

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

November 2019 | Volume 8, Issue 11

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 12
Comparative Politics 62
International Relations 100
Methodology 146
Non-Academic 155
Open 156
Other 175
Political Theory 218
Public Administration 237
Public Law 248
Public Policy 259

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

November 2019 | Volume 8, Issue 11

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (11 listings)

American Government and Politics 12 (93 listings)

Comparative Politics 62 (74 listings)

International Relations 100 (89 listings)

Methodology 146 (19 listings)

Non-Academic 155 (1 listings)

Open 156 (38 listings)

Other 175 (79 listings)

Political Theory 218 (37 listings)

Public Administration 237 (21 listings)

Public Law 248 (20 listings)

Public Policy 259 (60 listings)

Total listings this issue 542

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for November

ADMINISTRATION

University of Florida

Rank: Director, Program In African American Studies

The Program in African American Studies at the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS), University of Florida (UF) seeks to hire a Director with a broad vision, excellent communication and administrative skills, and a proven record combining scholarship with program leadership and development. The new Director will work with program faculty and the Office of the Dean to realize the College's aspirations for departmental status for African American Studies.

The Program in African American Studies

The University of Florida has offered African American studies courses since 1969. Catalyzed by the passing of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King in 1968, students, educators and activists across the country, intensified the call for increased access to higher education for African Americans. In 1969 the University of Florida responded by establishing an African American Studies Program in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; representing a major step towards racial equality and desegregation. In 1971, the University awarded its first African American Studies certificate, its first minor in 2006, and its first major in 2014.

Fifty years later, the program has continued to flourish. Boasting award-winning faculty in both research and teaching, and a rapidly growing number of students, African American Studies reflects the University of Florida's commitment to academic excellence through diversity and inclusion.

The program is committed to teaching and research that examines the African American experience in a transnational context from a broad base of disciplinary theories. Its faculty members are dedicated to community outreach and community-based learning, including study abroad. The Director will lead a talented and dynamic group of faculty, building upon these foundations, while implementing a clear and ambitious strategic vision for future growth that includes the creation of a Department of African American Studies.

The program supports a rich environment of scholarship, culture, and creativity, which provides a thriving and welcoming home to all affiliated students, staff, and faculty. Students can choose from over 50 courses routinely offered by multiple units at UF. The Program offers a Minor and a Major and aspires to add a graduate curriculum. The UF Libraries system has designated library staff tasked with the enhancement of its current research collection. More information about the Program in African American Studies can be found at: <https://afam.clas.ufl.edu/>

The Program Director

The Director holds a tenured appointment within an appropriate CLAS academic unit at the rank of Associate or Full Professor. Administrative responsibilities include program development and coordination, budgetary and personnel management, faculty recruitment and retention, liaison work with affiliated units within and outside the university, and fundraising.

The new Director will be instrumental in the progress of the program to department status, as proposed by CLAS Dean David E. Richardson. As part of that commitment, Dean Richardson has also authorized searches for four new tenure-track faculty members in African American Studies. The new director will work with a steering committee and existing faculty and the Office of the Dean to determine the areas of specialization for these positions in order to maximize the potential for continued and enhanced success.

The Director must have an earned doctorate and have demonstrated active involvement in the field of African American Studies through a distinguished record of research, teaching, related scholarly activities, and program building. The Director should be able to communicate effectively with diverse constituencies and show evidence of fundraising and administrative skills, including a strong commitment to participatory governance. The Director should also demonstrate a capacity for working collaboratively across disciplinary boundaries with faculty and students from diverse backgrounds and perspectives.

The University of Florida

The University of Florida is a public land-grant institution and member of the Association of American Universities enrolling 55,000 students, including more than 36,000 residential undergraduates. UF is among the nation's most academically diverse universities, with 16 colleges offering 100 undergraduate degree programs, 200 graduate programs, and professional degrees in the areas of dentistry, law, medicine, pharmacy, and veterinary medicine. The University of Florida is ranked among the Top 10 Public National Universities by US News and World Report and is 2nd in the nation among public universities on the Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine list of Best College Values for 2018.

The university offers 100 undergraduate majors, 200 graduate programs, and 30 certificates across the following 16 colleges and schools:

College of Agricultural and Life Sciences

College of Journalism and Communications

College of the Arts

Levin College of Law

Warrington College of Business

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences

Administration College of Dentistry

College of Medicine

College of Design, Construction and Planning

College of Nursing

College of Education

College of Pharmacy

Herbert Wertheim College of Engineering

College of Public Health and Health Professions

College of Health and Human Performance

College of Veterinary Medicine

The university is currently in the middle of the $3 billion Go Greater fundraising campaign, and to date more than $1.7 billion has been raised. Funding objectives for academic units, include faculty endowments, scholarships, infrastructure, and other initiatives specific to units and collaborative programs.

More information on the University of Florida is available at <http://www.ufl.edu>.

The Gainesville Area

Gainesville is located in North Central Florida and has approximately 285,000 residents. The region is known for its diversity of cultural events, restaurants, year-round outdoor recreational activities, social opportunities, and abundant natural resources including forests, lakes, springs, rivers, and wetlands. More information about Gainesville is available at: <http://www.cityofgainesville.org> and <https://www.visitflorida.com/en-us/cities/gainesville.html>.

Qualifications

Ph.D. degree required.

Application Instructions

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online via Interfolio (search position #42239 at <https://facultyjobs.hr.ufl.edu>). An Interfolio account will need to be created if the applicant does not already have one. Your application must include (1) a letter of application summarizing the applicant's qualifications, interests, and suitability for the position, (2) a complete curriculum vitae, and (3) a list of names and contact information of three references. After initial review, applicants who are chosen to receive further consideration will be asked to request confidential letters of recommendation from the references. For additional questions regarding the application process, please contact Robin Schrieber (robinjs@ufl.edu 352-392-0780).

Applications will be reviewed beginning January 21, 2019, and the position will remain open until filled. To ensure full consideration, application materials should be received by January 21, 2019. Applications received after this date may be considered at the discretion of the committee and/or hiring authority.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

The University of Florida is an equal opportunity institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida's Sunshine Law. If an accommodation due to disability is needed in order to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

The University of Florida particularly welcomes applicants who can contribute to a diverse and inclusive environment through their scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and professional service.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7359

American University in Cairo

Rank: Dean, School of Humanities and Social Sciences

The American University in Cairo (AUC) has a rich legacy that dates back 100 years. Founded in 1919 as an English-language university based on high standards of conduct and scholarship, AUC remains a vibrant institution that contributes to the intellectual growth, discipline and character of the future leaders of Egypt and the region. AUC emphasizes a liberal arts education, with all undergraduate students studying a common set of courses in the humanities and the natural and social sciences as part of the University's Core Curriculum. Ranked as one of the top 30 best universities in the Arab region by U.S. News and World Report, AUC is proud to have programs in the arts and humanities; business, management, and accounting; and social sciences that rank in the top ten in the region. Located in one of the most interesting and important cities in the world – at the nexus of Africa, the Middle East, Asia and Europe, and at the center of events of the Arab world – AUC's academic programs draw on the city of Cairo as an extension of the classroom, integrating it into the curriculum and allowing students to be actively engaged in the society and world around them. As a chartered and accredited university in the United States and Egypt, AUC creates opportunities for diverse students, serves as the fountainhead of arts and culture, and further advances a global exchange that brings the world to Egypt and Egypt to the world.

The cornerstone of education at AUC since its founding, the School of Humanities and Social Sciences (HUSS) situates liberal arts education in a global context that promotes innovation and civic engagement. HUSS is central to the mission at AUC and its largest school. The School of Humanities and Social Sciences consists of nine departments: Applied Linguistics; Arab and Islamic Civilizations; Arts; English and Comparative Literature; History; Philosophy; Political Science; Psychology; and Sociology, Egyptology and Anthropology. The School's over 100 faculty and 60 staff support over 600 undergraduate and nearly 200 graduate students. As HUSS is committed to fostering international diversity, cross-cultural learning, and global exchange within the school, 28% of the faculty hail from Egypt and 72% are from the United States and other countries. HUSS also boasts a world-class faculty who maintain discipline-based expertise across a range of fields, produce groundbreaking research, and provide the finest liberal arts education in the region. Many faculty members, including distinguished visiting scholars, are internationally and regionally recognized for outstanding scholarship.

HUSS is distinguished in its commitment to creating an interdisciplinary liberal arts education that considers the public benefit of humanities and social sciences. With the support of an Andrew W. Mellon Foundation grant, the School founded the HUSS Lab, which supports teaching, research, and public outreach in the field of humanities and humanistic social sciences. The HUSS Lab works to remove the barriers that exist within and around academic communities, while providing a vehicle for faculty and students to challenge academic silos, engage the public sphere, and contribute to discourse in a manner that is dynamic, and problem focused. HUSS is also the proud home of state-of-the-art facilities for study, creative work in theatre, music and the visual arts, and cultural experiences such as the Metropolitan Opera Live in HD program.

Reporting directly to the Provost, the Dean of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences is the chief academic and administrative leader for the School and serves as an essential member of the university leadership. The Dean will set the strategic direction for HUSS, with the responsibility for advancing the mission and operations through thoughtful personnel decisions, general administration and management, creative budgeting and resource management, academic program support, and fundraising. The Dean will promote excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, including the development of collaborative academic programs, in addition to creating opportunities for more robust research. The successful candidate must intrinsically understand and promote the value of a liberal arts education. The Dean will be able to effectively articulate the importance of the liberal arts to the future of an international university and be committed to developing the excellence of its faculty, as well as recruiting and supporting promising students. The successful candidate will also possess experience in academic administration and have demonstrated scholarly excellence in a relevant field. Preferred candidates will have credentials consistent with an appointment as Full Professor with tenure.

To access the full Position Profile and application instructions, please visit: <http://bit.ly/AUCDeanHUSShttp://bit.ly/AUCDeanHUSS>

Inquiries and nominations are invited.

Joi Hayes-Scott and Jett Pihakis
Russell Reynolds Associates
AUC.HUSS@russellreynolds.com
(202) 654-7816

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7370

Arizona State University

Rank: Director, School of Human Evolution & Social Change

Director, School of Human Evolution and Social Change
Arizona State University

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Arizona State University (ASU) invites applications for the position of Director of the School of Human Evolution and Social Change (SHESC) with a concurrent appointment as a tenured Full Professor. ASU serves more than 70,000 students across five campuses, and has a rapidly growing digital immersion population. SHESC is located on ASU's Tempe campus. Tempe is part of the greater Phoenix metropolitan area. The anticipated start date is July 1, 2020.

Research and teaching at SHESC (<https://shesc.asu.edu>) has contributed to ASU ranking #1 in anthropology in both research funding and output. A vibrant community of scholars, teachers, and professionals, SHESC includes over 45 tenure-track faculty members that serve 800 undergraduate majors in anthropology, global health, and applied math and 110 PhD and MA students across four graduate programs. A highly engaged and collaborative unit, SHESC is a leader in research and educational initiatives in traditional anthropological subfields (archaeology, bioarchaeology, evolutionary anthropology, sociocultural anthropology) and problem-based fields of applied math, environmental social science, and global health. SHESC faculty are affiliated with a wide diversity of transdisciplinary research groups, including the Institute of Human Origins, the Julie Ann Wrigley Global Institute of Sustainability, the Teotihuacan Research Laboratory and the Centers for Archaeology and Society, Bioarchaeology, Digital Antiquity, Evolution and Medicine, Global Health, and Social Dynamics and Complexity, and the Arizona-Phoenix Long-Term Ecological Research program.

The Director will develop and implement a comprehensive plan for SHESC and strategic initiatives related to the faculty, staff, and students, providing leadership, vision, and the capacity to engage faculty across a range of disciplines, while sustaining a culture of collaboration both within and beyond the School, strengthening links with other academic units at ASU, and with the wider community. The Director will also maintain an internationally recognized research program and contribute to the teaching mission of the university. The Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research endeavors; attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members from diverse backgrounds and disciplines; promote student success and career readiness; develop interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advance entrepreneurial opportunities; and enhance productive relationships within and outside the university community.

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or equivalent in anthropology, environmental social science or global health, or a related field or discipline
- A record of excellence in teaching and service in an academic setting
- A distinguished scholarly record commensurate with the rank of tenured Professor
- Academic leadership experience

Desired Qualifications

- Demonstrated commitment to cultivating and supporting a diverse faculty and student population
- Relevant administrative experience
- Demonstrated appreciation for interdisciplinary approaches to teaching and research
- Demonstrated ability or articulated potential to catalyze cutting-edge research
- Demonstrated ability for mentorship and professional development of emerging scholars
- A record of externally-funded research
- Potential for innovative and strategic leadership in an academic setting
- Commitment to building community-based initiatives
- Commitment to developing donor relations and fundraising

This is a paperless search. To apply, please submit to <http://apply.interfolio.com/69718> : (1) a cover letter outlining how you meet the above qualifications and your vision for leading a transdisciplinary academic unit such as SHESC, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence, and (4) contact information including emails for three references. References may be contacted at a later stage of the search and only with the candidate's approval. Initial deadline for receipt of complete applications is November 24, 2019. If the position is not filled, reviews will occur every week thereafter until the search is closed. Cover letter can be addressed to Professor Steven Neuberg, Search Committee Chair. Questions about the position should be directed to the search committee chair at steven.neuberg@asu.edu.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

A background check is required for employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html>. <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf>. You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 11/24/2019

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7352

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Rank: Co-Director for Academic Affairs

Co-Director for Academic Affairs; The University of Virginia is seeking a distinguished scholar to help lead our Democracy Initiative, <http://democracyinitiative.virginia.edu/>; as Co-Director for Academic Affairs; UVA's Democracy Initiative aspires to excellence in integrated research, teaching, and public engagement on democracy at a global scale — bringing together a diverse range of scholars, government leaders, and practitioners to study and advance the prospects of democracy around the world; Reporting to the Dean of the College and Graduate School of Arts & Sciences, in partnership with the nonpartisan Miller Center of Public Affairs and in collaboration with colleagues from across the University, the Democracy Initiative was established in 2018 with leadership support from generous donors to the College Foundation and the Jefferson Scholars Foundation. It is designed to engage a wide audience — from undergraduates to world leaders — in examining the challenges confronting democracies today. With over $50 million already committed, UVA is on track to meet the goal of $120 million in overall support for the Democracy Initiative; Reporting to the Dean of the College and Graduate School of Arts & Sciences and working in close partnership with the Co-Director for Policy and Public Affairs, the Co-Director for Academic Affairs will play a key role in shaping the Democracy Initiative's development and direction. The two co-directors will work closely together, but they will also have distinct duties. The Co-Director for Academic Affairs will partner with the Co-Director for Policy and Public Affairs to provide vision and leadership of the Democracy Initiative, with a particular emphasis on developing the Initiative's research and pedagogical mission. The new leader will also serve as Director and lead research convener of the Core Lab; The Co-Director for Academic Affairs will build a vibrant community of scholars undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty — devoted to studying the promise of and the challenges to democracy. This individual will be a dynamic leader sharing responsibility for maintaining a high level of interest in the Democracy Initiative amongst a wide and diverse constituency; The University seeks a distinguished academic from the humanities or social sciences to serve in this capacity. Compelling candidates will bring appreciation for the multi and interdisciplinary nature of the Initiative as well as the role of research in facilitating important global discussions in the public beyond the academy; Professional Qualifications & A full professor from the humanities or social sciences is desired. Significant academic credentials, a nationally recognized scholar in topics related to democracy. An earned doctoral degree and experience working in a university or institutional research setting is required; Demonstrated record of strong management skills and effective, collaborative leadership in a distinguished academic or research setting. Capacity to formulate and articulate a shared vision, to persuade a wide range of audiences of its value, and to engage others in its implementation. Understanding and appreciation of the importance of diversity and inclusion, and ability to promote and construct a collegial and respectful working environment. Strong communication and interpersonal skills; Conversant in and supportive of interdisciplinary research, theories, and methods. Ability to initiate and foster successful research partnerships and collaborations in academia and beyond; Ability to leverage the Initiative in recruiting outstanding new faculty to the University. A record of operational leadership demonstrating excellence, growth, and financial effectiveness. Demonstrated experience in fiscal management. Ability to manage resources strategically; Aptitude and appetite for strengthening philanthropic support from individuals, foundations, and corporations; To learn more about this opportunity, please visit <https://executivesearch.virginia.edu/search/co-director-academic-affairs-democracy-initiative>; <https://executivesearch.virginia.edu/search/co-director-academic-affairs-democracy-initiative>; Applications should include a CV, letter of interest and contact information for at least three references. The search will be carried out with full confidentiality; candidates will be notified before references are contacted. To be officially considered for this position, all candidates must apply through UVA Workday at https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UVAJobs/job/Charlottesville-VA/Co-Director-for-Academic-Affairs--Democracy-Initiative_R0010712; https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UVAJobs/job/Charlottesville-VA/Co-Director-for-Academic-Affairs--Democracy-Initiative_R0010712; For confidential inquiries or to nominate someone for this opportunity, please contact AJ Davidson, Senior Search Consultant, with the University of Virginia's Executive Search Group, at ajh2d@virginia.edu; ajh2d@virginia.edu; PI114500069

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/15/2019

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 7334

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Director, School of Public Affairs

The University of Arkansas at Little Rock invites applications for a twelve-month appointment as associate or full professor to serve as the Director of the School of Public Affairs (position #R99296), with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2020. The selected candidate will lead a diverse and dynamic group of scholars and practitioners in building UA Little Rock's newly founded School of Public Affairs, and teach in the NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration program. The School is part of the College of Social Sciences & Communication (CSSC), a community of teacher-scholars and professionals whose mission is to apply theory and research to drive social change and inspire human expression, reflection, and interconnection (see ualr.edu/cssc).

Required Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Affairs, or a related field; Associate Professor rank, or equivalent, at current or last institution; Demonstrated record of excellence in research, teaching, and public or non-profit community engagement; Ability to teach courses in the Master of Public Administration program.

Preferred Qualifications: Full professor, or equivalent, rank at current or last institution; Evidence of accomplishments and innovation in administration, scholarship, and community engagement; Professional experience in public or nonprofit management; Experience in attracting external funding and developing and managing collaboration with stakeholders; Experience teaching graduate-level public affairs/administration/policy, urban affairs, or state and local government courses; Experience in the governance and delivery of an MPA program; Professional experience working with nonprofit agencies, and state and local government entities, to bring about community-engaged change.

Application materials must be submitted through the online application system. Additional information about these positions are available under the Jobs link on the Human Resources' website at <http://ualr.edu/humanresources/>. Consideration of applications will begin on December 1, 2019. Incomplete applications cannot be considered; any materials not submitted as requested using the online application system renders an application incomplete. Inquiries about the position may be made to Dr. April Chatham-Carpenter, Interim Director of the School of Public Affairs, at axchathamca@ualr.edu or by phone at 501-569-8790.

This position is subject to a pre-employment criminal and financial history background check. A criminal conviction or arrest pending adjudication and/or adverse financial history alone shall not disqualify an applicant in the absence of a relationship to the requirements of the position. Background check information will be used in a confidential, non-discriminatory manner consistent with state and federal law.

Under Arkansas law, all applications are subject to disclosure. Persons hired must have proof of legal authority to work in the United States.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7333

Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc

Rank: Founding Dean, Hobby School of Public Affairs

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Specializations: Public Opinion, Economic Policy, Political Communication

The University of Houston (UH) is searching for an innovative, dynamic leader to take charge of positioning the Hobby School as a nationally and internationally prominent school of public affairs and public policy. As a founding dean, there are ample opportunities to grow and shape the school where public service is primary. The Founding Dean of the Hobby School of Public Affairs reports directly to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. Founded in 1927, the UH is the leading public research university in Houston and the second most ethnically diverse research university in the nation. Each year, the university educates more than 40,000 students in more than 300 undergraduate and graduate academic programs. UH awards more than 8,000 degrees annually and has more than 230,000 alumni. Students come to UH from more than 137 nations. Classified as a Tier One institution by virtue of its Very High Research ranking by the Carnegie Foundation, UH is also one of only 300 institutions nationwide to receive the Foundation's highest designation as a community-engaged university. The University of Houston has been recognized both as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian-American serving institution by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Postsecondary Education.

The dean is the senior academic and administrative officer of the school, and is responsible for setting strategic, operational, and financial directions. In those roles, the dean has overall responsibilities for developing an effective collegial environment and plan that supports excellence in teaching, research, and service/engagement. The Founding Dean of the Hobby School of Public Affairs should have: a passion for public policy and an interest in finding solutions; expertise and experience in an important policy area; understanding of the mission and attributes of the Hobby School, including both internal & external dimensions; a dynamic and innovative vision and approach to building the reputation of the Hobby School; media and messaging savvy in all media channels, including print, social media, television, and radio; strong commitment to the Hobby School and the vision to recognize that it is becoming a vital and growing presence on campus, locally, regionally, nationally, and internationally; excellent speaking skills; an ability to promote the Hobby School through fund raising efforts and public relations awareness as well as engage with key stakeholders; and the ability to be an articulate advocate of the vision, mission and uniqueness of the Hobby School.

Qualifications and Experience

The successful candidate will be a nationally recognized entrepreneurial leader or academic scholar able to articulate the narrative of the Hobby School's diverse accomplishments and aspirations with a sense of common purpose and pride. Experience in addressing the social and economic issues in the widest variety of communities will be highly valued. Applicants with strong leadership experience and outstanding accomplishments in government, public affairs and/or academia are welcomed and will receive serious attention. This is an exceptional opportunity for an individual with the drive, skill, and experience to bring creative leadership to a distinguished organization and to play a critical role in shaping its future.

In addition, the dean would have the following preferred qualifications: a demonstrated commitment to promoting quality research and scholarship; a strong record and commitment to continuous improvement of student learning and faculty teaching; a strong commitment to fostering community/university collaboration and partnerships; a proven record and commitment sustaining a culture of diversity and inclusion; a demonstrated commitment to faculty and programmatic development; demonstrated leadership in infrastructure development; a strong commitment to shared governance; proven strong communication, management and organizational skills; the ability to articulate the school's vision, goals, accomplishments and needs to constituents; an entrepreneurial, innovative and global orientation; proven abilities and experience in fundraising/external resource enhancement; a record of exemplary personal and professional integrity; and a demonstrated commitment to cross-disciplinary programs.

How to Apply

Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc. is assisting the University of Houston in the search. Applications and nominations are now being accepted. Screening of complete applications will begin immediately and will continue until the completion of the search process. Confidential inquiries, nominations, and application materials should be directed to Greenwood/Asher. Submission of application materials (cover letter, resume, and list of five references) as PDF attachments is strongly encouraged. The search will be conducted with a commitment of confidentiality for the candidates until finalists are selected. Initial screening of applications will begin immediately and will continue until an appointment is made. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Inquiries, nominations and application materials should be directed to:

Betty Turner Asher, Partners
Ann Bailey, Senior Executive Search Consultant
Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc.
42 Business Centre Drive, Suite 206
Miramar Beach, Florida 32550
Phone: 850-650-2277 / Fax: 850-650-2272
Email: bettyasher@greenwoodsearch.com
Email: annbailey@greenwoodsearch.com

For more information on the University of Houston and the Hobby School of Public Affairs, please visit <http://www.uh.edu/> and <http://www.uh.edu/hobby/>.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7270

Arizona State University

Rank: Professor and Director, School of Politics & Global Studies

Professor and Director, School of Politics & Global Studies
School of Politics and Global Studies
College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Arizona State University

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The School is a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who seek to create and disseminate knowledge contributing to society's understanding of how politics and governance shape and influence issues and contexts at local, national, and global levels. Consistent with ASU's goals as The New American University, SPGS emphasizes research that links theory with real-world issues. Arizona State University is a dynamic institution dedicated to interdisciplinary collaborations, rethinking university education, and integrating excellence in research, teaching, and service. Arizona State University serves more than 70,000 students across five campuses, and has a quickly growing digital immersion population.

The Director will develop and implement a comprehensive plan for SPGS and strategic initiatives related to the faculty, staff, and students, providing leadership, vision, and the capacity to engage faculty across a range of disciplines, while sustaining a culture of collaboration both within and beyond the School, strengthening links with other academic units at ASU, and with the wider community. The Director will promote the design principles of the "New American University" fostering growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members, promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs, developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives, advancing entrepreneurial opportunities, and enhancing relations within and outside the university community.

Minimum Qualifications:

- o Earned doctorate in political science, global studies, or a closely related field
- o Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- o Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership
- o A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

Desired Qualifications:

- o A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- o Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- o Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors and alumni

SPGS includes 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, more than 10 professors of practice, approximately 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 120 online students in the MA in Global Security, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors. SPGS offers bachelors, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelors degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and masters degrees in Global Security. SPGS is currently launching masters degrees in International Affairs and Leadership and in Political Psychology (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://spgs.asu.edu/degree-programs>)

SPGS is ranked fifth nationally in Political Science in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

The position is available beginning July 1, 2020. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on November 11, 2019. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants must submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, a list of four references, and a brief statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/69201>. References may be contacted at a later stage of the search and only with the candidate's approval. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6236

University of Southern California

Rank: Director and Co-Director

Wrigley Institute for Environmental Studies at USC Dornsife: Director and Co-Director Search

USC Dornsife College of Arts, Letters and Sciences seeks two dynamic leaders to serve as the Director and Co-Director of the Wrigley Institute for Environmental Studies. One will serve as the director of natural science, and the other will serve as the director of social science. Both will hold endowed chairs.

For more than five decades, USC Wrigley has been a regional leader in marine science and sustainability research. The USC Wrigley Marine Science Center, a state-of-the-art research center and teaching facility on Catalina Island, 20 miles offshore from Los Angeles, provides a testbed for early-stage sustainability innovations. A staff of more than 30 supports research and educational outreach on Catalina and the main campus.

Recognizing that solutions to our environmental crises will require contributions across many disciplines, the Institute's new mission is to bring together natural and social scientific research to address contemporary environmental problems. The Director and Co-Director will lead this ambitious expansion of Wrigley's mission to become a major national center for frontier research on sustainability and the environment. This is an opportunity to reinvent the Wrigley Institute. The Director and Co-Director will guide a comprehensive approach to tackling sustainability challenges that prioritizes action toward meaningful change.

In addition to setting the intellectual agenda for the Institute, the new leadership will foster new research initiatives, enhance its educational programming, work with foundations and the public to enhance environmental awareness, steer fundraising efforts, and manage the Institute's staff.

We will consider applicants at the full professor level from disciplines in both the natural and social sciences. The Institute's leadership structure will be determined based on scholarly credentials, leadership experience and vision. Both successful candidates will bring a distinguished record of innovative research and publication related to environmental studies. The successful applicants will each have a primary appointment in his / her disciplinary home department within USC Dornsife and must each hold a doctoral degree in appropriate field of study.

A pairing of a natural scientist and a social scientist who have contemplated their collaborative vision for the Wrigley Institute in advance would be welcomed (but is not prerequisite for either position).

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, and statement on personal research accomplishments and future research directions, a statement on teaching and educational activities, and three names of individuals familiar with the applicant's work to be contacted for letters of recommendation. Applications should also include a vision statement on how, as a leader in the USC Wrigley Institute, the applicant would advance the Institute's goals. To be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application through the following link: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/wrigley-institute-for-environmental-studies-at-usc-dornsife-director-and-co-director/1209/13209724>.

Inquiries from social scientists may be directed to William Deverell, Search Committee Chair, deverell@usc.edu and for Natural Sciences to Will Berelson, Search Committee Chair, berelson@usc.edu. These two search committees will work together to select the best leadership team. Review of completed applications will begin November 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6177

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Dean, David L. Boren College of International Studies and Associate Provost for International Programs

Dean, David L. Boren College of International Studies and Associate Provost for International Programs, the University of Oklahoma

Created in 2011, the David L. Boren College of International Studies (https://www.ou.edu/cis/about_cis) is dedicated to advancing international education opportunities for all OU students and to enhancing the experience of international students attending the University of Oklahoma. The College houses the Office of Education Abroad, the Office of International Student Services, and the OU in Arezzo, Italy, and OU in Puebla, Mexico Study Centers. The College's dynamic academic unit, the Department of International and Area Studies, (<http://www.ou.edu/cis/ias>) is an established center for Middle Eastern Studies and has emerging strength in International Security Studies.

As the chief academic officer of the College, the Dean reports directly to the Senior Vice President and Provost of the University and is responsible for defining the College's strategic priorities and securing resources to deliver these priorities, delivering educational programs and research of the highest quality, and attracting outstanding students. As a key member of the University's leadership team, the Dean must be an internal advocate for the College within the University of Oklahoma and have the ability to work across disciplinary and college boundaries as well as the ability to successfully network with alumni and the broader community to raise funds, serving as both an outward-facing representative of the College and an internal mentor and team builder.

The Dean of International Studies also serves as Associate Provost for International Programs, playing a pivotal role in advancing the global orientation of the University as well as advancing academic excellence in International and Area Studies.

We seek a dynamic, collaborative, entrepreneurial leader, committed to the needs of faculty, students, and staff and to OU's larger global mission.

Qualifications

- Record of effective, visionary leadership and sound fiscal management at the Chair-, Director-, or higher level.
- Record of excellence in teaching, scholarly or creative activity, and service requisite with an appointment at the professor level in International and Area Studies.
- Demonstrated skills and record of achievement as a communicator, planner, collaborator, manager, and global communicator.
- Demonstrated experience with international initiatives.
- Demonstrated commitment to shared governance.
- Demonstrated commitment to diversity and to global understanding.
- Doctorate or other terminal research degree.

About the University

The University of Oklahoma is a Carnegie-R1 comprehensive public research university known for excellence in teaching, research, and community engagement. OU serves the educational, cultural, economic, and health-care needs of the state, region, and nation from three campuses: Norman, Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City, and Tulsa Schusterman Center. OU is home to over 31,000 students and more than 3,500 faculty and 8,000 staff across all three campuses and is supported by a $2 billion budget and an endowment of $1.52 billion. In 2014, OU became the first public institution ever to rank #1 nationally in the recruitment of National Merit Scholars. The 277-acre Research Campus in Norman was named the No. 1 research campus in the nation by the Association of Research Parks in 2013.

The central campus and administrative offices of the University of Oklahoma are located in Norman, a city of more than 120,000 residents. Norman is often cited in "best places to live" rankings and is a culturally rich and vibrant community with outstanding schools, amenities, and a low cost of living. The state capital, Oklahoma City, is located 20 miles to the north. With over 1.35 million residents and a unique central plains heritage, the Oklahoma City metro is home to a diverse and lively array of arts, culture, dining, sports, and entertainment. Visit <https://www.ou.edu/publicaffairs/oufacts> for more information.

The University of Oklahoma is committed to advancing equity, diversity, inclusion, and fairness in all forms through embracing and utilizing the unique and various backgrounds of our community. We are committed to eliminating discrimination and exclusion based on race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran.

Nominations and Applications

The university invites letters of nomination, applications, or inquiries about this position. Submit applications (including letter of interest, full CV, and list of references) to David Wrobel, Chair of the Search Committee, at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/65500>. Nominations, including full contact and email information for the nominee, and inquiries should be directed to David Wrobel, Chair of the Search Committee, at david.wrobel@ou.edu. Review of materials will begin in early October and continue until the appointment is made. Applicants will be notified prior to the solicitation of letters of reference.

The University of Oklahoma, in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations, does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices or procedures. This includes, but is not limited to: admissions, employment, financial aid, housing services in international programs or activities, or health care services that the university operates or provides.

PI113575264

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6155

University of Southern California

Rank: Director and Co-Director

Wrigley Institute for Environmental Studies at USC Dornsife: Director and Co-Director Search

USC Dornsife College of Arts, Letters and Sciences seeks two dynamic leaders to serve as the Director and Co-Director of the Wrigley Institute for Environmental Studies. One will serve as the director of natural science, and the other will serve as the director of social science. Both will hold endowed chairs.

For more than five decades, USC Wrigley has been a regional leader in marine science and sustainability research. The USC Wrigley Marine Science Center, a state-of-the-art research center and teaching facility on Catalina Island, 20 miles offshore from Los Angeles, provides a testbed for early-stage sustainability innovations. A staff of more than 30 supports research and educational outreach on Catalina and the main campus.

Recognizing that solutions to our environmental crises will require contributions across many disciplines, the Institute's new mission is to bring together natural and social scientific research to address contemporary environmental problems. The Director and Co-Director will lead this ambitious expansion of Wrigley's mission to become a major national center for frontier research on sustainability and the environment. This is an opportunity to reinvent the Wrigley Institute. The Director and Co-Director will guide a comprehensive approach to tackling sustainability challenges that prioritizes action toward meaningful change.

In addition to setting the intellectual agenda for the Institute, the new leadership will foster new research initiatives, enhance its educational programming, work with foundations and the public to enhance environmental awareness, steer fundraising efforts, and manage the Institute's staff.

We will consider applicants at the full professor level from disciplines in both the natural and social sciences. The Institute's leadership structure will be determined based on scholarly credentials, leadership experience and vision. Both successful candidates will bring a distinguished record of innovative research and publication related to environmental studies. The successful applicants will each have a primary appointment in his / her disciplinary home department within USC Dornsife and must each hold a doctoral degree in appropriate field of study.

A pairing of a natural scientist and a social scientist who have contemplated their collaborative vision for the Wrigley Institute in advance would be welcomed (but is not prerequisite for either position).

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, and statement on personal research accomplishments and future research directions, a statement on teaching and educational activities, and three names of individuals familiar with the applicant's work to be contacted for letters of recommendation. Applications should also include a vision statement on how, as a leader in the USC Wrigley Institute, the applicant would advance the Institute's goals. To be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application through the following link: <https://uscareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/wrigley-institute-for-environmental-studies-at-usc-dornsife-director-and-co-director/1209/13209724>.

Inquiries from social scientists may be directed to William Deverell, Search Committee Chair, deverell@usc.edu and for Natural Sciences to Will Berelson, Search Committee Chair, berelson@usc.edu. These two search committees will work together to select the best leadership team. Review of completed applications will begin November 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6143

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Provost for Academic Data and Decision Support

Boston University seeks a strategic analyst of academic data to support decision-making in the Office of the University Provost. The Assistant Provost for Academic Data and Decision Support (Assistant Provost) will be responsible for the analysis of institutional and external data to support academic planning, academic program assessment, and external reporting. Working in partnership with the senior officers with oversight of Undergraduate, Graduate, Diversity, Faculty, and Research portfolios, the Assistant Provost will actively collaborate with the University Office for Institutional Research (OIR) and Information Services and Technology (IS&T) to guide the collection, analysis, and interpretation of data related to the academic mission and activities of Boston University. The incumbent will represent the Office of the Provost in developing data-based strategies for assessing academic quality, institutional outcomes, measuring institutional performance against strategic plan goals, comparative analysis with peer institutions, conducting regular and ad-hoc studies, and reporting to campus constituencies and external agencies. The Assistant Provost reports to the Associate Provost for Graduate Affairs.

Required Skills

- Minimally, MA/MS in social science, education, business, statistics or other field requiring quantitative research methods; PhD preferred.
- Ability to design and create reports to summarize aggregate data that are visually attractive and easy to understand.
- Demonstrated ability to appropriately use descriptive and analytic statistics.
- Facility with office software, data analysis software, academic management platforms, survey administration software, and web-based enterprise systems including, for example, MicroStrategy and PowerBI). Willingness/ability to learn new software.
- Excellent written, verbal and presentation skills.
- Supervision experience.
- Excellent interpersonal, organizational, and time management skills.
- Ability to work both independently and collaboratively, take initiative on and manage concurrent projects, and meet deadlines.
- Ability to maintain confidentiality of sensitive or personal information.

Interested candidates can apply via the Boston University HR Job Posting: https://bu.silkroad.com/epostings/index.cfm?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&id=23&jobid=304162&company_id=15509&cversion=1&source=ONLINE&JobOwner=1017621&level=levelid2&levelid2=4271&startflag=3

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/15/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5781

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

American University-SIS

Rank: One Full-Time Non-Tenure Track Faculty Position

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track faculty appointment for the Academic Year 2020-2021 with a focus on US foreign policy and national/global/human security.

Academic Rank and compensation will depend on the successful candidate's experience, accomplishments and professional stature in the field. The appointment is for one academic year, commencing on August 1, 2020, with the expectation that the appointment may be renewed for subsequent academic years subject to satisfactory performance and budgetary authorization.

The position is intended for a person who will teach courses six courses (undergraduate and/or MA-level graduate) per academic year. All faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service. Applicants should share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Applicants should hold a PhD or the highest equivalent degree in a social science discipline by the anticipated start date or employment. Experienced practitioners with equivalent qualifications (MA/MS/JD and ten years of professional experience in the field) will also be considered.

The successful candidate will teach primarily courses related to US foreign policy and national/global/human security.

Review of applications will begin in January 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

- Applications must be submitted electronically via <http://apply.interfolio.com/69797>

- Attach a letter of application that addresses affinities with relevant teaching areas

- Attach a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy

- Attach student evaluations of teaching, if applicable and/or other evidence of teaching effectiveness

- Please also attach a statement of your past or future contributions to diversity and inclusion in professional settings or in institutions of higher education

- You will be asked to submit the names and email addresses of three professional references and request that they be contacted through the Interfolio portal for a confidential letter of recommendation.

Queries about the search may be sent to Assistant Dean for Graduate Education Michael Schroeder at schroede@american.edu Assistance with the online application system can be found here: <https://support.interfolio.com>

American University is a private institution of higher education in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. American University's School of International Service (SIS) is a top-ten school of international affairs with 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. SIS faculty produce transformational research and our prime location provides opportunities for collaboration with professionals in government, the private sector, think tanks and other nonprofits. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7410

Colorado Mesa University

Rank: Visiting Professor of History or Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Distinguished scholars in History or Political Science are invited to apply for the Wayne N. Aspinall Chair at Colorado Mesa University. For a $10,000 stipend, the visiting professor will spend three weeks on the Colorado Mesa University campus from late March-to mid-April 2021; teach a one-credit course, give a major public lecture, and make any other invited appearances. Applications must include a vitae, a brief outline of a course proposal and a topic for the major public lecture. Submit application by February 1, 2020 to Dr. Justin Gollob, Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, Colorado Mesa University, 1100 North Ave., Grand Junction, CO 81501. Feel free to direct any inquiries to jgollob@coloradomesa.edu or 970 248-1279.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 2/1/2020

Date Posted: 11/1/2019

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 7365

CUNY-Graduate Center

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor – Ph.D./M.A. Program in Political Science

Position Title: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor – Ph.D./M.A. Program in Political Science

Job ID: 21254

Compensation: Competitive

Closing Date: Open until filled with review of applications to begin on November 15, 2019

Faculty Vacancy Announcement

Performs teaching, research and guidance duties in area(s) of expertise. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

CAMPUS SPECIFIC INFORMATION

The Graduate Center is the focal point for advanced teaching and research at The City University of New York (CUNY), the nation's largest urban public university. With over 35 doctoral and master's programs of the highest caliber, the Graduate Center fosters pioneering research and scholarship in the arts and sciences and prepares students for careers in universities and the private, nonprofit, and government sectors. The Graduate Center's commitment to research and scholarship for the public good is exemplified by its more than 30 centers, institutes, and initiatives, including its Advanced Science Research Center (ASRC), a 200,000-square-foot facility in upper Manhattan designed to promote collaboration among scientists in global research and innovation.

The Graduate Center (GC) benefits from highly ambitious and diverse students and alumni who in turn teach hundreds of thousands of undergraduates every year. Through its public programs, the Graduate Center enhances New York City's intellectual and cultural life.

The Ph.D./M.A. Program in Political Science at the GC seeks an Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in American Politics, broadly defined. There may be a possibility to obtain a Distinguished Professor designation for this position. The Political Science Program provides a collegial and inclusive environment to a diverse group of students and faculty. This is a tenure track position reporting to the Executive Officer of the Program.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, a commitment to graduate teaching, and a genuine interest in serving the GC community. S/he will advise Master's and Ph.D. students, and have regular administrative responsibilities within the Program and University.

The position will begin in Fall 2020.

Qualifications:

For Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor:

Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

A preferred candidate should have:

- Ph.D. in Political Science.
- Extensive research experience in American Politics, as demonstrated by publications in books and peer-reviewed journals.
- Ability to teach graduate courses and supervise Master's theses and Ph.D. dissertations.
- Ability to work in collaboration with the GC and CUNY to create fellowship opportunities and employment pipelines for graduate students.

How to Apply:

1. Please apply using the link below:

https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=21254&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

Click on "Apply Now" which will bring you to the registration screen. If you are a new user, you must register to apply. If you already have a user ID, please use your existing ID to apply. The application must include a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, a research statement including scholarly interests, a teaching statement including topics of seminars the candidate is prepared to offer, and contact information for four (4) references including one from a graduate student. Please upload all documents as one file.

OR

2. Go to <http://cuny.jobs/> and search for Job ID 21254.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7426

Regis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Latin American, Political Theory

The Department of History, Politics and Political Economy at Regis College, Regis University, invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to start in August 2020. The department is seeking a teacher-scholar of Politics, with the capacity to teach American Politics and Political Theory and, consistent with the department's mission, help students develop the empirical and analytical skills necessary to discern patterns and lessons that enable them to recognize injustice and work for equality and dignity, particularly for historically-marginalized communities. We welcome applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic, and religious perspectives to their teaching and scholarship. We would welcome a candidate who could offer courses on Latin American politics; the department is currently well staffed in Constitutional Law and supports a vibrant pre-law program.

Given that Regis is a small liberal arts college, the department values a candidate's capacity to teach a variety of courses across different sub-fields within the discipline. The successful candidate must combine teaching, research – preferably that engages students in the process – and a willingness to teach an introductory course offered as a part of the college's liberal arts core (Introduction to Political Philosophy). The successful applicant will have the flexibility to teach a variety of courses in American politics and political theory, including both normative and empirical approaches. While Regis values research (and a record of sustained scholarship is required for tenure), a commitment to inclusive teaching is essential; the successful candidate should demonstrate an ability to work with racially, socioeconomically, and religiously diverse student populations. The successful applicant's primary responsibility is teaching American politics and political theory courses, but integrative and experiential learning methods are valued. The standard teaching load is 4:3 or 3:3.

In Regis College, service – including academic advising, participation in the academic governance of the department, college, and university, and professional development – is also an important aspect of a faculty member's workload. This position will help contribute to the department by participating in program meetings, working with other faculty teaching in the program, and advising our increasingly diverse student body.

About the Department: The Regis University Department of History, Politics and Political Economy is housed in Regis College, a Jesuit Catholic liberal-arts college in Denver, Colorado, which serves primarily traditional-age undergraduates and where care for the whole person (cura personalis) – students, faculty and staff – is a key element of our academic community. The History, Politics, and Political Economy department offers majors and minors in history, politics and political economy, as well as a minor in pre-law. Faculty in Politics also cross-list courses and contribute to Peace and Justice Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Environmental Studies. They are also expected to contribute to our University's diversity and inclusion initiatives. Position Requirements: Minimum qualifications include: a PhD in American Politics or Political Theory by 1 August 2020; a demonstrated commitment to high quality undergraduate teaching; and a demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching, research, service, and professional activities.

Application: Electronically submit (1) a letter of application (cover letter) summarizing your interest and qualifications, (2) a curriculum vitae with the names and contact information for three references, (3) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (4) a statement indicating how you can contribute in tangible ways to Regis University's commitment to cultivating an inclusive and diverse community and culture in the classrooms to https://regis.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/RegisUniversity/job/Northwest-Denver-Campus/Assistant-Professor_R000702. Letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations and academic transcripts will be requested of semifinalists and should not be submitted with the initial application. The department will begin reviewing applications November 15, 2019. Semi-finalists will be asked to submit further application materials and a statement in response to the Regis University mission. Finalists will be selected by the end of January and on-campus interviews will be conducted in late February/early March. Position offered pending final administrative approval.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019
Date Posted: 10/31/2019
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 7428

CUNY-Graduate Center

Rank: Assistant, Associate, Full, or Distinguished Professor

Performs teaching, research and guidance duties in area(s) of expertise. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

CAMPUS SPECIFIC INFORMATION

The Graduate Center is the focal point for advanced teaching and research at The City University of New York (CUNY), the nation's largest urban public university. With over 35 doctoral and master's programs of the highest caliber, the Graduate Center fosters pioneering research and scholarship in the arts and sciences and prepares students for careers in universities and the private, nonprofit, and government sectors. The Graduate Center's commitment to research and scholarship for the public good is exemplified by its more than 30 centers, institutes, and initiatives, including its Advanced Science Research Center (ASRC), a 200,000-square-foot facility in upper Manhattan designed to promote collaboration among scientists in global research and innovation.

The Graduate Center (GC) benefits from highly ambitious and diverse students and alumni who in turn teach hundreds of thousands of undergraduates every year. Through its public programs, the Graduate Center enhances New York City's intellectual and cultural life.

The Ph.D./M.A. Program in Political Science at the GC seeks an Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in American Politics, broadly defined. There may be a possibility to obtain a Distinguished Professor designation for this position. The Political Science Program provides a collegial and inclusive environment to a diverse group of students and faculty. This is a tenure track position reporting to the Executive Officer of the Program.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, a commitment to graduate teaching, and a genuine interest in serving the GC community. S/he will advise Master's and Ph.D. students, and have regular administrative responsibilities within the Program and University.

The position will begin in Fall 2020.

Qualifications:

For Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor:

Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

A preferred candidate should have:

- Ph.D. in Political Science.
- Extensive research experience in American Politics, as demonstrated by publications in books and peer-reviewed journals.
- Ability to teach graduate courses and supervise Master's theses and Ph.D. dissertations.
- Ability to work in collaboration with the GC and CUNY to create fellowship opportunities and employment pipelines for graduate students.

How to Apply:

1. Please apply using the link below:

https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=21254&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

Click on "Apply Now" which will bring you to the registration screen. If you are a new user, you must register to apply. If you already have a user ID, please use your existing ID to apply. The application must include a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, a research statement including scholarly interests, a teaching statement including topics of seminars the candidate is prepared to offer, and contact information for four (4) references including one from a graduate student. Please upload all documents as one file.

OR

2. Go to <http://cuny.jobs/> and search for Job ID 21254.

Equal Employment Opportunity:

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7423

Nebraska Wesleyan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, United States

Nebraska Wesleyan University is seeking applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Political Science, beginning in the 2020-2021 academic year. NWU is interested in candidates that complement the department's existing strengths in comparative politics and international relations; therefore, candidates with a specialty in US Politics are preferred. As a department, the Political Science faculty members are invested in mentoring faculty to become excellent teachers, as well as being deeply committed to diversity and inclusion, and welcome candidates from all backgrounds.

This is a full-time benefit eligible position, which includes a comprehensive package including health, vision and dental insurance benefits, retirement benefits, a generous holiday schedule, and undergraduate tuition remission for employee's dependents among other benefits.

Responsibilities:

Faculty responsibilities include teaching twelve credit hours per term, fall and spring semesters, including day and possible evening undergraduate classes. Preferred candidates will be able to teach widely across the subfield of US Politics, including the introductory course. Ideal candidates will have an emphasis in the politics of race and/or gender. A candidate with interest in teaching courses in law and politics would be particularly welcome. We also welcome candidates with experience teaching writing instructive courses, particularly to first year students.

Qualifications and Attributes:

- A doctorate degree in Political Science is preferred; advanced ABD will be considered;
- Experience with teaching various types of writing skills to students through assigned coursework;
- Demonstrated interpersonal and innovative teaching skills are required;
- Ability to work independently and collaboratively with faculty and students is essential;
- Strong commitment to student-centered active learning and student engagement activities.

Commitment to Diversity:

Diversity is a core value of Nebraska Wesleyan University's mission and we embrace it as a source of strength. Applicants are encouraged to demonstrate how they are able to enhance and embrace this University core value in a diversity statement submitted as part of their application materials.

Nebraska Wesleyan University provides equal educational and employment opportunities to qualified persons in all areas of university operation without regard to religion or creed, age, genetic information, gender identity and expression, sexual identity and orientation, veteran status, disability, marital status, race, or national or ethnic origin, in compliance with state and federal laws, including but not limited to Title XII, Title IX, and the ADA. E-Verify, EOE.

How to Apply:

Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Kelly Clancy at kclancy@nebrwesleyan.edu. To apply, please send letter of application addressing qualifications, current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as a teaching philosophy statement, syllabi, and/or teaching evaluations), a statement of your commitment to diversity and inclusion, particularly addressing how this influences your teaching, the names of three professional references, and unofficial transcripts to the following URL: <https://nebrwesleyan.applicantpro.com/jobs/> Review of applications will begin November 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Please visit the NWU website for more information about our institution: nebrwesleyan.edu

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/29/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7406

Lamar University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Job Summary: The Department of Political Science invites applications for one full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science beginning August 2020.

Candidates should be able to teach introduction to comparative politics and advanced upper level comparative politics courses covering such areas as Western democracies, developing nations and/or a regional focus. Candidates should also be able to teach American Government (POLS 2301 and POLS 2302).

Qualifications: Candidates should have PhD in Political Science or Government awarded by date of employment. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate Lamar University's diverse population of students online and face-to-face; maintain an active service agenda; demonstrate a strong commitment to and evidence of an active research agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally-related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7373

Nuffield College, University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2020 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills. Teaching experience in any area of Comparative Government, Political Theory, or International Relations would be desirable.

The posts are full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 September 2020 or as soon as possible thereafter. Shorter-term appointments are unlikely to be considered. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 32,150 per annum (salary rate for 2019/20). Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Further benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/3848/polpprf_jd2020.pdf.

The deadline for applications is Monday 25 November 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/25/2019

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 7389

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Specializations: American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public administration/policy beginning August 2020. The ideal candidate will have the skills necessary to teach and develop courses that incorporate issues of equity and justice, ethnic diversity, and race for both the undergraduate and graduate programs. Additional teaching requirements include American politics, public administration/policy, as well as core and elective classes in public administration. Ability to teach research methods at the undergraduate and graduate level a plus. The department is particularly interested in candidates who have experience mentoring and advising students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for students who represent historically oppressed and marginalized identities. A PhD in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field is required.

The Political Science Department has 20 fulltime faculty, over 360 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a NASPAA Accredited Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program.

The College of Charleston is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. The College is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with a student body consisting of approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 900 graduate students, including 20% of whom identify as minority and 140 international students from 34 different countries. Additional information about the institution, the student body, and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>.

Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter that specifically describes how the candidate will contribute to department goals related to equity, inclusion, and co-creation;

a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with a teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references.

Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Judy Millesen (millesenjl@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin November 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7381

Penn State Harrisburg

Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor of Homeland Security

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Assistant Teaching Professor of Homeland Security

Penn State Harrisburg, School of Public Affairs (SPA), invites applications for a non-tenure-track Assistant Teaching Professor position in Homeland Security to begin August 2020. The successful candidate will teach in the online Intercollege Master of Professional Studies in Homeland Security Program (iMPS-HLS), in the online Graduate Certificate in Homeland Security, as well as in the Undergraduate Minor in Homeland Security that is offered online as well as in residence. The successful candidate will also contribute to the Homeland Security specialization in the Ph.D. in Public Administration program. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. in Homeland Security or a related field as well as a scholastic record of accomplishment. Additional practical experience in the homeland security mission space is a plus. While the area of specialization is open, the successful candidate should be able to teach homeland security theory, policy, and strategy; comparative homeland security; multifaceted approaches to homeland security; strategic planning in homeland defense and security, as well as the capstone course (culminating experience) in the master's program. All candidates should demonstrate excellence in teaching to the state of the art in the field and contributing to curriculum evolution, as well as the ability and willingness to engage in service appropriate to their rank, including recruitment and academic advisement of students, and must qualify for membership in the Graduate Faculty of The Pennsylvania State University: <http://www.gradschool.psu.edu/faculty-and-staff/faculty/criteria>. The SPA offers additional undergraduate programs in Political Science, Public Policy, Health Policy and Administration, and Criminal Justice as well as additional masters programs in Criminal Justice, Health Administration, Public Administration, as well as a Ph.D. in Public Administration. It is the home of Penn State's Intercollege Master of Professional Studies in Homeland Security. For more information on the School, its programs, and its faculty, visit our web site at <http://harrisburg.psu.edu/public-affairs>. Penn State Harrisburg is located in Pennsylvania's state capital region near the Penn State College of Medicine and Hershey Medical Center. It is within a two-three-hour drive from larger metropolitan areas such as Baltimore, Washington, D.C., New York City, and Philadelphia, PA. For information about Penn State Harrisburg visit: <http://www.hbg.psu.edu> Applicants for the position should submit a letter of application indicating interest for the position, a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, as well as three letters of professional reference. Application review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at <https://apptkr.com/1673125>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/> jeid-e87241cf1a164347993500612ebe9b74

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7380

University of Arizona

Rank: Assistant Professor- Crime/Criminal Justice

The School of Government and Public Policy (SGPP) at the University of Arizona invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in the politics and policy of crime and criminal justice, beginning in fall 2020. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our existing or emerging strengths in criminal justice administration and reform, policing and public law enforcement, court actors and processes, incarceration/sentencing policies and the nexus of race and ethnic politics and any facet of the criminal justice system. A PhD in public management, public policy, political science, or a related social science field is required.

SGPP is housed within the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS), and is home to an interdisciplinary faculty. This position is intended to contribute to one or more unit strengths at the intersection of public management, criminal justice, network science, collaborative governance, nonprofit management, environmental management and policy, and political science. Additional information on the School of Government and Public Policy is available at <http://sgpp.arizona.edu/>

The candidate will be expected to have a demonstrated ability to conduct and publish significant empirical research. The successful candidate will be expected to teach two courses per semester at the undergraduate and graduate level, and to participate in outreach and contribute to departmental, college, and university service. Our faculty also help to develop innovative approaches to enhancing student engagement, increasing diversity, and expanding collaborations with community and business partners.

The University of Arizona has been recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution and, together with the SBS, has a strong commitment to diversity. The successful candidate must be able to work with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds; individuals from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Applicant reviews will begin November 11, 2019 and continue until position is filled. Candidates should submit a cover letter, statement of research and teaching interests (title of document slot within the application is "Statement of Research Interests"), current Curriculum Vitae, a sample of publications, and a writing sample via this website. Additionally, applicants will need to provide three letters of references.

General questions and all Letters of Reference can be directed the School of Government & Public Policy, Manager of Administration, Angela Hackett at ahackett@email.arizona.edu.

All applications must be submitted through the University of Arizona Careers Website. Direct link to posting: <https://uacareers.com/hr/postings/41734>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7379

St. Michael's College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science; Subfield: American Politics

Saint Michael's College seeks to hire a tenure-track assistant professor starting in August 2020 to teach in the Political Science department and to collaborate in developing the new program in Criminology. The position requires a candidate with a Ph.D. in-hand by Aug 2020, or ABD with Ph.D. to be completed within six months of appointment, or a J.D. in hand with teaching experience at the college level.

The ideal candidate will teach introduction to American National Politics as well as an introductory course on Criminal Justice, a required course for the inter-disciplinary Criminology major, with a focus on racial disparities. Additional upper-level Political Science and Criminology electives and capstone seminars will draw from the candidate's expertise. In the past, such courses have included American Law and Society, American Constitutional Law, Capital Punishment, and Terrorism. We would also be interested in courses that emphasize intersectional approaches to race and racism, and are inclusive of gender and gender identity, immigrant status, social class, and/or sexuality. This is a unique opportunity to contribute to the development of an innovative program at an institution with a commitment to social justice and civic engagement. The teaching load is three courses a semester with upper-level courses capped at 25 and seminars at 15. The College seeks teacher-scholars who are committed to excellence in teaching and peer-reviewed scholarship. Junior faculty have access to summer funding, support for domestic and international conference travel, and research funding.

Requirements:

- PhD (in-hand by Aug 2020 or ABD with Ph.D. to be completed within 6 months of appointment, or a J. D. in hand with teaching experience at the college level)

Application Instructions:

Please be prepared to attach the following documents applying via this link: <http://smcvt.interviewexchange.com>

- Cover letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- A statement of teaching and research interests
- Teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness
- A statement of contributions to or interest in cultivating equity and diversity in academic communities
- Writing Sample
- Official graduate transcript
- Names and contacts of three reference-writers

Review of applications will begin on November 10th and will continue until the position is filled. The initial round of interviews will take place over Zoom or other video conference technology, and shortlisted candidates invited early in the spring semester of 2020 for campus interviews.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/11/2019

Date Posted: 10/21/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7366

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin September 1, 2020. The successful candidate will teach 4 sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. The Department is interested in receiving applications from individuals specializing in any subfield of the discipline.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7355

Clements Center for National Security (University of Texas at Austin)

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. In some cases Fellows will be welcome to teach a course at the University of Texas. Each appointment is for one year, and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a letter of application, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than February 3, 2020. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2020, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 2/3/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7348

James Madison University

Rank: Assistant Professor - U.S. Government

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR- U.S. GOVERNMENT- {JobLink# F1403} -

The Political Science Department at James Madison University is seeking a tenure-track faculty member specializing in U.S. Government at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning with the fall 2020 semester. A doctoral degree in political science (or a closely related field) is required by the starting date for appointment as Assistant Professor; candidates at the ABD level can be appointed at the rank of Lecturer. The successful applicant will teach an introductory-level course in U.S. government, a research methods course required for all political science and public policy & administration majors, and courses on the politics of race and ethnicity.

The department seeks candidates with strong research skills and demonstrated teaching potential. Review of applications will begin {November 15, 2019} and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for this position candidates must apply online at JobLink.jmu.edu regarding reference posting number {# F1403}. On that website, candidates will post a cover letter, vita, unofficial graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, an example of research, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (including teaching evaluations, assignments, and course syllabi, if available). The cover letter should include a discussion of the candidate's research interests, teaching experience and philosophy, and contributions or potential contributions to the diversity of the classroom, program, and university.

Salary shall be commensurate with experience. The College of Arts and Letters (CAL) at JMU serves as a cross-disciplinary center of intellectual inquiry and practice on campus. All programs in the college are committed to fostering rigorous, constructive dialogue in classrooms, local communities, and the larger world.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7341

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Constitutional Law & Theory

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Constitutional Law & Theory to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) critical race theory or critical legal studies. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program with courses anchored in the concepts and methods of political science, while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach courses on Civil Rights & Liberties, Federalism, Judicial Process, a course in their substantive specialization, and required lower-division courses in U.S. Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government and Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7347

EDUCATIONAL TESTING SERVICE

Rank: Become an AP Reader

In June 2019, over 18,000 high school and college faculty members served as AP Readers, scoring over 5.1 million exams during the annual AP Reading. The AP Program would like to invite you to join the pool of eligible AP Readers as we prepare for the 2020 Reading. If you are already an AP Reader, thank you so much for your service.

We have a significant need for Readers in your subject in 2020. If you are not an AP Reader, apply to become one today. You may be eligible to join the Reading pool if you have taught your AP subject for 2 years or more. The sooner that you apply the better chance you have to be invited to the 2020 AP Reading.*

Review AP Reader benefits and apply(<https://apcentral.collegeboard.org/professional-development/become-an-ap-reader?excmid=mtg413-pr-1-fl>)

The 2019 Post Reading survey shows that:

- 97% of Readers that participate in the AP Reading have a positive experience
- 97% of returning High School AP Readers have actually made changes to the way they teach or score work as a direct result of their participation in the AP Reading

Opportunities exist to score onsite, as well as from home in some subjects. While we accept applications from AP teachers for all subjects, professionals with expertise in the following subjects are needed the most to expand the AP Reader pool.

Comparative Government & Politics

U.S. Government & Politics

European History

U.S. History

Human Geography

World History: Modern

Depending on the AP Reader needs for each subject, we may select you to serve as an AP Reader in the first year that you apply, or you may be considered for future AP Readings. New applicants in the subjects listed above have a higher probability of being invited to the 2020 Reading versus new applicants in other subjects.

*If you are currently an AP Reader or have recently submitted an application to become a Reader, there is no need to reapply.

Work sponsorships are unavailable for this position. All Applicants must be authorized to work for any employer in the United States.

AP CSP, Seminar, and Research teachers are encouraged to apply to become AP Readers, regardless of years of teaching experience.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/m3q8wntr356mrgtw>

PI114461996

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7332

University of North Texas

Rank: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of North Texas invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2020 in American politics. We seek candidates who study contentious politics broadly defined to include either behavior or institutional analyses. Areas of behavioral research may include social movements, political violence, disaffected groups, collective action/mobilization, labor movements, or the struggle for power. Candidates may also study institutional features such as the legislative process, the courts, and the media as it relates to political contention dynamics. The research focus may be at the local, state, or national level. The successful candidate should be able to contribute to instructional needs that include teaching methods at the graduate level. Candidates who have the Ph.D. by the start date are preferred.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) A Ph.D. in Political Science (highly qualified ABD candidates will also be considered) and (2) evidence that demonstrates a potential for excellence in research, teaching, and service will be required of the selected candidate. Preference will be given to candidates who have a record of publication, can teach graduate methods courses, and who show a willingness to work with other faculty and graduate students.

The faculty member will teach core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continue a record of robust scholarly research, direct graduate research, and provide service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) a writing sample, (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness, (6) a copy of unofficial transcripts, and (7) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>.

Review of applications will begin on October 24, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date. UNT is an AA/ADA/EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7331

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Fellowships – Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society

ABOUT THE FELLOWSHIPS

The Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society brings promising new scholars to Stanford University for 1-2 year appointments as postdoctoral fellows.

Currently Stanford PACS is accepting applications for two postdoctoral fellowship opportunities for the 2020-21 academic year:

- The Program on Democracy and the Internet
- The Digital Civil Society Lab

Each fellow will be affiliated with the relevant Stanford PACS initiative (either the Digital Civil Society Lab or the Program on Democracy and the Internet) and potentially also with a department or school at Stanford University.

The annual fellowship stipend is $67,000, plus the standard benefits that postdoctoral fellows at Stanford University receive, including health insurance and travel funds. The fellowship program falls under U.S. Immigration J-1 Exchange Visitor Visa activities.

The start date of the fellowship will be September 2020, unless otherwise agreed. To assume a postdoctoral fellowship, scholars must have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2020. We cannot consider applications from scholars who earned a PhD earlier than May 1, 2018.

For both of these fellowships, we encourage applications from candidates representing a broad range of disciplines including the social sciences, humanities, law, computer science and engineering.

I. Program on Democracy and the Internet

The Program on Democracy and the Internet (PDI) envisions digital technologies supporting rather than subverting democracy by maximizing the benefits and minimizing the threats through changes in policy, technology, and social and ethical technological norms.

Digital technologies are having a profound impact on democracy in the United States and around the world. New communication platforms that give voice to the previously voiceless also empower nefarious actors who seek to undermine democracy, silence journalists and minority groups, manipulate search engines, sow distrust, and more. Concerns about virality, deception, anonymity, echo chambers, and platform information monopolies pose new challenges for democracy in the digital age. Current research to understand these challenges and, on the basis of theory and evidence, craft solutions, remains nascent, fragmented, and incomplete. A strong knowledge base is critical for policy makers, corporate leaders, and technologists to make decisions that protect and promote democracy in the digital age.

The Program on Democracy and the Internet is investigating key research themes which include:

- Reform options for platforms to combat hate speech, bots, and disinformation.
- Algorithmic bias
- Deteriorating health of digital information ecosystems and its effect on democracy and civil rights
- Changes in the media landscape due to shifts caused by digital innovation.
- Impact of the internet on election campaigns and voting.

The Program on Democracy and the Internet's work draws from the social sciences, humanities, engineering, computer science, and the law to understand the challenges digital technologies pose to liberal democracies around the world.

Each fellow will collaborate with one of the PDI faculty on PDI research relevant to their field of study and current line of scholarship. The fellows will spend 20 percent of their time working on their own research and 80 percent assisting in the research of one of the PDI directors. For examples of past work, see the publications page. In addition, fellows may be asked to coordinate speaker series and seminars.

The program is led by Principal Investigators Nathaniel Persily, James B. McClatchy Professor of Law at Stanford Law School and Co-Director of the Cyber Policy Center, Francis Fukuyama, Senior Fellow at the Freeman Spogli Institute, and PACS Faculty Co-Director and Professor of Political Science, Rob Reich.

PDI is a joint initiative of the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society (Stanford PACS) and the Cyber Policy Center at the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies.

For a sense of the scholarship that PDI supports, see: <https://pacscenter.stanford.edu/research/project-on-democracy-and-the-internet/projects/>.

II. Digital Civil Society Lab

The Digital Civil Society Lab (DCSL) envisions an independent civil society that thrives in the digital age through the safe, ethical and effective use of private digital resources for public benefit.

The digital age has transformed civil society participation and organization, and it has presented new challenges and threats. Our dependencies on digital software and infrastructure require new insights into how these digital systems work and how an independent civil society can engage them safely, ethically and effectively for mission.

The Digital Civil Society Lab aims to understand how digital technology has transformed civil society and shape these transformations by engaging research, practitioner and policy communities across the interconnected domains that support a thriving and independent civil society in the digital age:

- Technology: software and hardware designed for the values and interest of civil society actors
- Organizations: structures and practices that align with civil society missions and protect institutional independence from markets or governments
- Policy: legal practices and regulatory frames that protect the building blocks of civil society, including free association, speech, and privacy
- Norms: social norms and practices that promote safe and ethical data collection, generation and use, and that support the critical role of civil society in democracies

The Digital Civil Society Lab is investigating key research themes which include:

- The key dimensions of digital infrastructure and data and how they influence the role of independent civil society in democracies;
- Understanding, creating, and expanding access to software, hardware and digital practices that align with the values of civil society in democracies;
- The nature of digital data donations and/or the governance mechanisms, enterprise forms, or legal constructs that such donations require;
- Understanding interactions between global digital networks, digital activism, and traditional and emergent forms of association in civil society.

The Lab's research draws from the humanities, social sciences, engineering, computer science and the law to understand and advance the principles of civil society and democracies in the digital age.

DCSL is an initiative of the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society (Stanford PACS) and is led by Lucy Bernholz, senior research scholar at Stanford PACS, and Rob Reich, professor of Political Science and faculty co-director of Stanford PACS.

For a sense of the scholarship that DCSL supports, see: <https://pacscenter.stanford.edu/research/digital-civil-society-lab/>.

Please note: Postdoctoral fellows at DCSL are expected to participate fully in a biweekly seminar series at the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society, and are expected to contribute to teaching the Digital Civil Society seminar in partnership with other DCSL faculty, scholars and postdocs.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered for a postdoctoral fellowship with either the Program on Democracy and the Internet or with the Digital Civil Society Lab, submit an application via the online application portal.

Applicants will be asked to include the following:

- Cover letter detailing the reasons for the applicant's interest in the fellowship;
- Curriculum Vitae;
- Fellowship proposal detailing the research that the applicant would undertake while at Stanford, and how it fits within the research agenda of the specific initiative to which the applicant is applying. In this section, please disclose if you have additional funding arrangements.
- Writing sample consisting of either a dissertation chapter or a recent published paper. There are no specific page length or formatting requirements for this sample;
- Graduate transcript with proof that the applicant has completed all the requirements for the PhD, or a letter from their PhD advisor stating when they will do so;
- Two (or more) Letters of Recommendation. These should be submitted via the application portal.

CONTACT

Questions about the Program on Democracy and the Internet should be directed to Eloise Duvillier at eloise@stanford.edu.

Questions about the Digital Civil Society Lab should be directed to Heather Noelle Robinson at hnrbsn@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/13/2020

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7324

Texas A&M University, Corpus Christi

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Job Description

The College of Liberal Arts at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi is seeking a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science in American Politics to begin fall 2020. The successful candidate will teach introductory courses in American National Government and State and Local Government in stand-alone courses, as well as part of a collaborative teaching team working in the university's nationally recognized First-Year Learning Communities Program.

In addition, the successful candidate will contribute to the teaching needs of the Political Science major. A strong commitment to excellence in teaching, research, and service is expected. The normal teaching load will be 3-3.

Department

The Department of Social Sciences (DSOC) is a multi-disciplinary department in the College of Liberal Arts that offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Criminal Justice and the graduate degree of Masters of Public Administration. Because of its contribution to the core curriculum, Political Science generates some of the highest levels of student credit hours in the University. The Criminal Justice program is one of the largest undergraduate majors on campus. The MPA program is the largest graduate program in the College of Liberal Arts. DSOC faculty are leaders on campus, in the community, and in their disciplines. We value excellence and work daily to support the University's Momentum 2020 Overarching Goal to become an emerging research university with an unparalleled commitment to every student's success, closing gaps in achievement, and delivering a robust campus experience.

First-Year Learning Communities Program

Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi's First-Year Learning Communities Program (FYLCP) is an innovative nationally recognized program which helps students to make successful academic and social transitions from high school to the University. For more information, visit the FYLCP webpage at <http://undergrad.tamucc.edu/FYLCP/learning-communities.html>.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science. ABD will be considered; degree must be conferred at the time of appointment. Ph.D. must meet the appropriate credentialing requirements for the Southern Association for Colleges and Schools (SACS);

Experience or the ability to teach the Presidency and Congress;
Experience or the ability to teach American National Government and State and Local Government; and
Be available to accept teaching assignments that may include classroom, hybrid, and online classes.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience teaching undergraduate quantitative research methods and senior seminar;
Demonstrate a race and ethnic politics perspective broadly defined in their work;
Demonstrate a facility with student-centered, critical thinking methods of teaching;
Demonstrate an understanding/appreciation of the University's student population and campus mission;
Demonstrate the ability to teach introductory and majors courses in the required and preferred areas (see the aforementioned position description);
A desire for or experience in a team teaching environment;
Classroom and online teaching experience;
Demonstrate teaching effectiveness through student evaluations, peer reviews, and/or self-evaluation; and
Demonstrate an active research program agenda that has resulted in or the potential to result in published scholarly works or peer-reviewed products.

TO APPLY: http://hr.tamucc.edu/Job_Opportunities/index.html

All required documentation must be submitted to be considered for the position.

A completed application will include:

1. A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above,
2. A curriculum vitae,

3. A statement of teaching philosophy and applicable evidence for teaching effectiveness,
4. A research statement,
5. A writing sample,
6. Three professional references including names, addresses, titles, telephone numbers, and email addresses, and
7. Copies of unofficial transcripts for graduate coursework.

The job posting will remain open until a finalist has been selected. Review of applications will begin Monday, December 2, 2019.

All positions are security-sensitive. Applicants are subject to a criminal history investigation, and employment is contingent upon the institution's verification of credentials and/or other information required by the institution's procedures, including the completion of the criminal history check.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7322

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The one-year Visiting Fellowship in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism
4. The American Regime (broadly understood)

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided. The residency requirement, however, is flexible and the fellow need not relocate to Washington, D.C.

Duration

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2020 to August 2021. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- 1.) A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- 2.) C.V.
- 3.) One academic writing sample and one non-academic publication.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Jessica Kline
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: Jessica.kline@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7318

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Dean

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Education Policy, Science & Technology

United States Army War College
Dean, School of Strategic Landpower

The United States Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, seeks to fill the position of Dean of the School of Strategic Landpower with an annual salary between $161,154 and $168,759. This is a fulltime civilian faculty position at the US Army's most senior institution for professional military education. The Army War College educates the top echelon of US military officers of all services, US government civilians, and military officers from scores of foreign countries. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curriculum of theoretical and professional subjects, leading to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education.

The person selected for this position will oversee two senior service college educational programs, one in residence and one via a blended learning format, and the 16-week Army Basic Strategic Art Program. The Dean should be a person of vision and leadership who can build strong working relationships with students, faculty, staff, and administration. Important needs for this position are the ability to translate vision into action, experience with professional military education (PME) or senior level National Security educational programs, a record of program innovation, and strong team-building and communication skills. The position comes with a generous compensation package as well as with the many benefits of working at an innovative, vibrant, and collegial military educational institution.

For additional information, and to apply for the position, please visit our website at <https://www.armywarcollege.edu/>. On the menu bar, click "About Us" and then "Employment Opportunities" to find the "Dean School of Strategic Landpower" job announcement. Or, visit the USAJobs website at <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/544249500>

Applications are due by 25 October 2019. Finalists for the position will be invited to the Army War College for a visit that includes an interview with the search committee, presentation to the faculty, meetings with faculty and administrators, and a tour of the campus.

A talented, committed, and diverse faculty is our most important resource in educating the nation's future strategic leaders. We are fully committed to equal employment opportunity and compliance with the full range of fair employment practices and non-discrimination laws. Federal law dictates that the position may be offered to US citizens only.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/25/2019

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Above $159,999

eJobs ID: 7312

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Senior Rank (Tenured Full or Associate Professor)

Cyberpolitics and National/International Security Policy

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position at the Full Professor or Associate Professor level in cyberpolitics and national or international security policy to begin Fall 2020.

The position is part of a cross-disciplinary, campus-wide initiative in the area of cybersecurity. Scholars conducting cross-disciplinary research in applied cyber security are encouraged to apply, but an applicant's primary field must be Political Science or closely related discipline.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline. Applicants must have a track record of scholarship, publications, and research funding relating to cybersecurity and international politics. We are especially interested in candidates who link cybersecurity to broader social, political, economic, and policy questions in the contexts of national and/or international security. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute directly to the Department's nascent doctoral program in cyber politics and will be expected to collaborate on research and grant applications with faculty in Computer Science, Information Systems and Cyber Security, Engineering, and UTSA's highly regarded Cyber Security Program. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Department's traditional undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. We are especially interested in applicants who can teach graduate and undergraduate courses on Cyber and International Politics; Cyber Strategy; Cyber Deterrence and Coercion; Cyber and Intelligence; Cyberwarfare and Military Operations; Technological and Social Revolutions in International Relations; Global Governance and Cyber; Cyber and International Ethics; Law, Politics, and Cyber-Security; New Global Threats; and Global or National Security Policy.

Applicants must demonstrate potential for research publication and a strong potential to attract external funding commensurate with the rank for which the applicant is applying. Applicants' research must demonstrate strong theoretical grounding in national or international security. Candidates must have the ability to work with and be sensitive to the educational needs of a culturally diverse urban population.

All applicants should also provide representative evidence of high-quality teaching – ideally in courses that address cyber security in the context of deterrence and coercion, national or international security, global affairs and governance. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of courses in international relations or global affairs within their specializations.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor, the successful applicant must have an established research agenda, evidence of initiatives to acquire external research funding, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their respective fields of specialization, have excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, a track record of grant applications and awards, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to applicants who can offer courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science, international relations/global affairs, and/or international/national security policy.

Applicants should submit electronically in PDF format:

1. Letter of application stating the rank for which application is made, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. A research and teaching statement, including discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment (no more than 200 words);
4. A copy of all graduate transcripts;
5. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);

6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Submit electronic materials to: <https://jobs.utsa.edu> (click on Faculty for details)

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7315

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Open

Required Qualifications:

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire in the field of American Politics beginning in the Fall 2020. We intend to review applications at the rank of Full or Associate Professor as well as those from advanced Assistant Professors who wish to be considered for a tenured appointment. The department is particularly interested in applicants with expertise in political institutions but will also consider applicants from any subfield of American politics. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited doctoral program. Successful candidates will have a strong record of demonstrated research excellence. Advanced skills in quantitative methods and/or experiments in addition to an established track record of graduate student collaboration and mentoring are highly desirable. Additional duties include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, carrying on a program of research, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college and university levels.

Preferred Qualifications:

Specific interests in applicants with expertise in political institutions but will also consider applicants from any subfield of American politics.

Responsibilities & Requirements:

Responsibilities will include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, supervision of student research and writing, carrying on a program of research, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college and university levels.

Special Notes:

This is a tenure track position. FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously.

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at <mailto:info@goer.ny.gov> or info@goer.ny.gov.

Stony Brook University is 100% tobacco-free as of January 1, 2016. See our policy and learn more at <https://www.stonybrook.edu/tobaccofreestonybrook.edu/tobaccofree>.

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure

Those interested in this position should:

1. Complete the online <https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/oide-equity/resources/applicants-survey.php> Applicant Information Survey. Do not submit this survey to the department with your application. Any questions regarding the survey, please email oide@stonybrook.edu.

2. Submit a https://www.asa.stonybrook.edu/asa/ASAForms/Department/HRS/Document/HRSF0113State Employment Application, cover letter, CV, and academic references at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018> or <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018>. Alternately, you may submit your application package to the departmental address below.

We will give primary consideration to all applications received by 10/28/2019, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Interested candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and the names of three academic references to the electronic job advertisement system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018> or by mail to Chair, American Politics & Policy Search, S-701 Social and Behavioral Sciences Building, Department of Political Science, 4392 SUNY, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4392.

Inquiries regarding the position can be sent to: PoliticalScienceRecruitment@stonybrook.edu

Chair, American Politics & Policy Search
S-701 Social and Behavioral Sciences Building
Department of Political Science
4392 SUNY
Stony Brook, NY 11794-4392

Institutional Advertisement: <https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/faculty-jobs/positions/faculty-librarian/current-year/Associate-Full-Professor>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 10/8/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7308

Mills College

Rank: Adjunct Assistant Professor to Teach One Course on American Presidency

COURSE TITLE: PPOL 115: The American Presidency

Department: Public Policy and Political Science

Department: The Public Policy and Political Science Department at Mills College is pleased to announce an opportunity for an instructor to teach PPOL 115: The American Presidency for the Spring 2020 semester.

Course Description: This course examines the presidential selection process, the scope and powers of the office, and the major determinants of presidential behavior. Instructors are encouraged to make the course particularly relevant to the upcoming presidential election.

Requirements: Minimum qualification is a Master's Degree in Political Science or an associated field. Terminal degree in Political Science or an associated field with a concentration on American Politics preferred.

Compensation: For faculty new to Mills, compensation is $6,000 per course without a terminal degree and $6,500 per course with a terminal degree. Adjunct compensation is governed by a collective bargaining agreement and increases with seniority at Mills College.

Mills College does not permit discrimination based on pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, race, religious creed, color, national origin or ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. For more information on Mills' non-discrimination policy, please go to <https://www.mills.edu/policies/ada-policies/nondiscrimination-statement.php>.

All positions are subject to a background check. Prior to the first date of employment, an applicant's background check must be cleared.

About Mills College: Located in Oakland, California, in the heart of the San Francisco Bay Area, Mills College is a liberal arts college for women and gender non-binary students, with graduate programs for all genders. Consistently ranked one of the top master's universities and one of the best value colleges in the West by U.S. News & World Report, Mills also has been named one of the Best Colleges in the nation by The Princeton Review. The Mills experience is distinguished by small, interactive classes, one-on-one attention from exceptional faculty, a culture of creative experimentation, and cutting-edge interdisciplinary learning opportunities which empower students to make a statement in their careers and communities. As one of the most diverse liberal arts colleges in the country, we have a strong record of academic success with first-generation students, students of color, Latinx students, LGBTQ students, and other underrepresented students. Mills College has recently become a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants with expertise and experience in supporting and promoting success for Latina/o students are encouraged to apply.

Mills College encourages diversity in hiring and particularly welcomes applications and nominations from women, gender non-binary individuals, and minorities. Mills College seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to equity, inclusion, and social justice and our desire to maintain the excellence of our faculty. In so doing, we offer our students not only the opportunity to learn about varied disciplines but to engage with diverse perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. For more information, please visit www.mills.edu.

To apply visit: <https://mills.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=116673>

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7303

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, Science & Technology

Assistant Professor, Cyber Security and Privacy

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established several interdisciplinary clusters to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting a tenure-track assistant professor in the area(s) of Cyber Security and Privacy. This position will have an anticipated start date of August 8, 2020.

This interdisciplinary position will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department and may include a combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units for their appointment. All relevant areas will be considered, such as (but not limited to) Mathematics, Statistics, Industrial Engineering and Management Systems, Psychology, Computer Science, Legal Studies, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Philosophy, Criminal Justice, and Political Science.

Minimum qualifications: A Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution at the time of appointment in an area appropriate to the cluster. The selected candidate must also have a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record.

Preferred qualifications: A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is strongly preferred.

The ideal candidate will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. In particular, candidates that have a track record in security and privacy issues affecting software and systems in various platforms (cloud, IoT, cyber-physical) are strongly encouraged to apply. The ideal candidate will also have research impact as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security and privacy. (See <https://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved to date.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided.

UCF has a diverse student body of more than 68,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry, including large corporations such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, Oracle, Apple, AMD, Boeing, SpaceX, Blue Origin, etc. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school. Orlando has one of the fastest growing and dynamic economies in the nation. In 2018, among major metropolitan areas, Orlando enjoyed the fifth largest increase in population. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Additional Application Materials Required:

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website, www.ucf.edu/jobs/. No paper or emailed applications or materials will be considered.

UCF has a diverse student body and community, and we are committed to meeting the needs of this community. Please tell us about your approach and experience meeting the needs of a diverse community, both in the context of a faculty-student setting and as a colleague. In addition to the online application, interested candidates must attach the following materials to their application:

- 1) the above-mentioned diversity statement,
- 2) a cover letter*,
- 3) curriculum vitae,
- 4) teaching statement,
- 5) research statement, and
- 6) contact information for three professional references (include email addresses).

*In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, any experience working on interdisciplinary teams, how they will enhance the existing cluster team, and identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home and any joint appointments they would desire.

NOTE: Please have all application documents ready when applying so they can be attached at that time. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents at a later date.

This position has an anticipated start date of August 8, 2020. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Questions regarding this search can be directed to Yan Solihin at yan.solihin@ucf.edu.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement: As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://www.oie.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/7/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7299

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate - CSDP
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on or about September 1, 2020. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2020-2021 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req D-20-WWS-00010 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14021>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, December 2, 2019 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/2/2019
Date Posted: 10/4/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7289

Princeton University - CSDP

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar - CSDP
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for ten-month positions anticipated to start on or about September 1, 2020. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events.

Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2020-2021 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2020-2021 should apply to req number D-20-WWS-00011 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14041>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, December 2, 2019 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/2/2019
Date Posted: 10/4/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7295

University of Central Florida

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor: American Politics and Security Studies Specializations: Quantitative Methods, International Security, Intelligence

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs at the University of Central Florida (UCF) in-vites applications for a nine-month, tenure earning Assistant Professor position with an anticipated start date in August 2020. The candidate is expected to specialize in American Politics with a focus on broadly defined domestic/international security issues including, but not limited to, cyber, economic, environmental, food, gender, and foreign policy policing. The candidate is also expected to teach various quantitative methods courses at the doctoral level. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field such as Security Studies from an accredited institution by time of hire is required. Preference will be given to candidates who will participate actively in and complement existing strengths of the School's Security Studies doctoral program. We are especially interested in an individual who can contribute through their research, teaching and service to the diversity and excellence of our academic community and foster an environment in which faculty, staff, and students from a variety of backgrounds, cultures, and personal experiences are welcomed and can thrive.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs offers an M.A. Program in Political Science and a Ph.D. Program in Security Studies that produces cutting-edge research in conflict studies and human security. Its undergraduate programs enroll approximately 1,400 majors in Political Science and International & Global Studies. The Kurdish Political Studies Program, the India Center, Center for Global Economic and Environmental Opportunity, the Prince Mohammed Bin Fahd (PMBF) Program for Strategic Research and

Studies, and the Lou Frey Institute of Politics & Government, as well as the Intelligence Community Center for Academic Excellence are all housed in the School (for more information, visit <https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics>).

The School is part of College of Sciences (COS) that houses most of the university's natural, computational, and social sciences in eight departments, two schools, and several centers. The college's programs play a key role in advancing UCF as a national research university that is determined to help faculty and students from all backgrounds achieve success. For more information, visit <https://sciences.ucf.edu/>.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a "Doctoral University: Very High Research Activity" and a "Community Engagement" institution by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 68,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 200 degree programs, including more than 100 at the graduate level. UCF is committed to diversity and is a designated Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit <http://www.ucf.edu>.

To be considered candidates must apply online at <http://ucf.edu/jobs> (job number 498315). In addition to the online application, candidates must upload the following materials: a letter of interest, curriculum vitae (CV), a research statement, the names and contact information of three professional references, and a graduate transcript. Where available, please upload syllabi and student evaluations. Applications must be completed by November 7, 2019. Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Gunes Murat Tezcur, Chair, Search Committee, at tezcur@ucf.edu.

EEO Statement:

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://www.oie.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/7/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7288

University of New Mexico

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor - American Politics, Latino/Hispanic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Mexico seeks candidates for an Assistant or Associate Professor (dependent on qualifications) faculty position in American politics with a specialization in Latino/Hispanic politics, which is a full-time, 9-month, tenure-track position. The position begins August 2020. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or related field by the start date of appointment and have a research specialization in American politics with a specialization in Latino/Hispanic politics. The minimum and preferred qualifications are listed below. For best consideration, apply no later than November 8, 2019. This position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science currently employs 14 regular faculty members and maintains a small but highly competitive and nationally recognized graduate program (MA and Ph.D.), as well as a high-quality undergraduate major (BA). The department has a rich history of excellence in the area of Latino/Hispanic politics, and UNM's Center for Social Policy, Center for Regional Studies, as well as Southwest Hispanic Research Institute, provide funding and research support for Latino focused scholarship. UNM is a Carnegie Doctoral/ Research-Extensive University and US/DE Minority-Serving public university. As the state's largest university, UNM serves a diverse student population of over 26,000 at its main campus in Albuquerque, a metropolitan area of more than 500,000 people. Albuquerque sits one mile above sea level and enjoys a moderate high-desert climate with four distinct seasons and an average of 310 days of sunshine per year. New Mexico offers world-class skiing and abundant outdoor activities. As one of the oldest cities in the U.S., Albuquerque has a unique multicultural history and heritage that lend to an enchanting culture rich with tradition, cuisine, art, dance, and theatre.

Minimum qualifications are a) Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or related field by the start date of appointment; and b) Research specialization in American politics with a specialization in Latino/Hispanic politics. Preferred qualifications for the position are a) Demonstrated or potential excellence in conducting substantively and theoretically significant research in Latino/Hispanic politics reflected in a record of publication in this sub-field of American politics; b) Demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in Latino/Hispanic politics; c) Strong methodological expertise; d) Ability to train graduate students whose work is focused on Latino/Hispanic politics and policy; e) Capacity to add to the intellectual breadth of the department; f) Demonstrated commitment to equity and inclusion and student success and working with broadly diverse students and communities.

For best consideration, all application materials must be received by November 8, 2019. The position will remain open until filled. Only applications submitted through the application system at <https://www.unmedu/jobs> (Posting # 10911) can be considered. Applications must include: 1) a letter describing the applicant's qualifications as they relate to the minimum and preferred criteria defined above; 2) a current curriculum vita (please include email address and telephone number); 3) a writing sample that exemplifies the candidate's expertise in Latino/Hispanic politics; 4) teaching materials including a teaching statement, at least one sample course syllabus, and course evaluations for any classes taught at the undergraduate or graduate level); 5) Additionally, three letters of recommendation must be emailed directly by your references to Ashley Banks, Department Administrator, Political Science Tel: 505 277-8930, Email: asbanks@unm.edu by the priority deadline.

Semi-finalists may be asked to submit additional samples of written work, and additional teaching materials. Applicants who are appointed to a UNM faculty position are required to provide an official certification of successful completion of all degree requirements prior to their initial employment with UNM. Consistent with UNM's affirmative action policies, all applicants from members of protected groups will be given especially careful review to ensure full consideration. Inquiries about the online application process can be directed to Ashley Banks, Department Administrator, Political Science Tel: 505 277-8930, Email: asbanks@unm.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7291

Rhodes College

Rank: Chair of Political Science - American Politics

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenured position in American Politics to begin Fall of 2020. Rhodes College believes that diversity and inclusion are critical to our success as an institution, and we seek to recruit, develop, and retain the most talented people from a diverse candidate pool. Applicants must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, and have a record of excellence in teaching and an active program of scholarship appropriate for a tenured appointment at the rank of associate or full professor, with a focus in areas other than the department's existing strengths. Interest in chairing the department is an expectation of the position. Teaching responsibilities usually include five courses a year, but serving as Chair reduces the teaching responsibilities and includes an additional stipend. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course and upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Preference will be given to candidates who could contribute to the College's interdisciplinary programs (<https://www.rhodes.edu/content/majors-minors>). The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Rhodes is a nationally ranked residential college committed to the liberal arts and sciences. Our highest priorities are intellectual engagement, service to others, commitment to diversity and inclusion, and honor among ourselves. Our students live and learn on one of the country's most beautiful campuses, located in the heart of Memphis, an economic, medical, and cultural center, making Rhodes one of a handful of prominent liberal arts colleges in a major metropolitan area. (<http://www.rhodes.edu/content/liberal-arts-city>)

Rhodes College prides itself on being a diverse, inclusive, and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity and antidiscrimination. (<https://handbook.rhodes.edu/employeehandbook/employment-policies/anti-discrimination-and-harassment-policy>)

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu. A complete application will include 1) a cover letter that addresses the strengths you will bring as a teacher and scholar to a liberal arts college environment, as well as your interest and experiences relevant for serving as Department Chair; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) the names and contact information for three references; 4) a separate statement that addresses how your experiences with teaching, scholarship, and/or service will contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values. The online application system will solicit letters electronically from the candidate's recommenders, once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and all other required application materials have been submitted.

Review of completed applications will begin November 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Candidates from backgrounds typically underrepresented in higher education are strongly encouraged to apply. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/2/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7278

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Oklahoma seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics with specialty in political behavior and civic engagement. Within political behavior and civic engagement, we are especially interested in candidates with interests in group identity, racial or ethnic politics, and survey and/or experimental methods. The successful candidate will possess a strong commitment to producing high-quality independent scholarship, as well as a demonstrated interest in collaborative research efforts.

Candidates who are interested in working with the Community Engagement + Experiments Laboratory, and have an interest in fostering community engagement through their teaching and research, are strongly preferred. <http://ou.edu/ceel> We also welcome applications from candidates who could teach undergraduate methods. The teaching load for this position is two courses per semester.

The University of Oklahoma is located in Norman, a college town of 120,000 featuring great schools and affordable housing. Campus is 30 minutes from Oklahoma City. With a population of over 650,000 and a metropolitan area of over 1.4 million, OKC is home to the NBA's Oklahoma City Thunder, the AAA OKC Dodgers baseball team, America's best new restaurant (Nonesuch) in 2018 according to Bon Appetit magazine, a public boathouse district that doubles as a U.S. Olympic rowing training site, The Myriad Botanical Gardens, and Scissortail Park, a new 70-acre urban park spanning the Oklahoma River downtown.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a related discipline at the time appointment begins. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, a writing sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate transcript, and 3 letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. Any questions can be emailed to the American Politics search committee chair, Dr. Tyler Johnson tylerjohnson@ou.edu. The position will begin August 2020. Applicants must apply online at <https://apply.interfolio.com/68223>.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/2/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7279

Berry College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Government and International Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Electoral Behavior, Public Opinion

The Department of Government and International Studies at Berry College seeks a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and will be competent to teach social science research methods. We seek an innovative teacher who will create new courses that invite students from other disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Tenure-Track position begins in August 2020. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with their upper-level course and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). Noted for its mentoring of students, the department offers an excellent undergraduate education that emphasizes the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that will prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and engage the community, including by cultivating internship opportunities. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. All applicants should describe in their statement of teaching philosophy their experience with, and/or commitment to, teaching a diverse student body.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2020. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Candidates should submit a letter of application, along with a current CV, copies of transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference to Darla Fox, Department of Government and International Studies, dfox@berry.edu. Email inquiries: esands@berry.edu. For more information on our program, please visit our website at: <https://www.berry.edu/academics/majors/political-science>.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2019 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College may be required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7269

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in American Politics or in American Politics and Constitutional Law

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching, including an appreciation of or engagement in high impact practices, and interest in the enduring questions of politics. Responsibilities for the one-semester position is four undergraduate courses (capped at 30 students in each course) for the semester, with two or three preparations. This will entail two classes of an introductory course on American Politics plus a possible combination of: a) two law courses (for example, such as Individual Liberties or Mock Trial), b) two upper-level American Politics courses (such as Political Behavior, Public Opinion, State and Local Politics, or American Public Policy), or c) one law course and one upper-level American Politics course. Aside from holding office hours with students, no committee assignments or service requirements will be associated with the position. Loyola University Maryland is a dynamic, highly selective, Jesuit Catholic university in the liberal arts tradition. It is highly ranked among the leading independent, comprehensive universities in the northeastern United States. Committed to intellectual excellence, diversity, and social justice, the University enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and more than 3,000 students in its graduate programs. Loyola seeks a broad spectrum of candidates, including women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of sexual minority groups, who understand, respect, and can actively contribute to the University's Jesuit mission and values (see <http://www.loyola.edu/about.aspx> to learn more about Loyola and its educational mission). For more information about this position or to apply, please go to <https://careers.loyola.edu> Application review will begin on October 15, and will continue until the position is filled.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/r853mtfm8r7sx3dd>

PI114171670

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 7267

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Other

The duties and responsibilities of this 9-month Visiting Assistant Professor position entail teaching undergraduate and graduate Public Administration courses, as well as, a course on state and local government. The typical course load for VAPs is a 3-3.

Regular, reliable, and non-disruptive attendance is an essential job duty, as is the ability to create and maintain collegial, harmonious working relationships with others.

Apply through:

<https://jobs.uark.edu/postings/36968>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/31/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7262

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)

Research Methods in Political Science and Global Affairs

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses as part of the degree requirements in five of the Department's degree programs: Political Science (graduate and undergraduate), Global Affairs (graduate and undergraduate), and Politics and Law (undergraduate). Required courses in these programs include: Designing Research in Political Science; Quantitative Methods in Political Science; Research Methods in Global Affairs; and graduate Research Methods. The appointment begins Fall 2020. This position also supports collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching, research, and grants application objectives in University initiatives in such areas as Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and Data Analytics that employ quantitative and/or qualitative methodologies. The Department is home to 18 tenured and tenure-track faculty members, NTT faculty, administrative staff, and nearly 600 majors pursuing B.A. and M.A. degrees. Faculty members engage in individual and collaborative research around the world in such areas as global governance, comparative politics, security regimes, national security and intelligence, cyber security strategy and politics, political communications and institutions, federal justice policies, race and gender issues, social policy, human rights issues, constitutional development and judicial institutions, human migration patterns, geographic information systems, and political economy.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or directly related discipline by August 31, 2020. Evidence of ability to teach all research design and methods courses listed above at undergraduate and graduate levels. Teaching at the undergraduate level includes instruction in understanding, interpreting, assessing, and developing research designs; and literacy and basic proficiency in statistical topics and techniques (e.g., classic hypothesis testing, univariate through multivariate analyses, data management, entry and manipulation, and graphical presentation of analysis). Teaching at the graduate level includes basic working knowledge of the empirical, quantitative, and/or qualitative approaches/techniques used by social scientists in understanding social/political phenomena, including skills in the use of SPSS, R, and/or STATA. All applicants must provide representative evidence of high-quality teaching in a variety of research methods and other courses.

Successful applicants must be willing to participate in collaborative interdisciplinary research activities to develop external research grants and to advise during such collaborative activities on appropriate statistical approaches/techniques. Successful applicants will be able to articulate a research agenda including an applicant's emerging record of journal or other peer-reviewed publications. Successful candidates must be able to demonstrate their ability to work with and be sensitive to the educational needs of diverse urban populations and support the University's commitment to thrive as a Hispanic Serving Institution and a model for student success.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given also to applicants prepared to teach courses in traditional sub-fields of political science and/or international relations, ranging from introductory surveys to more specialized and upper-level lecture and graduate seminars in an applicant's specialization.

Applicants should submit electronically in PDF format:

1. Letter of application for the rank of assistant professor, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. A research, teaching, and service statement that includes discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment. The research statement must articulate an applicant's research agenda; the teaching statement must articulate an applicant's teaching philosophy. The service statement must address an applicant's commitment to service to the department, college, university, profession, and community;
4. A copy of all graduate transcripts;
5. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three)
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation. Submit electronic materials to: <https://jobs.utsa.edu> (click on 'Faculty' for position details)

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until position is filled.

This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

UTSA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7264

The College of Idaho

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy or International Political Economy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: American Politics, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The College of Idaho's Department of Political Economy invites applications for a tenure-track entry-level faculty position that will commence in Fall 2020.

The Department approaches political economy in a broad theoretical manner similar to early modern thinkers such as John Locke, Adam Smith, and Karl Marx. We emphasize the intricate relationship between economics and politics and reject the push for narrow specialization and an overemphasis on formal models. We are open to approaches including public policy analysis, historical institutionalism, heterodox economics, behavioral economics, area studies, and research methods that emphasize the analysis of real-world data. We grant significant autonomy to faculty members to design their own lower and upper division courses that support the department's political economy approach and vision. Professional development support for research, conference travel, and sabbatical leave is available.

The Department offers two related majors: Political Economy and International Political Economy. The successful candidate will EITHER primarily serve the Political Economy major focusing on domestic political economy and policy-making in the United States, OR primarily serve the International Political Economy major focusing on the global economy, international relations, development, and comparative political economy. The department also offers minors supporting the College of Idaho's PEAK curriculum. The teaching load is 3-3 with an additional course taught during each January term.

Successful candidates will have an active research agenda while demonstrating a passion for teaching in the liberal arts tradition. They will join a student-centered department where teaching and mentoring are valued as the highest priority. Such mentorship has recently led students in the department to Marshall, Truman, and Rhodes scholarships as well as to national recognition of departmental faculty for teaching excellence.

A Ph.D. is required in Political Economy, Political Science, International Political Economy, International Relations, Economics (heterodox), Behavioral Economics, or other related fields. Courses to be taught include introductory courses in the field and advanced courses based on the candidate's expertise. Advanced ABD applicants will be considered.

Applications must include letter of interest, CV, statement demonstrating a passion for teaching in the liberal arts tradition, sample syllabi, recent course evaluations, and at least three letters of recommendation.

Candidates must be authorized to work in the United States as of the expected hire date and throughout the date of the contract without sponsorship from The College of Idaho.

Application review will begin October 14, 2019. Applications will be accepted until the position has been filled. Please submit application materials via email to hr@collegeofidaho.edu with subject 'Political Economy Search.'

With over 125 years of history, The College of Idaho is a regional and national leader in higher education. The College of Idaho is an inclusive community of exceptional learning that challenges the ambitious and forges pathways to success and purpose. To learn more about The College of Idaho, please visit www.collegeofidaho.edu.

The College of Idaho is proud to be an equal opportunity employer. We are committed to attracting, retaining, and maximizing the performance of a diverse and inclusive workforce.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/14/2019

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7240

University of Mount Union

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Mount Union is currently inviting applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position, beginning August 2020.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to teach three courses per semester (12 credit hours) and must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate education in a liberal arts setting. Primary responsibilities include:

Teaching introductory courses in American Politics, Law and Public Service as well as upper-level courses on American Institutions (Presidency; Congress); Law (e.g. Constitutional Law, Civil Rights, Legal Advocacy); and Public Policy. The ability to contribute additional courses in the candidate's area of specialization will be welcome.

- Contributing to the University of Mount Union's Integrative Core curriculum,
- Contributing to the strengthening and expansion of the Political Science curriculum,
- Guiding the growing legal studies program and the new 3-3 BA/JD programs,
- Contributing to the total university community and to civic and community life.
- Additional duties may be set by the department given institutional needs and priorities.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science (with a focus on American Politics, Public Policy and/or Law) by time of appointment is required. A J.D. or related degree will be an added plus. The candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching and to scholarship

Candidates should provide a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available) and three letters of reference to the Political Science Search Committee. Electronic applications are required and can be submitted online at <http://www.mountunion.edu/employment>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Michael Grossman (grossmmo@mountunion.edu) with any questions. Review of applications will begin October 31, 2019, and will continue until the positions are filled.

This position is required to complete assigned University compliance training as communicated by the University.

The specific statements shown in each section of this description are not intended to be all-inclusive. They represent typical elements and criteria necessary to successfully perform the job. When requested, reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions of the job.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7246

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Emergency Management and Disaster Science Chair - Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Constitutional Law & Theory

Faculty Position Announcement

Emergency Management and Disaster Science Chair at the Rank of Associate Professor

School of Public Administration, University of Nebraska Omaha

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a faculty position of Associate Professor/Chair of the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program, within the School of Public Administration to begin in August 2020. A successful candidate for this position will possess a PhD in Emergency Management or a related field. We are seeking applicants who can provide administrative leadership and faculty expertise in the field of Emergency Management and Disaster Science. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests and demonstrated capacity to teach in at least one of the following areas: preparedness and risk management, agency collaboration, law and administration, and response and recovery. A willingness to teach introductory, upper level, and graduate courses in emergency management and offer courses in an on-line format is also required. Candidates must have the demonstrated ability to conduct research in emergency management and disaster science. Potential for externally funded and peer-reviewed published work is also required.

The position offers a teaching load of two courses per semester and a nine-month contract. One course release per year and stipend will be granted for serving as Program Chair. Duties include program administration, teaching, research, and community engagement.

Review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

The University and the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program has a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of underrepresented groups and strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply for this position. The University of Nebraska does not discriminate based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation in its programs, activities, or employment.

The UNO Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program is the largest undergraduate emergency management and fire services management program in the state and the only program that offers a Bachelor of Science in Emergency Management, minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, Tribal Management and Emergency Services and an undergraduate certificate in Tribal Management and Emergency Services. The Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program was only initiated seven years ago, but has proven to be one of the fastest expanding academic programs in the Nebraska University System. Currently, the program has three tenure track positions, three instructor lines, a visiting professor, an academic advisor/program coordinator, a student services associate, and a .5 FTE administrative assistant. At the start of the current academic year 2019-2020, the program had 138 BSEM majors and pre-majors, over 100 minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, and Tribal Management and Emergency Services, over 25 Tribal Management and Emergency Services certificate students, 7 MPA students and two PA doctoral students specializing in Emergency Management.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling over 200 graduate students, offering the program both online and on campus. The MPA program is ranked among the top 10-percent of all such programs in the upcoming 2019 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools, and is ranked #6 in Public Budgeting and Finance, and #11 in Nonprofit Management. The School is also home to one of the few Ph.D. programs in Public Administration in the Great Plains region; faculty regularly have the opportunity to work with Ph.D. students.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a Carnegie Doctoral Research University. We are a metropolitan university, located in the heart of Omaha, which has a population of 463,000. The population of the eight-county metropolitan area is 943,000.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/9612>. The application must include: current curriculum vita; a letter addressing experience and qualifications; the names and contact information for three references.

For more information on the program, visit our web page at <http://emgt.unomaha.edu>. For more information on the School, visit our web page at <http://spa.unomaha.edu> or contact the chair of the search committee: Dr. Yu-Che Chen (yuchen@unomaha.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6197

Tulane University

Rank: Professor of Practice in American Politics

Description

The Department of Political Science at Tulane University seeks candidates for a Professor of Practice (PoP) in American Politics, to begin July 1, 2020. A Professor of Practice is a full time, teaching-oriented (non-tenure track) position whose primary assignment is instruction and activities related to instruction. The position comes with an initial renewable three-year contract pending successful review. After completion of a second term as Professor of Practice, PoPs may be promoted to Senior Professor of Practice with a five-year renewable contract. We seek candidates from any subfield of American politics though preference will be given to candidates who are able to teach an undergraduate political science research methods course and are willing to contribute to the department's offerings in service learning/experiential learning, as well as teach introductory and upper-level undergraduate American politics courses. The position requires teaching six courses per year. Professors of Practice participate extensively in the intellectual life of the department, including opportunities to attend seminars and workshops. Salary is competitive and additional money is available for travel and professional/pedagogical development.

Qualifications

Candidates should have completed all requirements for the Ph.D by the appointment date, though qualified applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Application Instructions

Candidates should submit a letter of interest, Curriculum Vitae, sample syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g. teaching observations and/or course evaluations), and statement of teaching philosophy. It is optional to submit letters of recommendation with the application, but candidates who advance to the shortlist will be required to submit three letters of recommendation, including at least one that focuses on teaching ability. Applications may be submitted via Interfolio - apply.interfolio.com/68127. Applications received by November 1, 2019 will receive full consideration, though the position will remain open until filled. Queries may be addressed to Professor Brian Brox (bbrox@tulane.edu) or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 9/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6182

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Law to begin August 16, 2020. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to teach substantive courses in Public Law and Judicial Politics and contribute to the department's graduate and undergraduate programs in methodology. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a writing sample; statements of research and teaching interests; graduate transcript; and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. The position will remain open until filled, and the search committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2019. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Robert Oldendick (rolde-ndi@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6183

American Political Science Association

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Open

American Political Science Association

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association Congressional Fellowship Program is currently accepting online applications for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;
- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2020. Office placements run until August 15, 2021. Two optional programs directly precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to spend up to two months at the APSA Centennial Center carrying out a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2020.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields who can demonstrate a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process.

Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be submitted online at <https://apsa.wufoo.com/forms/qlolhl0dn0mzd/submitted> and include:

- CV;
- 500-word personal statement;
- names and contact information for three references; and
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2020-2021 fellowship year by Tuesday, December 3, 2019. Please send questions about the program to <mailto:cfp@apsanet.org>.

Start Date: November 2020

Salary: $52,500 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/3/2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6172

The University of Scranton

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Scranton invites applications for a full-time tenure-track assistant professor position in American Politics to begin in August 2020.

We seek qualified applicants with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching, scholarship, and service that would support the mission of the University of Scranton. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in political institutions and policy making processes. Teaching responsibilities include the U.S. Politics introductory course, Congress, public policy in the candidate's area of expertise, and research methods. Pre-tenure teaching load is ordinarily 3/3.

The capability to develop an active research program that involves mentoring undergraduates is preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to our Public Affairs-Public Administration program.

Strong ABD candidates in Political Science or related field required; candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field at time of appointment preferred.

Apply online at <https://universityofscrantonjobs.com>. Please include in the online application 1) a letter of interest addressing qualifications, teaching philosophy and research interests, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) article/chapter length writing sample, and 4) contact information for three professional references.

Review of applications will begin on October 21, 2019. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Mike Allison, Chair of the Department of Political Science, via email at michael.allison@scranton.edu for questions about the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6179

Tokyo International University

Rank: Full-time positions in 1) International Relations/U.S. Politics and Foreign Policy and 2) International Relations/Comparative Politics (open specialization).

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

[Outline]

Tokyo International University is seeking to hire full-time Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professors in two areas: 1) U.S. Politics and Foreign Policy and 2) International Relations/Comparative Politics (regional specialization is open; we are looking for those whose research rests on strong theoretical and empirical grounds).

[Content of work]

Responsibilities include teaching three courses per semester mainly in an English-medium undergraduate and/or graduate school program, advising and working with students from diverse backgrounds, and undertaking quality research. TIU's academic year consists of two 14-week semesters.

[Positions available]

1

[Address of work location]

Campus 1, 1-13-1 Matoba-kita, Kawagoe City, Saitama Pref. 350-1197, Japan
(about 30-40 mins from Tokyo by train)

[Starting date]

April 1 / September 1, 2020 (negotiable)

[Job type]

Professor level
Associate Professor/Lecturer (full-time) level
Assistant Professor level
Tenured or tenure-track upon grade

[Qualifications]

Successful candidates should already hold a Ph.D. or have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of employment, strong publication record or potential for active scholarly engagement, ability to teach students (both undergraduate and graduate) with diverse cultural background in the university's English Track Degree Program. We encourage serious research engagement and provide various support, including individual and collective research funding.

There are no limitations regarding citizenship of applicants, however successful candidates should be able to teach and provide guidance to students using English language.

[Compensation]

Contract period: if hired as tenured, no-period (except age limits) / if hired as tenure-track, 5 years

A competitive salary is offered. Remuneration package includes health insurance, pension, commuting allowance, annual research fund and individual research office.

[Application method]

Please specify to which position you are applying and send an email to "saiyou@tiu.ac.jp" with the following materials attached:

- 1) Cover letter of application
- 2) Curriculum vitae (please also include your complete contact details and contact information of three references)
- 3) List of classes taught (including title of class, brief description of contents, level)
- 4) Course syllabi of related fields that have been taught at any higher educational institution
- 5) Full text of three research achievements (e.g., Journal articles, publications, etc.)
- 6) Copy of diploma or transcript showing proof of Ph.D. or enrollment in a Ph.D. program
- 7) In the subject of your email, please include this code: [APSA201909]

[Deadline]

November 15 (Friday), 2019

[Note]

- We request that all application documents be send via e-mail and not by postal mail. Items sent through postal mail cannot be returned.
- Please describe your contact details clearly (phone number, e-mail address, current location, Skype ID, etc.)
- E-mail accounts through @hotmail, @msn, @live and @outlook may experience difficulty in receiving e-mails from the University. Please provide an alternative e-mail address if possible.

[Selection process]

First, a review of applications will be conducted, and only applicants deemed suitable will be contacted and invited for an interview (in person or via Skype). Those applicants who are invited to an interview may be requested to submit three Letters of Recommendation from relevant institutions.

For the on-site final interview, reimbursement for round-trip airfare, domestic public transportation allowance, and hotel (one night) will be provided to overseas candidates.

[Contact details]

Global Talent Acquisition Department
Tokyo International University Foundation
4-23-23, Takadanobaba, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-0075
Email: saiyou@tiu.ac.jp

[Additional information]

All the information collected will be used solely for its intended purpose of evaluating applicants. Information will not be used for any other purpose.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6145

Georgia State UniversityRank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Georgia State University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. We seek a scholar whose research focuses on political identity, broadly defined (including, but not limited to ethnicity, race, gender, class, and sexual orientation) in the U.S. context. We welcome scholars employing institutional or behavioral approaches to the study of identity. The position will begin Fall 2020, pending budgetary approval. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to teach courses on political identity at the undergraduate, M.A., and PhD levels. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to effectively teach a diverse student body. We enthusiastically encourage applications from women, minorities, firstgeneration candidates, and other underrepresented groups in the academy. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a related field in hand by August 2020.

Applicants should send a letter of interest that includes a brief statement outlining their ability to work with a diverse student body, a curriculum vitae, a statement of your research agenda, examples of scholarly work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and graduate transcripts to polssearch@gsu.edu. Please list three references who will provide letters of recommendation upon request.

We will begin reviewing files on October 1, 2019. Materials submitted before October 10th will be given full consideration. Georgia State University, an enterprising R-1 university, is located in the heart of downtown Atlanta, a vibrant international city in the Southeastern U.S. GSU enrolls and graduates one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation. The Department is committed to serving this student body and advancing innovative research by building a diverse faculty. The department offers bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees. Further information about the department can be found at politicalscience.gsu.edu. Georgia State University, a unit of the University System of Georgia, is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate against applicants due to race, ethnicity, gender, veteran status, or on the basis of disability or any other federal, state or local protected class. An offer of employment will be conditional on background verification.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6171

Washington CollegeRank: Visiting Assistant Professor -3 terms

The Department of Political Science at Washington College invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor in American Government and Policy for three consecutive semesters: the 2020 Spring Semester and 2020-2021 Academic Year. The teaching load is three courses in the fall and three courses each spring.

For the Spring 2020 semester, we seek a professor who can teach Introduction to American Government, American Foreign Policy, and Parties and Interest groups. For the fall 2020 semester, responsibilities include teaching our introductory course in American government and politics and a course on Elections (and possibly a First Year Seminar). For the spring 2021 semester, the candidate will teach one section of our introductory course in American government, the American Presidency and American Foreign Policy or another policy course. In addition to teaching, faculty responsibilities will also include some senior thesis advising. The position includes benefits and salary is competitive.

Washington College, founded in 1782, is a selective liberal arts institution of about 1450 students that emphasizes excellence in teaching and a commitment to scholarly research. It is located on Maryland's Eastern Shore, about 1.5 hours from Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. For more information please consult the college's website (<http://www.washcoll.edu>) and the department's website (<http://polisci.washcoll.edu>). Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Please send letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts from all institutions attended, two letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations if available TO: Dr. Melissa Deckman, Chair, Department of Political Science, Washington College, 300 Washington Avenue, Chestertown, MD 21620-1197. Telephone: (410) 810-7494; FAX: 410-778-7891; e-mail: mdeckman2@washcoll.edu. Washington College an Equal Opportunity Employer; women and members of minority groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6148

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Carl Albert Congressional Research and Studies Center at the University of Oklahoma seek an established scholar who is also a skilled and enthusiastic instructor at the advanced assistant or associate professor rank. We seek candidates with teaching and research interests related to legislative politics, civic engagement, and more broadly, to strengthening representative democracy through an engaged and informed citizenry.

The successful candidate will contribute to the core American Politics and Government curriculum by teaching four courses per academic year, including Introduction to American Government, Community Scholars, and additional courses in the candidate's area of expertise; contribute to the civic engagement mission of the Department and Center by supporting a diverse array of services and programs such as the National Education for Women's (N.E.W.) leadership program and the Community Engagement and Experiment Lab (CEEL), among others; and continue to build a national or international scholarly profile.

The position will be jointly appointed to OU's Political Science Department, which is centrally placed in the university's core curriculum — with a course required of all graduates. In addition, faculty members enjoy strong relationships with interdisciplinary research and teaching centers at OU. As the flagship institution for the state of Oklahoma, faculty work with state policymakers and leaders of public, non-profit, tribal, and private organizations.

The Carl Albert Center was established in 1979 as a living tribute to the ideals, leadership, and accomplishments of the Honorable Carl Albert and houses one of the largest congressional archives in the country. The Center, through its endowment, offers a wide range of programming, provides Center faculty with substantial research and travel support, and funds undergraduate research and graduate fellowship programs.

Qualifications

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science and be able to demonstrate an active research agenda in legislative studies and/or civic engagement, broadly defined. The successful candidate should also have an established publication record in high-quality outlets, potential to secure external research funding, and a commitment to teaching and mentoring undergraduate, masters, and doctoral students.

Application Instructions

Include a curriculum vitae, cover letter, and 3-5 letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on September 30th, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. Questions about the position may be directed to the chairs of the search committee, Michael Crespín (crespín@ou.edu) or Scott Robinson (scott.e.robinson@ou.edu). The position will begin in August 2020.

Application Process

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Applicants should go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/66142> to submit their application.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

The University of Oklahoma, in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. This includes, but is not limited to: admissions, employment, financial aid, housing, services in educational programs or activities, or health care services that the University operates or provides.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6141

Ohio State University

Rank: American Political Institutions

Department: Political Science

Position: American Political Institutions

Rank: Assistant Professor

Description: The Department of Political Science at the Ohio State University seeks to hire in American politics, one of its traditional areas of strength. The candidate should study political institutions, policymaking processes, and/or representational outcomes, and should have a high degree of conceptual and methodological sophistication. We particularly encourage applicants with innovative approaches to studying important democratic questions, including but not limited to the use of novel data, original techniques for causal inference, and/or field or lab experiments. Candidates must show promise of excellence in research and teaching and potential for attracting external funding.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a PhD in political science or expect to have the degree in hand by August 2020. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:

The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the Midwest's fastest-growing city and the nation's 14th largest city. Columbus offers a diverse array of welcoming neighborhoods and a vibrant arts and culture scene. Additional information about all that the Columbus area has to offer is available at <https://visit.osu.edu/experience>.

Application Instructions:

Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14426>. A complete application includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, publication list, examples of research, other papers or chapters, unofficial graduate transcript, three reference letters (to be submitted by the reference writers at this site), and a diversity statement that addresses the candidate's past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service.

Review of applications will begin on October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to first last at Vladimir Kogan at kogan.18@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. The university is a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Application Materials Required:

Submit the following items online at this website:

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Research Statement
- Teaching Statement
- Diversity Statement
- Publication List
- Job Market Letter
- Other papers or chapters
- Unofficial Graduate Transcript
- Three Reference Letters

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6133

Ohio State University

Rank: Politics of Race, Gender, and Ethnicity in American Politics

Department: Political Science

Position: Politics of Race, Gender, and Ethnicity in American Politics

Rank: Assistant Professor

Description: The Department of Political Science at the Ohio State University seeks to hire in the Politics of Race, Gender and Politics, or Ethnicity in American politics. We particularly encourage applicants with innovative approaches to studying important democratic questions, including but not limited to the use of novel data, original techniques for causal inference, and/or field or lab experiments, and they should have a high degree of theoretical and methodological sophistication. Candidates must show promise of excellence in research and teaching and potential for attracting external funding.

This position is part of a Faculty Cluster Hiring Initiative by the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University to increase diversity in our professorial ranks, foster an inclusiveness, and promote research and teaching on topics central to racial, ethnic, gender, and sexual orientation.

Qualifications: The successful candidate should have a PhD in political science or expect to have the degree in hand by August of 2020. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:

The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the Midwest's fastest-growing city and the nation's 14th largest city. Columbus offers a diverse array of welcoming neighborhoods and a vibrant arts and culture scene. Additional information about all that the Columbus area has to offer is available at <https://visit.osu.edu/experience>.

Application Instructions:

Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14427>. A complete application includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, publication list, examples of research, other papers or chapters, unofficial graduate transcript, three reference letters (to be submitted by the reference writers at this site), and a diversity statement that addresses the candidate's past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service.

Review of applications will begin on October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to William Minozzi at minozzi.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually vibrant and diverse environment of exceptional faculty, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. The university is a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Application Materials Required:

Submit the following items online at this website:

Cover Letter
Curriculum Vitae
Research Statement
Teaching Statement
Diversity Statement
Publication List
Job Market Paper
Other papers or chapters
Unofficial Graduate Transcript
Three Reference Letters (to be submitted by the reference writers at this site)

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6134

Touro College and University System

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

- Teach four courses each semester, split between an all-male campus in Queens and an all-female campus in Manhattan.
- Assist in student advisement within the Political Science Department, including course selection and career planning. This may include orientation and during other times when classes are not in session.
- Respond to needs and concerns of departmental faculty, administrative staff and students in a respectful and professional manner.
- Engage students in the classroom and inspire them to fulfill department and college-wide goals. Work closely with each student on multiple drafts of papers in order to improve their writing skills.
- Create clear course descriptions and syllabi with achievable evaluable goals. Evaluate student work with thoughtful comments and in a timely manner.
- Participate in professional conferences and/or publish work in academic journals in order to increase the visibility of the Touro College and University system.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science, with advanced study in comparative politics and American government.
- At least 2 years teaching experience in a post-secondary institution.
- Record of academic research.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6135

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latina/o Politics

Specializations: Latino Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

Assistant Professor

School of Politics and Global Studies

Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor whose research and teaching focus is on Latina/o politics, race/ethnicity and U.S. politics, broadly defined. This is an academic year, benefits-eligible appointment. The anticipated start date is August 2020.

The successful candidate will contribute to curriculum development; teach at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervisor honors, masters and doctoral students; conduct research publishable in top-tier academic journals and/or top university presses in the discipline; participate in professional and university service; and develop grant proposals for external funding as PI or co-PI.

The position is open regarding the particular substantive dimensions and theoretical perspectives emphasized, as well as methodological approach(es). Along with the emphasis on Latina/o politics, additional consideration will be given to candidates whose scholarship incorporates analysis across various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. and to related factors (such as class and gender), and across various realms of politics (such as institutions, behavior, and combinations thereof).

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by viewing <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; and evidence of promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research focus with the potential to advance the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies especially in the areas of Latina/o politics and race/ethnicity and U.S. politics; a clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals and/or top university presses.

The application deadline is October 19, 2019 if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2020.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and submitted electronically to Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/67709>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.)

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/4/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 6126University of North Carolina, Greensboro*Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: American Politics
The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning August 1, 2020. Candidates must have or should anticipate a Ph.D in Political Science or a related field by the time of appointment. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching specialties are in political psychology, race and politics, or women and politics, but we will consider those from other subfields in American politics as well. The faculty member will teach courses in American politics as well as introductory research methods to undergraduate and MPA students. The department has fifteen full-time faculty and has strong B.A. and MPA programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate population of 45% ethnic minority students. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools and support community-engaged research. UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position. UNCG is located in a metropolitan area of more than 1.6 million in the Piedmont region of North Carolina, between the Atlantic Ocean and the Appalachian mountains. UNCG is an EOE/Affirmative Action/M/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should apply online at <https://spartalent.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" (position #001603). Please submit a cover letter, a statement of teaching interests and philosophy, a research statement, up to two representative writing samples, sample syllabi, teaching evaluations (if available), and a curriculum vitae.

You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted by the system with instructions on how to submit a confidential letter of reference. Inquiries should be made to the search committee chair, Professor David Holian, dbholian@uncg.edu.

The department webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 18th and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/4/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 6118University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill*Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is seeking to appoint a tenure-track faculty member in the field of American Politics, starting July 1, 2020. The successful candidate will be able to teach courses and conduct research in American Politics, broadly defined. Significant promise of research excellence is a necessary condition for consideration, as is evidence of significant skills in teaching. Successful applicants will be expected to teach and mentor a diverse student body. Salary commensurate with qualifications.

Applications from women and minorities are particularly welcome. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity employer and educator that welcomes all to apply, including protected veterans and individuals with disabilities. Review of applications will begin October 15, and will continue until the position is filled.

To apply for the position, please follow this link: <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/168434>. Please include a cover letter, writing sample, curriculum vitae, and evidence of teaching excellence. Applicants will be required to identify the names, titles and email addresses of professional references at the time of application (please note that four are required). Recommenders identified by the applicant will be contacted via email with instructions for uploading their letters of support. Alternatively, applicants may list Interfolio as a reference and the application system will solicit recommendations directly from Interfolio. Please see <http://help.interfolio.com/entries/24062742-Uploading-Letters-to-an-Online-Application-System> for instructions. Applicants may also list the email of a Graduate Coordinator who will upload their references instead of the referring faculty. Departmental contact person is Shannon Eubanks; the department address is Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, CB# 3265, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3265 and the web address is <http://www.unc.edu/depts/polisci>.

Start Date: Summer 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/30/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 6106University of North Florida*Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Florida seeks candidates for a tenure track appointment as an Assistant Professor in American politics and government beginning in August 2020. The field in American Politics is open. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar and has curricular needs across a broad spectrum of American politics, including institutions, behavior, and state and local government. The department also welcomes the use of innovative teaching technologies including distance learning and hybrid classes. There are also opportunities for the selected candidate to teach in the department's Masters of Public Administration Program. Candidates should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching, research and service and a commitment to increasing the participation of members of underrepresented groups. The teaching load is three courses per semester. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or a related discipline is required by August 2020.

Applicants must complete an online application, as well as upload supplemental documents, at www.unfjobs.org in order to be considered for this position. Applicants who do not apply online and/or upload all the required documents will not be considered for this position. Once you submit both your completed application and uploaded documents you will receive a confirmation number. Keep the confirmation number for your records.

Applicants must attach the following required documents to be considered for this position.

- (1) a letter of interest stating teaching interests and research plans
- (2) a complete curriculum vitae
- (3) Please provide a one-page statement describing efforts to encourage diversity, inclusion, and belonging, including past, current, and anticipated future contributions in the areas of teaching and research
- (4) graduate school transcripts*
- (5) one sample of research and writing
- (6) evidence of teaching effectiveness
- (7) three current professional letters of recommendation (uploaded as one document)

*Official transcripts are required by the time of employment

If the applicant is unable to attach the letters of recommendation with the application, they can be emailed to: Americanpolitics@unf.edu

Review of applications will begin October 11, 2019. This position will be considered open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 8/28/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6086

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Part-Time Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Middle Georgia State University has part-time employment opportunities for Political Science instructors, both online and on its campuses in Georgia (Macon, Warner Robins, Cochran, Eastman, and Dublin) for day and evening classes. Our primary need at this time is for faculty qualified to teach, and interested in teaching, American Government (POLS 1101), although opportunities to teach other courses may also be available.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: To qualify for a teaching position, a candidate is required to have a minimum of an earned master's degree in Political Science or a closely related field (such as Public Administration or Public Policy), or a master's degree in another field with at least 18 graduate semester hours in Political Science courses.

For more information, please contact: Dr. Christopher Lawrence, Chair - Department of Political Science. E-mail: christopher.lawrence@mga.edu. Informal inquiries welcome.

TO APPLY: Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest with a current curriculum vitae or resume, unofficial transcripts from both undergraduate and graduate courses, a list of 2 references with email and phone contact information, and statement of teaching philosophy to: recruitment@mga.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2019

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 6049

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: Africana Studies-Political Science

Africana Studies-Political Science Associate Professor Position

The Departments of Africana Studies and Political Science at Rutgers University-New Brunswick seek to hire a nationally recognized scholar in the field of contemporary race relations at the Associate Professor level, to begin September 1, 2020. Candidates should have an outstanding and sustained record of research, teaching, and mentorship. Research and teaching interests should include the study of American political institutions such as Congress and or the presidency; political rhetoric; social movements; and African American politics. We particularly welcome candidates specializing in the diverse factors shifting the landscape for African American politics in recent decades. We encourage candidates who engage in public discourse of their research beyond formal academic circles, though this is not required. The successful candidate's tenure home will be in Africana Studies, with a partial appointment in Political Science, and with teaching and service responsibilities divided between the two Departments.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Africana Studies and Political Science Departments are strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and a list of three references to: <http://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/99091>. Review of applicants will begin on October 15th and continue until the job is filled.

Confidential letters of recommendation should be emailed directly by the referee to reference@aficana.rutgers.edu – the applicant's name should appear in the subject line.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6048

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

American Politics (Assistant or Associate Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for one full-time tenure track professor in the field of American Politics, beginning August of 2020. Our goal is to hire the strongest candidate available who is doing interesting and important scholarly research on American politics, including but not limited to political behavior, political institutions, identity politics, American political development, and/or American political thought.

This position is at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor. Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, this faculty member would be expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate actively in departmental activities.

Successful candidates will have completed their Ph.D. degree in Political Science by August 1, 2020.

The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30, 2019; however, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, complete curriculum vitae, two publications or papers, course syllabi and summary of teaching evaluations, and have at least three letters of recommendation forwarded to us. All application materials should be submitted online to the attention of Lauren M. MacLean, Department Chair, Department of Political Science at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/8344>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to Jessica Williams at 812-855-1209; email: jee-willi@indiana.edu; Department of Political Science, 210 Woodburn Hall, 1100 E. Seventh Street, Indiana University-Bloomington, Bloomington, Indiana, 47405-7110.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6045

St. Lawrence University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics. The successful candidate will teach in the area of Congress or race & ethnic politics. Secondary areas of expertise are welcomed in public policy, state and local politics, or American political thought. The candidate will be prepared to teach courses in their areas of expertise as well as an introductory course on American Politics. The position begins August 2020 and the teaching load is three courses per semester. Strong ABD candidates in Political Science or related field required; candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in-hand by August 2020 preferred.

Interested applicants must apply online at <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1954> by uploading all required materials which are defined in the "special instructions to applicant" section. Review of applications will begin on October 8, 2019. Questions about the position may be sent to Dr. Grace Huang (ghuang@stlawu.edu), Search Chair.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive, Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/8/2019

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6042

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Public Policy and/or American Behavioral Politics

The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Public Policy and/or American Behavioral Politics beginning August 2020. As a Carnegie R1 university, we seek scholars with a strong research agenda in either of these specializations to help grow the prestige of our department. The successful candidate will help to continue UTEP's strong tradition of providing under-represented students with access to a quality education and facilitating their success in professional careers. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in Public Policy and/or American Behavioral Politics. The ability to teach courses in research methods (graduate and undergraduate) is desirable. Our needs in Public Policy (American or Comparative) are broad and can include a focus in one or more areas (urban and regional planning, health policy, political economy, and policy analysis, etc). Our needs in American Behavioral Politics are also broad and can include a focus in one or more areas (citizen decision-making, public opinion, media and politics, voting behavior, and race/gender and politics, etc.). A strong record of peer-reviewed publications will ultimately be required for tenure.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related field. ABD applicants near completion will be considered. The degree must be completed by the time of appointment. Candidates must show promise of excellence in research and teaching to be considered; evidence of excellence in research and teaching is preferred.

Salary: Competitive and commensurate with experience.

About UTEP and El Paso: Set against the backdrop of the Franklin Mountains in the Chihuahuan Desert, The University of Texas at El Paso is located along the U.S.–Mexico border in one of the world's largest binational communities. UTEP's award-winning, sustainably designed campus landscape and unique Bhutanese architecture create an energizing and tranquil oasis in the bustling El Paso–Juárez metroplex of 2.7 million residents. El Paso is a highly livable, bicultural community of almost 700,000 people that offers affordable homes and attractive neighborhoods. It has consistently been named among the safest large U.S. cities. El Paso experiences almost 300 days of sunshine annually, and residents enjoy outdoor activities year-round. The City of El Paso is adjacent to the state of New Mexico and the country of Mexico, making it an ideal venue for academic programs and research studies on topics of national interest, such as bilingual education/language acquisition, border environment and immigration, environmental sustainability and infrastructure, health disparities, and international trade and commerce.

Application Procedure: The deadline for applications is October 21, 2019 and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. Interested individuals must submit a curriculum vita, letter of interest, graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching quality (sample syllabi/statement of teaching philosophy), article/chapter length writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please contact Dr. Todd A. Curry by email (tacurry@utep.edu) for questions about the position.

To apply, please visit <https://www.utep.edu/employment>
Hiring decisions are subject to final budget approval.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/21/2019

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6009

Baylor University

Rank: Regular Lecturer

Specializations: Urban Politics, African American Politics, Latino Politics

Baylor University is a private Christian university and a nationally ranked research institution, consistently listed with highest honors among The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Great Colleges to Work For." The University is recruiting new faculty with a deep commitment to excellence in teaching, research and scholarship. Baylor seeks faculty who share in our aspiration to become a tier one research institution while strengthening our distinctive Christian mission as described in our strategic vision, Pro Futuris, (www.baylor.edu/profuturis/) and academic strategic plan, Illuminate (baylor.edu/illuminate). As the world's largest Baptist University, Baylor offers over 40 doctoral programs and has more than 17,000 students from all 50 states and more than 85 countries.

Baylor seeks to fill the following regular lecturer faculty position within the College of Arts and Sciences:

Regular Lecturer

The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for the position of regular lecturer in American politics. This position emphasizes excellent teaching, although scholarly productivity is appreciated and ability to generate external grants is recognized. The department is interested in applicants from all fields of American politics, with an ability to teach urban politics, minority and ethnic group politics, and American public law considered very important. Applicants may also contribute to the flourishing MA and PhD programs and to the direction of the undergraduate public service internship program in the department. Review of applications will begin as they are received, and to assure full consideration applications should arrive by November 15, 2019. This position will remain open until filled.

Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of American politics. Please submit a letter of application, a current CV, official transcripts showing the highest degree conferred, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. All applications are to be submitted on Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/67312>

To learn more about the above position, the College of Arts and Sciences, and Baylor University, please visit the appropriate URL: www.baylor.edu/political_science or www.baylor.edu/hr/facultypositions.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6040

Princeton University

Rank: Garwood Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. The Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Visiting Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12907> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6036

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2020 to September 1, 2021, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on outstanding performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12905> (link is external)

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)

Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6038

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12906> (link is external). A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
 - * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
 - * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
 - * contact information for two references;
 - * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.
- For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6037

California State University, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position:

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Political Science with focus on Public Law

Starting Date:

August, 2020

Minimum Qualifications:

- 1) An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in Political Science from an accredited institution (or equivalent) is required; however, applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered. For appointment, the doctorate must be completed by the date of appointment (8/20/2020).
- 2) Evidence of teaching and research experience in one or more of the following areas: civil rights & civil liberties, constitutional law, immigration law, international law, legal advocacy, and/or judicial behavior.
- 3) Evidence of successful teaching experience at the undergraduate level.
- 4) Documented record of scholarship in political science, especially public law.

Preferred Qualifications:

- 1) Evidence of successful teaching experience at the graduate level.
- 2) Evidence of engaging students in scholarly activities.
- 3) Evidence of experience successfully teaching American government.

Duties:

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching, research, scholarship and/or creative activity, and service to the University, profession and to the community. These responsibilities generally include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions.

The successful candidate will be committed to the academic success of all of our students and to an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates diversity and differences. To this end, the successful candidate will work effectively, respectfully, and collaboratively in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings. In addition, the successful candidate will be ready to join faculty, staff, students, and administrators in our University's shared commitment to the principles of engagement, service, and the public good.

Salary:

Initial salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University:

California State University, Los Angeles (Cal State LA) is one of 23 campuses within the California State University system. The University is the premier comprehensive public university in the heart of Los Angeles. Cal State LA is ranked number one in the U.S. for the upward mobility of its students, and is dedicated to engagement, service, and the public good. We offer nationally recognized programs in science, the arts, business, criminal justice, engineering, nursing, education, ethnic studies, and the humanities. Our faculty have a strong commitment to scholarship, research, creative pursuits, community engagement, and service.

Our 240,000 alumni reflect the City and County's dynamic mix of populations. The University has one of the most diverse student populations of any college or university in the nation. As a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution, and Asian-American, Native American, and Pacific Islander-Serving Institution, Cal State LA recognizes the transformative power of education and embraces its duty to identify and serve the needs of all of its students. The University is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can live, work and learn in an atmosphere of civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual.

The Department/Division/School:

The Department of Political Science at Cal State LA is housed in the College of Natural and Social Sciences, with student enrollment at 6000 distributed throughout 15 departments. The Department consists of ten full time faculty with teaching and research interests in public administration, public law, American government, political theory, comparative politics, and global politics. Faculty are active scholars, as well as innovative teachers, that advise and engage students in civic and scholarly activities. Faculty value diversity and participate in University shared governance. The Department offers three degree programs: Bachelor of Arts in Political Science with general, pre legal, public administration, and global options, Master of Arts in Political Science, and Master of Public Administration.

Required Documentation:

Please submit the following to the Search Committee Chair at the email address below:

- 1) A cover letter specifically addressing minimum and preferred qualifications.
- 2) A curriculum vitae.
- 3) A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of first-generation students.
- 4) A list of three professional references.
- 5) A University Application for Employment Form (www.calstatela.edu/academic/position).

Finalists will be required to submit:

Official transcripts.

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application:

Review of applications will begin September 1, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

Please email all application materials in a single PDF to polisci@calstatela.edu. Please type "Political Science Public Law Tenure-Track Application" in the subject line.

Please address all questions to the search committee chair, Martin J. Adamian at: madamia2@calstatela.edu.

Note: The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6014

Lycoming College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Lycoming College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2020. The successful candidate will be broadly trained to teach both introductory and advanced courses in American politics. Specialization within subfield is open. Lycoming's small, liberal arts environment allows faculty members, as part of their 3-3 teaching load, to create new courses in line with their area of specialization. Candidates with an interest in teaching in the College's interdisciplinary first year seminar program are desired. Candidates should demonstrate a strong promise of teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement, and a serious commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment is essential. Additional duties include advising and mentoring students, as well as service to the department and institution. Ph.D. in political science is preferred, but ABDs in their final stages of completion will be considered and are encouraged to apply.

To Apply:

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, 250-word statement on why they are interested in a liberal arts academic environment, a single-authored writing sample, 3 letters of recommendation, and graduate transcript. Electronic submission of application materials is required (PDF format preferred). Please reference "Assistant Professor of Political Science" in the subject line of the email.

Email: jobs@lycoming.edu

To guarantee full consideration, applications should be submitted by October 1, 2019. Post-offer pre-employment drug screen conducted.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/19/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6004

SUNY, Geneseo

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

You will be impressed by the quality of the Political Science and International Relations Programs at Geneseo. The focus of the department is on analytical sophistication and enabling graduates to think critically about political life in a variety of settings. To learn more about our department visit: https://www.geneseo.edu/political_science

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at SUNYGeneseo is seeking applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin August, 2020. Duties of the position include:

- Teach the American Politics Introductory course, a course on the American Presidency and/or Interest Groups and Social Movements, plus additional upper division courses in American Politics, which could include courses on Women and Politics, Identity Politics, and/or Class-based Politics.
- Establish a program of research and publication in Political Science with a focus on American Politics.
- Contribute to pedagogical and curricular development and management of the Political Science major at Geneseo.
- Provide academic advisement to students.
- Mentor and supervise undergraduate research and other projects.
- Contribute to governance through service at the department and college level.
- Contribute service to the discipline and university.

Our priority is teaching excellence. We seek someone with a strong commitment to teaching in a liberal arts setting and who is prepared to teach both introductory courses and advanced courses in their area of expertise. A commitment to working effectively with students from diverse backgrounds is essential. We also value applicant experience with integrative learning, such as linking academic endeavors with social advocacy or community engagement.

Applicants should be prepared to upload a cover letter, a CV, and additional materials that speak to their teaching effectiveness. The cover letter should address teaching philosophy, interests and plans for establishing a research program. In addition, applicants should be prepared to supply contact information (email address) for three references. References will be contacted and invited to submit letters of recommendation at the time of application.

Please submit materials at jobs.geneseo.edu. Review of completed applications will begin upon receipt.

To be guaranteed consideration, applications must be completed by November 8, 2019. The search committee anticipates conducting initial interviews by telephone/Skype during the week of December 2, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/8/2019

Date Posted: 8/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5979

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Gender Politics & Policy, Labor Politics

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or Ph.D. in appropriate related discipline, with specialization in American Politics. Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2020.
- Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.
- Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.
- Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

- Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Evidence of training in one or more of the following specializations in American politics: political behavior, political institutions, campaigns/elections, public opinion, social movements, state and local politics, or interest groups.
- Ability to connect specific areas of interest with broader questions within political science, such as the impact and intersectional dimensions of economic, racial, ethnic, and gender inequality in American politics and democratic governance.
- Evidence of ability to effectively teach one or more current University course offerings in American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Introduction to American Government; Racial and Ethnic Politics—U.S.; Urban Politics; The Media and American Politics; How Democratic is the U.S.?; Public Opinion and Political Behavior; Public Policy; Parties, Campaigns, and Elections; California Government in Comparative Perspective; Scope and Methods of Political Science; The United States Congress; The American Presidency; Senior Seminar in Law, Politics, and Policy; and Graduate Seminars in Research Methods in Political Science, American Political Institutions, American Political Behavior, and Policy and Politics).
- Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in American politics that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.
- Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.
- Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.
- Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

Duties:

- Teach and develop courses in American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels.
- Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and theses.
- Engage in research leading to conference participation and publications.
- Participate in faculty governance.
- Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

Information on excellent benefits package available to CSULB faculty is located here:

<https://www2.calstate.edu/csu-system/careers/benefits/Documents/cfa-unit-3-benefits-summary.pdf>

How to Apply - Required Documentation:

- An Equity and Diversity Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (maximum two pages, single-spaced). For further information and guidelines, please visit: <http://www.csulb.edu/EquityDiversityStatement>
- Letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications
- CV (including current email address)
- Three recent academic letters of recommendation
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations
- Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree
- Finalists will also be required to submit the following:
 - 1) A signed SC-1 form,
 - 2) Three current letters of recommendation independently provided by references, and
 - 3) An official transcript (e-transcript preferred, if available)

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through: <https://AcademicJobsOnline.org>

Position ID:

CSULB-PoliticalScience-ASSTPROFESSOR [#13761, 2579]

Upon request, finalists will be required to submit original, official documents, as noted in the required documentation section.

Requests for information should be addressed to:

Darin DeWitt, Associate Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605
(562) 985-4711
darin.dewitt@csulb.edu

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2019
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5974

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, American Politics and Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Housing, Education Policy, Criminal Justice

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate professor in American politics and public policy, with an emphasis on political institutions and the policy making process, to begin July 1, 2020.

All applicants must have a PhD in the area of Political Science, Public Policy, or a related policy discipline conferred by the time of appointment. Please note that we are searching at both the junior and tenured levels. Successful candidates will have demonstrated research and teaching interests in American political institutions and policy-making. While we encourage applications from scholars studying all areas of Public Policy, GPS has particular interest in Health, Education, Criminal Justice, Transportation, or Housing Policy.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including reference information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at:

Assistant Professor: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02210>

Associate Professor: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02211>

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5965

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Political Institutions

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in American political institutions for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2020. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2019. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 15, 2019, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August, 2020.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), a diversity statement, and three letters of reference electronically at apply.interfolio.com/66541.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5962

William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American politics / behavior)

The Department of Government at William & Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics with specialty in political behavior. Appointment will begin August 10, 2020. Within political behavior, we are especially interested in candidates with interests in racial or ethnic politics, or the politics of inclusion. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time appointment begins (August 10, 2020).

Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching quantitative research methods (including political polling and survey methods), racial or ethnic politics, or the politics of inclusion is preferred.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, a writing sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted by the system with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 16, 2019. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Government is one of the largest majors on campus. Our faculty receive support from various research centers on campus, and we contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Data Science, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies, International Relations, Public Health, and Public Policy. William & Mary is convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/16/2019

Date Posted: 8/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5960

Drake University

Rank: Department Chair

The Department of Political Science at Drake University seeks to recruit an exceptional scholar for a tenured position at the rank of associate professor who can provide effective and visionary leadership as the Chair of the Department of Political Science. We are particularly interested in candidates with research and teaching interests in American public policy. Teaching responsibilities include the introductory American Politics course and upper level courses covering domestic public policy (process and theory), policy analysis, and topics consistent with the individual's research specialization. Chairs serve three-year terms, with the possibility of renewal, and have their teaching load reduced from the standard 3-3 load.

Drake is a private, comprehensive, coeducational institution located in Des Moines, Iowa, the fastest growing city in the Midwest and the state capital of Iowa. Drake is a hub of political activity during the Iowa caucuses and offers exceptional opportunities for experiential learning, student engagement, and scholarship on policy formulation and discourse in local, state, and national contexts. We are an equal-opportunity employer (EEO) dedicated to building a diverse and pluralistic community and strongly encourage applications from all qualified applicants. We are excited to welcome colleagues who will provide support for and work effectively with individuals and groups from diverse backgrounds. The Department consists of 7 full-time faculty members and offers majors in both politics and international relations. Information about the department can be found at: <https://www.drake.edu/polsci/>

Salary is competitive with peer schools and dependent on qualifications and experience. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2019. To apply, go to <https://drake.hiretouch.com/> and submit a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, the names of three references, evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a statement on teaching philosophy, a writing sample and a diversity statement.

Questions may be directed to the search committee chair Arthur Sanders at arthur.sanders@drake.edu. If you plan on being at APSA in Washington, please contact the search committee chair ahead of time to arrange an informal conversation about the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/8/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5942

Boston University

Rank: Part-Time Lecturer, Spring 2020

Specializations: Presidency, Congress, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks a part time, adjunct faculty to teach one undergraduate lecture courses in Spring 2020, in the general theme of American Political Institutions. The courses may focus on any specific branch (presidency, congress, the courts). Applicants should be ABD or hold a PhD in a relevant field. Please send a resume, letter of interest, and the names of three references to Neta Crawford, Department Chair, Political Science, Boston University, by 30 September, 2019. Email - politicschair@bu.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5932

University of Wisconsin, La Crosse

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

The University of Wisconsin-La Crosse invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor beginning August 2020 in the Department of Political Science and Public Administration. Preference will be given to applicants with research and teaching interests in American Politics, with an emphasis in political behavior, political participation, public opinion, and/or the politics of gender, race, and class. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to teaching excellence, including dynamic, inclusive, and engaging classroom practices. The position will also include advising responsibilities, and the potential for directing undergraduate research projects, teaching lower and upper level research methods courses, and teaching the capstone seminar. In addition to teaching excellence and scholarly productivity, the Department also places a high value on service to the University and wider community.

The 11-member department offers undergraduate majors and minors in both Political Science and Public Administration and offers courses that serve interdisciplinary minors in Ethnic and Racial Studies; International Studies; International Business; Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies; Criminal Justice; and Environmental Studies. The department also collaborates with the university's Secondary Teacher Education Preparation (STEP) Program. The usual teaching load is three preparations and four (3 credit) courses per semester, two of which will be Political Science upper division courses and two of which will be the General Education course American National Government.

Candidates for the appointment should have completed or be near to completing a doctorate in Political Science by the start date. If a doctorate is not yet earned, it must be earned by the first personnel review, no later than May 15, 2021.

For additional information about this position and to apply, please visit <https://employment.uwlax.edu/>. Complete application materials must be submitted online, and will include: 1. a cover letter, with a description about how you envision yourself contributing to the department's American Government offerings; 2. a curriculum vitae; and 3. the names, email addresses and phone numbers for three academic references.

Applicant review will begin October 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Note: Electronic submission of application materials is required. For additional information about this position and to apply, please visit <https://employment.uwlax.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/6/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5907

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Race & Ethnic Politics, Political Psychology

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in American Politics. We are interested in candidates with expertise in legislatures, institutions, race and politics, political behavior, and political psychology.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/66085>

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2019, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/6/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5903

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Junior Faculty Position

The UCLA Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin on July 1, 2020. We are particularly eager to consider applicants who specialize in American Politics and related fields. In addition, we will consider especially strong applicants working in other fields (including comparative politics, international relations, methods, political theory, and racial/ethnic politics). Pending administrative approval, we will also consider applicants at the rank of Associate Professor.

UCLA and the UCLA Department of Political Science are firmly committed to the principles of equity, diversity, and inclusion. Therefore, we ask each applicant to submit with their application a statement that addresses their past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service.

The online application should include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a statement of research interests, the aforementioned diversity statement, evidence of teaching excellence in related courses, at least one writing sample, a graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. The letters of recommendation should be uploaded directly by the referees. Appointments will be effective on July 1, 2020. A PhD in Political Science or related field should be in hand prior to the appointment. To ensure full consideration, the online application should be completed by September 16, 2019. Applications will be accepted, however, until the position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy, see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Where to Apply: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF04796>

Department Contact: Evelyn Godinez at egodinez@polisci.ucla.edu

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5909

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor-Political Science-American Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (LAS) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) invites applications for the position of tenure track Assistant Professor in political science, with specialization in any aspect of American politics, beginning in the 2020-2021 academic year, subject to budgetary approval. The department has a variety of needs in American politics, especially in institutions. The successful candidate will complement and augment the current faculty's substantive expertise.

Assistant professors are expected to teach two (2) courses per semester at the undergraduate and/or graduate level, as assigned by the department head. They are also expected to maintain a consistent record of high-quality academic research and publication, provide service to the department and the profession, and contribute to the intellectual life of the department.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or a related discipline in hand (or be very near completion), and to provide evidence of the ability to maintain a research agenda and a commitment to excellence in teaching.

To apply, complete an on-line application, including the names and email addresses for three or more references, and upload full curriculum vitae, two writing samples totaling no more than 100 pages, and a cover letter that summarizes candidate's research and teaching qualifications at <https://jobs.uic.edu/job-board>. Questions about the position can be directed to Prof. Christopher Mooney, at cmoon1@uic.edu, the chair of the search committee. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 11, 2019. For fullest consideration, applications should be completed by that date. The position will remain open until filled.

UIC is a Carnegie Doctoral/Research I institution (Highest Research Activity), located in the heart of the City of Chicago and one of the nation's largest metropolitan areas. It is a comprehensive public university with a diverse student body of more than 30,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. UIC is federally recognized by the US Department of Education as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI).

The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer, dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, and covered veterans. The University of Illinois may conduct background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 5899

Oberlin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Congress, Presidency, American Politics

The Oberlin College Politics Department invites applications for a non-continuing position for Spring semester 2020 in American national political institutions (other than the courts). Appointment to this position will be for one semester and will carry the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor depending on the qualifications of the candidate.

The Politics Department has thirteen full-time faculty positions and approximately 120 junior and senior majors. Information about the Department can be found at our web site: <http://www.oberlin.edu/politics/>

We seek candidates with teaching and research interests in America's main national political institutions other than the courts, namely Congress, the Presidency and/or related institutions (e.g., bureaucracy, interest groups). The incumbent will teach three courses in the general area of American politics and American political institutions (other than the courts).

Among the qualifications required for this appointment is the Ph.D. degree in hand or in progress (ABD). Candidates must demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Successful teaching experience at the college level is desirable.

Compensation - Within the range established for this position, salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience and includes an excellent benefits package.

To be assured of consideration, a letter of application, which includes a statement of research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, graduate academic transcript, a short writing sample, evidence of teaching experience, and three recent letters of reference should be sent by October 15, 2019. Application materials received after that date may be considered until the position is filled. Salary will depend on qualifications and experience.

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/postings/7934>.

All application materials must be submitted electronically through Oberlin College and Conservatory's online application process at: <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/>

*By providing three (3) Professional References (names and email addresses), you agree that we may contact them through our applicant web portal. Reference writers will be asked to submit an electronic Letter of Recommendation on behalf of the applicant. Please note: At this time we are unable to accept Letters of Recommendation from an Interfolio email address.

Finalists will be required to have official graduate academic transcripts submitted to Oberlin College directly by the degree granting institution.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by the October 15th deadline will be guaranteed full consideration.

Address questions about applicant materials to the chair of the search committee, Professor Stephen Crowley scrowley@oberlin.edu

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5654

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor in Economic, Racial/Ethnic, and/or Gender Inequality

Subfield(s): Open, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics

Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Position – Advertisement
Department of Political Science at The University of Tennessee

Economic Racial/Ethnic and/or Gender Inequality

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in economic, racial/ethnic, and/or gender inequality, to begin Fall 2020. The position is open with regard to field in Political Science (or related discipline) and methodological approach. We welcome applications from scholars across the discipline who analyze how political actors, processes, institutions, outcomes or individuals are racialized, classed, and/or gendered and/or who take intersectional approaches to understanding these questions. We are particularly interested in applicants with substantive research agendas that grapple with challenging issues of marginalization and exclusion and who exhibit a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The successful candidate must have strong research skills and a theoretically motivated research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: polisci.utk.edu. Faculty within the department are also associated with a variety of interdisciplinary programs and working groups across the university, including but not limited to the Critical Race Collective; the Global Studies program; the Intersectionality Community of Scholars; and the Women, Gender, and Sexuality program.

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded via Interfolio. Please submit application material in digital format via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/66902>. Review of applications begins October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Jana Morgan at janamorgan@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5864

North Central College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at North Central College seeks candidates for a tenure-track position in political science with emphasis in public law, judicial politics, law and society, or comparative law to begin Fall 2020. Ph.D. must be in hand by August 1, 2020. Our department is committed to preparing students to contribute meaningfully to a democracy, while at the same time understanding the nuance of political equality and civic participation. We value diversity and are committed to social justice, equity, and inclusiveness. Experience working with historically marginalized and underserved communities will be weighed in a candidate's favor.

Applicants should have teaching experience and show potential for excellence in undergraduate teaching and scholarship. In addition to teaching courses in law (Introduction to Law, Constitutional Law, Civil Rights and Liberties), a candidate should be prepared to teach the introductory course in American government and contribute to the department's methodology courses. The department expects that the successful candidate will also develop courses in their areas of expertise. There will be additional opportunities for the successful candidate to contribute to North Central's tradition of interdisciplinary learning.

Founded in 1861, North Central College is a selective, comprehensive liberal arts institution of about 3000 students, located 28 miles west of Chicago in Naperville. The College is in a period of growth with the addition of a $60 million Science Center opened in March 2017. The college is within walking distance of the Naperville Metra station and is next to downtown Naperville. The Naperville area is home to many excellent school districts and Naperville, IL has been ranked as one of the best places to live by Money magazine. For more information, please visit: <http://www.noctrl.edu>.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of scholarly interest, evidence of teaching effectiveness and three letters of recommendation in an electronic format.

To apply on line copy and paste link below into browser: <https://northcentralcollege.peopleadmin.com/postings/6584>

For further information, please email Dr. William Muck, Chair of Political Science, at wjmuck@noctrl.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 16, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5857

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

The Center on American Politics focuses broadly on issues related to modern American political concerns, including representation, democratic engagement, electoral behavior, and the health of governing institutions. The position is open to a broad range of research specialties involving the study of American politics.

Position Summary

The Center on American Politics at the University of Denver invites applicants for a post-doctoral fellow position. The appointment will be for two years beginning September 1, 2020. The post-doctoral fellow will receive a competitive annual stipend and have access to a $10,000 annual research account. The fellow will be expected to participate in several Center events and to give a presentation to faculty and students about the fellow's research efforts.

More information on the Center on American Politics can be found at <http://www.du.edu/americanpolitics/index.html>.

Essential Functions

- Conduct scholarly research on phenomena associated with American politics with an eye toward producing manuscripts publishable in peer reviewed journals or academic presses.
- Interact with other University faculty in areas related to their research.
- Present research at talks and lunches, and attend presentations of other scholars in their research area.

Required Qualifications

- ABD or Ph.D. in political science or related field with research focus related to American politics.

Work Schedule

- To be coordinated with Director of Center on American Politics.

Application Deadline

- Priority will be given to applications received by 5:00 p.m. (MDT) on November 1, 2019, but will consider applications until the position is filled.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through <http://jobs.du.edu/cw/en-us/job/492504/postdoctoral-research-associate-center-on-american-politics> to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions about this position, please contact Dr. Seth Masket at Seth.Masket@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

- CV
- Letter of interest describing research agenda
- Sample of written work (e.g., chapter from dissertation or book, peer-reviewed article).
- Inclusive excellence statement (The separate inclusive excellence statement should be a succinct description of how the candidate's research, teaching, and/or service contributes to inclusive excellence and involves effective interaction with members of historically underrepresented communities. See <http://www.du.edu/cme/resources/inclusive-excellence.html> for more details.).
- At least two letters of recommendation.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5810

Centre College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Race & Ethnic Politics

Centre College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Politics with expertise in American public law. We seek teacher-scholars that demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at a nationally-ranked liberal arts college. Ideal candidates should be able to teach a combination of introductory and upper level courses in American politics and public law, including courses focused on the American legal system, Constitutional law/interpretation, civil liberties, civil rights, and other related topics. We are especially interested in candidates with specializations at the intersection of race, ethnicity, gender, and/or sexuality and American public law. This candidate will serve as the institution's pre-law faculty advisor and previous experience with applied legal practice/education is desirable.

At Centre College, a six-course teaching load is typically divided between two long semesters (five courses divided between fall and spring) and a three-week winter term (one course). Candidates must have a Ph.D. or J.D. by the time of appointment, although a Ph.D. is preferred. Applications from A.B.D. candidates will be considered. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience with and enjoy teaching, mentoring, and creating inclusive environments where all students can thrive.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,450 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. For information concerning the college, visit our website at <http://www.centre.edu>. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati.

To apply, please submit the following materials by September 15, 2019: a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, materials demonstrating teaching effectiveness, three confidential letters of recommendation, and transcripts. In addition, please include a diversity statement explaining how you would contribute to and/or address the issues of diversity and inclusion at Centre. The letter of application must include a statement addressing the candidate's experience and goals as a teacher/scholar in the liberal arts model. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2019.

Applications can be submitted via the Interfolio portal at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/65555>

Centre College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Centre College is a proud member of the Greater Kentucky Higher Education Recruitment Consortium: <http://www.greaterkyherc.org>. The Greater Kentucky HERC is a non-profit organization composed of a diverse group of colleges, universities, hospitals, government agencies, non-profit organizations, and members of private industry committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse, talented workforce. Member representatives include faculty, staff, human resources professionals, institutional leaders, and faculty relations experts.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/15/2019

Date Posted: 7/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5787

Centre College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Presidency, Congress, Quantitative Methods

Centre College invites applications for a Two-Year Visiting Assistant Professor in Politics with expertise in American and comparative political institutions. We seek teacher-scholars that demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at a nationally-ranked liberal arts college.

Candidates may specialize in either American or comparative politics as their primary field but must have a strong secondary specialization in the other. Ideal candidates should be able to teach courses on U.S. political institutions (Congress, Presidency, state and local politics, e.g.) as well as equivalent global political institutions. This candidate must also be able to teach courses on quantitative data analysis and contribute to the major's political research curricular track. Previous work with applied politics (campaigns, data analytics, journalism, e.g.) and/or a research focus on the intersection of race, ethnicity, gender, or sexuality and political institutions is desirable.

At Centre College, a six-course teaching load is typically divided between two long semesters (five courses divided between fall and spring) and a three-week winter term (one course). Candidates must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment. Applications from A.B.D. candidates will be considered. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience with and enjoy teaching, mentoring, and creating inclusive environments where all students can thrive.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,450 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. For information concerning the college, visit our website at <http://www.centre.edu>. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati.

To apply, please submit the following materials by October 1, 2019: a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, materials demonstrating teaching effectiveness, three confidential letters of recommendation, and transcripts. In addition, please include a diversity statement explaining how you would contribute to and/or address the issues of diversity and inclusion at Centre. The letter of application must include a statement addressing the candidate's experience and goals as a teacher/scholar in the liberal arts model. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019.

Applications can be submitted via the Interfolio portal here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/65567>

Centre College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is a proud member of the Greater Kentucky Higher Education Recruitment Consortium: <http://www.greaterkyherc.org>. The Greater Kentucky HERC is a non-profit organization composed of a diverse group of colleges, universities, hospitals, government agencies, non-profit organizations, and members of private industry committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse, talented workforce. Member representatives include faculty, staff, human resources professionals, institutional leaders, and faculty relations experts.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5788

University of Redlands

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on Race and Ethnic Politics and Policy. The department encourages applicants from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position, and applicants are required to submit evidence of their strengths and experience in these areas.

The standard six-course load for the position will be distributed across fall and spring semesters and May Term according to the candidate's interests and departmental needs. Primary teaching responsibilities for our undergraduate program include Introduction to American Politics, and courses in race and ethnic politics. The ability to teach Introduction to Public Policy is preferred. Candidates may also offer courses that support various interdisciplinary programs at the university. We welcome teacher-scholars interested in policy areas such as welfare, housing, civil rights, immigration, and urban and regional policy.

The University of Redlands is committed to increasing the diversity of the university community and the curriculum. Candidates are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in working with students who have diverse cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds to accomplish curricular goals.

The University of Redlands is a private, comprehensive liberal arts institution located 60 miles east of Los Angeles in a suburban town of 70,000. The campus is surrounded by orange groves and sits at the base of the San Bernardino Mountains, approximately 60 miles from the coast and 40 miles west of Palm Springs. Information about the University and its mission and facilities is available at www.redlands.edu.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Applications received by October 15 are assured consideration, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

POSITION CRITERIA: A Ph.D. in Political Science by September 2020 is preferred. Evidence of success at college teaching and an ability to work in a collaborative, team-based environment are preferred.

INQUIRIES: Candidates may contact the search committee chair, Renée Van Vechten, at renee_vanvechten@redlands.edu with additional questions or concerns. Members of the department will be available to meet with candidates at the 2019 annual meeting of the American Political Science Association.

TO APPLY: Please submit the following materials using the Academic Jobs Online website at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo>: a cover letter, current CV, evidence of teaching and research excellence, and three letters of reference.

In compliance with The Americans with Disability Act, if selected for the interview process and accommodations are needed, please call (909) 748-8040.

SUBMISSION OF A RESUME OR APPLICATION INDICATES AGREEMENT THAT THE UNIVERSITY MAY VERIFY ANY AND ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED THEREIN. MEMBERS OF UNDERREPRESENTED GROUPS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY. AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 7/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5786

California State University, San Bernardino

Rank: Assistant Professor, Constitutional Law and American Politics

POSITION: Assistant Professor

START DATE: August 17, 2020

SALARY: Dependent on qualifications and expertise

APPLICATION DEADLINE: November 1, 2019

SUBFIELD: Constitutional Law and American Politics

RANK AND QUALIFICATIONS: Tenure-track Assistant Professor. Candidates must hold Ph.D. at time of employment and demonstrate evidence of teaching and research promise.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

The Department of Political Science at California State University, San Bernardino seeks applicants for a tenure-track position with primary expertise in the fields of Constitutional Law, including civil liberties and civil rights, and American Politics, including political institutions and public policy, to begin August, 2020. A Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. We expect successful candidates for this tenure-track position to teach courses in Constitutional Law and American Politics. The successful candidate will teach a variety of upper-division courses in these and related areas of specialization and also teach lower-division American Government courses. In addition, the candidate may be asked to teach graduate courses. The successful candidate will produce scholarly research and provide service to the university and community.

California State University, San Bernardino (CSUSB) is located in San Bernardino in the Inland Empire, 60 miles east of Los Angeles and operates a satellite campus in Palm Desert located in Coachella Valley. CSUSB serves approximately 20,000 students, of which 81% are first-generation college students, and graduates about 5,000 students annually. As a designated Hispanic Serving Institution, CSUSB reflects the dynamic diversity of the region and has one of the most diverse student populations of any university in the Inland Empire, and the second highest Hispanic enrollment of all public universities in California. CSUSB employs 467 full-time faculty and offers 48 undergraduate, 35 graduate, and 1 doctoral degree programs and 14 academic programs with national accreditation.

At CSUSB, diversity, equity and inclusion are values central to our mission. We recognize that diversity and inclusion in all its forms are necessary for our institutional success. By fully leveraging our diverse experiences, backgrounds and insights, we inspire innovation, challenge the status quo and create better outcomes for our students and community. As part of CSUSB's commitment to hire, develop and retain a diverse faculty, we offer a variety of networking, mentoring and development programs for our junior faculty. We are committed to building and sustaining a CSUSB community that is supportive and inclusive of all individuals. Qualified applicants with experience in ethnically diverse settings and/or who demonstrate a commitment to serving diverse student populations are strongly encouraged to apply.

TYPICAL ACTIVITIES:

Preferred candidates will be expected to meet the traditional requirements of excellence in teaching, active scholarly and professional work, and service to the university and community.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring a diverse student population and to working effectively with faculty, staff and students across a wide range of disciplines.

In addition, new faculty are encouraged to develop and participate in activities that support the University's strategic plan. This plan emphasizes: a) student success; b) faculty and staff success; c) stewarding resources; d) community engagement and partnerships; and, e) enhancing campus identity. CSUSB's Strategic Plan is available at <https://www.csusb.edu/strategic-plan>.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by time of appointment.

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION:

To assure full consideration, application materials are due by November 1, 2019.

To apply please submit the following required documents:

- 1) Curriculum Vitae
- 2) Letter of application that includes:
 - a. A statement of your teaching philosophy.
 - b. A statement of your research experience and goals.
 - c. A statement of how you might contribute to CSUSB's Strategic Plan areas.
- 3) Evidence of teaching effectiveness such as teaching portfolios, reports on teaching observations, and/or student evaluations of teaching (if available).
- 4) Unofficial copies of all postsecondary degree transcripts (official transcripts will be required prior to appointment).
- 5) Reference List - names, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three referees whom we may contact to obtain letters of recommendation.
- 6) A Diversity Statement, which may include your interpretation of diversity, equity, and inclusion, and must include specific examples of how your background and your educational and/or professional experiences have prepared you for this role at California State University, San Bernardino (maximum 1,000 words).

Formal review of applications will begin on November 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Information regarding CSUSB's Department of Political Science can be found at <https://csbs.csusb.edu/political-science>. If you are interested in this opportunity, we invite you to apply at: <https://www.governmentjobs.com/careers/csusb/jobs/2495455>.

Salary is commensurate with experience.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

California State University, San Bernardino is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status. This position adheres to CSU policies against Sex Discrimination, Sexual Harassment, and Sexual Violence, including Domestic Violence, Dating Violence, and Stalking. This requires completion of Sexual Violence Prevention Training within 6 months of assuming employment and on a two-year basis thereafter. (Executive Order 1096 - Revised July 21, 2017)

This position may be "Designated" under California State University's Conflict of Interest Code. This would require the filing of a Statement of Economic Interest on an annual basis and the completion of training within 6 months of assuming office and every 2 years thereafter. Visit the Human Resources Conflict of Interest web page link for additional information: <http://hrd.csusb.edu/conflictInterest.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5763

University of Missouri, St. Louis

Rank: Nonprofit Management and American Politics

The University of Missouri-St. Louis invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in the areas of Nonprofit Management & Leadership and in American Politics. The ability to teach a graduate course in quantitative methods is desirable. The person filling this position will have an appointment in the Political Science department and the NASPAA-accredited Public Policy Administration program within Political Science. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Nonprofit Management, Public Administration, Political Science, or a closely related field by the date of the appointment, August 15, 2020.

We seek an active scholar oriented to research and publication, high-quality teaching and community engagement. The department is also interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests respect and integrate a variety of methodological approaches. The normal teaching load, assuming an active research agenda, is two courses per semester. Salary is competitive.

The Department of Political Science

The mission of the Department of Political Science is to promote greater understanding of politics, government, and public policy by creating new knowledge, bringing new perspectives to existing knowledge, and disseminating scholarship to students and to the regional, national, and global communities. We offer a BA, an MA and a PhD in Political Science, a BA in International Relations, and a BS and a Master's in Public Policy Administration. Our department has a special responsibility to anchor our community with objective knowledge, civility, empathy, and democratic engagement; faculty work with UMSL's Community Innovation and Action Center and with community organizations.

The department maintains a high, steady level of quality publication of peer reviewed books, articles and chapters. The UMSL Political Science faculty rank about in the top ten percent of faculty in peer departments in all Public and Carnegie R-2 universities. The department also emphasizes first-rate teaching, and faculty have received numerous teaching awards. UMSL Political Scientists are very active, very visible representatives of the campus who are actively engaged in our community. The department's long-standing commitment to inclusion is reflected in the diversity of its faculty, students, and curriculum.

The University of Missouri–St. Louis

Established in 1963 in suburban St. Louis, UMSL is the largest public university in eastern Missouri with a current enrollment of over 16,000 in day and evening sessions. This metropolitan research and teaching institution is consistently recognized for its strong programs across disciplines, and it is considered a primary driver of the St. Louis economy, providing industries with educated and capable employees and leaders. UMSL is committed to meeting the diverse needs in the state's largest metropolitan community and, accordingly, is educating traditional and nontraditional students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs so they are prepared to be leaders in health professions; liberal and fine arts; science and technology; and in metropolitan and international affairs such as business, education and public policy. UMSL is a leader in partnerships with key institutions in the St. Louis Region. Alliances and programs have resulted from collaborations with the Missouri Botanical Garden, Saint Louis Zoo, St. Louis Science Center, Danforth Plant Science Center, and many others.

UMSL is one of four institutions in the University of Missouri land-grant system and is classified as RU-H (high research activity) and as a Community Engaged Campus by Carnegie rankings. Both the campus and the College of Arts and Science are committed to an inclusive campus community that values and respects all its members and achieves educational excellence through diversity. We encourage applications from individuals from diverse and minority backgrounds, including individuals with disabilities and veterans. For further information about UMSL, please see: <http://www.umsl.edu/proud/index.html>.

The Search Process

Applicants must apply online at www.umsl.jobs and submit a cover letter outlining qualifications and interests, and a CV. Applicants also should arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent to David Robertson, Chair, Department of Political Science, One University Blvd., St. Louis, MO, 63121. Review of applications will begin on October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Anticipated start date is August 15, 2020. Inquiries and nominations for the position can be sent to David Robertson (daverobertson@umsl.edu). The University of Missouri-St. Louis is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5757

University of Georgia

Rank: Philip H. Alston, Jr. Distinguished Chair

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications and nominations for the Philip H. Alston Jr. Distinguished Chair in any substantive area of American politics, methodology, or theory. The start date is slated for August 2020.

Duties include teaching and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate student levels and the publishing of original research in professional outlets. Salary is appropriate for an esteemed chaired position. The appointment also includes a substantial endowment for research and development.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or allied field is required. A distinguished record of academic scholarship and of grant-supported research and a standing in political science and the social sciences commensurate with a distinguished university professorship are expected. Leadership roles in the discipline, whether within a university or in the discipline broadly construed, are preferred.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, and a list of the names of at least five references. References will only be contacted if a candidate reaches the short list. Materials should be submitted to the UGA job site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/99240>.

For more information about the department, visit <http://spia.uga.edu/department-of-political-science/>. Athens is well known for its quality of life, including both outdoor and urban activities, and is conveniently located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia (UGA), a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education (<http://www.uga.edu/>). UGA is currently ranked among the top 15 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 70 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country. UGA employs approximately 1,800 full-time instructional faculty and more than 7,600 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 36,000 students, including over 27,500 undergraduates and over 8,500 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 17 schools and colleges as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

The Department of Political Science is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5739

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics beginning in the fall semester of 2020. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. We seek candidates whose scholarly and teaching interests include race and ethnic politics in the U.S. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in American politics, a course in race and ethnic politics, a course in quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other American politics courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in American politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to: Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 23, 2019.

Candidates who wish to meet for an optional preliminary interview at APSA should email a CV to smeinke@bucknell.edu by August 14 and indicate their expected availability during the conference.

About Bucknell

Founded in 1846 and located along the banks of the Susquehanna River in historic Lewisburg, Pa., Bucknell University is an undergraduate-focused institution that stands uniquely at the intersection of top-ranked liberal arts, engineering and management programs. Our students choose from more than 50 majors and 60 minors in the arts, engineering, humanities, management, and natural and social sciences, as well as extensive global study, service-learning and research opportunities. Bucknell's 3,600 undergraduate and 100 graduate students enjoy a low 9:1 student-faculty ratio and exceptional opportunities to collaborate with faculty mentors.

Bucknell's beautiful 450-acre campus includes first-rate facilities and is home to more than 90 percent of its students. Residential life is vibrant with about 150 student-run organizations, 27 NCAA Division I athletic teams, a robust arts culture, and a strong student commitment to community and global service work.

Bucknell is committed to fostering an environment that embraces diversity, equity and inclusion, and we seek candidates who will contribute to a climate that supports the growth and development of a diverse campus community. The University provides equal opportunity without regard to race, color, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, marital status, veteran status or disability in admissions, employment and in all of its educational programs and activities. We encourage individuals from historically underrepresented groups to apply.

The Community

Located in central Pennsylvania, Lewisburg features a variety of restaurants, beautiful Victorian homes, the restored art deco Campus Theatre (owned by the University), charming shops and boutiques, and the Barnes and Noble at Bucknell University Bookstore. About 33,000 residents live in the region.

The city of Williamsport is about a 30-minute drive from campus, and Penn State University's main campus is about an hour away, as is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's state capital. Bucknell is about three hours from New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

The cost of living here is low compared to that of major U.S. cities and suburbs. Bucknell's surroundings yield fresh produce, cultural activities and events, and many opportunities for outdoor activity on the Susquehanna River and in the nearby state parks and forests. The Lewisburg Area School District receives excellent reviews for its schools at all grade levels. Lewisburg Area High School is consistently ranked among the top 50 high schools in Pennsylvania for SAT scores and statewide exams.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5740

American University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Position Announcement

Assistant/Associate Professor
Department of Government
School of Public Affairs
American University

The School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-line position as the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in American Politics beginning August 1, 2020. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completed by August 2020. Successful candidates will have strong methodological skills. The department is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests extend beyond American politics to comparative politics or methodology and who will further the department's goals of producing high impact research, providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching, and contributing to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 16, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/64438>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and statement of research interests. Applicants at the rank of Assistant Professor should include three letters of recommendation and Associate Professor faculty candidates should include a list of three references. Please email govsearch@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/2/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5735

Bowling Green State University

Rank: Adjunct professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Bowling Green State University seeks applications for possible part-time adjunct teaching positions for the Academic Year 2019-20 and Summer 2020. Successful applicants will teach undergraduate courses in Political Science, Public Administration, and related fields. Graduate teaching is a possibility. MA in Political Science or related field is required; PhD strongly preferred.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and two current (no more than a year old), original letters of reference and official transcripts indicating highest degree. Successful applicants will be required to authorize and pass a background check as a condition of employment. Please send materials to: Adjunct Teaching Committee, Department of Political Science, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH 43403. No email applications will be accepted.

Unless they request otherwise, qualified applicants will also be considered for future adjunct teaching opportunities that may arise

Applications must be received by July 22, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5715

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Amherst College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of race and U.S. politics, with a particular focus on the African-American political experience, beginning July 1, 2020. Amherst College is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff. Within the last decade, Amherst College has profoundly transformed with respect to its student body. Today, nearly one-quarter of Amherst's students are Pell grant recipients; 45 percent of our students identify as domestic students of color; and 10 percent of our students are international students. We expect the successful candidate to excel at teaching and mentoring students who are diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Candidates' scholarship should examine racial politics in the U.S. and can focus on social movements, civil society, elections, civil rights, voter suppression, religion, the racial policies and constituencies of political parties, the relationship between racial and ethnic identity, and racial stratification in urban and local politics.

We seek a colleague with a record that demonstrates high-quality teaching and research, and who is committed to excellence in education at the undergraduate level. Candidates should be comfortable teaching courses both within and outside their specialties and in directing undergraduate research projects. The successful candidate must have a Ph. D. in hand or have fulfilled all requirements for the degree by the start of the appointment.

Candidates should submit electronically to <https://apply.interfolio.com/64697> a letter of application, a CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a single-authored writing sample (e.g., article or dissertation/book chapter.) Review of applications will begin on Monday, October 7, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by this date will be assured full consideration.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/25/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5710

Missouri State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Missouri State University invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track appointment in American Politics at the assistant professor rank. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses in Political Behavior and Quantitative Methods, as well as the introductory American politics course. While ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment in August 2020. The successful candidate will be able to enhance the Public Affairs mission of the University and should demonstrate a commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. The successful candidate should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and service and possess an identifiable research agenda which demonstrates the potential for a sustained record of scholarship leading to publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The Department of Political Science has 16 full-time faculty members, approximately 150 undergraduate majors and master's programs in both Public Administration and Global Studies. Missouri State University is a selective-admission, comprehensive, and multi-campus university system with an enrollment of over 20,000 students, 150 undergraduate majors, and 47 graduate programs. MSU is located in Springfield, MO, with a metropolitan population of over 400,000, in the heart of the Ozarks region of Southwest Missouri.

Apply online at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/>. For additional information, contact:

Dr. George Connor, Head
 Department of Political Science
 Missouri State University
 901 S. National Ave.
 Springfield, MO 65897

Salary is competitive and commensurate with background and experience. Consideration of applicants begins October 7, 2019 and continues until the position is filled. Employment will require a criminal background check at University expense.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/11/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5678

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2020. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support.

Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Washington D.C. and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and seventeen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2020. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The first full review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/493760/assistant-professor-of-political-science-tenure-track>.

Applications must include a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/11/2019

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5684

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Rod and Nancy Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty

Rod and Nancy Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty

The Institute for the American Constitutional Heritage (IACH) at the University of Oklahoma (OU) seeks an established and nationally recognized scholar to hold the newly established Sanders Family Chair in Law and Liberty. The position is at the associate or full professor level and will be jointly appointed in the Department of Classics & Letters and the successful candidate's home disciplinary department or College, e.g., History or Political Science (both in the College of Arts and Sciences), or the College of Law.

The successful candidate will contribute to the core mission of the IACH, a vibrant interdisciplinary center for the study of American constitutionalism housed in Classics & Letters. The IACH has four faculty lines and over 30 affiliated faculty across the university who offer courses to over 100 undergraduates majoring or minoring in Constitutional Studies.

We seek a candidate with a teaching and research profile that would include, but not be limited to, the ancient roots of law, liberty, and self-governance; the development of republican thought and ideas of liberty and the rule of law in the modern world; and the historical and ideological background of the American founding.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. (or a J.D. for exceptional candidates with established records of scholarly excellence) and a substantial scholarly record in a discipline related to the core mission of the IACH. The successful candidate should also have an established commitment to teaching and mentoring undergraduate students, as well as experience in graduate teaching and mentoring, or clear potential for excellence in this area. The teaching load will be three courses a year (2-1).

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should initially submit a letter of interest, a current C.V., and three letters of reference to. Applicants should go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/59901> to submit their application. The position will begin in August 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 2/25/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5469

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2020-21

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for ten months, starting in August or September 2020. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/70841>

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7425

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor, Rick and Cathy Trachok Endowed Chair in International Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for appointment as the Rick & Cathy Trachok Endowed Chair in International Studies at the rank of Professor or Advanced Associate Professor. We seek a scholar in the humanities or social sciences with an international reputation and a strong record of research and teaching. The applicant will have demonstrated expertise in contemporary or historical research of global, world regional, or comparative focus. Specialization is open, and applicants from any discipline represented in UNR's College of Liberal Arts may apply, but priority will be given to candidates in the fields of Anthropology, English, History, and Political Science. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses and will play a leadership role in UNR's Ozmen Institute for Global Studies. Please apply at the following link to be considered: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Professor--Rick-and-Cathy-Trachok-Endowed-Chair-in-International-Studies_R0118980

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. degree and status as an advanced associate or full professor;
 Demonstrated expertise and significant experience in some aspect of international studies;
 A record of publishing in top-tier journals and presses;
 A strong, ongoing program of research;
 Research proficiency in one or more languages in addition to English;
 Demonstrated excellence in teaching

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity
 Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Grade/Rank

Associate Professor, III
 Full Professor, IV

College Information

The College of Liberal Arts is central to the intellectual and artistic life of the University of Nevada, Reno and is committed to fostering diversity, equity and inclusivity. The college contributes to the University's efforts to provide undergraduate students with general and specialized education that will prepare them for advanced study, careers and citizenship in a diverse world. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees, emphasizes inquiry, discovery, and openness to new ideas and perspectives, and supports major scholarly research and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a Research 1 land-grant campus of the Nevada System of Higher Education with a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students. Nearly half of incoming students identify as being from an underrepresented group. In accordance with the university's land grant, tier one research institution mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many U.S. transportation hubs and to Mexico. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Robert Joe Cutter, rcutter@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator- Spencer Schultz, spencerschultz@unr.edu

Exempt

Yes
 Full-Time Equivalent

100.0%
 Required Attachment(s)

Please attach the following documents to your application. Please contact jobs@unr.edu, the day you apply, if assistance is needed with attachments:

- 1) A complete Curriculum Vita;
- 2) Cover letter stating qualifications, experience, research plans and teaching experience
- 3) Contact information for three professional references
- 4) A brief statement (one page maximum) about how you would contribute toward our mission of creating a culturally inclusive environment in the role for which you are applying
- 5) Two research-based writing samples

Open Until Filled

Position is open until filled; however, first review of applications will begin begin November 27, 2019. Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7422

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

North Dakota State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track position in political economy, to begin on August 16, 2020.

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor—or, for especially qualified applicants, associate professor—starting Fall 2020. We seek candidates with expertise in any area of political economy, although especially invite applications from candidates who focus on the political economy of development. For candidates with a regional specialization, we are especially interested in scholars studying areas other than Europe and North America. Successful applicants should be versed in comparative or international political economy and have a strong commitment to policy-relevant research and teaching. This is a 50% research, 40% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is, at most, 2-2, with at least one course release in the first three years. While the tenure home will be in the Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science, this position will be affiliated with the NDSU College of Business' Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research, teaching, and outreach that contributes to the Institute's mission. In turn, the Institute may also provide opportunities for graduate student assistance, course buyouts, and summer research support. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, upper-division classes on political economy, political institutions, and global policy issues, and will have opportunities to contribute to existing and emerging programs in public policy, political and economic institutions, and global studies. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2020, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) experience teaching political economy, institutions, and/or global policy courses at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels, 4) potential to contribute to the Challey Institute's mission, and 5) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of research productivity and quality, 2) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, 3) have experience pursuing and/or obtaining external funding, 4) have a research focus on the political economy of development, 5) conduct teaching and research that can contribute to NDSU's commitment to diversity and inclusion, 6) have experience working in, or developing, a global studies program, 7) have experience contributing to, or developing, a master's program in public policy, and/or 8) have a regional focus outside Europe and North America.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and names and contact information for 3 references (we will contact references for roughly 10 short-listed applicants). All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/10886>. Initial screening of applications will begin on or about November 21, 2019.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 12 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The Challey Institute

The Sheila and Robert Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth is an interdisciplinary institute that aims to advance understanding in the areas of innovation, trade, and institutions to identify policies and solutions that enhance economic growth and opportunity. The Challey Institute works toward achieving its mission by engaging in research, student programming, and outreach in the areas of (1) international trade, investment, and immigration, (2) innovation and entrepreneurship, and (3) institutions and policy.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>. Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 245,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year-round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7385

Lamar University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Job Summary: The Department of Political Science invites applications for one full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science beginning August 2020.

Candidates should be able to teach introduction to comparative politics and advanced upper level comparative politics courses covering such areas as Western democracies, developing nations and/or a regional focus. Candidates should also be able to teach American Government (POLS 2301 and POLS 2302).

Qualifications: Candidates should have PhD in Political Science or Government awarded by date of employment. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate Lamar University's diverse population of students online and face-to-face; maintain an active service agenda; demonstrate a strong commitment to and evidence of an active research agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally-related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7373

Nuffield College, University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2020 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills. Teaching experience in any area of Comparative Government, Political Theory, or International Relations would be desirable.

The posts are full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 September 2020 or as soon as possible thereafter. Shorter-term appointments are unlikely to be considered. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 32,150 per annum (salary rate for 2019/20). Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Further benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/3848/polpprf_jd2020.pdf.

The deadline for applications is Monday 25 November 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/25/2019

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 7389

Williams College

Rank: Visiting Professor in Comparative Politics

Specializations: Africa, South Asia, Post Soviet Region

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year appointment in the 2020-2021 academic year, as Visiting Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics. We particularly seek individuals who can teach courses focused on East Asia, Africa, or with other regional focus, and who complement the department's existing comparative curriculum. The teaching load is four courses, split evenly between the fall and spring semesters. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field.

Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed by June 2020. Application items should include: a cover letter detailing teaching experience and competencies as well as current scholarly interests; 2 syllabi of classes taught or planned to be taught; a curriculum vitae; three letters of recommendation; teaching evaluations accompanied by comparative or statistical context (if available); and a writing sample of only one article or chapter. We ask you to write in your cover letter about your ability to work effectively with a student population that is broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

We will begin to review applications on January 6, but will consider submissions until the search is completed. All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/70578>. Fax and email applications will not be accepted. Inquiries may be sent Sarah Campbell-Copp at sjc2@williams.edu. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: <https://faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/>

Williams College is a coeducational liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (<http://www.williams.edu>).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7388

Columbia University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: China, East Asia, International Security

Columbia University & Harvard University
China and the World Program (C&WP)
Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2020-2021, C&WP will collaborate with the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University (WEAI) to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University (one funded by WEAI and one funded by CWP), and will teach one course in the spring semester. When not attending to program-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP and WEAI. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2020-2021 academic year, beginning September 1, 2020, ending May 31, 2021. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University.

Qualifications:

- Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2017 and August 31, 2020.
- Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
- Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp@columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

- 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
- Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
- Project description
- Two scholarly writing samples
- One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
- Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
- Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
- Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2020; a public announcement will be made by April 2020.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, or the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, and www.weai.columbia.edu respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 10/24/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7384

Arcadia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Religion & Politics, International Law & Organizations

The ideal candidates should have research and pedagogical interests in one or more of the following areas: critical approaches to international relations; international law and human rights; political geography; politics and technology; and/or the politics of religion. The ideal candidate should be able to teach courses in several of the following courses: international relations, comparative politics, and/or international law and organizations. The search is open to scholars of any geographic region, but the department has a particular interest in scholars of the Global South. We welcome candidates with training in Political Science or other related disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields.

Qualifications: Ph.D. strongly preferred by September 2020, as are demonstrated excellence in and commitment to teaching, and a strong research and publishing record commensurate with the candidate's experience.

The ideal candidates should have research and pedagogical interests in one or more of the following areas: critical approaches to international relations; international law and human rights; political geography; politics and technology; and/or the politics of religion. The ideal candidate should be able to teach courses in several of the following courses: international relations, comparative politics, and/or international law and organizations. The search is open to scholars of any geographic region, but the department has a particular interest in scholars of the Global South. We welcome candidates with training in Political Science or other related disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields.

The teaching load for this position is a three/three, and the faculty member will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, participate in university service, and advise students.

Arcadia's College of Arts and Sciences offers programs in science, technology, and math; humanities; visual and performing arts; communications; and historical and political studies. These programs prepare students to be leaders in a global society by providing opportunities to exhibit, perform, and publish both on campus and in the Philadelphia area. The campus has a variety of outlets to support the arts and sciences, including art galleries, a literary magazine, and an online academic journal.

Arcadia University is a top-ranked private university in the greater Philadelphia area that promises a distinctly global, integrative, and personal learning experience to prepare students to contribute and lead in a diverse and dynamic world. A national leader in study abroad and international education, Arcadia has been named #1 in undergraduate study abroad participation for the ninth consecutive year by the Institute of International Education's Open Doors Report, and second for international programs by U.S. News and World Report. Approximately 3,900 students attend Arcadia, and the University's 2,500 undergraduate students choose from more than 65 fields of study.

Applications must be submitted online through Arcadia's Human Resources portal to receive full consideration. Please do not email application materials to hiring manager. Due to the volume of applications received, communication will generally be limited to those candidates that are selected for additional consideration.

For additional information and to apply, please visit: <https://faculty-arcadia.icims.com/jobs/> and submit a cover letter, CV names and phone numbers of three academic references.

Application review will begin immediately. Posting will be removed from the website once we've established a sufficient talent pool for consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7382

Ryerson University

Rank: Comparative Politics

Ryerson University is strongly committed to fostering diversity within our community. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our staff, our faculty and its scholarship including, but not limited to, women, visible minorities, Aboriginal people, persons with disabilities, and persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity. Please note that all qualified candidates are encouraged to apply but applications from Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Located in downtown Toronto, the largest and most culturally diverse city in Canada, Ryerson University, is on the territory of the Anishinaabeg, Haudenosaunee and the Wendat Peoples and is known for innovative programs built on the integration of theoretical and practical learning. Our undergraduate and graduate programs are distinguished by a professionally focused curriculum with a strong emphasis on excellence in teaching, scholarly research and creative activities. Ryerson is known for its culture of entrepreneurship and innovation and is recognized as a city builder, as it continues its growth through award-winning architecture and expansion of its campus.

Dedicated to a people first culture, Ryerson is proud to have been selected as one of Canada's Best Diversity Employers and a Greater Toronto's Top Employer for every year since 2015. To learn more about our work environment, please visit us on Twitter: @RyersonU, @RyersonHR and @RyersonECI and our LinkedIn company page. We invite you to explore employment at Ryerson. Aboriginal candidates who would like to learn more about working at Ryerson University are welcome to contact Tracey King, Indigenous Human Resources Lead at t26king@ryerson.ca.

The Opportunity

The Department of Politics and Public Administration in the Faculty of Arts at Ryerson University invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics. While the position is open with respect to substantive focus, the Department is particularly interested in candidates studying Latin America. The appointment shall be effective July 1, 2020, subject to final budgetary approval.

The candidate will be able to immediately contribute to the Department's undergraduate programs in Politics and Governance (BA); Public Administration and Governance (BA); and graduate program in Public Policy and Administration (MA). The candidate will also have the opportunity to be involved with other interdisciplinary graduate programs in the Faculty of Arts and the University. Indigenous Scholars, depending on programme needs and subject to the approval of the Chair and Dean, may also participate in the collaborative public administration and governance program (BA) delivered in partnership with the First Nations Technical Institute (FNTI).

This position falls under the jurisdiction of the Ryerson Faculty Association (RFA) (www.rfanet.ca). The RFA collective agreement can be viewed here and a summary of RFA benefits can be found here.

Responsibilities

Responsibilities will include research, teaching and supervision at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and taking an active role in the life of the Department. The new faculty member will be expected to: establish and maintain a strong, active, externally-funded research program; take an active role in teaching and mentoring students; collaborate with colleagues and other university departments, partners, and the community; and be committed to equity, diversity and inclusion.

Qualifications

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field by the appointment date, July 1, 2020. Candidates must have a strong research profile (e.g., evidence of an emerging scholarly record, ability to establish and maintain an independent, externally funded research program); evidence of potential for high-quality teaching, and a commitment to collegial service. The Department is committed to strengthening the diversity of its faculty. Candidates who are Indigenous are strongly encouraged to apply.

How to Apply

Applicants must submit their application online via the Faculty Recruitment Portal (click on "Start Application Process" to begin) by November 18, 2019. The application must contain the following:

- a letter of application and a curriculum vitae;
- a research statement and two (2) recent writing samples that exemplify the candidate's scholarly activity;
- a teaching dossier, which includes a statement of teaching philosophy and a sample syllabus for an introductory course in comparative politics (either a past course or a course proposal); and
- names of three (3) individuals who may be contacted for reference letters.

Please note that all qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, applications from Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. Candidates must therefore indicate in their application if they are a permanent resident or citizen of Canada.

Any confidential inquiries can be directed to the Department Hiring Committee Chair Dr. Christopher Gore (chris.gore@ryerson.ca)

Ryerson is committed to accessibility for persons with disabilities. For any confidential accommodation needs and/or inquiries regarding accessing the Faculty Recruitment Portal, please contact Renee Gordon, HR Advisor at renee.gordon@ryerson.ca.

Ryerson University is fully committed to accessibility for persons with disabilities. If you require accommodation to participate in the recruitment and selection process, please advise the Human Resources representative when you are contacted. All requests for accommodation will be treated with confidentiality.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 11/18/2019

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 7383

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Public Policy and Normative Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, and tenure-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Public Policy and Normative Theory to begin August 16, 2020. The Department seeks to hire a person broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our tradition of intellectual diversity. We are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with the cluster hire themes of race and ethnicity, representation and justice, gender and other categories of identity, and the politics of inequality. Other research fields and a variety of methodological approaches are welcome.

We are seeking candidates who can teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester in the field of Public Policy with a focus on comparative public policy and normative theory, including courses in their own area of research. The courses will include introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. We have a preference for candidates combining studies in public policy courses on education, welfare, health care, and labor policy, as well as on ethics and public policy. Applicants working in Latin or South America are particularly encouraged to apply. The successful candidate is also expected to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

Qualifications

Applicants will have a Ph.D. in hand, or will have completed a Ph.D. by August 15, 2020.

Application Instructions

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/70200> and must include:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Statement of research interests/plans
- Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- One article reprint or pre-print
- Three confidential letters of recommendation.
- Application deadline is November 17, 2019.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7354

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin September 1, 2020. The successful candidate will teach 4 sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. The Department is interested in receiving applications from individuals specializing in any subfield of the discipline.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7355

Midwestern State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, Africa, Middle East

The Department of Political Science seeks applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2020. We seek a candidate whose primary teaching interest is comparative politics with a specialization in Asia, Middle East, or Africa, as well as the ability to teach quantitative research methods. The ability to teach courses in climate and environmental politics or international relations is desired, but not required. The applicant should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (an ABD candidate would be required to have a Ph.D. by August 2021), and should contribute to the teaching and research mission of the university.

The Department of Political Science offers a B.A. Political Science and a B.A. Global Studies. It also houses the interdisciplinary minor in Women's and Gender Studies and a successful Model United Nations program.

The teaching load is 12 hours per semester. Salary is competitive, depending on experience.

Midwestern State University is a public liberal arts university with an enrollment of approximately 6,000 students located in Wichita Falls, a city of 106,000 about 2 hours northwest of Dallas/Fort Worth (www.msutexas.edu). As a Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC) member institution, Midwestern State University is particularly committed to excellence in teaching and seeks applicants that will contribute to this mission. This position is designated as security sensitive and requires the finalist to complete a criminal background check. EEO/ADAAA compliance employer.

Please send a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) teaching evaluations, 4) one example of scholarly work, and 5) three letters of recommendation to:

Dr. Linda Veazey, Chair
Department of Political Science
Midwestern State University
3410 Taft Boulevard
Wichita Falls, TX 76308
linda.veazey@msutexas.edu

The initial review of complete applications will begin January 13, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/13/2020

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7325

SUNY, Binghamton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at Binghamton University (SUNY) invites applications for an assistant professorship in international relations and/or comparative politics, focusing on political violence and civil conflict, to begin in August 2020. Preference will be given to candidates who can contribute to teaching in the department's graduate quantitative methods sequence, as well as connect with the Data Science Transdisciplinary Area of Excellence (TAE). The Data Science TAE comprises a collaborative group of data scientists from across campus who are at the leading edge of the data science revolution within their own disciplines. Candidates with demonstrable strengths in one or more of the following will be strongly preferred: mixed methods, statistics & econometrics, computational methods, and/or experimental methods. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of recent or current research, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Applications received by November 10, 2019 will be given first consideration, although we will accept applications until the position has been filled. Binghamton University is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. It is the policy of Binghamton University to provide for and promote equal opportunity employment, compensation, and other terms and conditions of employment without discrimination on the basis of sex, age, race, color, religion, disability, national origin, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, veteran or military service member status, marital status, domestic violence victim status, genetic predisposition or carrier status, or arrest and/or criminal conviction record unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification or other exception. Submit applications at <http://binghamton.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=116819>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7317

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The one-year Visiting Fellowship in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism
4. The American Regime (broadly understood)

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided. The residency requirement, however, is flexible and the fellow need not relocate to Washington, D.C.

Duration

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2020 to August 2021. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- 1.) A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- 2.) C.V.
- 3.) One academic writing sample and one non-academic publication.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Jessica Kline
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: Jessica.kline@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7318

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Senior Rank (Tenured Full or Associate Professor)

Cyberpolitics and National/International Security Policy

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position at the Full Professor or Associate Professor level in cyberpolitics and national or international security policy to begin Fall 2020.

The position is part of a cross-disciplinary, campus-wide initiative in the area of cybersecurity. Scholars conducting cross-disciplinary research in applied cyber security are encouraged to apply, but an applicant's primary field must be Political Science or closely related discipline.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline. Applicants must have a track record of scholarship, publications, and research funding relating to cybersecurity and international politics. We are especially interested in candidates who link cybersecurity to broader social, political, economic, and policy questions in the contexts of national and/or international security. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute directly to the Department's nascent doctoral program in cyber politics and will be expected to collaborate on research and grant applications with faculty in Computer Science, Information Systems and Cyber Security, Engineering, and UTSA's highly regarded Cyber Security Program. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Department's traditional undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. We are especially interested in applicants who can teach graduate and undergraduate courses on Cyber and International Politics; Cyber Strategy; Cyber Deterrence and Coercion; Cyber and Intelligence; Cyberwarfare and Military Operations; Technological and Social Revolutions in International Relations; Global Governance and Cyber; Cyber and International Ethics; Law, Politics, and Cyber-Security; New Global Threats; and Global or National Security Policy.

Applicants must demonstrate potential for research publication and a strong potential to attract external funding commensurate with the rank for which the applicant is applying. Applicants' research must demonstrate strong theoretical grounding in national or international security. Candidates must have the ability to work with and be sensitive to the educational needs of a culturally diverse urban population.

All applicants should also provide representative evidence of high-quality teaching – ideally in courses that address cyber security in the context of deterrence and coercion, national or international security, global affairs and governance. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of courses in international relations or global affairs within their specializations.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor, the successful applicant must have an established research agenda, evidence of initiatives to acquire external research funding, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their respective fields of specialization, have excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, a track record of grant applications and awards, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to applicants who can offer courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science, international relations/global affairs, and/or international/national security policy.

Applicants should submit electronically in PDF format:

1. Letter of application stating the rank for which application is made, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. A research and teaching statement, including discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment (no more than 200 words);
4. A copy of all graduate transcripts;
5. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Submit electronic materials to: <https://jobs.utsa.edu> (click on Faculty for details)

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7315

Tulane University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2020-2021, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2020. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/68880 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2019.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer

Application Deadline: 12/31/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 7304

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, Science & Technology

Assistant Professor, Cyber Security and Privacy

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established several interdisciplinary clusters to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting a tenure-track assistant professor in the area(s) of Cyber Security and Privacy. This position will have an anticipated start date of August 8, 2020.

This interdisciplinary position will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department and may include a combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units for their appointment. All relevant areas will be considered, such as (but not limited to) Mathematics, Statistics, Industrial Engineering and Management Systems, Psychology, Computer Science, Legal Studies, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Philosophy, Criminal Justice, and Political Science.

Minimum qualifications: A Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution at the time of appointment in an area appropriate to the cluster. The selected candidate must also have a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record.

Preferred qualifications: A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is strongly preferred.

The ideal candidate will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. In particular, candidates that have a track record in security and privacy issues affecting software and systems in various platforms (cloud, IoT, cyber-physical) are strongly encouraged to apply. The ideal candidate will also have research impact as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security and privacy. (See <https://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved to date.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided.

UCF has a diverse student body of more than 68,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry, including large corporations such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, Oracle, Apple, AMD, Boeing, SpaceX, Blue Origin, etc. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school. Orlando has one of the fastest growing and dynamic economies in the nation. In 2018, among major metropolitan areas, Orlando enjoyed the fifth largest increase in population. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Additional Application Materials Required:

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website, www.ucf.edu/jobs/. No paper or emailed applications or materials will be considered.

UCF has a diverse student body and community, and we are committed to meeting the needs of this community. Please tell us about your approach and experience meeting the needs of a diverse community, both in the context of a faculty-student setting and as a colleague.

In addition to the online application, interested candidates must attach the following materials to their application:

- 1) the above-mentioned diversity statement,
- 2) a cover letter*,
- 3) curriculum vitae,
- 4) teaching statement,
- 5) research statement, and
- 6) contact information for three professional references (include email addresses).

*In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, any experience working on interdisciplinary teams, how they will enhance the existing cluster team, and identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home and any joint appointments they would desire.

NOTE: Please have all application documents ready when applying so they can be attached at that time. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents at a later date.

This position has an anticipated start date of August 8, 2020. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Questions regarding this search can be directed to Yan Solihin at yan.solihin@ucf.edu.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement: As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://www.oie.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7299

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate - CSDP

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on or about September 1, 2020. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2020-2021 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req D-20-WWS-00010 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14021>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, December 2, 2019 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/2/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7289

Princeton University - CSDP

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar - CSDP

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for ten-month positions anticipated to start on or about September 1, 2020. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events.

Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2020-2021 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2020-2021 should apply to req number D-20-WWS-00011 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14041>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, December 2, 2019 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/2/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7295

Washington State UniversityRank: Assistant Professor in Global Politics

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF POLITICS, PHILOSOPHY, AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR
NOTICE OF VACANCY

DESCRIPTION OF POSITION: The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs at Washington State University is seeking to fill a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Politics (International Relations and Comparative Politics), effective August 16, 2020. The position is a permanent full-time 9-month faculty position located on the Pullman Campus. The responsibilities of the position: teaching, research, and service. The position has a 2/2 course load delivered on a semester system and will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics.

REQUIREMENTS: Minimum qualifications are an earned PhD in Political by August 16, 2020, and research and teaching interests in global politics and political psychology. Willingness to work collaboratively with faculty and to mentor students from a wide range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is also a minimum requirement. Preferred qualifications include interests in the politics of the developing world, international organizations and transnational politics, or international and comparative conflict (focusing on conflict resolution, issues of terrorism, ethnic and religious conflict, etc.). The search committee is also interested in applicants who command strong methodological skills that would allow the successful candidate to teach the core methods courses in the Ph.D. program. Those candidates with high likelihood of being able to obtain extramural funding will also receive added consideration.

UNIVERSITY: Washington State University is a land grant, research-intensive doctoral institution which maintains excellent research and teaching facilities. The School expects excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The School has a strong undergraduate program and an established PhD program in Political Science which enjoys a growing national reputation for supporting a problem-driven approach to research and maintaining a deep commitment to methodological diversity. WSU is committed to excellence through diversity, has faculty friendly policies including a partner accommodation program, and an ADVANCE Institutional Transformation program (see <https://advance.wsu.edu>).

RANK and SALARY: The appointment is at the Assistant Professor rank. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

APPLICATIONS: Candidates must provide a letter of application summarizing qualifications and continuing research and teaching interests, a current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations (if available), and three letters of recommendation. Because diversity is such an important part of the WSU mission, we request that applicants include a separate paragraph in the application letter telling us how diversity figures into their past, present, and future teaching, research, and community engagement. To apply visit: <https://www.wsujobs.com>. Screening begins November 1, 2019. For questions about the position contact Martha Cottam at (509) 335-7997; cottam@wsu.edu.

Washington State University employs only United States citizens and lawfully authorized non-U.S. citizens. All new employees must show employment eligibility verification as required by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

Washington State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action educator and employer. Members of ethnic minorities, women, special disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam-era, recently separated veterans, and other protected veterans, persons of disability and/or persons of age 40 and over are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 11/1/2019Date Posted: 10/4/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 7292Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse*Rank: Interdisciplinary Research Fellowship*Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

We welcome applications from researchers within a large range of disciplines in the social, behavioral and life sciences: anthropology, evolutionary biology, economics, genetics, history, law, mathematics, neuroscience, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology; however, motivated applications from outside these disciplines will be given full consideration. Successful applicants will have to demonstrate an interest in, and a commitment to, at least one of the other disciplines of IAST.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their own discipline, but willing and able to develop research projects drawing on IAST's substantial interdisciplinary resources, including particularly the proximity of strong groups in economics (Toulouse School of Economics, TSE).

We are open to a variety of research methods, including theory, field and laboratory experiments, observational field work, and the analysis of large secondary data sets.

All research interests relevant to the broad study of human behavior are welcome, but interests that complement and / or enhance those already developed at IAST will be given special consideration. These include, to cite only a few:

In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economic or social history; emergence and dynamics of institutions and networks.

In evolutionary biology: theoretical models of evolution (applied to family structure, strategic interactions, plasticity, cognition, learning, cultural evolution); related empirical work.

In anthropology: human biology, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, host-parasite co-evolution, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine and genetics.

In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

In law: law and economics, corporate governance, criminology.

In psychology: cognition, beliefs, identity, memory, the emotions, culture, social trust, gender, group decision-making.

In sociology: network formation, the impact of networks on social outcomes, sociology of religion.

In genetics and neuroscience: mental state representation, personality, intelligence.

For more information & application, please visit: <http://www.iast.fr/research-fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/2/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7275

Berry College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Government and International Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Electoral Behavior, Public Opinion

The Department of Government and International Studies at Berry College seeks a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and will be competent to teach social science research methods. We seek an innovative teacher who will create new courses that invite students from other disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Tenure-Track position begins in August 2020. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with their upper-level course and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). Noted for its mentoring of students, the department offers an excellent undergraduate education that emphasizes the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that will prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and engage the community, including by cultivating internship opportunities. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. All applicants should describe in their statement of teaching philosophy their experience with, and/or commitment to, teaching a diverse student body.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2020. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Candidates should submit a letter of application, along with a current CV, copies of transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference to Darla Fox, Department of Government and International Studies, dfox@berry.edu. Email inquiries: esands@berry.edu. For more information on our program, please visit our website at: <https://www.berry.edu/academics/majors/political-science>.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2019 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College may be required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7269

Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Rank: Faculty Position (International Political Economy)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Research Methods, East Asia

Faculty Position (International Political Economy) - Job ID: 4879

The Division of Social Science at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology seeks to hire a faculty member in International Political Economy. The position is open in rank (Assistant Professor/Associate Professor), but preference will be given to candidates with an active research agenda related to East Asia and demonstrated excellence in scholarship and in research methodology.

Applicants should have a PhD degree.

Salary is highly competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Fringe benefits including annual leave, medical and dental benefits will be provided. Housing benefits will also be provided where applicable. Initial appointment at Associate/Assistant Professor rank will normally be on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement. A gratuity will be payable upon successful completion of contract.

Application Procedure

Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample publication, and three letters of reference to the attention of: Search and Appointments Committee Chair, Division of Social Science, HKUST, Clear Water Bay, Hong Kong by email to sosearch@ust.hk. Review of applications will start on 1 December 2019 and the search will continue until the position is filled. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and has a range of family-friendly policies in place.

(Information provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.)

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7248

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Visiting Research Professor

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is seeking to appoint a visiting research professor who is based in Latin America or Spain and studies Latin American politics for the fall or spring semester of the academic year 2020-21. Responsibilities of the successful candidate include working on your own research and contributing to departmental activities related to research and teaching on Latin America during the semester in residence. The quality of completed research and of the proposed research project will be an important selection criterion.

Qualifications are a Ph.D. and a minimum of 5 years of research and teaching experience. Compensation consists of a travel and research allowance, health insurance, and a total of $32,000 in salary over the duration of the appointment. The successful candidate will be expected to be in residence for a minimum of 4 ½ months.

Applications from women and minorities are particularly welcome. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity employer and educator that welcomes all to apply, including individuals with disabilities. Deadline for applications is December 16, 2019, and applicants will be notified in February.

To apply for the position, please follow this link: <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/169988>. Please include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a research proposal of no more than 1,500 words. Applicants are required to identify the names, titles and email addresses of three professional references at the time of application. Recommenders identified by the applicant may be contacted via email with instructions for uploading their letters of support if the applicant becomes a finalist. Alternatively, applicants may list Interfolio as a reference and the application system will solicit recommendations directly from Interfolio. Please see <http://help.interfolio.com/entries/24062742-Uploading-Letters-to-an-Online-Application-System> for instructions. Departmental contact person is Shannon Eubanks; the department address is Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, CB# 3265, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3265 and the web address is <http://www.unc.edu/depts/polisci>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/16/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 7266

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Lecturer and Academic Adviser

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for one full-time non-tenure stream position as Lecturer and Academic Adviser. The appointment requires a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and prior teaching experience. The successful candidate is expected to serve as the advisor for a third of the undergraduate majors in the department and to teach four undergraduate courses per year, including one section per semester of Introduction to Global Studies, which the Department offers in close coordination with Pitt's Global Studies Center. Additional teaching will depend on the interests of the successful candidate (e.g., in political theory, comparative politics, or international relations). We are particularly interested in candidates who could offer upper-level courses in nonwestern or comparative political theory, post-colonial theory, etc that complement our existing political theory courses. In addition, the successful candidate will be responsible for supporting Departmental curriculum and programming, outside-the-classroom learning, etc.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2020. Minimum qualifications for the position are a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field and ability to teach the Introduction to Global Studies course. Successful candidates are expected to engage in teaching and service that contributes to the department's mission.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio (statement of philosophy, list of courses, sample syllabi and materials, etc), writing sample(s), teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of two letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mjc2>. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by January 6, 2020, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/6/2020

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6224

University of Mary Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at the University of Mary Washington invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position starting the 2020-21 academic year. The candidate should have a major field in comparative politics with demonstrated expertise in the politics of Latin America. The committee will look favorably on candidates who are also willing and able to teach a course on United States foreign policy. As UMW is a teaching-focused institution, successful candidates must demonstrate teaching experience and excellence in teaching in an inclusive environment that embraces diverse talents and backgrounds. Successful candidates should also provide evidence of success in scholarly activity (e.g., publications or grants).

Candidates must submit the following materials to be considered for the position:

- Cover Letter
- CV
- Teaching Statement and Evaluations
- Sample Syllabi
- Three letters of recommendation
- Graduate Transcripts

The University of Mary Washington accepts only completed online applications and related materials at careers.umw.edu. Faxed, mailed, or emailed applications or documentation will not be considered. Employment offers are contingent upon the successful completion of criminal background checks. If accommodations are requested either before or at the time of the interview, please contact the Recruitment Office at 540-654-1238.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/1/2019
Date Posted: 9/19/2019
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 6196

University of Texas, Arlington

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position ID: F00175P

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position, beginning August 2020. Candidates should be trained in Comparative Politics with a focus on Latin America. Scholars whose research also has implications for Latino/Latina communities in the United States are especially encouraged to apply. Completed Ph.D. is preferred although A.B.D.s will be considered. The University of Texas at Arlington is a designated Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI).

The successful applicant will be expected to develop and teach substantive courses in their area of expertise, including introductory courses, core undergraduate courses, and Master's level courses. Candidates should demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellence in social science research, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service appropriate to the rank. Salary is competitive. Successful candidates are expected to demonstrate a commitment to diversity and equity in education through their scholarship, teaching, and/or service.

Arlington, Texas is centrally located to major cultural, sporting, and entertainment venues, situated in the heart of the Dallas-Ft. Worth metropolitan area, with over 6 million residents and more than twenty municipalities (<http://www.dfwandbeyond.com/cities><http://www.dfwandbeyond.com/cities>). The University of Texas at Arlington campus is a short twenty-minute drive to DFW International Airport, downtown Fort Worth and downtown Dallas. The Department of Political Science (<http://www.uta.edu/pols><http://www.uta.edu/pols>) has a strong social media presence (Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter), and offers a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. It serves students from across the University (in state-mandated introductory courses) as well as over three hundred undergraduate majors and minors, and 20 to 30 graduate students.

To apply applicants should go to <http://uta.peopleadmin.com/> and submit the following materials: 1) provide a current CV, 2) a letter of interest, 3) one writing sample, and 4) names and contact information of three professional references. Screening will begin immediately upon receipt of a completed application. Applications will be accepted until the positions are filled.

UT Arlington is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The use of tobacco products is prohibited on UT Arlington properties. A criminal background check will be conducted on finalists.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6193

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Law to begin August 16, 2020. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to teach substantive courses in Public Law and Judicial Politics and contribute to the department's graduate and undergraduate programs in methodology. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a writing sample; statements of research and teaching interests; graduate transcript; and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. The position will remain open until filled, and the search committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2019. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Robert Oldendick (rolde-ndi@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 “Best Colleges” according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6183

Chapman University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Political Science, in the Department of Political Science, within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning in August 1, 2020.

The Department of Political Science and the MA in International Studies program seeks candidates whose research bridges theory and practice, so as to promote and support student engagement in the fields associated with human security. Teaching responsibilities will be split between the Political Science Department and the MA in International Studies Program at Chapman.

Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching, service, and advising/mentoring.

Requirements include:

- Doctorate in Political Science or related field by the start date.
- Demonstrated strong research trajectory, including publications and involvement with professional organizations.
- Evidence of teaching excellence, including innovative and inclusive pedagogy.
- Demonstrated capacity to advise graduate and undergraduate students, including on coursework, research projects and career prospects.
- Specialization in the area of Human Security including but not limited to: environmental security (such as climate change adaptation, global health or food security); gender and/or race and security; conflict and/or environmentally induced displacement; poverty and sustainable development; governance issues related to new security paradigms.

Qualified applicants must electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing sample and letter from three academic/professional references to:

Drs. Art Blaser and Crystal Murphy

Search Committee Co-Chairs

c/o: Talisa Flores at tflores@chapman.edu

Please use “Assistant Professor of Political Science/International Studies” as the email subject line.

Application review will begin October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Subject to final budget approval.

Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here:

<https://webfarm.chapman.edu/Jobs/NewHire-FacultyApplication.docx>

Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of Western universities, by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The University is classified by Carnegie as an R-2 research institution; Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/>

The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>.

Chapman University is an equal opportunity employer committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ancestry, citizenship status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, military and veteran status, marital status, pregnancy, genetic information or any other characteristic protected by state or federal law. The University is committed to achieving a diverse faculty and staff and encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6176

Tokyo International University

Rank: Full-time positions in 1) International Relations/U.S. Politics and Foreign Policy and 2) International Relations/Comparative Politics (open specialization).

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

[Outline]

Tokyo International University is seeking to hire full-time Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professors in two areas: 1) U.S. Politics and Foreign Policy and 2) International Relations/Comparative Politics (regional specialization is open; we are looking for those whose research rests on strong theoretical and empirical grounds).

[Content of work]

Responsibilities include teaching three courses per semester mainly in an English-medium undergraduate and/or graduate school program, advising and working with students from diverse backgrounds, and undertaking quality research. TIU's academic year consists of two 14-week semesters.

[Positions available]

1

[Address of work location]

Campus 1, 1-13-1 Matoba-kita, Kawagoe City, Saitama Pref. 350-1197, Japan
(about 30-40 mins from Tokyo by train)

[Starting date]

April 1 / September 1, 2020 (negotiable)

[Job type]

Professor level
Associate Professor/Lecturer (full-time) level
Assistant Professor level
Tenured or tenure-track upon grade

[Qualifications]

Successful candidates should already hold a Ph.D. or have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of employment, strong publication record or potential for active scholarly engagement, ability to teach students (both undergraduate and graduate) with diverse cultural background in the university's English Track Degree Program. We encourage serious research engagement and provide various support, including individual and collective research funding.

There are no limitations regarding citizenship of applicants, however successful candidates should be able to teach and provide guidance to students using English language.

[Compensation]

Contract period: if hired as tenured, no-period (except age limits) / if hired as tenure-track, 5 years

A competitive salary is offered. Remuneration package includes health insurance, pension, commuting allowance, annual research fund and individual research office.

[Application method]

Please specify to which position you are applying and send an email to "saiyou@tiu.ac.jp" with the following materials attached:

- 1) Cover letter of application
- 2) Curriculum vitae (please also include your complete contact details and contact information of three references)
- 3) List of classes taught (including title of class, brief description of contents, level)
- 4) Course syllabi of related fields that have been taught at any higher educational institution
- 5) Full text of three research achievements (e.g., Journal articles, publications, etc.)
- 6) Copy of diploma or transcript showing proof of Ph.D. or enrollment in a Ph.D. program

7) In the subject of your email, please include this code: [APSA201909]

[Deadline]

November 15 (Friday), 2019

[Note]

- We request that all application documents be sent via e-mail and not by postal mail. Items sent through postal mail cannot be returned.
- Please describe your contact details clearly (phone number, e-mail address, current location, Skype ID, etc.)
- E-mail accounts through @hotmail, @msn, @live and @outlook may experience difficulty in receiving e-mails from the University. Please provide an alternative e-mail address if possible.

[Selection process]

First, a review of applications will be conducted, and only applicants deemed suitable will be contacted and invited for an interview (in person or via Skype). Those applicants who are invited to an interview may be requested to submit three Letters of Recommendation from relevant institutions.

For the on-site final interview, reimbursement for round-trip airfare, domestic public transportation allowance, and hotel (one night) will be provided to overseas candidates.

[Contact details]

Global Talent Acquisition Department
Tokyo International University Foundation
4-23-23, Takadanobaba, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-0075
Email: saiyou@tiu.ac.jp

[Additional information]

All the information collected will be used solely for its intended purpose of evaluating applicants. Information will not be used for any other purpose.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6145

Columbia University

Rank: Istvan Deak Visiting Professor in East Central European Studies

Columbia University invites applications for István Deák Visiting Professorship(s) in East Central European Studies for one or two semesters (fall and/or spring) in the academic year 2020-2021. The professorship, commemorating Professor Deák's legacy of excellence in research and teaching, is open to scholars who have active interest and accomplishments in East and Central European studies. Appointment(s) will be open-rank, to be filled at any level from Visiting Assistant to Visiting Full Professor.

The visiting professor(s) will be appointed in one of the Humanities or Social Science departments of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The visitors will teach two courses per semester, one a lecture course of broad interest for undergraduates, the other a seminar for upper-level undergraduates and graduate students. The visitors are expected to give one public lecture and participate in the academic life of the University, whose interests in East and Central European studies are well represented on campus by the East Central European Center, the European Institute, and the Harriman Institute.

Please provide a letter of application, curriculum vitae, the names of three persons who may be asked to provide a letter of reference, and a modest sample (article or book chapter) of scholarship. The letter of application should include a statement of which semester the applicant prefers, a list with titles and brief (one-paragraph long) descriptions of two courses which the applicant might teach, and a description of the applicant's current research interests.

All applications must be made through Columbia's online Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS) at: <http://pa334.peopleadmin.com/postings/4011>

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2019, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer —Race/Gender/Disability/Veteran.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6159

Fordham University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics (Environmental Policy)

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in Comparative Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning Fall 2020. The position is located at Fordham's Lincoln Center (Manhattan) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates in the field of comparative environmental policy. A regional specialization focusing on Asia or Latin America is especially desired. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science, as well as contribute to Fordham's interdisciplinary Environmental Studies Program. We encourage to apply candidates who will deepen our engagement with institutions within New York City and contribute to our University and department's commitment to quality teaching and research.

Review of applications will begin on October 15. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor Sarah Lockhart, Committee Chair, via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/68311>: cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample (no more than 30-35 pages), course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Application materials should also address how the candidate's teaching, mentoring, scholarship, and/or community service supports Fordham University's commitment to diversity. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6156

Stanford University

Rank: 2020-21 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2020–2021 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2020-2021 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2020) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $65,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2020-2021 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 16, 2019, until December 20, 2019.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship>

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 9/9/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6120

Columbia University

Rank: Gerald L. Curtis Professor of Modern Japanese Politics and Foreign Policy

The Columbia University Department of Political Science and the School of International and Public Affairs invite applications for a distinguished scholar at any academic rank, from tenure-track assistant professor to tenured full professor, to fill the Gerald L. Curtis Professorship in Modern and Contemporary Japanese Politics and Foreign Policy to begin July 1, 2020. A Ph.D. and the ability to do research in the Japanese language are required. Candidates will be expected to teach and sustain an active research and publication agenda involving public policy issues in contemporary Japanese politics and/or foreign relations. The candidate will be expected to play a leadership role in the Weatherhead East Asian Institute in organizing research and programmatic activities concerning Japanese politics and foreign policy.

All applications must be submitted through Columbia University's Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS) here: <http://pa334.peopleadmin.com/postings/4057>

Non-tenured applicants should upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, list of references, and at least two brief writing samples.

Tenured applicants should upload a vitae and letter of interest detailing current and future research plans.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6130

Touro College and University System

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

- Teach four courses each semester, split between an all-male campus in Queens and an all-female campus in Manhattan.
- Assist in student advisement within the Political Science Department, including course selection and career planning. This may include orientation and during other times when classes are not in session.
- Respond to needs and concerns of departmental faculty, administrative staff and students in a respectful and professional manner.
- Engage students in the classroom and inspire them to fulfill department and college-wide goals. Work closely with each student on multiple drafts of papers in order to improve their writing skills.
- Create clear course descriptions and syllabi with achievable evaluable goals. Evaluate student work with thoughtful comments and in a timely manner.
- Participate in professional conferences and/or publish work in academic journals in order to increase the visibility of the Touro College and University system.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science, with advanced study in comparative politics and American government.
- At least 2 years teaching experience in a post-secondary institution.
- Record of academic research.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6135

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for tenure-track positions in Comparative Politics at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2020. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. A joint position with the School of International and Public Affairs is possible. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 4, 2019, and will continue to consider applications until the positions are filled.

For more information and to apply, please visit our online application site at <http://pa334.peopleadmin.com/postings/3804>

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6111

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high quality, policy relevant research on critical issues related to global development and poverty alleviation.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2020 for one year (and will consider two years). The Center's postdoctoral fellows program is intended for promising new and recent PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy relevant research on topics related to critical issues for international development and poverty alleviation.

The Center's postdoctoral fellows will be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University. The Center provides a competitive salary plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2019 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and information please visit <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoralfellowsprogram>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6105

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: International Relations and Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Security, Conflict Processes, Defense

The Political Science Department of the United States Naval Academy invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and Comparative Politics beginning August 2020. Application review will begin on 01 October 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

The U.S. Naval Academy is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching, research, and service. Scholars with expertise in interstate war, great power politics, ethnic conflict, and political violence are encouraged to apply. Regional expertise in either Africa, South/Southeast Asia, or Russia is also desired. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence, as well as a strong commitment to student advising and institutional service.

For more information about this position and how to apply please visit the USNA position announcement at

<https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProf-PolSci-AY20.php>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 6102

Wake Forest University

Rank: Worrell Chair in Politics and International Affairs

POSITION AVAILABLE

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY

WORRELL CHAIR IN POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

The Department of Politics and International Affairs at Wake Forest University is seeking an outstanding scholar and teacher to fill a named chair in the areas of comparative political economy or comparative public policy, at the Full or Associate Professor level. Originally established as the Worrell Chair in Anglo-American Studies, acknowledging transformations within the discipline and a move towards more widely comparative scholarship, the Department now seeks a scholar of comparative political economy or comparative public policy with a focus on Europe. In recognition of the named professorship, candidates should have a prominent record of scholarship that is internationally recognized as well as a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Areas of expertise might include but are not limited to the examination of policy areas such as social welfare, immigration, environment, education, and healthcare; labor and the political economy; and the social and political inequalities associated with race, class, and gender

The Department of Politics and International Affairs includes faculty who are both dedicated teachers and active researchers. Salary will be commensurate with the rank and stature of the selected applicant.

Founded in 1834, Wake Forest University is ranked among the top 30 national universities in the United States. The university is located in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, a vibrant, small city with a thriving arts community. At Wake Forest and in Winston-Salem there are many opportunities for multi-disciplinary collaboration and community-engaged research. Wake Forest University and Winston-Salem also house one of the fastest growing urban technology innovation districts in the United States, Wake Forest Innovation Quarter.

Wake Forest University and the Department of Politics and International Affairs welcome diversity and encourage inclusivity. We therefore seek applicants with demonstrated success in engaging diverse populations. Wake Forest University is an AA/EO employer and values an inclusive and diverse learning community and campus climate.

The deadline for applications is November 15th, 2019. Inquiries and questions about the position should be directed to the Chair of the Search Committee: Helga Welsh at welsh@wfu.edu subject line: "Worrell Chair." Applications are accepted on line www.wfu.edu/careers. A complete application includes a letter of interest and a C.V. Additional information and references will be requested from finalists. Technical questions may be directed to wakejobs@wfu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6090

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

Gender and Politics (Assistant or Associate Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for one full-time tenure track professor in the field of Gender and Politics, beginning August of 2020. Our goal is to hire the strongest candidate available who is doing interesting and important scholarship on questions of gender and politics. This thematic focus may be approached from any subfield or combination of subfields in the discipline including but not limited to American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. This position is at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor with tenure.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, this faculty member would be expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate actively in departmental activities.

Successful candidates will have completed their Ph.D. degree in Political Science by August 1, 2020.

The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30, 2019; however, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, complete curriculum vitae, two publications or papers, course syllabi and summary of teaching evaluations, and have at least three letters of recommendation forwarded to us. All application materials should be submitted online to the attention of Lauren M. MacLean, Department Chair, Department of Political Science at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/8350>.

Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to Jessica Williams at 812-855-1209; email: jeewilli@indiana.edu; Department of Political Science, 210 Woodburn Hall, 1100 E. Seventh Street, Indiana University-Bloomington, Bloomington, Indiana, 47405-7110.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6046

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Job Summary

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for up to two tenure-track assistant professors with strong skills in computational social science and data science, broadly defined, and who apply them to substantive questions in political science, preferably in the areas of comparative politics or international relations. Examples of strengths include machine learning, network modeling, statistical methods for large and complex data, natural language processing, text, audio, and/or image analytics, data visualization, and/or other related methods. Exceptional candidates at the level of associate professor with tenure may be considered.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach courses at the intersection of data science, quantitative methods, and his or her substantive fields of expertise, and with some courses being part of the College of Liberal Arts' Integrated Cornerstone first-year curriculum. Candidates at the level of advanced assistant or associate professor are expected to have a strong track record of high-quality publications, appropriate to rank. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; interest in contributing to a broader integrative data science initiative at Purdue; an interest in attracting external funding; and a commitment to teaching excellence.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and off-campus engagement. Candidates should address their commitment to diversity and inclusion in at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals as they relate to promoting a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

College and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, the Human Rights Program, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty members hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates to students across campus in Social Policy, Environmental Policy, and Human Rights. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Applications

Candidates should submit application materials electronically via <https://career8.successfactors.com/sfcareer/jobreqcareer?jobId=6956&company=purdueuniv&username=>

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position. Candidates at the level of associate professor with tenure may submit names three references in lieu of letters.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to the search committee chair, Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Equal Opportunity

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6044

Princeton University

Rank: Garwood Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. The Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Visiting Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12907> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6036

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2020 to September 1, 2021, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on outstanding performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12905> (link is external)

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)

Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6038

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12906> (link is external). A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6037

Stetson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics and Post-Communist Studies)

Stetson University seeks an assistant professor of political science with a primary area of expertise in comparative politics and a focus on the post-communist world. The candidate should have a desire to teach and conduct research in a liberal arts setting. Besides teaching introductory and upper-level courses in comparative politics and offering innovative first-year and/or junior seminars, the candidate will develop courses to complement existing strengths in the Department of Political Science and contribute to Stetson's Program in Russian, East European and Eurasian Studies, as well as the potential to offer courses in other related programs (e.g. International Studies, Gender Studies, and Global Development).

QUALIFICATIONS:

A Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred, but applicants who are ABD will be considered if they are at the final stage of the dissertation process. Teaching experience beyond typical teaching assistant duties in graduate school is an advantage but not required. Candidates should have a strong commitment to innovative teaching, a creative approach to pedagogical design and implementation, and a strong commitment to all aspects of diversity in our learning-centered community.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

The teacher-scholar model at Stetson requires that tenure-track faculty teach three courses each semester complemented with quality scholarship and service. Primary teaching responsibilities include our introductory and upper level courses in comparative politics and the post-communist world. Other courses will be based on the candidate's expertise and may include offerings for the University's requirements in General Education, including First Year Seminars and Junior Seminars. The faculty member is also expected to mentor students academically and professionally.

Candidates should demonstrate a passion for quality teaching, combined with the ability to produce rigorous peer-reviewed academic scholarship. Scholarly activity leading to publication in peer-reviewed journals and service to the Department, the College of Arts and Sciences, the University, and the profession are required. For more information on our expectations in teaching and scholarship, our tenure policies, and our support for faculty professional development, please see the Office of the Provost and Academic Affairs website: <http://www.stetson.edu/administration/provost/index.php>.

THE DEPARTMENT:

The Department of Political Science (<http://www.stetson.edu/artsci/political-science/>) offers academically rigorous majors in both Political Science and Public Management. Departmental faculty contribute regularly to interdisciplinary programs such as International Studies, Russian, Eastern European and Eurasian Studies, Latin American Studies, Africana Studies, the Honors Program, Environmental Science and Studies, and Public Health. We have had considerable success placing students in high-quality graduate programs in Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration and in prominent law schools. Faculty in the Department are committed to the teacher-scholar model, which involves teaching within a traditional liberal arts environment where the primary focus is extensive interaction with undergraduate students in a small class environment, while also maintaining an active research agenda.

THE COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES:

Stetson's College of Arts and Sciences (<http://www.stetson.edu/portal/artsci/>) is the largest and most diverse of the University's colleges and schools; it includes the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, education, and creative arts. With nineteen academic departments and eight interdisciplinary programs, the College is the liberal arts core of the University. A great strength of the College is its faculty of approximately 140 full-time teacher-scholars. The College offers 31 undergraduate majors and 34 undergraduate minors; six graduate degrees are offered in Education, Counselor Education, and Creative Writing. Every undergraduate major requires a senior research project, giving students the opportunity to design and carry out independent research under faculty mentorship. Our academic programs are shaped by the values of social justice and civic responsibility. All of our courses and programs of study promote engaged learning, whereby students create connections between the classroom or lab and the local, regional, and global community. The academic programs of the College of Arts and Sciences prepare students to live significant lives, to interact with and positively affect the world around them.

THE UNIVERSITY:

Founded in 1883, Stetson University (<http://www.stetson.edu>) is a private, selective university comprised of a rich array of liberal arts and professional academic programs. Collectively, Stetson's faculty works with nearly 4000 students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs. The University's historic main campus, located in DeLand, enrolls more than 2,800 students in undergraduate programs in the College of Arts & Sciences, the School of Business Administration, and the School of Music. Stetson University College of Law, Florida's first law school, moved from the main campus to Gulfport in 1954, and, with the addition of the Tampa Law Center, serves approximately 1,000 students working full-time or part-time toward J.D. or LL.M. degrees. Graduate programs offered at the main campus and at Stetson University Center in Celebration include Business, Accounting, Educational Leadership, Counseling, and Creative Writing. Florida's oldest private institution of higher learning, Stetson has regularly been ranked among the best regional universities in the Southeast and was the first private college in Florida to be granted a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Stetson University provides an inspiring education that engages students with rigorous academic and creative study grounded in liberal learning and promotes civic values of personal and social responsibility. Working closely with faculty and with one another, students cultivate abilities to explore issues deeply, think critically, reason empirically, speak persuasively, and connect ideas creatively. Firmly committed to inclusive excellence, our vibrant community of teacher-scholars nurtures the potential of individual students to lead lives of significance and prepares each to meet the challenges of shaping the future—locally, nationally, and globally.

THE COMMUNITY:

DeLand is a picturesque residential community of 32,000 located 20 miles west of Daytona Beach and 35 miles northeast of Orlando. The area offers extensive cultural as well as recreational activities.

SALARY: Salary is competitive.

STARTING DATE: August 10, 2020

APPLICATION:

Applicants must send the following materials for consideration: 1) a cover letter summarizing the candidate's interest in the position and qualifications, 2) a statement of the candidate's teaching philosophy, a representative sample of teaching evaluations, and other relevant teaching materials (e.g. syllabi, assignments, etc.), 3) a curriculum vitae, 4) copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts, 5) three letters of recommendation sent under separate cover by the recommenders via e-mail (at least one of which should include an evaluation of teaching ability), and 6) a statement of research interests and a description of how undergraduate students might participate in that research. Candidates are encouraged to highlight skills and experiences that demonstrate a commitment to social justice, diversity, and inclusion.

Departmental representatives will conduct interviews at the Career Fair of the Annual Meeting of the American Political Science Association, August 29-September 1 in Washington, D.C. Participation in these interviews is not required and non-participation will not affect a candidate's application in any way.

Review of applications will begin on October 1 and continue until the position is filled.

Please submit all application materials electronically to the search committee at polisearch@stetson.edu

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6010

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Associate Professor/Professor - Comparative Politics

Specializations: Africa, East Asia, Middle East

Associate/ Full Professor – Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one full-time tenure-stream appointment in the field of Comparative Politics. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor and will begin on July 1, 2020, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated exceptional record of excellence in research and teaching. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

We are interested in comparative politics scholars who focus on the regions of East Asia or Africa or the Middle East. While subject area is open, we especially welcome candidates whose research focuses on race, conflict, regime change, political violence, state formation/building, resource politics, human rights, or distributive politics. The successful candidate will be able to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Comparative Politics, as well as advanced courses in East Asia or Africa or the Middle East.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence of an internationally competitive caliber, as evidenced by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in leading journals or with leading presses in the field, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, distinguished accolades or awards, other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the discipline, strong endorsements by referees of high standing, and an outstanding track-record of externally funded research.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required and will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a strong teaching statement, sample course syllabi, and the teaching evaluations, as well as strong letters of reference.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/ and www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint), two comparative politics syllabi (1 graduate and 1 undergraduate), a statement of teaching expertise and interest (1 page max), teaching evaluations, and a statement outlining current and future research interests (2 pages max).

Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed, dated and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Andrea Olive, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca by the closing date.

To receive consideration, applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by October 31, 2019.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: uoft.me/how-to-apply. If you have questions about this position, please contact chair.pol.utm@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see uoft.me/UP.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 10/31/2019

Date Posted: 8/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5993

The College of Wooster

Rank: Assistant Professor Global Environmental Justice

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Open, Other

Description

The Departments of Environmental Studies and Political Science at The College of Wooster seek to fill a tenure track position in Global Environmental Justice at the level of Assistant Professor, beginning in the fall of 2020. We are looking for a broadly trained specialist in environmental politics and social justice with area studies expertise and a high proficiency in qualitative methodologies.

Qualifications

The successful candidate should have a demonstrated ability to teach courses and advise research projects in environmental justice and social justice, broadly conceived. They would teach introductory and advanced courses in the Environmental Studies and Political Science departments, supervise independent research projects as part of the College's Independent Study requirement, and participate in teaching the College's First Year Seminar. We seek to hire a scholar whose research and teaching addresses one or more dimensions of environmental justice, such as: the intersections of global climate change and class, ethnic, or racial inequalities; comparative environmental movements; forced displacement and migration due to environmental crisis; food or water insecurity; or environmental governance. In addition, we are interested in candidates whose research and teaching can connect with one or more interdisciplinary programs at The College of Wooster such as Africana Studies, Global & International Studies, East Asian Studies, South Asian Studies, Middle Eastern and North African Studies, Urban Studies, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The College of Wooster enrolls a diverse student body (21% domestic students of color and 15% international students); applicants should have experience with diverse student populations.

Application Instructions

We prefer candidates who will have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment and who have had previous independent teaching experience. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of effective teaching (including syllabi and summaries of student evaluations), a statement regarding how the applicant will contribute to the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/66667>. Applications received by October 1, 2019, will receive full consideration. Please contact Matt Mariola (m-mariola@wooster.edu), Associate Professor of Environmental Studies and Chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 8/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5991

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in comparative public administration beginning on August 1, 2020. This is a ten-month tenure-track position at our Troy, Alabama location. The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2020 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 15, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. To apply, please visit: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com/postings/22822>

Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 10/31/2019
Date Posted: 8/14/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5986

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Assistant Professor, Political Science, Human Security
 University of Nevada, Reno - Main Campus

Job Description

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a tenure-track, full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the area of human security. We seek a scholar researching large-scale political, environmental, economic and/or social problems, potentially crossing international boundaries. Specializations might include, but are not limited to, linkages between climate change and food security; regional or global health issues affecting human security; research on refugees, migration, the dispossessed or internally displaced people as a result of famine, drought, environmental deterioration, or conflict. The Political Science Department at UNR has a growing emphasis in the broad area of human security and a commitment to inclusion. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda under this umbrella and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MA/PhD). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field in hand by August 15, 2020.
 A developing or established research agenda in human security
 A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields
 A rigorous, empirical research methodology.
 Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity
 Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Grade/Rank

II, Assistant Professor

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. The University of Nevada, Reno is a Research 1 land-grant campus of the Nevada System of Higher Education with a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students. Nearly half of incoming students identify as being from an underrepresented group. In accordance with the university's land grant, tier one research institution mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many U.S. transportation hubs and to Mexico. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-William Eubank bille@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

To apply, please go to: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science--Human-Security_R0117646. A complete application must include the following:

- 1) A complete Curriculum Vita
- 2) Cover letter stating qualifications, experience, research plans and teaching experience
- 3) Three letters of recommendation
- 4) A brief statement (one page maximum) about how you would contribute toward our mission of creating a culturally inclusive environment in the role for which you are applying
- 5) Two research-based writing samples

Please contact jobs@unr.edu, the day you apply, if assistance is needed with uploading documents.

Close Date or Open Until Filled

Position is open until filled; first review of applications will begin Oct. 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5981

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer up to two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D. graduates of exceptional promise.

Eligibility

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or history. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, environmental/energy governance, and social development in China, with a focus on public policy challenges. Knowledge of Chinese is required, specifically the ability to work with original Chinese language sources.

Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center (such as our biweekly doctoral fellows workshop series) is required. It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation or public talk during the fellowship period. Foreign nationals must be eligible for J-1 visa sponsorship.

Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources.

Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have completed ALL requirements for the Ph.D. degree (including the dissertation defense) by June 1, 2020. Preference will be given to applicants with no previous postdoctoral fellowships.

Benefits

Each fellowship will run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $60,000, health insurance, and a work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

How to Apply

To submit an application for the AY2020-22 fellowship, please download the Post-Doc Application. Email the completed form, research proposal, writing samples and a current CV by December 2, 2019 (Monday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "Postdoctoral Fellowships in China Public Policy" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters should be emailed directly to the Ash Center from the referees.

Any inquiries regarding the fellowship should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama, Ash Center Fellows Program Manager, at kaori_urrayama@hks.harvard.edu.

Please note that we do not provide critique/feedback on unsuccessful applications.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/2/2019
Date Posted: 8/13/2019
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 5970

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in comparative politics for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department and across the broader Vanderbilt community. We especially welcome applications from scholars who specialize in Eastern Europe and/or Asia, to help facilitate scholarship and curricular bridges between the Department of Political Science and the Max Kade Center for European and German Studies and/or the Vanderbilt Asian Studies Program. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2020. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2019. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 15, 2019, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August, 2020.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), a diversity statement, and three letters of reference electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/66543.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/12/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5963

Portland State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Departments of Political Science and International & Global Studies at Portland State University are searching for a shared tenure-track Assistant Professor position. The ideal candidate will conduct research and teach in the fields of Comparative Politics and/or International Relations with a focus on development. There is a strong preference for candidates who study development through the lens of international political economy, Africa, the Middle East, human rights policy, or global health policy.

Please submit:

- letter of application (cover letter),
- curriculum vitae,

- graduate transcripts (upload under "Other-2"),
- writing sample (e.g. article, book chapter, conference paper, etc) and,
- teaching evaluations (upload under 'Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness').

Please list the names, telephone numbers and email addresses for three professional references. As soon as you submit your application, your references will be emailed a link to upload their letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin September 16, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please contact the Department of Political Science at polisci@pdx.edu

Portland State University is Oregon's most affordable public research university, located in the heart of one of America's most dynamic cities. Our mission to "let knowledge serve the city" reflects our dedication to turning ideas into action — in Portland and around the world. The city is our campus, giving students unmatched access to career connections, a vibrant cultural scene and hands-on learning experiences with hundreds of community partners. More than 27,000 students from all backgrounds bring diverse perspectives to our classrooms and campus life, from the tree-lined Park Blocks to the bustling Urban Plaza and state-of-the-art science labs. We are proud of our world-class faculty, groundbreaking research and international reputation for excellence in sustainability, community engagement and innovation.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. in a related field must be completed by September 1, 2020.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Creates an environment that acknowledges, encourages and celebrates differences.
- Functions and communicates effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities and cultural backgrounds.
- Seeks opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement
- Adheres to all PSU's policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.
- Contributes to a culture of environmental stewardship, practices resource conservation, and actively works toward achieving long-term sustainability goals.

Professional Standards of Conduct:

At Portland State University, all employees are expected to conduct themselves in a professional manner which maintains a safe, respectful, and productive environment for faculty, students, administrators, and staff. It is the responsibility of every member of the Portland State University community to conduct themselves in accordance with our PSU Professional Standards of Conduct which are available at www.pdx.edu/hr/professional-standards-conduct.

Total Compensation Range & Benefits Statement:

The starting annual salary rate for this position will be between $65,007-$67,005. The starting salary may be negotiable above this range, however it will be dependent upon the knowledge, experience, skills and abilities of the chosen candidate, the budget of the hiring committee, and approval from HR.

PSU's excellent benefits package includes 95% premium paid healthcare; a generous retirement and vacation package, and reduced tuition rates for employee, spouse or dependent at any of the Oregon Public Universities

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/8/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 5945

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: South Asia, Middle East, Religion & Politics

Assistant-Level Faculty Position in the Social Sciences with a focus on Muslim Societies

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position focused on the culture, economics or politics of Muslim societies. We especially welcome applications from scholars who are studying Muslim societies in Iran and Central Asia, as well as South, Southeast and East Asia.

The successful applicant for this position will be appointed in one of the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, Communication, Economics, Political Science, or Sociology. The successful applicant will have teaching and advising responsibilities in their home department and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of research interests, a curriculum vitae including list of publications, and one recent writing sample. Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 25, 2019. Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14164>

For Anthropology applicants only: Anthropology will contact candidates at a later date to request that three confidential letters of recommendation be submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/8/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5941

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations

The Center for Commerce and Diplomacy (CCD) at UC San Diego's School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) invites applications for a postdoctoral research position for the 2020-2021 academic year.

These awards are designed to promote high-quality research on the challenges and institutions of international economic diplomacy in a changing world. Research projects that seek to understand the causes and consequences of the institutions of economic globalization (e.g. GATT/WTO, FTAs, BITs, IMF, World Bank, Fast-Track, TPA, RTAA, etc) are particularly welcome. Commercial diplomats operate within a set of domestic and international institutions that governs their behavior in international negotiations. But we know little about the specifics of these rules and procedures, how they came into being, how they vary over time and across countries, and how they affect economic outcomes. Post-doctoral research on the institutions of economic globalization can help answer questions about the welfare and distributional consequences of these institutions and, ultimately, result in the better design of these institutions.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites applications from candidates with a background in Economics, Political Science, Economic History, Legal History, or other disciplines bearing on the study of Economic Diplomacy. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the appointment (September 28, 2020 – June 11, 2021), and to interact with faculty and Ph.D. students, giving at least one research talk. Selected fellows are also expected to attend CCD events and related seminars, and to post their research on the CCD website.

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019, for full consideration; however, the posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process: All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02196>

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or receive a Ph.D. degree in Economics, Political Science, Economic History, Legal History, or other disciplines related to the study of Economic Diplomacy by the start of appointment.

Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on December 6, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary - Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. CCD Fellows will receive applicable UCSD benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the UCSD's background check policy.

For more information about the Center for Commercial Diplomacy fellowship program, please contact Alexandra Hubenko, Executive Director, at ahubenko@ucsd.edu

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5926

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor in Social Diversity

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in the area of Social Diversity. We are seeking a candidate whose research focuses on key issues of development and diversity, and who can teach core courses in both fields too. We seek candidates with deep area-based expertise in the Global South but, within those parameters, we are open as to precise region or country of specialisation. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2020, or shortly thereafter.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page (Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>) to learn more about us.

Candidates must provide strong evidence of research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. The successful candidate will be expected to mount an innovative, competitive, independent, and externally funded research program and to pursue outstanding research at the highest international level. Evidence of excellence in teaching is required and is demonstrated by a teaching dossier, to include a strong statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, teaching evaluations and teaching accomplishments, and strong endorsements from referees. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St George) campus.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample (approximately 10,000 words), teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Because we seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity, candidates are also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups. Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 3, 2019.

All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by October 3, 2019.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/3/2019

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5925

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Comparative Politics/Comparative Political Economy

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics and Comparative Political Economy.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured) or contact references (if tenured), and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53011>

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2019, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/6/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5904

Mount Saint Mary's University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Conflict Processes

The Department of Political Science at Mount St. Mary's University invites outstanding teacher-scholars to apply for a tenure-track appointment starting in August 2020. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science with a specialization in international relations and/or comparative politics and will have demonstrated a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service to a campus community.

The successful candidate must possess the ability to teach in two or more of the following areas: social science research methods, American foreign policy, conflict and security studies, international law and organizations, and/or human rights. In addition, the successful candidate must possess the ability to teach in a one or more of the following regional specializations: The Middle East and North Africa, sub-Saharan Africa and/or Russia and Eastern Europe. The regional courses contribute to the Core Program, our common liberal arts curriculum, and our international studies program.

Qualified applicants will have a Ph.D. in political science before May 2020 and will have a primary area of competence in international relations/comparative politics with an ability to teach in our interdisciplinary Core Program courses, including our first year symposium course.

Mount St. Mary's University is the second oldest Catholic university in America and seeks faculty members eager to engage and support our Catholic identity. Located in a serene mountain setting in Emmitsburg, Md., yet near major metropolitan areas, the Mount is a comprehensive, nationally recognized Catholic university with an enrollment of over 2,000 students and a 13:1 student to faculty ratio.

Salary

This is a full-time position with full benefits and annual, holiday, and sick leave. Competitive salary commensurate to experience.

Position Status

- Full-time position-Beginning August 2020
- Applications received by October 15, 2020 will be given full consideration.

Required Documents

- Cover letter that briefly summarizes your qualifications and interest in the position
- Curriculum vitae
- 3 Letters of Recommendation
- Student Evaluations

Ways to Apply

Please send cover letter, curriculum vitae, student evaluations, and three letters of recommendation to polisci@msmary.edu or to the following address:

PS/IS Search Committee
 Department of Political Science
 Mount St. Mary's University
 16300 Old Emmitsburg Road
 Emmitsburg, Maryland 21727

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2019
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 5908

Sabanci University

Rank: Open Faculty Position - Sabanci University

FACULTY POSITION in POLITICAL SCIENCE

Sabanci University, Istanbul, Turkey

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabanci University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding candidates whose primary research interests involve Comparative Politics. We are particularly interested in scholars who conduct research in one of the following areas: political behavior, political regime change or political economy.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabanci University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academiccv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5910

Sabancı UniversityRank: Open Rank - Comparative Politics/ Public Policy (Sabanci University)

FACULTY POSITION in POLITICAL SCIENCE

Sabanci University, Istanbul, Turkey

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabanci University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding candidates whose primary research interests involve Comparative Politics/Public Policy. We are particularly interested in scholars who conduct research in one of the following areas: Turkish Politics, policy evaluation or social policy.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabancı University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academicv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/5/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 5911Worcester State University*Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science*Specializations: Latin American, South Asia, Southeast Asia

The Department of History and Political Science at Worcester State University seeks a tenure-track Political Scientist in the field of Comparative Politics and/or International Relations with an area specialty in South Asia, Southeast Asia, or Latin America.

The successful candidate will teach the department's introductory courses in Global Politics and International Relations, as well as Political Science Research Methods and upper-level courses in their specialty, and should be prepared to contribute to the university's interdisciplinary programs including Global Studies, Ethnic Studies, Pre-Law, Environmental and Sustainability Studies, and/or Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and to further Worcester State's commitment to increasing and fostering diversity in our campus community.

The teaching load is four courses per semester. Instructional formats may include face-to-face classes, blended, or fully online courses. Responsibilities of the position include carrying out a scholarly research agenda, advising undergraduate students, and otherwise contributing to the academic and strategic missions of the department and the university.

REQUIREMENTS

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required and must be conferred by August 2020.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until position is filled.

Salary and rank commensurate with education and experience.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

All applicants must apply online at: <http://worcester.interviewexchange.com>

Please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, writing sample (of approximately 30 pages), sample syllabus, and 3 signed letters of reference dated within six months of the posting date. Original transcripts will be required if degrees cannot be verified through the National Student Clearinghouse.

All information that can be uploaded to one's e-account should be done so by the applicant; information which cannot may be faxed to 508-929-8169 or sent to the following address:

Director of Human Resources
Worcester State University
486 Chandler Street
Worcester, MA 01602-2597

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/1/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 5887Florida State University*Rank: Assistant Professor

The Florida State University is recruiting an assistant professor of political science on a tenure earning line to begin in August 2020. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, conduct research in their area of expertise and contribute to department, college and university service. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda, strong analytical and empirical skills, and seek to achieve the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to undergraduate and graduate education. The department is especially interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in scientific study of international conflict and cooperation, including interstate and intrastate conflict, political violence, and human rights. Successful candidates will have training in advanced quantitative methods and be able to contribute to graduate training in that area. Candidates must have earned their doctoral degrees before their appointment begins in August, 2020.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Doctoral I institution. Its student population of around 42,000 includes around 8,500 students in graduate and professional schools. Tallahassee is the Florida state capital has a population of about 190,000 within a metro area with about 375,000 residents. The department has over 1,100 majors, an applied master degree program that focuses on practical political management, and a doctoral program.

Florida State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to diversity and inclusion (<https://diversity.fsu.edu/>), and we seek individuals who are dedicated to excellence in teaching and research, who share the University's goals to achieve greater diversity and inclusion, and who are reflective of our student body. The successful candidate will work effectively, respectfully, and collaboratively in a diverse, multicultural and inclusive setting. We encourage applications from women, minorities, and/or individuals with a demonstrated commitment to a culturally and intellectually diverse workplace.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application that indicates their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendations, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Please submit files and questions about the search to polisci@fsu.edu. To ensure that materials are reviewed, please submit files by October 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5869

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor in Economic, Racial/Ethnic, and/or Gender Inequality

Subfield(s): Open, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics

Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Position – Advertisement
Department of Political Science at The University of Tennessee

Economic Racial/Ethnic and/or Gender Inequality

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in economic, racial/ethnic, and/or gender inequality, to begin Fall 2020. The position is open with regard to field in Political Science (or related discipline) and methodological approach. We welcome applications from scholars across the discipline who analyze how political actors, processes, institutions, outcomes or individuals are racialized, classed, and/or gendered and/or who take intersectional approaches to understanding these questions. We are particularly interested in applicants with substantive research agendas that grapple with challenging issues of marginalization and exclusion and who exhibit a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The successful candidate must have strong research skills and a theoretically motivated research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: polisci-utk.edu. Faculty within the department are also associated with a variety of interdisciplinary programs and working groups across the university, including but not limited to the Critical Race Collective; the Global Studies program; the Intersectionality Community of Scholars; and the Women, Gender, and Sexuality program.

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded via Interfolio. Please submit application material in digital format via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/66902>. Review of applications begins October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Jana Morgan at janamorgan@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5864

North Central College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at North Central College seeks candidates for a tenure-track position in political science with emphasis in public law, judicial politics, law and society, or comparative law to begin Fall 2020. Ph.D. must be in hand by August 1, 2020. Our department is committed to preparing students to contribute meaningfully to a democracy, while at the same time understanding the nuance of political equality and civic participation. We value diversity and are committed to social justice, equity, and inclusiveness. Experience working with historically marginalized and underserved communities will be weighed in a candidate's favor.

Applicants should have teaching experience and show potential for excellence in undergraduate teaching and scholarship. In addition to teaching courses in law (Introduction to Law, Constitutional Law, Civil Rights and Liberties), a candidate should be prepared to teach the introductory course in American government and contribute to the department's methodology courses. The department expects that the successful candidate will also develop courses in their areas of expertise. There will be additional opportunities for the successful candidate to contribute to North Central's tradition of interdisciplinary learning.

Founded in 1861, North Central College is a selective, comprehensive liberal arts institution of about 3000 students, located 28 miles west of Chicago in Naperville. The College is in a period of growth with the addition of a $60 million Science Center opened in March 2017. The college is within walking distance of the Naperville Metra station and is next to downtown Naperville. The Naperville area is home to many excellent school districts and Naperville, IL has been ranked as one of the best places to live by Money magazine. For more information, please visit: <http://www.noctrl.edu>.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of scholarly interest, evidence of teaching effectiveness and three letters of recommendation in an electronic format.

To apply on line copy and paste link below into browser: <https://northcentralcollege.peopleadmin.com/postings/6584>

For further information, please email Dr. William Muck, Chair of Political Science, at wjmuck@noctrl.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 16, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5857

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2020. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2020.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must submit a CV, a job market paper and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2019. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/30/2019
Date Posted: 7/22/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5811

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics, Tenure-Track

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics, broadly defined. We are open with respect to methodological approach and substantive and/or regional area of interest.

We seek a scholar whose work is focused on the urgent and perennial questions of world politics. These are now, and for the next several decades, likely to be concerned with processes of democratization, threats to democracy, causes of global inequality, challenges to national identity posed by migration, the political economy of changing modes of production, the regional and global impact of climate change, and how social movements succeed or fail. We are open with respect to the successful candidate's areas of interest and expertise which could include but are not restricted to the above questions and other interests such as diaspora, Native American and comparative Indigenous politics, human rights, authoritarianism or non-violent political change.

Successful candidates will contribute to the intellectual diversity of the department. They should be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses and advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics. They may also teach in their substantive area of expertise.

Boston University is an exciting place in which to study and teach politics. It has internationally known regionally focused centers, e.g. an African Studies Center and a Center for the Study of Europe. Other centers focus on religion, gender and sexuality, cities, and long-range futures.

Application materials, addressed to the Chair of the Comparative Politics Search Committee, should be submitted electronically on <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/14078> and include: a letter of interest describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience including your accomplishments in areas contributing to diversity, equity and inclusion; curriculum vitae; transcripts; evidence of previous teaching experience, including syllabi if those are available; a short writing sample, and three letters of reference sent directly from your recommenders.

Applications will be reviewed starting on 1 October 2019. Official transcripts are required prior to employment. The start day for employment is 1 July 2020, pending final budgetary approval.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 10/1/2019
Date Posted: 7/18/2019

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5801

Centre College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Presidency, Congress, Quantitative Methods

Centre College invites applications for a Two-Year Visiting Assistant Professor in Politics with expertise in American and comparative political institutions. We seek teacher-scholars that demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at a nationally-ranked liberal arts college.

Candidates may specialize in either American or comparative politics as their primary field but must have a strong secondary specialization in the other. Ideal candidates should be able to teach courses on U.S. political institutions (Congress, Presidency, state and local politics, e.g.) as well as equivalent global political institutions. This candidate must also be able to teach courses on quantitative data analysis and contribute to the major's political research curricular track. Previous work with applied politics (campaigns, data analytics, journalism, e.g.) and/or a research focus on the intersection of race, ethnicity, gender, or sexuality and political institutions is desirable.

At Centre College, a six-course teaching load is typically divided between two long semesters (five courses divided between fall and spring) and a three-week winter term (one course). Candidates must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment. Applications from A.B.D. candidates will be considered. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience with and enjoy teaching, mentoring, and creating inclusive environments where all students can thrive.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,450 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. For information concerning the college, visit our website at <http://www.centre.edu>. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati.

To apply, please submit the following materials by October 1, 2019: a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, materials demonstrating teaching effectiveness, three confidential letters of recommendation, and transcripts. In addition, please include a diversity statement explaining how you would contribute to and/or address the issues of diversity and inclusion at Centre. The letter of application must include a statement addressing the candidate's experience and goals as a teacher/scholar in the liberal arts model. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019.

Applications can be submitted via the Interfolio portal here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/65567>

Centre College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is a proud member of the Greater Kentucky Higher Education Recruitment Consortium: <http://www.greaterkyherc.org>. The Greater Kentucky HERC is a non-profit organization composed of a diverse group of colleges, universities, hospitals, government agencies, non-profit organizations, and members of private industry committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse, talented workforce. Member representatives include faculty, staff, human resources professionals, institutional leaders, and faculty relations experts.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5788

American University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position Announcement

Assistant Professor
 Department of Government
 School of Public Affairs
 American University

The School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-line position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics beginning August 1, 2020. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completed by August 2020. Successful candidates will have strong methodological skills. The department is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests extend beyond comparative politics to American politics or methodology, and build on the department's goals of producing high impact research, providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching, and contributing to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 16, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/64947>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, and three letters of recommendation. Please email govsearch@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively “Protected Bases”) in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/2/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5734

Colorado College

Rank: Comparative Politics Position - Open Rank

The Department of Political Science at Colorado College is hiring for a position in comparative politics, broadly defined. The rank is open. The position requires expertise in the Middle East and North Africa, broadly defined. Crucial to the position is potential for, and commitment to, excellence in scholarship as well as in teaching at a liberal arts institution.

Colorado College is committed to fostering an intellectually rigorous and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work. Candidates should identify the ways in which they can contribute to these goals.

Colorado College has a distinctive academic program, the Block Plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, with an academic year of eight and a half blocks. The teaching load is six blocks a year. Faculty can apply for a limited number of release blocks, as well as various sources of funding, to pursue research.

If the successful candidate is to begin employment at the assistant professor level, all requirements for the Ph.D. should be completed by the starting date of August 24, 2020.

Applicants should submit: 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research goals; 4) a statement of pedagogical principles; 5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (including syllabi and evaluations); 6) undergraduate and graduate transcripts; 7) a dissertation abstract (if applying at the assistant professor level); 8) a sample of scholarly publications, and 9) three letters of recommendation to: <https://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/4035>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/15/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5731

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Chinese Politics: International or Comparative Political Economy

Specializations: China, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Johns Hopkins University invites applications for a position in international relations or comparative politics with a focus on China. We are especially interested in scholars who examine China’s role in the world through the lens of international or comparative political economy.

The Department prides itself on its ability to foster innovative research and forge cross-field synergies that reach beyond the traditional divides of our discipline. We are a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department, and we encourage applications from those trained in a variety of research methods.

Applicants at the level of assistant or associate professor are welcome. In addition to a cover letter, all applicants should submit a research statement, description of teaching philosophy, a writing sample, and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates applying at the level of assistant professor should send three letters of recommendation via Interfolio. Applicants at the level of associate professor, please provide the names of three references. Please visit <http://apply.interfolio.com/64888> to upload application materials.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2020.

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the University’s goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5726

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University’s background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 3, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12123>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (earned within three years of the start date). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/3/2020

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5683

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments can be from 15 days to one-month during the 2020-2021 academic year (September 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines stipend on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 18, 2019. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12122>.

- 1) Cover letter (in English) indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, 15 days to one-month during the academic year (September 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021), title of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) A statement (in English) describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 – 2,000 words);
- 4) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5682

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2020-2021 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2020 - January 31, 2021; spring semester: February 1- June 30, 2021). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 18, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials (in English) and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12121>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal or syllabus for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (2,000 – 3,000 words);
- 5) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5681

Mrs.

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science--International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Westmont College, Santa Barbara, CA invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of associate or assistant professor in International Relations. The appointment will begin in August 2020. Candidates should be able to teach broadly in international relations, with preference given to those who can also offer courses in comparative politics and introductory research methods. Applicants must have a Ph.D., evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching, and a commitment to mentoring undergraduate students. A normal teaching load includes three 4-unit courses per semester, committee assignments, and academic advising.

Westmont College is a nationally ranked, selective liberal arts college in the evangelical Protestant tradition. We desire faculty who are animated by a serious Christian faith, are able to engage in interdisciplinary dialogue and pedagogy, and who share a commitment to justice, citizenship, and service. Westmont has a strong commitment to cultural and academic diversity that is increasingly reflected in its student body, curriculum, and faculty. We seek a colleague who shares these commitments and will contribute to their rich applications in political science.

Please visit <https://www.westmont.edu/office-provost/open-positions> for application instructions and to submit relevant documents.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Jesse Covington, chair of Political Science via e-mail: jcovington@westmont.edu. Review of applications will begin in June 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

For priority interview consideration, applications should be received by August 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5651

University of New Orleans

Rank: Doris Zemurray Stone Chair in Latin American Studies

POSITION SUMMARY: The University of New Orleans invites applications and nominations for the endowed Doris Zemurray Stone Chair in Latin American Studies. The University of New Orleans has expanded its work in Latin America to include faculty research in Latin America and a Latin American student outreach program. The endowment includes support for the Chair, for an annual conference, for a Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies, and for the expansion of summer and other programs in Latin America.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Responsibilities of the chair-holder include: 1) pursuit of chair-holder's research interest; 2) teaching in the chair-holder's area of expertise; 3) development and oversight of a center for Latin American studies; 4) curriculum development and coordination of existing course offerings in the study of Latin America, broadly defined; 5) participation in the existing Latin American Outreach Program, which includes recruitment of students in Latin America; 6) service as a University liaison to the local Latin American community; 7) organizing an annual academic conference, and 8) involvement in fundraising, including student scholarship from the endowment.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: PhD in a social science or humanities academic discipline as an advanced assistant professor or higher, with a clear track towards tenure; teaching, research, and administrative experience in Latin American and Caribbean studies sufficient to meet the expectations for an endowed chair-holder.

DESIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Experience in administrative and fund-raising activities towards program development and a record of teaching and research consistent with broadly conceived sympathies to interdisciplinary, cross-cultural, and comparative approaches to Latin American, Caribbean, and Circum-Caribbean studies, as well as broadly defined research, teaching and regional geographic interests. APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Application materials, including a letter of interest, a cv, a sample of published writing, and the names and contact information of three professional references, should be sent to Dr. Jeffrey David Ehrenreich, Zemurray Stone Chair Selection Committee, University of New Orleans, New Orleans, LA 70148 (jehrenre@uno.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2018

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5159

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

American University-SIS

Rank: One Full-Time Non-Tenure Track Faculty Position

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track faculty appointment for the Academic Year 2020-2021 with a focus on US foreign policy and national/global/human security.

Academic Rank and compensation will depend on the successful candidate's experience, accomplishments and professional stature in the field. The appointment is for one academic year, commencing on August 1, 2020, with the expectation that the appointment may be renewed for subsequent academic years subject to satisfactory performance and budgetary authorization.

The position is intended for a person who will teach courses six courses (undergraduate and/or MA-level graduate) per academic year. All faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service. Applicants should share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Applicants should hold a PhD or the highest equivalent degree in a social science discipline by the anticipated start date or employment. Experienced practitioners with equivalent qualifications (MA/MS/JD and ten years of professional experience in the field) will also be considered.

The successful candidate will teach primarily courses related to US foreign policy and national/global/human security.

Review of applications will begin in January 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

- Applications must be submitted electronically via <http://apply.interfolio.com/69797>

- Attach a letter of application that addresses affinities with relevant teaching areas

- Attach a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy

- Attach student evaluations of teaching, if applicable and/or other evidence of teaching effectiveness

- Please also attach a statement of your past or future contributions to diversity and inclusion in professional settings or in institutions of higher education

- You will be asked to submit the names and email addresses of three professional references and request that they be contacted through the Interfolio portal for a confidential letter of recommendation.

Queries about the search may be sent to Assistant Dean for Graduate Education Michael Schroeder at schroede@american.edu Assistance with the online application system can be found here: <https://support.interfolio.com>

American University is a private institution of higher education in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. American University's School of International Service (SIS) is a top-ten school of international affairs with 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. SIS faculty produce transformational research and our prime location provides opportunities for collaboration with professionals in government, the private sector, think tanks and other non-profits. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7410

Colorado Mesa University

Rank: Visiting Professor of History or Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Distinguished scholars in History or Political Science are invited to apply for the Wayne N. Aspinall Chair at Colorado Mesa University. For a $10,000 stipend, the visiting professor will spend three weeks on the Colorado Mesa University campus from late March-to mid-April 2021; teach a one-credit course, give a major public lecture, and make any other invited appearances. Applications must include a vitae, a brief outline of a course proposal and a topic for the major public lecture. Submit application by February 1, 2020 to Dr. Justin Gollob, Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, Colorado Mesa University, 1100 North Ave., Grand Junction, CO 81501. Feel free to direct any inquiries to jgollob@coloradomesa.edu or 970 248-1279.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 2/1/2020

Date Posted: 11/1/2019

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 7365

CUNY-Baruch College

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

The Marx School is a multi-disciplinary community of scholars dedicated to teaching and research in policy and administration in domestic and international affairs as well as in higher education administration; our three graduate degree programs are the Master of Public Administration, the Master of International Affairs, and the Master of Science in Higher Education Administration. We also have a Bachelor of Science in Public Affairs. We are open to applications from a wide range of disciplines corresponding to those interests, including but not limited to Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Science, History, Sociology, Communication Studies, Economics, International Affairs, Higher Education Administration, and Demography.

The Marx School of Public and International Affairs seeks an Associate or Full Professor to assume the directorship of the School's survey research center, Baruch College Survey Research (BCSR). The successful candidate will teach courses and conduct academic research consistent with the appointment. Performs teaching, research and guidance duties in area(s) of expertise. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

You can view and apply for this job at:

https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=21350&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

Qualifications: Ph.D. degree in a field listed above. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

The Marx School seeks someone who has had experience involving a survey research operation with a Computer-Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI) lab, web-based surveys, focus groups, and other methods for gathering data on public opinion about policy-relevant issues. Most of BCSR's revenue is derived from contracts with clients from academia (including but not limited to Baruch College itself), government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and other institutional partners, making experience in professional management of survey staff and oversight of grants and contracts a must. Experience with media organizations is desirable.

We expect the successful candidate to begin his or her appointment in the Fall term of 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7427

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor, Rick and Cathy Trachok Endowed Chair in International Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for appointment as the Rick & Cathy Trachok Endowed Chair in International Studies at the rank of Professor or Advanced Associate Professor. We seek a scholar in the humanities or social sciences with an international reputation and a strong record of research and teaching. The applicant will have demonstrated expertise in contemporary or historical research of global, world regional, or comparative focus. Specialization is open, and applicants from any discipline represented in UNR's College of Liberal Arts may apply, but priority will be given to candidates in the fields of Anthropology, English, History, and Political Science. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses and will play a leadership role in UNR's Ozmen Institute for Global Studies. Please apply at the following link to be considered: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Professor--Rick-and-Cathy-Trachok-Endowed-Chair-in-International-Studies_R0118980

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. degree and status as an advanced associate or full professor;
- Demonstrated expertise and significant experience in some aspect of international studies;
- A record of publishing in top-tier journals and presses;
- A strong, ongoing program of research;
- Research proficiency in one or more languages in addition to English;
- Demonstrated excellence in teaching

Preferred Qualifications

- Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity
- Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Grade/Rank

- Associate Professor, III
- Full Professor, IV

College Information

The College of Liberal Arts is central to the intellectual and artistic life of the University of Nevada, Reno and is committed to fostering diversity, equity and inclusivity. The college contributes to the University's efforts to provide undergraduate students with general and specialized education that will prepare them for advanced study, careers and citizenship in a diverse world. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees, emphasizes inquiry, discovery, and openness to new ideas and perspectives, and supports major scholarly research and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a Research 1 land-grant campus of the Nevada System of Higher Education with a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students. Nearly half of incoming students identify as being from an underrepresented group. In accordance with the university's land grant, tier one research institution mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many U.S. transportation hubs and to Mexico. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

- Search Chair-Robert Joe Cutter, rcutter@unr.edu
- Search co-Coordinator- Spencer Schultz, spencerschultz@unr.edu

Exempt

Yes
Full-Time Equivalent

100.0%
Required Attachment(s)

Please attach the following documents to your application. Please contact jobs@unr.edu, the day you apply, if assistance is needed with attachments:

- 1) A complete Curriculum Vita;
- 2) Cover letter stating qualifications, experience, research plans and teaching experience
- 3) Contact information for three professional references
- 4) A brief statement (one page maximum) about how you would contribute toward our mission of creating a culturally inclusive environment in the role for which you are applying

5) Two research-based writing samples

Open Until Filled

Position is open until filled; however, first review of applications will begin November 27, 2019. Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7422

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: Post Doc Fellow

Two Year Post Doctorate at the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech invites applications for a two year post-doctoral fellowship to begin Fall 2020. The ideal candidate would have policy-relevant academic research and teaching interests that interface with one of the School's core programs in Emerging Technologies and International Security or in Global Development.

A successful applicant will conduct individual research, participate in relevant outreach activities, collaborate with Nunn School faculty and graduate students to pursue sponsored research programs, and teach one course per semester. The teaching requirements are negotiable and may be reduced by a collaborative research project. Therefore, the search committee strongly encourages applications from those who seek opportunities to collaborate with other parts of Georgia Tech's campus including the Georgia Tech Research Institute and the science and engineering schools. The salary is $60,000 per year.

Georgia Tech is a top-ranked public research university situated in the heart of Atlanta, a diverse and vibrant city with great economic and cultural strengths. The Institute is a member of the University System of Georgia, the Georgia Research Alliance, and the Association of American Universities. Georgia Tech prides itself on its technology resources, collaborations, high-quality student body, and its commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research interests, a description of teaching interests, an example of scholarly work, and the names and contact information for at least three references to postdoc.nunnschool@inta.gatech.edu. Applicants should have their referees submit their letters to the email above at the time of application. Applications will be considered until 1 February 2020 but the search will continue until the position is filled. An earned doctorate is required by the start of the appointment, and a background check must be completed prior to employment. Please direct inquiries to Lawrence Rubin (lawrence.rubin@inta.gatech.edu).

Georgia Tech is an equal education/employment opportunity institution dedicated to building a diverse community. We strongly encourage applications from women, underrepresented minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans. Georgia Tech has policies to promote a healthy work-life balance.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/29/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7407

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

North Dakota State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track position in political economy, to begin on August 16, 2020.

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor—or, for especially qualified applicants, associate professor—starting Fall 2020. We seek candidates with expertise in any area of political economy, although especially invite applications from candidates who focus on the political economy of development. For candidates with a regional specialization, we are especially interested in scholars studying areas other than Europe and North America. Successful applicants should be versed in comparative or international political economy and have a strong commitment to policy-relevant research and teaching. This is a 50% research, 40% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is, at most, 2-2, with at least one course release in the first three years. While the tenure home will be in the Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science, this position will be affiliated with the NDSU College of Business' Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research, teaching, and outreach that contributes to the Institute's mission. In turn, the Institute may also provide opportunities for graduate student assistance, course buyouts, and summer research support. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, upper-division classes on political economy, political institutions, and global policy issues, and will have opportunities to contribute to existing and emerging programs in public policy, political and economic institutions, and global studies. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2020, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) experience teaching political economy, institutions, and/or global policy courses at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels, 4) potential to contribute to the Challey Institute's mission, and 5) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of research productivity and quality, 2) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, 3) have experience pursuing and/or obtaining external funding, 4) have a research focus on the political economy of development, 5) conduct teaching and research that can contribute to NDSU's commitment to diversity and inclusion, 6) have experience working in, or developing, a global studies program, 7) have experience contributing to, or developing, a master's program in public policy, and/or 8) have a regional focus outside Europe and North America.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and names and contact information for 3 references (we will contact references for roughly 10 short-listed applicants). All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/10886>. Initial screening of applications will begin on or about November 21, 2019.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 12 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The Challey Institute

The Sheila and Robert Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth is an interdisciplinary institute that aims to advance understanding in the areas of innovation, trade, and institutions to identify policies and solutions that enhance economic growth and opportunity. The Challey Institute works toward achieving its mission by engaging in research, student programming, and outreach in the areas of (1) international trade, investment, and immigration, (2) innovation and entrepreneurship, and (3) institutions and policy.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>. Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 245,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year-round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7385

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2020. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the center's faculty.

To apply for a postdoctoral position, please link to <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14361>. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Applications should include:

- 1.A cover letter
- 2.A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
- 3.A current curriculum vitae
- 4.Contact information for two references
- 5.Two writing samples.

Application deadline: Jan 31, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Requisition No: D-20-PII-00003

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7401

Lamar University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Job Summary: The Department of Political Science invites applications for one full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science beginning August 2020.

Candidates should be able to teach introduction to comparative politics and advanced upper level comparative politics courses covering such areas as Western democracies, developing nations and/or a regional focus. Candidates should also be able to teach American Government (POLS 2301 and POLS 2302).

Qualifications: Candidates should have PhD in Political Science or Government awarded by date of employment. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate Lamar University's diverse population of students online and face-to-face; maintain an active service agenda; demonstrate a strong commitment to and evidence of an active research agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally-related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7373

Nuffield College, University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2020 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPHil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills. Teaching experience in any area of Comparative Government, Political Theory, or International Relations would be desirable.

The posts are full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 September 2020 or as soon as possible thereafter. Shorter-term appointments are unlikely to be considered. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 32,150 per annum (salary rate for 2019/20). Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Further benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/3848/polpprf_jd2020.pdf.

The deadline for applications is Monday 25 November 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/25/2019

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 7389

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Scientist

The Eisenhower Center for Space and Defense Studies within the Department of Political Science supports production and dissemination of knowledge relevant to cadets' National Security learning outcome at the United States Air Force Academy (USAFA).

In conjunction with USAFA's Nuclear Enterprise Research Center, Department of Physics, the Eisenhower Center invites applications for a one-year visiting scientist to research implications of technology development in areas including artificial intelligence, automation, additive manufacturing, nanotechnology, and quantum computing for nuclear strategy. The visitor will teach one section of approximately twenty-five cadets per semester and participate with Physics and Political Science research centers on a book-length project exploring “Third Offset Technologies and Nuclear Deterrence.” Financial support of $85K plus a travel budget for the twelve-month term (July 2020-June 2021) will be provided by the Stanton Foundation (New York and Cambridge, MA) through the USAFA Endowment. Expectations for research and teaching will be communicated formally through a separate Volunteer Service Agreement with the Superintendent of the Academy. Qualified candidates will have received their Ph.D. in Political Science or related field and demonstrated technical expertise through a master’s degree and/or policy experience in STEM. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. USAFA’s Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>. Applicants should e-mail cover letter expressing their interest, CV, and two-letters of recommendation to Col Kris Bauman (kris.bauman@usafa.edu), Eisenhower Center, Department of Political Science, USAFA by November 30, 2019.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 7395

Columbia University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: China, East Asia, International Security

Columbia University & Harvard University
China and the World Program (C&WP)
Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University’s School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University’s Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China’s international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen’s recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China’s interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2020-2021, C&WP will collaborate with the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University (WEAI) to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University (one funded by WEAI and one funded by CWP), and will teach one course in the spring semester. When not attending to program-related duties, fellows’ time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP and WEAI. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows’ research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2020-2021 academic year, beginning September 1, 2020, ending May 31, 2021. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University.

Qualifications:

- Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2017 and August 31, 2020.
- Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
- Only applicants working on some aspect of China’s relations with the outside world that supports CWP’s and WEAI’s missions need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp@columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

- 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
- Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
- Project description
- Two scholarly writing samples
- One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
- Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
- Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
- Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2020; a public announcement will be made by April 2020.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, or the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, and www.weai.columbia.edu respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 10/24/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7384

University of Arizona

Rank: Assistant Professor- Israel Studies

The School of Government and Public Policy (SGPP) at the University of Arizona invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in the area of Israel Studies, beginning in fall 2020. We are hiring in the area of Israel Studies and are interested in candidates whose research and teaching address the politics of Israel and the Palestinian territories and align with existing or emerging strengths in conflict and security, border politics, political psychology, political communication, and/or public opinion and electoral politics. A PhD in political science or a related social science field, is required by the time of appointment.

The School of Government and Public Policy is a growing and vibrant academic community housing scholars of Political Science, Public Policy, and Administration and Management, and offers in person and online Bachelor's and Master's degrees, as well as an in-residence PhD. Additional information on the SGPP is available at <http://sgpp.arizona.edu/>. SGPP is situated within the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS).

The candidate will be expected to have a demonstrated ability to conduct and publish significant empirical research. The successful candidate will be expected to teach two courses per semester at the undergraduate and graduate level, and to participate in outreach and contribute to departmental, college, and university service. Our faculty also help to develop innovative approaches to enhancing student engagement, increasing diversity, and expanding collaborations with community and business partners.

The University of Arizona has been recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution and, together with the SBS, has a strong commitment to diversity. The successful candidate must be able to work with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds; individuals from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Applicant reviews will begin November 15, 2019 and continue until position is filled. Candidates should submit a cover letter, statement of research and teaching interests (title of document slot within the application is "Statement of Research Interests"), current Curriculum Vitae, a sample of publications, and a writing sample via this website. Additionally, applicants will need to provide three letters of references.

General questions and all Letters of Reference can be directed the School of Government & Public Policy, Manager of Administration, Angela Hackett at ahackett@email.arizona.edu

All applications must be submitted through the University of Arizona Careers Website. Direct link to posting: <https://uacareers.com/postings/42661>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7386

Arcadia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Religion & Politics, International Law & Organizations

The ideal candidates should have research and pedagogical interests in one or more of the following areas: critical approaches to international relations; international law and human rights; political geography; politics and technology; and/or the politics of religion. The ideal candidate should be able to teach courses in several of the following courses: international relations, comparative politics, and/or international law and organizations. The search is open to scholars of any geographic region, but the department has a particular interest in scholars of the Global South. We welcome candidates with training in Political Science or other related disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields.

Qualifications: Ph.D. strongly preferred by September 2020, as are demonstrated excellence in and commitment to teaching, and a strong research and publishing record commensurate with the candidate's experience.

The ideal candidates should have research and pedagogical interests in one or more of the following areas: critical approaches to international relations; international law and human rights; political geography; politics and technology; and/or the politics of religion. The ideal candidate should be able to teach courses in several of the following courses: international relations, comparative politics, and/or international law and organizations. The search is open to scholars of any geographic region, but the department has a particular interest in scholars of the Global South. We welcome candidates with training in Political Science or other related disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields.

The teaching load for this position is a three/three, and the faculty member will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, participate in university service, and advise students.

Arcadia's College of Arts and Sciences offers programs in science, technology, and math; humanities; visual and performing arts; communications; and historical and political studies. These programs prepare students to be leaders in a global society by providing opportunities to exhibit, perform, and publish both on campus and in the Philadelphia area. The campus has a variety of outlets to support the arts and sciences, including art galleries, a literary magazine, and an online academic journal.

Arcadia University is a top-ranked private university in the greater Philadelphia area that promises a distinctly global, integrative, and personal learning experience to prepare students to contribute and lead in a diverse and dynamic world. A national leader in study abroad and international education, Arcadia has been named #1 in undergraduate study abroad participation for the ninth consecutive year by the Institute of International Education's Open Doors Report, and second for international programs by U.S. News and World Report. Approximately 3,900 students attend Arcadia, and the University's 2,500 undergraduate students choose from more than 65 fields of study.

Applications must be submitted online through Arcadia's Human Resources portal to receive full consideration. Please do not email application materials to hiring manager. Due to the volume of applications received, communication will generally be limited to those candidates that are selected for additional consideration.

For additional information and to apply, please visit: <https://faculty-arcadia.icims.com/jobs/> and submit a cover letter, CV names and phone numbers of three academic references.

Application review will begin immediately. Posting will be removed from the website once we've established a sufficient talent pool for consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/23/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7382

Clements Center for National Security (University of Texas at Austin)

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. In some cases Fellows will be welcome to teach a course at the University of Texas. Each appointment is for one year, and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a letter of application, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than February 3, 2020. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2020, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 2/3/2020
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 7348

Concordia University

Rank: Tenure Track Position in Political Science, specializing in Global Environmental Politics

The Department of Political Science at Concordia University in Montreal, Quebec, seeks applications for a tenure-track appointment in Political Science, with a specialization in global environmental politics. Preference will be given to research on the international political economy of, or foreign policymaking regarding, sustainability or climate change. Applicants must have a Ph.D., or be near completion of a doctoral degree, in Political Science or International Relations. Concordia University is strongly committed to building a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community, and recognizes the importance of inclusion in achieving excellence in teaching and research. This position builds on existing strengths in Sustainability at Concordia, including the Loyola Sustainability Research Centre, the Loyola College of Sustainability and Diversity, and Canada Excellence and Concordia Research Chairs in Smart, Sustainable and Resilient Communities and Cities and Sustainability and Climate Change. Commensurate with their rank, candidates will be assessed on their demonstrated potential to conduct internationally-recognized research, secure research funds, teach and drive curricular development within their respective area(s), and attract diverse students and collaborators to Concordia. The ability to fulfill core teaching needs in the undergraduate and graduate (MPPPA and Ph.D.) curriculum is an asset, particularly in research methods. The language of instruction at Concordia is English, however, knowledge of French is an asset.

Applications must consist of a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a statement of teaching philosophy/interests, a statement of research achievements/interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and should be addressed to the Hiring Committee. As part of a commitment to providing students with the dynamic, innovative, and inclusive educational environment of a Next-Generation University, all applicants must articulate in their cover letter how their professional experiences and expertise have prepared them to conduct innovative research and to teach in ways that are relevant for a diverse, multicultural contemporary Canadian society. Candidates must also arrange to have three letters of reference sent directly to:

Dr. Elizabeth Bloodgood
 Chair, Department of Political Science
 Concordia University
 1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. W.
 H1225-17
 Montréal, Québec, Canada, H3G 1M8
PoliticalScience.Chair@concordia.ca

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7342

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants pursuing a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. This fellowship is designed to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one year (or in exceptional cases two years) of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a personal statement, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) research statement, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than February 3, 2020. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 2/3/2020
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 7349

American University in Cairo

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in International Relations starting Fall 2020. The position is on a fixed-term contract (Four years renewable) and open to candidates at the Assistant or Associate Professor levels. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses at the B.A. and M.A. levels in the field of international relations (including introductory courses in international relations theory), foreign-policy analysis and international security. Candidates with a focus on the global south (Asia, Africa, and/or Latin America) and/or critical security studies are particularly encouraged to apply. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to equal opportunity and a diverse faculty.

Requirements:

A PhD is required at the time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing research and publication program and teaching experience. In addition to research and teaching, responsibilities include service to the Department and the University.

Application Procedures:

Priority will be given to applications received by November 30, 2019. The position is open until filled.

All applicants must submit the following documents online:

- A current C.V
- A letter of interest
- A statement of teaching philosophy
- A completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF)
- A copy of a recently published or accepted article or chapter
- Three letters of reference

Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; with the name of the candidate/Faculty position/ Department.

All applications should be uploaded online:

<http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please take note of your account login details. If additional questions are asked, you will be prompted to login into the AUC portal.

For more information, e-mail Dr. Rabab El Mahdi, Chair, relmahdi@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, gehanwm@aucegypt.edu; or visit the department's website at: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7329

Midwestern State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, Africa, Middle East

The Department of Political Science seeks applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2020. We seek a candidate whose primary teaching interest is comparative politics with a specialization in Asia, Middle East, or Africa, as well as the ability to teach quantitative research methods. The ability to teach courses in climate and environmental politics or international relations is desired, but not required. The applicant should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (an ABD candidate would be required to have a Ph.D. by August 2021), and should contribute to the teaching and research mission of the university.

The Department of Political Science offers a B.A. Political Science and a B.A. Global Studies. It also houses the interdisciplinary minor in Women's and Gender Studies and a successful Model United Nations program.

The teaching load is 12 hours per semester. Salary is competitive, depending on experience.

Midwestern State University is a public liberal arts university with an enrollment of approximately 6,000 students located in Wichita Falls, a city of 106,000 about 2 hours northwest of Dallas/Fort Worth (www.msutexas.edu). As a Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC) member institution, Midwestern State University is particularly committed to excellence in teaching and seeks applicants that will contribute to this mission. This position is designated as security sensitive and requires the finalist to complete a criminal background check. EEO/ADAAA compliance employer.

Please send a 1) letter of application, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) teaching evaluations, 4) one example of scholarly work, and 5) three letters of recommendation to:

Dr. Linda Veazey, Chair
 Department of Political Science
 Midwestern State University
 3410 Taft Boulevard
 Wichita Falls, TX 76308
linda.veazey@msutexas.edu

The initial review of complete applications will begin January 13, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 1/13/2020
Date Posted: 10/11/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7325

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Fellowships – Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society

ABOUT THE FELLOWSHIPS

The Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society brings promising new scholars to Stanford University for 1-2 year appointments as postdoctoral fellows.

Currently Stanford PACS is accepting applications for two postdoctoral fellowship opportunities for the 2020-21 academic year:

- The Program on Democracy and the Internet
- The Digital Civil Society Lab

Each fellow will be affiliated with the relevant Stanford PACS initiative (either the Digital Civil Society Lab or the Program on Democracy and the Internet) and potentially also with a department or school at Stanford University.

The annual fellowship stipend is $67,000, plus the standard benefits that postdoctoral fellows at Stanford University receive, including health insurance and travel funds. The fellowship program falls under U.S. Immigration J-1 Exchange Visitor Visa activities.

The start date of the fellowship will be September 2020, unless otherwise agreed. To assume a postdoctoral fellowship, scholars must have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2020. We cannot consider applications from scholars who earned a PhD earlier than May 1, 2018.

For both of these fellowships, we encourage applications from candidates representing a broad range of disciplines including the social sciences, humanities, law, computer science and engineering.

I. Program on Democracy and the Internet

The Program on Democracy and the Internet (PDI) envisions digital technologies supporting rather than subverting democracy by maximizing the benefits and minimizing the threats through changes in policy, technology, and social and ethical technological norms.

Digital technologies are having a profound impact on democracy in the United States and around the world. New communication platforms that give voice to the previously voiceless also empower nefarious actors who seek to undermine democracy, silence journalists and minority groups, manipulate search engines, sow distrust, and more. Concerns about virality, deception, anonymity, echo chambers, and platform information monopolies pose new challenges for democracy in the digital age. Current research to understand these challenges and, on the basis of theory and evidence, craft solutions, remains nascent, fragmented, and incomplete. A strong knowledge base is critical for policy makers, corporate leaders, and technologists to make decisions that protect and promote democracy in the digital age.

The Program on Democracy and the Internet is investigating key research themes which include:

- Reform options for platforms to combat hate speech, bots, and disinformation.
- Algorithmic bias

- Deteriorating health of digital information ecosystems and its effect on democracy and civil rights
- Changes in the media landscape due to shifts caused by digital innovation.
- Impact of the internet on election campaigns and voting.

The Program on Democracy and the Internet's work draws from the social sciences, humanities, engineering, computer science, and the law to understand the challenges digital technologies pose to liberal democracies around the world.

Each fellow will collaborate with one of the PDI faculty on PDI research relevant to their field of study and current line of scholarship. The fellows will spend 20 percent of their time working on their own research and 80 percent assisting in the research of one of the PDI directors. For examples of past work, see the publications page. In addition, fellows may be asked to coordinate speaker series and seminars.

The program is led by Principal Investigators Nathaniel Persily, James B. McClatchy Professor of Law at Stanford Law School and Co-Director of the Cyber Policy Center, Francis Fukuyama, Senior Fellow at the Freeman Spogli Institute, and PACS Faculty Co-Director and Professor of Political Science, Rob Reich.

PDI is a joint initiative of the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society (Stanford PACS) and the Cyber Policy Center at the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies.

For a sense of the scholarship that PDI supports, see: <https://pacscenter.stanford.edu/research/project-on-democracy-and-the-internet/projects/>.

II. Digital Civil Society Lab

The Digital Civil Society Lab (DCSL) envisions an independent civil society that thrives in the digital age through the safe, ethical and effective use of private digital resources for public benefit.

The digital age has transformed civil society participation and organization, and it has presented new challenges and threats. Our dependencies on digital software and infrastructure require new insights into how these digital systems work and how an independent civil society can engage them safely, ethically and effectively for mission.

The Digital Civil Society Lab aims to understand how digital technology has transformed civil society and shape these transformations by engaging research, practitioner and policy communities across the interconnected domains that support a thriving and independent civil society in the digital age:

- Technology: software and hardware designed for the values and interest of civil society actors
- Organizations: structures and practices that align with civil society missions and protect institutional independence from markets or governments
- Policy: legal practices and regulatory frames that protect the building blocks of civil society, including free association, speech, and privacy
- Norms: social norms and practices that promote safe and ethical data collection, generation and use, and that support the critical role of civil society in democracies

The Digital Civil Society Lab is investigating key research themes which include:

- The key dimensions of digital infrastructure and data and how they influence the role of independent civil society in democracies;
- Understanding, creating, and expanding access to software, hardware and digital practices that align with the values of civil society in democracies;
- The nature of digital data donations and/or the governance mechanisms, enterprise forms, or legal constructs that such donations require;
- Understanding interactions between global digital networks, digital activism, and traditional and emergent forms of association in civil society.

The Lab's research draws from the humanities, social sciences, engineering, computer science and the law to understand and advance the principles of civil society and democracies in the digital age.

DCSL is an initiative of the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society (Stanford PACS) and is led by Lucy Bernholz, senior research scholar at Stanford PACS, and Rob Reich, professor of Political Science and faculty co-director of Stanford PACS.

For a sense of the scholarship that DCSL supports, see: <https://pacscenter.stanford.edu/research/digital-civil-society-lab/>.

Please note: Postdoctoral fellows at DCSL are expected to participate fully in a biweekly seminar series at the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society, and are expected to contribute to teaching the Digital Civil Society seminar in partnership with other DCSL faculty, scholars and postdocs.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered for a postdoctoral fellowship with either the Program on Democracy and the Internet or with the Digital Civil Society Lab, submit an application via the online application portal.

Applicants will be asked to include the following:

- Cover letter detailing the reasons for the applicant's interest in the fellowship;
- Curriculum Vitae;
- Fellowship proposal detailing the research that the applicant would undertake while at Stanford, and how it fits within the research agenda of the specific initiative to which the applicant is applying. In this section, please disclose if you have additional funding arrangements.
- Writing sample consisting of either a dissertation chapter or a recent published paper. There are no specific page length or formatting requirements for this sample;
- Graduate transcript with proof that the applicant has completed all the requirements for the PhD, or a letter from their PhD advisor stating when they will do so;
- Two (or more) Letters of Recommendation. These should be submitted via the application portal.

CONTACT

Questions about the Program on Democracy and the Internet should be directed to Eloise Duvillier at eloise@stanford.edu.

Questions about the Digital Civil Society Lab should be directed to Heather Noelle Robinson at hnrbsn@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/13/2020

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7324

SUNY, Binghamton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at Binghamton University (SUNY) invites applications for an assistant professorship in international relations and/or comparative politics, focusing on political violence and civil conflict, to begin in August 2020. Preference will be given to candidates who can contribute to teaching in the department's graduate quantitative methods sequence, as well as connect with the Data Science Transdisciplinary Area of Excellence (TAE). The Data Science TAE comprises a collaborative group of data scientists from across campus who are at the leading edge of the data science revolution within their own disciplines. Candidates with demonstrable strengths in one or more of the following will be strongly preferred: mixed methods, statistics & econometrics, computational methods, and/or experimental methods. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of recent or current research, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Applications received by November 10, 2019 will be given first consideration, although we will accept applications until the position has been filled. Binghamton University is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. It is the policy of Binghamton University to provide for and promote equal opportunity employment, compensation, and other terms and conditions of employment without discrimination on the basis of sex, age, race, color, religion, disability, national origin, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, veteran or military service member status, marital status, domestic violence victim status, genetic predisposition or carrier status, or arrest and/or criminal conviction record unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification or other exception. Submit applications at <http://binghamton.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=116819>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7317

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, Developing Nations

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=177117863&Title=International%20Relations%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2C%20UNLV%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5BR0118730%5D&caID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7319

University of Oslo

Rank: Associate Professor in International Relations

Job description

A tenured position as Associate Professor in International Relations is available at the Department of Political Science, University of Oslo. Applicants who are qualified for full professorship may apply for promotion once they have taken up their position.

We welcome applicants who have a strong record of publications dominated by themes or topics focusing on politics between states, rather than within states or comparisons across states.

This includes themes like foreign policy, diplomacy, international negotiations, international institutions, interstate conflicts and international political economy.

Applicants must also have a strong record of teaching International Relations, as defined above, preferably at all levels (BA, MA, and doctorate).

The applicants must demonstrate in their application how their academic research and teaching relates to the field of International Relations.

The evaluation committee will disregard applicants who do not have an academic profile within the field of International Relations, as defined above.

As an Associate Professor, your time will be equally divided between research and teaching.

The successful candidate will be expected to undertake teaching duties at all levels (BA, MA, and doctorate), as well as take part in the teaching of research methods.

The person appointed will also be expected to perform administrative duties and other tasks in accordance with the university regulations.

Qualification requirements:

A relevant PhD degree and a track record of excellent international publications.

In addition to research excellence, teaching and research leadership as well as administrative experience together with personal qualities and suitability for the position will be taken into consideration.

Pedagogical skills and formal basic pedagogical competence. Applicants who cannot document such competence at the time of employment must acquire this within the first two years subsequent to their appointment.

In the evaluation of research qualifications, recent publications, as well as the potential for future research of high quality, will be emphasised. The successful candidate must be able to contribute to the Department's long-term academic development.

Teaching is carried out in both Norwegian and English. The successful candidate must demonstrate mastery of both English and one of the Scandinavian languages as working languages.

If the appointee is not fluent in a Scandinavian language, she/he will be expected to learn sufficient Norwegian so to be able to participate actively in all functions that the position may involve within two years of their appointment.

Women are encouraged to apply.

We offer:

Salary NOK 594 400 – 741 300 per annum depending on qualifications

Budget for travel and research assistance (currently NOK 35 000 per year)

An academically stimulating work environment

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

How to apply

The application must include:

Cover letter (statement of motivation, summarizing scientific work and research interest)

CV (complete list of education, positions, pedagogical experience, administrative experience, project acquisition and coordination experience, and other qualifying activities)

Complete list of publications

PhD Diploma

List of reference persons: 2 or 3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

A separate document outlining how your work relates to the Department's research and teaching profile, and how you plan to contribute to the Department's long-term academic development.

All documents must be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

About the procedure

The application deadline is 8 November 2019. The applications will first be perused by an application committee with the aim of providing the appointed assessors with a short, substantiated proposal as to which applicants have the most potential and should proceed in the selection process.

In December, following the application committee's report, the most promising applicants will be invited to submit a comprehensive application that includes a selection of academic publications and evaluations or reviews of their teaching.

The evaluation committee will identify the most qualified applicants among the short-listed applicants. The top-ranked candidates will be invited to one or more interviews and may be asked to give a trial lecture. References will be contacted. The report from the evaluation committee, with the evaluation of the top candidates for the post, will be made available to all applicants. The hiring process is expected to be completed by May 2020.

Formal regulations

Please see the rules for Appointments to Professorships and Associate Professorships and Rules for the assessment and weighting of pedagogical competence.

According to the Norwegian Freedom and Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

The University of Oslo aims to achieve a balanced gender composition in the workforce and to recruit people with ethnic minority backgrounds.

Contact information:

Head of Department, Professor Anne Julie Semb
Deputy Head of Department, Professor Jostein Askim

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, 6 postdoctoral fellows and 10 administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 11/8/2019

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7310

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Senior Rank (Tenured Full or Associate Professor)

Cyberpolitics and National/International Security Policy

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position at the Full Professor or Associate Professor level in cyberpolitics and national or international security policy to begin Fall 2020.

The position is part of a cross-disciplinary, campus-wide initiative in the area of cybersecurity. Scholars conducting cross-disciplinary research in applied cyber security are encouraged to apply, but an applicant's primary field must be Political Science or closely related discipline.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline. Applicants must have a track record of scholarship, publications, and research funding relating to cybersecurity and international politics. We are especially interested in candidates who link cybersecurity to broader social, political, economic, and policy questions in the contexts of national and/or international security. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute directly to the Department's nascent doctoral program in cyber politics and will be expected to collaborate on research and grant applications with faculty in Computer Science, Information Systems and Cyber Security, Engineering, and UTSA's highly regarded Cyber Security Program. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Department's traditional undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. We are especially interested in applicants who can teach graduate and undergraduate courses on Cyber and International Politics; Cyber Strategy; Cyber Deterrence and Coercion; Cyber and Intelligence; Cyberwarfare and Military Operations; Technological and Social Revolutions in International Relations; Global Governance and Cyber; Cyber and International Ethics; Law, Politics, and Cyber-Security; New Global Threats; and Global or National Security Policy.

Applicants must demonstrate potential for research publication and a strong potential to attract external funding commensurate with the rank for which the applicant is applying. Applicants' research must demonstrate strong theoretical grounding in national or international security. Candidates must have the ability to work with and be sensitive to the educational needs of a culturally diverse urban population.

All applicants should also provide representative evidence of high-quality teaching – ideally in courses that address cyber security in the context of deterrence and coercion, national or international security, global affairs and governance. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of courses in international relations or global affairs within their specializations.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor, the successful applicant must have an established research agenda, evidence of initiatives to acquire external research funding, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their respective fields of specialization, have excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, a track record of grant applications and awards, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to applicants who can offer courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science, international relations/global affairs, and/or international/national security policy.

Applicants should submit electronically in PDF format:

1. Letter of application stating the rank for which application is made, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. A research and teaching statement, including discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment (no more than 200 words);
4. A copy of all graduate transcripts;
5. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Submit electronic materials to: <https://jobs.utsa.edu> (click on Faculty for details)

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7315

Texas Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Texas Tech University, the department of political science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning in Fall 2020. Applicants from all International Relations subfield are encouraged to apply, we are especially interested in candidates who conduct research and teach in the areas of political violence, insurgency, civil conflict, and/or social movements, broadly defined. A regional focus on Southeast Asia is a plus.

Applicants must show evidence and/or promise of excellence in teaching and an active research agenda. Candidates with strong quantitative and/or formal methods training, and an ability to teach graduate methods courses, are preferred. Candidates who have very strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding and who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply. Experience working with diverse student populations and first-generation students is highly desirable. Service duties include program-building, as well as a commitment to extra-curricular activities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the time of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texas-tech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 18865BR. For full consideration, all application materials must be received by October 22, 2019. Questions about the position should be directed to Tim Nokken, Chair, Department of political science, timothy.nokken@ttu.edu.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. Texas Tech is a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI). We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/22/2019

Date Posted: 10/8/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7305

Tulane University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2020-2021, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2020. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/68880 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2019.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer

Application Deadline: 12/31/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 7304

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer in Political Science or International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

School of History, Philosophy, Political Science and International Relations

Kelburn Campus

The Political Science and International Relations Programme seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer in Political Science or International Relations (equivalent to tenured assistant professor). The successful candidate should be able to teach courses on American domestic politics and American foreign policy. Other teaching commitments will depend on the expertise of the successful candidate. The starting date is negotiable.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

This role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in political science and/or international relations; an active research profile; and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Applications should include a cover letter and a curriculum vitae with the name of three referees.

Please note that our system only allows for two supporting documents to be uploaded with an application. If more documents are required, please consider combining files in pdf format prior to uploading.

Further information can be obtained from Dr Kate McMillan, Head of Programme, Political Science and International Relations, email kate.mcmillan@vuw.ac.nz

About us

Victoria University of Wellington is New Zealand's globally-minded capital city university, focused on engaging with Wellington, New Zealand and the Asia-Pacific region and connecting with the world. The University values the expertise of its professional staff in supporting and enabling teaching, research and engagement activities.

Our vision- Victoria University of Wellington will be a world-leading capital city university and one of the great global-civic universities.

Our mission and purpose- Victoria University of Wellington's mission is to undertake excellent research, teaching and public engagement in the service of local, national, regional and global communities.

Our values- Victoria University of Wellington's core ethical values are respect, responsibility, fairness, integrity and empathy. These values are manifested in our commitment to civic engagement, sustainability, inclusivity, equity, diversity and openness. We prize intellectual rigour and independence, academic freedom, critical enquiry and excellence.

We are a progressive university with ambitious strategic goals and a commitment to having a professional workforce that reflects the diversity of its community. Professional staff engage with academic staff, students, parents, Government, iwi, community groups and many other external stakeholders. All professional staff are expected to uphold the reputation of the University through the way they undertake their work.

Victoria University of Wellington is committed to the Treaty of Waitangi. 'Mai i te iho ki te pae' is the Maori Strategic Outcomes Framework which is linked to the University's Strategic Plan. Ma te rautaki tatou e koke whakamua (via the strategy we strive to move forward together).

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For further information about the University go to <http://www.victoria.ac.nz>

About the team

The School of History, Philosophy, Political Science and International Relations/ Te Kura Aro Whakamuri, Rapunga Whakaaro, Matai Torangapu me te Ao is the largest School in the University and offers world-class, research-based programmes across its four disciplines. The disciplines within the School represent important fields of study, each with their own set of concepts and perspectives. The programmes are taught by academic staff who are recognised, both locally and globally, as leaders in their respective fields. Graduates develop skills in critical and creative thinking, leadership, communication and research. The School is committed to excellence in research and teaching.

Find out more here: <https://www.victoria.ac.nz/hppi>

Applications close Sunday, 10 November 2019.

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For more information and to apply online visit <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/about/careers/current-vacancies>

Reference 1000342.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 7282

Washington State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Global Politics

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF POLITICS, PHILOSOPHY, AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR
NOTICE OF VACANCY

DESCRIPTION OF POSITION: The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs at Washington State University is seeking to fill a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Politics (International Relations and Comparative Politics), effective August 16, 2020. The position is a permanent full-time 9-month faculty position located on the Pullman Campus. The responsibilities of the position: teaching, research, and service. The position has a 2/2 course load delivered on a semester system and will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics.

REQUIREMENTS: Minimum qualifications are an earned PhD in Political by August 16, 2020, and research and teaching interests in global politics and political psychology. Willingness to work collaboratively with faculty and to mentor students from a wide range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is also a minimum requirement. Preferred qualifications include interests in the politics of the developing world, international organizations and transnational politics, or international and comparative conflict (focusing on conflict resolution, issues of terrorism, ethnic and religious conflict, etc.). The search committee is also interested in applicants who command strong methodological skills that would allow the successful candidate to teach the core methods courses in the Ph.D. program. Those candidates with high likelihood of being able to obtain extramural funding will also receive added consideration.

UNIVERSITY: Washington State University is a land grant, research-intensive doctoral institution which maintains excellent research and teaching facilities. The School expects excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The School has a strong undergraduate program and an established PhD program in Political Science which enjoys a growing national reputation for supporting a problem-driven approach to research and maintaining a deep commitment to methodological diversity. WSU is committed to excellence through diversity, has faculty friendly policies including a partner accommodation program, and an ADVANCE Institutional Transformation program (see <https://advance.wsu.edu>).

RANK and SALARY: The appointment is at the Assistant Professor rank. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

APPLICATIONS: Candidates must provide a letter of application summarizing qualifications and continuing research and teaching interests, a current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations (if available), and three letters of recommendation. Because diversity is such an important part of the WSU mission, we request that applicants include a separate paragraph in the application letter telling us how diversity figures into their past, present, and future teaching, research, and community engagement. To apply visit: <https://www.wsujobs.com>. Screening begins November 1, 2019. For questions about the position contact Martha Cottam at (509) 335-7997; cottam@wsu.edu.

Washington State University employs only United States citizens and lawfully authorized non-U.S. citizens. All new employees must show employment eligibility verification as required by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

Washington State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action educator and employer. Members of ethnic minorities, women, special disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam-era, recently separated veterans, and other protected veterans, persons of disability and/or persons of age 40 and over are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7292

Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse

Rank: Interdisciplinary Research Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

We welcome applications from researchers within a large range of disciplines in the social, behavioral and life sciences: anthropology, evolutionary biology, economics, genetics, history, law, mathematics, neuroscience, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology; however, motivated applications from outside these disciplines will be given full consideration. Successful applicants will have to demonstrate an interest in, and a commitment to, at least one of the other disciplines of IAST.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their own discipline, but willing and able to develop research projects drawing on IAST's substantial interdisciplinary resources, including particularly the proximity of strong groups in economics (Toulouse School of Economics, TSE).

We are open to a variety of research methods, including theory, field and laboratory experiments, observational field work, and the analysis of large secondary data sets.

All research interests relevant to the broad study of human behavior are welcome, but interests that complement and / or enhance those already developed at IAST will be given special consideration. These include, to cite only a few:

In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economic or social history; emergence and dynamics of institutions and networks.

In evolutionary biology: theoretical models of evolution (applied to family structure, strategic interactions, plasticity, cognition, learning, cultural evolution); related empirical work.

In anthropology: human biology, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, host-parasite co-evolution, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine and genetics.

In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

In law: law and economics, corporate governance, criminology.

In psychology: cognition, beliefs, identity, memory, the emotions, culture, social trust, gender, group decision-making.

In sociology: network formation, the impact of networks on social outcomes, sociology of religion.

In genetics and neuroscience: mental state representation, personality, intelligence.

For more information & application, please visit: <http://www.iast.fr/research-fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/2/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7275

Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Rank: Faculty Position (International Political Economy)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Research Methods, East Asia

Faculty Position (International Political Economy) - Job ID: 4879

The Division of Social Science at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology seeks to hire a faculty member in International Political Economy. The position is open in rank (Assistant Professor/Associate Professor), but preference will be given to candidates with an active research agenda related to East Asia and demonstrated excellence in scholarship and in research methodology.

Applicants should have a PhD degree.

Salary is highly competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Fringe benefits including annual leave, medical and dental benefits will be provided. Housing benefits will also be provided where applicable. Initial appointment at Associate/Assistant Professor rank will normally be on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement. A gratuity will be payable upon successful completion of contract.

Application Procedure

Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample publication, and three letters of reference to the attention of: Search and Appointments Committee Chair, Division of Social Science, HKUST, Clear Water Bay, Hong Kong by email to soresearch@ust.hk. Review of applications will start on 1 December 2019 and the search will continue until the position is filled. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and has a range of family-friendly policies in place.

(Information provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.)

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7248

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Visiting Research Professor

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is seeking to appoint a visiting research professor who is based in Latin America or Spain and studies Latin American politics for the fall or spring semester of the academic year 2020-21. Responsibilities of the successful candidate include working on your own research and contributing to departmental activities related to research and teaching on Latin America during the semester in residence. The quality of completed research and of the proposed research project will be an important selection criterion.

Qualifications are a Ph.D. and a minimum of 5 years of research and teaching experience. Compensation consists of a travel and research allowance, health insurance, and a total of $32,000 in salary over the duration of the appointment. The successful candidate will be expected to be in residence for a minimum of 4 ½ months.

Applications from women and minorities are particularly welcome. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity employer and educator that welcomes all to apply, including individuals with disabilities. Deadline for applications is December 16, 2019, and applicants will be notified in February.

To apply for the position, please follow this link: <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/169988>. Please include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a research proposal of no more than 1,500 words. Applicants are required to identify the names, titles and email addresses of three professional references at the time of application. Recommenders identified by the applicant may be contacted via email with instructions for uploading their letters of support if the applicant becomes a finalist. Alternatively, applicants may list Interfolio as a reference and the application system will solicit recommendations directly from Interfolio. Please see <http://help.interfolio.com/entries/24062742-Uploading-Letters-to-an-Online-Application-System> for instructions. Departmental contact person is Shannon Eubanks; the department address is Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, CB# 3265, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3265 and the web address is <http://www.unc.edu/depts/polisci>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/16/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 7266

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The University of California, Santa Barbara Department of Political Science seeks a scholar in international relations for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of assistant professor with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2020. The appointment may concentrate on any research specialty within the field of international relations, although we are particularly interested in substantive scholarship that relates to the Department's strong interdisciplinary foci in the study of identity or the environment. While we are open with respect to methodological or theoretical approach, the successful candidate must be qualified to teach core graduate seminars in international relations. The candidate's research should be theoretically informed and must demonstrate mastery of appropriate research methods.

The minimum requirement to be considered an applicant is the completion of all requirements for a Ph.D. (or equivalent degree), except the dissertation, in Political Science (or related field) at the time of application. Ph.D. preferred.

UCSB is the first Hispanic-Serving Institution in the American Association of Universities (AAU). The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service as appropriate to the position. Diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at UC Santa Barbara. Our excellence can only be fully realized by faculty, staff and students who share our commitment to these values. The department encourages all applicants to submit a Statement of Contributions to Diversity addressing past and/or potential contributions to diversity through research, teaching, and service.

Completed applications received by October 31, 2019 will receive primary consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (or other evidence of teaching effectiveness), and arrange for three letters from academic references on their behalf via the UC Recruit website. All application materials should be submitted via UC Recruit: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF01605>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7256

Loyola University, Chicago
Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor International Relations with expertise in International Development

Background: Loyola University Chicago (LUC), College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, for academic year 2020-2021. The department seeks applicants in International Relations with expertise in International Development, inclusive of (but not limited to) human security, international human rights, foreign assistance, international trade and investment, international political economy, or civil conflict. The successful candidate will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 600 majors and minors. For more information about the department, please visit its website at <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The International Relations position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as an occasional graduate course in our graduate program. The candidate will be expected to teach courses in the subfield of International Relations, including an introductory International Relations course.

Minimum Qualifications: The candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Candidates for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research, and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Experience working or conducting research, and or teaching in the area of International Relations with expertise in International Development is desirable. The candidate should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Candidates should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three recommendations or evaluations from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, especially in terms of scholarship and undergraduate teaching and mentorship, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

Alexandru Grigorescu, Ph.D., Search Committee Chair
 Department of Political Science
 Loyola University Chicago
 1032 W. Sheridan Road
 Chicago, Illinois 60660

Review of applications will begin October 28, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity – including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment – is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically accessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a transformative education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativede.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/27/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7247

The College of Idaho

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy or International Political Economy
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: American Politics, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The College of Idaho's Department of Political Economy invites applications for a tenure-track entry-level faculty position that will commence in Fall 2020.

The Department approaches political economy in a broad theoretical manner similar to early modern thinkers such as John Locke, Adam Smith, and Karl Marx. We emphasize the intricate relationship between economics and politics and reject the push for narrow specialization and an overemphasis on formal models. We are open to approaches including public policy analysis, historical institutionalism, heterodox economics, behavioral economics, area studies, and research methods that emphasize the analysis of real-world data. We grant significant autonomy to faculty members to design their own lower and upper division courses that support the department's political economy approach and vision. Professional development support for research, conference travel, and sabbatical leave is available.

The Department offers two related majors: Political Economy and International Political Economy. The successful candidate will EITHER primarily serve the Political Economy major focusing on domestic political economy and policy-making in the United States, OR primarily serve the International Political Economy major focusing on the global economy, international relations, development, and comparative political economy. The department also offers minors supporting the College of Idaho's PEAK curriculum. The teaching load is 3-3 with an additional course taught during each January term.

Successful candidates will have an active research agenda while demonstrating a passion for teaching in the liberal arts tradition. They will join a student-centered department where teaching and mentoring are valued as the highest priority. Such mentorship has recently led students in the department to Marshall, Truman, and Rhodes scholarships as well as to national recognition of departmental faculty for teaching excellence.

A Ph.D. is required in Political Economy, Political Science, International Political Economy, International Relations, Economics (heterodox), Behavioral Economics, or other related fields. Courses to be taught include introductory courses in the field and advanced courses based on the candidate's expertise. Advanced ABD applicants will be considered.

Applications must include letter of interest, CV, statement demonstrating a passion for teaching in the liberal arts tradition, sample syllabi, recent course evaluations, and at least three letters of recommendation.

Candidates must be authorized to work in the United States as of the expected hire date and throughout the date of the contract without sponsorship from The College of Idaho.

Application review will begin October 14, 2019. Applications will be accepted until the position has been filled. Please submit application materials via email to hr@collegeofidaho.edu with subject 'Political Economy Search.'

With over 125 years of history, The College of Idaho is a regional and national leader in higher education. The College of Idaho is an inclusive community of exceptional learning that challenges the ambitious and forges pathways to success and purpose. To learn more about The College of Idaho, please visit www.collegeofidaho.edu.

The College of Idaho is proud to be an equal opportunity employer. We are committed to attracting, retaining, and maximizing the performance of a diverse and inclusive workforce.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/14/2019

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7240

Syracuse University

Rank: Assistant or Associate, Health Care Policy & Management
Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) in the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University seeks to hire a tenured or tenure track professor in the field of health care policy and management, at either the Assistant or Associate level, beginning in fall 2020.

We are interested in attracting a creative, engaging, and innovative colleague with credentials in health care policy and/or management. We welcome a variety of specializations including but not limited to the financing and delivery of health care; the organization and management of health care delivery systems; the politics of health care policy reform; and the impact of health care policy reform on the delivery of healthcare. Candidates with domestic, international, or comparative perspectives are welcome. Applicants should have an active research agenda and a demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence. Responsibilities of the position include maintaining a research program, teaching in the department's world-renowned professional master programs, teaching one or more undergraduate courses, mentoring MPA and PhD students, and engaging in service.

Our department is collegial, supportive, and interdisciplinary. We welcome applicants from a range of disciplinary backgrounds, including but not limited to public administration, public management, public policy, health administration, economics, political science, sociology, public health, social work, and other social science fields.

This recruitment is part of an ambitious Invest Syracuse Cluster Hire Initiative in the broad area of Aging, Behavioral Health, and Neuroscience. As an integral part of this investment, Syracuse University will recruit multiple candidates for faculty positions for a research cluster in the focus area of aging. Faculty hired into these positions will build on our existing strengths in the focus area and will participate in an organized research cluster that spans multiple departments in the Maxwell School, the College of Arts and Sciences, Falk College, and the College of Engineering and Computer Science. In addition, the individual will also have the opportunity to become affiliated with one or more of the University's other interdisciplinary research centers such as the University's Aging Studies Institute, Maxwell School's Center of Policy Research or the Maxwell School's Program for Advancement of Research on Conflict and Collaboration. Therefore, a track record of collaborative research output is particularly desirable, and record of success in obtaining research support, particularly from the National Institutes of Health or the National Science Foundation.

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs at the Maxwell School is home to the world's first master of public administration program, which is ranked first among more than 250 graduate public affairs programs in the United States and has several top-ranked specialties (U.S. News & World Report). The department is also home to a top-ranked master's program in international relations (Foreign Policy magazine), as well as several other programs, including a Ph.D. in public administration, a master's degree in public health, executive master's degrees in public administration and international relations, and a wide range of certificate programs.

To be considered, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/postings/76528>) and attach: a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of professional writing, names and complete contact information for 3 references. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by November 1. However, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6228

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Lecturer and Academic Adviser

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for one full-time non-tenure stream position as Lecturer and Academic Adviser. The appointment requires a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and prior teaching experience.

The successful candidate is expected to serve as the advisor for a third of the undergraduate majors in the department and to teach four undergraduate courses per year, including one section per semester of Introduction to Global Studies, which the Department offers in close coordination with Pitt's Global Studies Center. Additional teaching will depend on the interests of the successful candidate (e.g., in political theory, comparative politics, or international relations). We are particularly interested in candidates who could offer upper-level courses in nonwestern or comparative political theory, post-colonial theory, etc that complement our existing political theory courses. In addition, the successful candidate will be responsible for supporting Departmental curriculum and programming, outside-the-classroom learning, etc.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2020. Minimum qualifications for the position are a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field and ability to teach the Introduction to Global Studies course. Successful candidates are expected to engage in teaching and service that contributes to the department's mission.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio (statement of philosophy, list of courses, sample syllabi and materials, etc), writing sample(s), teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of two letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mjc2>. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by January 6, 2020, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/6/2020

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6224

Syracuse University

Rank: Senior Faculty, Director of International Relations

The Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University seeks to hire a senior faculty member to provide academic and programmatic leadership of its professional Master of Arts in International Relations (MAIR) program. We are seeking to hire either a candidate with sufficient academic qualifications to be hired at the rank of associate or full professor with tenure, or a candidate with substantial leadership experience in a professional field involving extensive international affairs work, who could be appointed as a professor of practice. The person hired will be a faculty member in the Department of Public Administration and International Affairs at the Maxwell School beginning in August, 2020.

The Maxwell School's MAIR program is highly regarded internationally, ranking among the top professional international affairs programs in the world, and it is a member of the Association of Professional Schools of International Affairs (APSIA). The MAIR program is administered by the Department of Public Administration and International Affairs, which consists of a highly diverse and interdisciplinary faculty, and is also home to a top ranked Master of Public Administration. The MAIR program is strongly interdisciplinary, and draws on courses offered across the Maxwell School which includes departments of Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science and Sociology. The program also offers exceptional global programming that allows students to complete internships and coursework at locations around the world; it utilizes facilities at the leading global think-tank CSIS located in Washington DC to provide students an option of completing part of their program in the nation's capital; and it provides options for innovative dual degree programs with, among others, the Hertie School of Governance in Berlin, Germany, the Newhouse School of Communications at Syracuse University, and the College of Law.

The successful candidate will bring innovation and leadership to the tasks of setting goals and priorities for the MAIR program, identifying resource needs, and developing and overseeing the implementation of new programming and recruiting strategies. The candidate will have the support of, and work closely with the Dean of the Maxwell School, the Chair of Public Administration and International Affairs, and faculty and professional staff. The person hired will also be expected to teach courses in the MAIR program and maintain either an active research agenda or other forms of engagement in the professional international affairs community.

The position is open to candidates from a wide-range of social science disciplines and candidates with appropriate academic qualifications can be considered for a courtesy or joint appointment with one of the other social science departments in the Maxwell School. We encourage applications from candidates with expertise in any one of a broad range of areas covered in the MAIR program. These areas include, but are not limited to adaption to climate change, conflict studies, diplomacy, environmental sustainability, global governance, humanitarian assistance, human rights, international development, international finance, international political economy, international security, international trade, management and leadership of international organizations, NGO management and leadership, peace studies, and regional studies focused on Africa, East Asia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East, or South Asia. Successful candidates may affiliate with one of Maxwell's interdisciplinary centers (<https://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers>).

Competitive candidates will have familiarity with professional trends, opportunities and career paths in the field of professional international affairs work. Familiarity with programs and trends in professional international affairs education and a demonstrated commitment to training the next generation of leaders in international affairs is required. Strong candidates will have either distinguished academic achievements including a record of high quality research and teaching, or a distinguished professional career involving leadership positions with substantial responsibilities. Regardless of whether a candidate's primary qualifications are academic or professional, he or she should have a record of engagement with international affairs scholars, policy makers, and practitioners. A Ph.D. is preferred, but not required for candidates whose qualifications are primarily professional and who would be hired as a professor of practice. Members of groups that are underrepresented in higher education leadership positions are strongly encouraged to apply. Salary is commensurate with experience and professional accomplishments.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (<http://www.sujobopps.com/postings/81772>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest, which emphasizes what qualities and ideas you would bring to leadership of the MAIR program at the Maxwell School, a CV, and contact information including a full email address of three references. Evidence of quality teaching can be submitted and will be considered but is not required. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by November 1. However, we will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

Syracuse University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to equality of opportunity and a diverse work force. Women, military veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of other traditionally underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6213

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for the endowed Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy, starting in August 2020. Appointment will be made at the associate or full professor level depending on the applicant's credentials. We seek a diverse pool and will consider applicants with any specialization in international relations. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science, international affairs, international relations, public policy, or a related discipline.

The successful applicant will be expected to work closely with the department chair to expand the masters and doctoral programs, including recruitment and program development. Teaching expectations include undergraduate and graduate courses in the field of expertise. The position comes with a summer research stipend, research and travel support, a graduate assistant, and a reduced teaching load.

Review of applications will begin October 25, 2019. To apply, complete an online application at <http://www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/3034> and upload the following materials: 1) a letter of application to include areas of specialization, current and future research agenda, teaching areas with course titles and teaching philosophy, and most significant professional service; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) two recent writing samples; 4) graduate transcript (official transcript will be needed at time of hire); and 5) contact information for at least three professional references. Separately, three confidential letters of reference are required and must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu by the application deadline.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes eight tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate and master's degree in political science and a nationally ranked, NASPAA-accredited master's degree in public administration. We also offer a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM), a comprehensive public university, is the metropolitan campus of Auburn University. Located in the state capital on a 500-acre campus, AUM enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. AUM is ranked by U.S. News and World Report as one of the top twenty-five Comprehensive Regional Universities in the South and by the Princeton Review as one of the best colleges in the Southeast. Montgomery is a diverse city offering an array of cultural and recreational opportunities including the Alabama Shakespeare Festival, world-class museums and memorials including the new Legacy Museum and the National Memorial for Peace and Justice, a ballet company, a natural habitat zoo, a chamber music society, an independent film theater, and the Montgomery Biscuits Double-A baseball team; it is home to Maxwell-Gunter Air Force Base and Air University, Hyundai Motor's first U.S. production facility, and the headquarters of leading non-profits including Equal Justice Initiative and the Southern Poverty Law Center. The campus is within a two and a half hour drive to Atlanta, ninety minutes to Birmingham, and less than three hours to the Gulf Coast.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is open until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right to stop accepting applications once interviewing has begun.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/25/2019

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6208

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of International Law & International Organization

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the study of International Law & International Organization beginning July 1, 2020, subject to budget approval. We seek applicants who focus on the impact and uses of international law in any functional areas, including (but not restricted to) human rights, development, diplomacy, security, global environment, international trade and finance, and international organization. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including law, political science, sociology, history, and international relations, and are open to all methodological approaches and regional specializations. Successful candidates would be expected to have completed a Ph.D. by August 15, 2020. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Boston University is an AAU institution with a rich tradition dedicated to inclusion and social justice. The BU Pardee School believes that the cultural and social diversity of our faculty, staff, and students is vitally important to the distinction and excellence of our research and academic programs. We are eager to have join our ranks a colleague who supports our institutional commitment to ensuring BU is inclusive, equitable, diverse, and a place where all constituents can thrive.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letters of recommendation at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/14454>. Questions about the position or the Pardee School may be directed to Ms. Elaine Bidianos at elaineb@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2020. The Pardee School of Global Studies offers B.A. and M.A. degrees and is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6205

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of Technology & International Relations

Specializations: Science & Technology, International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Technology & International Relations. The position will begin July 1, 2020, subject to budget approval. We seek applicants whose work focuses on the impact and regulation of technology in contemporary international relations, including in international security, environment, development, commerce, communications, and human rights.

We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including international relations, science and technology studies, political science, history, sociology, anthropology, development, and international political economy. We are open to all methodological approaches and regional specializations, but have a particular interest in candidates who incorporate data analytics in the context of social science instruction. Successful candidates would be expected to have completed a Ph.D. by August 15, 2020. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Boston University is an AAU institution with a rich tradition dedicated to inclusion and social justice. The BU Pardee School believes that the cultural and social diversity of our faculty, staff, and students is vitally important to the distinction and excellence of our research and academic programs. We are eager to have join our ranks a colleague who supports our institutional commitment to ensuring BU is inclusive, equitable, diverse, and a place where all constituents can thrive.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letters of recommendation at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14455>. Questions about the position or the Pardee School may be directed to Ms. Elaine Bidianos at elaineb@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2020. The Pardee School of Global Studies offers B.A. and M.A. degrees and is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6207

Columbia University

Rank: Adjunct Professor

The Department of Political Science at Columbia University invites applications for an adjunct professor to teach an upper-level undergraduate course in the politics of international economic relations in the Spring 2020 semester.

The course is taught in two weekly lectures and one discussion section led by a teaching assistant each week.

The course involves reading and evaluation of the dominant theoretical and methodological approaches currently used in the IPE field, as well as examination of prominent debates within the major IPE subject areas of trade, finance, development and globalization.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. in political science is required. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

To apply, please send a CV, cover letter, list of professional references, and teaching evaluations (if available) to Kay Achar (kea6@columbia.edu) with the subject line "Adjunct Professor Application."

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6199

University of Mary Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at the University of Mary Washington invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position starting the 2020-21 academic year. The candidate should have a major field in comparative politics with demonstrated expertise in the politics of Latin America. The committee will look favorably on candidates who are also willing and able to teach a course on United States foreign policy. As UMW is a teaching-focused institution, successful candidates must demonstrate teaching experience and excellence in teaching in an inclusive environment that embraces diverse talents and backgrounds. Successful candidates should also provide evidence of success in scholarly activity (e.g., publications or grants).

Candidates must submit the following materials to be considered for the position:

Cover Letter

CV

Teaching Statement and Evaluations

Sample Syllabi

Three letters of recommendation

Graduate Transcripts

The University of Mary Washington accepts only completed online applications and related materials at Careers.umw.edu. Faxed, mailed, or emailed applications or documentation will not be considered. Employment offers are contingent upon the successful completion of criminal background checks. If accommodations are requested either before or at the time of the interview, please contact the Recruitment Office at 540-654-1238.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019
Date Posted: 9/19/2019
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 6196

University of Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Mississippi invites applications to fill a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in International Relations, starting Fall 2020. The Department is foremost interested in hiring an excellent candidate, with all areas of specialization invited to apply. Successful candidates should add to the Department's strength in quantitative methods. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates must complete an online application at <https://careers.olemiss.edu>. Requirements include a completed PhD or at least ABD standing with the expectation of completion by Fall 2020, as well as a potential for or record of excellence in teaching and research. The online application should include a cover letter indicating research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, writing samples, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Review of all applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled or until an adequate applicant pool is established.

The University of Mississippi is an EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disability/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity/Title VI/Title VII/Title IX/504/ADA/ADEA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6186

Chapman University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Political Science, in the Department of Political Science, within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning in August 1, 2020.

The Department of Political Science and the MA in International Studies program seeks candidates whose research bridges theory and practice, so as to promote and support student engagement in the fields associated with human security. Teaching responsibilities will be split between the Political Science Department and the MA in International Studies Program at Chapman.

Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching, service, and advising/mentoring.

Requirements include:

- Doctorate in Political Science or related field by the start date.
- Demonstrated strong research trajectory, including publications and involvement with professional organizations.
- Evidence of teaching excellence, including innovative and inclusive pedagogy.
- Demonstrated capacity to advise graduate and undergraduate students, including on coursework, research projects and career prospects.

- Specialization in the area of Human Security including but not limited to: environmental security (such as climate change adaptation, global health or food security); gender and/or race and security; conflict and/or environmentally induced displacement; poverty and sustainable development; governance issues related to new security paradigms.

Qualified applicants must electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing sample and letter from three academic/professional references to:

Drs. Art Blaser and Crystal Murphy

Search Committee Co-Chairs

c/o: Talisa Flores at tflores@chapman.edu

Please use "Assistant Professor of Political Science/International Studies" as the email subject line.

Application review will begin October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Subject to final budget approval.

Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here:

<https://webfarm.chapman.edu/Jobs/NewHire-FacultyApplication.docx>

Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of Western universities, by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The University is classified by Carnegie as an R-2 research institution; Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/>

The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>.

Chapman University is an equal opportunity employer committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ancestry, citizenship status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, military and veteran status, marital status, pregnancy, genetic information or any other characteristic protected by state or federal law. The University is committed to achieving a diverse faculty and staff and encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6176

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Clinical Assistant Professors, Liberal Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Open

Specializations: East Asia, International Political Economy, Women & Politics

Clinical Assistant Professors

LIBERAL STUDIES

New York University Arts and Science

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for Clinical Assistant Professor positions to begin September 1, 2020, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Liberal Studies provides a unique interdisciplinary educational experience to undergraduate students. The Liberal Studies Core consists of a two-year interdisciplinary global curriculum drawing on great works across civilizations. The Global Liberal Studies Bachelor of Arts, one of NYU's premier liberal arts degrees, builds on the global core with an upper division set of interdisciplinary concentrations that direct students toward different areas of global study.

We seek applicants for the following positions:

East Asian Studies:

Ph.D. in East Asian Studies, History, Political Science, or related fields. Candidates should have the ability to teach interdisciplinary seminars on East Asia to introduce undergraduates to the politics, history, intellectual thought, and development of the region within a global context. Preference for a specialist in Korea and/or Japan. Candidates should have the ability to teach upper division seminars in their areas of expertise as well as first and second year seminars in the Core Curriculum.

Global Works and Society:

PhD in Political Theory, Philosophy, History, or related fields in the social sciences. Candidates should have the ability to teach global works that examine enduring questions of philosophy, religion, political and social theory, and history from antiquity to the early 18th century in the Global Works and Society sequence of the Core Curriculum. Candidates must embrace interdisciplinary, intersectional, and global perspectives, and have the ability to teach upper-division seminars in their areas of expertise.

Global Justice:

Ph.D. in Global Justice, Politics, Anthropology, Human Geography, or related fields. Preference for a specialist in International Migration and/or Women's Rights. Candidates should have the ability to teach upper division seminars in their areas of expertise as well as first and second year seminars in the Core Curriculum.

Minimum qualifications: a Ph.D. by the date of appointment; three years of college-level teaching experience; and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Publications and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are strongly encouraged.

All Liberal Studies full-time faculty hold renewable term contracts, initially three years, and later five years in duration. Faculty are eligible for promotion within the Clinical faculty ranks (Associate, Full). Faculty normally teach three classes per semester, advise undergraduates, and contribute service to Liberal Studies and to the University.

Applications include ONLY (1) a cover letter, (2) a current c.v., and (3) a Diversity and Inclusion Statement addressing past and/or potential future contributions to diversity through teaching, professional activity, and/or service (additional information can be found here <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity/recruitment/diversity-statements.html>). Complete applications must be recorded by 11:59 p.m. Eastern Standard Time (US), October 22nd, 2019. Applications recorded after this deadline will not be considered.

Applicants may apply directly through the following links:

East Asian Studies: <http://apply.interfolio.com/6757>

Global Works and Society: <https://apply.interfolio.com/67580>

Global Justice: <https://apply.interfolio.com/67579>

Liberal Studies offers a global liberal arts curriculum at sites around the globe in the context of a leading research university. We seek scholar/educators of the highest caliber whose work reflects an interest in global diversity. Liberal Studies strongly encourages applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion, please read here: <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity.html>

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6174

Tokyo International University

Rank: Full-time positions in 1) International Relations/U.S. Politics and Foreign Policy and 2) International Relations/Comparative Politics (open specialization).

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

[Outline]

Tokyo International University is seeking to hire full-time Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professors in two areas: 1) U.S. Politics and Foreign Policy and 2) International Relations/Comparative Politics (regional specialization is open; we are looking for those whose research rests on strong theoretical and empirical grounds).

[Content of work]

Responsibilities include teaching three courses per semester mainly in an English-medium undergraduate and/or graduate school program, advising and working with students from diverse backgrounds, and undertaking quality research. TIU's academic year consists of two 14-week semesters.

[Positions available]

1

[Address of work location]

Campus 1, 1-13-1 Matoba-kita, Kawagoe City, Saitama Pref. 350-1197, Japan
(about 30-40 mins from Tokyo by train)

[Starting date]

April 1 / September 1, 2020 (negotiable)

[Job type]

Professor level
Associate Professor/Lecturer (full-time) level
Assistant Professor level
Tenured or tenure-track upon grade

[Qualifications]

Successful candidates should already hold a Ph.D. or have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of employment, strong publication record or potential for active scholarly engagement, ability to teach students (both undergraduate and graduate) with diverse cultural background in the university's English Track Degree Program. We encourage serious research engagement and provide various support, including individual and collective research funding.

There are no limitations regarding citizenship of applicants, however successful candidates should be able to teach and provide guidance to students using English language.

[Compensation]

Contract period: if hired as tenured, no-period (except age limits) / if hired as tenure-track, 5 years

A competitive salary is offered. Remuneration package includes health insurance, pension, commuting allowance, annual research fund and individual research office.

[Application method]

Please specify to which position you are applying and send an email to "saiyou@tiu.ac.jp" with the following materials attached:

- 1) Cover letter of application
- 2) Curriculum vitae (please also include your complete contact details and contact information of three references)
- 3) List of classes taught (including title of class, brief description of contents, level)
- 4) Course syllabi of related fields that have been taught at any higher educational institution
- 5) Full text of three research achievements (e.g., Journal articles, publications, etc.)
- 6) Copy of diploma or transcript showing proof of Ph.D. or enrollment in a Ph.D. program
- 7) In the subject of your email, please include this code: [APSA201909]

[Deadline]

November 15 (Friday), 2019

[Note]

- We request that all application documents be send via e-mail and not by postal mail. Items sent through postal mail cannot be returned.
- Please describe your contact details clearly (phone number, e-mail address, current location, Skype ID, etc.)
- E-mail accounts through @hotmail, @msn, @live and @outlook may experience difficulty in receiving e-mails from the University. Please provide an alternative e-mail address if possible.

[Selection process]

First, a review of applications will be conducted, and only applicants deemed suitable will be contacted and invited for an interview (in person or via Skype). Those applicants who are invited to an interview may be requested to submit three Letters of Recommendation from relevant institutions.

For the on-site final interview, reimbursement for round-trip airfare, domestic public transportation allowance, and hotel (one night) will be provided to overseas candidates.

[Contact details]

Global Talent Acquisition Department
Tokyo International University Foundation
4-23-23, Takadanobaba, Shinjuku, Tokyo 169-0075
Email: saiyou@tiu.ac.jp

[Additional information]

All the information collected will be used solely for its intended purpose of evaluating applicants. Information will not be used for any other purpose.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6145

Fordham UniversityRank: Assistant Professor of International Politics (Security)

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning Fall 2020. The position is located at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates in the field of international security with a specialization in cybersecurity and a secondary focus in interstate conflict, nuclear proliferation, and/or terrorism. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science, as well as to Fordham's Interdisciplinary Center for Cybersecurity. We encourage candidates to apply who will deepen our engagement with institutions or federal agencies within New York City and contribute to our University and department's commitment to quality teaching and research.

Review of applications will begin on October 15. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor Ida Bastiaens, Committee Chair, via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/67817>: cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Application materials should also address how the candidate's teaching, mentoring, scholarship, and/or community service supports Fordham University's commitment to diversity. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6149

Stanford University

Rank: 2020-21 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2020–2021 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2020-2021 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2020) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $65,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2020-2021 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 16, 2019, until December 20, 2019.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship>

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 9/9/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6120

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Mackey Professorship in Middle East Studies

The University of Oklahoma's Department of International and Area Studies, a multidisciplinary academic department in the dynamic College of International Studies (CIS), invites applications for the Mackey Professorship in Middle East Studies. We seek advanced assistant professors or associate professors for this tenure-track or tenured position. We are interested in candidates working on issues of energy, resources and environment in the Middle East, to include the political economy of energy, critical political economy, development, human development, and the political economy of conflict.

Scholars in the fields of political science/political economy, history, sociology, anthropology, and geography (or related humanities and social sciences disciplines) are welcome to apply. Candidates must have relevant Middle East regional expertise and language skills. Submit a letter of application addressing research interests and teaching experience, including attention to how the applicant fosters diversity and inclusion in the classroom, as well as a list of at least 3 references to apply.interfolio.com/67229. We encourage applications from under-represented groups as we continue to build a diverse faculty.

The University of Oklahoma is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Protected veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/gxhzgn748bbkry55>

PI113472481

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/6/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6137

Whitworth University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

POSITION SUMMARY:

The Political Science department, a four-member department with a strong teaching and publication tradition, is announcing a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor. The political science faculty at Whitworth has a common interest in justice and reconciliation—both international and domestic. We are looking for a candidate who will add to our strength in that area.

STARTING DATE: FALL 2020

PRIMARY TEACHING RESPONSIBILITIES:

Teach an annual seven-course load with a primary focus on International Relations. Ability to teach in our interdisciplinary Environmental Studies program is required. The ability to teach in the Peace Studies program is strongly preferred; ability to teach in a regional area that complements current department offerings is also welcomed. The full-time teaching load consists of three courses in the fall, three courses in the spring and a course in January-term. The position is open at the assistant level; however, in an exceptional circumstance a candidate could be hired at the associate level. Whitworth has well-established off-campus study programs and the department welcomes applications from candidates eager to participate in these.

OTHER RESPONSIBILITIES:

Additional responsibilities include participation in departmental activities and governance; professional and research activities, attending state, regional and national professional association meetings; attending faculty assemblies, development days, and retreat, serving on committees and advising.

SPECIFIC JOB KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS AND ABILITIES:

- Demonstrated awareness and commitment to effectively establishing relationships and positive communications across multiple dimensions of diversity including, but not limited to, race, gender, physical limitations, sexual orientation, gender identity, class or religious perspectives

- A personal commitment to the Christian faith and to the integration of faith and learning
- Demonstrated effectiveness at college-level teaching
- Strong potential for an on-going stream of research in the candidate's area of specialization
- The ability to communicate effectively in the language of instruction (English)
- A commitment to equal opportunity for all persons
- A commitment to the educational mission of Whitworth University as a Christian liberal arts university affiliated with the Presbyterian church

QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. or ABD in political science

SALARY: Commensurate with experience and qualifications

TO APPLY: Please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, your teaching philosophy, candidates most recent student feedback surveys, a one-page document outlining your personal commitment to the Christian faith at www.whitworth.edu/facultycareers

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS: A background and/or credit check will be required of the successful applicant, as well as an official transcript and physical exam (if applicable).

DEADLINE: Application Materials will be received until the position is filled. Initial screening of applicants will begin immediately

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6136

Columbia University

Rank: Gerald L. Curtis Professor of Modern Japanese Politics and Foreign Policy

The Columbia University Department of Political Science and the School of International and Public Affairs invite applications for a distinguished scholar at any academic rank, from tenure-track assistant professor to tenured full professor, to fill the Gerald L. Curtis Professorship in Modern and Contemporary Japanese Politics and Foreign Policy to begin July 1, 2020. A Ph.D. and the ability to do research in the Japanese language are required. Candidates will be expected to teach and sustain an active research and publication agenda involving public policy issues in contemporary Japanese politics and/or foreign relations. The candidate will be expected to play a leadership role in the Weatherhead East Asian Institute in organizing research and programmatic activities concerning Japanese politics and foreign policy.

All applications must be submitted through Columbia University's Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS) here: <http://pa334.peopleadmin.com/postings/4057>

Non-tenured applicants should upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, list of references, and at least two brief writing samples.

Tenured applicants should upload a vitae and letter of interest detailing current and future research plans.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6130

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Conflict and Human Rights

Assistant Professor

School of Politics and Global Studies

Arizona State University

The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) at Arizona State University (Tempe) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in the area of Conflict and Human Rights. This is an academic year, benefits-eligible appointment. The anticipated start date is August 2020.

The position is open with respect to theoretical orientation, substantive focus within the broadly defined area of conflict and human rights, and methodological approach. The expectations of this position include teaching courses at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels as appropriate; supervising and mentoring honors, masters and doctoral students especially in the subfields of international relations or comparative politics; developing an active research agenda with publications in top-tier academic journals; participation in professional, university, and school service.

The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by viewing <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum Qualifications: candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research in the area of conflict and human rights commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; demonstrated potential for publishing in top internationally recognized scholarly journals and/or top university presses; the potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; promise in and commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching, including the ability to contribute to SPGS's undergraduate courses offerings in political science and/or global studies and its PhD in political science.

Desired qualifications: demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities; a research and teaching focus in international relations or comparative politics with the potential to advance the interdisciplinary mission of SPGS especially in the area of conflict and human rights.

The application deadline is October 19, 2019; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample, and contact information for three references. Candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree completed by August 1, 2020.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and submitted electronically to Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/67710>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.)

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/4/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 6125University of Kentucky*Rank: Assistant Professor

The Patterson School of Diplomacy and International Commerce at the University of Kentucky invites applications for a tenure track appointment starting in August 2020 at the Assistant Professor rank. The ideal candidate will combine a focus on international commerce with an area of functional or regional expertise, preferably in Asia. Applicants from the disciplines of political science, history, and law are particularly welcome. Professional experience working with an IO, NGO or government, would be a plus, as would be extended study, research or teaching overseas. Candidates must already possess an earned doctorate/terminal degree.

The Patterson School is a selective 18-month professional masters degree program in international affairs. Each year's incoming student cohort is generally limited to thirty-five, all full-time and residential. Our faculty is an interdisciplinary mix of traditional academics and former foreign affairs professionals. Coursework and seminars are supplemented with a rich offering of experiential co-curricular activities. Academic concentrations are offered in: diplomacy; international security and intelligence; international commerce; and international organizations and development.

In addition to standard faculty scholarly research, service and outreach responsibilities, the successful candidate will be expected to teach and to help organize and support co-curricular activities.

Additional information about the Patterson School can be found at <http://www.uky.edu/pattersonschool>

To apply, please submit CV and cover letter along with application. Please also include the contact information for at least three references when prompted in the application. This information may be used to solicit reference letters from your contacts within the employment system.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 31st, 2019, and continue until the position is filled.

Located in Lexington, Kentucky

PhD. Required

Apply for posting: <http://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/242812>

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/3/2019Salary: $70,000 - $79,999eJobs ID: 6114Stanford University*Rank: Postdoctoral FellowSubfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high quality, policy relevant research on critical issues related to global development and poverty alleviation.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2020 for one year (and will consider two years). The Center's postdoctoral fellows program is intended for promising new and recent PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy relevant research on topics related to critical issues for international development and poverty alleviation.

The Center's postdoctoral fellows will be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University. The Center provides a competitive salary plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2019 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and information please visit <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoralfellowsprogram>

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: 12/1/2019Date Posted: 9/1/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 6105U.S. Naval Academy*Rank: International Relations and Comparative PoliticsSpecializations: International Security, Conflict Processes, Defense

The Political Science Department of the United States Naval Academy invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and Comparative Politics beginning August 2020. Application review will begin on 01 October 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

The U.S. Naval Academy is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching, research, and service. Scholars with expertise in interstate war, great power politics, ethnic conflict, and political violence are encouraged to apply. Regional expertise in either Africa, South/Southeast Asia, or Russia is also desired. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence, as well as a strong commitment to student advising and institutional service.

For more information about this position and how to apply please visit the USNA position announcement at

<https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProf-PolSci-AY20.php>

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/30/2019Salary: AnyeJobs ID: 6102

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

Gender and Politics (Assistant or Associate Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for one full-time tenure track professor in the field of Gender and Politics, beginning August of 2020. Our goal is to hire the strongest candidate available who is doing interesting and important scholarship on questions of gender and politics. This thematic focus may be approached from any subfield or combination of subfields in the discipline including but not limited to American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. This position is at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor with tenure.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, this faculty member would be expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate actively in departmental activities.

Successful candidates will have completed their Ph.D. degree in Political Science by August 1, 2020.

The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30, 2019; however, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, complete curriculum vitae, two publications or papers, course syllabi and summary of teaching evaluations, and have at least three letters of recommendation forwarded to us. All application materials should be submitted online to the attention of Lauren M. MacLean, Department Chair, Department of Political Science at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/8350>.

Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to Jessica Williams at 812-855-1209; email: jeewilli@indiana.edu; Department of Political Science, 210 Woodburn Hall, 1100 E. Seventh Street, Indiana University-Bloomington, Bloomington, Indiana, 47405-7110.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6046

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Job Summary

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for up to two tenure-track assistant professors with strong skills in computational social science and data science, broadly defined, and who apply them to substantive questions in political science, preferably in the areas of comparative politics or international relations. Examples of strengths include machine learning, network modeling, statistical methods for large and complex data, natural language processing, text, audio, and/or image analytics, data visualization, and/or other related methods. Exceptional candidates at the level of associate professor with tenure may be considered.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach courses at the intersection of data science, quantitative methods, and his or her substantive fields of expertise, and with some courses being part of the College of Liberal Arts' Integrated Cornerstone first-year curriculum. Candidates at the level of advanced assistant or associate professor are expected to have a strong track record of high-quality publications, appropriate to rank. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; interest in contributing to a broader integrative data science initiative at Purdue; an interest in attracting external funding; and a commitment to teaching excellence.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and off-campus engagement. Candidates should address their commitment to diversity and inclusion in at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals as they relate to promoting a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

College and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, the Human Rights Program, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty members hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates to students across campus in Social Policy, Environmental Policy, and Human Rights. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Applications

Candidates should submit application materials electronically via <https://career8.successfactors.com/sfcareer/jobreqcareer?jobId=6956&company=purdueuniv&username=>

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position. Candidates at the level of associate professor with tenure may submit names three references in lieu of letters.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to the search committee chair, Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Equal Opportunity

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6044

Franklin & Marshall College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor of International Relations

The Department of Government at Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a three-semester visiting position beginning in January 2020 and ending on June 30, 2021. Rank will be at Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor, depending on qualifications. Teaching experience is preferred. The position requires teaching 3 courses in the spring semester of 2020 and a 3/2 load in 2020-2021. Teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Introduction to Comparative Politics, and an upper-level course in the scholar's area of research in international relations.

Applicant must send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching, research and diversity statements, teaching evaluation forms and a sample of scholarly writing to <http://apply.interfolio.com/67171>. Applicants must also arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly to Interfolio by the recommenders. Inquiries about the position (but no application materials) may be directed to Professor Jennifer Kibbe (jkibbe@fandm.edu).

Pursuant to cultivating an inclusive college community, the search committee will holistically assess the qualifications of each applicant. We will consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds. We will also consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to academic success.

The Committee will begin reviewing complete applications on September 15, 2019. Applications submitted by that date will be given priority consideration. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6016

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in international relations, pending budgetary approval. We welcome applications from all areas of international relations, but are particularly interested in candidates who employ rigorous social scientific methods in their research and whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2020, and applicants should have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field before the appointment begins. Successful candidates are expected to engage in research, teaching, and service that contributes to the department's mission.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MjY2>. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by September 16, 2019, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/16/2019

Date Posted: 8/16/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5999

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in comparative public administration beginning on August 1, 2020. This is a ten-month tenure-track position at our Troy, Alabama location. The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2020 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 15, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. To apply, please visit: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com/postings/22822>

Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/31/2019

Date Posted: 8/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5986

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Assistant Professor, Political Science, Human Security
University of Nevada, Reno - Main Campus

Job Description

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a tenure-track, full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the area of human security. We seek a scholar researching large-scale political, environmental, economic and/or social problems, potentially crossing international boundaries. Specializations might include, but are not limited to, linkages between climate change and food security; regional or global health issues affecting human security; research on refugees, migration, the dispossessed or internally displaced people as a result of famine, drought, environmental deterioration, or conflict. The Political Science Department at UNR has a growing emphasis in the broad area of human security and a commitment to inclusion. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda under this umbrella and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MA/PhD). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field in hand by August 15, 2020.
A developing or established research agenda in human security
A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields
A rigorous, empirical research methodology.
Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity
Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Grade/Rank

II, Assistant Professor

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. The University of Nevada, Reno is a Research 1 land-grant campus of the Nevada System of Higher Education with a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students. Nearly half of incoming students identify as being from an underrepresented group. In accordance with the university's land grant, tier one research institution mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many U.S. transportation hubs and to Mexico. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-William Eubank bille@unr.edu
Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

To apply, please go to: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science--Human-Security_R0117646. A complete application must include the following:

- 1) A complete Curriculum Vita
- 2) Cover letter stating qualifications, experience, research plans and teaching experience
- 3) Three letters of recommendation
- 4) A brief statement (one page maximum) about how you would contribute toward our mission of creating a culturally inclusive environment in the role for which you are applying
- 5) Two research-based writing samples

Please contact jobs@unr.edu, the day you apply, if assistance is needed with uploading documents.

Close Date or Open Until Filled

Position is open until filled; first review of applications will begin Oct. 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5981

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, American Politics and Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Housing, Education Policy, Criminal Justice

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate professor in American politics and public policy, with an emphasis on political institutions and the policy making process, to begin July 1, 2020.

All applicants must have a PhD in the area of Political Science, Public Policy, or a related policy discipline conferred by the time of appointment. Please note that we are searching at both the junior and tenured levels. Successful candidates will have demonstrated research and teaching interests in American political institutions and policy-making. While we encourage applications from scholars studying all areas of Public Policy, GPS has particular interest in Health, Education, Criminal Justice, Transportation, or Housing Policy.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including reference information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at:

Assistant Professor: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02210>

Associate Professor: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02211>

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5965

Portland State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Departments of Political Science and International & Global Studies at Portland State University are searching for a shared tenure-track Assistant Professor position. The ideal candidate will conduct research and teach in the fields of Comparative Politics and/or International Relations with a focus on development. There is a strong preference for candidates who study development through the lens of international political economy, Africa, the Middle East, human rights policy, or global health policy.

Please submit:

- letter of application (cover letter),
- curriculum vitae,
- graduate transcripts (upload under "Other-2"),
- writing sample (e.g. article, book chapter, conference paper, etc) and,
- teaching evaluations (upload under 'Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness').

Please list the names, telephone numbers and email addresses for three professional references. As soon as you submit your application, your references will be emailed a link to upload their letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin September 16, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please contact the Department of Political Science at polisci@pdx.edu

Portland State University is Oregon's most affordable public research university, located in the heart of one of America's most dynamic cities. Our mission to "let knowledge serve the city" reflects our dedication to turning ideas into action — in Portland and around the world. The city is our campus, giving students unmatched access to career connections, a vibrant cultural scene and hands-on learning experiences with hundreds of community partners. More than 27,000 students from all backgrounds bring diverse perspectives to our classrooms and campus life, from the tree-lined Park Blocks to the bustling Urban Plaza and state-of-the-art science labs. We are proud of our world-class faculty, groundbreaking research and international reputation for excellence in sustainability, community engagement and innovation.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. in a related field must be completed by September 1, 2020.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Creates an environment that acknowledges, encourages and celebrates differences.
- Functions and communicates effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities and cultural backgrounds.
- Seeks opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement
- Adheres to all PSU's policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.

- Contributes to a culture of environmental stewardship, practices resource conservation, and actively works toward achieving long-term sustainability goals.

Professional Standards of Conduct:

At Portland State University, all employees are expected to conduct themselves in a professional manner which maintains a safe, respectful, and productive environment for faculty, students, administrators, and staff. It is the responsibility of every member of the Portland State University community to conduct themselves in accordance with our PSU Professional Standards of Conduct which are available at www.pdx.edu/hr/professional-standards-conduct.

Total Compensation Range & Benefits Statement:

The starting annual salary rate for this position will be between $65,007-$67,005. The starting salary may be negotiable above this range, however it will be dependent upon the knowledge, experience, skills and abilities of the chosen candidate, the budget of the hiring committee, and approval from HR.

PSU's excellent benefits package includes 95% premium paid healthcare; a generous retirement and vacation package, and reduced tuition rates for employee, spouse or dependent at any of the Oregon Public Universities

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/8/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 5945

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: South Asia, Middle East, Religion & Politics

Assistant-Level Faculty Position in the Social Sciences with a focus on Muslim Societies

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position focused on the culture, economics or politics of Muslim societies. We especially welcome applications from scholars who are studying Muslim societies in Iran and Central Asia, as well as South, Southeast and East Asia.

The successful applicant for this position will be appointed in one of the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, Communication, Economics, Political Science, or Sociology. The successful applicant will have teaching and advising responsibilities in their home department and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of research interests, a curriculum vitae including list of publications, and one recent writing sample. Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 25, 2019. Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/14164>

For Anthropology applicants only: Anthropology will contact candidates at a later date to request that three confidential letters of recommendation be submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/8/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5941

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester 2020 at the level of assistant professor. The successful applicant will be a broadly trained political scientist with a primary field of international relations. The successful applicant will be required to teach courses in international relations, American foreign policy, and other courses in the department's concentration in International Affairs. Review of applications will begin October 21.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field is required. ABD candidates will be considered. A commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of international relations are also required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

The Political Science Department at Bridgewater State University houses one of three the NASPAA Accredited Master of Public Administration programs in the state of Massachusetts. The department's faculty members are dedicated to the highest standards of teaching, scholarship and professional, university and community service. The undergraduate program offers degrees in four concentrations including international affairs, public administration, American politics and legal studies while the MPA program offers a concentration in civic and nonprofit leadership. We are looking for faculty who are committed to helping the department achieve future growth. Two-thirds of our students are first-generation college students, students of color, and/or Pell Grant recipients; BSU is committed to the achievement of academic excellence by students from diverse backgrounds. BSU is primarily a teaching institution with ample opportunity for research (especially in collaboration with students). Internal funds are available for faculty scholarship and professional travel.

Please be aware that employment at Bridgewater State University is contingent upon completion of a successful background check.

For more information on this position and to apply, please visit the following link:

<https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/15741>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/28/2019

Date Posted: 8/7/2019

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5938

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations

The Center for Commerce and Diplomacy (CCD) at UC San Diego's School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) invites applications for a postdoctoral research position for the 2020-2021 academic year.

These awards are designed to promote high-quality research on the challenges and institutions of international economic diplomacy in a changing world. Research projects that seek to understand the causes and consequences of the institutions of economic globalization (e.g. GATT/WTO, FTAs, BITs, IMF, World Bank, Fast-Track, TPA, RTAA, etc) are particularly welcome. Commercial diplomats operate within a set of domestic and international institutions that governs their behavior in international negotiations. But we know little about the specifics of these rules and procedures, how they came into being, how they vary over time and across countries, and how they affect economic outcomes. Post-doctoral research on the institutions of economic globalization can help answer questions about the welfare and distributional consequences of these institutions and, ultimately, result in the better design of these institutions.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites applications from candidates with a background in Economics, Political Science, Economic History, Legal History, or other disciplines bearing on the study of Economic Diplomacy. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the appointment (September 28, 2020 – June 11, 2021), and to interact with faculty and Ph.D. students, giving at least one research talk. Selected fellows are also expected to attend CCD events and related seminars, and to post their research on the CCD website.

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019, for full consideration; however, the posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process: All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02196>

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or receive a Ph.D. degree in Economics, Political Science, Economic History, Legal History, or other disciplines related to the study of Economic Diplomacy by the start of appointment.

Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on December 6, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary - Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. CCD Fellows will receive applicable UCSD benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the UCSD's background check policy.

For more information about the Center for Commercial Diplomacy fellowship program, please contact Alexandra Hubenko, Executive Director, at ahubenko@ucsd.edu

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5926

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream appointment in the area of International Relations. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2020, or shortly thereafter.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page (Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>) to learn more about us.

Candidates must provide strong evidence of research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. The successful candidate will be expected to mount an innovative, competitive, independent, and externally funded research program and to pursue outstanding research at the highest international level. Evidence of excellence in teaching is required and is demonstrated by a teaching dossier, to include a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations, and strong endorsements from referees. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St George) campus.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample (approximately 10,000 words), teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Because we seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity, candidates are also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 10, 2019.

All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, include reference letters, must be received by October 10, 2019.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/10/2019

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5924

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) tenure-track faculty position in International Relations. We are interested in candidates from all areas of International Relations, though we have a particular interest in those with expertise in International Political Economy and International Organization.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured) or contact references (if tenured), and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53014>.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5905

Mount Saint Mary's University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Conflict Processes

The Department of Political Science at Mount St. Mary's University invites outstanding teacher-scholars to apply for a tenure-track appointment starting in August 2020. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science with a specialization in international relations and/or comparative politics and will have demonstrated a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service to a campus community.

The successful candidate must possess the ability to teach in two or more of the following areas: social science research methods, American foreign policy, conflict and security studies, international law and organizations, and/or human rights. In addition, the successful candidate must possess the ability to teach in a one or more of the following regional specializations: The Middle East and North Africa, sub-Saharan Africa and/or Russia and Eastern Europe. The regional courses contribute to the Core Program, our common liberal arts curriculum, and our international studies program.

Qualified applicants will have a Ph.D. in political science before May 2020 and will have a primary area of competence in international relations/comparative politics with an ability to teach in our interdisciplinary Core Program courses, including our first year symposium course.

Mount St. Mary's University is the second oldest Catholic university in America and seeks faculty members eager to engage and support our Catholic identity. Located in a serene mountain setting in Emmitsburg, Md., yet near major metropolitan areas, the Mount is a comprehensive, nationally recognized Catholic university with an enrollment of over 2,000 students and a 13:1 student to faculty ratio.

Salary

This is a full-time position with full benefits and annual, holiday, and sick leave. Competitive salary commensurate to experience.

Position Status

- Full-time position-Beginning August 2020
- Applications received by October 15, 2020 will be given full consideration.

Required Documents

- Cover letter that briefly summarizes your qualifications and interest in the position
- Curriculum vitae
- 3 Letters of Recommendation
- Student Evaluations

Ways to Apply

Please send cover letter, curriculum vitae, student evaluations, and three letters of recommendation to polisci@msmary.edu or to the following address:

PS/IS Search Committee
 Department of Political Science
 Mount St. Mary's University
 16300 Old Emmitsburg Road
 Emmitsburg, Maryland 21727

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5908

Sabancı University

Rank: Open rank - International Political Economy (Sabancı University)

FACULTY POSITION in POLITICAL SCIENCE

Sabancı University, Istanbul, Turkey

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabancı University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding candidates whose primary research interests involve International Political Economy.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabancı University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academiccv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5912

Sabancı University

Rank: Open rank - International Relations (Sabancı University)

FACULTY POSITION in POLITICAL SCIENCE

Sabancı University, Istanbul, Turkey

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabancı University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding candidates whose primary research interests involve International Relations. We are particularly interested in scholars who conduct research in one of the following areas: international conflict, foreign policy or civil conflict.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabancı University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academiccv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5913

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate in Regional Political Economy - Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Specializations: East Asia, Latin American, Middle East

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2020-2021 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 9, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12563>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 12, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/9/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5847

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow - Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2020-2021 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12564>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 5, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/29/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5844

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow in Regional Political Economy – Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University
Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2020-2021 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 9, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12562>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 12, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/9/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5846

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

Specializations: Conflict Processes, International Security, Foreign Policy

The Department of Political Science and the International Studies Program at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invite applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations, to join our community in August 2020. The position carries a teaching load of three courses per semester divided between Political Science and the interdisciplinary International Studies Program. A PhD by the time of appointment is required. Completed applications received by September 13, 2019 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled.

The successful candidate will show promise as a teacher and scholar of International Relations, ideally in the areas of international conflict, national security, foreign policy, the democratic peace, or international norms. Candidates should also identify the International Studies specialization to which they could best contribute (see <https://internationalstudies.tcnj.edu/>). The successful candidate will excel in the classroom in part by integrating scholarship and teaching.

The Political Science Department and the International Studies Program collaborate closely and form a dynamic community of scholars and students. The Department has seven tenured or tenure-track members (and is conducting searches this year for two additional tenure-track positions) who teach and mentor roughly 180 majors. The International Studies Program draws on faculty from Political Science, History, World Languages and Cultures, the School of Business and other academic units to offer nine specialized tracks of study for about 130 majors. Both units also offer minors that draw students from across a wide range of academic disciplines.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ is a highly selective institution that has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its 6,500 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. The College also offers focused graduate programs in nursing, business, education and English. In 2006, TCNJ was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa chapter—an honor shared by less than 10 percent of colleges and universities nationally. A strong liberal arts core forms the foundation for programs offered through TCNJ's seven schools—Arts & Communication; Business; Humanities and Social Sciences; Education; Science; Nursing, Health, and Exercise Science; and Engineering. TCNJ faculty members are teacher-scholars who share a commitment to the liberal arts. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of NYC and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. TCNJ has 39 major buildings, including the 4th-best college library in the nation, according to the Princeton Review.

To apply, please submit all of the following items using the online application system at the following link: <https://chm.tbe.taleo.net/chm03/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=TCNJ&cws=37&rid=1017>. A final offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a background investigation.

- 1) Cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae (CV);
- 3) Unofficial graduate transcript;
- 4) Scholarly writing sample;
- 5) Evidence of teaching effectiveness including teaching evaluations and sample syllabi;
- 6) A statement on diversity and inclusion detailing how diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their work as teachers, scholars, and mentors;
- 7) Contact information for three references.

Applicants should also have at least three references submit confidential letters of recommendation directly to irisresearch-group@tcnj.edu. Any questions can be directed to Brian Potter (potter@tcnj.edu), the chairperson of the search committee.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/13/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5876

Worcester State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science

Specializations: Latin American, South Asia, Southeast Asia

The Department of History and Political Science at Worcester State University seeks a tenure-track Political Scientist in the field of Comparative Politics and/or International Relations with an area specialty in South Asia, Southeast Asia, or Latin America.

The successful candidate will teach the department's introductory courses in Global Politics and International Relations, as well as Political Science Research Methods and upper-level courses in their specialty, and should be prepared to contribute to the university's interdisciplinary programs including Global Studies, Ethnic Studies, Pre-Law, Environmental and Sustainability Studies, and/or Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and to further Worcester State's commitment to increasing and fostering diversity in our campus community.

The teaching load is four courses per semester. Instructional formats may include face-to-face classes, blended, or fully online courses. Responsibilities of the position include carrying out a scholarly research agenda, advising undergraduate students, and otherwise contributing to the academic and strategic missions of the department and the university.

REQUIREMENTS

A Ph.D. in Political Science is required and must be conferred by August 2020.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Review of applications will begin October 1 and continue until position is filled.

Salary and rank commensurate with education and experience.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

All applicants must apply online at: <http://worchester.interviewexchange.com>

Please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, writing sample (of approximately 30 pages), sample syllabus, and 3 signed letters of reference dated within six months of the posting date. Original transcripts will be required if degrees cannot be verified through the National Student Clearinghouse.

All information that can be uploaded to one's e-account should be done so by the applicant; information which cannot be faxed to 508-929-8169 or sent to the following address:

Director of Human Resources
Worcester State University
486 Chandler Street
Worcester, MA 01602-2597

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5887

York University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations / Security Studies

The Department of Politics, Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies invites applications for a professorial stream tenure-track appointment in International Relations / Security Studies at the Assistant Professor level, to commence July 1, 2020. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

A PhD by the start of the appointment in Political Science, International Relations, or a related field is required. Candidates must show excellence or promise of excellence in teaching, scholarly research and publication and service.

The Department of Politics is internationally recognized as one of the leading sites of International Relations scholarship informed by a diverse range of critical intellectual approaches. Applicants should have an ongoing program of research and specialize in International Security understood broadly. The successful candidate's research should complement the present scholarly profile of the Department of Politics in the study of International Security, and develop it in new and innovative ways.

The successful candidate must be suitable for prompt appointment to the Faculty of Graduate Studies. The position will involve graduate teaching and supervision, as well as undergraduate teaching. Pedagogical innovation in high priority areas such as experiential education and technology enhanced learning is preferred. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate actively in Department and University-level service.

York University has a policy on Accommodation in Employment for Persons with Disabilities and is committed to working towards a barrier-free workplace and to expanding the accessibility of the workplace to persons with disabilities. Candidates who require accommodation during the selection process are invited to contact Professor Elizabeth Dauphinee, Chair of the Search Committee at polsjobs@yorku.ca.

York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. The AA Program, which applies to women, members of visible minorities (racialized groups), Aboriginal (Indigenous) people and persons with disabilities, can be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/> or by calling the AA line at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify as part of York University's Affirmative Action program can do so by downloading, completing and submitting the form found at: <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/affirmative-action/self-identification-form/>. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous peoples in Canada will be given priority. No application will be considered without a completed mandatory Work Status Declaration form which can be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/affirmative-action/work-authorization-form>.

The deadline for receipt of completed applications is 13 October 2019. A letter of application with an up-to-date curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests, three letters of reference and teaching evaluations should be sent to: Professor David Mutimer, Chair, Department of Politics, Email: polsjobs@yorku.ca – (Subject line: Assistant Professor – International Security).

Posting End Date: October 13, 2019

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 10/13/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5877

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Florida State University is recruiting an assistant professor of political science on a tenure earning line to begin in August 2020. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, conduct research in their area of expertise and contribute to department, college and university service. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda, strong analytical and empirical skills, and seek to achieve the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to undergraduate and graduate education. The department is especially interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in scientific study of international conflict and cooperation, including interstate and intrastate conflict, political violence, and human rights. Successful candidates will have training in advanced quantitative methods and be able to contribute to graduate training in that area. Candidates must have earned their doctoral degrees before their appointment begins in August, 2020.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Doctoral 1 institution. Its student population of around 42,000 includes around 8,500 students in graduate and professional schools. Tallahassee is the Florida state capital has a population of about 190,000 within a metro area with about 375,000 residents. The department has over 1,100 majors, an applied master degree program that focuses on practical political management, and a doctoral program.

Florida State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to diversity and inclusion (<https://diversity.fsu.edu/>), and we seek individuals who are dedicated to excellence in teaching and research, who share the University's goals to achieve greater diversity and inclusion, and who are reflective of our student body. The successful candidate will work effectively, respectfully, and collaboratively in a diverse, multicultural and inclusive setting. We encourage applications from women, minorities, and/or individuals with a demonstrated commitment to a culturally and intellectually diverse workplace.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application that indicates their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendations, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Please submit files and questions about the search to polisci@fsu.edu. To ensure that materials are reviewed, please submit files by October 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5869

Cornell University

Rank: Open Rank Tenure-track Position in International Relations

The Department of Government invites applicants for an open rank, tenured or tenure-track position in International Relations with a specialization in international political economy starting in the fall semester 2020. We are also open to research specializations in areas such as climate change and the environment; artificial intelligence, big data, and cybersecurity; and transgovernmental networks and nonstate actors. Our primary interest, however, is in candidates whose research and teaching are focused on the field of international political economy. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2020.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14126>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will be doing interviews at APSA from 2-4pm on Friday, August 30, 2019. We will begin to review applications starting September 16, 2019, and will continue until the search is complete.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 9/16/2019

Date Posted: 7/26/2019

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5858

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

Position Title: Assistant Professor, International Relations

Category: Tenure-track

Department: Government

Department URL: <http://www.claremontmckenna.edu/govt/>

Description:

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position, at the assistant professor rank, in the subfield of international relations, beginning July 1, 2020. A qualified candidate, with PhD in political science in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research experience in international relations, and the capacity to teach international relations theory, U.S. foreign relations, and one or more of the following: humanitarian assistance, intervention, and conflict prevention.

The candidate must have demonstrated ability to maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinion, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Procedures and Timetable:

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching.

The deadline for applications is October 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5840

California State University, San Bernardino

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations and National Security

POSITION: Assistant Professor

START DATE: August 17, 2020

SALARY: Dependent on qualifications and expertise

APPLICATION DEADLINE: November 1, 2019

SUBFIELD: International Relations and National Security

RANK AND QUALIFICATIONS: Tenure-track Assistant Professor. Candidates must hold Ph.D. at time of employment and demonstrate evidence of teaching and research promise.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

The Department of Political Science seeks applicants for a tenure-track position with primary expertise in the field of International Relations, including strategic studies, national security policy, and American foreign policy to begin August, 2020. A Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. We expect successful candidates for this tenure-track position to teach courses in International Relations and National Security. The successful candidate will teach a variety of undergraduate courses in these and related areas of specialization. In addition, the candidate may be asked to teach graduate courses. The successful candidate will produce scholarly research and provide service to the university and community.

California State University, San Bernardino (CSUSB) is located in San Bernardino in the Inland Empire, 60 miles east of Los Angeles and operates a satellite campus in Palm Desert located in Coachella Valley. CSUSB serves approximately 20,000 students, of which 81% are first-generation college students, and graduates about 5,000 students annually. As a designated Hispanic Serving Institution, CSUSB reflects the dynamic diversity of the region and has one of the most diverse student populations of any university in the Inland Empire, and the second highest Hispanic enrollment of all public universities in California. CSUSB employs 467 full-time faculty and offers 48 undergraduate, 35 graduate, and 1 doctoral degree programs and 14 academic programs with national accreditation.

At CSUSB, diversity, equity and inclusion are values central to our mission. We recognize that diversity and inclusion in all its forms are necessary for our institutional success. By fully leveraging our diverse experiences, backgrounds and insights, we inspire innovation, challenge the status quo and create better outcomes for our students and community. As part of CSUSB's commitment to hire, develop and retain a diverse faculty, we offer a variety of networking, mentoring and development programs for our junior faculty. We are committed to building and sustaining a CSUSB community that is supportive and inclusive of all individuals. Qualified applicants with experience in ethnically diverse settings and/or who demonstrate a commitment to serving diverse student populations are strongly encouraged to apply.

TYPICAL ACTIVITIES:

Preferred candidates will be expected to meet the traditional requirements of excellence in teaching, active scholarly and professional work, and service to the university and community.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring a diverse student population and to working effectively with faculty, staff and students across a wide range of disciplines.

In addition, new faculty are encouraged to develop and participate in activities that support the University's strategic plan. This plan emphasizes: a) student success; b) faculty and staff success; c) stewarding resources; d) community engagement and partnerships; and, e) enhancing campus identity. CSUSB's Strategic Plan is available at <https://www.csusb.edu/strategic-plan>.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by time of appointment.

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION:

To assure full consideration, application materials are due by November 1, 2019.

To apply please submit the following required documents:

- 1) Curriculum Vitae
- 2) Letter of application that includes:
 - a. A statement of your teaching philosophy.
 - b. A statement of your research experience and goals.
 - c. A statement of how you might contribute to CSUSB's Strategic Plan areas.
- 3) Evidence of teaching effectiveness such as teaching portfolios, reports on teaching observations, and/or student evaluations of teaching (if available).
- 4) Unofficial copies of all postsecondary degree transcripts (official transcripts will be required prior to appointment).
- 5) Reference List - names, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three referees whom we may contact to obtain letters of recommendation.
- 6) A Diversity Statement, which may include your interpretation of diversity, equity, and inclusion, and must include specific examples of how your background and your educational and/or professional experiences have prepared you for this role at California State University, San Bernardino (maximum 1,000 words).

Formal review of applications will begin on November 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Information regarding CSUSB's Department of Political Science can be found at <https://csbs.csusb.edu/political-science>. If you are interested in this opportunity, we invite you to apply at: <https://www.governmentjobs.com/careers/csusb/jobs/2495475> <https://www.governmentjobs.com/careers/csusb/jobs/2495475&clt;/a>>. Salary is commensurate with experience.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

California State University, San Bernardino is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status. This position adheres to CSU policies against Sex Discrimination, Sexual Harassment, and Sexual Violence, including Domestic Violence, Dating Violence, and Stalking. This requires completion of Sexual Violence Prevention Training within 6 months of assuming employment and on a two-year basis thereafter. (Executive Order 1096 - Revised July 21, 2017)

This position may be "Designated" under California State University's Conflict of Interest Code. This would require the filing of a Statement of Economic Interest on an annual basis and the completion of training within 6 months of assuming office and every 2 years thereafter. Visit the Human Resources Conflict of Interest web page link for additional information: <http://hrd.csusb.edu/conflictInterest.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5764

University of Missouri, St. Louis

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Missouri-St. Louis invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position in International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor. Specialization is open, but we are especially interested in candidates with expertise in international political economy, international organizations and international law. The ability to teach a graduate course in quantitative methods is desirable. The department offers bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees in Political Science, including a new B.A. in International Relations.

The department seeks an active scholar oriented to research and publication as well as high quality teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. The department is also interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests respect and integrate a variety of methodological approaches. The normal teaching load, assuming an active research agenda, is two courses per semester. Applicants should have Ph.D. in hand by the date of the appointment. Salary is competitive.

The Department of Political Science

The mission of the Department of Political Science is to promote greater understanding of politics, government, and public policy by creating new knowledge, bringing new perspectives to existing knowledge, and disseminating scholarship to students and to the regional, national, and global communities. Our department has a special responsibility to anchor our community with objective knowledge, civility, empathy, and democratic engagement.

The department maintains a high, steady level of quality publication of peer reviewed books, articles and chapters. The UMSL Political Science faculty rank about in the top ten percent of faculty in peer departments in all Public and Carnegie R-2 universities. The department also emphasizes high quality teaching at all levels, and faculty have received numerous teaching awards. UMSL Political Scientists are very active, very visible representatives of the campus who provide the community with faculty expertise and knowledge. The department's long-standing commitment to inclusion is reflected in the diversity of its faculty, students, and curriculum.

The University of Missouri–St. Louis

Established in 1963 in suburban St. Louis, UMSL is the largest public university in eastern Missouri with a current enrollment of over 16,000 in day and evening sessions. This metropolitan research and teaching institution is consistently recognized for its strong programs across disciplines, and it is considered a primary driver of the St. Louis economy, providing industries with educated and capable employees and leaders. UMSL is committed to meeting the diverse needs in the state's largest metropolitan community and, accordingly, is educating traditional and nontraditional students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs so they are prepared to be leaders in health professions; liberal and fine arts; science and technology; and in metropolitan and international affairs such as business, education and public policy. UMSL is a leader in partnerships with key institutions in the St. Louis Region. Alliances and programs have resulted from collaborations with the Missouri Botanical Garden, Saint Louis Zoo, St. Louis Science Center, Danforth Plant Science Center, and many others.

UMSL is one of four institutions in the University of Missouri land-grant system and is classified as RU-H (high research activity) and as a Community Engaged Campus by Carnegie rankings. Both the campus and the College of Arts and Science are committed to an inclusive campus community that values and respects all its members and achieves educational excellence through diversity. We encourage applications from individuals from diverse and minority backgrounds, including individuals with disabilities and veterans. For further information about UMSL, please see: <http://www.umsl.edu/proud/index.html>.

The Search Process

Applicants must apply online at www.umsl.jobs and submit a cover letter outlining qualifications and interests, and a CV. Applicants also should arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent to David Robertson, Chair, Department of Political Science, One University Blvd., St. Louis, MO, 63121. Review of applications will begin on October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Anticipated start date is August, 2020. Inquiries and nominations for the position can be sent to David Robertson (daverobertson@umsl.edu). The University of Missouri–St. Louis is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5756

Colorado College

Rank: International Relations Position - Open Rank

The Department of Political Science at Colorado College is hiring for a position in international relations. The rank is open. The position requires expertise in Russia and/or Europe, broadly defined, as well as the ability to teach United States foreign policy. Crucial to the position is potential for, and commitment to, excellence in scholarship as well as in teaching at a liberal arts institution.

Colorado College is committed to fostering an intellectually rigorous and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work. Candidates should identify the ways in which they can contribute to these goals.

Colorado College has a distinctive academic program, the Block Plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, with an academic year of eight and a half blocks. The average teaching load is six blocks a year. Faculty can apply for a limited number of release blocks, as well as various sources of funding, to pursue research.

All requirements for the Ph.D. should be completed by the starting date of August 24, 2020.

Applicants should submit: 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research goals; 4) a statement of pedagogical principles; 5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (including syllabi and evaluations); 6) undergraduate and graduate transcripts; 7) a dissertation abstract (if applying at the assistant professor level); 8) a sample of scholarly publications, and 9) three letters of recommendation to: <https://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/4036>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/30/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5732

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Chinese Politics: International or Comparative Political Economy

Specializations: China, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Johns Hopkins University invites applications for a position in international relations or comparative politics with a focus on China. We are especially interested in scholars who examine China's role in the world through the lens of international or comparative political economy.

The Department prides itself on its ability to foster innovative research and forge cross-field synergies that reach beyond the traditional divides of our discipline. We are a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department, and we encourage applications from those trained in a variety of research methods.

Applicants at the level of assistant or associate professor are welcome. In addition to a cover letter, all applicants should submit a research statement, description of teaching philosophy, a writing sample, and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates applying at the level of assistant professor should send three letters of recommendation via Interfolio. Applicants at the level of associate professor, please provide the names of three references. Please visit <http://apply.interfolio.com/64888> to upload application materials.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2020.

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5726

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 3, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12123>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (earned within three years of the start date). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/3/2020

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5683

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments can be from 15 days to one-month during the 2020-2021 academic year (September 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines stipend on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 18, 2019. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12122>.

- 1) Cover letter (in English) indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, 15 days to one-month during the academic year (September 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021), title of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) A statement (in English) describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 – 2,000 words);
- 4) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5682

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2020-2021 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2020 - January 31, 2021; spring semester: February 1 - June 30, 2021). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 18, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials (in English) and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12121>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal or syllabus for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (2,000 – 3,000 words);
- 5) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5681

Missouri State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at Missouri State University invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track appointment in International Relations at the assistant professor rank. Candidates whose work focuses on international security will receive special consideration, but we also encourage scholars of foreign policy to apply. We are seeking candidates with a regional specialization in East Asia. Teaching responsibilities will involve both undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in our Masters of Global Studies (MGS) program. The successful candidate will be expected to teach general courses on international relations, courses in their specific IR subfield, and courses on the comparative politics of East Asia. While ABDs will be considered, applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment in August 2020. The successful candidate will be able to enhance the Public Affairs mission of the University and should demonstrate a commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and service and possess an identifiable research agenda which demonstrates the potential for a sustained record of scholarship leading to publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The Department of Political Science has 16 full-time faculty members, approximately 150 undergraduate majors and master's programs in both Public Administration and Global Studies. Missouri State University is a selective-admission, comprehensive, and multi-campus university system with an enrollment of over 20,000 students, 150 undergraduate majors, and 47 graduate programs. MSU is located in Springfield, MO, with a metropolitan population of over 400,000, in the heart of the Ozarks region of Southwest Missouri.

Apply online at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/>. For additional information, contact:

Dr. George Connor, Head
Department of Political Science
Missouri State University
901 S. National Ave.
Springfield, MO 65897

Salary is competitive and commensurate with background and experience. Consideration of applicants begins September 16, 2019 and continues until the position is filled. Employment will require a criminal background check at University expense.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/11/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5679

Mrs.

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science--International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Westmont College, Santa Barbara, CA invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of associate or assistant professor in International Relations. The appointment will begin in August 2020. Candidates should be able to teach broadly in international relations, with preference given to those who can also offer courses in comparative politics and introductory research methods. Applicants must have a Ph.D., evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching, and a commitment to mentoring undergraduate students. A normal teaching load includes three 4-unit courses per semester, committee assignments, and academic advising.

Westmont College is a nationally ranked, selective liberal arts college in the evangelical Protestant tradition. We desire faculty who are animated by a serious Christian faith, are able to engage in interdisciplinary dialogue and pedagogy, and who share a commitment to justice, citizenship, and service. Westmont has a strong commitment to cultural and academic diversity that is increasingly reflected in its student body, curriculum, and faculty. We seek a colleague who shares these commitments and will contribute to their rich applications in political science.

Please visit <https://www.westmont.edu/office-provost/open-positions> for application instructions and to submit relevant documents.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Jesse Covington, chair of Political Science via e-mail: jcovington@westmont.edu. Review of applications will begin in June 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

For priority interview consideration, applications should be received by August 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/30/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5651

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) has up to 3 postdoctoral positions available for the next four academic years (2019-2020, 2020-2021, 2021-2022, 2022-2023). Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director.

Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase “cPASS Postdoc Fellow” in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 2/25/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5470

METHODOLOGY

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy
Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve countless lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position: We are looking for multiple postdoctoral fellows to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects related to immigration policy around the globe. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc’s time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year beginning in August 2020. Salary is competitive and standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis; experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful; knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued. We are open to scholars with a wide range of expertise in immigration and policy and have a particular interest in researchers focused on migration and development.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university’s research missions.

Application Requirements: Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications should be submitted by November 8, 2019, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2020).

Applications will only be accepted via AcademicJobsOnline: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15074>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/8/2019

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7419

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in Qualitative Research Methodology

The Department of Methodology is a leading centre for research and education in social science research methods. The Department has a thriving and diverse interdisciplinary research culture, with its members advancing research in core social science disciplines as well as in research methodology and applied data science. It leads the provision of research methods education to students across the range of disciplines at LSE (including Psychology, Political Science, International Relations, Management, Development Studies, Social Policy, Media & Communications, Geography & Environment, Sociology, and others). Data science is a current area of growth and innovation. The Department is recruiting an Assistant Professor with expertise in Qualitative Research Methodology.

The post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in outstanding teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in the School and wider Department activities.

Candidates should have completed a PhD by the post start date, and have research expertise in a relevant social science discipline and in qualitative research methodology. They should have a track record or trajectory of internationally excellent publications and a clear, well developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that has the potential to result in world-leading publications. They should have the ability to offer high quality teaching of a range of qualitative research methods to multi-disciplinary groups of students. They should have excellent written and oral communication skills, including an ability to place their specialist work within a broader social science context.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the "contact us" links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email Dr Flora Cornish (f.cornish@lse.ac.uk).

The closing date for receipt of applications is 17 November 2019 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/17/2019

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7374

University of North Texas

Rank: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of North Texas invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2020 in American politics. We seek candidates who study contentious politics broadly defined to include either behavior or institutional analyses. Areas of behavioral research may include social movements, political violence, disaffected groups, collective action/mobilization, labor movements, or the struggle for power. Candidates may also study institutional features such as the legislative process, the courts, and the media as it relates to political contention dynamics. The research focus may be at the local, state, or national level. The successful candidate should be able to contribute to instructional needs that include teaching methods at the graduate level. Candidates who have the Ph.D. by the start date are preferred.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) A Ph.D. in Political Science (highly qualified ABD candidates will also be considered) and (2) evidence that demonstrates a potential for excellence in research, teaching, and service will be required of the selected candidate. Preference will be given to candidates who have a record of publication, can teach graduate methods courses, and who show a willingness to work with other faculty and graduate students.

The faculty member will teach core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continue a record of robust scholarly research, direct graduate research, and provide service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) a writing sample, (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness, (6) a copy of unofficial transcripts, and (7) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>.

Review of applications will begin on October 24, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date. UNT is an AA/ADA/EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7331

SUNY, Binghamton University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at Binghamton University (SUNY) invites applications for an assistant professorship in international relations and/or comparative politics, focusing on political violence and civil conflict, to begin in August 2020. Preference will be given to candidates who can contribute to teaching in the department's graduate quantitative methods sequence, as well as connect with the Data Science Transdisciplinary Area of Excellence (TAE). The Data Science TAE comprises a collaborative group of data scientists from across campus who are at the leading edge of the data science revolution within their own disciplines. Candidates with demonstrable strengths in one or more of the following will be strongly preferred: mixed methods, statistics & econometrics, computational methods, and/or experimental methods. Candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of recent or current research, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Applications received by November 10, 2019 will be given first consideration, although we will accept applications until the position has been filled. Binghamton University is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. It is the policy of Binghamton University to provide for and promote equal opportunity employment, compensation, and other terms and conditions of employment without discrimination on the basis of sex, age, race, color, religion, disability, national origin, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, veteran or military service member status, marital status, domestic violence victim status, genetic predisposition or carrier status, or arrest and/or criminal conviction record unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification or other exception. Submit applications at <http://binghamton.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=116819>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7317

Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Rank: Faculty Position (International Political Economy)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Research Methods, East Asia

Faculty Position (International Political Economy) - Job ID: 4879

The Division of Social Science at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology seeks to hire a faculty member in International Political Economy. The position is open in rank (Assistant Professor/Associate Professor), but preference will be given to candidates with an active research agenda related to East Asia and demonstrated excellence in scholarship and in research methodology.

Applicants should have a PhD degree.

Salary is highly competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Fringe benefits including annual leave, medical and dental benefits will be provided. Housing benefits will also be provided where applicable. Initial appointment at Associate/Assistant Professor rank will normally be on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement. A gratuity will be payable upon successful completion of contract.

Application Procedure

Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample publication, and three letters of reference to the attention of: Search and Appointments Committee Chair, Division of Social Science, HKUST, Clear Water Bay, Hong Kong by email to sosearch@ust.hk. Review of applications will start on 1 December 2019 and the search will continue until the position is filled. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and has a range of family-friendly policies in place.

(Information provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.)

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7248

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)

Research Methods in Political Science and Global Affairs

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses as part of the degree requirements in five of the Department's degree programs: Political Science (graduate and undergraduate), Global Affairs (graduate and undergraduate), and Politics and Law (undergraduate). Required courses in these programs include: Designing Research in Political Science; Quantitative Methods in Political Science; Research Methods in Global Affairs; and graduate Research Methods. The appointment begins Fall 2020. This position also supports collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching, research, and grants application objectives in University initiatives in such areas as Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and Data Analytics that employ quantitative and/or qualitative methodologies. The Department is home to 18 tenured and tenure-track faculty members, NTT faculty, administrative staff, and nearly 600 majors pursuing B.A. and M.A. degrees. Faculty members engage in individual and collaborative research around the world in such areas as global governance, comparative politics, security regimes, national security and intelligence, cyber security strategy and politics, political communications and institutions, federal justice policies, race and gender issues, social policy, human rights issues, constitutional development and judicial institutions, human migration patterns, geographic information systems, and political economy.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or directly related discipline by August 31, 2020. Evidence of ability to teach all research design and methods courses listed above at undergraduate and graduate levels. Teaching at the undergraduate level includes instruction in understanding, interpreting, assessing, and developing research designs; and literacy and basic proficiency in statistical topics and techniques (e.g., classic hypothesis testing, univariate through multivariate analyses, data management, entry and manipulation, and graphical presentation of analysis). Teaching at the graduate level includes basic working knowledge of the empirical, quantitative, and/or qualitative approaches/techniques used by social scientists in understanding social/political phenomena, including skills in the use of SPSS, R, and/or STATA. All applicants must provide representative evidence of high-quality teaching in a variety of research methods and other courses.

Successful applicants must be willing to participate in collaborative interdisciplinary research activities to develop external research grants and to advise during such collaborative activities on appropriate statistical approaches/techniques. Successful applicants will be able to articulate a research agenda including an applicant's emerging record of journal or other peer-reviewed publications. Successful candidates must be able to demonstrate their ability to work with and be sensitive to the educational needs of diverse urban populations and support the University's commitment to thrive as a Hispanic Serving Institution and a model for student success.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given also to applicants prepared to teach courses in traditional sub-fields of political science and/or international relations, ranging from introductory surveys to more specialized and upper-level lecture and graduate seminars in an applicant's specialization.

Applicants should submit electronically in PDF format:

1. Letter of application for the rank of assistant professor, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. A research, teaching, and service statement that includes discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment. The research statement must articulate an applicant's research agenda; the teaching statement must articulate an applicant's teaching philosophy. The service statement must address an applicant's commitment to service to the department, college, university, profession, and community;
4. A copy of all graduate transcripts;
5. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three)
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation. Submit electronic materials to: <https://jobs.utsa.edu> (click on 'Faculty' for position details)

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until position is filled.

This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

UTSA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7264

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in quantitative political methodology to begin fall 2020. The successful candidate should have research interests in methods and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Priority will be given to candidates that can also contribute to teaching and research in other subfields of Political Science.

Applications should be submitted to the following: <https://jobs.colorado.edu/jobs/JobDetail/Assistant-Professor/20688?>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6110

University of California, Riverside

Rank: Assistant Professor – Political Methodology

The Department of Political Science of the University of California, Riverside, invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in political methodology.

The department seeks applicants from all subfields of political methodology. Strong candidates will make significant contributions to political methodology and seek to address important substantive questions in political science. The successful candidate should be committed to excellence in undergraduate and graduate education and have a record or promise of research publication. Ph.D. is preferred; candidates who are ABD at the time of application will be considered. Appointment level and salary will be competitive and commensurate with education and experience. The appointment will commence on July 1, 2020. Minimum basic qualification (must be met by time of application).

Advancement through the faculty ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input.

Faculty in the University of California are expected to engage in research, teaching and service. Typical course load is four classes over the academic year.

Applicants will be required to submit a cover letter of interest that describes their research and training, CV, writing samples, teaching evidence/evaluations, Statement of Past and/or Planned Future Contributions to Advancing Diversity and Inclusive Excellence, and 3 letters of reference. Confidential Letters are solicited via the AP Recruit System Only – Applicant inserts reference names and solicits references from within AP Recruit at time of application. Only completed applications that include the letters of reference may be reviewed by the committee.

Review of Applications will begin on October 30, 2019 and may continue until the position is filled. Applications and supporting materials received by October 30, 2019 will receive full consideration. Applications and materials will be submitted using UCR's on-line application system located at <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF01163>.

Applicants who use Interfolio may utilize a feature provided by the Interfolio Service to allow Interfolio to upload their letters directly into AP Recruit. Applicants can input an Interfolio-generated email address in place of their letter writer's email address. Interfolio refers to this as Online Application Deliveries. The following link on the Interfolio website shows how to set this up (<http://product-help.interfolio.com/m/27438/1/266289-confidential-letter-uploads-to-online-application-systems>.)

UCR is a world-class research university with an exceptionally diverse undergraduate student body. Its mission is explicitly linked to providing routes to educational success for underrepresented and first-generation college students. A commitment to this mission is a preferred qualification.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 4/1/2020

Date Posted: 8/27/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6064

University of California, Riverside

Rank: Assistant Professor – Political Methodology

The Department of Political Science of the University of California, Riverside, invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in political methodology.

The department seeks applicants from all subfields of political methodology. Strong candidates will make significant contributions to political methodology and seek to address important substantive questions in political science. The successful candidate should be committed to excellence in undergraduate and graduate education and have a record or promise of research publication. Ph.D. is preferred; candidates who are ABD at the time of application will be considered. Appointment level and salary will be competitive and commensurate with education and experience. The appointment will commence on July 1, 2020. Minimum basic qualification (must be met by time of application).

Advancement through the faculty ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input.

Faculty in the University of California are expected to engage in research, teaching and service. Typical course load is four classes over the academic year.

Applicants will be required to submit a cover letter of interest that describes their research and training, CV, writing samples, teaching evidence/evaluations, Statement of Past and/or Planned Future Contributions to Advancing Diversity and Inclusive Excellence, and 3 letters of reference. Confidential Letters are solicited via the AP Recruit System Only – Applicant inserts reference names and solicits references from within AP Recruit at time of application. Only completed applications that include the letters of reference may be reviewed by the committee.

Review of Applications will begin on October 30, 2019 and may continue until the position is filled. Applications and supporting materials received by October 30, 2019 will receive full consideration. Applications and materials will be submitted using UCR's on-line application system located at <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF01163>.

Applicants who use Interfolio may utilize a feature provided by the Interfolio Service to allow Interfolio to upload their letters directly into AP Recruit. Applicants can input an Interfolio-generated email address in place of their letter writer's email address. Interfolio refers to this as Online Application Deliveries. The following link on the Interfolio website shows how to set this up (<http://product-help.interfolio.com/m/27438/1/266289-confidential-letter-uploads-to-online-application-systems>.)

UCR is a world-class research university with an exceptionally diverse undergraduate student body. Its mission is explicitly linked to providing routes to educational success for underrepresented and first-generation college students. A commitment to this mission is a preferred qualification.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law

Start Date: Summer 2020

Date Posted: 8/27/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6065

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a postdoctoral research associate or more senior research position in the fields of Formal Theory or Quantitative Analysis. This position involves a year of research at Princeton with the possibility of renewal for another year based on satisfactory performance and continued funding. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars and to increase the critical mass of scholars with interests in formal theory and quantitative methods at Princeton.

Interested applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/13301> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, transcript and the names and contact information of three references. Ph.D. is required. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton Politics faculty members. Unofficial transcripts are sufficient and may be uploaded with the application. Applicants who are unable to upload unofficial transcripts may send official transcripts to F/Q Postdoctoral Fellowship Search, Department of Politics, 001 Fisher Hall, Princeton University, Princeton, NJ 08544. We will begin reviewing applications on February 14, 2020.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. EEO IS THE LAW

Requisition Number: D-20-POL-00010

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6050

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Job Summary

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for up to two tenure-track assistant professors with strong skills in computational social science and data science, broadly defined, and who apply them to substantive questions in political science, preferably in the areas of comparative politics or international relations. Examples of strengths include machine learning, network modeling, statistical methods for large and complex data, natural language processing, text, audio, and/or image analytics, data visualization, and/or other related methods. Exceptional candidates at the level of associate professor with tenure may be considered.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach courses at the intersection of data science, quantitative methods, and his or her substantive fields of expertise, and with some courses being part of the College of Liberal Arts' Integrated Cornerstone first-year curriculum. Candidates at the level of advanced assistant or associate professor are expected to have a strong track record of high-quality publications, appropriate to rank. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; interest in contributing to a broader integrative data science initiative at Purdue; an interest in attracting external funding; and a commitment to teaching excellence.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and off-campus engagement. Candidates should address their commitment to diversity and inclusion in at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals as they relate to promoting a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

College and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, the Human Rights Program, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty members hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates to students across campus in Social Policy, Environmental Policy, and Human Rights. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Applications

Candidates should submit application materials electronically via <https://career8.successfactors.com/sfcareer/jobreqcareer?jobId=6956&company=purdueuniv&username=>

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position. Candidates at the level of associate professor with tenure may submit names three references in lieu of letters.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to the search committee chair, Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Equal Opportunity

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6044

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor – Methodology/Computational Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh seeks candidates for a tenure-stream position in Political Methodology and Computational Social Science at the level of Assistant Professor. We are seeking researchers that have expertise in applying machine learning approaches, broadly construed, to computationally intensive problems in social science. Researchers modeling social media or networks, those employing novel data (e.g., eye-tracking, MRI or GIS data), at scale, or applying creative measurement and visualization strategies to explore topics such as algorithmic biases would be particularly competitive for this position, and we welcome applications from scholars whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths. We encourage applications not only from candidates who have been trained in Political Science departments, but also interdisciplinary researchers whose interests intersect with political science topics. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching ability, the promise of attracting external funding for his/her research, and will have the opportunity to join the interdisciplinary MLHub initiative at Pitt.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2020, and applicants should have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science, Information Science, Computer Science, or a related field before the appointment begins. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MjY3>. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by September 16, 2019, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/16/2019

Date Posted: 8/16/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5998

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor in Quantitative Political Science

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream appointment in the area of Quantitative Political Methodology. We are looking for a candidate with a high level of expertise in methodology and seek candidates who also have a substantive interest in area-based politics (for example in US politics), and are able to teach and do research in both these fields. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2020, or shortly thereafter.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page (Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>) to learn more about us.

Candidates must provide strong evidence of research excellence of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. The successful candidate will be expected to mount an innovative, competitive, independent, and externally-funded research program, and to pursue outstanding research at the highest international level. Evidence of excellence in teaching is required and is demonstrated by a teaching dossier to include a strong statement of teaching philosophy, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, and teaching accomplishments, and strong endorsements from referees. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St George) campus.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, article-length writing sample (approximately 10,000 words), teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Because we seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity, candidates are also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups. Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, October 7, 2019.

All application materials should be submitted through the University of Toronto's online application system. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

All application material, including reference letters, must be received by October 7, 2019.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/7/2019

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5923

Mount Saint Mary's University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Conflict Processes

The Department of Political Science at Mount St. Mary's University invites outstanding teacher-scholars to apply for a tenure-track appointment starting in August 2020. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science with a specialization in international relations and/or comparative politics and will have demonstrated a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service to a campus community.

The successful candidate must possess the ability to teach in two or more of the following areas: social science research methods, American foreign policy, conflict and security studies, international law and organizations, and/or human rights. In addition, the successful candidate must possess the ability to teach in a one or more of the following regional specializations: The Middle East and North Africa, sub-Saharan Africa and/or Russia and Eastern Europe. The regional courses contribute to the Core Program, our common liberal arts curriculum, and our international studies program.

Qualified applicants will have a Ph.D. in political science before May 2020 and will have a primary area of competence in international relations/comparative politics with an ability to teach in our interdisciplinary Core Program courses, including our first year symposium course.

Mount St. Mary's University is the second oldest Catholic university in America and seeks faculty members eager to engage and support our Catholic identity. Located in a serene mountain setting in Emmitsburg, Md., yet near major metropolitan areas, the Mount is a comprehensive, nationally recognized Catholic university with an enrollment of over 2,000 students and a 13:1 student to faculty ratio.

Salary

This is a full-time position with full benefits and annual, holiday, and sick leave. Competitive salary commensurate to experience.

Position Status

- Full-time position-Beginning August 2020
- Applications received by October 15, 2020 will be given full consideration.

Required Documents

- Cover letter that briefly summarizes your qualifications and interest in the position
- Curriculum vitae
- 3 Letters of Recommendation
- Student Evaluations

Ways to Apply

Please send cover letter, curriculum vitae, student evaluations, and three letters of recommendation to polisci@msmary.edu or to the following address:

PS/IS Search Committee
Department of Political Science
Mount St. Mary's University
16300 Old Emmitsburg Road
Emmitsburg, Maryland 21727

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5908

University of Georgia

Rank: Philip H. Alston, Jr. Distinguished Chair

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications and nominations for the Philip H. Alston Jr. Distinguished Chair in any substantive area of American politics, methodology, or theory. The start date is slated for August 2020.

Duties include teaching and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate student levels and the publishing of original research in professional outlets. Salary is appropriate for an esteemed chaired position. The appointment also includes a substantial endowment for research and development.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or allied field is required. A distinguished record of academic scholarship and of grant-supported research and a standing in political science and the social sciences commensurate with a distinguished university professorship are expected. Leadership roles in the discipline, whether within a university or in the discipline broadly construed, are preferred.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, and a list of the names of at least five references. References will only be contacted if a candidate reaches the short list. . Materials should be submitted to the UGA job site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/99240> .

For more information about the department, visit <http://spia.uga.edu/department-of-political-science/>. Athens is well known for its quality of life, including both outdoor and urban activities, and is conveniently located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia (UGA), a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education (<http://www.uga.edu/>). UGA is currently ranked among the top 15 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 70 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country. UGA employs approximately 1,800 full-time instructional faculty and more than 7,600 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 36,000 students, including over 27,500 undergraduates and over 8,500 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 17 schools and colleges as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

The Department of Political Science is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5739

Missouri State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Missouri State University invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track appointment in American Politics at the assistant professor rank. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses in Political Behavior and Quantitative Methods, as well as the introductory American politics course. While ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment in August 2020. The successful candidate will be able to enhance the Public Affairs mission of the University and should demonstrate a commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. The successful candidate should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and service and possess an identifiable research agenda which demonstrates the potential for a sustained record of scholarship leading to publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The Department of Political Science has 16 full-time faculty members, approximately 150 undergraduate majors and master's programs in both Public Administration and Global Studies. Missouri State University is a selective-admission, comprehensive, and multi-campus university system with an enrollment of over 20,000 students, 150 undergraduate majors, and 47 graduate programs. MSU is located in Springfield, MO, with a metropolitan population of over 400,000, in the heart of the Ozarks region of Southwest Missouri.

Apply online at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/>. For additional information, contact:

Dr. George Connor, Head
Department of Political Science
Missouri State University
901 S. National Ave.
Springfield, MO 65897

Salary is competitive and commensurate with background and experience. Consideration of applicants begins October 7, 2019 and continues until the position is filled. Employment will require a criminal background check at University expense.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/11/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5678

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2020. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Washington D.C. and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and seventeen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2020. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The first full review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu>.

edu/cw/en-us/job/493760/assistant-professor-of-political-science-tenure-track.

Applications must include a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5684

Mrs.

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor of Political Science--International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Westmont College, Santa Barbara, CA invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of associate or assistant professor in International Relations. The appointment will begin in August 2020. Candidates should be able to teach broadly in international relations, with preference given to those who can also offer courses in comparative politics and introductory research methods. Applicants must have a Ph.D., evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching, and a commitment to mentoring undergraduate students. A normal teaching load includes three 4-unit courses per semester, committee assignments, and academic advising.

Westmont College is a nationally ranked, selective liberal arts college in the evangelical Protestant tradition. We desire faculty who are animated by a serious Christian faith, are able to engage in interdisciplinary dialogue and pedagogy, and who share a commitment to justice, citizenship, and service. Westmont has a strong commitment to cultural and academic diversity that is increasingly reflected in its student body, curriculum, and faculty. We seek a colleague who shares these commitments and will contribute to their rich applications in political science.

Please visit <https://www.westmont.edu/office-provost/open-positions> for application instructions and to submit relevant documents.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Jesse Covington, chair of Political Science via e-mail: jcovington@westmont.edu. Review of applications will begin in June 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

For priority interview consideration, applications should be received by August 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5651

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) has up to 3 postdoctoral positions available for the next four academic years (2019-2020, 2020-2021, 2021-2022, 2022-2023). Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director.

Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 2/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5470

NON-ACADEMIC

New York University

Rank: Lab Manager - Center for Social Media and Politics

We are looking for a full-time lab manager. In this role, you will be embedded in our research teams in order to directly support the lab's cutting-edge output. Currently, we have a portfolio of over 25 projects on a wide range of questions related to social media and politics, each of which has different substantive and methodological motivations.

As the lab manager, you will have two main responsibilities. First, you will monitor and coordinate all of the lab's research projects; second, you will provide direct support to a selected portfolio of projects. Given the nature of this position, a graduate-level background in quantitative social science and/or data science research is strongly encouraged, as is experience leading teams in a fast-paced environment.

Each project will require something different from the lab manager, ranging from coordinating with our survey vendors to training undergraduate RAs. We value initiative and adaptability, as well as a passion for the research process. While far from an exhaustive list, your responsibilities will include:

- Instituting systems of regular reporting on work performed, setting goals, tracking progress towards deliverables
- Holding meetings with research teams on each project, and reporting to Faculty Directors and Executive Director on progress
- Ensuring data tasks are regularly updated and best lab practices (e.g. coding and documentation) are followed
- Managing paper writing/revisions, writing IRB paperwork, and coordinating conference/journal submissions
- Training and supervising graduate/undergraduate RAs

The Center for Social Media and Politics (CSMaP) consists of three core faculty directors covering fields of Political Science, Computer Science, and Computational Biology, as well as software engineers, data scientists, PhD students in both Political Science and Data Science, affiliated faculty both at NYU and other institutions, and undergraduates. The lab maintains a broad research agenda with many projects moving forward simultaneously. Recent publications and/or working papers have centered on the consumption of fake news, the distribution of media consumption by individuals, the links shared by IRA Troll accounts in the 2016 US election, how (competitive) authoritarian regimes respond to online opposition, and the prevalence of hate speech on Twitter.

The Center has weekly general meetings, bi-weekly post-docs meetings, and many project-specific meetings throughout the week. Centrally located in Manhattan, the lab hosts frequent visitors. You will be given the opportunity to participate in the center's research environment, including attending conferences and seminars and working closely with a broad group of researchers associated with the lab.

The directors of CSMaP are actively seeking a diverse group of students, engineers, postdocs, and faculty collaborators, and encourage applicants from all backgrounds to consider applying for this position. We believe in the importance of diversity as a key to the long range health and vibrancy of the field, as well as its ability to create a more stimulating intellectual environment.

To apply, please go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/66754> <https://apply.interfolio.com/66754>

For additional information, feel free to contact any of the faculty directors: Rich Bonneau (rb133@nyu.edu), Jonathan Nagler (jonathan.nagler@nyu.edu), or Joshua Tucker (joshua.tucker@nyu.edu). Or, of course, check out our website.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 7326

OPEN

University of Connecticut

Rank: Residential Fellowship

The University of Connecticut Humanities Institute invites applications for residential fellowships.

The Humanities Institute offers enthusiastic scholars a stipend, an office, and all the benefits of a Research I university to pursue their research. Just as important, the Institute fosters a rich, intellectual community for scholars to create, connect, and collaborate with one another.

Year-long fellowships are open to humanities professors, independent scholars, writers, and museum and library professionals. Fellows enjoy full use of UConn's research facilities, museums, and archives and special collections as well as easy access to Hartford, Boston, and New York City.

Application materials must be received by February 1, 2020.

For complete information, application, and guidelines: www.humanities.uconn.edu/become-a-fellow/

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 2/1/2020

Date Posted: 11/1/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6225

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve countless lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civi-tech startup.

Position: We are looking for multiple postdoctoral fellows to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects related to immigration policy around the globe. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year beginning in August 2020. Salary is competitive and standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis; experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful; knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued. We are open to scholars with a wide range of expertise in immigration and policy and have a particular interest in researchers focused on migration and development.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements: Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications should be submitted by November 8, 2019, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2020).

Applications will only be accepted via AcademicJobsOnline: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15074>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/8/2019
Date Posted: 10/30/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7419

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Senior Lecturer

Job title: Senior Lecturer, Department of Political Science, University of Gothenburg
 Start Date: Fall 2020
 Application Deadline: 11/24/2019
 Salary: Negotiable

Job description:

The position includes teaching, course coordination as well as student supervision and examination at undergraduate, Master's and doctoral level. Teaching within most of the Department's courses and programmes may be required. Course and programme development assignments as well as participation in the Department's pedagogical development work will also be expected.

The position furthermore includes to carry out research and actively apply for external funding of own research and for doctoral students and postdocs. The post also entails active participation in the Department's research environments and seminar activities, as well as in the international research community through conference participation and publications in international outlets.

The Department of Political Science actively participates in the public debate and the holder(s) of the advertised position(s) will be expected to initiate cooperation and actively cooperate with external actors and the community at large and to promote practical implementation of produced research.

Involvement in leadership, pedagogical and other assignments within the Department's, Faculty's and University's collegial forums may also be required in the longer term.

How to apply:
 Please read more about the position and apply on:

https://www.gu.se/english/about_the_university/job-opportunities/vacancies-details/?id=4863

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/24/2019
Date Posted: 10/22/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7371

Chapman University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Chapman University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Environmental Science & Policy, an interdisciplinary program that draws from expertise in both the Schmid College of Science and Technology and the Wilkinson College of Art, Humanities and Social Sciences. This faculty position represents a joint appointment in both Schmid and Wilkinson Colleges.

Qualifications:

We seek candidates with an active research program in areas including but not limited to:

- Climate issues
- Environmental health
- Environmental justice
- Sustainability governance
- Urban planning
- Water policy

We value candidates who can identify avenues for collaboration both within and outside of the institution.

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in a relevant field in the natural or social sciences (or related area) by the expected 8/1/20 position start date.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate is expected to lead a rigorous research program, which will include securing extramural funding, publishing in peer-reviewed journals, and incorporating undergraduate students in research. Teaching responsibilities will support the B.S. degree in Environmental Science & Policy and also include courses based on the candidate's field of expertise. Service to both Schmid and Wilkinson Colleges is also expected of the successful candidate.

Candidates should submit the following electronically via AcademicJobsOnline.org:

- ? Cover letter
- ? Curriculum vitae
- ? Statement of research (2 pages max)
- ? Statement of teaching philosophy (2 pages max)
- ? Contact information for three references
- ? Chapman University Faculty Employment Application

At Chapman University, we place great value in a diversity of experiences, backgrounds, and perspectives, particularly from groups that are traditionally under-represented in higher education within the US. As such we seek candidates who will support and advance our mission of being inclusive of all students in our teaching, our research, our collaborations, our service, and beyond. In either/both requested statements, please address any past experience and future plans to enhance diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will commence December 1, 2019.

Inquiries may be directed to ES&P Search Chair at schmidcollege@chapman.edu.

Please use "Assistant Professor of Environmental Science & Policy" as the email subject line.

Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Chapman University is a nationally ranked institution offering traditional undergraduate and graduate programs in the heart of Orange County, one of Southern California's most diverse and vibrant regions. The university achieved R2 status in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education, a distinction held by just 10 percent of all U.S. universities. Our faculty include academic leaders who excel in research, publishing and world-class teaching in our 11 schools and colleges, including Schmid College of Science and Technology and Wilkinson College of Art, Humanities and Social Sciences. Dedicated to forward-looking, personalized education, we create an environment for unlimited achievement by both our students and faculty. More information about Schmid and Wilkinson Colleges is available at www.chapman.edu/science and www.chapman.edu/wilkinson, respectively.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/15/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7335

American University in CairoRank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in International Relations starting Fall 2020. The position is on a fixed-term contract (Four years renewable) and open to candidates at the Assistant or Associate Professor levels. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses at the B.A. and M.A. levels in the field of international relations (including introductory courses in international relations theory), foreign-policy analysis and international security. Candidates with a focus on the global south (Asia, Africa, and/or Latin America) and/or critical security studies are particularly encouraged to apply. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to equal opportunity and a diverse faculty.

Requirements:

A PhD is required at the time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing research and publication program and teaching experience. In addition to research and teaching, responsibilities include service to the Department and the University.

Application Procedures:

Priority will be given to applications received by November 30, 2019.

The position is open until filled.

All applicants must submit the following documents online:

- a) A current C.V
- b) A letter of interest
- c) A statement of teaching philosophy
- d) A completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF)
- e) A copy of a recently published or accepted article or chapter
- f) Three letters of reference

Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; with the name of the candidate/Faculty position/ Department.

All applications should be uploaded online:

<http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please take note of your account login details. If additional questions are asked, you will be prompted to login into the AUC portal.

For more information, e-mail Dr. Rabab El Mahdi, Chair, relmahdi@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, gehanwm@aucegypt.edu; or visit the department's website at:

<http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/14/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7329

University of Missouri, St. LouisRank: DES LEE FOUNDATION ENDOWED PROFESSORSHIP IN AFRICAN/AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI-ST. LOUIS

THE DES LEE FOUNDATION ENDOWED PROFESSORSHIP IN

AFRICAN/AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES

The University of Missouri-St. Louis seeks nominations and applications for the Des Lee Foundation Endowed Professorship in African and African American Studies. The professorship is part of the Des Lee Collaborative Vision, a community of thirty-five endowed professors across disciplines at the University who collectively are dedicated to linking knowledge and resources with community partners through collaboration to build educational, cultural, and research opportunities for all members of the St. Louis community and around the world. The Des Lee Professorship in African/African American Studies will be housed in the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Missouri-St. Louis, with shared commitment in the Office of International Studies and Programs (UMSL Global), and have an appointment in one of the following departments: Anthropology, English, History, Political Science, Psychological Sciences, or Sociology.

The successful candidate will be hired at the rank of associate or full professor. As teaching is an important component of this professorship, we are seeking an accomplished and recognized teacher who will take the lead role in developing the undergraduate African American and African Diaspora Studies Program, housed in the College of Arts and Sciences. The expected instructional load will be consistent with the University of Missouri System and University of Missouri-St. Louis policies, as well as the position's endowment agreement. This may include supervising directed research and capstone projects, engaging in research, and performing University and community service in close cooperation with UMSL Global to promote, expand, and strengthen African and African American Studies on and beyond the UMSL campus. The professor will participate in the Des Lee Collaborative Vision and connect with other endowed professors to extend and amplify UMSL's impact within the greater St. Louis region and beyond. A terminal degree (Ph.D. or equivalent), an active research program in any area of African, African American, or African Diasporic Studies with significant publications and/or exhibits, a strong teaching record, appropriate public outreach experience, a record of program development, excellent communication and motivational skills, and ability to synthesize disciplinary perspectives are required.

Salary is commensurate with experience, rank, and discipline.

The University of Missouri-St. Louis (UMSL) is an urban institution located in St. Louis, one of the 20 largest metropolitan areas in the United States. The St. Louis region is exceptionally rich in museums and cultural amenities, and is one of only two cities in the country which has established an area-wide taxing district to support its major cultural institutions, giving them the financial stability for continued growth and improvement. The University of Missouri-St. Louis has partnerships with the five institutions in this district, sharing resources and staff and creating special opportunities for students. For further information about St. Louis, please see: <http://www.stlregionalchamber.com/life/overview>.

UMSL is one of four institutions in the University of Missouri land-grant system and is classified as RU-H (high research activity) and as a Community Engaged Campus by Carnegie rankings. Both the campus and the College of Arts and Science are committed to an inclusive campus community that values and respects all its members and achieves educational excellence through diversity. We encourage applications from individuals from diverse and minority backgrounds, including individuals with disabilities and veterans. For further information about UMSL, please see: <http://www.umsl.edu/proud/index.html>.

Applicants must apply online at www.umsl.jobs and submit a cover letter outlining qualifications and interests, CV, along with names and contact information for five referees in a single .pdf or Word file. Applications received through other sources will not be considered. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. Anticipated start date is August 2020. Inquiries and nominations for the position can be sent to Prof. Priscilla Dowden-White <padhist@umsl.edu> .

The University of Missouri-St. Louis is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7330

John Brown University

Rank: PPE & Gateway Coordinator

John Brown University, independent, evangelical, and Christian, seeks a full-time faculty member to teach in the Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) program and to coordinate the institution's Gateway Seminar course. Responsibilities include but are not limited to teaching undergraduate courses in two of the PPE areas, overseeing the Gateway Seminar, participating in the activities of the Center for Faith and Flourishing, and helping the PPE program to grow. This position will report to the appropriate division chair (depending on the primary discipline taught) and work closely with the dean of undergraduate studies and the director of the Center for Faith and Flourishing.

Philosophy, Politics, and Economics, JBU's newest minor, provides our students with an opportunity to explore, in an interdisciplinary fashion, three central disciplines that investigate who we are, how we organize, and how we exchange ideas, goods, and services. The minor's core centers on a two-semester sequence of PPE team taught courses, with additional courses in the three respective disciplines. PPE resides in JBU's Honors Scholars Program, but students inside and outside the program can take the courses and the minor.

The Gateway Seminar is an introduction to the purpose and method of Christian higher education and the distinctive mission of John Brown University, the communal intellectual life, and the application of a Christian worldview through exploration of a particular topic. This course also supports students in their transition to JBU. The course must be taken during the student's first semester at JBU.

The Center for Faith and Flourishing was established in 2019 after JBU received donor commitments of more than half a million dollars. The center aims to express, defend, and promote the university's historic mission of educating for head, heart, and hand. Principled commitment to our Christian beliefs makes us more, and not less, open-minded to opposing points of view. Similarly, seeking individual human flourishing makes us more, and not less, concerned for the good of society as a whole, because humans can flourish only in broader social networks that allow them to discover and to express who they are—and what they are meant to do with the gift of life. In addition to its support for first-year programming and PPE, the center supports lectures and debates to foster open discussion about challenging topics; student reading groups and colloquia; and other extracurricular activities.

An earned doctorate is preferred, master's degree required. Candidates must have expertise in one of the PPE disciplines and the ability to teach in a second. A desire to help new students succeed is also essential. Candidates must demonstrate the ability to integrate faith and learning in their teaching. Effective teaching experience in higher education, evidence of scholarly potential, and a commitment to Christian higher education are essential.

Position begins August 1, 2020. Screening process begins immediately and continues until the position is filled.

Submit electronically a letter of interest and vita to academicaffairs@jbu.edu, John Brown University, Siloam Springs, AR 72761. Phone: 479.524.7129. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7320

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: SNF Agora Open Rank Faculty - Challenges of Multi-Ethnic Democracy, Race, Inequality

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at the rank of Associate or Full Professor (soon-to-be-tenured Assistant Professors with exceptional records of scholarship can also be considered) in any discipline who focus on the dynamics of race and ethnicity, class and inequality, migration, group identities (including gender and sexuality), community and urban dynamics, and forms of structural inequality in shaping, interacting with, making possible, and challenging the realization of democracy in global contexts and the U.S. We define these terms broadly and seek scholars from a range of disciplines.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute.

Qualifications

Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The university is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the university's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2020.

Any nominations should be emailed to the SNF Agora Institute, at snfagora@jhu.edu

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7313

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: SNF Agora Open Rank Faculty - Institutions of Democracy Under Stress

Description

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at the rank of Associate or Full Professor (soon-to-be-tenured Assistant Professors with exceptional records of scholarship can also be considered) in any discipline who focus on the institutional and organizational dimensions of democracy under stress, particularly as related to questions of civic engagement and inclusive discourse. We define these terms broadly and seek scholars from a range of disciplines, including but not limited to scholars who study the dynamics of states; state contexts; political, civic, social, and economic organizations and institutions; social movements; and social networks, as well as their role in shaping, interacting with, constraining, making possible, and challenging the realization of democracy in global contexts or the U.S.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute.

Qualifications

Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The university is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the university's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications by applying at <https://apply.interfolio.com/69837>.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2020.

Any nominations should be emailed to the SNF Agora Institute, at snfagora@jhu.edu

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7311

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: PROFESSOR OF NATIVE AMERICAN STUDIES

Specializations: Native American Politics, Lesbian & Gay Studies, Environmental Policy

PROFESSOR OF NATIVE AMERICAN STUDIES
DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL & CULTURAL ANALYSIS
New York University Arts and Science

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis at New York University invites applications for an open rank search (tenure-track or tenured) in the field of Native American Studies.

We especially welcome applications from scholars whose research relates to urban indigeneity, Critical Indigenous Theory, settler colonialism, literature, Indigenous resurgence and governance, Queer Studies, Indigenous pedagogies, environmental studies, and/or language revitalization. We encourage applications from scholars who work in collaboration with First Nations or Native American nations and whose research engages with Indigenous communities.

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis is comprised of programs including American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Metropolitan Studies, Africana Studies, Latino Studies, and Asian/Pacific/American Studies. Applicants who can speak to one or more of these fields and have an interest in building Indigenous Studies curriculum/programming at NYU are encouraged to apply. Visit the SCA website: <http://as.nyu.edu/sca>

The appointment will begin on September 1, 2020, subject to budgetary and administrative approval. Applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a research statement. Entry-level applicants should provide names and contact information of three recommenders. Ph.D. in hand by 9/1/2020 required. Because diversity and inclusion are an important part of the NYU mission, we request that you include a paragraph in your cover letter telling us how diversity and inclusion figure into your past, present, and future teaching, research, and community engagement.

Applicants must apply through Interfolio using this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/69291>
Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2019.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here

(<http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity.html>)

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Veterans/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/8/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7306

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Open

Required Qualifications:

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire in the field of American Politics beginning in the Fall 2020. We intend to review applications at the rank of Full or Associate Professor as well as those from advanced Assistant Professors who wish to be considered for a tenured appointment. The department is particularly interested in applicants with expertise in political institutions but will also consider applicants from any subfield of American politics. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited doctoral program. Successful candidates will have a strong record of demonstrated research excellence. Advanced skills in quantitative methods and/or experiments in addition to an established track record of graduate student collaboration and mentoring are highly desirable. Additional duties include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, carrying on a program of research, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college and university levels.

Preferred Qualifications:

Specific interests in applicants with expertise in political institutions but will also consider applicants from any subfield of American politics.

Responsibilities & Requirements:

Responsibilities will include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, supervision of student research and writing, carrying on a program of research, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college and university levels.

Special Notes:

This is a tenure track position. FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously.

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at <mailto:info@goer.ny.gov> .

Stony Brook University is 100% tobacco-free as of January 1, 2016. See our policy and learn more at <https://www.stonybrook.edu/tobaccofree> .

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure

Those interested in this position should:

1. Complete the online <https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/oide-equity/resources/applicants-survey.php> Applicant Information Survey . Do not submit this survey to the department with your application. Any questions regarding the survey, please email oide@stonybrook.edu .

2. Submit a <https://www.asa.stonybrook.edu/asa/ASAForms/Department/HRS/Document/HRSF0113State> Employment Application , cover letter, CV, and academic references at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018> . Alternately, you may submit your application package to the departmental address below.

We will give primary consideration to all applications received by 10/28/2019, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Interested candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and the names of three academic references to the electronic job advertisement system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018> or by mail to Chair, American Politics & Policy Search, S-701 Social and Behavioral Sciences Building, Department of Political Science, 4392 SUNY, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4392.

Inquiries regarding the position can be sent to:

Chair, American Politics & Policy Search
S-701 Social and Behavioral Sciences Building
Department of Political Science
4392 SUNY
Stony Brook, NY 11794-4392

Institutional Advertisement: <https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/faculty-jobs/positions/faculty-librarian/current-year/Associate-Full-Professor>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 10/8/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7308

University of Richmond

Rank: Tyler Haynes Professorship of Interdisciplinary Studies
Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Policy, Open
Specializations: Leadership Studies, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The University of Richmond Jepson School of Leadership Studies and School of Law invite nominations and applications for an endowed professorship. The ideal candidate will be a full professor with both

J. D. and Ph.D. degrees. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research addresses areas of leadership and applied law, including the criminal justice system, the Supreme Court, healthcare, housing, immigration, education policy, or institutional analysis. Successful candidates will teach courses in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the School of Law.

Applications and inquiries may be directed to Al Goethals and Andy Spalding at hayneschair@richmond.edu. Candidates should attach a cover letter and curriculum vitae. In their cover letters, candidates should address how their scholarly and teaching interests connect to the study of leadership and law. Cover letters should also specify how the applicant might contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion in the classroom.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and continuing studies. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers students the opportunity to major or minor in leadership studies and provides a challenging liberal arts curriculum designed to educate students for and about leadership. The School of Law offers a curriculum that combines sophisticated legal theory with opportunities to put theory into practice, equipping students with the knowledge and skills they need to make valuable contributions to the legal system. For additional information about the two schools, see <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> and <https://law.richmond.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/7/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7268

New York University

Rank: Tenured or Tenure-Track Professor

We invite applications for a tenured or tenure-track position (rank open) for outstanding candidates with demonstrated abilities in both research and teaching in Social Science and Data Science. This is a fully joint position in two academic units: the Faculty of Arts and Science (FAS) social science department and the Center for Data Science (CDS) (<https://cds.nyu.edu/our-people/jobs>).

Requirements & Application:

Candidates should have a substantive background and active research interests in Anthropology, Linguistics, Political Science, or Sociology. Candidates should further have substantive interest and experience in Data Science methodology, broadly defined, and use that knowledge in their research. Examples of techniques and areas with which candidates might be familiar include supervised and unsupervised learning, pattern recognition, data mining, statistical modeling, natural language processing, high performance computing, and using "text as data." A PhD in one of the named social sciences is preferred for junior candidates, and an ideal candidate would have advanced training in both that social science and Data Science. A proven ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in both a substantive domain, and in data science techniques, is required for this position.

The starting date is September 1, 2020, subject to budgetary and administrative approval. Applications should include a CV, a teaching and research statement, a writing sample and at least three references.

Because diversity and inclusion are an important part of the NYU mission, we request that you include a paragraph in your cover letter telling us how diversity and inclusion figure into your past, present, and future teaching, research and community engagement – additional information can be found at <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity/recruitment/diversity-statements.html>. Review of complete applications will begin November 1, 2019 but all applicants will be considered until the position is filled. Applicants must apply through the following Interfolio application page: <http://apply.interfolio.com/69382>.

About FAS:

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, people with disabilities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please find more information at <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity.html>.

About CDS:

The Center for Data Science is the focal point for NYU's university-wide initiative in data science and statistics, established 6 years ago, and one of the country's leading data science research and training facilities. CDS is a vibrant space with 16 jointly appointed faculty (growing to over 20 in the next two years) and 11 associated faculty across computer science, mathematics, engineering, neural science, linguistics, politics, psychology, physics, biology and business; a list of affiliate faculty spanning a wide range of NYU's schools and departments, a highly successful Masters program, one of the first Data Science PhD programs as well as the new undergraduate program in data science. CDS's research focuses on tools and methods at the intersection between applied mathematics, data science, high-dimensional statistics, machine learning, optimization, and several data driven application areas.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7294

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor of Practice

The primary duties for this position include teaching (0.8 teaching) and student-focused research and engagement (0.2 research and engagement) in both the Global Studies Program as well as the Forsythe Family Program on Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs. The Assistant Professor of Practice will teach three courses per semester, including introductory and capstone courses in global studies and human rights. This Assistant Professor of Practice will also oversee students' experiential learning and build relationships with interested partners on campus, in the community and around the globe. The Assistant Professor of Practice will serve on the Advisory Board for the Forsythe Family Program on Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. by July 1, 2020 in a related field, including but not limited to, Anthropology, Communication Studies, Economics, Geography, History, Languages and Literature, Political Science and Sociology, among other fields. Successful candidates will have experience in or a commitment to interdisciplinary teaching and should be prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in global studies and human rights.

Preferred candidates would have experience engaging in student/community outreach; experience managing projects; a demonstrated ability to work with a diverse range of students including first-generation students, students of color, students from low-income backgrounds, and high-ability students; experience mentoring students outside the classroom (e.g. supervisor, registered student organization advisor, etc.); and experience building relationships across multiple constituencies. Candidates with expertise in Africa, Asia and Latin America are particularly encouraged to apply.

To be considered for this position, click "Apply to this job" and complete the information form. Applicants should upload the following:

- A cover letter indicating interest in and qualifications for the desired position and detailing the candidate's ability to contribute to two diverse, interdisciplinary programs at a large R1 public university
- Current curriculum vitae
- Statement of teaching philosophy
- Teaching portfolio
- Research statement
- Diversity statement detailing how their experience in teaching, service, and/or scholarship has supported the success of students from racial, ethnic, and gender backgrounds that are underrepresented in their academic fields. Applicants who have not yet had the opportunity for such experience should note how their work will further UNL's commitment to diversity.
- A list of 3 references. Only short-listed candidates' references will be asked to supply letters.

Combine statements and teaching portfolio into one document and attach as "Other Document."

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7283

Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse

Rank: Interdisciplinary Research Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

We welcome applications from researchers within a large range of disciplines in the social, behavioral and life sciences: anthropology, evolutionary biology, economics, genetics, history, law, mathematics, neuroscience, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology; however, motivated applications from outside these disciplines will be given full consideration. Successful applicants will have to demonstrate an interest in, and a commitment to, at least one of the other disciplines of IAST.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their own discipline, but willing and able to develop research projects drawing on IAST's substantial interdisciplinary resources, including particularly the proximity of strong groups in economics (Toulouse School of Economics, TSE).

We are open to a variety of research methods, including theory, field and laboratory experiments, observational field work, and the analysis of large secondary data sets.

All research interests relevant to the broad study of human behavior are welcome, but interests that complement and / or enhance those already developed at IAST will be given special consideration. These include, to cite only a few:

In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economic or social history; emergence and dynamics of institutions and networks.

In evolutionary biology: theoretical models of evolution (applied to family structure, strategic interactions, plasticity, cognition, learning, cultural evolution); related empirical work.

In anthropology: human biology, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, host-parasite co-evolution, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine and genetics.

In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

In law: law and economics, corporate governance, criminology.

In psychology: cognition, beliefs, identity, memory, the emotions, culture, social trust, gender, group decision-making.

In sociology: network formation, the impact of networks on social outcomes, sociology of religion.

In genetics and neuroscience: mental state representation, personality, intelligence.

For more information & application, please visit: <http://www.iast.fr/research-fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/2/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7275

Saint Anselm College

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellow

The Department of Politics at Saint Anselm College invites applications for a two-year term post-doctoral faculty member to begin Fall 2020. The successful candidate will enhance the diversity of the Department's curricular offerings, teaching in one or more areas of specialization not currently included in our Department's areas of expertise, and at least partly focusing on marginalized or underserved groups. Areas of specialty could include the politics of race in America, intersectionality, politics of First Nations and/or indigenous peoples, or regional politics of with a specialization in Middle East, North Africa, or Asia. The ability to teach a course on Research Methods is a plus, but not required.

To apply, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability and research potential (samples of scholarship, articles or conference papers) and academic transcripts to the attention of Dr. Jennifer Lucas, Chair, Politics Department via the college website at www.anselm.edu/hr. Three letters of recommendation are required and should be submitted in PDF format via email to the department faculty assistant, Lorie Cochran at (lcochran@anselm.edu). Full consideration will be given to applications received by December 1, 2019.

The position includes a 2-2 teaching load, with each semester likely including an introductory course (American Government, Comparative Politics, or International Relations) and either a course on Research Methods or an upper-level elective in their area of specialty. Interest in or experience working with students from underrepresented groups is preferred. In addition, the Department would expect him/her to serve on senior thesis committees, and to engage in conversation with the Politics faculty on methods of maintaining diversity in our curriculum. In addition to faculty development funds available for conferences, competitive funding opportunities for engaging pedagogies and presenting research are available, including grants funded by the New Hampshire Institute of Politics and the Diversity & Inclusion Innovation Fund.

A Ph.D. in political science is required by August 2020. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching at the undergraduate level as well as scholarly research. Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is preferred.

Successful candidates will be able to assist the college to further its strategic goals for institution-wide diversity and inclusiveness.

Founded in 1889, Saint Anselm College is a Catholic, liberal arts college in the Benedictine tradition. The community includes approximately 2,000 students, 155 full-time faculty members and 401 full-time staff in addition to the monks of Saint Anselm Abbey. Located in Manchester, NH, Saint Anselm College is just 1 hour from Boston, the White Mountains, and the New England seacoast.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/2/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7280

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Open

Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2020-21. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive. Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period is anticipated to begin on September 1 and run for the academic year. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12522>.

The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than 12,000 words, not including bibliography) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Monday, November 4, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference should be submitted by end of business day on Monday, November 11, 2019. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately so letters of reference received after the priority deadline may put candidates at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in late March 2020.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/4/2019

Date Posted: 9/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6232

Hood College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Hood College Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the Assistant/Associate Professor rank beginning August 2020. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in political science and have demonstrated ability, or strong potential for success, in teaching courses in modern and contemporary political theory and courses on civic engagement and non-profit studies. The faculty member will also be expected to engage in scholarship and professional development activities. The faculty member will be responsible for coordinating the nonprofit minor and play a significant leadership role in the Martha E. Church Center for Community Engagement. The Center was established in 2017 to strengthen and expand the College's community outreach efforts and to significantly increase students' engagement in the community, including but not limited to civic activities, community-based research, service learning and internships. The successful candidate will help the College build a bold and exciting vision and plan for the Center as a cornerstone of the strategic goal to provide experiential learning opportunities to all students and fulfill its mission to "empower students to use their hearts, minds and hands to meet personal, professional and global challenges and to lead purposeful lives of responsibility, leadership, service and civic engagement".

A Ph.D. in political science is required. Candidates with undergraduate teaching experience and a record of research publications and/or presentations are preferred or equivalent combination of education and experience.

Qualified candidates are invited to apply online via our electronic application which require a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement and three letters of recommendation. The letters of recommendation should be sent to Dr. Tamelyn Tucker-Worgs, Chair of the Department of Political Science, by email to politicalscience@hood.edu. For full consideration, please respond by October 28, 2019.

If you need assistance with the on-line application process, please email humanresources@hood.edu or call (301) 696-3592.

Hood College is committed to diversity in its faculty and staff and subscribes to a policy of hiring only individuals legally eligible to work in the United States. EOE/AAP/M/F/Vet/Disability Employer

Hood College does not discriminate on the basis of sex, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, marital status, pregnancy, disability, religion, or age in recruitment, admission and access to, or treatment, or employment in its programs, services, benefits, or activities as required by applicable laws including Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and complies with the law regarding reasonable accommodation for disabled applicants and students. Inquiries about discrimination or reasonable accommodation should be referred to the Title IX and Section 504 Coordinator at Alumnae Hall, 401 Rosemont Avenue, Frederick, MD. 21701 (AD 312), (301) 696-3592. For complete information on Hood College's nondiscrimination policy, please visit <http://www.hood.edu/nondiscrimination/>.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 6221

Northeastern University

Rank: URBAN INFORMATICS CLUSTER HIRE, OPEN RANK - ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, Other

Specializations: Urban Politics, Criminal Justice, Quantitative Methods

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications for several tenured or tenure-track faculty positions in computational social science, with a focus on urban informatics, quantitative methods, or network science, with an expected start date of Fall 2020. Successful candidates will have a distinguished scholarly record using methodological approaches that leverage and work with large or complex data sources to study social phenomena, including but not limited to questions pertaining to cities and communities. We have special interest in scholars whose work includes the use of administrative, scraped, archival, or internet-gathered data. We are seeking scholars who work in spatial, network, or textual analysis, and/or use machine-learning tools. Competitive applicants will also have demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching and leadership. Faculty appointments will be made in one or more of the member departments of the CSSH, including the School of Public Policy and Urban Affairs, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Department of Political Science, Department of Economics, and the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Cross-college appointments are possible. Successful applicants will likely affiliate with one of our research centers dedicated to this work, including the Boston Area Research Initiative, the NULab for Texts, Maps, and Networks, or the Network Science Institute.

The position will support the University's commitment to innovation in experiential learning as well as the college's mission in integrating data and technology in the analysis of society, policy, and governance. Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample, as well as the names of three references. For those who would be appointed at the assistant professor level, we will request references upon receipt of application.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Professor Daniel O'Brien, at d.obrien@neu.edu. Review of applications will begin Oct. 15th and will continue until the position is filled.

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts. Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups underrepresented in academia.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6217

Princeton University

Rank: 2020-2021 LAPA Fellowships

The Program in Law and Public Affairs (LAPA) at Princeton invites outstanding faculty members of any discipline, independent scholars, lawyers, and judges to apply for residential fellowships for 2020-2021. LAPA Fellows devote the major portion of their time to their own research and writing on law-related subjects of empirical, interpretive, doctrinal and/or normative significance. In addition, LAPA Fellows are expected to be in residence for ten months and participate in LAPA programs, including a biweekly seminar, a weekly luncheon discussion group, as well as some public events and conferences. The program does not support, as a primary activity, off-site fieldwork or work in remote archives, development of course materials, work in legal practice, or residence elsewhere.

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/13181>

THE DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION IS 11:59 PM (EST) NOVEMBER 13, 2019.

For additional information and requirements see: <http://lapa.princeton.edu/fellowships>

LAPA is cosponsored by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the University Center for Human Values and Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/13/2019

Date Posted: 9/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6215

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the field of Technology & International Relations

Specializations: Science & Technology, International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Technology & International Relations. The position will begin July 1, 2020, subject to budget approval. We seek applicants whose work focuses on the impact and regulation of technology in contemporary international relations, including in international security, environment, development, commerce, communications, and human rights.

We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including international relations, science and technology studies, political science, history, sociology, anthropology, development, and international political economy. We are open to all methodological approaches and regional specializations, but have a particular interest in candidates who incorporate data analytics in the context of social science instruction. Successful candidates would be expected to have completed a Ph.D. by August 15, 2020. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Boston University is an AAU institution with a rich tradition dedicated to inclusion and social justice. The BU Pardee School believes that the cultural and social diversity of our faculty, staff, and students is vitally important to the distinction and excellence of our research and academic programs. We are eager to have join our ranks a colleague who supports our institutional commitment to ensuring BU is inclusive, equitable, diverse, and a place where all constituents can thrive.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letters of recommendation at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14455>. Questions about the position or the Pardee School may be directed to Ms. Elaine Bidanos at elaineb@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2020. The Pardee School of Global Studies offers B.A. and M.A. degrees and is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6207

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Political Science Professor – Open Rank

Subfield(s): Open, Open, Open

Political Science Professor – Open Rank
Division of Social Science
NYU Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at NYU Abu Dhabi is searching for new faculty to conduct important research and teach the next generation of global leaders.

You are invited to apply for an open-rank position in Political Science. This tenured/tenure-track search includes all fields and methodologies, and applications from senior scholars (Associate and Full Professor) are especially welcome.

NYU Abu Dhabi's unique location in the Middle East makes it an ideal headquarters for social scientists working to better understand global societies, both past and present. The disciplines in this field seek to deepen our understanding of how people behave in a wide variety of contexts and to assess the consequences of individual, group, and societal decisions.

About NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi is a pioneer of higher education in a global world, dedicated to excellence in teaching and research, while advancing cooperation and progress on humanity's shared challenges. Part of the NYU global network, NYU Abu Dhabi offers an outstanding liberal arts and science education to students from the United Arab Emirates, United States, and around the world, focusing on intercultural understanding and leadership. It supports innovative research that pushes the frontiers of knowledge forward and responds in powerful and interdisciplinary ways to vital global and local questions. NYU Abu Dhabi advances NYU as a model university for the 21st century and contributes in multiple ways to the development of a sustainable, knowledge-based economy in Abu Dhabi.

As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students, and providing an intellectually rich environment. Students are drawn from around the globe, surpassing all traditional academic benchmarks. The NYU Abu Dhabi undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school appointments, and many other honors.

Working for NYU Abu Dhabi

A world-class institution deserves world-class benefits. At NYUAD, we recognize that Abu Dhabi is more than where you work, it's your home and in order for you to research, teach, and thrive, we're offering a comprehensive benefits package to our top talent. Start with generous relocation allowances to ensure a smooth transition to Abu Dhabi, followed by competitive salaries, housing and transportation allowances, and educational assistance for your dependents. Health and wellness services round out our offerings, plus more. Click <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/working-at-nyuad.html> for more information on benefits for you and your dependents.

Qualifications

This position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science.

We seek individuals who have, or have the potential to develop, a strong record of scholarship and have the ability to develop and lead high-quality research.

Application Instructions

To apply for this position, please submit the following items, to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/68225>

- . CV
- . Cover Letter
- . Statement of Teaching Interests
- . Recent Teaching Evaluations (if available)
- . Statement of Research Interests
- . Three (3) Representative Writing Samples
- . For candidates applying for the Assistant Professor Positions, please submit the names and email addresses of three (3) references who will be contacted to upload their letter confidentially through Interfolio.
- . For candidates applying to the Senior faculty position, please submit a list of three references that may be contacted at a later date.

We will begin looking at applications on September 23, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. Shortlisted candidates are expected to be invited for campus visits in Abu Dhabi and New York early Spring 2020. We anticipate that successful candidates can start the appointment and relocate to Abu Dhabi in academic year 2020-2021.

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

If this sounds like you, apply now. Join NYU Abu Dhabi, an exceptional place for exceptional people.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6195

College of Wooster

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Urban Studies Program at The College of Wooster invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in urban studies, with a focus on spatial (in)justices, to begin August 2020. Disciplinary fields and geographical areas of expertise are open, though the candidate must be able to teach courses exploring spatial issues through an interdisciplinary lens and supervise undergraduate research projects in urban studies. A strong preference will be for candidates who can offer courses in Geographic Information Systems (GIS). The teaching load is typically 5.5 courses per year, which may include advising senior theses.

Applicants from any humanistic discipline or interdisciplinary field are welcome, including but not limited to, Anthropology, Art History, Architecture, Cultural Geography, History, Literary Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Sociology, and Africana Studies. This position will also be expected to participate in the College's First-Year Seminar Program. Candidates should hold or expect a Ph.D., and prior teaching experience is highly desirable. The College of Wooster enrolls a diverse student body (21% domestic students of color and 15% international students); applicants should have experience with diverse student populations.

Applicants should submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; copies of unofficial graduate transcripts; evidence of strong teaching (including teaching philosophy, syllabi and student evaluations, if applicable) and research (including research statement and writing sample of 25 pages or less); diversity statement; and three reference letters through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/68424>. The diversity statement should detail how the applicant has engaged and/or expects to engage with issues of diversity in the classroom and the curriculum, as well as on campus and in the broader community.

If you have questions regarding Interfolio, please contact Santha Schuch, Administrative Coordinator, the Urban Studies Program, at sschuch@wooster.edu. Questions about the position should be directed to Heather Fitz Gibbon, Chair of Urban Studies, at hfitzgibbon@wooster.edu.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6180

American Political Science Association

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Open

American Political Science Association

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association Congressional Fellowship Program is currently accepting online applications for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;
- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2020. Office placements run until August 15, 2021. Two optional programs precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to spend up to two months at the APSA Centennial Center carrying out a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2020.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields who can demonstrate a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process.

Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be <https://apsa.wufoo.com/forms/qlohl0dn0mzd/submitted> online and include:

- CV;
- 500-word personal statement;
- names and contact information for three references; and
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2020-2021 fellowship year by Tuesday, December 3, 2019. Please send questions about the program to <mailto:cfp@apsanet.org>.

Start Date: November 2020

Salary: $52,500 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/3/2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6172

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Clinical Assistant Professors, Liberal Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Open

Specializations: East Asia, International Political Economy, Women & Politics

Clinical Assistant Professors

LIBERAL STUDIES

New York University Arts and Science

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for Clinical Assistant Professor positions to begin September 1, 2020, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Liberal Studies provides a unique interdisciplinary educational experience to undergraduate students. The Liberal Studies Core consists of a two-year interdisciplinary global curriculum drawing on great works across civilizations. The Global Liberal Studies Bachelor of Arts, one of NYU's premier liberal arts degrees, builds on the global core with an upper division set of interdisciplinary concentrations that direct students toward different areas of global study.

We seek applicants for the following positions:

East Asian Studies:

Ph.D. in East Asian Studies, History, Political Science, or related fields. Candidates should have the ability to teach interdisciplinary seminars on East Asia to introduce undergraduates to the politics, history, intellectual thought, and development of the region within a global context. Preference for a specialist in Korea and/or Japan. Candidates should have the ability to teach upper division seminars in their areas of expertise as well as first and second year seminars in the Core Curriculum.

Global Works and Society:

PhD in Political Theory, Philosophy, History, or related fields in the social sciences. Candidates should have the ability to teach global works that examine enduring questions of philosophy, religion, political and social theory, and history from antiquity to the early 18th century in the Global Works and Society sequence of the Core Curriculum. Candidates must embrace interdisciplinary, intersectional, and global perspectives, and have the ability to teach upper-division seminars in their areas of expertise.

Global Justice:

Ph.D. in Global Justice, Politics, Anthropology, Human Geography, or related fields. Preference for a specialist in International Migration and/or Women's Rights. Candidates should have the ability to teach upper division seminars in their areas of expertise as well as first and second year seminars in the Core Curriculum.

Minimum qualifications: a Ph.D. by the date of appointment; three years of college-level teaching experience; and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Publications and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are strongly encouraged.

All Liberal Studies full-time faculty hold renewable term contracts, initially three years, and later five years in duration. Faculty are eligible for promotion within the Clinical faculty ranks (Associate, Full). Faculty normally teach three classes per semester, advise undergraduates, and contribute service to Liberal Studies and to the University.

Applications include ONLY (1) a cover letter, (2) a current c.v., and (3) a Diversity and Inclusion Statement addressing past and/or potential future contributions to diversity through teaching, professional activity, and/or service (additional information can be found here <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity/recruitment/diversity-statements.html>). Complete applications must be recorded by 11:59 p.m. Eastern Standard Time (US), October 22nd, 2019. Applications recorded after this deadline will not be considered.

Applicants may apply directly through the following links:

East Asian Studies: <http://apply.interfolio.com/6757>

Global Works and Society: <https://apply.interfolio.com/67580>

Global Justice: <https://apply.interfolio.com/67579>

Liberal Studies offers a global liberal arts curriculum at sites around the globe in the context of a leading research university. We seek scholar/educators of the highest caliber whose work reflects an interest in global diversity. Liberal Studies strongly encourages applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion, please read here: <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity.html>

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6174

Texas A&M University

Rank: ACES Fellowship

2019-2020 ACCOUNTABILITY, CLIMATE, EQUITY, AND SCHOLARSHIP (ACES) FELLOWS PROGRAM

Texas A&M University's Accountability, Climate, Equity, and Scholarship (ACES) Fellows Program is a faculty pipeline initiative that connects those advancing outstanding scholarship with relevant disciplinary units on campus. The ACES Fellows Program is administered by the Office for Diversity at Texas A&M in partnership with the College of Liberal Arts. In recognition of Texas A&M University's Diversity Plan, the ACES Fellows Program is aimed at promoting the research, teaching, and scholarship of early career scholars who embrace the belief that 'diversity is an indispensable component of academic excellence' (Texas A&M, Commitment to Diversity). From this experience at Texas A&M, fellows should develop an understanding of the value of diversity and the power that it holds for students, faculty, and staff to enrich their lives.

As a Tier 1 research and land-grant institution, Texas A&M upholds its responsibility to accountability, campus climate, equity, and scholarship by maintaining a campus that affirms equity and fosters inclusion and belonging. Significantly, Texas A&M holds itself accountable to improved campus climate and equity goals through clear, accessible measures. ACES Fellows are afforded access to invaluable academic and professional development experiences to advance their careers as scholars. It is possible that some ACES Fellows will be hired as tenure-track faculty at the conclusion of the fellowship. ACES Fellows will benefit from: prescriptive mentoring, access to instructional best practices, a vast array of world-class research and productivity resources, and a robust network of renowned Texas A&M scholars from across disciplines.

ABOUT THE 2019-2020 ACES FELLOWS PROGRAM

Texas A&M University's ACES Fellows Program is a two-year (24 month) fellowship for early career PhDs. Applicants should have earned their PhD between January 1, 2016 and July 1, 2020.

The stipend is $60,000 per year plus benefits. Benefits including medical, dental, and vision are available. The fellowship period generally begins August 1 and ends on July 31. Start dates are negotiable, but must commence between July 1 and August 10.

Fellows will receive reimbursement for one-time relocation fees (up to $5,000), a research and travel allowance of $3,000 per year, and a private office.

ACES Fellows will teach one course per academic year, thereby benefiting from dedicated research time. Fellows will hold the title of Visiting Assistant Professor.

A hallmark of the Texas A&M University's ACES Fellows Program is the mentoring ACES Fellows will receive, as well as its attention to community-building among ACES Fellows.

ELIGIBILITY

Applications are welcome from scholars with a strength in, and evidence of, a respect for diversity and inclusion. We invite applications from scholars whose work aligns with a field or department in the College of Liberal Arts. Applicants' doctoral degrees should be completed between January 1, 2016 and July 1, 2020.

APPLICATION

Applications are due by 9 am on October 1, 2019. Texas A&M University's ACES Fellows Program is administered by the Office for Diversity at Texas A&M in partnership with the College of Liberal Arts. You may apply using the following link: College of Liberal Arts (<http://bit.ly/libarts2019>).

The application for the Texas A&M University's ACES Fellows Program requires submission of the following:

- Cover letter (3-5 pages, double-spaced, 12-point font size)
- Proposal of scholarly project(s) (3-5 pages, double-spaced, 12-point font size) that will be conducted during the fellowship years
- Statement (1-3 pages, double-spaced, 12-point font size) explaining how your scholarship, teaching, and/or other experiences have demonstrated a commitment to diversity and how that commitment may benefit Texas A&M University
- One writing sample (e.g., book chapter, chapter from your dissertation, journal article, work under review, or work in progress)
- Contact information for three references including name, title, and contact information -- Please do not include your letters of reference with your application materials. The Office for Diversity will ask you for your letters if your application advances through the review process.

Please email ACES@tamU.edu if you have any questions related to eligibility, technical issues with the application, or program details.

Texas A&M University is committed to enriching the learning and working environment for all visitors, students, faculty, and staff by promoting a culture that embraces inclusion, diversity, equity, and accountability. Diverse perspectives, talents, and identities are vital to accomplishing our mission and living our core values.

Texas A&M University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability employer committed to building a culturally diverse educational environment. Applications from women, minorities, and members of other underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged and will be actively sought. The University is aware that attracting and retaining exceptional faculty often depends on meeting the needs of two careers and therefore implements policies that contribute to work-life balance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 6128

Haverford College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Open

Haverford College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in its Peace, Justice, and Human Rights program to begin Fall semester 2020. The successful candidate must have a PhD at the time of appointment. The position is open to scholars at all pre-tenure levels with training in the humanities or social sciences whose work is interdisciplinary and focuses on questions of justice, human rights, and related fields. All specializations are welcome, but there is particular interest in scholars who can contribute to programs in Health Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, or Visual Studies. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory course on peace, justice, and human rights and/or applied ethics, as well as offer more specialized courses in their area of expertise, and engage in inclusive pedagogy and mentoring of an increasingly diverse student body. Haverford College embraces the teacher-scholar model and supports faculty research through programs and funding opportunities.

Peace, Justice, and Human Rights (PJHR) is an interdisciplinary concentration attracting students from many different disciplines; it offers students the opportunity to study the history, philosophy, and critiques of the rights tradition, examine issues of justice in their local and international contexts, and apply humanistic, social scientific, theoretical, and ethical reasoning to real-world problems. The program's goal is to foster cross-disciplinary collaboration and new perspectives on entrenched problems. For more information, see <http://www.haverford.edu/pjhr/>

Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio [<https://apply.interfolio.com/67577>]: a cover letter addressing qualifications for the position, curriculum vitae, a sample course syllabus or description of a class you'd like to teach in the PJHR program, a teaching statement (3-4 pages) that highlights pedagogical strategies and discusses how you approach diversity and inclusion in the classroom, a writing sample (up to 25 pages), and three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates are encouraged to seek letter writers who together can address your abilities and promise as a teacher, mentor, and scholar/researcher. New applications submitted after 11:59 pm on Friday, November 1 will not be considered.

Haverford College is a leading liberal arts college serving highly motivated students on a nationally recognized arboretum in suburban Haverford, just outside Philadelphia.

Questions about the application process should be directed to hc-PJHRsearch@haverford.edu. For technical questions, please contact Interfolio directly at 1-877-997-8807 or help@interfolio.com.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 8/28/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6083

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research position that involves a year of research at Princeton. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars, and there is a particular interest in attracting applications from groups that have been historically underrepresented in the field of political science at Princeton University. Ph.D. is required.

Interested applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/13302> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members. Initial appointment is for one year with the possibility of renewal subject to satisfactory performance and available funding.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. EEO IS THE LAW

Requisition No: D-20-POL-00011

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 8/26/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6051

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher – Division of Social Science

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2020. Later start dates are also possible.

Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, and a research sample, to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/66364>.

To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply.

Note: The position will close on March 15, 2020, though we will continue to consider applicants until all positions are filled. Candidates for political science will begin to be evaluated starting October 1, 2019; candidates for Sociology will be evaluated beginning November 1, 2019; and candidates for economics will be evaluated starting December 15, 2019.

Please visit our website at <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/postdoctoral-and-research.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/20/2019
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 6018

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Race, Ethnicity and Politics

The Department of Politics seeks applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions with a particular interest in race, ethnicity and politics. Applications are welcome from all of the major subfields in political science, including American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Theory. These positions involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Princeton is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Interested applicants should apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/13162>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, research statement, writing sample, transcripts, and the names and contact information of three references. Unofficial transcripts are sufficient and may be uploaded with the application. Applicants who are unable to upload unofficial transcripts may send official transcripts to Nicole Wagenblast, Department of Politics, 001 Fisher Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544. For best consideration apply by September 16, 2019.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. EEO IS THE LAW

Requisition No: D-20-POL-00009

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6006

The College of Wooster

Rank: Assistant Professor Global Environmental Justice

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Open, Other

Description

The Departments of Environmental Studies and Political Science at The College of Wooster seek to fill a tenure track position in Global Environmental Justice at the level of Assistant Professor, beginning in the fall of 2020. We are looking for a broadly trained specialist in environmental politics and social justice with area studies expertise and a high proficiency in qualitative methodologies.

Qualifications

The successful candidate should have a demonstrated ability to teach courses and advise research projects in environmental justice and social justice, broadly conceived. They would teach introductory and advanced courses in the Environmental Studies and Political Science departments, supervise independent research projects as part of the College's Independent Study requirement, and participate in teaching the College's First Year Seminar. We seek to hire a scholar whose research and teaching addresses one or more dimensions of environmental justice, such as: the intersections of global climate change and class, ethnic, or racial inequalities; comparative environmental movements; forced displacement and migration due to environmental crisis; food or water insecurity; or environmental governance. In addition, we are interested in candidates whose research and teaching can connect with one or more interdisciplinary programs at The College of Wooster such as Africana Studies, Global & International Studies, East Asian Studies, South Asian Studies, Middle Eastern and North African Studies, Urban Studies, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The College of Wooster enrolls a diverse student body (21% domestic students of color and 15% international students); applicants should have experience with diverse student populations.

Application Instructions

We prefer candidates who will have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment and who have had previous independent teaching experience. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of effective teaching (including syllabi and summaries of student evaluations), a statement regarding how the applicant will contribute to the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/66667>. Applications received by October 1, 2019, will receive full consideration. Please contact Matt Mariola (m-mariola@wooster.edu), Associate Professor of Environmental Studies and Chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 8/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5991

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer

The Politics Department at Princeton University has an occasional need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach in areas such as American Politics, Comparative Politics, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods, International Relations, and/or Political Theory. Advanced degree required.

Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/13001> <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/13001> & Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time. You will be required to submit contact information for one reference, but your reference will not be contacted at this time.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. EEO IS THE LAW

Requisition No: D-20-POL-00008

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5969

Yale University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor, Political Science

Subfield(s): Open, Open, Open

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Associate/Full Professor Tenured faculty position in any political science subfield. Applicants in International Relations, Political Theory, and Comparative Politics/Comparative Political Economy should also apply to the advertised searches in those subfields.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, contact references, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/66092>

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5902

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Junior Faculty Position

The UCLA Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin on July 1, 2020. We are particularly eager to consider applicants who specialize in American Politics and related fields. In addition, we will consider especially strong applicants working in other fields (including comparative politics, international relations, methods, political theory, and racial/ethnic politics). Pending administrative approval, we will also consider applicants at the rank of Associate Professor.

UCLA and the UCLA Department of Political Science are firmly committed to the principles of equity, diversity, and inclusion. Therefore, we ask each applicant to submit with their application a statement that addresses their past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service.

The online application should include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a statement of research interests, the aforementioned diversity statement, evidence of teaching excellence in related courses, at least one writing sample, a graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. The letters of recommendation should be uploaded directly by the referees. Appointments will be effective on July 1, 2020. A PhD in Political Science or related field should be in hand prior to the appointment. To ensure full consideration, the online application should be completed by September 16, 2019. Applications will be accepted, however, until the position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy, see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Where to Apply: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF04796>

Department Contact: Evelyn Godinez at egodinez@polisci.ucla.edu

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5909

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor in Economic, Racial/Ethnic, and/or Gender Inequality

Subfield(s): Open, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics

Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Position – Advertisement
Department of Political Science at The University of Tennessee

Economic Racial/Ethnic and/or Gender Inequality

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in economic, racial/ethnic, and/or gender inequality, to begin Fall 2020. The position is open with regard to field in Political Science (or related discipline) and methodological approach. We welcome applications from scholars across the discipline who analyze how political actors, processes, institutions, outcomes or individuals are racialized, classed, and/or gendered and/or who take intersectional approaches to understanding these questions. We are particularly interested in applicants with substantive research agendas that grapple with challenging issues of marginalization and exclusion and who exhibit a commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The successful candidate must have strong research skills and a theoretically motivated research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: polisci-utk.edu. Faculty within the department are also associated with a variety of interdisciplinary programs and working groups across the university, including but not limited to the Critical Race Collective; the Global Studies program; the Intersectionality Community of Scholars; and the Women, Gender, and Sexuality program.

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded via Interfolio. Please submit application material in digital format via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/66902>. Review of applications begins October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Jana Morgan at janamorgan@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5864

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Law

Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Position - Advertisement
Department of Political Science
The University of Tennessee

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in Public Law to begin Fall 2020. Area of specialization in Public Law and field within Political Science are open. We are particularly interested in applicants who use rigorous analytical approaches to address substantively important questions including but not limited to issues of race, gender, and/or inequality in the law or legal processes.

The successful candidate must have strong research skills and a theoretically oriented research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). Preference will be shown for applicants with teaching and research interests that complement existing departmental interests and strengths, have a capacity for attracting extramural funding, demonstrate evidence of or potential for college/university teaching excellence, and exhibit a commitment to diversity and inclusion. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: <http://web.utk.edu/~polisci>.

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded via Interfolio. Please submit application material in digital format via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/66892>. Review of applications begins October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Jana Morgan at janamorgan@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5863

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select postdoctoral scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The number of candidates hired will depend on the qualifications of the overall applicant pools. The postdoctoral appointment will be for one academic year for scholars who have received a Ph.D. at an institution outside the United States and, who at the time of application, do not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. The candidates must also demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement and have exhibited unusual intellectual promise.

During the academic year 2020-21, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal for the 2020-21 cohort will be to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We will also explore how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12281>. Applications are due by November 15, 2019 (11:59 p.m. EST).

To be eligible, post-doctoral applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. before July 1, 2020 but cannot have more than two years of postdoctoral experience prior to the start of the appointment, September 1, 2020. If a candidate has turned in a final draft of their dissertation but not yet completed their Ph.D. before the start date, they may be temporarily appointed as a Senior Research Assistant with a 10% reduction in salary. Upon providing verification that they have completed all requirements for the Ph.D., they would then be promoted in rank and salary. The postdoctoral selection will be made based on the strength of the candidates' proposed research projects, the relationship of their projects to the program theme, the candidates' scholarly records and their ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program.

For more information on eligibility requirements and the Fung Global Fellows Program see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggf/call-applications>.

The following items must be submitted by the applicant, in English, by November 15, 2019:

- Cover letter (1.5 pages maximum)
- Curriculum Vitae (including publications)
- Research proposal (maximum of 3 pages, single spaced)
- One writing sample (article or book chapter, maximum of 50 pages)
- The names and email addresses for three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline. (Please note: all letters of reference should be submitted by your referees before the November 15, 2019 deadline.)

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 7/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5767

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select both senior scholars and early-career scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The number of candidates hired will depend on the qualifications of the overall applicant pool. The fellowship will be awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who have a faculty appointment, a professional research appointment, or are an established independent scholar in the designated theme of the program, and have exhibited unusual intellectual promise. They will be expected to return to their position after the conclusion of the fellowship. Early career scholars selected will be in residence at Princeton for an academic year; senior scholars selected will be in residence at Princeton between three to ten months during the academic year.

During the academic year 2020-21, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally": How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal for the 2020-21 cohort will be to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We will also explore how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12282>. Applications are due by November 15, 2019 (11:59 p.m. EST).

Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record and ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. Early-career scholars must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2010. Senior scholars must have received their doctorates before September 1, 2010, and have a record of scholarly accomplishment in the designated theme of the program.

For more information on eligibility requirements and the Fung Global Fellows Program see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggf/call-applications>.

The following items must be submitted by the applicant, in English, by November 15, 2019:

- Cover letter (1.5 pages maximum)
- Curriculum Vitae (including publications)
- Research proposal (maximum of 3 pages, single spaced)
- One writing sample (article or book chapter, maximum of 50 pages)

- For those applicants with a faculty appointment or a professional research appointment, an official letter from the applicant's current employer affirming that, should an offer be made, the applicant would be permitted to accept it and to spend the academic year at Princeton University

- The names and email addresses for three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline. (Please note: all letters of reference should be submitted by your referees before the November 15, 2019 deadline.)

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 7/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5766

OTHER

Colorado Mesa University

Rank: Visiting Professor of History or Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Distinguished scholars in History or Political Science are invited to apply for the Wayne N. Aspinall Chair at Colorado Mesa University. For a $10,000 stipend, the visiting professor will spend three weeks on the Colorado Mesa University campus from late March to mid-April 2021; teach a one-credit course, give a major public lecture, and make any other invited appearances. Applications must include a vitae, a brief outline of a course proposal and a topic for the major public lecture. Submit application by February 1, 2020 to Dr. Justin Gollob, Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, Colorado Mesa University, 1100 North Ave., Grand Junction, CO 81501. Feel free to direct any inquiries to jgollob@coloradomesa.edu or 970 248-1279.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 2/1/2020

Date Posted: 11/1/2019

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 7365

University of California, Davis

Rank: Post-Doctoral Scholar

Post-Doctoral Position at the University of California, Davis

We are looking to recruit a post-doctoral scholar for an inter-disciplinary research project on A Network Analytic Study of the Determinants and Consequences of Burden Sharing in International Alliances and Defense Cooperation Agreements, 1945-2010. This is a one-year position, with a possibility for an additional one-year renewal. We are seeking candidates from various social, economic, physical, mathematical, or information sciences. Potential applicants should note that there are two postdoctoral positions available on this project. Applicants are welcome to apply for both positions. This ad seeks candidates with expertise in network analysis and computational modeling and substantive knowledge of social and political processes. The following qualifications are mandatory for this position:

- a. Ph.D. in hand at the start of the position.

- b. Knowledge of and experience in network analysis.
- c. Knowledge of and experience with agent-based modeling.
- d. Strong statistical data analysis and data management skills.

The following skills and experiences would be considered as strong advantages.

- a. Programming experience (Python, Java, C++, C#, R)
- b. Demonstrated research on social and political processes within and among nations.
- c. Demonstrated research on social, physical, or communication networks.
- d. Experience managing research assistants and research teams.

This is a full-time position with an annual salary of $54,000 plus UC Davis fringe benefits. UC Davis is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer.

Deadline for the application is December 31, 2019. The start date of the position is July 1, 2020. However, a slightly later date can be arranged.

Submit cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and sample writing (article, dissertation chapters, etc.) to <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF03260>.

Start Date: Summer 2020
Application Deadline: 12/31/2019
Date Posted: 10/31/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7416

University of California, Davis

Rank: Post-Doctoral Scholar

Post-Doctoral Position at the University of California, Davis

We are looking to recruit a post-doctoral scholar for an inter-disciplinary research project on A Network Analytic Study of the Determinants and Consequences of Burden Sharing in International Alliances and Defense Cooperation Agreements, 1945-2010. This is a one-year position, with a possibility for an additional one-year renewal. Potential applicants should note that there are two postdoctoral positions available on this project. Applicants are welcome to apply for both positions. This ad seeks candidates from political science or international relations. The following qualifications are mandatory for this position:

- a. Ph.D. in hand at the start of the position.
- b. Demonstrated research on international security, defense cooperation, political conflict and violence, and/or international law.
- c. Knowledge of and experience in network analysis, complex systems, and/or spatial analysis.
- d. Strong statistical data analysis and data management skills.

The following skills and experiences would be considered as strong advantages:

- a. Programming experience (Python, R, Java)
- b. Foreign language proficiencies
- c. Experience collecting, coding, and managing international relations data.
- d. Experience managing research assistants and research teams.

This is a full-time position with an annual salary of $54,000 plus UC Davis fringe benefits. UC Davis is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer.

Deadline for the application is December 31, 2019 or until the position is filled. The start date of the position is July 1, 2020. However, a slightly later date can be arranged.

Submit cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and sample writing (article, dissertation chapters, etc.) to <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF03262>.

Start Date: Summer 2020
Application Deadline: 12/31/2019
Date Posted: 10/31/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7417

Emerson College

Rank: Executive in Residence or Tenure-Track Assistant Professor, Global Communication

The Department of Communication Studies at Emerson College seeks a faculty colleague with expertise in the field of global communication. This full-time appointment may be for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or for a renewable term Executive in Residence, depending on the candidate's qualifications and current position. Appointment begins on August 20, 2020.

Emerson College is committed to an active, intentional, and ongoing engagement with diversity—in people, in the curriculum, in the co-curriculum, and in the college's intellectual, social, cultural, and geographical communities. Emerson endorses a framework of inclusive excellence, which recognizes that institutional excellence comes from fully engaging with diversity in all aspects of institutional activities. Therefore, we strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research, and service that they can contribute to our excellence in this area.

We seek a colleague who can enrich global communication perspectives in one or more areas of the department's curricula. By "global communication" we mean primary engagement with issues and stakeholders in specific countries or regions as well as those with international, transnational, and intercultural dimensions. Global communication represents a core educational commitment we wish to develop and enhance across the curriculum rather than a distinctive curricular area. Possible existing courses for the successful candidate could include: Crisis Communication, Leadership, Conflict and Negotiation, International PR and Global Communication Management, Management and Communication, Public Affairs Matrix: Media, Politics and Advocacy, Sports as Soft Power, and Health Communication Campaigns. The faculty member will also have the opportunity to develop new courses.

In addition, we seek a candidate who could participate in all facets of the operation of the Center for Global Communication, a partnership between Emerson College and Blanquerna-Ramon Llull University School of Communication and International Relations, Barcelona [ECBCGC]. This could include, but not be limited to, the organization of national and international academic/professional meetings as well as conferences, the contribution to research efforts, and the development, expansion, and strengthening of networks of scholars and practitioners spanning across countries, academic disciplines, and cultures.

The department offers undergraduate majors in communication studies, political communication, public relations, and sports communication as well as a master's in public relations. In addition, the department offers a number of minors and houses Emerson College's basic oral communication course. Annually, the department participates in the international GlobCom project, a multicultural global communications competition involving 15 universities in 15 countries on five continents. The department also has immersive programs in public diplomacy, political communication, public relations and civic engagement programs in several countries, including Mexico, Canada and Australia. Finally, global opportunities exist for research and teaching in Spain, Mexico, Australia, and other locations nationally and internationally.

Emerson College's Department of Communication Studies has continuously been recognized as one of the top Communication & Media Studies programs in the United States by College Factual, a market leader in providing college rankings. It represents one of the oldest communication programs in the country, with roots reaching back to Emerson's founding as a school of oratory and expression in 1880.

Emerson College is the nation's only four-year institution dedicated exclusively to majors in communication and the arts in a liberal arts context. Its main campus is located in the center of the dynamic multicultural city of Boston, in close proximity to major publishing houses, arts institutions, and research centers. The college also has campuses in Los Angeles and the Netherlands. Emerson College enrolls over 4,400 graduate and undergraduate students from more than 52 countries and all 50 states.

Required Qualifications:

- ? Master's degree or equivalent degree in communication or a related field. For tenure-track assistant professor consideration, a Ph. D. in communication or a related field is required;
- ? Evidence of successful classroom teaching at the university level. In particular, candidates should demonstrate professional and/or academic experience in teaching or working with diverse populations and in multicultural settings;
- ? Content expertise in the areas specified above;
- ? For assistant professor consideration, a record of active, ongoing scholarly research (or promise thereof) is expected.

Preferred Qualifications

- ? Experience in global engagement (corporate, non-profit, NGO, governmental, academic).

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a teaching philosophy statement, evidence of teaching effectiveness, contact information for three references, and (for candidates interested in a tenure-track, Assistant Professor appointment) a research statement and at least one sample publication. Each material should be saved as a separate PDF or Word doc. and uploaded into the upload section where it requests your CV. Although the upload section just shows "upload CV" - you should upload all materials in this section as the separate documents. To apply online –

https://emerson.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/Emerson_College_ft_faculty/job/Boston-Campus/Executive-in-Residence-or-Assistant-Professor-in-Global-Communication_JR001427

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7415

Mount Holyoke College

Rank: 2 Year Visiting Lecturer

Mount Holyoke College invites applications for a 2-year Visiting Lecturer position in the Department of Politics to begin Fall 2020. The successful candidate will be able to teach the Introduction to Political Thought course, as well as additional intermediate and advanced courses in her/his areas of specialty in the subfields of Political Theory. We are particularly interested in candidates with thematic specialties in environmental theory, post-colonial theory, comparative political thought, datapolitics, or other fields not currently covered by the department. The teaching expectation is 5 courses per year. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand before August 2020.

Please submit a letter of application, C.V., graduate transcripts, sample syllabi of an introductory political theory course and a course in your field of specialization, a short writing sample, and statements covering (1) research interests, (2) teaching philosophy, (3) the mentoring of a diverse student body. The successful candidate should be able to demonstrate excellence in teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Deadline for applications is January 15, 2020. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted on their behalf. Electronic prompts to referees will be generated automatically after the completed application has been submitted. Instructions are online at <https://jobs.mtholyoke.edu/>.

Mount Holyoke is an undergraduate liberal arts college for women with 2,200 students and 220 faculty. Over half the faculty are women; one-fourth are persons of color. Mount Holyoke College is located about 90 miles west of Boston in the Connecticut River valley, and is a member of the Five College Consortium consisting of Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

Mount Holyoke College is committed to enriching the educational experience it offers through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff members. Mount Holyoke seeks to recruit and support a broadly diverse faculty who will contribute to the college's academic excellence, diversity of viewpoints and experiences, and relevance in a global society. In furtherance of academic excellence, the College encourages applications from individuals from underrepresented groups in the professoriate, including faculty of color, faculty with diverse gender identities, first-generation college students, individuals who have followed non-traditional pathways to college due to exceptional talent and motivation in the face of adversity, such as societal, economic or academic disadvantages, and individuals with a demonstrated commitment to applying and including diverse backgrounds and perspectives to learning, scholarship, service, and leadership in the academy.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7418

Texas Tech University

Rank: Director of Online and Regional Site Education

The Department of Political Science at Texas Tech University invites applications for the position of Director of Online and Regional Site Education. Applicants should have a PhD in Political Science (or equivalent), two years of experience in online education, and supervisory experience in an academic setting. Experience working with diverse student populations and first-generation students is highly desirable. The successful applicant will be required to perform the following functions:

- develop and design curriculum and courses for the department's online program, which serves students at the Lubbock campus and regional sites.
- maintain direct contact with students via instruction and technical support
- oversee administrative and instructional staff in course delivery, training of teaching assistants
- Assist faculty in the development of online, hybrid, and/or synchronous course offerings.
- serve on committees and manage the online program's administrative needs
- Coordination and administration of all online and regional site education for the Department of Political Science and its Masters of Public Administration program
- Supervise curriculum development and implementation of online course content, including integration of online curriculum with broader departmental needs
- Work closely with other departmental leadership and regional site directors on curriculum coordination

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, sample syllabi, a statement summarizing teaching experience and philosophy, three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 19281BR. For full consideration, all application materials must be received by December 2, 2019. Questions about the position should be directed to Tim Nokken, Chair, Department of political science, timothy.nokken@ttu.edu.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. Texas Tech is a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI). We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/2/2019

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7412

University of Houston

Rank: Visiting Scholar

The University of Houston's Center for Mexican American Studies is soliciting postdoctoral fellow applications for its Visiting Scholars Program for the 2020-2021. All interested scholars from relevant disciplines are encouraged to apply. Applicants must have completed the Ph.D. by August 1st, 2020. Visiting Scholars receive a salary appropriate to rank and are expected to be in residence during the academic year. Priority consideration will be given to applicants whose research focus on applied quantitative methods and whose area of research focuses on Mexican American and/or Latinx studies.

To apply, submit the following materials:

1. Cover Letter
 2. Current Vitae
 3. Two page description of a proposed research project that will be undertaken while in residence
 4. Three letters of recommendation
 5. Unofficial transcripts
- Deadline for submission is November 15.

Additional information about the CMAS Visiting Scholar position can be obtained by contacting the Center for Mexican American Studies at cmas@uh.edu.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action institution. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7420

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Professor, Rick and Cathy Trachok Endowed Chair in International Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for appointment as the Rick & Cathy Trachok Endowed Chair in International Studies at the rank of Professor or Advanced Associate Professor. We seek a scholar in the humanities or social sciences with an international reputation and a strong record of research and teaching. The applicant will have demonstrated expertise in contemporary or historical research of global, world regional, or comparative focus. Specialization is open, and applicants from any discipline represented in UNR's College of Liberal Arts may apply, but priority will be given to candidates in the fields of Anthropology, English, History, and Political Science. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses and will play a leadership role in UNR's Ozmen Institute for Global Studies. Please apply at the following link to be considered: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Professor--Rick-and-Cathy-Trachok-Endowed-Chair-in-International-Studies_R0118980

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. degree and status as an advanced associate or full professor;

Demonstrated expertise and significant experience in some aspect of international studies;

A record of publishing in top-tier journals and presses;

A strong, ongoing program of research;

Research proficiency in one or more languages in addition to English;

Demonstrated excellence in teaching

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Grade/Rank

Associate Professor, III

Full Professor, IV

College Information

The College of Liberal Arts is central to the intellectual and artistic life of the University of Nevada, Reno and is committed to fostering diversity, equity and inclusivity. The college contributes to the University's efforts to provide undergraduate students with general and specialized education that will prepare them for advanced study, careers and citizenship in a diverse world. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees, emphasizes inquiry, discovery, and openness to new ideas and perspectives, and supports major scholarly research and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a Research 1 land-grant campus of the Nevada System of Higher Education with a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students. Nearly half of incoming students identify as being from an underrepresented group. In accordance with the university's land grant, tier one research institution mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many U.S. transportation hubs and to Mexico. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Robert Joe Cutter, rcutter@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator- Spencer Schultz, spencerschultz@unr.edu

Exempt

Yes

Full-Time Equivalent

100.0%

Required Attachment(s)

Please attach the following documents to your application. Please contact jobs@unr.edu, the day you apply, if assistance is needed with attachments:

- 1) A complete Curriculum Vita;
- 2) Cover letter stating qualifications, experience, research plans and teaching experience
- 3) Contact information for three professional references
- 4) A brief statement (one page maximum) about how you would contribute toward our mission of creating a culturally inclusive environment in the role for which you are applying
- 5) Two research-based writing samples

Open Until Filled

Position is open until filled; however, first review of applications will begin begin November 27, 2019. Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

Start Date: Summer 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/30/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7422

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: Post Doc Fellow

Two Year Post Doctorate at the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech invites applications for a two year post-doctoral fellowship to begin Fall 2020. The ideal candidate would have policy-relevant academic research and teaching interests that interface with one of the School's core programs in Emerging Technologies and International Security or in Global Development.

A successful applicant will conduct individual research, participate in relevant outreach activities, collaborate with Nunn School faculty and graduate students to pursue sponsored research programs, and teach one course per semester. The teaching requirements are negotiable and may be reduced by a collaborative research project. Therefore, the search committee strongly encourages applications from those who seek opportunities to collaborate with other parts of Georgia Tech's campus including the Georgia Tech Research Institute and the science and engineering schools. The salary is $60,000 per year.

Georgia Tech is a top-ranked public research university situated in the heart of Atlanta, a diverse and vibrant city with great economic and cultural strengths. The Institute is a member of the University System of Georgia, the Georgia Research Alliance, and the Association of American Universities. Georgia Tech prides itself on its technology resources, collaborations, high-quality student body, and its commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research interests, a description of teaching interests, an example of scholarly work, and the names and contact information for at least three references to postdoc.nunnschool@inta.gatech.edu. Applicants should have their referees submit their letters to the email above at the time of application. Applications will be considered until 1 February 2020 but the search will continue until the position is filled. An earned doctorate is required by the start of the appointment, and a background check must be completed prior to employment. Please direct inquiries to Lawrence Rubin (lawrence.rubin@inta.gatech.edu).

Georgia Tech is an equal education/employment opportunity institution dedicated to building a diverse community. We strongly encourage applications from women, underrepresented minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans. Georgia Tech has policies to promote a healthy work-life balance.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 2/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/29/2019
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 7407

Hertie School

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher - Digital Governance/Government (f/m/div)

The Hertie School in Berlin prepares exceptional students for leadership positions in government, business, and civil society. The school offers master's programmes, executive education and doctoral programmes, distinguished by interdisciplinary and practice-oriented teaching, as well as outstanding research. Its extensive international network positions it as an ambassador of good governance, characterised by public debate and engagement. The school was founded in 2003 by the Hertie Foundation, which remains its major funder. The Hertie School is accredited by the state and the German Science Council.

The Hertie School is looking for a postdoctoral researcher – digital governance/government (f/m/div) on a full-time (40 hours/week) basis.

The contract shall commence as of 01 January 2020 and is limited to three years. The successful candidate will be affiliated with the Hertie School's Centre for Digital Governance.

Your tasks:

Your main tasks at the Hertie School will be to further develop your own independent research programme with relevance for the Centre. This includes either a public policy/governance perspective working on topics such as government-business relations, regulation, competition, cybersecurity, informational control, ethical issues and/or a public management/administration perspective with a focus on transforming government (policy, service delivery) through digitalisation.

Your goal should be to publish relevant research in leading peer-reviewed journals.

In a minor role, you will be asked to contribute towards core activities of the Centre for Digital Governance, such as supporting grant-writing activities or helping with the organisation of the Centre's research colloquium and smaller workshops or events.

Your profile:

PhD (or equivalent) in the social sciences or in a related field and demonstration of excellent potential for academic achievement
 Keen interest in the interplay of questions related to the topics mentioned above is a must-have Excellent oral and written communication skills in English; proficiency in German is desired

We offer:

A stimulating international and diverse environment in multiple areas of social science, high-quality teaching and public policy. The Hertie School is a vibrant academic community that emphasizes excellence in research and teaching as well as an interdisciplinary perspective. Our school has been certified as a family friendly work environment in higher education and an equal opportunity employer (www.hertie-school.org for further information). Severely disabled applicants are given preferential consideration in the event of equal qualification.

Please submit your application portfolio (a CV, a cover letter describing your research plans and interest, two writing samples, and names and contact information of at least two references) here: <https://hertie-school.dvnci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/188/intro>. Deadline for full consideration is 30 November 2019.

Please contact Prof. Dr. Gerhard Hammerschmid (hammerschmid@hertie-school.org), Director Centre for Digital Governance and Professor of Public and Financial Management, for further information on the position.

Start Date: Spring 2020
Date Posted: 10/29/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7404

Nebraska Wesleyan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, United States

Nebraska Wesleyan University is seeking applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Political Science, beginning in the 2020-2021 academic year. NWU is interested in candidates that complement the department's existing strengths in comparative politics and international relations; therefore, candidates with a specialty in US Politics are preferred. As a department, the Political Science faculty members are invested in mentoring faculty to become excellent teachers, as well as being deeply committed to diversity and inclusion, and welcome candidates from all backgrounds.

This is a full-time benefit eligible position, which includes a comprehensive package including health, vision and dental insurance benefits, retirement benefits, a generous holiday schedule, and undergraduate tuition remission for employee's dependents among other benefits.

Responsibilities:

Faculty responsibilities include teaching twelve credit hours per term, fall and spring semesters, including day and possible evening undergraduate classes. Preferred candidates will be able to teach widely across the subfield of US Politics, including the introductory course. Ideal candidates will have an emphasis in the politics of race and/or gender. A candidate with interest in teaching courses in law and politics would be particularly welcome. We also welcome candidates with experience teaching writing instructive courses, particularly to first year students.

Qualifications and Attributes:

- A doctorate degree in Political Science is preferred; advanced ABD will be considered;
- Experience with teaching various types of writing skills to students through assigned coursework;
- Demonstrated interpersonal and innovative teaching skills are required;
- Ability to work independently and collaboratively with faculty and students is essential;
- Strong commitment to student-centered active learning and student engagement activities.

Commitment to Diversity:

Diversity is a core value of Nebraska Wesleyan University's mission and we embrace it as a source of strength. Applicants are encouraged to demonstrate how they are able to enhance and embrace this University core value in a diversity statement submitted as part of their application materials.

Nebraska Wesleyan University provides equal educational and employment opportunities to qualified persons in all areas of university operation without regard to religion or creed, age, genetic information, gender identity and expression, sexual identity and orientation, veteran status, disability, marital status, race, or national or ethnic origin, in compliance with state and federal laws, including but not limited to Title XII, Title IX, and the ADA. E-Verify, EOE.

How to Apply:

Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Kelly Clancy at kclancy@nebrwesleyan.edu. To apply, please send letter of application addressing qualifications, current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as a teaching philosophy statement, syllabi, and/or teaching evaluations), a statement of your commitment to diversity and inclusion, particularly addressing how this influences your teaching, the names of three professional references, and unofficial transcripts to the following URL: <https://nebrwesleyan.applicantpro.com/jobs/> Review of applications will begin November 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Please visit the NWU website for more information about our institution: nebrwesleyan.edu

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/15/2019
Date Posted: 10/29/2019
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 7406

John Jay College of Criminal Justice (CUNY)

Rank: Assistant Professor, Law & Society

ABOUT JOHN JAY COLLEGE

John Jay College of Criminal Justice is a senior college of the City University of New York (CUNY) led by President Karol V. Mason and an internationally recognized leader in educating for justice. John Jay is a federally-designated Hispanic-serving institution, it is ranked third in the nation in Black student success, and it is a top ten institution for promoting student social mobility. John Jay is proud to serve a diverse and dynamic student body of 15,000 students that includes nearly fifty percent students who are first in their family to attend college as well as students who are immigrants, from low-income families, or from other historically underrepresented groups.

The College participates in the doctoral programs of the Graduate Center of the City University of New York and offers bachelor's and master's degrees in traditional criminal justice-related fields of study as well as in a robust portfolio of liberal arts and sciences programs that highlight themes of justice across the arts, sciences, humanities, and social sciences. John Jay College seeks staff and faculty members who thrive in multicultural academic environments and are committed to access and excellence in higher education.

POSITION OVERVIEW

Assistant Professor — Law & Society

DUTIES

Performs teaching and related faculty functions in area(s) of expertise as noted below. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions. Position begins in Fall 2020.

The Law and Society major, housed in the Department of Political Science at John Jay College of the City University of New York, invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning Fall 2020 in Law and Society. The hiring rank is Assistant Professor. A Ph.D.

is required, although outstanding ABDs will be considered. The Ph.D. discipline is open, provided candidates are demonstrably grounded in the Law and Society scholarly tradition. We especially welcome candidates who can add to the disciplinary diversity of the current program, which has three full-time sociologists and one full-time geographer. Candidates holding only a J.D. will not be considered.

With over 600 students and a vibrant and award-winning faculty, the Law and Society major at John Jay is a nationally recognized leader in law and society scholarship and undergraduate education. In addition to having an active research agenda in law and society (preferably as a member of the Law and Society Association), the successful candidate will bring enthusiasm and commitment to teaching and curriculum development. Area of research focus is open, though candidates will be expected to develop an undergraduate course that diversifies existing areas of faculty expertise. We particularly welcome candidates whose research engages areas of interest to our students, including but not limited to policing, incarceration, gentrification, housing, and racism.

Applicants must demonstrate that they are qualified to teach undergraduate courses that introduce students to the interdisciplinary Law and Society approach. In particular, the successful candidate will teach the Senior Research Colloquium in addition to other required courses in the program (Introduction to Law and Society, Research Methods in Law and Society) and courses developed in the applicant's area of specialty. The successful candidate will also advise students. Forty-seven percent of John Jay students are first-generation college students, and John Jay is a recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. The successful candidate must be eager and qualified to work with our diverse student body, and have a demonstrated commitment to diversity and inclusion. The college seeks a faculty member who thrives in a multicultural, collaborative academic environment and is committed to both access and excellence in higher education.

QUALIFICATIONS

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in a law and society-related discipline, although outstanding ABDs will be considered. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, the potential for scholarly productivity, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution. Candidates holding only a J.D. will not be considered.

OTHER QUALIFICATIONS

The demonstrated ability to teach courses in the law & society tradition.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

If you are viewing the job posting on any website other than CUNYfirst, please follow the instructions below:

-Go to www.cuny.edu/employment

-Click "Search job postings."

-Click the link for "Faculty" and browse to job Opening ID number 21339

-Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions Candidates should provide a letter of application, a CV/resume, and, in one document: 1) a writing sample; 2) a statement of teaching philosophy; and 3) a portfolio of teaching materials. All should be provided electronically through CUNYfirst following the instructions above. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be emailed directly to the Chair of the Political Science Department, Professor Andrew Sidman at asidman@jjay.cuny.edu

For more information about the position, email the Chair of the Search Committee, Professor Michael Yarbrough (myarbrough@jjay.cuny.edu).

CLOSING DATE

Review of resumes to begin October 31, 2019.

Posting closes on November 15, 2019.

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7400

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Sexuality Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor of Sexuality Studies

- Apply
- The University of Virginia's Department of Women Gender & Sexuality (WGS) invites applicants for a tenure track appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor of Sexuality Studies. Candidates' field of specialization should fall within the areas of transnational sexuality studies and/or LGBTQ issues in a global context. Research centering on the global south that concerns people of color, disenfranchised communities, and/or indigenous populations would be particularly valuable. Scholars working on LGBTQ health in transnational perspectives are also encouraged to apply. Duties include teaching, research, and service.

Applicants must be on track to receive a Ph.D. in the relevant field by May 2020 and must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment. The anticipated appointment start date will be August 2020.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

TO APPLY:

Apply online at <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>. Search for requisition #R0011094, complete the application, and attach the following:

- A cover letter of interest describing research agenda, teaching experience and experience working on issues of diversity, equity and inclusion and/or working with diverse populations
- Curriculum vitae
- Sample article- or chapter-length piece of scholarship

- Reference letters from three individuals; please ask reference letter writers to email their letters directly to sexualstudiesatuva@gmail.com.

Please note that multiple documents can be uploaded in the box.

Applications that do not contain all the required documents will not receive full consideration.

Questions regarding the position Bridget Murphy, Administrator at the WGS Department, bmm5v@virginia.edu. Questions regarding the application process should be directed to: Nicole Robinson, Faculty Search Advisor, nr7f@virginia.edu.

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The College of Arts & Sciences and the University of Virginia welcome applications from women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities; we seek to build a culturally diverse intellectual environment and are committed to a policy of equal employment opportunity and to the principles of affirmative action in accordance with state and federal laws.

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more please visit <https://dualcareer.virginia.edu>. For more information about UVA and the Charlottesville community please see <http://www.virginia.edu/life/charlottesville> and <https://embarkcva.com/>.

The University of Virginia, including the UVA Health System and the University Physician's Group are fundamentally committed to the diversity of our faculty and staff. We believe diversity is excellence expressing itself through every person's perspectives and lived experiences. We are equal opportunity and affirmative action employers. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender identity, marital status, national or ethnic origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, veteran status, and family medical or genetic information.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7387

Arcadia University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Religion & Politics, International Law & Organizations

The ideal candidates should have research and pedagogical interests in one or more of the following areas: critical approaches to international relations; international law and human rights; political geography; politics and technology; and/or the politics of religion. The ideal candidate should be able to teach courses in several of the following courses: international relations, comparative politics, and/or international law and organizations. The search is open to scholars of any geographic region, but the department has a particular interest in scholars of the Global South. We welcome candidates with training in Political Science or other related disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields.

Qualifications: Ph.D. strongly preferred by September 2020, as are demonstrated excellence in and commitment to teaching, and a strong research and publishing record commensurate with the candidate's experience.

The ideal candidates should have research and pedagogical interests in one or more of the following areas: critical approaches to international relations; international law and human rights; political geography; politics and technology; and/or the politics of religion. The ideal candidate should be able to teach courses in several of the following courses: international relations, comparative politics, and/or international law and organizations. The search is open to scholars of any geographic region, but the department has a particular interest in scholars of the Global South. We welcome candidates with training in Political Science or other related disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields.

The teaching load for this position is a three/three, and the faculty member will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, participate in university service, and advise students.

Arcadia's College of Arts and Sciences offers programs in science, technology, and math; humanities; visual and performing arts; communications; and historical and political studies. These programs prepare students to be leaders in a global society by providing opportunities to exhibit, perform, and publish both on campus and in the Philadelphia area. The campus has a variety of outlets to support the arts and sciences, including art galleries, a literary magazine, and an online academic journal.

Arcadia University is a top-ranked private university in the greater Philadelphia area that promises a distinctly global, integrative, and personal learning experience to prepare students to contribute and lead in a diverse and dynamic world. A national leader in study abroad and international education, Arcadia has been named #1 in undergraduate study abroad participation for the ninth consecutive year by the Institute of International Education's Open Doors Report, and second for international programs by U.S. News and World Report. Approximately 3,900 students attend Arcadia, and the University's 2,500 undergraduate students choose from more than 65 fields of study.

Applications must be submitted online through Arcadia's Human Resources portal to receive full consideration. Please do not email application materials to hiring manager. Due to the volume of applications received, communication will generally be limited to those candidates that are selected for additional consideration.

For additional information and to apply, please visit: <https://faculty-arcadia.icims.com/jobs/> and submit a cover letter, CV names and phone numbers of three academic references.

Application review will begin immediately. Posting will be removed from the website once we've established a sufficient talent pool for consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7382

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Emergency Management and Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Emergency Management and Public Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of emergency management and public administration. This position will be responsible for teaching emergency management courses at the graduate level, courses in public administration at the graduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or Introduction to Political Science).

The area of teaching and research specialization within emergency management is open. Preference will be given to candidates that are focused clearly on the administration side of the discipline, as opposed to a public policy scholar. Preferences will also be given to candidates that show how their research may connect and enhance emergency resiliency and preparation both regionally as well as in the local community. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching two to three graduate course each semester and one undergraduate course each year.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, emergency management, or a closely related field, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching and in person, as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7375

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellow

Text(Co)Lab at the University of Pittsburgh is seeking to hire a full time post-doctoral fellow to work on leveraging unstructured information in the form of text and social media data to better understand human rights, disinformation and political violence. The initial appointment will be for one year.

The successful candidate will be expected to work as part of Text(Co)-Lab, under the direction of Michael Colaresi. Text(Co)Lab is a collaborative group of faculty, graduate students and under-graduates that provides open source solutions to societal-scale challenges by leveraging innovations from the digital and computing revolutions. The work of Text(Co)Lab is funded by the National Science Foundation, the Institute for Cyber Law, Policy, and Security and the Dietrich School at the University of Pittsburgh.

We seek applicants that use computational tools to answer social science-relevant question. Advanced experience with natural language processing/text as data using Python is essential. Experience with Bayesian inference, machine learning, social media data, git, and R is a plus. The ability to model with Stan and/or Mesa would be particularly helpful. Training in a social science discipline, statistics, computer science, information science or a related field is required.

Our review of applications will begin on November 15 and continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is January 15, 2020, but earlier or later start times can be negotiated. Some remote work is possible. For full consideration, we ask for you to submit a) a short cover letter explaining why you are good fit for the position, b) a copy of your CV, c) two writing samples, and d) 2 letters of reference.

Please apply by emailing Wynn Maloney at wynn2@pitt.edu. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/21/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7367

Georgia State University

Rank: Associate Professor/Professor Public Economics, Public Finance, Public Budgeting, or Public Financial Management

Associate Professor/Professor Public Economics, Public Finance, Public Budgeting, or Public Financial Management

Position and Responsibilities:

The Andrew Young School of Policy Studies invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position beginning in August 2020 in the Department of Economics or the Department of Public Management and Policy at the Associate or Full Professor level. Due to an expansion in our evidence-based policy research, we are most interested in an experienced scholar who can make a substantial contribution to our applied public finance research cluster which includes the Center for State and Local Finance, the Fiscal Research Center, and the International Center for Public Policy. The ideal candidate will have interest in a leadership role in the cluster and will be a senior member of one of the academic departments. Applicants should have a primary research and teaching interest in public economics, public finance, public budgeting or public financial management, taxation, as well as strong interests in applied policy research. This position requires a doctorate degree from an accredited university in one of the following fields of study: economics, public policy, political science or public management. The hire will have access to unique administrative data and will be interested in using advanced big data empirical techniques. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and senior leadership of the cluster. The latter will be compensated via administrative release time.

Andrew Young School and Campus Environment:

The Andrew Young School is ranked among the top 20 policy schools in the U.S. The school houses five academic departments and outstanding research centers and institutes in health policy, international and domestic public policy, public finance, experimental economics, urban studies, and education policy, among others. Georgia State University, an enterprising R-1 university located in Atlanta, is a national leader in using innovation to drive student success and research growth. Enrolling and graduating one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, Georgia State provides its world-class faculty and more than 50,000 students unsurpassed research, teaching, and learning opportunities in one of the 21st century's great global cities.

For additional information about the Andrew Young School: <https://aysps.gsu.edu/>

Qualifications:REQUIRED:

- Ph.D. in economics, public policy, political science or public management
- Primary research and teaching interest in public economics, public finance, public budgeting or public financial management, taxation, as well as strong interests in applied policy research. Interest and experience working with policy makers to identify and deliver on a research agenda that produces causal evidence to inform policy aimed at improving child and family welfare
- Demonstrated success attracting external research funding
- Ability to pass a full background check
- Eligible to work in the U.S.

Condition of Work and Benefits:

Forty-hour work week

Retirement plans include Teachers Retirement System, TIAA, VALIC, & Fidelity

Twelve paid holidays

Sick Leave

Group health and life insurance

Faculty rank and status

Social Security

Tenure track

Optional pre-tax benefits

Support for research and professional activities

Salary and Rank:

Salary commensurate with the candidate's education and experience. Appointment at a faculty rank, on a contract renewal basis. This position is subject to budgetary approval.

Submit a cover letter addressing the above qualifications; curriculum vita; name, address and phone number of three references. Review of materials will begin December 13 and continue until the position is filled.

Application submission:

All applications must be submitted through Academic Jobs Online (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14944>). No paper applications will be accepted unless specifically solicited.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/18/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7363

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Political Communication or Media and Politics, with an emphasis on big data

The Department of Political Science at Simon Fraser University is inviting applications for a continuing full-time research faculty appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor starting as early as July 2020.

The successful candidate will have evidence of high-quality scholarly output and excellence in research in Political Communication or Media and Politics, with an emphasis on big data. They will be expected to carry out an independent research program yielding significant peer-reviewed publications, and to compete successfully for external funding to support this research program. Research that aligns with SFU's Strategic Research plan will be a strength. This includes: rigorous data collection and analysis; interdisciplinary projects; and community-based policy research. Ideal candidates may also conduct research that aligns with SFU's core research challenges to understand our origins and strengthen civil society by advancing justice, equality and social responsibility.

The successful candidate will also demonstrate strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and an ongoing commitment to academic and pedagogical excellence in support of the department's programs. At the undergraduate level, the appointee would be expected to teach introductory courses in quantitative methods or computational social science as well as more advanced courses in media and politics and political communications. At the graduate level, the appointee will teach courses as part of the Masters in Political Science and the PhD program in Political Science, and be expected to supervise graduate students in their areas of research expertise.

For more information about the Department, please visit <http://www.sfu.ca/politics.html>

Equity, diversity, and inclusion are essential to SFU's excellence as an engaged university. In keeping with SFU's strategic vision which pledges to foster a culture of inclusion and mutual respect and to celebrate diversity among faculty, SFU is committed to ensuring that no individual is denied access to employment opportunities for reasons unrelated to ability or qualifications. SFU is dedicated to building a diverse faculty by advancing the interests of underrepresented groups, specifically women, Indigenous people, persons with disability, visible minorities, and sexual and gender diverse communities. We strongly encourage individuals from these groups to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with a demonstrated history of advocating for equity, diversity, and inclusion.

SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Qualifications:

- PhD in political science, political communications or an aligned field in hand on the appointment start date or soon thereafter. Complete applications will consist of:

- Cover letter;
- Curriculum Vitae;
- Statement of research;
- Statement of contributions and commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion – addressing past, ongoing, and/or potential contributions through teaching, research, professional activity, and/or service;
- Evidence of teaching excellence;
- Academic writing sample;
- Three current letters of reference sent directly by the respective referees.

Applications will be reviewed starting November 9, 2019. Preference will be given to applications received by December 9, 2019

All materials should be sent electronically in one pdf document to: pol_apply@sfu.ca. Questions should be directed to polchair@sfu.ca.

This is an entry level position. Only those holding or those eligible to be promoted to the rank will be considered. The position is subject to availability of funding.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty_Openings/Collection_Notice.html

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 10/18/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7358

Queen's University

Rank: Tenure-track or tenured position at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Canadian Politics

The Department of Political Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at Queen's University invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor. We welcome all areas of specialization in Canadian Politics and particularly invite those with expertise in Canadian political institutions. French/English bilingualism will be considered an asset, as will competency or fluency in North American Indigenous languages, with a preferred starting date of July 1, 2020.

Candidates must have a PhD or equivalent degree completed at the start date of the appointment. The main criteria for selection are academic and teaching excellence. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high quality scholarly output that demonstrates potential for independent research leading to peer assessed publications and the securing of external research funding, as well as strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and an ongoing commitment to academic and pedagogical excellence in support of the department's programs. Candidates must provide evidence of an ability to work collaboratively in an interdisciplinary and student-centred environment. The successful candidate will also be expected to make contributions through service to the department, the Faculty, the University, and/or the broader community. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

People from across Canada and around the world come to learn, teach and carry out research at Queen's University. Faculty and their dependents are eligible for an extensive benefits package including prescription drug coverage, vision care, dental care, long term disability insurance, life insurance and access to the Employee and Family Assistance Program. You will also participate in a pension plan. Tuition assistance is available for qualifying employees, their spouses and dependent children. Queen's values families and is pleased to provide a 'top up' to government parental leave benefits for eligible employees on maternity/parental leave. In addition, Queen's provides partial reimbursement for eligible daycare expenses for employees with dependent children in daycare. Details are set out in the Queen's-QUFA Collective Agreement. For more information on employee benefits, see Queen's Human Resources.

Additional information about Queen's University can be found on the Faculty Recruitment and Support website. The University is situated on the traditional territories of the Haudenosaunee and Anishinaabe, in historic Kingston on the shores of Lake Ontario. Kingston's residents enjoy an outstanding quality of life with a wide range of cultural, recreational, and creative opportunities. Visit Inclusive Queen's for information on equity, diversity and inclusion resources and initiatives.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ persons. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information as to how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada". Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

In addition, the impact of certain circumstances that may legitimately affect a nominee's record of research achievement will be given careful consideration when assessing the nominee's research productivity. Candidates are encouraged to provide any relevant information about their experience and/or career interruptions.

A complete application consists of:

- a cover letter (including one of the two statements regarding Canadian citizenship / permanent resident status specified in the previous paragraph);
- a current Curriculum Vitae (including a list of publications);
- a statement of research interests;
- a statement of teaching interests and experience (including teaching outlines and evaluations if available); and,
- Names and complete contact information for three academic references;

The deadline for applications is November 18, 2019. Applicants are encouraged to send all documents in their application packages electronically as PDFs to Michelle Knapp-Hermer at knappm@queensu.ca, although hard copy applications may be submitted to:

Michelle Knapp-Hermer
Department Manager, Queen's University
The Department of Political Studies

Room C316, Mackintosh-Corry Hall
68 University Avenue, Kingston, Ontario CANADA K7L 3N6

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact Michelle Knapp-Hermer in The Department of Political Studies, at knappm@queensu.ca.

Academic staff at Queen's University are governed by a Collective Agreement between the University and the Queen's University Faculty Association (QUFA), which is posted at <http://queensu.ca/facultyrelations/faculty-librarians-and-archivists/collective-agreement> and at <http://www.qufa.ca>.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 11/18/2019

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7350

The American Academy of Arts and Sciences

Rank: Program Officer for American Institutions, Society, and the Public Good

The Program Officer is responsible for research and writing, project management, policy development and analysis, meeting organization, and administrative functions related to the Academy's work in the program area of American Institutions, Society and the Public Good, with a focus on the current Commission on the Practice of Democratic Citizenship and the development of future projects.

Embracing and advancing a cross-disciplinary approach, the Program Officer will collaborate with Academy members, policy experts, and staff to advance the findings and recommendations of this multi-year commission on how Americans obtain the skills, knowledge, and values necessary for engaged citizenship in a twenty-first century democracy and will lead the exploration and development of future areas of focus for the program area.

Responsibilities

- Collaborate with staff, Academy members, Commission members, and partner organizations to organize and facilitate meetings, to implement outreach and communications plans, and to write reports as part of the final phase of the multi-year Commission on the Practice of Democratic Citizenship.

- Become fully conversant with and work to advance the research, findings and recommendations of the Commission.

- Draft and/or edit materials for internal use and for external publication including background research reports, drafts and final reports, proceedings, occasional papers, and articles for Academy publications.

- Work with the Program Director to explore and develop future initiatives and areas of research for the program area.

- Identify and gather research materials for commissions and meetings; facilitate the flow of information among committee/panel members, staff, consultants, and other applicable parties.

- Lead quantitative and qualitative data collection, analysis, and visualization as needed.

- Assemble committees and working groups and provide guidance and support in the conduct of their work.

- Manage workshops, meetings, and/or conferences including developing agendas, inviting presenters and participants, overseeing meeting logistics and multimedia presentations, and preparing written summaries.

- Write grant proposals and assist in fundraising.

- Maintain current relationships and develop a network of new partners and potential new funders for the program area.

- Help expand the profile of the Academy and its audiences within the academic, policy, and professional communities.

- Assist with executive briefings, presidential remarks, and speeches.

- Represent the program areas at various convenings as requested.

- May supervise permanent or temporary Academy staff in tasks related to their project, and encourage staff development.

- Other duties as assigned.

Qualifications

- A Ph.D., Ed.D., or other relevant degree in the social sciences or public policy, with experience in data collection and analysis plus two years of relevant project administration and professional work; or an M.A. or MPA in a relevant field with at least five years of substantive professional work experience.

- Strong skills in academic research, data collection and analysis, and ability to translate collected data clearly to diverse audiences.

- Expertise in the study or practice of American politics, society, and/or public policy.

- Ability to foster an inclusive team environment and leverage diverse perspectives of committee members and internal staff.

- Knowledge of current policy issues and scholarship in the program area with the ability to work across multiple disciplines.

- Excellent written and oral communications skills, including an ability to synthesize, summarize, and present research findings and recommendations for a variety of audiences.

- Demonstrated ability to effectively engage with a wide variety of internal and external groups including funders, academic, policy, and research institutions, and other potential partners.

- Successful grant writing experience and familiarity with private foundations and other funding sources.

- Ability to work collaboratively and effectively in a team environment. Experience managing complex projects on tight deadlines.

- Ability to creatively problem-solve and be flexible in a changing work environment.

- Proficiency in Microsoft Office (Excel, Access, PowerPoint, Word); SPSS, R or similar statistical software; and social media tools. Experience with data visualization (i.e. Tableau) preferred.

- Occasional travel may be required.

Please apply here: <https://www.amacad.org/career/program-officer-american-institutions-society-and-public-good>

Start Date: Winter 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 7346

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Feminist Political Economy/Women & Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Feminist Political Economy and/or Women & Public Policy to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) social reproduction, non-wage/uncompensated labor, gendered labor markets, feminist state theory, intersectionality, women's human rights and gender equality, globalization and its impact on women in the Global South, solidarity movements, or women and public policy (e.g., health care, poverty). Applicants may have a U.S., comparative regional, or global perspective. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program anchored in the concepts and methods of political science while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach graduate and undergraduate courses in their substantive specialization as well as introductory courses on U.S. Federal Government & Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7328

New York University

Rank: Lab Manager - Center for Social Media and Politics

We are looking for a full-time lab manager. In this role, you will be embedded in our research teams in order to directly support the lab's cutting-edge output. Currently, we have a portfolio of over 25 projects on a wide range of questions related to social media and politics, each of which has different substantive and methodological motivations. As the lab manager, you will have two main responsibilities. First, you will monitor and coordinate all of the lab's research projects; second, you will provide direct support to a selected portfolio of projects. Given the nature of this position, a graduate-level background in quantitative social science and/or data science research is strongly encouraged, as is experience leading teams in a fast-paced environment.

Each project will require something different from the lab manager, ranging from coordinating with our survey vendors to training undergraduate RAs. We value initiative and adaptability, as well as a passion for the research process. While far from an exhaustive list, your responsibilities will include:

- Instituting systems of regular reporting on work performed, setting goals, tracking progress towards deliverables

- Holding meetings with research teams on each project, and reporting to Faculty Directors and Executive Director on progress

- Ensuring data tasks are regularly updated and best lab practices (e.g. coding and documentation) are followed

- Managing paper writing/revisions, writing IRB paperwork, and coordinating conference/journal submissions

- Training and supervising graduate/undergraduate RAs

The Center for Social Media and Politics (CSMaP) consists of three core faculty directors covering fields of Political Science, Computer Science, and Computational Biology, as well as software engineers, data scientists, PhD students in both Political Science and Data Science, affiliated faculty both at NYU and other institutions, and undergraduates. The lab maintains a broad research agenda with many projects moving forward simultaneously. Recent publications and/or working papers have centered on the consumption of fake news, the distribution of media consumption by individuals, the links shared by IRA Troll accounts in the 2016 US election, how (competitive) authoritarian regimes respond to online opposition, and the prevalence of hate speech on Twitter.

The Center has weekly general meetings, bi-weekly post-docs meetings, and many project-specific meetings throughout the week. Centrally located in Manhattan, the lab hosts frequent visitors. You will be given the opportunity to participate in the center's research environment, including attending conferences and seminars and working closely with a broad group of researchers associated with the lab.

The directors of CSMaP are actively seeking a diverse group of students, engineers, postdocs, and faculty collaborators, and encourage applicants from all backgrounds to consider applying for this position. We believe in the importance of diversity as a key to the long range health and vibrancy of the field, as well as its ability to create a more stimulating intellectual environment.

To apply, please go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/66754><https://apply.interfolio.com/66754>

For additional information, feel free to contact any of the faculty directors: Rich Bonneau (rb133@nyu.edu), Jonathan Nagler (jonathan.nagler@nyu.edu), or Joshua Tucker (joshua.tucker@nyu.edu). Or, of course, check out our website.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 7326

SUNY, University at Buffalo

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professors in Environment and Sustainability

Assistant/Associate Professors in Environment and Sustainability

As part of a multi-year plan to hire six tenure-track faculty, the newly formed Department of Environment and Sustainability at the University at Buffalo seeks to hire three Assistant or Associate Professors for the 2020-2021 academic year.

In this round of hiring, we seek scholars with expertise in the economic, social, political, cultural, historical, psychological, and ecological aspects of environmental and sustainability issues. We are especially interested in scholars who study the macro structures that affect the sustainability of societies; the forces that shape the way individuals think and act; and the processes controlling coupled natural-human systems. Western New York represents a living laboratory to study issues and processes over a gradient that includes rural, suburban and urban environments as well as two of the Great Lakes. The department already is broadly based, with faculty ranging from the ecological and environmental sciences to the humanities, and offers undergraduate and graduate degrees including Sustainability Leadership, Environmental Geosciences, Environmental Studies, and Evolution, Ecology and Behavior. Our hires in the next few years will strengthen our ability to solve critical societal and environmental problems and grow degree programs in these important areas.

Standard duties for academic-year (10-month) faculty include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses and seminars, advising and mentoring students, maintaining a strong research program, and providing service to the Department and University. More information about the department can be found at <https://arts-sciences.buffalo.edu/environment-sustainability.html>

University at Buffalo is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and, in keeping with our commitment, welcomes all to apply including veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Application materials should be submitted via UBJobs (<http://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/21775>). Review of applications will begin Nov. 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7321

Texas A&M University, Corpus Christi

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Job Description

The College of Liberal Arts at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi is seeking a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science in American Politics to begin fall 2020. The successful candidate will teach introductory courses in American National Government and State and Local Government in stand-alone courses, as well as part of a collaborative teaching team working in the university's nationally recognized First-Year Learning Communities Program.

In addition, the successful candidate will contribute to the teaching needs of the Political Science major. A strong commitment to excellence in teaching, research, and service is expected. The normal teaching load will be 3-3.

Department

The Department of Social Sciences (DSOC) is a multi-disciplinary department in the College of Liberal Arts that offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Criminal Justice and the graduate degree of Masters of Public Administration. Because of its contribution to the core curriculum, Political Science generates some of the highest levels of student credit hours in the University. The Criminal Justice program is one of the largest undergraduate majors on campus. The MPA program is the largest graduate program in the College of Liberal Arts. DSOC faculty are leaders on campus, in the community, and in their disciplines. We value excellence and work daily to support the University's Momentum 2020 Overarching Goal to become an emerging research university with an unparalleled commitment to every student's success, closing gaps in achievement, and delivering a robust campus experience.

First-Year Learning Communities Program

Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi's First-Year Learning Communities Program (FYLCP) is an innovative nationally recognized program which helps students to make successful academic and social transitions from high school to the University. For more information, visit the FYLCP webpage at <http://undergrad.tamucc.edu/FYLCP/learning-communities.html>.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science. ABD will be considered; degree must be conferred at the time of appointment. Ph.D. must meet the appropriate credentialing requirements for the Southern Association for Colleges and Schools (SACS); Experience or the ability to teach the Presidency and Congress; Experience or the ability to teach American National Government and State and Local Government; and Be available to accept teaching assignments that may include classroom, hybrid, and online classes.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience teaching undergraduate quantitative research methods and senior seminar;
Demonstrate a race and ethnic politics perspective broadly defined in their work;
Demonstrate a facility with student-centered, critical thinking methods of teaching;
Demonstrate an understanding/appreciation of the University's student population and campus mission;
Demonstrate the ability to teach introductory and majors courses in the required and preferred areas (see the aforementioned position description);
A desire for or experience in a team teaching environment;
Classroom and online teaching experience;
Demonstrate teaching effectiveness through student evaluations, peer reviews, and/or self-evaluation; and
Demonstrate an active research program agenda that has resulted in or the potential to result in published scholarly works or peer-reviewed products.

TO APPLY: http://hr.tamucc.edu/Job_Opportunities/index.html

All required documentation must be submitted to be considered for the position.

A completed application will include:

1. A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above,
2. A curriculum vitae,
3. A statement of teaching philosophy and applicable evidence for teaching effectiveness,
4. A research statement,
5. A writing sample,
6. Three professional references including names, addresses, titles, telephone numbers, and email addresses, and
7. Copies of unofficial transcripts for graduate coursework.

The job posting will remain open until a finalist has been selected. Review of applications will begin Monday, December 2, 2019.

All positions are security-sensitive. Applicants are subject to a criminal history investigation, and employment is contingent upon the institution's verification of credentials and/or other information required by the institution's procedures, including the completion of the criminal history check.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7322

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: Corporate Sustainability Open Faculty Position

Corporate Sustainability Open Faculty Position
Bren School of Environmental Science & Management
University of California, Santa Barbara

The Bren School of Environmental Science and Management (www.bren.ucsb.edu) invites applications for an open rank faculty position in corporate sustainability. The position has the potential to include an endowed chair at the senior ranks, pending final approval. The Bren School is a leader in developing cross-disciplinary solutions to environmental problems. The School's Corporate Environmental Management specialization prepares Masters students for careers helping companies achieve their business and environmental goals.

Ideal candidates will offer:

- An accomplished research portfolio and/or trajectory that includes significant contributions to understanding corporate sustainability.
- Demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching business and corporate sustainability to professional Masters degree students.
- Leadership for the School's Corporate Environmental Management programs.
- Synergies with the School's research, teaching and extended communities in the pursuit of sustainable environmental solutions.

Candidates may teach and do research in areas such as strategy, management and organizations, organizational behavior, leadership, organizational theory and entrepreneurship. The Bren School is open to candidates from business schools and from across the social sciences, including economics, political science, sociology, and psychology.

Applicants must have completed all requirements for a PhD (or equivalent) except the dissertation at the time of application and must have a completed PhD by the time of hire. Anticipated start date is July 1, 2020.

The Bren School is a graduate school within UCSB that provides rigorous, multi-disciplinary training in environmental science and management to Master's and PhD students. The faculty is drawn from the natural sciences, social sciences and management.

Applicants for a Full or Associate Professor Position must submit: 1) a cover letter, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) statements of research and teaching, 4) up to four selected writing samples, and 5) contact information for at least four references. Applicants for Full or Associate Professor may submit: 1) an optional statement describing commitment to diversity and 2) teaching evaluations if available.

Applicants for an Assistant Professor Position must submit: 1) a cover letter, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) statements of research and teaching, 4) up to four selected writing samples, and 5) arrange for least four letters of reference to be submitted on their behalf via the UC Recruit website, ideally by the current review date. Applicants for Assistant Professor may submit: 1) an optional statement describing commitment to diversity and 2) teaching evaluations if available.

The Bren School is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service. The optional Statement of Contributions to Diversity will be read and assessed by the search committee members for candidates who meet the basic and additional qualifications. These statements, if submitted, will be reviewed for evidence of teaching, research, professional and/or public service contributions that promote diversity and contributions furthering diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through knowledge of, contributions to, and plans to promote diversity.

Submit applications electronically to: <https://apptrkr.com/1629231> and address questions to cem-search@bren.ucsb.edu. Applications completed by November 22, 2019 will receive priority consideration; the position will remain open until filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7323

APSA

Rank: Editor

POSITION TITLE: Editor

SALARY: Commensurate with experience

EDUCATION: Graduate degree in social science discipline required, PhD in political science preferred

EXPERIENCE: Instructional experience required, experience teaching in higher education context preferred

POSITION DURATION: One-year

POSITION DESCRIPTION

The American Political Science Association (APSA) seeks a candidate to fill a part time position within the Centennial Center for Political Science & Public Affairs. The Editor will work closely with the Director of the Centennial Center, the teaching and learning team, and the marketing and communications team to develop a new digital platform for political science teaching and learning. The site will act as a centralized hub for high-quality, curated resources, and a hub for dialogue among those interested in political science education. Over the next three years, a central goal of this program is to increase engagement with and support for a diverse collection of members from a variety of backgrounds, areas of specialty and institution types, and to create an overall environment of inclusivity. Thus, strong candidates will have experience working with diverse populations, and will provide evidence of being committed to furthering a climate of inclusivity and collaboration.

The Editor will have the opportunity to shape an exciting new initiative in APSA's digital portfolio, working closely with internal and external stakeholders to develop the platform, and leading content acquisition efforts. Following launch, the Editor will manage the day-to-day operations of the platform, including content review and approval and forum moderation. They will also work with political science faculty to solicit and prepare content for inclusion in the platform, and to prepare features highlighting timely or popular content. The incumbent will work directly with external editors/boards and closely with communications, diversity and inclusion, and the teaching and learning team within APSA.

This position will be a half-time position, with the expectation of an average of 20 work hours per week.

STATUS:

Part-time, non-exempt

REPORTING RELATIONSHIP

Reports to: Director of the Centennial Center for Political Science and Public Affairs

FLSA STATUS

This position is considered non-exempt under the Fair Labor Standards Act and is therefore eligible for overtime pay.

ESSENTIAL RESPONSIBILITIES

- Work with an editorial advisory board made up of APSA members to identify, solicit, review, and curate high quality teaching and learning resources.
- Produce marketing content for the platform, including features of timely or new resources.
- Attend regular meetings with project teams to review tasks and expectations, report stakeholder feedback and approvals to development partner.
- Work within WordPress or other CMS to manage page content, template, permissions, and workflow.
- Provide support to members using the platform.
- Work with APSA programs to identify existing and future resources from relevant initiatives and events, including liaising directly with past event participants to solicit resources.
- Stay abreast of current issues and best practices in political science and teaching and learning.

ESSENTIAL SKILLS & EXPERIENCE

- Graduate degree in political science or related social science discipline, PhD preferred.
- Instructional experience required, experience teaching at the college level preferred.
- Additional pedagogical experience (including formal pedagogical training, curricular development experience) a plus.

- Knowledge of civic engagement and education a plus.
- Strong organizational/communications skills and multi-tasking ability.
- Ability to work independently, in a team, and with external stakeholders.
- Demonstrated ability to write clearly and experience in editing/proofreading.
- High attention to detail, adherence to deadlines and ability to motivate others related to timelines.
- Website management skills highly desirable.
- Superb collaboration skills to work with colleagues across departments at APSA to meet shared goals.

ABOUT APSA

The APSA is a 501(c) 3 nonprofit educational association that serves a membership base of 12,000 in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments and institutions, APSA brings together political scientists from all fields of inquiry, regions and occupational endeavors within and outside academe in order to expand awareness and understanding of politics. To learn more about APSA, please visit www.apsanet.org. APSA offers a comprehensive compensation and benefits package, and is located near the Metro in DuPont Circle in Washington, DC, with a full-time staff of 29. APSA is an equal opportunity employer committed to workplace diversity and welcomes applications from anyone with the qualifications indicated above.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered, submit a resume with cover letter indicating how your experience and skills align with the position, as PDF attachments by email to APSA at hr@apsanet.org. Please write 'Editor' in the email subject line. Consideration of applications will begin as soon as resumes are received, and the position will remain open until filled.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7316

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: SNF Agora Open Rank Faculty - Social Cognition/Political Psychology

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at the rank of Associate or Full Professor (soon-to-be-tenured Assistant Professors with exceptional records of scholarship can also be considered) in any discipline who focus on social cognition or political psychology. We seek scholars from a range of disciplines examining the cognitive and psychological foundations of social and collective behavior, especially as it relates to questions about civic engagement and inclusive discourse across the globe or in the U.S.

This search is part of a broader initiative at Johns Hopkins University to expand expertise in social cognition within the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences and in other departments. Faculty hired to the SNF Agora Institute, however, can sit in any department in the university.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute.

Qualifications

Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The university is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the university's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2020.

Any nominations should be emailed to the SNF Agora Institute, at snfagora@jhu.edu

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7314

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: Political Science Faculty/Internship Coordinator

The Department of Political Science at California State University, Sacramento seeks candidates to fill a tenure-track position of Political Science Faculty/Internship Coordinator at the rank of assistant professor to begin in fall 2020. Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field are encouraged to apply. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2021. Applicants are expected to have the ability to coordinate and develop the department's internship programs and to direct the Sacramento Semester Program in addition to teaching undergraduate and graduate courses. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body and a diverse community. Candidates are also required to have a strong commitment to college teaching, experiential learning, and an ability to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in Political Science, including an introduction to American government. Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement; the department is open to methodological approaches. Additional preferred qualifications and application procedures are listed in the full vacancy announcement. The department reminds applicants that it is only necessary to meet the required qualifications in order to apply.

Review of applications will begin November 15, 2019 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <https://csus.peopleadmin.com/postings/4493>. The job posting number is 4493. Inquiries can be made to pols2019@csus.edu.

AA/EO Employer, Clery Act, mandated reporter, background check required.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/8/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7309

University College London

Rank: Lecturer / Associate Professor in Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

Political Science

School of Public Policy

London

Lecturer / Associate Professor in Political Science

Full Time

The appointment will be on UCL Grade 9. The salary range will be Grade 8 £44,674 - £52,701 per annum or Grade 9 £57,279 - £62,283 per annum. Plus £8,000 per annum Market Supplement, inclusive of London Allowance.

The Department of Political Science would like to recruit a Lecturer/ Associate Professor in Political Science to contribute to research and teaching. The new Lecturer will be expected to undertake research of the highest international standard to add to the research standing and culture of the Department.

The postholder will teach lectures and seminars at postgraduate and undergraduate level.

The post will commence on the 1st July 2020.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or related subject (candidates nearing completion may be considered).

A proven ability to undertake academic research that is internationally recognised and of high-quality or evidence of potential for high quality academic research in a relevant field and experience of teaching in political economy or related modules at undergraduate or postgraduate level are essential.

Candidates seeking to be appointed at the Associate Professor (grade 9) level are expected to demonstrate that they have more significant experience and/or have made a substantial contribution to the advancement of their discipline through research.

The post will enable the Department to develop its research and teaching profile and the successful candidate MUST have substantive or regional expertise in one of the following areas:

- Artificial intelligence, technology and automation
- Global environmental politics/Climate change
- Migration
- Chinese politics/East Asian politics

For further details about the vacancy and how to apply online please go to <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/human-resources/working-ucl/jobs-ucl> and search on Reference Number 1828104.

When applying please include a CV and a cover letter which should include a statement of research and teaching interests.

Informal enquiries may be made to Professor Jennifer Hudson (jennifer.hudson@ucl.ac.uk)

If you have any queries regarding the vacancy or the application process, please contact Ajay Patel, Finance and Staffing Administrator to the Department of Political Science, School of Public Policy, (polsci.staffing@ucl.ac.uk).

Closing Date: 10 November 2019

Latest time for the submission of applications: 23.59.

Interview Date: TBC

UCL Taking Action for Equality.

We will consider applications to work on a part-time, flexible and job share basis wherever possible.

Our department is working towards an Athena SWAN award. We are committed to advancing gender equality within our department.

To apply click here https://atsv7.wcn.co.uk/search_engine/jobs.cgi?owner=5041178&ownertype=fair&jcode=1828104

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7298

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, Science & Technology

Assistant Professor, Cyber Security and Privacy

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established several interdisciplinary clusters to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting a tenure-track assistant professor in the area(s) of Cyber Security and Privacy. This position will have an anticipated start date of August 8, 2020.

This interdisciplinary position will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department and may include a combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units for their appointment. All relevant areas will be considered, such as (but not limited to) Mathematics, Statistics, Industrial Engineering and Management Systems, Psychology, Computer Science, Legal Studies, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Philosophy, Criminal Justice, and Political Science.

Minimum qualifications: A Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution at the time of appointment in an area appropriate to the cluster. The selected candidate must also have a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record.

Preferred qualifications: A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is strongly preferred.

The ideal candidate will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. In particular, candidates that have a track record in security and privacy issues affecting software and systems in various platforms (cloud, IoT, cyber-physical) are strongly encouraged to apply. The ideal candidate will also have research impact as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security and privacy. (See <https://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved to date.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided.

UCF has a diverse student body of more than 68,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry, including large corporations such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, Oracle, Apple, AMD, Boeing, SpaceX, Blue Origin, etc. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school. Orlando has one of the fastest growing and dynamic economies in the nation. In 2018, among major metropolitan areas, Orlando enjoyed the fifth largest increase in population. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Additional Application Materials Required:

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website, www.ucf.edu/jobs/. No paper or emailed applications or materials will be considered.

UCF has a diverse student body and community, and we are committed to meeting the needs of this community. Please tell us about your approach and experience meeting the needs of a diverse community, both in the context of a faculty-student setting and as a colleague. In addition to the online application, interested candidates must attach the following materials to their application:

- 1) the above-mentioned diversity statement,
- 2) a cover letter*,
- 3) curriculum vitae,
- 4) teaching statement,
- 5) research statement, and

6) contact information for three professional references (include email addresses).

*In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, any experience working on interdisciplinary teams, how they will enhance the existing cluster team, and identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home and any joint appointments they would desire.

NOTE: Please have all application documents ready when applying so they can be attached at that time. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents at a later date.

This position has an anticipated start date of August 8, 2020. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Questions regarding this search can be directed to Yan Solihin at yan.solihin@ucf.edu.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement: As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://www.oie.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7299

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy, General Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants to apply for a teaching faculty position. The selected applicant will teach courses as part of the Batten School's social entrepreneurship curriculum and may assume some program responsibilities in the school's social entrepreneurship center (SE@UVA). The appointment begins in August 2020. Rank is at the Assistant Professor level.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, entrepreneurship, law, business ethics, business administration, finance, or public administration. A terminal degree in one of these disciplines or a related field is required, as is teaching experience. The successful candidate's professional and/or research experience focuses on social entrepreneurship broadly defined, including but not limited to work on social enterprise, impact investing and innovative finance, or public policy related to social innovation (i.e. state-level BCorp legislation, social impact bonds, tax policy related to social enterprise, and innovative hybrid business models).

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of excellence in one or more of the following areas: professional experience within the social enterprise community, superior teaching and student mentoring, an interest in contributing to the scholarly community at Batten and U.Va. through collaborations with research faculty, and a research focus with a developing publication record in scholarly, practitioner, and/or policy venues.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership. The Batten School's SE@UVA center offers over a dozen courses to over 500 students each academic year and serves over 350 Social Entrepreneurship Minors. For more information about the center please visit www.seatuva.org.

To apply, visit <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs> and search for posting number R0010558, and complete a candidate profile. Include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, contact information for three references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a diversity statement that describes contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. This is a non-tenure track position. Applicant review begins November 1, 2019 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more please visit <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/6/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7296

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Unit: Division of Social Science | Faculty of Arts and Sciences

Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: 15 November 2019

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $67,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice

- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2020 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2017 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2020.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7293

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate - CSDP

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on or about September 1, 2020. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2020-2021 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req D-20-WWS-00010 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14021>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, December 2, 2019 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/2/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7289

Princeton University - CSDP

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar - CSDP

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for ten-month positions anticipated to start on or about September 1, 2020. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events.

Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2020-2021 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2020-2021 should apply to req number D-20-WWS-00011 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/14041>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, December 2, 2019 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/2/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7295

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer in Political Science or International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

School of History, Philosophy, Political Science and International Relations
Kelburn Campus

The Political Science and International Relations Programme seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer in Political Science or International Relations (equivalent to tenured assistant professor). The successful candidate should be able to teach courses on American domestic politics and American foreign policy. Other teaching commitments will depend on the expertise of the successful candidate. The starting date is negotiable.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

This role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in political science and/or international relations; an active research profile; and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Applications should include a cover letter and a curriculum vitae with the name of three referees.

Please note that our system only allows for two supporting documents to be uploaded with an application. If more documents are required, please consider combining files in pdf format prior to uploading.

Further information can be obtained from Dr Kate McMillan, Head of Programme, Political Science and International Relations, email kate.mcmillan@vuw.ac.nz

About us

Victoria University of Wellington is New Zealand's globally-minded capital city university, focused on engaging with Wellington, New Zealand and the Asia-Pacific region and connecting with the world. The University values the expertise of its professional staff in supporting and enabling teaching, research and engagement activities.

Our vision- Victoria University of Wellington will be a world-leading capital city university and one of the great global-civic universities.

Our mission and purpose- Victoria University of Wellington's mission is to undertake excellent research, teaching and public engagement in the service of local, national, regional and global communities.

Our values- Victoria University of Wellington's core ethical values are respect, responsibility, fairness, integrity and empathy. These values are manifested in our commitment to civic engagement, sustainability, inclusivity, equity, diversity and openness. We prize intellectual rigour and independence, academic freedom, critical enquiry and excellence.

We are a progressive university with ambitious strategic goals and a commitment to having a professional workforce that reflects the diversity of its community. Professional staff engage with academic staff, students, parents, Government, iwi, community groups and many other external stakeholders. All professional staff are expected to uphold the reputation of the University through the way they undertake their work.

Victoria University of Wellington is committed to the Treaty of Waitangi. 'Mai i te iho ki te pae' is the Maori Strategic Outcomes Framework which is linked to the University's Strategic Plan. Ma te rautaki tatou e koke whakamua (via the strategy we strive to move forward together).

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For further information about the University go to <http://www.victoria.ac.nz>

About the team

The School of History, Philosophy, Political Science and International Relations/ Te Kura Aro Whakamuri, Rapunga Whakaaro, Matai Torangapu me te Ao is the largest School in the University and offers world-class, research-based programmes across its four disciplines. The disciplines within the School represent important fields of study, each with their own set of concepts and perspectives. The programmes are taught by academic staff who are recognised, both locally and globally, as leaders in their respective fields. Graduates develop skills in critical and creative thinking, leadership, communication and research. The School is committed to excellence in research and teaching.

Find out more here: <https://www.victoria.ac.nz/hppi>

Applications close Sunday, 10 November 2019.

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For more information and to apply online visit <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/about/careers/current-vacancies>

Reference 1000342.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 7282

Georgia State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor, Social Entrepreneurship

Assistant/Associate Professor, Social Entrepreneurship

Andrew Young School of Policy Studies, Georgia State University

The Department of Public Management and Policy (PMAP) seeks a talented scholar and teacher with expertise in social entrepreneurship for a tenure-track assistant or associate professor position. The successful candidate will expand and complement our Nonprofit Studies Program and will direct the Bachelor of Interdisciplinary Studies (BIS) with a concentration in Social Entrepreneurship that began in fall 2016. Candidates should have earned their doctorates by August 2020. The anticipated start date is Fall 2020.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda focusing on social entrepreneurship. We welcome applicants with backgrounds in public administration and policy, business, law, economics, urban planning and related fields. Additional research interests in social enterprise, social innovation, business incubators and accelerators, sustainability, social impact investing, community development, and corporate social responsibility are particularly desirable. The successful candidate will also direct the BIS program, help to promote the BIS degree to undergraduates, and work to develop and expand existing partnerships within the university and with the social entrepreneurship community including advising the social entrepreneurship club and holding a social business plan competition and social innovation jam. Release time will be available to support these activities.

The Nonprofit Studies Program has existing research strengths in nonprofit finance, social enterprise, international NGOs, and arts and culture nonprofits. The Andrew Young School ranks 21st overall among graduate programs in public affairs and 9th in nonprofit management in the US News rankings. The PMAP department also ranks 7th in local government management, 8th in urban policy, 8th in public budgeting and finance, 19th in public management and leadership, and 22nd in public policy analysis. Located in downtown Atlanta, Georgia State University is one of the country's top urban public research universities and has one of the most diverse student bodies. US News calls GSU the 2nd most innovative university in the U.S. and ranks it 3rd in undergraduate teaching.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, copies of teaching evaluations, and names and contact information for three references at <https://apply.interfolio.com/68745> The position requires a doctorate in an appropriate field of study from an accredited university. Candidate must be eligible to work in the USA. At the time of offer, a background check will be required. Consideration of applications will begin on October 30, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

Information about the Andrew Young School is available at www.aysps.gsu.edu. Georgia State University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate against applicants due to race, ethnicity, gender, veteran status, or on the basis of disability or any other federal, state, or local protected class. The position is subject to budgetary approval.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7286

Georgetown University

Rank: tenure-track position in Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business invites applications for a tenure-track position in its Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy Area. The Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy Area includes individuals whose primary research and teaching interests lie in economics, international business, international political economy, and strategy. The area is collegial and multi-disciplinary, with several members crossing disciplinary boundaries in research and teaching.

The position is open to scholars interested in conducting applied, international research. It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses either firm behavior in the global economy or how global political and economic institutions and processes affect firms. We especially encourage applicants whose work has appeared or will appear in leading scholarly outlets.

The position is an open rank position. Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty and the successful applicant will be someone who has either demonstrated teaching ability or has the aptitude for teaching excellence.

We encourage applicants to apply via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/69413>.

* Junior applicants should submit: (1) a cover letter; (2) a curriculum vita; (3) up to two articles/working papers including the job market paper; (4) teaching evaluations; and (5) up to three letters of recommendation.

* Senior applicants should submit (1) a cover letter and (2) a curriculum vita.

(All inquiries will be held in confidence until a time mutually agreed upon.).

We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2019, but will accept inquires until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Located in Washington, D.C., Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/2/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7281

Hertie School

Rank: Professor of Sustainability

The Hertie School, Berlin

A European Professional School for Public Policy is recruiting a

Professor of Sustainability

Professor or Assistant Professor

The Hertie School is recruiting a Professor or Assistant Professor of Sustainability, with a research agenda in environmental as well as economic and/or social sustainability.

Relevant research areas in environmental sustainability may include (among others) biodiversity, cities and transport, pollution, agriculture and/or land use and water. An ideal candidate combines this with a research agenda in economic and/or social sustainability, which may include (among others) human well-being, inequality and poverty, inter-generational justice, environmental accounting, sustainable economic growth, environmental taxation, large-scale risk, long-term policy design, and/or evolution of norms.

The candidate will contribute to the development of the new Hertie Centre for Sustainability and will interact with faculty members with expertise in climate change and energy. Applicants should be interested in working in an interdisciplinary environment.

Applicants for this position must have a doctoral degree relevant for the position, or expect to have this degree by the start of employment. We are looking for a candidate with a background in economics, though this does not have to be a PhD. An early career candidate will be appointed as tenure-track Assistant Professor with a six-year clock (two three-year contracts). A more advanced candidate would initially be on a fixed contract of negotiable length prior to a tenure review. In highly exceptional circumstances, a particularly outstanding candidate may be appointed with tenure.

The expected start date is 1 September 2020.

The Hertie School seeks faculty with demonstrated capacity for research, teaching, and outreach at the highest levels in their discipline. We recruit faculty who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity with a commitment to teaching and innovative research of interest to the international scholarly community and policy-makers.

Candidates are expected to work well in an interdisciplinary, international environment with English as the language of instruction and operation. The successful candidate will teach courses in the School's Master, Executive, and PhD programmes and be able to collaborate with new centres of competence which will be set up over the next years. Those are the Jacques Delors Institute Berlin – Centre for European Affairs, the Centre for International Security Policy, the Centre on Fundamental Rights, the Centre for Sustainability, the Centre on Digital Governance, and the Hertie School Data Science Lab. The successful candidate is expected to actively contribute to the research and outreach activities of the Centre for Sustainability.

As a private university, the Hertie School offers an internationally competitive salary as well as a paid sabbatical after every five semesters. We provide excellent working conditions with outstanding financial and administrative support for research. The Hertie School is fully embedded in Germany's vibrant research landscape and has close ties to the top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community as well as to the policy world.

The Hertie School is a diverse, international and lively community located in the heart of Berlin. It takes a family friendly workplace seriously.

The deadline for the submission of applications is 30 November 2019. The Hertie School will review applications that include a letter of motivation, a current curriculum vitae (publication list, degrees earned, if applicable: positions held, teaching experience, research projects, awards received), two writing samples and, if applicable, teaching evaluations. Early career candidates should include three letters of recommendation from professors familiar with their work.

To submit your application, please upload the requested documents here:

<https://hertie-school.dvinci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/184/professor-of-sustainability-fmdiv-professor-or-assistant-professor>

For information about the Hertie School visit www.hertie-school.org.

For questions about the position, please contact Professor Christian Flachsland (flachsland@hertie-school.org).

Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7260

Hertie School of Governance

Rank: Professor of International Political Economy

Specializations: Political Economy, Economic Policy, Public Finance & Budgeting

The Hertie School, Berlin

A European Professional School for Public Policy is recruiting a

Professor of International Political Economy

Professor or Assistant Professor

The Hertie School is recruiting a Professor or Assistant Professor of International Political Economy. We are looking for a candidate with a research agenda in the politics and economics of globalization and trade. Themes that intersect with development and global inequalities are welcome. This candidate will play an important leadership role in our "Finance and Trade" track of our Masters of International Affairs (MIA).

Applicants for this position must have a doctoral degree relevant for the position, or expect to have this degree by the start of employment. An early career candidate will be appointed as Assistant Professor with a six-year clock (two three-year contracts) with the possibility of tenure. A more advanced candidate would be subject to a two-year probationary period before the granting of tenure.

The expected start date is 1 September 2020 or February 2021.

The Hertie School seeks faculty with demonstrated capacity for research at the highest levels in their discipline, through an established record of publication in top outlets. We recruit faculty who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity with a strong commitment to high-quality teaching and innovative research of interest to the international scholarly community and policy-makers.

Candidates are expected to work well in an interdisciplinary, international environment with English as the language of instruction and operation. The successful candidate will teach courses in the School's Master, Executive, and PhD programmes. Collaboration with new centres of competence of the Hertie School is encouraged. Those are the Jacques Delors Institute Berlin, the Centre for International Security Policy, the Centre on Fundamental Rights, the Centre for Sustainability, the Centre on Digital Governance, and the Hertie School Data Science Lab.

As a private university, the Hertie School offers an internationally competitive salary as well as a paid sabbatical after every five semesters. We provide excellent working conditions with outstanding financial and administrative support for research. The Hertie School is fully embedded in Germany's vibrant research landscape and has close ties to the top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community as well as to the policy world.

The Hertie School is a diverse, international and lively community located in the heart of Berlin. It takes a family friendly workplace seriously. Under German law, there is standard paid leave for parents after the birth of a child.

The deadline for the submission of applications is 30 November 2019. The Hertie School will review applications that include a letter of motivation, a current curriculum vitae (publication list, degrees earned, if applicable: positions held, teaching experience, research projects, awards received), two writing samples and, if applicable, teaching evaluations. Early career candidates should include three letters of recommendation from professors familiar with their work.

To submit your application, please upload the requested documents here: <https://hertie-school.dvinci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/185/professor-of-international-political-economy-fmdiv-professor-or-assistant-professor>

For information about the Hertie School visit www.hertie-school.org. For questions about the position, please contact Dean Mark Hallerberg (hallerberg@hertie-school.org).

Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/30/2019
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7261

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Other

The duties and responsibilities of this 9-month Visiting Assistant Professor position entail teaching undergraduate and graduate Public Administration courses, as well as, a course on state and local government. The typical course load for VAPs is a 3-3.

Regular, reliable, and non-disruptive attendance is an essential job duty, as is the ability to create and maintain collegial, harmonious working relationships with others.

Apply through:
<https://jobs.uark.edu/postings/36968>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 10/31/2019
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7262

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in Political Communication

The UCLA Department of Communication invites nominations and applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant level. Candidates at the associate level may be considered; and consideration will be given to exceptional senior candidates. Applicants should have visibility and outstanding research in political communication, media effects, media institutions, digital media, related subject areas, or (ideally) work that combines these areas. Salary will be competitive.

The appointment will begin in July 2020. Responsibilities will include maintaining an active and impactful program of research, teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate level, and university service.

Qualifications: Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Communication, Political Science, or a related field. Applications are welcome from scholars with expertise including—but not limited to— “big data” and machine learning skills (particularly in the collection and analysis of new media, archival, or visual content) or lab and field experiments. We also encourage applications from scholars with demonstrated excellence in undergraduate teaching, graduate mentorship and advising, and success in pursuing grant support for their research.

Applicants are to apply for these positions online at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF04891>. The requirements are: a cover letter; a statement of research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; a statement on Contributions to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion; and 3-4 letters of recommendation (or for senior faculty a list of 3-4 individuals who can serve as a reference).

To ensure your application is given full consideration, files should be completed by October 31, 2019.

Start Date: Summer 2020
Application Deadline: 10/31/2019
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6230

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research

Rank: Researcher/Senior Researcher

Hiring Full-Time Researcher/Senior Researcher

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research invites Ph.D. researchers in political science, economics, sociology, public policy or a related field to apply for a full-time research position. Recent Ph.Ds. may apply for a Researcher position, and those with at least 5 years of experience and an established publication record in peer-reviewed journals may apply for a Senior Researcher position.

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.Ds. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, computer specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative assistants.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated strong analytical skills, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute offers competitive salaries and benefits. The Institute is an equal opportunity employer.

Interested applicants should submit a letter of introduction, curriculum vitae, and two research papers to hr@upjohn.org. The position is open until filled.

About Kalamazoo, Michigan

Home of the Kalamazoo Promise, Kalamazoo is a progressive metropolitan area in Southwest Michigan, located just 30 minutes from the shores of Lake Michigan. Centered halfway between Chicago and Detroit, it has a rich arts culture and a strong educational community that includes Kalamazoo College, a private liberal arts college, and Western Michigan University, a large public research institution with a nationally-recognized medical school.

Start Date: Winter 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7263

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: Assistant Professor in Migration and Immigration

The University of California, Santa Barbara Department of Political Science seeks a scholar in the area of migration and immigration studies for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2020. We are open to scholars in all subfields of political science. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research addresses issues in the Department's strong interdisciplinary foci in the study of identity or the environment. Migration brings together people of different ethnicities, races, and religious beliefs, creating new challenges for identity politics. Moreover, climate change and environmental disasters are intimately tied to the phenomena of migration. However, migration also has implications for U.S. domestic, transnational, and global governance. We therefore define the position broadly.

The minimum requirement to be considered an applicant is the completion of all requirements for a Ph.D. (or equivalent degree), except the dissertation, in Political Science (or related field) at the time of application. Ph.D. preferred.

UCSB is the first Hispanic-Serving Institution in the American Association of Universities (AAU). The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service as appropriate to the position. Diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at UC Santa Barbara. Our excellence can only be fully realized by faculty, staff and students who share our commitment to these values. The department encourages all applicants to submit a Statement of Contributions to Diversity addressing past and/or potential contributions to diversity through research, teaching, and service.

Completed applications received by October 31, 2019 will receive primary consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (or other evidence of teaching effectiveness), and three letters from academic references. All application materials should be submitted via UC Recruit: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF01607>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7257

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Critical Data Studies

The School of Social and Behavioral Sciences in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences at Arizona State University (ASU) is seeking a full-time, benefits-eligible, tenure-track Assistant Professor of Social Technologies / Critical Data Studies to conduct research and teach at the intersection of data and social sciences. ASU's New College offers a rich, interdisciplinary environment within a university that has been selected as the most innovative in the United States for the last five years. Situated within a school that includes faculties in anthropology, communication, political science, psychology, social technologies, and sociology, we seek scholars who will pursue programs of inquiry with national and international influence. In addition, our new colleague will be highly engaged in shaping the future of critical data studies across ASU and beyond.

The School of Social and Behavioral Sciences is presently in a period of expansion and innovation around new initiatives and programs. Since Fall 2017, the School has added ten new tenured/tenure-track faculty, in addition to several lecturers and postdoctoral positions. This academic year, the School has been approved to recruit five additional tenured/tenure-track faculty, including the current position, and a Critical Data Studies postdoctoral scholar.

Required qualifications: a) Ph.D. in Communication, Computer Science, Geography, Information Science, Political Science, Psychology, Science and Technology Studies, Sociology, or a cognate field by the time of appointment; b) Evidence of an ongoing research program that demonstrates a deep investigation of the intersection of data and society; c) Demonstrated excellence in teaching and research commensurate with appointment at the level of Assistant Professor at ASU.

Desired Qualifications: a) Evidence of innovation in computational methods/data science and demonstrated expertise in any of the following: i) the relationship of algorithms and automation to social change, ii) the politics and policies of platforms, iii) critical approaches to social sciences using big data and computational approaches, and iv) social dimensions of wearable and IoT systems; b) Evidence of the potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; c) An interest in engaging in interdisciplinary collaborations in research; d) A commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and mentoring; and, e) A demonstrated interest in promoting and supporting diversity through service and research; f) experience in and skill with addressing issues of equality in the classroom; and g) experience in and/or willingness to engage with culturally responsive teaching and its importance to students' lives, interests, and communities

More information about ASU's School of Social and Behavioral Sciences can be found at <https://newcollege.asu.edu/directory/sbs>. More information about ASU's New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences can be found at <http://newcollege.asu.edu>. To learn about ASU's unique mission and charter, please see: <https://www.asu.edu/about/>. Arizona State University has a strong commitment to a diverse faculty, one that is reflective of the contemporary United States.

Arizona State University is deeply committed to positioning itself as one of the great new universities by seeking to build excellence, enhance educational access and have an impact on our community, state, nation and the world. To do that requires our faculty and staff to reflect the intellectual, ethnic and cultural diversity of our nation and world so that our students learn from the broadest perspectives, and we engage in the advancement of knowledge with the most inclusive understanding possible of the issues we are addressing through our scholarly activities.

Deadline: November 1, 2019. Applications will continue to be accepted on a rolling basis for a reserve pool. Applications in the reserve pool may then be reviewed in the order in which they were received until the position is filled.

Application procedure: Applications will only be accepted electronically via Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/68316>

Requested material will include: 1) a letter of application, which explicitly addresses your academic experience, situates your research in the field and notes your teaching philosophy; 2) a current curriculum vitae with contact information; and 3) the names and contact information for three references (references will not be contacted during initial review and will only be contacted after candidate notification).

ASU conducts pre-employment screening for all positions which includes a criminal background check, verification of work history, academic credentials, licenses, and certifications. Employment is contingent upon successful passing of the background check.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf>. You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7241

Arizona State University

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar of Critical Data Studies

The School of Social and Behavioral Sciences in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences at Arizona State University (ASU) is seeking a full-time, benefits-eligible Postdoctoral Scholar in Social Technologies / Critical Data Studies to conduct research and teach at the intersection of data and social sciences. This scholar will be expected to conduct their own independent program of research and teach 1 course per academic year. We seek scholars who will pursue programs of inquiry with national and international influence. There is an expectation of funding for up to two years, with the possibility of a start date as early as January 2020. The scholar would be expected to be in residence at ASU.

ASU's New College offers a rich, interdisciplinary environment within a university that has been selected as the most innovative in the United States for the last five years. Critical Data Studies is situated within a school that includes faculties in anthropology, communication, political science, psychology, social technologies, and sociology. The School of Social and Behavioral Sciences is presently in a period of expansion and innovation around new initiatives and programs. Since Fall 2017, the School has added ten new tenured/tenure-track faculty, in addition to six new lecturers and two postdoctoral positions. This academic year, the School has been approved to recruit five additional tenured/tenure-track faculty, including a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Critical Data Studies, five new Lecturers and two more postdoctoral scholars, including the current position.

Required qualifications: The successful candidate must have: a) Ph.D. in Communication, Computer Science, Geography, Information Science, Political Science, Psychology, Science and Technology Studies, Sociology, or a cognate field by the time of appointment; b) Evidence of an ongoing research program that demonstrates a deep investigation of the intersection of data and society; and, c) An ability for the Postdoctoral Scholar to be in residence at ASU.

Desired Qualifications: a) Evidence of innovation in computational methods/data science and demonstrated expertise in any of the following: i) the relationship of algorithms and automation to social change, ii) the politics and policies of platforms, iii) critical approaches to social sciences using big data and computational approaches, and iv) social dimensions of wearable and IoT systems; b) Evidence of the potential to establish a strong, externally-funded research program; c) An interest in engaging in interdisciplinary collaborations in research; d) A demonstrated interest in promoting and supporting diversity through service and research; e) experience in and skill with addressing issues of equality in the classroom; and f) experience in and/or willingness to engage with culturally responsive teaching and its importance to students' lives, interests, and communities

More information about ASU's School of Social and Behavioral Sciences can be found at <https://newcollege.asu.edu/directory/sbs>. More information about ASU's New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences can be found at <http://newcollege.asu.edu>. To learn about ASU's unique mission and charter, please see: <https://www.asu.edu/about/>.

Arizona State University is deeply committed to positioning itself as one of the great new universities by seeking to build excellence, enhance educational access and have an impact on our community, state, nation and the world. To do that requires our faculty and staff to reflect the intellectual, ethnic and cultural diversity of our nation and world so that our students learn from the broadest perspectives, and we engage in the advancement of knowledge with the most inclusive understanding possible of the issues we are addressing through our scholarly activities.

Deadline: November 1, 2019. Applications will continue to be accepted on a rolling basis for a reserve pool. Applications in the reserve pool may then be reviewed in the order in which they were received until the position is filled.

Application procedure: Applications will only be accepted electronically via Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/69224>

Requested material will include: 1) a letter of application, which explicitly addresses your academic experience and situates your research in the field; 2) a current curriculum vitae with contact information; and 3) the names and contact information for three references (references will not be contacted during initial review and will only be contacted after candidate notification).

ASU conducts pre-employment screening for all positions which includes a criminal background check, verification of work history, academic credentials, licenses, and certifications. Employment is contingent upon successful passing of the background check.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf>. You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7242

The College of Idaho

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Economy or International Political Economy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: American Politics, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The College of Idaho's Department of Political Economy invites applications for a tenure-track entry-level faculty position that will commence in Fall 2020.

The Department approaches political economy in a broad theoretical manner similar to early modern thinkers such as John Locke, Adam Smith, and Karl Marx. We emphasize the intricate relationship between economics and politics and reject the push for narrow specialization and an overemphasis on formal models. We are open to approaches including public policy analysis, historical institutionalism, heterodox economics, behavioral economics, area studies, and research methods that emphasize the analysis of real-world data. We grant significant autonomy to faculty members to design their own lower and upper division courses that support the department's political economy approach and vision. Professional development support for research, conference travel, and sabbatical leave is available.

The Department offers two related majors: Political Economy and International Political Economy. The successful candidate will EITHER primarily serve the Political Economy major focusing on domestic political economy and policy-making in the United States, OR primarily serve the International Political Economy major focusing on the global economy, international relations, development, and comparative political economy. The department also offers minors supporting the College of Idaho's PEAK curriculum. The teaching load is 3-3 with an additional course taught during each January term.

Successful candidates will have an active research agenda while demonstrating a passion for teaching in the liberal arts tradition. They will join a student-centered department where teaching and mentoring are valued as the highest priority. Such mentorship has recently led students in the department to Marshall, Truman, and Rhodes scholarships as well as to national recognition of departmental faculty for teaching excellence.

A Ph.D. is required in Political Economy, Political Science, International Political Economy, International Relations, Economics (heterodox), Behavioral Economics, or other related fields. Courses to be taught include introductory courses in the field and advanced courses based on the candidate's expertise. Advanced ABD applicants will be considered.

Applications must include letter of interest, CV, statement demonstrating a passion for teaching in the liberal arts tradition, sample syllabi, recent course evaluations, and at least three letters of recommendation.

Candidates must be authorized to work in the United States as of the expected hire date and throughout the date of the contract without sponsorship from The College of Idaho.

Application review will begin October 14, 2019. Applications will be accepted until the position has been filled. Please submit application materials via email to hr@collegeofidaho.edu with subject 'Political Economy Search.'

With over 125 years of history, The College of Idaho is a regional and national leader in higher education. The College of Idaho is an inclusive community of exceptional learning that challenges the ambitious and forges pathways to success and purpose. To learn more about The College of Idaho, please visit www.collegeofidaho.edu.

The College of Idaho is proud to be an equal opportunity employer. We are committed to attracting, retaining, and maximizing the performance of a diverse and inclusive workforce.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/14/2019

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7240

University of Michigan

Rank: Contemporary Jewry

The Frankel Center for Judaic Studies at the University of Michigan invites applications for a tenured appointment at the Associate or Professor rank in the field of contemporary Jewry. This is a university-year appointment with an expected start date of September 1, 2020. Discipline and specialization within the field are open. The successful candidate will be able to contribute to the Frankel Center's strengths in graduate training, and offer undergraduate courses that contribute to the curriculum of Judaic Studies. Applicants should submit a letter of application, which includes a statement of current and future research plans, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, a curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching excellence, a writing sample, and the names of three references. Note that references will be contacted for finalists only. Application materials must be submitted electronically. Please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/63534> to apply. Review of applications will begin November 15, and will continue until an appointment is made.

Women and Minorities are encouraged to apply. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples, and is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6235

Northeastern University

Rank: URBAN INFORMATICS CLUSTER HIRE, OPEN RANK - ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, Other

Specializations: Urban Politics, Criminal Justice, Quantitative Methods

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications for several tenured or tenure-track faculty positions in computational social science, with a focus on urban informatics, quantitative methods, or network science, with an expected start date of Fall 2020. Successful candidates will have a distinguished scholarly record using methodological approaches that leverage and work with large or complex data sources to study social phenomena, including but not limited to questions pertaining to cities and communities. We have special interest in scholars whose work includes the use of administrative, scraped, archival, or internet-gathered data. We are seeking scholars who work in spatial, network, or textual analysis, and/or use machine-learning tools. Competitive applicants will also have demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching and leadership. Faculty appointments will be made in one or more of the member departments of the CSSH, including the School of Public Policy and Urban Affairs, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Department of Political Science, Department of Economics, and the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Cross-college appointments are possible. Successful applicants will likely affiliate with one of our research centers dedicated to this work, including the Boston Area Research Initiative, the NULab for Texts, Maps, and Networks, or the Network Science Institute.

The position will support the University's commitment to innovation in experiential learning as well as the college's mission in integrating data and technology in the analysis of society, policy, and governance. Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample, as well as the names of three references. For those who would be appointed at the assistant professor level, we will request references upon receipt of application.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Professor Daniel O'Brien, at d.obrien@neu.edu. Review of applications will begin Oct. 15th and will continue until the position is filled.

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts. Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups underrepresented in academia.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6217

Harvard University

Rank: FELLOWS-IN-RESIDENCE

FELLOWS-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAM APPLICATION DEADLINE NOVEMBER 15

The Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply.

For the 2020-21 academic year, the theme at the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics will once again be the Ethics of Technological and Biomedical Innovation.

Priority will be given to early career scholars and practitioners whose work closely aligns with this theme, but we reserve some "open" slots for senior scholars and practitioners, and for exceptionally competitive applicants whose work in ethics falls outside this scope. The goal will be to craft a cohort in which "thematic" fellows and "open" fellows will all find valuable intellectual partnerships to support and spur their work.

All Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

Under our current theme, the Center is pleased to offer joint fellowship opportunities with the following Centers:

- Berkman-Klein Center for Internet and Society at Harvard University
- Carr Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
- Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
- Center for Research on Computation and Society at the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences
- Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics and our partnering Center.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

STIPEND

Faculty:

We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary, up to $75,000, and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Doc:

The stipend for post-doctoral fellows was $50,000.00 in 2019-20 and will be set for 2020-21 in accordance with the University rate. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioners:

Practitioner stipends will be determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

To apply, you will need to complete an online application form, found at ethics.harvard.edu/fellows-in-residence, which includes submission of the following in .pdf, .doc, or .docx form:

- Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics Fellows-in-Residence Program
- CV
- Research proposal
- Recent writing sample

Names and contact information for three professional references will be requested, no letters will be accepted at this stage.

The deadline for submitting this application is November 15, 2019. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Should you have any questions regarding this application process, please send an email to EJSafraFellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6212

University of British Columbia

Rank: President's Excellence Chair in Global Migration

The Department of Political Science at the University of British Columbia (UBC), Vancouver Campus, invites applications for a President's Excellence Chair in Global Migration, a full-time tenured appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor with anticipated start date of July 1, 2020. The chair will be provided with research funds and have a reduced teaching load for a seven-year term, which can be renewed* for an additional 7 year term. For more information on the President's Excellence Chairs at UBC please visit: ubc.ca/excellence. We are seeking a senior scholar with expertise in Global Migration and the ability to build on growing momentum in this area at UBC and provide intellectual and institutional leadership. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. and be an outstanding researcher whose scholarship has made a significant international impact; have a strong record of attracting and supervising graduate students; have demonstrated excellence in teaching all levels of students; and be pursuing an original and productive research program in Global Migration.

The candidate will teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels in Political Science, as well as supervise undergraduates, graduate students, and postdoctoral fellows, and contribute to service at the departmental level and beyond. Migration is an interdisciplinary research excellence cluster at UBC, and the successful candidate will be expected to participate in and contribute to the growth of this cluster. There also is the possibility of teaching in and contributing to other cognate units, including the possibility of a cross-appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter that includes a statement of major research contributions and current and future research programs, a curriculum vitae, a brief statement (1-2 pages) of teaching philosophy, interests and accomplishments, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, sample syllabi), a 1 page statement about experience working with a diverse student body and contributions or potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion, and names and addresses (e-mail addresses included) of four referees.

Applications should be submitted online at <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/presidents-excellence-chair-in-global-migration-application-form/> Job ID: 35313. Review of applications will begin on October 19, 2019. Applications received by that date are assured of full review, though applications will be considered until the position is filled.

*The name of the renewed Chair is subject to change.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6201

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Director of the Center for Latin American Studies

Director of Center for Latin American Studies, University Center for International Studies, University of Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh seeks a dynamic scholar to serve as director of its Center for Latin American Studies (<https://www.ucis.pitt.edu/clas>) beginning August 2020. Founded in 1964, the Center for Latin American Studies is the oldest center within the University Center for International Studies (UCIS), which now includes six area and thematic studies centers. The mission of CLAS is to promote global understanding through support for teaching, learning, and research in and on Latin America, the Caribbean, and the diverse diasporic communities of Latin American and Caribbean origin in the United States and elsewhere. CLAS provides faculty with the resources and intellectual environment to realize cutting-edge research, and students with unequaled educational experience and a solid path to a successful career. Through its community engagement programs, the center shares its resources regionally, nationally, and internationally.

Candidates must be leading scholars in their field, holding the tenured rank of associate or full professor. The successful applicant will join the appropriate disciplinary home in one of three schools at the University: the Kenneth P. Dietrich School of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, or the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs. For the initial six years of their appointment, the individual will serve as director of the Center and receive a corresponding reduction in teaching and service obligations to their department/school.

Unless there is a renewal of that appointment (mutually agreeable to the faculty member, the department chair or dean, and the Director of UCIS), the successful applicant will resume full-time responsibilities in their home department or school thereafter.

Administrative responsibilities include: developing academic programs; supervision of center staff (all centers have dedicated administrative associate directors); overseeing the implementation of all activities of the center; representing the center and UCIS at activities in various communities (locally, domestically, and abroad); development efforts for the center; guiding strategic grant seeking and application; and supporting the efforts of the Vice-Provost for Global Affairs (who also serves as the Director of UCIS). Examples of the last include periodic crafting of responses to critical events related to the region, providing briefings for high-level international visitors and delegations visiting the University, and assisting in developing itineraries for (and possibly accompanying) Chancellor- and/or Provost-level delegation visits to the region. Responsibilities are year-round; it is understood, however, that the scholarship and other responsibilities will require the candidate to travel and be absent from campus on occasion.

Successful candidates must hold a Ph.D. or relevant terminal degree with substantial research and teaching experience in Latin American Studies. We prefer candidates whose work intersects with migration, race, health, and/or gender; these and other research issues align with a new commitment by the Provost to invest in building Latinx studies at the University. Successful candidates must have a proven track record of administrative leadership and experience and of managing colleagues in a productive and collaborative manner. They must also have a demonstrated commitment to diversity and inclusion with highly developed skills in building a collaborative culture that values the strength of differing views and experiences.

The University of Pittsburgh is an urban, state-related institution located in an area with a metropolitan population of approximately 2.3 million. The University is comprised of sixteen schools, four regional campuses outside of Pittsburgh, and four University centers (including UCIS) which serve the entire University community.

Applicants should apply by November 1, 2019, at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mjcw>. They will be required to upload the following: a comprehensive C.V.; a letter of interest that outlines their scholarly and administrative interests and skills; a one-to-two-page diversity statement, discussing how past, planned, or potential contributions or experiences relating to diversity, equity, and inclusion will advance the University of Pittsburgh's commitment to inclusive excellence; and the names of three references.

The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/17/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6188

Providence College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service and Black Studies

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Social Movements, Social Welfare

The Department of Public and Community Service Studies and the Black Studies Program at Providence College invites applications for a full-time joint tenure-track assistant professor position beginning August 2020. The successful candidate must show evidence of potential for excellence in teaching and publication in the area of Black feminisms, class and inequality, and critical pedagogy, with particular expertise in social movements, social identities, and feminist approaches to community-engaged research and organizing, particularly around the intersection of race and class. As our student body, and Public and Community Service majors and Black Studies minors in particular, grow increasingly diverse, we have a strong preference for publicly engaged scholarship, and candidates with interests in and evidence of student-centered pedagogical and mentoring practices. Moreover, as students of color and their allies have demanded in college and university protests across the nation, we support the students' desire to hire faculty who demonstrate a deep commitment to and proven ability in supporting the success of students from historically marginalized economic, social, and cultural groups. The course load is 3-3 with the option for a one semester pre-tenure research leave after three years of service as a member of the Ordinary Faculty. A Ph.D. in related fields appropriate to a joint appointment in Public and Community Service and Black Studies is required and applicants must have dissertation in hand at the time of appointment.

Applicants should apply online at the College's career site at <https://careers.providence.edu> and submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, and teaching statement/philosophy. For additional information, please contact Dr. Zophia Edwards, search chair, at zedwards@providence.edu.

To ensure full consideration, please submit all application materials by October 15th, 2019. Applications will be reviewed until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6170

Duke University

Rank: Research Associate

The DevLab@Duke is seeking to hire a Research Associate to support several innovative projects focused on the application of machine learning to the forecasting of democratic breakdowns, the closure of civic space, and the foreign policy behavior of authoritarian regimes. DevLab@Duke's machine learning portfolio currently includes two large projects, and we are considering others. The Research Associate position will include technical, management and administrative tasks. Technical tasks could include anything from responding to donor requests for specific analyses to contributing to scraping data and natural language processing of it. The Research Associate will also provide administrative and management across the ML portion of DevLab's research portfolio, which will include organizing group meetings, and report writing.

Successful candidates will collaborate with Professors Scott de Marchi and Erik Wibbels, as well other members of the DevLab, in an interdisciplinary environment. They will be expected to work with lab associates to provide timely input to development practitioners affiliated with the DevLab—including donors, implementers and evaluators—at all stages of project conceptualization, design, implementation, evaluation and reporting.

Responsibilities will include:

- ? Contributions to the technical portions of the project.
- ? Conducting desk research, drafting and editing documents and reports.
- ? Providing administrative and logistical support to project teams, including project work planning and reporting as needed.
- ? Developing and updating a DevLab Machine Learning website page and drafting quarterly blogs.
- ? Facilitating communication/collaboration between DevLab clients, Principal Investigators, Postdocs, grad students and research analysts.
- ? Organizing and scheduling meetings and project check-ins associated with various DevLab projects.
- ? Monitoring program budgets and reconciling expenditures.
- ? Proposal development and concept notes for contract and grant applications, as needed.

Qualifications:

? Prospective candidates are expected to have done graduate work and completed an MA in one or more of these areas:

- o International Development
- o Economics
- o Political Science
- o Statistics
- o Computer Science
- o Public Policy
- Coursework and/or demonstrated research/professional experience with data analytics is required
- Additional experience with visualization would be desirable, as would a background in both python and R.
- Strong attention to detail.
- Ability to follow through on multiple tasks in a fast-paced environment.
- Excellent verbal communication and writing skills.
- Project management or coordination experience is preferred.

Come join our energetic and innovative team! We offer you the opportunity to work as part of a creative and committed team. The initial appointment is for one year, with options of renewal for another one or two years. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. We also offer a strong array of benefits to our employees, including professional development, competitive health insurance plans, robust Paid Time Off, opportunities to gain technical experience, and more.

To learn more about DevLab@Duke, please visit our website: <http://www.devlab@duke.com>.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening, but applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately, and we are eager for the right applicant to join us. Applications (including a statement of interests, a curriculum vitae, and three references) should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14532>

For questions/information, please email heather.huntington@duke.edu.

Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6147

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Studies

Working Title

Assistant Professor of American Studies

Appointment Type

Full Time

Purpose of Position

The Department of Leadership and American Studies at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Studies, effective August 2020. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. The successful candidate will have a research focus and expertise in the American constitutional tradition. Preference will be given to candidates whose research focuses on the origins of America and/or American constitutionalism, America's intellectual or economic history, comparative constitutionalism, public law in the United States, the judiciary, or contemporary constitutional issues. The successful candidate must be academically qualified and prepared to teach in the American Studies core as well as upper level courses in the candidate's expertise. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to become a fellow in CNU's Center for American Studies, an interdisciplinary center dedicated to teaching and scholarship on America's founding principles and history, economic foundations, and national security. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in American Studies or a related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank and ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

Departmental Information

The Department of Leadership and American Studies at Christopher Newport University is composed of 16 highly credentialed, full-time faculty who represent multidisciplinary expertise relevant to Leadership and American Studies. Our department offers a major in American Studies with tracks in constitutional studies, humanities, and social sciences; a minor in American Studies; and a minor in Leadership Studies. The Leadership Studies minor welcomes students from all disciplines and is an integral part of the President's Leadership Program, an educational experience that empowers students to recognize their leadership potential and develop personal and social responsibility for the betterment of self and society. Our department is also connected with the Center for American Studies, which promotes undergraduate and faculty scholarship on America's founding principles and history, economic foundations, and national security in order to uphold sensible notions of political, economic liberty, and civic responsibility. Beyond the classroom, combined the Department of Leadership and American Studies and the Center for American Studies sponsor and support student involvement in undergraduate research collaborations with faculty, national and international conferences, workshops, extracurricular programs, internships, community service, and study abroad.

Candidates wishing to know more about the program are invited to visit <http://cnu.edu/academics/departments/lams/>.

Faculty Information

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2018 freshman class of 1,230 students was selected from 7,500 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1220, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. CNU is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

Application Deadline
10/13/2019

Application Instructions

To apply, please provide a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation (letters should be uploaded with application materials or emailed to facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu).

Review of applications will begin on October 13, 2019. Applications received after October 13, 2019, will be accepted but considered only if needed.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Quick Link for Internal Postings
<http://jobs.cnu.edu/postings/8473>

EEO Statement

Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully Committed to Access and Opportunity.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6121

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in quantitative political methodology to begin fall 2020. The successful candidate should have research interests in methods and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Priority will be given to candidates that can also contribute to teaching and research in other subfields of Political Science.

Applications should be submitted to the following: <https://jobs.colorado.edu/jobs/JobDetail/Assistant-Professor/20688?>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6110

University of Michigan

Rank: Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellow

Fellowship period: September 2020 - August 2022

Application deadline: January 15, 2020

The Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) at the University of Michigan invites scholars who have received their Ph.D. since 2018 to apply for the WCED Postdoctoral Fellowship. This two-year fellowship supports multidisciplinary research on the broad historical, political, economic, and societal conditions under which democracy and autocracy either emerge and endure or falter and fail.

Up to two awards are available for the 2020-22 fellowship. WCED Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in occasional WCED workshops and events, and present at least one public lecture during their two-year fellowship, while in full-time residence at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. A teaching opportunity may be possible during the second year of the fellowship, if desired.

We welcome applicants from all disciplines, though the majority of past applicants and Fellows have come from political science, sociology, and history. Fellows must have successfully defended and filed their dissertation before beginning the fellowship. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received their Ph.D. after January 1, 2018.

Fellowships carry an annual salary of $50,000 and up to $7,000 in research funds during the post-doctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning September 1, 2020 through August 31, 2022). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Candidates will be required to submit:

- A two-page research plan that outlines the research project and how the fellow will spend his/her time during the fellowship year.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter, conference paper, or journal article.
- Two letters of recommendation.

Fellowship applications must be received by January 15, 2020, 11:59 pm EST. Applicants will be notified in March 2020.

Application link available at <https://www.ii.umich.edu/wced/postdoctoral-fellows.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 1/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5768

Haverford College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Open

Haverford College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in its Peace, Justice, and Human Rights program to begin Fall semester 2020. The successful candidate must have a PhD at the time of appointment. The position is open to scholars at all pre-tenure levels with training in the humanities or social sciences whose work is interdisciplinary and focuses on questions of justice, human rights, and related fields. All specializations are welcome, but there is particular interest in scholars who can contribute to programs in Health Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, or Visual Studies. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory course on peace, justice, and human rights and/or applied ethics, as well as offer more specialized courses in their area of expertise, and engage in inclusive pedagogy and mentoring of an increasingly diverse student body. Haverford College embraces the teacher-scholar model and supports faculty research through programs and funding opportunities.

Peace, Justice, and Human Rights (PJHR) is an interdisciplinary concentration attracting students from many different disciplines; it offers students the opportunity to study the history, philosophy, and critiques of the rights tradition, examine issues of justice in their local and international contexts, and apply humanistic, social scientific, theoretical, and ethical reasoning to real-world problems. The program's goal is to foster cross-disciplinary collaboration and new perspectives on entrenched problems. For more information, see <http://www.haverford.edu/pjhr/>

Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio [<https://apply.interfolio.com/67577>]: a cover letter addressing qualifications for the position, curriculum vitae, a sample course syllabus or description of a class you'd like to teach in the PJHR program, a teaching statement (3-4 pages) that highlights pedagogical strategies and discusses how you approach diversity and inclusion in the classroom, a writing sample (up to 25 pages), and three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates are encouraged to seek letter writers who together can address your abilities and promise as a teacher, mentor, and scholar/researcher. New applications submitted after 11:59 pm on Friday, November 1 will not be considered.

Haverford College is a leading liberal arts college serving highly motivated students on a nationally recognized arboretum in suburban Haverford, just outside Philadelphia.

Questions about the application process should be directed to hc-pjhrsearch@haverford.edu. For technical questions, please contact Interfolio directly at 1-877-997-8807 or help@interfolio.com.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 8/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6083

Princeton University

Rank: The Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics

The Princeton University Center for Human Values invites applications for the Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics for a possible opening in September 2020. The Shapiro Fellowship supports outstanding scholars studying ethical issues arising from developments in medicine, the biological sciences, or population health. We particularly encourage proposals focusing on problems of practical importance that have broader theoretical interest.

The Shapiro Fellow will spend from one to three years at Princeton conducting research and teaching the equivalent of one course each year (subject to sufficient enrollments and approval by the Dean of the Faculty). He or she will participate in the Ira W. DeCamp Seminar in Bioethics and will be invited to participate in other activities of the University Center for Human Values including a year-long research seminar for visiting fellows and Center faculty.

Qualifications

Applicants must have completed all the requirements for the Ph.D., M.D., or other equivalent doctoral degree by the start date, and should not have more than two years of postdoctoral experience by that date. An applicant may have a background in any area of ethical studies, not necessarily in bioethics. However, the proposed research plan should be related to the field of bioethics.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments and the promise of the proposed research project in bioethics. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of the fellowship is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal for up to two additional years pending satisfactory performance. Appointment will be made to the rank of Postdoctoral Research Associate; the Shapiro Fellow will also carry the title of Lecturer, if teaching. Princeton University offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12363>.

A complete application will include the following supporting materials:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words). Please provide an indicative title in the heading;
3. A scholarly paper (of no more than 12,000 words, not including bibliography) representing the applicant's scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who should be prepared to comment specifically about the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Thursday, December 5, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference should be submitted by Thursday, December 12, 2019. If a vacancy for this position is confirmed, the selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately so letters of reference received after the priority deadline may put candidates at a disadvantage.

Decisions will be announced in late April 2020. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/5/2019
Date Posted: 8/28/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6079

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: Africana Studies-Political Science

Africana Studies-Political Science Associate Professor Position
 The Departments of Africana Studies and Political Science at Rutgers University-New Brunswick seek to hire a nationally recognized scholar in the field of contemporary race relations at the Associate Professor level, to begin September 1, 2020. Candidates should have an outstanding and sustained record of research, teaching, and mentorship. Research and teaching interests should include the study of American political institutions such as Congress and or the presidency; political rhetoric; social movements; and African American politics. We particularly welcome candidates specializing in the diverse factors shifting the landscape for African American politics in recent decades. We encourage candidates who engage in public discourse of their research beyond formal academic circles, though this is not required. The successful candidate's tenure home will be in Africana Studies, with a partial appointment in Political Science, and with teaching and service responsibilities divided between the two Departments.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Africana Studies and Political Science Departments are strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and a list of three references to: <http://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/99091>. Review of applicants will begin on October 15th and continue until the job is filled.

Confidential letters of recommendation should be emailed directly by the referee to reference@aficana.rutgers.edu – the applicant's name should appear in the subject line.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6048

The College of Wooster

Rank: Assistant Professor Global Environmental Justice
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Open, Other

Description

The Departments of Environmental Studies and Political Science at The College of Wooster seek to fill a tenure track position in Global Environmental Justice at the level of Assistant Professor, beginning in the fall of 2020. We are looking for a broadly trained specialist in environmental politics and social justice with area studies expertise and a high proficiency in qualitative methodologies.

Qualifications

The successful candidate should have a demonstrated ability to teach courses and advise research projects in environmental justice and social justice, broadly conceived. They would teach introductory and advanced courses in the Environmental Studies and Political Science departments, supervise independent research projects as part of the College's Independent Study requirement, and participate in teaching the College's First Year Seminar. We seek to hire a scholar whose research and teaching addresses one or more dimensions of environmental justice, such as: the intersections of global climate change and class, ethnic, or racial inequalities; comparative environmental movements; forced displacement and migration due to environmental crisis; food or water insecurity; or environmental governance. In addition, we are interested in candidates whose research and teaching can connect with one or more interdisciplinary programs at The College of Wooster such as Africana Studies, Global & International Studies, East Asian Studies, South Asian Studies, Middle Eastern and North African Studies, Urban Studies, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The College of Wooster enrolls a diverse student body (21% domestic students of color and 15% international students); applicants should have experience with diverse student populations.

Application Instructions

We prefer candidates who will have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment and who have had previous independent teaching experience. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of effective teaching (including syllabi and summaries of student evaluations), a statement regarding how the applicant will contribute to the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/66667>. Applications received by October 1, 2019, will receive full consideration. Please contact Matt Mariola (m-mariola@wooster.edu), Associate Professor of Environmental Studies and Chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 8/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5991

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor – Methodology/Computational Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh seeks candidates for a tenure-stream position in Political Methodology and Computational Social Science at the level of Assistant Professor. We are seeking researchers that have expertise in applying machine learning approaches, broadly construed, to computationally intensive problems in social science. Researchers modeling social media or networks, those employing novel data (e.g., eye-tracking, MRI or GIS data), at scale, or applying creative measurement and visualization strategies to explore topics such as algorithmic biases would be particularly competitive for this position, and we welcome applications from scholars whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths. We encourage applications not only from candidates who have been trained in Political Science departments, but also interdisciplinary researchers whose interests intersect with political science topics. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching ability, the promise of attracting external funding for his/her research, and will have the opportunity to join the interdisciplinary MLHub initiative at Pitt.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2020, and applicants should have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science, Information Science, Computer Science, or a related field before the appointment begins. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MjY3>. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by September 16, 2019, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/16/2019

Date Posted: 8/16/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5998

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Assistant Professor, Political Science, Human Security
University of Nevada, Reno - Main Campus

Job Description

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a tenure-track, full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the area of human security. We seek a scholar researching large-scale political, environmental, economic and/or social problems, potentially crossing international boundaries. Specializations might include, but are not limited to, linkages between climate change and food security; regional or global health issues affecting human security; research on refugees, migration, the dispossessed or internally displaced people as a result of famine, drought, environmental deterioration, or conflict. The Political Science Department at UNR has a growing emphasis in the broad area of human security and a commitment to inclusion. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda under this umbrella and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MA/PhD). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field in hand by August 15, 2020.
A developing or established research agenda in human security

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Grade/Rank

II, Assistant Professor

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>. The University of Nevada, Reno is a Research 1 land-grant campus of the Nevada System of Higher Education with a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students. Nearly half of incoming students identify as being from an underrepresented group. In accordance with the university's land grant, tier one research institution mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many U.S. transportation hubs and to Mexico. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position
 Search Chair-William Eubank bille@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

To apply, please go to: https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science--Human-Security_R0117646. A complete application must include the following:

- 1) A complete Curriculum Vita
- 2) Cover letter stating qualifications, experience, research plans and teaching experience
- 3) Three letters of recommendation
- 4) A brief statement (one page maximum) about how you would contribute toward our mission of creating a culturally inclusive environment in the role for which you are applying
- 5) Two research-based writing samples

Please contact jobs@unr.edu, the day you apply, if assistance is needed with uploading documents.

Close Date or Open Until Filled
 Position is open until filled; first review of applications will begin Oct. 1, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5981

Cornell University

Rank: HIST/GOVT Endowed Chair
Specializations: History & Politics, China, Southeast Asia

Cornell University's College of Arts and Sciences and the History Department, in collaboration with the Department of Government, welcomes applications for an endowed chair. Appointment could be at the full professor or associate professor level. The successful candidate may teach courses and potentially serve in a leadership capacity with Cornell's CAPS program (<https://caps.cornell.edu/>). The position will begin July 1, 2020.

We seek a senior scholar (Associate or Full Professor) whose scholarship focuses on China and the Asia Pacific region in the world. Candidates should exhibit superb research achievements, excellence in teaching, and leadership ability. Preference is for a scholar who brings a historical perspective to their research and has Mandarin language skills. Please apply through Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/12996>.

We will begin to review applications starting October 1, 2019. Questions about the position and the search can be sent to the chair of the committee, Professor Derek Chang, at dsc37@cornell.edu. We embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2020
Application Deadline: 10/1/2019
Date Posted: 8/9/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5956

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other
Specializations: South Asia, Middle East, Religion & Politics

Assistant-Level Faculty Position in the Social Sciences with a focus on Muslim Societies

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position focused on the culture, economics or politics of Muslim societies. We especially welcome applications from scholars who are studying Muslim societies in Iran and Central Asia, as well as South, Southeast and East Asia.

The successful applicant for this position will be appointed in one of the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, Communication, Economics, Political Science, or Sociology. The successful applicant will have teaching and advising responsibilities in their home department and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of research interests, a curriculum vitae including list of publications, and one recent writing sample. Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 25, 2019. Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14164>

For Anthropology applicants only: Anthropology will contact candidates at a later date to request that three confidential letters of recommendation be submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/8/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5941

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Positions in Environmental Policy

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for one or more new tenure-track or tenured positions focused on environmental policy in an international context.

Applications are invited from scholars engaged in rigorous social science research, public policy, or related environmental science work.

Applicants must have an interest in, and preferably a demonstrated record of, contributing to multi-disciplinary, collaborative, and policy-oriented programs. Successful candidates will hold a PhD in an appropriate discipline or in public policy, and should be comfortable working with both policy and climate/environmental science communities.

While priority will be given to early career candidates, senior applicants will also be considered. Applicants attracted to a university with a Catholic identity, and minority and female applicants, are especially encouraged to apply.

Successful candidates will be appointed through the Keough School of Global Affairs, but may have concurrent affiliations with other academic departments (e.g. in the social sciences) and relevant centers and institutes at Notre Dame (including the Environmental Change Initiative, the Eck Institute for Global Health, and ND Energy). Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of human development, the Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a professional master's degree and undergraduate degrees, and supports doctoral programs.

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates should also arrange for the submission of three letters of reference, a statement of research, and a teaching statement which includes a summary of any teaching evaluations available.

All application materials must be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <http://apply.interfolio.com/66421>.

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:
Prof. Ted Beatty
Chair, Environmental Policy Search Committee
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
ebeatty@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. The position will close to new applications on November 1, 2019.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5927

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Assistant Professor in Korean Studies

The Keough School of Global Affairs at the University of Notre Dame invites applications for a tenure track (assistant level) faculty position in Korean Studies. The position will begin in Fall 2020; Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. The appointment will be based at the Keough School of Global Affairs, with a possible concurrent appointment in a disciplinary department.

The Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a professional master's degree and an undergraduate supplementary major, and supports doctoral programs. The successful applicant will work closely with the Liu Institute for Asia and Asian Studies, one of the constituent institutes of the Keough School, in furthering the integration of Asia-related expertise into the activities of the School, and promoting Asia-focused pathways within the curriculum of the Keough School.

Applicants for this position are expected to have a clear regional specialization pertaining to Korea (North, South, or both) as well as the ability to use Korean-language material in both teaching and research. Interaction with Notre Dame's thriving Korean Language program, housed in the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures, will also be expected.

Applicants should have a disciplinary specialization in the social sciences, with preference for anthropology, international relations, peace studies, political science, or sociology.

Application Instructions

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest, a C.V., a statement of research, and a teaching statement that includes a summary of any teaching evaluations available. Applicants should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference.

Application materials should be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <https://apply.interfolio.com/66205>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:
Prof. Michel Hockx
Director, Liu Institute for Asia and Asian Studies
Chair, Korean Studies Search Committee
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
mhockx@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. The position will close to new applications on October 15, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5918

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Comparative Politics/Comparative Political Economy

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics and Comparative Political Economy.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured) or contact references (if tenured), and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/53011>

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2019, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/6/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5904

Sabancı University

Rank: FACULTY POSITION IN CONFLICT ANALYSIS AND RESOLUTION SABANCI UNIVERSITY, ISTANBUL-TURKEY

FACULTY POSITION IN CONFLICT ANALYSIS AND RESOLUTION
SABANCI UNIVERSITY, ISTANBUL-TURKEY

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabanci University (<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>) invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding scholars specialized in conflict resolution/transformation. We are particularly interested in applicants whose research concerns one or more of the following areas: peace psychology; scientific study of peace and conflict; dynamics of cooperation; approaches to peacemaking (negotiation, mediation, facilitation); theories of applied conflict resolution; processes and mechanisms for solving and transforming conflicts.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabancı University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academiccv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5914

Sabancı University

Rank: FACULTY POSITION IN CONFLICT ANALYSIS AND RESOLUTION SABANCI UNIVERSITY, ISTANBUL-TURKEY

FACULTY POSITION IN CONFLICT ANALYSIS AND RESOLUTION
SABANCI UNIVERSITY, ISTANBUL-TURKEY

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabanci University (<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>) invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding scholars specialized in conflict resolution/transformation practices. We are particularly interested in applicants whose research and teaching focus on conflict resolution skills, such as listening, reframing, negotiation and mediation.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabancı University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academiccv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5915

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellows - QSS

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for postdoctoral fellows for the 2020-21 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science. Fellows should be interested in working with existing QSS faculty who have expertise in a diverse range of social science disciplines on campus (for more, see <https://qss.dartmouth.edu/people>).

During the 2020-21 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus. Postdoctoral fellows are guaranteed one year of funding with opportunities to extend funding for an additional year.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000, and in addition each fellow receives a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. Dartmouth College operates on the quarter system, and fellows teach one course per year, the subject of which will be negotiated with the QSS chair. Fellows will be compensated for courses taught, and teaching supplements will be negotiated with the Associate Dean.

Requirements:

1. Ph.D. in any social science or related discipline, expected or granted by September, 2020.
2. Substantive interest in any social science field, with preference given to candidates who demonstrate substantial overlap and interest working with QSS faculty and affiliates or other Dartmouth faculty.
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Materials:

- 1) A cover letter that is no longer than two pages
- 2) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 3) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 4) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 5) Three letters of reference
- 6) A published or unpublished journal-length manuscript written in English

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 25, 2019. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: <http://apply.interfolio.com/65324>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5875

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate – Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 for the 2020-2021 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 – July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12561>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 5, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/29/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5845

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow - Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2020-2021 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12564>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 5, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at pтрinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/29/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5844

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in the Study of Democracy

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position in the study of democracy in any region of the world, including policies and practices related to democratization and regime change. Scholars from a variety of disciplines who are engaged in rigorous social science research will be considered. Applicants should have an interest in contributing to a multi-disciplinary and policy-oriented school. Applicants attracted to a university with a Catholic identity, and minority and female applicants, are especially encouraged to apply. While priority will be given to consideration of junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant professors or non-tenured associate professors), senior applicants may also be considered. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required at the time of hire.

The successful hire will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs, and affiliated with the Kellogg Institute for International Studies. Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of integral human development, the Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a professional master's degree and undergraduate degrees, and supports doctoral programs. The Kellogg Institute for International Studies (<http://kellogg.nd.edu/>) has for over 35 years been a leading center for interdisciplinary research and programming on issues of democracy and human development.

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant or non-tenured associate professors) should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference, a statement of research, a writing sample, and a teaching statement which includes a summary of any teaching evaluations available.

All application materials must be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <http://apply.interfolio.com/65959>

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Paolo Carozza
Chair, Democracy Search Committee
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
pcarozza@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. The position will close to new applications on January 15, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/15/2020

Date Posted: 7/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5862

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2020, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 3, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12123>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (earned within three years of the start date). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/3/2020

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5683

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments can be from 15 days to one-month during the 2020-2021 academic year (September 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines stipend on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 18, 2019. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12122>.

- 1) Cover letter (in English) indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay, 15 days to one-month during the academic year (September 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021), title of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
- 2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
- 3) A statement (in English) describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 – 2,000 words);
- 4) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5682

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Latin American, Central America, Caribbean

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with a unique opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of a Princeton department and the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are for one or two semesters, during the 2020-2021 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2020 - January 31, 2021; spring semester: February 1 - June 30, 2021). A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines salary on the basis of current academic rank and award duration; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of experience and current institutional affiliation.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 18, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials (in English) and apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12121>.

- 1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) One undergraduate seminar proposal or syllabus for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how this course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
- 4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (2,000 – 3,000 words);
- 5) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Required Qualifications: Advanced degree preferred.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 7/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5681

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer in Contemporary Middle Eastern Politics

REVISED APPLICATION DEADLINE

REVISED APPLICATION DEADLINE

The Politics Department at Princeton University seeks well-qualified applicants for a part-time lecturer position that will involve teaching an undergraduate seminar in the area of Contemporary Middle Eastern politics in Spring 2020. Responsibilities will also include holding weekly office hours and grading coursework. Position duty time will be based on student enrollments and departmental need.

Advanced degree required; Ph.D. and teaching experience preferred.

Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching interest, and contact information for three references. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation will be required at the time of application. For fullest consideration, please apply by November 15, 2019.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Requisition number: D-19-POL-00008

Start Date: Spring 2020

Date Posted: 6/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5714

Arizona State University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

Arizona State University (ASU - Tempe) seeks applications for a one-year postdoctoral research scholar in Political Economy, located in the Center for the Study of Economic Liberty (CSEL) and the School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). This position has an anticipated Fall 2019 start date. This is a full-time, benefits eligible, academic year appointment, and has the possibility of a one-year renewal.

The ideal candidate will develop his or her own research, in addition to contributing to ongoing research of faculty mentor(s) within CSEL and SPGS. The postdoc will also have opportunities to teach in SPGS. Possible research topics include: The political economy of development and democratization; Urbanization and migration; Electoral protest and violence; Civil conflict and repression. Strong writing skills, an ongoing independent research agenda and a record of presenting at national and international conferences are strongly desired. The ideal candidate will also have skills in advanced quantitative research methods and causal inference. We anticipate that the postdoc will be an active participant in workshops, conferences and events at CSEL and SPGS.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications:

Must possess a Ph.D. by time of appointment in Political Science; Economics; Public Policy; Applied Economics; or Development Economics.

Desired Qualifications:

Strong writing skills; Presentations skills developed at conferences; Skills in advanced quantitative research methods and causal inference; and possession of an independent research agenda.

Application Instructions

Center for the Study of Economic Liberty: The Center for the Study of Economic Liberty is creating research programs that evaluate the contribution of economic liberty to human betterment. The Center's programs help to advance the academic and public reputation of the W.P. Carey School of Business, in which it was founded several years ago, and the newly-founded School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, with which it is affiliated. For more information about the Center, please see <https://csel.asu.edu>.

The School of Politics and Global Studies: The School of Politics and Global Studies is an interdisciplinary School with a mission to create and disseminate knowledge contributing to society's understanding of how politics and governance shape and influence issues and contexts at local, national and global levels. The faculty are organized into working groups, including a new working group in Political Economy. For more information on the School, please see <https://spgs.asu.edu/>.

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership. The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance. For more information about the School, please see <http://scetl.asu.edu>.

W. P. Carey School of Business. The W. P. Carey School of Business at Arizona State University is a comprehensive school of business offering nationally and internationally respected undergraduate, masters, and doctoral programs. The Undergraduate Program, which houses one of the country's few stand-alone business honors programs, is ranked in the top 30 and includes six majors ranked among the top 20 within their fields according to U.S. News & World Report. The W. P. Carey MBA is ranked in the top 30 by U.S. News & World Report. With over 250 tenure-track faculty, the W. P. Carey School is a research leader that maintains vibrant collaborative relationships with business worldwide. For more information on the School, please see <https://wpcarey.asu.edu/>.

Application Deadline and Procedure: The initial application deadline is June 6, 2019; if not filled, applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until search is closed. To apply, submit 1) curriculum vitae, and 2) cover letters of interest addressed to Dr. Ross Emmett, Director and Search Committee Chair, via <http://apply.interfolio.com/63598>. The letter should explain qualifications and accomplishments and future plans in research and teaching. A background check is required prior to employment.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/18/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 5696

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) has up to 3 postdoctoral positions available for the next four academic years (2019-2020, 2020-2021, 2021-2022, 2022-2023). Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director.

Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and "big data") to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant's interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 2/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5470

POLITICAL THEORY

Regis University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Latin American, Political Theory

The Department of History, Politics and Political Economy at Regis College, Regis University, invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to start in August 2020. The department is seeking a teacher-scholar of Politics, with the capacity to teach American Politics and Political Theory and, consistent with the department's mission, help students develop the empirical and analytical skills necessary to discern patterns and lessons that enable them to recognize injustice and work for equality and dignity, particularly for historically-marginalized communities. We welcome applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic, and religious perspectives to their teaching and scholarship. We would welcome a candidate who could offer courses on Latin American politics; the department is currently well staffed in Constitutional Law and supports a vibrant pre-law program.

Given that Regis is a small liberal arts college, the department values a candidate's capacity to teach a variety of courses across different subfields within the discipline. The successful candidate must combine teaching, research – preferably that engages students in the process – and a willingness to teach an introductory course offered as a part of the college's liberal arts core (Introduction to Political Philosophy). The successful applicant will have the flexibility to teach a variety of courses in American politics and political theory, including both normative and empirical approaches. While Regis values research (and a record of sustained scholarship is required for tenure), a commitment to inclusive teaching is essential; the successful candidate should demonstrate an ability to work with racially, socioeconomically, and religiously diverse student populations. The successful applicant's primary responsibility is teaching American politics and political theory courses, but integrative and experiential learning methods are valued. The standard teaching load is 4:3 or 3:3.

In Regis College, service – including academic advising, participation in the academic governance of the department, college, and university, and professional development – is also an important aspect of a faculty member's workload. This position will help contribute to the department by participating in program meetings, working with other faculty teaching in the program, and advising our increasingly diverse student body.

About the Department: The Regis University Department of History, Politics and Political Economy is housed in Regis College, a Jesuit

Catholic liberal-arts college in Denver, Colorado, which serves primarily traditional-age undergraduates and where care for the whole person (cura personalis) – students, faculty and staff – is a key element of our academic community. The History, Politics, and Political Economy department offers majors and minors in history, politics and political economy, as well as a minor in pre-law. Faculty in Politics also cross-list courses and contribute to Peace and Justice Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Environmental Studies. They are also expected to contribute to our University's diversity and inclusion initiatives. Position Requirements: Minimum qualifications include: a PhD in American Politics or Political Theory by 1 August 2020; a demonstrated commitment to high quality undergraduate teaching; and a demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching, research, service, and professional activities.

Application: Electronically submit (1) a letter of application (cover letter) summarizing your interest and qualifications, (2) a curriculum vitae with the names and contact information for three references, (3) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (4) a statement indicating how you can contribute in tangible ways to Regis University's commitment to cultivating an inclusive and diverse community and culture in the classrooms to https://regis.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/RegisUniversity/job/Northwest-Denver-Campus/Assistant-Professor_R000702. Letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations and academic transcripts will be requested of semifinalists and should not be submitted with the initial application. The department will begin reviewing applications November 15, 2019. Semi-finalists will be asked to submit further application materials and a statement in response to the Regis University mission. Finalists will be selected by the end of January and on-campus interviews will be conducted in late February/early March. Position offered pending final administrative approval.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7428

Mount Holyoke College

Rank: 2 Year Visiting Lecturer

Mount Holyoke College invites applications for a 2-year Visiting Lecturer position in the Department of Politics to begin Fall 2020. The successful candidate will be able to teach the Introduction to Political Thought course, as well as additional intermediate and advanced courses in her/his areas of specialty in the subfields of Political Theory. We are particularly interested in candidates with thematic specialties in environmental theory, post-colonial theory, comparative political thought, datapolitics, or other fields not currently covered by the department. The teaching expectation is 5 courses per year. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand before August 2020.

Please submit a letter of application, C.V., graduate transcripts, sample syllabi of an introductory political theory course and a course in your field of specialization, a short writing sample, and statements covering (1) research interests, (2) teaching philosophy, (3) the mentoring of a diverse student body. The successful candidate should be able to demonstrate excellence in teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Deadline for applications is January 15, 2020. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted on their behalf. Electronic prompts to referees will be generated automatically after the completed application has been submitted. Instructions are online at <https://jobs.mtholyoke.edu/>.

Mount Holyoke is an undergraduate liberal arts college for women with 2,200 students and 220 faculty. Over half the faculty are women; one-fourth are persons of color. Mount Holyoke College is located about 90 miles west of Boston in the Connecticut River valley, and is a member of the Five College Consortium consisting of Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

Mount Holyoke College is committed to enriching the educational experience it offers through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff members. Mount Holyoke seeks to recruit and support a broadly diverse faculty who will contribute to the college's academic excellence, diversity of viewpoints and experiences, and relevance in a global society. In furtherance of academic excellence, the College encourages applications from individuals from underrepresented groups in the professoriate, including faculty of color, faculty with diverse gender identities, first-generation college students, individuals who have followed non-traditional pathways to college due to exceptional talent and motivation in the face of adversity, such as societal, economic or academic disadvantages, and individuals with a demonstrated commitment to applying and including diverse backgrounds and perspectives to learning, scholarship, service, and leadership in the academy.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7418

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin September 1, 2020. The successful candidate will teach 4 sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. The Department is interested in receiving applications from individuals specializing in any subfield of the discipline.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/17/2019

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7355

Ithaca College

Rank: Assistant Professor Gender and Feminist Politics

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Politics at Ithaca College invites applications for a tenure-eligible position in Gender and Feminist Politics, with preferred expertise in the subfields of feminist political theory and public policy. While we are open to any geographical area of specialization, we are particularly interested in candidates with a strong research and teaching record in some or any of the following areas: politics, policy and power at the intersection of critical race, class, gender and feminist theorizing, reproductive rights, LGBTQI studies, politics of sexuality, transnational resistance movements, gender-responsive institution building, inclusive development, or related research areas.

The successful candidate will teach an annual 18-credit load of undergraduate courses at the introductory, intermediate, and advanced levels. This is equivalent to three courses per semester (3/3). The selected candidate will be expected to maintain an active scholarship program and will be expected to participate in service to the Department, School, College, profession, or the off-campus community. In line with Ithaca College's focus on interdisciplinarity, the selected candidate will also be encouraged to engage in cross-campus collaborations with the Women and Gender Studies program and other appropriate programs.

Ph.D. in Political Science, Policy Studies, Gender and Queer Studies, Critical Theory, or related field is required at the time of appointment (or Ph.D. guaranteed in hand by June 15, 2020). A strong research program, college teaching experience with potential for excellence therein, and ability to cultivate an inclusive, diverse and welcoming environment are also required.

Interested individuals must apply online at <http://ithaca.edu/jobs/>. Applicants should submit a cover letter (~500 words), curriculum vitae (CV), teaching statement (~500 words), scholarship statement (~500 words), sample syllabus, and a list of the names and contact information for three academic references. Letters of recommendation and a writing sample may be requested after an initial round of review.

In addition to a brief professional introduction, the cover letter should address the applicant's interest in working at Ithaca College and should describe how the candidate's research and teaching supports diverse communities. The scholarship statement should describe the applicant's substantive research project and future direction of scholarship. The teaching statement should articulate the applicant's teaching philosophy and discuss the candidate's teaching experience.

Questions about the online application may be directed to the Office of Human Resources at (607) 274-8000. Review of applications will begin on November 5th, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by November 15th 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019
Application Deadline: 11/15/2019
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7351

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Constitutional Law & Theory to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) critical race theory or critical legal studies. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program with courses anchored in the concepts and methods of political science, while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach courses on Civil Rights & Liberties, Federalism, Judicial Process, a course in their substantive specialization, and required lower-division courses in U.S. Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government and Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/27/2019
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7327

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Constitutional Law & Theory

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Constitutional Law & Theory to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) critical race theory or critical legal studies. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program with courses anchored in the concepts and methods of political science, while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach courses on Civil Rights & Liberties, Federalism, Judicial Process, a course in their substantive specialization, and required lower-division courses in U.S. Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government and Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7347

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2020-21, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society seeks to appoint up to two postdoctoral fellows. Selected fellows will be designated as either General Ethics Fellows or Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows. The two types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, but they form a common community at the Center and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. The programs are described in detail below. All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships and do not need to tailor their application for one or the other fellowship.

General Ethics Fellowship

Some selected fellows will be part of our longstanding postdoctoral program that is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within philosophy or political science. For 2020-21, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in inequality, global justice, and environmental ethics, but we welcome all applicants with strong normative interests. Applicants must have normative training and hold a Ph.D. in philosophy or political science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center for Ethics in Society (attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

2020-21 will be the fifth year of this fellowship program at the Center, and the Stanford Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI) will be a partner center again this year. The program is rooted in the commitment of the Center for Ethics in Society to bringing ethical reflection to bear on pressing social problems. Addressing many of these social problems involves knowledge of the work of social science, law, engineering, and the life sciences. The premise of this program is that the normative scholarship of our fellows will be enhanced by engagement with empirically-oriented scholars. To that end, each fellow in the program will be matched with a partner research center at Stanford that is dedicated to interdisciplinary research, including HAI and other campus centers depending on applicants' interests. For 2020-21 we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in artificial intelligence for our partnership with HAI. We are also interested in candidates with research interests in biomedical ethics or bioengineering for partnerships with other centers, but all applicants whose work may intersect with empirically-oriented scholarship will be considered. Applicants need not name a possible partner center on campus or tailor their materials for this type of fellowship. The Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the natural match between their work.

Applicants must have normative training and hold a Ph.D. in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. Fellows will participate in the regular intellectual life of the partner center and the Center for Ethics in Society (e.g., attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across campus.

Appointment Requirements and Application Details

For both types of fellowships, the appointment term is Sept. 1, 2020 to Aug. 31, 2021. The initial term may be renewed for an additional year. Applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2020. Candidates must also be no more than three years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2017).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its scholarly community. We welcome applications from women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions. Salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single spaced), and list of classes they have taught and/or are prepared to teach. Additional materials will not be considered. All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships, and finalists will be consulted about whether they may be designated as Interdisciplinary Ethics or General Ethics fellows.

Applications will be collected via Interfolio. Applications will not be accepted by email. Please visit the Center's website for information about how to submit your materials: <https://ethicsinsociety.stanford.edu/postdocs/application-process>

If you have questions, please email ethics_submissions@stanford.edu. Application Due Date: December 9, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 10/15/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7340

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellowships for 2020-2021

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, History & Politics

Post-doctoral Fellowships for 2020-2021

The Center for the Study of Liberal Democracy invites applications for a postdoctoral fellowship in political theory for the academic year running from August 17, 2020 to May 16, 2021. Housed in the Department of Political Science, the Center for the Study of Liberal Democracy promotes appreciation and critical understanding of the cardinal principles and institutions of liberal democracy, including, but not limited to constitutionalism and rule of law; the meaning and scope of freedom and free markets in a democratic order; the place and role of religion in liberal democracies; the relationship between liberty and equality; the balances among security, liberty, and privacy in a dangerous world; the role of the military in a free society; education and the state; and competition between liberal democracy and competing ideologies, including various forms of autocracy and new political religions.

Eligible applicants must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. by the date of application, and no earlier than August 15, 2017. The fellow will receive a stipend of $48,000 per year as well as research funds and benefits. The fellow will have opportunity to teach one course per semester in either the Department of Political Science or the Integrated Liberal Studies program, will assist with the CSLD's programming, and will take an active part in the workshops, conferences, and intellectual life of the Center and the political theory field. The fellowship can be extended for the 2021–22 academic year, and the appointment will begin in August 2020.

Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future; and (4) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to intellectual life of the Center.

To apply, visit the CSLD website (<https://csld.wisc.edu/postdoctoral-fellowship/>).

The deadline is January 15, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 1/15/2020
Date Posted: 10/15/2019
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 7336

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Visiting Scholars for 2020-2021
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, History & Politics

Visiting Scholars for 2020-2021

The Center for the Study of Liberal Democracy invites college and university professors and with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Scholars for the academic year running from August 17, 2020 to May 16, 2021.

All Visiting Scholars will spend an academic year in residence at UW–Madison. They enjoy access to the Memorial Union and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Visiting Scholars are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, expected to attend or to participate in various activities of the Center, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures. All CSLD Visiting Scholars must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Fellowships are open to all regardless of citizenship. Visiting Scholars normally receive a stipend of up to one-half their academic-year salary. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; (3)

the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future; and (4) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to intellectual life of the Center.

To apply, visit the CSLD website (<https://csld.wisc.edu/visiting-scholars/>).

The deadline for submitting applications is January 15, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 1/15/2020
Date Posted: 10/15/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7337

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The one-year Visiting Fellowship in the B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism
4. The American Regime (broadly understood)

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.

Location

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided. The residency requirement, however, is flexible and the fellow need not relocate to Washington, D.C.

Duration

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2020 to August 2021. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff (including a dedicated intern for research)
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- 1.) A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- 2.) C.V.
- 3.) One academic writing sample and one non-academic publication.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Jessica Kline
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: Jessica.kline@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7318

Tulane University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2020-2021, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2020. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/68880 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2019.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer

Application Deadline: 12/31/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 7304

University College London

Rank: Lecturer / Associate Professor in Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

Political Science

School of Public Policy

London

Lecturer / Associate Professor in Political Science

Full Time

The appointment will be on UCL Grade 9. The salary range will be Grade 8 £44,674 - £52,701 per annum or Grade 9 £57,279 - £62,283 per annum. Plus £8,000 per annum Market Supplement, inclusive of London Allowance.

The Department of Political Science would like to recruit a Lecturer/ Associate Professor in Political Science to contribute to research and teaching. The new Lecturer will be expected to undertake research of the highest international standard to add to the research standing and culture of the Department.

The postholder will teach lectures and seminars at postgraduate and undergraduate level.

The post will commence on the 1st July 2020.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or related subject (candidates nearing completion may be considered).

A proven ability to undertake academic research that is internationally recognised and of high-quality or evidence of potential for high quality academic research in a relevant field and experience of teaching in political economy or related modules at undergraduate or postgraduate level are essential.

Candidates seeking to be appointed at the Associate Professor (grade 9) level are expected to demonstrate that they have more significant experience and/or have made a substantial contribution to the advancement of their discipline through research.

The post will enable the Department to develop its research and teaching profile and the successful candidate MUST have substantive or regional expertise in one of the following areas:

- Artificial intelligence, technology and automation
- Global environmental politics/Climate change
- Migration
- Chinese politics/East Asian politics

For further details about the vacancy and how to apply online please go to <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/human-resources/working-ucl/jobs-ucl> and search on Reference Number 1828104.

When applying please include a CV and a cover letter which should include a statement of research and teaching interests.

Informal enquiries may be made to Professor Jennifer Hudson (jennifer.hudson@ucl.ac.uk)

If you have any queries regarding the vacancy or the application process, please contact Ajay Patel, Finance and Staffing Administrator to the Department of Political Science, School of Public Policy, (polsci.staffing@ucl.ac.uk).

Closing Date: 10 November 2019

Latest time for the submission of applications: 23.59.

Interview Date: TBC

UCL Taking Action for Equality.

We will consider applications to work on a part-time, flexible and job share basis wherever possible.

Our department is working towards an Athena SWAN award. We are committed to advancing gender equality within our department.

To apply click here https://atsv7.wcn.co.uk/search_engine/jobs.cgi?owner=5041178&ownertype=fair&jcode=1828104

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7298

University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts Lowell invites applicants for an Assistant Professor in Political Theory beginning in the fall of 2020. The successful candidate will have a demonstrable record of scholarship and teaching. All fields within political theory will be considered. Preference will be given to scholars whose research intersects with one of the two research strengths of the Department: Political Communication and Global Peace, Conflict, and Security. Other areas of interest include critical race theory, feminist theory, queer theory, intersectionality, or other approaches to identity. In terms of teaching, candidates should be prepared to teach introductory courses on ancient and modern political theory, democratic theory, and upper level courses in their specialty areas. Current workload guidelines assign a 2/2 teaching load to research productive scholars. Responsibilities include maintaining an active program of research, including pursuit of external funding if appropriate; teaching undergraduate and graduate level courses; engaging in departmental and university service.

The Political Science Department is housed within the University's College of Fine Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (FAHSS). The College is the largest unit of the University, with 11 academic departments and over 200 full time faculty. FAHSS has experienced significant growth in recent years, including hiring more than 75 new faculty members, achieving 70% growth in funded research expenditures, and the addition of several new interdisciplinary graduate programs. The Department of Political Science features a growing and diverse body of faculty with research and teaching interests that cut across different geographical, methodological and thematic areas. The department has experienced significant enrollment growth in its undergraduate major (which includes specializations in American Politics, Political Communication, International Politics, and Law & Politics), and has played an integral role in the College's interdisciplinary graduate programs, including its PhD in Global Studies, Masters degree program in Peace and Conflict Studies, and the new MPA. Department faculty are engaged in leadership roles for a range of campus-wide research and experiential learning initiatives, including the Model UN Program, Emerging Scholar Program, the UMass Lowell Center for Public Opinion, Climate Change Initiative, and International Study Abroad Programs. For more information, please visit our homepage: <https://www.uml.edu/FAHSS/Political-Science/>

UML is committed to increasing the diversity in its faculty, staff, and student populations, as well as curriculum and support programs, while promoting an inclusive environment. We seek candidates who can contribute to this goal.

Minimum Qualifications (Required):

Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (or have finished requirements for the degree by the start of the appointment (fall of 2020)

Evidence of strong teaching ability

Established record of publication and/or conference dissemination displaying a clear research agenda in areas of research

Instructions to Applicants:

Review of applications will begin on October 21, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. However, the position may close once an adequate number of qualified applications are received.

Please include the following required documents with your application:

CV

Cover letter

A statement of research agenda

A statement describing teaching goals and style

Three letters of recommendation

To apply, please visit <https://explorejobs.uml.edu/lowell/en-us/job/503181/assistant-professor-political-theory>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7290

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer in Political Science or International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

School of History, Philosophy, Political Science and International Relations

Kelburn Campus

The Political Science and International Relations Programme seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer in Political Science or International Relations (equivalent to tenured assistant professor). The successful candidate should be able to teach courses on American domestic politics and American foreign policy. Other teaching commitments will depend on the expertise of the successful candidate. The starting date is negotiable.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

This role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in political science and/or international relations; an active research profile; and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Applications should include a cover letter and a curriculum vitae with the name of three referees.

Please note that our system only allows for two supporting documents to be uploaded with an application. If more documents are required, please consider combining files in pdf format prior to uploading.

Further information can be obtained from Dr Kate McMillan, Head of Programme, Political Science and International Relations, email kate.mcmillan@vuw.ac.nz

About us

Victoria University of Wellington is New Zealand's globally-minded capital city university, focused on engaging with Wellington, New Zealand and the Asia-Pacific region and connecting with the world. The University values the expertise of its professional staff in supporting and enabling teaching, research and engagement activities.

Our vision- Victoria University of Wellington will be a world-leading capital city university and one of the great global-civic universities.

Our mission and purpose- Victoria University of Wellington's mission is to undertake excellent research, teaching and public engagement in the service of local, national, regional and global communities.

Our values- Victoria University of Wellington's core ethical values are respect, responsibility, fairness, integrity and empathy. These values are manifested in our commitment to civic engagement, sustainability, inclusivity, equity, diversity and openness. We prize intellectual rigour and independence, academic freedom, critical enquiry and excellence.

We are a progressive university with ambitious strategic goals and a commitment to having a professional workforce that reflects the diversity of its community. Professional staff engage with academic staff, students, parents, Government, iwi, community groups and many other external stakeholders. All professional staff are expected to uphold the reputation of the University through the way they undertake their work.

Victoria University of Wellington is committed to the Treaty of Waitangi. 'Mai i te iho ki te pae' is the Maori Strategic Outcomes Framework which is linked to the University's Strategic Plan. Ma te rautaki tatou e koke whakamua (via the strategy we strive to move forward together).

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For further information about the University go to <http://www.victoria.ac.nz>

About the team

The School of History, Philosophy, Political Science and International Relations/ Te Kura Aro Whakamuri, Rapunga Whakaaro, Matai Torangapu me te Ao is the largest School in the University and offers world-class, research-based programmes across its four disciplines. The disciplines within the School represent important fields of study, each with their own set of concepts and perspectives. The programmes are taught by academic staff who are recognised, both locally and globally, as leaders in their respective fields. Graduates develop skills in critical and creative thinking, leadership, communication and research. The School is committed to excellence in research and teaching.

Find out more here: <https://www.victoria.ac.nz/hppi>

Applications close Sunday, 10 November 2019.

Victoria University of Wellington is an EEO employer and actively seeks to meet its obligations under the Treaty of Waitangi.

For more information and to apply online visit <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/about/careers/current-vacancies>

Reference 1000342.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/4/2019

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 7282

Wheaton College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Theory

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Wheaton College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment that would begin in Fall 2020 at the rank of assistant professor. We seek applicants whose primary training is in political theory and can teach a wide range of theory courses as well as contribute to the College's interdisciplinary general education Core curriculum. Ph.D. is expected and teaching experience is preferred.

For more information on the position, please contact Dr. Bryan McGraw, Search Committee Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations (bryan.mcgraw@wheaton.edu). To apply, please upload an introductory letter describing teaching experience, scholarly interests, and commitment to the Christian faith to <https://t.ly/JVjEm>. Promising candidates will receive full application materials.

Review of completed applications will begin November 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7243

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Open

Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships
The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2020-21. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive. Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period is anticipated to begin on September 1 and run for the academic year. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12522>.

The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than 12,000 words, not including bibliography) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Monday, November 4, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference should be submitted by end of business day on Monday, November 11, 2019. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately so letters of reference received after the priority deadline may put candidates at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in late March 2020.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/4/2019

Date Posted: 9/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6232

Brown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2020-2022

The Political Theory Project (PTP) at Brown University will be appointing up to two Postdoctoral Fellows. Post-doctorates must have received their PhD's within the past three years. Salary is competitive.

Appointments are for two years. Postdoctoral fellows will pursue their own research, participate in PTP working groups, and teach one seminar course per year. In addition to a CV, three confidential letters of reference, and writing sample, applications should include a cover letter describing how their research fits within the mission of the PTP.

Details about the Project's research and pedagogical missions can be found at www.politicaltheoryproject.org. Applications received by November 22, 2019 will be assured of full consideration.

Qualifications

PhD must have been received by July 2020 or within the previous three years.

Application Instructions

In addition to a CV, three confidential letters of reference, and a writing sample, applications should include a cover letter describing how their research fits within the mission of the PTP.

Details about the Project's research and pedagogical missions can be found at www.politicaltheoryproject.org. Applications received by November 22, 2020 will be assured of full consideration.

Apply.interfolio.com/67925

Start Date: Summer 2020

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6223

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Lecturer and Academic Adviser

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for one full-time non-tenure stream position as Lecturer and Academic Adviser. The appointment requires a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and prior teaching experience. The successful candidate is expected to serve as the advisor for a third of the undergraduate majors in the department and to teach four undergraduate courses per year, including one section per semester of Introduction to Global Studies, which the Department offers in close coordination with Pitt's Global Studies Center. Additional teaching will depend on the interests of the successful candidate (e.g., in political theory, comparative politics, or international relations). We are particularly interested in candidates who could offer upper-level courses in nonwestern or comparative political theory, post-colonial theory, etc that complement our existing political theory courses. In addition, the successful candidate will be responsible for supporting Departmental curriculum and programming, outside-the-classroom learning, etc.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2020. Minimum qualifications for the position are a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field and ability to teach the Introduction to Global Studies course. Successful candidates are expected to engage in teaching and service that contributes to the department's mission.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio (statement of philosophy, list of courses, sample syllabi and materials, etc), writing sample(s), teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of two letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mjc2>. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by January 6, 2020, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/6/2020

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6224

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Clinical Assistant Professors, Liberal Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Open

Specializations: East Asia, International Political Economy, Women & Politics

Clinical Assistant Professors

LIBERAL STUDIES

New York University Arts and Science

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for Clinical Assistant Professor positions to begin September 1, 2020, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Liberal Studies provides a unique interdisciplinary educational experience to undergraduate students. The Liberal Studies Core consists of a two-year interdisciplinary global curriculum drawing on great works across civilizations. The Global Liberal Studies Bachelor of Arts, one of NYU's premier liberal arts degrees, builds on the global core with an upper division set of interdisciplinary concentrations that direct students toward different areas of global study.

We seek applicants for the following positions:

East Asian Studies:

Ph.D. in East Asian Studies, History, Political Science, or related fields. Candidates should have the ability to teach interdisciplinary seminars on East Asia to introduce undergraduates to the politics, history, intellectual thought, and development of the region within a global context. Preference for a specialist in Korea and/or Japan. Candidates should have the ability to teach upper division seminars in their areas of expertise as well as first and second year seminars in the Core Curriculum.

Global Works and Society:

PhD in Political Theory, Philosophy, History, or related fields in the social sciences. Candidates should have the ability to teach global works that examine enduring questions of philosophy, religion, political and social theory, and history from antiquity to the early 18th century in the Global Works and Society sequence of the Core Curriculum. Candidates must embrace interdisciplinary, intersectional, and global perspectives, and have the ability to teach upper-division seminars in their areas of expertise.

Global Justice:

Ph.D. in Global Justice, Politics, Anthropology, Human Geography, or related fields. Preference for a specialist in International Migration and/or Women's Rights. Candidates should have the ability to teach upper division seminars in their areas of expertise as well as first and second year seminars in the Core Curriculum.

Minimum qualifications: a Ph.D. by the date of appointment; three years of college-level teaching experience; and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Publications and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are strongly encouraged.

All Liberal Studies full-time faculty hold renewable term contracts, initially three years, and later five years in duration. Faculty are eligible for promotion within the Clinical faculty ranks (Associate, Full). Faculty normally teach three classes per semester, advise undergraduates, and contribute service to Liberal Studies and to the University.

Applications include ONLY (1) a cover letter, (2) a current c.v., and (3) a Diversity and Inclusion Statement addressing past and/or potential future contributions to diversity through teaching, professional activity, and/or service (additional information can be found here <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity/recruitment/diversity-statements.html>). Complete applications must be recorded by 11:59 p.m. Eastern Standard Time (US), October 22nd, 2019. Applications recorded after this deadline will not be considered.

Applicants may apply directly through the following links:

East Asian Studies: <http://apply.interfolio.com/6757>

Global Works and Society: <https://apply.interfolio.com/67580>

Global Justice: <https://apply.interfolio.com/67579>

Liberal Studies offers a global liberal arts curriculum at sites around the globe in the context of a leading research university. We seek scholar/educators of the highest caliber whose work reflects an interest in global diversity. Liberal Studies strongly encourages applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to diversity, equality, and inclusion, please read here: <http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity.html>

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6174

California State University, Channel Islands

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The Political Science Department at California State University seeks applicants for the position of Assistant Professor specializing in Public Law.

--Applicants must be thoroughly prepared to teach courses in Judicial Politics, Judicial Process, Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, Immigration Law, and the like

--Applicants whose primary field of study is Political Philosophy or Theory are discouraged from applying. However, the ability to teach Political Philosophy as a secondary focus is an asset.

Our department has a strong record of teaching and research. We offer a rich curriculum in which most aspects of the discipline and many areas of the globe are covered. Given the depth of our faculty's expertise and the range of the courses we offer, our strengths lie in the areas of American politics, international relations, comparative politics, political theory, and public law.

The program's accomplishments are not limited to its faculty. Our students regularly present their papers at national or regional conferences. The program's Model United Nations Program is one of the most successful in the nation and has been repeatedly recognized for its outstanding achievements. The department is developing a strong pre-law focus with an eye toward offering students the opportunity to engage in moot court competitions and judicial internships.

CSU Channel Islands is a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants should demonstrate the ability and commitment to effectively work with and engage a diverse student population and evidence of successful mentoring minoritized students with a special focus on Latinx, African-American, and Native American students.

Required Qualifications

--Ph.D. in Political Science

--Extensive training in judicial politics and American law

--Evidence of a commitment to student-centered education

--Evidence of a commitment to interdisciplinarity

--Evidence of an active research agenda in the subfield of public law and judicial politics

--Enthusiasm for continuing to build a strong, extra-curricular pre-law program

Preferred Qualifications

--Ability to teach in a secondary field, preferably political philosophy

--Willingness to engage and mentor students in field-appropriate research

--Active participation in the life of the department and university

--Willingness to participate in developing an MPA program and offering appropriate courses

--Ability to cope with ambiguity

Apply online: <https://www.csucifacultyjobs.com>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6161

Michigan State University

Rank: Instructor - Fixed Term

Michigan State University's James Madison College (JMC) seeks candidates for a full-time fixedterm instructor position specializing in the history of political philosophy for a one-semester position. Candidates should be able to teach "Constitutionalism and Democracy (MC271)," "Beyond Liberal Democracy: New Directions in Political Theory (MC371), and a senior seminar focused on political economy. Applicants should demonstrate broad competence in early modern and contemporary political theory and commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Completion of Ph.D. in a related field is preferred prior to the time of appointment.

James Madison College provides a liberal education in public affairs, combining the ethos of a small liberal arts college with the advantages of a large, diverse university. The faculty's primary mission is excellence in undergraduate teaching, and the college is noted for its rigorous academic standards and attention to the analytical, writing and speaking skills of its students. JMC is home to four majors (Comparative Cultures and Politics, International Relations, Political Theory and Constitutional Democracy, and Social Relations and Policy) and four minors (Muslim Studies; European Studies; Political Economy; and Science, Technology, the Environment and Public Policy). In addition, JMC has close working relationships with MSU's area studies centers and its many international teaching and research centers. For more information on James Madison College, visit www.jmc.msu.edu.

Applicants should supply a statement addressing how their teaching interests would contribute to the Political Theory and Constitutional Democracy field and to JMC's curriculum and mission more broadly. Supporting materials should include a CV, transcript, sample syllabi, and the names/contact info for three confidential references that can speak to teaching expertise, evidence of teaching approach and effectiveness. The position is posted on the Careers @MSU website, posting 600960/600962, and applicants must apply through <http://jobs.msu.edu> to be considered for the position. Please note, this is a pool posting for all JMC Fixed-Term needs.

Applicants who apply to this pool posting may be considered for various positions they qualify for. Applicants should apply for both postings (Annual Year and Academic Year), allowing for consideration for one semester or full year positions. Review of applications for this specific position need will begin on October 1, 2019.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal opportunity employer. MSU is committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, members of the LGBTQ community, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Persons with disabilities have the right to request and receive reasonable accommodation.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6127

Haverford College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Open

Haverford College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in its Peace, Justice, and Human Rights program to begin Fall semester 2020. The successful candidate must have a PhD at the time of appointment. The position is open to scholars at all pre-tenure levels with training in the humanities or social sciences whose work is interdisciplinary and focuses on questions of justice, human rights, and related fields. All specializations are welcome, but there is particular interest in scholars who can contribute to programs in Health Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, or Visual Studies. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory course on peace, justice, and human rights and/or applied ethics, as well as offer more specialized courses in their area of expertise, and engage in inclusive pedagogy and mentoring of an increasingly diverse student body. Haverford College embraces the teacher-scholar model and supports faculty research through programs and funding opportunities.

Peace, Justice, and Human Rights (PJHR) is an interdisciplinary concentration attracting students from many different disciplines; it offers students the opportunity to study the history, philosophy, and critiques of the rights tradition, examine issues of justice in their local and international contexts, and apply humanistic, social scientific, theoretical, and ethical reasoning to real-world problems. The program's goal is to foster cross-disciplinary collaboration and new perspectives on entrenched problems. For more information, see <http://www.haverford.edu/pjhr/>

Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio [<https://apply.interfolio.com/67577>]: a cover letter addressing qualifications for the position, curriculum vitae, a sample course syllabus or description of a class you'd like to teach in the PJHR program, a teaching statement (3-4 pages) that highlights pedagogical strategies and discusses how you approach diversity and inclusion in the classroom, a writing sample (up to 25 pages), and three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates are encouraged to seek letter writers who together can address your abilities and promise as a teacher, mentor, and scholar/researcher. New applications submitted after 11:59 pm on Friday, November 1 will not be considered.

Haverford College is a leading liberal arts college serving highly motivated students on a nationally recognized arboretum in suburban Haverford, just outside Philadelphia.

Questions about the application process should be directed to hc-PJHRsearch@haverford.edu. For technical questions, please contact Interfolio directly at 1-877-997-8807 or help@interfolio.com.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 8/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6083

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral or more senior research positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas, in developing a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates undertake a research project exploring a normative problem in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They are affiliated with the UCHV and a WWS unit that can support their work.

Candidates contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the UCHV. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty; or by service to the School or Center. If teaching a semester-long course, the successful candidate carries the additional title of Lecturer.

Qualifications

Applications welcome from candidates who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, normally beginning September 1, 2020. Applicants should not have more than two years of postdoctoral experience by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, or globalization and governance). For more information about these and other areas, as well as a list of Centers and Programs visit: <http://wvs.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of previous accomplishments, promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. Contribution to the University's teaching program will also be considered.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2020, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application: <https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/apply/application.xhtml?listingId=12401>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. Current curriculum vitae;
2. Research proposal (up to 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. Scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (up to 12,000 words, not including bibliography) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters.

Materials must be submitted online by Monday, November 11, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference should be submitted by end of business on Thursday, November 14, 2019. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately so letters received after the priority deadline may put candidates at a disadvantage.

Decisions expected in late March 2020. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/11/2019

Date Posted: 8/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6077

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, International Relations

Gender and Politics (Assistant or Associate Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for one full-time tenure track professor in the field of Gender and Politics, beginning August of 2020. Our goal is to hire the strongest candidate available who is doing interesting and important scholarship on questions of gender and politics. This thematic focus may be approached from any subfield or combination of subfields in the discipline including but not limited to American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. This position is at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor with tenure.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, this faculty member would be expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate actively in departmental activities.

Successful candidates will have completed their Ph.D. degree in Political Science by August 1, 2020.

The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30, 2019; however, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, complete curriculum vitae, two publications or papers, course syllabi and summary of teaching evaluations, and have at least three letters of recommendation forwarded to us. All application materials should be submitted online to the attention of Lauren M. MacLean, Department Chair, Department of Political Science at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/8350>.

Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to Jessica Williams at 812-855-1209; email: jeewilli@indiana.edu; Department of Political Science, 210 Woodburn Hall, 1100 E. Seventh Street, Indiana University-Bloomington, Bloomington, Indiana, 47405-7110.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6046

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

American Politics (Assistant or Associate Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for one full-time tenure track professor in the field of American Politics, beginning August of 2020. Our goal is to hire the strongest candidate available who is doing interesting and important scholarly research on American politics, including but not limited to political behavior, political institutions, identity politics, American political development, and/or American political thought. This position is at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor. Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, this faculty member would be expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate actively in departmental activities.

Successful candidates will have completed their Ph.D. degree in Political Science by August 1, 2020.

The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30, 2019; however, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, complete curriculum vitae, two publications or papers, course syllabi and summary of teaching evaluations, and have at least three letters of recommendation forwarded to us. All application materials should be submitted online to the attention of Lauren M. MacLean, Department Chair, Department of Political Science at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/8344>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to Jessica Williams at 812-855-1209; email: jee-willi@indiana.edu; Department of Political Science, 210 Woodburn Hall, 1100 E. Seventh Street, Indiana University-Bloomington, Bloomington, Indiana, 47405-7110.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6045

Princeton University

Rank: Garwood Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. The Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Visiting Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12907> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6036

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2020 to September 1, 2021, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on outstanding performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12905> (link is external)

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)

Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6038

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring

American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12906> (link is external). A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address:

jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6037

Furman University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Thought: Historical, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory

The Tocqueville Program at Furman University invites applications for a 2-year Postdoctoral Fellowship in Western and American Political Thought to begin in August 2020. Housed in the Department of Politics and International Affairs, the Tocqueville Program exists to encourage serious and open engagement with the moral questions at the heart of political life through the study of classic texts of the Western and American political and philosophic tradition. We encourage applicants whose teaching philosophy and research agenda fit with this mission. The PhD degree (in hand or expected by the beginning of the 2020-21 academic year) is a required qualification.

The teaching load for the Postdoctoral Fellow will be three courses per academic year; courses to be taught include American Political Thought and Introduction to Political Thought, and other courses as needed by the Department of Politics and International Affairs. The Postdoctoral Fellow will also participate actively in the Tocqueville Program's activities and contribute to its administration as needed. More information about the Tocqueville Program is available here: www.furman.edu/tocqueville.

We will begin reviewing applications on December 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, CV, sample course syllabi and teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and a sample(s) of professional writing (published work preferred). Candidates should also include a statement describing how their teaching, scholarship, mentoring and/or service might contribute to a liberal arts college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values. Please submit these materials here:

https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/Furman_Careers/job/Main-Campus/Post-Doctoral-Fellow-of-Politics---International-Affairs_R000726

Please have three recommenders submit letters of recommendation using the following link:

https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/references/job/Main-Campus/Post-Doctoral-Fellow-of-Politics---International-Affairs_R000725

Furman University is a selective private liberal arts and sciences college committed to helping students develop intellectually, personally, and interpersonally and providing the practical skills necessary to succeed in a rapidly-changing world. Furman professors are exceptional teacher-scholars who mentor undergraduate students within a campus community that values and encourages diverse ideas and perspectives. Our recently-launched strategic vision, The Furman Advantage, promises students an individualized four-year pathway facilitated by team of mentors and infused with a rich and varied set of high impact experiences outside the classroom that include undergraduate research, study away, internships, community-focused learning, and opportunities to engage across differences.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is one of the fastest growing cities in the Southeast and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The charming downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains in the country. Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. Greenville is 2 1/2 hours from Atlanta and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. It is an ideal place to live and work.

Furman is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and staff. The University aspires to create a community of people representing a multiplicity of identities including gender, race, religion, spiritual belief, sexual orientation, geographic origin, socioeconomic background, ideology, world view, and varied abilities. Domestic partners of employees are eligible for comprehensive benefits.

For any questions please contact the chairperson of the search committee, Benjamin Storey, at benjamin.storey@furman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5976

Furman University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Department of Politics and International Affairs at Furman University invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 1, 2020. The candidate's teaching responsibilities will include Introduction to Political Thought and other courses as needed. The position is open to all specialties in political thought. S/he must demonstrate the potential for superb teaching and excellence in scholarship. The teaching load is five courses per academic year. A Ph.D. is required by August 1, 2020.

We will begin reviewing applications on December 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, CV, sample course syllabi and teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and a sample(s) of professional writing (published work preferred). Candidates should also include a statement describing how their teaching, scholarship, mentoring and/or service might contribute to a liberal arts college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values. Please submit these materials via the following link:

https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/Furman_Careers/job/Main-Campus/Visiting-Assistant-Professor-of-Politics---International-Affairs_R000728

Please ask three recommenders to submit letters of recommendation using the following link:

https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/references/job/Visiting-Assistant-Professor-of-Politics---International-Affairs_R000727

Furman University is a selective private liberal arts and sciences college committed to helping students develop intellectually, personally, and interpersonally and providing the practical skills necessary to succeed in a rapidly-changing world. Furman professors are exceptional teacher-scholars who mentor undergraduate students within a campus community that values and encourages diverse ideas and perspectives. Our recently-launched strategic vision, The Furman Advantage, promises students an individualized four-year pathway facilitated by team of mentors and infused with a rich and varied set of high impact experiences outside the classroom that include undergraduate research, study away, internships, community-focused learning, and opportunities to engage across differences.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is one of the fastest growing cities in the Southeast and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The charming downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains in the country. Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. Greenville is 2 1/2 hours from Atlanta and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. It is an ideal place to live and work.

Furman is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and staff. The University aspires to create a community of people representing a multiplicity of identities including gender, race, religion, spiritual belief, sexual orientation, geographic origin, socioeconomic background, ideology, world view, and varied abilities. Domestic partners of employees are eligible for comprehensive benefits.

For any questions please contact the chairperson of the search committee, Benjamin Storey, at benjamin.storey@furman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/1/2019
Date Posted: 8/13/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5975

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Formal Political Theory

The Departments of Political Science and Economics at Vanderbilt University invite applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in formal theory for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor, with a joint position in the Departments of Political Science and Economics. Both departments are committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within and between the political science and economics departments. Successful candidates will be able to contribute to graduate training in formal theory, as well as contributing to substantive literatures in political science and economics; and successful candidates will be expected to contribute to curriculum development in both departments. The appointment will begin Fall 2020. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2019. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by September 15, 2019, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position.

Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August, 2020.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), a diversity statement, and three letters of reference electronically at apply.interfolio.com/66540.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/12/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 5964

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Political Theory

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) tenure-track faculty position in Political Theory. We are interested in candidates from all areas of Political Theory, though we have a particular interest in those with expertise in race and identity.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured) or contact references (if tenured), and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/66095>

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/6/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5906

Oberlin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Oberlin College Politics Department invites applications for a non-continuing position for Spring semester 2020 in Political Theory. Appointment to this position will be for one semester and will carry the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor depending on the qualifications of the candidate.

The Politics Department has thirteen full-time faculty positions and approximately 120 junior and senior majors. Information about the Department can be found at our web site: <http://www.oberlin.edu/politics/>

The incumbent will teach three courses in the general area of political theory. We seek someone who would be able to teach courses covering the history of European political thought. In addition, expertise in one or more of the following would be welcome: environmental political theory; feminist theory; queer theory; critical race theory; colonialism and postcolonialism; and citizenship.

Among the qualifications required for this appointment is the Ph.D. degree in hand or in progress (ABD). Candidates must demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Successful teaching experience at the college level is desirable.

Within the range established for this position, salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience and includes an excellent benefits package.

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at <http://jobs.oberlin.edu/postings/7736>.

A complete application will be comprised of 1) a Cover Letter that includes an articulation of the applicant's teaching philosophy; 2) a Curriculum Vitae; 3) Unofficial transcript; 4) Writing Sample; 5) Evidence of Teaching; and, 6) Letters of Reference from three (3) recommenders.

All application materials must be submitted electronically through Oberlin College and Conservatory's online application process at: <https://jobs.oberlin.edu>.

Accepting applications through 10/15/2019.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5655

Bard College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Studies - Political Theory

The Political Studies program at Bard College invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position in Political Theory at the rank of assistant professor, to begin Fall 2020. The search is open to all areas of specialization within Political Theory, though we are seeking candidates whose teaching and research will complement rather than replicate the program's current strengths in Arendtian and American political thought. Applicants should be able to teach courses in canonical traditions of Political Theory, but we especially welcome applications from candidates who can bring critical approaches to the canon, focusing on race, gender and/or non-Western political thought. A candidate who is able to speak across the subfields of Political Science and to the wider social science and humanities communities at the College is especially welcome. Our program's concern with issues of social justice leads us to invest in recruiting colleagues who in their scholarship, teaching and service demonstrate experience with, knowledge of and sensitivity to the needs of culturally diverse populations and who are committed to working with students holding a range of worldviews. The successful candidate will be expected to have completed all the requirements for the doctoral degree by August 2020. Review of applications will begin on September 6, 2019. To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample of written work, a teaching portfolio (including sample syllabi and student evaluations), and three letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/65906>. Candidates who would like to be considered for an optional preliminary interview at APSA should submit their application materials by August 10th. Bard College is a highly selective co-educational liberal arts college located in the Hudson Valley, 90 miles north of New York City. For more information on Bard, visit www.bard.edu. Bard College is an equal opportunity employer and is especially interested in candidates whose record of achievement will contribute to the diversity goals of the institution.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/6/2019

Date Posted: 7/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5821

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2020. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2020.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must submit a CV, a job market paper and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2019. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2019

Date Posted: 7/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5811

University of Georgia

Rank: Philip H. Alston, Jr. Distinguished Chair

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications and nominations for the Philip H. Alston Jr. Distinguished Chair in any substantive area of American politics, methodology, or theory. The start date is slated for August 2020.

Duties include teaching and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate student levels and the publishing of original research in professional outlets. Salary is appropriate for an esteemed chaired position. The appointment also includes a substantial endowment for research and development.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or allied field is required. A distinguished record of academic scholarship and of grant-supported research and a standing in political science and the social sciences commensurate with a distinguished university professorship are expected. Leadership roles in the discipline, whether within a university or in the discipline broadly construed, are preferred.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, and a list of the names of at least five references. References will only be contacted if a candidate reaches the short list. Materials should be submitted to the UGA job site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/99240>.

For more information about the department, visit <http://spia.uga.edu/department-of-political-science/>. Athens is well known for its quality of life, including both outdoor and urban activities, and is conveniently located 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia (UGA), a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education (<http://www.uga.edu/>). UGA is currently ranked among the top 15 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 70 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country. UGA employs approximately 1,800 full-time instructional faculty and more than 7,600 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 36,000 students, including over 27,500 undergraduates and over 8,500 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 17 schools and colleges as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu). Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

The Department of Political Science is committed to enhancing the diversity of the department and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to these goals are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and experiences in this area in their cover letter. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5739

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory beginning in the fall semester of 2020. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. We seek candidates whose scholarly and teaching interests include American political thought. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in political theory, a course in American political thought, and other courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in political theory, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to: Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 23, 2019.

Candidates who wish to meet for an optional preliminary interview at APSA should email a CV to smeinke@bucknell.edu by August 14 and indicate their expected availability during the conference.

About Bucknell

Founded in 1846 and located along the banks of the Susquehanna River in historic Lewisburg, Pa., Bucknell University is an undergraduate-focused institution that stands uniquely at the intersection of top-ranked liberal arts, engineering and management programs. Our students choose from more than 50 majors and 60 minors in the arts, engineering, humanities, management, and natural and social sciences, as well as extensive global study, service-learning and research opportunities. Bucknell's 3,600 undergraduate and 100 graduate students enjoy a low 9:1 student-faculty ratio and exceptional opportunities to collaborate with faculty mentors.

Bucknell's beautiful 450-acre campus includes first-rate facilities and is home to more than 90 percent of its students. Residential life is vibrant with about 150 student-run organizations, 27 NCAA Division I athletic teams, a robust arts culture, and a strong student commitment to community and global service work.

Bucknell is committed to fostering an environment that embraces diversity, equity and inclusion, and we seek candidates who will contribute to a climate that supports the growth and development of a diverse campus community. The University provides equal opportunity without regard to race, color, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, marital status, veteran status or disability in admissions, employment and in all of its educational programs and activities. We encourage individuals from historically underrepresented groups to apply.

The Community

Located in central Pennsylvania, Lewisburg features a variety of restaurants, beautiful Victorian homes, the restored art deco Campus Theatre (owned by the University), charming shops and boutiques, and the Barnes and Noble at Bucknell University Bookstore. About 33,000 residents live in the region.

The city of Williamsport is about a 30-minute drive from campus, and Penn State University's main campus is about an hour away, as is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's state capital. Bucknell is about three hours from New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

The cost of living here is low compared to that of major U.S. cities and suburbs. Bucknell's surroundings yield fresh produce, cultural activities and events, and many opportunities for outdoor activity on the Susquehanna River and in the nearby state parks and forests. The Lewisburg Area School District receives excellent reviews for its schools at all grade levels. Lewisburg Area High School is consistently ranked among the top 50 high schools in Pennsylvania for SAT scores and statewide exams.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5741

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

CUNY-Baruch College

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

The Marx School is a multi-disciplinary community of scholars dedicated to teaching and research in policy and administration in domestic and international affairs as well as in higher education administration; our three graduate degree programs are the Master of Public Administration, the Master of International Affairs, and the Master of Science in Higher Education Administration. We also have a Bachelor of Science in Public Affairs. We are open to applications from a wide range of disciplines corresponding to those interests, including but not limited to Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Science, History, Sociology, Communication Studies, Economics, International Affairs, Higher Education Administration, and Demography.

The Marx School of Public and International Affairs seeks an Associate or Full Professor to assume the directorship of the School's survey research center, Baruch College Survey Research (BCSR). The successful candidate will teach courses and conduct academic research consistent with the appointment. Performs teaching, research and guidance duties in area(s) of expertise. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

You can view and apply for this job at:

https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=21350&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

Qualifications: Ph.D. degree in a field listed above. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

The Marx School seeks someone who has had experience involving a survey research operation with a Computer-Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI) lab, web-based surveys, focus groups, and other methods for gathering data on public opinion about policy-relevant issues. Most of BCSR's revenue is derived from contracts with clients from academia (including but not limited to Baruch College itself), government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and other institutional partners, making experience in professional management of survey staff and oversight of grants and contracts a must. Experience with media organizations is desirable.

We expect the successful candidate to begin his or her appointment in the Fall term of 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7427

Colorado State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Administration

Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Administration, Public Budgeting and/or Finance focus

The School of Public Policy and Innovative Leadership within the College of Liberal Arts at Colorado State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Policy and Administration with a teaching interest in public budgeting and/or public finance. This position will support a new graduate degree program launching Fall 2020, the Master of Public Policy and Administration (MPPA), and be a part of an exciting new interdisciplinary endeavor in the College.

The College values both strong teaching and research. Successful candidates will be expected to offer courses in public policy and administration including a required graduate level core course in public budgeting. Additional teaching assignments will depend on the candidate's interests and expertise as well as College needs. The normal teaching load is 2-2. Faculty members are expected to advise and mentor graduate students; develop an active research agenda; and provide service to the degree program, School, college, university, and community.

Required Job Qualifications: Primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in public policy and administration; evidence of the ability to teach public budgeting and/or public finance at the graduate level, an active research agenda in public policy and administration; PhD in Public Policy, Public Administration, or related field by August 16, 2020; and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Preferred Job Qualifications: A demonstrated commitment to public service values; experience in internship mentorship and/or applied research experience; Ability to enhance the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion reflecting the College and School's institutional values.

Application Procedure: Applications will be accepted until the position is filled; to ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by November 18, 2019. Applicants should submit: 1) a letter of application responding to the required and preferred qualifications 2) Curriculum vitae; 3) Graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts acceptable at the initial stage of the search), 4) Evidence of demonstrated or potential teaching effectiveness (syllabi, teaching evaluations, letters of observation), 5) One sample of research (published or unpublished), and 6) The names and contact information of three professional referees. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Susan Opp at susan.opp@colostate.edu

Please apply at: <https://jobs.colostate.edu/postings/72241>

CSU is an EO/EA/AA employer and conducts background checks on all final candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7399

University of Toledo

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor - Public and Non-profit Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of Toledo seeks applicants for a visiting assistant professor position in public administration starting in August 2020. This position will balance service and teaching obligations in our MPA program and in the undergraduate political science major. It may be renewed for up to 3 years pending satisfactory annual performance evaluations and budget authorization.

A Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, or a closely related field of study is required by the start date of appointment. We will consider ABD's with a defense date slated no later than January 2021, or practitioners with a MPA degree from a NASPAA accredited program with 10+ years of relevant executive level experience in local government/ state government/ large nonprofit organizations. Preferred qualifications include those with collegiate teaching experience and experience mentoring underrepresented minority students. Those with a demonstrated ability to teach budgeting or significant training or research in this area will be preferred. Other desirable teaching areas include nonprofits and policy evaluation.

The visiting faculty member will be expected to teach graduate courses in budgeting, nonprofits, and related public administration courses. In addition, teaching undergraduate service courses such as American National Government or State and Local Government may be required subject to college, department, or MPA program needs. The position will entail some service obligations with the MPA program such as student recruitment and creating linkages with local nonprofit organizations and governments.

The University of Toledo is a thriving student-centered, community-engaged, comprehensive research university in Northwest Ohio with more than 20,000 students. The department of political science and public administration offers both a BA in political science and the MPA. We have a collegial department of talented scholars and strong teachers who work well together and who welcome diverse methodological approaches in research and teaching. The Toledo metro area has a population of over 650,000 and features world class museums and metroparks, a terrific zoo, theater, opera, baseball's famous AAA Mudhens, and Walleye hockey.

Candidates must apply at <https://jobs.utoledo.edu> with the following documents: a letter of application addressed to the Search Committee, a current CV, teaching evaluations, and transcripts. In addition, submit three letters of recommendation to Dr. Jami Taylor (jami.taylor@utoledo.edu). Priority will be given to applications received before November 14, 2019. Review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

The above list of duties is intended to describe the general nature and level of work performed by people assigned to this classification. It is not to be construed as an exhaustive list of duties performed by the people so classified, nor is it intended to limit or modify the right of any supervisor to assign, direct and control the work of employees under his/her supervision.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7394

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Specializations: American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public administration/policy beginning August 2020. The ideal candidate will have the skills necessary to teach and develop courses that incorporate issues of equity and justice, ethnic diversity, and race for both the undergraduate and graduate programs. Additional teaching requirements include American politics, public administration/policy, as well as core and elective classes in public administration. Ability to teach research methods at the undergraduate and graduate level a plus. The department is particularly interested in candidates who have experience mentoring and advising students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for students who represent historically oppressed and marginalized identities. A PhD in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field is required.

The Political Science Department has 20 fulltime faculty, over 360 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a NASPAA Accredited Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program.

The College of Charleston is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. The College is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with a student body consisting of approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 900 graduate students, including 20% of whom identify as minority and 140 international students from 34 different countries. Additional information about the institution, the student body, and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>.

Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter that specifically describes how the candidate will contribute to department goals related to equity, inclusion, and co-creation; a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with a teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references.

Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Judy Millesen (millesenjl@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin November 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7381

Penn State Harrisburg

Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor of Homeland Security

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Assistant Teaching Professor of Homeland Security

Penn State Harrisburg, School of Public Affairs (SPA), invites applications for a non-tenure-track Assistant Teaching Professor position in Homeland Security to begin August 2020. The successful candidate will teach in the online Intercollege Master of Professional Studies in Homeland Security Program (iMPS-HLS), in the online Graduate Certificate in Homeland Security, as well as in the Undergraduate Minor in Homeland Security that is offered online as well as in residence. The successful candidate will also contribute to the Homeland Security specialization in the Ph.D. in Public Administration program. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. in Homeland Security or a related field as well as a scholastic record of accomplishment. Additional practical experience in the homeland security mission space is a plus. While the area of specialization is open, the successful candidate should be able to teach homeland security theory, policy, and strategy; comparative homeland security; multifaceted approaches to homeland security; strategic planning in homeland defense and security, as well as the capstone course (culminating experience) in the master's program. All candidates should demonstrate excellence in teaching to the state of the art in the field and contributing to curriculum evolution, as well as the ability and willingness to engage in service appropriate to their rank, including recruitment and academic advisement of students, and must qualify for membership in the Graduate Faculty of The Pennsylvania State University: <http://www.gradschool.psu.edu/faculty-and-staff/faculty/criteria>. The SPA offers additional undergraduate programs in Political Science, Public Policy, Health Policy and Administration, and Criminal Justice as well as additional master's programs in Criminal Justice, Health Administration, Public Administration, as well as a Ph.D. in Public Administration. It is the home of Penn State's Intercollege Master of Professional Studies in Homeland Security. For more information on the School, its programs, and its faculty, visit our web site at <http://harrisburg.psu.edu/public-affairs>.

Penn State Harrisburg is located in Pennsylvania's state capital region near the Penn State College of Medicine and Hershey Medical Center. It is within a two-three-hour drive from larger metropolitan areas such as Baltimore, Washington, D.C., New York City, and Philadelphia, PA. For information about Penn State Harrisburg visit: <http://www.hbg.psu.edu> Applicants for the position should submit a letter of application indicating interest for the position, a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, as well as three letters of professional reference. Application review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at <https://apptrkr.com/1673125>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-e87241cf1a164347993500612ebe9b74>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7380

University of North Carolina, Pembroke

Rank: Assistant Professor of Emergency Management and Public Administration

Assistant Professor of Emergency Management and Public Administration.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Carolina, Pembroke seeks an assistant professor of emergency management and public administration. This position will be responsible for teaching emergency management courses at the graduate level, courses in public administration at the graduate level, and at least one of our general education courses (American National Government or Introduction to Political Science).

The area of teaching and research specialization within emergency management is open. Preference will be given to candidates that are focused clearly on the administration side of the discipline, as opposed to a public policy scholar. Preferences will also be given to candidates that show how their research may connect and enhance emergency resiliency and preparation both regionally as well as in the local community. Successful candidates must show excellence in both online teaching as well as in the traditional classroom since this position will require the candidate to consistently teach in both learning platforms. The teaching load for this position is a 3-3, typically teaching two to three graduate course each semester and one undergraduate course each year.

UNCP is a regional university serving rural North Carolina that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration serves several programs including a B.A. program with four different concentrations, an active contributor to a B.I.S. program in Public and Non-profit Management, and a Master of Public Administration program with four different concentrations.

To be considered for this position, candidates must hold a Ph.D. in public administration, emergency management, or a closely related field, or be ABD with a clear date of completion. To apply, applicants must complete the application for employment form found at <https://jobs.uncp.edu> where they will be instructed to submit a CV, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio that demonstrates competence in online teaching and in person, as well as past course evaluations (if applicable). Candidates who are selected after the first round of consideration will be asked to submit three letters of recommendation for consideration. For questions, please contact the chair of the department, Dr. Emily Sharum (emily.neffsharum@uncp.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7375

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy, General Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants to apply for a teaching faculty position. The selected applicant will teach courses as part of the Batten School's social entrepreneurship curriculum and may assume some program responsibilities in the school's social entrepreneurship center (SE@UVA). The appointment begins in August 2020. Rank is at the Assistant Professor level.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, entrepreneurship, law, business ethics, business administration, finance, or public administration. A terminal degree in one of these disciplines or a related field is required, as is teaching experience. The successful candidate's professional and/or research experience focuses on social entrepreneurship broadly defined, including but not limited to work on social enterprise, impact investing and innovative finance, or public policy related to social innovation (i.e. state-level BCorp legislation, social impact bonds, tax policy related to social enterprise, and innovative hybrid business models).

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of excellence in one or more of the following areas: professional experience within the social enterprise community, superior teaching and student mentoring, an interest in contributing to the scholarly community at Batten and U.Va. through collaborations with research faculty, and a research focus with a developing publication record in scholarly, practitioner, and/or policy venues.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership. The Batten School's SE@UVA center offers over a dozen courses to over 500 students each academic year and serves over 350 Social Entrepreneurship Minors. For more information about the center please visit www.seatuva.org.

To apply, visit <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs> and search for posting number R0010558, and complete a candidate profile. Include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, contact information for three references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a diversity statement that describes contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. This is a non-tenure track position. Applicant review begins November 1, 2019 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more please visit <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/6/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7296

Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc

Rank: Founding Dean, Hobby School of Public Affairs

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Specializations: Public Opinion, Economic Policy, Political Communication

The University of Houston (UH) is searching for an innovative, dynamic leader to take charge of positioning the Hobby School as a nationally and internationally prominent school of public affairs and public policy. As a founding dean, there are ample opportunities to grow and shape the school where public service is primary. The Founding Dean of the Hobby School of Public Affairs reports directly to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. Founded in 1927, the UH is the leading public research university in Houston and the second most ethnically diverse research university in the nation. Each year, the university educates more than 40,000 students in more than 300 undergraduate and graduate academic programs. UH awards more than 8,000 degrees annually and has more than 230,000 alumni. Students come to UH from more than 137 nations. Classified as a Tier One institution by virtue of its Very High Research ranking by the Carnegie Foundation, UH is also one of only 300 institutions nationwide to receive the Foundation's highest designation as a community-engaged university. The University of Houston has been recognized both as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian-American serving institution by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Postsecondary Education.

The dean is the senior academic and administrative officer of the school, and is responsible for setting strategic, operational, and financial directions. In those roles, the dean has overall responsibilities for developing an effective collegial environment and plan that supports excellence in teaching, research, and service/engagement. The Founding Dean of the Hobby School of Public Affairs should have: a passion for public policy and an interest in finding solutions; expertise and experience in an important policy area; understanding of the mission and attributes of the Hobby School, including both internal & external dimensions; a dynamic and innovative vision and approach to building the reputation of the Hobby School; media and messaging savvy in all media channels, including print, social media, television, and radio; strong commitment to the Hobby School and the vision to recognize that it is becoming a vital and growing presence on campus, locally, regionally, nationally, and internationally; excellent speaking skills; an ability to promote the Hobby School through fund raising efforts and public relations awareness as well as engage with key stakeholders; and the ability to be an articulate advocate of the vision, mission and uniqueness of the Hobby School.

Qualifications and Experience

The successful candidate will be a nationally recognized entrepreneurial leader or academic scholar able to articulate the narrative of the Hobby School's diverse accomplishments and aspirations with a sense of common purpose and pride. Experience in addressing the social and economic issues in the widest variety of communities will be highly valued. Applicants with strong leadership experience and outstanding accomplishments in government, public affairs and/or academia are welcomed and will receive serious attention. This is an exceptional opportunity for an individual with the drive, skill, and experience to bring creative leadership to a distinguished organization and to play a critical role in shaping its future.

In addition, the dean would have the following preferred qualifications: a demonstrated commitment to promoting quality research and scholarship; a strong record and commitment to continuous improvement of student learning and faculty teaching; a strong commitment to fostering community/university collaboration and partnerships; a proven record and commitment sustaining a culture of diversity and inclusion; a demonstrated commitment to faculty and programmatic development; demonstrated leadership in infrastructure development; a strong commitment to shared governance; proven strong communication, management and organizational skills; the ability to articulate the school's vision, goals, accomplishments and needs to constituents; an entrepreneurial, innovative and global orientation; proven abilities and experience in fundraising/external resource enhancement; a record of exemplary personal and professional integrity; and a demonstrated commitment to cross-disciplinary programs.

How to Apply

Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc. is assisting the University of Houston in the search. Applications and nominations are now being accepted. Screening of complete applications will begin immediately and will continue until the completion of the search process. Confidential inquiries, nominations, and application materials should be directed to Greenwood/Asher. Submission of application materials (cover letter, resume, and list of five references) as PDF attachments is strongly encouraged. The search will be conducted with a commitment of confidentiality for the candidates until finalists are selected. Initial screening of applications will begin immediately and will continue until an appointment is made. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Inquiries, nominations and application materials should be directed to:

Betty Turner Asher, Partners
Ann Bailey, Senior Executive Search Consultant
Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc.
42 Business Centre Drive, Suite 206
Miramar Beach, Florida 32550
Phone: 850-650-2277 / Fax: 850-650-2272
Email: bettyasher@greenwoodsearch.com

Email: annbailey@greenwoodsearch.com

For more information on the University of Houston and the Hobby School of Public Affairs, please visit <http://www.uh.edu/> and <http://www.uh.edu/hobby/>.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7270

University of Arkansas, Fayetteville

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Other

The duties and responsibilities of this 9-month Visiting Assistant Professor position entail teaching undergraduate and graduate Public Administration courses, as well as, a course on state and local government. The typical course load for VAPs is a 3-3.

Regular, reliable, and non-disruptive attendance is an essential job duty, as is the ability to create and maintain collegial, harmonious working relationships with others.

Apply through:

<https://jobs.uark.edu/postings/36968>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/31/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7262

University of Mount Union

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Mount Union is currently inviting applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position, beginning August 2020.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to teach three courses per semester (12 credit hours) and must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate education in a liberal arts setting. Primary responsibilities include:

Teaching introductory courses in American Politics, Law and Public Service as well as upper-level courses on American Institutions (Presidency; Congress); Law (e.g. Constitutional Law, Civil Rights, Legal Advocacy); and Public Policy. The ability to contribute additional courses in the candidate's area of specialization will be welcome.

- Contributing to the University of Mount Union's Integrative Core curriculum,
- Contributing to the strengthening and expansion of the Political Science curriculum,
- Guiding the growing legal studies program and the new 3-3 BA/JD programs,
- Contributing to the total university community and to civic and community life.
- Additional duties may be set by the department given institutional needs and priorities.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science (with a focus on American Politics, Public Policy and/or Law) by time of appointment is required. A J.D. or related degree will be an added plus. The candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching and to scholarship

Candidates should provide a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available) and three letters of reference to the Political Science Search Committee. Electronic applications are required and can be submitted online at <http://www.mountunion.edu/employment>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Michael Grossman (grossmmo@mountunion.edu) with any questions. Review of applications will begin October 31, 2019, and will continue until the positions are filled.

This position is required to complete assigned University compliance training as communicated by the University.

The specific statements shown in each section of this description are not intended to be all-inclusive. They represent typical elements and criteria necessary to successfully perform the job. When requested, reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions of the job.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7246

Syracuse University

Rank: Assistant or Associate, Health Care Policy & Management
Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) in the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University seeks to hire a tenured or tenure track professor in the field of health care policy and management, at either the Assistant or Associate level, beginning in fall 2020.

We are interested in attracting a creative, engaging, and innovative colleague with credentials in health care policy and/or management. We welcome a variety of specializations including but not limited to the financing and delivery of health care; the organization and management of health care delivery systems; the politics of health care policy reform; and the impact of health care policy reform on the delivery of healthcare. Candidates with domestic, international, or comparative perspectives are welcome. Applicants should have an active research agenda and a demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence. Responsibilities of the position include maintaining a research program, teaching in the department's world-renowned professional master programs, teaching one or more undergraduate courses, mentoring MPA and PhD students, and engaging in service.

Our department is collegial, supportive, and interdisciplinary. We welcome applicants from a range of disciplinary backgrounds, including but not limited to public administration, public management, public policy, health administration, economics, political science, sociology, public health, social work, and other social science fields.

This recruitment is part of an ambitious Invest Syracuse Cluster Hire Initiative in the broad area of Aging, Behavioral Health, and Neuroscience. As an integral part of this investment, Syracuse University will recruit multiple candidates for faculty positions for a research cluster in the focus area of aging. Faculty hired into these positions will build on our existing strengths in the focus area and will participate in an organized research cluster that spans multiple departments in the Maxwell School, the College of Arts and Sciences, Falk College, and the College of Engineering and Computer Science. In addition, the individual will also have the opportunity to become affiliated with one or more of the University's other interdisciplinary research centers such as the University's Aging Studies Institute, Maxwell School's Center of Policy Research or the Maxwell School's Program for Advancement of Research on Conflict and Collaboration. Therefore, a track record of collaborative research output is particularly desirable, and record of success in obtaining research support, particularly from the National Institutes of Health or the National Science Foundation.

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs at the Maxwell School is home to the world's first master of public administration program, which is ranked first among more than 250 graduate public affairs programs in the United States and has several top-ranked specialties (U.S. News & World Report). The department is also home to a top-ranked master's program in international relations (Foreign Policy magazine), as well as several other programs, including a Ph.D. in public administration, a master's degree in public health, executive master's degrees in public administration and international relations, and a wide range of certificate programs.

To be considered, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/postings/76528>) and attach: a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of professional writing, names and complete contact information for 3 references. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by November 1. However, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6228

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Western Carolina University is searching for a nine-month tenure-track assistant professor in Public Administration. The successful candidate will contribute to our NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Affairs Program and our thriving undergraduate program in Political Science.

The normal teaching load is three courses per semester and the expectation is that the candidate will teach approximately half of those courses in the MPA and half in our undergraduate program. In addition to teaching excellence, the successful candidate will be expected to maintain a productive and influential research program in public administration and contribute to the department, university, region and profession through meaningful service.

Review of applications will begin October 20, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit vita, cover letter (which should address teaching and research), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, and the names and contact information for three professional references. Applicants must also attach copies of unofficial transcripts from the highest degree earned.

For more information about the department please visit our website at <http://politicalscience.wcu.edu>.

Western Carolina University (WCU) is a 12,000-student campus in the University of North Carolina system that offers 120 areas of study for undergraduates and more than 50 graduate-level programs. The Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accredits WCU to award baccalaureate, masters, education specialist, and doctoral degrees. Western Carolina University is committed to the Boyer model of scholarship, the stewardship of place, integrated learning, and engagement in our classrooms and in our communities. The campus is located in the picturesque Cullowhee valley between the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, 50 miles west of Asheville, North Carolina. MPA courses are offered in the evenings at our instructional site in Asheville. The entire region is noted for its excellent quality of life and access to outdoor activities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6204

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Emergency Management and Disaster Science Chair - Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Constitutional Law & Theory

Faculty Position Announcement

Emergency Management and Disaster Science Chair at the Rank of Associate Professor

School of Public Administration, University of Nebraska Omaha

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a faculty position of Associate Professor/Chair of the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program, within the School of Public Administration to begin in August 2020. A successful candidate for this position will possess a PhD in Emergency Management or a related field. We are seeking applicants who can provide administrative leadership and faculty expertise in the field of Emergency Management and Disaster Science. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests and demonstrated capacity to teach in at least one of the following areas: preparedness and risk management, agency collaboration, law and administration, and response and recovery. A willingness to teach introductory, upper level, and graduate courses in emergency management and offer courses in an on-line format is also required. Candidates must have the demonstrated ability to conduct research in emergency management and disaster science. Potential for externally funded and peer-reviewed published work is also required.

The position offers a teaching load of two courses per semester and a nine-month contract. One course release per year and stipend will be granted for serving as Program Chair. Duties include program administration, teaching, research, and community engagement.

Review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

The University and the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program has a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of underrepresented groups and strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply for this position. The University of Nebraska does not discriminate based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation in its programs, activities, or employment.

The UNO Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program is the largest undergraduate emergency management and fire services management program in the state and the only program that offers a Bachelor of Science in Emergency Management, minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, Tribal Management and Emergency Services and an undergraduate certificate in Tribal Management and Emergency Services. The Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program was only initiated seven years ago, but has proven to be one of the fastest expanding academic programs in the Nebraska University System. Currently, the program has three tenure track positions, three instructor lines, a visiting professor, an academic advisor/program coordinator, a student services associate, and a .5 FTE administrative assistant. At the start of the current academic year 2019-2020, the program had 138 BSEM majors and pre-majors, over 100 minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, and Tribal Management and Emergency Services, over 25 Tribal Management and Emergency Services certificate students, 7 MPA students and two PA doctoral students specializing in Emergency Management.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling over 200 graduate students, offering the program both online and on campus. The MPA program is ranked among the top 10-percent of all such programs in the upcoming 2019 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools, and is ranked #6 in Public Budgeting and Finance, and #11 in Nonprofit Management. The School is also home to one of the few Ph.D. programs in Public Administration in the Great Plains region; faculty regularly have the opportunity to work with Ph.D. students.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a Carnegie Doctoral Research University. We are a metropolitan university, located in the heart of Omaha, which has a population of 463,000. The population of the eight-county metropolitan area is 943,000.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/9612>. The application must include: current curriculum vita; a letter addressing experience and qualifications; the names and contact information for three references.

For more information on the program, visit our web page at <http://emgt.unomaha.edu>. For more information on the School, visit our web page at <http://spa.unomaha.edu> or contact the chair of the search committee: Dr. Yu-Che Chen (yuchen@unomaha.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6197

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration to begin August 16, 2020. Individuals conducting research in Nonprofit Administration, Emergency Management, or Local Government are especially encouraged to apply. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to contribute to the department's NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration program, with the ability to teach core and elective classes in this program. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field of study is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a writing sample; statements of research and teaching interests; graduate transcript; and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. The position will remain open until filled, and the search committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2019. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Xuhong Su (suxuhong@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 6185

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Public Affairs -- Public Management

The La Follette School of Public Affairs at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is seeking high performing faculty to teach public management, and how public management supports the development and implementation of local, state and federal policies.

Candidates will conduct productive research, be committed teachers, and welcome being part of an inter-disciplinary department dedicated to promoting good public policy. Successful candidates will be expected to teach at the undergraduate and masters/graduate level, lead a scholarly research program, as well as perform university and professional service. Candidates with a strong potential to conduct externally-supported research and research grants are preferred.

The selected scholar will teach core courses in public management, as well as upper-level electives in specialty topics in public management such as: performance management, public sector leadership, non-profit management, public budgeting, or public policymaking process.

For this position, the strongest candidate will be a scholar who is capable and interested in engaging in public dialogues, including interactions with the media, as well as in advising state and local government officials.

We encourage applicants from public management or public administration traditions. The research and teaching may also include domestic or international public management or public administration.

To begin the application process, please go to jobs.wisc.edu, go to PVL 99400, then click on the 'Apply Now' button and create a profile.

Submit a letter of interest (including research and teaching interests), your curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. You are also asked to provide the name and contact information for three references.

The deadline for assured consideration is October 5, 2019; however, the position will remain open and applications may be considered until it is filled.

The University of Wisconsin is an Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 10/5/2019
Date Posted: 9/5/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 6132

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Part-Time Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Middle Georgia State University has part-time employment opportunities for Political Science instructors, both online and on its campuses in Georgia (Macon, Warner Robins, Cochran, Eastman, and Dublin) for day and evening classes. Our primary need at this time is for faculty qualified to teach, and interested in teaching, American Government (POLS 1101), although opportunities to teach other courses may also be available.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: To qualify for a teaching position, a candidate is required to have a minimum of an earned master's degree in Political Science or a closely related field (such as Public Administration or Public Policy), or a master's degree in another field with at least 18 graduate semester hours in Political Science courses.

For more information, please contact: Dr. Christopher Lawrence, Chair - Department of Political Science. E-mail: christopher.lawrence@mga.edu. Informal inquiries welcome.

TO APPLY: Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest with a current curriculum vitae or resume, unofficial transcripts from both undergraduate and graduate courses, a list of 2 references with email and phone contact information, and statement of teaching philosophy to: recruitment@mga.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2019

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 6049

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in comparative public administration beginning on August 1, 2020. This is a ten-month tenure-track position at our Troy, Alabama location. The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2020 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 15, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. To apply, please visit: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com/postings/22822>

Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/31/2019

Date Posted: 8/14/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5986

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Miami invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of public administration. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality scholarship in any subfield of public administration and/or public management. The ideal candidate will provide evidence of excellence in teaching and will be able to contribute to both our Masters of Public Administration (MPA) and undergraduate major in public administration. Applicants should also be able to teach at least one course in our forthcoming Masters of Public Policy (MPP) program. The expected teaching assignment is 2-2. Candidates should have a PhD or anticipate PhD completion by August 15, 2020 in public administration, public management, political science, or a related field.

Interested applicants may apply online at www.miami.edu/careers. Applicants should upload documents including a CV; a cover letter; a one-page teaching statement with a list of possible courses the applicant could teach, including but not limited to our existing course offerings; a PhD transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application); a writing sample; as well as three reference letters to be submitted via this site as well. Applications received on or before Monday, October 21, 2019, will be given full consideration, though the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (Gregory Koger, gkoger@miami.edu) or Search chair (Jonathan West, jwest@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at <http://www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/12/2019

Date Posted: 8/7/2019

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 5934

California State University, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position:

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Public Administration

Starting Date:

August, 2020

Minimum Qualifications:

- 1) An earned Ph.D. or DPA in Public Administration, Political Science, or a closely related field from an accredited institution is required; however, applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered. For appointment, the doctorate must be completed by the date of appointment (8/20/2020).
- 2) Evidence of successful teaching at the undergraduate level.
- 3) Evidence of experience teaching American government courses.
- 4) Documented research and scholarship in public administration in one or more of the following areas: third-sector and non-profit management; information technology, e-governance, m-governance; and/or public sector organizational communication.

Preferred Qualifications:

- 1) Evidence of successful experience teaching Public Administration courses at the graduate level.

2) Evidence of successful teaching using high impact practices, including, but not limited to: writing intensive curriculum, collaborative assignments and projects, diversity exploration, and/or community-based learning.

3) Evidence of engaging students in scholarly activities

Duties:

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching, research, scholarship and/or creative activity, and service to the University, profession and to the community. These responsibilities generally include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions.

The successful candidate may be required to teach an introductory American government course, undergraduate upper division public administration courses, and graduate level public administration courses.

The successful candidate will be committed to the academic success of all of our students and to an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates diversity and differences. To this end, the successful candidate will work effectively, respectfully, and collaboratively in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings. In addition, the successful candidate will be ready to join faculty, staff, students, and administrators in our University's shared commitment to the principles of engagement, service, and the public good.

Salary:

Initial salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University:

California State University, Los Angeles (Cal State LA) is one of 23 campuses within the California State University system. The University is the premier comprehensive public university in the heart of Los Angeles. Cal State LA is ranked number one in the U.S. for the upward mobility of its students, and is dedicated to engagement, service, and the public good. We offer nationally recognized programs in science, the arts, business, criminal justice, engineering, nursing, education, ethnic studies, and the humanities. Our faculty have a strong commitment to scholarship, research, creative pursuits, community engagement, and service.

Our 240,000 alumni reflect the City and County's dynamic mix of populations. The University has one of the most diverse student populations of any college or university in the nation. As a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution, and Asian-American, Native American, and Pacific Islander-Serving Institution, Cal State LA recognizes the transformative power of education and embraces its duty to identify and serve the needs of all of its students. The University is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can live, work and learn in an atmosphere of civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual.

The Department/Division/School:

The Department of Political Science at Cal State LA consists of ten full time faculty with teaching and research interests in public administration, public law, American government, political theory, comparative politics and international relations. The department is one of 15 departments within the College of Natural and Social Sciences, which supports the academic programs for 6000 students and 660 instructional personnel. Faculty are active scholars, as well as innovative teachers, who participate in University governance and serve in numerous student advisory capacities. We have a very robust public administration program and congenial faculty who are strongly committed to a long-range strategic vision that links our urban focus with global issues and opportunities. Our highly regarded NASPAA-accredited MPA program, which serves Southern California, has become an important resource for government and nonprofit agencies seeking graduates with skills in all areas of public administration, including policy analysis, budgetary process and financial administration, human resource management, program and policy evaluation, and intergovernmental and intersectoral relations. In a given year, well over half of our 90+ MPA students are employed professionals seeking an MPA for purposes of advancement to managerial positions.

Required Documentation:

Please submit the following to the Search Committee Chair at the email address below:

- 1) A cover letter specifically addressing minimum and preferred qualifications.
- 2) A curriculum vitae.
- 3) A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of first-generation students.
- 4) A list of three professional references.
- 5) A University Application for Employment Form (www.calstatela.edu/academic/position).

Finalists will be required to submit:

Official transcripts.

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application:

Review of applications will begin September 16, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

Please email all application materials in a single PDF to polisci@calstatela.edu. Please type "Public Administration Tenure-Track Application" in the subject line.

Please address all questions to the search committee chair Jessica DeShazo at: jdes haz@calstatela.edu.

Note: The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

In addition to meeting fully its obligations under federal and state law, Cal State LA is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can live, work and learn in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual. To that end, all qualified individuals will receive equal consideration without regard to economic status, race, ethnicity, color, religion, marital status, pregnancy, national origin or cultural background, political views, sex, sexual orientation, gender identification, age, disability, disabled veteran or Vietnam era veteran status.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY/TITLE IX EMPLOYER

Upon request, reasonable accommodation will be provided to individuals with protected disabilities to (a) complete the employment process and (b) perform essential job functions when this does not cause undue hardship.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5897

University of Missouri, St. Louis

Rank: Nonprofit Management and American Politics

The University of Missouri-St. Louis invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in the areas of Nonprofit Management & Leadership and in American Politics. The ability to teach a graduate course in quantitative methods is desirable. The person filling this position will have an appointment in the Political Science department and the NASPAA-accredited Public Policy Administration program within Political Science. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Nonprofit Management, Public Administration, Political Science, or a closely related field by the date of the appointment, August 15, 2020.

We seek an active scholar oriented to research and publication, high-quality teaching and community engagement. The department is also interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests respect and integrate a variety of methodological approaches. The normal teaching load, assuming an active research agenda, is two courses per semester. Salary is competitive.

The Department of Political Science

The mission of the Department of Political Science is to promote greater understanding of politics, government, and public policy by creating new knowledge, bringing new perspectives to existing knowledge, and disseminating scholarship to students and to the regional, national, and global communities. We offer a BA, an MA and a PhD in Political Science, a BA in International Relations, and a BS and a Master's in Public Policy Administration. Our department has a special responsibility to anchor our community with objective knowledge, civility, empathy, and democratic engagement; faculty work with UMSL's Community Innovation and Action Center and with community organizations.

The department maintains a high, steady level of quality publication of peer reviewed books, articles and chapters. The UMSL Political Science faculty rank about in the top ten percent of faculty in peer departments in all Public and Carnegie R-2 universities. The department also emphasizes first-rate teaching, and faculty have received numerous teaching awards. UMSL Political Scientists are very active, very visible representatives of the campus who are actively engaged in our community. The department's long-standing commitment to inclusion is reflected in the diversity of its faculty, students, and curriculum.

The University of Missouri–St. Louis

Established in 1963 in suburban St. Louis, UMSL is the largest public university in eastern Missouri with a current enrollment of over 16,000 in day and evening sessions. This metropolitan research and teaching institution is consistently recognized for its strong programs across disciplines, and it is considered a primary driver of the St. Louis economy, providing industries with educated and capable employees and leaders. UMSL is committed to meeting the diverse needs in the state's largest metropolitan community and, accordingly, is educating traditional and nontraditional students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs so they are prepared to be leaders in health professions; liberal and fine arts; science and technology; and in metropolitan and international affairs such as business, education and public policy. UMSL is a leader in partnerships with key institutions in the St. Louis Region. Alliances and programs have resulted from collaborations with the Missouri Botanical Garden, Saint Louis Zoo, St. Louis Science Center, Danforth Plant Science Center, and many others.

UMSL is one of four institutions in the University of Missouri land-grant system and is classified as RU-H (high research activity) and as a Community Engaged Campus by Carnegie rankings. Both the campus and the College of Arts and Science are committed to an inclusive campus community that values and respects all its members and achieves educational excellence through diversity. We encourage applications from individuals from diverse and minority backgrounds, including individuals with disabilities and veterans. For further information about UMSL, please see: <http://www.umsl.edu/proud/index.html>.

The Search Process

Applicants must apply online at www.umsl.jobs and submit a cover letter outlining qualifications and interests, and a CV. Applicants also should arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent to David Robertson, Chair, Department of Political Science, One University Blvd., St. Louis, MO, 63121. Review of applications will begin on October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Anticipated start date is August 15, 2020. Inquiries and nominations for the position can be sent to David Robertson (daverobertson@umsl.edu). The University of Missouri-St. Louis is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5757

Bowling Green State University

Rank: Adjunct professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Bowling Green State University seeks applications for possible part-time adjunct teaching positions for the Academic Year 2019-20 and Summer 2020. Successful applicants will teach undergraduate courses in Political Science, Public Administration, and related fields. Graduate teaching is a possibility. MA in Political Science or related field is required; PhD strongly preferred.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and two current (no more than a year old), original letters of reference and official transcripts indicating highest degree. Successful applicants will be required to authorize and pass a background check as a condition of employment. Please send materials to: Adjunct Teaching Committee, Department of Political Science, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH 43403.

No email applications will be accepted.

Unless they request otherwise, qualified applicants will also be considered for future adjunct teaching opportunities that may arise

Applications must be received by July 22, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5715

PUBLIC LAW

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2020-21

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for ten months, starting in August or September 2020. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/70841>

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7425

Southern Illinois University Carbondale

Rank: Assistant Professor (Paralegal Studies Program Coordinator/Criminology and Criminal Justice)

Assistant Professor (Paralegal Studies Program Coordinator/Criminology and Criminal Justice), School of Justice and Public Safety, Southern Illinois University Carbondale

The School of Justice and Public Safety at Southern Illinois University Carbondale invites applications for an Assistant Professor position to contribute to the school's programs in Paralegal Studies and Criminology and Criminal Justice. The selected individual will serve as coordinator of the American Bar Association (ABA)-approved Paralegal Studies program. This is a continuing, nine-month, tenure-track appointment with an anticipated start date of August 16, 2020.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position requires teaching courses in the undergraduate program in Paralegal Studies and the undergraduate, M.A., and Ph.D. programs in Criminology and Criminal Justice. Applicants will be responsible for maintaining an active independent research agenda relevant to the discipline that includes peer-reviewed publications (or a disciplinary equivalent) and grant activity, mentoring students, and engaging in service activities to assist the School and its programs. As the coordinator of the ABA-approved Paralegal Studies program, the selected individual will provide program leadership including, but not limited to, performing duties to support accreditation. Additional duties may include curriculum and program development, assistance with course scheduling, recruitment and retention of students, advising, preparation of articulation agreements, convening and leading program faculty and advisory board meetings, supporting the program's undergraduate student group, coordinating internships, and other duties as determined by the Director of the School of Justice and Public Safety.

Qualifications: Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an ABA-accredited law school and a Ph.D. in criminology and criminal justice or a related discipline at time of appointment—such as sociology, psychology, political science, economics, or geography—with a substantive research focus in criminology and criminal justice, law, or legal studies. Applicants must be able to teach courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in both programs (e.g., courts/sentencing, law, legal studies, general criminology or criminal justice courses). ABD applicants will be considered if all requirements for the PhD will be completed by August 15, 2020. If all requirements for the doctoral degree are not completed by August 15, 2020, a term, non-tenure track appointment may be offered in accordance with University policy (<http://policies.siu.edu/personnel/policies/chapter2/ch2-faps/conting.php>).

Preferred Qualifications: Experience working as or with paralegals; an active law license; and college-level teaching experience.

Application Deadline: December 2, 2019, or until filled.

Application Procedure: To apply, submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and complete contact information for three references to: mgiblin@siu.edu (include "PARL/CCJ SEARCH" in subject line)

or

Matthew Giblin, Director
School of Justice and Public Safety
Mail Code 4504
1000 Faner Drive

Southern Illinois University Carbondale
Carbondale, IL 62901
Telephone: 618/453-5701
Fax:618/453-6377

For more information on the Paralegal Studies (PARL) and Criminology and Criminal Justice (CCJ) programs, please see the following links: PARL (paralegal.siu.edu) and CCJ (ccj.siu.edu). Potential applicants are also encouraged to contact Matthew Giblin or any faculty member for information.

SIU Carbondale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of individuals with disabilities and protected veterans that strives to enhance its ability to develop a diverse faculty and staff and to increase its potential to serve a diverse student population. All applications are welcomed and encouraged and will receive consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Date Posted: 10/25/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7393

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor/Professor - Lateral - School of Law

Recruitment Period

Open date: October 1st, 2019
Last review date: Tuesday, Oct 15, 2019 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time)
Applications received after this date will be reviewed by the search committee if the position has not yet been filled.
Final date: Friday, Jan 31, 2020 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time)
Applications will continue to be accepted until this date, but those received after the review date will only be considered if the position has not yet been filled.

Description

The University of California, Berkeley, School of Law, invites applications from lateral candidates for full-time, tenured and tenure-track faculty positions with an expected start date of July 1, 2020. We welcome applications from candidates across all areas of law, although subject areas of particular interest include administrative law, business associations, business law, civil procedure, contracts, comparative and international law, criminal law and procedure, employment and labor law, environmental and energy law, evidence, immigration law, intellectual property, mergers and acquisitions, health law, property, race and law, tax, and torts. Further information about Berkeley Law is available at: <http://www.law.berkeley.edu>.

Berkeley Law is interested in candidates who have demonstrated a commitment to excellence by providing leadership in teaching, research and service toward building an equitable and diverse scholarly environment. Candidates must either: a) hold a J.D. or equivalent international degree by date of application, or b) hold or have advanced to candidacy status for a Ph.D., or equivalent international degree, by date of application. Candidates who do not hold a J.D. degree, but who have advanced to candidacy status for a Ph.D. or equivalent international degree, must have the Ph.D. or equivalent international degree conferred by the start date.

Application Procedure:

Lateral candidates who already hold tenured or tenure-track positions at other institutions must complete an online application via the following link: <https://apptrkr.com/1651144>. The Initial Review Date for lateral applications will be October 15, 2019. Application submissions will be accepted through January 31, 2020.

To receive full consideration for any position, please submit a completed application by the appropriate deadline listed above. Please direct questions to: <mailto:academicpositions@law.berkeley.edu>

Letters of reference, copies of scholarly manuscripts, and other materials such as teaching evaluations may be requested of top candidates for entry-level or lateral positions. All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a dossier service or career center, to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality (<http://apo.berkeley.edu/evaltr.html>) prior to submitting their letters.

The University is responsive to the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. For information about family friendly resources, potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Job location
Berkeley, CA

Learn More
More information about this recruitment: <https://www.law.berkeley.edu/>

Requirements
Document requirements

- Curriculum Vitae
- Statement on Contributions to Advancing Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion - Past and proposed contributions to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion. Further information about the diversity statement is available at: <https://ofew.berkeley.edu/recruitment/contributions-diversity/support-faculty-candidates>
- Future Research Agenda - A brief statement of proposed future research

Reference requirements

- 3-5 required (contact information only)

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-469daa81f47918429b46e6d77d48431f>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/31/2020
Date Posted: 10/18/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7364

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Constitutional Law & Theory to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) critical race theory or critical legal studies. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program with courses anchored in the concepts and methods of political science, while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach courses on Civil Rights & Liberties, Federalism, Judicial Process, a course in their substantive specialization, and required lower-division courses in U.S. Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government and Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/27/2019
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7327

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Constitutional Law & Theory

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Constitutional Law & Theory to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) critical race theory or critical legal studies. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program with courses anchored in the concepts and methods of political science, while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach courses on Civil Rights & Liberties, Federalism, Judicial Process, a course in their substantive specialization, and required lower-division courses in U.S. Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government and Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/27/2019
Date Posted: 10/16/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7347

University of Richmond

Rank: Tyler Haynes Professorship of Interdisciplinary Studies

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Policy, Open

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The University of Richmond Jepson School of Leadership Studies and School of Law invite nominations and applications for an endowed professorship. The ideal candidate will be a full professor with both J. D. and Ph.D. degrees. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research addresses areas of leadership and applied law, including the criminal justice system, the Supreme Court, healthcare, housing, immigration, education policy, or institutional analysis. Successful candidates will teach courses in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the School of Law.

Applications and inquiries may be directed to Al Goethals and Andy Spalding at hayneschair@richmond.edu. Candidates should attach a cover letter and curriculum vitae. In their cover letters, candidates should address how their scholarly and teaching interests connect to the study of leadership and law. Cover letters should also specify how the applicant might contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion in the classroom.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and continuing studies. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers students the opportunity to major or minor in leadership studies and provides a challenging liberal arts curriculum designed to educate students for and about leadership. The School of Law offers a curriculum that combines sophisticated legal theory with opportunities to put theory into practice, equipping students with the knowledge and skills they need to make valuable contributions to the legal system. For additional information about the two schools, see <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> and <https://law.richmond.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/7/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7268

University of Mount UnionRank: Assistant Professor, Political ScienceSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Mount Union is currently inviting applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position, beginning August 2020.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to teach three courses per semester (12 credit hours) and must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate education in a liberal arts setting. Primary responsibilities include:

Teaching introductory courses in American Politics, Law and Public Service as well as upper-level courses on American Institutions (Presidency; Congress); Law (e.g. Constitutional Law, Civil Rights, Legal Advocacy); and Public Policy. The ability to contribute additional courses in the candidate's area of specialization will be welcome.

- Contributing to the University of Mount Union's Integrative Core curriculum,
- Contributing to the strengthening and expansion of the Political Science curriculum,
- Guiding the growing legal studies program and the new 3-3 BA/JD programs,
- Contributing to the total university community and to civic and community life.
- Additional duties may be set by the department given institutional needs and priorities.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science (with a focus on American Politics, Public Policy and/or Law) by time of appointment is required. A J.D. or related degree will be an added plus. The candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to student-centered teaching and to scholarship

Candidates should provide a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available) and three letters of reference to the Political Science Search Committee. Electronic applications are required and can be submitted online at <http://www.mountunion.edu/employment>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Michael Grossman (grossmmo@mountunion.edu) with any questions. Review of applications will begin October 31, 2019, and will continue until the positions are filled.

This position is required to complete assigned University compliance training as communicated by the University.

The specific statements shown in each section of this description are not intended to be all-inclusive. They represent typical elements and criteria necessary to successfully perform the job. When requested, reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions of the job.

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/27/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 7246University of Texas, Arlington*Rank: Assistant Professor

Position ID: F00176P

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, focusing on American politics and public law/judicial politics, beginning August 2020. Completed Ph.D. is preferred although A.B.D.s will be considered. Scholars with a focus on the US Supreme Court/federal courts are especially invited to apply.

The successful applicant will be expected to develop and teach substantive policy courses in their area of expertise, to contribute to the Department's pre-law curriculum, to participate in pre-law advising, and to teach introductory courses, core undergraduate courses, and Master's level courses. Candidates should demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellence in social science research, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service appropriate to the rank. Salary is competitive. Successful candidates are expected to demonstrate a commitment to diversity and equity in education through their scholarship, teaching, and/or service.

Arlington, Texas is centrally located to major cultural, sporting, and entertainment venues, situated in the heart of the Dallas-Ft. Worth metropolitan area, with over 6 million residents and more than twenty municipalities (<http://www.dfwandbeyond.com/cities><http://www.dfwandbeyond.com/cities>). The University of Texas at Arlington campus is a short twenty-minute drive to DFW International Airport, downtown Fort Worth and downtown Dallas. The Department of Political Science (<http://www.uta.edu/pols><http://www.uta.edu/pols> and <https://www.facebook.com/POLSatUTARlington><https://www.facebook.com/POLSatUTARlington>) offers a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. It serves students from across the University (in state-mandated introductory courses) as well as over two hundred and forty undergraduate majors and minors and twenty to thirty graduate students.

To apply applicants should go to <http://uta.peopleadmin.com/> and submit the following materials: 1) provide a current CV, 2) a letter of interest, 3) one writing sample, and 4) names and contact information of three professional references. Screening will begin immediately upon receipt of a completed application. Applications will be accepted until the positions are filled.

UT Arlington is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The use of tobacco products is prohibited on UT Arlington properties. A criminal background check will be conducted on finalists.

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/17/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 6192

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Law

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Law to begin August 16, 2020. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to teach substantive courses in Public Law and Judicial Politics and contribute to the department's graduate and undergraduate programs in methodology. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a writing sample; statements of research and teaching interests; graduate transcript; and contact information, including telephone number and email address, for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation. The position will remain open until filled, and the search committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2019. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

Please contact the search committee chair, Robert Oldendick (rolde-ndi@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6183

California State University, Channel Islands

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The Political Science Department at California State University seeks applicants for the position of Assistant Professor specializing in Public Law.

--Applicants must be thoroughly prepared to teach courses in Judicial Politics, Judicial Process, Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, Immigration Law, and the like

--Applicants whose primary field of study is Political Philosophy or Theory are discouraged from applying. However, the ability to teach Political Philosophy as a secondary focus is an asset.

Our department has a strong record of teaching and research. We offer a rich curriculum in which most aspects of the discipline and many areas of the globe are covered. Given the depth of our faculty's expertise and the range of the courses we offer, our strengths lie in the areas of American politics, international relations, comparative politics, political theory, and public law.

The program's accomplishments are not limited to its faculty. Our students regularly present their papers at national or regional conferences. The program's Model United Nations Program is one of the most successful in the nation and has been repeatedly recognized for its outstanding achievements. The department is developing a strong pre-law focus with an eye toward offering students the opportunity to engage in moot court competitions and judicial internships.

CSU Channel Islands is a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants should demonstrate the ability and commitment to effectively work with and engage a diverse student population and evidence of successful mentoring minoritized students with a special focus on Latinx, African-American, and Native American students.

Required Qualifications

--Ph.D. in Political Science

--Extensive training in judicial politics and American law

--Evidence of a commitment to student-centered education

--Evidence of a commitment to interdisciplinarity

--Evidence of an active research agenda in the subfield of public law and judicial politics

--Enthusiasm for continuing to build a strong, extra-curricular pre-law program

Preferred Qualifications

--Ability to teach in a secondary field, preferably political philosophy

--Willingness to engage and mentor students in field-appropriate research

--Active participation in the life of the department and university

--Willingness to participate in developing an MPA program and offering appropriate courses

--Ability to cope with ambiguity

Apply online: <https://www.csucifacultyjobs.com>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6161

Mills College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The Mills College Department of Public Policy and Political Science seeks applicants for the tenure track position of Assistant Professor to begin in Fall 2020. The new faculty member will support the department's interdisciplinary major, Politics, Economics, Policy, and Law (PEPL), as well as the master's degree in public policy and the political science major. The successful candidate will teach 18 credits per year, including two sections of undergraduate Law and Society, a graduate course in public policy and the law, and a variety of electives related to their area of interest. In addition, they will provide programming and formal academic advising for students in the legal track of the PEPL major, as well as serving as the college's official pre-law advisor.

We prefer candidates with a JD and a doctoral degree in a related field (Political Science, Sociology, Public Policy, etc.). We will also consider candidates with a JD and a relevant master's degree (MPP, MPA, etc.). We further welcome applications from candidates with a PhD in Jurisprudence, Legal Studies, or relevant interdisciplinary field. All candidates must have college-level teaching experience and an active research agenda. To complement the department's existing expertise and meet the college's needs, we are seeking someone whose research focuses on the United States. Topical areas of particular interest include judicial politics, gender and the law, health law, and criminal justice.

We seek candidates with a passion for liberal arts education and social justice, who will support our diverse student body, providing mentorship and academic support and opportunities both inside and outside the classroom. Candidates with an interest in community engaged learning are especially encouraged to apply.

Apply at: <https://mills.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=115636>

Mills College has a rich history of educating women and gender nonconforming leaders at the local, state, and national levels. The Politics, Economics, Policy and Law major builds on this heritage. This interdisciplinary major is designed around critical thinking, leadership, and transformational change. It provides students with the core methodological and analytic skills of its four disciplines while allowing students to explore issues that transcend disciplinary boundaries. It produces students with diverse analytical, methodological, and practical skills who can become leaders in legal, government, non-profit, or business careers or pursue graduate programs in political science, economics, sociology, public policy, politics, and law. Many of our graduates go on to become community leaders, including lawyers, advocates, city councilmembers, policy directors, legislative staff, elected officials, and nonprofit leaders.

Located in Oakland, California, in the heart of the San Francisco Bay Area, Mills College is a liberal arts college for women and gender non-binary students, with graduate programs for all genders. Consistently ranked one of the top master's universities and one of the best value colleges in the West by U.S. News & World Report, Mills also has been named one of the Best Colleges in the nation by The Princeton Review. The Mills experience is distinguished by small, interactive classes, one-on-one attention from exceptional faculty, a culture of creative experimentation, and cutting-edge interdisciplinary learning opportunities which empower students to make a statement in their careers and communities. As one of the most diverse liberal arts colleges in the country, we have a strong record of academic success with first-generation students, students of color, Latinx students, LGBTQ students, and other underrepresented students. Mills College has recently become a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants with expertise and experience in supporting and promoting success for Latina/o students are encouraged to apply.

This is an exempt, full-time position and includes a comprehensive benefits package including medical/dental/vision/life/LTD insurance, 403(b) retirement plan with college match after a qualifying period. Faculty members also receive free admission to campus events, use of the pool, fitness center, and tennis courts. Tuition remission is also available after an introductory period. Voluntary benefits include: pet insurance, long-term care insurance and legal-assistance insurance.

Mills College does not permit discrimination based on pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, race, religious creed, color, national origin or ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. For more information on Mills' non-discrimination policy, please go to <https://www.mills.edu/policies/ada-policies/nondiscrimination-statement.php>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/18/2019

Date Posted: 9/11/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 6166

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

American Politics (Assistant or Associate Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for one full-time tenure track professor in the field of American Politics, beginning August of 2020. Our goal is to hire the strongest candidate available who is doing interesting and important scholarly research on American politics, including but not limited to political behavior, political institutions, identity politics, American political development, and/or American political thought. This position is at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor. Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, this faculty member would be expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate actively in departmental activities.

Successful candidates will have completed their Ph.D. degree in Political Science by August 1, 2020.

The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

To ensure full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30, 2019; however, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, complete curriculum vitae, two publications or papers, course syllabi and summary of teaching evaluations, and have at least three letters of recommendation forwarded to us. All application materials should be submitted online to the attention of Lauren M. MacLean, Department Chair, Department of Political Science at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/8344>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to Jessica Williams at 812-855-1209; email: jee-willi@indiana.edu; Department of Political Science, 210 Woodburn Hall, 1100 E. Seventh Street, Indiana University-Bloomington, Bloomington, Indiana, 47405-7110.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6045

California State University, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position:

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor of Political Science with focus on Public Law

Starting Date:

August, 2020

Minimum Qualifications:

- 1) An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in Political Science from an accredited institution (or equivalent) is required; however, applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered. For appointment, the doctorate must be completed by the date of appointment (8/20/2020).
- 2) Evidence of teaching and research experience in one or more of the following areas: civil rights & civil liberties, constitutional law, immigration law, international law, legal advocacy, and/or judicial behavior.
- 3) Evidence of successful teaching experience at the undergraduate level.
- 4) Documented record of scholarship in political science, especially public law.

Preferred Qualifications:

- 1) Evidence of successful teaching experience at the graduate level.
- 2) Evidence of engaging students in scholarly activities.
- 3) Evidence of experience successfully teaching American government.

Duties:

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching, research, scholarship and/or creative activity, and service to the University, profession and to the community. These responsibilities generally include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions.

The successful candidate will be committed to the academic success of all of our students and to an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates diversity and differences. To this end, the successful candidate will work effectively, respectfully, and collaboratively in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings. In addition, the successful candidate will be ready to join faculty, staff, students, and administrators in our University's shared commitment to the principles of engagement, service, and the public good.

Salary:

Initial salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University:

California State University, Los Angeles (Cal State LA) is one of 23 campuses within the California State University system. The University is the premier comprehensive public university in the heart of Los Angeles. Cal State LA is ranked number one in the U.S. for the upward mobility of its students, and is dedicated to engagement, service, and the public good. We offer nationally recognized programs in science, the arts, business, criminal justice, engineering, nursing, education, ethnic studies, and the humanities. Our faculty have a strong commitment to scholarship, research, creative pursuits, community engagement, and service.

Our 240,000 alumni reflect the City and County's dynamic mix of populations. The University has one of the most diverse student populations of any college or university in the nation. As a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution, and Asian-American, Native American, and Pacific Islander-Serving Institution, Cal State LA recognizes the transformative power of education and embraces its duty to identify and serve the needs of all of its students. The University is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can live, work and learn in an atmosphere of civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual.

The Department/Division/School:

The Department of Political Science at Cal State LA is housed in the College of Natural and Social Sciences, with student enrollment at 6000 distributed throughout 15 departments. The Department consists of ten full time faculty with teaching and research interests in public administration, public law, American government, political theory, comparative politics, and global politics. Faculty are active scholars, as well as innovative teachers, that advise and engage students in civic and scholarly activities. Faculty value diversity and participate in University shared governance. The Department offers three degree programs: Bachelor of Arts in Political Science with general, pre legal, public administration, and global options, Master of Arts in Political Science, and Master of Public Administration.

Required Documentation:

Please submit the following to the Search Committee Chair at the email address below:

- 1) A cover letter specifically addressing minimum and preferred qualifications.
- 2) A curriculum vitae.
- 3) A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of first-generation students.
- 4) A list of three professional references.
- 5) A University Application for Employment Form (www.calstatela.edu/academic/position).

Finalists will be required to submit:

Official transcripts.

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application:

Review of applications will begin September 1, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

Please email all application materials in a single PDF to polisci@calstatela.edu. Please type "Political Science Public Law Tenure-Track Application" in the subject line.

Please address all questions to the search committee chair, Martin J. Adamian at: madamia2@calstatela.edu.

Note: The person holding this position is considered a “mandated reporter” under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6014

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Law

Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Position - Advertisement
Department of Political Science
The University of Tennessee

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in Public Law to begin Fall 2020. Area of specialization in Public Law and field within Political Science are open. We are particularly interested in applicants who use rigorous analytical approaches to address substantively important questions including but not limited to issues of race, gender, and/or inequality in the law or legal processes. The successful candidate must have strong research skills and a theoretically oriented research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). Preference will be shown for applicants with teaching and research interests that complement existing departmental interests and strengths, have a capacity for attracting extramural funding, demonstrate evidence of or potential for college/university teaching excellence, and exhibit a commitment to diversity and inclusion. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state’s flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: <http://web.utk.edu/~polisci>.

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded via Interfolio. Please submit application material in digital format via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/66892>. Review of applications begins October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Jana Morgan at janamorgan@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/29/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5863

North Central College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at North Central College seeks candidates for a tenure-track position in political science with emphasis in public law, judicial politics, law and society, or comparative law to begin Fall 2020. Ph.D. must be in hand by August 1, 2020. Our department is committed to preparing students to contribute meaningfully to a democracy, while at the same time understanding the nuance of political equality and civic participation. We value diversity and are committed to social justice, equity, and inclusiveness. Experience working with historically marginalized and underserved communities will be weighed in a candidate’s favor.

Applicants should have teaching experience and show potential for excellence in undergraduate teaching and scholarship. In addition to teaching courses in law (Introduction to Law, Constitutional Law, Civil Rights and Liberties), a candidate should be prepared to teach the introductory course in American government and contribute to the department’s methodology courses. The department expects that the successful candidate will also develop courses in their areas of expertise. There will be additional opportunities for the successful candidate to contribute to North Central’s tradition of interdisciplinary learning.

Founded in 1861, North Central College is a selective, comprehensive liberal arts institution of about 3000 students, located 28 miles west of Chicago in Naperville. The College is in a period of growth with the addition of a $60 million Science Center opened in March 2017. The college is within walking distance of the Naperville Metra station and is next to downtown Naperville. The Naperville area is home to many excellent school districts and Naperville, IL has been ranked as one of the best places to live by Money magazine. For more information, please visit: <http://www.noctrl.edu>.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of scholarly interest, evidence of teaching effectiveness and three letters of recommendation in an electronic format.

To apply on line copy and paste link below into browser: <https://northcentralcollege.peopleadmin.com/postings/6584>

For further information, please email Dr. William Muck, Chair of Political Science, at wjmuck@noctrl.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 16, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5857

Centre College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Race & Ethnic Politics

Centre College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Politics with expertise in American public law. We seek teacher-scholars that demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at a nationally-ranked liberal arts college. Ideal candidates should be able to teach a combination of introductory and upper level courses in American politics and public law, including courses focused on the American legal system, Constitutional law/interpretation, civil liberties, civil rights, and other related topics. We are especially interested in candidates with specializations at the intersection of race, ethnicity, gender, and/or sexuality and American public law. This candidate will serve as the institution's pre-law faculty advisor and previous experience with applied legal practice/education is desirable.

At Centre College, a six-course teaching load is typically divided between two long semesters (five courses divided between fall and spring) and a three-week winter term (one course). Candidates must have a Ph.D. or J.D. by the time of appointment, although a Ph.D. is preferred. Applications from A.B.D. candidates will be considered. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience with and enjoy teaching, mentoring, and creating inclusive environments where all students can thrive.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,450 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. For information concerning the college, visit our website at <http://www.centre.edu>. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati.

To apply, please submit the following materials by September 15, 2019: a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, materials demonstrating teaching effectiveness, three confidential letters of recommendation, and transcripts. In addition, please include a diversity statement explaining how you would contribute to and/or address the issues of diversity and inclusion at Centre. The letter of application must include a statement addressing the candidate's experience and goals as a teacher/scholar in the liberal arts model. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2019.

Applications can be submitted via the Interfolio portal at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/65555>

Centre College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Centre College is a proud member of the Greater Kentucky Higher Education Recruitment Consortium: <http://www.greaterkyherc.org>. The Greater Kentucky HERC is a non-profit organization composed of a diverse group of colleges, universities, hospitals, government agencies, non-profit organizations, and members of private industry committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse, talented workforce. Member representatives include faculty, staff, human resources professionals, institutional leaders, and faculty relations experts.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 9/15/2019

Date Posted: 7/17/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5787

California State University, San Bernardino

Rank: Assistant Professor, Constitutional Law and American Politics

POSITION: Assistant Professor

START DATE: August 17, 2020

SALARY: Dependent on qualifications and expertise

APPLICATION DEADLINE: November 1, 2019

SUBFIELD: Constitutional Law and American Politics

RANK AND QUALIFICATIONS: Tenure-track Assistant Professor. Candidates must hold Ph.D. at time of employment and demonstrate evidence of teaching and research promise.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

The Department of Political Science at California State University, San Bernardino seeks applicants for a tenure-track position with primary expertise in the fields of Constitutional Law, including civil liberties and civil rights, and American Politics, including political institutions and public policy, to begin August, 2020. A Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. We expect successful candidates for this tenure-track position to teach courses in Constitutional Law and American Politics. The successful candidate will teach a variety of upper-division courses in these and related areas of specialization and also teach lower-division American Government courses. In addition, the candidate may be asked to teach graduate courses. The successful candidate will produce scholarly research and provide service to the university and community.

California State University, San Bernardino (CSUSB) is located in San Bernardino in the Inland Empire, 60 miles east of Los Angeles and operates a satellite campus in Palm Desert located in Coachella Valley. CSUSB serves approximately 20,000 students, of which 81% are first-generation college students, and graduates about 5,000 students annually. As a designated Hispanic Serving Institution, CSUSB reflects the dynamic diversity of the region and has one of the most diverse student populations of any university in the Inland Empire, and the second highest Hispanic enrollment of all public universities in California. CSUSB employs 467 full-time faculty and offers 48 undergraduate, 35 graduate, and 1 doctoral degree programs and 14 academic programs with national accreditation.

At CSUSB, diversity, equity and inclusion are values central to our mission. We recognize that diversity and inclusion in all its forms are necessary for our institutional success. By fully leveraging our diverse experiences, backgrounds and insights, we inspire innovation, challenge the status quo and create better outcomes for our students and community. As part of CSUSB's commitment to hire, develop and retain a diverse faculty, we offer a variety of networking, mentoring and development programs for our junior faculty. We are committed to building and sustaining a CSUSB community that is supportive and inclusive of all individuals. Qualified applicants with experience in ethnically diverse settings and/or who demonstrate a commitment to serving diverse student populations are strongly encouraged to apply.

TYPICAL ACTIVITIES:

Preferred candidates will be expected to meet the traditional requirements of excellence in teaching, active scholarly and professional work, and service to the university and community.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring a diverse student population and to working effectively with faculty, staff and students across a wide range of disciplines.

In addition, new faculty are encouraged to develop and participate in activities that support the University's strategic plan. This plan emphasizes: a) student success; b) faculty and staff success; c) stewarding resources; d) community engagement and partnerships; and, e) enhancing campus identity. CSUSB's Strategic Plan is available at <https://www.csusb.edu/strategic-plan>.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by time of appointment.

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION:

To assure full consideration, application materials are due by November 1, 2019.

To apply please submit the following required documents:

- 1) Curriculum Vitae
- 2) Letter of application that includes:
 - a. A statement of your teaching philosophy.
 - b. A statement of your research experience and goals.
 - c. A statement of how you might contribute to CSUSB's Strategic Plan areas.
- 3) Evidence of teaching effectiveness such as teaching portfolios, reports on teaching observations, and/or student evaluations of teaching (if available).
- 4) Unofficial copies of all postsecondary degree transcripts (official transcripts will be required prior to appointment).
- 5) Reference List - names, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three referees whom we may contact to obtain letters of recommendation.

6) A Diversity Statement, which may include your interpretation of diversity, equity, and inclusion, and must include specific examples of how your background and your educational and/or professional experiences have prepared you for this role at California State University, San Bernardino (maximum 1,000 words).

Formal review of applications will begin on November 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Information regarding CSUSB's Department of Political Science can be found at <https://csbs.csusb.edu/political-science>. If you are interested in this opportunity, we invite you to apply at: <https://www.governmentjobs.com/careers/csusb/jobs/2495455>.

Salary is commensurate with experience.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

California State University, San Bernardino is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status. This position adheres to CSU policies against Sex Discrimination, Sexual Harassment, and Sexual Violence, including Domestic Violence, Dating Violence, and Stalking. This requires completion of Sexual Violence Prevention Training within 6 months of assuming employment and on a two-year basis thereafter. (Executive Order 1096 - Revised July 21, 2017)

This position may be "Designated" under California State University's Conflict of Interest Code. This would require the filing of a Statement of Economic Interest on an annual basis and the completion of training within 6 months of assuming office and every 2 years thereafter. Visit the Human Resources Conflict of Interest web page link for additional information: <http://hrd.csusb.edu/conflictInterest.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 7/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5763

California State University, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Immigration Policy

Minimum Qualifications:

1) An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in Political Science from an accredited institution (or equivalent) is required; however, applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered. For appointment, the doctorate must be completed by the date of appointment (8/20/2020).

2) Evidence of teaching and research experience in one or more of the following areas: civil rights & civil liberties, constitutional law, immigration law, international law, legal advocacy, and/or judicial behavior.

3) Evidence of successful teaching experience at the undergraduate level.

4) Documented record of scholarship in political science, especially public law.

Preferred Qualifications:

1) Evidence of successful teaching experience at the graduate level.

2) Evidence of engaging students in scholarly activities.

3) Evidence of experience successfully teaching American government.

Duties:

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching, research, scholarship and/or creative activity, and service to the University, profession and to the community. These responsibilities generally include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions.

The successful candidate will be committed to the academic success of all of our students and to an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates diversity and differences. To this end, the successful candidate will work effectively, respectfully, and collaboratively in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings. In addition, the successful candidate will be ready to join faculty, staff, students, and administrators in our University's shared commitment to the principles of engagement, service, and the public good.

Salary:

Initial salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University:

California State University, Los Angeles (Cal State LA) is one of 23 campuses within the California State University system. The University is the premier comprehensive public university in the heart of Los Angeles. Cal State LA is ranked number one in the U.S. for the upward mobility of its students, and is dedicated to engagement, service, and the public good. We offer nationally recognized programs in science, the arts, business, criminal justice, engineering, nursing, education, ethnic studies, and the humanities. Our faculty have a strong commitment to scholarship, research, creative pursuits, community engagement, and service.

Our 240,000 alumni reflect the City and County's dynamic mix of populations. The University has one of the most diverse student populations of any college or university in the nation. As a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution, and Asian-American, Native American, and Pacific Islander-Serving Institution, Cal State LA recognizes the transformative power of education and embraces its duty to identify and serve the needs of all of its students. The University is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can live, work and learn in an atmosphere of civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual.

The Department/Division/School:

The Department of Political Science at Cal State LA is housed in the College of Natural and Social Sciences, with student enrollment at 6000 distributed throughout 15 departments. The Department consists of ten full time faculty with teaching and research interests in public administration, public law, American government, political theory, comparative politics, and global politics. Faculty are active scholars, as well as innovative teachers, that advise and engage students in civic and scholarly activities. Faculty value diversity and participate in University shared governance. The Department offers three degree programs: Bachelor of Arts in Political Science with general, pre legal, public administration, and global options, Master of Arts in Political Science, and Master of Public Administration.

Required Documentation:

Please submit the following to the Search Committee Chair at the email address below:

1) A cover letter specifically addressing minimum and preferred qualifications.

2) A curriculum vitae.

3) A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of first-generation students.

4) A list of three professional references.

5) A University Application for Employment Form (www.calstatela.edu/academic/position).

Finalists will be required to submit:

Official transcripts.

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application:

Review of applications will begin September 1, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

Please email all application materials in a single PDF to polisci@calstatela.edu. Please type "Political Science Public Law Tenure-Track Application" in the subject line.

Please address all questions to the search committee chair, Martin J. Adamian at: madamia2@calstatela.edu.

Note: The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/9/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5759

Bowling Green State University

Rank: Adjunct professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Bowling Green State University seeks applications for possible part-time adjunct teaching positions for the Academic Year 2019-20 and Summer 2020. Successful applicants will teach undergraduate courses in Political Science, Public Administration, and related fields. Graduate teaching is a possibility. MA in Political Science or related field is required; PhD strongly preferred.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and two current (no more than a year old), original letters of reference and official transcripts indicating highest degree. Successful applicants will be required to authorize and pass a background check as a condition of employment. Please send materials to: Adjunct Teaching Committee, Department of Political Science, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH 43403. No email applications will be accepted.

Unless they request otherwise, qualified applicants will also be considered for future adjunct teaching opportunities that may arise

Applications must be received by July 22, 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5715

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Rod and Nancy Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty

Rod and Nancy Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty

The Institute for the American Constitutional Heritage (IACH) at the University of Oklahoma (OU) seeks an established and nationally recognized scholar to hold the newly established Sanders Family Chair in Law and Liberty. The position is at the associate or full professor level and will be jointly appointed in the Department of Classics & Letters and the successful candidate's home disciplinary department or College, e.g., History or Political Science (both in the College of Arts and Sciences), or the College of Law.

The successful candidate will contribute to the core mission of the IACH, a vibrant interdisciplinary center for the study of American constitutionalism housed in Classics & Letters. The IACH has four faculty lines and over 30 affiliated faculty across the university who offer courses to over 100 undergraduates majoring or minoring in Constitutional Studies.

We seek a candidate with a teaching and research profile that would include, but not be limited to, the ancient roots of law, liberty, and self-governance; the development of republican thought and ideas of liberty and the rule of law in the modern world; and the historical and ideological background of the American founding.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. (or a J.D. for exceptional candidates with established records of scholarly excellence) and a substantial scholarly record in a discipline related to the core mission of the IACH. The successful candidate should also have an established commitment to teaching and mentoring undergraduate students, as well as experience in graduate teaching and mentoring, or clear potential for excellence in this area. The teaching load will be three courses a year (2-1).

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should initially submit a letter of interest, a current C.V., and three letters of reference to. Applicants should go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/59901>.

to submit their application. The position will begin in August 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 2/25/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5469

PUBLIC POLICY

Bilkent University

Rank: Multiple Ranks in Political Science

Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Bilkent University (Turkey) invites applications for the following two full-time positions:

1. Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Public Policy.

Applicants are expected to have a PhD in Political Science and/or Public Administration, or a cognate field at the time of appointment. They must demonstrate an active and methodologically rigorous research agenda and a strong record of publication. Applicants are also expected to offer high-quality teaching at undergraduate and postgraduate levels, including MA and/or PhD supervision.

2. Instructor in Sociology.

Applicants are expected to have a PhD in Political Science, Sociology, or a cognate field at the time of appointment. Candidates for the positions should have a record of high-quality teaching. Responsibilities include teaching Introduction to Sociology, which is a core course of the Political Science Department but also offered to the rest of the University (as must or elective).

The anticipated starting date for both positions is September 2020.

How to apply: Please submit your application by uploading the following items at this address: <https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/POLS2019>

- cover letter (inclusive of teaching and research statement)
- CV
- names and contact details of three referees (or three letters of recommendation, if available)
- two sample publications (article/s or introductory chapter of a monograph)

Application deadline: 31 December 2019

Contact details: pols@bilkent.edu.tr

Further information on Bilkent University is available here: <http://w3.bilkent.edu.tr/bilkent/about-bilkent/>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/31/2019

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7424

CUNY-Baruch College

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

The Marxe School is a multi-disciplinary community of scholars dedicated to teaching and research in policy and administration in domestic and international affairs as well as in higher education administration; our three graduate degree programs are the Master of Public Administration, the Master of International Affairs, and the Master of Science in Higher Education Administration. We also have a Bachelor of Science in Public Affairs. We are open to applications from a wide range of disciplines corresponding to those interests, including but not limited to Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Science, History, Sociology, Communication Studies, Economics, International Affairs, Higher Education Administration, and Demography.

The Marxe School of Public and International Affairs seeks an Associate or Full Professor to assume the directorship of the School's survey research center, Baruch College Survey Research (BCSR). The successful candidate will teach courses and conduct academic research consistent with the appointment. Performs teaching, research and guidance duties in area(s) of expertise. Shares responsibility for committee and department assignments including administrative, supervisory, and other functions.

You can view and apply for this job at:

https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=21350&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

Qualifications: Ph.D. degree in a field listed above. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

The Marxe School seeks someone who has had experience involving a survey research operation with a Computer-Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI) lab, web-based surveys, focus groups, and other methods for gathering data on public opinion about policy-relevant issues. Most of BCSR's revenue is derived from contracts with clients from academia (including but not limited to Baruch College itself), government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and other institutional partners, making experience in professional management of survey staff and oversight of grants and contracts a must. Experience with media organizations is desirable.

We expect the successful candidate to begin his or her appointment in the Fall term of 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7427

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2020-21

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for ten months, starting in August or September 2020. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/70841>

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7425

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve countless lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civictech startup.

Position: We are looking for multiple postdoctoral fellows to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects related to immigration policy around the globe. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year beginning in August 2020. Salary is competitive and standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis; experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful; knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued. We are open to scholars with a wide range of expertise in immigration and policy and have a particular interest in researchers focused on migration and development.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements: Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications should be submitted by November 8, 2019, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2020).

Applications will only be accepted via AcademicJobsOnline: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15074>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/8/2019

Date Posted: 10/30/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7419

Colorado State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Administration

Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Administration, Public Budgeting and/or Finance focus

The School of Public Policy and Innovative Leadership within the College of Liberal Arts at Colorado State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Policy and Administration with a teaching interest in public budgeting and/or public finance. This position will support a new graduate degree program launching Fall 2020, the Master of Public Policy and Administration (MPPA), and be a part of an exciting new interdisciplinary endeavor in the College.

The College values both strong teaching and research. Successful candidates will be expected to offer courses in public policy and administration including a required graduate level core course in public budgeting. Additional teaching assignments will depend on the candidate's interests and expertise as well as College needs. The normal teaching load is 2-2. Faculty members are expected to advise and mentor graduate students; develop an active research agenda; and provide service to the degree program, School, college, university, and community.

Required Job Qualifications: Primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in public policy and administration; evidence of the ability to teach public budgeting and/or public finance at the graduate level, an active research agenda in public policy and administration; PhD in Public Policy, Public Administration, or related field by August 16, 2020; and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Preferred Job Qualifications: A demonstrated commitment to public service values; experience in internship mentorship and/or applied research experience; Ability to enhance the College's commitment to diversity and inclusion reflecting the College and School's institutional values.

Application Procedure: Applications will be accepted until the position is filled; to ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by November 18, 2019. Applicants should submit: 1) a letter of application responding to the required and preferred qualifications 2) Curriculum vitae; 3) Graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts acceptable at the initial stage of the search), 4) Evidence of demonstrated or potential teaching effectiveness (syllabi, teaching evaluations, letters of observation), 5) One sample of research (published or unpublished), and 6) The names and contact information of three professional referees. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Susan Opp at susan.opp@colostate.edu

Please apply at: <https://jobs.colostate.edu/postings/72241>

CSU is an EO/EA/AA employer and conducts background checks on all final candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7399

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

North Dakota State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track position in political economy, to begin on August 16, 2020.

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor—or, for especially qualified applicants, associate professor—starting Fall 2020. We seek candidates with expertise in any area of political economy, although especially invite applications from candidates who focus on the political economy of development. For candidates with a regional specialization, we are especially interested in scholars studying areas other than Europe and North America. Successful applicants should be versed in comparative or international political economy and have a strong commitment to policy-relevant research and teaching. This is a 50% research, 40% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is, at most, 2-2, with at least one course release in the first three years. While the tenure home will be in the Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science, this position will be affiliated with the NDSU College of Business' Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research, teaching, and outreach that contributes to the Institute's mission. In turn, the Institute may also provide opportunities for graduate student assistance, course buyouts, and summer research support. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, upper-division classes on political economy, political institutions, and global policy issues, and will have opportunities to contribute to existing and emerging programs in public policy, political and economic institutions, and global studies. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2020, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) experience teaching political economy, institutions, and/or global policy courses at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels, 4) potential to contribute to the Challey Institute's mission, and 5) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of research productivity and quality, 2) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, 3) have experience pursuing and/or obtaining external funding, 4) have a research focus on the political economy of development, 5) conduct teaching and research that can contribute to NDSU's commitment to diversity and inclusion, 6) have experience working in, or developing, a global studies program, 7) have experience contributing to, or developing, a master's program in public policy, and/or 8) have a regional focus outside Europe and North America.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and names and contact information for 3 references (we will contact references for roughly 10 short-listed applicants). All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/10886>. Initial screening of applications will begin on or about November 21, 2019.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 12 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The Challey Institute

The Sheila and Robert Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth is an interdisciplinary institute that aims to advance understanding in the areas of innovation, trade, and institutions to identify policies and solutions that enhance economic growth and opportunity. The Challey Institute works toward achieving its mission by engaging in research, student programming, and outreach in the areas of (1) international trade, investment, and immigration, (2) innovation and entrepreneurship, and (3) institutions and policy.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>. Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 245,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year-round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7385

Southern Illinois University Carbondale

Rank: Assistant Professor (Paralegal Studies Program Coordinator/Criminology and Criminal Justice)

Assistant Professor (Paralegal Studies Program Coordinator/Criminology and Criminal Justice), School of Justice and Public Safety, Southern Illinois University Carbondale

The School of Justice and Public Safety at Southern Illinois University Carbondale invites applications for an Assistant Professor position to contribute to the school's programs in Paralegal Studies and Criminology and Criminal Justice. The selected individual will serve as coordinator of the American Bar Association (ABA)-approved Paralegal Studies program. This is a continuing, nine-month, tenure-track appointment with an anticipated start date of August 16, 2020.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position requires teaching courses in the undergraduate program in Paralegal Studies and the undergraduate, M.A., and Ph.D. programs in Criminology and Criminal Justice. Applicants will be responsible for maintaining an active independent research agenda relevant to the discipline that includes peer-reviewed publications (or a disciplinary equivalent) and grant activity, mentoring students, and engaging in service activities to assist the School and its programs. As the coordinator of the ABA-approved Paralegal Studies program, the selected individual will provide program leadership including, but not limited to, performing duties to support accreditation. Additional duties may include curriculum and program development, assistance with course scheduling, recruitment and retention of students, advising, preparation of articulation agreements, convening and leading program faculty and advisory board meetings, supporting the program's undergraduate student group, coordinating internships, and other duties as determined by the Director of the School of Justice and Public Safety.

Qualifications: Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an ABA-accredited law school and a Ph.D. in criminology and criminal justice or a related discipline at time of appointment-such as sociology, psychology, political science, economics, or geography-with a substantive research focus in criminology and criminal justice, law, or legal studies. Applicants must be able to teach courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in both programs (e.g., courts/sentencing, law, legal studies, general criminology or criminal justice courses). ABD applicants will be considered if all requirements for the PhD will be completed by August 15, 2020. If all requirements for the doctoral degree are not completed by August 15, 2020, a term, non-tenure track appointment may be offered in accordance with University policy (<http://policies.siu.edu/personnel/policies/chapter2/ch2-faps/conting.php>).

Preferred Qualifications: Experience working as or with paralegals; an active law license; and college-level teaching experience.

Application Deadline: December 2, 2019, or until filled.

Application Procedure: To apply, submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and complete contact information for three references to: mgiblin@siu.edu (include "PARL/CCJ SEARCH" in subject line) or

Matthew Giblin, Director
School of Justice and Public Safety
Mail Code 4504
1000 Faner Drive
Southern Illinois University Carbondale
Carbondale, IL 62901
Telephone: 618/453-5701
Fax:618/453-6377

For more information on the Paralegal Studies (PARL) and Criminology and Criminal Justice (CCJ) programs, please see the following links: PARL (parlegal.siu.edu) and CCJ (ccj.siu.edu). Potential applicants are also encouraged to contact Matthew Giblin or any faculty member for information.

SIU Carbondale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of individuals with disabilities and protected veterans that strives to enhance its ability to develop a diverse faculty and staff and to increase its potential to serve a diverse student population. All applications are welcomed and encouraged and will receive consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 10/25/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7393

Columbia University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: China, East Asia, International Security

Columbia University & Harvard University
China and the World Program (C&WP)
Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2020-2021, C&WP will collaborate with the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University (WEAI) to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University (one funded by WEAI and one funded by CWP), and will teach one course in the spring semester. When not attending to program-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP and WEAI. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2020-2021 academic year, beginning September 1, 2020, ending May 31, 2021. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University.

Qualifications:

- Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2017 and August 31, 2020.
- Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
- Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp@columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

- 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
- Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
- Project description
- Two scholarly writing samples
- One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
- Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
- Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
- Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2020; a public announcement will be made by April 2020.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, or the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, and www.weai.columbia.edu respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 10/24/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7384

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Specializations: American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public administration/policy beginning August 2020. The ideal candidate will have the skills necessary to teach and develop courses that incorporate issues of equity and justice, ethnic diversity, and race for both the undergraduate and graduate programs. Additional teaching requirements include American politics, public administration/policy, as well as core and elective classes in public administration. Ability to teach research methods at the undergraduate and graduate level a plus. The department is particularly interested in candidates who have experience mentoring and advising students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for students who represent historically oppressed and marginalized identities. A PhD in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field is required.

The Political Science Department has 20 fulltime faculty, over 360 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a NASPAA Accredited Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program.

The College of Charleston is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. The College is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with a student body consisting of approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 900 graduate students, including 20% of whom identify as minority and 140 international students from 34 different countries. Additional information about the institution, the student body, and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>.

Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter that specifically describes how the candidate will contribute to department goals related to equity, inclusion, and co-creation; a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with a teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references.

Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Judy Millesen (millesenjl@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin November 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7381

Penn State Harrisburg

Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor of Homeland Security

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Assistant Teaching Professor of Homeland Security

Penn State Harrisburg, School of Public Affairs (SPA), invites applications for a non-tenure-track Assistant Teaching Professor position in Homeland Security to begin August 2020. The successful candidate will teach in the online Intercollege Master of Professional Studies in Homeland Security Program (iMPS-HLS), in the online Graduate Certificate in Homeland Security, as well as in the Undergraduate Minor in Homeland Security that is offered online as well as in residence. The successful candidate will also contribute to the Homeland Security specialization in the Ph.D. in Public Administration program. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. in Homeland Security or a related field as well as a scholastic record of accomplishment. Additional practical experience in the homeland security mission space is a plus. While the area of specialization is open, the successful candidate should be able to teach homeland security theory, policy, and strategy; comparative homeland security; multifaceted approaches to homeland security; strategic planning in homeland defense and security, as well as the capstone course (culminating experience) in the master's program. All candidates should demonstrate excellence in teaching to the state of the art in the field and contributing to curriculum evolution, as well as the ability and willingness to engage in service appropriate to their rank, including recruitment and academic advisement of students, and must qualify for membership in the Graduate Faculty of The Pennsylvania State University: <http://www.gradschool.psu.edu/faculty-and-staff/faculty/criteria>. The SPA offers additional undergraduate programs in Political Science, Public Policy, Health Policy and Administration, and Criminal Justice as well as additional master's programs in Criminal Justice, Health Administration, Public Administration, as well as a Ph.D. in Public Administration. It is the home of Penn State's Intercollege Master of Professional Studies in Homeland Security. For more information on the School, its programs, and its faculty, visit our web site at <http://harrisburg.psu.edu/public-affairs>. Penn State Harrisburg is located in Pennsylvania's state capital region near the Penn State College of Medicine and Hershey Medical Center. It is within a two-three-hour drive from larger metropolitan areas such as Baltimore, Washington, D.C., New York City, and Philadelphia, PA. For information about Penn State Harrisburg visit: <http://www.hbg.psu.edu> Applicants for the position should submit a letter of application indicating interest for the position, a curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, as well as three letters of professional reference. Application review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at <https://apptrkr.com/1673125>

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-e87241cf1a164347993500612ebe9b74>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7380

University of Arizona

Rank: Assistant Professor- Crime/Criminal Justice

The School of Government and Public Policy (SGPP) at the University of Arizona invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in the politics and policy of crime and criminal justice, beginning in fall 2020. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our existing or emerging strengths in criminal justice administration and reform, policing and public law enforcement, court actors and processes, incarceration/sentencing policies and the nexus of race and ethnic politics and any facet of the criminal justice system. A PhD in public management, public policy, political science, or a related social science field is required.

SGPP is housed within the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS), and is home to an interdisciplinary faculty. This position is intended to contribute to one or more unit strengths at the intersection of public management, criminal justice, network science, collaborative governance, nonprofit management, environmental management and policy, and political science. Additional information on the School of Government and Public Policy is available at <http://sgpp.arizona.edu/>

The candidate will be expected to have a demonstrated ability to conduct and publish significant empirical research. The successful candidate will be expected to teach two courses per semester at the undergraduate and graduate level, and to participate in outreach and contribute to departmental, college, and university service. Our faculty also help to develop innovative approaches to enhancing student engagement, increasing diversity, and expanding collaborations with community and business partners.

The University of Arizona has been recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution and, together with the SBS, has a strong commitment to diversity. The successful candidate must be able to work with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds; individuals from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Applicant reviews will begin November 11, 2019 and continue until position is filled. Candidates should submit a cover letter, statement of research and teaching interests (title of document slot within the application is "Statement of Research Interests"), current Curriculum Vitae, a sample of publications, and a writing sample via this website. Additionally, applicants will need to provide three letters of references.

General questions and all Letters of Reference can be directed the School of Government & Public Policy, Manager of Administration, Angela Hackett at ahackett@email.arizona.edu.

All applications must be submitted through the University of Arizona Careers Website. Direct link to posting: <https://uacareers.com/hr/postings/41734>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7379

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Rank: Adjunct Instructor/Lecturer

Department of Political Science
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

The Department of Political Science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign invites applications for a part time, non-tenure-track adjunct lecturer (PhD required) or adjunct instructor (Master's degree required) position teaching Public Policy . We seek candidates with training and experience in public policy who can offer a 200-level or 300-level course at the university's Illinois-in-Washington Program in Washington, DC. A commitment to excellence in teaching is essential.

The University of Illinois is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. For more information, visit <http://go.illinois.edu/EEO>.

This is a part-time position with an initial appointment of Jan 1, 2020- May 15, 2020. The position is renewable yearly based on funding and strong performance reviews. Renewed appointments will be on a 9-month service basis (Aug 16-May 15) to teach one course in fall and spring semesters. Salary is $10,000 per course.

To apply, create your profile through <https://jobs.illinois.edu> and upload your application materials: letter of application (including a statement of teaching interests), CV, evidence of excellence in teaching, and contact information for three professional references. All applications received by November 4, 2019 will receive full consideration. Only applications submitted through the University of Illinois Job Board will be considered. For further information regarding application procedures, contact Brenda Stamm at stamm@illinois.edu. The University of Illinois conducts criminal background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 11/4/2019

Date Posted: 10/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7372

Ithaca College

Rank: Assistant Professor Gender and Feminist Politics

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Politics at Ithaca College invites applications for a tenure-eligible position in Gender and Feminist Politics, with preferred expertise in the subfields of feminist political theory and public policy. While we are open to any geographical area of specialization, we are particularly interested in candidates with a strong research and teaching record in some or any of the following areas: politics, policy and power at the intersection of critical race, class, gender and feminist theorizing, reproductive rights, LGBTQI studies, politics of sexuality, transnational resistance movements, gender-responsive institution building, inclusive development, or related research areas.

The successful candidate will teach an annual 18-credit load of undergraduate courses at the introductory, intermediate, and advanced levels. This is equivalent to three courses per semester (3/3). The selected candidate will be expected to maintain an active scholarship program and will be expected to participate in service to the Department, School, College, profession, or the off-campus community. In line with Ithaca College's focus on interdisciplinarity, the selected candidate will also be encouraged to engage in cross-campus collaborations with the Women and Gender Studies program and other appropriate programs.

Ph.D. in Political Science, Policy Studies, Gender and Queer Studies, Critical Theory, or related field is required at the time of appointment (or Ph.D. guaranteed in hand by June 15, 2020). A strong research program, college teaching experience with potential for excellence therein, and ability to cultivate an inclusive, diverse and welcoming environment are also required.

Interested individuals must apply online at <http://ithaca.edu/jobs/>. Applicants should submit a cover letter (~500 words), curriculum vitae (CV), teaching statement (~500 words), scholarship statement (~500 words), sample syllabus, and a list of the names and contact information for three academic references. Letters of recommendation and a writing sample may be requested after an initial round of review.

In addition to a brief professional introduction, the cover letter should address the applicant's interest in working at Ithaca College and should describe how the candidate's research and teaching supports diverse communities. The scholarship statement should describe the applicant's substantive research project and future direction of scholarship. The teaching statement should articulate the applicant's teaching philosophy and discuss the candidate's teaching experience.

Questions about the online application may be directed to the Office of Human Resources at (607) 274-8000. Review of applications will begin on November 5th, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, complete applications should be received by November 15th 2019.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: 11/15/2019

Date Posted: 10/16/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7351

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Feminist Political Economy/Women & Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Feminist Political Economy and/or Women & Public Policy to begin September 1, 2020. The department is particularly interested in applicants with a critical research agenda that could include (but is not limited to) social reproduction, non-wage/uncompensated labor, gendered labor markets, feminist state theory, intersectionality, women's human rights and gender equality, globalization and its impact on women in the Global South, solidarity movements, or women and public policy (e.g., health care, poverty). Applicants may have a U.S., comparative regional, or global perspective. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program anchored in the concepts and methods of political science while simultaneously crossing disciplinary boundaries to incorporate topics, concepts, and methods utilized by other disciplines. The successful candidate will teach graduate and undergraduate courses in their substantive specialization as well as introductory courses on U.S. Federal Government & Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule (4 courses per academic year) that can include 1 to 2 day per week teaching schedules, evening schedules, and online teaching with possible support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and instructional coaches.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and department missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's vision, mission and core priorities (<http://www.utrgv.edu/strategic-plan/strategic-plan/index.htm>).

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/27/2019

Date Posted: 10/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7328

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Fellowships – Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society

ABOUT THE FELLOWSHIPS

The Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society brings promising new scholars to Stanford University for 1-2 year appointments as postdoctoral fellows.

Currently Stanford PACS is accepting applications for two postdoctoral fellowship opportunities for the 2020-21 academic year:

- The Program on Democracy and the Internet
- The Digital Civil Society Lab

Each fellow will be affiliated with the relevant Stanford PACS initiative (either the Digital Civil Society Lab or the Program on Democracy and the Internet) and potentially also with a department or school at Stanford University.

The annual fellowship stipend is $67,000, plus the standard benefits that postdoctoral fellows at Stanford University receive, including health insurance and travel funds. The fellowship program falls under U.S. Immigration J-1 Exchange Visitor Visa activities.

The start date of the fellowship will be September 2020, unless otherwise agreed. To assume a postdoctoral fellowship, scholars must have a PhD in hand by July 1, 2020. We cannot consider applications from scholars who earned a PhD earlier than May 1, 2018.

For both of these fellowships, we encourage applications from candidates representing a broad range of disciplines including the social sciences, humanities, law, computer science and engineering.

I. Program on Democracy and the Internet

The Program on Democracy and the Internet (PDI) envisions digital technologies supporting rather than subverting democracy by maximizing the benefits and minimizing the threats through changes in policy, technology, and social and ethical technological norms.

Digital technologies are having a profound impact on democracy in the United States and around the world. New communication platforms that give voice to the previously voiceless also empower nefarious actors who seek to undermine democracy, silence journalists and minority groups, manipulate search engines, sow distrust, and more. Concerns about virality, deception, anonymity, echo chambers, and platform information monopolies pose new challenges for democracy in the digital age. Current research to understand these challenges and, on the basis of theory and evidence, craft solutions, remains nascent, fragmented, and incomplete. A strong knowledge base is critical for policy makers, corporate leaders, and technologists to make decisions that protect and promote democracy in the digital age.

The Program on Democracy and the Internet is investigating key research themes which include:

- Reform options for platforms to combat hate speech, bots, and disinformation.
- Algorithmic bias
- Deteriorating health of digital information ecosystems and its effect on democracy and civil rights
- Changes in the media landscape due to shifts caused by digital innovation.
- Impact of the internet on election campaigns and voting.

The Program on Democracy and the Internet's work draws from the social sciences, humanities, engineering, computer science, and the law to understand the challenges digital technologies pose to liberal democracies around the world.

Each fellow will collaborate with one of the PDI faculty on PDI research relevant to their field of study and current line of scholarship. The fellows will spend 20 percent of their time working on their own research and 80 percent assisting in the research of one of the PDI directors. For examples of past work, see the publications page. In addition, fellows may be asked to coordinate speaker series and seminars.

The program is led by Principal Investigators Nathaniel Persily, James B. McClatchy Professor of Law at Stanford Law School and Co-Director of the Cyber Policy Center, Francis Fukuyama, Senior Fellow at the Freeman Spogli Institute, and PACS Faculty Co-Director and Professor of Political Science, Rob Reich.

PDI is a joint initiative of the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society (Stanford PACS) and the Cyber Policy Center at the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies.

For a sense of the scholarship that PDI supports, see: <https://pacscenter.stanford.edu/research/project-on-democracy-and-the-internet/projects/>.

II. Digital Civil Society Lab

The Digital Civil Society Lab (DCSL) envisions an independent civil society that thrives in the digital age through the safe, ethical and effective use of private digital resources for public benefit.

The digital age has transformed civil society participation and organization, and it has presented new challenges and threats. Our dependencies on digital software and infrastructure require new insights into how these digital systems work and how an independent civil society can engage them safely, ethically and effectively for mission.

The Digital Civil Society Lab aims to understand how digital technology has transformed civil society and shape these transformations by engaging research, practitioner and policy communities across the interconnected domains that support a thriving and independent civil society in the digital age:

- Technology: software and hardware designed for the values and interest of civil society actors
- Organizations: structures and practices that align with civil society missions and protect institutional independence from markets or governments
- Policy: legal practices and regulatory frames that protect the building blocks of civil society, including free association, speech, and privacy
- Norms: social norms and practices that promote safe and ethical data collection, generation and use, and that support the critical role of civil society in democracies

The Digital Civil Society Lab is investigating key research themes which include:

- The key dimensions of digital infrastructure and data and how they influence the role of independent civil society in democracies;
- Understanding, creating, and expanding access to software, hardware and digital practices that align with the values of civil society in democracies;
- The nature of digital data donations and/or the governance mechanisms, enterprise forms, or legal constructs that such donations require;
- Understanding interactions between global digital networks, digital activism, and traditional and emergent forms of association in civil society.

The Lab's research draws from the humanities, social sciences, engineering, computer science and the law to understand and advance the principles of civil society and democracies in the digital age.

DCSL is an initiative of the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society (Stanford PACS) and is led by Lucy Bernholz, senior research scholar at Stanford PACS, and Rob Reich, professor of Political Science and faculty co-director of Stanford PACS.

For a sense of the scholarship that DCSL supports, see: <https://pacscenter.stanford.edu/research/digital-civil-society-lab/>.

Please note: Postdoctoral fellows at DCSL are expected to participate fully in a biweekly seminar series at the Stanford Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society, and are expected to contribute to teaching the Digital Civil Society seminar in partnership with other DCSL faculty, scholars and postdocs.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered for a postdoctoral fellowship with either the Program on Democracy and the Internet or with the Digital Civil Society Lab, submit an application via the online application portal.

Applicants will be asked to include the following:

- Cover letter detailing the reasons for the applicant's interest in the fellowship;
- Curriculum Vitae;
- Fellowship proposal detailing the research that the applicant would undertake while at Stanford, and how it fits within the research agenda of the specific initiative to which the applicant is applying. In this section, please disclose if you have additional funding arrangements.
- Writing sample consisting of either a dissertation chapter or a recent published paper. There are no specific page length or formatting requirements for this sample;
- Graduate transcript with proof that the applicant has completed all the requirements for the PhD, or a letter from their PhD advisor stating when they will do so;
- Two (or more) Letters of Recommendation. These should be submitted via the application portal.

CONTACT

Questions about the Program on Democracy and the Internet should be directed to Eloise Duvillier at eloise@stanford.edu.

Questions about the Digital Civil Society Lab should be directed to Heather Noelle Robinson at hnrbsn@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 1/13/2020

Date Posted: 10/11/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7324

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Open

Required Qualifications:

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire in the field of American Politics beginning in the Fall 2020. We intend to review applications at the rank of Full or Associate Professor as well as those from advanced Assistant Professors who wish to be considered for a tenured appointment. The department is particularly interested in applicants with expertise in political institutions but will also consider applicants from any subfield of American politics. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited doctoral program. Successful candidates will have a strong record of demonstrated research excellence. Advanced skills in quantitative methods and/or experiments in addition to an established track record of graduate student collaboration and mentoring are highly desirable. Additional duties include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, carrying on a program of research, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college and university levels.

Preferred Qualifications:

Specific interests in applicants with expertise in political institutions but will also consider applicants from any subfield of American politics.

Responsibilities & Requirements:

Responsibilities will include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, supervision of student research and writing, carrying on a program of research, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college and university levels.

Special Notes:

This is a tenure track position. FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously.

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at <mailto:info@goer.ny.gov> or info@goer.ny.gov.

Stony Brook University is 100% tobacco-free as of January 1, 2016. See our policy and learn more at <https://www.stonybrook.edu/tobaccofreestonybrook.edu/tobaccofree>.

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure:

Those interested in this position should:

1. Complete the online <https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/oide-equity/resources/applicants-survey.php> Applicant Information Survey. Do not submit this survey to the department with your application. Any questions regarding the survey, please email oide@stonybrook.edu.

2. Submit a <https://www.asa.stonybrook.edu/asa/ASAForms/Department/HRS/Document/HRSF0113State> Employment Application, cover letter, CV, and academic references at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018> or <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018>. Alternately, you may submit your application package to the departmental address below.

We will give primary consideration to all applications received by 10/28/2019, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Interested candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and the names of three academic references to the electronic job advertisement system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15018> or by mail to Chair, American Politics & Policy Search, S-701 Social and Behavioral Sciences Building, Department of Political Science, 4392 SUNY, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4392.

Inquiries regarding the position can be sent to: PoliticalScienceRecruitment@stonybrook.edu or PoliticalScienceRecruitment@stonybrook.edu.

Chair, American Politics & Policy Search
S-701 Social and Behavioral Sciences Building
Department of Political Science
4392 SUNY
Stony Brook, NY 11794-4392

Institutional Advertisement: <https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/faculty-jobs/positions/faculty-librarian/current-year/Associate-Full-Professor>
<https://www.stonybrook.edu/commcms/faculty-jobs/positions/faculty-librarian/current-year/Associate-Full-Professor>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Date Posted: 10/8/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7308

University College London

Rank: Lecturer / Associate Professor in Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

Political Science

School of Public Policy

London

Lecturer / Associate Professor in Political Science

Full Time

The appointment will be on UCL Grade 9. The salary range will be Grade 8 £44,674 - £52,701 per annum or Grade 9 £57,279 - £62,283 per annum. Plus £8,000 per annum Market Supplement, inclusive of London Allowance.

The Department of Political Science would like to recruit a Lecturer/ Associate Professor in Political Science to contribute to research and teaching. The new Lecturer will be expected to undertake research of the highest international standard to add to the research standing and culture of the Department.

The postholder will teach lectures and seminars at postgraduate and undergraduate level.

The post will commence on the 1st July 2020.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or related subject (candidates nearing completion may be considered).

A proven ability to undertake academic research that is internationally recognised and of high-quality or evidence of potential for high quality academic research in a relevant field and experience of teaching in political economy or related modules at undergraduate or postgraduate level are essential.

Candidates seeking to be appointed at the Associate Professor (grade 9) level are expected to demonstrate that they have more significant experience and/or have made a substantial contribution to the advancement of their discipline through research.

The post will enable the Department to develop its research and teaching profile and the successful candidate MUST have substantive or regional expertise in one of the following areas:

- Artificial intelligence, technology and automation
- Global environmental politics/Climate change
- Migration
- Chinese politics/East Asian politics

For further details about the vacancy and how to apply online please go to <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/human-resources/working-ucl/jobs-ucl> and search on Reference Number 1828104.

When applying please include a CV and a cover letter which should include a statement of research and teaching interests.

Informal enquiries may be made to Professor Jennifer Hudson (jennifer.hudson@ucl.ac.uk)

If you have any queries regarding the vacancy or the application process, please contact Ajay Patel, Finance and Staffing Administrator to the Department of Political Science, School of Public Policy, (polsci.staffing@ucl.ac.uk).

Closing Date: 10 November 2019

Latest time for the submission of applications: 23.59.

Interview Date: TBC

UCL Taking Action for Equality.

We will consider applications to work on a part-time, flexible and job share basis wherever possible.

Our department is working towards an Athena SWAN award. We are committed to advancing gender equality within our department.

To apply click here https://atsv7.wcn.co.uk/search_engine/jobs.cgi?owner=5041178&ownertype=fair&jcode=1828104

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7298

University College London

Rank: Lecturer / Associate Professor in Public Policy

Political Science

School of Public Policy

London

Lecturer / Associate Professor in Public Policy

Full Time

The appointment will be on UCL Grade 8. The salary range will be Grade 8 £44,674 - £52,701 per annum or Grade 9 £57,279 - £62,283 per annum. Plus £8,000 per annum Market Supplement, inclusive of London Allowance.

The Department of Political Science would like to recruit an Associate Professor or Lecturer in Public Policy. The new Lecturer or Associate Professor will be expected to undertake public policy research of the highest international standard, teach undergraduate and postgraduate public policy courses and take on organizational citizenship duties in an exciting and fast-growing Department.

Applications from candidates engaging in research on all areas of public policy are welcome. The Department is particularly interested in candidates undertaking research from a Political Science perspective on a substantive policy area – for instance education policy, health policy, social policy, climate policy, technology and artificial intelligence – or on approaches to public policy, such as policy evaluation and behavioural public policy.

The post will commence on the 1st July 2020.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or related subject (candidates nearing completion may be considered).

A proven ability to undertake academic research that is internationally recognised and of high-quality or evidence of potential for high quality academic research and experience teaching public policy modules, ideally at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels are essential.

Candidates seeking to be appointed at the Associate Professor (grade 9) level are expected to demonstrate that they have more significant experience and/or have made a substantial contribution to the advancement of their discipline through research.

For further details about the vacancy and how to apply online please go to <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/human-resources/working-ucl/jobs-ucl> and search on Reference Number 1828407.

When applying please include a CV and a cover letter which should include a statement of research and teaching interests.

Informal enquiries may be made to Professor Jennifer Hudson (jennifer.hudson@ucl.ac.uk)

If you have any queries regarding the vacancy or the application process, please contact Ajay Patel, Finance and Staffing Administrator to the Department of Political Science, School of Public Policy, (polsci.staffing@ucl.ac.uk).

Closing Date: 10 November 2019

Latest time for the submission of applications: 23.59.

Interview Date: TBC

UCL Taking Action for Equality.

We will consider applications to work on a part-time, flexible and job share basis wherever possible.

Our department is working towards an Athena SWAN award. We are committed to advancing gender equality within our department.

To apply click here https://atsv7.wcn.co.uk/search_engine/jobs.cgi?owner=5041178&ownertype=fair&jcode=1828407

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/10/2019

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7297

University of Richmond

Rank: Tyler Haynes Professorship of Interdisciplinary Studies

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Policy, Open

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The University of Richmond Jepson School of Leadership Studies and School of Law invite nominations and applications for an endowed professorship. The ideal candidate will be a full professor with both J. D. and Ph.D. degrees. To complement current strengths, we are especially interested in candidates whose research addresses areas of leadership and applied law, including the criminal justice system, the Supreme Court, healthcare, housing, immigration, education policy, or institutional analysis. Successful candidates will teach courses in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the School of Law.

Applications and inquiries may be directed to Al Goethals and Andy Spalding at hayneschair@richmond.edu. Candidates should attach a cover letter and curriculum vitae. In their cover letters, candidates should address how their scholarly and teaching interests connect to the study of leadership and law. Cover letters should also specify how the applicant might contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion in the classroom.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and continuing studies. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers students the opportunity to major or minor in leadership studies and provides a challenging liberal arts curriculum designed to educate students for and about leadership. The School of Law offers a curriculum that combines sophisticated legal theory with opportunities to put theory into practice, equipping students with the knowledge and skills they need to make valuable contributions to the legal system. For additional information about the two schools, see <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> and <https://law.richmond.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7268

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, Science & Technology

The Public Policy and Political Economy Program in the School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas, Dallas is seeking applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the assistant professor rank. The hire will support a new interdisciplinary master's degree, the MS in Cyber Security, Technology, and Policy, which is collaboratively staffed with computer science and other disciplines. The goal of the degree is to prepare students to analyze cyber security and technologies issues, implementation, and analysis, within an interdisciplinary and strategic approach. We are seeking a Ph.D. in a social science or public policy-related field, who focuses on cybersecurity. Particular topics of interest include legal aspects of the regulation of technology, resilience and security, the economics of information security, the interaction of security, privacy, and technology, or analysis of cybersecurity policy, but all exceptional candidates will be considered.

The University of Texas at Dallas has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public University in Texas and was recently ranked 39th among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine. UT Dallas is one of the youngest universities to achieve the Carnegie Commission's highest research classification of "Doctoral Universities – Highest Research Activity."

Applicants should submit letter of application, current curriculum vitae, and three letters of recommendation to <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/13164>. Additional questions may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Patrick Brandt (pbrandt@utdallas.edu). Review will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Texas at Dallas is an Equal Opportunity / Equal Access / Affirmative Action Employer and strongly encourages applications from candidates who would enhance the diversity of the University's faculty and administration.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7300

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy, General Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants to apply for a teaching faculty position. The selected applicant will teach courses as part of the Batten School's social entrepreneurship curriculum and may assume some program responsibilities in the school's social entrepreneurship center (SE@UVA). The appointment begins in August 2020. Rank is at the Assistant Professor level.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, entrepreneurship, law, business ethics, business administration, finance, or public administration. A terminal degree in one of these disciplines or a related field is required, as is teaching experience. The successful candidate's professional and/or research experience focuses on social entrepreneurship broadly defined, including but not limited to work on social enterprise, impact investing and innovative finance, or public policy related to social innovation (i.e. state-level BCorp legislation, social impact bonds, tax policy related to social enterprise, and innovative hybrid business models).

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of excellence in one or more of the following areas: professional experience within the social enterprise community, superior teaching and student mentoring, an interest in contributing to the scholarly community at Batten and U.Va. through collaborations with research faculty, and a research focus with a developing publication record in scholarly, practitioner, and/or policy venues.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership. The Batten School's SE@UVA center offers over a dozen courses to over 500 students each academic year and serves over 350 Social Entrepreneurship Minors. For more information about the center please visit www.seatuva.org.

To apply, visit <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs> and search for posting number R0010558, and complete a candidate profile. Include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, contact information for three references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a diversity statement that describes contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. This is a non-tenure track position. Applicant review begins November 1, 2019 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu

UVA assists faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more please visit <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit: <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/1/2019
Date Posted: 10/6/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7296

City University of Hong Kong

Rank: Head of Department of Public Policy

City University of Hong Kong is a dynamic, fast-growing university that is pursuing excellence in research and professional education. As a publicly-funded institution, the University is committed to nurturing and developing students' talents and creating applicable knowledge to support social and economic advancement. The University has nine Colleges/Schools. As part of its pursuit of excellence, the University aims to recruit outstanding scholars from all over the world in various disciplines, including business, creative media, data science, energy and environment, engineering, humanities and social sciences, law, science, veterinary medicine and life sciences.

Applications and nominations are invited for:

Head of Department of Public Policy [Ref. B/330/09]

The Position

Reporting to the Provost through the Dean of College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, the Head of Department will provide leadership and strategic direction in research and professional education for the Department. The Head will encourage and promote academic excellence, and steer the Department to enhance the mission and vision of the University in alignment with the University's Strategic Plan.

The Person

A doctorate degree with strong academic and professional qualifications, a distinguished record of teaching, research and scholarship, and substantial relevant experience in tertiary education; outstanding management effectiveness; commitment to teamwork; and strong communication and networking skills to build and nurture internal and external contacts to the benefit of the Department.

Salary and Conditions of Service

The appointee will be offered appointment to an academic rank commensurate with qualifications and experience. The headship appointment will be on a concurrent basis for an initial period of about three years. Remuneration package will be attractive and driven by market competitiveness and individual performance. Excellent fringe benefits include gratuity, leave, medical and dental schemes, and relocation assistance (where applicable).

Information and Application

Further information on the post and the University is available at <http://www.cityu.edu.hk>, or from the Human Resources Office, City University of Hong Kong, Tat Chee Avenue, Kowloon Tong, Hong Kong [Email : polsearch@cityu.edu.hk/Fax : 2788 1154 or 3442 0311].

To apply, please submit an online application at <http://jobs.cityu.edu.hk>, and include a current curriculum vitae. Nominations can be sent directly to the Human Resources Office, or email to "polsearch@cityu.edu.hk". Applications and nominations received by 30 November 2019 will receive full consideration. The University's privacy policy is available on the homepage.

City University of Hong Kong is an equal opportunity employer and we are committed to the principle of diversity. Personal data provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.

Worldwide recognition ranking 52nd, and 4th among top 50 universities under age 50 (QS survey 2020); 1st in Engineering/Technology/Computer Sciences in Hong Kong (ARWU survey 2016); and 2nd Business School in Asia-Pacific region (UT Dallas survey 2017).

Start Date:
Date Posted: 10/2/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7274

Berry College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Government and International Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Parties & Organizations, Electoral Behavior, Public Opinion

The Department of Government and International Studies at Berry College seeks a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and will be competent to teach social science research methods. We seek an innovative teacher who will create new courses that invite students from other disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Tenure-Track position begins in August 2020. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with their upper-level course and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). Noted for its mentoring of students, the department offers an excellent undergraduate education that emphasizes the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that will prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and engage the community, including by cultivating internship opportunities. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. All applicants should describe in their statement of teaching philosophy their experience with, and/or commitment to, teaching a diverse student body.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2020. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Candidates should submit a letter of application, along with a current CV, copies of transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference to Darla Fox, Department of Government and International Studies, dfox@berry.edu. Email inquiries: esands@berry.edu. For more information on our program, please visit our website at: <https://www.berry.edu/academics/majors/political-science>.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2019 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College may be required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7269

Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc

Rank: Founding Dean, Hobby School of Public Affairs

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Specializations: Public Opinion, Economic Policy, Political Communication

The University of Houston (UH) is searching for an innovative, dynamic leader to take charge of positioning the Hobby School as a nationally and internationally prominent school of public affairs and public policy. As a founding dean, there are ample opportunities to grow and shape the school where public service is primary. The Founding Dean of the Hobby School of Public Affairs reports directly to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. Founded in 1927, the UH is the leading public research university in Houston and the second most ethnically diverse research university in the nation. Each year, the university educates more than 40,000 students in more than 300 undergraduate and graduate academic programs. UH awards more than 8,000 degrees annually and has more than 230,000 alumni. Students come to UH from more than 137 nations. Classified as a Tier One institution by virtue of its Very High Research ranking by the Carnegie Foundation, UH is also one of only 300 institutions nationwide to receive the Foundation's highest designation as a community-engaged university. The University of Houston has been recognized both as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian-American serving institution by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Postsecondary Education.

The dean is the senior academic and administrative officer of the school, and is responsible for setting strategic, operational, and financial directions. In those roles, the dean has overall responsibilities for developing an effective collegial environment and plan that supports excellence in teaching, research, and service/engagement. The Founding Dean of the Hobby School of Public Affairs should have: a passion for public policy and an interest in finding solutions; expertise and experience in an important policy area; understanding of the mission and attributes of the Hobby School, including both internal & external dimensions; a dynamic and innovative vision and approach to building the reputation of the Hobby School; media and messaging savvy in all media channels, including print, social media, television, and radio; strong commitment to the Hobby School and the vision to recognize that it is becoming a vital and growing presence on campus, locally, regionally, nationally, and internationally; excellent speaking skills; an ability to promote the Hobby School through fund raising efforts and public relations awareness as well as engage with key stakeholders; and the ability to be an articulate advocate of the vision, mission and uniqueness of the Hobby School.

Qualifications and Experience

The successful candidate will be a nationally recognized entrepreneurial leader or academic scholar able to articulate the narrative of the Hobby School's diverse accomplishments and aspirations with a sense of common purpose and pride. Experience in addressing the social and economic issues in the widest variety of communities will be highly valued. Applicants with strong leadership experience and outstanding accomplishments in government, public affairs and/or academia are welcomed and will receive serious attention. This is an exceptional opportunity for an individual with the drive, skill, and experience to bring creative leadership to a distinguished organization and to play a critical role in shaping its future.

In addition, the dean would have the following preferred qualifications: a demonstrated commitment to promoting quality research and scholarship; a strong record and commitment to continuous improvement of student learning and faculty teaching; a strong commitment to fostering community/university collaboration and partnerships; a proven record and commitment sustaining a culture of diversity and inclusion; a demonstrated commitment to faculty and programmatic development; demonstrated leadership in infrastructure development; a strong commitment to shared governance; proven strong communication, management and organizational skills; the ability to articulate the school's vision, goals, accomplishments and needs to constituents; an entrepreneurial, innovative and global orientation; proven abilities and experience in fundraising/external resource enhancement; a record of exemplary personal and professional integrity; and a demonstrated commitment to cross-disciplinary programs.

How to Apply

Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc. is assisting the University of Houston in the search. Applications and nominations are now being accepted. Screening of complete applications will begin immediately and will continue until the completion of the search process. Confidential inquiries, nominations, and application materials should be directed to Greenwood/Asher. Submission of application materials (cover letter, resume, and list of five references) as PDF attachments is strongly encouraged. The search will be conducted with a commitment of confidentiality for the candidates until finalists are selected. Initial screening of applications will begin immediately and will continue until an appointment is made. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Inquiries, nominations and application materials should be directed to:

Betty Turner Asher, Partners
Ann Bailey, Senior Executive Search Consultant
Greenwood/Asher & Associates, Inc.
42 Business Centre Drive, Suite 206
Miramar Beach, Florida 32550
Phone: 850-650-2277 / Fax: 850-650-2272
Email: bettyasher@greenwoodsearch.com
Email: annbailey@greenwoodsearch.com

For more information on the University of Houston and the Hobby School of Public Affairs, please visit <http://www.uh.edu/> and <http://www.uh.edu/hobby/>.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2019

Date Posted: 10/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7270

Hertie School

Rank: Professor of Sustainability

The Hertie School, Berlin
A European Professional School for Public Policy is recruiting a

Professor of Sustainability

Professor or Assistant Professor

The Hertie School is recruiting a Professor or Assistant Professor of Sustainability, with a research agenda in environmental as well as economic and/or social sustainability.

Relevant research areas in environmental sustainability may include (among others) biodiversity, cities and transport, pollution, agriculture and/or land use and water. An ideal candidate combines this with a research agenda in economic and/or social sustainability, which may include (among others) human well-being, inequality and poverty, inter-generational justice, environmental accounting, sustainable economic growth, environmental taxation, large-scale risk, long-term policy design, and/or evolution of norms.

The candidate will contribute to the development of the new Hertie Centre for Sustainability and will interact with faculty members with expertise in climate change and energy. Applicants should be interested in working in an interdisciplinary environment.

Applicants for this position must have a doctoral degree relevant for the position, or expect to have this degree by the start of employment. We are looking for a candidate with a background in economics, though this does not have to be a PhD. An early career candidate will be appointed as tenure-track Assistant Professor with a six-year clock (two three-year contracts). A more advanced candidate would initially be on a fixed contract of negotiable length prior to a tenure review. In highly exceptional circumstances, a particularly outstanding candidate may be appointed with tenure.

The expected start date is 1 September 2020.

The Hertie School seeks faculty with demonstrated capacity for research, teaching, and outreach at the highest levels in their discipline. We recruit faculty who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity with a commitment to teaching and innovative research of interest to the international scholarly community and policy-makers.

Candidates are expected to work well in an interdisciplinary, international environment with English as the language of instruction and operation. The successful candidate will teach courses in the School's Master, Executive, and PhD programmes and be able to collaborate with new centres of competence which will be set up over the next years. Those are the Jacques Delors Institute Berlin – Centre for European Affairs, the Centre for International Security Policy, the Centre on Fundamental Rights, the Centre for Sustainability, the Centre on Digital Governance, and the Hertie School Data Science Lab. The successful candidate is expected to actively contribute to the research and outreach activities of the Centre for Sustainability.

As a private university, the Hertie School offers an internationally competitive salary as well as a paid sabbatical after every five semesters. We provide excellent working conditions with outstanding financial and administrative support for research. The Hertie School is fully embedded in Germany's vibrant research landscape and has close ties to the top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community as well as to the policy world.

The Hertie School is a diverse, international and lively community located in the heart of Berlin. It takes a family friendly workplace seriously.

The deadline for the submission of applications is 30 November 2019. The Hertie School will review applications that include a letter of motivation, a current curriculum vitae (publication list, degrees earned, if applicable: positions held, teaching experience, research projects, awards received), two writing samples and, if applicable, teaching evaluations. Early career candidates should include three letters of recommendation from professors familiar with their work.

To submit your application, please upload the requested documents here:

<https://hertie-school.dvinci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/184/professor-of-sustainability-fmdiv-professor-or-assistant-professor>

For information about the Hertie School visit www.hertie-school.org.

For questions about the position, please contact Professor Christian Flachsland (flachsland@hertie-school.org).

Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/30/2019
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7260

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research
Rank: Researcher/Senior Researcher

Hiring Full-Time Researcher/Senior Researcher

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research invites Ph.D. researchers in political science, economics, sociology, public policy or a related field to apply for a full-time research position. Recent Ph.D.s may apply for a Researcher position, and those with at least 5 years of experience and an established publication record in peer-reviewed journals may apply for a Senior Researcher position.

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.D.s. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, computer specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative assistants.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated strong analytical skills, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute offers competitive salaries and benefits. The Institute is an equal opportunity employer.

Interested applicants should submit a letter of introduction, curriculum vitae, and two research papers to hr@upjohn.org. The position is open until filled.

About Kalamazoo, Michigan

Home of the Kalamazoo Promise, Kalamazoo is a progressive metropolitan area in Southwest Michigan, located just 30 minutes from the shores of Lake Michigan. Centered halfway between Chicago and Detroit, it has a rich arts culture and a strong educational community that includes Kalamazoo College, a private liberal arts college, and Western Michigan University, a large public research institution with a nationally-recognized medical school.

Start Date: Winter 2019
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7263

West Virginia University
Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor – Public Policy – Department of Political Science
 Job Number: 13076

The Department of Political Science at West Virginia University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Policy. The Department welcomes applications from all qualified specialists in Public Policy, across all subfield specializations. The successful applicant must have a Ph.D. or equivalent doctoral degree in Political Science or a closely related field and demonstrate strong theoretical interests, appropriate methodological skills, an active research agenda, the potential to secure external funding for research, and potential for excellent teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The teaching load for research-active graduate faculty is two courses per semester. The successful candidate will be expected to teach classes that complement the Department's current offerings at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

The Department has a faculty of 18 and offers a full range of academic programs (B.A., M.A., and Ph.D.), and resides within the University's new interdisciplinary John D. Rockefeller IV School of Policy and Politics. West Virginia University is classified as a Carnegie R1 institution (Doctoral University-Very High Research Activity) and has about 27,000 students on the Morgantown campus. The city of Morgantown, which is often ranked among the best small cities in the United States, is conveniently located within driving distance of Pittsburgh, Columbus, Ohio, and Washington, D.C.

To apply for this position, visit <https://careers.wvu.edu>, navigate to the position title listed above, and submit a letter of application, a curriculum vita, a description of teaching interests and capabilities, and samples of written work. In addition, arrange to have three letters of recommendation sent to PolicySearch@mail.wvu.edu. Review of applications will begin on November 11, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. For additional information, please see <https://politicalscience.wvu.edu> or contact Professor John C. Kilwein at john.kilwein@mail.wvu.edu.

WVU is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and the recipient of an NSF ADVANCE award for gender equity. The university is committed to diversity and welcomes applications from all qualified individuals, including minorities, females, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2019
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7265

Princeton University
Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Open

Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships
 The University Center for Human Values at Princeton University invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2020-21. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive. Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period is anticipated to begin on September 1 and run for the academic year. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12522>.

The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than 12,000 words, not including bibliography) written in the past three years;
3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials must be submitted online by the application deadline of Monday, November 4, 2019, 11:59 p.m. EST. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference should be submitted by end of business day on Monday, November 11, 2019. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately so letters of reference received after the priority deadline may put candidates at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced in late March 2020.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/4/2019

Date Posted: 9/26/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6232

Syracuse University

Rank: Assistant or Associate, Health Care Policy & Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) in the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University seeks to hire a tenured or tenure track professor in the field of health care policy and management, at either the Assistant or Associate level, beginning in fall 2020.

We are interested in attracting a creative, engaging, and innovative colleague with credentials in health care policy and/or management. We welcome a variety of specializations including but not limited to the financing and delivery of health care; the organization and management of health care delivery systems; the politics of health care policy reform; and the impact of health care policy reform on the delivery of healthcare. Candidates with domestic, international, or comparative perspectives are welcome. Applicants should have an active research agenda and a demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence. Responsibilities of the position include maintaining a research program, teaching in the department's world-renowned professional master programs, teaching one or more undergraduate courses, mentoring MPA and PhD students, and engaging in service.

Our department is collegial, supportive, and interdisciplinary. We welcome applicants from a range of disciplinary backgrounds, including but not limited to public administration, public management, public policy, health administration, economics, political science, sociology, public health, social work, and other social science fields.

This recruitment is part of an ambitious Invest Syracuse Cluster Hire Initiative in the broad area of Aging, Behavioral Health, and Neuroscience. As an integral part of this investment, Syracuse University will recruit multiple candidates for faculty positions for a research cluster in the focus area of aging. Faculty hired into these positions will build on our existing strengths in the focus area and will participate in an organized research cluster that spans multiple departments in the Maxwell School, the College of Arts and Sciences, Falk College, and the College of Engineering and Computer Science. In addition, the individual will also have the opportunity to become affiliated with one or more of the University's other interdisciplinary research centers such as the University's Aging Studies Institute, Maxwell School's Center of Policy Research or the Maxwell School's Program for Advancement of Research on Conflict and Collaboration. Therefore, a track record of collaborative research output is particularly desirable, and record of success in obtaining research support, particularly from the National Institutes of Health or the National Science Foundation.

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs at the Maxwell School is home to the world's first master of public administration program, which is ranked first among more than 250 graduate public affairs programs in the United States and has several top-ranked specialties (U.S. News & World Report). The department is also home to a top-ranked master's program in international relations (Foreign Policy magazine), as well as several other programs, including a Ph.D. in public administration, a master's degree in public health, executive master's degrees in public administration and international relations, and a wide range of certificate programs.

To be considered, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/postings/76528>) and attach: a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of professional writing, names and complete contact information for 3 references. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by November 1. However, applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6228

Northeastern University

Rank: URBAN INFORMATICS CLUSTER HIRE, OPEN RANK - ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, Other

Specializations: Urban Politics, Criminal Justice, Quantitative Methods

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications for several tenured or tenure-track faculty positions in computational social science, with a focus on urban informatics, quantitative methods, or network science, with an expected start date of Fall 2020. Successful candidates will have a distinguished scholarly record using methodological approaches that leverage and work with large or complex data sources to study social phenomena, including but not limited to questions pertaining to cities and communities. We have special interest in scholars whose work includes the use of administrative, scraped, archival, or internet-gathered data. We are seeking scholars who work in spatial, network, or textual analysis, and/or use machine-learning tools. Competitive applicants will also have demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching and leadership. Faculty appointments will be made in one or more of the member departments of the CSSH, including the School of Public Policy and Urban Affairs, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Department of Political Science, Department of Economics, and the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice. Cross-college appointments are possible. Successful applicants will likely affiliate with one of our research centers dedicated to this work, including the Boston Area Research Initiative, the NULab for Texts, Maps, and Networks, or the Network Science Institute.

The position will support the University's commitment to innovation in experiential learning as well as the college's mission in integrating data and technology in the analysis of society, policy, and governance. Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching statement, and writing sample, as well as the names of three references. For those who would be appointed at the assistant professor level, we will request references upon receipt of application.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Professor Daniel O'Brien, at d.obrien@neu.edu. Review of applications will begin Oct. 15th and will continue until the position is filled.

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts. Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups underrepresented in academia.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6217

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for the endowed Khaled Chair in Political Science and International Policy, starting in August 2020. Appointment will be made at the associate or full professor level depending on the applicant's credentials. We seek a diverse pool and will consider applicants with any specialization in international relations. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science, international affairs, international relations, public policy, or a related discipline.

The successful applicant will be expected to work closely with the department chair to expand the masters and doctoral programs, including recruitment and program development. Teaching expectations include undergraduate and graduate courses in the field of expertise. The position comes with a summer research stipend, research and travel support, a graduate assistant, and a reduced teaching load.

Review of applications will begin October 25, 2019. To apply, complete an online application at <http://www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/3034> and upload the following materials: 1) a letter of application to include areas of specialization, current and future research agenda, teaching areas with course titles and teaching philosophy, and most significant professional service; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) two recent writing samples; 4) graduate transcript (official transcript will be needed at time of hire); and 5) contact information for at least three professional references. Separately, three confidential letters of reference are required and must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu by the application deadline.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes eight tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate and master's degree in political science and a nationally ranked, NASPAA-accredited master's degree in public administration. We also offer a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM), a comprehensive public university, is the metropolitan campus of Auburn University. Located in the state capital on a 500-acre campus, AUM enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. AUM is ranked by U.S. News and World Report as one of the top twenty-five Comprehensive Regional Universities in the South and by the Princeton Review as one of the best colleges in the Southeast. Montgomery is a diverse city offering an array of cultural and recreational opportunities including the Alabama Shakespeare Festival, world-class museums and memorials including the new Legacy Museum and the National Memorial for Peace and Justice, a ballet company, a natural habitat zoo, a chamber music society, an independent film theater, and the Montgomery Biscuits Double-A baseball team; it is home to Maxwell-Gunter Air Force Base and Air University, Hyundai Motor's first U.S. production facility, and the headquarters of leading non-profits including Equal Justice Initiative and the Southern Poverty Law Center. The campus is within a two and a half hour drive to Atlanta, ninety minutes to Birmingham, and less than three hours to the Gulf Coast.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is open until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right to stop accepting applications once interviewing has begun.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/25/2019

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6208

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor-Public Policy

Dear Colleagues:

The Georgia Institute of Technology's School of Public Policy is seeking applications for a tenure-track position, assistant professor rank. We are seeking a Ph.D. who will teach public finance. Applicants may be from a variety of disciplinary and field perspectives in keeping with the interdisciplinary profile of our School. We welcome all qualified applicants to apply, including women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

We seek to expand our existing strengths in one of the core areas of the department, including: science, technology and innovation policy; climate, energy and environmental policy; information and communication technologies, and cybersecurity policy; philosophy and ethics; and data analytics and other research methods. We also are expanding our expertise in the social policy, and urban and regional economic development areas. Our work in these areas benefits from synergy with Georgia Tech's world-class programs in the sciences, engineering, computer science, design and planning, and business. Job duties will include research, teaching and advising students, and service activities at Georgia Tech.

Applicants should submit: 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three publications; 4) a research statement, including descriptions of future research plans; 5) a teaching statement, including descriptions of teaching interests; and 6) names and contact information of three academic references. Please apply using the on-line application process at <https://academicjobsonline.org>. Direct any questions by email to facsearch@pubpolicy.gatech.edu with "PubP Asst. Professor" in the subject line. Applications are due on or before December 15, 2019. An earned doctorate is required by the start of the appointment, and a background check must be completed prior to employment.

The School of Public Policy has 30 faculty members and we instruct students in undergraduate, master's and Ph.D. programs. See our webpage at <http://spp.gatech.edu/> for more information. Georgia Tech is a top- ranked public research university situated in the heart of Atlanta, a diverse and vibrant city with great economic and cultural strengths. The Institute is a member of the University System of Georgia, the Georgia Research Alliance, and the Association of American Universities. Georgia Tech prides itself on its technology resources, collaborations, high-quality student body, and its commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Georgia Tech is an equal education/employment opportunity institution dedicated to building a diverse community. We welcome all qualified applicants to apply, including women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Georgia Tech has policies to promote a healthy work-life balance and is aware that attracting faculty may require meeting the needs of two careers.

Sincerely yours,

Kaye Husbands Fealing Chair, School of Public Policy

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/20/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6203

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Development

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for junior faculty positions in international development, with an interest in program evaluation and applying scholarship to policy and practice. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by the beginning of the appointment and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career.

To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic job board at: apply.interfolio.com/68842. Applicants are required to submit: 1) curriculum vitae; 2) two letters of recommendation; and 3) one writing sample. Review of applications will begin on September 26, 2019. No applications will be accepted after December 1, 2019.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6200

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Emergency Management and Disaster Science Chair - Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Political Economy, Constitutional Law & Theory

Faculty Position Announcement

Emergency Management and Disaster Science Chair at the Rank of Associate Professor

School of Public Administration, University of Nebraska Omaha

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a faculty position of Associate Professor/Chair of the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program, within the School of Public Administration to begin in August 2020. A successful candidate for this position will possess a PhD in Emergency Management or a related field. We are seeking applicants who can provide administrative leadership and faculty expertise in the field of Emergency Management and Disaster Science. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests and demonstrated capacity to teach in at least one of the following areas: preparedness and risk management, agency collaboration, law and administration, and response and recovery. A willingness to teach introductory, upper level, and graduate courses in emergency management and offer courses in an on-line format is also required. Candidates must have the demonstrated ability to conduct research in emergency management and disaster science. Potential for externally funded and peer-reviewed published work is also required.

The position offers a teaching load of two courses per semester and a nine-month contract. One course release per year and stipend will be granted for serving as Program Chair. Duties include program administration, teaching, research, and community engagement.

Review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

The University and the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program has a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of underrepresented groups and strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply for this position. The University of Nebraska does not discriminate based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation in its programs, activities, or employment.

The UNO Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program is the largest undergraduate emergency management and fire services management program in the state and the only program that offers a Bachelor of Science in Emergency Management, minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, Tribal Management and Emergency Services and an undergraduate certificate in Tribal Management and Emergency Services. The Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program was only initiated seven years ago, but has proven to be one of the fastest expanding academic programs in the Nebraska University System. Currently, the program has three tenure track positions, three instructor lines, a visiting professor, an academic advisor/program coordinator, a student services associate, and a .5 FTE administrative assistant. At the start of the current academic year 2019-2020, the program had 138 BSEM majors and pre-majors, over 100 minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, and Tribal Management and Emergency Services, over 25 Tribal Management and Emergency Services certificate students, 7 MPA students and two PA doctoral students specializing in Emergency Management.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling over 200 graduate students, offering the program both online and on campus. The MPA program is ranked among the top 10-percent of all such programs in the upcoming 2019 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools, and is ranked #6 in Public Budgeting and Finance, and #11 in Nonprofit Management. The School is also home to one of the few Ph.D.

programs in Public Administration in the Great Plains region; faculty regularly have the opportunity to work with Ph.D. students.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a Carnegie Doctoral Research University. We are a metropolitan university, located in the heart of Omaha, which has a population of 463,000. The population of the eight-county metropolitan area is 943,000.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/9612>. The application must include: current curriculum vita; a letter addressing experience and qualifications; the names and contact information for three references.

For more information on the program, visit our web page at <http://emgt.unomaha.edu>. For more information on the School, visit our web page at <http://spa.unomaha.edu> or contact the chair of the search committee: Dr. Yu-Che Chen (yuchen@unomaha.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6197

American Political Science Association

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Open

American Political Science Association

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association Congressional Fellowship Program is currently accepting online applications for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;
- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2020. Office placements run until August 15, 2021. Two optional programs directly precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to spend up to two months at the APSA Centennial Center carrying out a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2020.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields who can demonstrate a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process.

Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be submitted online and include:

- CV;
- 500-word personal statement;
- names and contact information for three references; and
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2020-2021 fellowship year by Tuesday, December 3, 2019. Please send questions about the program to <mailto:cfp@apsanet.org>.

Start Date: November 2020

Salary: $52,500 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/3/2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6172

The University of Scranton

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Scranton invites applications for a full-time tenure-track assistant professor position in American Politics to begin in August 2020.

We seek qualified applicants with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching, scholarship, and service that would support the mission of the University of Scranton. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in political institutions and policy making processes. Teaching responsibilities include the U.S. Politics introductory course, Congress, public policy in the candidate's area of expertise, and research methods. Pre-tenure teaching load is ordinarily 3/3.

The capability to develop an active research program that involves mentoring undergraduates is preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to our Public Affairs-Public Administration program.

Strong ABD candidates in Political Science or related field required; candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field at time of appointment preferred.

Apply online at <https://universityofscrantonjobs.com>. Please include in the online application 1) a letter of interest addressing qualifications, teaching philosophy and research interests, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) article/chapter length writing sample, and 4) contact information for three professional references.

Review of applications will begin on October 21, 2019. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Mike Allison, Chair of the Department of Political Science, via email at michael.allison@scranton.edu for questions about the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6179

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Tenure/Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Description:

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department of the McCombs School of Business, University of Texas at Austin seeks applicants for a faculty position at the assistant or tenured associate professor level. BGS is an interdisciplinary department that applies rigorous social science research methods to legal, ethical, regulatory and social issues that businesses face.

Qualifications:

The ideal candidate will have a Ph.D. in political science, political economy or a related field and enable BGS to contribute to important public policy debates where business intersects with government and/or society. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set and a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its nonmarket environment as well as the potential to publish in top quality academic journals in these areas. Candidates should also demonstrate potential for teaching excellence. The appointment will be effective September 1, 2020.

Applicant Instructions:

Interested parties should submit the following: 1) a cover letter, 2) CV, 3) brief statements of research and teaching interests, and 4) any evidence of teaching and research effectiveness. All applications submitted by October 31, 2019 will receive full consideration, although the search will continue until a suitable candidate is identified. UT-Austin uses Interfolio's Faculty Search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials free of charge. The posting is available here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/68222>

Direct any inquiries to: Robert.Prentice@mcombs.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/31/2019

Date Posted: 9/13/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6178

California State University, Channel Islands

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The Political Science Department at California State University seeks applicants for the position of Assistant Professor specializing in Public Law.

--Applicants must be thoroughly prepared to teach courses in Judicial Politics, Judicial Process, Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, Immigration Law, and the like

--Applicants whose primary field of study is Political Philosophy or Theory are discouraged from applying. However, the ability to teach Political Philosophy as a secondary focus is an asset.

Our department has a strong record of teaching and research. We offer a rich curriculum in which most aspects of the discipline and many areas of the globe are covered. Given the depth of our faculty's expertise and the range of the courses we offer, our strengths lie in the areas of American politics, international relations, comparative politics, political theory, and public law.

The program's accomplishments are not limited to its faculty. Our students regularly present their papers at national or regional conferences. The program's Model United Nations Program is one of the most successful in the nation and has been repeatedly recognized for its outstanding achievements. The department is developing a strong pre-law focus with an eye toward offering students the opportunity to engage in moot court competitions and judicial internships.

CSU Channel Islands is a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants should demonstrate the ability and commitment to effectively work with and engage a diverse student population and evidence of successful mentoring minoritized students with a special focus on Latinx, African-American, and Native American students.

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science
- Extensive training in judicial politics and American law
- Evidence of a commitment to student-centered education
- Evidence of a commitment to interdisciplinarity
- Evidence of an active research agenda in the subfield of public law and judicial politics
- Enthusiasm for continuing to build a strong, extra-curricular pre-law program

Preferred Qualifications

- Ability to teach in a secondary field, preferably political philosophy
- Willingness to engage and mentor students in field-appropriate research
- Active participation in the life of the department and university
- Willingness to participate in developing an MPA program and offering appropriate courses
- Ability to cope with ambiguity

Apply online: <https://www.csucifacultyjobs.com>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6161

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor - Economics

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for junior faculty positions in Economics. The search is open with respect to field, but we especially encourage applications from scholars focused in education, inequality, health, crime, and urban policy issues. Applicants must expect to have completed their Ph.D. by July 31, 2020 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career.

The apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic job board at: apply.interfolio.com/68259. Applicants are required to submit: 1) curriculum vitae; 2) two letters of recommendation; and 3) one writing sample. Applicants may also submit additional optional documents such as: a third letter of reference and/or additional writing samples. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2020.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6152

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate or Full Professor - Political Economy

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for tenured faculty positions in public policy, political science, and economics. The search is open with respect to rank – Associate or Full. We are interested in scholars with research focused in political institutions, economic theory, and international trade. Applicants must apply through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic jobs board at: apply.interfolio.com/68258. Applicants must submit a curriculum vitae and at least one sample publication. Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2019. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2020.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/10/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6153

Stanford University

Rank: 2020-21 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2020–2021 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2020-2021 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2020) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $65,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2020-2021 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 16, 2019, until December 20, 2019.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship>

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/20/2019

Date Posted: 9/9/2019

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 6120

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Affairs -- Climate Policy

The La Follette School of Public Affairs at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is seeking a high performing faculty member to research and teach on climate policy.

The selected candidate will conduct productive research, be a committed teacher, and welcome being part of an inter-disciplinary department dedicated to promoting good public policy. Teaching will involve core courses in Public Affairs and International Public Affairs, as well as upper-level electives in climate and environmental policy. We seek a scholar who will conduct research on the determinants of government policy on climate change and/or its domestic and international public policy implications. The scope of topics we will consider within climate change and climate policy is broad, but the selected candidate's work must include explicit focus on the roles of governments. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the Masters in International Public Affairs program.

The La Follette School is a highly ranked school of public affairs, and one of many highly ranked social science units at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The University is consistently ranked among the top universities in terms of success in federally funded research grants and is highly supportive of an interdisciplinary approach to scholarship.

To begin the application process, please go to jobs.wisc.edu, go to PVL 99517, then click on the 'Apply Now' button and create a profile.

Submit a letter of interest (including research and teaching interests), your curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. You are also asked to provide the name and contact information for three references.

The deadline for assured consideration is October 15, 2019; however, the position will remain open and applications may be considered until it is filled.

The University of Wisconsin is an Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/15/2019

Date Posted: 9/5/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 6131

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high quality, policy relevant research on critical issues related to global development and poverty alleviation.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2020 for one year (and will consider two years). The Center's postdoctoral fellows program is intended for promising new and recent PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy relevant research on topics related to critical issues for international development and poverty alleviation.

The Center's postdoctoral fellows will be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University. The Center provides a competitive salary plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2019 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and information please visit <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoralfellowsprogram>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2019

Date Posted: 9/1/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6105

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for junior faculty positions in Political Science. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2020 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career.

To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic job board at: apply.interfolio.com/67498. Applicants are required to submit: 1) curriculum vitae, 2) two letters of recommendation, 3) one writing sample, and 4) a no more than one-page abstract from their job market paper or dissertation. Applicants may also submit additional optional documents such as: a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, additional writing sample, and/or third letter of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2019. No applications will be accepted after May 15, 2020.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/27/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6056

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Part-Time Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Middle Georgia State University has part-time employment opportunities for Political Science instructors, both online and on its campuses in Georgia (Macon, Warner Robins, Cochran, Eastman, and Dublin) for day and evening classes. Our primary need at this time is for faculty qualified to teach, and interested in teaching, American Government (POLS 1101), although opportunities to teach other courses may also be available.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: To qualify for a teaching position, a candidate is required to have a minimum of an earned master's degree in Political Science or a closely related field (such as Public Administration or Public Policy), or a master's degree in another field with at least 18 graduate semester hours in Political Science courses.

For more information, please contact: Dr. Christopher Lawrence, Chair - Department of Political Science. E-mail: christopher.lawrence@mga.edu. Informal inquiries welcome.

TO APPLY: Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest with a current curriculum vitae or resume, unofficial transcripts from both undergraduate and graduate courses, a list of 2 references with email and phone contact information, and statement of teaching philosophy to: recruitment@mga.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2019

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 6049

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Public Policy and/or American Behavioral Politics

The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Public Policy and/or American Behavioral Politics beginning August 2020. As a Carnegie R1 university, we seek scholars with a strong research agenda in either of these specializations to help grow the prestige of our department. The successful candidate will help to continue UTEP's strong tradition of providing under-represented students with access to a quality education and facilitating their success in professional careers. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in Public Policy and/or American Behavioral Politics. The ability to teach courses in research methods (graduate and undergraduate) is desirable. Our needs in Public Policy (American or Comparative) are broad and can include a focus in one or more areas (urban and regional planning, health policy, political economy, and policy analysis, etc). Our needs in American Behavioral Politics are also broad and can include a focus in one or more areas (citizen decision-making, public opinion, media and politics, voting behavior, and race/gender and politics, etc.). A strong record of peer-reviewed publications will ultimately be required for tenure.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related field. ABD applicants near completion will be considered. The degree must be completed by the time of appointment. Candidates must show promise of excellence in research and teaching to be considered; evidence of excellence in research and teaching is preferred.

Salary: Competitive and commensurate with experience.

About UTEP and El Paso: Set against the backdrop of the Franklin Mountains in the Chihuahuan Desert, The University of Texas at El Paso is located along the U.S.–Mexico border in one of the world's largest binational communities. UTEP's award-winning, sustainably designed campus landscape and unique Bhutanese architecture create an energizing and tranquil oasis in the bustling El Paso–Juárez metroplex of 2.7 million residents. El Paso is a highly livable, bicultural community of almost 700,000 people that offers affordable homes and attractive neighborhoods. It has consistently been named among the safest large U.S. cities. El Paso experiences almost 300 days of sunshine annually, and residents enjoy outdoor activities year-round. The City of El Paso is adjacent to the state of New Mexico and the country of Mexico, making it an ideal venue for academic programs and research studies on topics of national interest, such as bilingual education/language acquisition, border environment and immigration, environmental sustainability and infrastructure, health disparities, and international trade and commerce.

Application Procedure: The deadline for applications is October 21, 2019 and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. Interested individuals must submit a curriculum vita, letter of interest, graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching quality (sample syllabi/statement of teaching philosophy), article/chapter length writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please contact Dr. Todd A. Curry by email (tacurry@utep.edu) for questions about the position.

To apply, please visit <https://www.utep.edu/employment>
Hiring decisions are subject to final budget approval.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/21/2019

Date Posted: 8/23/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6009

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Miami (UM) is considered among the top tier institutions of higher education in the U.S. for its academic excellence, superior medical care, and cutting-edge research. At the U, we are committed to attracting a talented workforce to support our common purpose of transforming lives through teaching, research, and service. Through our values of Diversity, Integrity, Responsibility, Excellence, Compassion, Creativity and Teamwork (DIRECCT) we strive to create an environment where everyone contributes in making UM a great place to work. We are one of the largest private employers in Miami-Dade County; home to more than 13,400 faculty and staff from all over the world.

The Department of Political Science at the University of Miami invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in the field of public policy. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality scholarship in any subfield of domestic or comparative public policy. The ideal candidate will provide evidence of excellence in teaching and will be able to contribute to both our forthcoming Masters of Public Policy (MPP) and undergraduate major in public administration. Applicants should also be able to teach at least one course in our Masters of Public Administration (MPA) program. The expected teaching assignment is 2-2. Candidates should have a PhD or anticipate Ph.D. completion by August 15, 2020 in public policy, public management, political science, or a related field.

Interested applicants may apply online at www.miami.edu/careers. Applicants should upload documents including a CV; a cover letter; a one-page teaching statement with a list of possible courses the applicant could teach, including but not limited to our existing course offerings; a PhD transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application); a writing sample; as well as three reference letters to be submitted via this site as well. Applications received on or before Monday, October 21, 2019, will be given full consideration, though the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. For further information about the position, please contact the Department Chair (Gregory Koger, gkoger@miami.edu) or Search chair (Joe Uscinski, uscinski@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at <http://www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/21/2019

Date Posted: 8/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6035

Duke University

Rank: Tenured or Tenure-track Professor in Public Policy and Political Science

The Sanford School of Public Policy is undertaking a major hiring initiative in political science, economics, and public policy. Within this initiative we are seeking to hire two political scientists at the advanced assistant professor (i.e., at least 2 years post-PhD), associate professor, or full professor level. The positions are open with respect to the major subfields within Political Science; we welcome applications from political scientists whose work connects to most major areas of public policy: domestic social policy, environment and energy, health policy, international development, international security, the intersection of technology and policy, and media and democracy. In addition, we value applications from faculty with a record of entrepreneurial research projects, a strong interest in policy engagement, and experience with innovative classroom approaches. Faculty may teach in any of our core existing programs and be part of building new professional offerings.

The Sanford School includes a full-time faculty of almost 70 and offers an undergraduate major, three masters programs, and a Ph.D. program. More information on the Sanford School can be found at www.sanford.duke.edu.

Applicants should submit a letter that includes a brief overview of the applicant's program of research, a CV, and digital copies or links for up to three papers or articles that best exemplify their work. Applications will be treated confidentially and should be submitted via the following website: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14276>. Applications received by September 27, 2019, will be assured full consideration.

Self-inquiries and nominations of candidates are encouraged and should be submitted to Philip Napoli, Search Committee Chair, at philip.napoli@duke.edu.

Duke is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Duke aspires to create a community built on collaboration, innovation, creativity, and belonging. Our collective success depends on the robust exchange of ideas -an exchange that is best when the rich diversity of our perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences flourishes. To achieve this exchange, it is essential that all members of the community feel secure and welcome, that the contributions of all individuals are respected, and that all voices are heard. All members of our community have a responsibility to uphold these values.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: 9/27/2019

Date Posted: 8/19/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 6008

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, American Politics and Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Housing, Education Policy, Criminal Justice

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate professor in American politics and public policy, with an emphasis on political institutions and the policy making process, to begin July 1, 2020.

All applicants must have a PhD in the area of Political Science, Public Policy, or a related policy discipline conferred by the time of appointment. Please note that we are searching at both the junior and tenured levels. Successful candidates will have demonstrated research and teaching interests in American political institutions and policy-making. While we encourage applications from scholars studying all areas of Public Policy, GPS has particular interest in Health, Education, Criminal Justice, Transportation, or Housing Policy.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including reference information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at:
Assistant Professor: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02210>
Associate Professor: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02211>

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5965

Davidson College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Education Politics and Policy

The Departments of Educational Studies and Political Science invite applications for a tenure-track assistant professor specializing in Education Politics and Policy to begin July 1, 2020. Demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, active and high-quality scholarship, and commitment to student advising and support are essential. We are interested in candidates whose teaching and research interests focus on contemporary educational policy issues in the United States including, but not limited to, inequality, educational change, K-12 education, and/or higher education. The candidate should be broadly enough trained to be able to contribute to wider course offerings in the field of public policy. We are especially interested in candidates with a demonstrated commitment to diversity and inclusion. Successful candidates will demonstrate potential to make a major contribution to the college's aspirations to build its curricular and co-curricular offerings in policy studies. This includes potential to establish community and college connections through education policy initiatives.

Candidates holding Ph.D.s in Educational Policy, Political Science, or Public Policy are preferred but we welcome candidates with other degrees that give them strong grounding in the theory and practice of policy analysis. We welcome applications from candidates with strong multi-methodological skills, and with a pluralistic approach to social science methodology; with trans-disciplinary interests that complement Davidson College's growing inter-disciplinary programs; and with potential to contribute to the college's existing strength integrating liberal arts education with policy engagement. The successful applicant will be expected to offer five courses per year (four in the first year of employment). Candidates will generally teach 3 courses per year in Educational Studies, principally serving the Education Policy track, and 2 courses per year in Political Science, such as Introduction to Policy Analysis, Public Policy, Comparative Public Policy, and/or State and Local Politics. We welcome candidates who are enthusiastic about teaching a first-year writing seminar annually or every other year. Applications from both Ph.D.-holders and very advanced ABDs will be considered.

The following materials are required: letter of application; curriculum vitae; three letters of reference; statements addressing the candidate's teaching experience and interests and research agenda; graduate school transcript; and evidence of demonstrated or potential excellence in and enthusiasm for undergraduate teaching. Also include a statement on how teaching, research, and/or service might contribute to Davidson's institutional commitment to diversity and inclusion. Answers to additional questions can be found at The deadline for receipt of applications is October 1, 2019. All application materials can be submitted at <http://employment.davidson.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2019

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 5947

Drake University

Rank: Department Chair

The Department of Political Science at Drake University seeks to recruit an exceptional scholar for a tenured position at the rank of associate professor who can provide effective and visionary leadership as the Chair of the Department of Political Science. We are particularly interested in candidates with research and teaching interests in American public policy. Teaching responsibilities include the introductory American Politics course and upper level courses covering domestic public policy (process and theory), policy analysis, and topics consistent with the individual's research specialization. Chairs serve three-year terms, with the possibility of renewal, and have their teaching load reduced from the standard 3-3 load.

Drake is a private, comprehensive, coeducational institution located in Des Moines, Iowa, the fastest growing city in the Midwest and the state capital of Iowa. Drake is a hub of political activity during the Iowa caucuses and offers exceptional opportunities for experiential learning, student engagement, and scholarship on policy formulation and discourse in local, state, and national contexts. We are an equal-opportunity employer (EEO) dedicated to building a diverse and pluralistic community and strongly encourage applications from all qualified applicants. We are excited to welcome colleagues who will provide support for and work effectively with individuals and groups from diverse backgrounds. The Department consists of 7 full-time faculty members and offers majors in both politics and international relations. Information about the department can be found at: <https://www.drake.edu/polsci/>

Salary is competitive with peer schools and dependent on qualifications and experience. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2019. To apply, go to <https://drake.hiretouch.com/> and submit a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, the names of three references, evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a statement on teaching philosophy, a writing sample and a diversity statement.

Questions may be directed to the search committee chair Arthur Sanders at arthur.sanders@drake.edu. If you plan on being at APSA in Washington, please contact the search committee chair ahead of time to arrange an informal conversation about the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 10/1/2019

Date Posted: 8/8/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5942

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations

The Center for Commerce and Diplomacy (CCD) at UC San Diego's School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) invites applications for a postdoctoral research position for the 2020-2021 academic year.

These awards are designed to promote high-quality research on the challenges and institutions of international economic diplomacy in a changing world. Research projects that seek to understand the causes and consequences of the institutions of economic globalization (e.g. GATT/WTO, FTAs, BITs, IMF, World Bank, Fast-Track, TPA, RTAA, etc) are particularly welcome. Commercial diplomats operate within a set of domestic and international institutions that governs their behavior in international negotiations. But we know little about the specifics of these rules and procedures, how they came into being, how they vary over time and across countries, and how they affect economic outcomes. Post-doctoral research on the institutions of economic globalization can help answer questions about the welfare and distributional consequences of these institutions and, ultimately, result in the better design of these institutions.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites applications from candidates with a background in Economics, Political Science, Economic History, Legal History, or other disciplines bearing on the study of Economic Diplomacy. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the appointment (September 28, 2020 – June 11, 2021), and to interact with faculty and Ph.D. students, giving at least one research talk. Selected fellows are also expected to attend CCD events and related seminars, and to post their research on the CCD website.

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019, for full consideration; however, the posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process: All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02196>

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or receive a Ph.D. degree in Economics, Political Science, Economic History, Legal History, or other disciplines related to the study of Economic Diplomacy by the start of appointment.

Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on December 6, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary - Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. CCD Fellows will receive applicable UCSD benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the UCSD's background check policy.

For more information about the Center for Commercial Diplomacy fellowship program, please contact Alexandra Hubenko, Executive Director, at ahubenko@ucsd.edu

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5926

Sabanci University

Rank: Open Rank - Comparative Politics/ Public Policy (Sabanci University)

FACULTY POSITION in POLITICAL SCIENCE

Sabanci University, Istanbul, Turkey

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) at Sabanci University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time or visiting position from outstanding candidates whose primary research interests involve Comparative Politics/Public Policy. We are particularly interested in scholars who conduct research in one of the following areas: Turkish Politics, policy evaluation or social policy.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct high-impact research, undertake grant applications, supervise graduate students, engage in citizenship activities, and teach graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be evaluated based on both past performance and future potential in these areas.

Sabanci University is a private, department-free, innovative academic institution located in Istanbul. The University is strongly committed to interdisciplinary research and teaching both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The medium of instruction is English with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The University admits top-ranking students for its undergraduate programs through a centralized university entrance examination. Faculty members are provided with highly competitive salary and benefits including an annual personal research fund, health insurance, and housing on campus (or housing allowance).

Review of applications will start immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate is expected to start in September 2020.

Interested applicants should submit (i) a cover letter, (ii) a research statement, (iii) a teaching statement and related documents regarding the applicant's teaching experience and preferences, (iv) a CV, (v) two research papers, and (vi) three letters of reference using the online application form of the University at:

<https://sucrm.sabanciuniv.edu/academicv/application.php>

For further questions, please contact:

Inci Ceydeli, Faculty Administrative Manager, inci@sabanciuniv.edu
<http://fass.sabanciuniv.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5911

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate – Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 for the 2020-2021 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 – July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline: Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12561>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 5, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/29/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5845

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate in Regional Political Economy - Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Specializations: East Asia, Latin American, Middle East

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2020-2021 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 9, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12563>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2020 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 12, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/9/2019
Date Posted: 8/1/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5847

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow - Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2020-2021 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 29, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12564>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 5, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 11/29/2019
Date Posted: 8/1/2019
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 5844

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow in Regional Political Economy – Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University
Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2020-2021 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 9, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12562>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 12, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2020. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/9/2019

Date Posted: 8/1/2019

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 5846

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2020. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2020.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must submit a CV, a job market paper and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2019. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2019

Date Posted: 7/22/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5811

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate/Full Professor-Development

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for a tenured faculty position in international economics and public policy. The position can be at the rank of tenured associate or full professor. We are searching for scholars whose research interests include at least one of: the economics of international development, political economy, energy and the environment, trade, social policy, security, and other aspects of public policy in international contexts. Research interest and experience in India are an advantage.

To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic jobs board at: apply.interfolio.com/65117. Applicants must upload a curriculum vitae and at least one sample publication. Review of applications will begin on August 5, 2019. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2020.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 7/3/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5743

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2020. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Washington D.C. and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and seventeen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2020. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The first full review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/493760/assistant-professor-of-political-science-tenure-track>.

Applications must include a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 5684