenile justice and adolescent development; immigration and neighborhood change; poverty and inequality; inter-governmental relations; institutions, inequalities and organizational change in urban settings; the politics of race and ethnicity; or other areas relevant to urban policy or politics. To be considered at the rank of associate or full professor level, candidates must have a distinguished record of scholarship, and should have demonstrated ability to receive extramural support for their research agenda. The successful candidate will likely receive a renewable appointment in Northwestern's Institute for Policy Research as well. Scholars from all disciplines and applied fields are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in their substantive area of study.

Applicants should submit application materials electronically at this link: <https://facultyrecruiting.northwestern.edu/apply/MjYz>

- A letter outlining their research program and teaching experience
- Current CV
- Representative papers
- For those being considered at the assistant professor level -- three letters of reference, addressed to Professor James Spillane, Search Committee Chair. Candidates who would be considered at the associate or full professor level should provide the names of three potential references, but these references will not be contacted without the candidate's permission.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit their materials immediately as the search committee will begin reviewing applicants on October 19th, 2018.

Members of under-represented minority racial and ethnic groups and women are strongly urged to apply. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. For more information about the School of Education and Social Policy see www.sesp.northwestern.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/19/2018
Date Posted: 9/4/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4745

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track (Assistant Professor) positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2019.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 34 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should apply through Workday as instructed below. Applicants should submit the following material online through workday using the links below: a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, any available teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Applicants should also have three letters of reference submitted electronically to Professor William Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Our review of applications will begin on October 3, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

EXTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently are NOT a Texas A&M System employee please click below to go to our external career site to view our jobs. Go to External Career Site – https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Assistant-Professor_R-011658

INTERNAL APPLICANTS If you currently ARE a Texas A&M System employee: Go to Internal Career Site – <https://jobs.tamu.edu/internal-applicants/>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/3/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4759

University of Richmond

Rank: Tyler Haynes Professorship of Interdisciplinary Studies
Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

The University of Richmond Jepson School of Leadership Studies and School of Law invite nominations and applications for an endowed professorship to be shared between the two schools. We seek candidates with a distinguished record of scholarship and teaching, or a similarly distinguished record of public service, and we anticipate an appointment at the full professor level. The ideal candidate will have earned J.D. and Ph.D. degrees, although we are open to considering candidates who have one or the other. Our vision is for the Tyler Haynes Professor to conduct interdisciplinary research and teach in an interdisciplinary environment. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research interests lie in the criminal justice system, the Supreme Court, healthcare, housing, immigration, social welfare, education policy, or institutional design and analysis, although any area of interest with crossover appeal to law and leadership will be considered. Successful candidates will teach courses in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the School of Law.

Applications and inquiries may be directed to Sandra Peart and Jessica Erickson at hayneschair@richmond.edu. Candidates should attach a cover letter and curriculum vitae. In their cover letters, candidates should address how their scholarly and teaching interests, or record of public service, connect to the study of leadership and law. Cover letters should also specify how the applicant might contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion in the classroom.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and continuing studies. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies and provides a challenging liberal arts curriculum designed to educate students for, and about, leadership. The Law School offers a curriculum that combines sophisticated legal theory with opportunities to put theory into practice, equipping students with the knowledge and skills they need to make valuable contributions to the legal system. For additional information about the two schools, see <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> and <https://law.richmond.edu/>.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4750

University of Western Ontario
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Political Theory

Department of Political Science
 Faculty of Social Science
 Western University, London, Ontario, Canada

Political Theory

The Department of Political Science (www.politicalscience.uwo.ca), Faculty of Social Science at Western University invites applications for a probationary tenure-track position in the field of Political Theory with a starting date of July 1, 2019 (or as negotiated). We expect to hire at the rank of Assistant Professor, but applications from exceptional, experienced candidates at higher academic ranks will be considered.

We seek a candidate with substantive research interests in Global Justice or Democratic Engagement who is building an international research profile that will contribute to our existing strengths in these areas. The successful candidate must have completed their PhD in Political Science or a related field.

The successful candidate must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in research, teaching, and service. The candidate should be capable of supervising graduate student research, teaching graduate and undergraduate students, and securing external research grants. All faculty members are expected to participate in administrative committees at the level of the department, faculty, and/or university, including service external to the university.

Western University is a top-ranked research-intensive university. Situated in the Faculty of Social Science, the Department of Political Science offers full programs for undergraduate, MA, MPA, and PhD students. The Faculty of Social Science at Western is experiencing a period of significant faculty renewal having made over 35 hires over the last few years, with approximately 20 more hires anticipated. Since 1878, the Western experience has combined academic excellence with life-long opportunities for intellectual, social, and cultural growth in order to serve our communities. Western University delivers an academic experience second to none.

Applications should include the following:

- 1) application form (<http://www.uwo.ca/facultyrelations/pdf/careers/Faculty/Application-FullTime-Faculty-Position-Form.pdf>),
- 2) cover letter,
- 3) curriculum vitae,
- 4) statement of teaching and research interests,
- 5) copies of publications,
- 6) transcript,
- 7) the names and contact information for three referees,
- 8) employment authorization, if applicable.

This material should be sent to:

Professor Charles Jones, Chair
 Department of Political Science
 Western University
 Room 4154, Social Science Centre

London, Ontario, CANADA N6A 5C2
 EMAIL: polisci-recruitment@uwo.ca
 FAX: (519) 661-3904

Review of applications will commence on September 30, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Positions are subject to budget approval. Applicants should have fluent written and oral communication skills in English. The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Western is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, members of racialized groups/visible minorities, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, persons of any sexual orientation, and persons of any gender identity or gender expression.

In accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents.

Accommodations are available for applicants with disabilities throughout the recruitment process. If you require accommodations for interviews or other meetings, please contact Shannon Doyle at sdoyle3@uwo.ca or 519-661-2111, extension 85158.

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: 9/30/2018
Date Posted: 9/1/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4723

John Cabot University
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of International Affairs

Visiting Assistant Professor of International Affairs
 John Cabot University, a four year, fully-accredited American liberal arts college in Rome, Italy, invites applications for a visiting faculty position in political science and international affairs at the assistant professor rank. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, demonstrated excellence in teaching and research, and commitment to academic service. The candidate will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses in international relations. The ideal candidate should be a graduate of an American university or have experience in the American liberal arts educational tradition. The appointment is for one year, beginning January 1st, 2019, and with possibility of renewal. Candidates are expected to be fluent in English, which is the language of instruction, and have permission to work in the EU. Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, letters of recommendation, one or two research papers or journal publications, and evidence of teaching excellence to: plsearch-visiting@johncabot.edu. Review of applications will begin September 15th, 2018 and remain open until filled. Only short-listed applicants will be notified.

Start Date: Spring 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/31/2018
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 4746

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Stanford Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2019. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2019.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must submit a CV, a job market paper and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2018. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford also welcomes applications from others who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4756

University of Virginia

Rank: Political Theory (Open Rank)

Political Theory (Open Rank)
University of Virginia

The University of Virginia's Department of Politics invites applications for an open-rank, tenure-track position in Political Theory. Candidates will be expected to teach at the graduate and undergraduate levels and provide service to the University, Department and professional organizations. The anticipated appointment start date will be August 25, 2019.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to defend their dissertation by January 2019 and must hold a PhD in politics or a comparable field at the time of appointment. Applicants at the associate or full professor rank must hold a PhD at the time of application and must have an outstanding publication and teaching record. We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for, mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

Review of applications will begin on September 18, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

To apply, visit Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>) and search on posting number 0623822. Complete a candidate profile online that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

For questions about the application process, please contact Savanna Galambos at skh7b@virginia.edu.

The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

Applicants may also wish to consult the Faculty & Candidate Guide to UVA & Charlottesville <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>, which offers a wide range of resources on working at UVA and living in and near Charlottesville.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4720

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

The Political Science Department of the United States Naval Academy invites applications for tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in American Politics beginning August 2019. Application review will begin on 01 October 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

The U.S. Naval Academy is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching, research, and service. American Politics scholars with expertise in public policy; race, gender, and ethnicity; or political philosophy are encouraged to apply. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence, as well as a strong commitment to student advising and institutional service.

For more information about this position and how to apply please visit the USNA position announcement at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfessor-PolSciAY19.php>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4715

Northern Illinois UniversityRank: Assistant ProfessorSubfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, OtherSpecializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/22/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4662Northern Illinois University*Rank: Assistant ProfessorSubfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, OtherSpecializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/22/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4663

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Behavior

The Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science at Northern Illinois University anticipate hiring a tenure-track assistant professor in political science. Employment will begin August 2019. The position is open to applicants from any subfield of political science. Political Theory scholars, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Reflecting NIU's commitment to interdisciplinary collaboration in education and scholarship, the position will hold joint appointment status, but the tenure home will be the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of, or potential for, scholarly research and teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses that will contribute to the Black Studies Minor. An earned PhD in political science is required by the start date of the appointment. A demonstrated ability to serve a diverse student population is strongly preferred.

In particular, we seek faculty and staff who embrace NIU's mission of providing opportunity to a diverse student body by providing them with access to high quality education and hands-on involvement in research and community engagement. Experience teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds is highly preferred.

The Department of Political Science has 12 faculty members and offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. The Center has 13 faculty associates and faculty affiliates that work with the Black Studies Minor. For more information, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and <https://www.cbs.niu.edu/blackstudies/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, a welcoming and growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of more than 18,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,000.

Salary will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applicants must send a cover letter, which describes how their scholarship will contribute to the missions of both the Center for Black Studies and the Department of Political Science. In addition, a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, appropriate transcripts, and list of references should be submitted online at <http://employment.niu.edu/postings/36965>.

NIU is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. A pre-employment criminal background check is required.

Review of completed applications will begin on November 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4664

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

The Center for the Study of Liberal Democracy at the University of Wisconsin-Madison invites applications for a postdoctoral fellowship in political theory for the academic year running from August 20, 2019 to June 30, 2020. Housed in the Department of Political Science, the Center for the Study of Liberal Democracy promotes the study and critical appreciation of the cardinal principles and institutions of liberal democracy, including, but not limited to, constitutionalism and rule of law, the meaning and scope of freedom and free markets in a democratic order, the place and role of religion in liberal democracies, and the relationship between liberty and equality.

Eligible applicants must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. by the date of application, and no earlier than August 15, 2016. The fellow will receive a stipend of $48,000 per year as well as research funds and benefits. The fellow will teach one course per semester in either the Department of Political Science or the Integrated Liberal Studies program, will assist with the CSLD's programming, and will take an active part in the workshops, conferences, and intellectual life of the Center and the political theory field. The fellowship can be extended for the 2020-2021 academic year, and the appointment will begin in August 2019.

To apply please go to <https://csld.wisc.edu/postdoctoral-fellowship/>

Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future; and (4) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to intellectual life of the Center.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2019

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 4645

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Theory, Helen Houlahan Rigali Endowed Assistant Professorship

Helen Houlahan Rigali Endowed Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Theory

Department of Political Science, Loyola University Chicago

Job Title: Assistant Professor of Political Theory, Helen Houlahan Rigali Endowed Assistant Professorship

Background: Loyola University Chicago (LUC), College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, entry-level, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2019. The department seeks candidates with expertise in Political Theory. The Helen Houlahan Rigali endowed position provides $5,000 annually in research funds for a maximum of six years. The successful candidate will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: In addition to publishing quality scholarship, the Helen Houlahan Rigali Endowed Assistant Professor position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as an occasional graduate course in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The candidate will be expected to teach courses in the subfield of Political Theory, including an introductory Political Theory course.

Qualifications: The successful candidate is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Candidates for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Candidates should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three recommendations or evaluations from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

Claudio Katz, Professor and Search Committee Co-Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by September 30, 2018.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity - including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment - is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically assessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4600

Hamilton College

Rank: Visiting Professor
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The Government Department at Hamilton College invites applications for a two-year visiting position with possibility for renewal for an additional two years, at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor. Teaching load is four courses per year for the first year and five courses per year after. This position covers American politics, public policy, and political theory. Candidates may be from any field but must be able to teach courses from at least two of the three areas listed. Applicants who research the impact of digital technologies or incorporate innovative digital technologies into their research and teaching are especially encouraged to apply. We are seeking candidates who can demonstrate their experience in teaching or working with diverse student populations. Your cover letter should address the ways in which you would further the College's goal of building a diverse educational environment.

Appointment begins July 1, 2019. ABD or Ph.D. required Please submit a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, a list of courses you are prepared to teach, evidence of teaching performance, and arrange for submission of three letters of recommendation to Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53422>. We will begin consideration of applications on December 1. Applicants with questions or wishing to be interviewed at the APSA should contact Philip Klinkner, Chair, Government Department, Hamilton College (govsrch@hamilton.edu).

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings at www.higheredcareers.com, as well as additional information at <https://www.hamilton.edu/offices/dof/faculty-support-resources/resources-for-prospective-or-newfaculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners> (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community. Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from underrepresented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualifications
ABD or Ph.D. required.

Start Date: Summer 2019
Application Deadline: 12/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/15/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4601

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Policy

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8001>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. Teaching and research statements are optional. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00001
Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4565

University of California, Irvine

Rank: 2018-19 Political Science Lecturer Pool (Theory Focus)

The Department of Political Science is seeking applicants for temporary part-time lecturer positions to teach in the field of Political Theory contingent on departmental need. These positions will replace faculty on leave during the 2018-19 academic year.

Requirements - We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who might contribute to our undergraduate program in Political Theory. Candidates should have a Ph.D.

These part-time positions are based on an annual salary range beginning at $54,738 and the number of courses could vary.

Service Period Dates for 2018-2019 Academic Year:

Fall Quarter: 9/24/18 – 12/14/18

Winter Quarter: 1/2/19 - 3/22/19

Spring Quarter: 3/27/19 – 6/14/19

Application Procedure - Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching performance, and a Statement of Contributions to Diversity via our online recruit system: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04846>

Priority for positions will be given to applications completed by October 1st, 2018. Please note this is a continuous recruitment to fill classes on an as-needed basis. The department will refer to the pool of applications on file to fill assignments as necessary.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 3/17/2019

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4516

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Formal Theory / Political Economy for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. The applicant should demonstrate advanced skills in analytical reasoning and formal modeling (including but not limited to game theory), as well as a strong applied focus in at least one subfield. The successful candidate will be able to convey their insights to an audience that does not necessarily have extensive formal training but that is interested in the ideas as applied to a well-defined substantive problem. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01847>) for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Formal Theory / Political Economy).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4522

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics)

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California, San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics for appointment at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2019. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: quantitative methods, formal theory, analytic political philosophy, or modelling. Successful candidates should hold a PhD by start date of appointment.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Successful candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing contributions, and/or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (further information this statement can be found at <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-info.asp>).

All materials should be submitted via UCSD RECRUIT at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01840> for position: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Race, Ethnicity, and Politics).

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4523

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Theory

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track faculty positions in Political Theory beginning fall semester 2019 (08/26/19). We seek outstanding colleagues committed to scholarly research and teaching at the highest level, and we especially welcome applications from underrepresented groups.

We seek candidates who are deeply conversant in the history of Western political theory, and can teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels that draw upon this canon.

Further, we seek candidates who will advance the substantive commitment of the department's strategic plan: to investigate "democracy under threat" across its multiple dimensions (please see below). We are most interested in work that, in a sustained manner, draws upon global historical knowledge to understand contemporary threats to democracy (such as resurgent authoritarianism, legitimization crises of contemporary liberal democratic institutions, crises of political economy and/or late capitalism, racialized politics and inequalities, etc.). Such candidates will also be committed to addressing issues of political theory as they present themselves as problems that arise in contemporary global settings. Scholars using approaches such as feminist theory, queer theory, critical race theory, and/or who focus on such issues as justice and injustice, inequality, or global migration are of special interest.

We also seek candidates who share the department's ongoing commitment to study the intersection of power, equity, and diversity and its effect on social science inquiry. Finally, we value candidates who actively place their research in dialogue with other subfields in political science, the social sciences and humanities, and with the broader university community and public.

More information regarding the department's strategic plan can be found at <https://cla.umn.edu/polisci/news-events>, under the announcement for this search.

Appointments will be 100% time over the nine-month academic year (late-August to late-May), and will be made at the rank of tenure-track assistant professor, consistent with collegiate and university policy. Salary is competitive, and dependent on qualifications and experience.

Qualifications:

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in political science or related field is required. Advanced ABD's may be considered for appointment at the rank of tenure-track instructor, with the stipulation that the Ph.D. is conferred in the first year of the appointment.

Preferred Qualifications:

College/university-level teaching experience is preferred.

Candidates will be evaluated according to (a) overall quality of their academic preparation and scholarly work, (b) contribution of their scholarly research to the department's academic priorities and fields of inquiry, (c) evidence of commitment to teaching and skills as a teacher, and (d) strength of recommendations.

Duties / Responsibilities:

Faculty in the Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts are expected to maintain an active research program, teach and advise undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute service appropriate for the rank of appointment to the department, college, University, and profession.

The Standards for Promotion and Tenure in the Department of Political Science are available at: <https://faculty.umn.edu/sites/faculty.umn.edu/files/polsci.pdf>

For information on faculty workload guidelines and principles in the College of Liberal Arts, visit:

<https://sites.google.com/a/umn.edu/cla-intranet/ofaa/resources/workload-principles--guidelines>

About the Department / College / University:

The Department of Political Science is committed to excellence in graduate and undergraduate education and to the conduct of leading social science research. For further information, please visit the department website, <http://cla.umn.edu/polisci>.

Established in 1868, the College of Liberal Arts supports the University of Minnesota's land-grant mission as home to disciplines in the arts, humanities, and social sciences. The College of Liberal Arts is committed to intellectual freedom, the pursuit of new knowledge, and the belief that the liberal arts are the foundation of academic learning. CLA prepares students to be independent and original thinkers, innovators in their chosen fields; to create meaning in their lives and in their life's work; and to become productive citizens and leaders in their communities and the world. The College of Liberal Arts values diverse cultures, experiences, and perspectives as key to innovation and excellent education. www.cla.umn.edu

Founded in 1851, the University of Minnesota, with its five campuses and more than 65,000 students, is one of the largest, most comprehensive universities in the United States, and ranks among the most prestigious research universities in the world. It is both a major research institution, with scholars of national and international reputation, and a state land-grant university, with a strong tradition of education and public engagement.

The University recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting the academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds.

The University of Minnesota provides equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. To learn more about diversity at the U: <http://diversity.umn.edu>.

Application Instructions:

Apply online through the University of Minnesota's Job Center: <http://www1.umn.edu/ohr/employment/index.html>

- Job Opening ID: 325614
- Job Posting Title: Assistant Professor (Political Science: Political Theory)
- Job Code: 9403
- Jobs Posted Within: Last Three Months (or greater)

- Keyword(s): Political Science

Applications must be submitted online. To be considered for this position, please click the APPLY button and follow the instructions. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position, and attach a cover letter and C.V. Additional documents must be attached to your "My Activities" page, and can be attached after submission of the application by exiting and re-entering the Job Center, accessing your "My Activities" page (in the top list of hyperlinks), and uploading documents there.

The following required materials must be attached to your online application:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Writing sample (in the candidate's central area of research)
4. Brief statement of research interests
5. Brief statement of teaching philosophy and interests

Additional materials may be requested from candidates at a future date.

In addition to the electronically-submitted materials, candidates are asked to arrange for at least THREE letters of recommendation to be sent directly to the department.

The letters of recommendation may be emailed to psearch@umn.edu, or mailed to:

Political Theory Search Committee
Attn: Alexis Cuttance
Department of Political Science
University of Minnesota-Twin Cities
267 19th Avenue South, Room 1414
Minneapolis, MN 55455

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1st, 2018. However, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

For questions about the position, please contact the Department of Political Science, at (612) 624-4144.

For questions about the application process, or to request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Any offer of employment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Our presumption is that prospective employees are eligible to work here. Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify finalists from employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4502

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Political Theory. The appointment begins in August 2019. Successful candidates must demonstrate a research focus in contemporary political theory. We are particularly interested in candidates with specialization in one of the following areas: race and inequality, non-Western or indigenous political thought, post-colonial theory, or democratization. Priority will be given to candidates whose research and teaching interests complement those of our existing political science faculty without duplicating those of our political theory faculty. The position requires teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels, including contributing to the teaching of our large, introductory lecture course in political theory and advising PhD students.

Applications received by October 1, 2018 will receive priority consideration. We will continue screening applications until the position is filled. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://jobs.colorado.edu/jobs/JobDetail/?jobId=12292>, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See https://jobs.colorado.edu/jobs/JobDetail/Assistant-Professor-Political-Theory/12292? for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/6/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4499

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professorship(s)

We invite applications for one or more positions as Assistant Professor at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are offered as tenure-track Assistant Professorships. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Assistant Professor are:

- Research within the field of politics and international relations
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students
- Administrative tasks
- Knowledge sharing with the rest of the society

An assistant professorship is a further-education post. Supervision as well as pedagogical training is provided. The position(s) will be covered by the tenure track programme at the University of Copenhagen. The programme offers tenure-track candidates a contract of six years that can result in a tenured associate professorship. For additional information about assistant professorships, tenure-track assistant professorships and the Job Structure for Academic Staff at the University, see: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/career-at-upch/> and: <http://employment.ku.dk/tenure-track/tenure-track-at-ucph/>

Emphasis will be put on the applicant's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the Department through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching, disseminate knowledge and make a knowledge-based societal impact. An assistant professor is expected to develop competences and experience within research, teaching and dissemination. In time, the assistant professor should develop competences to attract funding within his or her specialist area.

Qualifications

To be qualified for the position the applicant must have a PhD in Political Science or equivalent academic qualifications as well as:

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced primarily by a well-received PhD dissertation and an emerging international reputation based on a publication profile that complements the existing research strengths of the Department
- A commitment to contribute to the delivery of an excellent student experience based on a track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates, who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

We will expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Professor Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Phone: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4453

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Professorships in Political Science

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

We invite applications for one or more positions as Full Professor or fixed-termed Professor with Special Responsibilities at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of the Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Professor or Professor with Special Responsibilities (MSO) are:

- Research within the field of Political Science
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, post-graduate and PhD students
- Administrative tasks related to the position as Professor or Professor with Special Responsibilities
- Knowledge sharing with wider society
- Research and teaching management
- Fundraising

Applicants for a full professorship must be able to document a very high degree of original scholarly production at international level and have a highly recognised international reputation. Applicants for a MSO professorship must have the potential to make progress in the subject area and being able to document original scholarly production at an international level. The position is established to appoint particular talent, preferable younger researcher to develop a subject area full of perspectives at an international level.

In addition to the general professorial duties, the position as Professor with Special Responsibilities includes special responsibilities to make a specific contribution to realising the Department's strategic goals by either increasing societal impact or innovation in teaching by including problem-solving competences or internationalization.

Qualifications

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by a recognized international reputation in Political Science or a relevant subfield and demonstrated by a considerable number of existing high-quality publications, which constitute a significant contribution to the field and complements the existing research strengths of the Department. Publications should be published on a continuous basis in top-ranked journals and/or a highly influential publication record with leading book publishers.
- A commitment to contribute to the delivery and further development of an excellent student experience based on a significant track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates, who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Proven ability to provide leadership of research groups as well as an ability to operate in leadership roles at the Departmental, Faculty and University levels.
- The ability and willingness to attract external funding on a larger scale and to lead research projects.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Tel: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk.

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4451

Portland State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science in the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government at Portland State University seeks applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory beginning Fall 2019. A Ph.D. in political science or a related field must be completed by September 1, 2019.

The position is open with regard to subfield specialization within Political Theory, although we are particularly interested in candidates whose expertise complements existing strengths within the department, school, and university. Teaching responsibilities will include a broad range of topics in political theory, including the normative foundations of governance and ethics in public policy, with specific courses to reflect the candidate's strengths.

The position includes teaching and advising responsibilities in the undergraduate and master's degree programs in Political Science as well as the Master's of Public Policy and interdisciplinary doctoral program in Public Affairs and Policy.

Portland State's 49-acre downtown campus is located in the heart of one of America's most vibrant centers of culture, business and technology. We are recognized throughout the world for programs like Urban Planning, Social Work, and Environmental Studies that directly engage the community, and aim our students towards the creation of a better, more sustainable world.

The Mark O. Hatfield School of Government is part of the College of Urban and Public Affairs, and faculty members are encouraged to participate in inter-disciplinary scholarship within the college.

Please submit:

letter of application(cover letter),
curriculum vitae,
graduate transcripts (upload under "Other-2"), writing sample (e.g. article, book chapter, conference paper, etc) and, teaching evaluations (upload under 'Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness') .

Please list the names, telephone numbers and email addresses for three professional references. As soon as you submit your application, your references will be emailed a link to upload their letters of recommendation.

For more details, and to submit your application, please visit <https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/27332>

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. If you have questions, please contact the Political Science department at polisci@pdx.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/2/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4484

Bogazici University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

New: Open Faculty Positions

The Political Science and International Relations Department at Bogazici University in Istanbul Turkey is seeking highly qualified applicants for two tenure-track assistant professor positions. One position is for International Relations and the other is an open call.

Interested applicants should submit all the relevant materials in electronic form, including a CV, a statement of research agenda, a sample of their scholarly work and teaching records to: BUPolsjobapp@boun.edu.tr

Candidates can consult our website (www.pols.boun.edu.tr) for more information about the department.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 4213

Occidental College

Rank: Associate Professor in Global Political Economy/Development Practice

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Economic Policy

A search at the Associate Professor level in Global Political Economy/Development Practice. The expectation is that after a transitional period (commensurate with experience) this hire will serve as the Young Initiative Chair on the Global Political Economy, directing the use of its generously endowed fund.

We are looking for applicants who have powerfully demonstrated an ambitious research and practice agenda that can be translated into innovative Young Initiative programming (current Young programming includes both working with the Los Angeles mayor's office to integrate the Sustainable Development Goals into city-wide policies and initiatives in the field of Social Entrepreneurship). We are particularly interested in applicants whose research and practice agenda focuses on areas such as the Sustainable Development Goals; Human Rights-based Approaches to Economic Development; and/or Equity/Equality in Economic Development (with reference to race, class, identity, and/or gender). Priority will be given to applicants who have demonstrated a research and practice that leverages substantial fieldwork with international or regional organizations, transnational NGOs, and/or entities working in major urban cities or in a regional context. The eventual hire will be expected to teach at least one class that will be cross-listed with the Economics Department, and thus will need to demonstrate sufficient training in economics to teach such a course with attention to requisite mixed quantitative/qualitative methods. An expectation will be that an eventual hire will immediately catalyze Occidental College's continued engagement with on-the-ground work in international affairs, at the local/Los Angeles, transnational, and/or global levels. An additional priority is the ability to advance the College's mission, past evidence of and future plans for creating equitable opportunities in learning and mentoring for underrepresented students, an understanding of the distinctiveness of the Liberal Arts culture, and a commitment to constructively engage with faculty from other disciplines, e.g. (but not exclusively) Economics, Politics, Urban and Environmental Studies. Further, we expect the new faculty member will augment and invigorate the DWA department by collaborating with its existing faculty, ongoing initiatives, and continued curricular innovations.

The John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy is funded through a bequest from John Parke Young '17, a distinguished international economist, former chair of the college's Economics Department, and a 50-year member of the Occidental board of trustees. The Young Initiative has enabled faculty and student research and international opportunities at Occidental with the aim to promote national policies and actions of public and social benefit.

Occidental College is a highly selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Chamnan Lim at youngsearch@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter that details the interest in teaching at Occidental and the goals of the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy; (2) potential initiatives as part of the Young Initiative committee and as its eventual Chair; (3) a discussion of the applicant's academic research, field practice, teaching experience, and program development; (4) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes a discussion of demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for underrepresented students; (5) a list and brief descriptions of courses the applicant could teach at Oxy; (6) scholarly work sample; (7) Curriculum Vitae; and (8) three confidential letters of recommendation, with at least one attesting to your teaching; letters must be sent by recommenders.

All materials are due no later than October 1, 2018; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semifinalists will be held via videoconference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. For information on the John Parke Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy, please visit our website at: <https://www.oxy.edu/john-parke-young-initiative-global-political-economy>. Inquiries about the position, the DWA department, and/or the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy can be directed to the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy Interim Chair, Professor Anthony Tirado Chase: achase@oxy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4470

The New School

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Politics Department at The New School for Social Research and Eugene Lang College seeks to appoint a political theorist, for a tenure track position at the assistant professor level, subject to budgetary approval.

We seek candidates with a strong background in the history of political thought and with promise of excellence in research as well as teaching.

We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated, historically sensitive, and politically critical and who are committed to engaging with colleagues outside the theory subfield.

We aim to appoint someone with broad interests and a lively mind, who can contribute to cross-field discussions in a politics department committed to blurring subfield divisions; to interdisciplinary debate in a graduate division dedicated to critically-oriented social science, philosophy and history; and to collegial life in an innovative liberal arts college dedicated to seminar teaching.

While we expect a strong background in the history of political thought, we are especially interested in candidates whose primary focus is on theoretical approaches and questions linked to contemporary political problems—for example, race, indigeneity, colonialism, imperialism/capitalism, domination, intersectionality, borders, globalization, transnationalism, international law; and environmental issues.

The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is July 1, 2019. Applicants apply on-line using the faculty application on The New School human resources website <http://careers.newschool.edu/postings/16212/>. Using this online system, applicants should submit 1) a letter of intent, 2) a CV, 3) a list of references, and 4) a piece of recent research. Applicants should have the PhD completed by the time of their contract start date.

Information about The New School for Social Research, Eugene Lang College, and the Politics Department can be found at: <http://www.newschool.edu/nssr/>, <http://www.newschool.edu/lang/>, and <http://www.newschool.edu/nssr/politics/>.

Benefits: Comprehensive university benefits package including health and retirement plans, tuition remission. Visit <http://www.newschool.edu/admin/hr/benefits/index.html>

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4460

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant professor in Political Theory starting August 2019. Duties include teaching and mentoring at the graduate and undergraduate levels and the publishing of original research in professional outlets.

Minimum Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or be ABD with a terminal degree transcript on file no later than nine months from appointment date.

Preferred Qualifications:

Candidates should have a demonstrated potential for excellence in scholarship and teaching.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, a recent publication or research-related writing sample, teaching evaluations (if available), original transcripts, and a list of three letter writers, who will separately provide letters of recommendation (in electronic form) to the UGA Job site at <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/27800>. Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications received by September 28th, 2018 will receive full consideration, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

For more information about the department, visit <http://spia.uga.edu/department-of-political-science/>.

Athens is well known for its quality of life including both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The Department of Political Science is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area, in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR. Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

Contact:

Wendi Finch

Email:

wendif@uga.edu

Phone:

706-542-2057

Fax:

706-542-4421

Address:

180 Baldwin Hall

Athens GA, 30602-1615

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4427

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

Specializations: American Politics, Gender Politics & Policy, African American Politics

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in political theory, beginning August 2019. Responsibilities include teaching ten to twelve credit hours a semester (typically two or three sections of an undergraduate introductory American government survey and one or two undergraduate upper level courses per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year, student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, profession, and community. While subfield specialization is open within political theory, we would particularly welcome candidates who could teach courses in African-American political theory, gender and political theory and/or constitutional law. Evidence of productive scholarship or research potential is necessary. Successful candidates will demonstrate teaching excellence as instructor of record.

Ph.D. in Political Science is required; advanced ABD will be considered with evidence of degree completion by start date. Experience teaching an introductory American Government survey will be preferred.

The University of South Carolina Aiken (USC Aiken) is a comprehensive university within the University of South Carolina system. As a comprehensive institution with a focus on the liberal arts and sciences, it offers undergraduate and master's degrees in 47 programs of study. With a 15:1 student/faculty ratio, USC Aiken is committed to active learning through excellence in teaching, undergraduate research, scholarship, and civic engagement. As a result, USC Aiken is ranked the #1 public regional college in the South by U.S. News & World Report's guide "America's Best Colleges." 2018 marks USC Aiken's 20th consecutive ranking among the top three colleges in this category and its 13th time in first place. USCA is also a recipient of The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Best Place to Work" designation, with special recognition for collaborative governance, and has also been designated a Military-Friendly School by Victory Media, Best for Vets by the Military Times, and a Top School in Military Advanced Education & Transition's 2016 Guide to Colleges & Universities.

Founded in 1961, USC Aiken is situated on 453 acres, with an enrollment of approximately 3,500 students from 29 states and 23 countries. The campus is located one hour from Columbia (SC), thirty minutes from Augusta (GA) and within three hours of Charleston (SC), Atlanta (GA), Charlotte (NC), Hilton Head (SC), and the Appalachian Mountains. Learn more about USC Aiken at www.usca.edu.

Applicants must complete the online application and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts, and a statement of teaching philosophy. Applicants will be asked to provide contact information for three professional references.

Please direct questions to Matthew Thornburg or David Dillard-Wright, search committee co-chairs, at matthewth@usca.edu or davididd@usca.edu. Additional materials may be sought from some candidates as the search progresses.

APPLY AT: <https://usjobs.sc.edu/postings/34044>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/30/2018
Date Posted: 7/25/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4432

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Economy, Political Thought: Historical

James Madison College at Michigan State University seeks to fill an Assistant Professor Tenure-Stream position in political economy and political theory with a focus on state and marketplace interaction and the history of modern commercial democracy. The position fills a commitment to infuse economics training with a major that focuses on modern constitutional democracy (its origins, practice, critics, and defenders) from the perspective of political philosophy. It also contributes to our Political Economy minor. Potential areas of research and teaching focus include feminist theory, religion and economics, family and gender issues in the workplace, and federalism, as such issues complement the study of constitutional structure and modern capitalism.

Successful candidates will have demonstrated ability to teach courses on state and market interaction as well as core courses in the history of political thought. Applicants should demonstrate commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching in an interdisciplinary program and to achieving a substantial record of scholarship. Ph.D. in a related field is required by time of appointment.

Interested candidates must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Applicant Tracking System at: <https://careers.msu.edu>. Please see posting number 518407 for complete instructions on how to apply. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018. Please contact Lynn Lee (leely@msu.edu) with any questions.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal opportunity employer. MSU is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/15/2018
Date Posted: 7/23/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4414

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Political Theory)

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in political theory, with a broad interest in candidates working in the periods of medieval, Renaissance, and early modern thought, as well as in the areas of state theory, religion and politics, and the history of Continental political thought. The department has a strong record of research and teaching in the history of political thought, broadly conceived, and applications are encouraged from scholars whose work speaks to this tradition.

A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and Ph.D.-level offerings.

The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11429>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Shannon Stimson (ss3491@georgetown.edu). For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive by September 21, 2018, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/21/2018

Date Posted: 7/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4389

Utah State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Utah State University
Department of Political Science
Assistant Professor of Political Theory

Position: The Department of Political Science at Utah State University invites applications for a nine-month tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2019. We seek to fill a position in political theory. While the area of specialization is open, expertise in the study of the leading texts of Western political thought in addition to an emphasis on early modern and American political thought would be welcome. The salary is competitive.

The position is available beginning August 1, 2019. Application review will begin September 28, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will conduct research and teach courses in political theory. Teaching responsibilities will include Master's and lower and upper division undergraduate courses in their areas of specialization. Responsibilities will include a primary role in research along with strong undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service. Performance will be consistent with a faculty role in a Carnegie Doctoral/Research Extensive University.

Minimum Qualifications:

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a strong research profile in political theory. Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Political Science or a comparable field of study as of employment date, and demonstrated accomplishment and/or clear potential for success in research as well as undergraduate and graduate teaching in these specialties. They must also generate a satisfactory outcome on a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:

Preference will be given to those with a strong research trajectory and demonstrated interest in teaching courses of need to the department.

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications and experience, plus excellent benefits.

Academic Setting:

The Political Science Department at USU is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The Department offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, Law and Constitutional Studies, and International Studies. It also offers a political science Master's degree. Additionally, the department provides service courses or general education to students throughout the broader university community.

Utah State University is a land-grant university founded in 1888. The university is a Carnegie Doctoral land-grant university of higher research activity with approximately 27,000 students (24,000 undergraduates and 3,000 graduate students) from all 50 states and 80 foreign countries. The USU campus is located in Logan, Utah. Logan is located in a picturesque mountain valley with a population of over 100,000, about 80 miles north of Salt Lake City. Ski resorts, lakes, rivers, and mountains in the area make it one of the finest outdoor recreation environments in the nation. Visit <http://www.usu.edu> for more information about the University, College, and Department.

Applications should be submitted through the online application link: <http://jobs.usu.edu>.

Please attach:

- 1) a cover letter;
- 2) curriculum vitae;
- 3) The names and email addresses of three references (your references will be sent an email from USU asking them to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf).
- 4) a professional writing sample;
- 5) a statement of teaching philosophy and, if available, evidence of teaching performance.
- 6) recent transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4374

Hobart & William Smith Colleges

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: American Politics, Political Development, Presidency

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics and American political thought at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2019. Ph.D. preferred, advanced ABD considered. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

The ideal candidate will be able to teach introductory classes in both American politics and political theory. We are interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses in American political thought and American political development. Additional teaching and research areas might include power and the American presidency; religion and religious movements in US politics; fear and authoritarianism in US politics; and rural and/or labor politics. The successful candidate's work will be informed by theoretical and historical perspectives on questions important to the understanding of power and politics in the United States.

Research and teaching in our department is not confined within the conventional subfields. The department values intellectual diversity and supports a wide range of critical and theoretical approaches that help bring people together across subfields as they address questions of power of ever-pressing importance. The department also supports interdisciplinarity in teaching and research in keeping with the Colleges' longstanding emphasis on interdisciplinary liberal arts education. We encourage the creative development of new questions, lines of inquiry, and vectors of critique. The department seeks candidates that have demonstrated a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Applications received by September 15, 2018, will be given first consideration, but we will continue to review applications until the position is filled.

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a statement explaining how your skills and experience support the campus' commitment to diversity. Please arrange to have three letters of reference sent via Interfolio. Additional inquiries can be directed to Professor Jodi Dean, Search Chair, at jdean@hws.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4266

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Political Science of the Higher School of Economics in Moscow*, Russia invites applications for multiple full-time, tenure track position in political science. The search is open with respect to subfield and topic of specialization, but we are particularly interested in candidates specializing in one or more of the following areas: political theory, comparative politics, international politics, global political economy, qualitative methodology, or data analysis and quantitative methods. Knowledge of Russian is not required as teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Requirements

Doctorate or terminal degree in political science or related fields by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2019 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Tenure review will be in the sixth year (or earlier at the discretion of the applicant).

Knowledge of Russian is not required; teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Benefits

The salary is internationally competitive, indexed to inflation annually, and subject to a 13% flat income tax. The university offers health insurance (free of charge), language assistance, and other social benefits; travel support and other research assistance are generous. Since we place a heavy emphasis on high quality research, the teaching load of newly hired faculty is relatively low and service is minimal.

Job Location

Moscow, Russia

Application

Position announcements are posted on the HSE International Faculty Recruitment portal.

Interested candidates should post a letter detailing the direction of research and teaching objectives, a CV, a recent research paper, and 2 letters of recommendation via online application form at <https://iri.hse.ru/>

Application deadline is September 1, 2018.

Late applications can be also considered if the position is not filled.

Learn More

More information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en>

More information about the School of Political Science: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps>

More information about recruitment procedures: <https://iri.hse.ru/> International Faculty Support portal with detailed information on various issues concerning move to Russia and work at HSE: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru>

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities in the fields of economics, social sciences and humanities, and has emerged as a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was ranked 48th in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and is among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

One of its unique features has been its direct involvement in socioeconomic reforms in Russia, which has allowed HSE to develop as a "project and research university" where education, fundamental and applied research, and "think tank" activities are combined for the comprehensive development of society. Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has more than 30 international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world.

Since 2006 the HSE has been recruiting professional academics from international research universities in order to raise the standards of research at the University. HSE now employs more than 100 international tenure-track and postdoctoral fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and centers in Moscow and at HSE's campuses in St. Petersburg and Perm.

School of Political Science

The School of Political Science offers an array of educational options for students from Russia and abroad. We teach a full range of subjects based on the latest developments in academic research in political science. From comparative politics to political theory and quantitative and qualitative approaches, the professors of the School pursue research across the entire spectrum of modern political science.

Not only is there methodological diversity; there is considerable breadth in terms of substantive and geographic specializations. Among the School's academic "trademarks" are comparative politics and Russian politics, including politics in the Russian regions.

The quality of research at Higher School of Economics has already been widely recognized, and HSE counts among the top-100 universities in the world according to the QS ranking in this subject field.

Contact Information

Address: 20 Myasnitskaya ulitsa, Moscow, 101000

Phones:

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22535

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22428

+7.495.772.95.90 * 22834

E-mail: socscience@hse.ru

Website: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/1/2018

Date Posted: 5/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4225

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

University of North Texas

Rank: Open Rank Search in Political Theory

We invite applications for an open-rank position beginning fall 2018 in the broadly defined field of the history of political theory. We are interested in prospective candidates who specialize in Medieval, early modern/Enlightenment, or 19th/20th century German (post-rationalist) thought. An additional strength in non-Western thought, such as Islamic or Chinese political thought, is considered an advantage.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science, (2) evidence of excellence in scholarly productivity, and (3) evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching and mentoring students in independent activities. Preference will be given to candidates who have published books and/or articles in top-tier journals.

The successful candidate will have responsibilities that may include but are not limited to teaching core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continuing a record of robust scholarly research, directing graduate research in the Theory field, and providing service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 25 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Political Science Education, and is the current home of Religion and Politics. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site is: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With 37,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) two published writing samples, (5) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (6) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquires to Richard Ruderman, search committee chair (Richard.Ruderman@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 18, 2017 and will remain open until the position is closed. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3400

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Humboldt State University

Rank: Faculty Tenure-Track - Department of Politics

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Faculty Tenure-Track - Department of Politics

Humboldt State University

Vacancy Announcement

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2019

Department of Politics

JOB #1920-11

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty, staff, and administrators of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state

DESCRIPTION:Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher and scholar of global politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS:We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with considerable progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- Evidence of, or potential for, effective teaching using a variety of methodologies;
- Commitment to and/or experience fostering a learning environment that supports individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- Evidence of commitment to equity and inclusion in pedagogy and curricula;
- Evidence of, or potential for, scholarly productivity in the field of global politics;
- Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;
- Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.) and willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

Experience with first year student learning communities or other first year initiatives is preferred.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty Immigration Resources page: <https://extended.humboldt.edu/international-programs/immigration/faculty>.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

Professional Duties: At HSU, teaching effectiveness is essential for faculty retention, tenure, and promotion. Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong record of scholarship. Instructional assignments are expected to include introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations. We anticipate that candidates will also teach some combination of upper-division courses in our Global Politics concentration, on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, global governance, political economy, foreign policy, or a course focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; scholarship; and service to the University, profession and to the community. Related responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions including assessment of learning. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first two years of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

General Information: The Department of Politics is strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. We offer our majors three distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." For more information, please visit: politics.humboldt.edu

Application: Qualified candidates should submit the following materials through Interfolio:

Click here to apply: <http://apptkr.com/1299595>

- Letter of application;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Sample of scholarly work, such as a journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter;
- Statement of teaching philosophy;
- Sample syllabi;
- Teaching evaluations (if available);
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- Three letters of recommendation.

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #1920-11.

Additional application materials may be requested at a later time.

Please direct any questions pertaining to this position, the Department of Politics, or Humboldt State University to:

Dr. Noah Zerbe, Search Committee Chair

Department of Politics

Humboldt State University

One Harpst Street

Arcata, California 95521-8299

Phone (707) 826-4494

Email: <mailto:globalpoliticssearch@humboldt.edu>

Application Deadline: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 31, 2018. Early response is encouraged.

See more photos at Humboldt State University's Flickr page.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU. Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'limited reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017 are subject to a 10 year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or <mailto:hsuhr@humboldt.edu>.

HSU is committed to enriching its educational environment and its culture through the diversity of its staff, faculty, and administration. Persons with interest and experience in helping organizations set and achieve goals relative to diversity and inclusion are especially encouraged to apply.

Human Resources

Siemens Hall - Room 211

Arcata, CA 95521-8299

(707) 826-3626

Fax: (707) 826-3625

<http://www.humboldt.edu/jobs>

Email: careers@humboldt.edu

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Incorrect or improperly completed applications will not be considered for vacancies. Any reference in this announcement to required periods of experience or education is full-time activity. Part-time experience or education - or activities only part of which are qualifying- will receive proportionate credit. In accordance with applicable Collective Bargaining Agreements, preference may be given to the campus applicants covered by these agreements. However, positions are open to all interested applicants, both on and off campus.

Evidence of required degree(s), certification(s), or license(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. The successful candidate for a position at HSU is required to be fingerprinted through the Humboldt State University Police Department or their local law enforcement agency. The results of the fingerprint process must be received by the university prior to the candidate's appointment. The cost of the fingerprinting is borne by the university.

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty and staff of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state. Additional information about Humboldt State University can be found at <http://www.humboldt.edu>.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status.

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-54b149bdf3a9e349996d9b08dcf1fb15>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4909

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Public Administration

Specializations: American Politics, Congress, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior

Assistant Professor (JOB#12544)
School of Politics and Global Studies
Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor beginning August 2019. We are interested in candidates whose research and teaching focus is on American institutions, broadly defined. Candidates with expertise in the U.S. Congress, the presidency, interest groups, institutional interactions, representation or opinion-policy linkages are encouraged to apply.

We are open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus, and methodological approaches. Position duties include teaching courses in the American politics curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, including an upper-division undergraduate course; advising and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students; developing an active research agenda; and providing service to the department, college, and university.

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; the ability to teach advanced statistical methods, particularly at the graduate level; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses, demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program.

The application deadline is November 2, 2018; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2019.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and sent to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/12022>. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment. Questions about the position or search should be directed to the search committee chair at kahn@asu.edu.

The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University. Candidates who can make use of our experimental laboratories are particularly encouraged to apply.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/ Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4855

Georgia State University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor, Public Management and Policy

Associate/Full Professor, Public Management and Policy
Andrew Young School of Policy Studies, Georgia State University

The Department of Public Management and Policy seeks a senior scholar to join the department at the rank of Associate or Full Professor, beginning Fall 2019. Applicants with research interests in all areas of public management and policy are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates will have a record of academic publications and sponsored research appropriate for tenure and appointment at their rank at Georgia State University, which holds the Carnegie classification Doctoral Universities: Highest Research Activity. The ability to teach research methods and quantitative analysis at the doctoral and master's levels is also desirable.

The Department of Public Management and Policy focuses on four areas of excellence: nonprofit management and policy; program evaluation and policy analysis; management and finance of public and nonprofit organizations; and economic development and urban policy. The Andrew Young School ranks 18th overall among graduate programs in public affairs in the US News rankings, as well as 3rd in urban policy, 5th in nonprofit management, 8th in public budgeting and finance, 8th in local government management, 22nd in public management and leadership, and 29th in public policy analysis. The department offers a NASPAA-accredited MPA, as well as undergraduate, master's, and doctoral degrees in public policy. Located in downtown Atlanta, Georgia State University is one of the country's top urban public research universities and has one of the most diverse student bodies. US News calls GSU the 2nd most innovative university in the U.S. and ranks it 2nd in undergraduate teaching.

Candidates should email a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references to pmapfacultysearch@gsu.edu. The position requires a doctorate in an appropriate field of study from an accredited university. Candidate must be eligible to work in the USA. At the time of offer, a background check will be required. Consideration of applications will begin on October 15, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. Information about the Andrew Young School is available at www.aysps.gsu.edu. Georgia State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate against applicants due to race, ethnicity, gender, veteran status, or on the basis of disability or any other federal, state, or local protected class. The position is subject to budgetary approval.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4845

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Policy Analysis/ Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Management

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Trade

Texas A&M University, Bush School of Government and Public Service,
Department of Public Service and Administration

Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Policy Analysis

The Department of Public Service and Administration in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant or tenured associate professor to teach in the Public Policy Analysis track of its Master of Public Service and Administration Program. Energy or environmental economists with a strong record of, or high potential for, research and teaching in public policy issues are preferred, although candidates from all fields of public policy and applied economics will be considered. Candidates will be expected to build on existing strengths and bolster the capacity of the School to participate in campus-wide multidisciplinary research initiatives and new or existing programs of the Institute for Science, Technology, and Public Policy and the Mosbacher Institute for Trade, Economics, and Public Policy. Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. by the beginning of employment in September 2019 and demonstrate evidence of a commitment both to high quality empirical research and to teaching in a professional school of government and public service.

The Department of Public Service and Administration is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu/psaa>.

As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications from women, minorities, and persons with disabilities.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, letter of interest, at least one writing sample, and complete contact information for 3 references. Letters of reference, while not required at this stage, may also be sent. Please send applications to the PPA Search Committee, c/o Ms. Stephanie Bustos, at bushschoolsaa-facultysearch@tamu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Management

The Department of Public Service and Administration in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant professor or tenured associate professor in public management who will contribute to the department in the areas of teaching, research and service. Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. by the beginning of employment in September 2019 and demonstrate evidence of a commitment both to high quality empirical research and to teaching in a professional school of government and public service.

The Department of Public Service and Administration is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service and currently enrolls 174 full-time in-residence students, with 22 full-time and 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty members. It offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public and nonprofit service. Students choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; analytical methods; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu/psaa>.

As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications from women, minorities and persons with disabilities.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, letter of interest, at least one writing sample, and complete contact information for 3 references. Letters of reference, while not required at this stage, may also be sent. Please send applications to the PPM Search Committee, c/o Ms. Stephanie Bustos, at bushschoolsaa-facultysearch@tamu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2018

Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4840

Syracuse University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, Economics of Aging

Specializations: Health Care, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) seeks to hire a tenured or tenure track professor in the field of economics of aging, at the advanced Assistant or Associate Professor level, beginning in fall 2019.

We are interested in attracting an established scholar with credentials in the economics of aging. A broad range of research topics or specializations is relevant, including retirement and economic well-being; wealth and bequests; public health, health policy, and health service use; disability and its consequences; intergenerational transfers; public policy analysis and evaluation; and international or comparative studies. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the department's Masters and PhD programs. This individual will also be expected to become a faculty associate in the University's Aging Studies Institute, joining its interdisciplinary team of researchers. Therefore, a track record of collaborative research output is particularly desirable; a track record of success in obtaining research support, particularly from the National Institute on Aging or other NIH institutes, is especially desirable.

The PAIA department is located within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. The school is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. The department seeks candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission, have interdisciplinary interests and are interested in training future leaders.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in economics or a related field. Rank and salary will be commensurate with degree field, experience, and professional accomplishments.

To be considered, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/postings/074067>) and attach: a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, names and complete contact information for 3 references. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 15. However, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4798

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The selected candidates will conduct productive research and be committed to teaching in core public management topics.

The selected scholar will perform research and teaching in the areas of economic development and state and local public finance. This scholar would be expected to teach courses in public budgeting and economic development. For this position, the strongest candidate would be a scholar who is capable and interested in engaging in public dialogues, including interactions with the media, related to economic development and state and local public finance, as well as in advising state and local government officials on these topics. University and professional service as appropriate are required.

The La Follette School is a highly ranked school of public affairs, and one of many highly ranked social science units at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The University is consistently ranked among the top universities in terms of success in federally funded research grants and is highly supportive of an interdisciplinary approach to scholarship.

Successful candidates will be expected to teach at the undergraduate and masters/graduate level, lead a scholarly research program, perform university and professional service, interact with the media and public officials, and complete public outreach.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' research strength, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

Candidates for the associate professor rank must meet criteria for appointment at rank per UW College of Letters and Sciences guidelines for appointment and promotion on the tenure track.

Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality.

TO APPLY:

<http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/499043/assistant-or-associate-professor-of-economic-development>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4780

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: ASSOCIATE OR ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PUBLIC MANAGEMENT

The selected candidates will conduct productive research and be committed to teaching in core public management topics.

The selected scholar will teach core courses in public management, as well as upper level electives in specialty topics in public management. The selected individuals will offer undergraduate and graduate level courses in areas such as: performance management, public sector leadership, non-profit management, public policy process, and/or evidence-based policymaking. We encourage applicants from both domestic and international public management or public administration traditions. The research and teaching may include domestic and/or international public management or public administration.

The La Follette School is a highly ranked school of public affairs, and one of many highly ranked social science units at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The University is consistently ranked among the top universities in terms of success in federally funded research grants and is highly supportive of an interdisciplinary approach to scholarship.

Successful candidates will be expected to teach at the undergraduate and masters/graduate level, lead a scholarly research program, perform university and professional service, interact with the media and public officials, and complete public outreach.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' research strength, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

This recruitment may result in up to 2 hires.

Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality.

TO APPLY:

<http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/498963/associate-or-assistant-professor-of-public-management>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4779

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: PROFESSOR, PUBLIC POLICY AND REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH - CLUSTER HIRE

The successful candidate for this position will be expected to develop and maintain an energetic, cutting-edge, highly visible research program; advise graduate and post-graduate research; develop and maintain extramural funding for their research program; and teach graduate and undergraduate courses in the management and implementation of reproductive health and social policy, or develop new courses in their area of expertise, as appropriate. Reproductive health includes, but is not limited to public policies surrounding fertility, birth control, in-utero health, post-partum health and early childhood development, as they affect health disparities, whether due to geography, socioeconomic status, race, ethnicity, or program delivery and health equity.

The Reproductive Equity Cluster:

This position is part of the Reproductive Equity Cluster, which was developed in order to build cross-disciplinary research expertise necessary to examine the drivers and consequences of inequities in reproductive health and to identify potential solutions. Areas of cluster research could include health care policy, social policy, structural, and individual factors related to family planning, fertility/infertility, maternal and infant mortality, and other aspects of maternal and child health as they relate to policy and practice. It is expected that the successful candidate will focus on health disparities and health equity and the ways in which policy and practice effect same.

A major purpose of the cluster is to build on existing strengths on campus. Ultimately, it is a goal that an expansion of this work at UW-Madison will translate into greater health equity and improved health and well-being of residents of Wisconsin and beyond. The interdisciplinary, comprehensive focus of the cluster will be used to expand research activity in this area and add greater diversity to the voices engaged in these discussions, particularly with respect to health disparities and inequities, and program and policy effects on disparities.

Candidates should have an interest in collaborating with the cluster and with colleagues in schools, centers, and training programs across campus such as the School of Medicine and Public Health, Population Health Sciences, the LaFollette School of Public Affairs, the School of Social Work, the School of Human Ecology, the Institute for Research on Poverty and the Center for Demography and Ecology.

Overall, three candidates will be recruited in this Cluster: 1) Professor, Public Policy and Reproductive Health [PVL # 94865] (this particular search), 2) Professor, Health Services Research and Reproductive Health [PVL# 94599] , and 3) Professor, Social Causes & Consequences of Reproductive Health [PVL # 94972]. These positions are part of the UW's Cluster Hiring Initiative (<https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>), designed to foster innovative, outstanding research programs that will stimulate productive interactions among faculty and students interested in research across the campus and to expand interdisciplinary research.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

Faculty hired under this initiative will most likely have a primary faculty appointment in the LaFollette School of Public Affairs, with potential joint or secondary appointments in relevant departments and schools such as Law, Human Ecology, or Population Health Sciences in the School of Medicine and Public Health.

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' interdisciplinary research strength in key areas of current and future research promise, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

Candidates for the tenured professor rank must meet criteria for appointment at rank per UW College of Letters and Sciences guidelines for appointment and promotion on the tenure track.

The successful applicant will be responsible for ensuring eligibility for employment in the United States on or before the effective date of the appointment.

TO APPLY:

<http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/498771/professor-public-policy-and-reproductive-health-cluster-hire>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4781

University of Kansas

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor - Law and Society

Position Overview:

The University of Kansas School of Public Affairs & Administration (SPAA) invites applications for an assistant or early associate professor tenure-track position in Law & Society. The position is expected to begin in August, 2019. Candidates should have a strong research agenda in Law and Society. We welcome applications from scholars working in all areas of Law & Society, including race, gender, and institutions; administrative state-society relations; immigration; social movements; criminal justice; the nonprofit sector (including civil society, NGOs and community organizations); and urban studies. Candidates also should have a commitment to graduate and undergraduate teaching, and a strong commitment to professional service.

SPAA is a top-ranked research and teaching program with an internationally recognized faculty, a collegial environment, and strong, nationally-recruited students. The School serves the flagship campus in Lawrence as well as campuses in nearby Topeka and the Kansas City metro area. Most courses taught by this hire will be on the Edwards campus. The MPA program is highly ranked among graduate programs, particularly in the areas of City Management, Urban Policy, and Public Management. The School supports a small undergraduate program; a distinguished doctoral program that has placed graduates in the best positions nationally; and an excellent professional education program.

The University of Kansas is especially interested in hiring faculty members who can contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and to four key campus-wide strategic initiatives: (1) Sustaining the Planet, Powering the World; (2) Promoting Well-Being, Finding Cures; (3) Building Communities, Expanding Opportunities; and (4) Harnessing Information, Multiplying Knowledge. For more information, see <http://www.provost.ku.edu/strategic-plan/initiatives>.

The successful candidate for the position must be eligible to work in the U.S. prior to the start of the position.

Required Qualifications:

Evaluation of the following requirements will be made through (1) your letter of application describing your previous work and educational experiences as well as your demonstrated commitment in working with diverse groups; (2) record of accomplishments and productivity addressed in C.V.; (3) teaching statement that also addresses your commitment/approach in the use or development of implementing inclusive teaching/advising practices, pedagogical techniques and course materials; (4) research statements; and (5) information provided from professional references.

--Ph.D. in Law & Society, Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, Sociology, or a related field by the start date of the appointment.

--Demonstration for high potential in research and publications.

--Demonstrated ability to teach effectively.

Additional Candidate Instructions:

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/12743BR>. A complete online application includes the following materials: cover letter describing your previous work and education experiences as well as your demonstrated commitment in working with diverse groups; curriculum vitae; research statement; teaching statement that also addresses your commitment/approach in the use or development of implementing inclusive teaching/advising practices, pedagogical techniques and course materials; one article-length manuscript or other writing sample; and the names, email addresses and contact information for three professional references. Initial review of applications will begin October 1, 2018 and will continue as long as needed to identify a qualified pool.

Contact Information to Applicants:

Rosemary O'Leary, Director and Distinguished Professor, oleary@ku.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4769

Northwestern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Urban Policy, Politics, and the Public

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory
Specializations: Urban Politics, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Civil Rights & Liberties

Northwestern University's School of Education and Social Policy invites applicants for a tenure track faculty appointment in Human Development and Social Policy at the assistant, associate, or full professor level. We seek a scholar who specializes in urban policy and/or politics and their impact on society. We are especially interested in scholars who are interested in being in an interdisciplinary environment, and are open to scholars who use either quantitative, qualitative, or mixed methods. Possible areas of focus might include: city governance and social policymaking; criminal justice policy and practice; neighborhood segregation/integration; voter participation/representation in urban settings; juvenile justice and adolescent development; immigration and neighborhood change; poverty and inequality; inter-governmental relations; institutions, inequalities and organizational change in urban settings; the politics of race and ethnicity; or other areas relevant to urban policy or politics. To be considered at the rank of associate or full professor level, candidates must have a distinguished record of scholarship, and should have demonstrated ability to receive extramural support for their research agenda. The successful candidate will likely receive a renewable appointment in Northwestern's Institute for Policy Research as well. Scholars from all disciplines and applied fields are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in their substantive area of study.

Applicants should submit application materials electronically at this link: <https://facultyrecruiting.northwestern.edu/apply/MjYz>

- A letter outlining their research program and teaching experience
- Current CV
- Representative papers
- For those being considered at the assistant professor level -- three letters of reference, addressed to Professor James Spillane, Search Committee Chair. Candidates who would be considered at the associate or full professor level should provide the names of three potential references, but these references will not be contacted without the candidate's permission.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit their materials immediately as the search committee will begin reviewing applicants on October 19th, 2018.

Members of under-represented minority racial and ethnic groups and women are strongly urged to apply. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. For more information about the School of Education and Social Policy see www.sesp.northwestern.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/19/2018

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4745

University of Delaware

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor Positions in Disaster Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Public Administration

The University of Delaware (UD) (<http://www.udel.edu/>) invites applications from talented scholars pursuing interesting questions related to disasters, hazards, and crisis. We are looking to fill multiple tenure-track/tenured positions in Disaster Science at the Assistant or Associate Professor level beginning September 1, 2019. This search is the first stage of an exciting university-wide, interdisciplinary cluster recruitment effort to expand research in disaster science, a major emphasis of the University, with hiring planned over the next two years. In this first stage, we are seeking exceptional candidates with interdisciplinary interests in a wide range of topics broadly construed as social perspectives on risk, hazards and disasters.

Faculty will have a tenure-track/tenured home in a department at the University of Delaware and join, as core faculty, the world-renowned Disaster Research Center (DRC) (www.drc.udel.edu), the world's oldest center focused on the social science and management aspects of disaster. UD has several environment- and disaster-oriented programs and research streams in its various colleges. DRC houses the flagship institution of the William A. Anderson Fund (BAF), an initiative devoted to increasing the participation of students from historically underrepresented populations in disaster science and practice.

QUALIFICATIONS

We seek scholars who are committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching, diversity and inclusion, and community engagement. Candidates should show experience or potential for securing external funding. The candidate should hold an earned Ph.D. or other relevant doctoral degree at the time of appointment. We will consider a broad range of research foci related to social perspectives on risk, hazards, and disasters. Possible, but not exclusive, areas of interest might include: individual and household preparedness for disaster; social determinants of disaster health outcomes and recovery; food security and connection of food delivery to health outcomes in disaster-affected settings; institutional systems for service delivery, such as for disaster behavioral health; functional and access needs, including elder populations and others requiring medical-support care in hospitals and nursing homes; environmental and social justice; risk perception/communication; environmental planning; hazard mitigation; and decision-making and social change. Researchers with strong methodological skills (one or more approaches, such as statistics, spatial analysis, social network analysis, GIS, participatory action research, qualitative methods, or mixed methods) are encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Applicants should submit: (1) a current curriculum vita; (2) a cover letter summarizing their interest, qualifications, likely department(s) they wish to be considered for their tenure/tenure-track home, and a description of progress on the dissertation, if not yet complete; (3) a research statement; (4) a teaching statement; (5) contact information for three references (references will not be contacted prior to notifying the candidate). Candidates should ensure that their materials address the qualifications stated above. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Those interested should apply through <http://www.udel.edu/faculty-staff/human-resources/careers/faculty-jobs/> .

Please direct questions, but not application materials, to Tricia Wachendorf or James Kendra, Search Committee Co-Chairs (twachten@udel.edu or jmkendra@udel.edu).

Located in Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., UD is a Land Grant, Sea Grant, Space Grant, and Carnegie Research University (highest research activity; and a Carnegie public engagement designation), with external funding exceeding $200 million. A state-assisted, privately governed institution, the University enrolls approximately 19,000 undergraduates and 4,000 graduate students

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4761

University of Arizona

Rank: Assistant Professor

The School of Government and Public Policy at the University of Arizona invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in public management beginning in fall 2019. The School of Government and Public Policy is housed within the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, and is home to an interdisciplinary faculty. This position is intended to contribute to one or more unit strengths at the intersection of public management, criminal justice, network science, collaborative governance, nonprofit management, environmental management and policy, and political science. Additional information on the School of Government and Public Policy is available at <http://sgpp.arizona.edu/>

As an assistant professor at the University of Arizona, School of Government & Public Policy, the successful candidate will have a PhD in public management, public administration, political science, or a related field. Candidates will contribute to teaching in the School's undergraduate, masters (MPP and MPA), and PhD programs, and contribute to mentoring students, including those from underrepresented backgrounds. The candidate will be expected to have a strong and active research program that is reflected in an excellent publication record, and that will support the mentoring of PhD students and the teaching of PhD seminars. Faculty in our department also participate in outreach and contribute to departmental, college, and university service. Our faculty also help to develop innovative approaches to enhancing student engagement, increasing diversity, and expanding collaborations with community and business partners. Under-represented minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

Application Review begins October 1, 2018.

University of Arizona Job Posting Link: <https://uacareers.com/postings/32053>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4739

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in public administration/public policy to begin August 16, 2019. The positions are open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with rigorous, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading public administration and/or political science outlets. Successful candidates will be able to contribute to the department's NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration program, with the ability to teach core and elective classes in this program. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field of study is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. Applications received by September 30, 2018 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Susan Miller (sumiller@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4732

Dartmouth College

Rank: Director of Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Description

Dartmouth College solicits applications and nominations for the position of the Director of the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences. The Rockefeller Center is a catalyst for public policy research, teaching, and deliberation. Dedicated to providing an interdisciplinary perspective on policy-related topics, the Center fosters a commitment to the ideals of public service and informed public debate exemplified by Nelson A. Rockefeller, former governor of New York State and Vice President of the United States. The Director will lead a variety of activities related to public policy, including research initiatives, grants, conferences, speakers, experiential learning, and leadership development programs for students. The Rockefeller Center is an important and vibrant institution on campus, and we seek someone who will support and stimulate existing efforts and encourage new initiatives.

Qualifications

We are searching for an individual who has demonstrated expertise in social science research and a proven ability to work with people across disciplines at a variety of levels. We welcome internal as well as external candidates. The successful candidate for Director preferably would be tenurable in one of the social science departments or programs and have a record of excellence in research, classroom teaching, and professional service. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful collaboration, teaching, and mentoring of people from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences at Dartmouth College. Applicants must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and curriculum vitae. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or further information, contact Dean Lacy (dean.lacy@dartmouth.edu). Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.in-terfolio.com/53740

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4714

Kansas State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position Summary

The Department of Political Science at Kansas State University invites applicants for a tenure-track position in public administration beginning fall semester 2019.

Kansas State University is located in Manhattan, KS in the Flint Hills region. KSU is a land-grant institution and classified as Carnegie R1 university. The Department of Political Science is committed to the goals of providing quality instruction for our undergraduate and graduate programs and a vibrant environment for its faculty to develop and maintain their research agendas. The Political Science department houses three graduate programs, a Masters in Public Administration, an M.A. in Political Science, and a Ph.D. in Security Studies.

Duties and Responsibilities

Candidates should be able to contribute to the department's nationally accredited MPA program by offering graduate courses in public administration/management. We are open to various sub-field areas of expertise, with the exception of budget/finance. Candidates should also be able contribute to the undergraduate curriculum in political science by offering a course such as introduction to public policy. Faculty teach a mix of graduate and undergraduate courses and typically offer a 2-2 teaching load.

Applicants must present evidence of: a vibrant and well developed research agenda, high quality teaching, and a commitment to working with diverse students and colleagues and to the value of diverse ideas.

Minimum Requirements

Candidates are expected to have a PhD in Public Administration or Political Science completed by August of 2019. Exceptional candidates who are ABD may be considered at the rank of instructor.

Preferred Qualifications

Candidates should be comfortable with online and distance education instruction.

Application Instructions

Applications are to be submitted at the following link: <http://careers.k-state.edu/cw/en-us/job/504555/assistant-professor-political-science>

The application should include:

- cover letter
- curriculum vitae
- writing sample
- research statement
- teaching portfolio
- three letters of reference
- diversity and inclusion statement*

* The contributions to diversity and inclusion statement should describe your past experiences, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with Kansas State University's "Principles of Community," and to contribute to the development of a diverse and inclusive learning environment.

Review of applications will begin on September 26, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

In connection with your application for employment, Kansas State University will procure a background screen on you as part of the process of considering your candidacy as an employee.

Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Brianne Heidbreder at heidbr@ksu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/26/2018

Date Posted: 8/24/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4671

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Assistant Professor – Public Administration in Political Science

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

(Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2019. Candidates with specializations in public administration and public policy are especially welcome to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department and will contribute to a Master's of Public Administration Program. The faculty member will teach and advise in both the graduate and undergraduate program. As part of the political science undergraduate program, the faculty member will be expected to teach courses in one or more of our subfields in accordance to the faculty member's expertise: American politics, public administration, international relations, comparative politics, public law, and/or political theory. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many underrepresented minorities and first-generation college students.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or related disciplines such as Public Policy from an accredited university by August 1, 2019
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work as well as experience working in an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to work with graduate students on a range of thesis projects in public administration, as well as the ability to teach political science undergraduates. Expertise and work experience in areas such as public policy/program evaluation, urban politics and administration, community development/sustainability, and qualitative methods will be given careful consideration. Preference will also be given to candidates with research interests related to social or racial justice and who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by November 16, 2018. Early response is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53291>

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Applicants will provide contact information for recommenders during the application process and the system will contact recommenders and provide a method for uploading letters;
- A completed application form available on the application website;
- An unofficial transcript showing then highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Faculty Search Committee
 Dr. Mario Guerrero, Faculty Search Chair
 Political Science Department
 California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
 Phone: 909.869.3887
 Fax: 909.869.6995
 Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

APSA Interviews

Representatives of the department will be available to meet at APSA's Placement Services. Please send a CV to mag@cpp.edu if you are interested in meeting with department representatives at APSA.

The University: Cal Poly Pomona is one of two polytechnic universities in the 23-campus California State University system. Our ethnically diverse student population of approximately 22,000 enrolls in 52 baccalaureate, 26 master's degree programs, 11 credential and certificate programs, and a doctorate in Educational Leadership, presented by 1,200 faculty. We recruit students increasingly from throughout California and beyond. The students are success and career focused and extremely diverse. We are proud of our status as a Hispanic Serving Institution. We have a strong commitment to supporting scholarship, research, and student achievement. Our scenic and historic 1,400-acre campus, once the winter ranch of cereal magnate W. K. Kellogg, is located about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles in one of the most dynamic economic and cultural regions in the country, and within an hour's drive of beaches, mountains, and desert. The university is committed to diversifying its faculty and staff and has made educational equity one of its highest priorities. The mission of the university is to advance learning and knowledge by linking theory and practice in all disciplines, and to prepare students for lifelong learning, leadership, and careers in a changing, multicultural world.

The College: The College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences fosters intellectual and ethical development and helps students become individuals who value and apply critical thinking in our complex, diverse and technological world. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in numerous degree and certificate programs across the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University is also central to the mission of the College. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single-subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to "cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation" lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/>.

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over three hundred and fifty undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 11/16/2018
Date Posted: 8/20/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4647

University of Tennessee

Rank: Public Administration-Public Policy Associate Director

Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for an associate level professor in Public Policy and/or Public Administration to begin Fall 2019. The successful applicant will be Associate Director of the Masters of Public Policy and Administration (MPPA) program and will contribute to the Department's Ph.D. program. The Department and the MPPA work closely with the Howard Baker Center and the successful candidate will participate in that partnership. The Baker Center was established in 2003 and has emerging research focal areas in energy policy, environmental policy, public health and global security and strong connections to the state and local governments across Tennessee.

Preference for candidates with primary research and teaching interests in Public Policy, including but not limited to public budgeting and finance, energy policy, environmental policy, health care policy, policy process and program evaluation or Non-Profit Management, but all areas will be considered. The successful candidate must have a clear research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed journals. We are particularly interested in applicants who address substantively important questions using rigorous analytical approaches. Preference will be shown for applicants with teaching and research interests that complement existing departmental interests, have a record of extramural funding commensurate with experience, and demonstrate evidence of college/university teaching excellence. The position is a 9-month faculty appointment and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: <http://web.utk.edu/~polisci>. The Knoxville campus of the University of Tennessee is seeking candidates who have the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the diversity and intercultural goals of the University.

Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be sent directly to the search committee. All materials should be sent electronically to: Dianna Beeler at beelerd@utk.edu and copied to Professor David Folz at dfolz@utk.edu, Department of Political Science, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN 37996-3340. Review of applications will begin October 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor David Folz at dfolz@utk.edu.

All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status, or any other characteristic protected by federal or state law. In accordance with the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, the University of Tennessee affirmatively states that it does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, or disability in its education programs and activities, and this policy extends to employment by the university. Inquiries and charges of violation of Title VI (race, color, and national origin), Title IX (sex), Section 504 (disability), the ADA (disability), the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (age), sexual orientation, or veteran status should be directed to the Office of Equity and Diversity, 1840 Melrose Avenue, Knoxville, TN 37996-3560, telephone 865-974-2498. Requests for accommodation of a disability should be directed to the ADA Coordinator at the Office of Equity and Diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4628

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration

Assistant Professor in public administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major and courses for the MA program; advise students; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs. The position will begin in the 2019-20 academic year.

Require: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration may be given to candidates with substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, transcripts and writing sample to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=6187>. The department will solicit reference letters from references provided in application. For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will begin September 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4615

Winthrop University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science is seeking engaging teachers and active scholars to join our diverse scholarly community by applying for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics, specifically in the areas of Public Administration/Public Policy and National Institutions. Strong preference will be given to candidates who can teach the Judiciary and/or Constitutional Law. We are seeking a dedicated and experienced teacher with demonstrated scholarly achievement to join our distinguished department. The Winthrop Department of Political Science boasts award-winning faculty who are recognized for the quality of their teaching, research, and service. The department also has three affiliated programs: (1) the 43-year old Model UN Program; (2) the Center for Public Opinion and Policy Research, which is home to the nationally renowned Winthrop Poll; and (3) the John C. West Forum on Politics and Policy, a major civic engagement initiative at the University. The department also collaborates with the Master of Liberal Arts program to provide a graduate Concentration in Political and Civic Engagement. Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach a variety of courses in American Politics, including Public Administration, Public Policy, The Judiciary, Constitutional Law:

Federalism, and/or Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties. Strong preference will be given to candidates with teaching and/or research expertise in multiple areas of need, including Media and Politics and Women and US Politics.

- Teach both introductory and advanced courses in your areas of specialization, including graduate courses in our Political and Civic Engagement Concentration within the Master of Liberal Arts Program
- Teach a team-taught senior capstone course in Political Science
- Ability to conduct media interviews on commentary about campaigns and elections and analysis of American political institutions
- Ability to collaborate with the Center for Public Opinion and Policy Research a plus
- Teach courses in Winthrop University's innovative General Education Program, including American Government, which fulfills the Constitution Requirement
- Participate in departmental, college, and university service, including student advising
- Undertake research in the discipline and promote undergraduate research
- Be an interested and energetic participant in an active department
- Other duties as assigned

Required Qualifications:

- The Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or a related field is required for appointment at the assistant professor level. A successful candidate who is ABD at the time of employment will be appointed to a non-tenure track position as an instructor. The successful candidate will also be required to undergo a background check prior to hiring
- Specialization in areas among those listed above
- Evidence in the area of Student Intellectual Development, including teaching excellence and commitment to student learning
- Evidence in the area of Scholarly Activity, including an ongoing program of research and publication
- Evidence in the area of Professional Stewardship, including engagement with the discipline, profession, campus, and community
- Preference is given to candidates with experience teaching the courses listed above

Work Environment: This position requires regular contact with students, faculty, and staff on campus. Additionally, the successful candidate will be required to have the ability to work with the outside community, local public schools, the media, other universities, and international schools/companies/partners.

Background Check Statement: Winthrop University is committed to providing a safe campus community. Winthrop conducts background investigations for applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include reference checks, a criminal history record check, and when appropriate, a financial (credit) report or driving history check.

Employment Conditions: A nine-month, full-time tenure track appointment with faculty rank. Salary is competitive and dependent on academic qualifications.

Position Availability: August 16, 2019

Application Timeline and Procedures:

- Apply Here Now: apply.interfolio.com/53603
- Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

- For more information about the position, please see <http://www.winthrop.edu/hr/>.

Required Materials for Online Application When Available:

- Application letter, with evidence of major responsibilities and required qualifications
- Curriculum vitae, including names, titles, addresses, phone numbers, and e-mail addresses, if available, of at least three persons who know the candidate professionally
- Sample of representative written work (article- or chapter- length)
- Statement of "teaching philosophy, including evidence of excellence in teaching and commitment to student learning
- Three professional letters of reference
- All graduate transcripts and evidence of highest degree achieved (unofficial transcripts are acceptable for initial review; official transcripts are required prior to final appointment)

Interfolio Application Link: apply.interfolio.com/53603

Founded in 1886, Winthrop University in Rock Hill, South Carolina, offers its 6,000-plus undergraduate and graduate students an educational experience that blends liberal arts, professional programs, global awareness, and civic engagement. In its colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, and Visual and Performing Arts, Winthrop embraces only those programs and activities that can be delivered at an exemplary level. Winthrop is well known for its inclusive and supportive campus environment, with University College supporting programs in both academic and student affairs. Winthrop University is achieving national stature as a competitive and distinctive co-educational, public, residential, comprehensive, values-oriented institution. The values of service, excellence, diversity, community, and leadership provide the foundation for Winthrop's continuing development and shape Winthrop's continuing success. Numerous national accolades reflect the sustained high quality and value of the Winthrop Experience, including the most recent U.S. News & World Report's ranking of Winthrop as one of the top-10 public comprehensive universities in the South. Winthrop is an active member of the Rock Hill community and recognized as a key component of the region's economic resurgence. In addition, Winthrop is located just 30 minutes south of Charlotte, North Carolina, ranked by U.S. News & World Report in 2018 as one of the top 25 best places to live in the country. For more information, visit us at www.winthrop.edu.

Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, or veteran status. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4584

University of Wisconsin, La Crosse

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse seeks a tenure track Assistant Professor beginning August 2019 who is a dynamic and skilled teacher and researcher in the field of Public Administration & Policy. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to teaching excellence, student success, and inclusive and engaging classroom practices. The position will also include advising responsibilities, and the potential for teaching the capstone seminar and directing undergraduate research projects. In addition to teaching excellence and scholarly productivity, the Department also places a high value on service to the University and wider community.

Candidates for the appointment should have or be near to completing a doctorate in Public Administration or a related field by the start date. If a doctorate is not yet earned, it must be earned by the first personnel review, no later than May 15, 2020.

The 11-member department offers undergraduate majors and minors in both Political Science and Public Administration and offers courses that serve interdisciplinary minors in Legal Studies; Ethnic and Racial Studies; International Studies; International Business; Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Criminal Justice; and Environmental Studies. The Department's vibrant and growing Public Administration major is one of the few such undergraduate programs in the Upper Midwest. The usual teaching load is three preparations and four (3 credit) courses per semester, which may include American National Government, Women and Politics, or other General Education courses.

Required Application Submissions:

1. Cover letter, with a description about how you envision yourself contributing to the department's public administration curriculum
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Names, email addresses and phone numbers for three academic/professional references

Only those applications received by October 1, 2018 are guaranteed to receive full consideration.

Note: Electronic submission of application materials is required. For additional information about this position and to apply, please visit <https://employment.uwlax.edu>

Please contact the Search and Screen Chair if you have a special need/accommodation to aid your participation in our hiring process.

UW-La Crosse has appeared prominently on the U.S. News & World Report list of "America's Best Colleges" for more than a decade and is ranked consistently as one of the top institutions in the Midwest. With a student population of roughly 10,500, the university offers 94 undergraduate programs in at least 30 disciplines and 21 graduate programs in the following colleges: Liberal Studies, Science and Health, and Business Administration, including the School of Arts & Communication and the School of Education, Professional and Continuing Education. There are 520 full-time faculty and instructional academic staff, 76 percent of whom hold terminal degrees. UW-La Crosse boasts a retention rate (freshmen returning as sophomores) of 85 percent, graduation rate (degree within six years) of 70 percent, and is among only 12 institutions cited nationally by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities for its success in linking campus culture and university leadership to outstanding graduation rates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4573

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Auburn University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor beginning August 16, 2019. We seek excellent candidates that can complement the strengths of our department. The call is open to candidates in all areas of Public Administration; however, candidates must be able to teach some combination of public budgeting, program evaluation, and nonprofit/public management courses. Candidates should have strong research and instructional skills, and complement the existing teaching strengths in the program. Primary teaching responsibilities are in the Master of Public Administration and undergraduate Public Administration programs.

Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Public Administration or Political Science by the start date for the rank of Assistant Professor. However, ABDs will be considered for the appointment at the rank of Instructor. The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time of appointment and to continue working legally during employment; excellent communication skills required.

Review of applications will begin Oct 1, 2018. To apply, visit <https://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com>. Candidates are required to include a cover letter outlining their qualifications for the position and courses they are able to teach, a current curriculum vita, an official transcript of all graduate work, contact information for three letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, and a one-page research statement.

Auburn University is Alabama's largest land grant university, enrolling over 25,000 students. The Political Science Department maintains a diverse faculty of 26 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, health services administration, and public administration; a Master's degree program in Public Administration (MPA) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance; a Master's degree program in Community Planning (MCP), and a Ph.D. program in public administration and public policy.

Direct questions to Dr. Kelly Ann Krawczyk, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University AL, 36849 Fax: 334-844-5348. Email: kak0037@auburn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4550

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Associate Professor/Professor - Urban Innovation

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Urban Politics, Housing, Environmental Policy

The University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) and the Institute of Management and Innovation (IMI) invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in urban innovation and governance. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with a projected start date of July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will hold a 49% appointment in the Institute for Management and Innovation and in a relevant cognate discipline at UTM (51%) depending on their area of expertise. The successful candidate may also be appointed as the Director of MUI for an initial term of five years, renewable once.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in political science, human geography, planning or economics and an established and exceptional record of research excellence with an active and creative research program that focuses on urban innovation, a distinguished record of internationally recognized scholarship (which includes evidence provided in the research statement, a record of sustained and impactful publications in premier journals in their field, presentations at national and international conferences, accolades for innovative work and strong endorsements from referees of high international standing). Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, strong letters of reference and the teaching statement, including selected course materials that directly support and illustrate the teaching statement, submitted as part of the application. S/he will also demonstrate a commitment to experiential learning.

The Institute for Management & Innovation (IMI) is planning to start accepting students into its newest program, the Master of Urban Innovation (MUI) in September of 2019. MUI is a new degree professional program that focuses on urban economic development, community capacity building, innovation management, local and regional governance, urban sustainability and real estate development. This degree program aligns with the current programs offered at IMI, maintaining a focus on management, innovation and sustainability, and incorporates the research and teaching strengths from UTM Departments of Geography, Economics, Political Science and the Institute of Communication, Culture, Information and Technology (ICCIIT).

The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one of the following courses: the core course that focuses on how knowledge generation, learning and proximity interact to support the process of urban innovation and the role that economic governance plays in supporting that process, or a course on the theory, practice and policy of socially sustainable cities. Experience in managing a teaching program in urban economic development and innovation, or experience running a large research or policy-related urban network is considered an asset.

The Director of MUI will be responsible for building the new program, working from the initial curriculum developed by IMI and approved by the Governing Council of the University of Toronto. The successful candidate will inspire and engage UTM faculty and staff to work collaboratively to implement the new Master's program and achieve its successful launch. The successful candidate will have demonstrated ability to work effectively with colleagues from a wide breadth of academic disciplines and the ability to inspire both a wide range of academic colleagues, administrative staff, and the initial cohort of students enrolled in the program. Strong leadership and people skills, demonstrated administrative ability, an effective management style, the capacity to integrate diverse interests, and forge a common vision for the MUI program are also required. Additionally, the successful candidate will ensure strong, two-way communications on an ongoing basis to sustain the enthusiasm, engagement and support of all stakeholders across the UTM community.

Salary and academic rank will be commensurate with experience.

All qualified applicants are invited to apply online by clicking on the link below. Applications must be submitted by September 24, 2018 and include a letter of application, an up-to-date curriculum vitae, a research statement with representative publications and a teaching statement including course evaluations and selected course materials supporting teaching quality and experience. The letter of application should also highlight any experience as an academic director or manager. If you have any questions about the position, please contact Professor Soo Min Toh, Director of the Institute for Management Innovation at imi@utoronto.ca. The UofT application system can accommodate up to fifteen attachments per candidate profile (8MB size limit per attachment); please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, dated, signed and scanned) directly to Sue Thomson at sue.thomson@utoronto.ca by the application date, Monday September 24, 2018. Referees should include the candidate's name and "MUI Director Search" in the subject line.

Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2-page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Housed in a newly expanded building and combining traditional teaching methods with a strong emphasis on experiential education, IMI represents a new approach to management education. IMI takes advantage of the full facilities of UTM as well as participating faculty from other divisions of the University of Toronto to offer multidisciplinary programs that combine the teaching of management with that of specific discipline, technologies, industry sectors or professions. Its graduate programs currently address management and biotechnology, professional accounting, innovation, and sustainability.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 20 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the most diverse regions, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is defined by the cultural diversity in its community. The University of Toronto Mississauga has a strong interdisciplinary commitment to teaching and research, a multicultural student body of more than 15,000 students, and a modern, spacious campus. For more information about the Institute for Management and Innovation, and University of Toronto Mississauga, please visit <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/imi/> and <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4554

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Public Administration

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus and methodological approach. The position requires excellence in research and classroom teaching. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful teaching and mentoring of students from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or be ABD with PhD expected by the time of appointment. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and letters of recommendation from at least three references. Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53055>. The review of applications will begin on September 17, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to: michael.herron@dartmouth.edu

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4512

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Associate Professorship(s)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

We invite applications for one or more positions as Associate Professor at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Associate Professor are:

- Research within the field of politics and international relations
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, graduate and PhD students
- Administrative tasks related to the position
- Research and teaching management
- Project management and external fundraising
- Knowledge sharing with the rest of the society

Emphasis will be put on the applicant's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the Department through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching, disseminate knowledge and make a knowledge-based societal impact. An associate professor is expected to develop competences and experience within research, teaching and dissemination. Furthermore, the associate professor should have well-developed competences to attract funding within his or her specialist area.

Qualifications

To be qualified for the position the applicant must have research qualifications within the field of Political Science at the level that can be achieved by satisfactorily completing a period of employment at the level of assistant professor or equivalent as well as:

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced in a growing and ambitious publication profile that complements the existing research strengths of the Department and evidence of, or clear plans for attracting, external research funding
- A commitment to contribute to the delivery of an excellent student experience based on a sizable track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

We will expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Professor Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Phone: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4452

University of Colorado-Denver

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Social Welfare, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Research Methods

The School of Public Affairs (SPA) at the University of Colorado Denver (CU Denver) seeks to fill a tenure-track position in public affairs, to start in August 2019. The position will be at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. We are looking for a candidate with expertise in public administration/management, and we are open to various sub-field areas of expertise. Interest in social equity, civil society, social vulnerabilities, nonprofit management, collaborative governance, emergency management, and/or performance management would be particularly valuable.

At the Assistant Professor level, we seek candidates who have completed PhDs, with evidence of excellence in teaching, publishing, and demonstrated efforts at attaining external grant funding. For consideration at the Associate Professor level, candidates are expected to be an emerging leader in their field, with an excellent record in research, demonstrated through both externally funded awards and publications, as well as excellence in teaching, mentoring, and funding graduate and/or undergraduate students.

We encourage applicants with diverse backgrounds and/or candidates whose research itself focuses on issues related to diversity and/or social equity. We are also open to candidates with a range of different methodological approaches and backgrounds.

The normal class teaching load is 2:2 and can involve teaching opportunities in our PhD in Public Affairs, MPA, and BA in Public Service programs. Applicants should be willing to teach in both face-to-face and online formats. The salary is competitive.

SPA has 28 full-time faculty and is currently ranked #29 in the country by US News and World Report in public management and leadership, and we are ranked in the top 75 programs in the world for public administration by Shanghai Academic rankings. SPA is a NASPAA-accredited MPA program ranked nationally at #34 overall by US News and World Report. In addition to the degree programs mentioned above, we also offer Master's and Bachelor's degrees in Criminal Justice. All programs except the PhD are available fully online, as well as in-person.

Our downtown Denver location provides unprecedented access to a diverse urban environment where policy becomes practice. SPA is a diverse learning community and one of the most culturally inclusive schools on campus, allowing our students to interact with people who reflect their own identity and with others who broaden their horizons. More than one-third of SPA students are students of color. CU Denver students come from all 50 states and 67 countries.

Denver is one of the fastest growing and most economically vibrant cities in America. Denver's Mayor, along with many other community leaders, are alums of our School. Our city and state are microcosms for research and teaching in public management, environmental policy, local government, nonprofits, emergency management, public health, and public finance.

Our faculty have grown their external funding by 200% over the past 5 years. Faculty currently have grants from NSF, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, Ford Foundation, Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, St. Louis Community Foundation, the Colorado Trust, the Community First Foundation, the Colorado Department of Public Health and the Environment, the US Department of Health and Human Services, the Annie E. Casey Foundation, and others. SPA faculty routinely attend and present at conferences around the world and are often invited to speak to both academic and practitioner communities on their areas of expertise. SPA faculty are nationally recognized leaders, currently or recently holding positions like NAPA members, PAR editor, PSJ editor, NASPAA Executive Council, ARNOVA board, NVSQ editorial board, and many others.

Many faculty are involved with SPA's Institute for Governance, the applied arm of the school, either through research, training, evaluation, or service. The Institute focuses on translational research, including but not limited to applied research in Colorado, through the work of Centers focused on local government, network sciences and collaborative governance, education policy, criminal justice, and policy process research. The Institute also runs a Certified Public Management (CPM) program and several other leadership development programs. We seek candidates who demonstrate interest in contributing to this mission in some manner.

Generally, SPA is seeking candidates who want to contribute to the dynamic efforts among faculty to support and expand our research and impact, as we continue to be recognized as a top public affairs school. Faculty are committed to working collaboratively and in support of making an impact on the field of public affairs and more broadly, the public sector. We are also committed to graduating high quality students who have the best experiences in the classroom, working alongside faculty in research, and making an impact as graduates who employers seek to hire. We expect that this candidate will quickly become part of an energetic effort to produce the best research and teaching in the field.

Application materials will ONLY be accepted online via the CU Careers job portal.

To apply, please visit <https://www.cu.edu/cu-careers> (Job ID#14311) and submit your curriculum vitae, letter of application summarizing qualifications, and contact information for three professional references. Finalists for the position should be prepared to provide letters of recommendation and evidence of research and teaching proficiency upon request.

Review of applications will continue until the positions are filled with full consideration given to those who apply by October 1, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4487

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Whittier College

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Public Policy and American Politics, and capable of teaching a core course in Public Administration. We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: race and politics, minority politics, environmental politics, state and local politics with an emphasis on California, and/or political theory.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach 20 units each year and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as First-year Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of materials will begin September 10, and will continue until the appointment is made. If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please let us know, and send your c.v. and letter of application by August 1. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance. Full applications should include: a letter of application, including discussion of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation, sent by your references. Please email (PDFs preferred) materials to Prof. Deborah Norden, Department Chair, at <mailto:dnorden@whittier.edu>. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Prof. Deborah Norden, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI).

Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/>

jeid-4289f6e1d352e841a207bc2342f12ec7

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4413

Bocconi University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Department of Social and Political Sciences at Bocconi University is inviting applications for a junior faculty position in public administration with an appointment beginning on September 1, 2019. The position is at assistant professor level and the area of specialization is open.

Bocconi University is a leading research and teaching institution in economics, management and related disciplines in Europe. The Department of Social and Political Sciences has a major role in staffing an undergraduate program in International Politics and Government, and master's programs in Government and International Organizations and Politics and Public Policy. Public Administration is also a major field in the Ph.D. Program in Public Policy and Administration, launched in 2014. The successful candidate is expected to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate level.

Bocconi provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. The Department of Social and Political Sciences combines faculty from several allied disciplines and fields of study—public administration, political science, sociology, economics, history, public health, demography—who share an interest policy-relevant research. The Department counts 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members. Bocconi is located in Italy's most vibrant center, Milan, a historic, cosmopolitan and international city in a metropolitan area of 3 million that is well connected to the rest of Europe and the world.

Knowledge of Italian is not required. Applicants should hold or expect a PhD in public administration or a related field before September 1, 2019. The successful applicant will have demonstrated strong potential in research. Terms of employment are competitive.

Our review of applications will begin on October 2, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Applications received by October 1, 2018 will receive full consideration. Applicants must submit (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) two working papers or published articles (3) a cover letter, (4) teaching and research statements, via the on-line form using PDF attachments at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket.

Additionally, at least three academic letters of reference must also be submitted by the referees via www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 7/13/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4363

PUBLIC LAW

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in American Politics and Constitutional Law

Specializations: American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and interest in the enduring questions of American Politics and Constitutional Law for a Spring 2019 position.

Candidates for Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor should have a Ph.D.; candidates for Instructor should be ABD. The teaching load for the one-semester Spring 2019 position is four courses with three preparations. The four courses will include: two sections of an introductory American Politics course (each capped at 30 students); one section of a Mock Trial course (capped at 20 students); and one section of a Constitutional Law course (capped at 30 students). Service duties will be assigned by Chair.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission).

Please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to complete the online application. Using the link above, electronically submit a curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations, if available), sample syllabi for proposed courses, if available (use Other 1), a list of three references who could comment on teaching abilities, and a cover letter that explicitly incorporates a clear understanding of the mission of Jesuit higher education and how one will contribute to this mission.

If materials cannot be electronically uploaded to the website, please email to: Dr. Kevin Hula (khula@loyola.edu) or, if unable to send electronically, mail to him at Dept. of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Reviews of applications will begin November 1.

Start Date: Spring 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4901

Duquesne University

Rank: Full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

AMERICAN POLITICS

Assistant Professor of Political Science, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts, Duquesne University

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests in any aspect of American politics, policy, and law. The ability to teach Constitutional law to undergraduates would be welcome. Candidates will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body. Duquesne is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources.

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on November 1, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Ph.D. by start date is strongly preferred. Applications from female and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted directly to <http://apply.interfolio.com/54864>. Start date is August 15, 2019. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Ms. Cheri Cunningham at cunningham@duq.edu.

Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and through service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world." We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting <http://www.duq.edu/about/mission-and-identity/mission-statement>. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked about ways in which they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 11/1/2018
Date Posted: 9/25/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4887

Duquesne University

Rank: Full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

AMERICAN POLITICS

Assistant Professor of Political Science, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts, Duquesne University

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests in any aspect of American politics, policy, and law. The ability to teach Constitutional law to undergraduates would be welcome. Candidates will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body. Duquesne is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources.

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on November 1, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Ph.D. by start date is strongly preferred. Applications from female and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted directly to <http://apply.interfolio.com/54864>. Start date is August 15, 2019. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Ms. Cheri Cunningham at cunningc@duq.edu.

Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and through service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world." We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting <http://www.duq.edu/about/mission-and-identity/mission-statement>. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked about ways in which they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Duquesne University values equality of opportunity as an educational institution and as an employer. We aspire to attract and sustain a diverse faculty and staff that reflects contemporary society, serves our academic goals and enriches our campus community. We particularly encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups and support dual-career couples through our charter membership in this region's HERC (<http://www.hercjobs.org/oh-western-pa-wv/>).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4888

University of Washington, Tacoma

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics and Public Law
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Law

The University of Washington Tacoma invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics & Public Law, housed within the Division of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs in UWT's School of Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences. The successful candidate will address how power shapes systems of oppression in American law and politics. In particular, the successful candidate will research the relationship between law and marginalization on the basis of race, ethnicity, indigeneity or other social identities.

The ideal candidate will teach courses in American Politics, Race and the Law, Law in Society and other public law related courses. We seek a candidate ready to serve our diverse student populations, involve students in research, and initiate coursework engaging the community. We seek someone eager to integrate new pedagogical techniques, and technologies into coursework. The position will primarily contribute to our two majors: Law & Policy and Politics, Philosophy, & Economics. Depending upon the successful candidate's expertise, this position may also contribute to other UWT majors, such as Ethnic, Gender and Labor Studies and American Studies. This is a full-time position with a 9-month service period. The position begins September 15, 2019.

The University of Washington Tacoma was founded in 1990 with an interdisciplinary approach at its foundation. It has evolved into a thriving downtown campus that serves a wide range of students in the South Puget Sound. Faculty have access to the resources of a major research university, including an extensive library system, while also working and teaching in a small campus setting. Our campus provides a unique environment for the development of creative teaching, research and community collaborations. UW Tacoma's commitment to diversity is central to maintaining an atmosphere wherein students, staff, faculty and residents find abundant opportunities for intellectual, personal and professional growth. For more information about UW Tacoma, visit <http://www.tacoma.washington.edu>.

Qualifications

The position requires an earned doctorate or foreign equivalent in Political Science, Sociology, History, Law, American Studies, or related field at the time of appointment, and is contingent on funding. Candidates in the final stages of their dissertation will be appointed on an acting basis.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit:

A letter delineating your interests and qualifications, a description of research projects underway, and your teaching experience. Applicants' statements should also carefully detail how their teaching, service and/or scholarship has supported the success of students underrepresented in higher education; applicants not yet with such experience should note how their work will further UW Tacoma's commitment to equity and inclusion;

A curriculum vitae, including a list of courses taught,

A statement of your teaching philosophy,

An article-length writing sample,

Evidence of teaching effectiveness, and

Three letters of reference.

Please submit all application materials through Interfolio. We will not consider any application material, including letters of recommendation, received via email or mail. Priority will be given to candidates who apply by October 27, 2018. For further information, contact Dr. Katie Baird at kebaird@uw.edu or Dr. Sarah Hampson hampsons@uw.edu.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to complete the Equal Employment Opportunity questionnaire that is linked to the confirmation email. This information will not be shared with the search committee.

University of Washington Tacoma faculty engage in teaching, research and service, and generally participate in lower division, upper division, and graduate instruction.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

University of Washington is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, genetic information, gender identity or expression, age, disability, or protected veteran status.

Commitment to Diversity

The University of Washington is committed to building diversity among its faculty, librarian, staff, and student communities, and articulates that commitment in the UW Diversity Blueprint (<http://www.washington.edu/diversity/diversity-blueprint/>). Additionally, the University's Faculty Code recognizes faculty efforts in research, teaching and/or service that address diversity and equal opportunity as important contributions to a faculty member's academic profile and responsibilities (<https://www.washington.edu/admin/rules/policies/FCG/FCCH24.html#2432>).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/27/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4897

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in American Politics and Constitutional Law

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and interest in the enduring questions of American Politics and Constitutional Law. Candidates for Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor should have a Ph.D.; candidates for Instructor should be ABD. The teaching load for the one-semester Spring 2019 position is four courses with three preparations. The four courses will include: two sections of an introductory American Politics course (each capped at 30 students); one section of a Mock Trial course (capped at 20 students); and one section of a Constitutional Law course (capped at 30 students). Service duties will be assigned by Chair. Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission).

Please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to complete the online application. Using the link above, electronically submit a curriculum vita, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations, if available), sample syllabi for proposed courses, if available (use Other 1), a list of three references who could comment on teaching abilities, and a cover letter that explicitly incorporates a clear understanding of the mission of Jesuit higher education and how one will contribute to this mission. If materials cannot be electronically uploaded to the website, please email to: Dr. Kevin Hula (khula@loyola.edu) or, if unable to send electronically, mail to him at Dept. of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Reviews of applications will begin November 1.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/ddvy873dnm8g49pf>

PI104442023

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 10/19/2018

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4860

Knox College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

Assistant Professor, Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full time, tenure track assistant professor in the area of Public Law beginning September 1, 2019.

We seek an energetic and creative scholar who adopts innovative approaches to teaching and research in a residential, liberal arts setting. Candidates should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law and other courses in the area of law and politics. Possibilities include: civil liberties, medical law, immigration law, race and the legal system, international law, and environmental law. Ability to teach political theory a plus. Knox College operates on a trimester system with three ten week terms. The candidate hired for this position will teach five courses a year over those three terms and serve as Knox's pre-law adviser. Knox is particularly interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the intellectual diversity and inclusivity of our academic community through their research, teaching, and service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field expected at time of appointment; exceptional ABD candidates considered.

Interested applicants should submit:

Cover letter addressing undergraduate liberal arts teaching philosophy and research agenda,
Curriculum Vitae,

Three letters of reference, with at least one addressing teaching potential,
Teaching evaluations and any other evidence of teaching excellence,
Unofficial graduate transcripts,
An example of recent scholarship such as an article, book chapter, or conference paper.

Please submit applications electronically (PDF format preferred) to Barbara Schulze at politicalsciencesearch@knox.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 12, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to Duane Oldfield, Department Chair, doldfiel@knox.edu or 309-341-7156.

Notice of Non-Discrimination

Knox College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious affiliation, sexual orientation or preference, age, marital or family status, disability, veteran status, or other status protected by applicable federal, state, or local law in admission, financial aid, employment, athletics, or any other aspect of its educational programs or activities. Any inquiries regarding Title IX or the College's policies that prohibit discrimination should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator or the Department of Education Office for Civil Rights.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4835

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor in Constitutional Law and Political Theory

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory

Constitutional Law and Political Theory

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor focusing on Constitutional Law and Political Theory. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Philosophy, or related field, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. The successful candidate will offer a constitutional law sequence of courses in addition to contributions elsewhere in the curriculum. While we are open with regard to research and teaching interests in constitutional law and related areas, we would look especially favorably on candidates who focus on civil rights and civil liberties. The ability to teach courses in jurisprudence, gender and politics, or race and ethnic politics is strongly preferred as well. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2019.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 10:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ConLawSearch@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: Constitutional Law Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4824

University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater anticipates a tenure-track opening at the Assistant Professor level in public law beginning August 22, 2019. The position is open to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative legal systems and/or international law. In addition, candidates who can expand course offerings in gender and law are highly desirable. Candidates will be expected to contribute to the department's general education curriculum, and experience in the use of online instructional technology is desirable. Criminal Background Check Required.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABD candidates may apply but must have their degree completed by the contract start date in August 2019; if not, they will be hired on a one-year contract with the understanding that their degree will be completed before January 2020 in advance of their first scheduled review. Demonstrated excellence in or commitment to teaching with an emphasis on promoting the success of undergraduate students, clear evidence of scholarly potential, commitment to working with diverse populations and serving as active member of the university community. Salary is commensurate with academic preparation and experience.

Complete applications received by October 14, 2018 are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee. Application materials will be evaluated and the most qualified applicants will be invited to participate in phone and/or online screening interviews and/or on campus interviews.

For questions regarding this position, please contact:

Edward Gimbel
Associate Professor
Department of Political Science
Phone: 262-472-1532
email: gimbele@uww.edu

To Apply:

Complete applications will include online submission of the following materials:

- a letter of application addressing your qualifications for the position
 - curriculum vitae
 - evidence of teaching effectiveness
 - all undergraduate and graduate transcripts
 - three (3) letters of recommendation
- (letters of recommendation may also be sent separately to POL-ISCIPL@uww.edu)

To apply and submit these documents online, please visit <http://www.uww.edu/employment>, and then follow the “Faculty and Instructional Staff” link on the next page. The Job ID is 14707, listed under “Tenure Track Faculty – College of Letters & Sciences.”

If you have questions regarding this recruitment, or if you are not able to complete the application online due to a disability or system problem, please contact us at 262/472-1024 or hirstudent@uww.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/14/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4809

University of Toronto at Scarborough

Rank: Public Law - Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a full-time, tenure stream appointment in Canadian Politics, with a specialization in Public Law. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence July 1, 2019.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related discipline by the date of appointment or shortly thereafter. They must have a demonstrated record of excellence in research on the Canadian Judiciary and the Canadian Constitution. Candidates who examine the Canadian constitution and courts from a comparative perspective are encouraged to apply, as are candidates with expertise in these subjects who hold a PhD in a related discipline. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths (see <http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/~polisci/>).

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct innovative and independent research at the highest international level and establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. They will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, or will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades for work in the field and strong endorsements by referees of high international standing.

Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, as well as pedagogy. Evidence of a commitment to excellence in teaching can be demonstrated by strong endorsements from referees, a teaching dossier that includes a coherent teaching philosophy statement that is linked to excellent pedagogical practice, sample course syllabi, a statement of teaching accomplishments, and excellent teaching evaluations submitted as part of the application.

The successful candidate will teach in the undergraduate program at the University of Toronto Scarborough, including in its Public Law program. Information about the Public Law program can be found at: <https://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/polisci/public-law>. We expect the successful candidate to take a leading role in developing the Public Law program.

The successful candidate will also be a member of the tri-campus Graduate Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto and expected to teach graduate courses and supervise graduate students in their areas of research expertise. Information about the graduate department of Political Science at the University of Toronto can be found at: <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The University also offers opportunities to work in a range of collaborative programs and centers of research. For more information about the Department of Political Science, University of Toronto Scarborough, please visit: <http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/~polisci/>.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl>

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, an article length (8000-10000 word) writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy and accomplishments, sample course syllabi, and teaching evaluations), statement of contributions to equity and diversity, and a statement up to five pages in length outlining current and future research interests. Three letters of reference should be sent directly by the referee (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the attention of Professor Grace Skogstad, Chair, at polppsearch@utsc.utoronto.ca by the closing date.

All application materials should be submitted online. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format.

The closing date for applications is November 15, 2018.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Grace Skogstad at polppsearch@utsc.utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 11/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4796

Clemson University

Rank: Assistant Professor / Public Law

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY: Assistant Professor

Public Law. The Department of Political Science at Clemson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin in August 2019. We seek a broadly trained political scientist with a specialization in public law (constitutional law and/or judicial politics). Research emphasis may be in either the American or comparative context. In addition to maintaining an active research agenda, the successful candidate will reflect the Department's commitment to quality undergraduate and graduate teaching. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in American constitutional law and in his/her other areas of expertise.

Clemson University is the Land Grant University for the State of South Carolina and is located within the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains 30 miles southwest of Greenville. The Department offers a BA and BS in Political Science and a Ph.D. in Policy Studies.

A Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of employment is required. Salary is competitive. Applications should include a letter of interest, CV, transcripts of graduate work, three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and evidence of teaching performance. Interested candidates should apply via Interfolio at the following job position: <https://apply.interfolio.com/54178>. To ensure full consideration, please submit materials by October 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/16/2018

Date Posted: 9/5/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4766

University of Richmond

Rank: Tyler Haynes Professorship of Interdisciplinary Studies

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

The University of Richmond Jepson School of Leadership Studies and School of Law invite nominations and applications for an endowed professorship to be shared between the two schools. We seek candidates with a distinguished record of scholarship and teaching, or a similarly distinguished record of public service, and we anticipate an appointment at the full professor level. The ideal candidate will have earned J.D. and Ph.D. degrees, although we are open to considering candidates who have one or the other. Our vision is for the Tyler Haynes Professor to conduct interdisciplinary research and teach in an interdisciplinary environment. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research interests lie in the criminal justice system, the Supreme Court, healthcare, housing, immigration, social welfare, education policy, or institutional design and analysis, although any area of interest with crossover appeal to law and leadership will be considered. Successful candidates will teach courses in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the School of Law.

Applications and inquiries may be directed to Sandra Peart and Jessica Erickson at hayneschair@richmond.edu. Candidates should attach a cover letter and curriculum vitae. In their cover letters, candidates should address how their scholarly and teaching interests, or record of public service, connect to the study of leadership and law. Cover letters should also specify how the applicant might contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion in the classroom.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and continuing studies. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies and provides a challenging liberal arts curriculum designed to educate students for, and about, leadership. The Law School offers a curriculum that combines sophisticated legal theory with opportunities to put theory into practice, equipping students with the knowledge and skills they need to make valuable contributions to the legal system. For additional information about the two schools, see <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> and <https://law.richmond.edu/>.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4750

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics/Public Law)

Job Posting Title: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics/Public Law)
 Position Type: Faculty
 Department: LSUAM HSS - School of Political Science
 Work Location: LSU - Baton Rouge

Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics / Public Law)

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in judicial politics/public law to begin Fall 2019. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Salary for the position will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Initial review of applications will begin September 15 and will continue until a candidate is selected.

Job Responsibilities:

Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses in Politics, conduct research and scholarship in the candidate's sub-specialty, and directing/supervising graduate and undergraduate student research activity.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2019.

Note: Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment.

Special Instructions:

Application materials should be submitted online and should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Chair, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to polichair@lsu.edu.

Applicant Link:

https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science--Judicial-Politics---Public-Law-_R00027683

Additional Position Information:

Background Check - An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check.

Benefits - LSU offers outstanding benefits to eligible employees and their dependents including health, life, dental, and vision insurance; flexible spending accounts; retirement options; various leave options; paid holidays; wellness benefits; tuition exemption for qualified positions; training and development opportunities.

EEO Statement:

LSU is committed to diversity and is an equal opportunity / equal access employer.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4748

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor, starting Fall 2019. We seek candidates with expertise in judicial politics and constitutional law, broadly construed. Successful applicants should be versed in American public law, but could conduct research in a broad variety of related areas, such as, but not limited to, the role of race, ethnicity, sexualities, and/or gender in justice systems, comparative judicial politics, international courts and legal structures, or the politics of policing in the US or abroad. This is a 45% research, 45% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is 2-2, with a course release in the first three years. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate pre-law courses on American judicial politics, such as judicial process and constitutional law, but will also have ample opportunity to teach specialized courses of their choosing. Tenure-track political science faculty advise undergraduate students and may have opportunities to contribute to the supervision of MA and PhD students in criminal justice. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2019, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) competence to teach American judicial process and constitutional law, and 4) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of (potential) research productivity and quality, 2) have experience teaching American judicial process and/or constitutional law, 3) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, and/or 4) have experience pursuing or obtaining external funding.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 11 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. While faculty contribute primarily to teaching, curriculum development, and advising within their respective programs, the department provides opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration across fields, both in research and teaching. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has an a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>.

Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 240,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and contact information for 3 professional of references. All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/9576>.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, and will continue to accept and review applications until the position is filled. The department will provide search updates through APSA eJobs' update capability, and on Twitter, using the #PSJMInfo hashtag.

Potential applicants may direct questions about the search to Dan Pemstein, the search committee chair, at daniel.pemstein@ndsu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4706

Colorado College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Environmental Law & Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Colorado College is hiring a tenure track assistant professor in environmental law and policy to join the college's interdisciplinary environmental studies program beginning in August 2019. The position requires expertise in environmental law and policy as well as an ability to engage in interdisciplinary approaches to environmental questions. The successful candidate will be able to teach courses including Environment & Society (an interdisciplinary introductory environmental studies course), U.S. Environmental Law & Policy, International Environmental Law & Policy, and electives in their field of expertise. The ideal candidate will be a JD/PhD who has worked in the field of environmental law and can teach courses that incorporate environmental case law. Yet they will also be able to situate the law within broader political and social questions of the relationship between humans and the environment.

The College actively promotes a dynamic and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work. Applicants should describe the ways in which they can contribute to this goal in their cover letter.

One distinguishing feature of Colorado College is its Block plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, and professors teach six of the eight blocks in an academic year. Applicants must be committed to high quality, innovative undergraduate teaching. Applicants should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, if available. The block plan lends itself to field and project based teaching. Funds and logistical support for field trips and community based learning projects are available through the college and through the environmental studies program.

Preferred Qualifications: J.D. and Ph.D.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. is required by the start of employment; expertise in environmental law

Applications should include: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a statement of research interests, (4) a statement of teaching philosophy, (5) a writing sample, and (6) a graduate school transcript. Optional documents: Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness (e.g. syllabi, course evaluations, etc.).

Applications must be submitted through <https://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/3477>

All applicants will need to list at least three references to submit a letter of recommendation. The application site will send emails to references with instructions for electronic submission.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4680

Winthrop University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science is seeking engaging teachers and active scholars to join our diverse scholarly community by applying for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics, specifically in the areas of Public Administration/Public Policy and National Institutions. Strong preference will be given to candidates who can teach the Judiciary and/or Constitutional Law. We are seeking a dedicated and experienced teacher with demonstrated scholarly achievement to join our distinguished department. The Winthrop Department of Political Science boasts award-winning faculty who are recognized for the quality of their teaching, research, and service. The department also has three affiliated programs: (1) the 43-year old Model UN Program; (2) the Center for Public Opinion and Policy Research, which is home to the nationally renowned Winthrop Poll; and (3) the John C. West Forum on Politics and Policy, a major civic engagement initiative at the University. The department also collaborates with the Master of Liberal Arts program to provide a graduate Concentration in Political and Civic Engagement. Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach a variety of courses in American Politics, including Public Administration, Public Policy, The Judiciary, Constitutional Law: Federalism, and/or Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties. Strong preference will be given to candidates with teaching and/or research expertise in multiple areas of need, including Media and Politics and Women and US Politics.
- Teach both introductory and advanced courses in your areas of specialization, including graduate courses in our Political and Civic Engagement Concentration within the Master of Liberal Arts Program
- Teach a team-taught senior capstone course in Political Science
- Ability to conduct media interviews on commentary about campaigns and elections and analysis of American political institutions

- Ability to collaborate with the Center for Public Opinion and Policy Research a plus
- Teach courses in Winthrop University's innovative General Education Program, including American Government, which fulfills the Constitution Requirement
- Participate in departmental, college, and university service, including student advising
- Undertake research in the discipline and promote undergraduate research
- Be an interested and energetic participant in an active department
- Other duties as assigned

Required Qualifications:

- The Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or a related field is required for appointment at the assistant professor level. A successful candidate who is ABD at the time of employment will be appointed to a non-tenure track position as an instructor. The successful candidate will also be required to undergo a background check prior to hiring
- Specialization in areas among those listed above
- Evidence in the area of Student Intellectual Development, including teaching excellence and commitment to student learning
- Evidence in the area of Scholarly Activity, including an ongoing program of research and publication
- Evidence in the area of Professional Stewardship, including engagement with the discipline, profession, campus, and community
- Preference is given to candidates with experience teaching the courses listed above

Work Environment: This position requires regular contact with students, faculty, and staff on campus. Additionally, the successful candidate will be required to have the ability to work with the outside community, local public schools, the media, other universities, and international schools/companies/partners.

Background Check Statement: Winthrop University is committed to providing a safe campus community. Winthrop conducts background investigations for applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include reference checks, a criminal history record check, and when appropriate, a financial (credit) report or driving history check.

Employment Conditions: A nine-month, full-time tenure track appointment with faculty rank. Salary is competitive and dependent on academic qualifications.

Position Availability: August 16, 2019

Application Timeline and Procedures:

- Apply Here Now: apply.interfolio.com/53603
- Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.
- For more information about the position, please see <http://www.winthrop.edu/hr/>.

Required Materials for Online Application When Available:

- Application letter, with evidence of major responsibilities and required qualifications
- Curriculum vitae, including names, titles, addresses, phone numbers, and e-mail addresses, if available, of at least three persons who know the candidate professionally
- Sample of representative written work (article- or chapter- length)

- Statement of “teaching philosophy, including evidence of excellence in teaching and commitment to student learning
- Three professional letters of reference
- All graduate transcripts and evidence of highest degree achieved (unofficial transcripts are acceptable for initial review; official transcripts are required prior to final appointment)

Interfolio Application Link: apply.interfolio.com/53603

Founded in 1886, Winthrop University in Rock Hill, South Carolina, offers its 6,000-plus undergraduate and graduate students an educational experience that blends liberal arts, professional programs, global awareness, and civic engagement. In its colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, and Visual and Performing Arts, Winthrop embraces only those programs and activities that can be delivered at an exemplary level. Winthrop is well known for its inclusive and supportive campus environment, with University College supporting programs in both academic and student affairs. Winthrop University is achieving national stature as a competitive and distinctive co-educational, public, residential, comprehensive, values-oriented institution. The values of service, excellence, diversity, community, and leadership provide the foundation for Winthrop’s continuing development and shape Winthrop’s continuing success. Numerous national accolades reflect the sustained high quality and value of the Winthrop Experience, including the most recent U.S. News & World Report’s ranking of Winthrop as one of the top-10 public comprehensive universities in the South. Winthrop is an active member of the Rock Hill community and recognized as a key component of the region’s economic resurgence. In addition, Winthrop is located just 30 minutes south of Charlotte, North Carolina, ranked by U.S. News & World Report in 2018 as one of the top 25 best places to live in the country. For more information, visit us at www.winthrop.edu.

Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, or veteran status. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4584

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2019.

Candidates with specializations in public law are especially welcome to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department, which also has a Master’s in Public Administration. The faculty member will teach and advise in the undergraduate program and participate as appropriate in the master’s program. The faculty member will be expected to teach courses in the public law subfield, including Introduction to Public Law, Constitutional Law: Rights and Liberties, Constitutional Law: Government Powers, and Contemporary Issues in Law. There will be opportunities to develop new courses in accordance to the faculty member’s expertise. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many under-represented minorities and first-generation college students.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, or related disciplines such as Law and Society, Law and Philosophy from an accredited university by August 1, 2019
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work as well as experience working in an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to teach constitutional law classes and other topics related to public law, including social justice and the law, civil rights, contemporary policy issues and the courts, legal philosophy, courts and the democratic process, and comparative politics and courts. Preference will also be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Instructions

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by September 14, 2018. Early response is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53294>

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate’s teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;

- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Applicants will provide contact information for recommenders during the application process and the system will contact recommenders and provide a method for uploading letters;
- A completed application form available on the application website: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53294>
- An unofficial transcript showing the highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Jill Hargis, Faculty Search Committee Chair
 Political Science Department
 California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
 Phone: 909.869.3887
 Fax: 909.869.6995
 Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

APSA Interviews

Representatives of the department will be available to meet at APSA's Placement Services. Please send a CV to mag@cpp.edu if you are interested in meeting with department representatives at APSA.

Application Process

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/~police/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 9/14/2018
Date Posted: 8/13/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4579

University of Utah

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Criminal Justice

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in American politics with a focus in public law and the courts. This appointment begins July 1, 2019. To be hired, candidates must have a PhD in political science or a related field in-hand by the time of appointment.

The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and graduate (M.A. and Ph.D.) offerings. Applicants should be prepared to teach Introduction to American Government, Introduction to Law and Politics, and courses in Constitutional Law and Jurisprudence. Candidates should provide evidence of a sustainable record of high quality research and demonstrate evidence of the ability or the potential to generate extramural funding. Experience contributing to interdisciplinary research teams is also desirable. Applications received by September 24, 2018, will receive full consideration.

Applications should be filed using the online system at <http://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/80776>

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, writing sample, a statement of teaching focus and effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. As part of the cover letter or teaching statement we invite you to describe how your work and other experience contribute to the success of underrepresented students.

The University of Utah is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and does not discriminate based upon race, national origin, color, religion, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, status as a person with a disability, genetic information, or Protected Veteran status. Individuals from historically underrepresented groups, such as minorities, women, qualified persons with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply. Veterans' preference is extended to qualified applicants, upon request and consistent with University policy and Utah state law. Upon request, reasonable accommodations in the application process will be provided to individuals with disabilities. To inquire about the University's nondiscrimination or affirmative action policies or to request disability accommodation, please contact: Director, Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, 201 S. Presidents Circle, Rm 135, (801) 581-8365.

The University of Utah values candidates who have experience working in settings with students from diverse backgrounds, and possess a strong commitment to improving access to higher education for historically underrepresented students. The University of Utah offers unparalleled opportunities for interdisciplinary collaborative research. The university is home to the Scientific Computing and Imaging Institute (SCI), the Center for High Performance Computing (CHPC), the Global Change and Sustainability Center (GCSC), and a new "iNterdisciplinary EXchange for Utah Science" (NEXUS) research center housed within our new building.

The University is a participating employer with Utah Retirement Systems ("URS"). To be eligible for retirement contributions, you must be hired into a benefit-eligible position. Employees with prior URS service may elect to enroll in the URS within 30 days of hire. Regardless of whether they are hired into a benefit-eligible position or not, individuals who previously retired and are receiving monthly retirement benefits from URS must notify the Benefits Department upon hire. Please contact Utah Retirement Systems at (801)366-7770 or (800)695-4877 or the University's Benefits Department at (801)581-7447 for information. This position may require the successful completion of a criminal background check and/or drug screen and immunizations.

Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Matthew Burbank: mburbank@poli-sci.utah.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4567

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; urban politics, civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; feminist legal studies; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2019. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications, and effective written and oral communication. We are especially interested in candidates who have a long-term interest in helping to develop and advise students in Muhlenberg's pre-law program.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates should also submit a separate statement describing how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, applicants can find the latest updates to the College's Diversity Strategic Plan at: <http://www.muhlenberg.edu/main/aboutus/president/initiatives/diversityatmuhlenberg/>.

Complete applications should be sent via email as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair to: pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. In order to receive full consideration, applications must be received by September 17, 2018.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in eastern Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley. Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4457

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4428

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Select "Apply" to be redirected to Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4429

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Please navigate to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11482> to apply via Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4430

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at its Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencet.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science in the area of American Politics, with a preference for candidates who also can teach courses in Public Law, Maritime Law and/or Marine Policy. This position is intended to contribute to the American Studies and the Maritime Studies programs.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding – and solution – of problems relating to the intersection of oceans and people, both through the expertise of the faculty and the education of its students who will help ensure sustainable uses of marine resources and coastal regions and cities. The Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics. Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year (or equivalent).

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must also demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2019. Position may be renewed annually. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

TO APPLY

Please navigate to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11482> to apply via Academic Jobs Online. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating your commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf. For full consideration, online applications should be received no later than October 1, 2018.

Questions about the position may be sent to Lindsay Halle, Administrative Coordinator (Lindsay.halle@uconn.edu)

Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check (Search #2019011).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at: <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 7/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4431

Indiana University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Chinese Economics and Trade

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Law

Specializations: Asian American Politics, East Asia, Political Theory

Indiana University's School of Global and International Studies seeks a full-time tenure-track assistant professor in Chinese Economics and Trade to begin fall 2019. The position is in the School's renowned multidisciplinary Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures. We welcome candidates who hold a Ph.D. in economics, international studies, law, political science, or sociology. Candidates must have active research agendas involving Chinese-language sources and field-work experience in China.

The successful candidate will hold the endowed GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair of Chinese Economics and Trade. The teaching load is two courses per semester, and position responsibilities include teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels. This is an exciting moment to join the new and expanding School of Global and International Studies as it leads Indiana University's international research and teaching missions. The East Asian Languages and Cultures Department is over fifty years old and has a long history of teaching across many disciplines, including such social science fields as political economy and sociology. EALC's teaching and research missions have also benefitted since the founding of the School of Global and International Studies from increasing synergies with our allied Department of International Studies and other area studies units.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree or clear indication that the degree will be in hand by July 31, 2019. All applications received by October 5, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application; CV; three letters of recommendation; official transcripts of graduate studies; a 25-30 page writing sample at: <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com>. Questions regarding the position or application process may be directed to Prof. Gardner Bovington, Chair, Search Committee for the GLP-Ming Z. Mei Chair in Chinese Economics and Trade, Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures, Global and International Studies Building 2035, 355 N. Jordan Ave., Bloomington, IN 47405-1105, or via e-mail at: gbovingd@indiana.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/5/2018

Date Posted: 7/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4396

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Constitutional Law and Legal Philosophy

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2019-2020

Areas of Specialization: Constitutional Law, Legal Philosophy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in law and upper-level courses focused on constitutional case law and jurisprudence. Within two years, the successful candidate will be expected to assume the directorship of the Law and American Civilization (LWAC) program, an interdisciplinary program housed within the department. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2019. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Directorship of LWAC will count as a course. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; syllabi of any courses taught; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252. Please reference search: CLA-N-3202.

Application review will begin in October. Initial committee review will end on December 15, 2018.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/15/2018
Date Posted: 6/27/2018
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 4333

PUBLIC POLICY

Humboldt State University

Rank: Faculty Tenure-Track - Department of Politics

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Faculty Tenure-Track - Department of Politics

Humboldt State University

Vacancy Announcement

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2019

Department of Politics

JOB #1920-11

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty, staff, and administrators of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state

DESCRIPTION:Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher and scholar of global politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS:We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with considerable progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- Evidence of, or potential for, effective teaching using a variety of methodologies;
- Commitment to and/or experience fostering a learning environment that supports individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- Evidence of commitment to equity and inclusion in pedagogy and curricula;
- Evidence of, or potential for, scholarly productivity in the field of global politics;
- Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;

- Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.) and willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

Experience with first year student learning communities or other first year initiatives is preferred.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty Immigration Resources page: <https://extended.humboldt.edu/international-programs/immigration/faculty>.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

Professional Duties: At HSU, teaching effectiveness is essential for faculty retention, tenure, and promotion. Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong record of scholarship. Instructional assignments are expected to include introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations. We anticipate that candidates will also teach some combination of upper-division courses in our Global Politics concentration, on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, global governance, political economy, foreign policy, or a course focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; scholarship; and service to the University, profession and to the community. Related responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions including assessment of learning. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first two years of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

General Information: The Department of Politics is strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. We offer our majors three distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." For more information, please visit: politics.humboldt.edu

Application: Qualified candidates should submit the following materials through Interfolio:

Click here to apply: <http://apptrkr.com/1299595>

- Letter of application;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Sample of scholarly work, such as a journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter;

- Statement of teaching philosophy;
- Sample syllabi;
- Teaching evaluations (if available);
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- Three letters of recommendation.

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #1920-11.

Additional application materials may be requested at a later time.

Please direct any questions pertaining to this position, the Department of Politics, or Humboldt State University to:

Dr. Noah Zerbe, Search Committee Chair

Department of Politics

Humboldt State University

One Harpst Street

Arcata, California 95521-8299

Phone (707) 826-4494

Email: <mailto:globalpoliticssearch@humboldt.edu>

Application Deadline: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 31, 2018. Early response is encouraged.

See more photos at Humboldt State University's Flickr page.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU. Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'limited reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017 are subject to a 10 year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or <mailto:hsuhr@humboldt.edu>.

HSU is committed to enriching its educational environment and its culture through the diversity of its staff, faculty, and administration. Persons with interest and experience in helping organizations set and achieve goals relative to diversity and inclusion are especially encouraged to apply.

Human Resources

Siemens Hall - Room 211

Arcata, CA 95521-8299

(707) 826-3626

Fax: (707) 826-3625

<http://www.humboldt.edu/jobs>

Email: careers@humboldt.edu

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Incorrect or improperly completed applications will not be considered for vacancies. Any reference in this announcement to required periods of experience or education is full-time activity. Part-time experience or education - or activities only part of which are qualifying- -will receive proportionate credit. In accordance with applicable Collective Bargaining Agreements, preference may be given to the campus applicants covered by these agreements. However, positions are open to all interested applicants, both on and off campus.

Evidence of required degree(s), certification(s), or license(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. The successful candidate for a position at HSU is required to be fingerprinted through the Humboldt State University Police Department or their local law enforcement agency. The results of the fingerprint process must be received by the university prior to the candidate's appointment. The cost of the fingerprinting is borne by the university.

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty and staff of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state. Additional information about Humboldt State University can be found at <http://www.humboldt.edu>.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status.

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/>

jeid-54b149bdf3a9e349996d9b08dcf1fb15

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/26/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4909New York University Arts and Science*Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental StudiesSubfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative PoliticsSpecializations: Environmental Policy, Urban Politics, Economic Policy

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies
Department of Environmental Studies
New York University Arts and Science

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for two tenure-track positions (at the rank of Assistant Professor). The appointments will begin September 1, 2019, pending administrative and budgetary approval. The successful applicant will be an interdisciplinary scholar with a strong record of research and publishing who is ready to contribute to the education of undergraduates majoring in Environmental Studies and to at least one of two new graduate programs being launched by the department (Environmental Systems Studies and Animal Studies). We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in global environmental governance or urban ecology. We welcome candidates from a broad range of social science, physical science, and policy backgrounds (e.g., environmental studies, earth science, urban studies, ecology, political science, sociology, economics, public policy, geography).

Candidates should possess a Ph.D. by August 31, 2019, have a research program that demonstrates the potential to be a leader in the field of Environmental Studies, and have proven the ability to be an excellent teacher. Candidates should apply with a cover letter, CV, three (3) confidential letters of recommendation, a research and teaching statement, and two exemplary writing samples. Because diversity is an important part of the NYU mission, we request that you include a paragraph in your cover letter telling us how diversity figures into your past, present, and future teaching, research, and community engagement.

?

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2018 and will continue until the search is complete. More information is available at <http://as.nyu.edu/environment/employment.html>

To apply, please go to the following: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53172>

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here (<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>).

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/26/2018Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 4905University of Florida*Rank: Lecturer - Public Policy (American/Europe)

Lecturer - Public Policy (American/Europe)

University of Florida: College of Liberal Arts & Sciences: 16380000
- LS-POLITICAL SCIENCE. Gainesville, FL

Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track Lecturer position in Public Policy to begin August 16, 2019. The prospective hire is expected to contribute to our Department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. Specialization within the field of Public Policy is open, but substantive interests should be in keeping with the broad themes of Race and Ethnicity, Representation and Justice, Gender and other categories of Identity, and the Politics of Inequality. The ideal candidate must be well-versed in scholarship on how women, racial and ethnic minorities, citizens and noncitizens, the LGBT community, or disadvantaged groups are represented by the political system and how they are differentially impacted by a variety of policies at the national and subnational levels. Applicants should be able to offer public policy courses at the graduate and undergraduate level on such topics and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors earning a Public Affairs Certificate, assist with coordinating undergraduate policy-related internships, develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors & Junior Fellows programs. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per fall and three courses per spring semester, but a reduction in teaching is possible with significant service to the department. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (<http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>) to learn more about the Department of Political Science.

Qualifications

Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/55348> and must include:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests/plans

4. Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
5. Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
6. One article reprint or pre-print
7. Three confidential letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018, and the position will remain open until filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4906

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: Professor of Public Policy

The University of Michigan's Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy invites applications from social scientists with a PhD in sociology, social psychology, social demography, social policy, public policy or other closely-related disciplines for one or more tenured positions at the associate or full professor rank. The Ford School is committed to attracting and retaining a distinguished and diverse faculty. Areas of specialization and methodological approaches are open, with a particular interest in candidates whose scholarship addresses questions relating to poverty and inequality, stratification, economic sociology, science and technology studies and the sociology of diverse societies (including political sociology and race/ethnicity). Focus may be domestic/US or comparative. Successful candidates must demonstrate a record of outstanding research impact; ability and willingness to teach core and elective courses in undergraduate, master and PhD degree programs in public policy; dedication to public engagement; and a keen interest in interacting with students, faculty, staff, and policy practitioners in an interdisciplinary professional school environment. Candidates should combine relevant substantive expertise with strong interests in public policy.

This is an ongoing search. First consideration will be given to applications received by December 1, 2018, but applications will be considered until the position is filled. Interested applicants may upload their application materials to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/54665>

The following application materials are required: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching philosophy, and a statement describing how your work would contribute to the Ford School's and University of Michigan's strategic commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion. (fordschool.umich.edu/dei)

The University of Michigan is an AA/EQ employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is supportive of the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4902

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from across the social sciences working in any area of the world on issues that can be understood in a comparative global context. Scholars of all nationalities who have received their PhDs within two years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows in other programs are not eligible to apply. As full members of the Watson Institute's scholarly community, fellows are required to be in residence during the academic year. Fellows will receive an annual stipend of $60,000, for this benefits eligible position. Additional funding will be made available for conference-related travel, research expenses, and research-related programming on campus. Candidates selected for the Postdoctoral Fellows program who have not completed their dissertations by July 1, 2019, will be paid a reduced salary until their dissertation is defended.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 22, 2018, to the application portal <http://apply.interfolio.com/54227>

A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample.

Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 22; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2019.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website (watson.brown.edu) or contact:

Professor J. Nicholas Ziegler, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. J_Ziegler@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/22/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 4889

Duquesne University

Rank: Full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

AMERICAN POLITICS

Assistant Professor of Political Science, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts, Duquesne University

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests in any aspect of American politics, policy, and law. The ability to teach Constitutional law to undergraduates would be welcome. Candidates will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body. Duquesne is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources.

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on November 1, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Ph.D. by start date is strongly preferred. Applications from female and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted directly to <http://apply.interfolio.com/54864>. Start date is August 15, 2019. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Ms. Cheri Cunningham at cunningc@duq.edu.

Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and through service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world." We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting <http://www.duq.edu/about/mission-and-identity/mission-statement>. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked about ways in which they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4887

Duquesne University

Rank: Full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

AMERICAN POLITICS

Assistant Professor of Political Science, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts, Duquesne University

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests in any aspect of American politics, policy, and law. The ability to teach Constitutional law to undergraduates would be welcome. Candidates will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body. Duquesne is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources.

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on November 1, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. Ph.D. by start date is strongly preferred. Applications from female and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted directly to <http://apply.interfolio.com/54864>. Start date is August 15, 2019. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Ms. Cheri Cunningham at cunningc@duq.edu.

Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and through service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world." We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting <http://www.duq.edu/about/mission-and-identity/mission-statement>. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked about ways in which they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Duquesne University values equality of opportunity as an educational institution and as an employer. We aspire to attract and sustain a diverse faculty and staff that reflects contemporary society, serves our academic goals and enriches our campus community. We particularly encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups and support dual-career couples through our charter membership in this region's HERC (<http://www.hercjobs.org/oh-western-pa-wv/>).

Start Date: Fall 2019
Date Posted: 9/25/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4888

Indiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Indiana State University (www.indstate.edu) invites applications for an American politics position at the assistant professor rank to begin in August 2019. The department's mission is tied to community engagement and experiential learning, and the successful candidate must demonstrate a willingness to promote those aims via teaching, research, and activities outside the classroom. Indiana State University is a comprehensive institution of higher learning with approximately 14,000 students.

The candidate selected will become the ninth full-time faculty member of the Department of Political Science, which offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Legal Studies. We also offer an online MPA program that draws students from Indiana and across the United States. Applicants should demonstrate the potential for both productive scholarship and effective teaching. We seek a new colleague trained in American politics, with an emphasis in public policy formation, implementation, and/or analysis. The successful candidate will be able to contribute introductory and upper division courses to the department's political science undergraduate program. The successful candidate will also offer courses in ISU's Foundational Studies curriculum the instructions of which would include, among other topics, ethics and social responsibility in a political context. Furthermore, the ability to contribute courses to the Master of Public Administration in the areas of public policy, nonprofit management, community development, and/or public-private partnerships is desired.

The typical teaching load for assistant professors in the department is 3 courses per semester, with an active research agenda and service responsibilities also expected. Review of applications will begin on October 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications completed by October 25 will be given full consideration. A Ph.D. at the time of the appointment in Political Science or in a closely related field is preferred. We will consider advanced ABDs who are able to demonstrate that they will have the Ph.D. in hand at that time.

Indiana State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and conducts its recruitment and hiring based solely upon job-related qualifications, without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, veteran status or citizenship status. The College of Arts and Sciences welcomes all faculty, staff, and students, regardless of identity or affiliation. The College values the contribution of all individuals in the execution of its primary mission, which is to educate undergraduate and graduate students. To that end, we will strive to attract representative staff and faculty. The College will actively support endeavors that embrace and explore human differences and global awareness. View the diversity plan at <https://www.indstate.edu/cas/diversity-plan>. Questions may be addressed to polisci@indstate.edu. Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.indstate.edu>. Please include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a teaching philosophy statement), three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4891

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: Professor of Public Policy

Specializations: Science & Technology, Gender Politics & Policy, Political Philosophy & Theory

The University of Michigan's Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy invites applications from social scientists with a PhD in political science, government, public policy or other closely-related disciplines for one or more tenured positions at the associate or full professor rank. The Ford School is committed to attracting and retaining a distinguished and diverse faculty. Areas of specialization and methodological approaches are open, with a particular interest in candidates whose scholarship addresses questions relating to poverty and inequality, politics in diverse societies, concentration of power and wealth, and science and technology policy. Focus may be domestic/US or comparative. Successful candidates must demonstrate a record of outstanding research impact; ability and willingness to teach core and elective courses in undergraduate, master and PhD degree programs in public policy; dedication to public engagement; and a keen interest in interacting with students, faculty, staff, and policy practitioners in an interdisciplinary professional school environment. Candidates should combine relevant substantive expertise with strong interests in public policy.

This is an ongoing search. First consideration will be given to applications received by December 1, 2018, but applications will be considered until the position is filled. Interested applicants may upload their application materials to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/54666>

The following application materials are required: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching philosophy, and a statement describing how your work would contribute to the Ford School's and University of Michigan's strategic commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion. (fordschool.umich.edu/dei)

The University of Michigan is an AA/EO employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is supportive of the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4885

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor Focused on Korean Politics and Public Policy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science and the Truman School of Public Affairs at the University of Missouri invite applications for a tenure track assistant professor position focused on Korean politics and public policy (Job Opening ID 27940), to begin in the Fall Semester of 2019. Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda, strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Additional expectations include active engagement with the University of Missouri Institute for Korean Studies and facilitation of connections between the University of Missouri and Korea.

Applicants from all subfields of political science, public policy and public management whose research has an emphasis on Korea are encouraged to apply. An earned doctorate in political science, public policy, public affairs or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Candidates should submit their curriculum vitae, a cover letter, writing samples, and three current letters of recommendation. The cover letter should address the following: current and future research, teaching interests in both political science and public affairs, and how the applicant envisions engaging in Korean Studies and with universities in Korea. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15. Women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

The University of Missouri is fully committed to achieving the goal of a diverse and inclusive academic community of faculty, staff, and students. We seek individuals who are committed to this goal and our core campus values of respect, responsibility, discovery, and excellence. The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please contact the Office of Accessibility & ADA Education at 573-884-7278 or CheekA@missouri.edu.

Please apply on-line at: <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic>. When applying reference Job Opening ID 27940. Use the online application and be prepared to upload your CV, a brief cover letter, writing samples, and a research statement. Reference letters should be sent electronically to MUTSPADirector@missouri.edu or by hard copy to: Mary Stegmaier, Co-Chair of Search Committee; 113 Middlebush;

University of Missouri, Columbia, MO 65211-0630. Applicants may contact the Chairs of the Search Committee Jonathan Kriekhaus (kriekhausj@missouri.edu) and Mary Stegmaier (stegmaierm@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Human Resource Services (muhrs@missouri.edu) for any questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4883

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, and Associate Professor/Professor with Tenure (Two Positions)

Specializations: Education Policy, Political Behavior, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations (LPO) in Vanderbilt University's Peabody College and the Program in Public Policy Studies within the College of Arts and Science at Vanderbilt University invite applications for two joint faculty positions: 1) a tenured associate or full professor position; and 2) an assistant professor on the tenure track, for which both new and advanced assistant professor candidates are encouraged to apply.

Ideal candidates will show evidence of substantive interest in a true joint appointment between LPO and an Arts and Science department such as economics, political science, or sociology. The primary tenure home (and, for the junior candidate, the primary evaluation unit for the tenure decision) will be either in LPO or in an A&S department, chosen in consultation with the candidate. Both positions will carry appointments with the Program in Public Policy Studies.

We seek applicants whose research employs quantitative methods to address questions of fundamental importance to public policy at the local, state, and federal levels in the areas of education, human capital accumulation, labor/workforce outcomes, human development, and/or health. For one of the positions, we seek a scholar whose research focuses on education and human and economic development in international settings and contexts.

Senior candidates should have a strong record of accomplishment and a history of working collaboratively with colleagues and students. Senior candidates should also have an exemplary record of teaching, research, and service that includes mentoring and training future researchers within his/her research projects. A successful external funding record is expected for senior candidates; for junior candidates, the potential for the research agenda to attract external funding is a plus.

The mission of the Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations is to understand and improve the political, economic, organizational, and social contexts in which human learning takes place. The department embraces a range of disciplinary traditions and encourages multiple methodological approaches in the study of education policy and practice. The department operates highly regarded masters, Ed.D., and Ph.D. programs in K-12, international, and higher education leadership and policy, as well as an undergraduate major in Human and Organizational Development. These programs are ranked among the highest in the nation.

The mission of the Program in Public Policy Studies is to prepare students to be informed and engaged consumers and producers of public policy through rigorous training in social science and social context, exposure and access to top public policy researchers and scholars, and a deep commitment to creating positive and lasting change. The Program is in the midst of exciting and substantial growth, naming a Director and hiring two tenure-track faculty in the past year and engaging in this trans-institutional search for two new faculty positions. The Program offers an undergraduate major in the College of Arts and Sciences and seeks to grow trans-institutionally in the near future. The new faculty hired under this program have the potential to play a strong role in the program's future direction.

Application Instructions

For inquiries about the position, please contact search co-chairs Carolyn Heinrich (Patricia and Rodes Hart Professor, LPO: carolyn.j.heinrich@vanderbilt.edu) and/or Kitt Carpenter (Director, PPS and Professor, Economics: christopher.s.carpenter@vanderbilt.edu).

All application materials should be submitted by November 15, 2018; review of applications will begin as they are received and continue until the positions are filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter addressing their qualifications and interest, a full curriculum vita, and a representative research paper. Senior candidates should submit the names and contact information of three people who may serve as references. Junior candidates should submit three letters of reference. All materials should be submitted via Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/55168>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4875

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, and Associate Professor/Professor with Tenure (Two Positions)

Specializations: Education Policy, Political Behavior, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations (LPO) in Vanderbilt University's Peabody College and the Program in Public Policy Studies within the College of Arts and Science at Vanderbilt University invite applications for two joint faculty positions: 1) a tenured associate or full professor position; and 2) an assistant professor on the tenure track, for which both new and advanced assistant professor candidates are encouraged to apply.

Ideal candidates will show evidence of substantive interest in a true joint appointment between LPO and an Arts and Science department such as economics, political science, or sociology. The primary tenure home (and, for the junior candidate, the primary evaluation unit for the tenure decision) will be either in LPO or in an A&S department, chosen in consultation with the candidate. Both positions will carry appointments with the Program in Public Policy Studies.

We seek applicants whose research employs quantitative methods to address questions of fundamental importance to public policy at the local, state, and federal levels in the areas of education, human capital accumulation, labor/workforce outcomes, human development, and/or health. For one of the positions, we seek a scholar whose research focuses on education and human and economic development in international settings and contexts.

Senior candidates should have a strong record of accomplishment and a history of working collaboratively with colleagues and students. Senior candidates should also have an exemplary record of teaching, research, and service that includes mentoring and training future researchers within his/her research projects. A successful external funding record is expected for senior candidates; for junior candidates, the potential for the research agenda to attract external funding is a plus.

The mission of the Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations is to understand and improve the political, economic, organizational, and social contexts in which human learning takes place. The department embraces a range of disciplinary traditions and encourages multiple methodological approaches in the study of education policy and practice. The department operates highly regarded masters, Ed.D., and Ph.D. programs in K-12, international, and higher education leadership and policy, as well as an undergraduate major in Human and Organizational Development. These programs are ranked among the highest in the nation.

The mission of the Program in Public Policy Studies is to prepare students to be informed and engaged consumers and producers of public policy through rigorous training in social science and social context, exposure and access to top public policy researchers and scholars, and a deep commitment to creating positive and lasting change. The Program is in the midst of exciting and substantial growth, naming a Director and hiring two tenure-track faculty in the past year and engaging in this trans-institutional search for two new faculty positions. The Program offers an undergraduate major in the College of Arts and Sciences and seeks to grow trans-institutionally in the near future. The new faculty hired under this program have the potential to play a strong role in the program's future direction.

Application Instructions

For inquiries about the position, please contact search co-chairs Carolyn Heinrich (Patricia and Rodes Hart Professor, LPO: carolyn.j.heinrich@vanderbilt.edu) and/or Kitt Carpenter (Director, PPS and Professor, Economics: christopher.s.carpenter@vanderbilt.edu).

All application materials should be submitted by November 15, 2018; review of applications will begin as they are received and continue until the positions are filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter addressing their qualifications and interest, a full curriculum vita, and a representative research paper. Senior candidates should submit the names and contact information of three people who may serve as references. Junior candidates should submit three letters of reference. All materials should be submitted via Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/55161>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4876

Purdue University, Northwest

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics and Public Policy

The Department of Political Science, Economics, and World Languages and Cultures at Purdue University Northwest in Hammond and Westville, Indiana, invites applications for a Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Politics and Public Policy position starting on August 12, 2019.

The Department of Political Science, Economics, and World Languages and Cultures brings together scholars in political science, economics and foreign languages, creating unique synergies between its faculty, particularly with respect to public policy within political science and economics. With undergraduate majors and minors in Foreign Languages and Political Science, as well as a new minor in Economics, the department seeks to expand its public policy and state and local government focus.

Purdue University Northwest is an academically comprehensive regional university and part of the internationally respected Purdue

University system. The campuses are located in the northwest Indiana cities of Hammond, less than 25 miles southeast of downtown Chicago, and Westville, near the shores of Lake Michigan. Purdue University Northwest offers baccalaureate and master's degrees in such Purdue academic strengths as engineering; technologies; behavioral and social sciences; liberal arts; as well as professional programs consisting of nursing, business, education, and hospitality & tourism management. More than 12,000 students attend Purdue University Northwest. Adding to the unique character of the institution is a richly diverse student body including more than seven percent international students.

Essential Duties:

- Teaching multiple sections of the introductory courses in American Politics, as well as public policy courses in area of specialization.
- Teaching load will be three courses per semester.
- Participation in professional, university, and community service is expected.
- Opportunities for interacting with regional organizations and businesses are excellent and encouraged.
- Candidates with the ability to teach: introduction to international relations; introduction to public policy, state and local politics or immigration politics are strongly encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

A doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field is required. Applications from ABD candidates will be accepted with the expectation that the dissertation must be successfully defended by no later than January 1, 2019. Proficiency in English, written and spoken, is required.

Additional Information:

This position begins August 12, 2019. Interested applicants should submit a letter of application, vita with references, Letters of recommendation, and a statement of teaching philosophy to the address listed below. Electronic submission preferred. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled with a preferred date of Oct. 15, 2018.

Purdue University Northwest is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Political Science Search Committee

College of Humanities, Education and Social Sciences
Purdue University Northwest
2200 169th Street
Hammond, IN 46323
poljobs@pnw.edu

Purdue University Northwest offers an attractive salary and an excellent benefits package. For information regarding our excellent benefits package, please visit: www.purdue.edu/benefits

Professional references will be verified prior to any offer of employment. Employment is contingent upon completion of successful background check.

Purdue University Northwest is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Purdue University is an equal opportunity/equal access/affirmative action employer fully committed to achieving a diverse workforce. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

www.purdue.edu/ethics/policies/FosteringRespect_accessible.pdf

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4861

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral or more senior research positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas, in developing a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by Program/Center Directors and the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center, subject to approval by Program/Center/School Directors or Chairs.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from candidates who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, September 1, 2019. Applicants should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these and other areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2019, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application:

A complete application will include the following materials: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/7461>

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Monday, November 12, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 15, 2018. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2019.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/12/2018

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4853

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Water & Society

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Science & Technology

The School of the Earth, Ocean, and Environment invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin August 16, 2019. We seek an individual with outstanding research and teaching capabilities and interests that focus on the intersection of water and society. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in the social sciences (economics, environmental science, environmental studies, geography, public policy, political science, regional and urban planning, science and technology studies, sociology, or related fields). The specific area of expertise is open, but applicants' research must lie at the intersection of social and water issues, freshwater or marine, and should demonstrate specialization in areas including, but not limited to, water policy, politics, resources, or planning.

We seek candidates whose scholarship is methodologically rigorous, grounded in theory, and who can work across disciplinary boundaries to produce innovative research and teaching. Preferred candidates will have interdisciplinary training that spans both the biophysical and societal dimensions of water, a demonstrated interest in conducting interdisciplinary research, a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring, and an interest in research that can be applied in non-academic settings.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a leading research program capable of attracting external funding and is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment. The School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment (https://www.sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/earth_ocean_and_environment/index.php) is a multidisciplinary unit of approximately 600 undergraduate students, more than 80 graduate students, and 32 faculty representing research areas ranging from Earth and Ocean Sciences to Environmental Policy and History. Potential collaborative interactions exist within the School and with other units across the University. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses that support interdisciplinary degrees in Environmental Studies and Environmental Science as well as upper-level undergraduate and graduate level courses related to the candidate's specialty, with a standard teaching load of two courses per semester. Cross appointment with an appropriate unit at the University of South Carolina is possible, depending on the candidate's expertise.

All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/40377>. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, research statement, statement of teaching interests, contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. For more information please contact: Scott White, Water and Society Search Committee Chair, School of the Earth, Ocean & Environment, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208, swhite@seoe.sc.edu.

To ensure full consideration, applications and letters should be received by October 12, 2018. The committee will review files until a candidate is selected.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 4851

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Water & Society

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Science & Technology

The School of the Earth, Ocean, and Environment invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin August 16, 2019. We seek an individual with outstanding research and teaching capabilities and interests that focus on the intersection of water and society. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in the social sciences (economics, environmental science, environmental studies, geography, public policy, political science, regional and urban planning, science and technology studies, sociology, or related fields). The specific area of expertise is open, but applicants' research must lie at the intersection of social and water issues, freshwater or marine, and should demonstrate specialization in areas including, but not limited to, water policy, politics, resources, or planning.

We seek candidates whose scholarship is methodologically rigorous, grounded in theory, and who can work across disciplinary boundaries to produce innovative research and teaching. Preferred candidates will have interdisciplinary training that spans both the biophysical and societal dimensions of water, a demonstrated interest in conducting interdisciplinary research, a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring, and an interest in research that can be applied in non-academic settings.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a leading research program capable of attracting external funding and is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment. The School of the Earth, Ocean and Environment (https://www.sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/earth_ocean_and_environment/index.php) is a multidisciplinary unit of approximately 600 undergraduate students, more than 80 graduate students, and 32 faculty representing research areas ranging from Earth and Ocean Sciences to Environmental Policy and History. Potential collaborative interactions exist within the School and with other units across the University. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses that support interdisciplinary degrees in Environmental Studies and Environmental Science as well as upper-level undergraduate and graduate level courses related to the candidate's specialty, with a standard teaching load of two courses per semester. Cross appointment with an appropriate unit at the University of South Carolina is possible, depending on the candidate's expertise.

All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/40377>. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, research statement, statement of teaching interests, contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. For more information please contact: Scott White, Water and Society Search Committee Chair, School of the Earth, Ocean & Environment, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208, swhite@seoe.sc.edu.

To ensure full consideration, applications and letters should be received by October 12, 2018. The committee will review files until a candidate is selected.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2018

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 4852

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Professor of Education Policy in Equity and Inclusion

Subfield(s): Other, Methodology, Public Policy

The Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations at Peabody College of Education and Human Development at Vanderbilt University invites applications for the position of Professor of Education Policy in Equity and Inclusion. We seek distinguished applicants trained in the social sciences who study the ways in which education creates advantages and disadvantages for different individuals and groups in the United States. We are interested in a scholar whose work addresses the effectiveness of the nation's K-16 education system as a site for civic empowerment and social and economic mobility, and whose research critically examines fundamental questions around the role of schools and/or colleges in the achievement of an equitable, inclusive, and diverse society.

Candidates should possess an exemplary record of scholarly accomplishment and a demonstrated capacity to work collaboratively with colleagues commensurate with the rank of full professor. A successful record of external funding is expected. The successful candidate will have experience mentoring and training doctoral students for careers in academia and closely allied research organizations, and commitments to teaching undergraduate and professional degree students.

The mission of the Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations is to understand and improve the political, economic, organizational, and social contexts in which human learning takes place. The department embraces a range of disciplinary traditions and encourages multiple methodological approaches in the study of education policy and practice.

The department operates highly regarded programs and degrees at the undergraduate, master's, and doctoral level, including professional master's degree programs; an on-campus Ed.D. program in K-12 and in higher education leadership and policy; an online Ed.D. in leadership and learning in organizations; a Ph.D. program in K-12 and in higher education leadership and policy; and an undergraduate degree in Human and Organizational Development. For more information on the department, visit our website: <http://peabody.vanderbilt.edu/departments/lpo/index.php>

Applications

Review of formal applications will begin December 1, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. The anticipated start date is August 2019. Applicants should submit a letter addressing their qualifications and interests, a full curriculum vitae, three recent peer-reviewed publications, and the names and contact information of three references. Please apply at the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/53826>

For questions about the position, please contact:

Ellen Goldring
 Patricia and Rodes Hart Chair
 Professor of Education Policy and Leadership
 Chair, Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations
 Peabody #414, 230 Appleton Place
 Nashville, TN 37203
ellen.goldring@vanderbilt.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 12/1/2018
Date Posted: 9/18/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4849

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Policy Analysis/ Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Management
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Trade

Texas A&M University, Bush School of Government and Public Service,
 Department of Public Service and Administration

Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Policy Analysis

The Department of Public Service and Administration in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant or tenured associate professor to teach in the Public Policy Analysis track of its Master of Public Service and Administration Program. Energy or environmental economists with a strong record of, or high potential for, research and teaching in public policy issues are preferred, although candidates from all fields of public policy and applied economics will be considered. Candidates will be expected to build on existing strengths and bolster the capacity of the School to participate in campus-wide multidisciplinary research initiatives and new or existing programs of the Institute for Science, Technology, and Public Policy and the Mosbacher Institute for Trade, Economics, and Public Policy. Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. by the beginning of employment in September 2019 and demonstrate evidence of a commitment both to high quality empirical research and to teaching in a professional school of government and public service.

The Department of Public Service and Administration is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu/psaa>.

As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications from women, minorities, and persons with disabilities.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, letter of interest, at least one writing sample, and complete contact information for 3 references. Letters of reference, while not required at this stage, may also be sent. Please send applications to the PPA Search Committee, c/o Ms. Stephanie Bustos, at bushschoolpsaa-facultysearch@tamu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

=====

Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Management

The Department of Public Service and Administration in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track assistant professor or tenured associate professor in public management who will contribute to the department in the areas of teaching, research and service. Successful applicants must have a Ph.D. by the beginning of employment in September 2019 and demonstrate evidence of a commitment both to high quality empirical research and to teaching in a professional school of government and public service.

The Department of Public Service and Administration is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service and currently enrolls 174 full-time in-residence students, with 22 full-time and 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty members. It offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for “Best Value in MPA Programs” (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public and nonprofit service. Students choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; analytical methods; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu/psaa>.

As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective. Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications from women, minorities and persons with disabilities.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, letter of interest, at least one writing sample, and complete contact information for 3 references. Letters of reference, while not required at this stage, may also be sent. Please send applications to the PPM Search Committee, c/o Ms. Stephanie Bustos, at bushschoolpsaa-facultysearch@tamu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/14/2018
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4840

Temple University

Rank: Assistant Professor in State/Local/Urban Policy and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in American politics focusing on state, local, or urban policy, politics, and governance. We are interested in candidates whose research and teaching engages any policy area. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching. Evidence of external grant/fellowship support is desirable. Teaching a survey course in state and local politics and policy on a regular basis is expected. Temple University is a state-related Carnegie Research University (highest research activity) located in Philadelphia. The College of Liberal Arts is home to 32 undergraduate majors, 32 minors, 23 certificate programs and 15 graduate degree programs. With its vibrant and diverse array of educational programs, the College of Liberal Arts plays a tremendous role in Temple University's academic success and its mission mirrors both the historical importance of the liberal arts in society and the principles on which the university was founded. Candidates are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/54756>. Applications received by October 15, 2018 will receive best consideration. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/16/2018

Date Posted: 9/12/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4825

Drake University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Drake University seeks a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science in American Politics, focusing on public policy and policy analysis. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in Political Science (ABDs with solid evidence of completion by the start of the Fall 2019 semester will be considered) and demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence. Teaching responsibilities include the introductory American Politics course and upper level courses covering domestic public policy (process and theory), policy analysis, and topics consistent with the individual's research specialization. Located in the fastest growing city in the Midwest and the state capital of Des Moines, Iowa, Drake is a hub of political activity during the Iowa caucuses and offers exceptional opportunities for experiential learning, student engagement, and scholarship on policy formulation and discourse in local, state, and national contexts. Salary is competitive with peer schools and dependent on qualifications and experience. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018. To apply, go to <https://drake.hiretouch.com> and submit a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, evidence of teaching effectiveness (including sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a statement on teaching philosophy), and a writing sample. Questions may be directed to the search committee chair at Rachel.caufield@drake.edu.

<https://drake.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=50547&job=assistant-professor-of-politics-998795><https://drake.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=50547&job=assistant-professor-of-politics-998795>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4806

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship in Regional Political Economy Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Southeast Asia, Africa

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2019-2020 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 3, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8571>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 6, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4801

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 for the 2019-2020 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 – July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 30, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8569>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2019 in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 5, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4800

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellowship in Regional Political Economy Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Middle East, Africa

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2019-2020 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 3, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8581>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 6, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4803

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellowship Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2019-2020 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 30, 2018 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8570>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 5, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2019. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 9/11/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4799

Syracuse University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, Economics of Aging

Specializations: Health Care, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) seeks to hire a tenured or tenure track professor in the field of economics of aging, at the advanced Assistant or Associate Professor level, beginning in fall 2019.

We are interested in attracting an established scholar with credentials in the economics of aging. A broad range of research topics or specialties is relevant, including retirement and economic well-being; wealth and bequests; public health, health policy, and health service use; disability and its consequences; intergenerational transfers; public policy analysis and evaluation; and international or comparative studies. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the department's Masters and PhD programs. This individual will also be expected to become a faculty associate in the University's Aging Studies Institute, joining its interdisciplinary team of researchers. Therefore, a track record of collaborative research output is particularly desirable; a track record of success in obtaining research support, particularly from the National Institute on Aging or other NIH institutes, is especially desirable.

The PAIA department is located within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. The school is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. The department seeks candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission, have interdisciplinary interests and are interested in training future leaders.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in economics or a related field. Rank and salary will be commensurate with degree field, experience, and professional accomplishments.

To be considered, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/postings/074067>) and attach: a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, names and complete contact information for 3 references. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 15. However, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4798

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of domestic or comparative public policy

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in the field of domestic or comparative public policy. Preference will be given to public policy candidates who complement our existing strengths. Candidates should have received their PhD by August 15, 2019 and show promise of high-quality research in top scholarly outlets as well as excellence in teaching. The expected teaching assignment is 2-2, and the position will involve teaching in the field of public policy.

All application packages can be submitted online via the Faculty Career Opportunities website (<https://umiami.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UMFaculty>) and all documents can be uploaded via this site.

Applicants should upload documents including a CV; a cover letter; a one page teaching statement with a list of possible courses the applicant could teach, including but not limited to our existing course offerings; a PhD transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application); a single-authored writing sample; as well as three reference letters to be submitted via this site as well. Applications received on or before Friday, November 2nd, 2018, will be given full consideration, though the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. Search committee members will be available to meet with prospective applicants at APSA and APAM. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (jwest@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4802

Boston University

Rank: Part Time Lecturer - IR, Foreign Policy Devisonmaking, or Diplomacy

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks part time, adjunct faculty for spring 2019-2020 to teach an undergraduate lecture course in international relations, foreign policy decisionmaking, or diplomacy. Applicants should be ABD or hold a PhD in a relevant field. Please send a resume, letter of interest, and the names of three references to Wes Soper, Department Administrator, Department of Political Science, Boston University, by 17 September 2018. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4778

Boston University

Rank: Part Time Lecturer, Public Policy or the Policymaking Process

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks part time, adjunct faculty for spring 2019-2020 to teach an undergraduate lecture course in public policy or the policymaking process, broadly defined. Applicants should be ABD or hold a PhD in a relevant field. Please send a resume, letter of interest, and the names of three references to Wes Soper, Department Administrator, Department of Political Science, Boston University by 17 September 2018. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018
Date Posted: 9/6/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4777

SUNY, University at Albany
Rank: Fellow (Job ID: 2018-1840)

The Brookings Institution

Equal-Opportunity Employer: It is Brookings policy to provide equal employment opportunity for all of its employees and applicants without regard to their actual or perceived race, color, religion, sex, age, disability, national origin, ancestry, sexual orientation, marital status, personal appearance, citizenship status, family responsibilities, gender identity or expression, genetic information, matriculation, political affiliation, veteran status, or any other prohibited basis of discrimination as required by law.

Program Governance Studies
 Job Function Research
 Posted Date 2018-08-31
 Job ID 2018-1840
 Salary Commensurate with experience
 Overview

The Governance Studies program at The Brookings Institution ("Brookings") is accepting applications for a two year Fellow appointment in support of Lawfare, a high-impact, rapidly-growing, nonpartisan website examining issues at the intersection of national security and the law, published in cooperation with Brookings. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise in national security policy, a working knowledge of and strong interest in Congress and legislative politics, and experience reading and analyzing legislation.

About Us:

The Governance Studies program at Brookings aims to be the leading, independent voice in the domestic policymaking sphere through analyzing policy issues, political institutions and processes, and contemporary governance challenges. Lawfare, founded as a small blog in 2010, has grown to become one of the nation's most trusted sources of information and analysis on issues of national security law, covering a broad range of issues from cybersecurity and terrorism investigations to war powers and government surveillance.

Responsibilities

The Fellow will have the opportunity to join the Lawfare editorial team and contribute to Lawfare's unparalleled analysis of complex challenges in the US national security arena, specifically as it intersects with Congress and legislative politics. This includes: writing thoughtful summaries and analyses of passed and proposed legislation for publication on the site, translating complex, technical documents for wider audience consumption, participating in relevant events, and discussing topics on the Lawfare podcast. As a part of the editorial team, the Fellow will collaborate with multiple stakeholders to edit works for publication and generate ideas for site content in a fast-paced, deadline-driven environment. She/he will also have the opportunity to do independent research within the Governance Studies program at Brookings.

Qualifications

A minimum of Master's degree is required. Demonstrated expertise in national security policy, and a basic knowledge of and strong interest in congressional and legislative politics. The successful candidate will have a rare combination of superlative writing and editing skills, familiarity with Congress and congressional procedure, and experience reading and analyzing legislation. Candidates should have 1-3 years post-graduate experience in legislative affairs, national security, and/or legal procedure. He/she should also be able to work well as a part of a team, thrive in a fast-paced, deadline-driven environment, and react quickly to changes in the news cycle.

Additional Information:

Brookings requires that all applicants submit a cover letter and resume. Please attach your cover letter and resume as one document when you apply. Applicants must submit the following documents:

- CV with a list of publications
- Cover letter describing research interests
- Writing sample

Salary will be commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience. Starting date is negotiable; however, filling the position by November 1, 2018 is strongly preferred.

Successful completion of a background investigation is required for employment at Brookings.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/m2n54z8nscvk9hyv>

PI104225230

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/6/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4789

University of Wisconsin, Madison
Rank: ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The selected candidates will conduct productive research and be committed to teaching in core public management topics.

The selected scholar will perform research and teaching in the areas of economic development and state and local public finance. This scholar would be expected to teach courses in public budgeting and economic development. For this position, the strongest candidate would be a scholar who is capable and interested in engaging in public dialogues, including interactions with the media, related to economic development and state and local public finance, as well as in advising state and local government officials on these topics. University and professional service as appropriate are required.

The La Follette School is a highly ranked school of public affairs, and one of many highly ranked social science units at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The University is consistently ranked among the top universities in terms of success in federally funded research grants and is highly supportive of an interdisciplinary approach to scholarship.

Successful candidates will be expected to teach at the undergraduate and masters/graduate level, lead a scholarly research program, perform university and professional service, interact with the media and public officials, and complete public outreach.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' research strength, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

Candidates for the associate professor rank must meet criteria for appointment at rank per UW College of Letters and Sciences guidelines for appointment and promotion on the tenure track.

Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality.

TO APPLY:

<http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/499043/assistant-or-associate-professor-of-economic-development>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4780

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: ASSOCIATE OR ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PUBLIC MANAGEMENT

The selected candidates will conduct productive research and be committed to teaching in core public management topics.

The selected scholar will teach core courses in public management, as well as upper level electives in specialty topics in public management. The selected individuals will offer undergraduate and graduate level courses in areas such as: performance management, public sector leadership, non-profit management, public policy process, and/or evidence-based policymaking. We encourage applicants from both domestic and international public management or public administration traditions. The research and teaching may include domestic and/or international public management or public administration.

The La Follette School is a highly ranked school of public affairs, and one of many highly ranked social science units at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The University is consistently ranked among the top universities in terms of success in federally funded research grants and is highly supportive of an interdisciplinary approach to scholarship

Successful candidates will be expected to teach at the undergraduate and masters/graduate level, lead a scholarly research program, perform university and professional service, interact with the media and public officials, and complete public outreach.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' research strength, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

This recruitment may result in up to 2 hires.

Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality.

TO APPLY:

<http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/498963/associate-or-assistant-professor-of-public-management>

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/6/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4779

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: PROFESSOR, PUBLIC POLICY AND REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH - CLUSTER HIRE

The successful candidate for this position will be expected to develop and maintain an energetic, cutting-edge, highly visible research program; advise graduate and post-graduate research; develop and maintain extramural funding for their research program; and teach graduate and undergraduate courses in the management and implementation of reproductive health and social policy, or develop new courses in their area of expertise, as appropriate. Reproductive health includes, but is not limited to public policies surrounding fertility, birth control, in-utero health, post-partum health and early childhood development, as they affect health disparities, whether due to geography, socio-economic status, race, ethnicity, or program delivery and health equity.

The Reproductive Equity Cluster:

This position is part of the Reproductive Equity Cluster, which was developed in order to build cross-disciplinary research expertise necessary to examine the drivers and consequences of inequities in reproductive health and to identify potential solutions. Areas of cluster research could include health care policy, social policy, structural, and individual factors related to family planning, fertility/infertility, maternal and infant mortality, and other aspects of maternal and child health as they relate to policy and practice. It is expected that the successful candidate will focus on health disparities and health equity and the ways in which policy and practice effect same.

A major purpose of the cluster is to build on existing strengths on campus. Ultimately, it is a goal that an expansion of this work at UW-Madison will translate into greater health equity and improved health and well-being of residents of Wisconsin and beyond. The interdisciplinary, comprehensive focus of the cluster will be used to expand research activity in this area and add greater diversity to the voices engaged in these discussions, particularly with respect to health disparities and inequities, and program and policy effects on disparities.

Candidates should have an interest in collaborating with the cluster and with colleagues in schools, centers, and training programs across campus such as the School of Medicine and Public Health, Population Health Sciences, the LaFollette School of Public Affairs, the School of Social Work, the School of Human Ecology, the Institute for Research on Poverty and the Center for Demography and Ecology.

Overall, three candidates will be recruited in this Cluster: 1) Professor, Public Policy and Reproductive Health [PVL # 94865] (this particular search), 2) Professor, Health Services Research and Reproductive Health [PVL# 94599] , and 3) Professor, Social Causes & Consequences of Reproductive Health [PVL # 94972]. These positions are part of the UW's Cluster Hiring Initiative (<https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>), designed to foster innovative, outstanding research programs that will stimulate productive interactions among faculty and students interested in research across the campus and to expand interdisciplinary research.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

Faculty hired under this initiative will most likely have a primary faculty appointment in the LaFollette School of Public Affairs, with potential joint or secondary appointments in relevant departments and schools such as Law, Human Ecology, or Population Health Sciences in the School of Medicine and Public Health.

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' interdisciplinary research strength in key areas of current and future research promise, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence.

A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

Candidates for the tenured professor rank must meet criteria for appointment at rank per UW College of Letters and Sciences guidelines for appointment and promotion on the tenure track.

The successful applicant will be responsible for ensuring eligibility for employment in the United States on or before the effective date of the appointment.

TO APPLY:

<http://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/cw/en-us/job/498771/professor-public-policy-and-reproductive-health-cluster-hire>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 9/6/2018
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 4781

Northwestern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Urban Policy, Politics, and the Public

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory
Specializations: Urban Politics, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Civil Rights & Liberties

Northwestern University's School of Education and Social Policy invites applicants for a tenure track faculty appointment in Human Development and Social Policy at the assistant, associate, or full professor level. We seek a scholar who specializes in urban policy and/or politics and their impact on society. We are especially interested in scholars who are interested in being in an interdisciplinary environment, and are open to scholars who use either quantitative, qualitative, or mixed methods. Possible areas of focus might include: city governance and social policymaking; criminal justice policy and practice; neighborhood segregation/integration; voter participation/representation in urban settings; juvenile justice and adolescent development; immigration and neighborhood change; poverty and inequality; inter-governmental relations; institutions, inequalities and organizational change in urban settings; the politics of race and ethnicity; or other areas relevant to urban policy or politics. To be considered at the rank of associate or full professor level, candidates must have a distinguished record of scholarship, and should have demonstrated ability to receive extramural support for their research agenda. The successful candidate will likely receive a renewable appointment in Northwestern's Institute for Policy Research as well. Scholars from all disciplines and applied fields are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in their substantive area of study.

Applicants should submit application materials electronically at this link: <https://facultyrecruiting.northwestern.edu/apply/MjYz>

- A letter outlining their research program and teaching experience
- Current CV
- Representative papers
- For those being considered at the assistant professor level -- three letters of reference, addressed to Professor James Spillane, Search Committee Chair. Candidates who would be considered at the associate or full professor level should provide the names of three potential references, but these references will not be contacted without the candidate's permission.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit their materials immediately as the search committee will begin reviewing applicants on October 19th, 2018.

Members of under-represented minority racial and ethnic groups and women are strongly urged to apply. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. For more information about the School of Education and Social Policy see www.sesp.northwestern.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/19/2018
Date Posted: 9/4/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4745

University of Delaware

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor Positions in Disaster Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Public Administration

The University of Delaware (UD) (<http://www.udel.edu/>) invites applications from talented scholars pursuing interesting questions related to disasters, hazards, and crisis. We are looking to fill multiple tenure-track/tenured positions in Disaster Science at the Assistant or Associate Professor level beginning September 1, 2019. This search is the first stage of an exciting university-wide, interdisciplinary cluster recruitment effort to expand research in disaster science, a major emphasis of the University, with hiring planned over the next two years. In this first stage, we are seeking exceptional candidates with interdisciplinary interests in a wide range of topics broadly construed as social perspectives on risk, hazards and disasters.

Faculty will have a tenure-track/tenured home in a department at the University of Delaware and join, as core faculty, the world-renowned Disaster Research Center (DRC) (www.drc.udel.edu), the world's oldest center focused on the social science and management aspects of disaster. UD has several environment- and disaster-oriented programs and research streams in its various colleges. DRC houses the flagship institution of the William A. Anderson Fund (BAF), an initiative devoted to increasing the participation of students from historically underrepresented populations in disaster science and practice.

QUALIFICATIONS

We seek scholars who are committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching, diversity and inclusion, and community engagement.

Candidates should show experience or potential for securing external funding. The candidate should hold an earned Ph.D. or other relevant doctoral degree at the time of appointment. We will consider a broad range of research foci related to social perspectives on risk, hazards, and disasters. Possible, but not exclusive, areas of interest might include: individual and household preparedness for disaster; social determinants of disaster health outcomes and recovery; food security and connection of food delivery to health outcomes in disaster-affected settings; institutional systems for service delivery, such as for disaster behavioral health; functional and access needs, including elder populations and others requiring medical-support care in hospitals and nursing homes; environmental and social justice; risk perception/communication; environmental planning; hazard mitigation; and decision-making and social change. Researchers with strong methodological skills (one or more approaches, such as statistics, spatial analysis, social network analysis, GIS, participatory action research, qualitative methods, or mixed methods) are encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Applicants should submit: (1) a current curriculum vita; (2) a cover letter summarizing their interest, qualifications, likely department(s) they wish to be considered for their tenure/tenure-track home, and a description of progress on the dissertation, if not yet complete; (3) a research statement; (4) a teaching statement; (5) contact information for three references (references will not be contacted prior to notifying the candidate). Candidates should ensure that their materials address the qualifications stated above. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018 and will continue until the positions are filled. This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Those interested should apply through <http://www.udel.edu/faculty-staff/human-resources/careers/faculty-jobs/>.

Please direct questions, but not application materials, to Tricia Wachtendorf or James Kendra, Search Committee Co-Chairs (twachten@udel.edu or jmkendra@udel.edu).

Located in Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., UD is a Land Grant, Sea Grant, Space Grant, and Carnegie Research University (highest research activity; and a Carnegie public engagement designation), with external funding exceeding $200 million. A state-assisted, privately governed institution, the University enrolls approximately 19,000 undergraduates and 4,000 graduate students

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4761

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Rank: Public Policy Open Rank, General Faculty, Social Entrepreneurship

Public Policy Open Rank, General Faculty - Social Entrepreneurship
The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites distinguished applicants to apply for a non-tenure track, teaching faculty position in Public Policy. The selected applicant teaches courses and assumes some program responsibilities as part of the Batten School's Social Entrepreneurship at U.Va.

(SE@UVA) center. The appointment begins in August 2019. Rank is dependent upon qualifications.

SE@UVA currently offers over a dozen courses, to over 500 students each academic year and serves over 350 Social Entrepreneurship Minors.

For more information about the center please visit www.seatuva.org. We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, entrepreneurship, law, business ethics, business administration, finance, or public administration. A terminal degree in one of these disciplines or a related field is required, as is teaching experience. The preferred candidate's research and/or professional experience focuses on Social Entrepreneurship broadly defined, including but not limited to work on:

- social enterprise,
- -mpact investing & innovative finance, or
- public policy related to social innovation (i.e. state-level B-Corp legislation, social impact bonds, tax policy related to social enterprise, and innovative hybrid business models).

Professional experience within the social enterprise community is strongly preferred. A distinguished record of professional experience, alongside an interest in contributing to the scholarly community at Batten and U.Va. through collaborations with research faculty is preferred. Finally, candidates with a research focus and a distinguished or developing publication record in scholarly, practitioner, and/or policy venues is preferred.

To apply visit <http://jobs.virginia.edu> and search for posting number 0623748.

Submit a candidate profile online and cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, and contact information for three references.

Applicant review begins September 15, 2018 and the position is open until filled.

For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area.

To learn more please visit <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The University of Virginia is fundamentally committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and staff. UVA is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. We welcome nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities. We also welcome others who would bring additional dimensions of diversity to the university's research and teaching mission. We believe diversity is excellence expressing itself through every person's perspectives and lived experiences.

PI104138936

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/4/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4765

Northwestern University

Rank: Instructor, Master of Arts in Public Policy and Administration program

Northwestern University is seeking a part-time, on-ground instructor for its Master of Arts in Public Policy and Administration program. The MPPA program encompasses both the analytical and administrative sides of the discipline. Please visit our website for more detailed information about our programs and courses: www.sps.northwestern.edu/grad/ppa

We are currently seeking Chicagoland area faculty to teach our on-campus 407 Scope & Theory of Public Policy course.

Preferred Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

PhD or doctoral student

Five or more years of work experience in the field

We welcome the opportunity to speak with you more about the program. Please email a CV and letter of inquiry to Nancy Ferguson at n-ferguson@northwestern.edu.

PI104114163

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/3/2018

Date Posted: 9/3/2018

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 4760

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford Center on Global Poverty and Development Postdoctoral Fellows program offers one-year (and will consider two-year) fellowships to outstanding new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development and poverty alleviation. The multi-disciplinary program offers a competitive stipend, as well as support for travel and research expenses. Postdoctoral Fellows have no teaching responsibilities and minimal administrative duties.

Application Details

The Stanford Center on Global Poverty and Development invites applications for multi-disciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2019 for one year (and will consider two years). The Center's postdoctoral fellows program is intended for promising new and recent PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to critical issues for international development and poverty alleviation.

The Center's postdoctoral fellows will be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University. The Center provides a competitive salary plus support for travel and research expenses.

For information, please visit <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

For full consideration, please submit all materials by December 1, 2018 via the online application form here: <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/postdoctoral-fellow-application-form>

Application Instructions:

Please apply online with the following materials: (1) Cover Letter, (2) Curriculum Vitae, (3) Job Market Paper or Writing Sample, and (4) Three Letters of Recommendation. Please submit items 1-3 in one PDF document through the online application form here: <https://globalpoverty.stanford.edu/postdoctoral-fellow-application-form>
Recommenders can submit letters directly to globalpoverty@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 9/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4639

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, and Endowed Chair Innovation, Science, Technology, and Policy

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego invites applications for a tenured Endowed Chair of Innovation, Science, Technology, and Policy at the rank of Associate or Full Professor, to begin July 1st, 2019.

The faculty at the School of Global Policy and Strategy (gps.ucsd.edu) represents a broad range of academic backgrounds, including both social and physical sciences. We are united by a desire to understand, design, and rigorously test solutions to promote human advancement and mitigate against pressing challenges to human welfare and global issues.

We anticipate that the Endowed Chair of Innovation, Science, Technology, and Policy will expand our leadership at the interface of STEM fields and policy. We are looking for candidates with an outstanding record of research and leadership both within their field of training, and in the intersection of that field with questions of policy, welfare, or justice. Domains of interest include, but are not limited to: climate and the environment, critical infrastructure, cybersecurity, data and privacy, development engineering, digital technology and automation, energy, health, and technological innovation.

Applicants should be PhD graduates (or equivalent terminal degree in a research discipline) with proven leadership and scholarship records. The School of Global Policy and Strategy is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service, and contribute to -- and participate in -- our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education. We welcome applications from both STEM and social science scholars who can develop rich links to other UC San Diego units, including the Jacobs School of Engineering, Scripps Institution of Oceanography, Health Sciences, and the Halicioglu Data Science Institute.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

Application review will begin on November 25, 2018.

To apply:

Candidates should submit the following materials to UC San Diego Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01863>:

Curriculum Vitae

Two writing samples

A personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching

Three (3) contacts for reference

A summary of past and potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>).

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4743

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Stanford Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2019. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2019.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must submit a CV, a job market paper and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2018. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford also welcomes applications from others who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/31/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4756

American Association for the Advancement of Science

Rank: AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellows

Call for Applications: AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships

Applications are now being accepted for the AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships (STPF). This professional level fellowship is the premier opportunity for outstanding scientists to learn first-hand about policymaking, bring valuable expertise to policy, and enhance political science in the federal government.

Gain hands-on policy experience, help develop and execute solutions to address societal challenges, and join a strong corps of over 3,100 policy-savvy alumni fellows working across sectors to serve the nation and citizens around the world. Fellow contributions can include policy research, content analysis, and budgeting and research for interdisciplinary programs.

Fellows serve yearlong assignments in all three branches of the federal government in Washington D.C. and represent a broad range of backgrounds, disciplines and career stages. STPF is seeking candidates with strong social and/or behavioral science credentials, an interest in career transformation and a desire to enhance federal policy.

Application deadline for the 2019-20 fellowship year is November 1, 2018. Eligibility requirements include U.S. citizenship and a doctoral level degree.

Apply today! <http://go.stpf-aaas.org/socialscience.html>

QUALIFICATIONS

- Doctoral-level degree (PhD, MD, DVM, DSc, etc.) in any scientific, social science, or engineering discipline,
- U.S. citizenship.

STIPEND & BENEFITS

- $75,000–100,000.
- Health insurance
- Travel/training and relocation allowances.

ONLINE APPLICATIONS DUE: November 1, 2018 https://fellowshipapp.aaas.org/applications/?utm_campaign=2018-Recruitment&utm_medium=web&utm_source=socialscience&utm_content=jobpost

FELLOWSHIP YEAR: September 1, 2019 – August 31, 2020

For more information and to apply: <http://go.stpf-aaas.org/socialscience.html>

Questions? Email fellowships@aaas.org or call 202-326-6700

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/30/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4738

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in public administration/public policy to begin August 16, 2019. The positions are open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with rigorous, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading public administration and/or political science outlets. Successful candidates will be able to contribute to the department's NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration program, with the ability to teach core and elective classes in this program. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field of study is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. Applications received by September 30, 2018 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Susan Miller (sumiller@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/30/2018

Date Posted: 8/29/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4732

Australian National University

Rank: Academic Level B-C (Lecturer/Senior Lecturer)

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Quantitative Methods, Australia

We welcome applications from candidates with expertise in the area of Public Policy.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise Honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the Schools.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital, Canberra, and ranked as the leading international relations department in the country as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

This positions are based in Canberra.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years.

For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

For more information, please contact Dr Andrew Banfield,
E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: $90,000 - $99,999

eJobs ID: 4718

Dartmouth College

Rank: Director of Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Description

Dartmouth College solicits applications and nominations for the position of the Director of the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for Public Policy and the Social Sciences. The Rockefeller Center is a catalyst for public policy research, teaching, and deliberation. Dedicated to providing an interdisciplinary perspective on policy-related topics, the Center fosters a commitment to the ideals of public service and informed public debate exemplified by Nelson A. Rockefeller, former governor of New York State and Vice President of the United States. The Director will lead a variety of activities related to public policy, including research initiatives, grants, conferences, speakers, experiential learning, and leadership development programs for students. The Rockefeller Center is an important and vibrant institution on campus, and we seek someone who will support and stimulate existing efforts and encourage new initiatives.

Qualifications

We are searching for an individual who has demonstrated expertise in social science research and a proven ability to work with people across disciplines at a variety of levels. We welcome internal as well as external candidates. The successful candidate for Director preferably would be tenurable in one of the social science departments or programs and have a record of excellence in research, classroom teaching, and professional service. Dartmouth student populations are diverse by many measures. We are especially interested in applicants with a record of successful collaboration, teaching, and mentoring of people from all backgrounds (including first-generation college students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.). We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences at Dartmouth College. Applicants must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and curriculum vitae. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or further information, contact Dean Lacy (dean.lacy@dartmouth.edu). Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/53740

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4714

Duke University

Rank: Associate Director

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

DevLab@Duke connects social scientists at Duke University who work in international development with the community of development practitioners. The Lab works directly with donors such as USAID and the World Bank on research opportunities, the promotion of evaluable programming, and on impact evaluations themselves. The Lab also works with implementers, such as RTI, DAI and others at the project proposal stage as well as the implementation and monitoring/evaluation stages. We are cross-sectoral, interdisciplinary, and interested in pushing the boundary between the academic and policy worlds with a permanent eye toward improving the lives of the poor.

DevLab@Duke seeks an Associate Director to work with our team of scholars and graduate students focused on applied international development. Primary responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Maintaining and expanding our relationships with the international development industry, including donors and implementers.
- Grant conceptualization, proposal preparation, grants management and report writing. Above and beyond proposal preparation, the Associate Director will play a key intellectual role in helping to design research for funding proposals.
- Oversight of data efforts bearing on impact evaluations and other research, including an innovative project that combines machine learning and forecasting with coordinated, cross-country field experiments aimed at defending civil society in repressive environments.
- Coordination and facilitation of regular DevLab meetings.
- Research support to academic publications; we also welcome candidates with independent research agendas as there will be many opportunities to help design large field experiments, develop original surveys, etc.
- Engage closely with multiple interdisciplinary research teams working across a broad swath of development sectors.

The ideal candidate is a self-starter, has a PhD in a social science discipline (MAs with considerable experience are welcome to apply) and experience with both the academic and policy sides of impact evaluations in developing countries. Though the position is based in Durham, NC it will involve modest domestic and international travel.

Required Qualifications:

- 3+ years of field experience on impact evaluations and related research.
- Experience coordinating research in developing countries.
- Experience with budgeting and administration in the international development industry.
- Demonstrated success writing research proposals and interacting with private and public donors.
- Data analysis skills.
- Strong interpersonal skills and eagerness to work in a lab-like setting.

Desired Qualifications:

- Experience with IRB procedures.
- Experience developing survey instruments.
- Advanced data analysis skills.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening; applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year with possibility of renewal for up to three years.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina. Durham and the surrounding Research Triangle are home to several major universities and a booming cultural life. Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status. For questions, please contact David Dow at david.dow@duke.edu. Those interested should access the following link: <https://forms.hr.duke.edu/careers/external.php?reqid=104447BR>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4700

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, Trade, International Political Economy

The Department of National Security Affairs at the Naval Postgraduate School seeks applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant/Associate professor interested in research and teaching in the fields of either international or comparative political economy. Specialists with regional expertise in Europe or the Middle East and/or with a relevance to national security affairs, defense policy, or maritime policy are especially encouraged to apply. Relevant expertise might include international economic negotiations, global/regional economic regimes, comparative economic policies, trade sanctions, and the political economy of violence. Candidates should demonstrate a strong potential for teaching excellence and scholarly research. The successful candidate must also be prepared to teach an introductory Masters-level course on the politics of global economic relations or comparative economic systems, as well as courses in his/her specific research specialty.

The Naval Postgraduate School is a fully accredited graduate school the students of which are drawn from the armed forces and civilian agencies of the United States and other countries. The Department of National Security Affairs is multi-disciplinary, with curricula based on Political Science, History, and Economics. Tenure-track professors typically teach a 2-2 load on a quarter system and are expected to maintain an active portfolio of academic research, publishing, and institutional service.

Minimum qualifications:

- An earned doctoral degree from an accredited institution
- Evidence of teaching aptitude
- Evidence of potential to advise student theses and dissertations
- Evidence of strong potential for scholarship leading to scholarly publications

Employment requirements:

- U.S. citizenship is required
- Background check and eligibility for a Secret-level clearance

Applications should include a CV, cover letter (including teaching and research interests), official graduate transcripts, and syllabi of relevant courses taught, preferably at the graduate level. Candidates should also submit up to three writing samples and three letters of recommendation. These confidential letters of recommendation should be submitted separately. ABDs are welcome to apply with the understanding that the award of a Ph.D. degree is a condition of employment. Applications will be accepted until October 15, 2018. Expected start date is in the fall of 2019.

Address applications and supporting materials electronically to the National Security Affairs Department at nsadept@nps.edu.

Questions and any other inquiries may be directed to:

Prof. Anne Clunan
Chair, Political Economy Search Committee
Department of National Security Affairs
Naval Postgraduate School
Monterey, CA 93943
alclunan@nps.edu

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Relocation package, including recruitment/relocation incentive may be authorized.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an equal opportunity employer. For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc.).

Additional Veterans' Information: if you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>

For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/15/2018
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4711

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

The Political Science Department of the United States Naval Academy invites applications for tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in American Politics beginning August 2019. Application review will begin on 01 October 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

The U.S. Naval Academy is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching, research, and service. American Politics scholars with expertise in public policy; race, gender, and ethnicity; or political philosophy are encouraged to apply. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence, as well as a strong commitment to student advising and institutional service.

For more information about this position and how to apply please visit the USNA position announcement at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfessor-PolSciAY19.php>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4715

Colorado College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Environmental Law & Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Colorado College is hiring a tenure track assistant professor in environmental law and policy to join the college's interdisciplinary environmental studies program beginning in August 2019. The position requires expertise in environmental law and policy as well as an ability to engage in interdisciplinary approaches to environmental questions. The successful candidate will be able to teach courses including Environment & Society (an interdisciplinary introductory environmental studies course), U.S. Environmental Law & Policy, International Environmental Law & Policy, and electives in their field of expertise. The ideal candidate will be a JD/PhD who has worked in the field of environmental law and can teach courses that incorporate environmental case law. Yet they will also be able to situate the law within broader political and social questions of the relationship between humans and the environment.

The College actively promotes a dynamic and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work. Applicants should describe the ways in which they can contribute to this goal in their cover letter.

One distinguishing feature of Colorado College is its Block plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, and professors teach six of the eight blocks in an academic year. Applicants must be committed to high quality, innovative undergraduate teaching. Applicants should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, if available. The block plan lends itself to field and project based teaching. Funds and logistical support for field trips and community based learning projects are available through the college and through the environmental studies program.

Preferred Qualifications: J.D. and Ph.D.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. is required by the start of employment; expertise in environmental law

Applications should include: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a statement of research interests, (4) a statement of teaching philosophy, (5) a writing sample, and (6) a graduate school transcript. Optional documents: Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness (e.g. syllabi, course evaluations, etc.).

Applications must be submitted through <https://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/3477>

All applicants will need to list at least three references to submit a letter of recommendation. The application site will send emails to references with instructions for electronic submission.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4680

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2019. Candidates for this position should be focused on teaching and research in the area of Public Policy. In addition to having a productive research agenda dedicated to the area of Public Policy, candidates must demonstrate potential for teaching excellence at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching courses with significant real-world applicability and service-learning opportunities, in accordance with college and departmental strategic goals of designing undergraduate curricula that emphasize career paths and the knowledge and skills students need after graduation. Although the area of specialization within Public Policy is open, areas especially fitting with this strategic priority might include public policy analysis, program evaluation, and behavioral public policy. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field is expected at the time of the appointment.

Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department offers the following degrees in Political Science: B.S., B.A. and M.A. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester. Completed applications received by October 1, 2018 will be given full consideration. Applicants are asked to apply online at Publicpolicyad@okstate.edu and submit: a letter of application, vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, evidence of successful teaching and scholarship, and statements of teaching and research interests.

The department is committed to creating an inclusive space for our students, faculty, and staff and to teaching and mentoring our undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. The department encourages applications from women and minorities. Currently, 37 percent of our undergraduate majors are minorities. Among our tenure-track faculty, 9 percent are from underrepresented racial/ethnic minority groups and 55 percent are female. Oklahoma State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/E-verify employer committed to diversity and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against based on age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or other protected category. OSU is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and desires priority referrals of protected veterans for its openings. OSU will not discharge or in any other manner discriminate against employees or applicants because they have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, employees who have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of their essential job functions cannot disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by the employer, or (c) consistent with the contractor's legal duty to furnish information. This position is contingent upon availability of funds.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4651

University of British Columbia

Rank: Director, UBC School of Public Policy and Global Affairs

Director, UBC School of Public Policy and Global Affairs

The Faculty of Arts at the University of British Columbia – Vancouver seeks an outstanding candidate for the position of Director of the UBC School of Public Policy and Global Affairs. The appointment as Director, anticipated to begin July 1, 2019, carries an initial five-year term, with the possibility of reappointment for a second term.

Formed in 2017, UBC's School of Public Policy and Global Affairs is a Professional School dedicated to global affairs and a broad approach to public policy issues. Bringing together scholars and practitioners across a wide range of research fields in the social, natural and applied sciences, as well as the humanities, the School fosters a deep interdisciplinary approach to complex local, national, and global problems, drawing upon its research expertise in the domains of sustainability, security and social justice, and its long-established strengths in Asia and democratic governance. The School is currently home to the Institute of Asian Research, the Liu Institute for Global Issues, the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions, and the Canadian International Resources and Development Institute and administers a graduate level professional program: the Master of Public Policy and Global Affairs (MPPGA). For information, visit: <https://policyschool.ubc.ca>.

UBC-Vancouver's Point Grey Campus is located on the traditional, ancestral and unceded territories of the Musqueam people, with whom UBC shares a framework Memorandum of Affiliation. For information relating to Aboriginal initiatives that are available at UBC, visit the UBC Vancouver Aboriginal portal at: <http://aboriginal.ubc.ca/>.

The position of Director provides an excellent opportunity for an outstanding scholar who will lead and shape a globally focused policy school for a new era, having primary responsibility for the management and operation of the School, with its world-class, professionally-oriented research and education programs geared toward building policy capacity for multiple sectors. The Director will be expected to maintain a leadership role in a variety of academic and professional settings by engaging stakeholders in business and government, enhancing and transforming public policy dialogue, and providing a global perspective on public policy research and education.

The Director will report to the Dean of the Faculty of Arts, chair the School's Partnership Council, and participate in the School's Advisory Council. Responsibilities will include: leading the School's visioning and planning processes; setting strategic directions for the School; maintaining the School as an interdisciplinary hub for research, scholarship, and knowledge exchange; fostering research excellence; developing scholarly initiatives; recruiting, mentoring, and evaluating faculty; supporting academic programs and initiatives to ensure a high quality learning environment; maintaining and enhancing community, alumni, and donor partnerships; overseeing the financial health of the School; developing the School's internal policies and procedures on governance and administrative matters; and continuing to build the profile of the School locally, nationally, and internationally.

We seek applicants who have a PhD, a distinguished record of research publications and scholarship activity commensurate with appointment at the rank of Full Professor (or senior Associate Professor may also be considered), a record of high quality undergraduate and graduate teaching, and graduate supervision, a record of policy engagement, which includes public scholarship and experience in engaging government, business, and not-for-profits in policy design, development, and implementation, and a record of leadership and administrative skills. The successful candidate will be expected to demonstrate vision and creativity, to foster a collaborative, respectful, and inclusive environment for students, staff, and faculty, to build relationships with policy leaders at all levels, and to liaise with granting agencies, industry partners, and other research sponsors.

How to apply:

Apply online by October 31, 2018 at: <https://ardo.air.arts.ubc.ca/sppga-application-form/>. Applicants must be prepared to upload a single bookmarked PDF file containing the following items, in the order listed: cover letter; curriculum vitae; and statements (no longer than 1 page each) summarizing their (a) research program, (b) policy engagement, (c) teaching philosophy/practice and ability to work with a diverse student body, and (d) experience in and approach to leadership and administrative roles. Applicants are also asked to provide the names and contact information for four referees who may be approached at a later date to provide confidential and objective assessment of the applicant's suitability for the SPPGA leadership position. Enquiries may be directed to: Marcia Lang via email at marcia.lang\(at\)ubc.caubc.ca) with "SPPGA Director" in the subject line.

Review of applications will begin in October 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. At a later stage of the search process, long-listed applicants will be asked to provide evidence of teaching effectiveness.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 10/31/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 4656

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy/ Urban Governance

The Department of Public Administration (DPA) in the College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs (CUPPA) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) (<http://cuppa.uic.edu/academics/pa>) plans to hire a tenure-track faculty member at the Assistant Professor level beginning in August 2019.

We seek candidates who bring a strong commitment to an active research program and excellence in teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Engagement in service to the profession is also expected. Area of specialization is open, but preference will be given to candidates who can contribute to growing the department's public policy research and course offerings. Candidates should demonstrate their capacity to contribute to the themes embodied in CUPPA's research pillars (as outlined below), to the department's public policy and urban governance focus (US News and World Report recently ranked CUPPA #6 in the country in Urban Policy), and to one or more of the department's other core competencies: nonprofit management, financial management, public management, and survey research.

Candidates must have an earned PhD in public policy, public administration, political science, economics, or a related field by August 2019. Successful candidates will be required to teach a 2:2 load each academic year. Individuals who are members of a recognized underrepresented group are particularly encouraged to apply.

DPA offers two graduate degrees: the Master in Public Administration (MPA) and the Ph.D in Public Administration. The DPA also offers an undergraduate degree (B.A.) in Public Policy and is currently expanding its graduate program to include a Master in Public Policy and a Master of Science in Civic Analytics. The NASPAA-accredited MPA program is currently ranked 34th in the nation by US News and World Report. DPA faculty have been ranked in the top 10 in research productivity over the past ten years by Academic Analytics.

DPA is part of the College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs. CUPPA was created in 1995 as part of UIC's Great Cities Initiative and is now home to two academic departments and ten research centers. In addition to the DPA, the college also houses the Department of Urban Planning and Policy. The ten research centers within the college are: the Survey Research Laboratory, the Urban Transportation Center, the Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, the Great Cities Institute, the Urban Data Visualization Lab, the Center for Urban Economic Development, the Institute for Policy and Civic Engagement, Center for Public Safety and Justice, the Voorhees Center for Neighborhood and Community Improvement, and the newly established Government Finance Research Center. Research in the college is organized around three pillars: disparities (economic, political, and social), finance (especially state and local government), and governance (urban and regional).

University of Illinois at Chicago is a Carnegie Doctoral Research – Extensive institution and serves as the city's only public research university. With an exceptionally diverse enrollment of over 30,000 students, UIC is one of the only universities in the nation that is designated as both Research-Extensive and Hispanic serving. Located in Chicago's thriving West Loop neighborhood, the DPA provides an opportunity to study public administration, public policy, and urban leadership in one of the world's great cities.

Application Procedure: For fullest consideration, please apply by October 3, 2018 via the UIC application system: <https://jobs.uic.edu/>

job-board/job-details?jobID=101347&job=assistant-professor-public-administration (Job ID # 101347). A completed on-line application and the following attachments are required for consideration: a cover letter of interest, curriculum vitae, two sample publications (or other scholarly writing), a one-page statement of research interests, and a statement of teaching philosophy and experience. Please make sure to enter contact information, including email addresses, of three professional references in the application. For specific questions about the application, please send an email to Ms. Sari Buffill (buffill@uic.edu). For questions about the position, please contact Faculty Search Chair Michael Siciliano (siciliano@uic.edu). Active screening of applicants begins on October 4, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Illinois conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of contingent offer of employment. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

The University of Illinois is an Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employer. It is the policy of the University of Illinois at Chicago not to engage in discrimination or harassment against any person because of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, disability, sexual orientation, unfavorable discharge from the military, or status as a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam era and to comply with all federal and state nondiscrimination, equal opportunity, and affirmative action laws, orders and regulations.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/3/2018

Date Posted: 8/21/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4655

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Assistant Professor – Public Administration in Political Science

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2019. Candidates with specializations in public administration and public policy are especially welcome to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department and will contribute to a Master's of Public Administration Program. The faculty member will teach and advise in both the graduate and undergraduate program. As part of the political science undergraduate program, the faculty member will be expected to teach courses in one or more of our subfields in accordance to the faculty member's expertise: American politics, public administration, international relations, comparative politics, public law, and/or political theory. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many under-represented minorities and first-generation college students.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or related disciplines such as Public Policy from an accredited university by August 1, 2019
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work as well as experience working in an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to work with graduate students on a range of thesis projects in public administration, as well as the ability to teach political science undergraduates. Expertise and work experience in areas such as public policy/program evaluation, urban politics and administration, community development/sustainability, and qualitative methods will be given careful consideration. Preference will also be given to candidates with research interests related to social or racial justice and who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by November 16, 2018. Early response is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53291>

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Applicants will provide contact information for recommenders during the application process and the system will contact recommenders and provide a method for uploading letters;
- A completed application form available on the application website;
- An unofficial transcript showing then highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and

- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Faculty Search Committee
 Dr. Mario Guerrero, Faculty Search Chair
 Political Science Department
 California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
 Phone: 909.869.3887
 Fax: 909.869.6995
 Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

APSA Interviews

Representatives of the department will be available to meet at APSA's Placement Services. Please send a CV to mag@cpp.edu if you are interested in meeting with department representatives at APSA.

The University: Cal Poly Pomona is one of two polytechnic universities in the 23-campus California State University system. Our ethnically diverse student population of approximately 22,000 enrolls in 52 baccalaureate, 26 master's degree programs, 11 credential and certificate programs, and a doctorate in Educational Leadership, presented by 1,200 faculty. We recruit students increasingly from throughout California and beyond. The students are success and career focused and extremely diverse. We are proud of our status as a Hispanic Serving Institution. We have a strong commitment to supporting scholarship, research, and student achievement. Our scenic and historic 1,400-acre campus, once the winter ranch of cereal magnate W. K. Kellogg, is located about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles in one of the most dynamic economic and cultural regions in the country, and within an hour's drive of beaches, mountains, and desert. The university is committed to diversifying its faculty and staff and has made educational equity one of its highest priorities. The mission of the university is to advance learning and knowledge by linking theory and practice in all disciplines, and to prepare students for lifelong learning, leadership, and careers in a changing, multicultural world.

The College: The College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences fosters intellectual and ethical development and helps students become individuals who value and apply critical thinking in our complex, diverse and technological world. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in numerous degree and certificate programs across the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University is also central to the mission of the College. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single-subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to "cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation" lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/>.

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over three hundred and fifty undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/16/2018

Date Posted: 8/20/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4647

University of Tennessee

Rank: Public Administration-Public Policy Associate Director

Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for an associate level professor in Public Policy and/or Public Administration to begin Fall 2019. The successful applicant will be Associate Director of the Masters of Public Policy and Administration (MPPA) program and will contribute to the Department's Ph.D. program. The Department and the MPPA work closely with the Howard Baker Center and the successful candidate will participate in that partnership. The Baker Center was established in 2003 and has emerging research focal areas in energy policy, environmental policy, public health and global security and strong connections to the state and local governments across Tennessee.

Preference for candidates with primary research and teaching interests in Public Policy, including but not limited to public budgeting and finance, energy policy, environmental policy, health care policy, policy process and program evaluation or Non-Profit Management, but all areas will be considered. The successful candidate must have a clear research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed journals. We are particularly interested in applicants who address substantively important questions using rigorous analytical approaches. Preference will be shown for applicants with teaching and research interests that complement existing departmental interests, have a record of extramural funding commensurate with experience, and demonstrate evidence of college/university teaching excellence. The position is a 9-month faculty appointment and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: <http://web.utk.edu/~polisci>. The Knoxville campus of the University of Tennessee is seeking candidates who have the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the diversity and intercultural goals of the University.

Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be sent directly to the search committee. All materials should be sent electronically to: Dianna Beeler at beelerd@utk.edu and copied to Professor David Folz at dfolz@utk.edu, Department of Political Science, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN 37996-3340. Review of applications will begin October 25, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor David Folz at dfolz@utk.edu.

All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status, or any other characteristic protected by federal or state law. In accordance with the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, the University of Tennessee affirmatively states that it does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, or disability in its education programs and activities, and this policy extends to employment by the university. Inquiries and charges of violation of Title VI (race, color, and national origin), Title IX (sex), Section 504 (disability), the ADA (disability), the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (age), sexual orientation, or veteran status should be directed to the Office of Equity and Diversity, 1840 Melrose Avenue, Knoxville, TN 37996-3560, telephone 865-974-2498. Requests for accommodation of a disability should be directed to the ADA Coordinator at the Office of Equity and Diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4628

University of Tennessee

Rank: Public Policy-Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in Public Policy to begin Fall 2019. We are looking for candidates who can support the Masters of Public Policy and Administration (MPPA) program as well as the Department's Ph.D. program. The Department and the MPPA work closely with the Howard Baker Center and the successful candidate will participate in that partnership. The Baker Center was established in 2003 and has emerging research focal areas in energy policy, environmental policy, public health and global security and strong connections to the state and local governments across Tennessee.

We seek candidates with primary research and teaching interests in Public Policy, including but not limited to public budgeting and finance, energy policy, environmental policy, health care policy, policy process and program evaluation. We are particularly interested in applicants who address substantively important questions using rigorous analytical approaches including the tools of computational social science and "big data" applied to public policy and/or administration. The successful candidate must have a clear research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed journals. Preference will be shown for applicants with teaching and research interests that complement existing departmental interests, have a record of extramural funding commensurate with experience, and demonstrate evidence of college/university teaching excellence. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: <http://web.utk.edu/~polisci>. The Knoxville campus of the University of Tennessee is seeking candidates who have the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the diversity and intercultural goals of the University.

Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be sent directly to the search committee. All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. All materials should be sent electronically to: Dianna Beeler at beelerd@utk.edu and copied to Professor David Folz at dfolz@utk.edu, Department of Political Science, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN 37996-3340. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor David Folz at dfolz@utk.edu.

All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status, or any other characteristic protected by federal or state law. In accordance with the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, the University of Tennessee affirmatively states that it does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, or disability in its education programs and activities, and this policy extends to employment by the university. Inquiries and charges of violation of Title VI (race, color, and national origin), Title IX (sex), Section 504 (disability), the ADA (disability), the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (age), sexual orientation, or veteran status should be directed to the Office of Equity and Diversity, 1840 Melrose Avenue, Knoxville, TN 37996-3560, telephone 865-974-2498. Requests for accommodation of a disability should be directed to the ADA Coordinator at the Office of Equity and Diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4627

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration

Assistant Professor in public administration for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor to teach courses across the public administration core curriculum for the undergraduate major and courses for the MA program; advise students; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; and participate in applied research projects through the Center for Public Management and Regional Affairs. The position will begin in the 2019-20 academic year.

Require: PhD by date of appointment in public policy, political science or a related field.

Consideration may be given to candidates with substantive expertise in an area of public policy and policy analysis.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, teaching philosophy, statement of research plans, transcripts and writing sample to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=6187>. The department will solicit reference letters from references provided in application. For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu. Screening of applications will begin September 10, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4615

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant/ Associate/Full Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for faculty positions in international development, politics, and public policy. We are interested in scholars whose research interests encompass the economics of development, the politics of development, international trade, conflict, and crime in international contexts.

The search is open with respect to field and rank. Applicants are invited at all levels (tenure track and tenured), and applicants at the junior and associate levels are encouraged to apply.

Candidates should submit a CV and any accompanying documents such as sample publications online at: <https://tinyurl.com/ycvluq7>. Applicants for the level of assistant professor should provide at least two (three preferred) letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2018. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2019.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4620

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate - Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for multiple senior positions in public policy, political science, economics, and related disciplines. Applicants should submit a CV and any accompanying documents, such as sample publications online at: <https://tinyurl.com/y8j2j5ou>. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2018. Screening of applications will continue until the position is filled, however no applications will be accepted after June 30, 2019.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/16/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4621

Hamilton College

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The Government Department at Hamilton College invites applications for a two-year visiting position with possibility for renewal for an additional two years, at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor. Teaching load is four courses per year for the first year and five courses per year after. This position covers American politics, public policy, and political theory. Candidates may be from any field but must be able to teach courses from at least two of the three areas listed. Applicants who research the impact of digital technologies or incorporate innovative digital technologies into their research and teaching are especially encouraged to apply. We are seeking candidates who can demonstrate their experience in teaching or working with diverse student populations. Your cover letter should address the ways in which you would further the College's goal of building a diverse educational environment.

Appointment begins July 1, 2019. ABD or Ph.D. required. Please submit a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, a list of courses you are prepared to teach, evidence of teaching performance, and arrange for submission of three letters of recommendation to Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/53422>. We will begin consideration of applications on December 1. Applicants with questions or wishing to be interviewed at the APSA should contact Philip Klinkner, Chair, Government Department, Hamilton College (govsrch@hamilton.edu).

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings at www.higheredcareers.com, as well as additional information at <https://> www.hamilton.edu/offices/dof/faculty-support-resources/resources-for-prospective-or-newfaculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community. Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from underrepresented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

ABD or Ph.D. required.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Application Deadline: 12/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4601

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2019 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career. Applicants are required to submit a CV, at least two letters of recommendation (three preferred), and up to two writing samples online at: <https://tinyurl.com/y7avs6af>. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2018. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2019.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/14/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4592

Augustana College

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor

The Environmental Studies Program at Augustana College invites applications for a full-time (10-month) Tenure-track Assistant Professor beginning in the 2019-2020 academic year. Augustana College is a selective liberal arts college of 2,500 students, most of whom live on a wooded 115-acre campus. Rock Island, Illinois is one of the Illinois-Iowa Quad Cities along the Mississippi River, a diverse metropolitan area with 400,000 residents approximately three hours west of Chicago.

Augustana College places a high priority on creating an environment supportive of the promotion of ethnic minorities, women, and persons with disabilities. The college is also committed to building a culturally diverse educational environment. Thus, we are particularly interested in candidates from underrepresented groups with a demonstrated passion for social/environmental justice and working with diverse student and community populations. We encourage applicants, in their letter of application, to address how they will further this goal in their teaching, scholarship, and/or service. Augustana does not discriminate based on age, race, color, ethnic origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability or creed. Details about Augustana, our expectation of the faculty, the selection process, and the Quad Cities all are available at the Faculty Search website: <http://www.augustanafaculty.org/>.

The candidate will play a critical role in teaching courses in the Environmental Studies curriculum, a rapidly growing interdisciplinary program with approximately 100 majors. Teaching responsibilities could include an introductory course on the social dimensions of sustainability, climate change, sustainable energy, upper level courses in their areas of expertise, and contribute to the capstone interdisciplinary sequence by guiding the stakeholder process. The signature sustainability pedagogy of the core curriculum combines team-based and project/problem-based learning. Faculty will be expected to contribute to Upper Mississippi Center for Sustainable Communities (UMC) Sustainable Working Landscapes Initiative (SWLI; matches city identified sustainability problems with courses to create real-world learning experiences for students) or other community-based sustainability projects through their teaching. We encourage applicants to address their experience and/or passion for teaching courses using these pedagogies in their letter of application.

Service as an academic advisor to Environmental Studies majors will begin in the second year of employment. The teaching and supervisory load for this position will total 24 credit hours (courses are typically 4 cr. hrs.). In addition to traditional sabbatical leaves available after earning tenure, a one-semester leave to pursue a scholarly agenda is typically available during the third year of pre-tenure employment.

Preference will be given to interdisciplinary candidates and those with areas of specialization in the social sciences or humanities (see below) emphasizing the human dimensions of environmental problems. We encourage applications from those with interdisciplinary backgrounds in both the natural sciences and social sciences/humanities; however, applicants should explicitly demonstrate in their letter of application and teaching and scholarship statements their expertise in the human dimensions of sustainability problems.

Required Qualifications

- Earned Ph.D. (ABD considered) in a sustainability-related field including anthropology, geography, sociology, psychology, environmental or social justice, history, women and gender studies, political economy, political ecology, environmental policy and governance, sustainable development, religion (i.e., eco-theology, creation spirituality, environmental ethics), or a closely related field emphasizing the human dimensions of social-ecological systems.
- Demonstrated experience or willingness to teach project or problem-based courses.
- Demonstrated passion for teaching, integrating, and mentoring undergraduate students in their research.

Preferred Qualifications

- Experience of being the instructor of record for undergraduate level courses; demonstrating a connection to environmental studies a plus.
- Demonstrated expertise and experience in one or more of the following areas: ethnographic methods, conducting participatory (action-oriented) research, working in the decision-making processes, participating in sustainability policy or politics and engaging diverse communities in research and problem-solving.

- Demonstrated interdisciplinary expertise and experience in one or more of the following areas: qualitative methods, root causal analysis, social network analysis, participatory decision-making, institutional analysis, stakeholder engagement, adaptive governance and management, risk analysis, or back-casting and envisioning methods.

Questions may be directed to the co-chairs of the program, Dr. Michael Reisner (michaelreisner@augustana.edu) and Dr. Jason Koontz (jasonkoontz@augustana.edu). This position is contingent on final authorization from the Provost's office.

To apply, please email application materials to sherrydocherty@augustana.edu using the subject line: Search 103-19 Environmental Studies, and directed to Dr. Wendy Hilton-Morrow. Alternatively, application materials can be mailed to: Search #103-19, C/O Dr. Wendy Hilton-Morrow, Provost & Dean of the College, Augustana College, 639 – 38th Street, Rock Island, IL 61201. Application materials should include: a letter of application addressing each qualification, curriculum vitae, copy of graduate transcripts, statement of teaching interests and philosophy (2-page limit) that describes your qualifications to teach above-described courses, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a statement of research Interests and priorities (2-page limit) that describes undergraduate student involvement, a writing sample, and names and contact information for three references that can address your potential for teaching success.

Review of applications will begin September 10.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4580

University of Wisconsin, La Crosse

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse seeks a tenure track Assistant Professor beginning August 2019 who is a dynamic and skilled teacher and researcher in the field of Public Administration & Policy. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to teaching excellence, student success, and inclusive and engaging classroom practices. The position will also include advising responsibilities, and the potential for teaching the capstone seminar and directing undergraduate research projects. In addition to teaching excellence and scholarly productivity, the Department also places a high value on service to the University and wider community.

Candidates for the appointment should have or be near to completing a doctorate in Public Administration or a related field by the start date. If a doctorate is not yet earned, it must be earned by the first personnel review, no later than May 15, 2020.

The 11-member department offers undergraduate majors and minors in both Political Science and Public Administration and offers courses that serve interdisciplinary minors in Legal Studies; Ethnic and Racial Studies; International Studies; International Business; Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Criminal Justice; and Environmental Studies. The Department's vibrant and growing Public Administration major is one of the few such undergraduate programs in the Upper Midwest. The usual teaching load is three preparations and four (3 credit) courses per semester, which may include American National Government, Women and Politics, or other General Education courses.

Required Application Submissions:

1. Cover letter, with a description about how you envision yourself contributing to the department's public administration curriculum
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Names, email addresses and phone numbers for three academic/professional references

Only those applications received by October 1, 2018 are guaranteed to receive full consideration.

Note: Electronic submission of application materials is required. For additional information about this position and to apply, please visit <https://employment.uwlax.edu>

Please contact the Search and Screen Chair if you have a special need/accommodation to aid your participation in our hiring process.

UW-La Crosse has appeared prominently on the U.S. News & World Report list of "America's Best Colleges" for more than a decade and is ranked consistently as one of the top institutions in the Midwest. With a student population of roughly 10,500, the university offers 94 undergraduate programs in at least 30 disciplines and 21 graduate programs in the following colleges: Liberal Studies, Science and Health, and Business Administration, including the School of Arts & Communication and the School of Education, Professional and Continuing Education. There are 520 full-time faculty and instructional academic staff, 76 percent of whom hold terminal degrees. UW-La Crosse boasts a retention rate (freshmen returning as sophomores) of 85 percent, graduation rate (degree within six years) of 70 percent, and is among only 12 institutions cited nationally by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities for its success in linking campus culture and university leadership to outstanding graduation rates.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 8/13/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4573

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Policy

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/8001>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. Teaching and research statements are optional. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 10, 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition No: D-19-POL-00001

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4565

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Auburn University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor beginning August 16, 2019. We seek excellent candidates that can complement the strengths of our department. The call is open to candidates in all areas of Public Administration; however, candidates must be able to teach some combination of public budgeting, program evaluation, and nonprofit/public management courses. Candidates should have strong research and instructional skills, and complement the existing teaching strengths in the program. Primary teaching responsibilities are in the Master of Public Administration and undergraduate Public Administration programs.

Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Public Administration or Political Science by the start date for the rank of Assistant Professor. However, ABDs will be considered for the appointment at the rank of Instructor. The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time of appointment and to continue working legally during employment; excellent communication skills required.

Review of applications will begin Oct 1, 2018. To apply, visit <https://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com>. Candidates are required to include a cover letter outlining their qualifications for the position and courses they are able to teach, a current curriculum vita, an official transcript of all graduate work, contact information for three letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, and a one-page research statement.

Auburn University is Alabama's largest land grant university, enrolling over 25,000 students. The Political Science Department maintains a diverse faculty of 26 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, health services administration, and public administration; a Master's degree program in Public Administration (MPA) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance; a Master's degree program in Community Planning (MCP), and a Ph.D. program in public administration and public policy.

Direct questions to Dr. Kelly Ann Krawczyk, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University AL, 36849 Fax: 334-844-5348. Email: kak0037@auburn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4550

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Associate Professor/Professor - Urban Innovation

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Urban Politics, Housing, Environmental Policy

The University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) and the Institute of Management and Innovation (IMI) invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in urban innovation and governance. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with a projected start date of July 1, 2019. The successful candidate will hold a 49% appointment in the Institute for Management and Innovation and in a relevant cognate discipline at UTM (51%) depending on their area of expertise. The successful candidate may also be appointed as the Director of MUI for an initial term of five years, renewable once.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in political science, human geography, planning or economics and an established and exceptional record of research excellence with an active and creative research program that focuses on urban innovation, a distinguished record of internationally recognized scholarship (which includes evidence provided in the research statement, a record of sustained and impactful publications in premier journals in their field, presentations at national and international conferences, accolades for innovative work and strong endorsements from referees of high international standing). Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, strong letters of reference and the teaching statement, including selected course materials that directly support and illustrate the teaching statement, submitted as part of the application. S/he will also demonstrate a commitment to experiential learning.

The Institute for Management & Innovation (IMI) is planning to start accepting students into its newest program, the Master of Urban Innovation (MUI) in September of 2019. MUI is a new degree professional program that focuses on urban economic development, community capacity building, innovation management, local and regional governance, urban sustainability and real estate development. This degree program aligns with the current programs offered at IMI, maintaining a focus on management, innovation and sustainability, and incorporates the research and teaching strengths from UTM Departments of Geography, Economics, Political Science and the Institute of Communication, Culture, Information and Technology (ICCIT).

The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one of the following courses: the core course that focuses on how knowledge generation, learning and proximity interact to support the process of urban innovation and the role that economic governance plays in supporting that process, or a course on the theory, practice and policy of socially sustainable cities. Experience in managing a teaching program in urban economic development and innovation, or experience running a large research or policy-related urban network is considered an asset.

The Director of MUI will be responsible for building the new program, working from the initial curriculum developed by IMI and approved by the Governing Council of the University of Toronto. The successful candidate will inspire and engage UTM faculty and staff to work collaboratively to implement the new Master's program and achieve its successful launch. The successful candidate will have demonstrated ability to work effectively with colleagues from a wide breath of academic disciplines and the ability to inspire both a wide range of academic colleagues, administrative staff, and the initial cohort of students enrolled in the program. Strong leadership and people skills, demonstrated administrative ability, an effective management style, the capacity to integrate diverse interests, and forge a common vision for the MUI program are also required. Additionally, the successful candidate will ensure strong, two-way communications on an ongoing basis to sustain the enthusiasm, engagement and support of all stakeholders across the UTM community.

Salary and academic rank will be commensurate with experience.

All qualified applicants are invited to apply online by clicking on the link below. Applications must be submitted by September 24, 2018 and include a letter of application, an up-to-date curriculum vitae, a research statement with representative publications and a teaching statement including course evaluations and selected course materials supporting teaching quality and experience. The letter of application should also highlight any experience as an academic director or manager. If you have any questions about the position, please contact Professor Soo Min Toh, Director of the Institute for Management Innovation at imi@utoronto.ca. The UofT application system can accommodate up to fifteen attachments per candidate profile (8MB size limit per attachment); please combine attachments into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, dated, signed and scanned) directly to Sue Thomson at sue.thomson@utoronto.ca by the application date, Monday September 24, 2018. Referees should include the candidate's name and "MUI Director Search" in the subject line.

Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2-page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Housed in a newly expanded building and combining traditional teaching methods with a strong emphasis on experiential education, IMI represents a new approach to management education. IMI takes advantage of the full facilities of UTM as well as participating faculty from other divisions of the University of Toronto to offer multidisciplinary programs that combine the teaching of management with that of specific discipline, technologies, industry sectors or professions. Its graduate programs currently address management and biotechnology, professional accounting, innovation, and sustainability.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 20 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the most diverse regions, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is defined by the cultural diversity in its community. The University of Toronto Mississauga has a strong interdisciplinary commitment to teaching and research, a multicultural student body of more than 15,000 students, and a modern, spacious campus. For more information about the Institute for Management and Innovation, and University of Toronto Mississauga, please visit <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/imi/> and <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2019

Date Posted: 8/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4554

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Associate Professorship(s)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

We invite applications for one or more positions as Associate Professor at the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen. The positions are available from 1 March 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact in any field of specialization within the field of Political Science. In the context of the impact of new digital technologies on the politics and administration of welfare states, the Department seeks to strengthen its research in the fields of public administration, public policy and comparative politics and therefore especially welcome applications for candidates within those fields.

For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Job Description

General duties attached to the position as Associate Professor are:

- Research within the field of politics and international relations
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, graduate and PhD students
- Administrative tasks related to the position
- Research and teaching management
- Project management and external fundraising
- Knowledge sharing with the rest of the society

Emphasis will be put on the applicant's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the Department through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching, disseminate knowledge and make a knowledge-based societal impact. An associate professor is expected to develop competences and experience within research, teaching and dissemination. Furthermore, the associate professor should have well-developed competences to attract funding within his or her specialist area.

Qualifications

To be qualified for the position the applicant must have research qualifications within the field of Political Science at the level that can be achieved by satisfactorily completing a period of employment at the level of assistant professor or equivalent as well as:

- An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced in a growing and ambitious publication profile that complements the existing research strengths of the Department and evidence of, or clear plans for attracting, external research funding

- A commitment to contribute to the delivery of an excellent student experience based on a sizable track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.
- An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in Denmark as well as in an international context. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.
- Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment.

We will expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching

Information

Additional information can be obtained from Head of Department, Professor Mikkel Vedby Rasmussen, Phone: +45 2118 1048 [Ring op: +45 2118 1048] , email: institutleder@ifs.ku.dk

The deadline for applications, including enclosures is 1 October 2018 (at Midnight 23.59 Danish Time)

Please note: Applications cannot be based on this extract. Click here for full announcement: <http://employment.ku.dk/faculty/>

Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe's top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Rich in tradition and modern in outlook, the University gives students and staff the opportunity to cultivate their talent in an ambitious and informal environment. An effective organisation – with good working conditions and a collaborative work culture – creates the ideal framework for a successful academic career.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 10/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/6/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4452

University of Colorado-Denver

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Social Welfare, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Research Methods

The School of Public Affairs (SPA) at the University of Colorado Denver (CU Denver) seeks to fill a tenure-track position in public affairs, to start in August 2019. The position will be at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. We are looking for a candidate with expertise in public administration/management, and we are open to various sub-field areas of expertise. Interest in social equity, civil society, social vulnerabilities, nonprofit management, collaborative governance, emergency management, and/or performance management would be particularly valuable.

At the Assistant Professor level, we seek candidates who have completed PhDs, with evidence of excellence in teaching, publishing, and demonstrated efforts at attaining external grant funding. For consideration at the Associate Professor level, candidates are expected to be an emerging leader in their field, with an excellent record in research, demonstrated through both externally funded awards and publications, as well as excellence in teaching, mentoring, and funding graduate and/or undergraduate students.

We encourage applicants with diverse backgrounds and/or candidates whose research itself focuses on issues related to diversity and/or social equity. We are also open to candidates with a range of different methodological approaches and backgrounds.

The normal class teaching load is 2:2 and can involve teaching opportunities in our PhD in Public Affairs, MPA, and BA in Public Service programs. Applicants should be willing to teach in both face-to-face and online formats. The salary is competitive.

SPA has 28 full-time faculty and is currently ranked #29 in the country by US News and World Report in public management and leadership, and we are ranked in the top 75 programs in the world for public administration by Shanghai Academic rankings. SPA is a NASPAA-accredited MPA program ranked nationally at #34 overall by US News and World Report. In addition to the degree programs mentioned above, we also offer Master's and Bachelor's degrees in Criminal Justice. All programs except the PhD are available fully online, as well as in-person.

Our downtown Denver location provides unprecedented access to a diverse urban environment where policy becomes practice. SPA is a diverse learning community and one of the most culturally inclusive schools on campus, allowing our students to interact with people who reflect their own identity and with others who broaden their horizons. More than one-third of SPA students are students of color. CU Denver students come from all 50 states and 67 countries.

Denver is one of the fastest growing and most economically vibrant cities in America. Denver's Mayor, along with many other community leaders, are alums of our School. Our city and state are microcosms for research and teaching in public management, environmental policy, local government, nonprofits, emergency management, public health, and public finance.

Our faculty have grown their external funding by 200% over the past 5 years. Faculty currently have grants from NSF, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, Ford Foundation, Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, St. Louis Community Foundation, the Colorado Trust, the Community First Foundation, the Colorado Department of Public Health and the Environment, the US Department of Health and Human Services, the Annie E. Casey Foundation, and others. SPA faculty routinely attend and present at conferences around the world and are often invited to speak to both academic and practitioner communities on their areas of expertise. SPA faculty are nationally recognized leaders, currently or recently holding positions like NAPA members, PAR editor, PSJ editor, NASPAA Executive Council, ARNOVA board, NVSQ editorial board, and many others.

Many faculty are involved with SPA's Institute for Governance, the applied arm of the school, either through research, training, evaluation, or service. The Institute focuses on translational research, including but not limited to applied research in Colorado, through the work of Centers focused on local government, network sciences and collaborative governance, education policy, criminal justice, and policy process research. The Institute also runs a Certified Public Management (CPM) program and several other leadership development programs. We seek candidates who demonstrate interest in contributing to this mission in some manner.

Generally, SPA is seeking candidates who want to contribute to the dynamic efforts among faculty to support and expand our research and impact, as we continue to be recognized as a top public affairs school. Faculty are committed to working collaboratively and in support of making an impact on the field of public affairs and more broadly, the public sector. We are also committed to graduating high quality students who have the best experiences in the classroom, working alongside faculty in research, and making an impact as graduates who employers seek to hire. We expect that this candidate will quickly become part of an energetic effort to produce the best research and teaching in the field.

Application materials will ONLY be accepted online via the CU Careers job portal.

To apply, please visit <https://www.cu.edu/cu-careers> (Job ID#14311) and submit your curriculum vitae, letter of application summarizing qualifications, and contact information for three professional references. Finalists for the position should be prepared to provide letters of recommendation and evidence of research and teaching proficiency upon request.

Review of applications will continue until the positions are filled with full consideration given to those who apply by October 1, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4487

Waseda University

Rank: Tenured position in Public Policy (Empirical Political Science)

The Faculty of Political Science and Economics at Waseda University invites applications for a tenured position in Public Policy with a focus in empirical analysis. The appointment will be made at the rank of either Professor or Associate Professor, beginning in April 1 or September 1 in 2019.

Waseda University, founded in 1882, is a leading private research university located in central Tokyo. As part of the University's internationalization initiative, the Faculty of Political Science and Economics has offered English-based degree programs both at the undergraduate and graduate levels since 2010. The programs offer a diverse and dynamic academic community to talented students from all around the world.

Candidates must meet the following requirements:

(1) Have academic research background in Political Science (Public Administration/Public Policy) and be able to teach courses on Public Policy and seminars both in the public management major (Japanese based professional degree program) and the public policy major (English based professional master's degree program starting from September, 2019) and also teach related topics at both the undergraduate and postgraduate level in the Faculty of Political Science and Economics.

(2) Excellent research achievement including empirical analysis on public policy.

(3) Be able to conduct research and education on public policy from an international perspective including evaluation of institutional systems and policies in other countries and regions.

(4) Have a Ph.D. degree, awarded by the start of the appointment

(5) Experience in teaching courses related to Public Policy

(6) Be able to conduct classes in both English and Japanese

The salary will be determined based on the University salary table.

Application Procedure

All applications must be submitted via the following website:

https://www.wasedapse.jp/en/fpse1/eng_input.php.

On the website, choose "Public Policy (Empirical Political Science)" in "Application Category". In "References", provide the contact information of two reference persons whom we may contact to request your recommendation letters. Upload the following documents for the relevant sections of "Application Documents". All documents must be PDF files in English or Japanese.

1. Cover Letter with your contact information: Download the format from website: <https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news/2018/08/01/9123/>. And fill out. Upload it at "(1) Application Form/Cover Letter".
2. Curriculum Vitae with a list of academic/professional accomplishments: Upload it at "(2) Curriculum Vitae with a list of academic/professional accomplishments". Free format or format on the website.
3. Statement of Teaching in public policy (About 1000 words): Upload it at "(3) Additional application material 1". Free format.
4. Three major academic works: Upload them at "(3) Additional application material 2," "(3) Additional application material 3," and "(3) Additional application material 4".

Should you wish to submit a hard copy of your work, please send us a copy by registered mail on or before the application deadline.

Attn: Application for Empirical Political Science in Public Policy
Faculty of Political Science and Economics

Waseda University

1-6-1 Nishi Waseda, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-8050

Japan

Note: The documents submitted will not be returned.

5. Summary of your three major academic works [about 300 words for each work]: Upload it at "(3) Additional application material 5". Free format.

6. Proof of award of a Ph.D. degree (Copy of a diploma or a transcript): E-mail it to pse-hr-pubpol@list.waseda.jp by the deadline shown below.

Please name the PDF file in a following manner.

Public Policy_Empirical Political Science_doctral degree_your name.pdf

Deadline

1 p.m., September 21 (Friday), 2018 (JST)
The receipt of application will be confirmed by e-mail within roughly 10 days after the deadline.

There will be three stages in our recruitment process: 1) shortlisting; 2) an interview with the search committee including a mock lecture and a research presentation in English; and 3) an interview with the dean. The first-stage result is expected to be informed in the late October, 2018

Inquiries should be made only by email to:
Email: pse-hr-pubpol@list.waseda.jp

This document in its original form, prescribed forms, and instructions for applicants are available at: <https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news/2018/08/01/9123/>.

Start Date: Spring 2019
Application Deadline: 9/21/2018
Date Posted: 8/3/2018
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 4477

Georgetown University

Rank: Senior Tenured Scholar - McDonough School of Business and the Walsh School of Foreign Service

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both schools. We seek scholars who work at the intersection of business and international affairs in fields such as international political economy, international trade, and international business and public policy. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Full Professor, though we welcome applications from accomplished associate professors. We also welcome applications from and nominations of senior scholars with extensive policymaking experience.

This joint position is one of a number of new interdisciplinary positions at Georgetown intended to foster scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Because of our location in Washington, DC, extensive linkages to the international policy and business communities, and strong tradition of scholarship and teaching in business, international affairs, and political economy, Georgetown has a unique opportunity to pursue integrative opportunities in scholarship and educational programs at the intersection of these fields, and the person appointed to the joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB and SFS are currently undertaking a transformative cooperation to create a new joint undergraduate degree, the first in Georgetown's history, and plans are also underway for joint centers and research initiatives. This cooperation builds on the success of several joint graduate degrees, as well as a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. The successful candidate will help provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. The MSB has strengths in core business disciplines as well as international business, public policy, and international political economy. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here: <https://www.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business attracts faculty and students from around the world. We are committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here: <https://msb.georgetown.edu/>.

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE: The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and language. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to apply.interfolio.com/52848. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2018, but will accept applications and nominations until the position is filled. Professors Dennis P. Quinn of MSB and Erik Voeten of SFS will co-chair the search.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4455

Utah Valley University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in Political Science
Specializations: Political Psychology, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

The Department of History and Political Science at Utah Valley University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics to begin in the academic year 2019-2020. We are seeking candidates with expertise in the politics of race and ethnicity, minority politics, immigration politics, media and politics, and public opinion in the United States. We are also interested in candidates who are able to teach survey and experimental methods courses within the department. The person hired will also be expected to teach our large-section introductory course in American politics.

As an Elective Community Engagement designated university by the Carnegie Foundation, Utah Valley University is committed to making teaching excellence inclusive in every aspect of the institution. Diversity, inclusion and equity are prioritized learning resources for all UVU community members. Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an engaged learning environment.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to August 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate a potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship.

Interested applicants must apply for this position via the Utah Valley University job page. Please access the posting at <https://www.uvu.edu/jobs/postings/7932>. All applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample of your research, teaching materials (for example student evaluations or sample syllabi), your graduate transcript, and three letters of reference. All materials are due by October 1, 2018.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please email your curriculum vitae and cover letter by August 15 to Dr. Steven Sylvester, Search Committee Chair at ssylvester@uvu.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance.

Employment decisions are made on the basis of an applicant's qualifications and ability to perform the job without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age (40 and over), disability, veteran status, pregnancy, childbirth, or pregnancy-related conditions, genetic information, or other bases protected by applicable federal, state, or local law.

UVU offers an excellent benefits package which includes a generous leave policy, 12 paid holidays, affordable medical and dental insurance options, life and AD&D insurance, tuition waiver (undergraduate resident) for employee and dependents and substantial employer contribution to a retirement plan.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 10/1/2018
Date Posted: 7/26/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4437

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Whittier College

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates specializing in Public Policy and American Politics, and capable of teaching a core course in Public Administration. We would be particularly interested in candidates who might also be able to contribute to any of the following additional areas: race and politics, minority politics, environmental politics, state and local politics with an emphasis on California, and/or political theory.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science prior to September 2019. The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach 20 units each year and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as First-year Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Preliminary review of materials will begin September 10, and will continue until the appointment is made. If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association conference, please let us know, and send your c.v. and letter of application by August 1. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance. Full applications should include: a letter of application, including discussion of teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation, sent by your references. Please email (PDFs preferred) materials to Prof. Deborah Norden, Department Chair, at <mailto:dnorden@whittier.edu>. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Prof. Deborah Norden, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-4289f6e1d352e841a207bc2342f12ec7>

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2018
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 4413

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in the Field of Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of public policy.

The McCourt School has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching expertise focus on applying innovative research to find solutions to important public policy problems. Environmental policy (domestic or comparative) and comparative policymaking are two areas where we have especially strong needs.

We expect the applicant to have a Ph.D. by the time they start; the Ph.D. could be in political science, policy, sociology, economics or related fields.

Applications can be submitted at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11436>. The committee will begin considering applications on September 15th and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A small number of candidates may be interviewed at the American Political Science Association meeting in Boston. Applicants who submit their applications by August 25th who wish to be considered for APSA interviews should indicate their availability in their cover letter.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4403

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy and American politics, including judicial and/or state and local politics. Applicants are encouraged to discuss their ability to contribute to the Department's emphasis in Race, Class, and Gender. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Boston and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a Carnegie-classified Doctoral University (Moderate Research Activity) with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven academic colleges and five schools—the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment—with an Honors College that spans across disciplines. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2019. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 12, 2018. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492980/assistant-professor-of-political-science>. Submit a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the US, and the university will not sponsor an applicant for a work visa for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 7/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4356

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy and American politics, including judicial and/or state and local politics. Applicants are encouraged to discuss their ability to contribute to the Department's emphasis in Race, Class, and Gender. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Boston and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a Carnegie-classified Doctoral University (Moderate Research Activity) with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven academic colleges and five schools—the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment—with an Honors College that spans across disciplines. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2019. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 12, 2018. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492980/assistant-professor-of-political-science>. Submit a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the US, and the university will not sponsor an applicant for a work visa for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 7/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4357

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2019. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy and American politics, including judicial and/or state and local politics. Applicants are encouraged to discuss their ability to contribute to the Department's emphasis in Race, Class, and Gender. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Boston and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a Carnegie-classified Doctoral University (Moderate Research Activity) with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven academic colleges and five schools—the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment—with an Honors College that spans across disciplines. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2019. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 12, 2018. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492980/assistant-professor-of-political-science>. Submit a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the US, and the university will not sponsor an applicant for a work visa for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/12/2018

Date Posted: 7/9/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4358

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of State and Local Government and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: State Politics, Urban Politics, Housing

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2019-2020

Areas of Specialization: State and Local Government and Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and state and local government and upper-level courses focusing on state governance and metropolitan development. Background in public policy preferred. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2019. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; syllabi of any courses taught; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252. Please reference search: CLA-N-3203.

Application review will begin in October. Initial committee review will end on December 15, 2018.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 12/15/2018

Date Posted: 6/27/2018

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 4335

Western Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Political Science Department at Western Washington University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning in September 2019. The department welcomes applications from all areas of the subfield and all policy areas.

Minimum requirements include: Doctorate or ABD in Political Science with expected completion by June 15, 2019; specialization in one or both of the following: American Political Institutions or Political Behavior, ability to effectively teach introductory and upper division courses in American Politics; ability to develop and sustain high quality research program; ability to work effectively within a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff. Preferred qualifications include: ability to teach introductory research methods, ability and commitment to cultivating learning environments that are equitable and inclusive of students with diverse social identities and backgrounds.

The Department of Political Science has 15 full-time tenured and tenure-track faculty members and approximately 350 majors and minors. Our work bridges American and comparative politics, international relations, public policy, and political theory. Tenure-track and tenured faculty teach two courses per term. Western Washington University, with over 15,000 students in seven colleges and the graduate school, is the highest-ranking public, master's-granting university in the Pacific Northwest, according to the 2017 U.S. News & World Report rankings. Criteria for tenure and promotion are described in the Political Science Department Unit Evaluation Plan, available on request. <https://chss.wwu.edu>.

Interested candidates should submit: letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications, curriculum vitae, syllabi and related teaching material, teaching evaluations (if available), example(s) of scholarly writing, transcript, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted through Western's PAGE UP system at <https://careers.wwu.edu/westernpageup.html>. Salary: Commensurate with experience and qualifications. Bargaining Union: United Faculty of Western Washington

Application review begins September 25, 2018; position closes October 15, 2018. Inquiries may be directed to the search committee chair, Todd Donovan, at Todd.Donovan@wwu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 10/15/2018

Date Posted: 6/27/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4339

Texas A&M University

Rank: Tenure-Track, Assistant Professor in National Security & Diplomacy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the broad area of National Security and Diplomacy. The Bush School of Government and Public Service has built an outstanding faculty who are looking to hire a collegial Assistant Professor. We are broadly open to a candidate's regional/topical area of international affairs specialization. Bush School faculty exclusively teach master's degree graduate students in international affairs in a standard 2-2 load. The successful candidate will be expected to teach at least one section of the required course in introductory-level empirical methods. We have a preference for candidates who would also be able to teach U.S. foreign policy. Additional information about the Bush School and department is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics or a related discipline by September 2019. The individual selected will have demonstrated a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2019.

Applications must be made through the Texas A&M Workday website. The job number for this position is R-008268.

Applicants who currently are not a Texas A&M System employee please go to our external career site at https://tamus.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/TAMU_External/job/College-Station-TAMU/Tenure-Track--Assistant-Professor-in-National-Security--Diplomacy---International-Affairs_R-008268

Applicants who currently are a Texas A&M System employee please go to our internal career site at https://www.myworkday.com/tamus/d/inst/15\$158872/9925\$10485.html

Applicants should upload a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae and a sample of written work.

Additionally, please have three letters of recommendation sent to:

Professor Gregory Gause

c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tamu.edu)
The Bush School of Government & Public Service
Texas A&M University
4220 TAMU
College Station, TX 77843-4220

The review of applications will begin September 20, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/22/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4323

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant professor

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2019. We seek candidates whose research focuses on American politics and policy. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in political institutions. Priority will be given to candidates who can add to the department's strengths in rigorous empirical, formal, and/or experimental analysis. Successful candidates are expected to pursue an active program of research and contribute to the department's undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Florida State University is committed to broadening the gender, racial, and ethnic diversity of its faculty, and the Department of Political Science shares that goal. The university statement of commitment to increasing the diversity of the faculty and students can be found at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_home.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 7,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) writing samples, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (pdf's are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Florida State University is an EO employer. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 9/17/2018

Date Posted: 6/15/2018

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 4308